Strigos Assessed $2495.03 By Jury Files Counter Suit for $3500

PAEYOVICH GUILTY BOOTLEGGING

Penalty for Second Offense is One Year in the Penitentiary and Not More Than Two

A hearing was held on Tuesday before Judge Cliffe in the Circuit court in the divorce action brought by Sandwich against Theodore D. Pederson, on grounds of desertion. The plaintiff testified she was married to the defendant at Yorkville, Kendall county on August 15, 1906 and lived with the defendant until May 6, 1920 when he deserted her and has not lived with her since. During all their marriage she testifies she treated him as a kind and affectionate wife. She was corroborated in her story by other witnesses and at the conclusion of the hearing the court entered a decree dissolving the bonds of matrimony.

Fred Medine, of Sycamore, who was indicted by the June Grand Jury on charges of burglary and larceny came before the court with his plea of guilty. He then entered a plea of guilty and sentence was deferred by the court until June 28, 1922.

The case of Shane Bros. & Wilson Co. against Tom Strigos of DeKalb on trial before a jury in the Circuit court presided over by Judge Irwin came to a sudden ending Tuesday afternoon when the Court refused to allow the defendant to introduce evidence of a claim of set off and directed the jury to return a verdict in favor of the plaintiff. The jury returned the following verdict: "We the jury find the issues joined in favor of plaintiff and assess plaintiff's damages at $2495.03."

The defendant, Tom Strigos, after the return of the verdict brought suit in the circuit court against the Shane Bros. & Wilson Co., plaintiffs, in the above action for the sum of $3500 damages. The suit is brought to recover for a number of barrels of King Midas flour which it is claimed by the defendant was not merchantable when received. This claim was sought to be introduced by Strigos in the case tried by jury but was ruled out of court on account of legal technicalities.

In the partition action brought by Jane W. Bowler, Johanna Bowler and Jane Bowler against Mary Fitzgerald, Farmers Bank of Creston and Bert Hawker the default of all defendants except Mary Fitzgerald was entered.

Clark C. Stewart of DeKalb obtained judgment by confession in the circuit court before Judge Irwin, against John D. Fagan and Charles Jordan, both of DeKalb for the sum of $642.94. The claim is based on a judgment note executed by the defendants.

J. P. Redmond of DeKalb brought an action replevin against Allen Redmond. The plaintiff seeks to recover five horses and one set of harness of the value of $305.

The appeal action of Abraham Levin of Sycamore against Chicago & Northwestern Ry. Co. was settled and the case dismissed.

The following proceedings brought by the First Trust & Savings Bank of DeKalb against Samuel E. Bradt, former guardian of Leonard Rows, and others were settled and the case was dismissed.

Christ Paeyovich 39 years old of DeKalb, former editor of the Montenegro Herald, was found guilty of a second offense of a violation of the Prohibition act, by a jury in the Circuit court on Tuesday afternoon. Paeyovich was indicted by the same grand jury and having previously entered a plea of "not guilty" was brought for trial on Tuesday. The following jurors were selected and sworn to try the case: Chas. Welsh, Chas. Peterson, Ira Nichols, Frank Wagner, A. E. Masear, M. F. Gross, Edward Bloomquist, Elmer Judd, Ivan Rainey, Jess Flanders, Ed. Peckman and Alva Shellabarger.

State's Attorney Poust after making his opening statement presented the evidence of the prosecution which consisted of the testimony of Sheriff Decker, Chief Riddel of DeKalb, Wm. Barry Deputy and H. D. Fisk. The evidence showed that the defendant was on March 8, 1922 caught by the police authorities in Annie's woods in DeKalb while in the act of transferring.

YOUNG LADY KILLED

Was Driving Car at High Speed When Blow-out Turned Car Over

The death at 7 p. m. Saturday of Miss Marie Oliphant, Franklin Grove aged 34, living in Chicago was a remarkable tragedy in many ways. She was traveling in a Ford roadster from Chicago where she worked as clerk and stenographer to the home of her parents in Franklin Grove. Three miles east of DeKalb on Lincoln highway she passed a car. In doing this she had driven onto the ground and in returning to the pavement a tire gave out and threw her to the cement pavement with such force as to break her neck and cut a bad gash across the forehead. A peculiar feature was the presence of a license issued to one P. C. Norris of Chicago for a Studebaker car. She had been driving at a furious pace it was said by two men who were passed by her while they were driving their Cadillac at 35 miles an hour.

A physician reached the scene soon after but life was extinct when he reached it. Officer Martin too was rushed to the place. All the personal belongings of the woman contained in a little arm bag were some underwear and a night robe; also a letter giving her address and that of her mother at Franklin Grove.

Two other relatives of the family have met death in similar accidents.—Sycamore Tribune.

SMALL FIRE THURSDAY MORNING

Discovered in W. W. Cooper's Store By Officer Crawford at 2:50 a. m.

While making his rounds early this (Thursday) morning "Chief" Crawford discovered a small fire in the rear of W. W. Cooper's furniture store. He immediately called Cooper and then fired a few shots to arouse the neighborhood, proceeding from thence to ring the bell for the general alarm.

A small chemical outfit was handy but by this time the fire, which is thought to have started from a defective wire or by spontaneous combustion, had gained too much ground, necessitating the use of a little water which was judiciously used by the boys for hardly fifty square feet were soaked with water. The damage was very light considering the magnitude of the fire and Mr. Cooper states that it is entirely covered by insurance.

A regular meeting was held and officers elected for the ensuing year. They were: John Chappel, Sycamore, president; J. M. Clark, Genoa, vice president; and Carl Wiltberger of DeKalb, secretary and treasurer.

FARM BUREAU CELEBRATION

Will be Held Friday of This Week at DeKalb Normal Grounds

ESTIMATE ATTENDANCE AT 25,000

The Decennial Celebration is National in Scope—First Ever Attempted By Farm Bureaus

All together, now—let's push! This briefly is the message sent out to DeKalb and nearby counties by the local committee for the Farm Bureau Decennial Celebration, to be held on the grounds of the Northern Illinois State Normal School at DeKalb on Friday, June 30.

"We must push hard," says the statement sent out by the committee representing DeKalb and nearby counties. "We must all take a part in doing our share toward the greatest agricultural gathering that has ever been held in the State. We want all of the thousands of people who will come from all parts of the country to go home with nothing but praise for our section of the state."

"It is a real responsibility. It is, on the other hand, a real privilege. We are privileged to have with us what the American Farm Bureau Federation believes is the greatest and most magnificent agricultural event of its kind ever attempted by farmers anywhere."

"It will be a real education to witness the pageant. 'Forward, Farm Bureau', directed by one of the foremost pageant leaders of the world, including in its cast two thousand of our own people from thirteen counties of Northern Illinois. These people have been training constantly for weeks and will put on a spectacle that for costuming and dramatic effect will be worth traveling the length of the state to see."

"There will be an opportunity to hear some of the foremost speakers of the country.—Gov. Preuss, of Minnesota, President J. R. Howard, of the American Farm Bureau Federation, and our own Dean Eugene Davonport, who has done so much to build up Illinois and its agriculture.

"No end of statesmen and notables will be here. Every county in the State will have a delegation."

