KNOCKS HARD LABOR

CORN PICKER AND HUSKER A BOON TO FARMERS

With this Machine the Farmer can Laugh at the Scarcity of Labor—Three Operations in One

Yet another practical invention is now on the market as a great boon to farmers. This time it is a corn picker and husker. Of late years farmers have been compelled to almost beg for help in harvesting their corn crop and then pay such prices for labor that the margin left on a bushel of corn was small. Despite the fact that the price of labor has advanced, there is never any guarantee as to the price of corn. It may bring a good price today and tomorrow the bottom will be knocked out of prices completely.

To the farmer who raises a large acreage of corn the new machine is a friend in the time of need and when put into a large field will soon pay for itself.

L. H. Morehart, who resides north of Genoa, is the first in this section to put one of the machines into a field. It is a Deering and was purchased of Jas. R. Kiernan. The parts were unloaded and conveyed to the farm Monday where it was set up.

The machine was given a severe test Wednesday in a field which was fairly swimming in mud. Despite the unfavorable conditions the work was excellent. Every ear large and small was picked from the stalks and deposited in the wagon husked perfectly clean. Since the trial Mr. Kiernan sold another machine of the same kind to Dave Tower of Kingston.

The Deering corn picker not only picks the corn, but in the same operation husks the ears and loads them into a wagon which is hauled alongside the machine. There are two independent sets of drive gears, one to operate the snapping rolls, conveyor chains and picking up rolls, and the other to operate the husking rolls and elevator chains. As the machine approaches a hill of corn, the conveyor chains engage the stalks, straighten the bent or broken ones, and bring them to the snapping rolls where the ears are snapped off. The ears then drop into a conveyor which takes them to the husking rolls where they are husked. They then drop into the elevator proper and are delivered into the wagon.

In engaging the stalks the machine works on the same principle as the corn harvester. The draft of the machine is light considering the amount of work it accomplishes.

A REAL ARTIST

Was W. S. Battis, Who Entertained Last Friday Evening

Those who heard W. S. Battis, the impersonator, at the opera house last Friday evening were in no way disappointed. He is an artist in every sense of the word, being as much at home on the stage as in his own parlor at home.

In comedy Mr. Battis is at his best, but this is not saying that he is not good in tragedy and drama, in fact he has few equals as an impersonator in any role. His work of giving an entire farce comedy is superb, and his interpretation of every character practically faultless.

A program such as Mr. Battis is capable of presenting rarely comes to any town and should be greeted by a much larger audience than turned out last Friday.

NEW RESTAURANT

Will be Opened in the Abbott Building by McGuff & Fischer

Messrs. McGuff and Fischer of DeKalb have leased the Abbott building in "Bridgeport" on Main street and will soon open a restaurant and lunch room. The interior of the building has been newly painted and papered. The room has for several years been occupied as a billiard and pool parlor, but since E. A. Sowers & Co. put in the elegant regulation tables, the business at the old quarters gradually dropped off until there was not enough to make it pay.

McGuff & Fischer come as strangers and will have to establish their own reputation. It is understood, however, that they are experienced.

TWO SENT AWAY

County Court Sends DeKalb Citizen to Elgin and Kirkland Girl to Evanston

William F. Holland of DeKalb was before Judge Pond in the county court on Tuesday and was adjudged insane and committed to the Elgin hospital. He was a mail carrier in DeKalb for many years, and was in good health and a jolly, popular citizen until he was stricken with paralysis, since which time he has been affected in mind as well as in body and has spells when he threatens to kill himself and his wife.

Linda B. Ream, of Kirkland, 16 years, was before the county court on Monday, and with her own consent and that of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Ream, a jury authorized her committed to the Evanston school for girls as a dependent or delinquent girl.—True Republican.

SUNDAY CONVERTS 1,000

Evangelist is Successful in His Revival Meetings at Aledo

The revival meetings conducted at Aledo, Ill., by Evangelist William Sunday have resulted in nearly 1,000 conversions.

Rev. Sunday's meetings have been held there for the past month. The free will offering was $3,800, one of the largest he has ever received. At the last afternoon sermon he preached 75 persons were converted. Rev. Sunday has returned to his home in Chicago.

Criminal Wanted

The police have been notified to arrest, if found, one John Hoover, of many aliases, who is wanted for forgery and obtaining money under false pretenses in the vicinity of Rockford and elsewhere. He is about 50 years of age, 5 feet 10 or 11 inches in height, dark round face, squint eyed, rather stoop shouldered and rather good looking. He will look over farms that are for sale some distance from the county seat; gets an abstract from the owner, calls on a notary in a nearby village and has a power of attorney made out, thus securing a copy of the notary's seal; he then goes to the county seat and engages some lawyer or real-estate dealer to examine the abstract and draw up a deed of the farm; later he forges the name of the owner of the farm to the deed and in some way applies the notary's seal, whereupon he secures a loan by mortgage on the farm. That is the last seen of him.—True Republican.

If He Did?

If a traveling salesman offered you a suit or skirt as cheap as he would sell it to a merchant, would you buy? We are offering on these terms, this week, 350 skirts and twice as many suits. See page 4. C. F. Hall Co., Dundee.

THE PROCLAMATION

PRES. ROOSEVELT SETTLES THANKSGIVING QUESTION

Thursday, November 30, Set as the Day—His Views of Conditions are Very Comprehensive

The President has settled the question as to what day shall be set aside as Thanksgiving day, and has named November 30th.

The following is his proclamation:

"When, nearly three centuries ago, the first settlers came to the country which has now become this great republic, they fronted not only hardships and privation, but terrible risk to their lives.

In those grim years the custom grew of setting apart one day in each year for a special service of thanksgiving to the Almighty for preserving the people through the changing seasons. The custom has now become national and hallowed by immemorial usage.

We live in easier and more plentiful times than our forefathers, the man who with rugged strength faced rugged days; and yet the dangers to national life are quite as great now as at any previous time in our history. It is eminently fitting that once a year our people should set apart a day for praise and thanksgiving to the giver of good, and at the same time that they express their thankfulness for the abundant mercies received should manfully acknowledge their shortcomings and pledge themselves solemnly and in good faith to strive to overcome them.

During the last year we have been blessed with bountiful crops.

Our business prosperity has been great. No other people has ever stood on as high a level of material well being as ours now stands. We are not threatened by foes from without. The foes from whom we should pray to be delivered are our own passions, appetites and follies; and against these there is always need that we should war. Therefore, I now set apart Thursday, the 30th day of this November, as a day of thanksgiving for the past and of prayer for the future, and on that day I ask that throughout the land the people gather in their homes and places of worship, and in rendering thanks unto the Most High for the manifold blessings of the last year, consecrate themselves to a life of cleanliness, honor and wisdom so that this nation may do its allotted work on the earth in a manner worthy of those who founded it and of those who preserved it. In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done at the City of Washington, this second day of November, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and five, and of the independence of the United States the one hundred and thirtieth.

Theodore Roosevelt.

THE NEW SCHEDULE

ILLINOIS CENTRAL WILL GIVE BETTER SERVICE

Cut in Time Between Chicago and Western Points Made—New Trains for Convenience of Public

Illinois Central managers have decided to "cut things loose" in the matter of time of passenger trains. This will be accomplished by reducing the running time between Chicago and Omaha to thirteen hours and thirty minutes, a cut of thirty-five minutes in the present schedule. Between Chicago and Minneapolis the time will be cut down to thirteen hours and 25 minutes, 50 minutes faster than now, and between Chicago and St. Paul to fourteen hours. Between Chicago and Sioux City 45 minutes will be cut from the present running time, bringing it down to thirteen hours and 35 minutes. A thru sleeping car service will be established between Sioux Falls and Chicago.

A new afternoon train is to be put on, leaving Genoa at 4:30, the run to Chicago being made in one hour and thirty-five minutes. This train alone will prove of great convenience. Two early morning trains may be put on, one leaving about 6:30 and the other about 8:30, each making the run to Chicago in short time. An effort will also be made to have train which leaves Chicago shortly after midnight stop at Genoa. The new schedule will be announced in a few days by Agent Crawford.

There will be other changes in the road's schedule on the western division. The new reduction in time is made possible by big improvements in track and roadbed during the past year.

M. E. Church Notes

Rev. T. E. Ream will preach at the M. E. church next Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Rev. Sellard will preach at the Charter Grove M. E. church next Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

There will be a special choir rehearsal at the M. E. church next Saturday evening at 7:45. All members should be on hand promptly.

The work of putting city water in the M. E. church kitchen has been completed and all the members of the Aid Society are rejoicing over this much needed improvement.

The Epworth League service will be held in the League rooms on Sunday evening at 6:30. The meeting will be one of especial interest to men and boys. Topic: "The Dangers of Indulgence." Leader: Prof. H. F. Stout. The public is cordially invited.

Services will be held as usual at the M. E. church next Sunday morning and evening. In the morning at 10:30 Rev. T. E. Ream will preach. In the evening at 7:30 Rev. Earl Sellard will preach. Short song service and special singing at the evening service.

LIETZOW STOLL

Wedding Ceremony Performed Wednesday Evening

The marriage of Mr. Otto Lietzow and Miss Hattie Stoll occurred at the home of the bride's parents Wednesday evening of this week, Rev. J. Molthan performing the ceremony at eight o'clock.

The bride and groom were attended by Mr. Andreas Lietzow and Miss Emma Stoll.

Many beautiful gifts were left with the couple who are popular among their acquaintances.

After the ceremony the jolly company enjoyed a pleasant evening, music being furnished by the VanDresser orchestra.

