MARKETING COMPANY TO SUE

al members, the management has determined to take action and will press it to a final conclusion.

To Market Own Product
Arrangements are now under head-way and it is hoped will be some time in October, so that the marketing company will have a central plant in Chicago from which plant it is hoped in the month of November, or at the latest the first of December to enter the Chicago market for the actual selling of wholesale milk to restaurants, hotels and other large users of milk direct by the marketing company itself.

Furthermore at the central plant it is the intention to bottle milk, sell the same to stores and distribute and sell bottled milk direct to small dealers and others who desire to distribute bottled milk to the actual consumer. This central plant is the opening wedge in the long cherished desire of many members of the Marketing company to begin to reach the final consumer of milk in a more direct way and to obtain for the producers a large share of the consumer's dollar. The present management is rapidly maturing its plans along that direction and by the time snow flies there is going to be something doing that is going to be bringing real results towards placing the producers and final consumers in closer relation to each other. Further announcements along this line will be made as the plans are developed and put into execution.

No Raise in Retail
The resolutions of many locals commending the present executive committee are quoted in a bulletin. Elgin's retail price of milk, as well as that in surrounding territory will be unchanged. The price of eight cents, the lowest in years, will be maintained during the month of October.—Elgin News.

Honor Fallen Comrades.
A new and admirable form of war memorial is being instituted by the Fourth Dragoon Guards. A portable brass plaque has been designed, which will always remain with the regiment wherever it may be stationed. It will form part of the charge of the regimental guard and a ritual will be established, in that the names of the fallen engraved on the plaque will be saluted with full military honors once a day by the guard at "guard mounting."—London Telegraph.

Glycerine Salvaged.
Glycerine weighing 2,130 tons was recovered from the waste fat of army food in England in the three years 1916-1918.

Biddy's Reasoning.

Mistress—I'm afraid my poor, darling little Topsy will never recover. Do you know, Bridget, I think the kindest thing would be to have her chloroformed and put out of her misery.

Bridget—I wouldn't do that, mum. Sure, she might get better, after all, an' then ye'd be sorry ye had her killed.—Boston Evening Transcript.

FOR SHERIFF OF DEKALB COUNTY

At the suggestion and encouragement from a great many of my friends throughout the County, I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of Sheriff of DeKalb County subject to the action of the voters at the Republican primaries in April, 1922.

I respectfully refer the people of the County to my record as Sheriff from 1914 to 1918, and would appreciate the support of the voters. 48-21

NOTICE

Genoa, Illinois. Proposals for Sanitary Sewers and Water Mains.

Notice to Contractors

Sealed proposals will be received by the Board of Local Improvements of the City of Genoa, DeKalb County, Illinois up to Eight (8) o'clock p. m. of the 17th day of October 1921 at the Council Room of the City Council of said City for furnishing materials and constructing a system of sanitary sewers and water mains for said city. There will be required:

- 980 lineal feet of 8 inch sanitary sewer including 21 "Y" branches with stoppers.
- 1100 lineal feet of 6 inch sanitary sewer including 26 "Y" branches with stoppers.
- 10 Brick Man Holes 3 feet internal diameter with cast iron covers
- 3 Lamp Holes of vitrified pipe concreted in place with cast iron covers
- 1665 lineal feet of 4 inch cast iron water pipe including 4 "Y" branches with stoppers and 4 "T" branches to hydrants
- 4 two way hydrants set in place
- 4 four inch gate valves set in place.

A certified check for at least 10 per cent of the amount of the bid must accompany the proposal and payable to the Mayor of Genoa. A bond will be required of the successful bidder in a sum equal to one third of the amount of the bid as provided by law.

The ordinance, profiles and specifications are on file at the office of the city clerk where the same may be examined by prospective bidders. Proposal blanks will be furnished by the city to parties desiring to submit a bid. The right is reserved to reject any and all bids.

The contractor will be paid in vouchers issued in anticipation of the collection of the first installment and in bonds issued in anticipation of the collection of the second and succeeding installments of the special assessment heretofore levied pursuant to the ordinance providing for said improvement, said vouchers and bonds bearing six percent interest as provided by law.

