DRUNK, SHOT POLICEMAN

Marengo Woman Thrown From Automobile and Cut in Barbed Wire - Pat Crowe in Trouble

Down at Tamaroa, City Marshal Fred Neville was shot twice by a drunk he was taking in charge and is expected to die of his wounds. And thus does the score of old John Barleycorn keep mounting higher and higher with vicious drunks as his fatal instruments and the lives of useful citizens as the toll that is paid.

Mrs. George Klitz of Marengo was badly cut with barbed wire Sunday, when something went wrong with the steering gear of an automobile driven by her husband and the machine hurdled a ditch and tore through a wire fence. Mr. Klitz was not injured.

The notorious Pat Crowe was in Mendota this week. He liked the town so well that he remained several days and being of a generous disposition contributed $3 and costs to the justice courts on the charges of drunk and disorderly. He did not have the change but a Dixon friend kindly loaned it to him and after squaring the account with the court Wednesday morning started to make the rounds again.

Governor Deneen has appointed Fred Ferguson of Belvidere deputy fish warden for Boone county.

James P. Walsh, proprietor of the Walsh bottling works, and principal owner of the Rockford baseball club of the Wisconsin-Illinois league, died at 1:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon at St. Anthony hospital.

Charles Brown and Frank Wright have found probably as valuable a pearl as was ever found in Fox river. It is perfect pear shape and weighs 29 grains. It was without a flaw, but when the shell was being opened it was slightly scratched with a knife.

At Wheaton on Monday, July 11, occurred the marriage of Miss Nellie Goodrich, for the past fourteen years employed at the Bank of Kirkland and for the last ten years as cashier, to Mr. Emmett Alden of Egan, where himself and bride will make their home.

Glenn Lawrence, the Geneva boy, who disappeared several weeks ago leaving a note to the effect that he was going to kill himself, because schoolmates taunted him over an impediment in speech, is said to be working for a railroad company at Chardon, Nebraska.

George Harspman of Sterling gave a written order to McGrath & Mammen, saloonists, to sell to his son, Harry, eighteen years old, beer. The lad got drunk, was fined three dollars and the firm fined one hundred dollars for selling to minors. The written order was held no good by the court.

Kirkland Enterprise: On Wednesday morning of this week, John Kirk left for Griggsville, Ill., with four race horses, Joe Heldt's Diamond Joe, Bird Conductor and Red Medium, and a very promising pacing horse belonging to Charles Meyers of Herbert. They will race over the Central Illinois circuit, starting at Griggsville on Wednesday of next week. These horses have all been doing well on the local track this season and barring accidents or sickness, they are sure to be favorably heard of later. Bert Lamont will be Kirk's assistant on the trip.

THIRTY-THREE YEARS AGO

Events in Genoa as Chronicled by John Brown December 15, 1877

Milton M. Durham has retired from the Genoa carriage shop, his interest in the shop and everything pertaining thereto, having been purchased by his partner, J. M. Ball.

Fred Smith the German tailor, lost his cow by poisoning last Monday. Fred was anxious to destroy the rats which were making such havoc with his grain, and accordingly scattered some poisoned meal about his barn, and the cow broke loose and ate enough poison to kill her.

The Chicago and Pacific R. R. is doing better now than at any other time since its completion. On Monday night the Eastward bound freight train had when leaving the switch at Genoa, twenty one carloads of live-stock.

Mr. Bailey lost several large hogs, as was supposed between here and the city, but upon investigation, it was found they had escaped from the pen at Genoa, and not from the car.

The farmers are getting in the habit of shipping their stock, instead of selling at home. William Flint, James Whipple and C. H. Smith, each shipped a carload of hogs on Tuesday.

The Red Ribbon as well as the Moot Court business down at Kingston, is requiring much attention from the young people of Genoa. The temperance element sent them a large delegation Tuesday evening, and a very good time was had.

Some parties from Chicago, have been here with a view to rent Stephen's new building on First Street, and there to open a store of general merchandise.

C. H. Snow of Sandwich, son-in-law of G. W. Richardson, paid us a brief call on Monday. Charley is working for the Sandwich nurseries, and will canvass the towns along the Chicago and Pacific R. R. before returning home.

Another effort to establish a newspaper in Genoa, a Chicago man is the gentleman this time. It is expected that a tri-weekly mail, will soon be established between Genoa and Belvidere. Such a route with a good conveyance to carry passengers, would be very much appreciated by the people of Genoa.

The old wood colored shop on Washington street, for more than twenty years without any mark to tell the passing stranger, what wares were there kept, has finally been ornamented with a handsome new sign, and the inscription is James A. Kisten.

Some of the folks who went to Kingston, and who did not attend to the Red Ribbon business, came home as Will Carleton once said, "Full three quarts o'er the bay."

Barn is Burned

The large hay barn on the Tom Gray farm north of Genoa, occupied by Fred Eickstadt, was burned to the ground last Friday, as a result of the electrical storm which passed over that part of the country. Nearly all the contents of the barn were saved with the exception of the hay, about fifty tons of which was destroyed. The building was covered by insurance.

FIRE ALARM AGAIN

SHED AT REAR OF DR. AUSTIN'S RESIDENCE BURNS

OTHER PROPERTY IS SAVED

Prompt Action on Part of Volunteer Fire Company Saves Other Buildings—Still Alarm Saturday

The fourth fire alarm within a month was turned in Monday morning when fire was discovered in the shed at the rear of Dr. T. N. Austin's residence on Sycamore street. Despite the fact that there is not at present a regularly organized fire department, a score of willing volunteers soon had the hose of the two carts attached and a stream of water on the building. Altho the building was a roaring furnace before the hose arrived the flames were subdued before they had broken through the roof and walls to any great extent. Prompt action was a necessity, as the large barn stands only ten or twelve feet from the shed and about twenty feet from the barn is the doctor's residence. Had the wind been blowing from the west the fire fighters would have had a more serious task. No one knows how the fire started. The building was used as a chicken and wood house, at the time of the fire there being considerable split wood in the place.

A still alarm was turned in at 1:30 Saturday morning by Officer Watson, he and the fire marshal, Geo. Loptien, being the only persons present. In making his rounds early Saturday morning Watson discovered fire east of the Millard feed mill and hay barn, near the Milwaukee depot. He found the old platform scales near the building ablaze. He called the fire marshal and the two, by carrying water in buckets from the depot, got the fire under control. Had it not been for the vigilance of the night watch this might have resulted in a blaze of some magnitude.

The experience of the last month emphasizes the fact that a well drilled fire department is needed. The new marshal has been given the power to organize the companies and use his judgment in getting the apparatus into condition.

FORGER ARRESTED

Sycamore Man in County Jail Awaiting Grand Jury Action

Alvie Faiers, a young man about twenty-six years of age and a resident of Sycamore a number of years, says the Tribune, was taken in charge by Officer Ogen, charged with being the author of a number of forged checks which have been passed on several Sycamore business houses during the past two months.

Faiers when placed in the city jail Saturday night about eleven o'clock stoutly maintained his innocence, disclaiming any knowledge of the deed. On Sunday morning, however, when in conference with Sheriff Hohm and confronted with the forged papers, he is said to have weakened and admitted his guilt. Monday morning the prisoner appeared before Justice Mitchell where he waived preliminary examination and was placed under bond of $1,000 to appear before the next grand jury. For want of bonds men he will be detained at the county jail until the jury convenes in October.

Ancient English Inn.

The oldest inhabited house in England is said to be the Fighting Cocks Inn, St. Albans, which is connected by a subterranean passage—now blocked up—with the monastery about 200 yards away.

'GENOA BOY HONORED

Son of the Late M. Hauslein Prominent Educator in Texas

Ferdinand A. Hauslein, a brother of Mrs. C. E. Hance of Marengo, has been elected principal of the Dallas, Texas, public schools, to commence next September. Mr. Hauslein attended the Marengo schools and graduated in the class of 1886. In speaking of the appointment, the Dallas News says:

"Mr. Hauslein was born and reared in Genoa. He received his bachelor of arts degree at Yale in 1892 and in 1895 received the degree of master of arts from the same university. Following his graduation at Yale Mr. Hauslein came to Texas and was for eight years teacher of Latin and Greek and German in the Ball high school at Galveston, this institution ranking as one of the first public high schools in Texas. Those most familiar with his work in Galveston bestow upon Mr. Hauslein much of the credit for bringing the Ball school to its present standard of excellence."

THE DROUTH BROKEN

After Six Weeks Without Rain the Weather Man Gives Us Storm

The long drouth which has caused no little anxiety among the farmers of this vicinity was broken early Sunday morning by a copious rain storm, and, altho accompanied by considerable wind, none of the oats and corn was flattened to any extent. It was the most welcome storm that has struck these parts in about thirty years. Altho nearly every part of the country about Genoa has been blessed with rain during the past few weeks, every cloud passed over Genoa without so much as giving the timid a scare. Despite the six weeks of drouth the crops will be good. The hay crop was above the average, while oats, barley and rye are excellent. The effect of the cold, wet spring was off-set in the corn field by the not typical corn weather. Had it not been for the heavy dews, however, the corn could not have survived the long siege.

MRS. ELLWOOD DEAD

Wife of DeKalb Millionaire Passed Away Saturday, July 16

Mrs. Isaac L. Ellwood died at her home in DeKalb Saturday, July 16, after a period of unconsciousness lasting four days.

The late Mrs. Ellwood was born seventy-three years ago this month on the Miller farm in Kingston township, where her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Miller, pioneers of the county, lived for many years, the farm still remaining in the possession of the Ellwood family. She was their only daughter and was christened Harriet Augusta, the only other child being William H. Miller, Jr., who has been for many years a citizen of DeKalb.

During her girlhood the family moved to DeKalb and it was at the family home on North Seventh street that she was married to Isaac L. Ellwood in 1860.

Alcohol Explodes

Mrs. W. G. Earle of DeKalb was painfully burned Thursday morning in an explosion of an alcohol flat iron at her home. While Mrs. Earle was filling the iron with the explosive fluid it exploded, throwing the fire into her face and all over her person. Mrs. Earle had been using the iron and it ran out of fuel. She did not wait long enough for it to cool but refilled it with the alcohol and when the receptacle was partially filled there was an explosion.

THE JUSTICE SHOPS

Fines Assessed in the One Case and Judgment Granted in Another

The case of the State of Illinois vs. Dean Burville and G. A. Glicke was called before Justice I. A. McCullom at Kingston last Friday forenoon, a change of venue having been taken from Justice Brown's court of this city. Burville and Glicke, who had engaged G. E. Stott and Jas. Cliffe as their attorneys, pleaded guilty and were assessed $3.00 each and the costs. They were arrested on a state warrant sworn out by Albert Shaubel, superintendent of the piano factory, whom they had assaulted and battered last Thursday morning.

The case of Pearson vs. Johnson was called before Justice E. W. Brown Friday afternoon, coming over from I. A. McCullom's court at Kingston. Pearson had entered suit against Fred Johnson, manager of the Ellwood farm, to recover an alleged unpaid account of $5.00 borrowed money and 45 cents book account. Pearson claimed that he loaned Johnson the money nearly five years ago and that the book account was made three years ago. There were several witnesses for the plaintiff but none for the defendant. The court granted Pearson a judgment of $5.00, the defendant to pay the costs.

TO ORGANIZE BAND

Committee of Business Men Have Affairs in Charge—Concerts Possible

The chances are that Genoa will have another band before the present season is over. A movement is now on foot by a committee of business men that should and will insure a permanent musical organization if the balance of the business men of the town will get behind the project and push. A series of concerts for the summer are contemplated, a feature that should appeal to the business men, for there is nothing that will bring out more people onto the streets than a band of music. It is of course up to the business men of the town to determine whether the concerts will materialize. It takes money to run a band and the money must be raised outside the band room.

This committee will transact all the business of the band, arrange for dates, collect all money due the band and pay the musicians for their services when called out. By this system all wrangling in the band room will be done away with, and that means long life for the organization. About 99 out of 100 country bands ever organized were disrupted thru ill feeling generated at the business meetings.

TEN DOLLARS IN GOLD

First Prize to be Awarded After First Count, on Wednesday, August 10

DIAMOND RING THE GRAND PRIZE

Anyone Should be Able to Make a Choice From the Long List of Nominees Published Below—Vote Early and Let Contestants Know You are Interested

The contest is on. The two former contests put on by The Republican-Journal created considerable interest, but they were really tame affairs in comparison with the one which has just been inaugurated. A beautiful diamond ring is one thing that every young lady desires to own, and right here is the opportunity for some one to have her wishes fulfilled. Just a little effort will bring some kind of a prize in this contest and a little more effort on the part of one young lady will land the grand prize.

There have been many nominations and there may be more, for any lady may enter the contest at any time. If ten votes are found in the ballot box for any lady at the first count, that lady will be considered a candidate and her name published.

Remember, the first count takes place on the evening of August 10, the balloting for that day to be closed at six o'clock. The one having the highest number of votes at that time will be awarded $10.00 in gold. All the votes counted at that time will be included in the count of the grand total on the 14th of September, when the one receiving the greatest number of all votes cast during the contest will be awarded the diamond ring.

Any one of the contestants has the privilege of looking over the subscription list of The Republican-Journal to ascertain who are not subscribers. In this manner they can also ascertain who are in arrears and pick out the subscribers who might be induced to pay four or five years in advance. No subscriptions will be accepted for more than ten years in advance. It will pay to get after the new subscriptions. While $1.25 paid in by an old subscriber brings 125 votes, $1.25 paid in by a new subscriber brings 250 votes. This difference is not made because the publisher thinks more of the new subscription than the old, but as an incentive for the contestant and her friends to get in the new names.

Other prizes than the two mentioned above will be given away, just how and when we can not state at this time, all depending on the returns.

