

GOLDEN WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Thirty Relatives and Friends Pay Honor to Mr. and Mrs. Peter M. Reed

MARRIED 50 YEARS NOVEMBER 6

First Complete Re-Union of the Reed Children in Twenty-three Years—Many Beautiful Gifts Presented

Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Reed entertained at one o'clock dinner Tuesday November 6, in honor of their Golden Wedding Anniversary.

The rooms were beautifully decorated with white and yellow chrysanthemums and bitter sweet. The same color scheme was carried out in the decoration of the table. Covers were laid for thirty.

One of the happy features of the occasion was the home coming of the Reed children, the first complete reunion in twenty-three years.

Nora Reed Pierce of Twin Falls, Idaho; Ralph N. Reed of Coeur d'Alene, Idaho; Ernest C. Reed of Independence, Kansas; and Edith Reed Trague of Twin Falls, Idaho.

After the elaborate turkey dinner, the guests enjoyed recalling old times and listening to a short program of readings and music.

Mr. and Mrs. Reed received many beautiful gifts befitting the occasion.

At 7:30 several cars arrived to take the "bridal party" for a ride to duplicate the bridal trip behind "Old Dobbin'" of fifty years ago. After a great deal of car trouble the party came to a halt in front of the M. E. church. There they were surprised by a host of friends who had planned a reception in their honor. This was "the end of a perfect day."

The guests of the day were: Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Pierce, Twin Falls, Idaho; Mr. and Mrs. R. N. Reed, Coeur d'Alene, Idaho; Mrs. R. W. Teague and daughters, Twin Falls, Idaho; E. C. Reed, Independence, Kansas; Wm. Frantz, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Frantz of Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Buck and son of Elgin; Mrs. J. H. Patterson of Marengo; Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Buck, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Buck, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Buck and son, Mr. and Mrs. Amber Durhan, Miss Flora Buck, Mrs. V. Wilcox and Rev. and Mrs. J. E. Robeson.

MR. AND MRS. REED SURPRISED

Friends Gather in Church on Anniversary of Wedding 50 Years Ago

Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Reed were pleasantly surprised Tuesday evening, it being their Golden Wedding day.

Miss Flora Buck had invited the couple to take a ride in her auto and after what was thought engine trouble, the car stopped in front of the M. E. church. The guests were told to wait in the church until the car could be repaired, and when they opened the doors about 200 friends greeted them.

A marriage ceremony was a part of the evening's entertainment.

Mr. and Mrs. Reed were presented with a beautiful bouquet of golden chrysanthemums and a floor lamp trimmed in gold color. After many congratulations had been bestowed upon this estimable couple refreshments of ice cream and cake were served.

The host and hostesses of this event were the Adult Bible class and the Friendship class of the M. E. church.

WOLFE CAR HIT BRIDGE

Last Thursday night a car driven by one Wolfe living north of Genoa ran into the bridge north of the C. M. & St. tracks on the Marengo road. The impact when the car hit the structure was so terrific that the bridge was moved about three inches off its foundation.

The car was slightly wrecked, but the driver escaped with minor injuries.

BENEFIT DANCE A SUCCESS

The benefit dance given in the local opera house last Friday night was a huge success from every standpoint. A large crowd was present; a jolly time was enjoyed by everyone and the lunch served by the ladies was thoroughly enjoyed.

A sum of $215 was cleared off the festivities and this was turned over to Montford Bennett.

STOCK SHOW DEC. 1 to 8

Mammoth Display of Cattle and Grain Coming to Chicago

The eyes of the Agricultural World will be centered upon Chicago the first week in December when the twenty-fourth anniversary session of the famous International Live Stock Exposition will be held from the 1st to 8th.

The center of attraction will, as it has been for nearly a quarter of a century, be the mammoth display of the highest examples of the master breeders' and feeders' art. Over ten thousand of the finest cattle, horses, sheep and swine will be on exhibition in the International Amphitheatre and scores of surrounding buildings. The champion animals from the state and regional fairs, as well as many which have been fitted especially for this show, will here meet in the tan-bark arena before the court of highest resort, William Reid, the noted British judge is coming across the ocean to pass upon the individual beef steers and select the grand champion heave of the world.

The largest Grain and Hay Show in the world will be staged as a department of the original live stock exposition. During the four years in which this innovation has been in effect, it has grown by leaps and bounds until this year over 5,000 samples of the choicest products of the soil will be found in the exhibition halls adjoining this part of the show will be the educational booth showing the various types of corn adapted to the different sections of the country as determined by committees of agronomists selected to settle the muted question of whether to raise the so-called utility or old types of corn. The Chicago Board of Trade is offering cash prizes amounting to over $12,000 for the show in addition to many trophies.

Brilliant evening entertainments will be staged each night in the mammoth amphitheatre to cap the climax of a busy day's activities. On these programs will appear the finest driving and riding horses in the show stables of the country. The daily exhibition of expert driving of massive six-horse teams of drafters is a sight that will thrill the most passive spectator. Exciting polo contests and other special numbers vie for the popularity of the crowd and make the night show one of the most spectacular events to be seen anywhere.

Special reduced rates will be in effect on the railroad during this exposition and many thousands of visitors will avail themselves of this opportunity to attend the International Live Stock Exposition and at the same time enjoy the many advantages and attractions of the metropolis. NOTES FROM THE COURT HOUSE

Two Damage Suits Instituted against C. B. & Q. Railroad

FRANK PERRY IN JAIL AGAIN

Violated Parole—Stole Cow from Woman near Maple Park—Up for Three Years

On account of the death of Judge Clinton F. Irwin, the session of the Circuit Court which was to have been held at Sycamore on Tuesday, has been postponed until Monday, November 15, 1923, at which time Judge Shusser will preside.

Two damage suits each for the sum of $10,000 damages were instituted in the circuit court, according to the files of Circuit Clerk Geo. A. James, against the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad Co. The plaintiff is F. Marion James, as administrator of the estate of Bertha Quillhot, deceased, and of the estate of Ella Ann Quillhot.

The suits are the result of a collision between an automobile in which deceased were riding and a fast train of the defendant in which both Bertha and Ella Ann Quillhot, were killed. The accident occurred at Shabbona last spring.

The DeKalb Trust & Savings Bank of DeKalb obtained a judgment by confession in the circuit court for the sum of $778.73 and costs against A. J. Milun, on a note dated September 12, 1922, payable on demand in which note default in payment was made by defendant.

James J. Perley of DeKalb appealed to the circuit court from a judgment for the sum of $110.84, which Geo. W. Smith also of DeKalb, had recovered against him before Justice of the Peace W. H. L. Rowe on June 16, 1923.

Ellyz Luney of DeKalb also took an appeal to the circuit court from a judgment which P. E. Luney recovered against him for the sum of $10.59 before Justice Rowe of DeKalb.

The Sycamore National Bank of Sycamore received judgment by confession in the circuit court against W. S. Clark for the sum of $474 and costs. The judgment is based on a note executed by defendant on May 7, 1923 in the payment of which default has been made.

Frank Perry, 30 years of age, who was convicted by State's Attorney Post, on a charge of burglary and larceny, by a jury in the circuit court, November 8, 1921, before Judge Irwin and at liberty on parole is in again. Perry was paroled from the Joliet penitentiary on January 2, 1923 to a farmer at Woodstock where he worked for a period of about 40 days. After that he bummed around this part of the country and later secured employment with Mary Greek near DeKalb, as a farm hand, and continued to be so employed for a period of about six weeks.