THE PROFITS FLY AWAY

An Iowa Farmer Explains How 'De Ducks Got The Corn

A farmer near Dubuque, Iowa, sold his corn recently and tried to explain to his banker that he needed money to pay expenses during the lean period. 'Why, said the banker 'you have just sold your corn. What have you done with the money?' The reply was 'De Ducks got it' 'Can't quite understand' said the banker, 'what you mean by 'de ducks'.' 'Well, the farmer explained, 'I shipped the car to market and sold it for 52 cents a bushel. They de duck freight, that left 31 cents; de duck 1 cent commission, that left 30 cents; de duck elevator charges, that left 27 cents; de duck husking, that left 15 cents; de duck hauling, that left 5 cents; de duck the hired man's wages from the truck and you are a darn sight smarter farmer than I am if you can find anything left.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to thank the Ladies' Aids of Kingston M. E. church and Baptist church and the German Lutheran church of Genoa for flowers sent me while in the hospital. Mr. Frank Lettow.

Miss Blanche Whitney, daughter of Mrs. Lottie Whitney of Belvidere and Mr. Gilbert Fred Blake, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Blake of Belvidere were united in marriage Saturday evening at the Grace M. E. parsonage in Rockford. Rev. W. Pierce officiating. The bride lived here until about ten years ago when they moved to Belvidere. The groom has always lived on a farm south of Belvidere. They will make their home on a farm southwest of Belvidere. Their many friends wish them much happiness.

365 Day Road Service

[National Crop Improvement Service]

The United States Department of Agriculture has for many years insisted that the farmers' problem is not so much to grow greater crops as it is to market those crops at a profit.

A great deal of money is being spent upon co-operative effort and the standardization of goods. Market news has been collected and disseminated at great expense and yet, in spite of all, the direct marketing from the country has not proven to be the success hoped.

One of the main reasons is that when the weather is bad and produce becomes scarce in the markets the price goes up, but the farmer has been powerless to supply this demand and when the roads again become passable other farmers were glutting those markets and in consequence, instead of reaping his reward of a good price, the same old condition becomes common and the best laid marketing plans explode.

Illinois has a very generous fund with which to build roads.

The highway engineers naturally have selected the main traveled roads for the first new construction, but the ordinary roads to the farms will, unless something is done, remain in the same old disgusting condition every time it rains.

No matter what a good road may cost, it will prove a good investment. The merchants in the smaller towns could well afford to build a reinforced concrete highway for ten miles out every road if they would figure the losses they now stand every time the farmers cannot come to town.

In a great many parts of Illinois, especially in the soft gumbo regions and where there are numerous swamps and small lakes, it is necessary to do more than to build an ordinary concrete road.

The foundation must be properly constructed, the drainage and grading done in a scientific manner and then it would seem a pity in surfacing that road, that a steel fabric reinforcement should be omitted, because with the growing use of trucks those roads will be pounded to pieces in a shorter time than is pleasant to contemplate.

Me-o-my,

how you'll take to a pipe—and P. A.!

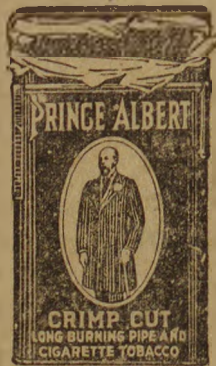

Before you're a day older you want to let the idea slip under your hat that this is the open season to start something with a joy'us jimmy pipe—and some Prince Albert!

Because, a pipe packed with Prince Albert satisfies a man as he was never satisfied before—and keeps him satisfied! And, you can prove it! Why—P. A.'s flavor and fragrance and coolness and its freedom from bite and parch (cut out by our exclusive patented process) are a revelation to the man who never could get acquainted with a pipe! P. A. has made a pipe a thing of joy to four men where one was smoked before!

Ever roll up a cigarette with Prince Albert? Man, man—but you've got a party coming your way! Talk about a cigarette smoke; we tell you it's a peach!

Prince Albert is sold in toppy red bags, tidy red tins, handsome pound and half pound tin tins, and in the pound, crystal glass hamper with sponge moistener top.