"DeKalb county and northern Illinois must remember that this celebration is in no sense a local or DeKalb affair. It is STATE-WIDE, even NATION-WIDE. The general committee back of the celebration represents the ninety-five county farm bureaus of the State, the Illinois Agricultural Association, the University of Illinois, the Farmers' Institute, the American Farm Bureau Federation.

"The celebration will not only be highly educational, an event which one should see and will never forget for the rest of his life, but it also offers everybody in Northern Illinois a chance for a real holiday and a good time. No one who attends will ever have any cause to regret it."

Reports coming in to the Illinois Agricultural Association from counties indicate that delegations of from 25 to 500, according to distance, will come in auto caravans. It is entirely possible that, with good weather, a crowd of twenty-five thousand people may be on hand. We want to do everything possible for their entertainment."

ICE CREAM SOCIAL

The new club of the Genoa M. E. church composed of young married couples will have an ice cream social on the lawn at J. M. Clark's home on Thursday evening of this week. Everyone, young and old, are invited. Special games are being prepared to entertain the children.

The best ice cream and cake will be served at twenty cents per plate. Come one; come all and have a social time.

BREAKS ARM IN FALL

Mrs. Gallagher suffered another painful injury last week when she tripped over a lawn mower and fell backward breaking her right arm at the elbow. The injured member is healing nicely, causing little or no pain at present. It was just a few weeks ago that two of her ribs were broken by a similar fall.

NEW MILK CONTRACTS

Campaign to Be Launched in the Chicago Territory Soon

In speaking of the new milk contract campaign that is about to be started in the Chicago district the Orange Judd Farmer has the following to say: "Again we are to see the launching of a great campaign in the Chicago milk territory for the signing of contracts as part of a new marketing plan. The record grows a little mixed up, there have been so many campaigns, so many marchings and counter marchings, so much wind and so little rain."

The new contract has one outstanding virtue, which is, that it does not become effective unless 6,000 dairymen sign it. This will help some, and may safeguard the signers to some extent.

"Somehow, though, we are not enthusiastic about signing up with an untried and largely theoretical proposition until it has started out and demonstrated that it can give results. We are sick and tired of these ranting speeches that talk or hint of getting a monopoly of the supply and keeping the price up in that way. Any thinking man knows that you can't keep a monopoly of the milk supply of Chicago, either openly or by subterfuge. If you doubt it look over the wreckage strewn along the trail of the last ten years. Just as soon as the prices begin coming from the great creamery and cheese factory districts of Wisconsin and every dairyman begins to in case the number of cows in his herd, until the question of handling the surplus will break the whole concern. Then comes the question of whether the 'spread' shall be 2, 10, 50 or 100%!"

Probably somebody will begin to tear his hair and say we are 'opposing co-operation,' and that we don't believe in organized marketing by farmers. Bless you, we're in the business of telling facts. We're strong for co-operative organization and improved marketing, but we don't care to see another case like the blow-up of the Marketing Company last year. We told the truth about the U. S. Grain Growers' contract plan right at first, before they started to sign it, and we are still telling it. We're for the U. S. Grain Growers, and we have tried, and are still trying, to keep them out of a lot of blunders that are likely to wreck them. We're for good business in milk marketing, but if dairymen want to sign up this new contract that is offered to them all summer in northern Illinois, they will not do it on our recommendation."

Those who read the Prairie Farmer of two weeks ago will recall that it came out strong for the new milk marketing plan. It really is a peculiar situation for the farmer that two well-known farm papers working for the best interests of the farmer should choose opposite sides in this particular subject.

DR. BROWN TO SERVE SENTENCE

A decision of the Illinois supreme court handed down Wednesday ends the last hope that Dr. Oscar J. Brown of DeKalb, one of the 18 defendants in the trial of members of the Communist party, had of escaping a sentence of one year in the Cook county jail.

Dr. Brown has been a party to all of the appeals made by the defendants, and according to the latest finding will have to spend the time indicated less a certain time for good behavior. The physician has been very ill for some time past, but has about recovered. He recently moved to his new home in the Meadowland addition, where he will probably return at the end of the term of imprisonment.

The opinion delivered by Chief Justice Floyd E. Thompson, affirmed the conviction of eighteen members of the Communist Labor party for conspiracy to advocate reformation and overthrow by violence of the existing form of government. Justice O. N. Carter alone dissented.

Scott and family of Sycamore, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson will remain through the week.

The End of a Perfect Day

TRY TO GET ON BOARD OF TRADE

U. S. Grain Growers Decide to Handle Grain Thru Regular Channel

Cooperation between a committee of the midwest farm bureau and the officers of the United States Grain Growers, Inc., was announced Monday as the latest detail of the Grain Growers' selling plan under which the organization will attempt to acquire seats on the Chicago and Minneapolis grain exchanges and will also make sales contracts direct with consumers.

Sales offices to handle grain thru the exchanges will be only a part of the selling plan. C. H. Gustafson, president of the Grain Growers, said: "Financing arrangements for $1,000,000 or more to cover grain movements whether the grain is handled thru the sales company (with grain exchange membership or sold direct to consumers, have been made." Mr. Gustafson said.

These arrangements include negotiations for $50,000 from B. F. Hales, a Chicago farmer-business man. The cooperation of the farm bureau committee was looked upon as ironing out some difficulties between the Grain Growers and the American Farm Bureau federation, which favored the younger organization. Conferences between the committees and Grain Growers officers are now in progress to enable the latter to begin handling grain at an early date.—Somonauk Reveille.

It will be remembered that a few months ago the Grain Growers, Inc. were fighting hammer and tongs to put the Chicago Board of Trade out of business. How well they have succeeded is evidenced by the fact that they are now applying for membership in this self same board that they sought to destroy.

NEAR FATAL ACCIDENT

August Jahn, a farmer seventy-six years old, living near Burlington escaped death last Thursday by an extremely narrow margin. While raking hay in the field he suddenly became dizzy, falling forward beneath the horses. The frightened animals started to run and Mr. Jahn was tangled in the rake, rolling over and over. Neighbors in an adjoining field saw the accident and called the old man's nephew, Walter Grams, who went to his rescue. The unconscious body was extricated from the rake and a doctor summoned to dress the wounds which literally covered the body.

A FRIENDLY WARNING

For some unknown reason Genoa has been infested with a few people of late that take delight in peeping thru windows and otherwise frightening the occupants of houses. Whether or not it is local talent has not been determined for the country is full of hoboes going to and fro. However, a gun with a few charges of buckshot would soon end all the night work and every one could rest in peace. Nevertheless it behooves everyone to securely fasten the doors and windows at night and take no chances.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

Saturday afternoon, members of King's Herald, numbering eighteen, met at the home of Patricia Shesler to celebrate her fourth birthday. Joyful games were enjoyed by the girls after which dainty refreshments were served consisting of birthday cake, pink ice cream and candy sweet in tiny pink and green baskets with candy bouquets for favors. Patty entertained in her usual way and all enjoyed the occasion.

