

EMMA SWANSON DEAD

PASSED AWAY LAST THURSDAY EVENING IN ELGIN

HAD BEEN ILL NEARLY A YEAR

Funeral Held at M. E. Church in Genoa, Sunday, April 7, Rev. Ream Officiating

Miss Emma J. Swanson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Swanson, died at the home of her sister, Mrs. Macauley, in Elgin, last Thursday, after a long illness of consumption.

The funeral services were held at the Genoa M. E. church last Sunday, Rev. T. E. Ream officiating.

The following obituary was prepared and read by the pastor: Our deceased sister, Emma J. Swanson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Swanson was born in Genoa township, DeKalb Co., Illinois, on the 11th day of November, 1880 and died at the home of her sister, Mrs. Thomas E. Macauley of Elgin, Ill., Thursday evening, April 4, 1907, being about 26 years and 6 months of age at the time of her decease.

Miss Swanson had lived in Genoa all of her lifetime, and has consequently been well known in this community.

When in her childhood she attended a district school in Genoa township and later she attended the Genoa High School here in the village of Genoa where she made a great many very dear friends, friends who will ever remember her true and beautiful character.

Beside her sorrowing parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Swanson, so well known in Genoa, she leaves three brothers and three sisters who naturally bow down in deep sorrow because of the departure of a sister so patient, kind and unselfish.

Her brothers are: Mr. D. W. Swanson of Genoa township, B. F. Swanson of Des Moines, Iowa, and Chas. G. Swanson of Chicago, Ill. Her sisters are: Mrs. Frank Carlson of St. Charles, Ill., Mrs. Niles Danielson of Omaha, Neb., and Mrs. Thos. Macauley of Elgin, Ill.

But beside the members of her own immediate family, there are many others, both distant relatives and very dear and life long friends who deeply mourn because one so amiable and so much loved by all has been called from their midst in the very morning of life.

Emma was baptized in the Christian faith in her infancy, having been presented by her parents for the same, and later she learned the nature and end of Christian baptism.

She united with the Genoa M. E. Church on probation in 1901 and joined the Epworth League about five years ago and was a member of both at the time of her death. She was interested in Bible study and joined the Epworth League Bible study class about two years ago.

She was a lover of good books and prized them highly both for herself and others.

She had not been in robust health for several years past and for the last year of her life her health seemed to fail rapidly, though everything that loving hearts and willing hands could do, was done for her comfort and recovery.

For the past few weeks before the end came she seemed to realize that her earthly journey was almost over, but she did not fear death. The promises of the Bible were precious to her. She loved her Lord and Saviour and was reconciled and ready to go whenever in His Fatherly wisdom God saw fit to call her to her eternal home.

The funeral services were held on Sunday at 10:30 o'clock at the home and at 11 o'clock at the M. E. Church. Rev. T. E. Ream, pastor of the deceased, preached a very comforting and beautiful sermon from the text in St. Matthew, chapter 5, verse 8, "Blessed are the pure in heart for they shall see God." Miss Alice Davis sang two very beautiful and appropriate solos at the services in the church.

The funeral was largely attended, many relatives and friends from out of town being present. The floral pieces were numerous and very beautiful.

A New Question

Not since the days of the Dred Scott decision have the words of authority spoken from the bench caused such disquiet and rejoicing as have come since Judge Artman of Indiana declared that the Liquor License is unconstitutional.

The disquiet is among the liquor sellers, the rejoicing is among the host of temperance, who are fighting the dark traffic to a finish. Commenting on this remarkable finding, Ulysses G. Humphrey, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League for the state of Indiana, says: "The argument is strong and we believe unanswerable. Sooner or later the Supreme Court of our United States will uphold the decision." — Ogle County Republican

Card of Thanks

We desire to express our sincere gratitude for the kindness of friends during the sad hours following the death of our loved one. For the singing and generous floral offerings as the funeral we are especially thankful.

SEVENTY-TWO YEARS OLD

Family Gathering at the Home of Mrs. Judith Sowers

Last Saturday, April 6, the relatives of Mrs. Judith Sowers decided to remind her that she was 72 years old, so with well filled baskets they appeared at her home and asked permission to eat dinner with her which was readily granted. The younger women of the party proceeded to make themselves at home and soon had the table spread and loaded with all the good things they could think of, from George Sower's yellow legged chicken to Aunt Mary's 5-story cream cake.

After dinner, which was thoroughly enjoyed by twenty-four people, a social time was spent in reminiscences of the changes which had taken place since Mrs. Sowers came overland from New York state with her father's family nearly seventy years ago, when there was no such thing as a railroad or telephone nor any of the things that are now considered necessities. Some of the younger ones, as D. S. Brown and George Sowers, could remember when the first trains ran west from Chicago and of going to Cortland which was the nearest point to see them.

Those present were: Mesdames Eliza A. Brown, Judith Sowers, Abbie Patterson and Lizzie Holroyd, Messrs. and Mesdames J. P. Brown, J. W. Brown, D. S. Brown, C. A. Brown, D. H. Kelley, G. W. Sowers, Fred Renn and two children, Judith and Eva; Ashael Stiles, Messrs. Will and Elmer Sowers.

Mrs. Sowers was presented with a handsome hand bag and several other appropriate gifts. Congratulations and regrets were received from other relatives who could not be present. At an early hour they departed for their homes, wishing Mrs. Sowers many happy returns of the day.

Big Fire at Hinckley

Damage to the extent of nearly $5,000 was done at a fire near Hinckley Tuesday morning. A large new barn on the Ott farm, three and one-half miles northwest of Hinckley, was burned to the ground. Twenty-eight head of cattle were burned to death, besides a number of tons of hay and several thousand bushels of grain. The prompt action of the neighbors saved the house.

MORE ELECTRIC ROAD TALK

Meeting of Officers Held at DeKalb Inst Monday

A special message to the Rockford Star from Sycamore has the following to say regarding the recent meeting of electric officials at the county seat:

A meeting of the stockholders and officers of the DeKalb-Sycamore & Interurban Electric railway company was held in the company's office in DeKalb on Monday.

There were present among others, J. G. McMichael, president, of Chicago; William Jarvis and C. Henning Chambers, both of Louisville, Ky.; C. K. Minary, Springfield, Ill; John McMichael, DeKalb, secretary and treasurer, and D. Thompson, DeKalb, general superintendent.

The meeting was called pursuant to a published notice for the purpose of increasing the capital stock from $100,000 to $1,500,000, and to provide for securing the additional bonds by a mortgage on the company's franchises and property.

There is no doubt that the company expects to extend its road north from Sycamore to Belvidere, as it has before admitted.

MILLER-LEONARD

Wedding Ceremony Takes Place at the M. E. Parsonage

Mr. G. H. Miller and Miss Sabrina Leonard were married at the M. E. parsonage last Thursday afternoon shortly before four o'clock, by the ring ceremony, Rev. T. E. Ream officiating. The bride and groom were attended by Mr. W. M. Adams and Coral McCadden. The couple left for Chicago over the Illinois Central at 4:21, returning to Genoa the first of this week.

Mr. Miller is general sales manager for the Eureka Electric Company, and, altho he has resided in Genoa a comparatively short time, he has by his gentlemanly bearing made many true friends.

The bride is a daughter of the late Patrick and Jeanette Leonard and has resided in this vicinity all her life. She is a beautiful and accomplished lady, being a graduate of the Genoa high school, class of 1906.

For the present Mr. and Mrs. Miller will have rooms at the home of Mrs. Snow on Genoa street.

Offer $1,000 Reward

The McHenry county board of supervisors has offered a reward of $1,000 for the conviction of the person who murdered Deputy Game Warden Earl Eldredge last February. Eldredge's body was found in the woods near Richmond on February 26 with a bullet through the heart. Apparently he was shot with his own revolver after a desperate struggle with some unknown person. The relatives have demanded more thorough action from the authorities to solve the mystery, as the usual methods were unavailing and this led to the offering of the reward.

Grading Begins

A gang of men with horses and tools arrived in Genoa this week and the work of grading for the new Illinois central side track begins at once. It will be only a short time now before cars will be let down to the piano factory grounds.

BRAVE DEEDS THAT HAVE WON CARNEGIE MEDALS

New York.—Two years ago Andrew Carnegie conceived the novel idea of discovering and rewarding true heroism wherever it may occur. For this purpose a hero fund commission was appointed whose preliminary labors have now been completed. Deeds of daring, whether by land or sea, in the effort to save life, have received due recognition in this way, while the task of the commission has resulted, besides, in bringing together a series of little tales of human pluck, endurance and self-sacrifice, the reading of which is bound to give an uplifting sense of some of the noblest qualities of men and women when brought face to face with the peril that, at some supreme moment, threatens the lives of their fellow beings.

Of the 63 cases of heroism which the commission, after prolonged and careful investigation, has deemed worthy of public recognition, the following have been selected on account of the novel human interest which characterizes them. They tell of the courage and humanity of men, women, and even children, in all walks of life, and in every section of the United States. Not every hero thus chronicled has succeeded in the rescue that he has planned, while numbers have lost their own lives in the effort to save the lives of others. It forms a striking record altogether unique among human annals, and may be taken as a true and lasting tribute to the self-sacrificing love of man for man.