HURT FEEDING STOCK
While feeding stock at his farm Wednesday evening, Boyd Ainley was attacked by a bull; the animal getting Mr. Ainley down in a corner of a stall and but for the assistance of Bert Teghtman would have trampled him to death. He was taken to the Sycamore hospital where his right side, leg and chest were found to be very badly bruised.

POSSIBLE TO BE TOO FRANK
Honest Criticism by Friends Would Wreck Relations—Almost Every One Has "Paste Jewels."

It is impossible to tell the whole truth to an average human being and still remain on terms of friendship with him. There is little friendship without make-believe. If two men are close friends, you may take it that they have been pretending to a considerably higher estimate of each other than they would set down in a perfect honest diary.

It is not necessary that they should deliberately lie to another, but they must discreetly conceal a certain amount of criticism that is going on all the time behind the bones of their skulls.

What is said in a spirit of truth is set down to malice. Can a man be your friend if he steals the crown from your head? Can he be your friend even if he steals a single jewel from your crown—especially the paste jewel? We have all—the greatest and the meanest of us—paste jewels in our crowns. Will a true friend point them out to a world that is already over-much inclined to scoff? Or will he not rather organize a clique that will pretend to be dazzled by diamonds?

Man is not only a realist. He is also a lover of romance. He dreams of what he would be quite as often as he deplures what he is. He cannot help being attracted by people who make his dream appear true. There are some men who are such intense egotists that they can believe in the truth of their dreams without any assistance from other people. Southey agreed that his "Madoc" was "the best English poem since 'Paradise Lost.'" There was no need to tell him so; he knew it already.—New Statesman, London.

WAS EXPECTED TO PROTEST
Customary at One Time for Speaker of House of Commons to Resist Appointment.

In one respect a newly appointed speaker of the British house of commons may congratulate himself that there has been an abandonment of some of the old customs, for he is no longer expected to make an elaborate pretense of unwillingness to accept his great office.

This pretense was carried to great lengths at one time, and the ceremony took on some points of likeness to the bridal customs of savage countries, for the speaker was expected to make a show even of physical resistance when led to the chair.

It was not an original custom of the house. Far back in history it appears that speakers protested to the house and to the crown against their election only when they really did not want to be appointed. It seems to have been under the Tudors that a ridiculous subservience was imported, and it was expected of the speaker, that he should "make repeated excuses and declare himself unworthy of election."

It is Hard to Be Accurate.
Can you exactly describe what you see? If you can, you are cleverer than most persons. A book recently published in Paris relates that at a meeting of scientific men two of them suddenly began to quarrel. Under pretense of obtaining legal evidence the president of the meeting asked everyone present to write an exact report of what had happened. The quarrel was a pure piece of acting arranged to test the powers of observation of the men present.

Though the assembly was composed entirely of jurists, psychologists and doctors, only one report contained less than 20 per cent of error; 13 reports had more than 50 per cent wrong; and in 34 reports from 10 to 15 per cent of the details were wholly imaginary. When men of science can so err we can understand how easily the ordinary man can go astray. The story shows why lawyers value circumstantial evidence so highly.—Youth's Companion.

WORLD HAS CHANGED LITTLE

Marked Similarity in Certain Newspaper Advertising Today and That of Many Years Ago.

Newspaper advertising of 100 years ago differed greatly in form from that of today, but the difference in substance and intent was rather small. In the columns of the New York Mercury of that period one finds the following articles offered for sale and extolled for their particular qualities:

"Godfrey's General Cordial," which was the opiated soothing syrup used in that day for peevish, teething babies; the "Princely Beautifying Lotion," by use of which the ladies "made up" for the street; "Turlington's Original Balsam of Life," which must have been disappointing since all the users are now dead; "Dr. Ryan's Incomparable Worm Destroying Sugar Plumbs," "White Drops for the Scurvy," "Red Pills," "Sweating Powder," "Dr. Radcliffe's Only True Specific Tincture for the Toothache," "Essence of Balm of Gilead," "Potter's Water, for the Safe, Easy and Specific Cure for the Stone and Gravel," "Kessler's Pills," "Golden Tincture for Hysterical Diseases," "Genuine Harlaem Oyl" by the bottle, "Levine's Well Known Eyewater," "Bloom of Circassia" for off-color complexions, "Lady Molyneux's Italian Paste," "Best Corn Plasters and Lip Salve," "Venetian Paste for Enameling the Hands, Neck and Face."