OF GENERAL INTEREST

ITEMS STOLEN FROM COLUMNS OF EXCHANGES

Stella Foster of Genoa Granted Divorce—Charles Bright has Purchased the Federal and Monadnock

DeKalb Advertiser: Stella Foster of Genoa has been given a divorce from Roy Foster. There are nineteen more cases pending for disposition at this term of court. The new divorce law operative in this state last July prohibiting divorced persons from remarrying inside of a year, has not begun to take hold very strong yet, apparently.

Sycamore Tribune: Joseph E. Sinclair, who has been employed by Franklin Hall the past year, was found dead under the hay in the barn on Mitchell's farm a few miles northwest of town Tuesday afternoon. Upon investigation the conclusion was reached that he met death from carbolic poisoning by his own hand. The discovery occasioned considerable excitement in the community in view of the absence of any apparent reason for the young man's rash act.

Harvard Herald: Harley Cooley, employed on the farm of H. H. Harvey near Big Foot, is perhaps the champion corn husker of McHenry county. On a bet he husked 130 bushels of corn in shock on the Harvey farm last Wednesday, the work being done in ten hours.

Howard O. Hilton, assistant editor of the Rockford Republic, has been appointed chief clerk of the Northern Illinois Hospital for the Insane at Elgin and will immediately enter upon the duties of his office. It is a position that pays $1,800 per annum.

Charles Bright of Chicago was here on business Tuesday. He has recently purchased the Federal building and the Monadnock block in Chicago and will use them to store eggs in.—Marengo News.

Few people realize the amount of money that truck farmers make near Kenosha. Fifteen dollars a ton is being paid on the car for cabbage and several of these small farms have yielded as high as seventy tons to the acre.

The suspender and garter manufacturers have formed a trust. Another "hold up" scheme.

The swindler who has been creating a world of trouble for the Salvation Army in Chicago and for a hundred miles around and who has swindled hundreds if not thousands of persons in Northern Illinois and Southern Wisconsin, yet who, in spite of persistent efforts to apprehend him, continued his operations for a year and a half or longer, has at last been captured at Sycamore. He is now languishing in durance vile. DeKalb and Sycamore preachers caught the thief.

Circuit court has been pegging away ever since last Thursday on the Meyer liquor case from DeKalb. A son is suing five saloon keepers for damages claimed to have resulted from selling his father liquor. The case was tried before with the wife as complainant and has been to the appellate court.

Menely Quartet

The Menely quartette will give a program at the M. E. church next Wednesday evening, Nov. 15. The program will be conducted in the interests of the Anti Saloon League. No admission fee will be exacted, altho a silver offering will be accepted at the door or otherwise. The quartet is considered among the best.

WILL FURNISH HOTEL

Commercial Will Soon be Opened by Geo. W. Sowers

The commercial hotel will soon be re-opened as "The European" by Geo. W. Sowers, the owner. Mr. Sowers was in Chicago Monday and purchased the necessary furniture for furnishing the bed rooms, office and parlor. The hotel will be conducted on the European plan in one sense, altho rooms may be rented by the week. The dining room and kitchen will not be run in connection with the hotel unless some one desires to lease the rooms independent of the hotel management.

Mr. Sowers has used discretion in fitting up the bed rooms under sanitary conditions. Nothing but iron beds and felt mattresses will be used. No carpets will be laid to accumulate dust and dirt, but neat rugs will be used throughout. The floors will be painted.

Under such conditions, and after the thoro renovation the building received this summer, The European should do some business. With the two restaurants and neatly furnished rooms at hand the transients can be well cared for. Some prefer the European plan to the straight hotel life.

Benefit Social

Do not forget the social and entertainment at the M. E. Church this (Friday) evening, and do not forget the cause which is to be benefitted. The receipts of the evening will be utilized in purchasing new hymn books for the church pews. The ladies of the church, assisted by many outsiders are preparing a menu a yard long and the program will be as good as the best local talent can make it, (that means first class.) Only twenty cents will be charged for supper and entertainment. Entertainment alone ten cents.

The program follows:
Male Quartet, selected—Messrs Schoonmaker, Stout, Shork and Chapel.

Vocal Solo—Wilbur Jackman, Ladies Quartet, Selected—Misses Clefford, Davis, Mesdames Marquart and Olmsted.

Vocal Solo—Mrs. C. D. Schoonmaker.

Reading—Marjorie Rowen.

Vocal Solo—Mrs. Swanson.

Duet—Mrs. Marquart and Mr. Stout.

Male Quartet—Messrs Schoonmaker, Stout, Shork and Chapel.

Vocal Solo—Mrs. Swanson.

Ladies Quartet—Misses Davis, Clefford, Mesdames Marquart and Olmsted.

W. C. T. U. Charity

The W. C. T. U. sent its annual box of supplies to the Frances Willard Temperance Hospital last week. This hospital treats all cases and those who are able to pay are expected to do so, but those who are no able are treated just the same and without alcohol. This year the hospital was helped materially by the Ladies' Aid Society of Ney, among the contributions being six dozen eggs which the superintendent acknowledged to be greatly appreciated, as they are almost impossible to get.

Wife the Purse-Holder

Admiral Togo's income is less than $3000 a year. Like every good Japanese husband of the upper class he hands the money over to his wife, who gives him a small allowance. Here is a custom which American married women should insist upon adopting. Give the old man a chance, but don't give him too much spending money!—"With the Procession," Everybody's Magazine for November.

Weekly Grist of School Notes in Which are Quotations from Book Now Being Read by Prof. Stout

Florence Eklor was absent the latter part of last week.

Basket ball will commence in the hall about December 1, and the probabilities are that there will be a public game on December 8. The schedule of games for the entire season will soon be complete.

Superintendent H. F. Stout attended a meeting of the eastern division of the Illinois Teachers' Association at Aurora last Friday, taking an active part in the program of the day. About 1200 teachers were present.

Quotations from John Graham (George Horace Lorimer) in his letters to his son who has just started in college:

Education is about the only thing lying around loose in this world, and its about the only thing a fellow can have as much of as he's willing to haul away. Everything else is screwed down tight and the screw driver lost.

Some men learn the value of truth by having to do business with liars, and some by going to Sunday School.

The first thing that any education ought to give a man is character and the second thing is education.

The college doesn't make fools; it develops them. It doesn't make bright men; it develops them. A fool will turn out a fool whether he goes to college or not, though he'll probably turn out a different sort of a fool.

The lack of a college education can't keep a number one man down and having it boosts a number two man up.

Does a college education pay? Anything that trains a boy to think and think quick pays; anything that teaches a boy to get the answer before the other boy gets through biting his pencil, pays.

NO NOVEMBER ASSESSMENT

Modern Woodmen Have Prosperous Year Despite Rise in Rates

Announcement is made that there will be no assessment in the Modern Woodman society for November. This will be welcome news to the hundreds of Woodmen in this county. There will be an assessment for December, however, making a total of nine assessments during the entire year.

The society will close the year with more than $1,500,000 on hand in its benefit fund. Officers of the Woodmen society are pleased with the showing made this year. The number of assessments bears out the statement made when the scale was raised that although the rates are higher, the cost per member is not much better.

Charter Grove Aid

The Ladies Aid of Charter Grove society held their business meeting with Mrs. Amos Story, Wednesday afternoon, for the purpose of electing officers.

The society is in a prosperous condition and intends to hold socials once a month, the first, an oyster social, at the home of Mr. Wm. Wood, Friday, Nov. 10.

The officers elected for the coming year are as follows:
Pres., Mrs. Ella Whipple.
Vice Pres., Mrs. Lula Wood.
Sec., Mrs. Jennie Story.
Treas., Mrs. Mary Ernest.

Pure Pennsylvania Buckwheat Flour at T. M. Frazier's.

CONCERNING FASHIONS

Monograms on Handbags.
It is the smart thing to have your monogram on your handbag. Not in plain brass or silver or even in gold, but in precious stones. This is truly an age of extravagance in jewelry and jewels, and we cannot afford to speak disrespectfully of the ladies of ancient Greece and Rome, who decked themselves with dangling chains and thought beauty was counted by the variety of jewels they wore. The stones used in the monogram may be either the birthstone or the lucky stone, and the letters are entwined so as to make them as unintelligible as possible.

Pelisse for the Autumn.
For autumn traveling the old-fashioned pelisse made of rough pongee is a favorite. Now and then it has a hood, which may be brought into use on occasion. The skirt of the coat is gauged on to the waist and is voluminous enough to crush any sort of a gown with which it may be worn. Big-sleeved wraps that are separated from the cape by a narrow margin are the natural outcome of puffed sleeves. They are at their best made of taffeta or rough pongee. "Sling capes" sleeves that are familiar to some persons and that, by their name, describe themselves to all others, are among the revivals for long capelike wraps.

Hair Braid for Hats.
The newest braid used in the making of outing hats is the hair braid, says the Milliner. Up to the present time very little of this braid was used for other than dress purposes. A hair braid hat which illustrates the possibilities of this model is made up of two plaits draped something after the fashion of the Charlotte Corday bonnet, but more on the turban order. It is caught at each side with black velvet bows, which are fastened with large caribouhorns of white hair. Another style of outing hat which is developed into white hair braid is a Tam O'Shanter; the crown of this is draped in black velvet loops and the ends are caught into a square black velvet buckle at one side.

Pretty Silk Coat.
A pretty coat in dark blue rajah silk was made with the waist line high under the arms and dipping slightly in front. The waist had a little vest of velvet, and was outlined on either side of the vest and around the waist with a flat bias band of the silk sewed on by hand. In front the band was ornamented with four handsome silk passementeries, with long silk fringes. A similar ornament trimmed the short puffed sleeve, which was further embellished with two ruffles of narrow valenciennes. The silk of the coat was shirred and hung below the knees.

Gray cloth costume trimmed with gray braided, dotted with black pastilles. Guimpe of tucked cord red chiffon. Black hat with coral colored tips.