Remember, the lady having the highest number of votes on the 10th of August receives the $10.00 in gold.

The following nominations have been made, now it is up to the subscribers to look at the label on their papers, ascertain how they stand with the printer, and if in arrears, come in and vote for their favorite. Persons who pay their subscriptions may vote at the same time or hand the coupons to the lady of their choice, as they desire.

PETITIONS FILED

Aspirants for County Offices Present Names to Clerk Monday

There was no excitement over the filing of petitions for county offices with County Clerk Henderson on Monday morning, says the True Republican. The petitions filed will complete the Republican ballot probably, altho petitions may be filed until August 16.

The petitions filed and the order of their filing were as follows: For county clerk, S. M. Henderson. For superintendent of schools, W. W. Coultas. For sheriff, Frank C. Poust. For county treasurer, Charles C. Pond. For county judge, William L. Pond.

PICNIC AT ERLIN

Woodmen of that City Plan Big Event for August 13

Between four and five thousand Woodmen and their families from northern Illinois and southern Wisconsin will be guests at the "fellowship" picnic planned by Silver Leaf Camp No. 60, Modern Woodmen of America, to be held at Trout park, north of Elgin, August 13.

The picnic is given solely by the Elgin camp. All preparations for the events are in the hands of committees chosen from Silver Leaf camp. However, cordial invitations to attend the gathering have been extended to 200 camps within the radius of a few hundred miles of Elgin and all of these camps will be represented.

WHERE GREAT SECRETS ARE LOCKED UP

by EDWARD B. CLARK

HE state, war and navy building which houses, as its name suggests, the three great departments of the government, is at once the most interesting and the least interesting to visitors of all Washington's great public structures. There are secrets in hundreds locked up in the breasts of the officials of the three departments, and in written, printed and photographic form, locked up in the office vaults.

In a sense the building is the least interesting because the outward manifestation of matters of public moment is not in the least showy. It is the most interesting from the curiosity point of view because all visitors find themselves speculating as to what great state and war matters are concerning the officials whose lips are sealed, and whose actions often betray unconsciously the fact that they are burden bearers of mystery.

It was not long ago that the name of Jefferson Davis, at one time secretary of war, and afterward president of the Confederacy was recut into the aqueduct bridge which was planned at the time that he was secretary of war. Years ago the name was chiseled out because of the pitch of feeling that existed in the north against Davis' action in advocating secession and in heading the Confederacy of the southern states. Feeling died away and lately the name was festored for the sake of historic accuracy and also to mark the coming of an era of good feeling.

On the wall of the room outside the private office of Secretary of War Jacob M. Dickinson, are at least 30 portraits of former secretaries and among them is the picture of Jefferson Davis, the chieftain of the Confederacy. The painting has hung there unchallenged for many years, and it will remain there, barring the accident of fire, for all time to come. It is by far the best painting in the room as a work of art, and persons who do not recognize the features of Davis ask almost instant-day may be forced into the position of a combatant.

The course that is followed by the United States government in making plans to conduct a war in case war comes is the course followed by every great country of the world, and so no nation can take offense because it is known that the United States outlines plans to meet another country on the field, or on the high seas of conflict. War games are played yearly in the army and navy "closets" of all the great countries of the world, and while they are called games, they have a certain grimness about them that is not at all playful.

War with Great Britain is the remotest kind of possibility, and yet a board of naval officers and a board of army officers have prepared plans which will be put into service, unless the lapse of time renders them useless, in case such a conflict shall occur. The same statement holds true of preparations for possible trouble with France, Germany, Italy, Spain, Japan, Russia and all the other great countries, and with countries of less degree of strength, importance and population.

Comparatively recently when it became known that it would be necessary to reoccupy Cuba, the order for reoccupation came suddenly. While no one knew it definitely, every preparation for just such a contingency had been made by the army board, and as soon as the order was issued, transports were ready and certain troops were designated for foreign service, and they were sent at once "to the front" properly equipped and with every arrangement made for their travel and their subsistence and with every plan made for their course of procedure when in the island.

Some time ago when it seemed likely that because of the activities of President Castro of Venezuela, this country might have difficulty with the South American republic, a republic in little more than in name, it would have been possible to have invaded Venezuela with an armed force and to have done it without much preliminary preparation. Every inch of the Venezuela country likely to be traversed by an invading army was known to the American authorities. The roads were known, and every point of vantage and disadvantage was known. It had been said that it would have been practically impossible for a foreign force to reach Castro in his fastness, but the situation and all its difficulties was understood, and it was the belief of the war game students in the great Washington building which stands opposite the White House, that Castro could be brought to terms quickly, even though it must be done by a comparatively small force sent from a great distance.

While the members of the general staff of the army make preparations for all demands that may be made on the service in case war should come, it is what is known as the war college which works out the actual problems of warfare. Officers are detailed as students at the war college and while various kinds of work are set for them to do, the most important is that of engaging in a war game inside the four walls of the room, a game which one day may have for the scene of its action, territory thousands of miles in extent. One of the last plays which occupied the attention of the army officers was one which assumed the possibility that the Japanese were intending to land on the Pacific coast. Over at Newport, Rhode Island, the naval war college had worked out the problem which would confront the navy if the Japanese fleet had succeeded in reaching the Pacific coast. Of course there were two answers to the problem and one involved the defeat and the scattering of the Japanese ships. The army officers gave consideration only to the condition which would arise if the Japanese navy had overmatched ours, and the Japanese had succeeded in landing a great army on the Pacific coast.

In working out these war games, officers are detailed to represent the enemy and others to represent the forces of this country. The "moves" in the game are watched and umpires decide which has the better of the matter. When the game has been finished the various moves, if they are deemed to be successful from the viewpoint of America, become a part of the plans which are recommended for adoption in case the war game becomes a dire reality.

In the war and navy building there are naval secrets. Once on a time a magazine contained an article which said in effect there had been great mistakes in the building of our battleships and cruisers. The article met with some approval and some disapproval at the hands of the naval experts. One statement in it was to the effect that when our battleships were not heavily laden the heavy armor plate was above water and that consequently a part of the hull, the most vulnerable part made a fair and unprotected target for the enemy's guns.

In making the comparison, the writer of the article said that one of the great British warships, the most recently launched and considered the most formidable, was protected by her heavy armor plate no matter whether she was heavily laden or light laden. It was stated that this dreadnaught's heavy armor plate extended below the water line at all times and the intimation was that the statement could not be disproved.

As soon as this article appeared inquiry was made at the navy department concerning the truth of the story that our ships were unprotected at certain times by their heavy armor plate and that the reverse was true of one of the British dreadnaughts.

From a dark recess in a vault there was brought forth a photograph which had been secured of the British ship which had been used for the comparison. The photograph took all the strength out of the written statement.

It is probable that in all the navy departments of the world there are photographs of the warships of other nations. These are not hard to obtain for they are on sale everywhere, but there are photographs taken under certain conditions which are not supposed to be in common circulation. Some of these photographs show ships at a disadvantage, and they are of service to the naval authorities of countries which one day may engage in warfare. It is probable that a good supply of photographs of this kind taken of foreign vessels is in the possession of the United States authorities.

NEWS NUGGETS FROM ILLINOIS

Cairo.—Coroner James M. McManus made formal demand on Sheriff Fred D. Nellis for the office of sheriff of Alexandria county. Accompanied by former Circuit Clerk Lee B. Davis and Alexander S. Fraser, who was chief deputy when McManus temporarily held office after the removal of Frank E. Davis by Gov. Deneen, following the Cairo riots, McManus presented a written request for all fees collected by Nellis. It is understood that McManus expects the office, as he has asked former Chief of Police M. S. Egan to report as his chief deputy. The case against 12 rioters is only barely moving along. Night sessions being held to help matters along. All negroes are challenged when they appear for jury service.

Clinton.—Chief of Police John Struble was shot about midnight by an unidentified man and died in a short time. Struble and Policeman Tony Musser were watching at the home of Albert Sandt, manager of the electric company, where for three nights the refrigerator on an inclosed porch had been broken into and articles taken. The thief returned and the officers seized him, but he was so strong they could not hold him. In the scuffle he shot Struble and ran. Policeman Musser shot at the fugitive several times, but did not hit him. Decatur bloodhounds were on the scent in an hour, but the murderer has not been found. It is believed his home is in Clinton. Struble had been chief of police 15 months.

Decatur.—Paul Reeves, the two-year-old son of Mrs. Jennie Reeves, fell from a fourth-story window of the Manitou building to the concrete sidewalk, escaping with a few slight bruises. The child had managed to climb into a window, the screen of which was not securely fastened. In his fall he carried the screen with him, going through the awning of a store on the first floor and landing at the feet of a passerby.

Springfield.—A. L. Bowen of Springfield passed first in the list of applicants for the position of executive secretary to the state charities commission. Five others passed the state civil service examinations and were given places on the eligible list, as follows: James H. Kelley, Urbana; Harry Hill, St. Charles; Gilbert L. Campbell, and Clarence J. Primm, Chicago; R. J. Holmes, Downer's Grove.

Hampden.—The members of the Military Tract Editorial association will meet here August 12. The membership of the association includes the counties of Adams, Schuyler, Brown, Calhoun, Pike, Rock Island, Mercer, Henry, Bureau, Putnam, Marshall, Stark, Peoria, Knox, Warren, Henderson, Hancock, McDonough, Fulton.

East St. Louis.—Howard W. Gill of Baltimore, a novice aviator, fell nearly 100 feet and received severe injuries. He was flying outside of the aviation field where the novice took his mind from his levers and he lost control of the machine.

Joliet.—According to a census made by the city there are 8,500 persons employed in the manufacturing establishments of Joliet. The largest are the Illinois Steel company with 3,000 employees and the American Steel and Wire company with 1,500.

Erie.—Fire having its origin in the explosion of ammonia in an ice plant destroyed three business buildings, entailing a loss of $15,000. At one time it appeared as if the whole town would be destroyed.

East St. Louis.—Laboring men are so scarce in East St. Louis that many of the big industries are sending out orders to other cities in an effort to get the supply of men that cannot be obtained at home.

Barstow.—The drainage commissioners of Hampton township have let the contract for the digging of the drainage ditch in Hampton district No. 4 to Matthews Brothers & Co. The work is to be finished this year. The ditch is to be 6 1/2 feet deep, 30 feet wide at the top, 12 feet wide at the bottom and four miles long.

Kewanee.—The annual reunion of the One Hundred and Twelfth regiment, Illinois volunteer infantry, will be held here September 20. The regiment was made up of residents of Bureau and neighboring counties.

Sterling.—John Kowles was struck by a Chicago & Northwestern train and instantly killed. In attempting to avoid a train he stepped directly in front of another on an adjoining track.

Duquoin.—Upon his return from a visit to St. Louis last week, George G. Harsey, a retired farmer, discovered that $3,250 which he carried in a salt sack tied at his waist had disappeared.

Moline.—Rev. Samuel Lanier, a negro, one hundred and five years old, who spent the greater part of his life in slavery, died here.

Bonfield.—Thieves cracked the post office safe. Two hundred dollars' worth of stamps and $15 in money were taken.

Chicago.—E. J. Metzger of 711 Waveland avenue attempted to end his life by stabbing himself in the left side with a knife in the town hall police station. He had been taken to the station to explain why he was carrying a revolver. Metzger was unconscious when found and was taken to the Alexian Brothers' hospital, where it was said the wound may prove fatal.

Peoria.—As a result of the investigations of a deputy factory inspector 19 Peoria employers pleaded guilty to violation of the child labor law and were fined.

MORE PINKHAM CURES

Added to the Long List due to This Famous Remedy.

Oronogo, Mo.—"I was simply a nervous wreck. I could not walk across the floor without my heart fluttering and I could not even receive a letter. Every month I had such a bearing down sensation, as if the lower parts would fall out. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done my nerves a great deal of good and has also relieved the bearing down. I recommended it to some friends and two of them have been greatly benefited by it."—Mrs. MAE MCKINTY, Oronogo, Mo.

Another Grateful Woman. St. Louis, Mo.—"I was bothered terribly with a female weakness and had backache, bearing down pains and pains in lower parts. I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound regularly and used the Sanative Wash and now I have no more troubles that way."—Mrs. AL. HERZOG, 5722 Frascott Ave., St. Louis, Mo.

Because your case is a difficult one, doctors having done you no good, do not continue to suffer without giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. It surely has cured many cases of female ills, such as inflammation, ulceration, displacements, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, indigestion, dizziness, and nervous prostration. It costs but a trifle to try it, and the result is worth millions to many suffering women.

PROFITABLE DAIRYING
 By HUGH G. VAN PELT
 Dairy Expert Iowa State Dairy Association

Pure Bred or Grade Cows?

Many who start in the dairy business with dairy cattle begin at once with pure bred cows of one or the other dairy breeds. There are distinct advantages in using pure bred dairy animals in that there is always a ready market for the offspring. Again, in starting the herd with pure bred the farmer or dairyman can better acquaint himself with the individual merits of the cows by giving due study to the pedigree which illustrates their breeding. The only objection to starting with pure bred is the matter of first cost, and as a rule there is not a great difference in the cost of cows that are pure bred and those of nearly the same individual character that are only grades. From the standpoint of milk and butter-fat production there is no doubt but that there are grades that produce equally well, but from the standpoint of building up the herd in such a way that a demand is created for the offspring it is necessary that the cows be pure bred and that we have pedigrees and registry papers. As a rule it is more advisable and less expensive for the beginner in dairying to get his information and education from grade cows which cost less money. Later, or perhaps at the same time, it is advisable to buy one or two or three extra good pure bred heifers or cows and from them build up a pure bred dairy herd while depending upon the grades to furnish the dairy products. One cannot be too careful at this stage as much of his success rests upon the foundation herd. If grades are purchased they should be of the best character, and although not pure in their breeding, they should be well bred. They should be selected for the specific purpose of producing dairy products. Experience has taught that with the dairy function is to be found a certain form. The typical dairy form is inclined toward the wedge shape; that is, from whatever point of view the observer looks at the cow, the form which meets his eye is that more nearly conforming to the shape of a wedge rather than the shape of a rectangle. In most considerations, in fact, the dairy cow differs extremely from the beef cow. In selecting a dairy cow we should bear in mind that there are five distinct functions that must be given due consideration, that are absolutely necessary if the cow be useful on the farm.

