THE COUNTY JAIL IS FULL

Maple Sugar Camp Near Sycamore—Large Ice Plant to be Erected at Rockford this Season

After a suspension of publication for several weeks caused by fire, the DeKalb Review again made its appearance last week.

Colonel F. O. Lowden has donated $10,000 and Mrs. Lowden $5,000 in addition to the $10,000 gift from Andrew Carnegie, for a public library in Oregon.

There are in the different Odd Fellows' old folks homes in this country 1930 aged and infirm members of the order. Their members do not become county charges.

Frank Gould, a Belvidere mail clerk, has the phenomenal record of naming from memory the 1,600 postoffices in Wisconsin, missing only one.

The world's record for revival services has been concluded at Princeton. Three thousand persons were converted out of a population of 4,000. An enormous sum of money was given to the evangelist, William A. ("Billy") Sunday.

It is thought probable that a $30,000 ice manufacturing plant will be built this season in Rockford. It is said that the manufactured ice can be supplied for 50 cents to one dollar cheaper than Rock river ice and give the people ice of a much better quality.

We are informed the county jail is full, ten men being prisoners there. An unusual occurrence during a session of court. In view of this condition the recent stand taken by the grand jury for a new and better county jail becomes more potent and doubtless will receive due consideration at the hands of the board of supervisors.

Hon. C. W. Marsh is conducting a maple sugar camp at his handsome country place, between Sycamore and DeKalb. He has about 100 hard maple trees, and fifty of these are under tap, the sugar season just beginning. He has all the conveniences of a sugar camp, a little house with concrete floor, with furnace, tubs and tin vats.

Henry P. Elliott, a blacksmith who during the past four weeks has been employed at the shop operated by Clint Holmes at Irene, in the town of Flora, was struck by a fast St. Paul train at Monroe Center on Saturday night and fatally injured. A special train was ordered out and he was taken to Rockford hospital where he died three hours after the accident.

George R. Brown, formerly of Riley, died at his home in Denver, Colorado, on Sunday evening, March 11, 1906, from typhoid fever, aged about 28 years. He had many friends in Marengo and Riley who will regret his untimely death and sincerely sympathize with his bereaved family. He was engaged in the banking business and was upright and successful, enjoying the esteem of all who knew him.

Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Laking, who moved to Hampshire last week from Grant Park, thank the members of the Hampshire Lodge of Odd Fellows for their timely assistance in helping them move their stock, farm machinery and household goods. Their two carloads of goods were quickly unloaded and taken to Brother Laking's new home, with the assistance of the Odd Fellows, some of whom furnished teams,

THE SCHOOL EXHIBIT

Excellent Program Every Evening—Speech Saturday

Arrangements are now all complete for the school exhibit at Crawford's hall Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week. The program as published last week will be rendered to night. The hall is prettily decorated and it is well worth many times the price of admission just to see the work which has been done by the pupils. One in this way gains an idea of the practical work being done at the school. Our children are learning to use their hands as well as their heads and are furthermore learning to make the head and hands work together.

No admission fee will be charged between three and five o'clock Saturday afternoon, at which time Mr. Edward Bangs, assistant state superintendent of public instruction, will speak on the township high school question.

Fredrick Awarded $1433 for Being Struck by C. M. & St. P. Engine

The case of Frank Friedrich vs. the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad company occupied the attention of the court and jury from Wednesday morning last until Friday afternoon when the jury returned with their verdict in favor of the plaintiff for the sum of $1433.

This was an action for personal injuries received by the plaintiff December 10, 1903 at Kirkland by being struck in the night time by the defendant's engine. It was alleged on the part of the plaintiff that the engine was moving through the yards without a headlight and without ringing the bell and by that means the plaintiff was struck. The contention on the part of the plaintiff was vigorously denied on the part of the defendant which put on its entire train crew at Kirkland, who testified that the engine had a headlight burning on the night of the accident, and some, but very little testimony was given, that the bell was being rung. The plaintiff's contention was corroborated by several disinterested witnesses, one of whom came very near being run over himself by the same engine only about a minute before the injury complained of.—Sycamore Tribune.

LEONARD NOMINATED

LEADS IN CONTEST FOR COLLECTOR BY 245 VOTES

J. W. SOWERS FOR ASSESSOR

H. M. Crawford is Nominated in Contest for Highway Commissioner—380 Votes Cast

The result of the caucus last Saturday was somewhat of the nature of a landslide and showed without the shadow of a doubt the sentiments of the voters of Genoa township, so overwhelming was the majority rolled up in favor of the victor.

A total of 380 votes were cast, lacking about 200 of being the full vote of the township. T. G. Sager had no opposition in the race for town clerk and the three candidates for trustees of Ney cemetery, Geo White, Geo. Eichlor and G. C. Kitchen, were not put to much inconvenience in the effort to have their names placed on the ballots. Ira W. Douglass was nominated for school trustee by a vast majority over Geo White. The vote for assessor, collector and highway commissioner resulted as follows:

ASSESSOR

J. W. Sowers.....314
A. L. Holroyd.....66

COLLECTOR

Henry Leonard.....312
G. W. Buck.....67

HIGHWAY COMMISSIONER

H. M. Crawford.....213
Joe Patterson.....167

At no time during the day did the supporters of Leonard and Sowers have any doubts as to the outcome, but a close vote was expected between Crawford and Patterson and not a few were surprised that Patterson fell behind 46 votes.

The meeting was called to order by G. E. Stott. Jas. Hammond was elected chairman with L. M. Olmsted and S. Abraham as clerks.

Jas Hammond, S. Abraham and L. M. Olmsted were elected to act as Republican town committee for the ensuing year.

The following officers were nominated at Kingston where about 80 votes were polled:

Clerk—F. B. Smith.
Assessor—Ira Bicksler.
Collector—W. W. Hill.
Highway Commissioner—Wm. Aves.

The following supervisors were elected; Sycamore, H. C. Wittemore; Mayfield, Geo. Dick; Cortland, John Francisco; South Grove, Balcom McMurchy; DeKalb, Martin Johnson, assistant.

STOTT KNOCKED OUT

In Basket Ball Game at Marengo Last Friday Night

In the basket ball game at Marengo last Friday night between the Genoa and Marengo high school teams, Paul Stott, the Genoa center, was knocked out in the last half and compelled to quit the game. Paul is subject to heart trouble and often temporarily stops the game by being put out of commission. On this occasion, however, he did not recover as readily as heretofore and the game was continued without him. He was too ill to return home until the following morning.

Genoa's first team was defeated, the score being 57 to 26. Just before Stott dropped from the race for town clerk and the prospects for a more even score were encouraging. Carl Harvey filled the position at center, and, altho he put up a good game, he is much more effective at his own position where he has few equals.

The second Genoa team won easily by a score of 29 to 3, the Marengo's not having a chance to even locate the goal.

SENDS FICTITIOUS ORDERS

Geo. Huber Arrested in DeKalb for Obtaining money Under false Pretenses

George Huber, traveling salesman for the Greening Nursery Co., Monroe, Mich., was arrested by Sheriff Rompf in DeKalb Saturday on a warrant sworn out by Mr. Greening, president of the company, charging the salesman with obtaining money under false pretenses.

Huber during the last week or two has been operating in this county and sent in several large orders to the company on which he received his commissions.

Among them were orders from the DeKalb Normal School, the Clarke Piano Company and J. F. Guidden. The amounts of the sales aroused the suspicions of his firm. Investigation developed the fact that the orders were fictitious and that the parties above named knew nothing of them. The commissions paid Huber on these alleged sales amounted to in the neighborhood of $100. He was brought to Sycamore Saturday where a preliminary hearing was held. Admitting his guilt he was placed in the county jail to await the action of the grand jury recently recalled.—Sycamore Tribune.

NOTED EVANGELIST

WILL OPEN MEETINGS IN GENOA NEXT TUESDAY

REV. C. F. REED OF LONDON

First Meeting at M. E. Church Tuesday Evening, March 27—Series Lasts Two Weeks

Genoa and vicinity will have the privilege of hearing the well known London evangelist, the Rev. C. Fenwick Reed, for about two weeks beginning with next Tuesday evening, March 27, and

A certain daily paper published in Indiana commenting upon the evangelist and his work, has the following to say:

"One of the strong impressions one gets of Rev. Reed is the very modest manner he has of speaking of what he has been able to accomplish in other places. All his references to himself are evidently for the Glory of God, to whom he ascribes all honor and praise for the results of work in the evangelistic field. His extensive experience in handling large audiences has given him an ease and facility not often ac-

YOUR OPPORTUNITY TO HEAR DISCUSSION OF HIGH SCHOOL QUESTION

EDWARD BANGS TO LECTURE

Assistant State Superintendent of Public Instruction who has Given the Matter Years of Study

Mr. Edward Bangs, assistant state superintendent of public instruction, will speak at Crawford's hall Saturday afternoon of this week at 3:30 o'clock on the township high school question. Altho the school exhibit will occupy the hall at this time the doors will be thrown open from three to five o'clock, during which hours no admission fee will be charged.

There are many who do not understand the township high school proposition and for the benefit of these Mr. Bangs has kindly consented to speak on the subject. Before becoming assistant superintendent of public instruction Mr. Bangs had for eight years been actively engaged in township high school work, and since filling his present position has given the matter a great deal of attention. Not long since he published a pamphlet in which were set forth the advantages of such a school. An effort was made to secure enough of these reports to place one in the hands of every voter in the township. Failing in this it was thought wise to have the author of the book come and tell the story with his own lips.

Every voter who can possibly do so should avail himself of this opportunity which will be the last before the question comes to a vote. Mr. Bangs will not speak as a campaign orator, but will lay the plain facts and figures before the people regarding the experiences of those towns which have tried the township high school.

