JUDICIAL PRIMARY

RESULTS IN NOMINATION OF THREE PRESENT JUDGES

CARNES, SLUSSER, WILLIS

Friends of the Judges Rally to their Support in all Four Counties of Circuit—Good Vote

The vote cast on Tuesday at the judicial primary election was larger than the interested ones could have hoped for, and the direct result of the unusual turnout was the emphatic nomination of the three present judges, Duane J. Carnes, Mazzini Slusser and Henry B. Willis. The victory of the above named candidates was sweeping in its extent, even Kane county, where Raymond and Aldrich reside, giving them a substantial majority.

The following table shows the results in Elgin, Aurora, DeKalb, and Genoa:

	Genoa	DeKalb	Elgin	Aurora
Carnes	213	1058	3531	488
Willis	187	939	3162	624
Slusser	186	983	2892	591
Raymond	35	185	344	148
Aldrich	31	225	253	162

BUTTER MARKET FIRM

Price Unchanged from Last Week by Quotation Committee

No change was noted in dairying conditions during the past week and the board of trade quoted last week's price—28 cents firm.

President John Newman presided at the session of the board for the first time in several weeks Monday. New members of the quotation committee were elected as follows:

Joseph Newman to succeed himself.

S. Edward Davis, to succeed William McCredie, resigned.

Former quotations of the board are:

- April 5, '09, 28 cents.
- April 13, '08, 29 cents.
- April 15, '07, 30 cents.
- April 16, '06, 21 cents.

The output from the Elgin district during the past week was 458,200 pounds. Eastern receipts were 4879 tubs. The eastern market was reported steady at 27 cents on extras and 28 cents on specials.

CONSTRUCTION WORK BEGINS

On the Marengo-Harvard Electric Line—Will Open July 1

Construction work on the Marengo, Lake Geneva and Northern railroad, a branch of the Elgin and Belvidere, is again under way and Hamilton Browne, president of the latter company, says he plans on opening the new branch, on, or before July 1st.

The construction work was started last fall. The undertaking was a remarkable matter when the condition of the money market is taken into consideration.

The intention of Mr. Browne and the others interested in the Belvidere company is to give Elgin direct connection with Milwaukee and other Wisconsin cities and towns.

Woodstock-Sycamore Electric

The Woodstock and Sycamore Traction company are advertising extensively in Chicago papers their seven per cent preferred stock which they offer with a bonus of two shares of common stock with each $100 invested. They state that work is now going on and that 15 miles of grading is completed, ready for the ties and rails, and that 14 carloads of ties and rails were received and unloaded at Genoa the past week. The company's headquarters is at 711 Tacoma Building, Chicago.

At the conclusion of the war Brother Ross returned to his old home and has lived in Genoa and vicinity during the greater part of his life.

Last year on account of old age and infirmity he was obliged to leave Genoa and make his home with his old comrades in the Soldiers' Home, Danville, Ill.

Brother and Comrade Ross was a man well known and greatly respected by a large circle of friends and acquaintances and was a man that fought his way honestly and uprightly through life. He was a faithful member of the Free Methodist church for a number of years and when able was a regular attendant at the M. E. church in Genoa. Many friends including his comrades in the Grand Army will miss the familiar face of Brother Ross but in our mourning it is comforting to know he has joined the great army beyond and when the bugle sounds and the roll is called up yonder we shall meet Brother Ross in that land where there is no suffering, no death, and where every tear is wiped away.

Deceased was married twice, both wives having preceded him to their eternal reward. The only surviving relative is a niece living in Iowa.

Every body remembers the delightful moving picture shows given April 3 and 4 1908, by J. Har. Basel. He comes again April 22, 23, 24 with his own electric light plant, new machines and new films. Why cross the ocean when you can go to the opera house and view the interesting countries of Europe and forget your troubles in the delightful comedy?

AN OLD SOLDIER GONE

REMAINS LAID TO REST IN GENOA LAST FRIDAY

A. B. ROSS WAS LIEUTENANT

Enlisted as Private in 1861 and Received His Honorable Discharge in 1865—Resided in Genoa Many Years

Alexander B. Ross died at the Soldiers' Home at Danville, Ill., on Tuesday, April 6 Funeral services were held at the M. E. church in this city on Friday afternoon, April 9, conducted by the pastor, Rev. J. T. McMullen. Members of the local Grand Army post and several Sons of Veterans attended in a body, the following Sons of Veterans acting as pall bearers: G. J. Patterson, J. L. Patterson, W. W. Cooper, C. D. Schoonmaker, Edgar Baldwin and Ed. Pierce. The remains were laid to rest in Genoa cemetery.

The following obituary was read by the pastor at the services: Alexander B. Ross was born at Meadville, Crawford county, Pa., in the year 1831, and passed away April 5, 1909, at the age of 78 years.

About the year 1847 he came west and made his home with Joseph Patterson in South Riley, McHenry county, Ill. At the call of his country Brother Ross like many of his fellow-countrymen went forth to war in defense of the Union. He enlisted as private September 16, 1861, in the 52nd Illinois Infantry, and was discharged as first lieutenant on July 6, 1865, having served three years and two months.

At the conclusion of the war Brother Ross returned to his old home and has lived in Genoa and vicinity during the greater part of his life. Last year on account of old age and infirmity he was obliged to leave Genoa and make his home with his old comrades in the Soldiers' Home, Danville, Ill.

KINGSTON WILL HAVE PARK

Citizens of The Township Vote to Bond the Town for $2,000

True Republican:—The honor and distinction of being the first to vote to save from the despoilers the natural beauty of wood and stream in DeKalb county has been gained by the voters of Kingston township.

At their election last Tuesday it was voted to issue $2,000 bonds for the purpose of procuring and improving ten acres of land, known as the Stuart Grove, to be set apart and forever maintained for the free use of the public.

This tract is one of the most beautiful spots in this rich and beautiful, but rather monotonous county. The farmers' picnic has been held here for several years. The tract lies only a block or two north of Kingston village, west of the highway and on the banks of the south fork of the Kishwaukee river which at this point attains considerable size. The land now belongs to E. Mulford.

This is the first action taken by the voters of DeKalb county under a law enacted in 1907, which authorizes the purchase of land for a park. For the purpose of providing a fund for the maintenance of such parks the township authorities are authorized to levy annual taxes not exceeding one mill on each dollar.

It is believed this law will do much to save beautiful spots, and will conduce to the health and happiness of the people now and for all time.

THEY PAY COSTS

Twenty-six of Elgin's Saloon Keepers Escape a Fine

The cases of the twenty-six saloon keepers arrested last Tuesday for technical violation of the city ordinance governing the sale of liquor in the city of Elgin were quietly settled in Police Magistrate Becker's office Saturday morning upon payment of the costs in each case. The fines were omitted.

The cases were disposed of in this way upon recommendation of Chief of Police Younger, the complaining witness, who stated that he felt that there had been a misunderstanding between himself and the saloon keepers regarding how the ordinance was to be construed. The costs assessed in each case amounted to $5.25 and the total aggregated $136.50, which was paid over by a representative of the saloon keepers.

LEG TAKEN OFF

Jerry Coffey Horribly Mangled in Runaway with Disc Pulverizer

A horrible accident occurred on the Mike Dwan farm, near Clare, last Thursday forenoon. Jerry Coffey, who was employed by Mr. Dwan, was driving a team attached to a disc pulverizer, when the horses ran away, Mr. Coffey was thrown beneath the newly-ground discs and the heavy machine passed over him. He was taken as soon as possible to the Sycamore hospital, where the physicians found it necessary to amputate his leg. The operation was performed that evening.

He is very weak, but he is a large strong man, and the prospects are that he will recover. Mr. Coffey is a member of the well-known large family by that name who have been residents of that part of the county for many years. He is about 50 years of age, and is not married—Sycamore Tribune.

The articles of incorporation for the proposed Elgin-Sycamore railroad were filed in the recorder's office at Sycamore last week.

The articles are the same as told about in the Chronicle some days ago but the line of the proposed road is set out in detail and shows quite a network of lines to be built. The articles provide for the erection of the line from Elgin to Sycamore, from Sycamore to DeKalb, from Sycamore to Oregon, from Oregon to Dixon and from Elgin to Aurora. These will probably be erected "in pieces" one stretch being constructed at a time.

Wednesday of last week at noon the barn on the William London farm, about four miles north of Sycamore, occupied by the tenant, Fritz Benson, caught fire and burned to the ground. In the barn were thirteen head of cows, standing in their stanchions, four work horses, about 150 bushels of oats, ten tons of hay, 100 bushels of corn, wagons, buggies, harness and many other articles usually kept in a barn. When the fire was discovered it was already too far along to enable the saving of any of its contents. A high wind was blowing, and the flames gained very rapidly.

Fame Deferred.

John LaFarge, for many years a celebrated mural painter, when he received a medal of honor from the Architectural League of New York, a few weeks ago, accepted it "with some reticence of thanks," as he said in a spirit of pleasantness, as coming rather late. His years of work were almost past, he said, and recognition now was useless "as a help to live, although had it been accorded earlier it would have smoothed a very toilsome road. A few days previous to this presentation, when Mr. W. P. Frith, member of the Royal Academy, attained his ninetieth birthday, it was noted that pictures he had sold in his early days for a hundred dollars afterward brought more than $5,000—of which, of course, he received nothing. Another academician, remarking on this fact, observed that fame sometimes yields little practical benefit to the one who wins it, to his family, or to comrades he would gladly aid. Millet's "Angelus" was sold by the painter for $200, but after Millet became famous it changed hands six times, always at an advance, and was finally bought by an American for $160,000. Yet its value, as a work of art, was fixed when it left the easel. So the academician suggested that in similar cases a percentage of the advanced price should be paid to the artist's heirs, or if there were none, be used by the state to purchase the productions of living painters. Anomalies of the "Angelus" variety are not confined to any class of artists. Authors, composers, inventors and all who exercise creative gifts are subject to the experience shared by the painters, nor is it easy to name a practicable remedy. All the more keenly, it may be said, the Youth's Companion, one feels "the pity of it" that fame, or the rewards of fame, should come too late to help a genius to live; and one wishes that, before expending vast sums for "old masters," prospective purchasers would try to satisfy themselves that no new master is striving—and starving—within easy reach.