According to Perry's story sometime during June he made the acquaintance at Maple Park of a man who was formerly employed by Mrs. Greek and both having a grievance against her decided to help themselves to some of her stock. They took a bus to DeKalb and at midnight went to the farm opened the door of the pasture, selected a cow and walked away with it. They skirted the city of DeKalb and made their way with the cow to Maple Park, where the cow was placed by them in a pasture over night. The next morning Perry claims he paid his accomplice $19 as his share of the cow and this was the last time he saw him and does not now know his name nor where he lives. It is curious to note that this was the same alibi Perry had during the trial which resulted in his being sent to Joliet.

Perry the next day exchanged the cow for a horse and received $19 additional from a farmer in Kane county. Since that time he worked at odd jobs around DeKalb county and is suspicious of other thefts altho he denies them. For awhile it was thought he was stealing cows by the wholesale as he told some of his co-prisoners that he and his accomplice had shipped a car of cattle which was stolen. Perry explained this story to State's Attorney and the sheriff by saying that he made this statement to his fellow prisoners because he wanted them to believe that he was a desperate bandit and the story was all a lie.

JUDGE C. F. IRWIN DEAD

Veteran Jurist Died Following Attack Bronchial Pneumonia

Circuit Judge Clinton F. Irwin, Kane county's veteran jurist, died at his home, 525 East Chicago street, Elgin, at 10:50 o'clock Sunday morning. He was sixty-nine years old.

In failing health for more than two years, the aged jurist succumbed to an attack of bronchial pneumonia. Two weeks ago while on the bench in the circuit court at Geneva, he was stricken suddenly. He was immediately removed to his home in Elgin, where for the last ten days his condition remained critical. Early Saturday morning he was reported to have passed the crisis and for a time it was believed that he was on the road to recovery.

The change for the worse came suddenly Sunday morning. Despite efforts of physicians, who have been in constant attendance for several days, to stimulate heart action, the judge passed into a state of coma, from which he never emerged. His death was announced to his immediate family shortly before 11 o'clock by Drs. O. L. Pelton, S. L. Gabby and J. R. Tobin.

CRAWFORD TURNS SLEUTH

Recovered Diamond Ring in Little Matter of Two Hours—Valued $800. Louis Hartman had the misfortune to have stolen from his residence last Thursday night a ring valued at $800. After thinking the matter over for a time he called Sheriff Crawford who listened carefully to all details of the story being told him by the victim then jumped into his car and drove about 17 miles to another town and found the ring on the person whom he suspected of having purloined it. The culprit made such vigorous promises that he would walk the straight and narrow road from then on that the Sheriff gave him another chance, whereas he had but to report him to send him over the road for a few years.

Crawford, by his quick and clever work, has again demonstrated that as a sheriff he stands without a peer in the history of this county.

FORD TURNS TURTLE

W. G. Robert's Ford Hit Telephone Pole and Rested Lightly on Driver. W. G. Roberts, living north and west of Kingston had a narrow escape last Saturday afternoon when a Ford car he was driving collided with a telephone pole on Sycamore street. A hurried call for assistance brought a young army of pedestrians which extricated the man from the wreckage. A close examination proved that there were no bones broken and the car was hauled away for repairs. The slippery road caused by the light rain is supposed to have caused the accident, altho there may have been other reasons.

MAN DRINKS CANNED HEAT

A stranger walked into the C. M. & St. P. depot on Tuesday morning of this week and drank a can of melted canned heat, said substance containing to a large degree alcohol an ether. After acting a trifle loco for a few minutes he proceeded to mix up another batch and this caused the attention of the agent, Jack Canavan, to be focused upon him. The latter, seeing that the man was absolutely out of his head, and dead to the world, called Officer Heed who put him in the jail for the day. Last night Sheriff Crawford was notified and he sent for the man who will now have a few days, at least, to recall the folly of getting drunk on "Sterno."

IN THE TOILS

"You—you are the justice from Nogales?" she asked doubtfully. "That's what I am; Judge Cornelius Garrity, ma'am, at your service."

"And you were asked to come out here to marry me to Bob Meager?"

"Maybe so, if you are the girl."

"I am Deborah Meredith. I want to appeal to you, Judge Garrity, as an officer of the law, to refuse to perform this marriage."

"Refuse! I refuse Bob? Why, it's all straight enough; I've got the license here all made out regular with your name on it."

"That is just the point. That license was procured without my consent or knowledge. I repudiate it; I refuse to assent to it in any way. I have never agreed to marry Bob Meager. I am here now under threat, and I appeal to you for protection."

Does Judge Garrity protect her? Hardly. He marries her forthwith to Bob Meager. She strikes down with a pistol-butt the hated bridegroom and steals out into the night to get a horse and dare the perils of the desert. She meets "Frisco Kid," an outlaw with a price on his head. And deliberately she chooses to trust him and rides off with him into the desert.

So the possibilities of all sorts of excitement are found in this stirring story by Randall Parrish. Many a thrilling tale has this author written. And this is one of his most thrilling.

CHAPTER I

The Choice.

It was a wonderful thing to be twenty-three, full of hope and ambition, and in the wide out-of-doors; more wonderful still to possess the glorious memory of nearly two years in the hospitals of France, six months of that time just behind the American fighting line. Yet the girl was not thinking of this then as she sat there alone at the edge of the ravine, gazing silently across the dull leagues of desert to where a distant blue range of mountains cut off the view with their ragged summits, while arching over all hung the clear Arizona sky, slowly turning to purple.

She compared that sun-kissed vista with other sunsets in France and Germany, when the ground was yet red with the blood of sacrificed manhood. Her heart ached still with the soul memory that would not die—hours of toil, scenes of suffering. But this mood had also passed away, and now, although her eyes were still upon that outspread picture below, her thought had centered upon the present in a dull wonderment at the strange situation surrounding her. Why had she ever listened to the plea of old Tom Meager, back there in Chicago, and finally, partially from pity, partially from that new love of adventure engendered within her by service across the water, agreed to come west with him? Of course, she never had dreamed what it really would be like—life on this vast isolated ranch along the southern border, with the drear desert stretching away on every side from this little oasis of water and grass. Tom Meager had never told the whole story; he had dwelt on the loneliness of his sick wife, the chance she had of regaining health, with proper nursing and care; the rare beauty of the sunsets, the wonderful glow of the cool desert nights, the wild, free existence of the range, filled with excitement and a dash of danger. It all had appealed to her strangely—the service, the complete change in environment, the escape from the humdrum life of the Marine hospital. The pay was good, the opportunity excellent, and she had said "yes" without half-realizing then what it all meant.

But she realized now. Those first few weeks had been glorious indeed. She found everything new, attractive, tinged with romance and color. She liked Mrs. Meager, and discovered her task to be an easy one, her time largely at her own disposal. But it was lonely, terribly lonely; and, after those first few weeks, nothing seemed to occur to break the dull monotony. It was sixty miles over a half-obliterated desert trail to the nearest town, and that little more than a general store and a cattle corral. The only link between there and the civilization she had left to the eastward were the glistening rails of the railroad.

Day by day, week following week, she saw the same faces, heard the same voices. Riders from the outer range came in with their reports, bringing the tales of Mexican raiders, or of cattle strayed into the desert. Whenever she could she rode about with old Tom Meager, in and out the ravines, and occasionally far beyond into the vast sand plains, listening to his quaint tales of adventures, and helping him round up bunches of strayed stock. She became expert in the saddle, learned to use a gun skillfully, and even picked up some knowledge of the lariat. Thus, little by little, she had adapted herself to the rough life, determined to keep her word, but nevertheless growing constantly more and more heartsick.