Five Requirements of the Dairy Cow.
 In the first place, of course, she must live and in order to live under the conditions of environment in which most dairy cows are situated, namely, to be stabled for six or eight months out of a year, and oftentimes in barns which are none too well lighted or ventilated, the cow must have a good constitution. Constitution is indicated by a large, distended nostril, bright eye and great depth through the chest and heart girth. Secondly, she must have large feeding capacity. The only use to which a dairy cow is put is to convert the feed which she consumes into milk and butter fat. If she does not have the power of consuming a large amount of feed she will not have the power of producing a large amount of milk. Given two cows, one of which has the capacity of consuming twice as much food as the other and converting an equal percentage of the foodstuff consumed into milk and butter fat, it can be easily seen one cow is worth more than two of the other. Those things which indicate large feeding capacity are large mouth and a deep, long barrel with well sprung ribs that are far apart. This indicates largeness of capacity, but more is necessary; the digestive apparatus must be powerful and this is indicated by the quality of the hide and hair found by the touch. If the hide is hard and stiff and the hair harsh and wiry, it is an indication of weakness of digestive apparatus. On the other hand, if the hide is soft and pliable, much like a kid glove, and the hair soft and silky, the indication is that there is sufficient power of digestive apparatus to handle the feed which is stored in the great capacity in a short time, and the cow is ready for more.

In the third place, the cow must have a well developed blood circulatory system in order to transport the nutrients which the digestive apparatus takes from the food around to that portion of her body where it is converted into milk and butter fat. The process of taking up the food nutrients after digestion, by the blood, is termed assimilation. This is one of the all important considerations in selecting dairy cows and is probably one of the chief differences between dairy cows and those bred for other purposes. This is indicated also by the condition of the hair and the hide, whether soft and pliable, or hard, harsh and wiry. It is also indicated by the veins upon the udder and the large mammary or milk veins passing from the udder forward and entering the abdomen at small orifices which are termed milk wells and passing from here back to the heart and lungs for purification and to be pumped back again past the digestive apparatus to be loaded up with more nutrients. If this circulatory system is dull and sluggish or carries the nutrients to other parts of the body rather than to the udder or the milk factory, the cow is naturally of an unprofitable kind. It may be readily noted on the common cow or the beef cow that the mammary vein is, as a rule, very small; in fact, about as large in diameter as a good sized lead pencil and very short in its length from the udder to the milk well. Never are these cows large producers of milk or butter fat. On the other hand observe the highly developed special purpose dairy cow, and it will be noted that the vein on each side of the body is not only large in diameter, about the size of the wrist, but is very tortuous, extends far forward and instead of the entire blood flow entering one milk well, there is often from two to five give milk, but through the work of the breeder we have many cows at the present time, in fact, most of the pure bred dairy cows that give an equal amount of milk from the front quarters. Very important also is it that the texture of the udder be of good quality. It is not uncommon to find cows with udders almost perfect in size and form that give very little milk and this is due to the fact that texture is lacking. The udder is beefy and, consequently, just as large after being milked as before. Good texture of udder is determined by the handling qualities. If hard and thick and resistant to the touch of the hand, then in most cases it is beefy and not conducive to large production. If soft and pliable and elastic, covered with fine, soft hair and permeated with blood vessels apparent to the eye of the observer, it will be found that at milking time the udder is large and distended in all proportions, but collapses after the milk has been taken from it in such a way that it has much the same appearance as a disrag. Then, when she returns to her food the udder at once begins to expand, being filled with milk-making nutrients and is again ready to empty its great contents at another milking hour.

Now, after one has started the dairy herd he should bear in mind that the great problem which presents itself is the one of building up and bettering the herd at all times instead of producing animals that are less profitable or poorer in their conformation than their mothers. There is only one way to bring about improvement and that is by the careful selection of sires and by properly raising the offspring by feeding and caring for them with the best possible methods. It is never advisable to use a grade or a scrub sire no matter whether the cows be pure in their breeding or only grades. True it is that many grade bulls are as good individually or look to one as being as good as any pure bred sire, and in many instances it is true that many grade bulls can be found that, speaking from the standpoint of individuality, are superior to the large majority of the pure bred bulls obtainable. However, one is always uncertain as to the outcome of his breeding operations when using a sire whose pedigree is not known. It is not enough to know the character of the sire and dam of the bull at the head of the herd. It may be and often times is the case that a grade bull may have a most excellent mother and be well bred and still the results of his use be the greatest of disappointment due to the law of atavism or reversion, which means simply that the offspring may trace back through the sire and dam, grand sires and grand dams, often back several generations, to some animal that was the most veritable scrub, and consequently, the offspring would be much poorer than any of the other ancestors. An illustration of this is that Aberdeen Angus cows, pure in their breeding, sometimes have red calves. This is due undoubtedly to the fact that the Aberdeen Angus breed of cattle originated scores of years ago from a foundation of red animals and, although at the present time the largest percentage of the offspring are jet black, with scarcely a white spot on them, some of the calves are born red.

In addition to the pedigree that indicates large production in all the maternal ancestry, the individuality of the bull must be of the type desired in the offspring. He must give indications of prepotency and masculinity, have a strong constitution, capacity, circulatory system, nervous temperament or disposition, and the indications of milking ability described for the selection of cows. Too much attention can never be given to the selecting of the head of the herd and the fact that so much carelessness has in the past been used on the dairy farm in this particular regard is the reason why dairy herds at the present time do not produce more largely on the average and more profitably than they do. This is well illustrated by the fact that in the neighborhood of the very best breeders of bred dairy cattle in the world due to the fact that these breeders have sold or loaned to their neighbors bulls with the prepotency and highly developed dairy breeding behind them that rendered them useful in building up the herds to their present standard. As a result of this usage of good sires for several years past these dairymen are selling their cows and heifers for extremely high prices, in many instances for grade cows and heifers from $75 up to $150 a head. As a matter of fact, there is only one way of securing good profitable dairy cows at the present time without paying extremely large prices for them, owing to the great demand for good cows, and that is by the use of good sires. As a rule most farmers have cows that they milk and many among them are profitable. By sorting these out, by using the Babcock test and scales and keeping them as a foundation herd, using only the very best of dairy sires, retaining the calves and growing them well, it is surprising how quickly the production of the farm herd may be doubled and then in the future doubled again and so on, depending entirely upon the character of the sire used and the methods employed in raising the offspring. It is possible at this time to buy good, high-grade cows capable of producing from three to six hundred pounds of butter in a year, but these kind of cows are very expensive and unless one is careful in selecting them he is liable to bring upon his farm different diseases, such as abortion, tuberculosis and many of the other diseases to which cows are subject.

Strong Healthy Women

If a woman is strong and healthy in a womanly way, motherhood means to her but little suffering. The trouble lies in the fact that the many women suffer from weakness and disease of the distinctly feminine organism and are unfitted for motherhood. This can be remedied.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

Cures the weaknesses and disorders of women. It acts directly on the delicate and important organs concerned in motherhood, making them healthy, strong, vigorous, virile and elastic.

"Favorite Prescription" banishes the indispositions of the period of expectancy and makes baby's advent easy and almost painless. It quickens and vitalizes the feminine organs, and insures a healthy and robust baby. Thousands of women have testified to its marvelous merits.

It Makes Weak Women Strong. It Makes Sick Women Well. Honest druggists do not offer substitutes, and urge them upon you as "just as good." Accept no secret nostrum in place of this non-secret remedy. It contains not a drop of alcohol and not a grain of habit-forming or injurious drugs. Is a pure glyceric extract of healing, native American roots.

CANNON ON THE TARIFF
It does not require either energy or intelligence to be a pessimist. A lazy man is an ideal pessimist.

"The pocket nerve" is one of the most sensitive nerves in our civilization and is always the first affected by any general discontent.

Prosperity has come in greater abundance to those sections that did not aid to bring in the policies of McKinley than to those who did vote for him in 1896.

The advice to take the tariff out of politics usually comes from those who are opposed to the protective tariff under which this country has had its greatest development.

Since the enactment of the Payne tariff law 200,000 idle freight cars, with the locomotive that hauled them, have gone out of the shops and off the sidetrack and again are answering the great demands of transportation and commerce.

In the middle west we have ceased to borrow and now lend. It is no longer true, except in the mouth of the demagogue, that the west is tributary to the east. The star of Empire westward has taken its way.

I have been denounced as a standpatter. I will confess I do not believe in frequent changes in the tariff. Agitation for revision and the revision itself always halt production.

Every day spent during the discussion and consideration of the Payne tariff bill resulted in an aggregate loss to labor and production estimated at from $10,000,000 to $20,000,000 a day. Yet those opposed to the Payne law propose to enter upon a revision in the next congress if they are granted power.

Our democratic friends, being in full power from 1893 to 1897, enacted the Wilson tariff law. The blind led the blind and they fell in the ditch, carrying with them the remainder of the people of the United States.

WILD WEST AND FAR EAST

Interesting Features of the Buffalo Bill and Pawnee Bill Exhibitions

Considerable interest has been aroused in this vicinity through the announced appearance of Buffalo Bill's Wild West and Pawnee Bill's Far East at Rockford, August 4.

Col. Wm. F. Cody, the original and only "Buffalo Bill," travels with the big exhibition and positively appears at every performance, rain or shine. Arrangements have been made with the railroad officials to run excursions at special rates from the various stations along the line and there will be special provisions for the accommodation of those who wish to visit the exhibition. To the small boy and grown-up, Buffalo Bill will be the chief attraction, for his fame is not dimmed by the years which have elapsed since he helped write the story of the West through his heroic deeds. One of the principal contests of the red men, in which he took active part, will be pictured in the open-air melodrama. The Battle of Summit Springs, an engagement in miniature introducing more than one hundred Indians and as many cavalymen and soldiers. Contrasted with this scene will be an Oriental Spectacle which will picture the gorgeous beauties of the Far East, its pagantry and people, its pleasures and pastimes, and its strange costumes and customs.

W. C. T. U. Notes

The meeting of the W. C. T. U. held at the home of the president, Mrs. Smith, last week, was unusually well attended and a very interesting session was held. Plans were made for the anniversary besides the regular business meeting. Reports of sick and those needing help was of one very needy family who could be well provided for if the father did not spend his money in the saloons instead of for their benefit. They will soon be provided with clothing and the city dads and neighbors will see that they do not starve and this is one of the effects of the legalized saloon.

The mothers' meeting and anniversary announced for this week has been unavoidably postponed until next week Thursday, July 28, when it will be held in the M. E. church parlors beginning at two o'clock. Every member is urged to be present and bring at least one mother with her. All mothers are cordially invited to come and listen to Mrs. Brushingham's talk to mothers, enjoy a good social time with us and learn of our work and workers. Committee.

Additional Local News

The stretch of cement walk in the east end of town was finished Tuesday, a total length of 1680 feet. One can now start at the postoffice and walk straight east a distance of nearly a mile and have cement walk under foot every step of the way. From the west corporation line to the east line is 1 1/2 miles and one can walk the entire distance without leaving the cement walk.

C. F. Deardurff, who has been making and breaking some records in chicken raising this spring and summer, has another record to his credit which will stand by itself for some time. Long before others thought of such a thing he had springers on the market. Now he has a young hen which has laid its first egg at the tender age of four months and seventeen days. It is of the barred plymouth rock variety.

Contractor Seymour informs us that the Woodstock & Sycamore Traction Co. and the Illinois Central will probably come to some kind of an agreement today, in the meantime there being a truce between the two companies. During Saturday and Sunday the Illinois Central had a locomotive and caboose stationed at the crossing to prevent any undue haste on the part of the interurban people.

Henry Helderbrant, an old resident, hung himself at six o'clock Monday morning at his home at East Paw Paw. Mentally unbalanced for some time, he went to Elgin of his own accord recently, but stayed only two days. He had made several threats of suicide this summer.

Mrs. Huff, (Hattie Watson) who has been visiting at the home of Mrs. A. B. Cleford, returned to her home in Salt Lake City last week. Mr. Huff was here a few days and accompanied his wife on the return trip.

Kenneth Field's nose is broken, for he is not the baby at his home now. An eleven pound brother arrived there Tuesday evening, July 19. All are doing nicely, even Bennie is able to get thru the regular routine of business.

Genoa has never claimed to be what is usually termed a "Saturday" town, but when the sun goes down and the electric lights are on she comes into her own. It is then that the shop keepers get busy. The average city of the size of Genoa is a dead one at nine o'clock in the evening. Last Saturday evening the streets were so crowded that one had to elbow his way thru in many places. Out of curiosity the Republican-Journal reporter counted the number of people on Main street at nine o'clock, as accurately as was possible. There were fully 400, and 150 of these were in the stores and shops.

Warren Drake was out from Chicago over Sunday.

Guy Yonken of Los Angeles, Calif., is here this week calling on friends and visiting the scenes of his childhood days. He left here twenty-five years ago, being a son of Henry Yonken who will be remembered by the older citizens.

Anyone can afford to use silverware on their tables these days. This may seem a little out of the way to some, but we can show you the truth of the statement if you will call and look at the goods and get prices. G. H. Martin.

S. R. Crawford shipped a car load of household goods, farm implements and a team to Timber Lake, South Dakota, Tuesday, where his son, Harold, has taken up a quarter section of land which he secured thru the last "drawing" pulled off by the government. Mr. Crawford left for Timber Lake Tuesday evening and will remain there several weeks, or until his son is well established in the new home.