An important step toward stopping the waste of the fuel resources of the country has been taken by the United States geological survey in its tests of the coals of the Rocky mountain region at the government plant in Denver, Col. At that plant the purpose has been to determine what coals of this region are capable of making coke that can be used by the great metallurgical interests of the west. Of 37 coals tested, the government experts succeeded in producing good coke from all but three, though a number of these coals had never been known to be capable of making coke. These results, which will prove of much importance to the west in the next few years, were obtained by following out a carefully prepared treatment of the coals. Each of the coals was washed in order to get rid of the ash, sulphur and other impurities which prevent the making of coke that is of any use in metallurgical work. The washing tests not only prepared these coals so that they made good coke, but also demonstrated the fact that many coals of the west which have too much ash and sulphur to be used economically under a steam boiler may be rendered of commercial value through such treatment.

Women of wealth and fashion in New York are now personally lobbying for the support of legislative bills in which they are interested. Whatever may be individual opinion on this departure from established convention there is no doubt conditions are changing and that the period of transition now unmistakably upon us is bound to bring forth results leading to a marked readjustment. Whether that readjustment will be for the better or the worse remains to be seen, but hope is given by the fact that important movements of the present are in the main morally and socially progressive. At least the good sense of the public may be relied upon to check excesses in the way of reforms.

The ancient gold cup from which King Edward drank to the health of the city of Berlin has been engraved with an inscription recording the dates and the circumstances of the reception and placed in the strong room of the Rathaus, to be kept as a memento. Edward VII. was the first foreign ruler who has visited that municipal palace on its own behalf, and this ancient cup is to be treasured as the symbol of a new era in the history of Berlin.

Prof. Hugo Muensterberg says there are not enough bookstores in this country. The professor has probably been trying to find a store with a window display consisting of his works. ## ROOSEVELT ADDS SCRIBE TO ANANIAS CLUB LIST

Paris Correspondent Declares He Got Interview But the Ex-President Says No.

Paris, Apr. 13.—Theodore Roosevelt and a correspondent of Le Journal are engaged in a controversy regarding the veracity of the correspondent. Le Journal sent its representative to Naples to see Mr. Roosevelt and subsequently the paper published a long interview with the former president of the United States which was widely copied.

Upon arrival at Port Said last Friday Mr. Roosevelt sent a cablegram to a Paris newspaper saying that he had given no such interview. This was published together with the assertion of the correspondent that he talked half an hour with Mr. Roosevelt and that the interview as given was strictly accurate.

This denial coming to the eye of Mr. Roosevelt at Suez he has again cabled Paris reiterating his denial and characterizing the interview as "an impudent fabrication without a particle of foundation." He says also that he never saw the correspondent of Le Journal.

The correspondent has replied with a new affirmation of the truth of the interview and declares that he is prepared to bring further proof of his veracity.

HENS BEAT INCUBATORS.

Ancient Institution of the Barnyard Superior to Machine, Declares a Government Report.

Washington, Apr. 14.—Uncle Sam has vindicated the hen. In a bulletin just issued by the department of agriculture, as a result of a careful investigation of the problem of "hens versus incubators," the hen comes off with flying colors. Not only does the hen hatch more eggs out of a given setting, but the resulting chicks are worth more.

Among the details and figures which the department issued as a result of the experiment station test are the following:

"From 879 eggs set, incubators hatched 533 chicks, or 60.6 per cent. "From 279 eggs set, hens hatched 219 chicks, or 78.8 per cent. "Chicks hatched under hens weighed heavier than chicks hatched in incubators.

GIRL WORKS AS A MAN.

Wears Overalls and Assists Father on Highway Contract Because She Likes It.

Waterbury, Conn., Apr. 14.—Annie Bugenorth, the 17-year-old daughter of August Bugenorth, a farmer of Burlington, wears overalls and does a man's work because she likes it. The girl has been helping her father on the farm and wielding a shovel, assisting him on a highway contract. Neighbors complained to the authorities and Bugenorth was arrested. But the daughter promptly announced that she was not being forced to wear men's attire and that she was capable of earning a man's pay.

Consequently her father was released and Annie continues to wear men's clothing. There is a statute in this state prohibiting the wearing of attire of the opposite sex, but no action has been taken. The girl is muscular and tall.

Messages of condolence were received by Mrs. Reeves from Speaker Joseph Cannon, Senator Cullom, former Senator Hopkins, Gov. Deneen and Congressmen Lowden and Fuller.

Washington, Apr. 13.—Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, has arranged for an important labor conference at the White House next Friday afternoon when matters affecting the interests of organized labor will be discussed between President Taft and the members of the executive council of the American Federation of Labor, which began its session yesterday.

Cheapness of Discarded Army Weapons Makes Them Easy to Get—Possibility of Their Use in Riots Prompts Action.

Washington, Apr. 13.—At the request of the Chicago police department and fearing the possibilities of bloody conflicts with armed mobs, the war department of the United States has ordered stopped the sale of obsolete army rifles.

More than 300,000 discarded Springfield rifles of .45 caliber have already been sold by the war department at prices which have netted the government less than one dollar each. These in turn have fallen into the hands of dealers who have sold them at prices ranging down to $1.50.

Chicago Police Protest.

It was because of this cheapness of the weapons that the Chicago police department feared they were falling into the hands of irresponsible and might too easily be used to arm mobs of strikers or anarchists. The Chicago officials took the position that the return which the government received from the sale of the obsolete weapons did not amount to enough to offset the danger which the sale of the rifles might be to the peace and the police of the large cities.

The Chicago department has had costly conflicts with mobs, and the police authorities there declared that for the government to place the army rifles at the disposal of possible trouble makers at such a low price would only put a premium on the shedding of blood. They also feared that anarchists and others might lay in secret supplies to be used when the strikes or other disturbances should furnish opportunity.

The order stopping the sale of these weapons by the department will cost the government about $100,000 a year.

Easy to Get Ammunition.

As soon as the government can obtain sufficient of these new rifles to make up an emergency reserve for war the Krags will be discarded. Were it not for the order, these Krags—the guns which were the standard type of the army in the Spanish-American war—would be placed on public sale. These again would be guns for which ammunition could always be easily secured, and the police feared that it would be too easy for discontented men to secure a generous supply of them.

The argument of the war department officials that there are other cheap firearms on the market which could easily be obtained was answered by the police with the declaration that it was the range and accuracy of the government weapons which made them dangerous. The police believe also that it will be far easier to control local sales of weapons through the ordinary channels of commerce than the government's sales of its army rifles.

Tuberculosis Among Children.

Des Moines, Ia., Apr. 14.—An investigation conducted by the Des Moines Tuberculosis association has resulted in the discovery that six out of every ten children examined are infected with tuberculosis. The majority of the cases are in children, but in many the disease has progressed far. The association is considering establishing a children's tubercular camp this summer.

FRANCE OUSTS CASTRO FROM MARTINIQUE PORT.

Former President of Venezuela Carried from His Bed and Placed Aboard Ship.

Fort de France, Martinique, Apr. 12.—Before being taken aboard the steamer Versailles for deportation to France Saturday night ex-President Castro of Venezuela prepared a written protest against the action of the French government, which has been submitted to the authorities here. It reads:

"I hereby protest against the action of the French authorities of Martinique in having me put by force on board an outgoing vessel. First, because I was ill at the time, and because the act imperiled my life; second, because I have committed no offense against the government of France and the authorities of Martinique during the time that I was permitted to remain on that island, and finally, because the decree of expulsion which orders my deportation out of French territory, compels me to take passage aboard a vessel which will again land me on French territory."

The ex-president said, just before the sailing of the Versailles, that if he was at liberty when he arrived at St. Nazaire he would immediately proceed to Spain in order to take passage for Santa Cruz, Tenerife.

The removal of the former president of Venezuela from the hotel to the steamer was not without its pitiful aspects. Immediately on the announcement by the medical commission, who made a lengthy physical examination of Castro, that he was capable of making the voyage, the commissary of police, with an escort of gendarmes, invaded the hotel and proceeded to his chamber. They found out and that the situation was grave. This message was accepted here as foreshadowing a dangerous upheaval.

Neither the foreign office, the Turkish embassy nor the banks with Constantinople connections had any further information. It is known, however, that the situation has been extremely strained for several weeks past owing to the great bitterness between the Committee of Union and Progress and the liberals. The liberals resent the attempts of the committee to control public affairs.

Murder of Editor is Climax.

The murder of Hassan Pehlivi Efendi, editor of the liberal newspaper Serbesti, on April 7 is thought here to have been the climax of this political feud. The editor was shot and killed by an unknown man as he was entering his office, and a government official accompanying him was wounded. The Serbesti had been carrying on a campaign against the Committee of Union and Progress, in other words, the Young Turks.

Violent demonstrations both inside parliament and in the streets adjacent followed the killing of the editor. The grand vizier and the president of the chamber were obliged to harangue the crowds outside and assure them that justice would be done. The chamber accepted an interpellation denouncing the crime as a political murder and calling upon the government to take the necessary steps to apprehend the assassin.

Girl's Hat Causes a Stir.

Trenton, N. J., Apr. 13.—Miss Roberta Stover, the daughter of one of Trenton's largest manufacturers, created a sensation Sunday by appearing on the fashionable thoroughfares of the city wearing a hat of her own creation. It was a waste paper basket elaborately trimmed with two feather dusters, an ear of corn, a miniature suit case, a squash, a pincushion resembling a strawberry, a clay turkey and a lemon.