Maude Titus

In Casco Bay, near Yarmouth, Me., in the summer of 1904, a deed of generous heroism was performed by a girl of 16. Maude Titus, a student at the Newark (N. J.) high school, was out on a pleasure trip in a sailing yacht with some of her friends. An accident occurred in changing the course of the yacht, and the captain, his niece, Miss Titus, and her friend, Miss Reifensnyder, were thrown into the water. The captain rescued his niece by a lifeline which had been thrown to him from the boat, and he himself then followed her to safety, leaving Miss Titus and Miss Reifensnyder to struggle for themselves in the waves. Miss Titus was a poor swimmer, and her friend was utterly helpless in the water. Instead of striking out for the boat, however, which she could have reached with ease, Miss Titus remained with the half-drowning girl. She did not attempt to swim with her, but took hold of her, calmed her, and endeavored to hold her head above water until a boat was sent to the rescue. For this act of heroism Miss carious conditions, O'Brien quickly determined on a plan of rescue. Dashing up the stairways of an adjoining house until he reached the fourth floor, he made his way along a series of window ledges to the fire escape where Mrs. Eyl and her terrified children stood. From this perilous position he passed the latter to persons in a neighboring flat, and then handed Mrs. Eyl, who was unconscious from fright and the suffocating effects of the smoke, to a fireman who mounted a ladder to one of the fourth-story windows. O'Brien himself nearly lost his life in the flames and smoke, and was carried to the street by firemen. The commission has awarded him a silver medal for his bravery.

James Gilmer

A race to death in a Monongahela river flood was the end of two friends, one of whom was trying to save the other. The waters of the river had been swelled to giant proportions two to atoms. Hughes, who was under cover, saw the imminent peril of his comrade, and dashed out to save him. He caught him as he was about to stumble over a precipice and dragged him back over the place where the blast was to be set off. Both men were caught, however, within the danger line and both were badly hurt. Hughes' clothing caught fire from the flames which enveloped the body of Owens, whom he saved, and for a long time he was incapacitated from work. The commission has sent him a silver medal and $250.

Lucy E. Ernst

It was a unique deed of heroism that won for Miss Ernst, of Philadelphia, one of the commission's silver medals. Two years ago she was taking an outing in the country with a friend, Harry E. Schoenut, a lad of 16. The two trapped through the woods and along the side of a rocky ravine. The latter gave but a poor footing to pedestrians, and in jumping across a rift between two boulders Schoenut slipped and fell. There was an angry whirr and rattle of sound, and before he could save himself the fangs of a rattlesnake were fastened in Schoenut's arm. The reptile darted back into his hole beneath the rock, but almost instantly his victim's arm began to swell and turn black. Thoroughly terrified, Schoenut declared that he was dying, and implored his companion to save herself from possible danger. Miss Ernst, however, tore the young man's sleeve from his arm, and applying her lips to the wound made by the rattler, tried to suck out the poison. This she did at imminent peril to herself, as she knew, because a cut on her own lip brought her into the most dangerous contact with the poison. Once during the operation the intrepid girl cut a gash in Schoenut's arm, "to make the blood come faster," as she afterward expressed it. The boy fainted at the sight of his own blood, and it was only by beating him in the face that Miss Ernst succeeded in reviving him and keeping him moving. Half dragging, half carrying him, she finally reached a clubhouse a mile away from where the accident happened. She carried the unconscious lad up the clubhouse steps, her dress from the neck down splattered with blood, and fell in a faint beside him. Medical assistance was procured and Schoenut's life was saved.

Michael O'Brien

A fire broke out in a crowded tenement at One Hundred and Tenth street and Third avenue three years ago. So combustible was the material years ago by one of those freshets that so often occur in that part of the country. In its course the flood had torn an unwieldy barge from its moorings. Alone on board was Howard McCarney, a youth who could not swim. His old-time friend, James W. Gilmer, who had worked with him for years on a towboat, saw the flying barge, knew that McCarney was on it, and knew, too, that the runaway vessel was heading for a great dam a short distance below on the river. It meant certain death to McCarney if some quick act was not carried out to save him. Gilmer jumped into a skiff and raced after the barge. McCarney had a long start of him, and the sound of the waters foaming over the dam reached Gilmer before he was well under way in his little craft. He hoped to get near enough to the barge for McCarney to jump into the skiff, and then together they could row to the shore. But the barge was going too swiftly, in the eddying currents the skiff was too unmanageable, and before he could reach him Gilmer saw his friend hurled over the rapids above the dam. So appalled was he at the fate of his friend that he forgot his own safety. He floated down to the danger point, jumped from the skiff into the boiling flood—and the dead bodies of the two friends went down the river side by side. A bronze medal and $200 had been awarded by the commission to Gilmer's father in commemoration of his son's daring act.

Harry Moore
"I thought I had an even chance, and that's more than the poor old fellow ahead of me had." That is the way Harry E. Moore, a fireman of Alliance, O., explains why he tried, two years ago, to run ahead of his own train and save the life of a drunken farmer. Moore was riding on the pilot of his coal train when he saw an old farmer sitting in a stupor on the track. Signaling to the engineer to check the speed of the train as much as possible, Moore waited until he was within 75 feet of the prostrate and unconscious man and then jumped. Racing as hard as he could, Moore was overtaken by his own engine and knocked to one side of the track, the wheels taking off three fingers of his left hand. The farmer was killed instantly. Moore has received a bronze medal and $500 from the Carnegie commission.

William Stillwell
The youngest of all those selected for recognition by the commission, a boy of 13, is Willie Stillwell, of Bell-air, Mich. Willie had never been known as a strong swimmer, but when one of his playmates, Ruth Schoolcraft, who was more than a foot taller than he, fell into Intermediate river, Willie was quick at the rescue. She was wise enough not to get in the clutches of the girl, but swimming by her side, held her up with one arm while he swam with the other, thus bringing her safely to shore. The commission has awarded a bronze medal to the boy and has set aside for him the sum of $2,000, with which he will pay for an electric engineer's course in college.

Edward Campbell
For more than a year there was a bitter feud between two young coal miners at Buena Vista, a little mining town on the Youghiogheny river, near Pittsburg. Just what the trouble was has never been made known; but whether in the mining camp or on the river or in the boarding house where they both lived together, George South and "Ed" Campbell never spoke to each other. One day, about three years ago, the alarm went out that South had fallen into the river at the end of a great coal chute. Campbell heard the alarm and rushed to the river. There was no sign of South, who, he knew, could not swim, and it was evident that the ill-fated man had years ago by one of those freshets that so often occur in that part of the pier. It was all a man's life was worth to dive into the eddy of waters that stretched before him, but tearing off his coat Campbell took the risk. After a desperate struggle with the treacherous tides, and diving repeatedly under the barge, Campbell found his man where he had expected, wedged beneath the hull of the vessel between some driftwood. It took all of Campbell's strength, working under water, to get the limp body of his enemy to the surface. He succeeded finally—only to find that the man for whose safety he had risked his own life, and whom he had once cordially hated, was dead. The commission has sent a bronze medal to Campbell.

Sadie L. Crabbe
A colored boy, broke through the ice on the Great Wicomico river, Virginia, two years ago. Young had strayed away from a party of skaters further up the river, and ventured upon ice that had not been tried. It was a lonely section of the country, and when the boy fell into the water his cries for help were heard only by a white woman, Mrs. Sadie L. Crabbe, who was walking along the bank of the river. Seizing a plank which lay near by, Mrs. Crabbe endeavored to reach the struggling negro. So eager was she in this attempt to save the colored boy's life that she ventured too far out on the ice, which broke beneath her. Young, at whose piteous appeal she had taken one step too far, evidently forgot his own plight when he saw Mrs. Crabbe fall into the water and tried to save her. Both the white woman and the colored boy, however, were drowned. A bronze medal has been sent by the commission to Mrs. Crabbe's husband in commemoration of her bravery. The sum of $2,000 also has been appropriated to be used in the education and upbringing of Mrs. Crabbe's children.

Arthur Simon
Only 15 years of age was Arthur Simon and he had just learned to swim when he rescued two girls from drowning in a lake near Valparaiso, Ind., two years ago. One of the girls was his sister, and both of them were much older and weighed a good deal more than Arthur. At an alarm given by his mother he plunged into the lake. Neither of the girls was in sight. Diving to the bottom, he found them locked in each other's arms. Breaking them apart, he rose to the surface with them. He swam to the shore, which was about 40 feet away, with one girl, and then came back for his sister, who, with her great weight, nearly dragged him to the bottom. She almost strangled the boy several times, but finally he landed her in safety. The commission has sent Arthur a bronze medal.

WIVES OF ENGINEERS HAVE UN-QUIET LIVES.

Know Full Well the Danger That Each Trip of the Loved One May Be His Last—One Woman's Story.

When railroad wrecks occur the fireman may jump, but the engineer, if he is faithful to his trust, must stay by the throttle. To do this means death in many cases. No one knows this better than the engineer's wife. The engineer men say that they become indifferent to danger and lose all dread of accidents and death. Their wives, it seems, are the ones who live most in fear.

Engineers' wives are not happy—if they love their husbands. Many of them will admit that a shadow rests on their lives, if you ask them in confidence. Their husbands, perhaps, do not know it.

"I do not care to make my husband miserable, what little time he is at home, complaining of his profession," said an engineer's wife. "I never knew of an engineer quitting the business for his wife or anyone else but once. I heard of a man who gave up the road at the solicitation of his sweetheart. But after they had been married a few years he went back and was killed in a wreck."

"My husband has been an engineer on a fast mail train for nearly 30 years," said a woman with an unhappy face. "I have found that being an engineer's wife is a kind of semi-widowhood. The only time that I am absolutely sure that I am not a widow is the two or three days out of each week that my husband is at home."

"When we were first married he ran a switch engine in the yards and was at home every day. There wasn't so much danger of accidents in that. I hoped that he would always run one of those busy little engines with a headlight on both ends."

"But my husband was ambitious like other engineers. He was not satisfied with work in the yards. I shall never forget the day that he came home and told me that he had been promoted to the road. He seemed very much pleased. I hid my feelings and made an effort to share his pleasure with him. He ran a freight engine for a few years. Then he was advanced to a fast passenger engine."