Then Tom Meager came to his death. Riding home alone from Nogales at night, in the dark of Silver canyon, his horse slipped and fell, and Meager lay there on the rock motionless. A packer found his body the next day, and brought it on to the ranch. In some way the message of the old man's passing crossed the border line down far into old Mexico, until it reached the ears of his son, God alone knows where. Three days after the burial this wanderer of many years returned, drove his saddle horse into the corral, and assumed control. Whatever might be his legal right, there was none to oppose his bold assumption of authority or management. The widow lay helpless on her bed; she was not the boy's mother, and he never so much as crossed the threshold of her room. If there had been a will, no one searched for it, or made inquiries. By sheer force and audacity Bob Meager took command, asking permission of no one.

For some days after his arrival the girl did not even encounter this new master. From dawn to dark he was in the saddle, familiarizing himself with every detail of his new possessions. She had no desire to meet him, for long ago his story had been told to her—not by old Tom, who never spoke his son's name, or the patient, invalid wife, but by others, long in the Meager service, glad now of an opportunity to gossip with a stranger. It was a story of brutal shame; of base ingratitude, verging on crime; of sudden disappearance; of vague rumors floating back from here and there, hearing the tale of a wild, disreputable life. To her Bob Meager had become the synonym of all that was evil in this borderland. Yet now, through some strange play of fate, he was here and she was left helplessly in his power, under his orders, wholly dependent on him for employment. The thought was almost maddening.

They finally met the morning of the fifth day, unexpectedly, when, without even knocking, the fellow strode into the widow's room unceremoniously. The girl, in her nurse's uniform, arose hastily to her feet, and confronted the rude intruder indignantly, her eyes blazing with sudden antagonism.

"Who are you?" he asked gruffly.

"Who Are You?" He Asked Gruffly.

yet with a measure of doubt in the tone. "Some poor relative?"

"Not quite as bad as that," she answered, resenting his manner, yet endeavoring to control her speech. "I am Mrs. Meager's nurse."

"Nurse!" he sneered sarcastically. "Good Lord, so the old man stood for that, did he? Well, you can hardly expect me to; it is more than my mother ever had. Do you know who I am?"

"I presume you must be Robert Meager."

"You guessed right, and I've come back here to run this ranch; you get me?"

"Quite clearly—yes."

"Oh, you do, hey? Then I'll enlighten you further. You're Mrs. Meager's nurse, you said? Pretty soft job, isn't it? I don't believe there will be any necessity for her having a nurse very long. What's your name?"

"Deborah Meredith."

He laughed, showing a row of cruel white teeth.

"Sounds like a story book; where did the old man pick you up?"

"My home is in Chicago."

"Well, he certainly showed good taste, I'll say that for him. You are some good-looking, Deborah Meredith. I'm d-d if I don't rather like your style."

He stared at her insolently, his glance appraising form and features much as he might take in the points of some animal he contemplated purchasing. The girl's face flushed indignantly, but her eyes never fell.

"You sure do look good to me," he announced finally, "and I don't believe I'll fire you—not yet, anyhow."

"It will not be at all necessary," she said quietly. "I shall attend to that for myself."

"You mean you will quit?"

"I certainly shall."

"Oh, h—h—! Spunky little tigger, ain't you? I reckon I'll have something to say about that."

"You mean you will compel me to remain whether I wish to or not?" she asked in surprise. "Why, that cannot be done; I am not a slave."

"It can't hey? Do you know where you are?"

"Certainly I do."

"By G—d, I doubt it. This is the Meager ranch in Arizona. There ain't another outfit within fifty miles, and nothing else round us but desert; there ain't no water, and no grass. I'm a-runnin' things here, and you bet I know how to run them. You get me? I'm the boss; before another week's out every white man on this ranch will be hunting a job, and there'll be Mex in their places. I know how to handle Mex; they'll do what I say—you bet they will. So Miss Deborah Meredith, how is it you're going to quit before ever I say you can? Alm to hoof it across the alkali to Nogales? Ten miles o' that stuff would break your heart. You better think it over."

She saw him clearly in the light of the window, and, in spite of her natural courage, the girl's heart sank. Was there any act of brutality the man would be incapable of? He was big, burly, with broad shoulders and a deep chest, almost a giant of a man, but it was the face which bespoke his character. Brute was written plainly all over it, seemingly imprinted on every feature, yet at the moment she did not fear him; instinctively she felt the coward skulking back of his brutishness.

"I prefer," she said quietly, "not to discuss the matter now. Surely this was not why you came in here?"

"I sure like your nerve, little girl," he admitted admiringly. "No, I didn't come exactly for that, but whatever brought me I've changed my mind. We'll let things go on just as they are at present, I reckon. But don't you ever imagine I am playing with you; law don't count for much out here, sister, an' what I say goes."

She watched him as he turned and went out the door, her hands clenched, a wave of intense hatred surging over her. Yet in another moment she had conquered herself, and moved quietly back to the side of the bed on which her patient lay sobbing. She bent above the distressed woman.

"He is worse even than I thought," she said, unable wholly to hide her distress. "What caused him to come in here, do you suppose?"

"He came to send me away," answered the other clasping the girl's hands. "I knew it would not be long; he has disliked me always."

"Send you away! Why, you were his father's wife. Even if there was no will you must have dower rights in the estate. Surely, that is the law."

"I—I do not know," wearily. "Tom never explained anything to me, but—I am afraid of Bob Meager. Don't cross him; don't anger him. He is dangerous, and I am afraid of him, for your sake as well as my own."

"What do you want me to do?" the girl questioned, influenced by the timidity of the other. "Let that beast have his own way with me?"

"No—no, not that. But—but treat him fairly, Miss Meredith. He will not always be as he is today. As he said, you cannot fight or run away. All depends on winning his favor. Then sometime there will be a chance. We must wait and watch, until he is in a mood to let us both go. But even if there was a way for you to escape alone, you could not leave me here in his power."

"You fear him like that?"

"If I stand between the man and this fortune his father left, my life is worth nothing—I know that."

And Deborah Meredith, looking down into the white face lying on the pillow, made her choice.

CHAPTER II

Meager States His Plan.

It was the memory of this scene—her promise to Mrs. Meager, and her dislike of Bob Meager—which left the girl unobservant of the desert view outspread below, and thoughtless of the descending night. She had sought this spot to be alone, to escape any possibility of encountering Bob, and to turn over once more in her mind the conditions which had made her virtually a prisoner. There had been an expression in the man's eyes that had frightened her more than she would even confess to herself—an insolent boldness, a sneering dominance which haunted her memory with its sinister threat. He was playing with her as a cat plays with a mouse, biding the proper time to strike. He knew he could afford to wait; that she was utterly in his power. His very silence and aloofness increased her alarm, her dread of the morrow.

Not a day passed without witnessing a change in the personnel of the ranch. She might not have observed this, but for her own personal suspicion. Old Tom Meager would never employ a Mexican on the place, nor trust them; but now, one by one, the old hands disappeared, while swarthy-skinned riders appeared mysteriously to take their places. Within six days the transformation was practically complete, and Bob Meager was surrounded by those of his own kind. Creatures of his will, denizens of that world he knew best. This change was to Deborah's mind, ominous of evil; it increased her fear, and rendered more difficult any possibility of escape. The walls closed her more tightly in. What did this man plan to do with her? The question could not be answered; she could only wait fearfully for his actions to make reply. Yet it must be evil; she could conceive nothing else in Bob Meager's heart.

Her thought was not with the wild desert scene outstretched before her, or the beauty of that red sunset behind those far-off peaks. She was not even conscious of her more immediate surroundings, remaining totally oblivious to the solitary horseman, approaching along the barely discernible trail skirting the edge of the mesa. The horse was moving slowly, with wearily drooping head, and on the hard-beaten sand the hoofs made no noise sufficient to disturb her. It was on the farther edge of the chaparral that the horseman suddenly perceived the girl, her white skirt showing conspicuous in the purple light, and quickly held up his pony. She had evidently neither seen nor heard his approach, and he swung silently over the animal's head, before advancing toward her on foot. It was not until he had reached within a very few yards of her position that Deborah became aware of some presence near, and arose instantly to her feet, facing him in sudden alarm. It was too late then to flee; the man blocked the only path available.