The bottle of Stoughton Bitters by which old toppers used to give an additional tang to their nips of whisky stood behind every public bar up to about 50 years ago. Long after its use had been abandoned it persisted until "standing like a Stoughton bottle" became the common expression for immobility.

To Remove Putty.
To remove putty from window frames pass a very hot poker or piece of iron over the putty. It will drop off.

Good Point of Motion Pictures.
Jud Tankins says motion pictures appeal to him because the audience is not expected to applaud and call the actors out to spoil the effect of a good scene.

One-Sided Argument.
It is easy to convince most men that the way that offers the greater profit is the right way.

Mr. and Mrs. P. McDonough, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Martin of Chicago and Mrs. Nellie Peters of Pensacola, Fla., motored out from Chicago Sunday and visited their cousin, S. H. Matteson.

Mr. and Mrs. Andy J. Johnson returned home Saturday after a week's visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Grant Smith in Chicago. The latter accompanied them home and spent Sunday here.

In a letter to Mrs. Munger, her daughter, Mrs. Milt Geithman, states that the roads from Leon, Ia., to Kansas City, were in a most dreadful condition. Their trip at present however is most delightful.

The Catholic Order of Foresters will give a dance in the Oper House, Genoa, on Friday evening, October 14. Taylor's Orchestra of Belvidere will furnish the music. Tickets 75 cents including war tax.

Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Marquart of Valparaiso, Indiana, came last week to be guests of the R. B. Field family. Mr. Marquart returned to his home, but Mrs. Marquart will remain for a visit.

Miss Ione Stott entertained 12 "Old Timers" last evening (Wednesday) in honor of her grandfather, C. H. Smith's birthday. The affair was a complete surprise to Mr. Smith. After dinner the guests smoked (Chewed) and played cards until quite a late hour.

George Geithman, Fred Duval, Dr. T. N. Austin and Clarence Butcher left the first of the week for Northern Wisconsin where they will shoot small game and try their luck at fishing.

The members of the H. G. L. club and Mrs. Bloomer Brungard were pleasantly entertained by Mrs. Frank Wallace on Tuesday afternoon. Five hundred was played with Mrs. Carrie Ursler and Mrs. Charles Maderer winning favors. A two course luncheon was served late in the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Milt Corson entertained the former's relatives at a Sunday dinner, this being the last time they would meet on the old homestead. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Corson, Mr. and Mrs. Rutherford Patterson and son, Charles, and Mrs. C. C. Williams were among the guests.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Uplinger returned last week to their home at Kingston after a visit in Minnesota. They also took a trip through Kansas and Nebraska, attending the state fair at Lincoln.

"The Old Peabody Pew"; dramatized by Kate Douglas Wiggin, from her book of the same title; will be given by members of the Philathea class at the M. E. church on Friday evening October 14.

The Indian living entirely out of the forests in the north country is an incongruity, or at least seems odd and incomplete, like a picture out of frame. When we see him a woodsman, it is in his very best pose. He is the wise man of the wilderness, the Bedouin of the green deserts. "POOR OLD DAD."

By VERA T. ROGERS.

Over and over again the thoughtful, studious Tremain impressed upon his daughter the fact that she should marry.

"Don't keep him waiting longer, my child," he would urge, while the pain in his dark, near-sighted eyes was all too evident. "He loves you, you love him, and he is a fine fellow."

"But, daddy—let you live alone?" Clytie's St. Cecelia face would lift to scan the expression behind his heavy spectacles.

"You have been a wonderful daughter; you have thought of me always; now we must think of you." He was smoothing her soft hair with a thin white hand. "I won't have you left alone—as Libbie Carson was when her father went at last. It is your right—every woman's right—to marry," he would stoutly affirm, but his heart quaked with the dread of losing his only child, the sunshine of his scholarly life.