BELVIDERE'S SWIMMIN' HOLE

The city of Belvidere has rented a portion of the Kishwaukee river front in the eastern part of the city and transformed a beautiful spot of woodland into an excellent bathing beach with many facilities. There are diving boards, stands, glide and lockers for use by the bathers. In fact a better spot for swimming is hard to find. On July 19 Weismuller of the Chicago I. A. C. will give a few exhibitions of speed swimming before a large crowd. The above mentioned athlete holds many world's records acquired in this country as well as in the water on foreign soil.

ELKS INITIATE LARGE BUNCH

The DeKalb lodge of Elks initiated 23 candidates last Thursday afternoon at their club. The candidates were men who travel with the carnival that spent the second week of June in that city. A number of prominent Elks were entertained at dinner with them.

GENOA ANNEXES ANOTHER GAME

Humble Garden Prairie in One Sided Conflict 21 to 3

HAMPSHIRE HERE NEXT SUNDAY

A Real Game is Anticipated—Beltz Pitching for Hampshire—LeDeaux for Genoa

Genoa took another woody combat Sunday from Garden Prairie and outside of a couple dozen runs, about forty hits and a few stolen bases there was not much doing. The final score was 21 to 3 and if the boys had not become so tired they might have been batting yet.

Garden Prairie, first up, punctured Genoa's defense for two runs and it really looked as though Genoa was up against a salaried team as ye manager Baker had said. However the local boys' laid down a sweet little barrage in their half and took two runs prisoners themselves and after that the Garden Prairie boys were certainly out of luck. An attack in the second netted three more runs; the third saw nine more runs and so on thru out the game.

Genoa's defense was exceptionally good and but a few bobbles were made in handling the ball. Schaffer kept the batters at bay, while Crawford received behind the plate, holding the runners on top of the bag thru fear of his snappy throw. Shattuck on first kept the fans amused with a little trick stuff and every one went home happily contemplating deep, dark notches in their guns for next Sunday's game with Hampshire on our local field.

Hampshire has Beltz who pitched a few excellent games for Genoa last year, playing with them and Knief of Burlington is on the receiving end. It will be a real battle from start to finish and the boys would appreciate your presence that day for rooting is going to play a big part.

Crawford and LeDeaux will be the battery for Genoa and Schaffer will be in reserve, altho Baker is hoping that it will not be necessary to use him until Tuesday when Genoa tackles Belvidere at Belvidere in the fourth of July game.

ATTEND LECTURE

Some of the newspaper men of DeKalb county attended a meeting of the Kiwanis club of DeKalb last Monday evening in the city of DeKalb.

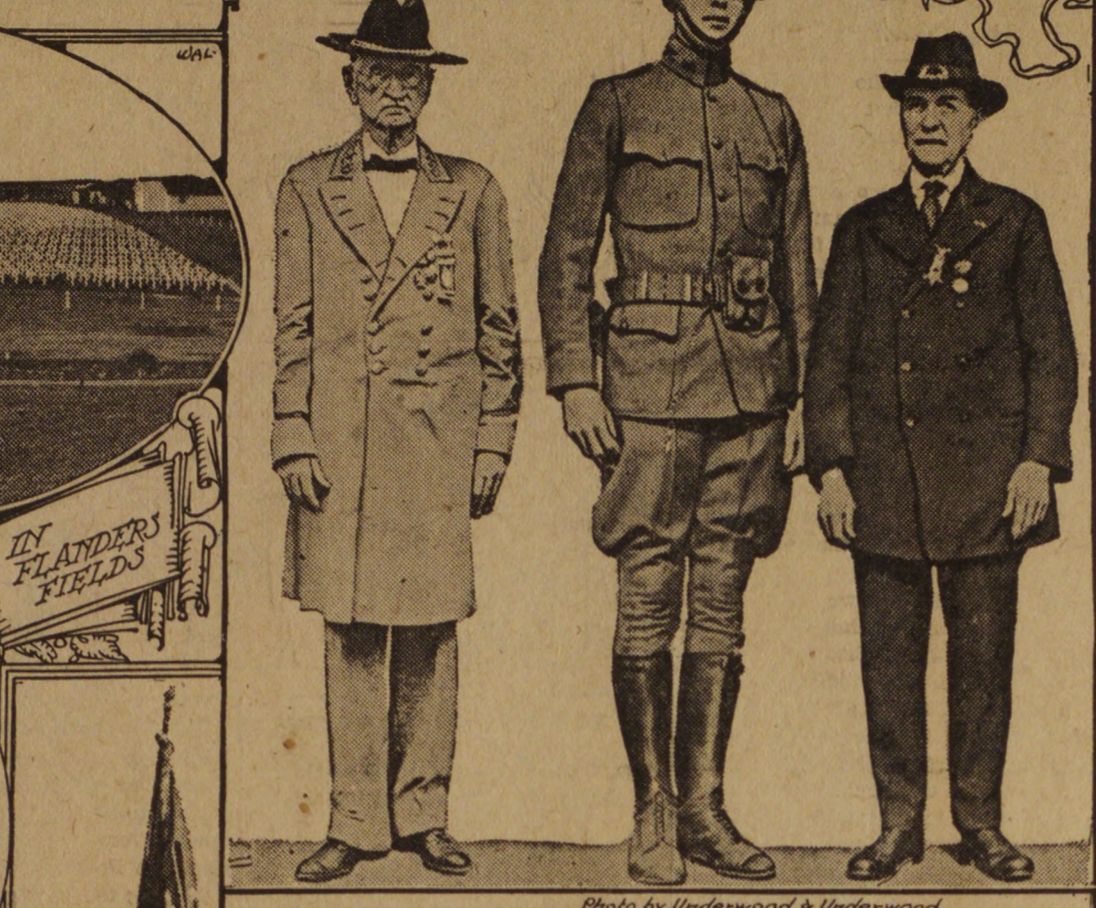

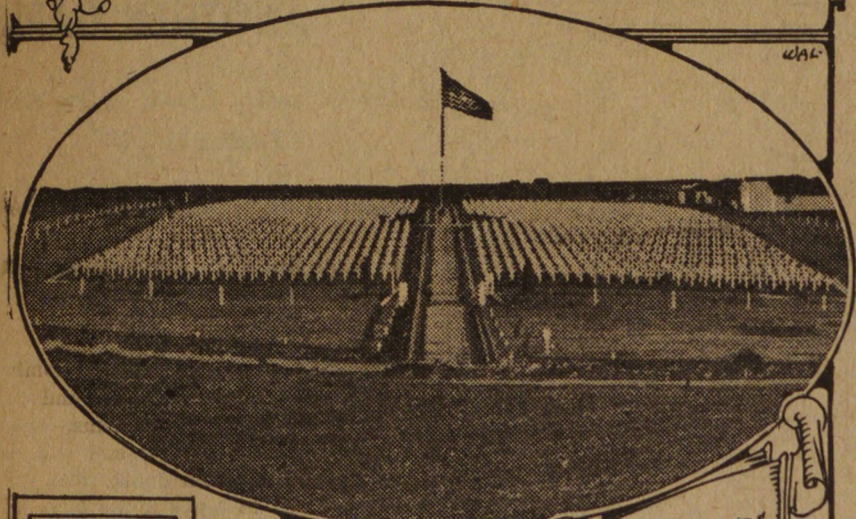

A very interesting spectacle was shown in the shape of three films under the direction of Mr. Harry Hooker of the J. W. Butler Paper Co. At the same time he gave an instructive talk on advertising.

