Representative Charles A. Allen introduces bill making chicken stealing penitentiary offense.

There are a few cases of scarlet fever at Cortland.

The DeKalb public schools will not open until the 28th.

The McAllister Company is to open a dry goods store at Fort Worth, Texas.

It will require nearly $250,000 to run the city schools of Rockford the coming year, so the board of education estimates.

The Aurora Minister's association has made an engagement with evangelist Sunday to hold meetings in that city next summer. A tabernacle will be erected for the purpose.

Henry DeYoung, of Hampshire was arrested at Hampshire by Deputy Game Warden W. E. Orr of Aurora on a charge of hunting without license. He was taken before Justice E. C. Boyes and fined $25 and costs.

Japan is getting even with California for harrasing its children from the San Francisco public schools. A subject of the Mikado has cornered the potato supply on the Pacific coast and expects to clear about $1,000,000 by the deal.

Ezra Wheeler, a well known citizen of Sycamore, was before the county court last week and was declared insane. He was taken to the Elgin hospital. He was a patient at Dwight some years ago, and his condition is attributed largely to intemperate habits.

The Pennsylvania legislature has over 1,000 applications for the position of chaplain of the general assembly. Either there must be a lot of ministers out of a job in that state or Pennsylvania parsons are commencing to realize that their statesmen need heroic attention and treatment.

The monster dredge built for G. A. McWilliams, the contractor, who is to enlarge the channel of Green River in Bureau and Henry counties for a distance of eleven miles, is now in operation and doing great work in the line of excavation. This ditching enterprise will cost the district $172,000.

In response to a petition signed by over 100 farmers of Potomac, Ill., whose roosts have been subjected to nightly depredations Representatives Charles A. Allen, of Allen bill fame, has introduced a bill making the stealing of chickens a penitentiary offense. This looks like a new conspiracy against the colored man.

Feeling that he could not consistently lead a sanctified life and still deliver packages containing articles which a good christian would not approve of using, Loren W. Baker of Elgin has resigned his position with the American Express company. Mr. Baker had no objection to delivering packages of merchandise, but one bearing a tobacco stamp signifying that the contents were either smoking or chewing tobacco, caused his conscience to rebel.

Miss Libbie McNorton, aged sixteen years, and Miss Alice Petry, aged twenty-one, both of Sycamore, were taken into custody at Belvidere Friday evening when they alighted from a train from Sycamore—on request of the authorities there. They were kept overnight and Saturday morning the father of the McNorton girl came after her. The other girl was released and went to Rockford.

Miss Burlingame has given entertainments at Belvidere, Marengo, Kirkland and other places with great success.

The proceeds of the New England supper will go to benefit the public library.

His Old Love

Ferd Rompf, ex-sheriff of DeKalb county, and one of the best fellows one often meets, is about to return to his old love. Before the people elected him to office he was engaged as agent for the sale of threshing machines and agricultural machinery, and he has always had a "hankering" to get back to it, but there was the objection that it would be necessary for him to be away from home much of the time. However, that objection has been largely eliminated in a flattering offer which has been made him by the manufacturers of the Advance traction engines and threshers, and he has accepted an offer to act as their general traveling agent for Northern Illinois to begin work on February 1. He will be able to get home every week and perhaps oftener.—True Republican.

Butter Market

Butter went up half a cent on the board of trade Monday being quoted at 29½ cents by the committee. The session was a quiet one, no offerings being made and the output being reported at 527,100 pounds.

LITTLE GIRL A HEROINE

Daughter of Rev. Ream Saves Companion from Drowning

Dorothy, the twelve-year-old daughter of Rev. T. E. Ream, saved a girl companion from drowning at South Elgin last Saturday, according to reports in Elgin papers. Miss Dorothy and Thelma Olms, the ten-year-old daughter of Dr. and Mrs. F. A. Olms, were on the river on the day mentioned when the former broke thru the ice. Dorothy, who is a cripple and compelled to use crutches, crawled to her companion on hands and knees and assisted her to a place of safety. Miss Dorothy is visiting her grandmother, Mrs. Mary Collins, at South Elgin.

Scheme Didn't Work

A whole sleigh load of young ladies came over from Kingston last Thursday evening for the purpose of giving Miss Belle May a pleasant surprise. There was disappointment for all however for Miss Belle was at that very time in Kingston calling on friends. The girls made themselves at home at the May hotel just the same and passed a pleasant evening. The following were in the party: Misses Bertha Ort, May Taylor, Mae Conklin, Lena Bacon, Lucile Moore, Bessie Sherman, Lottie Amos, Ethel Garard. The party was chaperoned by Leon Uplinger who also acted as chauffeur.

It was a hotly contested game, but Genoa showed up best in defensive and team work. Edwin Baldwin, who last season played on the second team, did some excellent guard work. In throwing field goals Abriam Crawford led with eleven baskets in his credit. The teams lined up as follows:

DRAMA MAKES A HIT

"UNCLE RUBE" GREETED BY A FULL HOUSE TUESDAY

SEATS ARE ALL SOLD EARLY

The Cast Does not Disappoint the Audience—Net Receipts Over Sixty Dollars

The comedy drama "Uncle Rube" was presented at the opera house Tuesday evening to a packed house, good standing room being at a premium. Practically all the 192 reserved seats were sold Monday and during the following day dozens were disappointed in not being able to secure seats. About sixty dollars was cleared above all expenses.

We will venture to say that the play was put on as well as it could have been by any high school students anywhere, and the audience as a whole was well pleased, and agreeably surprised.

Ernest Sandall as "Uncle Rube" the leading character, made a decided hit. It would take no little search to find a person better fitted to take the part. He had the twang down to perfection, his actions were characteristic of the good natured, but not-to-be-trifled-with, down-east farmer. In facial expression he also did better than could be expected of a smooth faced high school boy.

As the pious old hypocrit, Deacon Smailey, Claude Senska was there with the goods. His make-up was excellent and in every action he demonstrated that he had studied and understood the role. It is always difficult for a young man of his age to impersonate an old man, but he jumped the intervening years with credit to himself.

As Mark, the Deacon's son, Lawrence Kiernan filled the bill as it should be. To show an audience that you are a villain at heart, and still keep up the outward appearance of a polished gentleman is not easy, but he mastered the problem in a pleasing manner.

Vernie Crawford, contrary to the belief of those who know nothing about it, had the most difficult role of all, that of the lover. All that was required of him was to act perfectly natural and easy while on the stage. It is one thing to act before an audience and another to be your natural self. That Vernie did well is not to be denied.

As the ignorant but inquisitive farm hand Harvey King proved a success. Ike was continually getting into trouble thru his awkwardness, but always managed to pull out somehow.

Frank Shultz as Bub Green did not need to say a word to make the audience roar with laughter. His make-up was perfection, while every movement was as awkward as any yokel could be. At the supper scene alone he gave the audience its money's worth of fun.

Loyal Brown was a real swell dude and especially during the little scrap with Bub did he show up well. He assumed the drawl of speech with credit.

Miss Zada Corson made an ideal, good natured, Widow Bunn. In the love scene with Reuben she was decidedly coy, but when the deacon and Mark were about she could change to the spit-fire matron in a twinkling.

Miss Marjorie Rowen made a charming school ma'am and went thru her lines with perfect ease. In the scenes where she turns Mark down she performed especially well, giving him a freeze out that was unmistakable.

Miss Esther Smith who acted the roll of Taggs, the New York waif, was the life of the play thruout. By her antics she kept the audience good natured at all times. It was a difficult role to assume, owing to the tongue twisting expressions of speech. But she conquered the business as those present will testify.

As the sheriff Edgar Baldwin took his part well. He is tall, well built and as made up with a fierce black mustache presented a commanding appearance. The few lines he had were delivered with intelligence.

Statement by H. F. Stout

From a financial standpoint Uncle Rube was far more of a success than Pinafore. The total receipts of Pinafore for the three nights were $169.92 and the expense amounted to $117.54, leaving a balance of $52.38. The receipts of Uncle Rube for the one night were $85.15 and expenses were only $23.55, leaving a balance of $61.60. The total balance in favor of the treasury of the athletic association is $113.98.

Many thanks are due our townsmen and women who have assisted our young people in both entertainments. Especial thanks are due C. D. Schoonmaker for his valuable assistance in both entertainments and for many courtesies shown.

The staging of Pinafore is credited to Chas Leth, whose knowledge of naval affairs and whose natural constructive ability made him a valuable aid. Many others contributed very largely to the success of the entertainments but space forbids especial mention. As is necessary in all public enterprises the general public has a part to play which has been done at these entertainments with remarkable liberality. We feel that each individual received his money's worth but nevertheless we desire to thank them for the generous appreciation of our efforts.

HAMPSHIRE IS AWAKE

Organization Effected to Start Industrial Boom There

The people of Hampshire have at last recovered from the severe blow which they received in the lock factory deal several years ago and are on the outlook for industries. Regarding a meeting held last Saturday evening the Elgin Courier says:

For the promotion of new industries of benefit to Hampshire business men, and for farmers who transact their business in that village, an organization was started Saturday evening at the village hall. Already the band includes sixty of the prominent men of the town and surrounding district, and it is expected that this will grow rapidly inside the next week.

One of the first problems confronting this organization is to secure a plant of the Borden Condensed Milk company for that village. The property which the company regarded as suitable for a site has been held for the corporation under an option, and the new organization expects to see the plant in full operation before the end of the year.

The constitution and by-laws as drawn up for the members present Saturday evening were adopted as read, and a committee of three was appointed to solicit new members. This committee consists of Lincoln Scott, Fred Brill and Fremont Rowell. It is expected that in a short time the membership will increase to 150, thus becoming a powerful organization which can do much to boost the town enterprises.