"Frightened you, didn't I?" he asked carelessly, flipping a weed with his quirt, but with searching eyes on her face. "You must have been in some daydream, I'll say."

"—I was thinking," she answered, a little catch in the voice, but as instantly determining to tell the truth, and thus learn, if possible, his purpose, "of what you intend to do with me. I—I cannot continue to bear things as they are."

"Why, they are not so bad, are they?" he asked provokingly, but making no effort to advance. "This is the same ranch to which you came voluntarily; I have not cut down your wages, and the food, and all that, is just as good. Do you mean you don't like it here any longer?"

"I certainly do not under the circumstances. I am no longer here of my own free will."

"Oh, is that it? Well, perhaps we can remedy that trouble. Sit down there again while we talk it over."

"I prefer to stand."

"All right then, only it ain't going to do you no good to be offish about it. I'll tell you that at the start. You ought to know by this time that I ain't the playing sort. Found any way to leave yet? I reckon not, or you wouldn't be here. Well, that lesson ought to mean something to you. I've left you alone for three days now, just to let it sink in."

"That I could not escape from here without assistance?"

"Sure; there ain't no way for a woman—a tenderfoot—to get across that desert without help of some kind, and a horse. I reckon you are smart enough to know that. It was mostly on your account I sent them old punchers away, an' got a lot o' Mex in to ride herd, an' do whatever odd jobs were needed. There ain't nobody round who cares a whoop in h—I would that happens. You better let that soak in, too, first of all. Then it will be easier for us to come to an understanding."

"An understanding?" she asked in surprise. "You desire to explain, then? Yet first you threaten me?"

He laughed.

"Threaten, h—h—! I don't have to threaten; I'm holding all the cards." He took a step forward, and, as the girl drew slightly back from his approach, his face quickly darkened with anger. "You don't want me to touch you, hey? or come near you? All right, I'll wait, but just the same you'll do just what I tell you to. Sit down there on that log. You hear me? Sit down!"

She took the place designated, realizing the utter uselessness of refusal, while he remained standing, with one foot insolently planted on the log beside her.

"You're sure a wildcat, but I'll tame you!"

Trouble Ahead for Pussy.

Mattie came running into the house, excitedly exclaiming, "My pussy has borne five kittens! I don't know how she'll manage to take care of five children when it keeps me and you busy every minute with nothing but twine, muvver."

126,000 Miles of Cloth for Cement Sacks

To keep cement moving from the mills to the many building jobs always under way, cement manufacturers require an astonishing quantity of sacks.

This year the industry has considerably more than 225,000,000 sacks. These represent enough cotton cloth to make a skirt for every woman and girl in the United States—126,000 miles of 30-inch fabric. Even a moderate sized mill which ships say 1,000,000 barrels a year must have 2,000,000 or so sacks.

When a customer returns a sack he gets credit for it, if it is usable or repairable. The convenient returnable sack means that each plant has to have large departments where men and women sew, sort, clean and count sacks continuously. This work alone costs the industry nearly $1,250,000 a year.

And cement manufacturers keep increasing their sack inventories so that they can ship promptly. Last year they purchased a total of more than 100,000,000 new cotton sacks. For replacements alone over 50,000,000 were needed; for increased supplies over 30,000,000. In addition over 18,000,000 paper bags were used representing 7,000,000 pounds of paper.

This problem of containers causes a large and steadily growing investment by the portland cement industry.

KEPT HATS ON SECOND FLOOR

English Dealer, Following Ancient Custom, Exhibited Only Sample in Show Window.

A man who attended the meetings of the International Chamber of Commerce came back by way of England. He wanted a hat, and a business acquaintance, a man who had lived for years in England, suggested a place to go.

The shop was small and dingy, but its windows held a hat which appealed. An old man appeared to be the only attendant.

"Wait a moment," said the shopkeeper, "and I'll bring down a hat like the one in the window." Bringing down the hat meant a trip up a flight of stairs in the corner of the shop, and while the proprietor was gone the American looked about the place. There were hat boxes on the shelves, but no hats were on display, except in the window. Presently down came the proprietor with the hat. It seemed to be what the American wanted, but he asked to see some other colors. Back up the steps went the shopkeeper, and down he came with more hats.

The purchase was made, and while the hat was being wrapped the American made some inquiries regarding the business. He learned with astonishment that the hat store had been operated for more than a hundred years; that the present proprietor was the grandson of the founder, and that most of the stock of hats had been kept on the floor above the store ever since the business had been started.—Nation's Business.

ARTIST NOT SLEEP WALKER

Noted Cartoonist Failed to "Stay Put" When Conveyed to His Home by Good Friend.

Mr. Ward tells in his "Recollections of a Savage" how Mr. Odell took Phil May home on one occasion, when it became quite obvious that the best and only place for him was bed. Without disturbing Mrs. May, he got the artist onto a couch in the hall, and left him asleep. Mr. Odell, having spent all he had on the cab, set out and tramped back to the Savage club—comforted by the reflection that he had rendered a service to an old friend. Arriving eventually at his destination, footsore and exhausted, he dragged his weary way up the stairs leading to the bar, where he was saddened and surprised to see the triumphant figure of Phil May, glass in hand held aloft, flushed with the joy of having defeated the designs of his Good Samaritan by a swift recovery from the ruse of the sleep on the couch, where Odell had deposited him, and by catching a smart hansom which returned him to the club to put a finish to a great evening.

Make Success of Reindeer Raising.

The experiment which was made some years ago in introducing reindeer into Labrador has conclusively proved that both in Newfoundland and Labrador it is a good economic proposition, writes W. T. Grenfell in Current History. In Alaska it has been so successful that last year, by special arrangement with the Canadian government, the Hudson's Bay company imported a fine herd of 700 deer into Baffin land. We have helped to form another company, which has received special concessions from the Newfoundland government and expects to start with a herd of a thousand deer next spring. The fact that, as a result of the war, the Lapp pastures were greatly restricted, made it possible to secure plenty of animals and herders.

Kind of a Mean Shot.

A small town constable in an eastern state halted a motorist. "Haven't you been reading the signs along the road?"

"Yes."

"What do they say?"

"Twenty-five miles an hour on roads—fifteen miles through towns."

"You should have slowed down," declared the official. "You are now inside our town limits. You admit the signs are plain enough?"

"Plain enough," responded the motorist. "But why don't you label your towns?"

Professional Opinion.

Kathie, who's fluffy and blonde and demure, was having a little trouble with her eyes. It chanced that the specialist to whom she went was young and handsome. Kathie went every day for a week. Then the young man began calling at her home.

One evening dad finally detached himself from the Wild West stories long enough to make an inquiry.

"Well, well, Kathie, what does the doctor say about your eyes?"

"Oh, he says they are beautiful."—New York Sun and Globe.

Motorcars a Terror in China.

The motorcars of Chinese officials are formidable terrors. With furred servants standing on the running boards, they go full speed through the long streets, heedless of life or property, and with no thought for traffic laws. The khaki-clad police hold out their arms in warning, and everybody dashes to the curb as the cars speed by with shrieking sirens.

Two-thirds of the entire output of mercury in this country is produced in California. Texas, Nevada and Arizona are small producers, and it is found in Alaska, Washington, Oregon and Utah.

SKIN BAROMETER OF HEALTH

Cuticle Affords Outward and Visible Sign of Internal Physical Cleanliness.

A lovely skin, aside from being the subject for poetic raptures is a sensitive barometer of your health, says Elizabeth Arden in Arts and Decorations. It is the outward and visible sign of an inward and physical cleanliness. Its smoothness is a symptom of a good digestion and the absence of fevered disturbance. Its clarity is proof of the correct balance of diet. Its pinkness registers the swift dance of blood through the tissues.