The car of goods was accompanied by Joe Austin who will remain in that country and work at the carpenter trade. The latter's brother, Nels, has been in South Dakota for some time and is well pleased with the country.

F. P. Glass was a Chicago visitor Wednesday.

John Sell, an employe at the telephone factory, met with a painful accident while at work last Friday. The index finger of his left hand was badly crushed in a punching machine. He will not lose the finger but he will be unable to work for some time.

Since the publication of the article regarding the marriage of Dr. Ernest Sisson, The Republican-Journal has been informed that the article was right in several respects, but wrong in points of interest to Genoa people. The Dr. Ernest Sisson married is a dentist residing in the same city, but he never resided in Genoa. The Republican-Journal still insists, however, on congratulating the Sisson who did not get married.

The Republican-Journal has received a letter from Raymond Crawford, dated July 14 at Gettysburg, South Dakota, in which he states that the crops there are fairly good. Also there has been somewhat of a drouth in certain parts of the north-west, he states that his neighborhood has had three good rains since the 22nd of June. The crops look good, especially corn. He also states that some harvesting will be done this week.

Not Like Other Kitchen Cabinets

You didn't know there was a cabinet that would save so much labor.

Just try it.

Three hundred thousand women have rested at ease in front of Hoosier kitchen cabinets, doing their daily work, and without exception they say the Hoosier cabinet is a marvel for comfort and work-saving convenience.

We want you to try it. In no other way can you understand what a remarkable cabinet the Hoosier is.

So we offer to let you use it while it pays for itself, without obligation to keep it if its efficiency doesn't make you enthusiastic.

It is made of the best material throughout—oak and metal—and will save work for you all your life.

MARRIAGE AND DIVORCE.

The question of divorces has been under careful consideration for many centuries. The Pharisees tempted Christ by asking his judgment on the Mosaic law of divorce, and received an answer direct and fundamental. It has been a serious, a continuous, a vexatious question from time immemorial, says Newark News.

The bill advocated by the Audubon societies of the state of New York, forbidding the sale within this state of the plumage of any wild bird which is protected within New York, has passed the legislature and is awaiting the governor's signature.

A porous plaster worth $50 is something of a novelty in the curative agency line. A druggist in Middletown, N. Y., is the possessor of this valuable article, and he is about to send it to the treasury department at Washington to be redeemed.

A Chicago doctor has arranged to give the dogs a drink this summer. He has bought a thousand two-quart basins and the city council has allowed him to distribute them about the city in front of stores and houses, and the tenants will be expected to see that they are kept filled with water for the benefit of the dogs.

Connecticut is traditionally the land of steady habits, and perhaps a "whopper" of a fish story coming from that quarter will get more credence than if it originated in a more sinful source.

CANNON COLLAPSES

SPEAKER'S MIND CLOUDS NEAR THE CLOSE OF KANSAS ADDRESS.

REVIVES, THANKS AUDITORS

Defends Tariff, Attacks Press and Takes Fling at "Insurgents"—Heat Overcomes "Uncle Joe," But Recovers and Makes Second Address.

Alma, Kan., July 20.—Speaker Cannon completed his campaign speaking tour in Kansas last night and started for his home at Danville, Ill.

He will leave there in a day or two for Mackinac, Mich., for rest and recuperation.

"My primary comes off September 15," said he, "but I guess I am going to have no opposition. I will spend the first half of September campaigning my district in an automobile."

Speaker Near to Fainting. Winfield, Kan., July 18.—Joseph G. Cannon, speaker of the nation's house of representatives, collapsed here on the chautauqua platform after speaking for an hour and three-quarters.

Prompt aid prevented him from fainting, but he was unable to continue his address, and, speaking with the greatest difficulty, he begged the audience to excuse him.

Intense Heat Causes Faintness. The intense heat affected him, and brought on the sudden sinking spell. Ice water and fresh air partially revived him, and he haltingly thanked the audience for listening to him for so great a length of time.

Accompanied by Congressman Phillip Campbell, and declaring he was "not a bit sick," Mr. Cannon departed later for Arkansas City, where he delivered a brief speech. The speaker had recovered from his collapse and insisted upon making the trip.

Dr. L. A. Tarabus pronounced Mr. Cannon's heart action good and said he probably would suffer no further ill effects.

Hits at Press. "Discontent of a people," said Speaker Cannon, in his address here, "is not measured by complaints in the press. It is measured in a more significant manner and makes more indelible impression than that of a penny paper bought, perused, thrown away and forgotten."

Speaker Cannon declared the opponents of protection have misrepresented the tariff, lied about its schedules and resorted to every conceivable trick to keep the tariff in politics.

"The demagogue," said he, "may pick out an item here and there and say that duties are too high, but the law is to be tested by all its provisions and not by an isolated item here and there."

Denounces "Insurgents." Mr. Cannon denounced the Insurgents in congress and paid his respects to Senator Bristow, declaring the latter was seeking notoriety.

Somewhat in the way of a reply to an address made by Senator Bristow in Winfield a week ago, Speaker Cannon disputed the statements made by the Kansan emphatically. Mr. Bristow had made sensational charges concerning the rubber schedule of the tariff bill.

Glavis' Wife Files Affidavit That Husband Proffered an Inducement to Separate.

Seattle, Wash., July 18.—Mrs. Maud Glavis, wife of Louis R. Glavis, one of the principal witnesses in the Ballinger-Pinchot hearing, filed an affidavit in the superior court, in which she alleges her husband offered her a government position and attorney fees if she would consent to a divorce. Glavis began a suit for divorce here last winter.

Woman Eats Four Babes. Puerto Plata, Santo Domingo, July 20.—The disappearance of Dominican children near the Haytian frontier has been explained by the horrible confession of a Haytian woman that she had murdered them, eating four.

WOMAN CONFESSES SHE KILLED GAME WARDEN

Mrs. Frank Stout Says John O'Connor Tried to Break Up Her Home.

Springfield, Ill., July 18.—Mrs. Frank Stout confessed that she had fired the shot which resulted in the death of Deputy State Game Warden John O'Connor.

Mrs. Stout is in jail here and will be held to await the action of the grand jury without bond. The woman appeared before the coroner's jury at her own request.

O'Connor was shot Friday night at his home by some one who fired through an open door. In an ante-mortem statement he declared that Frank Stout had threatened to kill him, but Stout, when arrested, proved an alibi. Later Mrs. Stout was arrested and, in her confession, declared O'Connor had annoyed her and "had tried to break up her home."

Stealthily making her way to the O'Connor home Mrs. Stout said she climbed the high board fence in the rear of the house and slowly neared the rear door of the house.

Going to the doorway, she says, she took deliberate aim at O'Connor and fired. His lungs pierced by a ball from a 32-caliber revolver he fell to the floor.

The woman admitted while on the witness stand that she telephoned O'Connor a few days before his death and asked him if he intended to quit coming to her home. This admission is taken by authorities to mean that the woman was in love with O'Connor and that jealousy may have prompted her in her act.

MOB CHASES "DRY" SLEUTH

Repetition of Newark Lynching Narrowly Averted at East Liverpool, O.

East Liverpool, O., July 18.—Albert Keddie, aged twenty-one years, was shot by Detective Ira Rickett of the Anti-Saloon league force. Keddie was standing on the sidewalk when Detective Rickett attempted it. He is alleged to shoot Alvin Dawson, twenty-one years old. Dawson escaped the fire and Keddie was shot through the left ankle.

Rickett escaped, pursued by a crowd, but ran into the arms of Policeman Fowler. He and Dawson were taken to the city jail, followed by crowd of several thousand persons. Threats were made to lynch the detective, but he was finally landed behind the bars. Extra police were placed on duty at the jail in an endeavor to prevent a repetition of the Newark tragedy of eight days ago.

TAFT STARTS ON A CRUISE

President and Family Sail on the Mayflower for Trip Along the Maine Coast.

Beverly, Mass., July 18.—President Taft, his family and other members of his household, boarded the yacht Mayflower this afternoon and at three o'clock the vessel weighed anchor and steamed away for a cruise up the coast of Maine that will last eight days. Included in the party are Mrs. Taft and her sister, Mrs. Louise More of Cincinnati, Miss Helen Taft, Charlie Taft, Secretary Norton and Mrs. Norton and Capt. A. W. Butts.

Former Governor Hill of Maine, who is also the nominal head of the Republican national committee, in company with Bryan Boyd of Augusta, had a conference with the president at Burgess Point prior to his departure, at which they induced him to make a few brief speeches on the trip.

PIER FIRE LOSS $750,000

Conflagration On Hudson River Front Does Great Damage to Water Craft—Two Perish.

New York, July 18.—Thousands of people witnessed the most spectacular pier fire since the Hoboken disaster ten years ago, in which 150 lives were lost. The monetary loss will be more than $750,000. Pier 14 of the Metropolitan steamship line, on the Hudson river, was practically destroyed.

The freight steamer H. F. Dimock caught fire and drifted into the river, where fire boats and tugs extinguished the flames. Two of the twenty-eight in her crew who jumped overboard are missing. Six barges were destroyed and the passenger steamship Harvard was badly scorched.

PITTSBURG MAN IS ACCUSED

Millionaire's Secretary Charged With Having Taken and Lost His Employer's Money.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 18.—Although superintendent of a Sunday school, an active elder in the fashionable Tabernacle Presbyterian church, East end, and recently a candidate on the Prohibition ticket for a seat in the state legislature, Albert H. Eames, private secretary to Alexander Peacock, "a Carnegie millionaire," is enjoying freedom under a bond of $15,000. He is charged with stealing hundreds of thousands of dollars from Millionaire Peacock, his benefactor.

Wreck Kills 7; Several Injured.

Peoria, Ill., July 19.—Toledo, Peoria and Western passenger train from the west collided with a cut of coal cars running wild opposite the terminal station at South Bartonville. Mail Clerk W. H. Hipsley of Canton was killed and several others injured.

PERCIVAL'S VISIT TO UNCLE SI'S FARM—NO. 1

BALLINGER FAVORED

REPORT OF CONGRESSIONAL INVESTIGATION COMMITTEE VINDICATES HIM.

MINORITY REPORT OPPOSES

Secretary of Interior Freed of Charges Made by Pinchot, Garfield and Glavis—Substance of Findings to Be Given Out Later.

Washington, July 19.—Richard A. Ballinger is vindicated. The secretary of the interior has been unjustly accused by Gifford Pinchot, James R. Garfield and Louis Glavis. He is the right man in the right place and he ought to be invited to continue holding down the job as long as he cares to have it.

This, it is reported, sums up the findings of the majority of the joint congressional committee, which for five months has been making an exhaustive investigation of the conduct of affairs of the entire department of the interior, and also of the bureau of forestry of the department of agriculture.

The investigators who concur in these findings, which constitute a condemnation of the course of Gifford Pinchot, former chief forester; James R. Garfield, former secretary of the interior, and Louis R. Glavis, former chief of a field division of the general land office, will be found to be the following: Senators Nelson, Minnesota, chairman; Flint, California; Sutherland, Utah; Root, New York; Representatives McCall, Massachusetts, vice-chairman; Denby, Michigan, and E. Olmstead, Pennsylvania.

Five Oppose Report.

Minority reports disagreeing with the foregoing findings will be made by: Representatives Madison, Kansas; Senators Purcell, North Dakota, and Fletcher, Florida; Representatives James, Kentucky, and Graham, Illinois.

Madison is a Republican and the last four named men are Democrats.

The basis of the report for the majority was prepared by Senator Nelson and for the minority by Representative James. Mr. Madison is writing his own opinions. It is understood that the results of the labors of Mr. Nelson and Mr. James have been submitted to the members of the committee for criticism and for additions. By the time the committee reassembles on September 10 it will have in practically fine shape the reports which it will make.

HURLS INFANT AMONG SNAKES

Colored Girl Is Sought for Lowering Child Into Well Containing Venomous Reptiles.

New Orleans, La., July 20.—Suspected of having lowered a white infant into an old well wherein were a nest of venomous snakes, Lucinda Richardson, an eleven-year-old negro of Jefferson Parish, on the outskirts of New Orleans, is now being searched for by the authorities in connection with the death of little Louisa Parr, a nine-month-old white child, whose swollen, fang-marked body was found in a well in the rear of the shack in which the negro family lived.

FAMILY KILLED BY TRAIN

Auto Containing Man, Woman and Daughter Is Hit—Occupants Hurled to Death.

Aurora, Ill., July 20.—Mr. and Mrs. N. J. McEvilly and little daughter Mary, of Dysart, Ia., were killed here when the Freepport passenger train on the Chicago and Northwestern railroad struck their automobile at Peck's Crossing, near Lombard.

ROOSEVELT TO TAKE NO PART IN NOMINATIONS

Declares He Wants It Understood That He's Not Trying to Name Candidates.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., July 19.—Col. Theodore Roosevelt announced that he does not intend trying to dictate nominations for the fall election.

"I want it distinctly understood that I shall take no part in nominations anywhere," was the way the ex-president put it.

"You may quote me as saying that," added the colonel. This announcement of the ex-president goes as to every state and national fight, even to the governorship of New York. In an interview last week he was quoted as saying that "I shall pick the governor of New York state." But he laid emphasis on his inclination to let the others do the nominating. He will continue to hold conferences with the state political leaders and "sound sentiment," but as to picking out candidates, never, at least, so he says.

When asked if he had a candidate in mind for the governorship, the ex-president maintained a sphinxlike silence.

Colonel Roosevelt made his announcement regarding his refusal to dictate nominations, after a visit to Sagamore Hill by Douglas Robinson, his brother-in-law and Theodore Robinson of Herkimer, son of Douglas Robinson, who is seeking the Republican nomination for congress as a progressive in the Herkimer-Oneida district.