The process of paper making is little known even by those who handle it and this presentation of the films was a revelation. They took the subject from the trees in the forest, their cutting, reduction to pulp and at last placed the finished product aboard ship in their trip to Europe. The supper given in the new Innovation was enjoyable.

In order to make the films as instructive and general in their scope as possible, the management of the Chronicle invited the newspaper men and wives of the county and their own nonpareil club to attend the supper and lecture.

INDEPENDENCE DAY-1922

THE FLAG GOES BY
 Hats off!
 Along the street there comes
 A blare of bugles, a ruffle of drums,
 A flash of color beneath the sky:
 Hats off!
 The Flag is passing by!
 Blue and white and crimson it shines
 Over the steel-tipped, ordered lines.
 Hats off!
 The Colors before us fly;
 But more than the Flag is passing by!
 Sea-fights and land-fights, grim and great,
 Fought to make and to save the State;
 Weary marches and sinking ships;
 Cheers of victory on dying lips;
 Days of plenty and years of peace;
 March of a strong land's swift increase;
 Equal Justice, right and law;
 Stately honor and reverend awe;
 Sign of a nation, great and strong,
 To ward her people from foreign wrong!
 Pride and glory and honor—all
 Live in the Colors to stand or fall.
 Hats off!
 Along the street there comes
 A blare of bugles, a ruffle of drums;
 And loyal hearts are beating high:
 Hats off!
 The Flag is passing by!

By JOHN DICKINSON SHERMAN
 INDEPENDENCE DAY is the American holiday devoted to the celebration of the Declaration of Independence in 1776. Of course. But that was nearly 150 years ago. Since then we have had five wars. Since then we grown from a nation of about three millions to a nation of about 120 millions. So the American people may fitly celebrate more on the Fourth of July than the Declaration of Independence.
 Doubtless the Fourth will be observed in this year of A. D. 1922 in a multitude of ways, some good, some indifferent—necessarily so in a country so big, with so vast a melting-pot population.
 We Americans have an attractive list of holidays. Christmas, New Year's and Easter we share with all mankind. Thanksgiving Day, Mother's Day and Arbor Day are our own. So are Washington's Birthday and Lincoln's Birthday and Flag Day. Memorial Day is the day the nation grieves over its soldier dead and pays tribute to its fighting heroes at their last resting place.
 The Fourth of July should be different from all other national holidays. It should have something of Washington and Lincoln's Birthdays in it, much of Thanksgiving Day and more of Flag Day.
 The Fourth of July should be most of all, as many good Americans see it, a day of nation worship, unstinted and unshamed.
 The Government of the United States of America secured its existence through war. Every generation of Americans has had its war. As one generation of fighting heroes passes away another rises to take its place. Some have gone, others are going, all will go. None should be forgotten, for their deeds are the basis of the tradition around which our nationalism is built. The heritage of the next generation has been made possible by their heroisms.
 There are those Americans who profess to see in the American nation a peace-loving people, slow to wrath and averse to war. It is true that we are slow to take up arms. This is because war with us is a war, not of a professional army, but of the people. Our people go slow to war because they will not fight unless the provocation is great and the cause is just.
 But those who believe America is not a fighting nation are utterly and entirely wrong. We are not afraid to fight. We know how to fight. As a matter of exact fact we are the most warlike people on earth. When America goes to war the national heart goes with her soldiers. We are the most desperate in battle.
 The Flag has waved over our battle-fields for a century and a half. Never has it trailed in defeat.
 All of America's wars have been in the cause of humanity. America has cause to blush for none, to apologize for none, to feel regret for none. So why should not the Fourth of July be in part devoted to nation-worship and to remembrance of the deeds of the heroes who kept the Flag victorious from the Philippines to France! In an appreciation of our national history it is not necessary to acclaim war or to defy the fighting man. Hand in hand with appreciation of America's valor in war go an appreciation of the evils of war and an appreciation of the lessons of war.

 The Fourth of July is surely the day of days on which to salute the Flag, remember the heroes who have died for it, applaud the living who have fought for it and declare again, with the poet:
 In spite of rock and tempest's roar,
 In spite of false lights on the shore,
 Sail on, nor fear to breast the sea;
 Our hearts and hopes are all with thee;
 Our hearts, our hopes, our prayers, our tears,
 Our faith triumphant o'er our fears,
 Are all with thee, and all with thee.
 So first a thought of reverent praise for the five Immortals who drew up the Declaration of Independence—Jefferson, John Adams, Franklin, Sherman and Livingston. And then a thought of the many heroes of '76, from the villagers who fired the first shot at Concord to Washington, the leader of our armies, not forgetting such leaders as Marion and Wayne and Stark and John Paul Jones, or such patriots as the three million men whom Major Andre's gold could not corrupt; Hale, the martyr, and Molly Pitcher, the heroine of Monmouth.
 Next, remembrance for Hull, Brainbridge and Decatur and the Constitution and United States—they beat the "Mistress of the Seas" at her own game, put the American navy on the Seven Seas and kept the Flag flying. The War of 1812 was won on the ocean. And don't forget Jackson at New Orleans—he won for the United States the mouth of the Mississippi. None of the 1812 heroes is now alive; 49 of their widows still live.
 In 1846 once more the bugle blares and the drum beats—this time against Mexico. Have a thought for Scott and Taylor—and Kearney and the heroes who fought their way from Vera Cruz to Chapultepec. Of these heroes 73 still live. All honor to them!

The foe himself recoiled aghast,
 When, striking where he strongest lay,
 We swooped his flanking batteries past,
 And braving full their murderous blast,
 Stormed home the towers of Monterey.
 We were not many—we who pressed
 But who of us have not confessed
 Beside the brave who fell that day;
 He'd rather share their warrior rest,
 Than not have been at Monterey?
 And then came real fighting—American against American! Christendom stood astounded at the vigor of the struggle and the spirit of the combatants. But that is over now.
 No more shall the war cry sever,
 Or the winding rivers be red;
 They banish our anger forever
 When they laurel the graves of our dead:
 Under the sod and the dew,
 "Waiting the judgment day,"
 Love and tears for the Blue,
 Tears and love for the Gray.
 A statue of Stonewall Jackson was recently unveiled at Charlottesville, Va. Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi, the orator of the day, said in part:
 "A nation torn by fratricidal strife, when reunited, is, like welded iron, given increased strength and durability."
 "From the gulf that separated the sections in sixty-one has come an understanding making for the progress of each and the common welfare of both. This could not have been but for the courage, conviction, and ideals of a whole people."
 "The sharp battles revealed in its leaders military genius unsurpassed, and in its men and women courage and fortitude that reflected credit on both sections and left a priceless legacy to a great and united country.