The woman stopped talking for a moment and looked at the clock. "It's three o'clock; let's see. He is near the town of L—, now. A few miles this side of the place is a bridge across a river. I am always afraid of that bridge during high water."

She said that she had learned her husband's schedule by heart. Every hour of the day she knows just where his train should be at that time. She has been over his run many times and knows the location of every bridge, every high embankment and every dangerous curve.

"Wrecks? Yes; he has been in several. Twice I have seen his name in the death column in the newspapers. They were awful experiences for me and the children until we knew the truth."

"The life of an engineer's wife is made up of many sad farewells. Each time that I see my husband leave it is with the thought that this may be his last trip. I believe that I owe my gray hairs to those hundreds of times that I have had to say 'good-by.'—Kansas City Star.

TO KEY WEST BY RAIL, WITH ISLES AS STEPPING STONES.

The most remarkable railway in the world is now under construction in Florida, where the City of Miami is to be connected with Key West by way of the chain of islands known as the Florida Keys, a distance of 154 miles.

Use Left-Handed Movement.

World's Railroad Earnings.
The average railroad earnings for the whole world are 3% per cent. of the capital invested.

CARE OF THE SICK ROOM.
Above All Things the Walls Should Be Kept Dry.

When the bedroom becomes a sick room there is an added reason why extreme precautions should be used to keep the room in a thoroughly sanitary condition.

Above all things, the bedroom should never be damp. It should be nice and dry, always warm and comfortable in winter, cool and airy in summer, and bright and sunny some parts of the day.

If there is any suspicion of dampness in a bedroom it is probably due, if there is wallpaper on the wall, to the absorption of water by the paper which frequently acts as a blotting paper and holds quantities of water in it.

The use of wallpaper on walls is to be deplored; it means disease, ill health and unhappiness. It is frequently the cause of lung trouble, not only because of its dampness but also because of its power to retain infection of many kinds.

The desired method of treating a bedroom wall is to tint it for the alabastined wall is a perfect wall. It never flakes off, chips or peels. It absorbs moisture and expels it, it opens the pores of the plaster and makes a room livable and breathable.

The floor in the bedroom should have light, cleanable, dainty rugs that can be easily shaken and a floor that is thoroughly oiled or varnished, that will not absorb moisture. The cracks in the floor should be thoroughly filled and covered. Woodwork in the bedroom should be attended to carefully, window sills should be thoroughly varnished or waxed, and the window casings kept in perfect order. The doors should be wiped off frequently as also should be all the standing woodwork in the bedroom, as the presence of dust on woodwork is a menace to health as well as an evidence of poor housekeeping.

WOMEN IN NEW FIELDS.

British Smart Society Takes to 'Hopping'—Woman Veterinary.

Work in the hop fields is the latest "rest cure" fad for London's smart set, and the luxurious society "hoppers" claim that a week's hopping is far better and more pleasant than a rest at any well-known health resort.

The tents of these well-to-do pickers are expensively furnished, and easy chairs, soft beds and up-to-date camping outfits are among their hopping appliances.

In Berlin there is a woman veterinary surgeon who is an official inspector of animals. She rides through the streets on the lookout for animals suffering from any disablement, and before reporting a horse as unfit for work, she examines its injuries and whenever possible applies remedies to alleviate its pain. She carries a leather case filled with bandages and other surgical appliances.

SLEEP BROKEN BY ITCHING.
Eczema Covered Whole Body for a Year—No Relief Until Cuticura Remedies Prove a Success.

"For a year I have had what they call eczema. I had an itching all over my body, and when I would retire for the night it would keep me awake half the night, and the more I would scratch, the more it would itch. I tried all kinds of remedies, but could get no relief."

"I used one cake of Cuticura Soap, one box of Cuticura, and two vials of Cuticura Resolvent Pills, which cost me a dollar and twenty-five cents in all, and am very glad I tried them, for I was completely cured. Walter W. Pagusch, 207 N. Robey St., Chicago, Ill., Oct. 8 and 16, 1906."

Disliked the Word "Death."
"Decease" is now a regular form of word for death. But it began as a gentle euphemism, "decessus" (departure) seeming much less harsh to the Romans than "mors." All languages abound in euphemisms of the kind, which go back to a superstitious reluctance to mention death plainly, that gradually passed into a kindly desire to soften the idea. "Passed away," "departed," "gone," "expire" (breathe out), "no more," "demise," and even "the late" are expressions of this nature. Most striking of all is the Roman euphemism for "he is dead"—"vixit," he has lived.

Curious Maps.
Maps for military and general field use are produced by Dr. O. H. F. Vollbeh, of Halensee, Berlin, as microscopic transparencies, each about one and one-half inch by two inches in size. These form slides for the micro-photoscope, a special instrument having a hand-mirror-shaped frame, to which is attached a slide-holder, with a movable lens over it. The lens slides in two directions, about 70 square miles being shown in each position.

Painting for Profit

No one will question the superior appearance of well-painted property. The question that the property-owner asks is: "Is the appearance worth the cost?"

Poor paint is for temporary appearance only.

Paint made from Pure Lined Oil and Pure White Lead is for lasting appearance and for protection. It saves repairs and replacements costing many times the paint investment.

The Dutch Boy trade mark is found only on kegs containing Pure White Lead made by the Old Dutch Process.

Carnegie Fund Participants.

The report of the Carnegie fund for the advancement of teaching shows that already 339 institutions have applied for a share of the proceeds, and that of these 32 have been placed on the accepted list, having met the conditions in regard to undenominationalism and academic standards. In the accepted institutions 45 professors have received more than $69,000 and the widows of some professors have been assisted. One-half the accepted colleges are in New England, New York and Pennsylvania, and, with one exception, the entire list lies in the northern belt of states.

King Edward a Pigeon-Fancier.

It may not be generally known that King Edward is fond of pigeon-racing, and has participated actively in it. His majesty has a big loft full of pigeons at Sandringham, where they are regularly and specially trained for long-distance races. Some years ago one of his birds won the biggest race of the year, the "Pigeon Derby," in a magnificent flight home from Lerwick.

Carpets from Paper.
The proprietors of an Austrian carpet factory at Maffersdorf are stated to have acquired German patents which embody a method of manufacturing carpets or floor coverings from paper. The new material can be made in all colors, is washable and will probably prove itself a rival to linoleum.

HONEST MEDICINE

TRY DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS FOR STOMACH TROUBLE.

Convincing Evidence Supported by a Guarantee That Must Convince The Most Skeptical.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a doctor's prescription, used by an eminent practitioner, and for nearly a generation known as a reliable household remedy throughout the United States. Needless to say, no advertised medicine could retain popular favor for so long a period without having great merit and it is the invaluable curative properties of the pills that have made them a standard remedy in every civilized country in the world. Added to this is the absolute guarantee that the pills contain no harmful drug, opiate, narcotic or stimulant. A recent evidence of their efficacy is found in the statement of Mrs. N. B. Whitley, of Boston, Ark., who says:

"I had suffered for a good many years from stomach trouble. For a long time I was subject to bad spells of faintness and lack of breath accompanied by an indescribable feeling that seemed to start in my stomach. Whenever I was a little run-down or over-tired, these spells would come on. You occurred frequently but did not last very long."

"I was confined to my bed for ten weeks one time and the doctor pronounced my trouble chronic inflammation of the stomach and bowels. Since that time I have been subject to the fainting spells and at other times to fluttering of the heart and a feeling as though I was smothering. My general health was very bad and I was weak and trembling.

"I had seen Dr. Williams' Pink Pills mentioned in the newspapers and decided to try them. When I began taking the pills I was so run-down in strength that I could hardly do any housework. Now I could walk ten miles if necessary. Both my husband and myself think Dr. Williams' Pink Pills the best medicine made and we always recommend the pills to our friends."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills actually make new blood and give strength and tone to every part of the body. They have cured serious disorders of the blood and nerves, such as rheumatism, sciatica, anemia, nervousness, headaches, partial paralysis, locomotor ataxia, St. Vitus' dance and many forms of weakness in either sex. They are sold by all druggists or will be sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box, six boxes for $2.50, by Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

WALSH TRIAL OCTOBER 15.

Banker Pleads Not Guilty to Federal Indictment.

Chicago.—John R. Walsh, through his chief counsel, John S. Miller, pleaded not guilty to the federal indictment charging him with the misapplication of funds in the Chicago National bank when he appeared before United States District Judge A. R. Anderson.

Although District Attorney Sims had hoped to bring the banker to trial at an early date, Judge Anderson, after hearing the requests for extension by Attorney Miller, decided to set the case for trial for October 15. Judge Anderson refused to grant the motion for a bill of particulars, as filed. The first motion had been withdrawn and a new one presented.

Kent Asks for Pardon.

Carlinville.—Willie Kent, of Carlinville, serving sentence in the Chester penitentiary for the murder of his brother, Noble Kent, has again petitioned for a pardon. Kent has had several hearings, but a pardon has been denied. He murdered his brother on board a Chicago & Alton train near Girard seven years ago. At the time of the killing, Noble Kent was handcuffed and shackled. He had been arrested in Springfield for an alleged assault on Willie Kent, and was en route to Carlinville for trial when he was shot.

Asked Layman for Funeral.

Havana.—Josiah Hartzel, aged 71 years, one of the best known men in central Illinois, died here. He was for four terms sheriff of Mason county and for two terms justice of the peace. A peculiar request to have his funeral services in the county court house and to have C. E. Walsh, circuit clerk, or M. Bolan, former superintendent of schools, now editor of the Democrat, speak at the services, instead of a minister, was made by Mr. Hartzel some time ago. The request was carried out.

