News reached Nashville, Tenn., of a singular bank safe explosion at Jonesboro, Tenn., where a gang of robbers made a desperate effort a few days ago to loot the First National bank. In their efforts to blow the safe the robbers used nitroglycerin, but the first charge failed to demolish the safe doors, though it injured the combination. They were frightened off. The services of Harry Knight, a safe expert from Cincinnati, were secured to assist the bank officials in opening the safe. While Knight was tapping the doors there was a terrific explosion that wrecked the entire office and shattered windows in the vicinity of the bank. Pieces of twisted steel were torn from the safe doors and hurled violently across the room. One piece demolished the desk and office chair, passing within a few inches of Cashier McPherson's head, finally crashing through a door. The hammer in the hand of Expert Knight was torn from the handle and sent through the plate-glass front window. About ten persons were in the bank at the time, but escaped serious injury.

ACCIDENT ON INSIDE OF BLAST FURNACE AT ILLINOIS STEEL WORKS.

Only rare presence of mind and the agility of a trained sailor saved Andrew Anderson from the fate of his three fellow laborers in being dashed to the ground from a scaffolding on the inside of a new blast furnace at the Illinois Steel company's works, South Chicago, Ill., Wednesday afternoon. Four men were at work upon the inside of the huge tank of the furnace, when a chain running through the tackle which supported their scaffolding broke, letting the whole platform fall with a crash to the ground. Anderson, with the quickness of a cat, sprang for the center beam, technically called the "mast" of the furnace, and grasping it as a sailor would a rope, slid safely to the ground. His three companions did not fare so well, but were picked up, battered, bleeding and unconscious and taken to the company's hospital.

Bad Wrecks Near Delavan.

Delavan, Ill., Sunday, was the scene of two very bad wrecks on the Chicago and Alton railroad, and they occurred within a mile of each other. Alec Paul, stealing a ride; legs crushed. While coming down a steep hill north of the city the engine of a through freight broke loose from the balance of the train and in trying to couple the two parts together the engine was struck by the train and thrown into the ditch. Some telegraph poles which were on a flat car were thrown into the cab of the engine by the force of the concussion and threw the throttle wide open, pinning it down in such a manner that the engineer lost all control of the engine and it started down the track at a terrific speed. The engineer and fireman, seeing their danger, jumped and were uninjured, but the engine continued down the track and collided with a Chicago bound passenger train and derailed the train and telescoped the engine.

MANY ROASTED TO DEATH.

Over 100 Men and Boys Fall on White-Hot Furnace.

THEY CRASH THROUGH ROOF.

Warnings Unheeded by the Ventresome Fellows, Who Were Witnessing a Football Game from the Roof of a Factory—Thirteen Dead, Others Dying.

Thirteen persons were killed and more than 100 injured, some of them fatally, by the collapse of the roof of a building from where they were surreptitiously viewing a football game between the Stanford and University of California teams Thursday afternoon in San Francisco.

All the hospital and police ambulances were called into requisition and private carriages were taken from the paddock of the football arena and pressed into service. Dead and wounded were hurried away to various hospitals, and in some instances to their homes, so that it is impossible to make up a complete list of the victims, although eighty-two have been cared for. The accident occurred at the San Francisco and Pacific glass works, located at Fifteenth and Bryant streets. Despite the efforts of a large force of police and private guards at the works, 500 persons had broken through the lines and clambered to the roof, which afforded a fine view of the game.

Warnings Not Heeded.

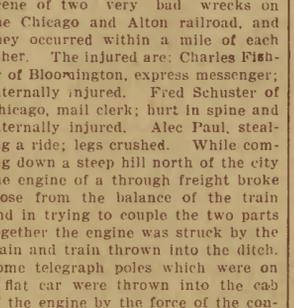

The proprietors of the factory realized the danger to those on the roof, but repeated warnings were turned back by jeers. The nearest police station was notified of the condition of affairs and a squad of officers had just arrived to dislodge the trespassers when the roof gave way. Ninety-eight persons fell through the roof to the floor below. The furnace was in full blast and the heat was terrific. The dome of the furnace is broken in one spot, and it is here that Gumper is believed to have plunged through to a frightful death. The crash of the breaking roof and the shouts and screams of the victims were heard for blocks. The dense crowds that immediately gathered around the glass-works made the work of rescue difficult and added to the general excitement and confusion. Bodies were brought out and speedily whirled away in express wagons, private carriages, ambulances and whatever conveyance was most available.

Crowded the Hospitals.

The Southern Pacific hospital, within two blocks of the scene of the accident, was speedily filled and many of the wounded were turned away. The late comers were taken to St. Luke's, near by drug stores or the receiving hospital. Ambulances were reserved for the injured, while the coroner removed the dead in express wagons. Twenty thousand persons were in the amphitheater and paddock, two blocks away, watching the football game, and when white-faced ushers scurried through the crowd, calling for surgeons, the game was abandoned and the spectators surged to the gates, anxious to see what had happened and help the injured. In this crush to get out a number of persons were trampled upon, dresses were torn and there were many minor injuries. A majority of the victims were boys, ranging in years from 10 to 15 years. The fires in the furnaces had been started for the first time Thursday, and the vats were full of liquid glass. It was upon these that the victims fell. Some were killed instantly and others were slowly roasted to death.

