Remarkable Expression of the Nation's Grief as Mr. Harding Is Buried.

WHOLE WORLD SYMPATHIZES

President Coolidge's Chances for the Republican Nomination in 1924 Discussed—May Have to Settle Anthracite Strike—Chancellor Cuno's Rescue Plan for Germany.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

WARREN G. HARDING'S peculiarly lovable character and all the circumstances of his death combined to call forth, last week, a demonstration of mourning so universal, so spontaneous and so sincere that it stands unequalled since the death of Abraham Lincoln. During four days the eyes of millions of Americans and the minds of all the rest of the people dwell sadly on the funeral train as it moved across the continent from San Francisco to Washington. On Wednesday all the officialdom of the national capital followed the casket of the late President from the White House to the capitol, where it was placed under the great dome and where the people of the city and thousands of others passed by it for a last look upon the face of the man they had learned to love and respect. On Friday in Marion, O., the body of Mr. Harding was consigned to the tomb in the presence of President Coolidge and many thousands of official and non-official citizens, while literally the entire nation stood silent with bowed head. On that day, so far as might be, all business and all pleasure was suspended throughout the land and the thoughts of all the people turned to the little Ohio city where a great nation was paying the final tribute of respect to its chieftain and a grief-stricken woman was laying in the tomb a devoted husband.

From the day when the news of President Harding's demise was flashed around the world, messages of sorrow and condolence came in a flood to Mrs. Harding and to the United States from foreign rulers and notabilities from innumerable organizations in other lands. To realize the world-wide character of the mourning one needed only to read such news items as that the German reichstag began its special session by rising and standing with bowed heads in memory of Mr. Harding; that the Congress of Brittany Sailors in Saint Servan, France, suspended its session; that three days of national mourning was ordered by the government of Paraguay, and all other Latin-American countries gave expression to their grief; that Portuguese warships flew their flags at half-mast for a day; that Soviet Russia and Bulgaria officially told of their sorrow, and that memorial services were held in Westminster Abbey while the funeral was taking place in Marion.

Standing beside the bier in the rotunda of the capitol in Washington, Rev. Dr. Anderson read the verse from Micah upon which the lips of Mr. Harding chanced to fall as he took the oath of his high office on March 4, 1921. It was: "He hath shewed Thee, O Man, what is good and what doth the Lord require of thee, but to do justly and to love mercy, and to walk humbly with Thy God?" What more need be added?

RETURNING from the funeral in Marion to his temporary quarters in the New Willard hotel, Washington, President Coolidge plunged into the business of the country, and found plenty to do. Already he had conferred with many of the political leaders and listened to their advice, but volunteered little information concerning his intentions. He is not especially talkative, and he has the caution believed to be characteristic of the New Englander. He studies a question thoroughly before acting, and when his mind is made up he is as firm as a New Hampshire mountain. Inevitably Mr. Coolidge comes forward now as a leading possibility for the Republican presidential nomination next year. He has some ten months in which to prove to his party that he is its best choice, and fifteen months in which to convince the country that he should continue to hold the office. At present his main strength, politically, lies in the East. In the Middle and Far West it is believed Senator Hiram Johnson will be a powerful opponent and Senator LaFollette is conceded a good many votes in the convention. As one Washington correspondent puts it: "It will be mainly a tussle between eastern conservatism, fortified by control of the administration, and western progressivism, running strong in the primaries."

Much depends on President Coolidge's attitude toward American membership in the world court, and what this is no one seems to know. Notwithstanding his declaration of intention to carry on the Harding policies, the party leaders in Washington do not expect him to make the world court an issue with the senate and risk the chance of a party split, which they say would be playing into the hands of Senator Johnson.

M. R. COOLIDGE may have a chance to add greatly to his prestige, if he is called on to settle the strike of anthracite miners. Remembering how, as governor of Massachusetts, he smashed the policemen's strike, organized labor does not feel comfortable over the prospect. So far the coal commission has been able to do nothing in the case. It reported last week that plans for compulsory arbitration of wage disputes in the coal industry offer no hope for effectively dealing with the problem. It recommends that future wage agreements include a clause providing for automatic renewal except as to such points as may be a subject of dispute. Notice is to be given of these points ninety days in advance of the expiration, and if an agreement is not reached prior to sixty days before the expiration, notice is to be given to the President of the United States who will appoint a commission to inquire into the subjects at issue and make a public report before the renewal date.

New England uses a large percentage of the anthracite coal mined, and the consumers of that section now threaten to abandon its use entirely if the miners strike.

CHANCELLOR CUNO, striving to save Germany from utter collapse and his administration from downfall, presented his program Wednesday to the reichstag, called in special session because of the financial crisis. His three main points are:

1. A gold loan.
 2. Placing taxation, including income and customs, indirect and direct, upon a gold value basis.
 3. A levy upon industries, which have made millions of dollars.
- His plan was applauded by the majority of the assembly, but the Communist members raged and howled, taunting Cuno and bitterly assailing Hugo Stinnes, the industrial magnate, who sat unmoved and silent. The chancellor retorted only with the remark that "the growing activity of communism in Germany and elsewhere will lead to the ruin of Europe." To which the Communists replied "She is ruined already."
- Concerning the reparations muddle, Cuno expressed extreme dissatisfaction with the British draft of a reply to the German note, declaring it contained much that was impossible of fulfillment and that England had gone extraordinarily far in her concessions to the French viewpoint.
- "It is necessary to continue with all our strength passive resistance, free from mad acts of violence and terror," he said, "and to support actively from the unoccupied territory the population which is persevering in a passive resistance of its own will."
- Repeating the French statement that the Ruhr was to be freed only when the last pfennig was paid, and pointing out that the most vital instrument with which Germany might pay had been taken away when the Ruhr was seized, Herr Cuno asserted that if Germany's collapse was to be accomplished "in the name of justice, she must be under no illusion."

"Submission to the merciless obstinacy of French government," he added, "would have to be sealed with the treaty of Versailles, which weighs like a curse upon the peoples of Europe."

THE United States and Turkey are now formally at peace, or will be as soon as the senate and the Angora national assembly ratify the treaties that were signed in Lausanne last week by Minister Joseph C. Brewster and Ismet Pasha. By the new treaties, which replace the obsolete document of 1830, America loses all the special privileges its citizens have enjoyed in Turkey. After the allies gave way time after time the American acceptance of the new conditions in Turkey was inevitable. American commercial interests will be treated the same as Turkish interests. American relief and educational institutions will not be disturbed, but they will not be given special rights to import supplies duty free.

With full diplomatic relations resumed between the two countries, American capital will be better protected on entering Turkey.

SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY MELLON, unofficially in Europe on a sightseeing trip, has been devoting much time in Paris to discussing interrelated debts and reparations with the French government and the leaders of finance. It is stated he has not been considering the question of details, and has made it plain to France that the United States will never cancel the debts owed it by the allies, but is willing to arrange terms conforming to the necessities of Europe. After receiving cablegrams from President Coolidge, Mr. Mellon postponed his return to America.

GREAT BRITAIN and France agreeing, the temporary mixed disarmament commission of the League of Nations has submitted to the assembly of the league a new treaty of mutual guarantees designed as an enforcement act for Article X of the covenant. In effect it makes the council of the league a super-government in the conduct and settlement of future wars in which league states are involved. The French delegate made a reservation in order that a possible extension of the Ruhr occupation might not be hampered. The treaty gives the council the power to decide which state is the aggressor in case of hostilities and to apply against it an economic blockade; to decide what other measures the signatories shall give the attacked state and to arrange for its financial assistance; to appoint a commander in chief; to determine the details of reparations, and to draw up a general disarmament plan based on guarantees provided by the treaty.

