MINNIE N. KOELLER

Subject, "Monuments More Enduring Than Marble."

Away back in the earliest twilight of historic morning, in that land which is called the "Gift of the Nile," and in which all our modern arts, sciences and civilization germinated, we find those ancient monuments known as the Pyramids of Egypt. From that day to this—a period covering thousands of years—have they stood, serving as sepulchral monuments of the ancient Pharaohs, objects of interest to the traveler, and have been exposed to the storms of time until they are now slowly crumbling away. Since that time many monuments have been erected in memory of noted persons or events, many of which are of marble—that very costly, beautiful and substantial material which we all know would require many years to be washed away by the storms of time. Now that the Pyramids, which are but constructions of earth and brick, have endured all these years, how much more enduring are the monuments of marble! Could we conceive of anything more enduring? Possibly not along any material line of construction, but there is that monument which all should strive to build—a monument of virtue which the storms of time can never destroy.

But what is a monument? We say it is anything erected to perpetuate the memory of noted persons or events. But when a monument is raised in memory of illustrious actions, does it really perpetuate their memory, or does it show our deep sense of the value of that cause for which it was raised? Would the works of Lincoln or Washington be forgotten were it not for their monuments? Would that first battle of the Revolution—the battle of Bunker Hill—be forgotten were it not for the monuments erected on that famous battle ground? Ah, never—never can these worthy actions be forgotten. Webster says, "The record of illustrious actions is most safely deposited in the universal remembrance of mankind, and no structure which shall not outlive the duration of letters and knowledge among men can prolong the memorial. It is but an emblem, both of the events in memory of which it was reared and of the gratitude of those who reared it."

When we think of the great men and women who have lived in days gone by, is it their monuments that bring their memory to us? Indeed it is, but what monuments? Those reared by human hands? No; but monuments that will stand as long as the earth will remain. In the eighteenth century we find Robert Kaikes, the founder of the Sunday school; in the fifteenth century, Joan of Arc, that wonderful deliverer of France; as we look back still farther we find the great philosophers of Greece—Socrates, Plato and Aristotle. All these have been remembered though we know not that they have a single slab erected to their memory. This may indeed seem wonderful, but away back in that dark age when Israel was in bondage, there rises one from the house of Levi—that wonderful deliverer and law-giver, Moses, whom the Lord buried 1500 years before the Christian era, so that to this day no one even knows where his grave is. Has he not been well remembered? Did he not leave a monument more enduring than marble? Ah, that was a monument not made by human hands, which is dead and in time crumbles away, but a living monument, the fruit of his labor, which still continues to grow until now time can bring no mist before its memory.

Compare it with the Taj Mahal, that most magnificent tomb in all the world, which was erected years ago near the city of Agra in India, by an emperor for himself and wife. This monument is of pure white marble, lavishly decorated with mosaic work, and it is said that the emperor employed twenty thousand men for twenty years in building it, and the entire cost was sixteen millions of dollars. Think of the labor and the expenditure on this elaborate structure, and yet it is of no earthly use. It is not a symbol of the life of that emperor who erected it. It does not even perpetuate his memory. Little we know of his life. Only a monument of marble remains, and that is already forgotten. Many do not know of its existence. In time it will crumble away, and so will all things made by human hands. Shakespeare says:

"The cloud-capt towers, the gorgeous palaces,
The solemn temples, the great globe itself
With all that it inherits, shall dissolve."

But when can a monument dissolve that has been produced in obedience to divine commands, like that of Joan of Arc, who, in obedience to divine inspirations, preserved a nation; or like that of Socrates, who, although he knew not of God, yet felt himself guided by that tutelary spirit and gave to the world the purest system of morals that had yet been known; or like that of John Wesley whose mission it was to guide the eternal welfare of souls? These monuments will stand though the earth be removed. They are fruits of their harvest and what they have done.

But is it only when we do

FOR NEW ADMINISTRATION

Men Nominated at Convention at Springfield

TICKET IS A STRONG ONE

Standing of Nominees—Men Chosen to Guide State Affairs Have Excellent Qualifications

Nominations at Springfield recently show the strongest ticket which the state has ever had. In his own profession, each candidate has been very successful and all are strong factors in the great Republican politics.