MADRIZ ORDERS REBELS SHOT

Nicaraguan President Instructs His Commander to Slay Prisoners of War Without a Trial.

New Orleans, July 20.—An intercepted telegram sent by Jose Madriz, claimant to the Nicaraguan presidency, to Gen. Robert O. Gonzales, commander of the Madriz forces at San Ubaldo, Nicaragua, has been sent to Consul General Sussman of this city by President J. J. Estrada of the provisional government.

It instructs General Gonzales to shoot without trial all rebels and prisoners that are taken by his men. The telegram, which caused a thrill of horror through Central America, has been forwarded to the state department and will be referred to the peace conference at The Hague. The telegram was captured by Gen. Luis Mena of the provisionals, who reports on the day it was received by Gonzales two revolutionists were shot at Charco Muerto. The same day 15 prisoners taken by Estrada were released.

PLOT TO SLAY WORCESTER

United States Official Has Narrow Escape From Death at Hands of Renegade Moros.

Manila, July 19.—Dean C. Worcester, American secretary of interior for the Philippines, was set upon by renegade Moros, on the island of Palawan, and escaped assassination only through the alertness of his bodyguard, who shot down the outlaws, killing three of them outright and severely wounding several others.

Secretary Worcester was touring the island, which is the most westerly of the larger Philippine group, bounding the Sulu sea on the west, and was present at the installation of the new governor.

In anticipation of his coming a band of Moros planned his death.

Ohio Judge Sees Roosevelt.

New York, July 20.—Theodore Roosevelt had a long talk with Judge Kincaid of Toledo, Ohio, today and it was generally understood that political conditions in the judge's home state came in for discussion.

Receivers for Jones Bros.

Kansas City, Mo., July 18.—Receivers for the Jones Brothers' Mercantile company, a mail-order house, were appointed by the federal court here. The liabilities and the assets are each placed at $600,000.

16,000 MEN GO OUT

STRIKE ON GRAND TRUNK SYSTEM TIES UP FREIGHT TRAFFIC.

OFFICIALS MAN SOME TRAINS

Passenger Service Is Congested—Milk Famine Threatens Montreal—Strikers Are Orderly—Union Heads Decline Canada's Offer to Arbitrate.

New York, July 20.—The strike of the employees of the Grand Trunk railroad, which went into effect Monday night, has thrown 16,000 men out of employment. This is the latest estimate.

The strike order was obeyed by 6,000 conductors and trainmen and the company locked out 10,000 men in the shops in the hope that they would accept the positions deserted by the conductors and trainmen. The coup has not been successful.

Freight Piling Up. Freight and passenger traffic on the entire Grand Trunk system is congested. Freight is piling up in immense quantities at the various transfer points with no likelihood of being moved for a long time.

A few trains were run by minor officials of the road, with office clerks to take the tickets, but this method has proved a failure. Passengers will not purchase tickets because of the inability of the company to guarantee a through trip to any point.

A milk famine is threatened in Montreal by reason of the company's failure to deliver any part of the usual supply of that commodity from outlying points. Also there is a marked scarcity of other necessities usually transported by the railroad.

Strikers Are Orderly.

There was nothing approaching disorder among the strikers at any point along the system excepting in one extraordinary instance in which a brakeman on a Grand Trunk passenger train at Flint, Mich., was attacked by the strikers and saved by his mother, who shamed the strikers into retreat.

The commissioner of labor of Canada offered to arbitrate the grievances of the strikers, declaring that the Canadian government would pay all expenses incurred by him, but the officials of the union declined the offer, saying that the strike had gone too far for arbitration.

The railroad telegraphers have been taken out of the situation temporarily. The company gave them an eleventh-hour increase in wages and they appear to be satisfied. The strikers insist that they will win the telegraphers over to their cause yet.

Lee Is Directing Matters.

The strike is being directed by W. G. Lee, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen. Mr. Lee has been handling the impending Pennsylvania railway strike. He has about concluded the details of that matter and will now devote all of his time to the Grand Trunk strike.

Both sides appear to be out for a determined struggle. The union officials say they will accept nothing short of the wages and conditions prescribed in the standardization rules, and the company says it cannot meet any such conditions.

Pennsylvania Trouble Ended.

Philadelphia, July 20.—At an all-day conference in Broad street station the committee representing the conductors and trainmen on the Pennsylvania railroad east of Pittsburg conferred with the general superintendents and arranged the working details of the agreement between the company and its employees which was entered into on Monday. A few minor points of misunderstanding arose, but these were soon settled and all possibility of a strike now seems at an end.

REPORT CRIPPEN IN CANADA

Stewart Declares Alleged Slayer Reached Montreal—Suspicious Couple Leave Liner Megantic.

Montreal, Que., July 19.—Positive statements that Doctor Crippen, the London murderer, sought by Scotland Yard arrived here Sunday on the White Star Dominion liner Megantic was made by H. J. Alreess, saloon steward of this ship, who is corroborated by two other stewards.

The actions and appearance of a passenger who was attended at table by Alreess and accompanied by a woman registered only as "Caruthers," seemed suspicious to the steward.

When the liner docked here the couple attracted much attention by their apparent haste to disembark. They hailed a cab and disappeared.

The police believe Crippen has left Montreal for American soil, going probably to Chicago.

Grasshoppers Ravage Wabash Valley.

Terre Haute, Ind., July 20.—There is a plague of grasshoppers in the Wabash bottoms and automobilists find their tires covered with bodies of insects, impeding their progress and causing the cars to skid. Gardens, grass and corn have been destroyed.

May Yet Telephone to England.

Dover, July 20.—Telephonic communication between England and America may soon be a possibility if a new experimental submarine cable recently laid across the English channel by the British postoffice answers expectations.

WEAK KIDNEYS WEAKEN THE WHOLE BODY.

No chain is stronger than its weakest link. No man is stronger than his kidneys. Overwork, colds, strains, etc., weaken the kidneys and the whole body suffers. Don't neglect the slightest kidney ailment. Begin using Doan's Kidney Pills at once. They are especially for sick kidneys.

Ted Hiatt, Oswego, Kans., says: "For many years I suffered from kidney disorders. I was treated by specialists in Kansas City and Chicago, was told I had an excess of the kidneys and an operation was advised. I thereupon began the use of Doan's Kidney Pills and gradually improved. Soon an operation was unnecessary as my kidneys were well."

Remember the name—Doan's. For sale by all dealers. 50 cents a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

HE LIVED IN THE CITY.

Papa—Why can't we see the moon in the daytime? Jimmie—Cause they don't light it up until after dark.

The Stomach Hold. Colonel H. N. Renouf, at the "Old Guard" banquet at Delmonico's, emphasized the importance to an army of a good commissariat.

"You have perhaps heard," he said, "of the company of privates that a patriotic lady entertained one Memorial day to dinner.

"It was a good dinner, and at its end a pretty maid-servant entered with a superb dessert. "Desert, sergeant?" she said to the stalwart young soldier at the head of the table.

"Desert?" the sergeant answered. "When I can get eats like this for nothin'?" Nixie! "Not me!"

Incorruptible.

The lady of the house hesitated. "Are my answers all right?" she asked. "Yes, madam," replied the census man.

"Didn't bother you a bit, did it?" "No madam." "Feel under some obligations to me, don't you?"

"Yes, madam." "Then, perhaps, you won't mind telling me how old the woman next door claims to be?" "Good day, madam," said the census man.

Didn't Care for Expenses. They were seated at the breakfast table. "John, dear," said the young wife, "this is my birthday."

"I'm glad you mentioned it, darling," rejoined her husband. "I'll buy you a present the first thing when I get downtown."

"Well," she said, "I hope you won't get any cheap 98-cent affair." "Of course I won't," he replied. "Why, I would be ashamed to present you with anything that cost less than a dollar."

How She Conciliated Them. Filmer—How did it happen that those five men who were so angry with the woman in the nickelodeon for not taking off her hat became so friendly with her afterward?

Screeners—It was raining like fury when the show was over and she invited them to take shelter with her under her hat.

Genoa has never claimed to be what is usually termed a "Saturday" town, but when the sun goes down and the electric lights are on she comes into her own. It is then that the shop keepers get busy. The average city of the size of Genoa is a dead one at nine o'clock in the evening. Last Saturday evening the streets were so crowded that one had to elbow his way thru in many places. Out of curiosity the Republican-Journal reporter counted the number of people on Main street at nine o'clock, as accurately as was possible. There were fully 400, and 150 of these were in the stores and shops.

Warren Drake was out from Chicago over Sunday.

Anyone can afford to use silverware on their tables these days. This may seem a little out of the way to some, but we can show you the truth of the statement if you will call and look at the goods and get prices. G. H. Martin.

S. R. Crawford shipped a car load of household goods, farm implements and a team to Timber Lake, South Dakota, Tuesday, where his son, Harold, has taken up a quarter section of land which he secured thru the last "drawing" pulled off by the government. Mr. Crawford left for Timber Lake Tuesday evening and will remain there several weeks, or until his son is well established in the new home. The car of goods was accompanied by Joe Austin who will remain in that country and work at the carpenter trade. The latter's brother, Nels, has been in South Dakota for some time and is well pleased with the country.

The Republican-Journal still insists, however, on congratulating the Sisson who did not get married.

The Republican-Journal has received a letter from Raymond Crawford, dated July 14 at Gettysburg, South Dakota, in which he states that the crops there are fairly good. Altho there has been somewhat of a drouth in certain parts of the north-west, he states that his neighborhood has had three good rains since the 22nd of June. The crops look good, especially corn. He also states that some harvesting will be done this week.

MARRIAGE AND DIVORCE.

The question of divorces has been under careful consideration for many centuries. The Pharisees tempted Christ by asking his judgment on the Mosaic law of divorce, and received an answer direct and fundamental. It has been a serious, a continuous, a vexatious question from time immemorial, says Newark News. All governments, clerical and civil, have tried to settle it and have failed. Our own government and each of the states and all the courts have for many years been trying to establish uniform divorce laws, and to discourage divorces, as much as possible. Yet they are increasing instead of diminishing. A few denominations will not tolerate divorces, but the civil laws recognize them. From the point of view of the latter the innocent party to divorce proceedings is guilty of no offense, ought not to be held in dishonor and should be permitted to marry again. It is the abuse of the divorce laws by immoral, unconscionable, undesirable citizens that has brought the most serious dishonor upon the dissolution of the marriage contract. The Reformed synod's attitude with reference to innocent parties in necessary divorce proceedings accords with general public sentiment. What should be done to the guilty ones is yet under discussion.

The bill advocated by the Audubon societies of the state of New York, forbidding the sale within this state of the plumage of any wild bird which is protected within New York, has passed the legislature and is awaiting the governor's signature. We trust it will receive his approval, says Rochester Herald. For many years the Audubon societies have labored unceasingly to educate the people of this state to the economic as well as the sentimental value of wild bird life. Their progress has been very slow. The rural communities of the state, even the fruit-raising sections of western New York, have been afflicted with almost incredible ignorance of the usefulness of birds. Farmers' boys often rob birds' nests of their eggs, and amuse themselves by aiming their newly acquired firearms at birds of every kind. It is seldom that a word of censure is heard from the male parent, whose property the young mischief-maker is hastening to destroy.

A porous plaster worth $50 is something of a novelty in the curative agency line. A druggist in Middletown, N. Y., is the possessor of this valuable article, and he is about to send it to the treasury department at Washington to be redeemed. The worthy druggist was troubled with a lame back and had his wife apply the plaster. The lady did not notice a $50 bill which her husband had placed on a dresser in their room, and the note was sticking to the plaster when the latter was put where it might do the most good. There was much mystery and a long hunt before the bill was located, but now plaster, bill and all will be sent to the government officials and "something just as good" will be substituted.

A Chicago doctor has arranged to give the dogs a drink this summer. He has bought a thousand two-quart basins and the city council has allowed him to distribute them about the city in front of stores and houses, and the tenants will be expected to see that they are kept filled with water for the benefit of the dogs. The doctor got the notion from the City of Mexico, where storekeepers are required to keep such basins at their doors. The idea is a good one, and should reduce the number of mad dog scares in Chicago this summer. There will be less hydrophobia if the dogs can get water whenever they want it.

Connecticut is traditionally the land of steady habits, and perhaps a "whopper" of a fish story coming from that quarter will get more credence than if it originated in a more sinful source. Anyway, a resident of Winsted states that he found a fish in his well, and when he hooked it he discovered that it was a trout so large that the well curb had to be removed before the fish could be hauled out. The saving grace of this fish tale is that the narrator does not attempt to give the weight of the monster catch.

SPEAKER'S MIND CLOUDS NEAR THE CLOSE OF KANSAS ADDRESS.

REVIVES, THANKS AUDITORS

Defends Tariff, Attacks Press and Takes Fling at "Insurgents"—Heat Overcomes "Uncle Joe," But Recovers and Makes Second Address.

Alma, Kan., July 20.—Speaker Cannon completed his campaign speaking tour in Kansas last night and started for his home at Danville, Ill.

He will leave there in a day or two for Mackinac, Mich., for rest and recuperation.

"My primary comes off September 15," said he, "but I guess I am going to have no opposition. I will spend the first half of September campaigning my district in an automobile."

Speaker Near to Fainting. Winfield, Kan., July 18.—Joseph G. Cannon, speaker of the nation's house of representatives, collapsed here on the chautauqua platform after speaking for an hour and three-quarters.

Prompt aid prevented him from fainting, but he was unable to continue his address, and, speaking with the greatest difficulty, he begged the audience to excuse him.

Intense Heat Causes Fainting. The intense heat affected him, and brought on the sudden sinking spell. Ice water and fresh air partially revived him, and he haltingly thanked the audience for listening to him for so great a length of time. Then he was led away by his friends and taken to the home of J. T. Lafferty, where he was a guest.