Cameos Again in Vogue.
Cameos are coming back into vogue again, and the possessors of old treasures in these may get them out and consult the jeweler as to their remounting. Neck chains with pendants are among one of the most favored forms of utilizing these, and belts of cameos strung together with link chains are worn with thin and sheer lingerie frocks. Some bracelets, too, are shown, and the old-fashioned earrings make up charmingly as buttons for one's favorite tailored blouse.

Velvets.
Velvets have hardly begun to appear on the streets, but it is probable that later in the season they will be used almost as much for walking suits as for reception or evening wear. Both in coloring and in softness, suppleness and luster the new velvets are sensationally improved.

Simple Dancing Gown.
That satin is to assume much importance in the winter frock scheme seems beyond doubt. Satin models are many, both in evening and visiting gowns, and nothing lovelier is shown than some of the gowns in this material. One is made from pale green satin, with perfectly plain skirt, flaring and full at bottom. The décolleté bodice is very pointed, front and back, and in front are crossed pieces of the satin edged with tiny ruffled ruffles of self-tone chiffon. A straight piece of white Irish crochet lace runs across front at bust line. One large puff with turned cuff and chiffon ruffle forms the elbow sleeve.

Lingerie Blouses to Stay.
It is decreed that lingerie blouses are to be worn until winter, and more than possibly throughout cold weather. For the latter they are to be furnished with plain India silk underslips that will serve as linings, making them warm enough for the house and for the streets when fur jackets are worn.

Material. Sleeves trimmed at elbow with cuffs and strap of cloth and ruffe of velvet. The skirt was walking length, perfectly plain and rippling wide around the feet. To wear with the frock was a hat of violet beaver, matching the cloth, with low crown and brim rolling sharply at both sides. It tilts forward and is filled in at back by a purple plume, which comes from the left side of the hat and falls over the hair.

Lady's Norfolk Jacket.
The new jackets are out of the beaten track and very smart. Among these the plaited styles seem to be the favorite, and surely there has never been a style that is so easily handled by the home dressmaker. The jacket proper is very plain, made with seams in front and back extending to the shoulder. This is not only a newer cut, but it is a style easier fitted than the dart coats. After the coat is fitted one has only to apply the plait over the seam and the garment is practically finished. The collar may or may not be used, just as one desires. The sleeve is finished with a box plait also, and the whole "make-up" of the coat is generally good. Any woman can make such a coat as this and it will be a good fitting one, too. The shops are full of short lengths now that can be bought very reasonably and are just the thing for separate jackets.

Orange Pie.
Grate the rind of one and use the juice of two large oranges. Stir together a large cupful of sugar and a heaping tablespoonful of flour; add to this the well-beaten yolks of three eggs, two tablespoonfuls of melted butter. Reserve the white for frosting. Turn this into a pie-pan lined with pie paste and bake in a quick oven. When done so as to resemble a finely baked custard, spread on the top of it the beaten whites, which must be sweetened with two tablespoonfuls of sugar; spread evenly, and return to the oven and brown slightly.

Coats of Blanket Serge.
Just now the rage is for coats of blanket serge, but the ordinary paleot shape is too popular to be new, and the latest vogue is the redingote shape in natural gray or biscuit tones with a small collar and cuffs of darker silk or velvet, which, thanks to the chemical cleaner, is easily restored with the coat.

Walking Costumes from Paris.
The first costume is of green cloth. The short shirt is made with groups of plaits and is untrimmed. The bolero is slightly gathered at the bottom and finished with a stitched band. The front is ornamented with passementerie brandenbergs and finished at the bottom with a tab of darker velvet. The revers and girdle are also of this velvet, and the turnover collar is of embroidery. The full sleeves are tucked crosswise just at the top and finished with deep cuffs trimmed with the brandenbergs and bands of the material. The other costume is of blue cloth. The short skirt is made with box plaits which form pointed straps at the top. It is trimmed at the bottom between these plaits with straps of the material. The double-breasted bolero is ornamented with gold buttons and finished at the bottom with a shaped band. The shawl collar is bordered with a shaped ruffle. The waistcoat and bottoms of the sleeves are of blue and white striped silk. The sleeves are trimmed with bands of the material. The girdle is of velvet to match the costume.

paint brush is most useful in dusting the carving of furniture.
The bread can needs wiping out daily. Otherwise crumbs will collect and these will mold. The moldy crumbs will communicate their fungus to the fresh loaves put in, and the whole will be contaminated.

Mr. Rogers of Iowa writes: "Please tell me through the columns of your department how to protect climbing roses in the winter? I have never been able to keep mine from freezing to the ground. The only rose that stands is the Crimson Rambler. I have wrapped my roses in burlap, but they always die down."

Where we have received the same inquiry, in substance, from several other readers of this department, regarding the protecting of hardy and half-hardy roses. We have always found that where the bushes can be laid down flat on the ground and held firm with a weight of some kind, that fresh earth makes the best and most natural covering that the rose can have. But where it is difficult to bend the bush down we have then employed with good success such covering as old potato and tomato vines, corn stalks, etc. In fact any covering is good that does not lie solid together so as to smother the bush. There are more roses killed each year by covering them up too heavy with raw manure or wet straw, which lays close together and during the early spring completely smother the plant. This can be avoided by using a more open covering as suggested.

Where the bushes are quite heavy and old a few spades of dirt can be taken away from one side and the bush gently pressed down. This should be done before freezing weather, and a rainy day is preferable, as the bushes are more pliable. In the latitude of Iowa and Nebraska it is the safest to lay down and cover all varieties of roses. While there are some varieties that are hardy, yet in the spring they will come out in the spring with renewed vigor, which will many times repay for the labor.

EVERGREENS IN SOUTHWESTERN NEBRASKA.
A correspondent from southwestern Nebraska writes: "I expect to set out some evergreens for a windbreak. Scotch pines grow the fastest. Would it pay to plant red cedar five feet apart and cut out every other one when they get big enough for posts? The place I wish to grow them is about forty feet wide and between some fruit trees set out last spring and a walnut grove fifteen to twenty feet high. How close to the fruit trees would you set the evergreens?"

We would keep twenty or twenty-five feet away from the fruit trees and would not put them on the north side of the orchard. The south or east side of the orchard would probably do no harm. Red cedar are slow growers. There are two varieties of red cedar trees in Nebraska. One of them came in from the east and one from the west. The eastern variety will grow faster than the western and is better adapted to the climate. For post timber the red cedar would be the best by far. For windbreaks the Scotch pine would be the best. Spring is the best time to plant.

"It's do the chores at morning, And do the chores at night. The rooster gives us warning Before a peep of light. To bring the lamps and bustle With feed for every one. All farmer folks must hustle 'Till every chore is done."

LAYING DOWN PEACH TREES.
In parts of Colorado peach trees are laid down and covered with soil to protect against winter. This practice may well be followed in other localities where peaches are not altogether hardy, and where they are apt to be destroyed by late spring frosts. To be most successful, the practice of laying down is begun on trees the first year they are set in the orchard. Some time in November, after the leaves have fallen, a circle of earth about four feet in diameter is removed from around the tree. Water is then poured in and the tree worked back and forth until the roots are loosened and the tree bent to the ground in the direction of least resistance. The branches are then tied together, and the tree covered with burlap, held in place with earth. A light layer of earth is then thrown over the tree. As the blossom buds begin to open the following spring the covering is loosened to admit of light and air. The blossoms are exposed to the sun gradually and after all danger of frost is considered over they are raised in an upright position and held in place by a couple of crops. In placing the trees in the upright position the ground is again watered, and when wet enough the trees are raised without difficulty. Old trees cannot be successfully handled in this manner. The practice must be begun with the young trees and continued. It is stated that the process seems to be in no way detrimental to the health of the tree, since they live as long and bear as much fruit according to the size of the top as those grown in peach sections.

FARM ORCHARD AND GARDEN

[Mr. Wragg invites contributions of any new ideas that readers of this department may wish to present, and would be pleased to answer correspondents desiring information on subjects discussed. Address M. J. Wragg, Waukeo or Des Moines, Iowa.]

FEEDS AND FEEDING.
The secret of successful stock-raising or dairying is cheap feeds and correct feeding. Every dairyman is confronted by the question of what to feed, and not only of what to feed but how much to feed, how to feed and when to feed. The answer to these questions may differ somewhat in different localities, but the general principles of feeding are the same wherever feed is grown and cows are fed. We must aim to grow our own feeds as the man that produces milk for the cheese factory or creamery can not afford to make a practice of buying feed. He may, however, make exceptions to this rule in times of scarcity, or he may occasionally find it profitable to buy foods of a nitrogenous character to help balance what might otherwise be a one-sided ration. The constantly increasing demands of those who furnish milk for the city trade and who have little or no land on which to grow their feeds are taking the by-products of the milk at prices beyond the reach of those who feed for butter or cheese. It is often said that if a man can make a profit above the market price on the material that he grows on his own farm by feeding it to his live stock he ought then to be able to make a profit on the feed that can be bought in the market at the same price. This may seem like a logical conclusion, but it is one of the theories that do not always work out satisfactorily in practice. The man who buys his feed is at the mercy of a fluctuating market. He comes into competition with the men who get six cents per quart for their milk. He is forced, while getting protein for his cows in the by-products of the mills, to bid against the men who put up breakfast food at ten cents a pound. When we grow our own feed a much more economical employment of labor can be made, as the labor required for milking morning and night can be used during the day to grow and care for this feed. All freights and commissions are cut out. Growing one's feed on the farm is good farming, while buying feed is too much like hand-to-mouth farming.

THE SHEEP'S PLACE.
The sheep has not found its place on many farms. The reason for this is that the farmer himself has not known the value of the sheep in the first place and in the next place he has had an idea that a person has to be endowed with some peculiarities that fit him for managing a flock of sheep. The sheep is all right in his place, and like a good many other things, all wrong out of place. We believe there is a place on almost every farm for a few sheep, although there are farms much more calculated to keep them than others, says "The Homestead."