The writer gathers from conversation with voters that there are many opposed to the proposition and many in favor of it who actually do not know why they are opposed or in favor or do not understand the meaning of the term "township high school." In many cases it is confused with the other question of consolidation of grades.

Turn out and become posted and then tell your neighbor about it. In this manner all can electioneer and vote with a full knowledge of the question in hand.

Even if you are indifferent on the subject, the lecture will be worth hearing.

JOAN OF THE SWORD HAND

By S. R. CROCKETT, Author of "The Raiders, Etc."
(Copyright, 1898, 1900, by S. R. Crockett.)

CHAPTER XXIX.—Continued.
"Madam," said Werner, with dignity, "go to Kernsberg you must. The enemy is near to the city, and your Highness might fall into their hands."
"You have heard what I have said!" Joan tapped the oaken floor with her foot.
"But, madam, let me beseech you—"

Joan turned from her chief captain impatiently and walked toward the door of her private apartments. Werner followed his mistress, with his hands a little outstretched and a look of eager entreaty on his face.
"My lady," he said, "thirty years I was the faithful servant of your father—ten I have served you. By the memory of those years, if I have served you faithfully—"
"My father taught you little, if after thirty years you have not learned to obey. Go to your post!"
Werner von Orseln drew himself up and saluted. Then he wheeled about and clanked out without adding a word more.

For a moment after the door closed upon the men, Joan and Margaret stood in silence regarding each other. Suddenly Margaret ran impulsively to Joan, clasping her about the neck. "I know!" she said, looking up into her face.

With a great leap the blood flew to Joan's neck and brow, then as slowly faded away, leaving her paler than before.

"What do you know?" she faltered, and she feared, yet desired to hear.
"That you love Conrad!" said Margaret, very low. "Joan, I am so glad—so glad!"

"Margaret, I am ashamed for ever—it is sin!" whispered Joan, with her arms about her friend.
"Joan, you will yet be happy."
The Duchess shook her head.

"It were best for us both that I should die—that is what I pray for."
"May heaven avert this thing—you know not what you say."
And the two women went into the anting room with arms still locked about each other's waists. And as often as their eyes encountered they lingered a little, as if tasting the new knowledge which they had in common. Then those of Joan of the Sword Hand were averted, and she blushed.

It was night in the city of Courtland, and a time of great fear. Ever and anon from the east, where were the camps of the opposed forces, there came a sound, heavy and sonorous, like distant thunder. Whereat the frightened wives of the burghers of Courtland said, "I wonder what mother's son lies a-dying now. Harken to the talking of Great Peg, the Margraf's cannon!"

At the western or Brandenburg gate there was yet greater fear. For the news had spread athwart the city that a great body of horsemen had passed in front of it, and were being held in parley by the guard on duty, till the Lady Joan, Governor of the city, should be made aware.

The Governor of the city, roused from a rare slumber, leaped on her horse and went clattering with an escort through the unsleeping streets.

Looking out, Joan could see a dark mass of horsemen, while above them glinted in the pale starlight a forest of spearheads.

"Whence come you, strangers?" cried Joan.
"From Plassenburg we are!" came back the answer.

"Who leads you?"
"Captains Boris and Jorian, officers of the Prince's bodyguard."
"Let Captains Boris and Jorian approach and deliver their message."
"With whom are we in speech?"

"And what of Prince Conrad?" cried the unmistakable voice of long Boris.

"With the Princess Joan of Hohenstein, Governor of the city of Courtland," said Joan, firmly.
"Come on, Boris; those Courtland knaves will not shoot us now. That is the voice of Joan of the Sword Hand. There can be no treachery where she is."

"Ho, below there!" cried Joan. "Shine a light on them from the upper sally port."

The lantern flashed out, and there, immediately below her, Joan beheld Boris and Jorian saluting as of old, with the simultaneous gesture which had grown so familiar to her during the days of Isle Rugen. She was moved to smile in spite of the soberness of the circumstances.

"What news bring you, good envoys?"

"We have brought the most part of the Palace Guard with us—five hundred good lances and all hungry-bellied for victuals and all monastically thirsty in their throats. Besides which, Prince Hugo raises Plassenburg and the Mark, and in ten days he will be on the march for Courtland."

"God send him speed! I fear me in ten days it will be over indeed," said Joan.

"What does the Muscovite press you so hard?"

"He has thousands to our hundreds, so that he can hem us in on every side."

"Never fear," cried Boris confidently; "we will hold him in check for you till our good Hugo comes to take him on the flank."

Then Joan bade the gates be opened and the horsemen of Plassenburg, strong men on great horses, trampled in.

Then, without resting, she went to the wool market, which had been turned into a soldiers' hospital. Here she found Theresa von Lyнар, going from bed to bed smoothing pillows, anointing wounded limbs, and assisting the surgeons in the care of those who had been brought back from the fatal battlefields of the Alla.

Theresa von Lyнар rose to meet Joan as she entered. Silently the young girl beckoned her to follow, and they went out between long lines of pallets.

"Remember, when all is over I shall keep my vow!" Joan began, as they passed.

"And I also will keep mine!" responded Theresa briefly.

"I am Duchess and city Governor only till the invader is driven out," Joan continued. "Then Isle Rugen is to be mine, and your son shall sit in the seat of Henry the Lion!"

"And what of Prince Conrad?" asked Theresa quietly.

Joan was silent for a space, then she answered with her eyes on the ground. "Prince Conrad shall rule this land as is his duty—Cardinal, Archbishop, Prince; there shall be none to deny him so soon as the power of the Muscovite is broken. He will be in full alliance with Hohenstein. He will form a blood bond with Plassenburg. And when he dies, all that is his shall belong to the children of Duke Maurice and his wife Margaret! I shall never marry!"

"God forbid," said Theresa, looking at her, "that such a woman as you should die without living!"

CHAPTER XXX.

The Wooing of Boris and Jorian.
"Jorian," said Boris, adjusting his soft under-jerkin before putting on his body armor, "thou art the greatest fool in the world!"

"Hold hard, Boris," answered Jorian. "Honor to whom honor—thou art greater by a foot than I!"

"Well," said the long man, "let us not quarrel about the breadth of a finger nail. At any rate, we are the greatest fools in the world."

"There are others," said Jorian, jerking his thumb over his shoulder in the direction of the women's apartments.

"A plague on all women!" growled the little fat man, his rubicund and shining face lined with unaccustomed discontent. "A plague on all women, I say! What can this Theresa von Lyнар want in the Muscovite camp, that we must promise to convey her safe through the fortifications, and then put her into Prince Wasp's hands?"

"Think you that for some hatred of our Joan—you remember that night at Isle Rugen—or some purpose of her own (she loves not the Princess Margaret either), this Theresa would betray the city to the enemy?"

"Tush!" Jorian had lost his temper and answered crossly. "In that case, would she have called us in? It were easy enough to find some traitor among these Courtlanders, who, to obtain the favor of Prince Louis, would help to bring the Muscovite in."

"Well," sighed his companion, "'tis well enough said, my excellent Jorian, but all this does not advance us an inch. We have promised, and at eleven o'clock we must go. What hinders, though, that we have a bottle of Rhenish now?"

Thus in the hall of the men-at-arms in the Castle of Courtland spoke the two captains of Plassenburg. All the time they were busy with their attire, Boris in especial making great play with a tortoiseshell comb among his tangled locks. Somewhat more combed-in-arms than we have seen it. Perhaps it was the thought of the dangerous escort duty upon which they had promised to venture forth that night; perhaps—

"May we come in?" cried an arch voice from the doorway. "Ah, we have caught you. There—we knew it! So said I to my sister not an hour ago. Women may be vain as peacocks, but for prinking, dandifying vanity, combed me to a pair of foreign var capitans. My lords, have you blacked your eyelashes yet, touched your eyebrows, scented and waxed those beautiful mustaches? Sister, can you look and live?"

And to the two soldiers, standing stiff at attention, with their combs in their hands, enter the sisters Anna and Martha Pappenheim, more full of mischievous than ever, and entirely unsubdued by the presence of the invader at their gates.

"Russ or Turk, Courtlander or Franconian, Jew proselyte or dweller in Mesopotamia, all is one to us. So be they are men, we will tie them about our little fingers!"

"Why," cried Martha, "whence this grand toilet? We knew not that you had friends in the city. And yet they tell me you have been in Courtland before, Sir Boris?"

"Marthe," cried Anna Pappenheim, with vast pretence of indignation, "what has gotten into you, girl? Can you have forgotten that martial carriage, those limbs incomparably knit, that readiness of retort and delicate sparkle of Wendish wit, which set all the table in a roar, and yet never bring the blush to maiden's cheek? For shame, Marthe!"

"Ha! ha!" laughed Jorian suddenly, short and sharp, as if a string had been pulled somewhere.

"Ho! ho!" thus more sonorously Boris.

Anna Pappenheim caught her skirts in her hand, and spun round on her heel on pretense of looking behind her.

"Sister, what was that?" she cried, looking beneath the settles and up the

"My lords, have you blacked your eyelashes yet?"

"Methought a dog barked."

"Or a gray goose cackled!"
"Or a donkey sang!"

"Ladies," said Jorian, who, being vastly discomfited, must perforce try to speak with an affectation of being at his ease, "you are pleased to be witty."

"Heaven mend our wit on your judgment!"

"And we are right glad to be your butts. Yet have we been accounted fellows of some humor in our own country and among men—"

"Why, then, did you not stay there?" inquired Marthe pointedly.

"It was not Boris and I who could not stay without," retorted Jorian, somewhat nettled, nodding towards the door of the guard room.