TROOPS STORM PARLIAMENT

Kill 17 Persons and Cause Reign of Terror Which Quickly Brings the Sultan to Terms—New Cabinet Being Formed.

Constantinople, Apr. 14.—The troops of the garrison made a violent demonstration yesterday before the parliament building against the Committee of Union and Progress and the government.

They demanded the dismissal of Grand Vizier Hilmi Pasha, the minister of war, and the president of the chamber. The outbreak was caused by an order issued to the troops to the effect that they must obey their officers under all circumstances, even if called upon to shoot down their co-religionists.

The mutineers as the first move seized all the officers of the committee of Union and Progress and held them prisoners. Only a few of the troops refrained from taking part in the demonstration.

The latter, which were chiefly artillerymen and cavalry, are massed at the war ministry. They have orders to fire on any one approaching the building and during the course of the day a number of persons were killed and wounded.

Report Seventeen Are Dead.

Deputy Emir Arslan was killed on his way to the house in mistake for Hussain Jahid. Reports of the killed place the number as high as 17 and the wounded at 30 or more. There is a report current also that the minister of justice, Refik Pasha, has been murdered, that the minister of marine has been wounded. This, however, has not been confirmed.

The cabinet met at the Porte early in the morning and after a long consultation the ministers sent in their resignations to the palace. A new ministry is being formed. The latest rumor is that Tewfik Pasha, who was recently appointed ambassador to Great Britain, will be the new grand vizier, with Edhim Pasha minister of war.

The sultan's principal secretary read to the chamber an irade announcing that his majesty had accepted the cabinet's resignation and that a new ministry was in progress of formation. Measures had been taken, the irade continued to preserve order throughout the country. It announced that the mutinous troops had been pardoned and that they could return to their barracks.

Dangerous Upheaval Ahead.

London, Apr. 14.—The only news to reach London up to today of the situation at Constantinople was contained in a code message which set forth that serious disturbances of a revolutionary character had broken out and that the situation was grave. This message was accepted here as foreshadowing a dangerous upheaval.

Neither the foreign office, the Turkish embassy nor the banks with Constantinople connections had any further information. It is known, however, that the situation has been extremely strained for several weeks past owing to the great bitterness between the Committee of Union and Progress and the liberals. The liberals resent the attempts of the committee to control public affairs.

1,000 HOMELESS IN FIRE.

Rochester, N. Y., Swept by Incendiary Flames Which Cause Damage Estimated at $1,000,000.

Rochester, N. Y., Apr. 14.—Nearly 1,000 persons are homeless to-day as the result of the fire which swept this city yesterday. Soldiers are helping them to protect the few things they saved from the flames.

Swept along in the face of a 25-mile gale, the fire destroyed several sections of the city and did damage estimated at $1,000,000. It is believed the fire is of incendiary origin and the police are investigating.

For a time it was thought that a great portion of the city would be swept, and aid was summoned from Buffalo and Syracuse.

Generously and promptly the out-of-town firemen with apparatus responded, but ere they reached the scene the heroic work of the local department and of volunteers had got the flames under check and their assistance was not required.

PROBABLY HARDEST OF ALL.

Wife's Addition to List of Her Household Duties of Course Was Not Personal.

After dinner the other evening Mr. and Mrs. Brown started to speak of their respective duties, and soon an argument as to whether the husband or the wife had the hardest work to perform was in full swing. First Brown warbled, and then wife sang. "A wife," argued the good lady, "has to cook, wash dishes, clothe the kids, scrub the floors, sweep the house, make the beds, build the fires, carry up coal, nail slats on the back fence, dig—"

"Is that all?" sarcastically interrupted Mr. Brown. "No," was the prompt rejoinder of Mrs. Brown. "In addition to those duties every wife has to keep her husband from making a fool of himself?" —Philadelphia Telegraph.

New Hair Grown by Cuticura.

"About two years ago I was troubled with my head being scaly. Shortly after that I had an attack of typhoid fever and I was out of the hospital possibly two months when I first noticed the loss of hair, my scalp being still scaly. I started to use dandruff cures to no effect whatever. I had actually lost hope of saving any hair at all. I could brush it off my coat by the handful. I was afraid to comb it. But after using two cakes of Cuticura Soap and nearly a box of Cuticura Ointment, the change was surprising. My scalp is now clear and healthy as could be and my hair thickener than ever, whereas I had my mind made up to be bald. W. F. Steese, 5812 Broad St., Pittsburg, Penn., May 7 and 21, 1908."

Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. # A CORNER IN FRAUD

By Chas W. Ellwood

ONE MILLION DOLLARS squeezed from business men of unquestionable standing by means of fraud methods, the strings of which were pulled from every big city of the United States; probably several millions more taken from contributors whose timidity prevented them from coming forth to testify at the Council Bluffs, Ia., trial.

That, as far as is known, is the fruits of one of the most thoroughly equipped swindling organizations which the United States ever knew. The swindlers, captured recently west of the Mississippi river, were brought to book and the whole story came out at the jury investigation which returned indictments and in the developments which followed subsequently.

Established in as handsome a suite of offices as J. Pierpont

CAPTURE OF THE SWINDLERS

Morgan himself might choose, these magnates in fraud lured their victims towards the glitter of "easy money" propositions and then plucked their feathers in such adept manner that often the "Mikes" themselves could not discern the swindle and as a consequence they became victims again.

The heads of the swindle called themselves "millionaires" with money to invest and thus in many instances coupled their money with that of the innocent "sheep" and the latter was fleeced in due time.

Every game known to the underworld was theirs and new ones were invented every month. They had a perfect book-keeping system; they employed agents in every part of the country, these agents paying royalties for the use of certain swindles, they traveled in palace cars and established a clipping bureau for the purpose of manufacturing printed news items about themselves. Agents were numbered, "Mikes" were numbered and the games they used were also known and used in numerical order.

The head of the "fraud trust," when arrested, was residing in a palatial residence in the south with his wife and a cortege of servants about him.

The swindles and the manner in which they were pulled off showed ingenuity worthy of a better cause.

There was no haphazard work in the operations of the syndicate. It was a most carefully managed organization. Its ramifications covered the whole country. A code book with a red cover—a sort of "Who's Who in Grafting"—found in the leader's possession, contained the names and addresses of 306 of the syndicate's willing workers, agents or steers in all the principal cities of the country. Every one of these agents had attached to his name a number. It was his duty to get up jobs or "plays," as the syndicate books called them. It didn't matter what the game, if the agent carried it through to success he got a percentage of the receipts. These agents were not thugs or pluguglies or saloon loafers. They were chosen with particular reference to their education, appearance, manner of dress, ability to associate with gentlemen. This fact is shown by most of the letters captured by the government.

For nearly two years the syndicate had headquarters in New Orleans, later moved to Seattle, then to Council Bluffs and finally went to Little Rock, Ark. During all this time the agents were busy. Wherever an agent was stationed the books show that the syndicate had a "store," a genteel word to take the place of plant or "con game." Men with money were interested in proposed land deals. Horse racing or wrestling were not mentioned. Nothing was hurried. Sometimes it took months to land a victim properly. In one case on record the agent worked for two years and at length "tapped" the "Mike," as the victims are called, for $37,000. In some instances the fraud was so smoothly handled that the "Mike" went back a second time and gave up another $5,000 or $10,000 before he learned that it was loaded.

The syndicate insured itself against "squeal-

The syndicate wasn't losing any time. While the farmer's wife was eating sherbets and lady's fingers, the man, his patriarchal white beard trimmed and brushed as it had not been for years on the home place, was being taken deeply into the innermost confidence of the secretary.

This man knew that the farmer would never have millionaires would bet any sum. After much persuasion I agreed to go to Omaha to see a match—I was due for a vacation anyway—and Stowe said I couldn't lose. A certain A. B. Shores was to wrestle the millionaires' man, who had agreed, Stowe said, to let himself be thrown. I took with me a check for $10,000 to make a showing. The millionaires I met were this Gordon and two others. I told Stowe, in Omaha, that I was 'next' and wouldn't bet my money, but would bet their money for them as I'd been asked to do. I deposited my check in a bank. During the betting the leader,

A FAKED DEATH ON THE MAT.

Gordon, asked me to place a bet of $8,000 or $10,000 on the side. I deferred doing it, however. Shortly afterward George Bennett, the private secretary, told me that his money, which he had hoped to get in Omaha to bet on the match, had not come and that it might be declared off if I wouldn't help. Stowe and Myers and Shores, the wrestler, wept and pleaded with me to help them by putting up the stakes they needed. Finally I consented. The money was to be merely an advance. I got the $10,000 at the bank and gave it to Stowe to hold, as he was the only man I knew well—or thought I did. He gave me this receipt:

Received of.....$10,000 which is not to be bet or hazarded in any manner. (Signed) LOUIS STOWE.

"The wrestling began promptly. Our man, Shores, got the first fall. He was to get the second, too, because the millionaires' man, Gorman, had agreed to give up. But in the second bout Shores fell, and apparently bursting a blood vessel, gave every evidence of dying in great agony.

"Everyone was greatly excited. Gordon wept because of the disgrace attaching to his family in having him present at such a death. In the midst of the excitement, Bennett, the private secretary, rushed up and whispered that he was ruined. He had bet his employers' money—the stakes he held for them—and must now escape to Canada. I was hustled out of the building on the plea that I was a guest and must be protected. One of the millionaires remained with the supposed corpse.

"Stowe professed to be ruined. I lent him enough money to get out of town. He said he was sick, so I gave him my overcoat. They all got away. I was glad to get out of town and into my own state. I never saw any of them again until now—in the Little Rock jail. Stowe never has been caught—nor has my $10,000."