Following is given a summary of what each have accomplished:

FOR GOVERNOR

Charles S. Deneen, who was nominated for governor of the state of Illinois, has a fine record in public life. For some time he has been a prominent figure in republican politics and as a gatherer of strength he has attracted much attention. He stands for clean politics and has long been an advocate of a state primary law. In his private life he has won his way to the hearts of all who know him.

FOR LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR

Lawrence J. Sherman, although prominent in the affairs of the state, was nominated to the office of lieutenant governor and as such was a surprise to his many friends. After attending the public school he attended the McKindree College as a law student and was admitted to the bar in 1882. His first public office was that of county judge in McComb in 1886 and he has been four times elected to the general assembly and has twice been speaker of the house.

SECRETARY OF STATE

James A. Rose, secretary is 54 years of age. He taught school when seventeen years of age, was admitted to the bar, has been state's attorney of Pope county and commissioner of the southern Illinois penitentiary at Chester.

STATE AUDITOR

James McCullough, nominee for state auditor, served as county clerk at Urbana for 23 years. He was born May 4, 1843, and took an active service in the Civil War, losing an arm in the assault on Fort Blakely.

STATE TREASURER

Len Small, nominee for state treasurer, was born in Kankakee county in 1862. His boyhood days were spent on his father's farm and his education acquired in the Kankakee high school. He has served two years as a member of the state board of agriculture.

STEAD FOR ATTORNEY GENERAL

General satisfaction is expressed in the nomination of W. H. Stead for attorney general. He was the candidate of the twelfth congressional district. Mr. Stead was born in La Salle, Ill., June 12, 1858. His childhood days were spent on the farm and at the age of sixteen he entered the seminary at Onarga. Later in life he attended the Depauw University at Greenscastle, Ind., and in 1883 was admitted to the bar. In the questions that will come before his department, the voters may rest assured that they will be acted upon wisely and in a manner highly satisfactory to all.

Real enjoyment is had when reading that clever magazine, The Smart Set.

FOUND LARGE PEARL

New Milford Man Finds Pearl Valued at $200

A pearl weighing thirty-three grains was found in the Kishwaukee at New Milford one day of last week by Eau Godfrey.

Pearl hunting is a favorite sport and as years roll by dwellers of this stream reap a rich harvest from the sale of these gems. Mr. Godfrey disposed of the pearl to Fred Lawrence at Rockford. This is the largest pearl ever found in this vicinity. It is shaped somewhat like an egg, being perfect top and bottom. The purchaser of this pearl has a number of good men continually on the look out for these beauties but report few deals in pearls of this size, the majority weighing about six grains.

Rural Carriers Raised to $720

Beginning with July 1, the new schedule of rural carriers' salaries will go into effect. Every carrier who covers what is known as a full route will receive $60 a month, or $720 a year. The schedule, which may be varied when circumstances warrant, will be as follows: Routes of not less than twenty miles $720; routes of less than twenty miles and not less than sixteen, $620; less than sixteen and not less than twelve miles, $620; less than twelve and not less than eight miles, $420; less than eight and not less than four miles, $320.

KIRKLAND TRIMS GENOA

Base Ball Fans Witness a Good Game last Saturday

SCORE OF THREE TO ONE

Game Is Replete with Many Brilliant Plays—Notes of Other Games Played During Week

Attired in its best holiday clothes, the base ball park in the southwest part of town was given a grand opening last Saturday when the Genoa team was vanquished by the Kirkland Reds by a score of 3 to 1.

Thus far it is the best game of the season, the kind that baseball fans enjoy seeing. Pagles for the visitors and Christensen for the locals were in the best of form, securing from their teammates the support characterized in winning a game.

Until the ninth inning, the score was 1 to 1, and in the following inning Kirkland cinched the game by securing two more runs. T. M. Bagley umpired the game.

Manager Goding feels confident that he has secured a winning team for Genoa, one that will give the teams of the neighboring towns "a good run for the money."

On Saturday of this week, the high school will endeavor to wrest victory from the town team, the game being called promptly at 2:30. Following is the line up of the town team: 1st base, John Hadsall; 2nd base, Lauman; 3rd base, Merrill; pitcher, Neurauter; catcher, Nelson; short-stop, Ruhlman; right field, Foote; center-field, Adams; left field, James; bench and coach, Elias Williams.