ABOLITION of the 12-hour day in the steel industry, which was one of President Harding's last wishes, is at hand. A beginning is being made at Gary, Ind., where the eight-hour day with three shifts is being put into effect in several plants of the United States Steel corporation. Others will follow, and the independent steel companies, it is predicted, soon will fall in line.

The change to three shifts of eight hours each means employment of 65,000 more workers in the steel mills, according to estimates. These same estimates added $45,000,000 to the steel industry's pay roll. In the readjustment, hour wages will be increased about 25 per cent, it was stated, but the per diem will be decreased as a result of the change which will take off one-third the steel worker's time in the mills and give it to him for rest and recreation with his family and friends. In other words, workers receiving 40 cents an hour will get 50 cents, while the daily pay will be reduced from $4.80 for twelve hours to $4 for eight hours.

HENRY SULLIVAN of Lowell, Mass., succeeded last week in swimming across the English channel—the third man and the first American—to perform the feat. He was in the water 27 hours and 25 minutes, being forced by tides and currents to swim about 56 miles, though the distance between points is only 22 1/2 miles.

SIX-CENT CUT IN GASOLINE

Standard Oil Company of Indiana Reduces Price in Eleven States.

ASSERTS RATE IS BELOW COST

Statement issued by the Board of Directors After Protracted Meeting Says Action is Due to State Distribution.

Chicago, Aug. 14.—The Standard Oil Company of Indiana announced a reduction of 6.6 cents a gallon in the price of gasoline, effective at once in eleven states served by that company. This price cut, the largest in many years, came as a result of a controversy in the oil industry over the best methods of relieving producers, refiners and marketers of the mid-continent field from the burden of excessive supplies and it was directly precipitated by the action of Gov. W. H. McMaster of South Dakota in offering gasoline to the public at 16 cents a gallon.

A statement issued by the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, after a protracted meeting by the board of directors, follows:

"The Standard Oil Company of Indiana announces an immediate reduction in the price of gasoline of 6.6 cents per gallon, applicable throughout the entire territory in which it does business.

"It asserts that the retail prices thus made are far below the cost of production and distribution. "The governor of the State of South Dakota, buying distress gasoline below cost of production, and charging against the state no adequate cost for distribution, is selling gasoline to the public in the State of South Dakota at 16 cents per gallon.

"The Standard Oil Company of Indiana, operating on its established policy that the customers who purchase its goods should never be compelled to pay a higher price than that maintained and fixed by any competitor, quality and service being duly considered, has met this price."

Tulsa Flooding Brings Troops and Martial Law to City

Oklahoma City, Okla., Aug. 14.—Gov. J. C. Walton issued a proclamation placing the city of Tulsa under martial law. Guard units from Oklahoma City and Okmulgee were immediately ordered to proceed to Tulsa. Issuance of the proclamation followed flooding of Nathan Hantman of Tulsa. Hantman called at the governor's office and was in conference with Aldrich Blake, executive counselor. The martial law order was promulgated immediately after Hantman told his story.

Berlin Halts Payments to All the Allies, Report

London, Aug. 14.—The order halting reparations payments to France and Belgium will be extended to include payments to all the allies, according to a dispatch from Berlin, which says a decision to this effect was made by the German government. The reason given for this is that it is necessary to effect a financial reform in Germany.

Italy Keeps Out of Row Between France and England

Rome, Aug. 14.—Italy is keeping out of the diplomatic battle between France and England over the Ruhr and reparations. It is said that Premier Mussolini is convinced that behind the diplomatic battle are enormous business and industrial interests who are struggling for economic supremacy in Europe.

Coolidge Asks New Parley on the Coal Situation

Washington, Aug. 14.—President Coolidge took his first step to avert a threatened anthracite strike September 1. After conferring with the President, the United States coal commission sent identical telegrams to anthracite operators and to leaders of the miners' union, inviting them to confer with the commission here at once.

Copenhagen, Aug. 14.—An international congress against alcoholism will be held in Copenhagen from August 20 to 24. The American delegation will be headed by Andrew Volstead. Immediately following this Mr. Volstead will attend an international anti-tobacco congress.

LEGENDS TOLD OF HARPIES

In Mythology It is Related That They Swooped Down and Despoiled the Table of Aeneas.

Harpies were celebrated in many ancient tales as a race of monsters that infested certain shores. They were usually represented as having a woman's head and the upper part of the body and bird's wings, tail, legs and claws, says the Detroit News.

It is related that these fierce monsters flew down upon Aeneas and an expedition from Rome, when the party had landed for rest and refreshment among a group of Grecian islands, and carried away the food from the table before them, and even attacked the men themselves.

The men then armed themselves with swords secretly and waited for the next approach of the harpies, intending to kill them when they came near. But the nimble marauders eluded all their efforts as before. When the expedition left the island the leader of the harpies perched himself upon a rock overlooking the scene and in a human voice loaded Aeneas and his companions with taunts and execrations.

Of Little Value Then. Two old cronies sat smoking in the library of a club. One was turning the last pages of a novel. He finished the book and put it aside.

"Good story?" inquired his friend. "Fine," replied the other, reaching for a fresh cigar.

He lit up, smoked reflectively for a while, and then said: "Yes, that was a pretty good book. I like these stories where the hero makes a million in the last chapter."

"He is still young, old-timer. When we reach the last chapter a million will do us but little good."

SEDAN HAS BIGGER ENGINE

Many Refinements are Added to Family Car

Servants of a demanding public and familiar with its needs Overland engineers have designed a new, more beautiful and more powerful Overland Sedan. This new model now being shown by Overland dealers will continue to sell at the old price, but is a greater bargain for the purchaser because changes and new refinements have been added to make an excellent motor car even better.

The new Overland sedan is distinctive. The big, Wilson-built body, the patented Triplex springs and new features added give the owner a sense of pride in ownership. The powerful engine is responsive to the faintest touch of the accelerator. Its stability, smoothness and quick pick-up contribute toward making the sedan a consistent performer under any sort of condition.

Always one of the most attractive moderate priced cars, the new refinements make it more appealing to the woman who drives. Beauty prevails throughout. The body lines form to give a neat, compact appearance, and the car's interior is a pleasing sight for the most discriminating. Distinctiveness is evidenced in the beautiful rich and grey deep upholstery which covers the spacious seats.

Sedan is Comfortable
Every effort has been exerted to increase the comfort of the occupants

Dura regulators are used to control the plate glass windows, and a cowl ventilator is provided on the new Overland sedan. Added as standard equipment, is a sun visor to protect the driver from glaring sun rays. Those in the front seat may ride in greater comfort in this new model as a result of a cowl ventilator being included in the special list of new features.

The riding qualities of the new Overland sedan are extraordinary. A springbase of 130 inches, with the patented Triplex springs performing, gives the car a smooth, gliding motion which is conducive to enjoying motoring. Wilson-built, the body is large, and the rear seat is believed to be the largest in any car selling in the less than $1000 price class.

An airy, easy riding car in the warm months, and a safe, comfortable sedan in the coldest and stormiest weather, this new Overland model, with its many features and more powerful motor is a delightful possession for any motor lover who seeks dependability and comfort in his car.

TOO PRONE TO EXAGGERATE

Many Figures of Speech Employed in Ordinary Conversation Are Ridiculous When Analyzed.

A judge in the courts the other day objected to a witness who was prone to use exaggeration and employ figures of speech.

The judge remarked that it was absurd to say that "the accused was beside himself with rage" and "that he flew at the other man." He wasn't two people and he hadn't got wings.

When you come to think of it it is absurd. We wallop our children for saying that there are hundreds of dogs in the garden, but then they hear us say that we are "driven to death" with work, or that somebody has "set the ocean on fire."

Equally untrue is it when we say that a steak is as "tough as leather," the coffee "as cold as ice," or that the cake is "as heavy as lead." One result of this sort of thing is seen when the child asks his sister's young man if he has any prizes for running, because the child has heard that he's always "running after" Sissie.