Officers for the first year will be selected Friday evening.

Bishop not a Candidate

The Sycamore Tribune states that Judge Bishop is not a candidate for Congress from the 12th district. The Judge says "there is nothing in such a report." He was asked five years ago by friends in many parts of the district, who pledged their support, to become a candidate for congress, but he declined, preferring instead to remain on the bench.

The Judge is of the same opinion still, saying his present position is more to his liking than a term in congress; that while he fully appreciates the kind intentions of his friends throughout the district, he feels that he could illly afford to give up his present work as he is deeply interested in it. Further he feels that in view of the very able representative the district has found in Hon. Charles E. Fuller, the present incumbent, his course five years ago has worked out not only to the benefit of himself but to the whole congressional district.

Sheffner-Downing

At the M. E. parsonage on Wednesday evening of this week occurred the marriage of Mr. Charles Sheffner of Charles City, Iowa, and Miss Lillian Downing of this city.

Mrs. Sheffner is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Downing and during the past few years has been acting as sales lady, for F. W. Olmsted. The groom, who is a brother of Mrs. Chas. Maderer, is a farmer by occupation and is known as a man of sterling qualities.

The couple will remain in Genoa for some time and expect to go onto a farm in Iowa next fall.

DENATURED ALCOHOL

WILL IT EVER BECOME POPULAR AS FUEL?

ODOR IS SOMETHING FIERCE

To be Put up in Green Packages with Red and White Government Stamp—Poison

When you buy a package of denatured alcohol there will be no danger of your getting a package either of spirits or wood alcohol, that is if your dealer knows his business and you are not color-blind. Even if your dealer does make a mistake it will be quickly discovered when the cork is removed and the aroma reaches your nostrils. The odor from gasoline is sweet violets in comparison.

The first impression a purchaser of this sort of product will receive will be that the government is gaudy with its color schemes. The denatured product or industrial alcohol, as it will soon become known, will be done up in bright green paper or the boxes painted that hue, while in flaming red letters will be proclaimed the contents of the package.

The government stamp on the package will be altogether unlike any internal revenue stamp, red letters on white paper, the established colors indicating poison. While the skull and crossbones will not appear, the effect of the combination of green, red and white will be sufficient to signify that the contents are not wholesome to say the least.

No tax is imposed on alcohol withdrawn for denaturing and no charge is made for the stamps on the package. The work of inspecting and gauging is all done by the government employes without cost to the distiller. A competent system has been adopted by which it will be practically impossible for any fraud against the laws by which denatured alcohol may be used for any other purposes than for which the law was passed.

When the denatured alcohol goes on the market it will be poison and no person should attempt to use it either externally or internally. It will not only contain wood alcohol and benzine but also pyridin, which is a rank poison.

The public will be protected to a great extent and there will be no reason for any person to mistake the industrial alcohol for the drinkable kind. It will have the odor of benzine as well as wood alcohol.

During the past few weeks there have been many applications from prospective dealers for the new product. In order that the dealers may proceed in the proper manner, special application blanks must be secured, filled out and forwarded to the government.

Carnation Day

The Carnation League of America has sent out a special appeal to all patriotic men and women to observe the birthday of William McKinley this year by wearing a carnation, the favorite flower of the murdered president. "Carnation day" comes on January 29, when McKinley would have been 55 years old. This will be the fifth year it has been especially observed.

Charles Redpath of Marengo has a dairy of twenty-seven cows from which he realized $277.78 as the result of the milk they produced during the month of December. He fed them clover hay, corn fodder with corn on and three tons of bran. The result is very satisfactory.

Many being turned away Tuesday evening, the drama "Uncle Rube." will be presented again Wednesday evening, Jan. 30, Seats on sale Saturday morning

A woman in that city, after her husband had shot her, made her husband think that she was dead so that he wouldn't shoot her again.

TILLMAN IS FUNNY AND APOLOGIZES

SOUTH CAROLINA SENATOR CALLS OUT RETORTS FROM SPOONER AND CARMACK.

Lively Day in Senate—Compromise Resolution on Brownsville Goes Over Till Tuesday—House Passes Political Purity Bill.

Washington, Jan. 22.—Few features of the spectacular were missing from the proceedings of the senate Monday. The Brownsville affair was the subject of controversy, and the day began with the announcement of a compromise resolution which brought Republican and Democratic senators together on the basis of ordering an investigation of the facts of the affair without bringing into question the authority of the president to dismiss the negro troops.

The resolution was submitted to and approved by the president at a conference Sunday.

When the "harmony" testimonials were all in, Senator Tillman took the floor and delivered a speech in reply to the recent criticism of himself by Senator Spooner. This speech began with a satirical picture of the senate as a minstrel show, which Mr. Tillman later said was his first and last attempt to be "funny," an attempt which at its conclusion brought a stinging denunciation from Senator Carmack in resentment of allusions to him.

Senator Tillman Apologizes. This was preceded by a serious reply from Senator Spooner on the attitude taken by Mr. Tillman on the race problem, all finally resulting in a session of nearly two hours behind closed doors.

The secret session was followed by a brief open one in which Mr. Tillman made a profuse apology to Mr. Carmack, to all senators whom he had brought into his "first essay in the light of humor," and finally to the entire senate. "I very much regret that I ever undertook to be funny, and I will never do so any more," Mr. Tillman then withdrew all he had said in his "funny essay" and said it would not appear in the Record.

This apology was at once accepted by Mr. Carmack, who regretted he had questioned the motives of his friend, and he, too, withdrew words he had uttered in protest.

Goes Over to Tuesday. Mr. Foraker made a final attempt to get a vote on his resolution, but objection was made, and the matter will be taken up Tuesday immediately after morning business has been disposed of. Mr. Carmack remarked jocularly that there were not more than 15 or 20 senators desiring to talk, and Mr. Foraker, feigning seriousness, retorted hotly that the senator need not think the Democratic side of the chamber could monopolize the talking. Mr. Carmack explained that he was only trying to be funny, that it was his first attempt and he would never make another. As senators were laughing heartily over this parting sally, adjournment was taken at 6:15 o'clock.

During the entire day, the galleries of the senate were crowded to their capacity, and the debate was also listened to by seemingly a majority of the members of the house of representatives, who occupied all available seats and standing room in the chamber.

Political Purity Bill Passed. Discussion of the senate bill to prohibit corporations from making money contributions in connection with political elections took the form of campaign stump debate in the house, but this did not prevent the passage of the measure. Democrats, under the lead of Messrs. Williams of Mississippi, Robinson of Arkansas and Hardwick of Georgia, criticized the alleged activity of Republican National Chairman Cortelyou during the last presidential campaign in soliciting funds from corporations.

Mr. Mann of Illinois, opposed the bill on the ground that corporations should be permitted to contribute to election expenses if rich individuals were to do so, and he asserted that the effect of the bill would be to keep poor men out of office. The Democrats applauded a question by Mr. Williams as to whether anyone doubted President Roosevelt's ability to bring about a return of contributions by insurance companies "if he exerted his great power, influence and popularity."

Mr. Robinson replied it is a well-known fact that the Republican chairman has been promoted in office, and he had not been asked to make restitution of the funds "taken from widows and orphans."

The house pronounced unanimously in favor of enlarging and making more efficient the field of coast artillery.

A bill was passed authorizing the secretary of commerce and labor to investigate and report upon the "industrial, social, moral, educational and physical condition of women and children workers in the United States."

The measure has already passed the senate.

ANOTHER FIT OF THE SHAKES.

HALDANE REBUKES GOV. SWETTENHAM

WAR SECRETARY CABLES TO ROOT THE THANKS OF GREAT BRITAIN.

Mayor of Kingston Asks New York for Money, Lumber and Building Material to Help Reconstruct the Stricken City.

Washington, Jan. 22.—The state department late Monday afternoon received the following telegram from London upon Monday's date:

"Hon. Elihu Root, Secretary of State, Washington—Have read in newspapers this morning what purports to be a letter from governor of Jamaica. Can only say that on materials before me I entertain, as responsible for troops in island, feeling of deep gratitude to American admiral for generous assistance tendered at most critical time. Haldane, Secretary of State for War, London."

To this the following reply was sent:

"Haldane, Secretary of State for War, London—The president greatly appreciates your cordial telegram and is glad of the proximity of this country to the assistance to be of the people of Jamaica in this crisis. If, because of this proximity, and pending the arrival of your own warships and transports, we can render any further aid whatever, the president earnestly hopes you will call on him without hesitation. We know how cheerfully you would render such aid to us were the circumstances reversed. Bacon, Acting Secretary of State."

Kingston's Mayor Asks Aid. New York, Jan. 22.—The mayor of Kingston, Jamaica, in his official capacity, Monday appealed to the generosity of the American people on behalf of the earthquake sufferers.

In a cablegram directed to Mayor George B. McClellan of this city, Mayor Tait of Kingston asked for money and building materials, which, he added, were urgently needed. The cablegram, received late in the day, was as follows:

"Kingston, Jamaica, Jan. 21.—Mayor, New York—On behalf of stricken people, I appeal through you to generosity of American people for help. Every house destroyed. Money, lumber and building materials most urgently needed. Tait, Mayor."

Acting upon the suggestion of Mayor Tait, Mayor McClellan Monday night announced through the press that he would be glad to receive contributions, which would be forwarded to the proper authorities at Kingston.

U. S. Marines Ordered Away. Kingston, Jamaica, Jan. 21.—Rear Admiral Davis' mission of mercy to stricken Kingston came to an abrupt and painful conclusion in consequence of Gov. Swettenham's objection to the presence of American sailors engaged in the work of clearing the streets, guarding property and succoring the wounded and sick, culminating in a sarcastic and insulting letter to the admiral peremptorily requesting him to reembarc all parties which had been landed.