The body is like an exquisitely tuned engine. Your food is the fuel. The air you breathe is the draught that quickens the fire into life. If you have been a suburbanite without a faithful furnace man, you have battled to keep a fire flickering, perhaps. You know that there is coal that burns with an even hot flame and leaves a fine ash, without fuss or waste. And there is other coal, that burns stubbornly and only partially and leaves great clinkers to clog the channels of the fire.

Now food is like that, too. Simple foods are digested and assimilated thoroughly. Rich foods, hearty mixtures of meats, pastries, thickened sauces, these foods do not burn as perfectly as fresh vegetables, cereals, whole wheat breads and fruits. You must eat wisely for beauty.

Read the Want Ad Column.

GREAT TEACHER OF VERACITY

Socrates, Originating Genius of Common Sense, an Influence in Anglo-Saxon Civilization.

At the dawn of modern history stands the figure of an old stone-cutter; attractive and quaint, likeable and eccentric, but wholly unimpressive; the last man in the world a sculptor would take for any aspect of human glory.

No picturesque dust of the wilderness stains his shabby garment; no prophetic fire burns in his rather ludicrous eyes. On the contrary, he is a playful, a whimsical, a waggish, an ironical person; in form, comit and clownish, so that he is likened by one of his friends to a cottage loaf; in nature, nearer akin to Bunyan, Samuel Johnson, Sir Thomas Browne, or even Charles Lamb, than to John the Baptist, Mohammed, Luther, Robespierre, or any other firebrand of history.

Such was Socrates, the originating genius of common sense, the great teacher of moral and intellectual veracity, one of the profoundest influences in our Anglo-Saxon civilization.—A Gentleman With a Duster, in "Seven Ages."

NATIONAL HIGHWAYS

WHY SHOULD FRANCE EXCEL

National Highways Saved France in War

France has 24,000 miles of national highways, 160,000 of departmental and intercommunicating highways, and 185,000 miles of parish or vicinal roads. The national highways approximate six and one-half per cent of France's highway system.

There are running on the roads of France 300,000 motor cars, less than one per mile of road.

The United States has 2,882,193 miles of roads, of which a tiny small fraction of one per cent might be designated national highways by a stretch of imagination, which would include roads in national parks and on such reservations as the Canal Zone and the District of Columbia under the term "national highways."

The United States has 13,000,000 motor cars running upon its highways or more than four per mile of road.

Is there any really good reason why the United States should do less in transportation for its people than France? The paved highways of France saved that nation when nothing else could save her! Only the fact that she could transport her armies, her ammunition, her supplies with rapidity and dispatch allowed her to stem the German attack. Had she had such roads as we have, she would be today beneath the heel of the conqueror.

It is no argument to say we do not need national highways, because we are not neighbors to countries which might attack us. France did not build and does not maintain her national highways merely for strategic reasons. She builds and maintains them for economic reasons. If thrifty France can find economy in the national highway idea, why can not the United States find the same benefit in the idea.

MORE TAX-EXEMPT SECURITIES

More than $1,000,000,000 of State and municipal bonds have been sold within past year. For seven months ending July 31 last the exact figures were $644,000,000. This is far beyond the expectations of even the most liberal optimists of a year or two ago.

Inasmuch as tax-exempt issues are being much sought after these days, municipalities are finding that they can finance public improvement projects with comparative ease. This has resulted, bankers claim, not only in using fabulous sums in enterprises upon which no return can be expected, but has made it extremely difficult for industries to compete for needed funds in the open market.

Municipalities have actually overstepped their credit boundaries, beside heaping additional expenses upon the public in the way of taxes.

Not only are direct tax bills rapidly increased by the tax-exempt bond issues but in addition every holder of taxable property pays a double load to make up the loss to the government resulting from the non-taxable income of the holder of tax-exempt bonds.

All property should be taxed and our laws amended to do away with the injustice of the present situation so far as new bond issues are concerned.

POULTRY ASSOCIATION

DeKalb County Men Formed Organization Last Friday, November 2

About fifty DeKalb county farmers met in the city hall at DeKalb last Friday afternoon, November 2, and formed the DeKalb County Poultry association. Another meeting was also held on Wednesday, November 7, which brot out another good attendance. The purpose of this organization is to further the interests of the poultry industry.

It is expected that there will be a poultry show in DeKalb this winter and then the public in general can see just how much benefit is derived from these associations that bring out the best that is in every industry.

In forming this club, Mr. Lyon of the Northern Illinois State Normal was made president and A. F. Keifer of Kingston was elected vice president with Mrs. Shoup as secretary. Frank Rogers, president of the White Leghorn Club of America delivered the address to the assembled audience and it is said that the local organization will have 300 members by spring.

Everyone interested is very welcome to join.

BACK FROM EXTENDED TRIP
Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Pelton returned Monday evening from a six weeks' trip, four of which were spent with the former's mother and brother in Tacoma, Wash.

The journey was made over the C. & N. W. R. R. which boasts a clear track from Chicago to that western city. Thru the Rockies, a distance of some 649 miles, their train of thirteen cars was hauled by one of the monster electric locomotives weighing 280 tons. These engines are of special benefit says Mr. Pelton because of the fact that several tunnels are entered, the largest being 2 1/2 miles in length.

They have much praise for the Puget Sound country and the beautiful cities of Tacoma and Seattle, while mountains at the back, a distance of some forty miles, make a sight never to be forgotten. And of course the inhabitants of this part of the world are all boosters for their particular territory.

On their return journey they visited Minneapolis and Chicago.

NOTES FROM THE COURT HOUSE

After the theft of the cow from Mrs. Greek, Perry, whose record was known, was immediately suspicioned and a warrant sworn out for his arrest. The police authorities at Aurora picked him up on advice of Chief of Police Scott of DeKalb and Sheriff Crawford and Perry was turned over to them last Monday.

Perry it will be remembered was charged with stealing a harness, horse collars, etc., from Clarence Strack, a farmer living near Cortland by whom he was employed. He denied the charge and was placed on trial before a jury in the circuit court. After a trial lasting two days Perry was found guilty and sentenced by Judge Irwin to the Joliet Penitentiary for a term of from 1 to 14 years. After serving eleven months he was paroled. Perry's status now is that of a parole violator who can be turned over to the pen at any time without the formality of a trial.

According to word from the State's Attorneys office Perry will not be held until the next session of the grand jury in February and indicted for the crime of burglary larceny of the cow, as this would burden the county with additional expense, but will be turned over to the penitentiary officials where he will in all probability receive an additional sentence for violating his parole as well as a sentence on his latest offence. At any rate Perry will be taken care of for at least two or three years.

Farming and Banking

There are 1923 banks in Illinois, with a total capital, surplus and undivided profits of well over half a billion dollars. These Illinois banks are the service stations of agriculture and business. Without them business as we know it today would be impossible.

The banks of Illinois want to be of still greater service to their communities, and especially to our farmer patrons. To that end a large number of the leading banks of the state, are beginning this week in Prairie Farmer a series of talks to farmers about banking and credit which will appear every week for three years.

This bank is helping pay the cost of this campaign because we believe it will lead to a better understanding of these questions by Farmers; help us to get better acquainted and to work together better to our mutual advantage and for the upbuilding of our community.

Read these discussions in Prairie Farmer every week, and when you see something that interests you, come in and talk it over with us.

CHANGE NAME TO ARKANSAW

Committee Decided on Indian Name as Official for State Formerly Called Arkansas.