The DeKalb high school team came over Tuesday and administered defeat to the high school team here, the score being 7 to 4.

The game at Savanna last Sunday was lost by the Kirkland Reds, 6 to 5.

Meetings in Tent at Burlington

Commencing June 5 and continuing until June 19, evangelistic meetings are being conducted in a large tent at Burlington. Services each afternoon at 2 o'clock and in the evening at 7:30. Rev. P. S. Lent of Hampshire is being assisted in his labors by Rev. C. S. Clay of Kingston, Rev. J. E. DeLong of Genoa and Rev. Chas. Briggs of Evanston. A large tent seating 400 has been rented for the occasion and is located on the church lot. The Kingston people are thinking seriously of renting this tent and holding meetings during the summer months.

Will Rohrer Found Guilty

The case of William Rohrer, whose trial for the shooting of Charles (Frenchy) Thomas, just south of Somonauk, in Northville township, occupied the greater part of last week at Ottawa, went to the jury on Friday morning. The jury was out about three hours and one-half and brought in a verdict of manslaughter, with the penalty fixed at fourteen years in the penitentiary at Joliet.

It will be remembered that Rohrer shot Thomas at his own home on January 6, 1904. Thomas and Rohrer were disputing over a money consideration when the latter fired a load of shot into Thomas' head, killing him instantly. Both men were heavily armed and had spent the greater part of the day in drinking.

BUTTER IS FIRM

Price on Board of Trade at Elgin Remains 17½ Cents

At the meeting Monday factormen generally reported a considerable increase in the make and favorable weather conditions although cool for the season. The opinion is that the make will be large, the same being true one year ago.

East Delevan offered fifty tubs on the board of trade, but 17 cents was not enough, and the offer was withdrawn. The market remains firm at 17½ cents.

Farm House Burned

Last Tuesday night the farm home of C. D. Rogers, near Ohio Grove, was entirely destroyed by fire. During the night Axel Stromberg, who works the farm, was awakened by the explosion of cartridges, and upon investigation discovered the house on fire. All of the household goods were destroyed. Mr. Rogers will rebuild at once.

Wreck at Spaulding

By the pulling out of a draw bar on one of the cars near the rear of a freight train on the St. Paul road last Thursday evening, a bad wreck was caused at Spaulding. The train was running at a low speed at the time of the accident, the result being two cars derailed and thrown across the road bed. A few hours later the road was open for traffic.

TWENTY-FIRST EXERCISES

world-renowned deeds that we can build enduring monuments? There are many in this world who do their best, and yet have not the power to "date an epoch for themselves, to turn aside old conceptions, and to swing the whole current of thought into a new channel." Will they pass away and leave "Nothing but leaves?" No. Though they may not have done this, though they may not be remembered thousands of years, yet have they brought forth fruit according to their ability, and their monuments are there, just as enduring, though they may not be so great that all the world knows of them, but as some one has said:

"Only the truth that in life they have spoken,
Only the seed that on earth they have sown—
These shall pass onward when they are forgotten
Fruits of their harvest and what they have done."

And so, all are remembered by what they have done. How great then, and how enduring will our monuments be? We have finished school and are now on the vestibule about to cross the threshold to enter into life. We have gone through weary hours of toil preparing ourselves for this, often amid disappointments and discouragements. And now that we have reached this point, will it be all joy and happiness when we enter in? Will there be no more hard labor?

We will find that in school we have only been prepared for the work we have yet to do, and thus we will see the significance of our motto, yes, "Not for school, but for life we learn."