Admiral Davis was greatly shocked and pained, and paid a formal visit to Gov. Swettenham Saturday, informing him that the United States battleships Missouri and Indiana and the gunboat Yankton would sail that afternoon.

To press representatives Admiral Davis said that immediate compliance with Gov. Swettenham's request was the only course consistent with the dignity of the United States.

Objected to a Salute. The friction between the governor and the admiral began with the arrival of the American warships, when the governor objected to the firing of a salute in his honor on the ground that the citizens might mistake the firing for a new earthquake. He also declared there was no necessity for American aid—that this government was fully able to preserve order, tend the wounded and succor the homeless. Rear Admiral Davis, however, landed parties of blue jackets, who razed the streets, cleared the debris, razed ruins, attended many of the wounded and won the highest praise from citizens and military officers for excellent work.

Probably 600 Dead. The total number of known dead is about 450; and it is believed there are at least 150 persons who have not been accounted for.

Food is coming into the city from the country districts, but a famine is greatly feared.

The filthy conditions of the camps on the parade grounds and race course, where thousands of persons are huddled under improvised tents roofed over and shaded with palm leaves, causes grave apprehension of an outbreak of typhoid fever.

At present there is a most urgent need for tents for several thousand persons, but the government is not supplied with these and is not making endeavors to obtain them. Rain is now threatening, and if it should come it will involve untold suffering on the homeless thousands.

No Americans Killed. Washington, Jan. 19.—The state department was furnished Friday with copies of cabled reports that the Western Union has received from its agent in Havana regarding the Kingston earthquake. In one of these reports it was stated that the latest information from Kingston was that no American was killed or seriously injured up to seven o'clock January 17.

The report further stated that it was estimated that the number of dead would reach 1,000. These reports were furnished the state department by President Clowry of the Western Union upon its request for a statement of the situation, the department being unable to secure speedy transmission for its own dispatches and being overwhelmed by inquiries from persons in this country as to the safety of their friends in Jamaica.

Some Vivid Descriptions. London, Jan. 19.—The partial restoration of communication is bringing a number of belated dispatches from Kingston which give additional details of the calamity. The city is described as "rocking like a ship in a choppy sea during the quake, and when the fire started the scene became hellish."

The only wharves left are those of the Hamburg-American, the Direct Mail and the Royal Mail Steamship companies. All the lumber yards and stocks have been destroyed.

Many painful sights were witnessed as rescues were being made, and when dead bodies were being extricated from the ruins. A number of negroes trying to escape through open windows, became jammed therein by falling timbers and were either killed outright or burned to death.

Bodies of the dead are being transported by lighter across the harbor to the Palisades and buried well away from the city.

Many Flee to Ships. Immediately after the first shock there was a mad rush of refugees to the sea front, and 700 persons were rescued by being taken on board vessels in the harbor.

Since the fateful Monday the visitors to Jamaica have been leaving the island as fast as they are able to secure passage. This thinning out of the population tends to relieve the anxiety of the authorities by reducing the number of mouths to feed.

Among others killed are Dr. Savage, a prominent medical man and a councillor of the city of Birmingham, Eng.; Mr. Machado, a tobacco exporter, and Isaac S. Brandon, a merchant.

The Daily Mail and other newspapers pay a tribute of gratitude to the splendid and prompt help given by Admiral Evans at Kingston, and the Mail asks regretfully why there was not a British warship at hand to render this service.

F. G. Churchill is Dead. Lansing, Mich., Jan. 22.—Franklin Green Churchill, former editor of the Elmira Gazette, and founder of the Wellsboro, Pa., Gazette, is dead at his home here. He was 74 years of age.

FLOOD IS SLOWLY SUBSIDING AT CINCINNATI.

Total Damage Will Be Enormous—Water at Shawneetown Continues to Rise Slightly.

Cincinnati, Jan. 22.—After being stationary at 65.2 for a time during Monday morning, the Ohio at this point began to recede slowly, and at dark had gone down to 65 feet, with all indications for a continuance of the fall.

By the end of the week it is thought the danger line will be passed on the way down and some estimate of property losses will then be possible. At the present all that can be stated positively is that the aggregate damage will run far into the hundreds of thousands of dollars, this being distributed along several hundred miles of the river and its tributaries.

The cold weather, which largely assisted in the ending of the high water, was the cause of much suffering among the thousands of homeless people whose homes were under water or had been isolated by the rising waters. The work of rescue and relief went on steadily and few were left to suffer, the work being so systematized that speedy help was given to all sufferers who could be found. The greatest damage from this time on will come as the possible wrecking of buildings as the falling water pours through them.

Shawneetown, Ill., Jan. 22.—The Ohio river continues to rise slowly, the rapidity of the rise the past few days having been somewhat checked by the cold, clear weather. The levee was still intact Monday night, but people continue to move to the hills. Owing to the prompt supply of necessities there is very little suffering among the refugees. Business is at a standstill.

St. Louis, Jan. 22.—The Mississippi river is rising steadily and Monday night the stage registered 26 feet, which is within four feet of danger line. The lowlands above and below East St. Louis, Ill., are flooded.

MERGER OF FREIGHT LINES. Many Concerns Soon to Be Operated Under One Head.

Milwaukee, Jan. 19.—The most important and by far the most sweeping consolidation of freight lines of the great railway systems and combinations of the country that has been brought about in years is booked to be made within a short time by the Vanderbilt system. The plans, it is learned, are now practically matured.

The plan is the absolute consolidation of all of the "fast freight" lines and "dispatch" lines which have for years been operated under the general Vanderbilt system, and will place all the lines under one corporation—the Merchants' Dispatch company.

NEW GOVERNOR COLLAPSES. Little, of Arkansas, Falls Ill as He Begins Duties.

Little Rock, Ark., Jan. 22.—Gov. John S. Little, whose inauguration was held Friday last, suffered a physical collapse Monday morning as he stepped from the car in front of the state house to enter on the duties of the day.

He was removed by friends to a couch in his private office, where stimulants were given him. An hour later he had recovered sufficiently to be removed to his home. Attending physicians have given orders that he must not undertake the duties of his office for several weeks.

Little Child Rescues a Baby. La Crosse, Wis., Jan. 22.—When the residence of J. F. Schrank caught fire today Mr. Schrank's two children, a boy of three years and an infant in cradle, were alone in the house. Unaided, the elder child dragged the other out of the burning house.

Arrested For an Old Murder. Bemidji, Minn., Jan. 22.—A sensation has been caused here by the arrest of Paul Fournier and George Cyr, of Quiring, on charges of killing of N. O. Dahl and his daughter, Aagot, near Quiring in April 1904.

Farmer and Wife Found Dead. Appleton, Wis., Jan. 22.—Mystery surrounds the deaths of John Lehman and his wife, whose bodies were found Monday at their farm home. It is thought that robbers chloroformed them.

THE LIONS OF THE LORD

A TALE OF THE OLD WEST
BY HARRY LEON WILSON

"He did not tamper, he has never sought to—he was all kindness."
She stopped, her short upper lip holding its incautious mate a prisoner. She flushed furiously under the sudden blaze of his eyes.

"So it's true, what Seth Wright hinted at? To think that you, of all people—my sweetheart—gone over—won over by a cursed mobocrat—a fiend with the blood of our people on his hands! Listen, Prue; I'm going into the desert. Even though you beg me to stay, you must have known—perhaps you hoped—that I would go. There are many reasons why I must. For one, there are 640 poor hunted wretches over there on the river bank, sick, cold, wet, starving, but enduring it all to the death for their faith in Joseph Smith. They could have kept their comfortable homes here and their substance, simply by renouncing him—they are all voluntary exiles—they have only to say 'I do not believe Joseph Smith was a prophet of God,' and these same Gentiles will receive them with open arms, give them clothing, food, and shelter, put them again in possession of their own. But they are lying out over there, fever-stricken, starving, chilled, all because they will not deny their faith. Shall I be a craven, then, who have scarcely ever wanted for food or shelter, and probably shall not? Of course you don't love me or you wouldn't ask me to do that. Those faithful wretched ones are waiting over there for me to guide them on toward a spot that will probably be still more desolate. They could find their way, almost, by the trail of graves we left last spring, but they need my strength and my spirit, and I am going. I am going, too, for my own salvation. I would suffer anything for you, but by going I may save us both. Listen, child; God is going to make a short work on earth. We shall both see the end of this reign of sin. It is well if you take wheat to the mill, but what if you fetch the miller chaff instead?"

"Joel—dear, dear Joel!—indeed I pity and sympathize—and care for—but I cannot go—even after all you say. And don't you see it will always be so! My father says the priesthood will always be in trouble if it sets itself above the United States. Dear Joel, I can't go, indeed I can't go!"
He spoke more softly now.
"Thank God I don't realize it yet—I mean, that we must part. You tell me so and I hear you and my mind knows, but my heart hasn't sensed it yet—I can feel it now going stupidly along singing its old happy song of hope and gladness, while all this is going on here outside. But soon the big hurt will come. Oh, Prue—Prue, girl!—can't you think what it will mean to me? Don't you know how I shall sicken for the sight of you, and my ears will listen for you! Prudence, Prue, darling—yet I must not be womanish! I have a big work to do. I have known it with a new clearness since that radiance rested above my head last night. The truth burns in me like a fire. Your going can't take that from me. It must be I was not meant to have you. With you perhaps I could not have had a heart single to God's work. He permitted me to love you so I could be tried and proved."