JUSTICE J. W. WILKIN DEAD.

Bright's Disease Fatal to Illinois Supreme Court Member.

Danville.—Justice Jacob W. Wilkin of the Illinois supreme court died of acute Bright's disease after an illness of two weeks.

Judge Wilkin was born in Licking county, Ohio, June 7, 1837. His parents moved to Crawford county, Illinois, when he was eight years of age, and his boyhood days were spent on the farm. He was educated at McKendree college.

In June, 1862, he enlisted in the One Hundred and Thirtieth Illinois volunteer infantry and served throughout the war. His devotion to the cause and personal bravery won for him the rank of major, which title he held when mustered out of the service at New Orleans in 1865. Immediately after the war young Wilkin studied law at Marshall, in the office of Judge Schofield, afterward a justice of the supreme court. He was a partner of the latter for five years and later served with him on the supreme bench.

He was elected judge of the fourth circuit in 1879, was reelected in 1885, and moved to Danville soon afterward. Judge Wilkin was then assigned to duty on the bench in the appellate court of the fourth district, where he served until 1888, when he was elected to the supreme bench to succeed Justice Scott.

Judge Wilkin served as chief justice of the supreme court and wrote a few very profound decisions which are known to the legal profession in this and other states. He was a Republican and in 1872 was one of the electors who voted for Gen. Grant.

WANT EVIDENCE FROM TATE.

Peoria Officials Will Go Slow in the "Graft" Cases.

Peoria.—Eddie Tate, of Chicago, who is being held in Peoria for the blowing of the school board safe and theft of papers incriminating former Superintendent of Schools N. C. Dougherty, is seriously ill at St. Francis hospital. Fearing that he may grow worse and be unable ever to unravel the mystery, the police and state officials have induced him to make a partial confession, which is said to incriminate prominent Peorians alleged to have engineered the theft of the papers.

Chief of Police Wilson and State's Attorney Scholes have been working on the case for several weeks, and expect to be able to prove a damaging amount of evidence within a short time. Tate has confessed that he was given $3,000 by attorneys representing prominent Peorians, but the officers want to get further evidence before they cause any arrests to be made.

McReynolds Out of Jail.

Springfield.—On a writ of superseas, granted by the Illinois supreme court, George S. McReynolds, who was found guilty of fraud in connection with his operations on the board of trade, was released from the Chicago county jail on bonds of $10,000. The defendant was found guilty last January on a charge of having removed grain from his warehouse without permission of the holders of the warehouse receipts.

Last week he was sentenced by Judge Mack to the penitentiary for a term of from one to ten years.

The personality includes the grain and stock on the Kerrick farms.

TIRED BACKS.

The kidneys have a great work to do in keeping the blood pure. When they get out of order it causes backache, headaches, dizziness, languor and distressing urinary troubles. Keep the kidneys well and all these sufferings will be saved you. Mrs. S. A. Moore, proprietor of a restaurant at Waterville, Mo., says: "Before using Doan's Kidney Pills I suffered everything from kidney troubles for a year and a half. I had pain in the back and head, and almost continuous in the loins and felt weary all the time. A few doses of Doan's Kidney Pills brought great relief, and I kept on taking them until in a short time I was cured. I think Doan's Kidney Pills are wonderful."

SARSAPARILLA TIME.

Make Your Own Sarsaparilla or Spring Blood Medicine.

Mix one-half ounce Fluid Extract Dandelion, one ounce Compound Kargon, three ounces Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla. Shake well in a bottle and take one teaspoonful after meals and again at bedtime. Any good druggist can supply these ingredients.

This is said to be a splendid Spring Blood Tonic and system renovator because of its gentle action in restoring the kidneys to normal activity, forcing them to filter from the blood all impure matter and acids, destroying micro-organisms which produce ill health and sour blood.

Everyone should take something to cleanse the blood at this time of year, and the above simple prescription is the most highly indorsed of the hundreds of home remedies generally used. Mix this yourself, then you will know what you are taking.

Sheep Raising in Australia.

The greatest industry of Australia is sheep raising, mainly for the sake of the wool, but also in part, of course, for the meat. Australia now ranks second among the great sheep-raising countries, Argentina being first with 92,000,000 sheep, Australia second with 72,000,000, and Russia third with 70,000,000. Only a few years ago Australia was first, possessing no less than 106,260,000 head of sheep. That was in 1891. Prolonged droughts were the cause of the destruction of many millions of Australian sheep, but since 1902 there has been an annual gain. Yet these sheep were not indigenous to Australia. They were first introduced in 1797, being of the Spanish merino species.

Great German Socialist.

Herr Bebel, the leader of the German socialists, who has been so much in evidence of late, is a wheelwright by trade. Although entirely self-educated, he is one of the finest orators and debaters in the fatherland and, distasteful as his views may be to the richest, whenever he addresses the assembly he is certain of having a large and attentive audience. In such esteem is he held by the socialists that millions will obey his will without thinking whether they are doing right or wrong. Herr Bebel neither drinks nor smokes, and besides being a celebrity in the political world has gained some fame as a writer.

The Kind of Food That Will Keep You Well.

The true way is to find out what is best to eat and drink, and then cultivate a taste for those things instead of poisoning ourselves with improper, indigestible food, etc.

A conservative Mass. woman writes: "I have used Grape-Nuts 5 years for the young and for the aged; in sickness and in health; at first following directions carefully, later in a variety of ways as my taste and judgment suggested."

"But its most special, personal benefit has been a substitute for meat, and served dry with cream when rheumatic troubles made it important for me to give up the 'coffee habit.'"

"Served in this way with the addition of a cup of hot water and a little fruit it has been used at my morning meal for six months, during which my health has much improved, nerves have grown steadier, and a gradual decrease in my comfort." Queer Idea of Chinese.

The following is a quite modern Chinese conception of the foreigners' treatment of infectious cases. "If an epidemic broke out two foreigners took the sick away and put them in a little room, washed them with lime water and then locked them up, so that no one could see them, on purpose that they might soon die and not propagate the disease. Wives and children might cry and weep, but the foreigner would not drive them away with sticks, for until dead no one must see those faces again. Women Avoid Operations

When a woman suffering from female trouble is told that an operation is necessary, it, of course, frightens her.

The very thought of the hospital, the operating table and the knife strikes terror to her heart.

It is quite true that these troubles may reach a stage where an operation is the only resource, but a great many women have been cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound after an operation has been decided upon as the only cure. The strongest and most grateful statements possible to make come from women who by taking made from native roots and herbs, have escaped serious operations, as evidenced by Miss Rose Moore's case, of 307 W. 26th St., N. Y. She writes:—Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has cured me of the very worst form of female trouble and I wish to express to you my deepest gratitude. I suffered intensely for two years so that I was unable to attend to my duties and was a burden to my family. I doctored and doctored with only temporary relief and constantly objecting to an operation which I was advised to undergo. I decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; it cured me of the terrible trouble and I am now in better health than I have been for many years."

This and other such cases should encourage every woman to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before she submits to an operation.

Mrs. Pinkham's Standing Invitation to Women. Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to promptly communicate with Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. From the symptoms given, the trouble may be located and the quickest and surest way of recovery advised.

THE person who sends a malicious anonymous communication is several degrees lower than a rattlesnake. The snake will give warning before it strikes and thus the intended victim has a chance to defend himself. But the miserable coward who gives vent to his hatred or malice by mailing a dirty note has the cunning of a human being and covers up his tracks. He is too contemptible to be called a man and has not even the honor that would class him with the venomous rattler. There is a place at Joliet where such persons are made comfortable when the law gets its clutches on them, altho it is an injustice to a decent thief to be behind the same walls with an anonymous letter writer.

THIRTY-THREE New York

millionaires enlisted in a tour of the world to enter and investigate foreign missionary field, are to be augmented by thirty of Chicago's wealthiest representative churches as a result of the inter-church banquet at the Auditorium Monday night. What a move that will be! If these wealthy fellows would turn over to the Salvation Army the money used at that banquet and the funds necessary to make the world tours, there would be quite a stir up in the slums of Chicago.

THE Genoa correspondent to the Sycamore Tribune seems to worry because the city council put in a water main leading to the building contractor was ready to begin operations. The council acted in the matter because it desired to push things along for the good of Genoa. No one knew that there would be so much delay in the sidetrack matter. Of course Contractor Hammond could have hauled all his material by wagon and paid out many dollars that he did not figure on in his contract. The Thompson Piano Company was lenient with him, however, and he waited, just the same as you or I would have done under like circumstances.

The local option proposition is now before the senate. At any rate the fellows of the higher house can not hurt the anti-saloon league any worse than the lower house did.

15 DAYS' FREE TRIAL

We will deliver a GREAT WESTERN SEPARATOR to your house, set it up for you, have one man stay with you and skim one milking, and show you all about the machine. You may keep it 15 days without paying one cent down. At the end of the trial if you find the machine to be the closest skimmer, the easiest runner, the most simple, the most to wash, the least liable to get out of repair, and in fact, the best cream separator far that you have ever seen, you are to buy the machine if you want it; but you are under no obligation to take the machine whether it is all that we claim for it or not. You may have this machine on 15 days' free trial without paying one single cent in any way, shape or manner.

This machine is manufactured by the SMITH MANUFACTURING COMPANY whose main office is at 158 E. Harrison St., Chicago, Ill., with factory located at DeKalb, Ill. If you write, address your letter to the Chicago office and ask for Catalogue No. 83. If you are in a hurry for the separator and want one man to call on you at once, telephone to DeKalb, (Telephone No. DeKalb 24) and ask for Mr. Fred Smith. He will make arrangements to have a man call you at once with a machine. When the man gets there he will show you all about it and leave the machine there for 15 days without your depositing one single cent. Remember that you are under no obligation to buy the machine at the end of the 15 days.