It is interesting that the case which resulted ultimately in the arrest of the swindlers, arose out of another friendship of several years' standing. This was the Sutor case. Mr. Sutor is known to many persons in Kansas City who have spent the summers at his resort, Cass Lake, Minn. He had known one Barney Martin for years, he said, and liked him. He knew him so well and liked him so well that he never supposed he would defraud him. When Barney gave him a "tip" on a supposed good thing Mr. Sutor saw no valid reason for turning it down any more than he would at a track with every day races. Four or five horses were to run in a race at Council Bluffs—this was in August, last—and Mr. Sutor decided to go over with Barney and put down a bet. He did. He had to borrow $4,000 to make up the $5,000 needed. But it was a sure thing, Barney said, and Barney certainly knew. Of course Mr. Sutor's "sure thing thing" fell in the stretch or the jockey fell off and "bled" and scared everyone away as usual.

Mr. Sutor thought it over at home and decided to get busy. By the time he had so decided all the "millionaires" had fled from Council Bluffs, Barney with them. But the government was in it now. Barney had written a letter helping Sutor to borrow the $4,000 and so had used the mails to defraud. The federal officers got busy at once. Decoy letters were sent out by the postal inspector in Council Bluffs, J. S. Swenson, and the syndicate, so adroit in fooling others, swallowed the bait itself.

In the closing days there came Inspector Swenson. In a few hours he had enlisted Sheriff B. L. Roberts, Deputy J. J. Hawkins, Durand Whipple, the six-foot son and law partner of W. G. Whipple, United States district attorney. Warrants were issued. Revolvers were examined and tested. The trap was ready. What warning the syndicate had may never be known, but it is true that when the officers approached the mansion the syndicate was just getting ready to leave. The leaders were in the touring car with their valises. They knew instantly that they were in for it. They sprang from the car.

"Hands up—quick!" was Inspector Swenson's crisp demand and up went two pairs of hands. One man's were elevated only to his waist. Whipple didn't like that. He searched the leader, but finding no weapons was about to step back when a thought came to him, that may have saved his life. He seized his hands and pushed them up high. Then he lifted the man's vest, and there in the trousers band, was a revolver. It had been within a few inches of his fingers all the time.

The syndicate books were very carefully kept. A large envelope labeled and bearing the name of the victim, the numbers of the streets and the amount was kept for each case. There were 100 or more of these envelopes. Each contained the minutes of every meeting with the "Mike," showed who was present and how the money was handled and also the original agreements signed by the "Mike" and the syndicate members. This was necessary, notwithstanding its danger in case of arrest, because of the extensive operations conducted. In such affairs there could be no arguments or disputes.

BILL UP TO SENATE

ALDRICH PRESENTS TARIFF MEASURE AND BIG FIGHT STARTS THURSDAY.

MINORITY ENTERS PROTEST

Democrats Claim They Have Had No Time to Consider Schedules, But the Organization Hastens Action—House Wants Bill Back.

Washington, Apr. 13.—The amended tariff bill is now on the senate calendar and by an agreement reached on the floor consideration of the measure will begin on Thursday.

The bill was laid before the finance committee with the Democratic members present, yesterday morning, and after 30 minutes parleying a vote was taken on the question of making a report to the senate, all of the Republicans voting in the affirmative and the Democrats in the negative.

Soon after the senate met Senator Aldrich presented the amended bill. Senator Daniel, on behalf of the minority, protested that the Democrats had not been given an opportunity to examine the measure and Senator Aldrich replied that they could make their examination by Thursday. He stated also that as the majority is responsible for the bill, its course in hastening the report was warranted.

All Changes Not Made.

As reported the bill does not contain all of the changes in rates which the finance committee proposes to make. Although several important amendments, such as the restoration of the Dingley rates on women's gloves and hosiery, the placing of works of art on the free list, and the assessment of a duty on iron ore have been made, the revenue producing possibilities of the bill are little changed. The increases are provided mainly in the schedule covering luxuries, the entire liquor schedule being materially advanced. The increase on wines and spirits is expected to bring in about $3,000,000 additional revenue. Senator Aldrich stated that the committee realizes that the increases thus far recommended will not be sufficient to counterbalance the loss in revenues that will result from the reductions and the lengthening of the free list. This shortage will necessitate further increases on certain luxuries and the committee intends to report some changes at an early date which it will ask the senate to adopt.

In discussing the revenue features of the bill, Senator Aldrich insisted that as it will be amended by the senate the Payne bill will provide sufficient funds to meet the expenses of the government without resorting to any but import taxes.

No maximum and minimum provisions or administrative features, which include additional forms of taxation were reported in the bill.

Cotton and Wool Schedules.

Changes were made in the cotton and wool schedules of interest largely to the manufacturers of cotton and woolen cloths. The action of the finance committee in maintaining the high rate of duty which it placed on top at the time the Dingley bill was under consideration, and which now stands in the present law, will undoubtedly reopen the controversy on the wool schedules.

The intent of the Dingley law regarding the assessment of duties on cotton cloth has been carried out through a change in the provision for the method to be used in counting the threads in cotton cloths. The new proviso and the rearrangement of the duties on the various grades of cloths eliminate the ambiguity which resulted in many difficulties in carrying out the provisions of the existing law, without changing the ad valorem equivalent of the specific duties.

By restoring the Dingley rates to barley and barley malt, and by reducing the taxation on the breakfast table by cutting down the duties of coffee substitutes and placing cocoa on the free list, the senate amendments to the Payne bill present a bid for popular favor.

House Wants Bill Back.

The house, which passed the bill last Friday, was in session two hours and 15 minutes. The first action taken was the adoption of a resolution calling upon the senate for a return of the Payne tariff bill next Thursday in order that it might be corrected so as to include products of petroleum in the free list.

That the present session of the house is not restricted to tariff legislation, was the decision of Speaker Cannon. The question came up when Mr. Macon of Arkansas objected to the house passing on some resolutions from the committee on accounts providing for the pay of janitors. The speaker declared he was not aware of any constitutional provision that would prevent the house transacting any business it desired under the rules.

ILLINOIS STATE NEWS

Lemont.—Two men were killed, two more were probably fatally injured and 51 workmen had narrow escapes from death when a forgotten charge of dynamite exploded in the quarry of the Illinois Stone Company at Lemont. The accident occurred when August Steinke, the foreman, ordered workmen to break with sledges a large stone while it was on a car. Nels Nelson, a laborer, swung his sledge only once and the blow exploded the charge, which had been placed in the stone last fall.

Elgin.—A Christmas dinner may prove embarrassing to H. T. Rorig and A. H. Scrowles, park commissioners of Elgin, if David Walker, former custodian of Lord's park on the Fox river, is able to verify the statements which he has made. Walker charges that on Christmas day the two commissioners and their families ate the flesh of a deer which had been slaughtered after some years of exhibition at the park, which is municipal property.

Chicago.—While trying to save an automobile from destruction by fire, James Driscoll, 23 years old, an employe, was overcome by smoke in a blaze that destroyed the automobile garage of J. M. Blake. Driscoll was found unconscious under one of the automobiles and was carried to the street by a fellow employe. Fifteen automobiles were destroyed.

Chicago.—State's Attorney Wayman and other members of the Illinois State's Attorneys' association laid plans to put through the legislature amendments to the parole law despite Attorney General Stead's statement that if the proposed amendments were adopted the law would be unconstitutional and more than 2,000 prisoners would be released from Joliet prison.

Danville.—John O. Talbert, John F. Burrow and George W. Boswell, highway commissioners, were arrested on bench warrants charging them with malfeasance in office. Each of the accused gave bond. Indictments against the commissioners alleging that they had misappropriated $250,000 of township funds by padding pay rolls were returned by the grand jury.

Mattoon.—Litigation involving nearly all the living kinsmen of Abraham Lincoln was begun in this county with the filing of a partition suit to divide the old Thomas Lincoln farm left by John J. Hall, who recently died and who bought it from Lincoln's father. His own uncle, Robert L. Lincoln of Chicago, and Nellie A. Hall, a cousin, of Mattoon, are defendants.

Deerfield.—The elections for the school boards in Ridgeville and New Trier townships were held and the following elected: Thomas C. Clark and Henry C. Bennett as members of the high school board, and John W. Branch and James Smart, school trustees; New Trier township, Louis K. Gilson and John A. Bellows as members of the board of education.

Chicago.—Safekeepers dynamited the safe in the Tuxedo club, a pool and billiard room at 56 Thirty-first street, and, after stealing $1,500 in money and jewelry valued at $1,000, made their escape, it is believed, in an automobile. The safe was in the rear of the billiard room and was shattered by a blast which shook windows throughout the neighborhood.

Chicago.—Chief of Police Shippy announced that the fund raised by the members of the police department for Mrs. Joseph Finn, wife of the man killed by Patrolman Alexander Scott of the Twenty-second street station several weeks ago, was complete. It amounts to $2,282.

Chicago.—Count Carl Motke, Danish minister to the United States, arrived in Chicago on his first visit to the west, and Chicago Danes received him in elaborate fashion. He was received at the railroad station by George Bech, consul for Denmark in Chicago; Dr. Max Hensler and other leading Chicago Danes.

Champaign.—From Louisiana to Sadorus, a village in Champaign county, was the long distance traveled on foot by a bird dog, which staggered into the home of his master, William Horn, starved and with bleeding feet.

Charleston.—Rachael Goodrich, alias Kate Riley, committed suicide by shooting herself in the head with a 45 Colt revolver. For 20 years she has been keeping a lawless resort and had paid thousands of dollars in fines. Springfield.—Mrs. Charles S. Deeneen says her illness is not dangerous and that she seems to be suffering from grip.

Sycamore.—Jerry Coffey, a farmer, met a horrible death here. His team, hitched to a disk pulverizer, took fright and in running threw him beneath the disks.