We have now to study how we shall build our monuments. Thus far we have only laid the foundation, now we must select an enduring material to complete them. Shall it be power and wealth? They certainly are enduring. Consider that of Alexander the Great who gained power over the whole world as it were; or that of Nero, that great emperor of Rome, who on account of his avaricious ambition, caused the city of Rome to be burned to make room for his magnificent palace which was known as the "Golden House," and employed poison and the dagger to remove persons whose wealth he coveted. Have they not been long remembered? Have they not been considered great? They surely have, and have left enduring monuments. But are these the kind we wish to leave? Is this the kind of greatness we desire? No, but some one has said, "To be mighty of heart, mighty of mind"—to be this is indeed to be great in life." For this will we strive. We will find that it will require much toil and hard thinking to reach this end. We will feel our inability always to choose the right thing, for "hitherto we have learned lessons given us by our teachers; henceforth we are to choose our own instructors;" but when we feel thus unable, may we remember the lesson Bryant gives us from "The Waterfowl!":

"He who from zone to zone,
Guides thru the boundless sky their certain flight,
In the long way that I must tread alone,
Will lead my steps aright."

So applying this lesson to ourselves, may we not only be able to say with Horace, "I have left a monument more enduring than bronze," but "more enduring than marble."

BIRDIE B. DRAKE

Subject, "From the Beach We See the Ocean."

All is dark and gloomy. The waters fairly roar as the angry waves wildly dash against the hard, stern rocks. The tumbling, rolling, rocking billows rush on as if seeking to do some damage and the Infinite Deep is all lost in confusion.

Now it is calm and quiet. The beautiful, green waves ebb and flow gently, reflecting the calm blue skies above. The sun's rays fall upon the watery crest, causing a golden glitter which illuminates all and produces a grand and glorious picture.

Afar off over this vast body of water, there appears to be a line drawn between the earth and the sky, which marks the limit of our sight. This line is called the horizon, but I will call it our aim in life; for to what might these two views of the ocean that I have portrayed, be better compared than to the vicissitudes of our lives.

We all have an aim in life, an ideal toward which we are slowly advancing and striving to reach and this ideal shapes our character and makes us what we are. Woolley, that famous temperance worker, has said, "Set your heart on the high things and all the lesser will be served." But what shall this high thing be? Shall it be glory, fame, knowledge, wisdom, wealth or shall it be a good and virtuous name? "For," as it has been said, "Poverty with an honest name is more desirable than wealth." We cannot all perform a great deed, obtain glory, renown and great riches but there is an opportunity given to each and every one of us for doing what is right and of earning an honest name. "For," as Spaulding has said, "If position, fame and wealth are denied to the most persistent efforts and the best ability, it is consoling to know that they are not the highest, and as they are not the end of life, they should not be made its aim."

There are many who, like Midas of Old, believe that if they can procure wealth, it will have the power of transforming them, of taking away the poverty of their minds, the narrowness of their hearts and the dullness of their imaginations. Ah, they are sadly mistaken. Wealth has great power. It will procure many things for man but it cannot furnish him with knowledge neither can it transform him into a new being.

Again, there are many in this great world that are forever seeking pleasure. Life is nothing to them. They consider it nothing more than a mere lily pond with a narrow breadth and shallow depth. It has no horizon neither do their lives. But when they depart from this world, have they left any grains of sand upon the beach? Have their lives had any great influence upon the world for making it better, for making it stronger and for lifting it up to a higher stage of civilization? These questions are left to your judgement. If we all sought pleasure what would be the result? Did not the people of Rome give up their lives to indolence and pleasure? Did not they try to amuse themselves by the entertainment of the theatre, by the games of the circus, by animal baitings, and by the bloody gladiatorial combats, while they let the opportunity slip by for making the kingdom stronger and better? This is what they did, and what was the result? Their great empire was fairly crushed and all their enormous possessions lost. It has been said that, "Pleasure is good if it comes as a refreshment to the weary, solace to the heavy-hearted and rest to the care worn; but if sought for its own sake it is the honey of poison flowers and all the measureless ill."

Then again, there is fame. Shall we make that our aim in life and patiently wait for the time when glory will be laid at our feet? But if we devoted our time, our mind and our attention entirely, in laboring, striving and hoping to become famous, to obtain glory and renown, our lives would be denied their rights, and at length we would awaken to find that our labor was in vain, and our efforts had brought us no reward. Then by quoting the exact words of a scholar we find that, "Fame and wealth and pleasure are good when they are born of high thinking and right living; when they lead to a purer faith and love, but when sought as ends and loved for themselves, they blight and corrupt."