"But indeed I must be favored more than common, to deserve that so great a hurt be put upon me, and I shall not be found wanting. I shall never wed any woman but you, though, dear. If not you, never any other."
He stood up.
"I must go in to them now. There must be work to do against the start to-morrow."
"Joel!"
"May the Lord deafen my ears to you, darling!" and squaring his shoulders resolutely away from her, he left her on the seat and went in.

The old man looked up from his Bible as his son entered.
"It's sore sad, laddie, we can't have the temple for your sealing-voews."
"Prudence will not be sealed to me, father." He spoke dazedly, as if another like the morning's blow had dealt him. "I—I am already sealed to the Spirit for time and eternity."
"Was it Prudence's doings?" asked his mother, quickly.
"Yes; she has left the church with her people."

The long-faced, narrow-browed old man raised one hand solemnly.
"Then let her be banished from Israel and not numbered in the books of the offspring of Abraham! And let her be delivered over to the buffetings of Satan in the flesh!"

CHAPTER V.
Giles Rae Beautifies His Inheritance.
By eight o'clock the next morning, out under a cloudy sky, the Raes were ready and eager for their start to the new Jerusalem. Even the sick woman's face wore a kind of soft and faded radiance in the excitement of going away to the ferry. Then they faced each other, and he stepped to her side as she leaned lightly on the gate.

"Prue, dear," he said, softly, "it's going hard with me. God must indeed have a great work reserved for me to try me with such a sacrifice—so much pain where I could least endure it. I prayed all the night to be kept firm, for there are two ways open—one right and one wrong; but I cannot sell my soul so early. That's why I wanted to say the last good-by over here. I was afraid to say it in there—I am so weak for you, Prue—I ache so for you in all this trouble—why, if I could feel your hands in my hair, I'd laugh at it all—I'm so weak for you, dearest."

She tossed her yellow head ever so slightly, and turned the scoop of her bonnet a little away from his pain-lighted face.
"I am not complimented, though—you care more for your religion than for me."
He looked at her hungrily.

"No, you are wrong there—I don't separate you at all—I couldn't—you and my religion are one—but, if I must, I can love you in spirit as I worship my God in spirit—"
"If it will satisfy you, very well!"
"My reward will come—I shall do a great work, I shall have a Witness from the sky. Who am I that I should have thought to win a crown without taking up a cross?"
"I am sorry for you."

"Oh, Prue, there must be a way to save the souls of such as you, even in their blindness. Would God make a flower like you, only to let it be lost? There must be a way. I shall pray until I force it from the secret heavens."
"My soul will be very well, sir!" she retorted with a distinct trace of asperity. "I am not a heathen, I'd asker you to remember—and when I'm a wife I shall be my husband's wife—"
He winced in acute pain.

"You have no right to taunt me so. Else you can't know what you have meant to me. Oh, you were all the world, child—of your own dear self—you would have been all the way to the ferry. Then they faced each other, and he stepped to her side as she leaned lightly on the gate.

"Prue, dear," he said, softly, "it's going hard with me. God must indeed have a great work reserved for me to try me with such a sacrifice—so much pain where I could least endure it. I prayed all the night to be kept firm, for there are two ways open—one right and one wrong; but I cannot sell my soul so early. That's why I wanted to say the last good-by over here. I was afraid to say it in there—I am so weak for you, Prue—I ache so for you in all this trouble—why, if I could feel your hands in my hair, I'd laugh at it all—I'm so weak for you, dearest."

He passed on. A few paces on he met Capt. Girway, jaunty, debonaire, smiling, handsome in his brass-buttoned uniform of the Carthage Guards.
"I have just left the ferry, Mr. Rae. The wagon with your mother has gone over. The other had not yet come down. Some of the men appear to be a little rough this morning. Your people are apt to provoke them by being too outspoken, but I left special orders for the good treatment of yourself and outfit."

With a half-smothered "thank you," he passed on, not trusting himself to say more to one who was not only the enemy of his people, but bent, seemingly, on deluding a young woman to the loss of her soul. He heard their voices in cheerful greeting, but did not turn back. With eyes to the front and shoulders squared he kept stiffly on his way through the silent, deserted streets to the ferry.
Fifteen minutes' walk brought him to the now busy waterside. The ferry, a flat boat propelled by long oars, was landing when he came into view, and he saw his father's wagon driven on. He sped down the hill, pushed through the crowd of soldiers standing about, and hurried forward on the boat to let the old man know he had come. But on the seat was another than his father. He recognized the man, and called to him.
"What are you doing there, Brother Keaton? Where's my father?"
The man had shrunk back under the wagon-cover, having seemingly been frightened by the soldiers.
"I've taken your father's place, Brother Rae."
"Did he cross with Brother Wright?"
"Yes—he—"
Then came an interruption from the shore.
"Come, clear the gangway there so we can load! Here are some more of the damned rats we've hunted out of their holes!"
The speaker made a half-playful lunge with his bayonet at a gaunt, yellow-faced specter of a man who staggered on to the boat with a child in his arms wrapped in a tattered blue quilt. A gust of the chilly wind picked his shapeless, loose-fitting hat off as he leaped to avoid the bayonet-point, and his head was seen to be shaven. The crowd on the bank laughed loud at his clumsiness and at his grotesque head. Joel Rae ran to help him forward on the boat.
"Thank you, brother—I'm just up from the fever-bed—they shaved my head for it—and so I lost my hat—thank you—here we shall be warm if only the sun comes out."
Joel went back to help on others who came, a feeble, bedraggled dozen or so that had clung despairingly to their only shelter until they were driven out.
"You can stay here in safety, you know, if you renounce Joseph Smith and his works—they will give you food and shelter." He repeated it to each man in the throes of a chill swing his cap and uttered a feeble "Hurrah for the new Zion!"

It would be easier for most people to do their duty if they could be made to suspect that they ought to be doing something else.

knows how, you will come to me and find me waiting."
"As if you needed to wait for me when I am here now ready for you, willing to be taken!"
"Don't, don't, dear! There are two of me now, and one can't stand the pain. There is a man in me, sworn to do a man's work like a man, and duty to God and the priesthood has big chains around his heart dragging it across the river. But, low, now—there is a little, forlorn boy in me, too—a poor, crying, whimpering, babyish little boy, who dreamed of you and longed for you and was promised you, and who will never get well of losing you. Oh, I know it well enough—his tears will never dry, his heart will always have a big hurt in it—and your face will always be so fresh and clear in it!"
He put his hands on her shoulders and looked down into the face under the bonnet.
"Let me make sure I shall lose no look of you, from little tilted chin, and lips of scarlet thread, and little teeth like grains of rice, and eyes into which I used to wander and wonder so far—"
She looked past him and stepped back.
"Capt. Girway is coming for me—yonder, away down the street. He takes me to Carthage."
His face hardened as he looked over his shoulder.
"I shall never wed any woman but you. Can you feel as deeply as that? Will you wed no man but me?"
She fluttered the cherry ribbons on the bonnet and fixed a stray curl in front of one ear.
"Have you a right to ask that? I might wait a time for you to come back—to your senses and to me, but—"
"Good-by, darling!"
"What will you go that way—not kiss me? He is still two blocks away."
"I am so weak for you, sweet—the little boy in me is crying for you, but he must not have what he wants. What he wants would leave his heart rebellious and not perfect with the Lord. It's best not," he continued, with an effort at a smile and in a steadier tone. "It would mean so much to me—oh, so very much to me—and so very little to you—and that's no real kiss. I'd rather remember none of that kind—and don't think I was childish—it's only because the little boy—I will go after my father now, and God bless you!"
He turned away. A few paces on he met Capt. Girway, jaunty, debonaire, smiling, handsome in his brass-buttoned uniform of the Carthage Guards.

Recent Happenings of Interest in the Various Cities and Towns.

CLUB IDEA IS POPULAR.
Benefits Expected to Accrue from Meeting of Farmers.

Auburn.—The meeting held here for the purpose of organizing a township farmers' debating club was a most enthusiastic one. Present were business men, school teachers, members of the Auburn Democratic Science association, pupils in the public school and old and young farmers from near the city.
B. F. Workman called the meeting to order and Joseph F. Smith of Auburn and E. C. Foster of Springfield were chosen chairman and secretary, respectively. The meeting in order, the election of the first board of officers was called for and resulted as follows: President, Fred W. Ladage; first vice president, Prof. A. N. Bailey; second vice president, M. L. Gordon; secretary and treasurer, Mrs. Henry Dawson; assistant secretary and treasurer, Miss Brooks.
Following the election of officers, E. C. Pruitt, county superintendent of schools, addressed the meeting on the benefits to be derived from a farmers' debating club. Mr. Pruitt takes the schools' point of view in discussing farm subjects and he thinks the idea of township clubs one of the best recently suggested.

JURIST'S ASSAILANT IS CRAZY.
Asylum for Man Who Tried to Kill Judge Cutting.

Chicago.—Fred Elerbrock, who on December 21 attempted to kill Judge Cutting by firing at the jurist as he was entering the criminal court building, was declared to be of unsound mind and committed to the insane asylum by Judge Pinckney. Judge Cutting was on the stand and told of the attack made on him by Elerbrock. Dr. Harold N. Moyer said the defendant was demented. It was shown that Elerbrock was in the habit of defacing the American flag and mailing them to judges. Judge Kavanaugh and Judge Kohlsaat are said to have received mutilated flags, accompanied by letters signed by Elerbrock.
Elerbrock took the stand and said he just wanted to wound Judge Cutting so he could get him into court and show how corrupt court officials are. "I fired the shot," he said, "but did not want to kill him."

Hurt in Wreck.
Minonk.—One man was seriously injured and six other men and two women badly shaken up when an Illinois Central freight train running 20 miles an hour crashed into an accommodation freight train at Kankakee Junction, near here. The caboose was telescoped and the nine passengers in it had to be taken out through a window. Frank Kalkwolf of Planagan, Ill., was the only one seriously hurt.