There are two places on every farm that sheep could be kept to advantage, and one of them is in the stubble field after harvest. After the small grain has been taken off there is more or less waste in the grain that has been harvested that will be gleaned by sheep, and then again there are many weeds which spring up and bring forth seed to assist in giving trouble to the husbandman. Sheep will eat every weed, gather all the lost heads and do a general cleaning up before the field is plowed for another crop. To note the good a flock may do in this way, one ought to try them. Another place where sheep can be employed to advantage is in the growing corn, and especially will they be appreciated where poor cultivation has been practiced. Here again they are the very best of gleaners and cleaners. They eat off almost every weed which is liable to grow in a corn field, and they do comparatively little damage to the growing corn.

In brush and timber land they again show what they can do in the way of cleaning up the undergrowth. They are not browsers in the sense that a goat is, but they will eat off almost all kinds of brush land where they are in daily search of food. In doing this cleaning up about the fields and pastures of the farm the flock never leaves a foot of ground any poorer than it finds it. The fertility that comes from their grazing is so wisely and completely distributed that good comes in the way of fertility immediately.

RUN-DOWN ORCHARDS.
Generally speaking, there is just one reason by which to account for the run-down condition so prevalent with the orchards over the country. This condition is due to lack of intelligent care of the trees after they are planted. It is true that the planters has not always consisted of varieties best suited to the purpose for which planted, or best adapted to the particular locality. But this sort of drawback is not to be mentioned in the same breath with that of neglect. The proper care of an orchard of fruit trees requires not a small fund of special knowledge and a willingness to put it into practice. The putting it into practice is itself a thing that doesn't count for much for the ample reason that the average farmer does sufficient pattering around in his orchard to give it the very best of care if his efforts were only properly applied.

SOIL FOR BULBS.
All bulbs like a rich, well-drained mellow soil. They will not do well in heavy soils, and a great deal of moisture about their roots is fatal to them. Therefore in selecting a place for them choose one naturally well drained, if possible. If you are not sure of good natural drainage, set about providing a means of escape for surplus water by excavating the soil to the depth of at least a foot—eighteen inches would be better—and filling in at the bottom of the excavation with from four to six inches of broken pottery, brick, old cans—anything, in fact, which will not decay readily and allow the soil above to settle back into its former hardness, and thus become as retentive of moisture as it was before anything was done with it.

It seems unfortunate that the bumble bee, which is so useful, if not, indeed, absolutely necessary, in the fertilization of red clover, is not more carefully protected. When a nest of bumble bees is overturned with the plow, the practice is almost universal of robbing these of their honey, which probably means their destruction because of want of food. The aim should be to foster in every legitimate way the presence of such an insect. It has been proved beyond a doubt that unless red clover is fertilized through the medium of insects, it will not bear seed. It is unfortunate that the common honey bee is unable to serve this purpose.

IF YOU ARE A WOMAN

What Mrs. Ford Says Concerning Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will Surely Interest You.

"I wish I could help other women get rid of certain physical troubles as completely as I have succeeded in getting rid of mine," said Mrs. B. B. Ford, of Bushamala, Miss., recently. "You know," she continued, "that a woman's health depends chiefly on the regularity of just one function. If she fails to keep that properly regulated she has no end of physical misery. I suffered from that one cause for two wretched years, during one of which I was kept in bed all the time. I tried medicines enough to cure any illness, but nothing gave me the slightest benefit until I began using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. They cured me. Why, I was suffering all the time practically from sickness of the stomach, dizziness or swimming in my head and pain in my back. Now I am entirely free from discomfort of that sort. I am not only able to keep on my feet, but to do my work as a teacher, and to enjoy the pleasures that come through the possession of sound health."

"Within three weeks after beginning the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills I experienced such relief that I knew they must be adapted to the needs of my case. After using them for a short while longer I became and have since remained a well woman, and the reason why is simply that I took Dr. Williams' Pink Pills." These pills make uterine action regular and painless, banish headaches, languor, nervousness, create appetite, promote digestion, put color in the complexion, build up strength and health in every woman who has been afflicted with Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y., for a valuable booklet, entitled "Plain Talks to Women." It will be mailed free in sealed envelope to the address of any applicant. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists.

CONSTIPATION AND STOMACH TROUBLE CAN BE CURED

J. S. Janssen, President of the Milwaukee Retail Druggists' Association,

Talks on the Dangers of Constipation and Stomach Trouble.

"Have you noticed the large number of cases of typhoid fever lately?" said Mr. J. S. Janssen to a Daily News representative. "It is my notion typhoid fever, malarial fever, appendicitis and many kindred complaints are the result of constipation, which in many cases is allowed by the patient to carry on its course until treatment. You will remember when you were a child and the doctor was called, his first prescription was a dose of castor oil. All physicians know the remedy, but the bowels are not thoroughly opened. People, when they grow up, allow constipation to become chronic through lack of attention. Constipation is the failure of the bowels to carry off the undigested food, which collects in the alimentary canal and there decays, generating poisonous disease germs. These germs find their way into the blood by means of which they are carried to every tissue. The fever thus created affects not only the lungs, kidneys, stomach, heart and nervous system, but in fact any organ of the body is liable to break down as a result. The blood becomes thin and watery. The sufferer loses in flesh and strength. Castor oil and pills will not cure an affliction like this. Something more than a laxative is needed. There are many physicians on the market and we see a great many, having probably the most popular store of the kind in the city. I do not often talk about manufactured medicine, but the high esteem in which Mull's Grape Tonic is held by the drug and medical fraternities has impressed me and I know from actual experience right here in our store that Mull's Grape Tonic cures constipation and stomach trouble, positively and permanently. Mull's Grape Tonic is not a physic, but it immediately clears the bowels of the decaying food because of the peculiarly strengthening effect it exerts on the organs of the digestive system. As a tonic it is superior to the nauseating cod liver oil compounds. It builds flesh faster and creates strength quicker than any other preparation known to medical science. The ingredients are positively harmless, made mainly from crushed grapes and fruits. Although a full bottle might be taken at once, no inconvenience would result. I only wish that people paid more attention to these little details, which in themselves in the beginning are of so slight importance, but which grow in magnitude until the most serious trouble and some deadly disease fastens itself on the constitution. There is really nothing easier to take than Mull's Grape Tonic. I hope you, through the influence of your paper, can bring the readers to a sense of the gravity of allowing constipation to become chronic."

KILLING SONG BIRDS

It has been brought to our notice that boys have been and are even now in the habit of occasionally killing song birds. Perhaps they are not aware of the fact that the little songsters are protected by the strong arm of the law. In fact there is a five dollar fine attached to the killing of any of the following, which are common in this community: robin, blue-bird, swallow, martin, woodpecker, cat-bird, brown-thrasher, red-bird, wren, dove, blue-jay, thrush and lark. In the list are included many others. In fact it is unlawful to kill any bird other than sparrows and those which are considered game. The legislators were wise in passing such a law. The birds may take a share of our small fruit, but we should consider also that they make great gaps in the ranks of insects and worms. You know what they did to the seventeen year locusts this summer.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh, being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Tossed For a Name.

The name of William Travers Jerome, New York's district attorney, was decided by the toss of a coin. His father, Lawrence Jerome, was a great friend of William Travers, the wealthy stockbroker, whose stutler and jokes used to keep his friend in continual laughter. When Jerome's son was born the father could not decide whether to choose his own or his friend's name. "Toss for it," suggested Travers, and they did. The stockbroker won, and the boy was named William Travers Jerome. It was Travers who advised a stutling acquaintance to consult a certain doctor regarding his affliction. "You c—c—can depend on his h—h—helping you," said Travers, "for he c—c—cured me."

Facts From England.

Some curious facts are disclosed in a blue book dealing with the revenue of Great Britain during the year 1904-05. Fines for slave dealing brought in about $200, while "conscience money" came to over $5,000. The revenue on playing cards amounted to over $1,000,000. The sweepings of the gold and silver rooms in the mint realized $5,890, while some of the properties left over from the coronation of King Edward were sold for $35. Nearly a dozen pensions on the civil lists of George IV. and William IV. are still being paid.

How Peking is Not Lighted.

Emil Bard, a French writer, tells how Peking is lighted, as follows: "Eighty thousand tael ($50,400) are assigned each year for street lights. The official in charge takes 40,000 tael as his share and gives the rest to a subordinate. This latter hands over 20,000 tael to his inferior, and so on, until the original sum is reduced to a few copper cash, given to a cooly to buy oil and a wick. These are placed on a plate on the ground. A beggar comes along and drinks the oil—and such is the lighting of Peking."

Alaska.

It is not generally known that Nome, Alaska, is 300 miles west of Honolulu and that the territory itself has two and one-half times as much coast line as the rest of the United States. The Yukon carries as much water as the Mississippi and is ninety miles wide at its mouth. The output of canned salmon is estimated at $10,000,000 for the year 1905.

English Elections.

A witness at a recent English investigation said that a pure election at Norwich was an impossibility. The number of corruptible electors was between 3,000 and 5,000. Both parties might agree to leave these alone, but if they did this body would at once nominate a candidate of its own, determined to have some one out of whom to get money.

A LIFE SAVING SUIT.

A London tailor has invented a new life saving coat and gaiters, with which it is possible for a person clothed therein to maintain an upright position when immersed in the water, even if not possessing any knowledge of swimming. The coat resembles in appearance an ordinary pilot's coat, but it is fitted with an air belt which is inflated with air through a tube. The gaiters each weigh two pounds and are fitted with two brass wings or blades fastened to the back of the heel. As the wearer moves his feet in the water these wings open and shut, and not only propel the wearer along like oars, but enable him to maintain an upright position from the waist upward in the water. A practical demonstration of the utility of the invention was recently undertaken in the Thames by the inventor, and its efficiency and life saving qualities clearly shown, even when moving against the tide.