Let us then seek for no fortune that will alone make us famous or wealthy, but seek for something greater and higher, and that an honest and virtuous name. Then, referring to God's word, "Seek ye first the Kingdom of God," for without this Divine aid, man is nothing.

Every person has formed his horizon according to his surroundings, ability, knowledge or his opportunities. Take for instance the poor boy, whose home is amidst the slums of the city. Surrounded by the towering buildings, breathing the filthy air, associating with the worst of company, toiling from morn till night, with no chance of obtaining an education, no chance of lifting himself up to a higher life—can you picture his horizon?

Then again take a healthy youth, who has an opportunity of breathing the fresh pure air, of obtaining an education, of reading the best of literature, of associating with the best of company and of making himself a good American citizen.—Has he an horizon? Perhaps he has and perhaps he has not. Many fail to realize when they have opportunities and carelessly cast them aside, failing to estimate their value.

Consider the society lady. Brought up amidst luxury, elegance and extravagance, she fails to comprehend what life really is. She lives merely for the present. Then where is her horizon?

Frances E. Willard, whose main object of life was to free the world from the deadly power of intoxicating drinks and who has won a name that shall never be forgotten, has said these true words, "Women cannot be dolls and live women too." Her dress will not conceal the hardness of her heart or her beauty the lack of her knowledge, but it will only serve as a veneering, which in time will vanish and then she will be known as she really is. Henry Ward Beecher has also said, "God did not call you to be canary birds in a little cage and to hop up and down on three sticks within a space no larger than the size of the cage; God calls you to be eagles and to fly from sun to sun over continents."

We are living in the present, back of us the past, before us the unknown future. We are just standing upon the beach, beyond us the rough and stormy ocean and our horizon. Although at times we are almost given up in despair, our hopes are scattered in every direction and the future seems a mere blank, yet behold! There is one little star that gleams over our sea of life, a faint and feeble light that is reflected from Faith's light house, yet that shows us that there is a Divine power above whose all-seeing eye is watching us along our dangerous and uncertain pathway and guiding our footsteps aright.

"O life, O silent shore,
Where we sit patient O great sea beyond
To which we turn with solemn hope and fond,
But sorrowful no more;
A little while and then we too shall soar
Like white-winged sea birds into the Infinite Deep.
Till then, 'Thou Father—will our spirits keep."

Removing Old Creamery

Tearing down and removing the creamery has furnished employment to a large force of men the past week. Jas. J. Hammond, who has the contract for the erection of the new creamery re-the work progressing nicely and that work for the masons will begin the latter part of the week.

Undermuslins Temptingly Priced

At our June Sale of undermuslins you'll find every garment with a tempting price ticket on it. Our June sale is the occasion of the opening up of our new undermuslins purchased for mid-summer wear, the garments are the product of sanitary factories in small towns and cities made amidst clean and wholesome surroundings by well paid, cleanly operatives far removed from large city and sweat shop conditions; the workmanship is careful and painstaking, the materials and trimmings the best the price will allow and considering the present state of the cotton market our prices will prove temptingly low. Theo. F. Swan, Elgin.

Royal Neighbor Social

The Royal Neighbors will give a social in Slater's hall, June 11. A program has been prepared and ice cream and cake will be served, all for ten cents. At that time the quilt will be raffled, all those having chances on the quilt should be present, but the name that draws the quilt will get it whether they are present or not. Everybody come and have a good time.

Band Is Organized

The band recently organized here held their first meeting Tuesday evening for practice. There are fourteen pieces and Dr. C. A. Patterson is leader.

June Sale of Undermuslins

Our annual sale of undermuslins will begin on Saturday, June 11, and continue all the following week. It offers an exceptional opportunity for June brides and June graduates to select their undergarments, for our display of the finer and better garments is the largest we have ever made, some pretty novelties and styles that you won't find elsewhere, and notwithstanding the heavy advance in the price of cottons, our prices are as low as ever, due to the fact that our large orders were placed when market conditions were very favorable. Theo. F. Swan, Elgin.