 "The men who filled the ranks of the northern armies were prompted by a conception of duty no greater than those who fought under the Stars and Bars. Glorious victories or crushing defeats dim not the bravery and sacrifice of either. When we view those four years of titanic struggle in the light of the present day, either through northern or southern eyes, there is so much glory reflected from both that each merits the greatest praise and has won imperishable renown. It has been the record of these gallant heroes that has inspired and led our sons to victory in every war in which this country has since engaged.
 "At San Juan Hill the boys from the South, under Wheeler, charged with those from the North under Roosevelt. On the cactus plains of Mexico the lads in khaki from Virginia marched by the side of those from Vermont. At Belleau Wood, Chateau-Thierry, and Argonne, when civilization trembled in the scales the brave boys from every part of this land, under the folds of the Stars and Stripes and to the tunes of "Dixie" and "Yankee Doodle Dandy," followed Pershing for humanity and their country. And today, it matters not in which war they were engaged, the names of northern and southern heroes illumine the pages of history and are enshrined in the hearts of a common country.
 The Blue and the Gray,
 In fierce array,
 No local hates disserve,
 Strike hands once more
 From shore to shore,
 The North and South forever.
 "The stirring sentiment that prompted a few weeks ago those brave marines encamped on the historic fields of the Battle of the Wilderness, who discovered the little graveyard covered with weeds and briars, with inclosure down, in which, among unmarked graves, was buried the arm of that gallant hero to whom we today pay tribute, in inspiring. These boys from every part of the country wearing the uniform of the American fighting man, sworn to defend the Flag of a common country, and ready to give their lives for its protection, went immediately to work, cleared the graves, resurrected the fence, and clothed the surroundings with an air of attention and care. It was the American spirit, the spirit of the present-day American soldier, whose heart was thrilled, whose soul was touched, and whose patriotism was aroused when he saw that in this modest way he could pay tribute even to the arm of as true a soldier and as daring a leader as ever marched to the tune of martial airs."
 The Spanish-American war, though a little war in comparison with the Civil war and the World war, was an important war. It was won by volunteers. It was marked by valor and efficiency on land and sea—at Las Guasimas, San Juan Hill and El Caney, at Santiago and at Manila Bay. It hastened the day for complete reconciliation between the North and the South. It gave us a realization of our vast resources and man power, and it made us a World Power over night.
 And surely we can Fourth-of-July over the record of our fighting men in the World war. No need to call the roll of heroes, either; or to ask "who won the war?"
 Oh, the English and the Irish, and the 'owlin' Scotlains, too,
 The Canucks and Austrillee-uns, and the 'airy French polin;
 The only things that bothered us, a year before we knew,
 Was 'ow in 'ell the Yanks'd look, an' wot in 'ell they'd do.
 My word it 'appened sudden w'en the drive 'ad first begun,
 We seen the Yanks a-runnin'—Gaw Blimy, how they run!
 But the only thing that bothered us that seen the chase begin
 Was 'ow in 'ell to stop 'em 'fore they got into Berlin.

TALK NEARLY THREE HOURS

Senate Committee on Labor to Initiate an Independent Move to End Coal Mine Tieup if Parley Fails.

Washington, June 28.—President Harding, Secretary of Labor Davis and President Lewis of the United Mine Workers, conferred at the White House for nearly three hours on ways and means of bringing about a national conference of operators and miners to end the coal strike.
 The next move planned is to bring a representative group of operators to the White House within a few days. They will present their side to the President as Lewis did and out of the two conferences the President will find a basis on which to call a national meeting of the belligerents.
 Regardless of the outcome of Secretary Davis' effort to bring the operators and the miners into a joint conference under administration auspices, the senate committee on labor will initiate an independent movement to end the strike should the proposed parley fail of a definite result.
 Both branches of the government realize that the three months' deadlock must be broken if the public is not to suffer acutely from a tied-up industry and a coal shortage.
 Secretary of Commerce Hoover came to the White House immediately after the conference ended. He met Lewis accidentally outside the executive offices, and though warm correspondence has passed between them on the subject of the strike, the cabinet member and the strike leader smiled and shook hands.
 Secretary Hoover remained with the President for half an hour and declined afterward to make any statement, but it was understood that his visit had to do with bringing the operators to Washington.
 Secretary Davis made no formal statement, saying that Lewis' statement covered the ground, but he said that unless a settlement were made soon developments "might take a peculiar turn." He refused to amplify this cryptic remark, but it was taken to mean that the government considered putting through a form of government control of the industry.
 President Lewis stood pat on his determination to engage in no district conferences with the operators, declaring that the organized miners will negotiate only with a representative tonnage from the central competitive field, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois. He made no comment on the rioting in the latter state. Mr. Lewis said:
 "We discussed the problem over development of the mining industry with its excess number of mines and the excess number of miners employed, the intermittency and the inadequacy of employment and the various questions affecting a possible stabilization of the bituminous industry, with relation to the present strike.
 "We considered a possible national conference of operators and miners and the merits of distinct joint conferences as related to the usually followed procedure of central competitive field conferences, or a national representative conference based on a representative tonnage.
 "No definite plan was decided upon. The strike situation is not changed. There has been no change in my attitude or in the attitude of the organized miners in reference to the district conference. So far as the United Mine Workers are concerned the deadlock continues.
 "I may say that I explained to the President the utter futility of district conferences. More than two decades of collective bargaining have shown that the operators in the central competitive field will not make agreements which may change their status in relation to competitors in other fields."

 Had Martha Beat.
 Capt. Ed Thomas of Terre Haute was drilling his prize K. of P. drill team in the open air other evening when several visitors arrived and watched the proceedings. Among them were an old countryman and his wife. As the captain shouted "Left face—right face—three steps forward, march—backward, march," etc., the farmer watched him in amazement.
 Finally he turned to his wife: "There's a fellow, Martha," he said, "who can beat you changing your mind."—Indianapolis News.

AN EXAMPLE OF GOODYEAR VALUE

The 30 x 3 1/2 Goodyear Cross Rib Tire shown here alongside its companion, the 30 x 3 1/2 Goodyear All-Weather Tread Clincher, is a conspicuous example of Goodyear value.
 The Goodyear Cross Rib has in it the same high grade Egyptian cotton fabric that goes into the All-Weather Tread Goodyear.
 It has a differently designed but long-wearing tread, and it sells for considerably less money.
 In the past five years more than 5,000,000 of these Goodyear Cross Rib Tires have been sold.
 They have everywhere given remarkable service.
 Their fine performance and known value have convinced thousands of motorists of the folly of buying unknown and unguaranteed tires of lower price.
 Ask your Goodyear Service Station Dealer to explain their advantages.

YOUNG BOYS EXPERT JOCKEYS

Mongolian Youths at Home in the Saddle at an Astonishingly Tender Age.

If a daring traveler braves the dangers of a trip into Mongolia he is fascinated by the natives at the time of their summer festivals. Then every Mongolian family puts on its best bibs and tuckers and goes to the fair, much in the same way the people in our own country sections go to the county fair. However, at the Mongolian county fair one does not "hit the baby" and get a five-cent cigar, or throw rings at cunes to obtain a prize, but one does see horse races.

Instead of sitting in a grand stand and watching the entire race, as you do here, you see only the start or finish. For the races in Mongolia are 30 miles long.

The Mongolians are great horsemen, and learn to ride at a very early age. Their lives are spent with and on horses. The women ride as well as the men, and by the time a boy has reached the age of ten he is an expert horseman. In fact, the jockeys are ten-year-old boys.