The Arkansaws were a tribe of Indians who roamed the region which now bears their name. When the French missionaries of the time of Marquette came along, they attempted to reproduce phonetically in French the Indian sounds. So they selected "Arkansas" as the best concoction, for the French ending "as" is pronounced as a nasal "ah." As for Kansas, Cortez pronounced it Kansaw. In a military report sent at the time, the name was spelled Kansa, for that was the nearest the English could come to reproducing, phonetically, the French sounds.

In the early days of Arkansas the pronunciation of the name of the state was a variable thing. From 1844 to 1848 Arkansas was represented in the senate by Chester Ashley, who was a New Englander, and Ambrose Simms, who hailed from Tennessee. Mr. Ashley didn't depart from "Arkansas," and Mr. Simms stuck to "Arkansaw." The vice president at the time was George F. Dallas of Pennsylvania, who, it must be admitted, showed much tact; for when he spoke of the state to Ashley he said "Arkansas," and when he mentioned it to Simms he said "Arkansaw." Finally a committee was appointed to settle the matter definitely and Arkansas won.

CATCHING MICE WITH MUSIC

Strains of Classical Pieces on Gramophones Said to Attract Unsuspecting Rodents Into Traps.

The use of music with animals is well understood in the East, where the snake-charmer makes the deadly cobra dance to his piping.

Now it is suggested that gramophones should be installed in every cowhouse and henhut, for it is said that the sweet strains of a Guards' band, the trills of a Melba, or the top notes of a Caruso have a magical effect upon both milk and egg production, and that the hen who comes to listen remains to lay.

But even pleasure has its drawbacks, and what is meant to the cow and the Buff Orpington is death and destruction to the rat and the mouse.

For instance, it is reported that the musical mouse-trap is extremely deadly, and that anyone bent on clearing his house or barns of these destructive rodents should not set a trap which can do nothing but wait for the coming of its prey, but one which can play, say, a Bach fugue or a Beethoven symphony.

It has been found that the tinkling strains of music attract mice irresistibly, so that they wander gayly into the trap, thinking, evidently, that it is a concert arranged on their behalf. There are cases recorded of half-a-dozen being caught at once.

His Own Opinion.

Gap Johnson of Rumpus Ridge leaned over his rickety fence and nonchalantly contemplated a covered wagon which was being snarled along the big road by a yoke of oxen.

"Howdy!" he saluted when the equipage finally arrived in front of his residence. "Whur are you—p'tul—going to?"

"Well, I'll tell you," responded the venerable man who walked beside the oxen. "I loaded up my family and one thing and another a spell ago, aiming to go to Oklahomy, as it were. But I've had to turn out'n the road and stop so often to let automobiles, wagons, and so forth go by, and then prob'ly got stuck in the mud and had a h—l of a time in dragging out and getting started ag'in, that, all things considered, I don't reckon I'm going no place."—Kansas City Star.

Relics of the Fourteenth Century.

An interesting relic of the early Fourteenth century was discovered by workmen when they were excavating below the foundation of a disused building in the ancient parish church of Mold, Flintshire. They unearthed a tombstone which bears an inscription showing that "Gwenllan, daughter of Ieuan ap David ap Iorwerth," was buried there. History records that the latter was one of the gentlemen of "Ffynnt" who did homage to the first prince of Wales at Chester in 1301. When the old tower of the parish church was taken down in

WHY TRADE AT HOME?

'Getting Personal Service'

This is the second of a series of short articles which point out the folly of any man turning his back on the merchants and other business men of his home town, to deal with business institutions located at a distance. By following the ideas here presented you will materially save.

A Satisfied Customer is the Local Merchant's Greatest Asset

Local Merchants Know Your Requirements

Your continued Patronage is the Big Item

Getting What You Need

Not only does the man who buys at home save in actual outlay of money, but he gets infinitely better service.

When he buys of a catalog house, for instance, there is no contact, no human element in the transaction. He picks, out in a profusely illustrated catalog, the article which from the picture and glowing description, he thinks is what he wants. He writes his letter and sends the money. drops it into the mail basket. That's all. But when he buys from a home town man, it is different. He gets personal service. He gets the human element in the trade. He gets the benefit or the advice of his friends, the merchant, and he looks over his entire stock of goods if he chooses. He knows what he is getting. He is not buying a pig in a poke.

Does anyone talk it over with him? Advise with him whether that is just the article he needs and wants. Tell him that for a little more—or even a little less—he can get something more suitable? Show him a number of articles and let him look them over, examine them, and take the one he likes best? Nothing of the kind. A mechanical order-filler, half grown boy or underpaid girl, takes from the stock room an article—just any article of that lot—wraps it up and street, or at church, or at the movies, or at a friend's house—perhaps in his own home. He could not afford it even if he were a man mean enough, to sell them something he knows they should not have.

Rather, he will point out that something else would be more suitable. Many times he will not have just the thing he advises you to get, but tells you that you can find it down the street, or if you can wait a few days he will order it for you.

That element of personal service enters in greater or less degree into the business of every home town merchant. Even if prices in the long run were lower at the city stores and the catalog houses—which they are not, quality considered—it would still pay better, in view of this personal service, to patronize the hometown man.

IS A POWERFUL DISINFECTANT

Ozone Many Times Stronger Than Many of the Agents That Are in Common Use.

Ozone is a powerful bactericidal agent, and can be used as a disinfectant in place of sulphur dioxide, formaldehyde or hydrocyanic acid. In fact, it is 160 times as powerful a disinfectant as sulphur dioxide, 37 times as powerful as formaldehyde, and nearly twice as powerful as hydrocyanic acid gas, writes Floyd W. Parsons in the World's Work. As a deodorant it has no superior. In the case of delicate odors, it destroys them, while with stronger odors it acts as a masking agent, due to its action on the olfactory membrane. When high concentrations of ozone are used, even the most powerful odors are destroyed.

As to the effect of low concentrations of ozone on the human body, there is considerable evidence coming from hand which indicates that the use is not only harmless, but that the effect on the individual is beneficial. Medical research has developed the fact that when objectionable odors are present in the air people breathe, their respiration is depressed and the result is a deficient oxidation of the blood. Therefore, whether one really masks an odor or completely destroys it, the effect is healthful because the individual breathes more freely and fully. In other words, when bad odors are present in the air, there is an involuntary contraction of respiration, of which bodily reaction the individual is entirely unconscious.

Dancing Most Ancient Art. Dancing is the oldest art in the world.

RED HAIR IN MEN AND WOMEN

Altogether Charming on the Fair Sex, Says Writer, but Seldom on the Sterner.

An English writer has recorded the following observations about red hair: "With apologies to many of mine (I cannot remember many) who may have been entitled to the name of Rufus, I am bound to say that I never knew any man who would not have looked better with hair of any other color," says Prof. Saintsbury in "A Scrap Book."

"On the other hand, red hair in girls and women is often—I think much more often than not—perfectly charming. Brick-dust red, with no gloss, is ugly enough, no doubt; but then all hair—except a very peculiar kind of black—requires gloss. Every other shade, from the lightest nutturtum to the darkest auburn chestnut, can be beautiful. This Venice knew, and, long before it, the Greeks. The Romans did not like red hair, but the Romans were people of very doubtful taste in many points of esthetics."

Cat Has Many Relations.

The unsuspecting cat has many kinsfolk in the matter of names. Conspicuous among these is the catfish. The naming of the common denizen of fresh water has been explained in more ways than one, and the reader may take his choice. One recognized authority contents himself with the statement that the name, as commonly applied to the fishes of the family Siluridae, is an allusion to the long barbels or feelers about the mouth, which have been regarded as resembling the whiskers of a cat. This explanation is widely accepted, but the other authorities set forth a probable reason for the name in the statement that when a fish of this species is captured and brought to the surface it makes a sound like the purring of a cat. Another offers both the barbels and the purring and throws in the added suggestion that the name was influenced by "some other fancied resemblance to a cat."