"Well said!" cried frank Anna. "He had you there, Marthe. Pricked in the white! Faith, Sir Jorian pinked us both, for indeed it was we who intruded into the gentlemen's dressing room. Our excuse is that we are tirewomen, and would fain practise our office when and where we can. Our Princess hath been wedded, and needs us but once a week. Noble Wendish gentlemen, will not you engage us?"

Nothing Doing.

A couple of dirty-faced kids stopped in front of the stand of a vender who sells unique toys and began looking his wares over.

"Want something?" asked the man.
"How much is yer rubber balls?" asked one boy.

"Five cents," he said. The boys were silent.

"Maybe you'd like to have this auto?" said the vender, showing another toy. "It's 15 cents."

To this the boys did not reply. "How about the walking elephant?" asked the man. "I'll let you have it for 20 cents."

The boys said nothing and the merchant showed them half a dozen other toys, quoting prices on them. Finally he grew impatient.

"How much money have you got?" he asked.

"We ain't got no money," came from one boy.

"Well, then, git out," growled the toy vender. And the boys "got."—Kansas City Times.

Disappointed in Roosevelt.
When President Roosevelt visited the Maine state fair in Bangor, three years ago, people came from all the surrounding towns to get a glimpse of and shake hands with him. I was standing in a small crowd just before the President arrived on the fair grounds. Behind me was a large woman in a very conspicuous dress, and evidently from the country. She was standing with her mouth wide open, waiting. When some one cried out, "There he comes!" she made a rush by me that nearly knocked me over, but, when she got a glimpse of him, exclaimed, "Good land! He looks just like any other man," and appeared greatly disappointed.

The Town Jay Gould Founded.
Gouldsboro, Lackawanna county, Pa., which was named for the late Jay Gould, who was the founder of the town, he having operated a tannery at that place before he became either rich or famous, is a deserted village. According to the report of School Superintendent Taylor of Lackawanna county, its public school has dwindled to a paltry attendance of fifteen pupils and its tanneries and sawmills have entirely disappeared.

FARM, ORCHARD & GARDEN

GROWING FEED AND FERTILITY.

The two-fold problem confronting many farmers is, how to maintain the fertility of the soil while growing crops that are to be sold and removed from the farm, and how to grow on the farm substitutes for the expensive protein feeds now so generally purchased by dairymen and stock feeders.

The air is a great storehouse of nitrogen and vast amounts of potash and phosphoric acid. If we can trap or coax the nitrogen from the air and unlock the other ingredients from the soil and unite them in living plants, we can grow crops cheaply, and reduce the cost of farm, stock and dairy products and largely increase our profits. While scientists are devising some means to combine the nitrogen of the air with some other substance that will make it available for agricultural purposes, the best we can do is to study with care the leguminous plants that we now know do actually draw a part of their nitrogen from the air and store it for use in their roots, stems, leaves and seeds.

These plants, clovers, beans, peas, etc., furnish for stock what we call protein, a nitrogenous substance, necessary for the making of lean meat, milk and eggs, that are always salable farm products. The entire plants, or their roots decaying in the soil, add to it a considerable amount of the valuable plant food we call nitrogen, and leave it in a comparatively stable form. Even if a part of this nitrogen has been obtained from what was already in the soil, the legumes have brought it up from below by their long roots, or have collected it from near the surface, where it was going to waste. In other words, they have trapped some from the air and gathered the wastes and have put it into a form available for the crop that follows.

It is also characteristic of these plants that they leave the soil in a mellow and friable state favorable to the growth of other crops. We feel sure from the experience we have had that it will be profitable for many of our readers to experiment this year on their own account, to learn how they can make some of the lesser known legumes profitable in their farming.

Particular attention is called here to the soy or soja bean, one of the least known of the legume family of plants.

It comes to us from Japan, and has been tested in a limited way by a few persons here and there. Five years ago at the Kansas Experiment station several fields aggregating sixty acres were planted with very satisfactory results in every instance.

In feeding the beans they take the place of linseed meal or gluten meal. They surpass linseed meal in the percentage of protein and fat. In the bean meal there is 36.8 per cent of protein and 16.2 per cent of fat; in linseed meal 33.2 per cent and 3 per cent. Comparing soy bean hay and dry corn fodder, the former has 15.4 per cent of protein and 5.2 per cent of fat, while the latter has 3.8 per cent and 1.1 per cent. The green beans are also twice as rich in these respects as green corn. Thus it appears they afford a convenient feed for balancing the corn crop to make it a suitable ration for growing or fattening stock and for making milk.

Because a firm sends out fine stationery, soliciting shipments of produce to be sold on commission, it does not mean that it is reliable. Scores of farmers have been robbed by swindlers who use engraved bill and letter heads. Look out for all such. Deal only with men who are reliable, even if they do not make quite so big promises as the fancy letterhead men.

SHEEP.

If your sheep run in the same yard that the cows must occupy part of the day, have an adjoining lot into which you can let them run while the cows are out. This will keep them from being chased and perhaps fatally injured by the cows.

Do you look for early lambs? Then be sure to give the ewes good warm quarters every night from this on. If anything is discouraging it is to go out and find nice lambs chilled to death.

Talk much with your sheep when among them. They should know your voice every time they hear it; and it is well worth while, too, to speak in a kindly tone every time.

Sheep should wear their bells in winter as well as in the summer. In fact, dogs are fully as apt to get among them when huddled in a yard as when in an open field.

Sort out the little potatoes and give them to the sheep as a change of ration. Watch them eat these, and rest assured that you are putting dollars into your own pocket while the sheep are putting down the potatoes.

Clover is splendid feed for sheep in winter. It is rich and sweet—provided it was properly cured. Musty clover is worse than good clean timothy.

When you clean the leavings from the cows' mangers, take it out and put it in the rack for the sheep to look over. You will be surprised to see how much of it they will eat up clean.

PRUNING MAXIMS.

Prof. Hutt of the Utah Experiment station gives in bulletin 83 some wise maxims on pruning, as follows:

1. Start the tree right.
2. Do not cut out large limbs.
3. Keep your tools sharp.
4. Never prune in frosty weather.
5. Frost-bitten wounds are slow to heal.

6. Never leave stumps in cutting off limbs.

7. Prune annually, but never heavily.

8. Wounds heal most rapidly in spring.

9. Heavy pruning conduces to wood growth.

10. Never use a hatchet for removing suckers.

11. Avoid injuring the cambium in any way.

12. Don't leave your pruning to the hired man.

13. The more you understand trees the better you will prune them.

14. A severe heading-hack will renew the tops of old peach trees.

15. In transplanting be careful of the root-hairs.

16. In transplanting cut back top and root.

17. Do not head trees so low as to interfere with cultivation.

18. Drastic pruning strikes at the vitality of the tree.

19. Do not start all main limbs at the same height.

20. Keep the tree free of suckers.

21. Summer pruning induces fruitfulness.

22. Torn wounds are generally fatal.

23. Paint over the larger wounds.

24. Trees are delicate structures and require careful handling.

25. A heavy pruning is always followed by a heavy growth of suckers.

26. Never slit the bark, bore holes, or drive nails into trees.

27. Never allow stock to prune your trees.

28. Unpruned, uncultivated orchards are not money-makers.

29. The orchard is not a profitable source of firewood.

30. Blackberries and black raspberries should always be tipped back in summer.

31. Prune raspberries and currants by the renewal of rotation system.

32. Do not decapitate shade trees.

33. Never prune evergreens.

How marvelously has this catalogue making grown since thirty years. At that time there was scarcely a catalogue that had more than half a dozen illustrations, and they were, as a rule, wood cuts so crudely done as to be almost unrecognizable, unless they were labeled—and as to colors, they were scarcely thought of. Today many of the catalogues contain more sound information than many books which have been written on the same subjects, but a few years since. They are virtually text books in gardening. As a rule the information is condensed and so boiled down as to be readily understood. And all these catalogues may be had for the asking. A postal card is all that is necessary in most cases to obtain them. Write now for them, get them, and read them from cover to cover. Be careful to read and note down what is said about the new flowers, the new vegetables, and the new fruits.

WHY HE FAILED WITH HOGS.
Because he bred from worn-out stock.

Because he failed to provide ample range for the sows.

Because the pigs lacked vigor.

Because he had some litters arrive early in the winter.

Because he did not attempt to provide natural conditions for his pigs.

Because his sows furnished scanty nourishment for their offspring.

Because his pigs took the scours from sleeping in cold, damp beds.

Because he did not know that a pig's stomach is small and needs constant replenishing.

Because he did not know his pigs ate their heads off during the winter.

Because he did not know that seventy per cent of the pig's live weight is water.

Because he did not get the pigs out of the nest and compel them to exercise some every day.

Because he did not go after the vermin until the pigs were completely lousy.

Because he cut away all his woods, and was glad he had no trees to contend with.

Because he never thought that the disease-proof "razorback" lives mostly in the woods.

Because he boasted that his hogs could be grown on less water than any others in the neighborhood.

Because he could not understand why half a dozen of his best pigs perished from sunstroke.

Wood ashes or soot sifted over young radishes that have just put forth their first leaves, protect them from the ravages of the fly whose larvae cause wormy radishes later on.

RENOVATE THE OLD ORCHARD.

Prof. John Craig says: There are many old and some middle-aged orchards, once profitable, but now sources of loss. At the same time there are men in this state who are investing labor and capital in renovating such orchards, and find it a paying business. Will it not pay some of us who have land occupied by neglected and unproductive apple trees to give them another and a fair chance? Let me outline a course of treatment for such trees for this season.

1. The trees need pruning. This should be done at once. First, take out all the dead, diseased and interfering branches; remove all suckers and sprouts from the bases and trunks of the trees. Second, scrape off the roughest of the old bark with an old hoe or other suitable tool, being careful not to injure or expose the live parts beneath.