The fact is that we are ever looking for something out of the ordinary.

When hailstones fell during June, they were in a few cases the size of eggs but everybody told everybody else that all of them were as big as footballs.

It's time that we went back to simple description. No day is ever so hot as to be "baking," or we should all be dead. No man drinks "like a fish."

Fishes, anyway, don't drink a lot. They see so much water that they're probably sick of it. And no soprano sings "like a nightingale."—Buffalo Express.

CALLS FOR SOME DISCRETION

Power of Attracting Birds May Be All Right in the Country, but in the City!

One of the best ways of attracting birds, according to the authorities, is to place the lips to the back of the hand and make a violent kissing sound.

Apparently this has some resemblance to the cries of a wounded bird; and, according to one of the bird books, one may enter an apparently deserted thicket and, after a few minutes of this sort of thing, "find oneself surrounded by an anxious or curious group of its feathered inhabitants."

This is valuable information, but to be used with discretion. In Central park, for instance, one is just as likely as not, after trying this little ornithological experiment, to find oneself surrounded by an anxious or curious group of gentlemen with blue coats and brass buttons. Better keep these tactics for the open country.—Frederick L. Allen—Harper's Magazine.

Odd Kind of Fish.
No fish is stranger than the little sea-horse. It has a body encased in rings of bony mail, a horse-shaped head set at right angles and a prehensile tail to grasp seaweed in which it hides. It always floats with its queer head up and erect. Another peculiar thing about the sea-horse is that the male fish carries the eggs in a pouch situated under his tail until the young are hatched and large enough to look out for themselves.

Philosophical Strategy.
There is a vast difference between humiliating another with harsh words and raising yourself in his estimation.

RUSCO-Tractor Belts
are more economical and serviceable

THE Mellon Institute of Industrial Research in a scientific test of all types of belting, proved the superior worth of Solid Woven as against all other types.

Leather belting is made of many strips of hide cemented at the joints (about every 50 inches) or between the plies. Rubber belting of the better grades is made of canvas or duck which is folded into separate plies and rubberized. All stitched canvas belting is folded into separate plies and stitched.

No plies at all in Rusco. Furthermore, the Rusco treatment, resulting from nearly a century of successful manufacturing experience, makes the belt water-steam-heat-and-oil-proof. It is made for grip, strength and endurance.

Rusco will help you get a lot of extra work out of your engine or tractor. No "breaking in" necessary. For all-round work and satisfaction (the result of 93 years of knowing how) Rusco returns more for $33 invested than any other type belt made. Let us fix you once and for all on your belt problems.

A BIG PROGRAM AT THE BIG FAIR

Four Big Days and Three Large Nights
at Sandwich Fair Sept. 4, 5, 6 and 7

The thirty-sixth annual fair of the Sandwich Fair Association to be held September 4, 5, 6 and 7, 1923, has been selected by Gov. Small and the department of agriculture as one of the fairs in the state for the big state exhibit of two tents, one for still exhibition and one for moving pictures.

In the still exhibit tent activities of the various state department will be shown in many ways. The department of agriculture and all its divisions, including dairy extension, plant industry, and the like will be represented in the exhibits, both still and moving pictures. The motion pictures to be exhibited, free, will be shown in a tent 70 by 30 feet. The feature film will be, "The Organized Good Samaritan," in six reels, the scenario having been written around various state institutions, including penitentiaries, hospitals and the different homes provided for unfortunates who have become wards of Illinois.

Road building as it has been marked by progress in Illinois, will form an extensive and interesting adjunct of the two exhibits. Graphic pictures will show progress made to date. The highway exhibit includes illuminated maps showing in detail pavements completed, sections under construction, roads graded and awaiting concrete, new bridges, detour and the like. Another series of maps will show tentative routes and connections under the One Hundred Million Dollar Bond Issue.

An added feature of the fair this year is the night show, consisting of six big vaudeville acts in front of the grand stand. These are all high class and selected from the best available. The grounds have been elaborately wired, making them almost as light as day.

A feature seldom seen outside the big shows is that of Havemann's trained animals, four lions, three leopards and one tiger.

Announcement of the booking of a big fireworks display, declared to be the largest of its kind ever produced in this part of the state, was made today as one of the headline attractions of the Sandwich Fair, Sept. 5, 6 and 7.

The big fireworks show will be a nightly feature of the fair. It will be brought there as a further special attraction, in addition to the regular feature of the fair.

Contracts were closed with the Thearle-Duffield Fireworks Co., the largest producers of fireworks displays in the world. The shows will be shipped in a special fireproof car, and fired by experts brought especially for the purpose.

The program for each evening's entertainment, as announced by fair officers, embraces practically every known kind of pyrotechnics. Aerial displays, set pieces, ground devices, comic specialties and score of other thrillers are embraced in the schedule. In addition to the regular display of fireworks, the program announces a change each evening in the feature numbers.

"This is the biggest thing in the amusement line we have undertaken for a long time," officers of the fair said. "People are demanding something new and better all the time and we believe we have selected something that will please men, women and children alike—something they will remember with pleasure for a long time."

BURLINGTON MEN IS SCRAP
Clyde Barr, son of M. C. Barr and Joan Wallace, both of Burlington while driving in the streets of Burlington, got their wheels locked. For the reason that the Barrs and the Wallaces were and had been mortal enemies, we are told the two drivers locked horns, rolled across the street onto the turf with Wallace sitting astride young Barr's back. Barr senior resolved to make Wallace apologize, so when later he and his wife were motoring to town Wallace was spied in Pingston's garage buying gas, Barr with a revolver drawn rushed into the garage and said, "I'll kill you," we are told. Wallace picked up an iron bar with which to fend off the other Barr. When the loud talk had ceased and Wallace had withdrawn, Barr is said to have struck Wallace. The states attorney declared that Wallace was a gentleman and Barr a bad man, the papers say. Any way next day on plea of guilty, the court fined Barr $46.25 and Wallace paid $22.70.—Sycamore Tribune.

AN OVERLOOKED FALLACY

"Just as the farmer is the lowest paid of any class of society—," glibly starts out a speaker at a convention of business men. He is not saying anything that has not been said before. He is merely quoting an assertion that has been going the rounds for many moons. It is a belief that has had a great run of popularity. Many farmers have come to think it true, not perceiving that it is in reality a reflection on their intelligence.

Can anybody believe that farming could have held all these years the interest of men and women of the caliber of those now on farms, if it were in fact the poorest paying business in the country? Isn't it about time we recognized that farming, not this year or last year or any other single year, but on the whole, is a business that permits a man to accumulate property and get ahead?

We don't need figures to prove the fallacy of the statement referred to. The figures may show it to be true, for all we know. If they do, they do not tell the truth. It is only necessary to see how farmers live and what they have to know that there are millions of people far worse off. Every farmer can set down a long list of workers with whom he would not trade places. It is true that for some time many farmers have got mighty little for their work, but that condition is not permanent. Farmers are not down and out, and we are getting tired of hearing them told that they are.—Chicago Daily Drivers Journal.

WORLD'S RECORD BROKEN

Country's Greatest Swimmers Competed at DeKalb Last Saturday

The breaking of one swimming record and the establishment of another and other swimming feats furnished by members of the Illinois Athletic club, helped to make the dedication of the new DeKalb swimming pool a complete success before a crowd of 5,000 persons.

Robert Skelton of the Illinois Athletic club, Chicago, swam 220 yards in 3:8.3, three and two-fifths seconds faster than the previous national record for this distance, which he set.

Eugene Bolden, from the same club swam two miles in 50:20.3, the first time this event has been held under official auspices.

ESSEX CARS APPROVED

The widespread approval of the Coach type is indicated by the great number that have been sold since the Coach was first announced by Hudson and Essex. Now over 50,000 Hudson and Essex coaches are in service and the demand is greater than ever.