Plan to Protect Game.
Carlinville.—The game wardens of Madison and St. Clair counties, L. A. Richardson of Marine and Messrs. Miller and Wagner of Belleville, are being provided with a fast-running, bullet-proof river boat, equipped with an eight horsepower gasoline engine that will be manned by an expert river man, to be used in patrolling the river from Alton to Carondelet during the duck shooting season.

Cases Are Continued.
Havana.—The cases against the Havana fishermen in the Fulton county circuit court have been continued because B. M. Chipfield, attorney for the defendants, is a member of the state legislature. Six suits were started against commercial fishermen of this city because they were said to have trespassed on the preserve of the Thompson Lake Rod and Gun club.

Illinois Dairyman Name Chief.
Joliet.—Illinois dairymen in annual convention elected the following officers: President, L. N. Wiggins, Springfield; vice president, J. P. Mason, Elgin; directors, E. L. Wilson, Manhattan; A. F. Jensen, Elmhurst; W. E. Jones, Hinsdale; W. R. Kinsey, Du Quoin, and M. S. Campbell, Genoa. Interesting tests and instructive lectures made up the day's programme.

Close Decatur Theaters.
Decatur.—A committee representing Decatur ministers visited Mayor Lehman and called his attention to an ordinance passed some years ago prohibiting Sunday attractions in theaters. Their insistence that this ordinance be enforced resulted in the mayor notifying the proprietors of theaters to cease Sunday night performances.

Diphtheria Rages in Two Towns.
Pana.—Diphtheria is becoming alarming at Owneco and Buckeye. Schools all have been closed and the state board of health will visit the city to take action looking to the confinement of the disease.

Unknown Man Killed.
Decatur.—An unidentified man, apparently 35 or 40 years of age, was run over and killed by interurban car 140 about one car length south of the Catlin road on the Westville & Georgetown line.

Fever Rages at Tower Hill.
Pana.—The epidemic of scarlet fever has reached Tower Hill and a great many cases are reported. The schools have been closed and every means is being used to curtail the ravages of the disease.

FIND SHORTAGE OF $6,000.
Sum Unaccounted for in Cash of Late School Treasurer.

Bloomington.—The accounts of Robert S. McIntyre, township school treasurer, who died a month ago, has been found almost $6,000 short. A bank balance of $7,800 was shown by McIntyre's books, but his successor, W. M. Reeves, finds but $1,400 available. Against the balance of $7,800, there is to his credit, besides the $1,400 paid to Mr. Reeves, the sums he has paid to teachers of the township since last June, which should amount to $1,300, making a total credit of $2,700 and leaving a balance of $5,100 yet to be accounted for. An expert accountant has been summoned from Chicago and the dead man's family has agreed to make good any shortage from his life insurance money, this being practically all the estate he left. McIntyre was treasurer of the Bloomington township schools for two years. He also served a term as county clerk. Friends of the dead treasurer believe they will be able to show that the shortage is from old errors dating back many years before he assumed the office.

CONSCIENCE COST MAN'S JOB.
Driver Resigns Rather Than Deliver Packages of Sinful Tobacco.

Elgin.—Loren W. Baker, one of the most valued employees of the Elgin branch of the American Express company, has resigned his position as driver because his conscience rebelled when he was forced to deliver packages containing tobacco.
Baker had always shown great devotion to religious work. A few months ago he secured a position with the express company. Everything went along nicely until the other day, when he made known to his friends his intention to resign.
He says that he could not live a sanctified life and still deliver packages containing articles which a good Christian would not approve of using.

Begin Bridge Combine Probe.
Sterling.—The supervisors of the counties of Whiteside, Ogle, Lee, Stephenson, Carroll and Jo Daviess have begun an investigation of the alleged bridge trust in this section of the state. Three supervisors from each of the counties will meet February 6 to push the probe. It is alleged that the bridge trust controls the price of the construction of bridges in the six counties, that profits are divided with other companies, and in this manner the prices are made high and the taxpayers are compelled to pay the bills. It is said that the state will assist in the prosecution.

First Find to County.
Chicago.—County Clerk Joseph F. Haas turned over to County Treasurer John R. Thompson $70.95, which was found by E. N. Blakesley August 21, 1905, in the Erie Railway company's offices. So far as can be ascertained this is the first money Cook county ever received from such a source. The find was advertised and when the money was not claimed within six months it became the property of the county, as the statutes provide. The money goes into the contingent fund.

Interurban Wins Out.
Lincoln.—Illinois Central officials have been in the city investigating the matter of the interurban crossing the Havana branch line at South Chicago street. The officials were in consultation with Judge Hoblit, the attorney for the Illinois Central here, regarding legal phases, and it is said that everything has been properly adjusted so that the interurban can cross under contract.

Leaves District Attorney's Office.
Springfield.—Ernest A. Scrogin tendered his resignation as assistant United States district attorney to carry on the legislative work for the Illinois Anti-Saloon league.
Mr. Scrogin will be succeeded by Judge Joseph Story, of Greenville, Bond county. The latter was county judge for several years, and is well known among the legal fraternity of southern Illinois.

Taken on Serious Charge.
Monticello.—Seth Starbuck, of Lake Fork, was apprehended and brought to Monticello. The charge against him is assault with intent to murder. About November 28, it is claimed, he drove his wife and children from the house and into a corn field with a shotgun and threatened to do them bodily harm. He fled and was just apprehended.

Mrs. Rachel Smith Dead.
Lincoln.—Mrs. Rachel Smith, an old settler of this county, died at the home of her son, Otto Smith, in Elkhart. The cause of death is given as general debility, due to age. Mrs. Smith was 86 years old.

Three Trainmen Killed.
Desoto, Kan., Jan. 21.—The locomotive drawing eastbound Aetehison, Topeka & Santa Fe train No. 36 exploded on a bridge near here Saturday. The engineer, fireman and brakeman were killed.

BIG FOUR TRAIN BLOWN TO PIECES

CAR OF POWDER EXPLODES AND TWENTY-EIGHT PERSONS ARE KILLED.

Horrible Accident at Sandford, Ind.—Victims Torn to Bits or Cremated in the Wreckage—Thirteen Perish in Collision at Fowler.

Terre Haute, Ind., Jan. 21.—Twenty-eight charred, broken and mutilated bodies have been taken from the smoldering ruins of the passenger train No. 3 on the Big Four railroad which was destroyed by the explosion of a carload of powder as it passed a freight train at Sandford, Ind., nine miles west of here, Saturday night. The number of injured will total at least 35.
The cause of the disaster has not been fully explained. The result was terrible. The shock was felt for 30 miles, many believing it an earthquake.

Entire Train Destroyed.
The three coaches of the passenger train were filled. The entire train, including the engine, was blown from the track, the coaches demolished, the engine buried 50 feet and the passengers either blown to pieces, consumed by fire or rescued in a more or less injured condition.

At least 20 injured, some fatally, are at the hospitals in Terre Haute and Paris, Ill. Several are also being cared for at Sandford.
The full extent of the disaster was revealed at daylight Sunday morning, but the death list will not be complete until the workmen now clearing the debris, have finished their task.

The dead, so far as known, are: William Thompson, Sandford, Ind.; J. W. Southerland, Paris, Ill.; John Franklin, Mattoon, Ill. (brakeman on No. 3); A. D. Hector, farmer, address unknown; Charles Gossnell, Paris, Ill.; Noah Wolfe, Sandford, Ind.; A. A. Pickett, Sandford, Ind.; Frank Fielder, Bellefontaine, O.; John A. Bowen, Ashmore, Ill.; Mrs. Josiah Wolfe, Sandford, Ind., and her two children; J. W. Southcott, express clerk; A. Kuykendall, fireman, Peoria division, Vandalia, Ind.; Clark Steele, Sandford, Ind.; Paul Kiever, Indianapolis, Ind.; James Fenton, Sandford, Ind.; J. W. S. Miller, Sandford, Ind.; ten unidentified bodies.

Missing and believed to have been burned to death: Mrs. Bud Wolfe, Sandford, Ind.; two daughters of Mrs. Wolfe, aged eight and six years, respectively.
Theories of the Cause.
According to trainmen of the freight, the explosion of the powder was caused by the concussion made by the passing passenger train, which was slowing down for the station at Sandford. Another theory is that gas escaping from an oil pipe line nearby entered the car containing the powder and a spark from the passing engine ignited the gas.
The belief was expressed by one or two persons that the disaster was due to the act of a tramp or an intoxicated man who may have fired a shot into the car.

Not a home in Sandford escaped. Windows were shattered, dishes and furniture broken, and in some instances doors were torn from their hinges.
The train was an accommodation passenger, running from Indianapolis to Mattoon, Ill., and was destroyed at 8:50 p. m. It was a dark night and heavy rains had converted the streets and tracks at Sandford into a sea of mud and water. As the passenger engine went by the powder car of the freight train standing on an adjoining track the explosion came.

Noble Work of Citizens.
By the light of the burning coaches the people of Sandford did their best for the injured. The residents of the village threw open their homes to the injured and worked heroically all night.
Under the wreckage of the baggage car was found the trunk of a man which had lost all human form. The only means of identification were a linen's belt and tools about the waist. Four frightfully mutilated bodies were found in the woods several hundred feet from the tracks.
Engineer Welch and Fireman Jared of Mattoon, Ill., who were in charge of the engine on the passenger train, were thrown into the air, hurled a distance of nearly 100 feet and fell in a muddy field.
The wreckage was cleared up Sunday evening and traffic was resumed over the road.