2. The trees need spraying. The first spray should be given before the buds burst. Use Bordeaux mixture. Consult spray calendar. Continue the spraying as directed.

3. The trees need tillage. The sod should be thoroughly pulverized. This may be accomplished, if the sod is not too tough, by using a springtooth harrow or disc harrow. If sod is tough, and dense, turn it over with a plow and work down fine with a harrow. Plow away from trees, and as shallow as plow's near them. Till at least once in ten days up to the middle of July.

4. The trees need fertilizing. Fertilizers may be furnished through green manures. During the last half of July, harrow and drill cow peas (Whippoorwill or Blackeye) at the rate of one and a half bushels per acre. If drilling is impracticable, broadcast rolling the ground afterwards. The interest in the experiment may be increased by using different cover crops; for instance, cow peas on one part, Canada peas on another, and crimson clover on a third.

5. Record your observations. In order to obtain an accurate idea of the value of the experiment, a profit-and-loss account should be kept. Charge the field with cost of labor and materials used, and credit it with the returns. An immediate response in the yield of a crop of fruit should not be expected—this should come the second year—but the trees will, in the meantime, take on renewed vigor and appearance of health.

The mangel wurtzel beet is a "dandy" for stock feed. Try a small patch for your milk cows, and you'll keep it up. The seed should be planted as soon as the soil can be gotten into good condition. Plant in drills 20 to 30 inches apart, dropping from 12 to 20 seeds to the foot. This will require from 10 to 15 pounds of seed to the acre. As soon as the young plants have started sufficiently to make the rows visible, they should be cultivated, and should receive constant attention so as to keep the surface soil loose and destroy the starting weeds. When the beets are about two or three inches high they should be thinned out so as to stand six to ten inches apart in the row, and cultivation should be discontinued as soon as the roots have commenced to form.

Plan Statue to Col. Curry.
Congressman Bowie of Alabama in a few days will introduce a bill providing for the erection in Statuary hall, Washington, of a statue to Col. J. L. M. Curry, the noted southern philanthropist and educator. Should the measure come to a vote the house of representatives will have a chance to say whether it will permit such honor to the memory of a Confederate soldier. Col. Curry's fame as a philanthropist is widespread, but he is perhaps better remembered as an aide to Gens. Wheeler and Jackson during the civil war. Should consent be given, Alabama stands ready to furnish the monument.

Increase in Railroad Earnings.
One hundred and fifty millions of dollars is a large sum for any industry to earn in one year, and yet this sum, great as it is, represents not the gross earnings but the increased earnings of the railroads in this country last year. What the business of the people of America amounts to may be imagined from the fact that they paid $150,000,000 more money for freight charges in 1905 than they did in 1904. It takes a great many tons of freight at an average of 1 cent per ton per mile to pile up $150,000,000, and that, as above noted, is not the amount of business done, but merely the increase of that business in 1905 as compared with 1904. And the railroads are not doing all the carrying for the American people by a long chalk.—Philadelphia Evening Telegraph.

And the Last Laugh Is Always the Best.
"Six months ago I would have laughed at the idea that there could be anything better for a table beverage than coffee," writes an Ohio woman—"now I laugh to know there is."

"Since childhood I drank coffee as freely as any other member of the family. The result was a puny, sickly girl, and as I grew into womanhood I did not gain in health, but was afflicted with heart trouble, a weak and disordered stomach, wrecked nerves and a general breaking down, till last winter, at the age of 38 I seemed to be on the verge of consumption. My friends greeted me with 'How bad you look! What a terrible color!' and this was not very comforting."

"The doctors and patent medicines did me absolutely no good. I was thoroughly discouraged."

"Then I gave up coffee and commenced Postum Food Coffee. At first I didn't like it, but after a few trials and following the directions exactly, it was grand. It was refreshing and satisfying. In a couple of weeks I noticed a great change. I became stronger, my brain grew clearer, I was not troubled with forgetfulness as in coffee times, my power of endurance was more than doubled. The heart trouble and indigestion disappeared and my nerves became steady and strong."

"I began to take an interest in things about me. Housework and home-making became a pleasure. My friends have marveled at the change and when they inquire what brought it about, I answer 'Postum Food Coffee, and nothing else in the world.'" Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Machinery is the cornerstone of modern society, the very foundation on which law, science, ethics, the arts, even the state itself, rests. It is so new that we do not yet know its poetry. We do not yet understand. Only two generations have lived beside the highway of steam, only one has seen the Bessemer converter transform the blacksmith into the master builder of ships and towers. The sewing machine, the far speaker, the typewriter, are common things of to-day, accepted as a matter of daily convenience, and yet are they teachers of the people. Machines that come close to our lives and homes insensibly teach truth, precision, the adjustment of universal laws to human needs, respect for that wise American idea that labor saved is labor released for higher and nobler toil. The machine is the head master in the high school of the race.—

HAD HEART PAINS

A Critical Case of Rheumatism Cured By Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

While Mr. W. S. Geisel, of No. 125 East Coates street, Moberly, Mo., was steadily working at his trade in a foundry at that place, he became the victim of an attack of rheumatism, and his experience is that of thousands who are compelled to work in similar surroundings. He describes his situation as follows:

"I had been at work for a long time in a foundry where I was exposed to dampness. First my feet began to hurt and to swell, then my knees and my shoulder joints began to be affected in the same way. Finally I could not walk without great difficulty and suffering and had to stop work altogether. My appetite was feeble and I grew very pale and weak. I began to have pains about my heart and it fluttered a great deal. I became greatly alarmed about my condition. My mother knew about the virtues of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, as they had given her back her health when she was nearly wasting to death, and when she found that they were good for rheumatism too, she began to give them to me about a month after I was attacked. That was in the early part of March, 1903, and by June they had driven away the pains and swelling and had restored my appetite and color. Then I felt strong enough to take up a line of outdoor work and now, in October, I am about to go into a foundry again at St. Louis."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills also cure other diseases springing from impure blood or disordered nerves, such as scalding, locomotor ataxia, partial paralysis and all forms of weakness in male or female. They may be had at all druggists or directly from the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

Do You Want to Know

What You Swallow?

There is a growing sentiment in this country in favor of medicines of known composition. It is but natural that one should have some interest in the composition of that which he or she is expected to swallow, whether it be food, drink or medicine.

Recognizing this growing disposition on the part of the public, and satisfied that the fullest publicity can only add to the well-earned reputation of his medicines, Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., has "taken time by the forelock" as it were, and is publishing broadcast a list of all the ingredients entering into his leading medicines, the "Golden Medical Discovery," the "Purifier of Blood," the "Stomach Tonic, Blood Purifier and Heart Regulator," also of his "Favorite Prescription" for weak, over-worked, broken-down, nervous and invalid women.

This bold and outspoken movement on the part of Dr. Pierce, has, by showing exactly what his well-known medicines are composed of, completely disarmed all harping critics who have heretofore unjustly attacked them. A little pamphlet has been compiled, from the standard medical authorities of all the several schools of practice, showing the strongest endorsements by leading medical writers of the several ingredients which enter into Dr. Pierce's medicines. A copy of this little book is being sent to any one desiring to learn more concerning the valuable, native, medicinal plants which enter into the composition of Dr. Pierce's medicines. Address Dr. Pierce, at the above.

Scene of Disaster in Which French Miners Lost Their Lives

Courrières, the scene of the recent catastrophe, is in Pas de Calais, northern France, eighteen miles distant from Bethune. It has a population of 3,900. It is in the center of France's greatest coal district. This district has an area of 190 square miles, and employed in it are 20,000

MINES OF THE SHAFT VARIETY.

Some at Courrières Extended Far Into the Ground.

Coal mines are divided into two kinds, the drift mine and the shaft mine. The drift mine is dug into the side of the hill and extends by very slow degrees downward. The coal is brought to the surface in little cars drawn on narrow gauge rails by donkeys.

These mines sometimes extend inward for over a mile in one direction. The Courrières mines are mostly of the shaft variety, however. Some of these shafts are very deep. On the day of the explosion men were heard calling for help from a depth of nearly half a mile.

The miners in France do not use the safety lamps that many mining concerns in the United States now compel their employes to use. These lamps are little metallic oil-burning affairs affixed to the miners' hats. The flame ignites from a cotton wick, and will burn hour after hour.

Not even the eternal vigilance of the fire boss can prevent a holocaust if the miners themselves become careless.

In the Courrières mines there are a great many condemned "pockets," as they are called. These pockets at one time or another become filled with fire damp and the miners were warned not to go near them.

One rumor as to the cause of the explosion is that a miner, either careless or ignorant of what he was doing, opened a condemned pocket, mistaking it for an air chamber. In such a case there would be an instantaneous explosion. The detonation would cause the other pockets to explode and the explosions would continue while there was any fire damp in the mine.

The topography of the stricken district is very irregular and very much resembles that of Allegheny county, Pa. The district is thickly populated, and but a few miles out of the line of travel of the multitude of tourists who throng northern France every year.

The mining population is not made up principally of Frenchmen any more than the mining population in the United States is made up of Americans. Poles and Hungarians, as well as a liberal sprinkling of Italians and Russians, for the most part make up Courrières' population.

The town is gloomy, smoky and unsightly, and does not offer much to the sightseer to recompense him for his visit. It is not mentioned in Baedeker or in any of the other prominent guide books. It has one admirable statue dedicated to Jean de Montmorency, however.

Queens Taller Than Their Consorts.

There hardly is a king in Christendom to-day whose wife does not overtop him by a head. King Edward is six inches shorter than Queen Alexandra. The czar is overtopped a full head by the zarina. Kaiser Wilhelm is of the medium height, but the German empress is tall, and that is why the kaiser will never consent to be photographed beside his wife unless she sits while he stands. The king of Italy hardly comes up to the shoulders of Queen Helena. The king of Portugal, though fatter, is less tall than his queen. The queen of Denmark towers above her royal spouse.