The Coach is an ideal family car. It meets every requirement of a closed car and yet it costs no more than open cars in its own chassis class.

The Hudson Coach at $1450 (freight and tax extra) costs just $25 more than the open seven passenger model. It is the lowest price at which a Hudson closed model has ever been sold and yet the Hudson chassis today is admittedly the finest Super-Six chassis ever built.

This is the time to buy a Coach. Either the Hudson or Essex will give the comforts and satisfaction that you expect and both now sell at a lower price than ever before.

REJECT BONUS BIDS

The Service Recognition Board rejected all bids for $10,000,000 worth of soldier bonus bonds and readvertised them for another sale, to be held August 28, on August 17.

In the meanwhile all bonus payments will be halted. All bids were rejected when the highest bid received on the first block was only 99.92, which is below par.

On the first sale, of $10,000,000 worth of bonds several months ago, the state received par and an additional premium of $8,000 on the entire block.

The bids were rejected on the offer for the first million dollars. The Guarantee Company of New York bid 99.92 with the provision that it be given a 30-day option on the remaining $9,000,000.

The company declared that the condition of the stock and bond markets did not warrant a higher price.

The payment of the bonus certificates has been halted for several days waiting the proceeds from the above offering.

Should the August 28 sale be successful it will probably be the end of September before any other payments are made.

The Service Recognition Board declared it would continue the certification of claims despite the rejection of the bids.

SANDWICH—SOMONAUK IN ARMS

Will Continue Court Battle of Three Years Relative to School District

Two petition asking for the detachment of certain territory from Community High School District No. 402 otherwise known as the Sandwich District of the counties of DeKalb, LaSalle and Kendall and to add the same to community high school District No. 408, otherwise known as the Somonauk District, were filed by Mrs. Carrie L. Dannwitz, Eugene Grangeorge and others are petitioners and in the other petition which describes other lands not mentioned in the first petition the petitioners are Louis Rohrer, Mary P. Rohrer, and others.

The two petitions which are alike except for the description of the real estate and parties petitioners allege that district No. 402 is an organized and existing community high school district containing about 60 sections of land and that district No. 408 is also an organized and existing community high school district containing about 32 sections of land; that the high school building of the District 402, is situated in the southeast part of the city of Sandwich and that the community of which said city is the center, comprises not only the territory in said city but territory adjacent thereto and extending in all directions, to these imaginary lines where the people from habit and from social, educational, religious and business purposes go in other directions.

It is also alleged that the high school building of community high school District No. 408, is situated in the village of Somonauk, which village is the community center of the people living therein and in the territory adjacent to same; that the territory described and sought to be detached from District No. 402 or Sandwich, and added to District 408 or Somonauk, is territory which properly belongs to and is a part of that community so having its center in the village of Somonauk, and not the city of Sandwich; that the boundary community having its center in the line dividing the community so having its center in the city of Sandwich and the community having its center in the village of Somonauk, is the line fixed upon as the eastern boundary line of the territory sought to be detached.

The petition further states that the people residing within the territory asked to be detached from District No. 402 and added to 408, have their social relations, their church affiliations and their educational and rural gatherings and functions with that community center the village of Somonauk; the children of high school age for many years past have attended and it is said now do, attend high school in the village of Somonauk; that the farmers in said territory market their grain and other produce and do their banking and other business there, all use Somonauk as their shipping point and receive mail through the Somonauk post office. That the limits of the Community High School District No. 408, with the territory sought to be added, will not extend more than one half the distance between the community centers of Sandwich and Somonauk.

The petition states further that district 402 is not compact and contiguous and the territory is so extensive that it does not and can not furnish to all inhabitants of the district the educational advantages and facilities as is contemplated by the constitution; that some of the inhabitants of said territory reside from six to ten miles from the school building and that all the people are nearer to the school building in district 408 than the school building in district 402 and that the highways in the territory leading to Somonauk are more direct and equally as good and well kept as those leading to Sandwich; that the pupils residing at a great distance will be benefited by the contemplated change.

The petitioners state that they never assented to the territory described as being included in district 402 but that they resisted to the extent they were able and were forced to become a part of district 402 through the large voting population of the city of Sandwich.

On Wednesday Judge Fulton entered an order on the petition that summons issue to the Sheriff that he summon the Board of Education of Community High School District 402, to appear and answer, which summons is to be returnable within 10 days from date.

This will probably be another long drawn out legal battle between Somonauk and Sandwich which will not terminate until the Supreme Court of Illinois has passed upon it.

DODGE CARS IN NEW MODELS

Snappy Lines Embodied in 1923 Products of this Great Auto

Marked improvement in appearance and comfort is apparent in the new line of Dodge Brothers Motor Cars, in the production of which the factory has been gathering momentum since July 1. Hundreds of dealers are now supplied with display cars of the new type, and from every source the factory is receiving reports of enthusiastic approval by the public.

While the basic characteristics of the familiar Dodge Brothers cars of recent days are still present, there is an air of distinctiveness that surpasses all previous efforts of this concern to build a moderately priced car of commendable appearance as well as quality.

The wheelbase is a trifle longer, the body is lower and the rear springs changed to semi-elliptical type are underslung, and increased from 45 to 55 inches in length.

All the features so popular with the public today are embodied in the design of the complete line, which includes a touring car, roadster, coupe, two types of sedan, and screen side and panel side commercial cars of 3-4 ton capacity. All steel bodies—as first introduced by Dodge Brothers in their open passenger cars several years ago—are now used for all types.

The effect of the longer and lower body and longer wheelbase combined with the new lines and lower seats, is very fine. According to dealers and others who have driven the new cars, the improvement in riding qualities is no less pronounced than the improvement in general design. The reduction in body height lowers the center of gravity and thereby reduces sideway, while rebound shocks are effectively dissipated by the improved front and rear springs. The car holds the road easily and gracefully and affords real riding comfort.

Another distinct new feature is the louvers or ventilator slits in the sides of the hood panels. This change increases the flow of air through the radiator and reduces the flow of hot air to the motor boards, making summer driving most comfortable.

The rear seat and all upholstery of the touring car are removable, affording a large space for loading luggage or other articles. Seats in all types are deeper and lower, adding to comfort and leg room.

The instrument board is greatly improved in appearance, with instruments grouped on a raised panel and with longer lighting switch lever, facilitating control of the lights while driving.

Head lamps are specially designed to harmonize with the new body lines. A combination caution signal and tail lamp is mounted rigidly on the license plate bracket and conforms with the requirements of all states having lighting regulations.

Brake pedal pads are larger and of a design which makes for greater ease and safety. The hand brake lever, is moved forward, giving more leg room and making it easier to get in and out. A Yale lock is built into the transmission, making it possible to double-lock the car when idle.

The steering wheel is materially improved in appearance and all electrical connections are inside the steering column.

The front springs are increased in length and from 1 3/4 to 2 inches in width and built of more leaves of a thinner stock. The rear springs, in addition to being longer, are now semi-elliptical and flat.

The front axle is of a design unusually strong. The camber, or in-tilt of the front wheels, is increased, making steering easier. A new gear ratio of the rear axle gives increased flexibility and adds to the ability of Dodge Brothers cars as hill climbers. In the Type A sedan, the upholstery is the finest grade mohair velvet, and all interior hardware is of distinctive Dodge Brothers design. The business coupe and business sedan are finished in attractive Spanish blue leather.

The fiscal year ending July 1 was the most successful in the history of Dodge Brothers, their dealers having marketed approximately 200,000 cars. With the improvements now put into effect, obviously making the car better and more attractive in every way, though still retaining the essential attributes to which the car owes its great popularity it seems quite evident that this company has not yet reached the maximum of its potentialities, despite the tremendous record of the year just closed.