A Dose For the Doctors.

"Reuben Fields, the Johnson county mathematician, who is considered by many to be an idiotic wonder, stopped at a hotel in a small town in Henry county recently," says the Oak Grove (Mo.) Banner. "As usual in such places there were a number of drummers on hand. There was also a meeting of some medical men at the place, who used the hotel as headquarters. One of the doctors thought it would be quite a joke to tell Fields that some of the M. D.'s had concluded to kidnap him and take out his brains to learn how it was he was so good in mathematics. He was then asked by them what he was going to do about it. Fields replied, 'I will go on without brains just like you doctors are doing.'"

"DO IT TO-DAY!"

"And to think that ten months ago I looked like this! I owe it to German Syrup."
 "The time-worn injunction, 'Never put off 'til to-morrow what you can do to-day,' is now generally presented in this form: 'Do it to-day!' That is the terse advice we want to give you about that hacking cough or demoralizing cold with which you have been struggling for several days, perhaps weeks. Take some reliable remedy for it to-day—and let that remedy be Dr. Boeschee's German Syrup, which has been in use for over thirty-five years. A few doses of it will undoubtedly relieve your cough or cold, and its continued use for a few days will cure you completely. No matter how deep-seated your cough, even if dread consumption has attacked your lungs, German Syrup will surely effect a cure—as it has done before in thousands of apparently hopeless cases of lung trouble. New trial bottles, 25c; regular size, 75c. At all druggists."

A LITTLE NONSENSE.

The Story of an Awful Tragedy Thrillingly Told.
"Hello, Emma!" saluted a girl of sixteen as she boarded a car and took a seat beside a girl of about her own age.
"Hello, Clara! Say, Clara, have you heard the news?"
"Yes. Isn't it terrible?"
"Awful! Could you have ever imagined any such thing?"
"Never! I was perfectly horrified."
"So was I. It will take me a week to get over it."
"Does she feel bad?"
"Awful!"
"She must. If it was my case I think I should die."
"So would I."
"Excuse me, young ladies," said an oldish man in the seat behind them who had caught every word, "but it seems there has been an awful tragedy in Brooklyn?"
"Y-yes, sir," replied Clara.
"And would you mind giving me the particulars?"
"Why, some one left the cage door open, and Jennie Scott's parrot has got out, and she don't believe she will ever see him again!"—Brooklyn Citizen.

On the Contrary.
"It seems lonesome," remarked the visitor who had invaded the haunt of the hermit, "here in these terminable woods. And yet in your cozy little cabin, come to think of it—"
"But you seem to have come to talk of it," testily replied the hermit. And the visitor presently said he guessed he must be going.—Chicago Tribune.

Where Their Fortune Is.
Markley—Your friend Bragg was telling me how rich his brothers are. He says they'll be famous in the financial world if they don't suffer a change of fortune.
Wise—Oh, there won't be any change for the worse in their fortune unless he changes his mind.—Philadelphia Press.

Chronicle.
"Well, if you don't like your job why don't you get another one?"
"I would if I was sure I'd like it any better."
Hard to Please.
"You said I was the biggest fool in town," exclaimed an irate citizen to his neighbor, "and you've got to apologize."
"All right, all right," responded the offender, "I'll apologize. You are not the biggest fool." And still the man was not satisfied.—Detroit Free Press.

The Intellectual Girl.
"It is a great drawback to have sense."
"What do you mean?"
"When a girl has sense all the men she likes best are afraid of her."—Chicago Record-Herald.

"A man who sometimes hears of people doing things just as he would have done them if he had been there."—Baltimore American.
Anybody Can Start.
"Do you think that it takes genius to become a financier?"
"No," answered the Wall street man, "but it takes genius to remain one."—Washington Star.
A Chance For Inventors.
Inventive power's something grand. Men study night and day On plans to use byproducts, and They make their ideas pay. Some way I hope they'll soon propose—
"Twill poor men all enthuse— To take the shine from off one's clothes. And put it on one's shoes."
—Boy Farrell Greene in Judge.

CONDENSED STORIES.

A Doubtful Compliment For General Ben Butler.
The late General Benjamin F. Butler told the following on himself:
Several years after the war the general had occasion to visit Georgia, and from a town on the railroad took a two seated ramshackle vehicle, driven by a typical southern dandy, for his place of destination.
The general entered into conversation with the driver and learned that he was one of eleven boys and

"I HAVE NO IDEA," SAID THE GENERAL, that he had a twin brother. He asked the driver his name.
"Abraham Lincoln Backus," was the answer.
"A fine, noble name," said the general.
The driver was quiet a moment, then suddenly said, "Wat yo' think dat twin brudder's name is?"
"I have no idea," said the general.
"His name is Benjamin F. Butler Backus."
The general appreciated the compliment, and was thinking it over when the driver added, "Boss, I was always glad dat I was born fust."—Boston Herald.

President Harrison's Gloves.
The special train bearing Secretary Taft and the members of his party was gliding around the curves on the westward slopes of the Sierras a few weeks ago on its way to San Francisco.
"It was long about here," remarked the conductor to Secretary Taft, "that an amusing incident occurred on President Harrison's first trip to California. President Harrison was standing on the observation platform of his special train viewing the scenery and ready for a brief address to the people at every town where the train stopped. The president wore a pair of white kid gloves. At the time the incident happened he was holding one of the gloves loosely in his hand. The train struck a sharp curve, and in grabbing the railing to steady himself the president allowed the glove to slip from his grasp and fall to the ground between the rails. Quick as a flash he tore the other glove from his hand and threw it after the first one.
"What did you do that for?" asked one of the members of the president's party.
"Well, one glove will do me no good," replied the president, "and the tramp that picks up the lost glove might as well have the mate to it."
"H'm!" was the eloquent and thoughtful comment of Secretary Taft.—San Francisco Chronicle.

Resentment.
John Alvin Young of the Windsor Trust company was watching a man lifting packages of shingles to the roof of a new building. The laborer hauled away at a rope that ran over a pulley fixed to the roof, and the load was almost heavier than himself. He stopped to light his pipe, wrapping his leg around the rope to hold the load in midair, but the weight was too great and he was jerked into the air. The load of shingles struck on the edge, burst open and made a cushion, on to which he fell with a hollow thump. Another man craned his neck out of one of the empty window frames. "Are yer hurted, Mike?" he called. "Ah, poke yer head in," cried the unfortunate, wrathfully. "Here I passed yez twice jist now, an' niver a word did yez say to me!"—New York Tribune.

His Soldiers Were All English.
"The late General H. V. Boynton," said an old soldier, "used to tell on the Fourth of July a story about a British captain.
"This captain, after being defeated in a sea fight in the war of 1812, inspected the ship to which he had surrendered.
"But, hang it all, half your sailors are English!" he grumbled at the end of his inspection.
"And had you not all English?" said the American captain calmly."

CAUGHT IN TRAP MAN ENDS LIFE

Alleged Murderer of Woman on Cutler Mountain Run Down in 'Frisco.

SHOTS PARAMOUR AND SELF

When Police Endeavor to Break Door He Deliberately Puts Bullet Into Companion's Temple and Another Into His Head.

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 7.—Trapped in his room by the police and fully aware that his last avenue of escape had been barred, Milton Franklin Andrews, who murdered Mrs. Bessie Bouton on the top of Cutler Mountain, Colorado Springs, a year ago and murdered and robbed William Ellis, an Australian horseman at Berkeley, Cal., Monday night, shot and killed Nulda Olivia, his female companion, and then sent a bullet into his own head, causing instant death.

Police Scout His Prey. Having learned that Andrews and Nulda Olivia were living in an upper flat at 748 McAllister street, the police department sent a detail of two policemen and two detectives to make the arrest.

At the moment one of the officers was dispatched for an ax with which the door was broken Andrews fired the shot that ended the career of his companion. The bullet was fired into her right temple and she dropped dead on the bed, falling backward with her hand clasped over her breast.

A rambling typewritten statement that presumably had been written by Andrews, who denied that he had anything to do with the murder of Bessie Bouton at Colorado Springs, was found in one of the dead woman's stockings.

Never Saw Man Tenant. Andrews and his companion had been living at the McAllister street house for three weeks. The landlord stated that he had believed that only the woman occupied the apartments, as the man had never been seen.

A little over a month ago Andrews and the woman arrived here on a steamer from Australia. On the voyage they formed the acquaintance of William Ellis, a horseman, who was coming to California to attend the winter racing. Ellis was known to have considerable money in his possession. Friendly relations were established, and when Andrews and the woman engaged a cottage at Berkeley they invited him to luncheon.

During the meal Ellis was struck in the head with a hammer and the woman fired a couple of shots at him, but they missed their mark. Ellis managed to escape and notified the police. A search of the cottage showed that the pair had made complete preparations for disposing of Ellis' body. Implements for dismembering the corpse, acid for mutilating and large pieces of oilcloth for preventing bloodstains were discovered.

Photographs of Andrews were obtained and he was positively identified as the man who was the friend of Bessie Bouton of Syracuse, N. Y., who was murdered at Cutters' canyon, Colorado Springs, about a year ago. The man was then known as Milton Franklin and had an alias of William Curtis.

Bessie Bouton was murdered and later the clothing and body were saturated with benzine and ignited. When the remains were found they were so badly mutilated that only the gold-filled teeth served to identify them.

IMPERIAL EDICT FREES FINLAND

Nicholas Issues Proclamation Commanding the Diet to Assemble.