Fear a Belgian Hare Pest.

Secretary Wilson of the United States department of agriculture views with alarm the greatly increasing number of Belgian hares in the west. In his last report, just issued, he said: "The state board of agriculture of California has estimated that several thousand of the animals are already at large in that state. If they increase as rapidly when at large as they do in captivity, they will undoubtedly become a source of danger, and stringent measures may be required to keep them under control. Still more dangerous would be the introduction of the Belgian hare into Porto Rico, where the question of its acclimation has already excited interest."

Citizens Fight Bank Robbers.

An attempt was made to burglarize the bank at Oblong, twenty-five miles south of Greenup, Ill., but the effort was frustrated and the robbers driven off after a fierce fight, in which many shots were exchanged. Dr. Hamilton C. Kibbie lives opposite the bank and was aroused by crashing glass. He notified Cashier Dennis O'Dell, and these two, armed with a shotgun and a revolver, attacked the burglars and drove them away. Five shots from the robbers penetrated Kibbie's house near where the two men were standing.

Death Breaks Up a Feast.

Awaiting the return home for Thanksgiving dinner of Herman Levy his family sat at the table in Chicago and waited several hours for him. Just as they were giving up hope of hearing from him a messenger brought them a telegram announcing that he had been found dead in Hotel Julien in Dubuque, Iowa, where he stopped on his way home. Mrs. Levy fainted and is now seriously ill.

Indian Woman Seeks Divorce.

A divorce case has just been filed in the superior court at North Yakima, Wash., to which two prominent residents of the Yakima Indian reservation are parties. Kate McCaw, a teacher in the government schools at Fort Simcoe, filed an action for divorce from her husband, Samuel McCaw. Both are Indians and own allotments of eighty acres each on the reservation.

Report on Isthmian Canal.

The report of the Isthmian canal commission was given to the President for transmission to congress. It goes into details of both plans, but does not recommend either. It favors a waterway not less than thirty-five feet deep and 150 feet wide at the narrowest point.

TALMAGE'S SERMON.

SPEAKS ON ONE OF THE CHIEF CHRISTIAN VIRTUES.

The Need of Grace in the Affairs of Daily Life—Turns Discard Into Harmony—Final Reward of Patience—Causes of Pessimism.

(Copyright, 1900, Louis Klopfch, N. Y.)
Washington, Dec. 2.—This discourse of Dr. Talmage is a full length portrait of a virtue which all admire, and the lessons taught are very helpful; text, Hebrews x, 36, "Ye have need of patience."

Yes, we are in awful need of it. Some of us have a little of it, and some of us have none at all. There is less of this grace in the world than of almost any other. Faith, hope and charity are all abloom in hundreds of souls where you find one specimen of patience. Paul, the author of the text, on a conspicuous occasion lost his patience with a co-worker, and from the way he urges this virtue upon the Hebrews, upon the Corinthians, upon the Thessalonians, upon the Romans, upon the Colossians, upon the young theological student Timothy, I conclude he was speaking out of his own need of more of this excellence. And I only wonder that Paul had any nerves left. Imprisonment, flagellation, Mediterranean cyclone, arrest for treason and conspiracy, the wear and tear of preaching to angry mobs, those at the door of a theater and those on the rocks of Mars hill, left him emaciated and invalid and with a broken voice and sore eyes and nerves a-jangle. He gives us a snap-shot of himself when he describes his appearance and his sermonic delivery by saying, "In bodily presence weak and in speech contemptible," and refers to his inflamed eyelids when speaking of the ardent friendship of the Galatians he says, "If it had been possible, ye would have plucked out your own eyes and have given them to me."

Patience Under Difficulties.

Some of the people ordinarily most excellent have a deficit in this respect. That man who is the impersonation of amiability, his mouth full of soft words and his face a spring morning, if a passing wheel splash the mud across his broadcloth, see how he colors up, and hear him denounce the passing jehu. The Christian woman, an angel of suavity, now that some social slight is put upon her or her family, hear how her utterances increase in intensity. One of the ablest and best ministers of the gospel in America, stopping at a hotel in a town where he had an evening engagement, was interrupted in his afternoon nap by a knock at the door by a minister who had come to welcome him, and after the second and third knock the sleeper opened the door and took the invader by his repose by the collar and twisted it with a force that, if continued, would have been strangulation. Oh, it is easy enough to be patient about when there is nothing to be patient about. When the bank account is good and in no danger of being overdrawn, and the wardrobe is crowded with apparel appropriate for the cold, or the heat, or the wet, and all the family have attested their health by keen appetites at a loaded table, and the newspapers, if they mention us at all, put right construction upon what we do or say, and we can walk ten miles without getting tired, and we sleep eight solid hours without turning from side to side, the most useless grace I can think of is patience. It has no business anywhere in your house, you have no more need of it than a life preserver while you are walking the pavement of a city, no more need of it than an umbrella under a cloudless sky, no more need of it than of Sir Humphry Davy's safety lamp for miners while you are breathing the tonic air of an October morning.