Thirteen Killed at Fowler.
Fowler, Ind., Jan. 21.—A most horrible railroad wreck occurred on the Big Four railway a quarter of a mile east of this station at 2:15 Saturday morning. Queen City special No. 38, which left Chicago at 11:30 Friday night, going at the speed of 50 miles an hour, crashed head-on into a west-bound freight and at least 13 lives were sacrificed. The tender of No. 38 in front of the day combination coach crashed into it and reduced it to splinters. The coach caught fire and a high wind from the southwest fanned the flames. Inside of half an hour many bodies were cremated.

Three Trainmen Killed.
Desoto, Kan., Jan. 21.—The locomotive drawing eastbound Aetehison, Topeka & Santa Fe train No. 36 exploded on a bridge near here Saturday. The engineer, fireman and brakeman were killed.

Snake Story
Section Foreman Angelo Bogazzi with his force of men were working east of Belvidere Thursday out near the two and a half mile bridge, replacing posts which had out-lived their usefulness because of rot, or fire or accident. One post that had been nearly burned off was removed. Along the side of it from the top of the ground there was noticed a small hole, and after the post was removed a round ball-like object could be seen at the bottom of the hole.

This ball was fished out and when it reached the surface of the ground it proved to be a compact mass of snakes, rolled up into a ball to pass the winter in social proximity. The reptiles were killed and then counted.—Republican.

During the severe gale Saturday night the iron smoke stack at the creamery was demolished and the ornamental coping at the front of J. P. Evans' new building was blown from the roof. It was a nasty night and a severe test for houses, the wind finding every crack and crevice about windows and doors, caused by shrinkage and lack of vigilance on the part of builders.

Every one has a sympathetic feeling for the person who sits in a progressive game of cards and moves up only a table or two during the evening, but when a full grown man, who has worn the spots off more cinch decks than any of his opponents, fails to move a peg during an entire evening of play, there is something radically wrong. Either his opponents are outclassing him or he is slipping back into amateurish ways. Such was the case last Saturday evening, however, and the unfortunate victim does not live more than half a mile from the corner of Main and Sycamore streets. His name is C., but there, that would be telling, and he feels bad enough now.

He expected to leave Saturday evening for Roswell, N. M., from which point he will probably go to the coast.
Lewis Anderson sprained his arm recently and as a result is unable to work at the factory. Services conducted by Evangelist E. Wallace Shepard continue at the A. C. church increasing in power and interest. They will continue this week and longer if it is thought best. Souls have been converted at these meetings, the church has been strengthened and great good has been accomplished. Prayer and testimony meetings have been held during the last two weeks that have been seasons of refreshing from the presence of the Lord. Our hearts have been made glad and rejoiced that the mighty God could so manifest Himself to the children of men. Oh, that all might feel this Power and come to the Lord while it is called today.

Deafness Cannot be Cured
by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever, nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

BOMB THROWER KILLS CASHIER AND HIMSELF IN PHILADELPHIA BANK

HAVOC BY EXPLOSION.

The Fourth National is the wealthiest national bank in Philadelphia.

President Rushton is the head of the Philadelphia Clearing House association.

Steele, the bombthrower, is known in Chicago as an anarchist.

When the demand for money was refused Steele dropped the bomb at the feet of himself and the cashier.

Both the cashier and the bombthrower were blown to pieces and scattered over the bank.

The interior of the bank was wrecked and money and blood blown even out the windows.

The police reserves and firemen were called to prevent looting.

Panic reigned throughout the eight-story structure and in the vicinity of the bank.

Philadelphia.—It was just 11:40 o'clock, 20 minutes before closing time at the Fourth National bank on the morning of January 5, when a tall, dark, unkempt stranger entered the bank corridor from the north corridor of the Bullitt building. Patrons of the bank—not many in number, fortunately—were passing in and out to make deposits or drafts before noon.

The clerks and tellers were busy tending up their sheets for the day. The officers were hurrying to wind up their business. Scarcely anyone noticed the newcomer.

He had on a dark blue suit of clothing, those who saw him remember, ragged and shiny from age. He wore a black slouch hat. He peered around, hesitatingly, and then caught sight of President Rushton standing near one of the vaults, which were soon to be closed. He must have known Mr. Rushton, for he did not ask anyone for the president, but approached him and spoke to him immediately.

"My name is G. E. Williams," he said, "and I live in the suburbs of Philadelphia. I want to know if you can let me have a loan of $5,000."

Mr. Rushton said that the man was some sort of a crank, and to get rid of him, asked that he name his securities, which the president would consider before making the loan. At the same time, Mr. Rushton signalled to Crump, the watchman, a splendidly built big negro, who wore a gray uniform and to the bank's patrons, was one of the most familiar figures about the place.

As the watchman responded, Mr. Rushton whispered: "Get rid of this fellow, won't you, 'Bob,'" addressing the colored man by the nickname which the financial men of the district long ago applied to him. But the intruder pressed up close to the president again before Crump could reach him.

Insurance Policy as Security.

"My securities—why, I've got a life insurance policy that runs out in five years," said the stranger. His manner was hesitating and he stammered slightly. "I'll show you some pictures that are worth a lot of money, too."

And he drew from his pocket two photographs, dirty and torn. One was of a woman, the other a little girl. It is supposed that they were pictures of his wife and daughter. The banker would not take them in his hand and scarcely more than glanced at them. They could not be found later.

By now Mr. Rushton was sure that the man had no legitimate business with him, so he excused himself on a plea of considering the security offered, and went around a corner of the corridor, waving his hand in the direction of the cashier's office, to indicate that Crump should conduct the unwelcome visitor there.

The man was so big and strong that he would have been a match for the negro had it come to a physical encounter, and probably both Mr. Rushton and Crump unconsciously decided that the best thing to do was to let Mr. McLearn attend to him. The watchman had already taken the visitor towards McLearn's office before President Rushton's signal.

The cashier was sitting at his desk, which was behind a waist-high counter and separated from the main corridor of the bank only by a law railing. William McLearn was a big, hearty, jovial chap, who could handle any sort of a man without giving him offense, and could get rid of him without creating a scene.

He was a "good fellow" with everybody, a handsome, likable man. Every bank has a man of that type as a valuable business asset, a man who represented the institution at conventions, banquets and social affairs, who by his personality secures and holds the business of the smaller banks in country towns. That was McLearn's place here. He had been with the bank nearly 20 years, had gained for it much business, and had been promoted upon his merits from one post to another until not long ago he became cashier when Vice President Shubacker took his present place.

Just exactly what happened then may never be known. A business man who was not far away saw McLearn rise to meet the stranger and a moment later heard the latter's voice, high-pitched and angry. Only the words "five thousand dollars" could be made out. The business man, not interested in the talk, turned away.

Crash Heard Blocks Away.

Then came the ripping, grinding detonating crash. The roar of it was heard six blocks away. A great puff of smoke swept upward with the debris and drifted as high as the eighth or top story of the Bullitt building. Every pane of glass about the bank was shattered in a twinkling, and every piece of brass grill work was bent and twisted and torn.

A score of desks within a radius of ten yards seemed to leap straight in the air, and then drop back and crash upon the marble floor. There appeared to be a sheet of flame in the immediate vicinity of the explosion, for some of the desks were blackened and some curtains and woodwork at the eastern end of the inclosure in which McLearn had his desk took fire.

Every person within the radius of the nitroglycerin's force was hurled flat upon the floor, many beneath crashing, cutting showers of heavy glass from the skylights and partitions, some beneath the desks at which they had been sitting a second before.

Not only from the bank's quarters, but from all over the building came cries of terror and shouts of warning. Men and women raced out through both of the big doorways into Fourth street, some fleeing for blocks in their fright. Pedestrians stopped in amazement as they heard the great "boom" and saw fugitives with bloody faces and hands pouring from the building.

In the terrific explosion both McLearn and the bombthrower were instantly killed. A negro messenger named William Crump, who was trying to eject the stranger, had both his eyes blown out and was fatally injured. A dozen or more employees and patrons were severely hurt and the entire first floor of the bank was wrecked.

The cashier's body was torn limb from limb. Both legs were blown off, one arm was blown from its shoulder; half the head was all that remained.

Of the bombthrower so little was left that a waste basket contained all that was later taken to the morgue. He was literally shattered to atoms.

The only thing that remained intact about his body or his clothing was a little brass name plate attached to a bunch of keys, which was found near a strip of blue cloth that had been part of his trousers. The words "R. Steele, Garner, Ia.," were inscribed upon the plate. Through this clue it was discovered that the man was Robert Steele, who had left the Iowa town six years ago for the east, and had presumably been living with a wife and three children somewhere in this city then. His identity would probably never have been known for the little brass plate.

President Rushton, whom the stranger had left only half a minute before throwing the bomb, escaped serious injuries, but had several small cuts on his face and hands. First Vice President Edward F. Shanbacher, though only a few feet away, was unscathed. Second Vice President B. M. Faires, whose desk is a mere step from the cashier's, probably escaped death only through having been ill and having stayed at home.

The explosion's force swept through every department of the bank and wrought havoc as it went. In the collateral department, not far away from where the bomb was thrown, $100,000 worth of valuable securities were blown from the desks and trays and were scattered in a twisted, torn mass.

Just outside the waiting room, which is in the same section of the bank, a massive brick fireplace, surmounted by a large marble clock, was building a desk in an office directly over the bank was completely upset and the employes panic-stricken. A medley of bells sounded all through the building as telephone bells in each office began to tinkle under the vibration of the building and chimed sounded on every side. The news stand in front of the bank was miked up as badly as though it had been turned upside down. Papers, books and magazines were scattered everywhere.