Paint for this garage less than $5.00

Do you know that you can give a garage like this (12'x20') two good coats of paint with 1 1/2 gallons of Certain-teed, making the paint cost less than $5? Give your garage the same attention you give your car. You can keep both looking like new with a little paint.

Certain-teed paint keeps your property from running down and decreases the average yearly depreciation by about one-half. Certain-teed shows its quality in three ways: it lasts longer, holds its color better, and covers more surface than ordinary paint.

Certain-teed paints excel in covering capacity, hiding power, and color retaining value. We know of no other paints offering such good value.

Where Harding's Body Now Reposes

Remains of the late president will rest in this vault in the cemetery at Marion for the present. A mausoleum may later be erected to house the body.

Arrival of Harding's Remains in Marion

Dr. C. E. Sawyer

No one mourned the death of President Harding more than Doctor Sawyer, personal physician to the late executive.

HARDING'S BODY IS LAID IN TOMB

Nation in Mourning as the Simple Funeral Services for the Dead President Are Held in Marion—Imposing Official Cortège and Ceremony in Washington.

Marion, O.—All that was mortal of Warren G. Harding, twenty-ninth President of the United States, was placed in the tomb Friday, August 10, in the Marion cemetery.

No imposing ceremony, no military display, no marching of organizations marked the mournful event, because Mrs. Harding wished it so, but as the simple services were being held in the cemetery, in every city, every town and village, every home of the broad land the people of America were paying tribute to the memory of their chief whose life truly was sacrificed in their behalf. Barter and trade, financial business and every other worldly activity that could be suspended ceased for the time, all sports and pastimes were abandoned—the nation mourned.

Great Throngs in Marion. Here in Marion were gathered a host of prominent persons, from President Coolidge down and including the leading government officials, senators and representatives, governors of the states and delegations from hundreds of cities and organizations. All day Thursday and on Friday morning special trains brought in the throngs, and other thousands of Ohioans came by automobile. So great were the crowds that it was necessary for the state officials to arrange to have the roads for miles around Marion patrolled to prevent accidents.

Thursday morning the funeral train arrived from Washington, and Mr. Harding's body was taken at once to the residence of his father, Dr. George T. Harding. From 2 until 10 p. m. that day and from 9 a. m. until 1 p. m. Friday opportunity was given Ohioans to view the face of their dead friend. Then, quite without pomp, the casket was borne to the cemetery. Following the hearse were the members of the Harding family; next the President of the United States with members of the cabinet and other high officials; then came Mr. Harding's close friends and neighbors, and after them a great concourse of mourners.

Simple Services in Cemetery. It was Mrs. Harding's wish that all who wished should have a place in the funeral procession. Among those who sadly accepted the invitation were all the employees of the Marion Star who had worked for Mr. Harding for years, and the Ohio newspaper publishers, members of the Associated Ohio Dailies, in which organization Mr. Harding had taken an active part.

Reaching the cemetery about three o'clock, the cortege proceeded to the receiving vault, and there the brief services were held. Prayers, readings from the Scriptures and the singing of Mr. Harding's favorite hymns—that was all. It was simple and dignified, as was befitting the obsequies of a distinguished citizen of Marion. The services were in charge of Rev. George M. Landis, pastor of Trinity Baptist church, of which Mr. Harding was a member. He was assisted by Rev. Jesse Swank, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church, Mrs. Harding's pastor.

Troops Guard the Casket. Instead of being interred in the family plot, the body of Mr. Harding was placed in the receiving vault, and there it will remain until a mausoleum has been erected to receive it. As the weeping family and friends moved away from the vault, National Guard soldiers stepped forward and took their place on guard. In a few days they will be replaced by the guard from the regular army, that will stand around the vault for the regulation period of six months. The detail for this purpose will consist of an officer and twenty-five men from Fort Hayes at Columbus.

The Presidential party from Washington, which came on a special train Friday morning, started back for the national capital almost immediately after the conclusion of the ceremonies. Mrs. Harding, who had borne so well her difficult part, also returned to Washington, on the same train that brought her and her dead. It was announced that she would remain in the White House until she has finished the supervision and removal of the effects of the late President. This probably will take about three weeks.

Services at Capital. Washington, —The United States government Wednesday paid official tribute to the body of Warren G. Harding, twenty-ninth president. It was a tribute at once simple, dignified and impressive. The ceremonies were preliminary to the journey to Marion, Ohio, and the final interment Friday in the late president's home city.

The ceremonies consisted in official transfer in the morning of the body from the White House to the Capitol, where it lay in state until six o'clock in the evening. The American people participated by marching in the funeral procession and by passing by the bier in the rotunda of the Capitol and by lining the funeral route in vast, reverent crowds. Ten thousand school children carpeted with flowers historic Pennsylvania avenue.

The body left the White House, where it had lain during the night, at 10 a. m. Gen. John J. Pershing, general of the United States army and commander of the military escort, led the procession to the Capitol.

Guard of Honor. Six generals of the army and six admirals of the navy acted as an immediate guard of honor to the casket bearing the remains of the late President.

Seven senators, including President pro tem. Cummins, and seven representatives, including Speaker Gillette of the house, acted with members of the Harding cabinet as honorary pallbearers.

Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, marshal of the civic procession, the clergymen in charge of the services, and the physicians who attended President Harding at his last illness were assigned to places immediately in advance of the casket.

Chief Justice Taft participated as a former president instead of as head of the Supreme court. Ex-President and Mrs. Wilson were placed behind him.

Behind Mr. Wilson in the procession were placed, successively, ambassadors of foreign governments, associate justices of the Supreme court, foreign ministers and charge d'affaires, senators and officers of the senate, representatives and officers of the house, governors of states and territories and commissioners of the District of Columbia and acting secretaries of the various departments of the federal government.

The following also were included in the official section of the procession: Circuit Court of Appeals, Court of Claims, Court of Customs Appeals, Court of Appeals and Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, under-secretaries and assistant secretaries of federal departments, assistant postmasters general and assistant attorneys general, United States marshal and United States attorney.

The chairman or senior member of the following groups: Federal Reserve board, Interstate Commerce commission, Civil Service commission, various mixed commissions dealing with international problems and other agencies of the federal government.

Next in line came patriotic and civic organizations, headed by men who have won the Congressional Medal of Honor for heroic deeds in the service of their country by land or sea. They were followed by army officers, led by Assistant Secretary of the Navy Roosevelt.

Next came officers of the coast guard and public health service, headed by the assistant secretary of the treasury and officers of the coast and geodetic survey, under command of the assistant secretary of commerce.

The services in the rotunda of the Capitol were as follows: Invocation, Dr. A. Freeman, assistant pastor of the Calvary Baptist church, of which Mr. Harding was a member.

Hymn, "Lead, Kindly Light," male quartet of Calvary Baptist church.

Scripture: Twenty-third Psalm, Micah, sixth chapter, eighth verse.

Revelation, twenty-second chapter, first to fifth verses.

Quotations. Prayer, Dr. James Shera Montgomery, chaplain of the house of representatives.

Hymn, "Nearer, My God, to Thee," male quartet.

Benediction, Dr. Anderson.

The body then lay in state and from four to six the general public was admitted.

At 6 p. m. the casket was taken back to the car in which it had been brought across the continent. Then began the journey to Marion—back to the home town.

The special train bearing the President's body arrived in Washington at 10:25 p. m. Tuesday after a transcontinental journey of 96 hours and 10 minutes. It was 9 hours late—the great crowds in the big cities had almost blocked its way. President Coolidge, cabinet members, members of congress and civilian and military dignitaries were at the depot. The Marine band played "Nearer My God, to Thee."

Mrs. Harding walked to her car on the arm of Secretary Christian.

The casket, escorted by its guard of honor, was taken on a caisson to the White House, where it arrived at 11:30. It was placed in the East room.