AMNESTY DECREE IS ENFORCED

Political Prisoners Are Released from Fortress That Hitherto Has Given Up but Few of Those Unfortunate Enough to Pass Its Gates.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 7.—Following is the text of the imperial manifesto concerning Finland:

"By the grace of God, we, Nicholas II., emperor and autocrat of all the Russias, czar of Poland, grand duke of Finland, etc., in virtue of the law of the diet of April 25, 1869, command the opening of the Helsingfors, Dec. 20, of an extraordinary diet to consider the following questions:

"First—The proposals for the budget of 1907, provisional taxes, and a loan for railway construction.

"Second—A bill providing by a new fundamental law a parliament for Finland on the basis of universal suffrage with the establishment of the responsibility of the local authorities to the nation's deputies.

"Third—Bills granting liberty of the press, of meeting, and of unions.

"We expect from all an exact execution of our will. NICHOLAS."

FREES POLITICAL PRISONERS. St. Petersburg, Nov. 7.—Many touching scenes were witnessed Monday when the political prisoners were released under the amnesty decree.

American Minister Is Delivered Note to Give to France.

Caracas telegram: The Venezuelan government on Saturday delivered to Mr. Russell, American minister, a note reaffirming the willingness of the government to withdraw its note concerning the most dangerous political prisoners are kept in solitary confinement, a great concourse gathered, looking for loved ones who vanished years ago and whose whereabouts were unknown, but only four were released.

Disappointed women waiting for sons, husbands, or brothers broke down and wept. A man named Franklenko and a comrade, who said they had spent over twenty years in prison, came out with long white beards. They knew practically nothing about what had occurred during their long imprisonment.

Sasonoff, the murderer of Interior Minister von Plehve; Peter Karapovich, the assassin of Minister of Public Instruction Bogoloff; Geronimi, the chief of the terrorist conspiracy, and other terrorists were not released. A large body of prisoners released from other prisons later visited various meetings and related their experiences.

Prison Is a Tomb. Few prisoners incarcerated in the Schusselburg fortress have ever returned to the world. No fortress in Russia, save Peter and Paul, is more gloomy or has witnessed more cruelty and suffering. Schusselburg fortress is forty miles distant from St. Petersburg on an island in Lake Ladoga, opposite the head of the river Neva.

It is swept by the icy winds from the lake in the winter and surrounded by marshes, which breed clouds of torturing insects, in the summer.

It has long been a proverb in Russia that no one knows the fate of Schusselburg prisoners. No one knows who are sent there or what will become of them, whether they will be shot or drowned, or whether they will be left to rot from scurvy or die of consumption.

Scenes of Disorder. The news from the interior shows that there has been little improvement in the situation. In some places disorders have recommenced with redoubled fury. The horrible story of massacre at Odessa is not fully known here. In the Caucasus the Tartars and Russians are cutting each other's throats, and the Armenians are giving themselves up to pillage and incendiarism.

From Bachmut, Bessarabia, comes an entirely new revolting tale. A three days' attack on the Jews began Thursday, with every indication of police organization. Jewish students were beaten, the Jewish stores in the markets were sacked during the day, and during the night the plunder of residences commenced.

Troops arrived on the scene, but the following day the work of pillage was resumed before the eyes of the soldiers and police. The prayers of the hunted Jews for mercy were unavailing. Toward noon the torch was applied to stores and houses. The police would not permit the Jews to fight the fire and the troops were withdrawn. Then the pillage began afresh. It was temporarily stopped Saturday morning through the efforts of the Russian peasants, but the police spread false reports which aroused the mob and there was a renewal of the work of plunder and massacre. The losses are said to be in the millions of dollars.

Boy Kills His Father. Alton, Ill., dispatch: Leonard Oller was killed with a biscuit roller by his 18-year-old son, Frank. Prior to the fight the father knocked his wife down and, Mrs. Oller claims, threatened to kill the entire family.

Probe Political Levy. Washington dispatch: Civil Service Commissioner Cooley left for Philadelphia to investigate charges that political assessments are being levied on employees of the postoffice there.

WALTHY MAN IS TORTURED. Coroner Believes Victim Was Robbed and Burned to Death. Allentown, Pa., dispatch: After investigating the case of a man burned in his house in Lynport, twenty miles from here, Coroner Scheeler returned with the statement that the victim was undoubtedly tortured and robbed and the house set on fire. The victim was Samuel J. Everett, 77 years old. He leaves an estate, mostly in property in this city, valued at upward of $100,000.

PEORIA SCHOOL FUND MAY BE FOUND INTACT

Discovery of Over $90,000 Likely to Sustain Dougherty's Claim That There is No Shortage.

Peoria, Ill., special: The investigation into the affairs of former School Superintendent Dougherty indicates that the school fund, which was believed at first to be a total loss, may be recovered in its entirety.

Some $90,000 of the fund, which was reported missing, has just turned up in the form of real estate.

Another item which led to confusion and the swelling of the grand total of the alleged defalcation was one dealing with the income derived from the lands in question. Some $3,400 had been collected as rents from this fund, but it appears that it was turned into the district fund and not into the township account. There was also a cash item of $150 held as part of the principal of the township fund.

The total makes Peoria's schools $90,150 better off than they thought they were when Dougherty was arrested and he may be able to explain away much of the remainder.

Assuming the correctness of the report made at the close of the fiscal year there should be $97,331.88 in the district fund, less the disbursements made since that time. Dougherty has maintained all the while that he will be able to make good every dollar of the school fund and it is possible he may be able to do so. If he does not the bond of the treasurer will cover the deficiency.

It is pointed out that under the charter of the Peoria district and the law the county superintendent is not authorized to pay the treasurer any money until his bond shall have been filed and approved.

DEFICIT IN TREASURY REPORT FOR OCTOBER

Expenditures Exceed Receipts by $5,217,346, Making Shortage For Year $4,192,000.

Washington, dispatch: The monthly statement of the government's receipts and expenditures shows that for the month of October, 1905, the total receipts were $50,492,691 and the expenditures $55,710,037, leaving a deficit for the month of $5,217,346. For October, 1904, the deficit was $4,000,000. The receipts from the several sources of revenue are given as follows:

Customs, $25,621,531; a gain of about $2,000,000, as compared with October, 1904.

Internal revenue, $22,173,779; increase, $1,000,000.

Miscellaneous, $2,697,381; decrease, $1,732,000.

The expenditures for the month show a total increase over October, 1904, of about $2,767,000, principally in the War Department and public works items.

The total deficit for the four months of the present fiscal year is $14,992,000, as against a deficit of $21,808,000 for the corresponding period of 1904.

LAYS THE BLAME ON BIGELOW

Demurrer Entered by Convicted Banker's Alleged Accomplice.

Milwaukee, Wis., dispatch: Henry C. Goll, former assistant cashier of the First National bank, indicted for embezzlement of the funds of the bank in connection with Frank G. Bigelow, will make a desperate fight for his liberty. He has made arrangements for the first move in this direction—the filing of a demurrer to certain counts in the indictments under which he is held. To do so he will withdraw his plea of not guilty entered June 12.

The demurrer contains the significant declaration that Goll can prove by Bigelow that the bills of exchange dated Jan. 30, 1905, and Dec. 14, 1904, on which the first and second counts of the indictment are based, were drawn by him "under authority of the bank directors, communicated by Bigelow," and that instead of abetting Bigelow in the other transactions he was carefully kept in ignorance by the bank president of the irregular nature of the acts he was called upon to perform.

JOAN OF THE SWORD LAND

By S. R. CROCKETT, Author of "The Raiders," etc.
(Copyright, 1935, 1936, by S. R. Crockett.)

CHAPTER XI—Continued.

Suddenly there passed a wave over the people who crowded the spacious Dom Platz of Courtland. The many-headed, parti-colored throng of women's tall coils, gay fluttering ribands, men's velvet caps, gallants' white feathers that shifted like the permutations of a kaleidoscope, all at once fixed itself into a sea of white faces, from which presently arose a forest of arms, flourishing kerchiefs and tossing caps. To this succeeded a deep mouth-roar of burgherish welcome such as the reigning Prince had never heard raised in his own honor.

"Conrad—Prince Conrad! God bless our Prince-Cardinal!"
The legitimate ruler of Courtland, standing where Joan had left him, with his slim-waisted Muscovite mentor behind him, half turned to look. And there on the highest place stood his brother in the scarlet of his new dignity as it had come from the Pope himself, his red biretta held in his hand, and his fair and noble head erect as he looked over the folk to where on the slope above the city gates he could still see the sun glint and sparkle on the cuirasses and lance heads of the four hundred riders of Kernsburg.

But even as the Prince of Courtland looked back at his brother, the whisper of the tempter smote the latter's ear.

"Had Prince Conrad been in your place and you behind the altar rails, think you that the Duchess Joan would have fled so cavalierly?"
By this time the young cardinal had descended till he stood on the other side of the Prince from Ivan of Muscovy.

"You take horse to follow your bride?" he queried, smiling. "Is it a fashion of Kernsburg brides thus to steal away?"

Louis of Courtland broke out in a sudden-overwhelming fury.

"This is your doing!" he cried; "I know it well. From her first coming my bride had set herself to scorn me. My sister knew it. You knew it. You smile as at a jest. You would have all—the love of my wife, the rule of my folk, as well as the acclaim of these city swine. Listen—The good Prince Conrad! God save the noble Prince! It is worth living for favor such as this."

"Brother of mine," said the young man gently, "as you know well, I never set eyes upon the noble Lady Joan before. Never spoke word with her, held no communication, by word or pen."

"You were constantly with the old fox Dessauer, the envoy of Plassenburg—who came from Kernsburg, bringing with him that slim secretary. By my faith, now, when I think of it, Prince Ivan told me last night he was as like this madcap girl as pea to pea."

highnesses then? They will take each one of the clearest road and the shortest for the frontier, or by the Holy Icon of Moscow, there will very speedily be certain new tablets in the funeral vault of my fathers."