It was an hour before anything like order was restored. Some of the bank officials and clerks actually did not know they were injured until friends or strangers pointed out their wounds. The bank's telephone system was thrown out of order by the explosion and the attaches ran all over the neighborhood, bloody and disarrayed, seeking phones over which they could let their families know that they were safe.

Eugene McIlhonne, secretary to the second vice president, who was caught almost in the center of the explosion's radius, recovered consciousness before aid reached him, and then walked about for five minutes, dazed and helpless, before he discovered that the index finger of his right hand had been blown completely off.

Crowds numbering thousands gathered in Fourth street, in front of the building; in Harmony street, to the south of it, and in Orianna street, upon which the rear windows face. Along both these latter streets ghastly relics abounded. In Orianna street were fragments of glass and wood to which particles of flesh adhered. Harmony street was littered from curb to curb with glass and wood, with here and there a bit of brass from the grillwork. Some of the ultra-morbid took away in their pockets some bits of the debris as souvenirs.

All afternoon and evening the Bullitt building was visited by the crowds. At night the police were still in charge of the bank. The officials were there, too, going over accounts to see that the money and securities were intact. Outside of the two certified checks reported missing, it was said, unofficially, that everything had been found.

Bomb Thrower an Iowa Man.

Robert Steele, who undoubtedly is the bomb thrower who wrecked the Fourth Street National bank in Philadelphia, left Garner, Ia., six years ago with his wife and two children, going to Chicago where he secured employment. From there he went east and while he did not correspond with persons in Garner it was learned there that he had located in Philadelphia.

While in Garner he ran a harvesting machine shop in which he was not overly successful in securing work. He was of a morose, despondent, reti-

run. When the savages neared the herd they left some 20 of their number to take care of the cattle, and the rest of the red men came after Jack and Mike at break-neck speed. For the first two miles the herder and his pursuers seemed to be leaving their pursuers behind, but Jack's pony suddenly sprained its shoulder by planting its foot into a prairie dog's deserted burrow, and a bullet from Mike's rifle soon put the poor creature out of its misery.

"Up behind me, bye!" urged Mike. "We'll have to ride for 'em, Chimney."

The herder's pony could only go at a trot, carrying double weight, so the Indians were hardly an eighth of a mile behind them when they reached their hiding place.

"I'll go first," said Mike, "so I can stiddy you."

The Chimney went down at a slight angle about a 150 feet into the rock, and had probably been hollowed out by the action of water. There was quite a growth of vines and bushes springing from the soil on the ledge on the inside.

thrying to smoke us out. This certainly is the devil's chimney, only the smoke is coming down instead of going up. Strip off your coat, Jack, and we'll fool the sneaks."

The herder and Jack waited in the cave for about six hours; then, the smoke having cleared away, they crawled out of the cave and looked up. It was quite dark and they saw that the Indians had rolled a huge rock over the mouth of the chimney.

"Mike," exclaimed Jack, "there must be an opening down below, or how did the smoke clear off?"

They started to descend, and on the bottom they found the dead body of the panther. They soon found the hole through which the smoke had passed and by a good deal of squeezing they got through it onto the side of a cliff. After walking along a ledge they reached a path that led to the top. They then caught their pony, which had been quietly grazing about, and were soon off on a trot for home, and were soon telling of their adventures to an anxious and interested crowd of neighbors.

LIKE A WATER LILY.

Directions for Making a Pretty Mat Out of Colored Crepe Paper.

Cut 17 large rounds of colored crepe paper, two of the darkest tint of the color you choose (a lotus may be either blue or rose color), two of the next shade, two still lighter, and so on till you have seven shades in two circles of both. Then cut three rounds of the same size in white paper. Fold each circle in four, and cut it like this pattern; open it, and you will find it surrounded by points. Take then the little crimping roller used for making pastry. Lay your round on a soft cushion, or on a shawl folded thickly, and run the crimper up each point; this will curl the points as much as you please. Then put the rounds inside each other and fasten them together, fixing them on a smaller round of cardboard with some strong gum; your mat will then resemble the complete lily.

QUEER LULLABIES.

Songs for the Babies Are Found in Every Clime.

It is not given to all classes of song to be universal; some countries are rich in one particular style, some in another, but we may safely affirm that the lullaby is indigenous to every soil. There are mothers and babies in all lands and, therefore, as a natural sequence, we find the lulling song or lullaby. From China to Peru, from Spitzbergen to South Africa, motherhood in its primitive form is ever one of the best sides of complex human nature. The little cannibal, the embryo fire-eater, the untutored Aino baby, all turn with something like a spark of affection toward the mothers who gave them birth, and although we probably find more melody, more beautiful poetic imagery among the lullabies of European mothers, yet we must not fail to take into account the sincerity of such lines as these which the Chinese woman chants over her infant:

Snail, snail, come out and be fed, Put out thy horns and then thy head, And thy mamma will give thee nut-ton.

For thou art doubly dear to me. The Arab tawny treasure seems to be easiest sent into dreamland with the following bucolic verse:

Sleep, my baby, sleep; Sleep a slumber hale, Sweetly rest till morning light, My little farmer boy so bright, And the little Zulu goes to: Hush, thee, my baby, Thy mother's o'er the mountain gone; There she will dig the little garden patch, And water she'll fetch from the river.

One of His Size.

A little boy went to the barn to see his father milk the cow. After a few minutes of quiet watching, he said: "When he had made several unsuccessful attempts, he solemnly remarked: "Let me try."

"I guess I would have to begin on a calf."

SAVED BY STRATEGEM.

Prize Story Written for Detroit Free Press by Wm. R. Smith, Aged 14.

"And if you see any Indians, ride for the Devil's Chimney," said Widow Arnold to her son Jack, just as he and Mike Flanagan, the chief herder, were starting out to find some stray cattle.

Frank Arnold had come to Colorado eight years before with his wife and six-year-old son, but he was killed during the third year of his residence by a band of wandering Indians, leaving Mike in charge of the ranch.

As Jack and the herder set out, they had not thought of danger, for Indians had not been seen around for several months. Mike and Jack rode across the prairie in search of the cattle, and found them in a creek bed five miles from home. Suddenly Mike saw a cloud of dust off to the south and rapidly drawing nearer.

"Ride fer yer life, me bye! Shure and we'll have to lave the bastes to them haythens!" exclaimed Mike, as he whipped his broncho into a faster run. When the savages neared the herd they left some 20 of their number to take care of the cattle, and the rest of the red men came after Jack and Mike at break-neck speed. For the first two miles the herder and his pursuers seemed to be leaving their pursuers behind, but Jack's pony suddenly sprained its shoulder by planting its foot into a prairie dog's deserted burrow, and a bullet from Mike's rifle soon put the poor creature out of its misery.

Mike waited long enough to pick the two nearest savages out of their saddles and then started down the Chimney by the aid of the bushes, Jack following. Suddenly the boy lost his hold and fell more than ten feet onto the ledge where Mike was standing.

"Jack," said the man, "hadn't we better duck into this cave?" pointing to a hole in the rock.

Jack agreed and started in, but soon scrambled out again.

"There's a panther in there, for I saw his eyes!" he cried.

Mike peered in and said, "You're right, Jackie, and I'm afther thinkin' he looks ugly."

As he spoke they heard a snarl and the savage animal jumped toward them, but, as they ducked, he flew over their heads and, striking the opposite wall, fell with a thud to the bottom.

Mike and Jack then crawled into the cave and lay down. Soon they heard the jabbering of Indians, and, looking up, saw them making a fire of green stuff, and smoke soon began to fill the Chimney.

"Begorra!" exclaimed Mike, stripping off his coat, "the scoundrels are

BRING GOOD HEALTH

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, Used After the Grip, Arrest Fatal Decline and Rebuild the System.

Any bodily weakness caused by a deficiency in the blood can be cured by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills because these pills actually make new blood. After attacks of the grip the blood is generally run down and the patient continues to decline.

"About three years ago," says Mrs. Jennie Cowan, of 718 N. Henry Street, West Bay City, Mich., "I caught a severe cold, which ran into the grip. I was confined to my bed for two weeks. At the end of that time I was able to be about, but was completely run down. I was so weak I could hardly stand, my cheeks had no color and I felt faint. My heart would flutter and it was difficult for me to breathe at times. Neuralgia settled in the back of my head and stomach and I suffered from rheumatism in my shoulders.

"I had the care of the best doctor in town but became no better until a friend told me one day how she had been cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I decided to try them. I soon felt better and continued using them until I was entirely cured. They built me up again to perfect health and I use them now whenever I feel at all sick and they always help me."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are invaluable in such cases, as well as in other blood diseases, because they not only drive off the germs of the disease but build up the system. The pills have cured anaemia, rheumatism, after-effects of fevers, neuralgia, and many other severe disorders.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box, six boxes $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

Shakespeare as Novel Hero.

William Shakespeare is the hero of a new and striking novel by the Danish woman writer Sophus Banditz. Moreover, British and American readers will probably soon have a chance to read this tale, for Queen Alexandra, who recently read it in the original, was so much impressed by it that she advised the authoress to have it translated into English. This translation is now proceeding and the English version is to be dedicated to the queen, who is herself a Dane.

AWFUL EFFECT OF ECZEMA.

Covered with Yellow Sores—Grew Worse—Parents Discouraged—Cuticura Drove Sores Away.