Accompanied by Congressman Philip Campbell, and declaring he was "not a bit sick," Mr. Cannon departed later for Arkansas City, where he delivered a brief speech. The speaker had recovered from his collapse and insisted upon making the trip.

Dr. L. A. Tarabus pronounced Mr. Cannon's heart action good and said he probably would suffer no further ill effects.

Hits at Press. "Discontent of a people," said Speaker Cannon, in his address here, "is not measured by complaints in the press. It is measured in a more significant manner and makes more indelible impression than that of a penny paper bought, perused, thrown away and forgotten."

Speaker Cannon declared the opponents of protection have misrepresented the tariff, lied about its schedule and resorted to every conceivable trick to keep the tariff in politics.

"The demagogue," said he, "may pick out an item here and there and say that duties are too high, but the law is to be tested by all its provisions and not by an isolated item here and there."

Denounces "Insurgents." Mr. Cannon denounced the insurgents in congress and paid his respects to Senator Bristow, declaring the latter was seeking notoriety.

Somewhat in the way of a reply to an address made by Senator Bristow in Winfield a week ago, Speaker Cannon disputed the statements made by the Kansan emphatically. Mr. Bristow had made sensational charges concerning the rubber schedule of the tariff bill.

OFFERED JOB FOR DIVORCE

Glavis' Wife Files Affidavit That Husband Proffered an Inducement to Separate.

Seattle, Wash., July 18.—Mrs. Maud Glavis, wife of Louis R. Glavis, one of the principal witnesses in the Ballinger-Pinchot hearing, filed an affidavit in the superior court, in which she alleges her husband offered her a government position and attorney fees if she would consent to a divorce. Glavis began a suit for divorce here last winter.

Woman Eats Four Babes. Puerto Plata, Santo Domingo, July 20.—The disappearance of Dominican children near the Haytian frontier has been explained by the horrible confession of a Haytian woman that she had murdered them, eating four.

Wreck Kills 1; Several Injured. Peoria, Ill., July 19.—Toledo, Peoria and Western passenger train from the west collided with a cut of coal cars running wild opposite the terminal station at South Bartonville. Mail Clerk W. H. Hipsley of Canton was killed and several others injured.

WOMAN CONFESSES SHE KILLED GAME WARDEN

Mrs. Frank Stout Says John O'Connor Tried to Break Up Her Home.

Springfield, Ill., July 18.—Mrs. Frank Stout confessed that she had fired the shot which resulted in the death of Deputy State Game Warden John O'Connor.

Mrs. Stout is in jail here and will be held to await the action of the grand jury without bond. The woman appeared before the coroner's jury at her own request.

O'Connor was shot Friday night at his home by some one who fired through an open door. In an ante-mortem statement he declared that Frank Stout had threatened to kill him, but Stout, when arrested, proved an alibi. Later Mrs. Stout was arrested and, in her confession, declared O'Connor had annoyed her and "had tried to break up her home."

Stealthily making her way to the O'Connor home Mrs. Stout said she climbed the high board fence in the rear of the house and slowly neared the rear door of the house. Going to the doorway, she says, she took deliberate aim at O'Connor and fired. His lungs pierced by a ball from a 32-caliber revolver he fell to the floor.

The woman admitted while on the witness stand that she telephoned O'Connor a few days before his death and asked him if he intended to quit coming to her home. This admission is taken by authorities to mean that the woman was in love with O'Connor and that jealousy may have prompted her in her act.

MOB CHASES "DRY" SLEUTH

Repetition of Newark Lynching Narrowly Averted at East Liverpool, O.

East Liverpool, O., July 18.—Albert Keddie, aged twenty-one years, was shot by Detective Ira Rickett of the Anti-Saloon league force. Keddie was standing on the sidewalk when Detective Rickett attempted it. He is alleged, to shoot Alvin Dawson, twenty-one years old. Dawson escaped the fire and Keddie was shot through the left ankle.

Rickett escaped, pursued by a crowd, but ran into the arms of Policeman Fowler. He and Dawson were taken to the city jail, followed by crowd of several thousand persons. Threats were made to lynch the detective, but he was finally landed behind the bars. Extra police were placed on duty at the jail in an endeavor to prevent a repetition of the Newark tragedy of eight days ago.

TAFT STARTS ON A CRUISE

President and Family Sail on the Mayflower for Trip Along the Maine Coast.

Beverly, Mass., July 18.—President Taft, his family and other members of his household, boarded the yacht Mayflower this afternoon and at three o'clock the vessel weighed anchor and steamed away for a cruise up the coast of Maine that will last eight days. Included in the party are Mrs. Taft and her sister, Mrs. Louise More of Cincinnati, Miss Helen Taft, Charlie Taft, Secretary Norton and Mrs. Norton and Capt. A. W. Bitts.

Former Governor Hill of Maine, who is also the nominal head of the Republican national committee, in company with Bryan Boyd of Augusta, had a conference with the president at Burgess Point prior to his departure, at which they induced him to make a few brief speeches on the trip.

PIER FIRE LOSS $750,000

Conflagration On Hudson River Front Does Great Damage to Water Craft—Two Perish.

New York, July 18.—Thousands of people witnessed the most spectacular pier fire since the Hoboken disaster ten years ago, in which 150 lives were lost. The monetary loss will be more than $750,000. Pier 14 of the Metropolitan steamship line, on the Hudson river, was practically destroyed.

The freight steamer H. F. Dimock caught fire and drifted into the river, where fire boats and tugs extinguished the flames. Two of the twenty-eight in her crew who jumped overboard are missing. Six barges were destroyed and the passenger steamship Harvard was badly scorched.

PITTSBURG MAN IS ACCUSED

Millionaire's Secretary Charged With Having Taken and Lost His Employer's Money.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 18.—Although superintendent of a Sunday school, an active elder in the fashionable Tabernacle Presbyterian church, East end, and recently a candidate on the prohibition ticket for a seat in the state legislature, Albert H. Eames, private secretary to Alexander Peacock, "a Carnegie millionaire," is enjoying freedom under a bond of $15,000. He is charged with stealing hundreds of thousands of dollars from Millionaire Peacock, his benefactor.

Wreck Kills 1; Several Injured. Peoria, Ill., July 19.—Toledo, Peoria and Western passenger train from the west collided with a cut of coal cars running wild opposite the terminal station at South Bartonville. Mail Clerk W. H. Hipsley of Canton was killed and several others injured.

PERCIVAL'S VISIT TO UNCLE SI'S FARM—NO. 1

BALLINGER FAVORED

REPORT OF CONGRESSIONAL INVESTIGATION COMMITTEE VINDICATES HIM.

MINORITY REPORT OPPOSES

Secretary of Interior Freed of Charges Made by Pinchot, Garfield and Glavis—Substance of Findings to Be Given Out Later.

Washington, July 19.—Richard A. Ballinger is vindicated. The secretary of the interior has been unjustly accused by Gifford Pinchot, James R. Garfield and Louis Glavis. He is the right man in the right place and he ought to be invited to continue holding down the job as long as he cares to have it.

This, it is reported, sums up the findings of the majority of the joint congressional committee, which for five months has been making an exhaustive investigation of the conduct of affairs of the entire department of the interior, and also of the bureau of forestry of the department of agriculture.

The investigators who concur in these findings, which constitute a condemnation of the course of Gifford Pinchot, former chief forester; James R. Garfield, former secretary of the interior, and Louis R. Glavis, former chief of a field division of the general land office, will be found to be the following: Senators Nelson, Minnesota, chairman; Flint, California; Sutherland, Utah; Root, New York; Representatives McCall, Massachusetts, vice-chairman, Denby, Michigan, and E. Olmstead, Pennsylvania.

Five Oppose Report. Minority reports disagreeing with the foregoing findings will be made by: Representatives Madison, Kansas; Senators Purcell, North Dakota, and Fletcher, Florida; Representatives James, Kentucky, and Graham, Illinois.

Madison is a Republican and the last four named men are Democrats.

The basis of the report for the majority was prepared by Senator Nelson and for the minority by Representative James. Mr. Madison is writing his own opinions. It is understood that the results of the labors of Mr. Nelson and Mr. James have been submitted to the members of the committee for criticism and for additions. By the time the committee reassembles on September 10 it will have in practically fine shape the reports which it will make.

HURLS INFANT AMONG SNAKES

Colored Girl Is Sought for Lowering Child Into Well Containing Venomous Reptiles.

New Orleans, La., July 20.—Suspected of having lowered a white infant into an old well wherein were a nest of venomous snakes, Lucinda Richardson, an eleven-year-old negro of Jefferson Parish, on the outskirts of New Orleans, is now being searched for by the authorities in connection with the death of little Louise Parr, a nineteen-month's old white child, whose swollen, fang-marked body was found in a well in the rear of the shack in which the negro family lived.

FAMILY KILLED BY TRAIN

Auto Containing Man, Woman and Daughter Is Hit—Occupants Hurled to Death.

Aurora, Ill., July 20.—Mr. and Mrs. N. J. McEvilly and little daughter Mary, of Dysart, Ia., were killed here when the Freepoint passenger train on the Chicago and Northwestern railroad struck their automobile at Peck's Crossing, near Lombard.

Renominate Indiana Congressman. South Bend, Ind., July 20.—Democrats of the Thirtieth congressional district in convention here renominate Henry A. Barnhart of Rochester for congress.

ROOSEVELT TO TAKE NO PART IN NOMINATIONS

Declares He Wants It Understood That He's Not Trying to Name Candidates.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., July 19.—Col. Theodore Roosevelt announced that he does not intend trying to dictate nominations for the fall election. "I want it distinctly understood that I shall take no part in nominations anywhere," was the way the ex-president put it.

"You may quote me as saying that," added the colonel. This announcement of the ex-president goes as to every state and national fight, even to the governorship of New York. In an interview last week he was quoted as saying that "I shall pick the governor of New York state." But he laid emphasis on his inclination to let the others do the nominating. He will continue to hold conferences with the state political leaders and "sound sentiment," but as to picking out candidates, never, at least, so he says.

When asked if he had a candidate in mind for the governorship, the ex-president maintained a sphinxlike silence. Colonel Roosevelt made his announcement regarding his refusal to dictate nominations, after a visit to Sagamore Hill by Douglas Robinson, his brother-in-law and Theodore Robinson of Herkimer, son of Douglas Robinson, who is seeking the Republican nomination for congress as a progressive in the Herkimer-Onondaga district.

MADRIZ ORDERS REBELS SHOT

Nicaraguan President Instructs His Commander to Slay Prisoners of War Without a Trial.

New Orleans, July 20.—An intercepted telegram sent by Jose Madriz, claimant to the Nicaraguan presidency, to Gen. Robert O. Gonzales, commander of the Madriz forces at San Ubaldo, Nicaragua, has been sent to Consul General Sussman of this city by President J. J. Estrada of the provisional government.

It instructs General Gonzales to shoot without trial all rebels and prisoners that are taken by his men. The telegram, which caused a thrill of horror through Central America, has been forwarded to the state department and will be referred to the peace conference at The Hague. The telegram was captured by Gen. Luis Mena of the provisionals, who reports on the day it was received by Gonzales two revolutionists were shot at Charco Muerto. The same day 15 prisoners taken by Estrada were released.

PLOT TO SLAY WORCESTER

United States Official Has Narrow Escape From Death at Hands of Renegade Moros.

Manila, July 19.—Dean C. Worcester, American secretary of interior for the Philippines, was set upon by renegade Moros on the island of Palawan, and escaped assassination only through the alertness of his bodyguard, who shot down the outlaws, killing three of them outright and severely wounding several others.

Secretary Worcester was touring the island, which is the most westerly of the larger Philippine group, bounding the Sulu sea on the west, and was present at the installation of the new governor.

In anticipation of his coming a band of Moros planned his death.

Ohio Judge Sees Roosevelt.

New York, July 20.—Theodore Roosevelt had a long talk with Judge Kincaid of Toledo, Ohio, today and it was generally understood that political conditions in the judge's home state came in for discussion.

Receivers for Jones Bros. Kansas City, Mo., July 18.—Receivers for the Jones Brothers' Mercantile company, a mail-order house, were appointed by the federal court here. The liabilities and the assets are each placed at $600,000.

16,000 MEN GO OUT

STRIKE ON GRAND TRUNK SYSTEM TIES UP FREIGHT TRAFFIC.

OFFICIALS MAN SOME TRAINS

Passenger Service Is Congested—Milk Famine Threatens Montreal—Strikers Are Orderly—Union Heads Decline Canada's Offer to Arbitrate.

New York, July 20.—The strike of the employees of the Grand Trunk railroad, which went into effect Monday night, has thrown 16,000 men out of employment. This is the latest estimate.

The strike order was obeyed by 6,000 conductors and trainmen and the company locked out 10,000 men in the shops in the hope that they would accept the positions deserted by the conductors and trainmen. The coup has not been successful.

Freight Piling Up. Freight and passenger traffic on the entire Grand Trunk system is congested. Freight is piling up in immense quantities at the various transfer points with no likelihood of being moved for a long time.

A few trains were run by minor officials of the road, with office clerks to take the tickets, but this method has proved a failure. Passengers will not purchase tickets because of the inability of the company to guarantee a through trip to any point. A milk famine is threatened in Montreal by reason of the company's failure to deliver any part of the usual supply of that commodity from outlying points. Also there is a marked scarcity of other necessities usually transported by the railroad.

Strikers Are Orderly.

There was nothing approaching disorder among the strikers at any point along the system excepting in one extraordinary instance in which a brake-man on a Grand Trunk passenger train at Flint, Mich., was attacked by the strikers and saved by his mother, who shamed the strikers into retreat.

The commissioner of labor of Canada offered to arbitrate the grievances of the strikers, declaring that the Canadian government would pay all expenses incurred by him, but the officials of the union declined the offer, saying that the strike had gone too far for arbitration.