Speaker's Mind Wandered.

Speaker Cannon called the house to order the other day and said as usual: "The chaplain will offer prayer." Rev. Mr. Couden proceeded to do so and meantime Mr. Cannon allowed his mind to stray away to the consideration of some important measures then pending. At the conclusion of prayer the speaker came out of his reverie, rapped with his gavel and said once more: "The chaplain will offer prayer." The clerk himself whispered something in Mr. Cannon's ear and Uncle Joe almost blushed as he exclaimed: "Oh, hang it; the joke's on me."

Peculiar Nervous Disease.

The well-known nerve pathologist, V. M. Bechtereff, says the St. Petersburg Novosti, mentions the appearance of a peculiar disease of the nerve system, which he calls "sweating sickness of the hand." This trouble is indicated by the sudden perspiration of the hand on the part of the victim each time he sees an acquaintance with whom he is about to shake hands. Sometimes the perspiration will fall in large drops from the tips of the fingers. None of the other parts of the body shows similar symptoms.

hands. The amount of coal mined annually is 5,000,000 tons. Coal was first discovered here in 1717, at Tressnes. For centuries the district around Courrières has been prominent in its manufactures, and the almost inexhaustible beds of coal will secure it that supremacy for centuries to come.

GROWING POWER OF THE WEST.

Will Soon Push East in Population and Commercial Supremacy.

People of the East are apt to overlook the fact that there is a great and growing West. They do not realize that at some time not far distant this section will be competing with the East in population and in commercial supremacy. To the thousands of Americans who are familiar with Europe but to whom California, Oregon and Washington are names and nothing more the term "Golden Gate" is without meaning, "Puget sound" indicative of nothing but distance. They do not know that in the land where rolled the Oregon and heard "no sound save its own dashing" there has sprung up a life more virile than their own, from having still the inspiration of youth and the uplift that comes when ambition realizes that there are worlds yet to conquer. The West is a giant; it does not beg favors; it does not ask for recognition, but it forces the recognition by the expanding power of its own splendid vitality—Philadelphia Ledger.

SARRIEN LONG IN PUBLIC LIFE.

Second Time New French Premier Has Been in Cabinet.

M. Jean Sarrien, head of the new French cabinet, has been a power in French political life for fifteen years. There have been few ministerial crises in which he has not been consulted. The last time that he held office was in 1898, when at the request of his friend, Brisson, he, with some reluctance, consented to accept the perilous post of minister of justice at the time of the Dreyfus controversy. As such he instituted the proceedings in the Supreme court, which resulted in the quashing of the first trial and in the ex-captain being brought back to France to stand trial anew at Rennes. He is a man of 66, a lawyer, born of a middle class provincial family, and during the war with Germany won the cross of the Legion of Honor by gallantry under fire as captain of Mobs. He has represented his native

Senator Knox's physician advised him to give up smoking a few days ago and put him in the same class with Senator Spooner, also smokeless after forty years of it. Senator Knox's physician happened up at the capitol and went into the senator's committee room to pass the time of day. He found Knox smoking a cigar. "Here, senator," he said, "I thought I told you to quit that. 'Quit what?' asked Knox in mild surprise. 'Why, quit using tobacco.' 'Tobacco? Why, my dear doctor, I am not using tobacco. I am merely smoking a cigar Senator Dolliver gave me.'

Immune to Colds.

"A Quakeress," said a physician, "never catches cold. Her immunity is due to her bonnet. If I had my way, all of us, women and men alike, would wear Quaker bonnets. This bonnet protects the back of the head and the nape of the neck, two very tender spots. The nape especially is tender. Let a good draught strike you there for just a second and I'll guarantee you a week's cold. The Quakeress's bonnet may not be beautiful, but, protecting her nape as it does, it keeps her free from colds year in and year out."

English Nobility in Trade.

English nobility has many matters on its mind these days. It wishes to keep busy above all things and there are individuals who are looking for gold galore by going into trade. Carpet weaving is the latest industry to be invaded by these "distinguished" persons bent upon adding to incomes or finding work for their tenantry. Foremost among them is the Duchess of Sutherland, who has started looms at Helmsdale, in Sutherlandshire, in order to help the women affected by the decline in the Highland fisheries. As a purely business speculation the Earl of Pembroke and the Earl of Radnor have opened a carpet factory at Wilton. They bring to that admirable possession a cultivated taste and the beautiful things which they promise to turn out will be sought by devotees of the life luxurious.

Stomach Not a Necessity.

While the value of a good stomach is undoubted, fortunately, says Prof. H. J. Paterson, Nature is able to dispense with this organ, as most of its functions can be performed by other parts of the alimentary canal. It has been shown that dogs may gain in weight and remain in perfect health after removal of the entire stomach, while the elaborate observations made on a patient prove that the same holds good of human beings. Until some other cure for cancer is discovered, wide removal is the ideal operation.

COULD NOT KEEP UP.

Broken Down, Like Many Another Woman, with Exhausting Kidney Troubles.

Mrs. A. Taylor, of Wharton, N. J., says: "I had kidney trouble in its most painful and severe form, and the torture I went through now seems to have been almost unbearable. I had backaches, pains in the side and loins, dizzy spells and hot, feverish headaches. There were bearing-down pains, and the kidney secretions passed too frequently and with a burning sensation. They showed sediment. I became discouraged, weak, languid and depressed, so sick and weak that I could not keep up. As doctors did not cure me I decided to try Doan's Kidney Pills, and with such success that my troubles were all gone after using eight boxes, and my strength, ambition and general health is fine."

Don Luis Terrazas, the Mexican Croesus who once offered to assume all the debts owed by his country, has a farm of about 8,000,000 acres in the state of Chihuahua. It takes Mexican Central trains half a day to cross the farm. Don Luis is thought to own more than 1,000,000 cattle, but a bagatelle of 100,000 or so more or less never bothers him. His stable consists of some 100,000 horses, his sheep fold of 700,000 sheep. From 200,000 to 300,000 calves are branded with his brand every spring. More than 1,000 cowboys and so on keep his cattle on a thousand hills.

In an article on the "Growth of Fletcherism," in the March "World's Work," Isaac F. Marcosson gives Horace Fletcher's following rules for eating, which are given to all patients of the Harvard Dental School Dispensary:

- (1) Eat only in response to an actual appetite, which will be satisfied with plain bread and butter.
- (2) Chew all solid food until it is liquid and practically swallows itself.
- (3) Sip and taste all liquids that have taste, such as soup and lemonade. Water has no taste and can be swallowed immediately.
- (4) Never take food while angry or worried, and only when calm. Waiting for the mood in connection with the appetite is a speedy cure for both anger and worry.
- (5) Remember and practice these four rules and your teeth and health will be fine.

Peddler's Remarkable Honesty.

A remarkable instance of a finder's honesty recently occurred at Altmarkt, in Upper Austria. Herr Gattinger, a carpenter there, recently inherited a legacy of nearly $5,000 from his brother, and without informing his wife, hid banknotes for the amount in an old eight-day clock that no longer worked. On coming home, he found, to his horror, that his wife had sold the clock to a peddler. A few days later he received the banknotes in a registered but anonymous letter, in which the peddler stated he had found the notes when trying to repair the clock.

HOSPITALS CHOWDED

MAJORITY OF PATIENTS WOMEN

Mrs. Pinkham's Advice Saves Many From This Sad and Costly Experience.

It is a sad but certain fact that every year brings an increase in the number of operations performed upon women in our hospitals. More than three-fourths of the patients lying on those snow-white beds are women and girls who are awaiting or recovering from operations made necessary by neglect.

Every one of these patients had plenty of warning in that bearing-down feeling, pain at the left or right of the abdomen, nervous exhaustion, pain in the small of the back, pelvic catarrh, dizziness, flatulency, displacements or irregularities. All of these symptoms are indications of an unhealthy condition of the female organs, and heed the trouble may make headway until the penalty has to be paid by a dangerous operation, and a lifetime of impaired usefulness at best, while in many cases the results are fatal.

Miss Luella Adams, of Seattle, Wash., writes:

"About two years ago I was a great sufferer from a severe female trouble, pains and headaches. The doctor prescribed for me and finally told me that I had a tumor and must undergo an operation if I wanted to get well. I felt that this was my death warrant, but I refused an operation. I wish every suffering woman would try this great preparation."

Just as surely as Miss Adams was cured of the troubles enumerated in her letter, just so surely will Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cure other women who suffer from female troubles, inflammation, kidney troubles, nervous excitability or nervous prostration.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all young women who are ill to write her for free advice. She is daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham and for twenty-five years has been advising sick women free of charge. Address, Lynn, Mass.

DON'T PUT IT OFF.

If you intend to make any investment in mining properties put your money into a company organized to prospect and develop the rich State of Nevada in line with the new towns of Tonopah, Goldfield, Bullfrog and Manhattan, the most famous mining districts of the world where millions of dollars have been mined within the last few months and where the mineral bearing area is becoming greater and richer with its extension towards the dividing line of California.

Stock in this company will be sold at $10 per share and applications for same must be in before May 1st, at which time the company will send out its first corps of prospectors consisting of a competent assayer and 3 practical miners, along with the necessary equipment. Stockholders in this company will receive for their interests promoters' stock in the companies later to be organized to develop and exploit the mines, this practically getting the start fifty times more for their money than they could by buying treasury stock in the ordinary way.

As this initial company is to have a very small capitalization buying orders must be in early as we expect the stock over-subscribed before the above date.