And Clytie would look long out of the window at the big, empty Carson home; across the elm-bordered street. It had been used as a hospital during the war. Libbie—husbandless, childless and the last of the Carsons—was wandering.

One February evening she stared through the bare branches of the trees until every gray-shuttered window seemed to mock her with the eyes of starved ghosts. She twisted her hands in an agony of indecision: "I can't leave daddy for Race. If only mother had lived!" Then she wept hysterically. Her father, buried in his books, did not hear, but her lover came upon her unawares.

"Clytie, darling," he whispered, "let's get married right away; you've kept me waiting long enough."

"That—that's what daddy says, too," she gulped weakly, from the pressure of his strong arms.

"He does?" shouted Race. "Your dad's a brick!" he added inelegantly. "Perhaps we can persuade him to live with us, once we're married."

She shook her head to assure him that her father never would, while a strange, new emotion hurried the heart against his breast. At that moment a finger of light from the rising moon touched the face of the house across the street. It was fateful.

"Per—perhaps daddy could be persuaded," she whispered softly.

The ceremony was a quiet one in the big, flower-decked library. While Clytie promised to love, honor and obey Horace Townley, her subconscious mind was an exclamation point: "Move daddy and all these books to a city apartment!" Then she was whirled away to a Southern honeymoon.

Tremain's married sister stayed on with him while Clytie was gone. He would have preferred to be alone, with the memory of his daughter and the unobtrusive ministrations of the elderly housekeeper. Aunt Emma wasn't used to his ways, she was a fusser and managed to mislay his books and papers with her constant tidying.

The bookworm was frequently driven from the house by her industry. The sight of a feather duster, with a long handle, in her capable hands, was the signal for his departure. "It will do him good," was her brisk answer to the old housekeeper when she remonstrated. "Clytie let her father have too much of his own way. But, land alive! what could one expect from a child with such a heathen name? He isn't fifty yet, and he moves about like an old man."

The harassed man ceased, at last, to slam the outer door as a violent reproach to his officious relative. He began to enjoy his long walks in the keen March air and bright sun. His eyesight began to improve, his stooped shoulders straightened perceptibly, and his long limbs were acquiring a rhythmic swing in place of the former wobble. Aunt Emma smiled behind her duster.

The glowing bride stepped from the gangplank into her father's strong grip.

"Why, Daddy," she gasped, "is it really you?"

"You may thank, or blame, your aunt for this coat of tan," smiled Tremain, when he had greeted the beaming Race. "But who is this?"

"Forgive me, Miss Carson," Clytie sweetly apologized to a fair woman with smiling blue eyes, who stood behind her. "We met her on the boat Daddy—you remember—from the house across the street?"

"Libbie—Libbie Carson!" Tremain had taken both gloved hands which the laughing woman held out.

"Morse Tremain—you don't look a day over forty!"

The young folk had turned away to look over the luggage.

"Do you know, I believe Daddy can be persuaded to live with us, after all?" cried the delighted bride.

"Think so?—I don't," grinned Race, knowingly.

Clytie looked back over his shoulder and stood stock still. The pair at the other end of the pier were in a world of their own. Her father's attitude was unmistakable, but the astute words she couldn't hear.

"It is your duty, Libbie—every woman's duty—to marry."

Nor the pink-faced woman's answer: "I—I believe it is, Morse."

"Oh! Race—she—she's a darling," gasped Clytie. Then the St. Cecelia face lifted reverently in the sunshine.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

Miss Reimer met the Glee Club at 4 o'clock Wednesday. Voices have been tried out and parts have been assigned. Meetings will be held on Wednesdays from 4 to 4:30. Harriet Doty will continue as pianist.

Introducing Our Teachers

Mr. Moore is a graduate of Boone, Ia., high school and also of Iowa State college at Ames. Here he obtained a B. S. degree, specializing in engineering and agriculture.

During the Mexican trouble he served with the National Guardsmen on the Texas border. Mr. Moore was an army captain in France during the World War and his greatest grief was that he never was wounded or gassed. Near the end of the war he transferred to the air service, hoping to get into front-line action, but was too late. He is also an expert with Ford's and tractors.