These little fellows are mounted on the very fast Mongolian ponies, without saddles. Their only trappings are a bridle, a whip and a handkerchief.

They start on their wild ride over the steppes with the courage and spirit of men, whipping their horses fiercely, but often reaching over kindly to wipe the dust from the eyes and nostrils of their ponies.

GREAT SOUTH AMERICAN HERO

Memory of Simon Bolivar Worthily Honored by the Nations He Served So Well.

Simon Bolivar lived during that period in the history of mankind when political revolution was the order of the day. He was born in Caracas, Venezuela, July 24, 1783. The American War of Independence had just then come to an end, and while visiting Paris Bolivar had an opportunity to witness the closing scenes of the French Revolution. By this time the Spanish colonies in South America were beginning to make their various struggles for political independence, and when Bolivar returned to his native land he soon found himself allied with the agitators who were struggling to free their country from the domination of Spain. He rapidly rose to a position of great prominence, both as a statesman and a soldier, and he was again and again appointed as dictator until such time as political independence would be assured. He achieved the political independence of three states: Colombia (in 1819), composed of Colombia, Venezuela and Ecuador (from which the last two withdrew in 1830); Peru (1824); and Bolivia, named after Bolivar (1825). When he died, December 17, 1830, he did not have any public money in his possession, although he had had complete control of the treasures of these republics.

Animal Folklore From India.

Chaucer and "Uncle Remus" obtained inspiration for their stories from the same source—India—according to a theory advanced by Prof. J. M. McBryde of Tulane university. Professor McBryde says the stories probably came from India, on the one hand to England by the way of the Crusaders, forming part of the great wave of animal folklore which spread over Europe, and on the other hand, through Buddhist missionaries, into Africa, whence they were brought by the negroes to Southern plantation homes. Stories of the fox outwitting the wolf in the well episode as told by an English poet a century before Chaucer, and by "Uncle Remus" to "the little boys," both paralleling an ancient tale of India, and the "tin baby" theme of one of the tales of Buddha's 550 transigrations, are among those cited by Professor McBryde to prove his point.

Good American Word.

Despite its Latin appearance, the word "zealous" never saw Rome in the person of a Latin ancestor. The term is a memorial of the Revolt: rionary war, and first saw the light in Boston. In a dispute with some British soldiers, the ropemakers and talkers hotly denounced the British government at a public meeting, such meetings of protest, expressing open disloyalty to the Crown, came to be humorously characterized by the Tories as "talkers' meetings." From that term of contempt the transition of the word to its use in its present form as a part of our basic electoral machinery was short. It became firmly imbedded in the American language as distinct in several minor details from the language spoken in England.—Detroit News.

The Trial of a Lawyer.

A successful Chautauqua lecturer, a prominent attorney in his own city, has for years entertained large audiences with his lecture, "The Trial of Jesus From a Lawyer's Standpoint." Recently he listened to the following diverting introduction from the lips of a platform manager:

"I am very glad to introduce to you, ladies and gentlemen, Mr. B. who will now entertain us with his celebrated lecture, 'The Trial of Jesus From a Lawyer's Standpoint.' I can only imagine one lecture which might prove more interesting to this audience than the one announced. That would be 'The Trial of a Lawyer From Jesus' Standpoint.'"—Everybody's Magazine.

RENOWNED AS GREAT RULER

Roman Emperor, Trajan, Spread the Boundaries of the Empire and Governed Justly at Home.

The Roman emperor, Trajan, whose full name was Marcus Ulpius Trajanus, was born about the year 56 at Italica in Spain, which was then a Roman province. He was trained for a military career and gained distinction in the Parthian and German campaigns, and after holding two civil offices was adopted by the Emperor Nerva, whom he succeeded on the imperial throne in the year 98. The greater part of his time as emperor was spent in the field commanding his troops. His first campaign was carried on beyond the Danube against the Dacians, whom he conquered after a long struggle. In the conquered country he planted a Roman colony, and the descendants of those colonists are the Roumanians of today. Trajan's next war was carried on in the East. He made Armenia and Mesopotamia into Roman provinces, but suffered defeat at Ctesiphon, not far from Kut-el-Amara, where a British force was cut off and compelled to surrender during the World war. In his rear the Jews of Cyrus and Cyrene rose in revolt and made fearful massacres, and disorders also arose in the West. Trajan returned to the coast and took ship for Italy. His health was broken and while on the journey he died at Selinus in Sicilia, Asia Minor, in August, 117. Trajan found time to accomplish much in the internal improvement of the empire. He beautified Rome; he constructed canals, great military roads, and harbors, and built up towns. Law was enforced and justice fairly administered.

FISH MISTAKEN FOR VESSEL

Peculiar Appearance of Swordfish Gave Rise to Many Strange Stories Concerning It.

In the warm waters of the Indian ocean there lives a strange mariner, who is the cause of many tales among the natives of the nearby coasts. They tell of a wonderful sail often seen in the calm seasons, when not a breath disturbs the water, and the sea rises and falls like an immense sheet of glass. Suddenly a sail appears, apparently driven along by a mighty wind. This sail glimmers with rich purple and golden hues. On it comes, quivering and sparkling as if covered with gems; then, suddenly, it disappears as quickly as it came! Many travelers have listened with unbelief to this strange tale, until, one day, this beautiful craft passed directly under the stern of a passing vessel, and it was seen to be a gigantic swordfish which is now known as the "sailor-fish." The sail was really an enormously developed dorsal fin, over 10 feet high, and richly colored with blue and iridescent tints. As the fish swam along near the surface of the water this great fin waved to and fro, so that from a distance it was easily mistaken for a sail.

Father of Three Kings.

Charles Bonaparte, father of the great Emperor Napoleon, was a humble lawyer, with no very extensive practice, in the sleepy little town of Ajaccio, in the isle of Corsica. He seems to have been a most affectionate and exemplary parent, and as the father of three sons who became kings (Joseph, king of Naples and Spain; Louis, king of Holland, and Jerome, king of Westphalia), and a fourth, who became the greatest military commander, monarch and king-maker of modern times, he holds a unique place in history.

There were thirteen children in the family, Napoleon being the second. Charles Bonaparte, although hardly well-to-do, strove to give his sons the best possible education, and had he not decided to send Napoleon (then aged ten) to the military school at Brienne, the whole course of the world's history might have been changed.

Word "Lot" of Puritan Origin.

The use of the word "lot" to designate a field or plot of land, is universal in the United States. It had its origin among the Puritans, and was the product of their strict adherence to Biblical customs.

Among the early settlers of New England the extensive salt-marshes from which the salt-hay was cut, were owned in common, every man helping himself to as much hay as he wished. As the population increased this condition could not prevail with general harmony, and it was agreed to divide the marshes equally among all the families. This was done by the Biblical fashion of lot and the portion which fell to each man was known as "his lot." In a short time the word came to apply to any piece of land, and finally reached the meaning of any great quantity.

Survival of Old Roman Custom.

The custom of appointing prominent citizens to act as a guard of honor at a great man's funeral is the survival of an ancient Roman custom. The name "pallbearers" also descends from the old days in the "City of the Seven Hills."