The railroad telegraphers have been taken out of the situation temporarily. The company gave them an eleventh-hour increase in wages and they appear to be satisfied. The strikers insist that they will win the telegraphers over to their cause yet.

Lee Is Directing Matters.

The strike is being directed by W. G. Lee, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen. Mr. Lee has been handling the impending Pennsylvania railway strike. He has about concluded the details of that matter and will now devote all of his time to the Grand Trunk strike.

Both sides appear to be out for a determined struggle. The union officials say they will accept nothing short of the wages and conditions prescribed in the standardization rules, and the company says it cannot meet any such conditions.

Pennsylvania Trouble Ended.

Philadelphia, July 20.—At an all-day conference in Broad street station the committee representing the conductors and trainmen on the Pennsylvania railroad east of Pittsburg conferred with the general superintendents and arranged the working details of the agreement between the company and its employees which was entered into on Monday. A few minor points of misunderstanding arose, but these were soon settled and all possibility of a strike now seems at an end.

REPORT CRIPPEN IN CANADA

Stewart Declares Alleged Slayer Reached Montreal—Suspicious Couple Leave Liner Megantic.

Montreal, Que., July 19.—Positive statements that Doctor Crippen, the London murderer, sought by Scotland Yard arrived here Sunday on the White Star Dominion liner Megantic was made by H. J. Airress, saloon steward of this ship, who is corroborated by two other stewards.

The actions and appearance of a passenger who was attended at table by Airress and accompanied by a woman registered only as "Carruthers," seemed suspicious to the steward.

When the liner docked here the couple attracted much attention by their apparent haste to disembark. They hailed a cab and disappeared.

The police believe Crippen has left Montreal for American soil, going probably to Chicago.

Grasshoppers Ravage Wabash Valley.

Terre Haute, Ind., July 20.—There is a plague of grasshoppers in the Wabash bottoms and automobilists find their tires covered with bodies of insects, impeding their progress and causing the cars to skid. Gardens, grass and corn have been destroyed.

May Yet Telephone to England.

Dover, N. Y., July 20.—Telephonic communication between England and America may soon be a possibility if a new experimental submarine cable recently laid across the English channel by the British postoffice answers expectations.

WEAK KIDNEYS WEAKEN THE WHOLE BODY.

No chain is stronger than its weakest link. No man is stronger than his kidneys. Overwork, colds, strains, etc., weaken the kidneys and the whole body suffers. Don't neglect the slightest kidney ailment. Begin using Doan's Kidney Pills at once. They are especially for sick kidneys.

Ted Hiatt, Oswego, Kans., says: "For many years I suffered from kidney disorders. I was treated by specialists in Kansas City and Chicago, was told I had an abscess of the kidneys and an operation was advised. I thereupon began the use of Doan's Kidney Pills and gradually improved. Soon an operation was unnecessary as my kidneys were well."

HE LIVED IN THE CITY.

Papa—Why can't we see the moon in the daytime? Jimmie—Cause they don't light it up until after dark.

The Stomach Hold. Colonel H. N. Renout, at the "Old Guard" banquet at Delmonico's, emphasized the importance to an army of a good commissariat.

"You have perhaps heard," he said, "of the company of privates that a patriotic lady entertained one Memorial day to dinner."

"It was a good dinner, and at its end a pretty maid-servant entered with a superb dessert.

"Dessert, sergeant?" she said to the stalwart young soldier at the head of the table.

"Desert?" the sergeant answered. "When I can get eats like this for nothin'?" Nixte! "Not me!"

Incorruptible.

The lady of the house hesitated. "Are my answers all right?" she asked.

"Yes, madam," replied the census man. "Didn't bother you a bit, did it?"

"No madam." "Feel under some obligations to me, don't you?"

"Yes, madam." "Then, perhaps, you won't mind telling me how old the woman next door claims to be?"

"Good day, madam," said the census man.

Didn't Care for Expenses.

They were seated at the breakfast table. "John, dear," said the young wife, "this is my birthday."

"I'm glad you mentioned it, darling," rejoined her husband. "I'll buy you a present the first thing when I get downtown."

"Well," she said, "I hope you won't get any cheap 98-cent affair."

"Of course I won't," he replied. "Why, I would be ashamed to present you with anything that cost less than a dollar."

How She Conciliated Them.

Filmer—How did it happen that those five men who were so angry with the woman in the nickleodeon for not taking off her hat became so friendly with her afterward?

Screeners—It was raining like fury when the show was over and she invited them to take shelter with her under her hat.

THE ISLAND OF REGENERATION

SYNOPSIS.

A young woman cast ashore on a lonely island, finds a solitary inhabitant, a young white man, dressed like a savage and unable to speak in any known language. She decides to educate him and mold his mind to her own ideals. She finds evidence that leads her to believe that the man is John Revell Charnock of Virginia, and that he was cast ashore when a child. Katharine Brenton was a highly specialized product of a university. Her writings on the sex problem attracted wide attention. The son of a multi-millionaire becomes infatuated with her and they decide to put her theories into practice. With no other ceremony than a handshake, they go away together. A few days on his yacht reveals to her that he only possessed lofty ideals to possess her. She knocks him down and leaves him unconscious, escaping in the darkness in a gasoline launch. During a storm she is cast ashore on an island. Three years' teaching gives the man a splendid education. Their love for each other is revealed when he rescues her from a cave where she had been imprisoned by an earthquake. A ship is sighted and they light a beacon to summon it. Langford, on his yacht, sights the beacon and orders his yacht put in. The woman recognizes the yacht and tells her companion that a man on board had injured her in the greatest way. Langford recognizes Katharine. He tells the man that she had been his mistress, and narrowly escapes being killed.

"I appeal to you," said the woman, turning to Langford, "send back the men. A moment since I saved your life. At a word from me he would have thrown you from him and broken your back. Be generous. You must. And this man shall give me a hearing. You are safe from him, I promise you."

What might have been the result of this appeal can never be determined, for at that moment a new factor entered upon the scene, a factor whose presence was as surprising and unexpected as it was determinative. From out to sea, yet near at hand, came a muffled detonation, the roar of a heavy gun. Around one of the headlands that rose on that side of the island there swept the white sides of another great ship beside which the yacht, imposing though she was, was a toy. It was the woman who saw it first.

"Look!" she cried. "A ship of war, a cruiser. See, from her staff the flag of the United States. This land is American. I claim it by right of discovery. Lay but a hand upon this man, and I will have you hanged for murder, Langford. They see us there. Their glasses have searched the shore. That gun was a warning. A boat puts off. Thank God, we are saved from you!"

Things had transpired even as she said. What the cruiser was doing in those seas, how happened she to be there were things as yet unknown, but that she was there was apparent. She had approached the island from the other side, and had sailed around it. Her men had observed the encounter on the shore, which seemed to be between natives and persons from the yacht, which was in plain view a little farther out to sea, and the gun had been fired to call attention to the power of the United States.

This put an entirely new face on the whole affair. Matters were taken out of the hands of the parties to the quarrel. The law had come to the island. The islander did not, could not know it, but his baffled antagonist realized it immediately. So did the woman. At Langford's command, his men, much bewildered at the scene they had witnessed, went back to their boat. He himself presently followed after, and stood upon the strand awaiting the approach of the heavy man-of-war cutter which had been put away from the white cruiser's side.

"Man," she said, softly, "this is what I had to tell you."

He nodded. A hollow groan burst from his lips.

"His mistress," he muttered, brokenly.

"I would not have had you learn in this way, and now that you have heard so much, you must hear more," she went on, not sparing herself, though she might have justly resented the word. She was dealing with more serious things than words now, bitter though they might be. "That ship, which is the ship of our country, stands for law as his for license. I was more sinned against than sinning. When you have heard all, then you shall judge. This is the test."

"Would God that it had never been laid upon me," said the man, hoarsely.

"Would God that the beacon had not been lighted on the hill!"

"Nay," returned the woman, gently, "that's past praying for. Decision rests with you, but you must not pass it until you have heard the whole story. The world holds me stained, polluted, it may be said, but I am not the sinner that it thinks me or he portrays."

"You said it was true," doggedly cried the man.

"Yes, but not all true."

"And I had him in my hands, and still he lives."

"Won't you hear me?" pleaded the woman.

The man shook her off and turned away. The very innocence which had prevented his understanding at first the charge made it the more hideous when comprehension came. He had loved this woman with a love that passed the love of man, for there had not entered into his mind the faintest possibility that she could ever be or ever have been other than what she seemed, a daughter of the gods in truth, in sweetness and in purity. And this strange man had come from out the world and proclaimed her his mistress, his cast-off, abandoned mistress. Once the crew was given he found more hideous depths of infamy in that word than would have appeared had his been a wiser and more experienced vision. Indeed, so clear and pure was the soul of this woman that a man of the world would have known instantly that there was an explanation, which the child of nature could not see from her and alone, and he turned as if to plunge into the depths of the forest, but with gentle force she restrained him.

"You are a man, with a man's power and a man's soul and a man's heart, you cannot fly now. You must stay and face the problem. The question must be pursued to the bitter end. My life and your life depends upon what we do now, perhaps his life, too."

"O, God," cried the man, recurring again to that bitter thought, "I had him in my hands and spared him!"

"But you spared him for my sake," said the woman; "think of that."

"For your sake," declared the man, pointedly. "I would and should have killed him."

"Thou shalt not kill!" said the woman, softly.

"An eye for an eye, and a tooth for a tooth," returned the man. "He and you between you slew my heart. His death would be no murder, but retribution."

"But it was in part my fault," returned the woman, bravely making her confession.

"I will never believe it. It cannot be."

"And yet it was, but you shall have the whole wretched story to-day, and you shall judge. This much I will say, that though all that he said was true, yet I hold myself blameless and innocent. The world judges me harshly, and it may be that you will find its judgment just. Yet I do not hold myself as on trial at this moment, but you."

"I do not understand."

"There are many things that you do not understand, my friend."

"I would that I had been left in ignorance."

"Nay, that is not a man's wish, but a child's."

"Of one thing I am certain."

"And what is that?"

"That I should have killed him!"

"Nay," said the woman again, "that is not a child's wish, but a brute's."

"You said yourself," he flashed at her, "that there were some things a woman could not forgive, and this is one that a man puts in the same class."

The woman sighed. There occurred to her at the moment no answer which was adequate to the stark realism of this fact. The conversation had reached an impasse beyond which it could not progress without the full and complete explanation which now there was neither time nor opportunity to give, for the boat from the man-of-war was approaching the shore. The woman stepped resolutely down the strand to meet it, and the man, after a slight hesitation, followed her.

So soon as the boat's keel grated on the bottom in the shallow water a middle-aged officer rose from the stern sheets and stepped ashore followed by a younger companion in the uniform of a sergeant of marines. A little squad of privates in the bows landed and fell in line with martial celerity and precision. The officer in charge, who wore the white tropic uniform of a lieutenant commander, now faced the people on the island who had instinctively divided into two groups, one on either side of him. To the right stood the man and behind him the woman, to the left Langford, back of him his crew. It was to the latter that the officer first addressed himself.

"Sir," he began, "I am the executive officer of the United States cruiser Cheyenne, detached on special service. We raised this island this morning, ran it down, circled it, saw the yacht yonder—"

He paused.

"It is my yacht, sir, the Southern Cross," answered the other. "My name is Langford."

"Glad to meet you, Mr. Langford. Mine is Whittaker."

The lieutenant commander touched his cap as he spoke. Langford lifted his, and the two shook hands.

"We saw," continued the lieutenant commander, "what appeared to be some sort of a fracas with the natives, and fired a gun to attract attention, and Capt. Ashby sent this boat party ashore under my charge to do whatever was necessary. Perhaps you can explain how you came to be embroiled with the natives."

"Sir," said the woman. And the fact that she addressed him in his own language, and with the cultured accents of the well-bred and the well-educated, caused the officer to start violently—"the island is mine."

Mr. Whittaker turned and looked deliberately at her, his surprise only equalled by his admiration. The tunic and shapless, but few vestments were better calculated to set off her exquisite proportions. The grace and beauty of her figure, the nobility and intelligence of her face took added luster from the contrast of the utterly simple, natural and primitive. Whittaker's glance fell upon a well-nigh perfect woman. The constraining influences of civilization had been so long absent that nature had time and opportunity to reassert its claim. She was tall, exquisitely modeled. Her bare arms might have supplied those missing from the Venus of Milo; her knees left exposed, were perfect in their symmetry and strength; her feet were such as those to which ancient Greece had bowed; her hands were shapely, graceful, yet strong; her dark hair rose like a somber, cloudy crown above her brow. The fierce sun, the open air, the wild wind had not materially altered the clear, slightly olive pallor of her face. The woman had been beautiful before. Now that nature had had free sway, she was nobly lovely. She had stood a little in the rear of the man at first and the lieutenant commander had not particularly observed her. When she spoke, she stepped into the open. He stared and stared amazed.

"It is true I was a married man, but I was under the spell of Miss Brenton's eloquence and of her beauty."

"I can well understand that," said the officer, gravely, as a matter of course.

"I thought that marriage meant nothing, and that the old tie might be disregarded. I hated the woman who bore my name, and so as Miss Brenton's disciple, as her devotee, for I loved her, I will admit," she smiled drearily, "more than her philosophy, I proposed that we should trample upon the conventions she had taught me to believe she despised, and go away together."

"But you were not free," said the woman, "to enter upon such an undertaking."

"No, by heaven!" cried Whittaker. Now, this conversation had been carried on with three auditors, or groups of auditors, besides those participating; Langford's yachtmen, the marines and seamen from the Cheyenne, for the boat was against the shore, and the man of the island. Whittaker first awoke to the situation.

"I beg your pardon," he said, "but would it not be better to continue this conversation privately?"