3 Necessary Points in a SEPARATOR

- IT MUST Be a Clean Skimmer
- IT MUST Run Easily
- IT MUST Be Durable

IF a separator does not have these three points it is not what it should be. It is easy to say of any machine that it is the best skimmer, the easiest runner, and the most durable; but a claim without proof never freed nor convinced a criminal.

THE BOWL
The GREAT WESTERN separator is built on scientific principles. The whole milk is fed into the bowl so that it is sprayed between the disks and the greatest portion is delivered toward the top half of the bowl, so the cream has but little distance to travel after it is separated before it is delivered into the cream spout. The skimmed milk travels down the face of the bowl where the centrifugal force is the greatest.

NINE TENTHS of the cream is separated from the milk between the disks. The balance is separated as it travels down the wall of the bowl. When delivered at the bottom of the bowl the milk has traveled the full length of the bowl and about seven-tenths of this distance has been traveled after nine-tenths of the cream has been separated. It is an easy matter under the high pressure to liberate the little portion of cream that the milk contains after it leaves the disks. For this reason the GREAT WESTERN bowl is superior to all other makers.

THE NATURAL tendency in the gravity system is for the cream to rise and the milk to fall. In the GREAT WESTERN we carry out the same principle, combining the force of gravity and the centrifugal force as we draw the cream from the top and the milk from the bottom of the bowl.

IN OTHER BOWLS where both the milk and cream are delivered at the top, the whole milk is carried to the bottom of the bowl, and when the cream is liberated it must travel back the full length of the bowl before it can arrive at the cream spout. It travels side by side with the skimmed milk at the bottom of the bowl and liability of them becoming mixed again. This is always true where there is slight vibration of the bowl. Also, when the milk and cream are both traveling upward by side there is not the opportunity for separation that there is when the cream is traveling up and the milk down. The volume of milk drawn from the bowl is fifteen times greater than the volume of cream. The large flow of milk from the opening so close to the cream in the bowl often carries with it a portion of the cream.

You can now understand why the GREAT WESTERN separator skims so much closer than any other machine. It is the only machine that is absolutely guaranteed to take out practically all of the cream and not re-mix it.

WE HAVE made a claim of the cleanest skimmer and when you understand the principle you can readily see why the GREAT WESTERN is the cleanest skimmer. You only have to understand the principle to know that the GREAT WESTERN is made absolutely in accordance with scientific principles.

EASY RUNNING No machine can run easily unless it has the right kind of bearings, is made simple and strong so it will not tramp or bind.

THE EIGHT bearings on the GREAT WESTERN separator are the most approved style and cause the least friction. Seven of these eight bearings are crucible steel, then used and hardened so the race that the balls travel in is perfectly true and almost as hard as a diamond.

THE BALLS are the highest grade and are guaranteed not to vary one ten-thousandth of an inch. The ball bearings used in the GREAT WESTERN separator do more than twice as much as the bearings used on any other separator, but they will last a lifetime if properly cared for. They cause no friction but make the machine run easy.

We Trust Doctors

If you are suffering from impure blood, thin blood, debility, nervousness, exhaustion, you should begin at once with Ayer's Sarsaparilla, the Sarsaparilla you have known all your life. Your doctor knows it, too. Ask him about it.

You must look well after the condition of your liver and bowels. Unless there is daily action of the bowels, poisonous products are absorbed, causing headache, biliousness, indigestion, dyspepsia, and thus preventing the Sarsaparilla from doing its best work. Ayer's Pills are liver pills. Act gently, all vegetable. The dose is only one pill at bedtime.

SHE ALWAYS CONQUERED.

Susan B. Anthony's Experience With School Rebellions.

Susan B. Anthony, the eminent advocate of woman suffrage, was for fifteen years a teacher before beginning her more public career. Brought up in a household of Friends, she united gentleness and firmness and was an admirable disciplinarian.

Her rule was mild, and she abhorred the rod. But she learned on taking the district school at Center Falls about seventy-five years ago that her predecessors, all men, had successively, under active compulsion, left the schoolhouse in mid-session by way of the window, and that she herself—although in consideration of her peace principles and her sex she was to be permitted an exit by the door—was already openly doomed by the young rebels to forcible ejection. That was too much for her lingering Quakerly prejudices.

As soon as their hulking ring-leader entered upon a preliminary course of antics the new "school-ma'am," in sweet and even tones, summoned him to her desk. He came, and in a manner equally pleasant and unruffled she requested him to remove his jacket.

In sheer astonishment he complied, and before he quite knew what had happened he found himself receiving from a limber birch rod skillfully applied the neatest and completest whipping of his life. He went back to his seat a chastened and crestfallen youth, with the swagger quite taken out of him, and Miss Anthony for the rest of the term received admirably prompt obedience from her pupils.

It was the only school rebellion which she quelled in that way, but by no means the only one which she overcame, for she taught in some very rough and neglected districts. But she met every emergency with spirit, tact and readiness and always conquered.

"One of the reasons for her success," said an old school friend, "was that nobody could ever tell until it happened just what Susan would do or how she would do it. We only knew there was one thing she would not do—give in. She had more courage and persistence than any woman I ever knew."—Youth's Companion.

The Sleep of Horses.

When the horse sleeps, it is said that one ear is directed forward, why is not known. A writer in the English Mechanic thinks this is to guard against danger, being a survival of its originally wild habits. He says: "Watch a horse asleep through the window of his stable and make a faint noise at the front. That ear will be all attention, and probably the other will fly around sharply to assist. Now let him go to sleep again and make the same noise to the left. The forward ear still will keep guard, with possibly a lightning flick round, only to resume its former position."

Humors of the Law.

Law and equity are two things which God has joined together and man has put asunder. When a prisoner in Justice Maule's court was asked whether he had anything to say why sentence should not be pronounced upon him, he replied, "I wish God may strike me dead if I stole the ducks." Maule waited for about a minute and then said: "Prisoner, as Providence has not interfered I must. Three months' hard labor."

This Noisy World.

"They that govern the most," saith John Selden, following Marcus Aurelius, "make the least noise." Perhaps we may say to our legislators, they that govern best permit the least of unnecessary noise. There has been some official response to the demands of wakeful citizens and their physicians that night in the cities should be less racked by the din of whistles and bells. A few cities have suppressed chiming and engine whistles during the night-watches. In Massachusetts the railroad commissioners have forbidden whistling at certain railroad crossings over a large part of the state. The efforts of Mrs. Isaac Rice to muffle the voices of the tugboats have borne some fruit of silence. She is at the head of a "Society for the Suppression of Unnecessary Noise." Largely in response to the demands of this society, congress has recently empowered the board of supervising inspectors of the steamboat inspection service to establish regulations governing the use of whistles as signals by steam vessels and prohibiting useless and unnecessary whistling. The board has already forbidden unnecessary whistling in certain harbors, and is considering the possibility of substituting melodious whistles for such as torture the ear. Various bills to suppress noise have been presented in state legislatures and city councils, but legislation has not gone far, says Youth's Companion. It will take time for the idea to spread. Anyone who can understand why tan-bark is laid on the street near a house where a person lies ill, may in time learn that even when we are apparently in good health we may suffer grievously from noise.

The Woods in Old Violins.

The old masters used such care in the selection of the woods for their instruments that, having found a piece of wood of proper fiber and vibrational powers, they treasured every fragment, no matter how small; and, rather than waste even a particle of such a strip, they frequently constructed the backs and bellies of patches so delicately put together that the seams are only discoverable by microscope, so perfect is the cabinet work. It was ever the aim of the old masters to "marry" the back of hard sycamore, which produces the quick vibrations, and the belly of soft wood, producing the slower sound waves, in such a manner as to give the mellow but reedy timbre of the perfect instrument. Anatomically, a violin made by an old master is a miracle of construction, remarks Elizabeth Mitchell Stephenson, in Circle Magazine; it can be taken to pieces, patched, put together, repaired indefinitely, and is almost indestructible. Repairing has been the means of exposing many clever forgeries. The inside of a violin made by Stradivari, Guarnerius, or other old master is as perfectly finished as the outside, and the clumsy interior work of a forgery betrays an imitation at once.

Ladies who wear algrette plumes or other feathered adornments would do well to ascertain whether such practices are contrary to law. Some states forbid the killing of birds or the use of plumage in the manner suggested. One of these states is Louisiana, and a stern judge down that way has just imposed on a New Orleans merchant a sentence of $50 fine or 60 days' imprisonment for selling plumes. Of course, the southern judge was too gallant to make a first example of ladies who bought the feathers, but he warns them that the practice is illegal. And doubtless the tender-hearted portion of humanity will now be prompt to suppress a custom which has been judicially pronounced in humane.

Gifts to education continue on an impressive scale. The trustees of Teachers' college, a training school connected with Columbia university, announce the completion of a fund of $1,000,000 as an endowment fund, together with a donation of $400,000 for the erection of a building and equipment. In fact, the endowment has reached $1,073,000 through the gift of various amounts aggregating $500,000. The work of the universities, colleges and technical schools is on a constantly expanding scale, but American generosity stands ready to meet all financial demands.

Richard Bartholdt, congressman from Missouri, is one of the few men who already have bronze tablets erected to their memory. The house in which he was born in Germany is marked with a tablet showing the interesting events in the life of the doctor, together with a statement to the effect that he went to America and there became famous, becoming a member of the national law-making body, and a prominent figure in the world-wide movement looking toward disarmament and universal peace.

DELMAS BEGINS HIS POWERFUL APPEAL

BABES HIS PLEA FOR HARRY K. THAW ON WRITTEN LAW AND SYMPATHY.