Shelbyville.—Following the re-election of Dr. Theodore R. Parrish to the board of education, a reorganization of that body was effected by electing Knowles A. Hite president and William Taylor secretary.

Chicago.—Pondness for angling led to the death of John Steiner, who was found drowned in Lake Michigan at the foot of Twelfth street. In spite of his wife's pleading he went fishing, and is supposed to have been so numbed by the cold that he slipped into the water.

New York.—Mrs. Frank M. Avery, widow of the late Chicago watch manufacturer, who left her many millions, confirms the report that she is engaged to wed James H. Kidder of New York, a Harvard graduate and well-known clubman. They will pass their honeymoon at Newport.

PICTURE OF A FAKE WRESTLING MATCH. SWINDLER AND SWINDLED SHAKING HANDS

ing Mikes"—another name for victims who complain—by photographing every event. At some time in the contest a picture would be taken, and always these pictures contained faces of the syndicate leaders and the victim close together, usually shaking hands. These pictures could be shown to a family, if necessary, to prove what father had been doing when he lost his thousands. They were very valuable. Several of them were found.

Land propositions were the favorite bait for men with wealth. The sporting event came in casually, as a side play such as—they declared—any party of millionaires might choose to arrange. The leader and his companion millionaires never by any chance induced the "Mikes" to bet on an event. That was left in the hands of the agents. The case of a wealthy farmer in Illinois, will, perhaps, serve as well as any of the 400 or more recorded, to show how the swindle was worked. The farmer wished to buy land as an investment. One of the syndicate's agents knew of 5,000 acres that could be bought for $1.50 an acre, and if bought at once, might be sold immediately for $7.50 an acre. That sounded good. The farmer and his wife accompanied the agent to Little Rock to see the land. On the road down south the agent showed supposed newspaper clippings describing the westward trip of his principals and other "millionaires" in a private car. The government found a bundle of these clippings in the leader's valise. They evidently were made in a job printing office, but they impressed the farmer and his wife and made them feel important in being allowed to meet such large men.

There was much delay in arranging a trip to see the land. The owners were away somewhere—they usually were hard to find—but everything would soon be all right. The farmer proved, with a draft for $10,000, his financial standing, a requirement never neglected by the millionaires, and were shown every courtesy by the receiving party. He was a daily visitor in the excellently equipped offices in the Southern Trust building and became well acquainted with the private secretary. His wife was taken out in the touring car to the beautiful mansion—rented—where she met the leader's wife, and had a lovely time.

After this was finished the whole party went to a lonely road a mile outside the city near Fourche creek. There they found the horses and jockeys awaiting them. They were to race to the foot of a hill about one-half mile away. The farmer liked the appearance of the sorrel mare on which he and the millionaires had bet their money and he was justified, because the sorrel really was a magnificent animal.

They got away in good shape, the sorrel in the lead. The other man, the friend with the losing horse, was sad. The Illinois farmer threw his hat in the air and yelled.

But ah, as they say in novels, what's this? Something had happened to the jockey on the sorrel—he had fallen suddenly forward—he was off—down—on the ground and the millionaires and the "friend" were running down the road toward the spot.

When they reached him they found his face covered with blood, it was flowing from his mouth, he was injured internally, he was dying. Fright seized everyone.

Of course the Illinoisan didn't know, he learned only a few days ago, that the syndicate jockeys and wrestlers and boxers always bled much at the mouth. He didn't know they carried little thin rubber sacks filled with blood, or something resembling it, in their mouths; that sometimes they bit the sack and sometimes burst it against their ears to show how dangerously they have been injured.

The millionaires said it mustn't get into the papers. The farmer's wife said she wanted to go home. Then she thought of her husband's $10,000. When they turned to see the stakeholder, one George Wilson, he had disappeared. The millionaires were furious. So was the "friend" whose horse certainly had won because of the accident.

"I am a lumber dealer," said a Minnesota man. "I am not 30 years old. I used to go up to Minneapolis occasionally and there met an old acquaintance, Louis Stowe, whom I hadn't seen for years. My family had known him for 20 years. His father is an Episcopal rector. I took this fellow to my home often after I met him. One day he said he had a friend, Frank Myers, an instructor in physical culture, whose cousin, George Bennett, was private secretary for three or four millionaires in Pittsburg, Pa. These millionaires had developed a wrestler, Gorman by name, whom they would match against anyone. Stowe said the

Too True
I shot an arrow in the air, it fell in the distance, I knew not where, till a neighbor said it killed his calf and I had to pay him six and a half ($6.50.) I bought some poison to kill some rats, and a neighbor swore it killed his cats; and rather than argue across the fence, I paid him four dollars and fifty cents ($4.50.) One night I set sailing a toy balloon, and hoped it would soar till it reached the moon, but the candle fell out on the farmer's straw, and he said I must settle or go to law. And that is the way with the random shot; it never hits in the proper spot; and the joke you spring that you think so smart, may leave a wound in some fellow's heart.

A tickling or dry cough can be quickly loosened with Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. No opium, no chloroform, nothing unsafe or harsh. Sold by L. E. Carmichael.

Mrs. Sarah Corson wishes thru this medium to thank all the dear friends who so kindly remembered her with Easter cards. They will help to while away many an otherwise lonely hour as she sits in her invalid chair and reads them over and over, for aside from the beautiful sentiments they contain they bring to her the love and sympathy of the senders for the sufferer, who at present is debarred from meeting with and associating with them as she did in times past. She wishes for them that they may be spared to enjoy many more of the happy, joyful Eastertides. Sixty-eight cards were received, each bearing a message of love and sympathy.

Our old friend J. Har. Basel, "the jolly picture prospector" and his amiable wife are holding forth every evening this week at Zimmerman's opera house, to the delight of the entire population, of the town, for Basil's pictures always please, and always draw the crowd. They deserve it, too. We have seen the best they have in this line in Madison and Milwaukee but they all fall short of Basel's in clearness, power and beauty. Basel's pictures are perfection itself. Don't miss a single evening. — Pennimore, (Wis.) Times. Genoa opera house, April 22, 23, 24. Prices 15, 25, 35 cents.

One lady and gent or two ladies admitted on one 35 cent ticket; also two children on one 15 cent ticket.

Scores of people have been in to see my stock of rugs, carpets and linoleums, and all have been agreeably surprised, not expecting to see so magnificent a display in Genoa. We have found that one must have the goods to sell them. Buying from samples is seldom satisfactory to the customer or the dealer, and for that reason we have taken the risk and put in this large stock. You can now come and make your purchase and have your rug on the floor in the same day. We belong to an association whereby we are enabled to buy rugs cheaper and sell them cheaper than the other fellows. A visit to our store will prove this. Come today and look over the line and get prices. Aug. Teyler.

SCHOOL NOTES

The following is the report of the attendance of the Genoa schools for the week ending April 9:

First primary—absent Helen Sturtevant, Klea Bennett, Cloa Kindelsparker, Blanche Ide, Jessie Ide, George Stepherson, Max Whitwright. This room had no tardiness the past week.

Second primary—absent Hazel Lawyer, Lettie Lord, Earl Stoll, Francis Sturtevant, Everett Bennett, Bruce Sturtevant, Richard Witt, Gertrude Nutt. This room had no cases of tardiness.

First intermediate—absent Lillian Lange, Dewey Nulle, Harry Merritt, Johnnie Clausen. This room had no tardiness.

Second intermediate—absent Roy Abraham, Myrtle Portner, Florence Albertson. This room had no tardiness.

Grammar room—absent Lydia Molthan, Ida Stoll, Dillon Patterson, Irvin Patterson. This room had no tardiness.

High school—absent Velma Crawford, Eda Smith, Orrin Merritt, Eddie Rubeck. Tardy Loyla

Brown, Robert Geithman, Claude Patterson.

The high school was the only room that had any tardiness the past week. It would be well for the pupils of the high school to emulate the example set by the grades.

The first base ball game of the season was played Saturday at Sycamore where the home team met signal defeat. The score stood 16 to 6 in favor of the Sycamore team. We trust that our team will warm up with the season and not allow this to occur again. These same teams play again next Saturday on the Genoa diamond when we hope to see these scores reversed.

The Army itself held big meetings in every city and town where it is established, and these were participated in by hundreds of thousands of other citizens who were glad to do honor to the distinguished philanthropist.

University of Humanity Launched.

In America the day was marked especially by the launching of another of Gen. Booth's original schemes for social reform in the United States. At every post of the army was announced the beginning of work to found a University of Humanity, a great institution for the training of workers in social service. The university will be divided between New York and Chicago, and it is expected to begin with a fund of $1,000,000. The gathering of this fund is the work that the army now enters upon in commemoration of its famous leader's completion of his eightieth year.

As a much-needed stone in the great organizational structure that William Booth has been building during the past 47 years, this idea of a school for the systematic training of his workers has been in his mind for several years. On his last visit to the United States the general made his first tentative announcement of the plan. Since then he has worked out many of the details and he has just consented to the beginning of preliminary work in this country where the need for trained workers has been especially great.

Growth of Great System.

It is perhaps not generally realized that the whole intricate modern machinery of civilization for the uplifting of the submerged tenth, the vast system of charities now so essential a part of modern life, is to a very large extent an outgrowth of the Booth idea. He was the first to see that the unfortunate could best be reached by those who had suffered as they had, and that they must be reached by practical worldly help before they could be prepared to begin the cleaner life. It was the Salvation Army which first made a practical working success of this now familiar principle of so-called "missionary work."

This whole plan of campaign for raising the fallen began on a very simple scale in the poverty-stricken and crime-infested East end of London and under the impetus of William Booth's singular force of mind and personality and the momentum that it has gathered with almost miraculous rapidity it has developed into a truly astonishing organization.