M. E. Church Notes

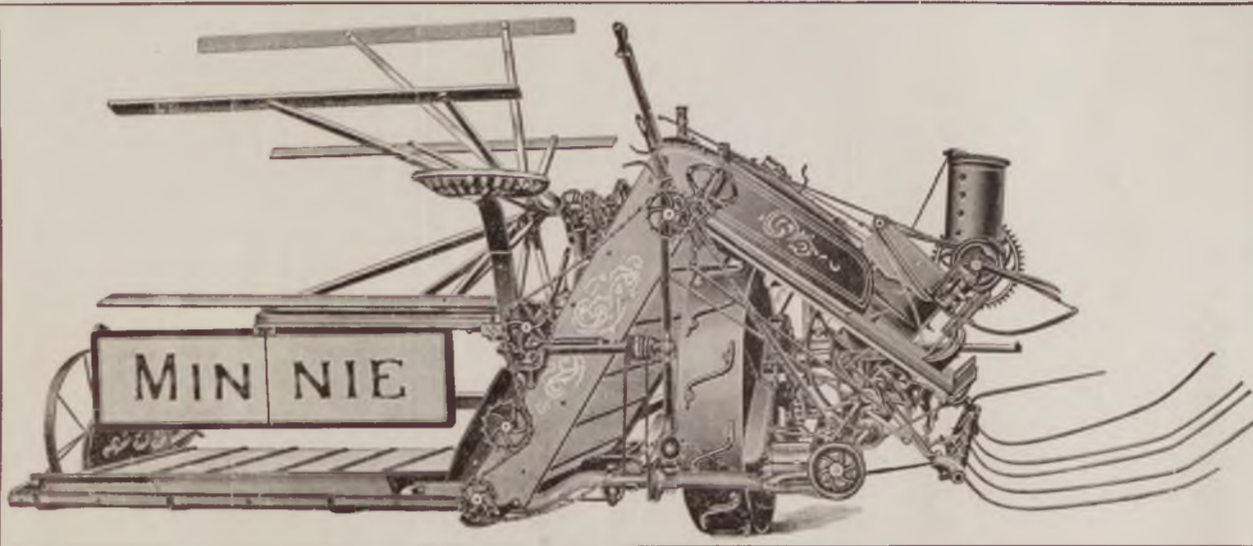

Don't forget the sociable at the Epworth League rooms next Friday night, June 17. The price is 11 cents.

Next Sunday there will be special services at the M. E. church both morning and evening. In the morning at 10:30 there will be a memorial service and Rev. T. E. The public is cordially invited to attend all services.

Do You Know It?

I am not Made by the Trust

I HAVE A CAR LOAD of fresh, clean and bright MINNIE BINDERS ready for the 1904 harvest. It is the best Binder made, and I have been agent for them for 22 years and never failed in making the sale of the MINNIE STEEL BINDER when tried. The MINNIE will do all kinds of cutting and binding where any Binder will, and will cut and bind where some makes of Binders fail. The Minnie has never been misrepresented.

Come in and Have a Look

A MATTER OF FACT is that the MINNIE will cut the tallest grain, the shortest grain and down grain in all conditions. The MINNIE will bind a bundle with less twine than any competing machine. All my competitors hate me. All they can say when they find a prospect sale against the MINNIE is, where can you get repairs when wanted? I have furnished repairs for about 200 MINNIE BINDERS, and not one man owning a Minnie Binder will say he failed to get what repairs he wanted when calling for them. The MINNIE is not made by the trust and is sold at prices that are right. If you are contemplating buying a Binder drop me a postal card and get prices. I also have some of the best makes of twine and prices are right. Now, if you buy a MINNIE Binder you won't make any mistake. Come in and examine them carefully.

Interesting Notes from the Near-by Publications—Wise and Otherwise

Dr. Westgate feels that her efforts to conduct a hospital at Sycamore have not been appreciated and she will sell the building, or if not sold she will close the hospital part.

Henry Himes, who secured the bounty on eight wolf pups at Woodstock last Thursday, was at Belvidere Saturday with eight more he had killed at Caledonia last week. Wolf farming is profitable.

The Sycamore Preserve works will this year try a new method of harvesting their crop of peas. The vines will first be mowed, carted to the factory and there threshed by a machine which loosens the pods and allows the peas to drop out. It is estimated that the company will save about $3000 by its installation.