Now we wonder if John Alexander Dowie is still Elijah or just plain Dowie. To be a prophet without a finger in the money bags is not according to Dowie's well laid plans.

It is said that a cent changes hands 150,000 times in the course of its life. Someone asks, "When does the life of a cent end?" When Russell Sage or Hettie Green gets hold of it.

BRYAN and Hearst will head the Democratic ticket in 1908 according to the predictions of the most influential Bryan democrats. Unless this is a joke, it is surely tonic for the Republican leaders. It would be just too easy.

AND now the unions of Chicago are contemplating the plan of establishing a union cemetery and allow graves to be dug by union diggers only. It may be that an attempt will be made to unionize the ferrymen at the river Styx and make St. Peter wear a button.

SOME of our worthy exchanges are jubilant over the fact that Richard Yates is greeted with enthusiasm wherever he stops to put up an argument. Remember, brothers, that President Roosevelt was greeted with even more enthusiasm in the south, but then he could not count on the vote of every man who shouted hurrah for Teddy. Likewise was Wm. Bryan received in the enemy's country. There is a difference, you know, between popularity and notoriety, if not in the reception of the man.

A GRATEFUL BRIGAND.

The Story of "The Church of the Cup of Cold Water."

One of the many churches of Spain bears the strange name of "The Church of the Cup of Cold Water." This is its history: A certain good hearted but very poor priest, living in a little village not far from the mountains, was startled one day by two or three soldiers entering his house, carrying with them a bleeding brigand with a broken arm. The priest hastened to bind up the wounded arm, though the captors seemed to care little whether or not their prisoner lived. The injured man, who bore his sufferings without a groan, then begged for a drink of water, and as he raised himself to receive it, encouraged by the priest's kind manner, he whispered that his two children were left friendless on the edge of the wooded hills. When the prisoner had been dragged away the cure went in search of the poor children, found them crying and hungry and brought them to his humble home. Then, poor as he was, he sent the boy to school and the girl to a neighboring convent and, by much self denial and in spite of many remarks on his folly, provided for their support.

Years passed away, and the children were almost grown up when one day a magnificent carriage stopped at the door of the humble parsonage. A fine looking man in uniform, his breast covered with decorations, stepped out. He explained that he was the wounded brigand, that he had escaped and in one of the many Spanish revolutions had chanced to be of the winning party, now held a high office and had returned to claim his children. And when he had affectionately greeted them he asked permission of the good old priest that he might build him a new church in place of the shabby little mountain chapel and call it "The Church of the Cup of Cold Water."

THE LIVER QUARANTINE

"Hurried eating has ruined many a man's stomach. The digestion-destroying process is gradual, often unnoticed at first. But it is only a short time until the liver balks, the digestive organs give way, and almost countless ills assail the man who endeavors to economize time at the expense of his health."

A torpid liver causes a quarantine of the entire system. It locks in the diseased germs and body poisons and affords them full play, inviting some serious illness. In families where August Flower is used, a sluggish liver and constipation are unknown, so are all stomach ailments, as well as indigestion, dyspepsia, heartburn, headaches and kidney and bladder affections. No well-regulated family should be without this standard remedy. Two sizes, 25c and 75c. All druggists.

THE above picture of the man and fish is the trademark of Scott's Emulsion, and is the synonym for strength and purity. It is sold in almost all the civilized countries of the globe.

If the cod fish became extinct it would be a world-wide calamity, because the oil that comes from its liver surpasses all other fats in nourishing and life-giving properties. Thirty years ago the proprietors of Scott's Emulsion found a way of preparing cod liver oil so that everyone can take it and get the full value of the oil without the objectionable taste. Scott's Emulsion is the best thing in the world for weak, backward children, thin, delicate people, and all conditions of wasting and lost strength.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature to do it work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address: F. J. The White Ribbon Remedies.

The oldest, most popular and purely non-alcoholic remedy is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for weak women. It does not contain a particle of alcohol. Neither does Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for the blood. Both are remedies which have stood the test of public approval for the past third of a century. Urge your friends to take Dr. Pierce's remedies and to be aware of alcoholic tonics. Dr. Pierce offers $500 reward for women who cannot be cured of those weaknesses which are peculiar to the womanly organism. Send for full treatise on diseases of women to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y. Correspondence is invited and consultation is free and strictly confidential.

Treatment of the nervous system and the womanly organism by alcoholic compounds has always been, in the opinion of Dr. R. V. Pierce, who is founder and chief medical director of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, at Buffalo, N. Y., a very bad practice. When he set about to find the right medicine for the treatment of woman's peculiar disease, he hit on a combination of nature's most valuable roots, herbs and barks, in a solution which did not contain a particle of alcohol. Dr. Pierce does not claim his "Favorite Prescription" will cure all diseases, or that it will cure men. It is a woman's medicine only, and in woman's diseases it has been found effective in thousands of cases. It is unparalleled in its curative properties and has a flattering record that cannot be equaled by any other remedy manufactured exclusively for woman's use.

OIL MAGNATES ARE SUFFERING

William Rockefeller Incurably Ill with Cancer of the Stomach.

H. H. ROGERS LOSING MEMORY

Speculative Member of Great Combination Faces Death, Business Head is in Decline, and Founder Retired, Concern Loses Power.

New York, March 20.—Private advices received in this city said that William Rockefeller, who has been in Europe since early last fall, has cancer of the stomach and that his malady is incurable.

The illness of William Rockefeller is a blow of stupendous proportions to the Standard Oil group. John D. Rockefeller has ceased to be an actual factor in the manifold undertakings of the group for many months.

With William Rockefeller incurably ill and John D. Rockefeller in semi-retirement, the two great geniuses of the Standard Oil are practically eliminated.

All the burdens of the combination which heretofore were divided are now being borne by Henry H. Rogers, who is 64 years old, and, according to men who know him well, not as able and as capable as he was a few years ago. Those who have dealings with him say that his memory has failed materially in the last year. They also declare his judgment is not as keen nor as accurate as formerly.

Has Passed Its Zenith. Summed up, it is the opinion of thoughtful men in the financial district that the Standard Oil giant has seen its greatest days and that from now on it will decline in power and skill.

Had Been on Duty Seventy-two Hours and Neglected to Deliver Orders Which Changed Meeting Place of Belated Trains.

Pueblo, Colo., dispatch: An operator who had worked for seventy-two consecutive hours without rest is responsible for the wreck on the Denver and Rio Grande railroad at 2:20 o'clock Friday morning, in which many of the passengers—the number being variously estimated from twenty-one to thirty-five—were crushed or burned to death.

The operator was arrested Friday night. He has confessed that he fell asleep. While he slept dispatcher's orders which would have prevented the wreck were not delivered.

Twenty-one men, women and children are known to be dead. A collection of charred bones thrown promiscuously into a big box will forever hide the identity of perhaps fifteen or twenty more.

Has Incurable Disease. The malady which afflicts William Rockefeller is said to be identical with that which caused the death of the late William R. Harper, president of the Chicago university, the institution to which John D. Rockefeller has given a great many millions.

William Rockefeller has spent most of the winter in Italy, making his headquarters at Rome. As in the case of President Harper, his illness permits him to travel about, and he has made frequent motor trips to and from Naples and other points.

Hold "Vital" Meeting. There was a gathering Monday of the Standard Oil officials and friends of Mr. Rockefeller at the office of his son, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., room 1409, 26 Broadway, which may have resulted in some important changes in the management of the great corporation.

This meeting was described by a man in Mr. Rockefeller's office as "one of vital importance." It was freely admitted that the meeting had been called in an emergency, and it was said at the offices that John D. Rockefeller, Jr., had attended under great pressure.

"He never would have been present," one of the attendants explained, "had it not been urgent." Then with a shrug of the shoulders he added, "In fact, had it not been vital."

It is known that the illness of Mrs. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., has caused him to remain closely at home for some time. He went home as soon as he could get away from the meeting. At his house, 43 West Fifty-fourth street, Mr. Rockefeller said that he would not make any statement just at present concerning his father's condition.

Had Been on Duty Seventy-two Hours and Neglected to Deliver Orders Which Changed Meeting Place of Belated Trains.

Pueblo, Colo., dispatch: An operator who had worked for seventy-two consecutive hours without rest is responsible for the wreck on the Denver and Rio Grande railroad at 2:20 o'clock Friday morning...

The operator was arrested Friday night. He has confessed that he fell asleep. While he slept dispatcher's orders which would have prevented the wreck were not delivered.

Collision in Snowstorm. The wreck of the two trains occurred in a blinding storm of snow, which made it impossible for the trainmen to see ahead, even on a straight track.

The trains came together head on at a point midway between Portland and Adobe, twenty-five miles west of Pueblo.

The wreck is attributed to the failure of the telegraph operator at Swallow to deliver an order, which changed the meeting place of the two trains.

The Utah & California express, No. 3, west bound, left Pueblo over an hour and a half late and was given orders to meet the Colorado & New Mexico express, No. 16, east bound, at Florence. This order was changed and the westbound train was directed to pass the eastbound train at Beaver, about twelve miles east of Florence. The order should have been delivered to the train crew at Swallow, ten miles east of the scene.

Washington dispatch: Recent disclosures of wholesale naturalization frauds at Chicago and elsewhere have resulted in the introduction of a bill in the house by Representative Olmstead of Pennsylvania, which makes it the duty of the district attorney to present to the courts evidence furnished them of fraudulently obtained naturalization papers, and, upon decision by the courts that the certificates were fraudulently obtained, the certificates shall be canceled.

Congressional Proceedings

Wednesday, March 14, 1906.

A controversy over the provisions of the railroad rate bill occupied the Senate today. Mr. Rayner was the chief speaker, and his criticism of the suspension feature of the measure drew replies from Messrs. Foraker, Lodge, Dooliver, Aldrich, Tillman and Knox.