Some of the departments of its work are: Prison-gate and Rescue, Inebriates' homes, Boys' and Girls' homes, Farm colonies, Emigration, Naval and Military homes, Maternity homes, nursing, Samaritan brigades, hospital and benevolent visitation, police court work and Indian school training.

No other religious organization in the world's history has branched out into so many departments of philanthropic effort and absorbed them as part of its religious duties.

Need of Trained Workers.

The scheme for a University of Humanity grew naturally out of the development of the 20 other departments. With a field as wide as the world itself the work of the Salvation Army is only limited by the number of workers that can be secured and its effectiveness by the understanding and earnestness of these workers. As uplift work has grown from local efforts to help a few into a great inclusive movement which must miss none, the problems of organization have grown greater. Charity has become a science and its application an art requiring the highest development of personal qualities of insight and altruism. There is thus pressing need for workers of quite exceptional qualification. These qualifications must first of all be inherent and must then be developed by experience and special training.

This is the new work planned by Gen. Booth. Those women, for instance, who are to go among the slums of the big cities must not only have the desire to help but must know how real helpfulness can best be secured. They must understand by a study of practical sociology something of the social forces that create this poverty and crime and wretchedness. They must understand the danger of the unwise charity that merely increases dependence, and understand the value of better living conditions in raising the moral courage of those to whom fate has been unkind. They must be able not only to correct home conditions themselves but to impart their knowledge and to inspire with a desire for betterment.

Value of the Organization.

This will be but a small part of the university's training in social service as planned by the patriarchal evangelist, but it serves to show of what value such an organization will be.

Of the general's plan for the university he himself said recently: "I want to train men and women to deal with misfortune. I want them instructed to combat with the weaknesses and sins of the drunkard, the criminal, the pauper and the would-be suicide."

At 80 years of age the head of the Salvation Army, after more than half a century of almost unceasing activity, is as vigorous and untiring as at any time in his career. The inexhaustible vitality and intellectual and physical activity of this social reformer, philanthropist, preacher, author and traveler are marvelous. At fourscore he is traveling many thousands of miles over the world every year, controlling the destinies of his more than 7,000 corps of Salvation soldiery with their 18,000 commissioned officers, distributed among every civilized country, preaching constantly to vast audiences and doing an amount of literary work that would be a facer to many a professional author with no other occupation.

William Booth was born on April 10, 1829, in Nottingham, England, and was trained for the Methodist ministry which he entered and became one of the strongest evangelistic forces in that church. He grew dissatisfied, however, at reaching only those with some religious training and conviction. He felt that there were thousands whose need was far greater and he gravitated to the East end of London where wretchedness of all kinds was the rule.

In a disused burial ground on Mile End road he pitched an old tent and the first Salvationist meeting was held in that tent in 1861. The fiery eloquence of the earnest young preacher caught the attention of a crowd of poor Whitechapelers and before that first meeting was over he had made several conversions, a performance that he has been repeating throughout the world for 47 years.

How He Started the Army.

This first meeting resulted in the formation of the Christian mission, from which it was the evangelist's custom to send his converts to the existing churches of the locality, but finding that they were not welcomed and were in danger of slipping back from sheer want of comradeship and oversight, he set about forming societies of the converted. These he found to be a potent agency for bringing in more, as the heedless East ender could be impressed by the words of a former "pal" when he would not listen to a minister. So was created the central idea of the Salvation Army.

The need of organization becomes apparent, but several methods were tried with little success before Gen. Booth hit upon the military idea and named his organization the Salvation Army. From that time on the movement grew amazingly and it has continued to grow without ceasing to this day.

Spread Over the World.

The movement began spreading to other countries of the world in 1881 when it first reached the United States through the influence of a silk-weaver who had emigrated from Coventry, England, bringing with him the Salvation Army idea and a strong desire to continue in the work. It reached Australia in the same year through a milk dealer from Stepanov, and soon afterwards the first Canadian corps was organized in a similar fashion.

Five years later, in 1886, the general made the first of many visits to the American branches of the army and he has seen them grow from a few small corps into a veritable army of tremendous influence and unsurpassed efficiency. His first great world-tour was made in 1891, when he visited South Africa, Australia and India. Since then he has visited the United States, Canada, Australia, New Zealand and India four times, South Africa twice and Japan and the Holy Land each once.

During all these travels the actual executive responsibility for the government of the army has never been lifted from his shoulders. Even on shipboard he is an indefatigable worker, planning and writing through the days.

Gen. Booth Honored.

One of the most remarkable of the many tributes paid to the general by the great of the world was that of the mikado of Japan during the visit to that country. The mikado personally received the general with great warmth and he was accorded remarkable ovations in Yokohama, Tokyo, Sendai and Kyoto, a circumstance of strange import when it is realized that Japan is not a Christian country.

Another interesting distinction given Gen. Booth was the conferring on him of the degree of doctor of civil law by Oxford university. The significance of this honor will be better understood when it is stated that those who received university honors with him at the time were Prince Arthur of Connaught, the prime minister of England, the lord chancellor, the speaker, Sir E. Grey, the archbishop of Armagh, Sir Evelyn Wood, the American ambassador, Mark Twain and Rudyard Kipling.

As a writer Gen. Booth is remarkable, both as a stylist, as a thinker and as a producer. He has written in all 21 volumes, besides innumerable articles for the army publications. His best known book is "In Darkest England and the Way Out," in which he outlined his scheme for social reform by means of colonization. "The Training of Children," "Love, Marriage and the Home," and his books on reform are among the others of the general's best known literary productions.

Writes of His Creed.

Of his creed the general has written very beautifully. He says: "The simplicity of our creed has been, as I believe it will remain, one of the principal helps to our unity. We stand for the old truths. The faith which can be interpreted in terms of duty, of unselfishness, of purity, of love to God and man, is the only faith we really care about. What- ever may be the case with the select minority, the consciousness of sin, the force of evil habit and the consciousness of sin and the influence of passion, are all vivid realities with the great masses of the population. To them we bring the promise of deliverance by Jesus Christ."

SALVATION ARMY'S WORK IN THE UPLIFTING OF HUMANITY

How the Wonderful Organization Brings About the Moral and Physical Regeneration of Thousands of Men and Women Degraded by Crime and Misfortune.

Chicago.—"The World for Christ," the war cry of the Salvation Army is uttered to-day by more men and women than ever before since that wonderful organization was formed by Gen. William Booth in the slums of London. In the United States alone there are nearly 900 corps and outposts where the "soldiers" are doing untiringly the two-fold work of the army—spiritual and social. Every day in the week, every hour in the day, they labor earnestly among the fallen, the degraded and the unfortunate. Not so many years ago these soldiers met with abuse and violence, or at the best with ridicule and contempt. Now they are everywhere accorded respect and assistance. Their methods have not changed, but the hovel up dark and filthy alleys, the cheerful Salvation lassies carry food and coal and medicines; and, better yet, bring to the wretched and downcast the hope of better things and encouragement to struggle onward and upward. There are no harsh reproaches for past shortcomings, no threats, but gentle admonition, kindly advice and material assistance at the time when it is most needed.

Slum Angels to the Rescue.

In addition to the 21 stations in Chicago from which the willing workers help the poor, a sort of flying squadron of "slum angels" is at the beck and call of the commanding officer to carry swift relief to extreme cases in any part of the city. During the winter these slum sisters visited world has gradually come to know something of the great work they are doing.

Varied Social Work.

While all Salvation Army operations have as the ultimate goal the saving of the whole man, body and soul, it is the social and industrial part of the work that attracts the most attention and awakens the broadest sympathy. The extent of this work is comprehended by few who see the sober-clad soldiers on their daily and nightly rounds. It comprises many and varied branches, such as workingmen's hotels, industrial homes, rescue homes, children's homes, maternity hospitals, work in prisons and slums, farm colonies, summer outings and Christmas dinners. Some of its charities are more than self-supporting, but every cent that is made by them is used in other branches of the work, and for the rest the army depends on the contributions of philanthropic persons who believe that no other agency is so potent in reaching and elevating the "submerged tenth." The public is reached not only through personal solicitation, but by means of periodicals, of which the Army publishes 69, with a total of more than 1,013,000 copies issued. It operates in 54 countries and colonies and preaches the gospel in 28 languages.

The Army in Chicago.

Chicago is the headquarters for the western territory of the Army in the United States, with Commissioner Thomas Estlin in command, and the operations of the army here are a fine example of its work throughout and assisted in various ways 1,740 families, at a cost in cash, clothing, coal and medicines of $2,642.36.

Clothing for the poor is collected all over the city by the army's wagons and is repaired and distributed from its industrial home. At this institution temporary employment is given to many men who, having held responsible positions, have fallen low through drink or other causes. Scores of these men are reclaimed and later placed in good positions, and on leaving the home they are given money which they earned by their work there. Many a self-supporting woman, broken down by sickness, has been relieved by the army, nursed back to health and restored to her place among the wage-earners.

Christmas Dinners for Thousands.

The spectacular side of the Salvation Army's work reaches its climax at Christmas time. For many days before the festival there may be seen on every prominent corner in the business district a Salvation lass, who, despite snow, wind, sleet and cold cheerfully stands with taborine in hand, appealing to the passer-by for the wherewithal to provide a happy Christmas for more than 12,000 of Chicago's poor. These people have no one to plan pleasant Christmas surprises for them, and the knowledge that the Salvation Army has not forgotten them on the day of universal rejoicing is one of the brightest spots in their dreary lives.

The thousands of Christmas dinners are purchased, packed in baskets and taken to the 21 distributing points, where they are given out to the poor. Many of the baskets, destined for families in which there are little children, contain also a few toys and games.

FIRST AID TO THE INJURED.

In summer time the Army does a fine work in taking mothers and children for outings in the country. It owns a big house and farm in one of the city's prettiest suburbs and there the tired women and puny children from the slums are restored to health and vigor.

Children's Industrial Farm.