The largest horse in the world is on view at the World's Fair at St. Louis. He measures over eleven feet from the tip of his ears and has not yet ceased growing. During the past six months seven and one-half inches have been added to his height. "Snyder" is the name of this equine giant. He is from Marion county, Ohio, and is four years old.

The remains of John Jordan, for many years a well known resident of Pierce township, were brought to DeKalb from his late home in Chicago last week for interment in the Catholic cemetery. He was past eighty, had lived in this county over forty years and was prominent among the early pioneers. Several children survive him, most of them residing in this vicinity.

While tearing down the old Stuart building on State street, Sycamore, a poster was found in the building, which was erected in the fall of 1857. On it was the advertisement of a circus, North's National circus, to appear in Sycamore June 24, 1857. Everything was in good state of preservation. The printing was legible and the ink had not faded. All the circus stars, equestriennes, clowns, etc., of those early days were advertised. The poster was placed on exhibition and draws large crowds.

Worst of All Experiences

Can anything be worse than to feel that every minute will be your last? Such was the experience of Mrs. S. H. Newson, Decatur, Ala. "For three years" she writes, "I endured insufferable pain from indigestion, stomach and bowel trouble. Death seemed inevitable when doctors and all remedies failed. At length I was induced to try Electric Bitters and the result was miraculous. I improved at once and now I'm completely recovered." For liver, kidney, stomach and bowel troubles Electric Bitters is the only medicine. Only 50c. It's guaranteed by Hunt's Pharmacy.

PROVED HIS IDENTITY.

At Least the Newly Appointed Postmaster Was Satisfied.

A new postoffice had just been opened in a small country town in Canada. For want of a more likely applicant, a farmer's son, ignorant, yet ambitious, was appointed postmaster.

Shortly after the countryman's installation a commercial traveler appeared at the wicket, received a letter, opened it and produced therefrom a money order, which he immediately presented for payment. The postmaster took the order, read it and reread it, suspiciously scrutinizing the traveler from time to time over the sheet.

"At length he ventured, 'Are ye the fellow this thing talks about?'"

"I am," replied the traveler.

"Well, have ye got anybody to identify ye?"

"No; but I don't see that it is necessary," replied the knight of the road. "You saw me take the order from the letter. It could hardly be for anybody else."

"I don't just know about that, boss. I want somebody to identify ye. Don't take me for no jay. Ye may bet I know just a little about this biz."

The commercial traveler argued the point for awhile, but to no purpose. He must be identified. But how? He had never been within thirty miles of the place before. He was about retiring in disgust and had already reached the door when a brilliant idea flashed through his brain.

Quick as thought he was back at the wicket, where the rustic stood eying him suspiciously.

"Here," he shouted, apparently very excited; "I have it!"

He tore open his coat and produced his pocketbook. From this he took a photo.

"There," he said, shoving it over to the postmaster, "there is my photograph."

The rustic took the card and carefully compared the features. A beaten look came into his face. At length he vouchsafed:

"Hanged if he ain't the right man after all, mister." And the order was cashed.

Sources of Popular Phrases.

There are two great sources of popular phrases, both so much drawn upon that we are apt to attribute all such sayings to one or the other—namely, the Bible and Shakespeare. It is often difficult to persuade people that the saying "God tempers the wind to the shorn lamb" is not in the Bible. It is, in fact, a phrase of Sterne's, the author of "Tristram Shandy." "Cleanliness is next to godliness" and "God helps those who help themselves" are also generally believed to be in the Bible, but are not.—London Tit-Bits.

Triumphs of Modern Surgery

Wonderful things are done for the human body by surgery. Organs are taken out and scraped and polished and put back, or they may be removed entirely; bones are spliced; pipes take the place of diseased sections of veins; antiseptic dressings are applied to wounds, bruises, burns and like injuries before inflammation sets in, which causes them to heal without maturation and in one-third the time required by old treatment, Chamberlain's Pain Balm acts on this same principle. It is an antiseptic and when applied to such injuries, causes them to heal very quickly. It also allays the pain and soreness. Keep a bottle of Pain Balm in your home and it will save you time and money, not to mention the inconvenience and suffering which such injuries entail. For sale by G. H. Hunt.

The Humorous Side of Things

When Mr. Fish came home to bed he wore a startled look. (Some one was dangling overhead. An ugly fishing hook.)