They Knew the Witness.

A circuit judge was holding court in a small backwoods town. A local character came up for trial, took the stand in due time and spun his narrative. The judge, something of a wag, charged the jury as follows: "If you believe the defendant's statement, he is guilty. That is all."

The jury brought in a verdict of acquittal. Somewhat surprised, the judge after court asked the foreman why such a verdict was rendered. "We thought we were following instructions, your honor," exclaimed the foreman. "We know that bird. You couldn't believe him on oath."

Lost His Opportunity.

I was strolling along with my sweetheart at a fair, very happy, until I discovered her former beau showing honeyed smiles on her. As she didn't ignore him, I became worried, and resolved to propose at once. While deciding just how, I absent-mindedly gazed at the sky and allowed her to lead the way. Finally I implored her to be my own little "dove." "I'm afraid I'd be a hungry dove," she answered; "I've led you to three ice cream stands and two lunch counters, but you just gazed at the sky, so I'm going back to Jim."—Chicago Journal.

GYPSY DANCES WORTH WHILE

Really Interesting, According to Traveler in Granada—Women Expert With the Castanets.

It was interesting going to see the gypsy dances in Granada. Rain had caused the bullfight to be postponed, so we drove in a horse cab out to the suburb where the tziganes live in their caves carved in the rocky hillside. You get a guide and agree to pay the gypsies 50 pesetas. There are about eight women who dance and two men who play guitars.

Some of the women dance well, better than most stage dancers, and all are experts at rattling the castanets. In the low-vaulted cave the clacking of eight pairs of castanets produces an overpowering rhythm that penetrates and pervades one's whole consciousness, bringing realization of the strange, vivid, restless, colorful genius of the ancient gypsy race.

But when a number is finished and the dancers stop to rest they are merely gypsies again. They look at their guests inquiringly and make gestures of drinking. "They want you to buy them a bottle of wine," the guide explains. So you order a bottle sent in from the little bar next door (which is doubtless under the same management). Soon, however, they want another bottle. But you tell the guide that you have come to see them dance, not drink. He explains it to the gypsies, and they laugh and go on with the dancing.

When the show is over they want to tell your fortune, and then all the neighboring gypsies flock in, carrying their babies in their arms. Each baby wants a penny. When you run out of pennies they will accept cigarettes.—Chicago Evening Post.

AWARDED HIM ROYAL HONORS

American Visitor in Europe Mistakenly Accorded Deference That is Reserved for Rulers.

A visitor to one of the hotels at Carlsbad tells the story of a man to whom the servants and the proprietor paid the most profound attention. He was royally treated, rather to the neglect of the rest of the guests.

Every time he came out of the hotel door a strip of green carpet would be rolled down in front of him and the attendants would take off their caps and bow in the most deferential and obsequious manner. Neither the visitor thus so strangely honored nor the other guests could make out what this deference meant.

At last some one looked in the printed register. There was the entry: "James the 1st, king of Buffalo, N. Y."

It was the native printer's rendering of the American name—James I. King, Buffalo, N. Y.—Kansas City Star.

Explaining Mississippi's Flow.

Motion "up" or "down" properly defined, refers to movements against the attraction of gravity or to those acting with it. Water acted upon by gravity alone always flows down hill and the Mississippi river, which rises at a point about 1,500 feet above the level of the sea, is not an exception to the rule. The statement that the Mississippi flows up hill is based on the idea that "up" is always from the center of the earth and "down" toward it. If these were the only meanings of the words then it might be said that the Mississippi river flows up hill, for the polar radius of the earth is over twelve miles shorter than the equatorial radius and as the Mississippi river extends over 18 degrees of latitude, its proper proportion of this difference amounts to more than four miles, the river's source being that much nearer the center of the earth than its mouth.

Why He Selected Motto.

A man walked into a sign-painting establishment and asked: "Can you fix up a sort of placard or house motto for me?" "Certainly," said the painter. "Put a border around it and beautify it a little?" "We can do all that," the proprietor assured him.

"Make it as pretty as you like." "What is the wording to be?" "It's a quotation from Shakespeare. You remember Puck says: 'I'll put a girdle around the earth in forty minutes.'"

Seeing that the sign painter looked puzzled, he added: "I want it as a gentle reminder to place on my wife's dressing table."

Then He Kicked Himself.

Last year I moved from my farm to another farm five miles south of it, writes a correspondent. As the roads were bad, I left my car until the road dried. One evening my son took me to the place where I left the car, and then came home. It was dark when I went out to get the car. The man who had my farm and I tried to crank the car, but weren't successful. Then we tied it on behind his car and pulled it for a long distance. As we found it impossible to start it, I walked home. The next morning I went back to locate the trouble. I found I did not have the switch turned on.

Power of Custom.

"You have succeeded in remaining in office a great many years; you must have pleased some folks." "I don't know as I always pleased them," replied Senator Sorghum. "I just kind of got to be a habit with them."

First Punctuation Marks.

In the oldest manuscripts the words usually join each other without break or separation. Manuscripts without punctuation marks of any kind generally are accepted as predating the eighteenth century. Those which have no capital or other divisions are always very old, and the fewer and easier the abbreviations, the older it is. The most ancient manuscripts still preserved are those written in Egyptian hieroglyphs. Next to them in point of age are the Latin manuscripts found at Herculaneum.

Driving any kind of a machine—ensilage cutter, thresher, silo filler, wood saw, hay baler or feed grinder, as well as small fixed position work, Rusco grips the pulley immediately, transmits maximum horse-power, lasts longer and gives the satisfaction you can figure in dollars. No "breaking in" necessary.

Important to All Women Readers of This Paper

Thousands upon thousands of women have kidney or bladder trouble and never suspect it. Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease.

If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased.

You may suffer pain in the back, headache and loss of ambition. Poor health makes you nervous, irritable and maybe dependent; it makes any one so.

But hundreds of women claim that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, by restoring health to the kidneys, proved to be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions.

Many send for a sample bottle to see what Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder medicine, will do for them. By enclosing ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., you may receive sample size bottle by parcel post. You can purchase medium and large size bottles at all drug stores.—Advertisement.

KLAN EMPEROR'S LAWYER SLAIN

Slaying at Atlanta, Ga., Comes From Rivalry Over Offices.

COURT FEUD BRINGS TRAGEDY

Atlanta, Ga.—William S. Coburn, attorney for the Simmons faction of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, and prominent figure in a series of sensational events involving that organization, was shot four times and almost instantly killed while he sat in his office in the Atlanta Trust company building.

Phillip E. Fox, publicity representative for the imperial palace and editor of "The Knight Hawk," official organ of the Evans faction, did the shooting. He is in jail, accused of murder. Col. William J. Simmons, emperor, and H. W. Evans, imperial wizard, are fighting for control of the Klan. Fox declared he was glad Col. Coburn was dead.

"I may hang for this, but he was planning to ruin me and I had just as soon be hanged as for him to have ruined me."

Mrs. M. I. Holbrook, stenographer for Coburn, and Mrs. Oscar Heyman, a client, witnessed the shooting. Fox came to Coburn's office shortly after 4 o'clock, and finding Coburn engaged in conversation with W. T. Roger, said to be an attaché of the office of Henry J. Norton, head of Atlanta Klan No. 1, stated that he would return in about an hour, "when we can talk business in private," according to Mrs. Holbrook.

"He had just about had time to reach the hall and turn around when he re-entered the office and, without a word, began firing at Mr. Coburn, who sat at his desk," said Mrs. Holbrook.