At midnight the White House doors were closed, leaving Mrs. Harding with her dead.

AT REST IN BEAUTIFUL SPOT

President Harding's Grave, in the Family Plot, in Quiet Little Cemetery at Marion.

Marion, O., Aug.—The spot in Marion cemetery where all that is mortal of Warren G. Harding will rest, is one of the most beautiful in the vicinity of the quiet town to which he oftentimes said he hoped to return as an ordinary citizen, after his public services.

Situated at almost the center of the old burial ground, the Harding family plot, where a President of the United States will resume his place among the kindly folk he knew and loved as neighbors, lies cupped in a tiny valley. Two giant elms cast deep shadows over slabs of granite which mark the resting place of the President's mother and of his sister, and only a few steps away a gleaming gravel roadway winds through a perfect archway of foliage fashioned by the interlocking branches of elms.

CHAPTER XV

"Lettie," sighed Mrs. Penfield, "what you got to learn is to behave in spite of getting riled."
"O Lord!" cried the child, rolling her eyes in dismay. "I'd rather dodge. And it works out just the same."
"You couldn't dodge all the time. Lettie; but if you want to try it for a spell, there ain't no objection. Now that you can wear your good clothes, you got to go to Sunday school with Crink and Thad reg'lar. It'll be terrible for you."

Of these more cheerful phases of two immediate problems—food supply and Lettie's training—Mrs. Penfield was thinking as she finished her sprinkling and starching and changed her dress. It was the first of December. She had been collecting the rents and had to make the deposit before the bank should close. Her list was complete except for the Bosleys. While she was debating whether she would call for their rent or let it go till they thought of it, as they surely would in a day or two, Gussie Bosley came in.

"Here's the rent," she said briefly. "I came near forgetting it again."
She was wearing a black satin gown expensively simple. Around her neck was a long chain of wrought gold, set with jade. Mrs. Penfield threw her a second puzzled glance, finding it difficult to realize that this ultra young woman belonged in the exceedingly humble Custard Cup.

Gussie, catching the glance, preened herself saucily. "Do you like it?"
"Yes, it's very smart."
"Glad you think so. It's a simple little dress. I picked it up in San Francisco the other day."

"Well, if I found 'em lying around, I'd keep on picking," smiled Mrs. Penfield genially.

"It does for common, but what I'm dead gone on is this chain. Ain't it the sweetest thing you ever glimmered? A Chink friend of Frank's sent it to me."

"I don't wonder you're pleased. The Chinese are awful generous making gifts if they like folks, ain't they?" A slight flush came superfluently into Mrs. Bosley's cheeks. "Ye—yes, ain't they?"

There was a knocking at the back door. Mrs. Penfield excused herself. "It was the delivery man," she explained when she returned. "Uncle Jerry ordered a sack of sweet potatoes for me this morning. Didn't ask nor nothing! He is the most thoughtful man!"

A hard look came into Gussie Bosley's eyes. "Lucky you're so well satisfied," she snapped.

Mrs. Penfield looked at her in astonishment. It had not once occurred to her that Frank Bosley's wife might not be in sympathy with his friendship for Uncle Jerry. Evidently she and Gussie were in agreement about its undesirability, but Gussie's attitude suggested a personal criticism which was most unwelcome.

"I conclude you don't like him," she said vaguely.

Gussie shrugged. "I don't think anything about him unless I have to, but I shouldn't have said it if you hadn't dragged him into the talk."

Around Her Neck Was a Long Chain of Wrought Gold.

"Ain't your fault, anyhow," she turned to go. "Oh, Mrs. Penfield, do you s'pose the landlord would put an extra lock on the back door?"
"I don't s'pose he would. Ain't any back door got anything but the reg'lar lock and bolt. It couldn't put on an extra one 'thout getting asked for eleven more, likely."

"My heavens, this is a cheap hole. I'll be glad when we get out of it. Wouldn't have caught me staying here all this time if I'd had my way." She frowned out of the door.

their house, why doesn't he quit going?"

Lettie Attempts Hospitality.

"Oh, I found the most wonderful bargain," announced Mrs. Penfield, as she put down her old suitcase on the kitchen table and unbuckled the straps. "Look here, Uncle Jerry. It's bean splits."
"They look it!" laughed the big man, as he inspected the beans, which were halved or otherwise disintegrated.

"Yes, it was easy to name 'em," she agreed. "Point is, they don't cost but half as much as the whole ones, and where's the difference in nourishment? The whole bean's there, only not in one place. And I know a way to cook 'em into beans so't the children don't taste it, and I put in a nice dash of Indian meal, and land, they don't need nothing more to a sitting. They get as nourished as they can stand. You know a lot of folks are overfed."

"Round here?" inquired Uncle Jerry, with lazy ambiguity.

She faced him with a flush on her cheeks. "Uncle Jerry, you don't mean that the reason you don't—don't take meals with us oftener is—is—"

"Good Lord, no, Car'line," he exploded in amazement. "Ain't anything would suit me better'n to eat with you all the time, but the work I'm trying out—is—it means irregular hours. That's all, honest. Why, you don't s'pose I'd be such a blame-fool as to criticize— All is, it kind o' gets me to think what a family you came out of and the bringing up—"

She lifted her hand quickly in a gesture that brushed the past out of existence. "Don't you know that's why I can live this way and be happy doing it? I've come to see that the more possessions you can eliminate, the better you can breathe and the more time you got for other folks—and that's the main concern, ain't it?"

"I'll be running along," said Uncle Jerry, with a whimsical smile. "Time I get back you'll have yourself argued out of food and furniture, I expect."

"No, I won't," she laughed. "I'll make a stand for a certain amount of both, but I'm going to remember that enough is all I want. There's the Perennial Prue," she added softly, as she caught a glimpse through the open front door. "Too bad you're going off. You might—"

"Well, now, I—I don't have to go straight away," admitted Uncle Jerry slowly.

Mrs. Penfield gave him a sly glance, but made no comment. It was beginning to dawn upon her that Uncle Jerry admired Prudence Hapgood—that he regarded her as a superior being, whereas removed from the sort of existence which he had known. Before her he was sometimes shy, always awkward, always self-conscious—he, the nonchalant, self-possessed Jerry Winston—and yet he stayed by! Mrs. Penfield wondered.

Certainly Prudence was different from anyone else in The Custard Cup. She was like a quiet little rowboat that had strayed from its moorings and had floated into a group of variegated craft. Always gentle and friendly, she yet had the slightly aloof manner of one whose thoughts are turned often inward. So far from being modified by her surroundings, she had brought her own world into them and kept it intact. Her carefully preserved silk gown, the fine old lace around the neck and edging the sleeves; her sweetly sad smile; the calm expression of her eyes—these set her apart from her neighbors, intangibly but undeniably.

She had brought a bit of crocheting; Mrs. Penfield got out her sewing; Jerry Winston nervously proffered some reminiscences of the Oregon woods—in the interests of pillow tops; Lettie was quietly cutting pictures out of an old Weatherstone magazine. Conditions were ideal for a congenial confab—when like a bolt out of the blue, word came that Mrs. Enslow's baby had been taken ill! Would Mrs. Penfield come at once? Of course she would.

"You entertain Miss Hapgood," she reminded her household, with a parting wave of her hand. "I'll come back as soon's I can."

No one knew upon whom the mantle of hospitality had fallen. Uncle Jerry became more communicative about trees and out-of-doors, strangely easier now that his niece was gone. Lettie, however, understood that the honors were hers. When Penzie was away, surely she was the next hostess in line. She put aside her pictures and directed her mental energy to the question of hospitality.

"Talking about much good," she said to herself, watching Uncle Jerry, who was expatiating on the value of Oregon pine. "We'd oughter feed her. Folks don't think they've had a good time to your house 'less they've eat." This decision was cemented by the fact that Miss Hapgood had treated Crink and Lettie to cake a few days before. "I gotta feed her some'n. I just gotta." She sprang to her feet and stole into the kitchen.