The Prince of Courtland started. "This thing I could never imagine of Conrad my brother. He loves me. He ever cared but for his books, and now that he is a priest he hath forsown knighthood and tournaments and wars."

"Poor Louis," said Ivan, sadly, "not to see that once a soldier always a soldier. But 'tis a good fault, a generous blindness of the eyes. He hath already the love of your people. He has won already the voice that speaks from every altar and presbytery. In a little, when he has bartered away your power for his cardinal's hat, he may be made a greater than yourself, an elector of the empire, the right-hand man of Sixtus, as his uncle Adrian was before him."

"I am sure that Conrad would do nothing against his fatherland or to the hurt of his prince and brother!" said Prince Louis, but he spoke in a wavering voice, like one more than half convinced.

"Again," continued Ivan, without heeding him, "there is your wife. I am sure that if he had been the prince and you the priest—well, she had not slept this night in the Castle of Kernsburg!"

"Ivan, if you love me, be silent," cried the tortured Prince of Courtland, setting his hand to his brow. "This is mere idle dreaming of a fool. How learned you those things? I mean, how did the thoughts come into your mind?"

"I learned the matter from the Princess Margaret, who in the brief space of a day became your wife's confidante!"

"Did Margaret tell it you?"
The Prince Ivan laughed a short, self-deprecatory laugh.

"Nay, truly," he said, smiling sadly, "you and I are in one despite, Louis. Your wife scorns you—me, my sweet-heart. Did Margaret tell me? Nay, verily! Yet I learned it, nevertheless, even more certainly because she did it so vehemently. But, after all, I dare say all will end for the best."

"How so?" demanded Prince Louis haughtily.

"Why, I have heard that your papa at Rome will dissolve this marriage, which indeed is no more than one in name. He has done more than that already for his own nephew. He will absolve your brother from his vows. Then you can be the monk and he the king. There will be a new marriage, at which doubtless you shall hold the service book and he the lady's hand. Then we shall have no ridings back to Kernsburg, with four hundred lances, at a word from a girl's scornful mouth. And the Alla down there may rise or fall at its pleasure, and neither hurt nor hinder any!"

RARE FLASHES OF LIGHTNING.

Peculiarity of the Fluid That Defies Analysis.
Some rare flashes of lightning, especially very brilliant linear flashes, seem to persist for a time and fade gradually. On the background of the sky, in the place of the flash, one then sees a yellowish green or reddish image of the flash waning rapidly. Details can be distinguished in it which were invisible in the principal flash. According to M. Touchet, this image is not merely in the retina, for he has experienced the retinal image, as well as the other. The retinal image moves with the eye, the other does not. This afterglow has been compared to the train of a meteor or a fuse, to an incandescent electric filament and to a phosphorescence. The successive discharges of electricity in a lightning flash are so near the limit of persistence of vision (about a tenth of an inch) that flashes appear to tremble, but the same fact does not, according to Touchet, explain the luminous furrow above described, which he refers to incandescence of the elements of the air carried to a high temperature by the electric discharge. To prove this, he took a photograph of lightning during a thunderstorm on April 12. It has the aspect of a "ribbon flash"—that is to say, a bright wavering edge—to a dim hand, which, he thinks, represents the after-glow caused by incandescence of the gas.

PANIC AT POLITICAL MEETING

Tier of Seats Fall as Governor Arrives to Make Address.

Twenty people were slightly injured at Moline by the falling of a tier of seats at the hall where Gov. Charles S. Deneen spoke. The meeting was a republican rally at which the governor spoke in favor of the candidacy for congress of James McKinney of Aledo, who also was present and spoke. About 2,000 packed the hall.

At the entrance of Gov. Deneen and his party many people gathered upon the already overcrowded seats in order to obtain a view of him. The supports of one section of seats gave way under the strain and about fifty people, men, women and children were thrown to the floor in a heap. Upon them descended the heavy planks, of which the seats were built.

In a second panic was threatened. A movement toward the scene of the accident which threatened to trample the injured was begun, but through the efforts of the police, assisted by Gov. Deneen, this movement was checked. The governor and other cool heads then succeeded in quieting those who were inclined to panic and kept the crowds away, while the injured were helped from the wrecked seats and taken care of, after which the speaking took place.

NEW HOSPITAL AT TAYLORVILLE

Corner Stone for Catholic Structure Will Be Laid Wednesday.

The corner stone of the new Catholic hospital at Taylorville will be laid Wednesday with appropriate ceremonies. The Rev. Father Hickey of Springfield, vicar general of the Alton diocese, will be master of ceremonies. He will be assisted by all the priests of the district. Addresses will be delivered by Judge R. M. Potts, Benjamin F. Caldwell of Springfield, Thos. Masterson of Hillsboro, the Rev. Thos. McGraw of St. Louis, Major W. T. Vandever, and the Rev. Father Mercher of Taylorville. The new hospital will cost $25,000 and will be ready for occupancy by next spring.

May Pick Husband's Pockets.

In the city hall police court at Alton Judge Rose proclaimed that a wife has the right to pick her husband's pocket while he sleeps, or at any other time, to get money for household expenses, and that such an act does not constitute an excuse for a man's abandoning his family. He told this to Ernst Barton, the defendant, who said that he hit his wife because she had surreptitiously taken a dime from his pocket.

Fined for Halloween Prank.

Thomas Finnegan was fined $3 and costs in the Alton police court as the result of a Halloween masquerade. Finnegan walked the streets in woman's attire, such as is usually seen on bareback riders at a circus, and engaged in a fight which terminated in nearly all his feminine garments being torn off. He was unable to leave jail until friends loaned him clothes.

Grocers Violate Food Law.

Twenty-two grocers of Galesburg were arrested on a charge of violating the pure food law by selling chemical vinegar, spurious butter and bogus honey, paid their fines of $25 and costs each, all pleading guilty. The plea is made by the grocers that the goods were represented to them as pure.

Diphtheria in Eastern Illinois.

CONTROLS SOFT COAL OUTPUT

Twenty-five Mines Are Combined Under One Management.

An agreement has been perfected consolidating companies operating twenty-five bituminous coal mines located in Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and West Virginia. The O'Gara Coal company has secured control of all of these companies, with an aggregate output of 25,000 tons daily. The company has a capital stock of $5,000,000, and is now ranked as one of the largest of the country.

Mr. O'Gara estimated that the company now owns coal fields enough to supply the trade of the company for 100 years. Mr. O'Gara has between 80,000 and 90,000 acres of coal fields, of which over 60,000 acres are located in Saline county, Illinois. It is estimated that this county alone has 500,000,000 tons of coal. The companies consolidated are: The El Dorado Coal and Coke company, Diamond Coal company, Harrisburg Mining and Coal company, New Coal company, Clifton Coal company, Morris Coal company, Egyptian Coal company and Carriers' Mill Coal company, all in Saline county, Illinois; Green Ridge Mining company, Jefferson Mining company and Big Muddy Mining company, all in Springfield, Ill., district; Lincoln Coal and Mining company, Vivian Coal Mining company, Summit Mining company, Staunton Mining company, all in Indiana; Imperial Mining company of Cambridge, Ohio, and O'Gara Coal Mining company of Fairmont, W. Va.

CORN CROP ESCAPES DAMAGE

Frost Has No Effect on the Matured Product in This State.

A special crop bulletin issued by William G. Burns, secretary of director of the United States weather bureau at Springfield, shows that the first killing frost, which fell on the night of Oct. 12, did not damage the corn crop. Apples are a total failure in many localities. The report in part is as follows:

"The first killing frost of autumn occurred on the morning of the 12th. It extended through the north and central districts, but corn was fully matured and no damage ensued. The average temperature for the month was slightly below normal. Precipitation was generally above the seasonable average. In portions of the southern districts excessive measurements were recorded. Farming operations were interrupted by rains, but good progress was made in husking corn and fall plowing.

"In the northern district husking and cribbing corn are in active operation. Reports are uniformly favorable with regard to the yield and quality of the grain.

"In all sections many fields have been prostrated by high winds and with wet weather much damage will ensue. Shelling has begun in several localities.

"The present outlook for wheat is most favorable, an adverse report being the exception. The plant is healthy and vigorous and has attained a good start to withstand the rigors of winter. Pastures are mostly short and dried out in the northern district, but maintain a good condition for the season in the other districts.

"Apples are scarce generally and a total failure in some localities. The fruit is mostly small in size and of inferior quality. The crop is gathered, but does not seem to be keeping well. The potato output is much below the average yield."

Bank Cashier Under Arrest.

J. C. Langley, defaulting cashier of the First National bank of Mansfield, was arrested at Champaign and taken to Monticello, the county seat. Harry P. Hitchins, representative of a Kansas City firm, was arrested at the same time on the technical charge of violating state bucket shop laws. Hitchins was held to the grand jury in $1,000 bond. It is believed Hitchins will give information of Langley's speculative deals. It is now believed the bank's shortage will reach $40,000.

Fatally Shot by a Bartender.

During an altercation in a saloon in Willisville, a mining town, Andrew Meyer, aged 21, was fatally shot by an Italian bartender named Casefio Meyer. It is alleged, entered the saloon with two companions and demanded that the bartender treat the crowd. The demand was refused and Meyer started to go behind the bar, when the Italian fired two shots, one of which entered his antagonist's neck.

Galesburg Plant is Burned.

The Wenzelmann manufacturing plant, southwest of Galesburg, caught fire and before help could arrive the main building and chemical building were burned. When the fire department reached the scene these buildings were in flames and attention was turned to saving the other structures. The loss will probably reach $15,000, covered partially by insurance. The flames originated in the foundry.

Gives $25,000 to College.