"There were four or five shots. Mr. Coburn screamed after each one. After the last shot Fox left the office, throwing his gun to the floor as he passed through the door. Mr. Coburn was lying on the floor, screaming, and blood was spurting from a wound in his face. Mrs. Heyman and myself ran down the hall to the office of the Fulton Finance company."

Alberta Votes Wet in Both Country and the Cities

Winnipeg, Man.—Following in the steps of Manitoba on the liquor question, the province of Alberta voted wet—in favor of government control of the sale of liquor, as against the present dry status of the province. The prohibition vote from the country districts was in favor of liquor control by the government. The cities went largely the same way. Alberta makes the fourth province in Canada to vote wet, Quebec, British Columbia and Manitoba being the other three.

Berlin Mobs Attack Jews and Loot Their Homes

Berlin.—Several hundred Polish Jews were dragged from their homes in Grenadierstrasse and cruelly beaten by a mob of unemployed or poorly paid workers. The crowd, angered by the bread and food prices, went into this quarter, peopled by speculators, small merchants and exchange brokers, to get revenge. While the police looked on the workers systematically plundered the food shops and guided private flats.

Uncle Sam's Panama Canal Profit Bigger Than Post Office

Washington.—The Panama canal is now making for the United States government a greater net profit than the post office, according to Secretary of War Weeks. Mothers Advise Their Daughters to Rely upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to Keep Them in Health

A Mother's Advice Prevents Operation

Corona, N. Y.—"I had a terrible pain in my left side and had to go to bed every so often. Doctors had told me I must be operated on, but I do not believe in the knife and would rather suffer than go through it. My mother also did not believe in it and she made me take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound because it had helped her. It has also helped me for I am better and able to do all my work. I recommend your medicine and give you permission to use my letter as a testimonial."—Mrs. J. Busch, Jr., 11 S. Railroad Avenue, Corona, N. Y.

gave her Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and now she is a healthy, happy, hearty, strong girl and weighs 120 pounds. She has no difficulty in doing her "gym" work, and she works at home every night and morning, too. I am a mother who can certainly praise your medicine, and if it will be of any benefit you may use this letter as a reference."—Mrs. GEORGE E. WHITACRE, 621 W. Madison Ave., Mahoningtown, Pa.

Every girl wants to be healthy and strong, and every mother wants her daughter to do well in school and to enjoy herself at all times.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a splendid medicine for young girls just entering womanhood. Mothers may depend upon it. Remember, it is prepared from roots and herbs, contains nothing that can injure, and tends to tone up and strengthen the organs concerned, so that they will work in a healthy and normal manner. For nearly fifty years it has been used by women of all ages, and these women know its great value. Let it help your daughter and yourself.

A Sickly Child

Mahoningtown, Pa.—"I would like to say a few words about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. About a year ago I thought it would be necessary for me to take my daughter out of school. She was losing weight, was nervous, and when she would come home from school she would drop into a chair and cry, and say, 'Mamma, I don't believe I can go to school another day!' I

Things to Be Made at Home
SHOE TREES NICE GIFTS

Among the gifts that are sure of a welcome every Christmas are shoe trees, furnished up with various pretty, and sometimes amusing, decorations. The trees pictured have funny little faces cleverly painted on the round ends. The toes are painted in two colors and the shanks wound with narrow satin ribbon ending in bows below the faces.

CANDLES AS PRESENTS

Christmas without candles would be as disappointing as summer without flowers and every home-maker knows their charm and decorative value. A candlestick of paper rope, carrying a tall candle decorated with sealing wax paint, is a lovely homemade gift for either men or women friends. The rope may be bought ready for weaving and it is an easy matter to paint the candle with sealing wax paints.

FOR THE CHRISTMAS TREE

Here are some new, homemade ornaments for the Christmas tree. They include a gay painted parakeet, with a peanut body, fastened to a wooden standard by wire. Crepe paper in bright colors makes his crest, wings and tail. A wooden skewer, with a paper doll face fastened at one end and a sleigh bell at the other, is dressed up in strips of bright crepe paper. Mosquito netting, yarn and a paper face make the boy with stick candy in his arms and legs and small candles in his body. Colored gum drops fastened on small wires make tiny bouquets and plants.

IN SEALING-WAX PAINTS

Plain white brushes and combs for flowers done in sealing wax paints, and small tin boxes are made decorative by covering them with the melted wax in varied colors, blended into one another while they are soft.

BUILD CAVES UNDER HOMES NATIVES ARE TOO POLITE

Arabians Construct Underground Chambers in the Holy City of Nejeef—Refuge for Criminals.

Papuan Unable to Carry Friend Across Kills Him Because He Did Not Wish to Be Rude.

Out in the Arabian desert, five days by caravan from Bagdad, stands the holy city of Nejeef, and in the whole of the town of almost 100,000 persons there is hardly a house with windows. Also, beneath many homes are immense caves, hewn out of the limestone that underlies the desert round about. Many of these caves are built one room below the other, some of the lower apartments being 100 feet below the street level.

Related to the weakness which induces the Papuan native to lie in order to humor the European is the courtesy which he often displays on the most unexpected occasions.

These underground chambers are reached by winding stairways, also hewn from the rock. They were originally built to provide a refuge from the intense heat of midsummer, but in many instances they have now become a refuge for Arab criminals and robbers who dwell at Nejeef and prey on the caravans of Mecca pilgrims.

You may tell the same story two or three times to a Papuan, but he will laugh just as heartily or express just the same astonishment the last time as the first. No hint will escape him that he has heard the story before. And even in the crimes which he not infrequently commits—mostly crimes of violence—he is not always forgetful of the rules of politeness.

Nejeef itself is a great pilgrim city, and each year thousands of devotees from Persia and Turkestan make the journey to the holy Nejeef, bringing with them the salted and dried bodies of their dead for burial in sacred soil outside the city walls. Here a vast city of tombs has grown up.—Detroit News.

"He wanted me to carry him across the wateg," said a prisoner who was charged with murdering another native whom he had met and done to death on the bank of a river, "but he looked very heavy. Of course I could not be so rude as to refuse to carry him, so I thought that the best way out of the difficulty was to kill him."

No matter how careful a woman may be, she generally loses her name at the marriage altar.

Courteous, too, was the explanation given to me by some natives of the mountains inland of Rigo, who were charged with attacking a police patrol. "We had never seen policemen before," they said, "and we did not know what they were. If we had thought for a moment," they added, "that you attached any importance to these persons, we certainly would not have thrown spears at them. We did not think that they were any good."—Stead's Review, Melbourne.

RAILROADS GAINING STRENGTH

Gradually Resuming Prosperity Destroyed by Government Operation

Altho the freight traffic offered the railroads this year has been the largest in history and much greater than was anticipated, the carriers have made good on their pledge of last April to move it promptly and efficiently, according to C. H. Markham, president of the Illinois Central System.

It was predicted last spring that railway freight traffic would reach new high levels during this summer and fall. In preparation for the task of moving this traffic, the railroads announced that expenditures upon additions and betterments to their properties would amount to more than $1,000,000,000 for the year and agreed to bend their efforts toward speeding up traffic, reducing the number of cars and locomotives out of service for repairs, laying in surplus coal stocks during the summer in order to release equipment for other use later in the year and carrying forward their construction and maintenance programs to have as much work as possible completed by fall. These goals have been substantially met.

Between January 1 and October 1 the railroads installed 134,638 new freight cars and 2,963 new locomotives, and on the latter date they had on order, with deliveries being made daily 64,601 new freight cars and freight cars and 2,963 new locomotives. The railroads had in reserve 17,663,448 tons of coal, as compared with 6,756,886 tons on January 1.

Even with this unprecedented volume of traffic, Mr. Markham said, it is feared the railroads will fall to earn for the year the 5 3/4 per cent upon their tentative valuation to which the Interstate Commerce Commission has held them entitled.