Wife's Mother Scored—Bitter Invektive Also Poured Out on Stanford White—Case Likely to Go to Jury Wednesday.

New York, April 9.—The trial of Harry K. Thaw, charged with the murder of Stanford White, is nearing the end. Attorney Delphin M. Delmas, the California advocate, Monday afternoon began his closing address to the jury, and after he had spoken for more than two hours and a half an adjournment was taken until Tuesday morning.

Mr. Delmas expects to conclude before the luncheon hour is reached. District Attorney Jerome will make the closing address of the trial on Wednesday, and Thaw's fate should be in the hands of the jury by Wednesday evening.

Justice Fitzgerald Monday ordered the jury locked up until the end of the trial. In view of this the judge's charge to the jury undoubtedly will be delivered immediately after the district attorney concludes. The latter says his speech will occupy not more than three or four hours.

Strong Appeal by Delmas.

Declaring he would not base his plea upon the "unwritten law," because his client found ample protection in the written statutes of the state of New York, Mr. Delmas made a striking appeal to the sympathies of the jurors, and so far as he progressed Monday the subject of Thaw's insanity at the time he committed the homicide was not even hinted at.

Mr. Delmas based his argument solely upon the story of Evelyn Nesbit Thaw. With flushed cheeks, but dry eyes, that young woman heard her life history repeated to the men who are to judge her husband, and bowed her head as her mother was denounced in the bitterest terms and tones the eloquent lawyer could command.

Evelyn's Mother Denounced.

"Even a beast protects its young," he declared with scornful emphasis, "but this unnatural mother deserted her daughter in this city of millions to be betrayed by a false friend, to be lured into a gilded palace and there left the victim of a gray-haired man, wounded, bleeding and devoured."

Mr. Delmas went with great detail into the life Evelyn Nesbit had led up to the meeting with Harry Thaw. In all of his remarks he referred to her as "this child," for child he said she was to-day. He told of Thaw's great love for her and his efforts to rescue her from "the clutches of Stanford White," whose achievements in his profession, the attorney declared were an aggravation of his crime.

Mr. Delmas, before beginning his attack upon Evelyn Thaw's mother, poured out a torrent of denunciation upon the architect who became the victim of Thaw's pistol. He accused him of the "crime of rape," and then declared that President Roosevelt had said in a message to congress that such a crime should be visited with death. This was one of the suggestions which Thaw himself made to his counsel for his summing up speech.

Thaw as Agent of Providence.

Mr. Delmas declared that God heard the cry of the fated child upon whom Stanford White had fixed his gaze and had determined should be his. He quoted from Scripture that "he who afflicts a fatherless child shall perish," and declared that providence had sent Thaw to avenge the wrong.

The attorney declared that Thaw is his wife's only protector, that he came into her life when she was on the downward path, and told her that no matter what the world thought of her, she was to him an angel. He took her to be his wife, ready to share the burdens that a mother had helped to place upon her daughter.

Mr. Delmas accused Mrs. Nesbit of having lived upon the wages of her daughter's ruin. He sought to picture to the jury what he termed the sinister surroundings in which the girl had been reared, and in doing so he mercilessly attacked the mother. He rose to the highest point of his address when he told the jury that the girl's mother was the one who had furnished District Attorney Jerome with the arrows with which to wound the daughter on cross-examination — a cross-examination which he declared would long live in the annals of criminal history, but which left the girl's story unshaken in all its essential details.

Declares Wife's Story True.

That Evelyn Nesbit's story was true, and was told to Harry Thaw, formed the subject of the argument for more than an hour. Mr. Delmas declared the only evidence the district attorney had to bring against the girl was the "miscalled affidavit" procured by Abraham Hummel. Speaking of Hummel, Mr. Delmas again drew heavily upon his bitterest invectives and declared that it would require more than the word of a perjured man to send Harry Thaw to an ignominious death. Hummel was accused by Mr. Delmas of having committed a deliberate perjury upon the stand in the present trial when he swore he was not acting as Evelyn Nesbit's counsel.

THEODORE D. BUHL IS DEAD

DETROIT MILLIONAIRE FALLS LIFELESS IN NEW YORK.

Apoplectic Stroke Fatal to National Bank President and Head of Iron Works.

New York, April 8.—Theodore D. Buhl, president of the Buhl Malleable Iron works of Detroit, president of the Detroit National bank, and also of the firm of Parke, Davis & Co., chemical and drug manufacturers, dropped dead Sunday on the street near the Waldorf-Astoria hotel, where he had been a guest. Death was due to apoplexy.

Mr. Buhl was one of a group of steel magnates, a multi-millionaire, and prominent in banking circles in the middle west and the east. He was 64 years of age. The body will be sent to Detroit for interment.

Accompanied by his wife and granddaughter and his brother-in-law, F. H. Walker, and the latter's wife, Mr. Buhl arrived in this city from Boston Saturday night. The Walkers registered at the Holland House and Mr. Buhl and his wife and granddaughter went to the Waldorf-Astoria hotel.

Following luncheon Sunday Mr. Buhl, who appeared in good health and spirits, remained about the hotel for a couple of hours talking with business associates. Shortly after three o'clock he told Mrs. Buhl that he felt like taking a walk. His wife decided to remain in her room. Mr. Buhl left the hotel and started to walk west in Thirty-fourth street, going toward Broadway. When in front of the Astor National bank, next door to the hotel, he fell dead on the sidewalk.

Mrs. Buhl was prostrated by the news of her husband's death. Word was sent to Mr. Walker, who was waiting at the Grand Central depot for his train for Detroit. He hurried to the hotel and, with the permission of the coroner, who had viewed it, assumed charge of the body. The Buhls had planned to spend the week here, where Mr. Buhl had business to transact.

Mr. Buhl, it was stated, while in Boston last week had purchased a steam yacht in preparation for a summer cruise.

LIFE SAVERS BRING ASHORE CREW OF FOUR-MASTED SCHOONER.

Carolina Coast Wreck—Two Women Among Those Hauled to Safety in Breeches Buoy—Story of Gulfport's Foundry.

Norfolk, Va., April 8.—Ten persons, two of whom are women, were rescued from death by Capt. Eberidge and his crew of life savers at the Nag's Head (N. C.) station early Sunday, when the four-masted schooner Louis Bossart was blown ashore by the heavy northeast gale that has prevailed along the Virginia-Carolina coast for the past 48 hours.

The schooner was bound from New York, to Wiggins, S. C., for a cargo, and was swept out of her course by the storm. Shortly after midnight she ran on the beach and was discovered in the breakers by a coastguard from the Nag's Head station. On account of the high sea no attempt was made to launch the boats. A line was shot over the schooner and the breeches buoy was run out. When the surfmen pulled it in they were surprised to find a young woman as its passenger. She is the daughter of Capt. Fletcher of the wrecked craft. Then one by one the seven members of the schooner's crew were hauled to safety through the seas, and on the last trip Capt. Fletcher came in.

Reports from Nag's Head over the government's coast wires say the schooner is high on the shore, but seemingly in good condition.

The schooner Laura L. Sprague, Capt. Pierce, of Marblehead, Mass., ran ashore off Cracoke Inlet, N. C., Sunday. She is of 564 net tonnage and carries a crew of six or seven men. Late advices are that life savers have succeeded in getting ashore all the schooner's crew.

New York, April 8.—Nearly every vessel that has arrived from southern ports during the last week has brought some story of marine disaster wrought by the cyclone off Hatteras during the last ten days of March. The Bleucher, arriving Sunday from West Indian ports, was no exception. Standing in disconsolate groups about her decks were a luckless 13, which the liner had saved from their foundering bark, the Gulfport, as the vessel was on the verge of going down. The rescue was witnessed by Speaker Joseph G. Cannon and others of the congressional party who were on board the Bleucher.

It was a weary band which the lifeboats of the liner took from the waterlogged wreck. They were near starvation, as for nearly a week they had had nothing to live on except a few water-soaked biscuits. In their weary posture was the utter weariness which had come of three days and nights of unceasing and, what oft seemed hopeless, toil to keep the wreck afloat.

Rescue Not Difficult.

It was shortly after eight o'clock on the morning of Thursday last that the word went around the Bleucher that the vessel had altered her course to head for a wreck which had been sighted, and that a rescue was about to be attempted. Little difficulty attended the work of rescue. The lifeboat, in charge of Chief Officer Beyer, was lowered from the Bleucher and rowed to the wreck. Into this went Capt. Larsen of the bark and 12 members of his crew.

There was a large black dog on board. The animal had been injured by a falling spar, and as the boat was already too deeply laden for safety, and it was not thought that the dog could survive its injuries, one of the men killed it with a belaying pin and threw the body overboard.

ISLE OF PINES IS CUBA'S RULING MADE BY THE UNITED STATES SUPREME COURT.

Affirm Decision of Lower Tribunal in Case Arising from Importation of Cigars.

Washington, April 9.—That the Isle of Pines is not American territory was officially and judicially declared Monday by the supreme court of the United States. The decision was rendered in the famous case of Edward J. Peary vs. Nevada N. Stranahan, collector of the port at New York, and the opinion of the court was announced by Chief Justice Fuller, who said that up to the Paris treaty the Isle of Pines had been considered as an integral part of Cuba and that it could not be held to be covered by article 2 of that treaty which included only islands in the vicinity of Porto Rico.