Causes of Pessimism.

Now you understand how people can become pessimistic and cynical and despairful. You have reached that stage yourself. Now you need something that you have not. But I know of a re-enforcement that you can have if you will accept it. Yonder comes up the road or the sidewalk a messenger of God. Her attire is unpretending. She has no wings, for she is not an angel, but there is something in her countenance that implies rescue and deliverance. She comes up the steps that once were populous with the affluents and into the hallway where the tapestry is getting faded and frayed, the place now all empty of worldly admirers. I will tell you her name if you would like to know it. Paul baptized her and gave her the right name. She is not brilliant, but strong. There is a deep quietness in her manner, and a firmness in her tread, and in her hand is a scroll revealing her mission. She comes from heaven. She was born in the throne room of the King. This is Patience. "Ye have need of patience."

Warm Hearted Christians.

But here comes a warm hearted, sympathetic, Christian man. He says: "There is a man down in the ditch. I must get him out. God help me to get him out." And standing there on the edge of the ditch the good man soliloquizes and says to himself, "If I had had as bad a father and mother as he had and all the surroundings of my life had been as depraving as those that have cursed him I myself would probably have been down in the ditch, and if that man had been blessed with as good a father and mother as I have and he had been surrounded by the kindly influences which have encompassed all my days he would probably have been standing here looking down at me in the ditch." Then the good man puts his knee to the side of the ditch and bends over and says to the fallen one, "Brother, give me your hand," and with one stout grip lifts him up to God and heaven. There are wounds of the world that need the probe and the sharp knife and severe surgery, but the most of the wounds want an application of ointment or salve, and we ought to have three or four boxes of that gospel medication in our pocket as we go out into the world. We all need to carry more of the "balm of Gilead" and less caustic, more benediction and less anathema. When I find a professed Christian man harsh and merciless in his estimates of others, I silently wonder if he has not been misusing trust funds or beating his wife. There is something awful the matter with him.

We also have need of patience with slow results of Christian work. We want to see our attempts to do good immediately successful. The world is improving, but improving at so deliberate a rate. Why not more rapidity and momentum? Other wheels turn so swiftly, why not the gospel chariot take speed electric? I do not know. I only know that it is God's way. We whose cradle and grave are so near together have to hurry up, but God, who manages this world and the universe, is from everlasting to everlasting. He takes 500 years to do that which He could do in five minutes. His clock strikes once in a thousand years. While God took only a week to fit up the world for human residence, geology reveals that the foundations of the world were eons in being laid, and God watched the glaciers and the fires and the earthquakes and volcanoes as through centuries and millenniums they were shaping this world, before that last week that put on the arborescence. A few days ago my friend was talking with a geologist. As they stood near a pile of rocks my friend said to the scientist, "I suppose these rocks were hundreds of thousands of years in construction?" And the geologist replied, "Yes, and you might say millions of years, for no one knows but the Lord, and He won't tell." It took so long to make this world at the start, he is not surprised if it takes a long while to make it over again now that it has been ruined. The Architect has promised to reconstruct it, and the plans are all made, and at just the right time it will be so complete that it will be fit for heaven to move in, if, according to the belief of some of my friends, this world is to be made the eternal abode of the righteous. The wall of that temple is going up, and my only anxiety is to have the one brick that I am trying to make for that wall turn out to be of the right shape and smooth on all sides, so that the Master Mason will not reject it, or have much work with the trowel to get it into place.

Patience Under Injury.

Again, we have need of patience under wrong inflicted, and who escapes it in some form? It comes to all people in professional life in the shape of being misunderstood. Because of this how many people fly to newspapers for an explanation. You see their card signed by their own name declaring that they did not say this or did not do that. They fluster and worry, not realizing that every man comes to be taken for what he is worth, and you cannot by any newspaper puff be taken for more than you are worth nor by any newspaper depreciation be put down. There is a spirit of fairness abroad in the world, and if you are a public man you are classified among the friends or foes of society. If you are a friend of society, you will find plenty of adherents, and if you are the foe of society you cannot escape reprehension. Paul, you were right when you said, not more to the Hebrews than to us, "Ye have need of patience."

The Reward of Patience.