"A coat hook! Well, I do declare!" Cried he. "What a surprise! I'll hang my hat and coat up there before I close my eyes."

The fisherman drew up his hook and went home for the night. Then fish awoke. With rage he shook. His clothes had vanished quite. —Boston Traveler.

"Say, I've got a great idea. I'm going to lose this umbrella, so next time it rains ma will let me stay home from school." —San Francisco Examiner.

Mr. Newlywed—Well, Dolly, aren't the potatoes done yet?
Mrs. Newlywed—No. They won't boil at all, but they just burn. I must try some other way of boiling them.
Mr. Newlywed (hazarding a guess)—Perhaps they ought to be boiled in water!

Smith—Hello! Fine day. Are you out walking for your health?
Smythe—Yes; I'm going to the doctor's.

Miss Smart—There's Dolly Fitz-Jones over there. I went to her wedding.
Mr. Borde—Oh, did you?
Miss Smart—Yes. I enjoyed myself immensely. Her gown didn't fit her anywhere, and every one said she looked a perfect fright.

Millie—Poor Mr. Jones was unable to meet his creditors, I hear.
Jack—Oh, no; that's quite wrong. His difficulty was to dodge 'em.

Willie Mosquito—Say, Johnny, I do believe giants used to live. Just look at those holes! —New York Evening Journal.

Starling Evidence. Fresh testimony in great quantity is constantly coming in, declaring Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs and colds to be unequalled. A recent expression from T. J. McFarland, Bentonsville, Va., serves as example. He writes: "I had bronchitis for three years and doctored all the time without being benefited. Then I began taking Dr. King's New Discovery, and a few bottles wholly cured me." Equally effective in curing all lung and throat troubles, consumption, pneumonia and grip. Years
Success

This is our record. From a small beginning we have grown until our factories now cover many acres. Many of our machines sold forty to fifty years ago are still giving their users faithful service. Can anything be more convincing of their merits and durability? Did you ever hear of any other machine with such a record?

Note a few of the many superior points of the Wheeler & Wilson No. 9
Sewing Machine No. 9
The Rotary Hook displaces the old, out-of-date, unmechanical and troublesome shuttle.
The Frictionless ball bearings and perfect mechanical construction enable it to be operated with one-third less exertion than is required by ordinary machines. It sews three yards of goods while a shuttle machine sews two.
It makes the most elastic and most perfect stitch whether sewing light or heavy goods.
With our superior attachments the greatest variety of work is possible.
Do not make the mistake of buying a sewing machine until you have given the Wheeler & Wilson No. 9 a trial.

Queen Quality

SURE TO FIT

The privilege of choice from a lot of styles is equal to an extra ten per cent. of value. All stores agree on this. Do you realize that the "Queen Quality" shoe originates nearly all the styles of shoes worn by women?

"Queen Quality" is made in every possible style from original designs. In each style there is every size and shape for every kind of foot. We carry all this stock. It is practically impossible to produce a need for which there is not a "Queen Quality" shoe already designed and in our store today. And they are original designs found on no other shoe unless they are copied. It is equally impossible to produce a normal foot which we cannot accurately fit in this shoe. This not true of other makes of women's shoes. With any other shoe you may or may not be fitted; but with "Queen Quality" you have nearly twice as many styles and far greater differentiation in size and shape. If you want a "glove" fit in shoes you can get it only in "Queen Quality"—remember that.

War on Dandelion

A well-known farmer residing in the vicinity of the city, in conversation regarding noxious weeds this morning said that the common dandelion is fast becoming one of the greatest pests that the farmers of this vicinity have to contend. He said the plant has invaded the cultivated fields and is spreading at an alarming rate. It is hardy and unless most persistent warfare is waged against it, will scatter its thousands of seeds over a great scope of surrounding country when the seeding time comes.

The inhabitant of the towns is not free from the pest and all who wish to maintain a pretty lawn must give up a large share of their time to the battle with the weed. The present season seems to have been particularly favorable for the growth of the plant as almost every lawn has a generous sprinkling of them.

The only way of killing the weed is to dig it out and even this method must be followed persistently for several seasons before the pest is conquered.