The case originated in connection with the importation of a few boxes of cigars by Peary in September, 1903, but its hearing by the court was from time to time postponed in the hope that the status of the island might be definitely fixed by legislation or diplomacy. The cigars were made in the Isle of Pines of tobacco grown there and when they arrived Peary refused to pay duty, on the ground that they were of domestic origin. The collector thereupon seized them, and Peary appealed to the United States circuit court, where he secured no relief, as the court sustained a demurrer filed by the government and dismissed the case. He promptly brought the case to the supreme court where the decree of the lower court was affirmed.

That a fugitive from justice in the United States who has been extradited from Canada on one charge can not be imprisoned on another charge was decided Monday by the supreme court of the United States in the case of Charles C. Browne, an appraiser of merchandise at New York, who three years ago was indicted and convicted in connection with frauds discovered in connection with the importations of Japanese silks. The opinion of the court was delivered by Justice Peckham and affirmed the decision of Judge Hough sitting in the circuit court for the southern district of New York, who ordered Browne's release on a writ of habeas corpus.

NO DEFENSE MADE AT PUERTO CORTEZ

HONDURAN TROOPS LEFT, HAVING DECIDED THAT THE WAR WAS OVER.

Marines Protect Ceiba—Commander Fullam Acts Promptly to Preserve Order—He Forbade Bombardments of Coast Towns.

New Orleans, April 9.—That Puerto Cortez was surrendered without fighting and that about 1,500 Honduran soldiers abandoned the port two days before the Nicaraguan troops appeared, was the information brought here Monday night by the steamer Anselm from Puerto Cortez.

The Hondurans did not desert their post through cowardice, according to these dispatches, but decided that the war was over. They returned to the banana plantations where most of them had been employed as laborers before the war began.

American Marines Keep Order. United States marines closed all saloons in Ceiba after the abandonment of the port by the Hondurans.

The following proclamation was issued by Commander Fullam of the Marietta and Virgil C. Reynolds, United States vice consul:

"To the people of Ceiba: The generals of the Honduran army having left Ceiba, the civil authorities will assume charge of the city government. All liquor saloons will be immediately closed and will remain so. Sailors from the United States ship Marietta will patrol the streets and assist the civil authorities to

A TALE OF THE OLD WEST

It broke the spell of awe that had lain upon him, so that he felt for the moment only a pious horror of her speech. He called Christina to take charge of her, and Martha, the second wife, to put away her little bundle of clothing. He himself went to be alone where he could think what must be done for her. From an entry in the little Bible, written in letters that seemed to shout to him the accusation of his crime, he had found that she must now be five years old. It was plainly time that he should begin to supply her very apparent need of religious instruction.

When she had become a little used to her surroundings later in the day, he sought to beguile her to this end, beginning diplomatically with other matters.

"Come, tell me your name, dear."

"She allowed her attention to be diverted from her largest doll.

"My name is Prudence—" She hesitated.

"Prudence—what?"

"—I lost my mind of it." She looked at him hopefully to be prompted.

"Prudence Rae."

"She repeated the name, doubtfully, 'Prudence Rae?'"

"Yes—remember now—Prudence Rae. You are my little girl—Prudence Rae."

"But you're not my really papa—he's went far off—oh, ten ninety miles far!"

"No, Prudence—God is your Father in heaven, and I am your father on earth—"

"But not my papa!"

"Listen, Prudence—do you know what you are?"

The puzzled look she had worn fled instantly from her face.

"I'm a generation of vipers."

She made the announcement with a palpable ring of elation in her tones, looking at him proudly, and as if waiting to hear expressions of astonishment and delight.

"Child, child, who has told you such things? You are not that!"

She retorted, indignantly now, the lines drawing about her eyes in signal of near-by tears.

"I am a generation of vipers—the Bishop said I was—he told that other mamma, and I am it!"

"Well, well, don't cry—all right—you shall be it—but I can tell you something much nicer." He assumed a knowing air, as one who withheld knowledge of overwhelming fascinations.

"Tell me—what?"

And so, little by little, hardly knowing where to begin, but feeling that any light whatsoever must profit a soul so benighted, he began to teach her.

In the days that followed he wooed her patiently, seeking constantly to find some favor with her, and grateful beyond words when he succeeded ever so little. At first, he could win but slight notice of any sort from her, and that only at rare and uncertain intervals. But gradually his unobtrusive efforts told, and, little by little, she began to take him into her confidence.

The first day she invited him to play with her in one of her games was a day of rejoicing for him.

And that night, before her bedtime, when he sat in front of the fire, she came with a most matter-of-fact unconsciousness to climb into his lap. He held her a long time, trying to breathe gently and not daring to move lest he make her uncomfortable. Her head pillowed on his arm, she was soon asleep, and he refused to give her up when Martha came to put her to bed.

Though their intimacy grew during the winter, so that she called him her father and came confidently to him at all times, in tears or in laughter, yet he never ceased to feel in aloofness from her, an awkwardness in her presence, a fear that the mother who looked from her eyes might at any moment call to him.

CHAPTER XXIII.

How the Red Came Back to the Blood to Be a Snare.

The red was coming back to the blood of Martha, the fair flesh to her meager frame, the spring of youth to her step and living fire to her voice and the glance of her eyes. Her husband was pleased. He had made a new creature of the poor, worn wreck found by the wayside, weak, emaciated, reeling under her burden. He rejoiced to know he had done a true service. He was glad, moreover, to know that she made an admirable mother to the little woman-child.

Prudence, indeed, had brought them closer to each other, slowly, subtly, in little ways to disarm the most timid caution.

And this mothering and fathering of little Prudence was a work by no means colorless or uneventful. The child had displayed a grievous capacity for remaining unimpressed by even the best-weighted opinions of her protector. She was also appallingly fluent in and partial to the idioms and metaphors of revealed religion, a circumstance that would not infrequently cause the sensitive to shudder.

Yet her days were by no means all of reproof nor was her reproof ever harsher than the more or less pointed selections from the moral verses could inflict. Under the watchful care of Martha she flourished and was happy, her mother in little, a laughing whirlwind of tender flesh, tireless feet, dancing eyes, hair of sunlight that was darkening as she grew older, and a mind that seemed to him she called father a miracle of unfoldment. It was a mind not so quickly receptive as he could have wished to the learning he tried patiently to impart; he wondered, indeed, if she were not unduly frivolous even for a child of six; for she would refuse to study unless she could have the doll she called Bishop Wright with her and pretend that she taught the lesson to him, finding him always stupid and loth to learn. He hoped for better things from her mind as she aged, watching anxiously for the budgings of reason and religion, praying daily that she should be increased in wisdom as in stature. He had become so used to the look of her mother in her face that starved year after year for the light touch of a woman's hand and the tones of her voice that should be for him alone. He knew now that he had ached and sickened in his yearning for this, and she stood there for him in the soft night. He knew she was waiting, and he knew he desired above all things else to go to her; that the comfort of her, his to take, would give him new life, new desires, new powers; that with her he would revive as she had done. He waited long, indulging freely in hesitation, bathing his wearied soul in her nearness—yielding in fancy.

Then he walked off into the night, down through the village, past the light of open doors, and through the voices that sounded from them, out on to the bare bench of the mountain—his old refuge in temptation—where he could be safe from submitting to what his soul had forbidden. He had meant to take up a cross, but before his very eyes it had changed to be a snare set for him by the Devil.

He stayed late on the ground in the darkness, winning the battle for himself over and over, decisively, he thought, at the last. But when he went home she was there in the doorway to meet him, still silent, but with eyes that told more than he dared to hear. He thought she had in some way divined his struggle, and was waiting to strengthen the odds against him, with her face in the light of a candle she held above her head.

He went by her without speaking, afraid of his weakness, and rushed to his little cell-like room to fight the battle over. As a last source of strength he took from his hiding place the little Bible. And as it fell open naturally at the blood-washed page a new thing came, a new torture. No sooner had his eyes fallen on the stain that it seemed to him to cry out of itself, so that he started back from it. He shut the book and the cries were stilled; he opened it and again he heard them—far, loud cries and low first time since they had been married—on the forehead.

Christina would now be left alone with the cares of the house, and he knew he ought to have some one to help her. The fever of sacrifice was also upon him. And so he found another derelict, to whom he was sealed forever.

At a time of more calmness he might have balked at this one. She was a cross, to be sure, and it was now his part in life to bear crosses. But there were plenty of these, and even one vowed to a life of sacrifice, he suspected, need not grossly abuse the powers of discrimination with which Heaven had seen fit to endow him. But he had lately been on the verge of a seething maelstrom, balancing there with unholiness and wickedly looking far down, and the need to atone for this sin excited him to indiscretions.

It was not that this star in his crown was in her late thirties and less than lovely. He had learned, indeed, that in the game which, for the chastening of his soul, he now played with the Devil, it were best to choose stars whose charms could excite to little but conduct of a saintlike seamliness. The fat, dumpy figure of this woman, therefore, and her round, flat, moon-like face, her mouse-colored wisps of hair cut squarely off at the back of her neck, were points of a merit that was in its whole effect nothing less than distinguished.

But she talked. Her tones played with the constancy of an ever-living fountain. Artlessly she lost herself in the sound of their music, until she also lost her sense of proportion, of light and shade, of simple, Christian charity. Her name was Lorena Sears, and she had come in with one of the late trains of converts, without friends, relatives, or means, with nothing but her natural gifts and an abiding faith in the saving powers of the new dispensation. And though she was so alive in her faith, rarely informed in the Scriptures, bubbling with enthusiasm for the new covenant, the new Zion, and the second coming of the Messiah, there had seemed to be no place for her. She had not been asked in marriage, nor had she found it easy to secure work to support herself.

"She's strong," said Brigham, to his inquiring Elder, "and a good worker, but even Brother Heber Kimball wouldn't marry her; and between you and me, Brother Joel, I never knew Heber to shy before at anything that would work. You can see that, yourself, by looking over his household."