The second day of the general debate in the House on the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill developed a limited discussion of the plan to retire aged clerks, interspersed with a speech on statehood by Mr. Babcock (Wis.), one of the restrictions of immigration by Mr. Gardner (Mass.) and a presentation of reasons why the jurisdiction of federal courts should be restricted in certain cases where jurisdiction is acquired because the litigants are citizens of different states by Mr. Garret (Tenn.).

Thursday, March 15, 1906.

The report of Mr. Tillman on the House rate bill, the reading of the views of Mr. Nowlan, and a speech by Mr. Nelson on the subject occupied the time the Senate devoted to the regulation measure today. The message of the President regarding the recent Moro battle was read, and Mr. Bacon spoke of the bill as "laughter." Mr. Leavelle urged that criticism be withheld until all the facts should be made known.

The additional power which President Roosevelt suggested should be given the interstate commerce commission in making the special investigation into the relations of the coal and oil industries with the railroads was conferred by the House in the passage of the Townsend resolution.

Friday, March 16, 1906.

The House today indulged in the first real filibustering of the session. It was due to the attempt of Mr. Prince of Illinois to put through his bill abolishing the grade of lieutenant general in the army.

The bill abolishing the grade of lieutenant general of the army was passed by the house, with an amendment providing that it go into effect Oct. 12 next, so that General Corbin and MacArthur may be promoted before the retirement law reclassifying the consular service and providing for increases in salaries amounting to $17,000 a year was passed.

HEROES BRAVE DEATH IN OCEAN

Crews of Two Ships Go to Aid of Men on Sinking Steamer.

LIFE BOATS CRUSHED TO BITS

Volunteers Are Thrown Into the Sea, But All Are Rescued—Vessel Goes to Bottom When Darkness Ends Rescuers' Efforts.

Boston, Mass., dispatch: Sailors facing death on a sinking ship and fighting to see who should be last to leave it; the crews of two rescuing vessels vying with each other in efforts to man the lifeboats for rescue, and the captain of the foundering vessel, with one leg broken in two places, bravely directing efforts for the safety of his heroic men—these are the graphic features which attended the loss of the Phoenix line steamer British King, which on Sunday, March 11, in a terrific hurricane, foundered 150 miles south of Sable island and carried to death twenty-seven members of the crew.

Thirteen men were rescued from the sinking vessel by the Leyland line steamer Bostonian, bound from Manchester to Boston, and eleven by the German tank steamer Mannheim, from Rotterdam for New York.

Five others, who had been drawn down in the vortex into which the British King was engulfed, were picked up by the Bostonian from a frail bit of wreckage which they had grasped after a desperate struggle in the whirlpool. The Bostonian arrived here Wednesday afternoon and the details of the disaster became known.

Captain Dies of Injuries. Captain James O'Hagan of the British King died on board the Bostonian from the effects of terrible injuries sustained in trying to save his ship.

The rescued brought here include James Flanagan, second officer; J. D. Crawford, chief engineer; Adolphus Beck, fourth engineer, and William J. Curry, steward. The others were coal passers and sailors, mostly Belgians, and one stowaway, Henry Parkotch of New York.

Two lifeboats from the Bostonian were crushed to fragments, and the volunteer crews which manned them were thrown into the high running seas while engaged in the work of rescue, but all were safely landed on board the steamer.

Volunteers from the Mannheim, after a heroic battle with the waves, had taken off eleven from the British King, but after this neither of the steamers, in consequence of the increasing gale, could make an attempt to reach the foundering freighter.

Moreover, darkness fell, and it was an utter impossibility to do else but wait for the moonlight to guide them. In the darkness the British King, waterlogged and helpless, plunged to the bottom.

For three days her captain and crew, working against unconquerable odds, had tried to prevent or at least postpone their ship's destruction. On Friday, in the height of the tempest, the deck load of oil barrels of the British King and all her fittings were carried overboard. The barrels and wreckage, forming into a powerful ram, were driven down upon her sides with crushing force, opening up the vessel's plates and allowing the water to pour into her holds.

The extent of the leak was not understood until the following day, however, and then, although all hands were placed at the pumps, the water gained considerably. The fires had been extinguished and the engines rendered useless by the rising water.

The only remedy at hand lay in repairing the damaged sections, and, while personally superintending this work, Capt. O'Hagan sustained a fractured leg and internal injuries. Although unable to stand, he continued to direct the efforts of his crew.

At the end of the three days, when all hands had labored ceaselessly without rest and with little food, the Bostonian and Mannheim were sighted, and to these Capt. O'Hagan displayed the signal for assistance.

Sweeping Interpretation of Law Handled Down by Supreme Court.

Minneapolis, Minn., dispatch: The supreme court has decided in the case of A. J. Cummings against Edwards, Wood & Co. that the garnishee law of Minnesota may be extended to cover moneys in the bank when a garnishee is secured. The decision is a sweeping one and Judge Lewis states in the opinion of the supreme court that the courts can give no relief to the institution and that the legislature must be looked to for any other construction of the law.

Horrors of Colorado Railroad Disaster and Map Showing Where Accident Happened

An operator, S. F. Lively, who had worked for seventy-two consecutive hours without rest is responsible for the wreck on the Denver and Rio Grande railroad, twenty-five miles west of Pueblo, Colo., at 2:20 o'clock on the morning of March 16, in which twenty-two of the passengers were crushed or burned to death.

NEWSPAPERS AND THE PUBLIC.

Journals an Integral Part of the Economic Conditions. Newspapers grow better in their character and their influence. This fact may lately have been obscured by the amount of criticism, most of it just, that has been passed upon certain evils in the press. Papers are proper subjects of criticism, like gas companies, insurance companies, politics, or oil trusts, and we have been among those to be as frank about our own profession as about any other. The truth remains that the American newspapers to-day have more power and use for better ends than at any previous time. The permanence and reality of this gain depend on us. The newspapers influence us, and we also influence them. They are the very air which every day we take into our systems, but also they are a product of ourselves. They will grow better if we grow better. Money will tempt them less if it becomes less of a power with all of us. Success will be less exclusively their standard if we are all guided by a brighter star. We are trying to make political standards nobler. We are trying to remove corruption from the great business enterprise that effect the welfare of us all. At present the wave of exposure seems to accompany a genuine moral uplift. If it is real, if the whole tone of our society is being raised, then this belief in better newspapers will be justified. If there is no genuine improvement in our hearts, if the outbreak of exposure is only an epidemic, then, of course, this apparent step forward of the press will prove illusive also. We are glad to be among those who believe in its reality.—Collier's Weekly.

ADDRESSED THEM IN ENGLISH.

How Congressman Bede Won Over Scandinavian Audience. Congressman Bede of Minnesota still looks back with horror to an experience he had with a Scandinavian audience in his state last campaign. It was up in the pine woods and the other orator of the evening was a stalwart Norseman who was to speak in his native tongue. This man failed to arrive and the committee asked Bede: "Do you speak Norwegian still?" Bede unthinkingly replied in the affirmative, though he knew only a few phrases. When he faced the audience of about 200 big blue-eyed chaps of the Ole and Nels class he determined to get out of the difficulty as best he could, so he said: "As many of you as cannot understand English stand up." All were ashamed to make such an acknowledgment and not a man moved. "All right, my friends," said Bede, "as it makes me hoarse to talk Norwegian for any length of time I'll just address you in English, which you all know and will appreciate as well."—Chicago Chronicle.

Wood as a Food.

The humorists are right, and the newest breakfast food is indeed wood, pure and simple. An inmate of an English workhouse has taken to consuming wood as food, and the erudite English physicians observe that there is really no reason why, if the necessity should arise, wood should not be employed as a regular source of food, since it consists chiefly of cellular fiber, which, with suitable chemical treatment, may be converted into sugar. But unprepared wood can have no value as food for the human organism, inasmuch as the digestive juices are not able to deal with it. A certain amount of woody fiber is thought to be digested by the horse, by reason of the presence of a peculiar digestive secretion in his digestive canal which is able to convert cellular-tissue into sugar. In the same way wornout shirts and collars could be converted into food.

Good Points of Jersey Cow.

The Jersey cow is a small animal, and therefore her maintenance ration is small, while a relatively large part of her food goes to profit. She is a persistent milker, often a perpetual milker, and ordinarily not dry more than six or eight weeks in a year. She has an extremely long period of usefulness in the dairy. Five years covers the profitable work of the average cow. The Jersey is fifteen years old. Many are profitable when eighteen to twenty-one years of age.—Farmer for March.

STUDIES OLD TURQUOISE MINES.

Prof. Petrie Carrying On Work of Great Interest. The goddess of turquoise and the turquoise mines in old Arabia are the things Prof. Petrie, the English archaeologist, has been studying. As a member of a scientific exploring party he spent several months among the mountain ranges of the Sinai district of old Arabia, on a stretch of level ground some 2,300 feet above sea level. There they pitched their tents, accompanied by thirty workmen and the native chief of the district. At the top levels was the sandstone in which were caverns worked by parties of ancient Egyptians for turquoise. Some tablets still remaining showed that those parties were carefully selected and carried on their labors systematically. Here, in this desert region, to which supplies of food and water had to be brought from a long distance, the men mined in companies of 500 or 600. The usual time for the search was from December to March. One expedition had conveyed to it daily something like five tons of food. The caverns themselves were examples of patient industry. The famous temple of the goddess of turquoise to whom the workers did homage, was 250 feet long and contained a range of chambers or courts. From one of the tablets it appeared that a certain expedition went out of the recognized season. But its labors were successful and were therefore duly acknowledged with great gratitude to the patron goddess. Of the ancient inscriptions 250 have been copied. They have an important bearing on the age of the turquoise expeditions, long before the birth of Christ, as well as on the Semitic form of worship in vogue before the establishment of Judaism.