Miss Cook comes to us from Alina O., and is a graduate of her home town high. She obtained her degree in mathematics and Latin at Ohio Wesleyan University.

Work at the Washington University in St. Louis adds to her credit in Latin and mathematics.

Miss Irwin graduated from Oak Park H. S. She obtained her Ph. D. degree in the department of English and Social science at the University of Chicago last Christmas.

Miss Skinner's home is in Chicago and she came here from Garden Grove, Iowa, where she taught for a year. Having graduated from Lake View High and Lewis Institute, she took up graduate work in the department of Household Arts at the Univ. of Chicago.

Mrs. Snyder is a well-known Genoa teacher and citizen, so that it is not necessary to give here a detailed introduction. But it is important that she has promoted a fundamental basis for our senior high schools, Tolene Gallagher.

THE LIBRARY SITUATION

The school librarian has been engaged in the task of listing the library books since last January.

A permanent list has been made, telling the number, author, title, volume, place of publication, publisher, number of pages approximate cost, and the donor, if there is one.

Every book is classified. The total number of books in the school library at present is eight hundred and four. These are mostly reference books. Nineteen new volumes were added last year and the school expects to increase its library with one hundred dollars worth of books this year. Our present need is fiction.

Meeting of the New Literary Club
The second meeting of the new club was held at the home of Ruth White near Charter Grove last Thursday night.

When noses were counted twelve members and an honorary guest, Skinner, answered roll.

After business was finished and all matters that couldn't be agreed upon laid upon the table until next meeting, refreshments were served. Sure, if everybody could have tasted those eats, there would be a clamor for membership.

The next meeting was set for the night of the fourteenth of this month at the home of John Dyer.

The following people were neither absent or tardy during the month of September: Mary Ella Bevan, Phyllis Brown, Nera Marie Chapman, Ruth Crawford, Elma Geithman, Mavis Holly Caleina Pinne Barbara Slater, Irene Wyld, Harold Ruback Eugene Smith, Malcolm Berdan, Milton Durham, Earl Frank, Rox Gabriel, Maurice Harvey, Roy Ide Elmer James Leo James, Max Kellogg, William McLean, Charles Nelson, Harlyn Nicholson, Sherman Rosenke.

2,000,000 CARS ON FARMS

Thousands of Motor Trucks and Tractors are Used

And not all fivers, either! Advance sheets of U. S. 1920 Census swears to these returns—a total of 2,146,512 automobiles or more than 232 machines for every 1,000 farms.

Pessimists who bemoan the 'poor farmer's inability to come back with a rush of prosperity had better paint their blue goggles pink. The farmer is 'right there' follows and while he is just now in too much of a hurry to sell his crop at low figures to get ready cash, you'll find the farmer right at the bottom of the reconstruction boom we all believe in.

And this year's farmer is a much speedier citizen than ever before because he is well motored and has rubber wheels under him.

Pennsylvania leads with 9,372; New York has 9,259; Iowa 8,910; Ohio, 7,319; Nebraska, 6,548; California, 6,416; and Illinois, 6,154, to name a few.

Besides, there are no less than 2446, 139 tractors in the field making 38.2 tractors for every 1,000 farms. The mule-power farmer of the 'one-hoss' shay is the one you see in the movies, but the fellow who is going to give backbone to our coming era of prosperity is a high powered machine proposition of vast capacity and plenty of pep and speed.

A BIT O' TRUTH

Got a lot of things, got a lot of copy of The Palladium, and asks if it means good or bad luck. Mark Twain once answered such a question as follows: "was neither good or bad luck. The desire was merely looking over the paper to see what merchant was not advertising, so he could go to that store, spin a web across the door and live a life of undisturbed peace ever afterwards." —Pana (Ill.) Palladium.

GREAT POWER OF PRESIDENT

United States Chief Executive "Most Potent Constitutional Functionary in the World."

The legal functions of the President's office are so eminent that he cannot escape the responsibilities of executive action, however much he may be inclined to avoid them. His constitutional powers alone make him the pivot upon which all the administrative machinery operates.