She stood for a little time, thinking. Without looking, she knew there were no treats available in the cupboard; neither was it permissible to take self-help liberties between meals. She would have to begin at the beginning. Crink was on the back steps, whitening pieces of wood which would some time, with a slight infusion of imagination, be put together as a steamboat. Lettie approached him with utmost ingratitude. "Got any money, Crink?" she inquired gently.

"Well—er—why you wanter know?" He looked up in shrewd caution. The fact was that he had money; and although individuals have had more, none ever felt greater responsibility. Since he had been paid in cash by Mr. Drake, Mrs. Penfield had presented him with an old purse and had allowed him to carry in it a sum never exceeding twenty cents, usually in as small change as provided by the United States treasury. The very looseness of this loose change he could spend without supervision up to and including ten cents a week; larger investments were subject to decision in conference. Crink's pride had reached dangerous proportions. He was even glad that the purse was old; it looked more as though his financial experience reached gratifyingly into the past. Moreover, by keeping the inside pocket of the purse stuffed with chins from the kitchen woodpile, he was able to give the impression of abundant resources beyond the amount which he chose to spend at the moment.

"Let me have some money, Crink," Lettie begged. "I need it awful, and I know you're 'most a rich man."

He was flattered, but not wholly overcome. "What do you want it for?" She told him. "And we've gotta be hospitable, Crink. Penzie said to be, and it's a good chance to make her happy."

After considerable persuasion, Crink's will became enfeebled, and he handed over two cents, to match the two which Lettie had already admitted she possessed.

"Glory be!" triumphed Lettie. "Crink, you're all to the good. Now you just run down to the store and get four cents' worth of their best popping corn, and I'll—"

Crink took up his knife again. "Aw! Nothing doing, Lettie. What do you take me for?" he scoffed. "Me, buying four cents' worth of stuff to Mr. Drake's! I couldn't hold up my head. No man ever passes out less'n a nickel."

"All right, smarty. Put up another penny, and you'll have the nickel that's eating you."

"Can't. Them two cents are the end for the week."

"It's the end of the week, too," flared Lettie. "Fork over a penny on next week. It'll do your soul good. This whole thing's going to please Penzie better'n anything."

Crink demurred. Lettie insisted. Crink capitulated.

"Now you're talking, Crink. And hurry—hurry—hurry!"

She was consumed with impatience. She was afraid that the guest might depart before the refreshments would be ready. She stuck her head through the door into the living-room.

"Now take guinea pigs, for instance," Uncle Jerry was saying, with an easy gesture. "Guinea pigs would be a pretty healthy lot if the medical schools would let 'em alone. The whole point is—"

"How're you getting on?" inquired Lettie brightly.

This remark was intended to be encouraging, but it had a rather paralyzing effect upon conversation, which had been in full swing. Miss Hapgood dipped her hook into her work with unusual jerkiness. Uncle Jerry glared—glared as if he didn't appreciate hospitality at all.

"Run 'long, Lettie," he said briefly. "I got a story to finish."

THE KITCHEN CABINET

After tasting many essences we find freshness the sweetest of all.

SUMMER DESSERTS

As dessert is valued for its decorative effect as well as its nutritive value, a little time spent in embellishing a dish will be very much worth while.

Apricot Whip.—Take two cupsful of apricots, one-half cupful of sugar, one teaspoonful of lemon juice, the whites of two eggs. Fresh fruit is rubbed through a sieve, the sugar added, lemon juice, and fold in the stiffly beaten whites. If canned or dried apricots are used, soak them, add the cooked fruit to the sugar and cook five minutes; cool, then fold in the eggs. Bake in a buttered dish in a slow oven for twenty minutes. Serve with cream or a soft custard, garnished with cubes of bright-colored jelly.

Peach Cup.—Take eight ripe peaches, two eggs, one-half cupful of milk, one and one-half cupsful of flour, three teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one-half teaspoonful of salt and one tablespoonful of butter. Peel the peaches and mash two of them, add the well-beaten yolks of the eggs, then the milk and the dry ingredients sifted together. Add the butter, melted, beat well, then fold in the stiffly beaten whites of the eggs. Put a layer of this mixture in a buttered oatmeal cup, add half a peach, cover with batter, sprinkle each with sugar and bake in a moderate oven for twenty minutes. Serve with whipped cream or hard sauce.

Velvet Sherbet.—Take the juice of three lemons, two cupsful of sugar and a quart of rich milk. Mix well and put into the freezer. Turn the freezer slowly at first, then when it begins to harden, beat quite fast. This makes a delicious smooth sherbet that is universally liked.

Tuna Fish Salad.—Take one cupful of tuna fish, flaked, three-fourths of a cupful of salad dressing, one-half of an envelope of gelatin, one-fourth of a cupful of water, one-half cupful of chopped celery, one green pepper chopped, one-half teaspoonful of salt, and a dash of paprika and cayenne. Mold and serve on lettuce.

The lintel low enough to keep out pomp and pride; The threshold high enough to turn deceit aside; The doorband strong enough from robbers to defend; This door will open at a touch to welcome every friend.

—Henry Van Dyke.

FOOD FOR HOT WEATHER

Frozen dishes are the most sought after during the heated term. There are so many kinds of ices, sherbets, mousses, frappes and creams that one need not serve the same one many times.

Grape Sherbet.—Take one teaspoonful of gelatin, one tablespoonful of cold water, one cupful of sugar and one-half cupful of cold water. Cook the sugar and water and cool. Dissolve the gelatin in the tablespoonful of water and add to the hot syrup. Let the mixture cool, add one cupful of grape juice and a tablespoonful of lemon juice, mix well and freeze. This will make a quart.

Apricot Ice.—Soak four cupsful of dried apricots in four cupsful of water until soft, cook until tender. Press through a potato ricer to remove the skins. Add one-half cupful sugar to the pulp, then the water in which they were soaked and cook for ten minutes. Remove from the fire, cool, add the juice of three lemons and freeze. When partly frozen add the stiffly beaten whites of three eggs. Finish freezing.

Fruit Ice Cream.—Take a quart of crushed strained berries, or ripe peaches, put through a sieve, adding a tablespoonful of lemon juice to any fruit juice, sweeten to taste and add a quart of thin cream. One may have two or more fruits if desired. Banana pulp, prepared by putting bananas through a sieve, orange and lemon juice, sugar and cream make a delicious combination. Freeze as usual.

Delicious Dessert.—Split a layer and spread with vanilla or chocolate ice cream, cover with the other half and pour a hot chocolate sauce over it; serve at once. Fruit ice cream may be used with a nut sauce or plain ice cream with a fruit sauce in the cake in the same manner.

Rabbit Pie.—After the rabbit is dressed and cut up, washed and put on to cook in water with a bay leaf, a tablespoonful of vinegar, a sliced onion, a sprig of parsley and a stalk of celery, it is seasoned when partly done with salt and pepper. When tender the pieces are taken up and placed in a crust lined baking dish, the gravy thickened, strained and poured over the rabbit with one cupful of cream added. Place the top crust with a vent for escaping steam and bake until thoroughly done. A handful of mushrooms and a tablespoonful of raisins are added to the gravy before putting in the pie—by some cooks.

The Chevrolet 5-Passenger Sedan is most popular for family use, because it affords comfort, weather protection and the home atmosphere all the year 'round for five people—yet may be economically operated with only one or two passengers.

Its power, reliability and low up-keep appeal to men. Women like its handsome lines, fine upholstery, plate glass windows with Ternstedt regulators, and fine finish. Everybody appreciates its great value at $860, f. o. b. Flint, Mich.

A Bank in Peril. Every business develops its own peculiar kind of humorous anecdotes. In one of the banks the other day a girl clerk in the accounting department called a customer and said: "I just wanted to inform you that your account is overdrawn eight cents."