But, after the needful preliminaries, and a very little coy hesitation on the part of the lady, Lorena Sears, spinster, native of Elyria, Ohio, was duly sealed, for time and eternity, and became a star forever in the crown of Joel Rae, Elder after the Order of Melchisedek in the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints and President of the Amalton Stake of Zion.

In the bustle of the start south there were, of necessity, moments in which the crown's new star could not talk; but these blessed respites were at an end when at last they came to the open road.

At first, as her speech flowed on, he looked sidelong at her, in a trouble of fear and wonder; then, at length, absently, trying to put his mind elsewhere and to leave her voice as the muted murmur of a distant torrent. He succeeded fairly well in this, for Lorena combined admirably in herself the parts of speaker and listener, and was not, he thankfully noted, watchful of his attention.

He was called back by the stopping of her voice, but she had to repeat her question before he understood it. The Devil tempted him in that moment. He was on the point of answering, "Because she talked too much," but instead he climbed out of the wagon to walk. He walked most of the 300 miles in the next ten days.

But he had taken up a new cross and he had his reward. The first night after they reached home he took the little Bible from its hiding place and opened it with trembling hands. The stain was there, red in the candle-light. But the cries no longer rang in his ears as on that other night when he had been sinful before the page. And he was glad, knowing that the self within him had again been put down.

CHAPTER XXIV.

The Wild Ram of the Mountains Offers to Become a Savior on Mount Zion.

In the valley of which Amalton was the center, they made ready for the end of the world. It is true that in the north, as the appointed year drew nigh, an opinion had begun to prevail that the Son of Man might defer his coming; and presently it became known that Brigham himself was doubtful about the year 1870, and was in springing others to doubt. But in Amalton they were untaunted by this heresy, choosing to rely upon what Brigham had said in moments more inspired.

He had taught that Joseph was to be the first person resurrected; that after his frame had been knit together and clothed with immortal flesh he would resurrect those who had died in the faith, according to their rank in the priesthood; then all his wives and children. Resurrected Elders, having had the keys of the resurrection conferred upon them by Joseph, their own households; and when the last of the faithful had come forth, another great work would be performed; the Gentiles would then be resurrected to act as servants and slaves to the Saints. In his lighter moments Brigham had been wont to name a couple of Presidents of the United States who would then act as his valets.

A Native Orchestra of Java.

From stereograph, copyright, by Underwood & Underwood, N. Y.
The nine instruments seen here produce only two or three notes apiece. They are played by swinging the frames in such a way as to slide the whistle-shaped sections of bamboo back and forth over the openings in the horizontal bamboo pipe. The result is of course something very queer to western ears, but really not unpleasant. Mr. James Rialton of Maplewood, N. J., after photographing these players bought this entire set of instruments for the equivalent of fifteen cents, and brought them home to his private museum.

found that it could not be operated with as small a force as had been estimated. A much larger force had to be engaged and as a result the expense increased.

Then the machinery gave out and finally graft was discovered. Politics had crept into the plant and politicians used it as an easy berth for their friends.

One case was discovered in which a politician sold the garbage collectors old horses and wagons at exorbitant prices in consideration for getting them the positions. The collectors in turn went outside the city, collected garbage at so much a barrel, pocketed the fee and brought the stuff into the city to be burned at the city plant at city expense.

An investigation also showed that the coal bills at the plant were enormous and inquiry developed that the city was footing the fuel bills of a neighborhood that was using city coal to heat the homes. Finally the machinery gave out and the plant was closed. Just now the city is burying its garbage.

The proposition of the Rockford physician, who was formerly health commissioner there, seems to be a good way out of the dilemma and it is probable that his offer will be accepted. The council has written to a number of eastern cities and most of them favor reduction over incineration. Dr. Bading, the health commissioner, is opposed to reduction and for that reason the council has sent out a number of letters to eastern cities to secure information as to the best methods. Dr. Boyd says that the possibilities from garbage are much more than most people believe. He says that fertilizer and grease alone make garbage profitable to handle, but under the new government law the manufacture of denatured alcohol will greatly reduce the cost of the disposal of refuse.

WON BY VOICE OF A GIRL.

New York Man Weds a Lowell (Mass.) Telephone Operator.

Lowell, Mass.—Falling in love with her voice, which he heard over the wire, and then with the girl herself, Donald W. Wardwell of New York city, has carried off Florence M. Ingalls, a pretty telephone operator of this city.

The wedding took place at the residence of Rev. A. St. John Chambe, pastor of St. Anne's Episcopal church. Few of their friends knew of it, but the news quickly spread, and when then took a train for Boston en route for New York 100 young women were at the station to give them a send-off.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Thomas Ingalls of West Fourth street. Her father is dead. She has a brother teaching in the Philippine islands. She herself is a graduate of the Lowell high school, class of 1903. She has been in the local telephone exchange for three years.

ALCOHOL OF GARBAGE.

ROCKFORD PHYSICIAN CLAIMS IMPORTANT DISCOVERY.

Makes Proposition to City Officials of Milwaukee to Take Charge of Plant—Says He Can Effect Great Saving.

Milwaukee, Wis.—That denatured alcohol can be made from garbage and that an important industry is about to be created is the contention of Dr. W. A. Boyd, of Rockford, Ill., who has made a proposition to Milwaukee to take charge of its garbage and to save the city $50,000 a year if it uses his method instead of the municipal plant that it now operates.

The city is paying at the rate of $1.89 a ton for burning the garbage and its plant is nearly a wreck. Dr. Boyd has offered to do the work at 70 cents a ton, a saving of $1.19 a ton, and at the end of ten years to turn the plant over to the city free of charge. He says that experiments that he has carried on in Chicago convince him that even at his low figures he can make a good profit.

A number of cities in the country are now investigating Dr. Boyd's system, among them Milwaukee, Lancaster, Pa., and Long Branch, N. J.

Milwaukee has had no end of trouble. The authorities originally estimated that its city plant would cost $60,000, but it cost over $100,000 before it was finished.

Then it was discovered that the plant had been built on a quicksand foundation and that it was in danger of sliding into the river. Then it was

UNCLE SAM HUNTS FOR HEROES.

Naval Department Has Medals for Many Modest Sailors.

Washington.—Uncle Sam is to run opposition to Andrew Carnegie in "hero medal" distributing. Beneficiaries are to be those who fought with the American navy or marines in the Spanish-American war. It is not required that "heroes" Uncle Sam is hunting for saved the lives of anyone. If a veteran can prove he was especially active in the war he will get a medal.

"The navy is looking for every man who helped whip the Spaniards, as it has several hundred medals on its hands of which it wishes to dispose," the instructions received here read. "Heroes who risked their lives in the service of their country are being advertised for, but still the most of them have failed to answer the honor roll call."

By a legislative resolution on March 3, 1901, the secretary of the navy was authorized to issue bronze medals commemorative of naval engagements in the waters of the West Indies and on the shores of Cuba in the Spanish-American war. A board of awards submitted a list of engagements, but the secretary has enlarged the list so as to include all officers and men who were under fire.

FIGURES ON "UNKNOWN ARMY."

Commissioner of Pensions Says Number Will Not Exceed 5,000.

Washington.—"The unknown army has been the subject of much controversy in discussing the forces engaged in the civil war," said Commissioner of Pensions Warner the other day in speaking of the pension roll, "but never until the McCumber service pension bill became a law was there a means for determining anything about its extent. The unknown army has come to be so called largely because its members did not apply for pensions. This they did not do on account of the various reasons of delicacy, pride or indifference, but most of these causes have been removed by the passage of the service law."

"So far there have been about 280,000 applications under the new law, but of these only a little over one per cent are in the shape of the original applications, or, in other words, applicants of the hitherto unknown possible pension claimants. Certainly the entire number will not exceed 5,000."

The records of the pension office show that 2,351 of the civil war pensioners died in February, but there are still 652,483 of them left on the pension rolls.

His Wooden Leg a Storeroom.

Contained Whisky, Money, Burglar Tools and Other Things.

Philadelphia.—How a wooden leg for a long time enabled John Woods to laugh cell locks to scorn and acquire a record as a jailbreaker was told in the city hall police court by Special Policeman Spencer. The leg did not figure as a factor in the prosecution, Woods being held on the charge of stealing a ring belonging to John Gaynor of 2813 Agate street.

Spencer said that Woods was a jeweler by trade. His wooden leg served him until recently, when the police found it was not only a means of locomotion, but a storeroom for lock picks, false keys, liquor and money.

Twice Woods had sawed his way out of cells in the Trenton avenue police station in a way that mystified the turnkeys and house sergeants, said Spencer. Once Woods, apparently sober, was placed in a cell. An hour later he was uproariously drunk. He was taken out of his cell and searched, all but his wooden leg, and then locked up again. Within another hour he was again detected cutting the lock from his cell door with a fine saw.

The wooden leg supplied the key to the mystery. It had been hollowed out and in this cavity were found a canteen of whisky, a roll of money, a set of fine saws and several keys. After that, Spencer said, Woods was never locked in a cell until his false leg had been unstrapped and searched. "The famous leg," said Spencer, who seemed to have its history at his tongue's end, "had also figured as a weapon in assaulting many a policeman."

Woods only smiled when Magistrate Kochersperger held him on the larceny charge.

To Work Sapphire Mines. Preparations are being made to work the sapphire mines at Yogo gulch extensively. Yogo dike, which is in Montana, is four miles long and it is estimated that the workable rock will approximate 10,000,000 cubic yards. While the stones found there are comparatively small, they are unusually brilliant, without flaws and of beautiful tints. Their shape is generally of such character that the cuts, or smaller ones, are well suited for bearings of watches, and for this purpose they need little cutting.