This last summer I stood on Sparrow hill, four miles from Moscow. It was the place where Napoleon stood and looked upon the city which he was about to capture. His army had been in long marches and awful fights and fearful exhaustions, and when they came to Sparrow hill the shout went up from tens of thousands of voices, "Moscow, Moscow!" I do not wonder at the transport. A ridge of hills sweeps round the city. A river semicircles it with brilliance. It is a spectacle that you place in your memory as one of three or four most beautiful scenes in all the earth. Napoleon's army marched on it in four divisions, four overwhelming torrents of valor and pomp. Down Sparrow hill and through the beautiful valley and across the bridges and into the palaces, which surrendered without one shot of resistance because the avalanche of troops was irresistible. There is the room in which Napoleon slept, and his pillow, which must have been very uneasy, for oh, how short his stay! Fires kindled in all parts of the city simultaneously drove out that army into the snowstorms under which 95,000 men perished. How soon did triumphal march turn into horrible demolition. Today, while I speak, we come on a high hill, a glorious hill of Christian anticipation. These hosts of God have had a long march, and fearful battles and defeats have again and again mingled with the victories, but today we come in sight of the great city, the capital of the universe, the residence of the King, and the home of those who are to reign with him for ever and ever. Look at the towers and hear them ring with eternal jubilee. Look at the house of many mansions, where many of our loved ones are. Behold the streets of burnished gold and hear the rumble of the chariots of those who are more than conquerors. So far from being driven back, all the twelve gates are wide open for our entrance. We are marching on and marching on, and our every step brings us nearer to that city.

To teach one who has no curiosity to learn is to sow a field without plowing it.

ders are in their attack on the world and how regular is the harvest which with the sharp scythe of pain they mow down for the grave. No such disciplined and courageous army ever marched as the army of physical suffering. They do their work in the order I name, and you may depend upon their keeping on in that same order for a good while yet; first of all tuberculosis, next organic heart disease, next pneumonia, next in number of its victims is apoplexy, next Bright's disease, next cancer, next typhoid fever, next paralysis. Those eight diseases are the worst despoilers of human life. The doctors with solutions and lancets and anodynes and cataplasms are in a brave fight against these physiological devils that try to possess the human race. But after all the scientists can do there is a demand for patience. Nothing can take the place of that. It is needed this moment in every sickroom and along the streets and in business places and shops where breadwinners are compelled to toil when physically incompetent to move a pen or calculate a column of figures or control a shovel. But every pastor could show you instances of complete happiness under physical suffering. He could take you to that garret or to that hospital or to some room in his parish where sits in rocking chair or lies upon a pillow some one who has not seen a well day in ten years and yet has never been heard to utter a word of complaint. The grace of God has triumphed in her soul as it never triumphs in the soul of one who is vigorous and athletic.

Banishment of Care.

Now, let us this hour turn over a new leaf and banish worry and care out of all our lives. Just see how these perversities have multiplied wrinkles in your face and acidulated your disposition and torn your nerves. You are ten years older than you ought to be. Do two things, one for the betterment of your spiritual condition and the other for the safety of your worldly interests. First, get your heart right with God by being pardoned through the atonement of Jesus Christ. That will give security for your soul's welfare. Then get your life insured in some well established life insurance company. That will take from you all anxiety about the welfare of your household in case of your sudden demise. The sanitary influence of such insurance is not sufficiently understood.

Many a breadwinner long since deceased would now have been alive and well but for the reason that when he was prostrated he saw that in case of his decease his family would go to the poorhouse or have an awful struggle for daily bread. But for that anxiety he would have got well. That anxiety defied all that the best physicians could do. Suppose these two duties attended to, the one for the safety of your soul in this world and the next, and the other for the safety of your family if you pass out of this life, make a new start. If possible have your family sitting room where you can let in the sunlight. Have a musical instrument if you can afford it, harp or piano or bass viol or parlor organ. Learn how to play on it yourself or have your children learn how to play on it. Let bright colors dominate in your room. If there are pictures on the wall, let them not be suggestive of battlefields which are always cruel, of deathbeds which are always sad, or partings which are always heartbreaking. There are enough present woes in the world without the perpetual commemoration of past miseries. If you sing in your home or your church do not always choose tunes in long meter.

...As the World Revolves...

Devoted to Her Father.

Although the re-election of Charles A. Boutelle of Maine to a seat in congress will probably never reach him, it is a source of great satisfaction to his daughter, Miss Grace, who is devoting her life to his comfort. As is well known, Mr. Boutelle has been for many months an inmate of a private asylum at Waverly, Mass. His mind is a complete wreck and even the most sanguine of his friends have given up hope of his restoration to reason.

During his entire illness Mr. Boutelle's daughter has been a ministering angel. She is a beautiful young woman and was long a favorite in Washington society. She would be gladly welcomed back to the scenes of her social triumphs, but has chosen instead to remain close to her father. She has sacrificed everything to be as near the one she loves as possible. Not a day passes but she drives from her lodgings to the insane asylum to spend as many hours with the patient as the doctors will allow. By her tender and loving caresses she seems to soothe the uneasy patient, and if Congressman Boutelle recovers the doctors declare the credit will be due to his affectionate daughter.

Good Roads Recommendations.

Besides providing for a permanent highway improvement organization, with headquarters in Chicago, the national good roads convention recently held in that city adopted certain general recommendations made by a committee for the promotion of the end in view.