In California, 20 miles from Santa Rosa, is one of the Army's greatest institutions—the Lytton Springs Children's Industrial farm of 680 acres. Once it was a sanitarium and summer retreat. People went there to get the benefits of the mineral waters, the balmy air, the glorious vistas below and fern-carpeted canyons behind. On it there was a big hotel and ten cottages, and these erstwhile abodes of the sick and weary are now the haunts and homes of happy children.

About five years ago the Salvation Army, working on the principle that the country is the right place to bring up children, founded the home. It was the outgrowth of a small home maintained by the order in San Francisco. Maj. C. W. Bourne and his wife were installed as superintendents, and the useful career of a marvelously useful institution was begun. It is now the home of about 200 happy, healthy and most useful children. The boys are learning to be skillful farmers and dairymen and the girls to be model housekeepers—and all of them to be good citizens. Much of the produce of the farm is sold in San Francisco.

Rescue and Maternity Home.

Of all its institutions, the Salvation Army in Chicago is perhaps proudest of the Rescue and Maternity Home. Of this the present matron, Mrs. Ensign Smith, writes:

"Our social operations and colonization schemes met the hearty approval of the socialist minded. Our children's homes and even slum posts excited the admiration of philanthropists, but just depict a poor girl strayed from the path of virtue and rectitude, or one steeped in vice, and the majority of your listeners would either ridicule or turn their offended moral nostrils away in disgust. Whence shall the poor, fallen girl turn when the whole world is against her? It was the practical answer to this momentous question from the myriads of submerged daughters that opened the rescue home, and the western metropolis was not one whit behind her sister cities, for in 1895 our institution was formally opened."

Five times the home was moved to more commodious quarters, and its work has increased steadily. Last year 63 children were born there. The total number of girls received during the year was 135. About 50 of the girls who have been in the home return regularly for the monthly meetings. Scores of them are now happily married and settled down in good homes and with loving husbands. What sociologists find to praise most in the Salvation Army's maternity homes is the fact that every effort is made to induce the unfortunate young mothers to keep their children. This is admittedly the most potent factor in their moral regeneration.

"Surely," says Matron Smith, "God alone can comprehend the inestimable value of such an institution, where thousands of poor, outcast girls, drifting in the dark current to perdition, are rescued and find a peaceful haven."

Coal for Slum Dwellers.

Vast Business System.

The executive work of the army that falls upon the shoulders of its octogenarian leader is enormous. Besides its multitudinous charitable institutions, for all of which the most efficient business management is required, there are dozens of other departments of its work that are almost unknown to the general public. For instance, there is the management of the great properties of the army and its building operations. It does all its own planning and building, even training its own architects, builders and workmen. Then it has large printing and engraving plants and the management of its publications is in itself a great business.

The army's profits from its extensive trading operations are devoted entirely to the furtherance of its reform propaganda, the extension and development of its mission field. A special point is rightly made of the fact that no officer profits to the extent of a single cent from the financial success of its business enterprises.

The funds of the army are administered by a central board in London and every account is subjected to rigid inspection. A regular audit of the books is also made by accountants of standing engaged from outside the army roll. A board also consults with the general on each detail of army policy as it arises. Day and night ceaselessly—for the strain is never off—this central committee, keenly alert, watches every development affecting the good of men the world over. Every section of the army is linked with this central committee by the cable.

SYNOPSIS.

"Vanishing Fleets," a story of "what might have happened," opens in Washington with the United States and Japan on the verge of war. Guy Hillier, secretary of the British embassy, and Miss Norma Roberts, chief aide of inventor Roberts, are introduced as lovers. Japan declares war and takes the Philippines. Guy Hillier starts for England. Norma Roberts with military officers also leaves Washington on mysterious expedition for the Florida coast. Hawaii is captured by the Japs. All ports are closed. Tokyo learns of missing Japanese fleet and whole world becomes convinced that United States has some powerful war agency. England decides to send a fleet to American waters as a Canadian precaution against what the British suppose is a terrible submarine flotilla. Hillier is also sent to Canada to attempt to force his way through American lines with message. British fleet departs amid misgivings of English. Fleet mysteriously disappears. Hillier makes a failure of attempt to deliver message to the president. War between Great Britain and Germany is threatened. The Kaiser disappears. King Edward of England is confronted by Admiral Bevin of the United States, and upon promising to present the missing British admiral, the monarch agrees to accompany Bevin on tour, which the latter says will uncover the mystery of the Thames, much to the mystery of the kingdom. The story goes back to a time many months before the war breaks out, and inventor Roberts visits the president and cabinet, telling of and exhibiting a metal production.

The others looked eagerly at them as the president held them, wondering what connection the two little strips of metal could possibly have with the defense of a nation against a multitude of battle ships. Nothing but Roberts' known ability prevented them from looking upon him as a crank. They inspected the objects before them in turn, passing them from hand to hand with blank looks. Only the secretary of war, who in his earlier years had been a metallurgist, showed any signs of surprise or amazement. He turned excitedly away and crossed the room to a side light, against which glare he held the little plate, staring at it fixedly. The inventor smiled, and the others hurried back.

"What on earth is it, Dr. Roberts?" he asked, and then without waiting for an explanation continued: "I never saw a metal that looked or felt like it. What is it?"

"Gentlemen," said the inventor, recovering the sabb and balancing it in his hands, "that is a new plate that can be made cheaply and quickly. If it does what the laboratory tests show, it will, when applied to cruisers which can now steam 20 knots an hour, make 50 knots an easy gait for them."

There was a gasp of astonishment amounting almost to incredulity among those who crowded round, and the scientist, enjoying the effect of his words, smiled and smoked. A moment's pause ensued while the possibilities of the discovery dawned on them. Those who knew him least were again questioning his sanity, and then, as if all at once they could wait no longer for him to explain, they burst into a chorus of questions, which he did not answer. He waited until no voice was heard, and then began.

"That plate practically overcomes friction. My assistant, my daughter Norma, and I have made several tests before I came here with it. These were cast and tested last night. I am not going into scientific details; but this much I'll make plain: A ship coated along certain lines with that metal, electrified only to a point where she would not sink for lack of support, can reduce her skin friction caused by the water to a point where her speed would be something hitherto unknown. It would, of course, mean lighter armaments, because the lighter the dead tonnage the greater the buoyancy. But a cruiser with a few long range, high explosive guns, that can travel at the rate of 40 or 50 miles an hour, or a submarine that can make that speed for 24 hours at a stretch, would play havoc with any navy in the world."

The room was alive with excited men now as the full force of his statement came in all its clearness. If that unknown metal had that property, and sufficient fighting ships could be armored with it in time to meet the demands made upon them, the seas would be whipped into subjection and legions of troops transported before they could be interfered with. The president himself had lost his calmness and was gripping the arms of his chair. The secretary of the navy, having the practical point of view, came out of his trance, and snapped out a question:

"How long would it take to equip a cruiser with those plates?"

Roberts turned toward him. "Depends on the plant. The plates can be cast and electrified just as rapidly as you could cast sheets of plain iron and turn a current into them; but I wish to experiment a little further first and try them out on some old gunboat that wouldn't amount to much if lost."

The room was again filled with a babel of sound, as the officials began an argument; but on one point they were agreed. The man before them was so well known that the government was taking no great hazard in affording him every means within its power to carry out his work, and, if he could do what he believed, and of that there seemed no room for doubt, the solution of the approaching war, or any other in their hands. The president alone sat buried in thought, his brows drawn into a frown.

"Gentlemen," he said, and there was that in his voice which demanded attention, "I should like to ask Dr. Roberts a few questions. I wish to know if this work of his can be carried on so secretly that no other power—not one, nor even the people of this country—can become aware of his discovery; if he can suggest a means for such concealment; if his work can be done so expeditiously, with full government support, that within three months from to-night the American navy can be so equipped as to make it the most powerful in the world; and whether he realizes the importance of such haste."

The scientist threw his half-finished story into the ash receiver before him and became grave. He was the dignified, thoughtful man again, weighing his words and speaking with deliberation. "Mr. President," he answered, "I am not completely beyond the experimental stage; but I believe I can plan such secrecy as you desire, and with the aid of men and money make the United States navy invincible in less than three months. I would almost stake my life and reputation on it. But why, may I ask, do you desire to keep it from the world's knowledge that you have such power?"

The president walked up and down the room with his hands behind his back as if in a dream, while the others waited for his reply. "Because we are facing war with Japan, a skillful, advanced and cunning enemy, and there must be no risk of its discovering our secret. Its spies are everywhere in the land. Hostilities are to be courted in this emergency rather than declined, provided they can be rendered harmless to ourselves and humane to our adversaries. To talk of power without demonstrating it, is as idle as a braggart's boasting. To maintain silence and then prove ability, is to make one's action doubly impressive."

He started to say more, his big somber eyes glowing with some new thought, and then, as if afraid of his own conceptions, stood expectantly before his lifelong friend who was facing him. "Bill, Bill!" he said, brokenly, "do you see what depends upon you? Why, man, the nation itself, the lives of thousands of fathers and an army of our boys; yes, more than all that, the peace of the world! Good God, man! Try to realize what you have, and what we can do, if those two pieces of metal will do all you think they will!"

His long ungainly arms reached out, and he put his hands upon the smaller man's shoulders. Those within the room awoke to a realization of the magnitude of the power that was possible, and stood in awed silence, spectators of a tableau. From the broad sweep of the river without came the wailing whistle of a belated steamer, seeking its way through the fog that had settled down. The measured tramp of a patrolman in front of the huge white building came reverberating to their ears, cast back from the empty street, and thus they stood, centering their attention on a little, wizened old man who had grasped one of Nature's secrets and was now offering it as a nation's salvation. In this light he loomed to gigantic proportions, and seemed possessed of Titanic power. Oblivious to the others in the room, his restless eyes gleamed and probed those of his friend.