"I think so," returned Langford.

"No," said the man of the island, addressing the lieutenant commander for the first time, "you and these men are the world. I want the story told where all the world may hear."

Whittaker's surprise at this remark was scarcely less than he had experienced when the woman addressed him. Who was this splendid, godlike form of man standing glooming by the woman's side, a silent, eager listener to all that transpired? What had he to do with the question that he assumed this tone and manner of authority? The officer turned toward the woman.

"I think," said he quietly, "that the lady should be allowed to decide."

"My wish is my friend's wish," said the woman laying her hand softly upon the man's arm.

Whittaker observed that the man shook it off nervously, but the point being settled, there was no further appeal.

"Pray proceed with your story, Mr. Langford," he continued.

"No, let me take up the tale," cried

he would have been glad to hurt him until he killed him.

"We went on my yacht yonder three years ago. I—in short—I behaved like a brute on it, I will admit."

"I discovered that he was a married man," said the woman swiftly at this juncture. She, too, would be frank. This grave and middle-aged officer should hear all. "He had professed his belief in those views, which, if you have read 'Fate and Destiny,' you realize that I entertained."

The officer bowed.

"And have you abandoned them now?" he asked.

"Absolutely," was the firm answer. "I am a Christian woman, thank God!"

"Thank God, say I, too," continued Langford. "Yet I was not altogether a sham or a lie. It was true that I was a married man."

The lieutenant commander flashed a contemptuous look at him at which Langford winced, but he went on. He was determined to make an absolutely clean breast of the whole affair.

"It is true I was a married man, but I was under the spell of Miss Brenton's eloquence and of her beauty."

"I can well understand that," said the officer, gravely, as a matter of course.

"I thought that marriage meant nothing, and that the old tie might be disregarded. I hated the woman who bore my name, and so as Miss Brenton's disciple, as her devotee, for I loved her, I will admit," she smiled drearily, "more than her philosophy, I proposed that we should trample upon the conventions she had taught me to believe she despised, and go away together."

"But you were not free," said the woman, "to enter upon such an undertaking."

"No, by heaven!" cried Whittaker. Now, this conversation had been carried on with three auditors, or groups of auditors, besides those participating; Langford's yachtmen, the marines and seamen from the Cheyenne, for the boat was against the shore, and the man of the island. Whittaker first awoke to the situation.

"I beg your pardon," he said, "but would it not be better to continue this conversation privately?"

"I think so," returned Langford.

"No," said the man of the island, addressing the lieutenant commander for the first time, "you and these men are the world. I want the story told where all the world may hear."

Whittaker's surprise at this remark was scarcely less than he had experienced when the woman addressed him. Who was this splendid, godlike form of man standing glooming by the woman's side, a silent, eager listener to all that transpired? What had he to do with the question that he assumed this tone and manner of authority? The officer turned toward the woman.

"I think," said he quietly, "that the lady should be allowed to decide."

"My wish is my friend's wish," said the woman laying her hand softly upon the man's arm.

Whittaker observed that the man shook it off nervously, but the point being settled, there was no further appeal.

"Pray proceed with your story, Mr. Langford," he continued.

"No, let me take up the tale," cried

the woman. "Believing that I was right, believing that the education and training which had made me what I was were sound, believing that his course and order his life, knowing nothing of his wife, I yielded to his pleadings. I thought it was a noble and splendid opportunity vouchsafed me and, in a measure, vouchsafed him to show the world that we did really believe what we said. Had I believed in God then I should have said his meeting with me, his conversion to my theories, his passion for me, his willingness to abide by my decision were Providential. I was glad to consecrate my life to the truth, with his aid to take the final step in attestation of my belief, to convince the world that one woman at least had the courage of her convictions. It was a mistake, a frightful mistake, an irreparable mistake, for which I suppose that I must suffer to the end of time."

"No," cried Langford, "I am here to repair the blunder."

"There is no power on earth," said the woman, passionately, "that can put me where I was; that can give me back that I have lost."

"Kate, Kate!" cried Langford, "you don't understand!"

"I understand too well. Why continue the story? Mr. Whittaker, and you that are men beyond, that have wives and children and sweet hearts, that have been taught to love God, to believe in him, and to observe his laws, that have submitted yourselves gladly to the conventions of society—or if any be among you who have outraged these and gone against them, taken the law into your own hands—you will understand sooner or later what came to me. I discovered that there was nothing high or holy in this man's regard for me; that he persuaded himself that he believed as I simply to get possession of me. I awoke to a dreaded realization, alone with him on that yacht. He was not kind to me. He acted according to his lights."

"I will confess it," said Langford. "I was a brute to her. I drank; I acknowledged that I had a wife; I said she was in my power; I called her vile names."

There was a low growl, a muttered roar from the men behind Whittaker. Even Langford's own men, in his own pay, shrank back from him. The man was frightfully pale, yet he went on resolutely, Whittaker stilling the tumult with upraised hand.

"No one," he cried, "can think more hatefully of a human being than I think of myself now. I have not learned her philosophy; I have learned another and a better. In some sort of a way at least I know that I can never be happy until I have made her happy. I know that I love her now as I should have loved her then; that I have hunted these seas for her without ceasing since she left me in a drunken stupor one night."

"Left you how?" asked the lieutenant commander.

"I am not quite clear. I must have descended very low," said Langford. "I remember some sort of a scene at supper, and when I awoke in the morning, or I didn't wake for six months, they found me in the morning with a fractured skull on the cabin floor, and they took me back to the United States. It was a year or more before I could begin the search for her."

"He said things to me that night," said the woman, "that no woman could endure or forgive. He came toward me. I threw him from me with such force and violence—I am a strong woman—that he lay senseless in the cabin. The motor launch had been got overboard for a trial and was trawling astern. I got in it, drifted away, started the motor and ran it until the gasoline was gone. I brought food and water from the cabin table. I lived a week in the boat, bearing southward all the time by means of a sail which I improvised from a boat cloak. One night there was a storm. At the height of it I was thrown upon this island. The—"

"I hoped," said Langford, taking up the tale, "that that might be the case, and with that end in view I have searched the Pacific. I have landed upon many uncharted islands. I have explored others little, if ever, visited, praying to God that she might be alive, that I might find her and make reparation, and now I have found her at last when I had given up all hope, abandoned all expectation. And I stand here confessing my fault before men, ready to do anything and everything that a man can do to make amends for the past."

"But you have a wife," said Whittaker, coldly.

"No, she's dead these two years, thank God. I never loved her. It was a boyish infatuation for a designing adventuress who wanted a hold upon my father's money. I am free, free to make her my wife. I ask her, I beg her to take me, to give me a chance to show that I feel what I have done, to devote my life to expiation."

He stopped, wiped the moisture from his forehead, stood for a moment in the silence that followed his words, his face downcast. Then he lifted his haggard, worn, sad, the humiliation of the last few moments having entered into his soul.

"Kate," he said, softly, "your answer?"

CHAPTER XVII.

The Woman's Plea.

"Miss Brenton," said Whittaker, with the deepest gravity he could infuse in voice and manner, "you have been a most unfortunate, a most unhappy woman. Allow me to assure you of my sincerest commiseration, my deepest respect, my most profound admiration. You have suffered, but innocently. If I may speak the voice of society, if I may stand for the world as your companion has said, a can only express my reverence for you and my homage to you in this way."

He stepped nearer to her, he seized her hand. He was an old-fashioned, humble-minded, quixotic sort of a sailor, if you will, for before anybody realized what he was about, he bent his head low over it and kissed it. And the sailors behind him and the marines in rank broke into a hearty cheer.

"There, madam," said Whittaker, "you have the approbation of society for my act. As for you, sir," he turned toward Langford, "I should be untrue to manhood if I did not say what you yourself have said; that you acted not only like a brute and a coward, but, sir, when I look at the lady, I am constrained to add like a fool."

Langford started forward, but the lieutenant checked him.

"Having said all that, I must admit that you have conducted yourself since that time as a man of honor and as a gentleman. I have no doubt that your offer will be accepted; that the world will forgive you as it will admire and respect your wife."

"No!" cried the man of the island, suddenly.

He had kept silence, resolved to hear it all out without interruption. He had suffered as the miserable stary had been unfolded to such an extent that all that he had gone through with before seemed like child's play. He had heard Langford's noble confession, his generous offer to repair his wrong, but without the appreciation of it which the circumstances and its intrinsic quality might have evoked. He had heard the woman's defense, her splendid justification of her course, the bitter repentance that had followed it, but without that appreciation of what justification there was for her and the value of her remorse which the account should have brought to him. He had observed Whittaker's prompt and touching expression of confidence and reverence, but without understanding its force and power. Indeed, he had instinctive shrewdness enough to realize that even though the sailors, touched by the act of gallantry and moved with pity for the young woman who stood there lovely in her sadness, had cheered, yet the world would be very slow to the same expression. He saw that the woman was face to face with a crisis; that she would either have to accept or decline Langford's offer to marry her at once.

His heart was filled with bitter rage. He knew that he loved the woman; that he never would love any person but the woman, but nevertheless the resentment against fate which had placed him in so awful a position, of whose malign purposes he had been the blind, ignoble victim, was so great that for the time being his love was in abeyance. He pitied himself, he loathed Langford, he was contemptuously indifferent to the world, and for the moment he almost hated the woman. The sub-consciousness that he had that this was as ungrateful as it was unwarranted added to his wretchedness and misery.

"No," he cried, "before any answer is made, let me speak!"

"Your pardon," said Whittaker, "may I ask who you are?"

"Sir," returned the man, "as to who I am and what I am, I do not know, nor does it greatly matter."

"Your pardon again," retorted the lieutenant commander, coolly, "but it matters very much. Unless you have some right to interfere, I do not concede that any suggestion from you in this crisis which seems to concern these two people, this lady and this gentleman, is at all in order."

"But it does concern me," returned the man, impatient of this checking, "for I love this woman myself, and she has done me the honor to say that she loved me. I had intended to make her my wife should Providence ever bring us to civilization again."

"Had intended!" exclaimed the woman, under her breath, but no one noticed her words, and the lieutenant spoke again.

"That being the case, some information as to who you are and how you came here is the more evidently in order."

A Call for "Live Ones."

"We will pay good wages to first-class, live stenographers who will allow our business to come before their sweethearts, theaters and pleasure parties; our hours are from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m., but sometimes we work later; clock watchers are useless to us." This original announcement appeared in the London newspapers the other day.

SOFT, WHITE HANDS

May Be Obtained in One Night.

For preserving the hands as well as for preventing redness, roughness, and chapping, and imparting that velvety softness and whiteness much desired by women Cuticura Soap, assisted by Cuticura Ointment, is believed to be superior to all other skin soaps. For those who work in corrosive liquids, or at occupations which tend to injure the hands, it is invaluable.

Treatment—Bathe and soak the hands on retiring in a strong, hot, creamy lather of Cuticura Soap. Dry and anoint freely with Cuticura Ointment, and in severe cases spread the Cuticura Ointment on thin pieces of old linen or cotton. Wear during the night old, loose gloves, or a light bandage of old cotton or linen to protect the clothing from stain. For red, rough, and chapped hands, dry, fissured, itching, feverish palms, and shapeless nails with painful finger ends, this treatment is most effective. Cuticura Remedies are sold throughout the world. Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., sole proprietors, Boston, Mass.

Autoging and Optics. "Is not auto driving terribly hard on the eyes?" we asked. "Well, I guess not," replied the chauffeur, winking us with scorn. "Why, before I got to running' a car I was thinkin' o' gettin' specks, my eyesight was that poor I couldn't see the contribuition box in church until it was so near past me it was too late to dig for any money. But I hadn't been runnin' that wagon two days till I could see a policeman's little fingers stickin' out from behind a tree four miles away. I could even see which way a copper's eyeballs were turned if he was standin' in the shade three miles off. Hard on the eyes! Well, not much! It's the best medicine for weak eyes that was ever invented, don't you forget it."

His Claim to Prominence. At a social gathering a certain man, intent on knowing every one, was introduced to Senator Julius C. Burrows of Michigan. "The name Burrows is very familiar to me," he said. "I am certain that you are a man of some prominence."

"Yes," replied Senator Burrows, "I am the man that 'died at first' just before Casey came to bat in that celebrated ball game in Mudville."—Success Magazine.

HARD TO PLEASE Regarding the Morning Cup.

"Oh how hard it was to part with coffee, but the continued trouble with constipation and belching was such that I finally brought myself to leave it off."

"Then the question was, what should we use for the morning drink? Tea was worse for us than coffee; chocolate and cocoa were soon tired of; milk was not liked very well, and hot water we could not endure."

"About two years ago we struck upon Postum and have never been without it since."

"We have seven children. Our baby now eighteen months old would not take milk, so we tried Postum and found she liked it and it agreed with her perfectly. She is today, and has been, one of the healthiest babies in the State."

"I use about two-thirds Postum and one-third milk and a teaspoon of sugar, and put it into her bottle. If you could have seen her eyes sparkle and hear her say 'good' today when I gave it to her, you would believe me that she likes it."

"If I was matron of an infants' home, every child would be raised on Postum. Many of my friends say, 'You are looking so well!' I reply, 'I am well; I drink Postum. I have no more trouble with constipation, and know that I owe my good health to God and Postum.'"

"I am writing this letter because I want to tell you how much good Postum has done us, but if you know how I shrink from publicity, you would not publish this letter, at least not over my name."

Sinking Spells Every Few Days

"At the time I began taking Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy I was having sinking spells every few days. My hands and feet would get cold; I could scarcely breathe, and could feel myself gradually sinking away until I would be unconscious. Those about me could not tell there was life in me. After these spells I would be very weak and nervous, sleepless and without appetite; had neuralgia in my head and heart. After taking the remedy a short time all this disappeared and in a few weeks all the heart trouble was gone."