The first recommendation is rather obscurely worded, but it seems to mean that the state should repeal the provisions of their road laws requiring people to work so many days each year on the roads and substitute therefor a provision requiring cash payment of road taxes. This is reasonable as far as it goes, because the labor under this system is largely ineffective and misapplied; the work is pretty much all done at one time, which is irrational, and it is rarely well directed. It was stated by one of the speakers at the convention that fully 75 per cent of the work done under this system was thrown away. With the taxes paid in cash and the money used to buy suitable materials and appliances and to employ capable workmen and direct them wisely far more and better results would be secured at no great expense. The second recommendation was that state legislatures make provision for the employment of convict labor in preparation of material for the construction of roads. The third recommendation is the passage of suitable state laws in aid of the work of improvement and the appointment of "non-partisan" highway commissioners.

Marquis of Anglesey.

The Marquis of Anglesey, who has just been sued by his wife for divorce, is Henry Cyril Paget, and head of the famous Paget family, whose members are intermarried with prominent American houses. The marquis is only 25 years old and succeeded his father two years ago. His wife is the daughter of Sir George Chetwynd, the famous turfman. She is a beautiful woman of 20, with violet eyes and Ti-lian hair. The pair have never got on well together since the marriage. She left her husband in the middle of their honeymoon because of the marked symptoms of insanity exhibited by him. He tries to dress like a woman, carries pug dogs in his promenades, wears rings on every finger, and appears on the public stage as a skirt dancer. The marquis inherits his eccentricities. His mother was erratic and committed suicide because she was not happy with her husband. The marriage of Anglesey and his wife was made to secure inheritance on both sides, and it was not their intention to live together.

Is Called the Corn King.

A new star has risen on the Chicago Board of Trade. This latest star on "change belongs to the constellation taurus, for he has given corn such a boost as it has not had for many a day. The big institution is more or less accustomed to all kinds of financial sensations, but George H. Phillips has given the board a nervous shock of the kind probably a little different from any received heretofore. Mr. Phillips is the youngest man who ever engineered a corner in grain in Chicago, and the youngest who ever attempted such a stupendous operation. The young man is not yet 32 years of age, and he has only been a dealer upon the Geo. H. Phillips, Board of Trade for a period of eight years. The extremely boyish appearance of the big bull has occasioned no end of remark since he jumped into such prominence. Mr. Phillips is slender and short of stature, is light, almost pale, complexioned, with light eyes and hair and a man of most unpretentious appearance and address. He is so extremely modest and unassuming that the notoriety he has attained and the attention which he has attracted have been almost painful to him.

ONE ON SENATOR CLARK.

A new bit of Washington gossip tells how one day last winter Senator Chandler of New Hampshire, being about to enter the senate chamber from the public corridor, was accosted by one of two little girls, who had wandered in there. "Mister, what does it cost to go in there?" said the child. At that moment Chandler saw Clark, the Montana millionaire, coming around the corner. "Ask that man," said the New Hampshire man. "He knows all about it."

Wife of Governor Elect Herreid.

Governor Elect Herreid of South Dakota is very proud of his talented wife. She is prominently identified with all movements in the state. She is a typical western woman, and was born in Mindora, La Crosse county, Wis., Feb. 6, 1859. Her father, Henry Harrison Snye, was a pioneer of Wisconsin, and was formerly from New York state. Mrs. Herreid attended the public schools and later went to Galesville university. After leaving college she taught in the public schools until her marriage in 1881. Two years later she removed to South Dakota with her husband and has since been a resident of that state.

Theater "Blabbers."

Under the head-line, "Bunce the Blabbers," a Cedar Rapids paper makes vigorous protest against the chatters who disturb theater and lecture audiences. It offers a reward of $5 for the first usher who will "go after such idiots in the proper manner," and refers to one of them as having a mouth that "would be a profitable enterprise if turned into a windmill."

Has Run the Naval Gamut.

Rear Admiral Andrew Kennedy Bickford, C. M. G., has been appointed commander-in-chief on the English Pacific station, in succession to Rear Admiral Beaumont, who goes to the Australian station. The son of Mr. W. Bickford of Newport House, South Devon, he was born in India, but was educated at the South Devon Collegiate school. He entered the navy in 1858, and first saw active service in China. Admiral Bickford. He was senior and gunnery lieutenant of the Amethyst at the time of its encounters with the Peruvian rebel Ironclad Huncar. Service in Alexandria and elsewhere brought him on to the captaincy he exercised as senior officer of combined French and English and German and English squadrons at various operations in the South Pacific during the course of which he put a stop to civil war at Samoa. He commanded the Resolution in the Channel squadron; became captain of first reserve at Portsmouth; captain-superintendent of Sheerness dock yard in 1896; rear admiral in 1899, and A. D. C. to the Queen. His C. M. G. was gained for services as captain of the allied squadron at various operations in the South Pacific.

Think Suicide Was Cooper.

After puzzling the Cleveland, O., detectives for days the mystery as to the identity of the Hollenden hotel suicide may at last be solved. It is thought that the man was Thomas J. Cooper, a prominent citizen of Princeton, Ill. The suicide registered as J. S. Jones of Chicago at the hotel, paid a day's board in advance and the next day was found dead in his room, having taken arsenic in whisky. Inside the collar was the name Cooper, Thos. J. Cooper of Princeton, is said to have disappeared from Chicago Nov. 13.