"Fall" comes from the Latin word "palla," the long sweeping robes worn only by priests and men and women of the highest standing. When a great personage died his "palla" was thrown over his coffin and a number of his distinguished friends were permitted to "bear the palla" to the grave and to act as guard of honor to the dead.

PUT BIBLE ABOVE ALL ELSE

Writer's Poetic Description of King David's Love of the Scriptures of His Day.

In the days of King David the Bible was a scanty book; yet he loved it well, and found daily wonders in it. Genesis, with its sublime narration of how God made the worlds, with its glimpses of patriarchal piety, and dark disclosures of gigantic sin; Exodus, with its glorious marchings through that great wilderness, its thrilling memorials of Jehovah's outstretched arm, and the volume of the written law; Leviticus, through whose flickering vistas David's eye discerned the shadows of better things to come; Numbers, with its natural history of the heart of man; Deuteronomy, with its vindication of the ways of God; Joshua and Judges, with their chapters of providence, their stirring incidents, and peaceful episodes; the memoir of Job, so fraught with spiritual experience; and the domestic annals of Ruth, which told to her grandson such a tale of divine foreknowledge and love and care, all converging on himself, or rather on David's son and David's Lord; these were David's Bible, and he desired it beyond all his riches.

But you have yet an ample Bible—a Bible with psalms and prophets in it—a Bible with gospels and epistles.—James Hamilton.

UNPLEASANT LADY TO MEET

In Greek Mythology, Mere Sight of Medusa Turned the Beholder Into Stone.

The Gorgons were three monstrous females who figure to some extent in Greek mythology, particularly the Gorgon Medusa, who was slain by the great hero Perseus. She was originally a beautiful girl whose hair was her principal charm, but she dared to vie in beauty with Minerva, and the resentful goddess changed her form in revenge. She had enormous swine-like teeth, sharp claws and, instead of hair, a head of live serpents. Her aspect was so frightful that the sight of her turned beholders to stone, and her cave was surrounded by the petrified forms of men and animals which had chanced to catch sight of her.

Perseus was sent to destroy her by King Polydectes of Seriphus. As he enjoyed the favor of Minerva and Mercury, these two deities aided him in his enterprise, Minerva lending him her shield and Mercury his winged sandals. He approached the Gorgon while she slept and, taking care not to look directly at her, but guided by her image reflected in the polished shield, cut off her head and gave it to Minerva.

Eskimo Ivory Carving.

One of the most widely followed professions in the Far North is that of the ivory carver, and it is not only an industry but a pastime as well, filling many of the long evenings of the lengthy Arctic winter. The Eskimos have never attained the perfection of the Chinese artisans, due partly to the greater crudity of their methods and partly to the fact that they use the ivory of the walrus instead of that of the elephant, but some of their products show nevertheless a great measure of artistry.

The stock articles which the Eskimos manufacture are beads, cribbage boards, napkin rings, and crochet needles. They are made, usually, from the outer portion of the walrus tusk, as the interior is a bony substance, mottled in appearance. The most prized articles are furnished from walrus ivory dug up from where it has lain for ages and become semi-fossilized.

Kerasund, City of Romance.

Kerasund (in Anatolia on the Black sea) is known as the loveliest city on the Turkish side of the Black sea. No one knows how ancient it is. The Greeks say that the name means "Land of Cherries," and that the Emperor Calligula sent here all the way from Rome to get cherries for his dainties.

On a tiny island near the shore there is a ruined castle where one of the daughters of King Midrdates was imprisoned for displeasing her royal parent. And there is a pile of stones that is said to have been an altar erected to Mars, who once visited the island. Jason, according to legend, rested there, too, when he was going through this country in search of the golden fleece.

"He Bibles" in Demand.

When the first English Bible was being published, after the King James translation in 1611, a typographical error crept into a verse of the third chapter of Ruth, verse 15, so that it read, "and he went into the city." Quite a number of copies of the ponderous volume had been issued before the error was discovered and the missing "s" prefixed to make "he" into "she." Comparatively few of the first edition Bibles are now in existence, for most of them were chained in the churches and literally read to shreds. Of those that are left, the "he Bibles" are naturally in greatest demand by collectors, says the Detroit News.

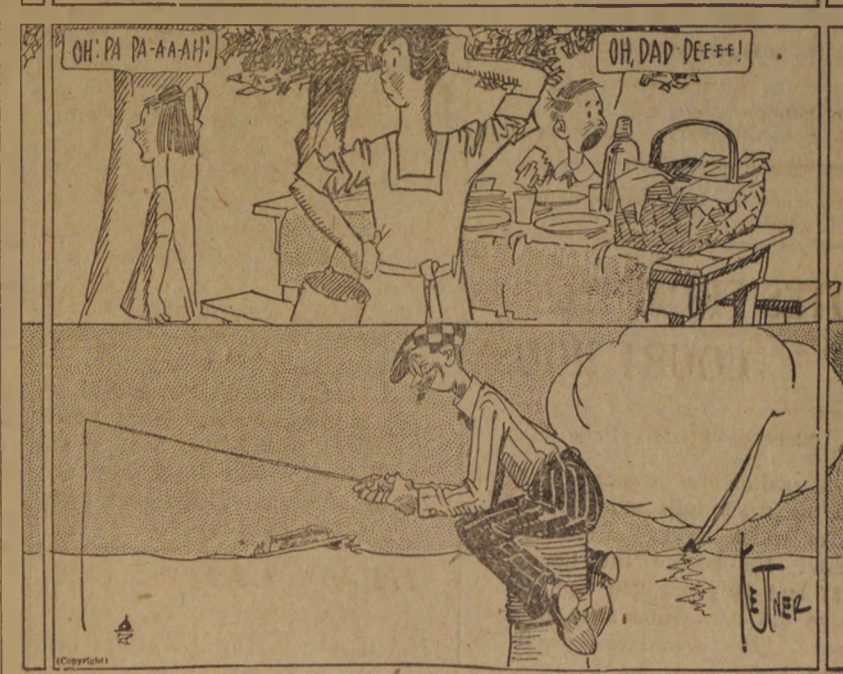

Different Line of Thought.

"Why don't we have grand orations such as the old-time statesmen used to make?" "I am afraid," replied Senator Sorghum, "that conditions don't favor eloquence in governmental affairs. What the people are interested in are facts and figures. Arithmetic has taken the place of rhetoric."

Nature Note.
There never was an elephant that didn't look as though he ought to have his pants pressed.

ing 23 gallons of moonshine liquor from his truck into another, for the sale of which he had arranged previously. He bought the liquor for $6, $7 and $8 per gallon and was to receive $15 per gallon from his purchasers. The containers consisting of two large jugs and a large keg filled with the liquor which was seized were also introduced as exhibits. The defendant then presented his defense and sought to throw the blame on others but in this he was unsuccessful. The jury after the closing arguments was instructed by the court and after a few hours deliberation returned a verdict finding the defendant guilty of selling and transporting intoxicating liquor, and that he had been previously convicted of the same offense.

Paeyovich was indicted by the 1921 October Grand jury for a like offense and he was at that time fined and placed on probation for a year. He is a married man and has a family and it was thought this would be a lesson for him, however, he failed to make good and soon was back at the same business.

His present conviction is rather serious for him as the punishment for a second offense is imprisonment in the penitentiary for not less than one nor more than two years.