"Paul," he said in an oddly constrained voice, dropping back to the boyhood phrase, "I can make good. I'm at my country's service, and I've made no mistake in what I said." He swung sharply round to the others, and his clenched hands swept the air in a sudden frenzy of determination. He was the enthusiast once more, daring, dreaming, positive and sanguine.

"Send me the two best engineers in the navy and the two best supply men to-morrow morning. I'll tell them what we need and they can tell me how soon they can deliver it where I want it. I'll want machinery and apparatus, supplies and assistants. Money and men! Money and men! They can't beat us! They can't beat us!"

His hands came back to his sides. He folded the precious pieces of metal into their coverings, while the others stood silently by, and, as if abashed by his own outburst, bade them a curt "Good night," and walked from the room. The others, with the burden of reticence upon them, filed after him one by one, contemplating the strange change which might be wrought by this night's work, and wended their way to their homes.

The fog settled down closer and impartially spread itself over the river, the White House and the patrol-

The entrance of Norma was the signal for an abrupt halt in the conversation, and some of those who were not entirely familiar with the part which she played in her father's work looked at her disapprovingly.

He, interpreting these glances, introduced her as his assistant, and concluded by saying: "I can't do anything without her. She knows more about my work than I do myself, and as far as I know she's the only woman living who can keep her mouth shut."

They smiled at his manner and cynicism, while the president tendered her a seat at his side and waited for the others to resume their chats.

"All of you are familiar now with the possibilities of the invention offered by Dr. Roberts—" "And his daughter Norma," interjected the inventor.

The president accepted the alteration and continued without a halt—"and have gone over the reports of the four most expert men in the United States, who have passed the day with the inventor and his daughter in their laboratory, are convinced of the merit and practicability of the discovery, and have prepared statements of what supplies would be needed, the time in which they could be obtained, and their approximate cost."

There was a look of acquiescence, and the secretary of the navy, who had been paying no heed whatever to the chief executive's remarks, rustled the reports in his hand as he turned another page to scan its contents. The room became still again, and the speaker went on.

"Dr. Roberts tells us that he does not regard himself as beyond the experimental stage; but further experiments cannot decrease known values, and may perhaps add to them. This invention as it stands, in the opinion of the four men who have passed the day in testing it, is sufficient to enable us within three months to combat successfully any nation which might begin hostilities."

Norma looked at her father admiringly; but he seemed oblivious to all those round him, and sat absorbed in thought, his eyes fixed in a blank stare of concentration into space, and the thumbs of his clasped hands revolving round each other aimlessly. The president reached over to a mass of papers before him, referred to some of them in quest of data, and then looked very grave and earnest as he continued in a lower voice:

"Extraordinary times demand extraordinary measures. We are without precedent, and are confronting an emergency of such immense import that those of us who were here last night believe it is a time when all rules, official routine and regular methods must give way in behalf of quick accomplishment. We have no time in which to seek special appropriations; but must take it upon ourselves to levy upon the various budgets which are now open for the considerable sums of money necessary to prosecute this work."

One or two, who were evidently late arrivals and had not heard the earlier discussions, looked at each other with some hesitation. It was hard to drop routine and dip into the nation's treasury on such short consideration. The high dignity of the presiding officer, however, forbade any interruption, and he went on unchallenged.

"The absolute preservation of our secret is recognized by all as a vital necessity, and to obviate all leakage the members of the army and navy board suggest that our work be carried on in one of the most secluded of the Florida keys. On this they purpose to erect a plant adequate to cast and perfect this metal on which we depend, and as rapidly as possible apply it to the vessels of our navy, which will be sent there as quickly as preparations can be made for their reception."

Norma, who had not been informed of this part of the project, gave a start of protest, foreseeing that she, too, would have to share in this isolation and become an exile until the experiments were concluded. Her father turned a questioning look toward her, and then reached over and patted her hand in sympathy. The president was steadily summing up the situation.

"The navy department will attend to purchasing supplies, including machinery and crude metals necessary for the first work, while Dr. Roberts will place his orders for apparatus, and all will be consigned to the collier Penobscot, which will transport them to the chosen spot. The gunboat Harper will accompany her, and will be the first boat to be experimented upon and equipped with the new plates. Rear Admiral Brockton will be assigned to her command for the present. These two ships will sail from New York harbor, together with a small transport which will carry such engineers and mechanics as the navy department may select for a work of this importance. Communication will be maintained by such means as seem best to Admiral Brockton, and more men and supplies will be dispatched from time to time as required. It is needless to say that the entire experimental work, the casting of the plates, and the general supervision of everything, will be under the direction of Dr. Roberts."

"And his assistant," the inventor again interjected.

Deep Breathing.

A woman who has learned deep breathing almost always is a good sleeper, for nerves and mind are kept in healthy condition by the good chest expansion. Then, too, there is an absence of facial wrinkles and lines, and she is apt to keep her freshness long after the time that most women lose it.

NO NEED TO TAKE CHANCES

There is a Sure Way of Knowing Good Paint Material.

There is really no need whatever for any property owner to take chances in the selection of his paint materials. It doesn't cost a cent to learn how to be on the safe side. Certainly every property owner has enough at stake to find this out.

A complete painting guide, known as Houseowner's Painting Outfit No. 49, can be had free by writing National Lead Company, 1902 Trinity Building, New York. This company is the largest maker of pure white lead in the world. Its Dutch Boy Painter trademark is famous as a guarantee of purity and quality. The outfit includes a book of color schemes, for either interior or exterior painting, a book of specifications, and a simple little instrument, with directions for testing the purity of paint materials.

Teacher—Johnny, can you tell me the most remarkable thing about Niagara Falls?

Johnny—Yesum; the price they soak you for everything without going to jail.

A CURE FOR FITS.

The Treatment is to Accomplish What Science Has Been Struggling to Attain for Centuries.

The intense interest that has been manifested throughout the country by the wonderful cures that are being accomplished daily by epileptic still continues. It is really surprising the vast number of people who have already been cured of fits and nervousness. In order that everybody may have a chance to test the medicine, large trial bottles, valuable literature, history of Epilepsy and testimonials, will be sent by mail absolutely free to all who write to the Dr. May Laboratory, 548 Pearl Street, New York City.

Her Answer.

An Atholston girl had a proposal of marriage Sunday night and asked a week to think it over. She went to all of her married sisters. One, who used to be a belle, had three children, did all her own work and hadn't been to the theater or out riding since she was married. Another, whose husband was a promising young man at the time she was married, was supporting him. A third didn't dare say her life was her own when her husband was around, and a fourth was divorced. After visiting them and hearing their woes, the heroine of this little tale went home, got pen, ink and paper and wrote an answer to the young man. You may think it was refusing him, but it wasn't. She said she could be ready in a month.—Atholston Globe.

Artificial Wants.

Many a one, for the sake of finery on the back, has gone with a hungry belly and half-starved their families. "Silk and satin, scarlet and velvets," as Poor Richard says, "put out the kitchen fire." These are not the necessities of life; they can scarcely be called the conveniences; and yet only because they look pretty, how many want to have them! The artificial wants of mankind thus become more numerous than the natural; and as Poor Dick says: "For one poor person, there are a hundred indigent."—Benjamin Franklin.

Couldn't Convince the Judge.

"I have heard of the soul kisses and kisses of other kinds, but I never heard of a man biting his wife as an evidence of his affection for her," remarked Justice O'Neill of Baltimore, Md., when George Phoebus, aged 27, of East Baltimore street, endeavored to explain the biting of his wife, for which offense she had him arrested. Mrs. Phoebus said her husband deliberately bit her on the cheek, and, though the pain was excruciating, he said that it was a "love bite." The justice fined him five dollars and gave him ten days in jail.

SICK DOCTOR

Proper Food Put Him Right.

The food experience of a physician in his own case when worn and weak from sickness and when needing nourishment the worst way is valuable:

"An attack of grip, so severe it came near making an end of me, left my stomach in such condition I could not retain any ordinary food. I knew of course that I must have food nourishment or I could never recover.

"I began to take four tablespoonfuls of Grape-Nuts and cream three times a day and for 2 weeks this was almost my only food; it tasted so delicious that I enjoyed it immensely and my stomach handled it perfectly from the first mouthful. It was so nourishing I was quickly built back to normal health and strength.

"Grape-Nuts is of great value as food to sustain life during serious attacks in which the stomach is so deranged it cannot digest and assimilate other foods.

"I am convinced that were Grape-Nuts more widely used by physicians, it would save many lives that are otherwise lost from lack of nourishment." Absolutely the most perfect food in the world. Trial of Grape-Nuts 10 days proves. "There's a Reason."

Weak Women

To weak and ailing women, there is at least one way to help. But with that way, two treatments, must be combined. One is local, one is constitutional, but both are important, both essential. Dr. Shoop's Night Cure is the Local. Dr. Shoop's Restorative, the Constitutional. The former—Dr. Shoop's Night Cure—is a topical mucous membrane suppository remedy, while Dr. Shoop's Restorative is wholly an internal treatment. The Restorative reaches throughout the entire system seeking the repair of all nerve, all tissue, and all blood ailments. The "Night Cure", as its name implies, does its work while you sleep. It soothes sore and inflamed mucous surfaces, heals local weaknesses and discharges, while the Restorative, eases nervous excitement, gives renewed vigor and ambition, builds up wasted tissues, bringing about renewed strength, vigor, and energy. Take Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—as a general tonic to the system. For positive local help, use as well.

Women pray and men vote is a popular head-line in newspaper reports of election returns. When women pray and vote the increased no license majorities will remove any lingering doubts as to the ultimate triumphs of prohibition. The women can vote on school matters and it is hoped that every woman in Genoa will use her right Saturday, April 17, and by using what rights we have perhaps the men folks will legislate a few more for us.