A WEEK IN ILLINOIS.

RECORD OF HAPPENINGS FOR SEVEN DAYS.

Dutcher Brings Damage Suit Against a Rabbi — Linn-Clark Nuptials — Bishop Hale's Chances for Recovery Seem Slim — State Prison Feast.

Linn-Clark Nuptials.

At the home of Mrs. Adelaide Clark the wedding of Mrs. Clark's daughter, Miss Edith Stevens Clark, and Marshall George Linn took place in Bloomington. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Wemyss Smith, rector of St. Matthew's Episcopal church, assisted by a former pastor, the Rev. S. B. Pond of Chicago. Miss Margaret Cole of Bloomington and Mrs. H. W. Farnum of Chicago were the attendants. The home was decorated with chrysanthemums and carnations. The bride wore white taffeta silk with overdress of white mousseline de soie. After the wedding dinner Mr. and Mrs. Linn departed for New England, to be at home Jan. 1, in Bloomington. The out of town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Linn, Mrs. M. L. Andrews, and Mrs. W. Scott Linn of Chicago, and Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Linn. Besides these there were present only the members of Miss Clark's family and a few intimate friends.

Suspected as Bank Robbers.

Two suspicious looking characters, suspected of the Emden bank robbery and attempted killing of Officer Sanford were captured by a posse while hiding in the woods south of Minier and taken to Delavan. They gave their names as McDougald and Hood of Chicago. They had in their possession a revolver, said to have been taken from Ollie Albers, the young man who was bound and gagged by the robbers. Albers said they were not the right men, but it is thought by the officers that he refrained from identifying them here for fear they would become victims of a mob which had collected. They were taken to the Pekin jail and Albers accompanied them. Legal complications may arise between Logan and Tazewell counties as to the possession of the prisoners if identified. Tazewell wishes to prosecute them for attempted murder and Logan for bank robbery. Officer Sanford lies between life and death.

Bishop Hale Is Still Alive.

The condition of Rt. Rev. Charles R. Hale of Cairo, coadjutor bishop of Springfield diocese, remains unchanged. There does not appear to be any chance for his recovery. Bishop Hale is 63 years old and was dean of the Davenport, Iowa, cathedral for six years prior to appointment to his present position in 1892.

Grave Crime Is Charged.

Dr. Thomas B. Spalding, a physician in Decatur, and Mrs. Lena Roberts, keeper of a boarding house, were placed under arrest at that city under an indictment charging an attempt to perform criminal operation in the case of the doctor and with being an accessory in the case of the woman. Dr. Robert Spalding of Clinton and Clyde James, also of Clinton, but now of Oklahoma territory, were also indicted as being accessories. It is charged that Miss Slane, aged 15 years, of Clinton, was the subject of the operation, and that she was in the boarding house of Mrs. Roberts in Decatur until the police began to look up evidence in the case. Then the Decatur physician hurried her out of town. She is now said to be in a serious condition at Clinton.

Butcher Sues a Rabbi.

Abraham Wallowitz, whom Rabbi Friedman deposed as official butcher of the congregation Agudas Achaim, at Peoria, has sued the rabbi for $10,000 damages to his business resultant therefrom. The deposing followed a quarrel between the two and much unfriendliness has been engendered in the congregation.

One Man Not Thankful.

Albert Brown was tried at Belleville during two days on a charge of burglary. If he had been proven innocent he would have won a bride as well as his liberty and the wedding would have taken place on Thanksgiving day. He spent in jail what would have been his wedding day. There is a long penitentiary sentence ahead of him and he has no hope of winning his bride when he is released. Brown is connected with a prominent St. Louis family. He was accused of complicity in a burglary at the power house of the Belleville and St. Louis electric line. To Miss Mamie Gillespie, to whom he had previously been paying attentions, he protested that he was innocent. She told him that if he was proven innocent she would marry him.

Feast at the Joliet Prison.

The dreary and monotonous life of the convicts of the penitentiary found brief respite in the annual Thanksgiving festivities prepared by the officials for the entertainment of the prisoners. The program comprised feasting, vau-deville, music and the allowing of certain privileges only given on the few holiday occasions.

Henry Wood, accompanied by his wife and daughter, started Tuesday for Citronella, Ala., for his health which has been very poor. Democrat, Sycamore.

The newspapers of Sycamore have killed a "bear." They all did it and each claims the sole credit. That's right boys: blow your own horn. You need not expect the other fellow to blow it for you.

The notable base ball team of Sycamore that have acquired such fame, it seems has failed to clear the management from debt. At a meeting of the association held last week, the boys showed a debt of $325 with a subscription asset of $100 leaving a deficit of $225.

The DeKalb County Democrat wants to know what we Genosites are doing around their burg after sundown. The fact of it is, Bro. Nos, that there is a pretty fine lot of fellows over there and when we come up agin them its hard to break away. How-some-ever only one of us ever came home minus our hat.