"Our little girl, one year and a half old, was taken with eczema and that was what the doctor called it. We called in the family doctor, and he gave some tablets and said she would be all right in a few days. The eczema grew worse and we called in doctor No. 2. He said she was teething, as soon as the teeth were through she would be all right. But she still grew worse. Doctor No. 3 said it was eczema. By this time she was nothing but a yellow, greenish sore. Well, he said he could help her, so we let him try it about a week. One morning we discovered a little yellow pimple on one of her eyes. Of course we 'phoned for doctor No. 3. He came over and looked her over, and said that he could not do anything more for her, that we had better take her to some eye specialist, since it was an ulcer. So we went to Oswego to doctor No. 4, and he said the eyesight was gone, but that he could help it. We thought we would try doctor No. 5. Well, that proved the same, only he charged $10 more than doctor No. 4. We were nearly discouraged. I saw one of the Cuticura advertisements in the paper and thought we would try the Cuticura Treatment, so I went and purchased a set of Cuticura Remedies, which cost me $1, and in three days our daughter, who had been sick about eight months, showed great improvement, and in one week all sores had disappeared. Of course it could not restore the eyesight, but if we had used Cuticura in time I am confident that it would have saved the eye. We think there is no remedy so good for any skin trouble or impurity of the blood as Cuticura. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Abbott, R. F. D. No. 9, Fulton, Oswego Co., N. Y., August 17, 1906."

THE HOME CIRCLE

MATTERS OF GENERAL INTEREST TO THE HOUSEWIFE.

Best Way to Furnish and Decorate the Bedroom—American Cooks Not Alive to the Value of Chives—Recipes.

A simple bedroom is most desirable, and the most comfortable. Large closets are a great convenience. Under one of the windows a box can be built in which shirtwaists may be kept, and also serve as a seat. Mirrors may be set into the walls, framed to match the woodwork.

If the walls are in good condition it is better to have them painted a delicate tint, though it gives a room a cold appearance. Nothing, however, is as sanitary or economical. If the walls are painted, the hangings and furniture coverings should be figured. If flowered or figured paper is used then the material for draperies and coverings should be plain. In some bedrooms both wall paper and hangings are of the same design.

The floors, of course, should be of hardwood or be painted. It is possible then by removing the rugs and wiping up the floor with a damp cloth occasionally to keep the room free from dust. The rag rugs now so popular are desirable for bedrooms, for they can be washed without much trouble.

"The Making of a Housewife," says that few American housekeepers know the value of chives. English and French cooks do. If you are lucky enough to find a bunch in the market, carry it home and put it in a pot of earth. It will keep verdant all winter in a sunny window, as parsley does. At a first glance you might imagine it was grass, but each tiny blade is a tube, like an onion top. Chives, although more delicate, belong to the onion family. A tablespoonful chopped fine is a delicious addition to a potato, lettuce or endive salad; it also gives a pleasant taste to soups or hashed brown potatoes. As soon as it is cut it springs up again. One bunch of chives, well watered, will give you a winter's flavoring.

The following is another recipe for scones: Sift one quart of flour; add one-half teaspoonful of salt, one teaspoonful of sugar, one tablespoonful of lard, one beaten egg, two teaspoonfuls of cream tartar, one of soda, and one pint of sweet milk. Mix to a thick batter, drop in squares on a very hot greased griddle, and bake brown on both sides. Serve with butter, maple syrup or honey.

For chestnut stuffing, peel, skin, and cook tender enough chestnuts to make half a pound when they are chopped fine. Add to the chestnuts four ounces of butter, three ounces of bread crumbs and a little grated lemon peel and powdered mace, salt and a pinch of cayenne. To this mixture add the beaten yolks of three eggs. A dinner is to be served at one o'clock, the dressing may be put in the fowl the night before.

COOKING WITH SOUR MILK.

Vigorous Beating Necessary to Make It Mix Smoothly.

Some cooks decry the use of sour milk cookery, because of the difficulty of mixing it smoothly with other ingredients, and a bit of sour curd is a decidedly unpleasant thing to meet in a corn cake or muffin. This is obviated by a few vigorous whirrs of the egg beater in the bowl or pitcher which contains the sour milk. The curds and whey are thus smoothly mixed, and the thick milk can be poured from one dish to another as easily as cream.

The proper proportion of soda is one-half of a level teaspoonful to each cupful of thick sour milk. As gas begins to escape as soon as the acid meets the soda, the latter should not be dissolved in the milk, but like baking powder should be sifted with the flour.

Useful Table Heaters.

Table heaters are useful in keeping food hot when it must come from a considerable distance. Many hotels use them, but they are also a great convenience in private houses that have basement kitchens. The heaters are constructed with a nickel or iron frame, on top of which sets a nickel tray large enough to hold an ordinary sized meat plate or one or two smaller dishes. Underneath is an alcohol lamp. The heaters are low, of ornamental designs.

For Cleaning Kid Gloves.

This recipe may be applied to the most delicate tints and there is no odor; it is more desirable than naphtha or gasoline.

Put the gloves on the hand and then take a piece of white flannel and moisten it very slightly with sweet milk. Rub on gently a little piece of castile soap and carefully go over the soiled gloves until clean. Then rub with dry flannel cloth.

Cranberry Pot Pie.

Put one quart of cranberries into a saucepan, add two cups of water and one and one-half cups of sugar, then lay on the top some squares from a rich biscuit dough rolled half an inch thick. Cover closely and let cook 15 minutes without removing the cover. The crust will be very light, and served with the cranberries and a liquid sauce it will make an excellent dessert.

TERRIBLE TO RECALL.

Five Weeks in Bed With Intensely Painful Kidney Trouble.

Mrs. Mary Wagner, of 1367 Kossuth avenue, Bridgeport, Conn., says: "I was so weak and generally run down with kidney disease that for a long time I could not do my work and was five weeks in bed. There was continual bearing down pain, terrible backaches, headaches and at times dizzy spells when everything was a blur before me. The passages of the kidney secretions were irregular and painful, and there was considerable sediment and odor. I don't know what I would have done but for Doan's Kidney Pills. I could see an improvement from the first box, and five boxes brought a final cure."

Sold by all dealers. 50 cents a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Life Without Mind.

The possibility of life without mind, while not subject to positive proof, is a theory that has gained considerable strength recently through its advocacy by Dr. L. Laloy, librarian of the Academy of Sciences, Paris. He believes that many of the smaller living organisms, such as insects, are mere moving machines, having no more intelligence than may be ascribed to plants. He refers to the well known fact that insects are attracted by light, often to their own destruction, and ascribes it to the same cause that inclines the plant to grow toward the light.

Thoroughly Reliable.

If ever there was a reliable and safe remedy it is that old and famous porous plaster—Alcock's. It has been in use for sixty years, and is as popular to-day as ever, and we doubt if there is a civilized community on the face of the globe where this wonderful pain reliever cannot be found. In the selection of the ingredients and in their manufacture the greatest care is taken to keep each plaster up to the highest standard of excellence, and so pure and simple are the ingredients that even a child can use them.

Alcock's are the original and genuine porous plasters and are sold by Druggists all over the world.

Slightly Mixed.

A traveling salesman died suddenly in Pittsburg, Pa., and some of his friends telegraphed the undertaker an order to make a large wreath. Investigation showed that the telegram ordering the wreath read as follows: "Rest in peace, on both sides of the ribbon; if there should be room: 'We shall meet in heaven.'"

The undertaker was out of town, and the new assistant handled the job. It was a startling floral piece which turned up at the funeral. The ribbon was extra wide, and it bore the inscription: "Rest in peace on both sides, and if there is room we shall meet in heaven."

Rajah's Unique Conveyance.

While amphibious vehicles are not in themselves a novelty, it is safe to declare the combination conveyance just built in England for an Indian maharajah as absolutely unique. The body, shaped like a boat and painted in rainbow hues in accordance with eastern ideas of color, is hung upon a four-wheeled skeleton carriage. While intended by its owner as a state carriage, it may be used on occasions as a state boat, as the body can be unslung and converted into an electric launch. The skeleton carriage is about 15 feet long and is provided with four rubber-tired wheels. There is a seat for a driver and room for four in the boat-shaped coach. The total weight of the outfit is less than one ton.

WHITE BREAD

Makes Trouble for People with Weak Intestinal Digestion.

A lady in a Wis. town employed a physician who instructed her not to eat white bread for two years. She tells the details of her sickness and she certainly was a sick woman.

"In the year 1887 I gave out from overwork, and until 1901 I remained an invalid in bed a great part of the time. Had different doctors but nothing seemed to help. I suffered from cerebro-spinal congestion, female trouble and serious stomach and bowel trouble. My husband called a new doctor and after having gone without any food for 10 days the doctor ordered Grape-Nuts for me. I could eat the new food from the very first mouthful. The doctor kept me on Grape-Nuts and the only medicine was a little glycerine to heal the alimentary canal.

"When I was up again doctor told me to eat Grape-Nuts twice a day and no white bread for two years. I got well in good time and have gained in strength so I can do my own work again.

"My brain has been helped so much, and I know that the Grape-Nuts food did this, too. I found I had been made ill because I was not fed right, that is I did not properly digest white bread and some other food I tried to live on.

"I have never been without Grape-Nuts food since and eat it every day. You may publish this letter if you like so it will help someone else." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Get the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

Japanese Hot Baths.

In Japan hot baths are used at a temperature of 104 degrees Fahrenheit. Immediately they leave the bathers plunge into perfectly cold water. A European doctor who has spent many years in Tokio declares that, after a bath of this heat and the subsequent douche, he used to feel warm all day in the coldest winter weather, while in summer the bath had the exactly contrary effect, and was most cooling and refreshing.

WOMEN SUFFER

Many women suffer in silence and drift along from bad to worse, knowing well that they ought to have immediate assistance.

How many women do you know who are perfectly well and strong? The cause may be easily traced to some feminine derangement which manifests itself in depression of spirits, reluctance to go anywhere or do anything, backache, dragging sensations, flatulency, nervousness, and sleeplessness.

These symptoms are but warnings that there is danger ahead, and unless heeded, a life of suffering or a serious operation is the inevitable result. The best remedy for all these symptoms is