He appoints the heads of departments and may direct their major policies. His power of appointment to all the greater offices is far-reaching. He can recommend, shape and veto legislation. His control over foreign affairs is virtually complete. He is commander in chief of the army and the navy. In short, he is the most potent constitutional functionary in the world.

All these constitutional powers have been vastly augmented by practice and custom. The President today can do innumerable things that George Washington or Thomas Jefferson would never have dared do even if they had thought of them.

The constitutional conception of the President is that of a chief executive, an administrator; custom has added to this conception that of leadership, of initiation.—Samuel P. Orth in the Yale Review.

Illinois Central System Holds Railroading

Is as Attractive Now as Ever

Right now, when optimism in all branches of industry is needed more than ever before, we regret to note an unorganized but none the less effective effort to make railway work appear unattractive to our young men. Non-railway men have expressed discouraging views, and even some railway officers have lent their opinions to this unprogressive effort. For the most part, fortunately, these views are merely opinions without a statistic in support.

We, of the Illinois Central System, do not subscribe to these pessimistic opinions in any single particular. We believe—indeed, we know—that the present-day complexity of railway organization demands men better trained and more resourceful than ever before, and that opportunities for advancement, to the right men, are as good as they ever were.

There is danger, however, that, although unfavorable opinions of railway work are false, constant reiteration may result in their acceptance as fact, and some promising young railway men may be side-tracked into other missions of less benefit to themselves and to the public. Any business is largely what you make it. Railway men should point out how attractive their business really is.

What other present-day businesses have greater romance, better compensation and swifter chances for advancement than railroading? These three factors—opportunity, compensation, adventure—are the lodestones that draw young men today as truly as they did their fathers twenty, thirty or forty years ago. What has railroading lost in these respects that other businesses have gained?

As construction of new lines, with consequent opening of new territory, has almost ceased, perhaps some of the romance has faded out of railroading. The day of the empire builder is past. But have other businesses fared better? What competing industry has more adventure, even today? Only on the frontiers of civilization, which have crept far outside our immediate problem, will you find the great adventures again—and out there, the chances are, you will find the railroader, next to the soldier perhaps, the envied man.

In place of the old frontiers we have something far more productive of opportunities for service—a large population busy in the further development of our country. In this development the railroads play a part of tremendous importance, for business of every kind is dependent upon adequate transportation. In providing that transportation at minimum cost and at the same time improving and enlarging the transportation plant, to keep it abreast with the country's growth, the present-day railway man has a problem bigger than his grandfather and his father faced in the days of pioneer railroading, and he is better paid.

But how about advancement? Has a young man in railway work a chance as good as those in other lines? Will merit find its own place at the top? We believe no other business offers better opportunity for advancement to the young man who insists upon advancement. Inertia won't push him to the top any more today than it would forty years ago, but his boss' job is always just in front of him, and the pursuit is still the same old game.

The young men who are now coming along in railway service don't know much about the conditions that prevailed a generation ago, and we doubt that many of them care. All that a young man who has the right kind of stuff in him is concerned about is the problem of tackling the task confronting him today, and he doesn't care a rap about how somebody did the job before. He has his own future to carve—and many young railway men are carving theirs rapidly today.

For example, of the official positions on the Illinois Central System, 85 are held by men less than 30 years of age, 122 are held by men between 30 and 35 years of age, and 213 are held by men between 35 and 40 years of age. Three of the executive positions are held by men less than 40 years of age. This proves that opportunity still exists in the railway business. The best man will seize it, as he always did and always will. The same effort wins in railway work as in other lines, and the final rewards compare favorably with those in most competing industries.

The editor of an important newspaper wrote the other day: "There is no more interesting calling than that of railroading. It is a man's game, and next to our own we esteem it as a vocation of less monotony and more adventure than any other." This is a competent outsider's opinion of the railway business. While we do not agree with the exception he made, we believe it is otherwise a correct opinion.