A motion for a new trial which will be disposed of on June 28 was made.

Joseph Ernest Miller, 38 years old and married, a resident of Burlington, Iowa, was brought up for preliminary hearing before Justice of the Peace Sell, on charges of larceny and at the conclusion of the hearing was bound over to the October Grand jury under $1500 bail. It is charged that on June 10, 1922 the defendant arrived in the city of DeKalb and the next day secured employment in the Steel and Wire Factory. He told the men who hired him that he did not have any money to pay his board so the Wire Co. employment bureau secured him a place to board at the home of Mrs. Burke in DeKalb. He was to start to work on Tuesday morning. He slept on Monday night at the home of Mrs. Burke in a room with Mike Donlin and in the morning had his breakfast there and was given lunch to take with him. However, he did not go to work at all but beat it out of town. Shortly on Tuesday morning after he left, Donlin discovered that $15.00 in money had been taken from his trousers during the night and search was at once instituted for Miller. Sheriff Decker advised the authorities at Burlington to be on the look-out for the man and he was arrested there and brought back. On the hearing he denied his guilt and maintained that he became discouraged after hearing that there was some trouble at the factory and decided to go back home. It appeared at the hearing that Miller for the past six months has been beating his way around the country and although he has had plenty of opportunities in securing positions he did not want to work, although his family needs the help. From his demeanor in the court room it was readily seen that he was no novice in court procedure.

Tom Striglos against whom a judgment for $2475 was obtained by Shane Bros. & Wilson, before a jury in the Circuit court on Tuesday prayed an appeal to the Appellate court which was allowed on his filing bond in the sum of $3000 within thirty days and a bill of exceptions within sixty days.

Reached His Destination.
The steep stairway called "Break-neck Steps," connecting the upper and lower towns of Quebec, has been the scene, according to old inhabitants, of incidents both tragic and ludicrous. One approaches this stairway (even with its twentieth century improvements) in tight-lipped apprehension, writes a recent visitor to the French-Canadian city. But in the old days, at the height of its dangerous career, to reach the bottom without accident was an achievement.

The tale is still being told of the gentleman who tripped on the second step, fell, but slid to safety, bearing on his back a lady, who at his tripping had also tripped and in her plight clutched the gentleman's knotted tippet. At the bottom of the stairway the gentleman politely doffed his hat and said:

"Pardon me, madame, but this is as far as I go!"

Peculiar Indian Custom.
It is an inviolable covenant within the Navajo Indian nation that after the marriage a son-in-law must never set eyes on his mother-in-law, and vice versa, a mother-in-law must never see her son-in-law. The daughters-in-law are not mentioned.

According to Navajo traditions, a Navajo girl is considered the property of her parents until she marries. Prior to her marriage a contract is made between the father of the girl and the destined bridegroom. When a Navajo woman marries she becomes free and may leave her husband for sufficient cause. A warrior of one clan must marry a maiden of one of the 51 others, and vice versa. The descent of the clans is passed along by the female line.

The True Poem.
Some people imagine that any fine thought is poetry, but there was never a greater mistake. A fine thought, to become poetry, must be seasoned in the upper warm garrets of the mind for long and long, then it must be brought down and slowly carved into words, polished with love. Else it is no true poem.—David Grayson.

Little Banking Stories

Your Neighbor's Wife

YOUR NEIGHBOR calls his wife the "General Manager of his home."

But that does not mean that she is the Boss or that he is Hen-pecked—far from it. It is simply a part of an attractive plan they have adopted.

Every week he gives her a certain sum of money to be used for home expenses. She keeps this money in a checking account and pays it out as she thinks best for the things needed in the home.

That mother enjoys planning the home expenses—and she also enjoys the extra pleasures for herself and the whole family that are made possible by her good management.

Do you have a general manager in your home?

MODERN DEBT TO THE PAST

Present-Day Civilization Apt to Forget Whence Came Much of Art and Literature.

So accustomed are we to our own art and civilization that we scarcely realize how varied are the sources from which they sprang. We acknowledge a great debt to Rome. But do we often remember that our alphabet goes back at least to the Egyptians? Do we appreciate the meaning of the fact that nearly half the words we use have a Latin derivation? That we owe our numerals to the Arabs?

In our literature, what is the debt of the Elizabethans to Theocritus, who first sang that pastoral life in turn learned from the Italians? Through all our lives run strange threads of the past, but we are too accustomed to them even to recognize them as strange and thrilling, too. Often influences work in the most unexpected ways. To take a recent and unexpected example, one may quote the color prints, especially those of C. M. Hokusai, and Hiroshige, artists of the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries, who have been a deep influence upon the use of line and the composition of the modern European poster school. The simplification of lines (all only those essential to the central idea remain, was a heritage to the school of color prints from earlier artists.—Elizabeth J. Coatsworth, in the North American Review.

"MARRIED TO THE ADRIATIC"

Pictureque Ceremony That Was Held of Great Importance in Old Venetian Days.

A picturesque ceremony performed annually in Venice in the time of the doges was the "Marriage of the Adriatic," a rite symbolizing the dominion of the city over the neighboring sea. It was instituted in 1177 to commemorate a great naval victory by the Venetians over Frederick Barbarossa, it is recorded. Pope Alexander III in this year presented a ring to the doge of that day, and ordered his successors, every Ascension day, to cast a similar ring into the Adriatic, promising that the bride so espoused should be as dutiful as a wife to her husband. The first ceremony was performed on Ascension day of that year.

The doge and his suite, accompanied by many citizens, proceeded to the island of Lido, in the Adriatic. Arriving there the doge first poured holy water into the sea and then, taking the ring from his finger, dropped it into the ocean, saying: "We espouse thee, a sea, in token of our just and perpetual dominion." Solemn high mass was then celebrated, and the ceremonies concluded with a great feast.

Philosophy a Gratifying Indulgence.

The second great discovery of the Greek thinkers was metaphysics. Nowadays metaphysics is revered by some as our noblest effort to reach the highest truth, and scorned by others as the silliest of wild goose chases. I am inclined to rate it, like smoking, as a highly gratifying indulgence to those who like it, and as indulgences go, relatively innocent.—Prof. J. H. Robinson in "Mind in the Making."

Two Varieties of Hard Luck.
 There's two kinds of people always in hard luck; them th't did it, but never thought; and them th't thought, but never did it.—Josh Wise.

How did your neighbor's last bargain tire turn out

PROBABLY you know at least one car-owner who is always on the look-out for the cheapest tires he can find. He likes to get them by mail or at a sale or at some place where they have big red bargain signs over the door.

It would be fine if he could get "the edge" in every tire trade.

But the dealer can't afford to let him have it.

Even if a man saw any slight percentage in tire shopping at all—it disappeared when the "Usco" brought the price down.

A standard product—and the dealer sells it with pride.
 A good tire. The dealer has no desire to trade you into a larger profit for himself.

An out-in-the-open tire. The dealer sells you confidence, not price. He wants you satisfied with performance and value. The only way he knows to get your business is to deserve it.

This is the "Usco" idea.

Compared with the ten-minute thrill of the bargain appeal, the "Usco" is just plain commonsense.