There was a long pause and then an excited feminine voice inquired: "Gosh! Do you have to have it this morning?"—Youngstown Telegram.

Haw! Haw! Two farmers met on a country road and pulled up their teams. "Sir," said one, "I've got a mule with distemper. What did you give that one of yours when he had it?"

"Turpentine, giddap." A week later they met again. "Say, St. I gave my mule turpentine and it killed him." "Killed mine, too; giddap."

Describing It. "What kind of a place is your neighboring hamlet of Slapadiddle?" inquired a recently arrived guest. "Well, I'll just tell you," replied the landlord of the tavern at Grudge. "That outfit of tarpanners is so far behind that they are just now taking up the roller skating craze for the first time."—Kansas City Star.

Ever stop to think of this?

We are what we eat! It's a startling fact, yet a simple truth. This is the reason every one should know that his food is really nourishing—not merely filling.

Grape-Nuts—made from wheat and barley—is one of the few cereal foods that includes the vital mineral salts so necessary for supplying proper nourishment for nerve and bone structure.

In Grape-Nuts, too, is retained the important vitamin-B of the wheat. No food has greater influence in strengthening the body of a growing child than Grape-Nuts. And remember, children need the very best there is in the way of nourishment.

Grape-Nuts is just as delicious as it is healthy, whether served right from the package as a breakfast cereal with milk or cream, with fresh or stewed fruit, or made into an appetizing recipe. Try the suggestion given below.

Age of a Fish.

The size and weight of a fish are no indication of its age. Its length of life is revealed, just as that of a tree is, by its rings. The fish has annual rings also, but not in its body. Put a fish scale under a magnifier and you notice the scale is covered with little rings—some close together and some farther apart. When the fish grows slowly because its food is scarce and the water is chilly, these rings lie close together, but when its food is plentiful and the water is warmer, and the fish grows bigger quickly—as it were, stretches its skin with good feeding—then the rings on the scales lie well apart. Each of these rings represents one year in the age of the fish. There is another way. It is by tracing out the markings on what are termed the earstones of the fish—the tiny hard things in its inner ear. Put these earstones under a powerful microscope and you see tiny light and dark rings. Every light ring tells of one year's growth. So by counting these light rings you arrive at the fish's age.

Melting Carbon.

Carbon may be melted and maintained in a liquid condition, according to the experiments of a French investigator. The heating was effected under great pressure in the electric furnace, and a curious phenomenon was noticed at 1,500 atmospheres, namely, that after a brief failure of the arc, the current refused to pass even when the power was much increased. It is supposed that as the carbon passed into liquid and transparent state, it assumed a rare allotropic form, becoming a non-conductor. The test was too brief for a study of this condition, but was made to include a sudden cooling of the molten carbon by a flooding with water of the interior of the pressure vessel. The minute diamonds were recognized in the gray powder thus obtained, the result being, however, not wholly satisfactory.

"B" Battery That Holds Its Charge

Only Small Amount of Material Is Necessary to Construct.

A home-made "B" storage battery which will hold its charge any length of time is a novelty.

The materials required are two shingling hatchets, or a heavy hammer with a corrugated head, and a corrugated or pitted plate of iron or steel or any metal harder than lead.

On the head of most shingling hatchets will be found a design very useful to battery making. It resembles a plate with small cross-wise grooves, which make an impression, with the grooves as small ridges as in Fig. 1, leaving small pits about one-eighth-inch square.

If no shingling hatchet is procurable, cut cross-wise grooves with a file about one-sixteenth inch deep and about one-eighth inch apart on the head of a hammer (or on a block of metal suitable to hold in the hand) and with it strike the lead plate a heavy blow. Then cut another set of grooves exactly at right angles to the first set of grooves, forming a criss-cross pattern.

The plates should be sheet lead about one-sixteenth of an inch thick and of a size convenient to the jars or test tubes used for containers.

Now put one hatchet or the pitted

Good Storage "B" Battery That Has a High Capacity.

plate in a groove on your workbench or in a vise, with the rough side up, then place the strip of lead on the plate and hit it heavily with the other hatchet or hammer. Upon examination a print will be found similar to Fig. 2. The short ribs which run cross-wise give mechanical strength, while the increased surface gives much more electrical capacity.

Continue the stamping until the whole surface to be immersed is printed.

After the battery is put together and the electrolyte is poured in, it should be charged. For a 22½-volt battery this should take about thirty minutes the first time, then it should be discharged as quickly as possible. When almost completely discharged the circuit for charging should be again connected, but in a different direction from the first charge.

When this alternation of the direction of the current has gone on for about five times the plates will be found to be of a spongy consistency between the short ribs, owing to the decomposition of the matter in the plates under the electrical action. After five changes the maximum of surface will have been obtained and the best results given. However, this alternation should not be continued longer, as the ribs will begin to decompose and the mechanical strength will be so weakened that the plates will soon fall to pieces.

A battery of these cells may be constructed to deliver 150 to 300 volts for power amplifiers and low range transmitters. Although such a battery would involve considerable work it would well repay the constructor by the efficient operation obtained.

Amateur Will Find Rheostat Easy to Make

The materials needed to make this rheostat are a composition dial, some resistance wire, a small strip of brass, and some screws and mica disc. Wind the resistance wire on a 3-16-inch rod; when the coil is wound on connect one end to the brass backing inside of the dial and cut the other end off about ¼ inch from the set-screw that runs from the top of the dial to the bushing. Cut out a round piece of thick mica large enough so that the wire will fit tightly on it, and then groove the mica. Cut out a hole in the center of the disc so it will fit snugly over the bushing, and drill a hole the size of this set-screw parallel with the disc. Put the set-screw in and this will hold the disc on the dial. Punch two holes in the disc where the two ends come and connect one to the bushing. This serves as one contact and the other contact is made by the small brass strip that is fixed on the panel.

Medicine Men.

In all times some degree of healing power has been ascribed to the priest-hood. Medicine-men, mystery-men, shamans, or by whatever name they might be called, were to be found in every tribe of North American Indians. Some of these knew the medicinal qualities of roots and herbs and practiced rude surgery, and others were "fakers." A medicine-man of the Colorado river, says John G. Bourke in an article on the Apache medicine-men, would cast a bullet in a mold containing a small piece of paper. The heifer would have an Indian fire this bullet at him and the lead, because of the paper, would split into pieces and do him no harm.

Another would secretly fasten the end of a roll of snew to a twig, swallow the ball and hold the twig between his teeth. After the snew had softened and expanded "because of the heat and moisture of the stomach" the magician would astound his friends,—Adventure Magazine.

Geography of Planet Venus.

Venus appears to be a mountainous world. Gray shadings may be seen at times in the midst of high pressure areas. Their positions and outlines change with the shifting clouds, but when a composite drawing is made of several observations they appear fixed to the surface of the planet. From the fact that the darkest ones are also the most often visible, it is inferred that the gray spots are the masses of continents dimly visible.

The behavior of Venus' storms also confirms this belief. They actually shun the regions where dark shadings are seen, and mainly keep to the spaces between. Storms on earth find it notoriously hard to cross divides of land. The Venusian seas seem to be hot and steaming, and from their surfaces rolling clouds of vapors arise.

Venus shows phases like the moon. She lies between us and the sun, and so a portion of her night side is almost always turned toward us.

Who First Licked Stamps?

Dispute is being waged as to the earliest postage stamp licker. Claim is put forward for James Chalmers of Arbroath, Scotland, who submitted specimens of adhesive postage stamps to a select committee of the house of commons in 1834. Rowland Hill is also credited with the invention, having experimented with glutinous washes in 1837. As Rowland Hill directed the British postal arrangements, he was probably the first man to lick a genuine postoffice stamp.