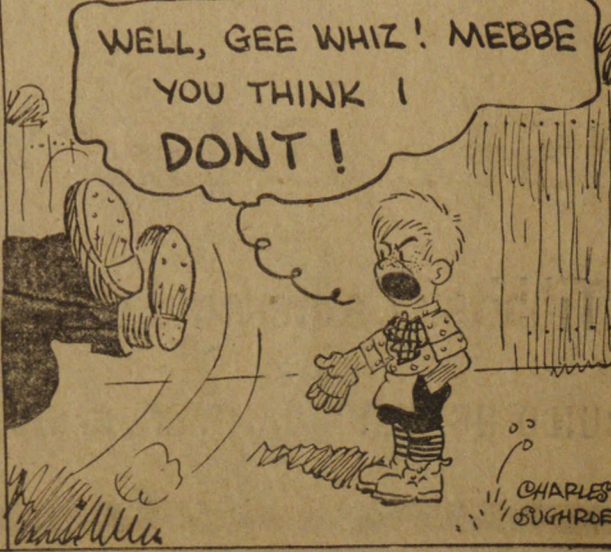

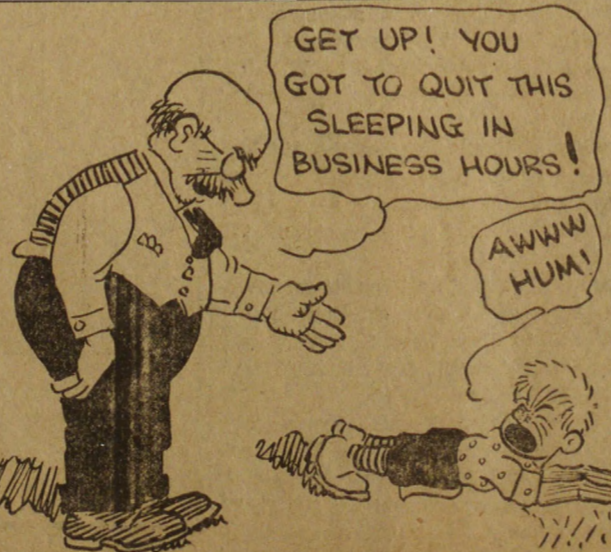

Moreover, we believe it would be conducive to the good of the railroads if similar opinions were adopted and expressed more frequently. We believe the contrary viewpoint is erroneous, and its adoption by many of our citizens would be detrimental to the railroads as well as to the public welfare.

Constructive criticism and suggestions are invited.

C. H. MARKHAM,
President, Illinois Central System.

Making Extraordinary Mileage a Certainty -

Car Owners want more rubber on the tread where the wear is hardest; more gum between cord plies to perfect a resilient and powerful carcass. And they want a scientifically constructed Non Skid tread with all angles and contacts to resist skidding and give sure traction. Firestone Cord Tires have met these demands of the car owners.

Read Letters Below—

Records from 29,000 to 57,000 Miles

Cord Tires built the Firestone way could not fail to produce mileage. Every day, from all over the country, comes the word that 10,000, 20,000 or 30,000 miles are frequent and consistent records.

Now and then they are emphasized by unusual instances such as quoted below. Performances like these demonstrate the ultimate possibilities of Firestone Cords under careful driving.

Sept. 10, 1921

Firestone Tire & Rubber Co., Jacksonville Branch, Jacksonville, Florida. Gentlemen:—

I submit herewith the history of a 33x4 Firestone Cord tire. This tire has run 37,000 miles. I have retreaded it seven times. The average mileage to each retreading was about 7,000. I think you will agree this is a remarkable record. It is especially unusual as I knew the owner to be a severe driver. However, he gives his tires proper inflation. The tire in question is not wet out of service and has every indication of being sufficiently strong for another retread. I am making photographs under separate cover.

C. U. Franey,
Plant City, Fla.

Sept. 2, 1921

The Harvey E. Mack Co., Thirteenth & Harrison Place, Minneapolis. Gentlemen:—

It occurs to me that you might be interested in the mileage that I obtained from the set of Firestone Cord tires on my Dodge coupe. The first tire went over 29,000 miles. The second tire rolled up a mileage of between 34,000 and 35,000. These were both rear tires and had been cut considerably by chains. The two front tires have gone better than 35,000 miles and are still in good condition. I expect to get at least 40,000 miles from each of them. I need scarcely say that the Firestone Cord will be my tire choice for the future.

Archie H. Beard,