At the annual meeting of the board of trustees of Northwestern college at Naperville Dr. A. Goldspon of Chicago donated $25,000 for the erection of a science hall. This secures another $25,000 pledge by Andrew Carnegie last spring for a college library building. All the teachers of the college have been retained, and Prof. E. E. Rife and Miss Ella Scheller were added to the faculty.

Drainage Canal Suits.

In a suit brought by T. C. Launer of Cass county and Mrs. Sara Swain of Bloomington against H. J. M. Ruppel, Charles Johnson and A. H. Kroke, commissioners of the Clear Creek drainage district, to recover damages for land used in cutting a drainage canal, the jury awarded $177.75 damages to Mr. Launer, but nothing to Mrs. Swain.

PACKERS CLAIM TO BE EXEMPT

Allegation Is Made That Garfield Promised Them Immunity.

COMMISSIONER LACKS RIGHT

District Attorney Holds That Evidence Voluntarily Given Does Not Tend to Give Exemption, Since Witnesses Were Not Under Oath.

Chicago, Ill., special: James R. Garfield had no authority to promise the packers immunity from criminal prosecution—if he made any such promise.

This is the position taken by the federal attorneys, prosecuting alleged violations of the interstate commerce and the anti-trust laws, in answer to the special plea filed by Attorney John S. Miller, contending that his clients are immune from prosecution in consequence of their evidence given to Mr. Garfield, when, as commissioner of corporations, he inquired into the operation of the packing companies in 1904.

District Attorney Charles B. Morrison sent to Attorney General Moody the plea filed by Attorney Miller. He expects to hear from the attorney general within a few days as to what Mr. Garfield told the packers. It is possible that Mr. Moody and Mr. Garfield will come to Chicago, or that Mr. Morrison will be called to Washington.

As soon as the facts are ascertained the government will take issue with the packers on the points raised in the plea by demurrer.

Prepare Objections to Plea.

When the matter is argued the federal attorneys will probably set forth that:

Commissioner Garfield is not superior to the law and that no one could promise the packers immunity but the president.

The law gives immunity only when the testimony is compulsory; when witnesses are subpoenaed regularly and placed on oath.

Testimony of voluntary character does not earn immunity. Evidence secured from the packers or their agents would be no bar to subsequent criminal prosecution, unless such evidence was of incriminating character.

The commissioner had power to waive sworn testimony, but as soon as he did so, the government was released from any obligation exempting the packers from prosecution.

Effect of Testimony.
"It could readily be understood," said one government official, "that if testimony not under oath could be considered as exempting persons or corporations from criminal prosecution how the government could be imposed upon. Voluntary statements could be made with no danger of punishment to the witnesses in the event of perjury and they would be released from the consequence of illegal acts."

Commissioner Garfield, it is believed by the federal authorities, looked ahead when he released the packers and their agents from the obligation to testify and that he had in mind future prosecution by the government. His report, however, in its general effect, was that the packers were conducting a legitimate business.

It was impossible to secure from any of the packers' counsel any direct assertion that Commissioner Garfield had promised them immunity. It was said that such a promise was not required, that it was understood.

INNOCENT BYSTANDER IS SHOT

Bullet Intended for Wisconsin State Senator Strikes His Friend.

Wausau, Wis., dispatch: State Senator James A. Wright narrowly escaped death at the hands of Marshall Lloyd. Wright was attacked by Lloyd in a hotel at Minocqua and grasped Lloyd's revolver just as the trigger was pulled. He deflected the muzzle from himself, but the ball struck his friend, J. A. McKay, probably fatally wounding him. The shooting was the result of a quarrel between Wright and Lloyd earlier in the day. McKay is head scaler in Wisconsin for the St. Paul railroad. Wright is the head of a big lumber company.

UNCOVERS COUNTERFEIT COINS

Young Woman Was Hunting Tin Can in Which to Plant Flower.

St. Louis, Mo., dispatch: While searching in a vacant lot adjoining her home on Division street for a tin can in which to plant a flower Miss Palona Scheppach, aged 16 years, found a tin can full of counterfeit coins. The police were notified and searched the lot more thoroughly, finding a pile of over 1,000 counterfeit coins of various denominations under some weeds. It is presumed the bogus money was hidden by counterfeiters who feared discovery.

Rob Bank of $5,000.

Vincennes, Ind., special: The Sandborn bank, a branch of the German National bank of this city, was blown to pieces and robbed of $5,000. Included in what the robbers carried off was $2,000 in silver.

Dies at 108 Years.

Buffalo, N. Y., dispatch: Mrs. Della George, probably the oldest resident in the state, is dead at Lancaster, at the age of 108. Her husband served in the war of 1812.

"This is your doing!" he cried.

ran impetuously to her favorite brother.

He put out his hand. She took it, and instead of kissing his bishop's ring, as in strict etiquette she ought to have done, she cried out, "Conrad, do you know what that glorious wench has done? Dared her husband's authority at the church door, leaped into the saddle, whistled up her men, and called to all these Courtland gallants, 'Catch me who can!' and let at this moment she is riding straight for Kernsburg, and now our Louis must catch her. A glorious wedding! I would I had been by her side."

"So, then, madam, you knew of this?" said her elder brother, glower-

Impoverished Soil

Impoverished soil, like impoverished blood, needs a proper fertilizer. A chemist by analyzing the soil can tell you what fertilizer to use for different products.

If your blood is impoverished your doctor will tell you what you need to fertilize it and give it the rich, red corpuscles that are lacking in it. It may be you need a tonic, but more likely you need a concentrated fat food, and fat is the element lacking in your system.

There is no fat food that is so easily digested and assimilated as

No Poison in Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

From Napier, New Zealand, Herald: Two years ago the Pharmacy Board of New South Wales, Australia, had an analysis made of all the cough medicines that were sold in that market. Out of the entire list they found only one that they declared entirely free from all poisons. This exception was Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, made by the Chamberlain Medicine Company, Des Moines, Iowa, U. S. A. The absence of all narcotics makes this remedy the safest and best that can be had; and it is with a feeling of security that any mother can give it to her little ones. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is especially recommended by its makers for coughs, colds, croup and whooping cough. This remedy is for sale by G. H. Hunt.

The Price of Her Hat.

"A little incident that occurred at a fashionable society wedding last week should serve as a warning to the bargain hunter at the reduction sales," says the London Chronicle. "A woman in a new hat—it was a particularly successful hat—sat serene and self satisfied in one of the top pews. To her came an agitated lady's maid. A whispered colloquy followed, resulting in the blushing discomfiture of the serene and self satisfied woman. The maid fumbled in the chiffon, dealing havoc among the flowers that bloom with such amazing spontaneity on hats of this sort, and finally retired with a label, but not before many a feminine eye and one or two masculine ones had read on it the compromising legend, 'Reduced from —.' This is a true story."

A THOUGHTFUL MONARCH.

King Alfonso XIII. was once touring in his motor car near the Sierra de Guadarrama mountains when he came across a little group of wanderers drenched by a heavy shower, shivering with cold and, above all, disheartened. The car was stopped, and questions brought out the fact that the travelers were walking to Madrid in the hope of finding work, that they had lost their way and that they had now neither money nor food. The king and his people gave the wayfarers all their loose money, and then Alfonso made the women get into the motor that he might take them to the nearest village. The men were to rejoin them on foot. Arriving at the village, what was the astonishment of the poor creatures to see their benefactor hailed as the sovereign of the country. As he started again on his interrupted journey Alfonso explained that at Madrid the wanderers were to go directly to the palace, where he would personally see to it that proper work was found for them.

Son Lost Mother

"Consumption runs in our family, and through it I lost my mother," writes E. B. Reid, of Harmony, Me. "For the past five years, however, on the slightest sign of a cough or cold, I have taken Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, which has saved me from serious lung trouble." His mother's death was a sad loss for Mr. Reid, but he learned that lung trouble must not be neglected, and how to cure it. Quickest relief and cure for coughs and colds. Price 50c and $1.00; guaranteed at Hunt's Pharmacy. Trial bottle free.

The Learned Tattooer.

"A tattooer nowadays has to know the Greek alphabet to get along," said a Duluth boy who is in his sophomore year at an eastern college and who recently returned from the east.

"Why the Greek alphabet?" was asked.

"Because all the college boys are having the Greek letters of their fraternities tattooed on their arms. They say, 'Put delta phi upsilon on me,' or 'I want psi you,' or 'Give me, in scarlet, phi delta theta.'"

"The consequence is if the tattooer doesn't know his Greek alphabet—alpha, beta, gamma, delta and so on—and if he doesn't know how to make each letter, he loses the college boys' trade. They go to a more learned tattooer."—Duluth (Minn.) Tribune.

Man's Unreasonableness

is often as great as woman's. But Thos. S. Austin, manager of the Republican of Leavenworth, Ind., was not unreasonable when he refused to allow the doctors to operate on his wife for female trouble. "Instead," he says, "we concluded to try Electric Bitters. My wife was then so sick she could hardly leave her bed, and five (5) physicians had failed to relieve her. After taking Electric Bitters she was perfectly cured, and can now perform all her household duties." Guaranteed by Hunt's Pharmacy, price 50c.

For Sale—4 acres of land, good house, barn, chicken house and other outbuildings. Plenty of fruit and shrubbery, city water. All in good repair and at a price that is right. D. S. BROWN.

Where do you Buy your Clothes?

Copyright 1905 by Hart Schaffner & Marx

There is a difference in stores as well as in clothes. Some stores go in for "cheapness," others for "quality." Which do you prefer? You may pay your money and take your choice. You should consider quality first, as a good article is worth what you pay for it, while a poor article is dear at any price. If good style, perfection of fit, thorough reliability, at a fair price, you are after, then our store is the Clothing Store for you. We sell nothing but reliable goods, we have an enormous stock to pick from, styles absolutely correct, and no fancy prices attached to our goods. If you once try them you will come again. We sell everything in Men's and Boys' wear.