BRIBERY CHARGES FALL FLAT

Witnesses Are Lacking in Chicago Drainage Canal Cases.

It is declared on good authority that the March grand jury, which was positively instructed by Judge T. N. Green of Pekin to investigate charges of bribery in connection with the recent trial of a $55,000 damage suit of Joseph V. Graft and Judge Curran against the sanitary district of Chicago, would adjourn without making an investigation of these charges. It is stated that the witnesses to whom Judge Green referred the jury cannot be found, that the juror who claimed to have been offered a bribe is unable to prove any such offer, and that the jury, after hearing this much of the case, decided to drop it. It is certain that the bribery charges, which affected agents of the sanitary district, have not been seriously considered by the jury, and the fact that an early adjournment is now planned adds to the belief that no report will be made upon this case.

WELCOME FOR WALTER JUNTGEN

Friends of the Acquitted Bank Bookkeeper Escort Him to His Home.

Juntgen, the bookkeeper, who was charged with dynamiting the Edgar County National bank, after looting the funds of that institution, and who was acquitted of the charge of embezzlement in the federal court at Danville, was welcomed home by many citizens of Paris. He was met at the train by a large number of friends, who tendered their congratulations and escorted him to his home. There is much bitterness over the result of the trial.

Township Asks County Aid.

Action has been brought by the supervisors of White county to annul the court decision in the case of Phillips township vs. the county, in which the township demanded that the county board be required to make an appropriation to assist the township in building bridges. The board refused and the circuit court ordered mandamus proceedings. The case will be taken to the supreme court on the technical allegation that the county board cannot legally make appropriations exceeding 5 per cent of the last assessed value of the county. The present total indebtedness of White county is $196,000, and the total valuation shown by the last assessment in the county aggregates only $2,869,541.

The convention will be the largest ever held by the Republicans in Illinois. There will be 1,582 delegates, against 1,504 in 1904.

WOULD EXTERMINATE CROWS

Legislature To Be Asked to Offer Bounty for Their Destruction.

The campaign against the crow has taken definite form in central Illinois, and petitions have been prepared to be signed by enemies of the black bird appealing for aid in his destruction. The warfare is due to the recent crow hunt in Winnebago county, an annual affair, where several hundred hunters spend several days in trying to kill the birds. The discovery that the birds existed by the hundreds of thousands decided the Nimrods there to appeal to the state game commissioner to issue a bounty for each crow killed and enlist him in an effort to win the co-operation of the legislators. The petitions will be circulated wherever the feeling is pronounced against the crow, and where hunters are willing to push the movement.

FOIL PLAN TO SWINDLE BANK

Wire Tappers Seek to Secure Large Sum on Bogus Dispatch.

A plot to rob the First National bank of Nashville, Tenn., was foiled by a timely telegraphic interception. It appears that a message, purporting to be signed by a bank at Carmi, was sent to the Nashville bank, authorizing the Nashville bank to honor drafts drawn by J. A. Willis up to $5,000. The alleged message bore the signature, it is said, of the First National bank of Carmi. Investigations disclosed the fact that no message could be found at the Western Union office at Carmi, and the Nashville bank was wired to arrest any person attempting to realize on the draft. The message must have been sent by wire tappers.

Coal Operator Retires.

Walter S. Eogle of Chicago, one of the most prominent coal men indicted by Cook county's grand jury in the coal famine days of the last anthracite strike, has sold the last of his mines and is no longer a "coal baron." It is said that he is retiring from business with an ample fortune and will devote the remainder of his life to politics. During the last strike Mr. Eogle operated five or six big producing mines in Indiana. A year or so ago he sold these and purchased coal property at Carterville, Ill. The Illinois property has been sold, and Mr. Eogle now is out of the coal mining business.

It is in Vermillion street, in the best business section of the city. A larger building next door sold at the same rate a front foot but a short time ago. A five-story office building will be erected on the site.

NO REST NIGHT OR DAY.

With Irritating Skin Humor—Hair Began to Fall Out—Wonderful Result from Cuticura Remedies. "About the latter part of July my whole body began to itch. I did not take much notice of it at first, but it began to get worse all the time, and then I began to get uneasy and tried all kinds of baths and other remedies that were recommended for skin humors; but I became worse all the time. My hair began to fall out and my scalp itched all the time. Especially at night, just as soon as I would get in bed and get warm, my whole body would begin to itch and my finger nails would keep it irritated, and it was not long before I could not rest night or day. A friend asked me to try the Cuticura Remedies, and I did, and the first application helped me wonderfully. For about four weeks I would take a hot bath every night and then apply the Cuticura Ointment to my whole body; and I kept getting better, and by the time I used four boxes of Cuticura I was entirely cured, and my hair stopped falling out. D. E. Blankenship, 319 N. Del. St., Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 27, 1905."

HAS INTERVIEWS WITH SPIRITS

Noted French Author Claims Powers as a Medium.

Sardou asserts that he is a highly sensitive and effective spiritualist medium; that he has had frequent interviews with spirits of friends who are dead, and that he has received messages, spirits guiding his hand to write them as they were communicated to him. He has a collection of many drawings he has made, the spirits guiding his pencil—strange faces of angels, of demons, human figures toiling up dark, steep hills, while ahead of them supernatural beings light the way or see obstacles in the path. The playwright says he cannot and does not attempt to explain these visitations, this guidance. But he is convinced of the objective reality of the spirit world and of its desire and power to enter into relations with humanity.

AROUND THE WORLD.

A trip around the world in these modern times, is no extraordinary event, but to go around it on the trains and steamers of one company, is an event that cannot but arouse interest. For the first time in history, the earth has been girdled by the ships and trains of one transportation company—the Canadian Pacific Railway.

On January 19th, several passengers left Montreal on the Short Line Express of the Canadian Pacific Railway, for St. John, N. B., they arrived at that port on the morning of January 20th, where they boarded the Canadian Pacific Railway Co.'s Steamer, "Lake Champlain" for Liverpool, from which port another Canadian Pacific Railway Co.'s Steamer, the "Monteagle" took them on February 5th to Hong Kong, on the other side of the world. The "Monteagle's" first port of call was Cardiff, Wales, where she took on her cargo. Cardiff was the final port of departure from the British Isles, and sailing from that port on February 12th, the vessel is scheduled to arrive at Hong Kong, on April 8th. Ten days after reaching Hong Kong, the Canadian Pacific Railway Co.'s Steamer, "Empress of India" will carry these passengers to Vancouver, arriving there on May 9th, and the Imperial Limited train of the Canadian Pacific Railway, will bring them across the continent, over the majestic Rockies, and the great fast filling prairies of the Canadian West, and around the Northern rock bound shores of Lake Superior to Montreal, so that under ordinary circumstances, they should reach home on May 13th next.

OBITUARY

Harriet M., daughter of Nicodemus and Eveline Raymond, was born at Genoa, N. Y., October 9, 1831, and died at her home in Kingston March 10, 1906, aged 74 years, 5 months and one day.

At an early age she removed with her parents to Townsend, Huron county, Ohio, then again in 1835 to Vermillion, Erie Co., Ohio, where they continued to reside until 1848 when they came to Kingston township.

On March 6, 1855, she was united in marriage to Arba Lankton, and in 1856 they settled upon the farm which has since been their home. To this union were born three sons, Charles A., Abe E. and Henry A. Her husband died July 27, 1863, in service for his country at Vicksburg, Miss.

Mrs. Langton was again married on April 26, 1866, to Mordecai Howell who died in Missouri in 1886. One child, Mary Antoinette, was born to them. All the children are living except Charles who passed away May 5, 1894 at his home in Mulvane, Kas. One grandson, Willie, a son of Henry and Jennie Lankton, from the day of his birth has been a member of her household and to him she bestowed her motherly love and tenderest care.

Besides the immediate family she leaves five sisters: Mrs. Scott Whitney of Oklahoma, Mrs. Fred Setz of Nebraska, Mrs. Henry Dibble and Mrs. Thomas Gathercoal of Kingston, Mrs. Daniel McMurchy of Malta; and one brother, Foster Raymond of Oconto Falls, Wis. Four sisters and one brother preceded her to the home beyond.

A host of friends and neighbors will ever cherish pleasant memories of their dear old friend who needed her loving sympathy and kindly ministrations. In young womanhood she united with the Freewill Baptist church in Ohio but on coming west never identified herself with any denomination but attended worship whenever she could and took a deep interest in the things that make for the betterment of humanity.

The disease that terminated her life arose from spinal trouble, combined with chronic bronchial affection. For some time it has been evident that the dread messenger was approaching and everything that could be done by the loving hands of her children to delay the hour was done.

The funeral was held at the home at one p. m. on Tuesday, March 13, conducted by the Rev. C. H. Meyers, pastor of the Kingston Baptist church. His text was from 2 Cor. 5:1, which was chosen by the deceased as were also the hymns sung. Interment in North Kingston cemetery.

A Chicago Alderman Owes His Election to Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

"I can heartily and conscientiously recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for affections of the throat and lungs," says Hon. John Shenick, 220 So. Peoria st., Chicago. "Two years ago during a political campaign, I caught cold after being overheated, which irritated my throat and I was finally compelled to stop as I could not speak aloud. In my extremity a friend advised me to use Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I took two doses that afternoon and could not believe my senses when I found the next morning the inflammation had largely subsided. I took several doses that day, kept right on talking through the campaign, and I thank this medicine that I won my seat in the council." This remedy is for sale by Hunt's Pharmacy.

Mrs. Hill is thus 94 years of age and has been a resident of this county 71 years.