On Tuesday noon the body of Alfred Peterson was found in an out house at Geneva, with a revolver by his side. A bullet hole was in his head, and one chamber of the revolver contained an empty cartridge. The conclusion was that he committed suicide. He was 18 years of age, a boy of good habits, and the only cause ascribed for the deed is poor health. His father is janitor of the Geneva high school building.

The Winslow Register of last week published a full list of premiums to be given at their Mid Winter Fair for the best displays. Of the one hundred or more prizes mentioned all are $1.00 for first prize and fifty cents for second prize, with the exception of but three cases, one of which is a cash prize of two dollars, for the best baby display, and two dollars for the handsomest merchants booth. The other is a Webster's dictionary for the best picture of a dog. The affair will be a credit to the town, and we presume will, as usual be a financial success. However the attendance will be somewhat limited from this territory owing to a failure of the editor to give the date of the fair and the arrangement for special railroad trains.

Belvidere Republican: It is probable that during the coming session of the state legislature there will be a change made in the present law governing tests of cattle tuberculosis, which has caused so much agitation in northern Illinois, particularly in Boone and Mc Henry counties. The enforcement of the law in Mc Henry county at one time threatened to create a small revolution there, and the radicals demanded that it be immediately repealed.

That will not be done, however. In the light of the experience of the past two years the law will probably be amended and remodeled, and fitted more closely to needs of the situation in this state. The opinions of the state veterinarians has changed, but little in the matter and the changes in the law will probably be such as will take away the hardships which strict enforcement has at times placed on the owner of dairy cattle.

Crude Oil as a Dust Preventative.

At a good roads convention in Chicago Tuesday the use of oil for compacting the road bed and laying dust was discussed at considerable length. It appears from the discussion that oil has been successfully used in some parts of California and is recommended for roads that are on light soil and liable to become dusty. Some experiments will probably be tried with oil in the east as a result of the interchange of views.

The New York Central Railroad company are using crude oil quite extensively in saturating their road-bed and it is proving very satisfactory in keeping the dust out of their trains. The oil makes the dust adhere so that it does not fly and in a storm the water runs off quickly without soaking into the earth. We believe it would be the most economical way of disposing of the dust on our streets. Oil can be had for about three cents a gallon and if every one would put a barrel on the streets it would be a cheap and effective experiment.

THE OPEN-TOP CAR CHILILITLI.

The very newest thing in railway car architecture is a passenger car for steam roads, built very much on the lines of the summer trolley car, except that this car can open up the top as well as the sides. The car was built by the Pullman Company for the American Tourist Association, of Chicago, and was intended as an observation car in the great canons of mountainous mountains could be enjoyed to the fullest extent would be from a car without sides or top. The following season a coal, or gondola car, with board seats, was attached to the American Tourist Association train, and every traveler on that train climbed into it. Afterwards the Mexican government prohibited the carrying passengers in freight cars, and the coal

Mexico. The car was invented by Beau Campbell, the Mexican traveler, and came about as follows:

Some years ago when Mr. Campbell was traveling through the great Tamasopo Canon, he had a seat on the side of the car next to the mountain, the rocks of the cliff were within two feet of the window, and of course he could get not even a glimpse of the canon, as all the windows on the other side of the car were taken up by the occupants of the adjoining seats. Determined to view the magnificence of the canon, Mr. Campbell returned to Las Canoas, and through the courtesy of railway officials made the world-famous ride on board what the superintendent called his "trolley," an open car with seats for eight persons, and with this ride came the idea that the only way the magnificence of Mexico's car had to go. Then the building of a passenger car without a top was decided on, and the Chililitli came in evolution from a work car to the coal car, and to the consummation of itself.

The Chililitli became famous, and from an observation car went on duty as a pavilion by the sea, and a roof garden, for it is electric lighted, and has an outfit of Chinese lanterns. But the favorite is also remembered as a dining car of the tropics, attached to a special train, that, during meal hours, could stand still or run just fast enough to secure a breeze, and not raise a dust. The Chililitli is the largest observation or dining car ever built. There are seats (reversible as in a coach) for 68 people, and when the tables are in place 56 persons may sit down to dinner.

There Is a Class of People Who are injured by the use of coffee. Recently there has been placed in all the grocery stores a new preparation called GRAIN-O, made of pure grains, that takes the place of coffee. The most delicate stomach receives it without distress, and but few can tell it from coffee. It does not cost over one-fourth as much. Children may drink it with great benefit. 15 cents and 25 cents per package. Try it. Ask for GRAIN-O.

WOES OF WORKERS.

The American man or woman is industrious. Our leisure class is small, our working world very large. Many of our leading citizens of great wealth are hard workers. Our laboring classes are found in herds and hordes in the "hives of industry." What is all this work for? In most cases it is for daily bread, in many for maintenance of others. Great numbers also work to acquire wealth. Some for great commercial prominence. Some to preserve intact a splendid inheritance. Necessity, generosity and ambition are the inspiration of all classes of industry, and the object of every one falls to the ground when ill-health attacks him.

Maintaining health is the most vital thing in the world for workers of every class, and the usefulness of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, as a strengthener of the constitutional and vital powers, is beyond all question. This great remedy enters into partnership with Nature and helps human beings do their work without giving up to premature decay. The strain of work is on the minds of some, on the bodies of others, but the nourishing of either, or both, is in the nerves and blood. Nervura acts directly on the fountains of health and its strengthening power is wonderful.

Dr. Greene's NERVURA for the Blood and Nerves.

What does the worker do when some chronic trouble manifests itself? He takes some stimulant or something which is designed for temporary effect, and simply weakens his already overworked system. How different from this is the work of Nervura! How beautiful its support to the natural powers! Without shock of any kind its purely vegetable elements seek out the weak spots and build them up. Immediately the circulation of the blood improves and the sluggish elements are expelled. The nerves are quieted, the quality of the blood is enriched and the new and strengthening tide communicates itself to every muscle of the body.

Mr. JOHN D. SMITH, Electrician for the Thomson-Houston Electric Co., of Lynn, Mass., says:

"When a man has been sick and is cured, it is his duty to tell others about it, that they, too, may get well. Three years ago I had been working almost night and day, could not eat regularly, and got only a few hours' sleep at night. No man can stand that long, and I soon began to be prostrated. I could not sleep when I tried, and my food would not stay on my stomach. I was in a terrible condition, and was much alarmed. I went to doctors, but they did me no good. Learning of the wonderful good done by Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, I determined to try it. It cured me completely of all my complaints. I eat heartily and sleep well, thanks to this splendid medicine. I believe it to be the best remedy in existence."

Dr. Greene, Nervura's discoverer, will give all health seekers his counsel free of charge. His office is at 35 West 14th Street, New York City, and his advice may be secured by personal call or by letter through the mail; no charge is made in either case. The worn-out in body, mind, or sexual powers will get prompt help from Dr. Greene. His advice is absolutely confidential and is free to all.

SENATOR DAVIS IS DEAD.

Expires at His Home in the City of St. Paul.

ILLNESS LASTS TWO MONTHS.

Was Chairman of Senate Foreign Relations Committee and a Member of the Paris Peace Commission—Once Governor of Minnesota.

After an illness beginning two months ago in an apparently trivial abrasion of one of his feet, developing later into blood poisoning, and still later into nephritis, Cushman Kellogg Davis, chairman of the committee on foreign relations in the senate, died Tuesday evening at his home in St. Paul.

Cushman Kellogg Davis was born at Henderson, Jefferson county, N. Y., June 16, 1838. His father removed to Wisconsin in 1838 and settled in Waukesha on a farm, where the son was brought up. Cushman K. passed his first three collegiate years in Carrollton college, Waukesha, and went thence to the University of Michigan, where he graduated in the classical course in 1857. He studied law with Alexander W. Randall, afterward the war governor of Wisconsin, and was admitted to practice in 1859. His first vote was cast for Abraham Lincoln in 1860. After a thorough preparation he commenced the practice of law in Waukesha. In 1862 he closed his law office and went into the war as first lieutenant, Company B, 28th Wisconsin infantry. He served nearly two years in the Army of the Tennessee. In 1864, being disabled by the hardships of the service, he resigned from the army and sought and found in Minnesota a restorative of health thus impaired.

In 1864 C. K. Davis came to St. Paul and formed a co-partnership with his late chief in the army service, Gen. W. A. Gorman, ex-governor of Minnesota territory. In June, 1873, Davis was nominated as the Republican candidate for governor after a lively contest. He was duly elected governor, and his official record was in every respect honorable. Davis' term as senator commenced March 4, 1887. After his appointment to a position on the committee on foreign relations Senator Davis came to the front as an authority on diplomacy and international law. During the controversies attendant on the Chilean dispute and the Bering sea matter Senator Davis was the trusted confidant and legal adviser of President Harrison and Secretary Blaine, furnishing at their request briefs on some of the most intricate questions involved, which were gratefully acknowledged as very important contributions toward strengthening the case of the government.

During the last four years Senator Davis' position as chairman of the foreign relations committee of the senate, and later as one of the Paris commissioners, have kept him prominently before the public of all nations. He was re-elected without opposition in 1899 for his third term. Senator Davis has been twice married. His first wife was Miss Laura Bowman, and after she had secured a divorce from him he married, in 1880, Miss Anna Malcolm Agnew. Senator Davis' last conscious utterance was the expression of a wish to live; not for the sake of life itself, but because he believed his country needed him. His words were: "Oh, that I might live five years more for my country's sake."

Fire Ruins Kentucky Town. Fulton, Ky., was visited by a fire that destroyed twenty establishments and caused a loss of $250,000. The blaze originated in the Kirk dry goods store, where it is supposed to have been started by burglars, and nearly all the business section was laid in ruins.

Tire Companies at War. An action for $250,000 damages has been instituted at Toronto, Ont., against the New Jersey and Toronto Dunlop Tire companies by the British Dunlop Tire company of London, England, for alleged wrongful sales of goods to Australian firms. These sales, they say, were in violation of one of the chief conditions in the agreement made when they sold their American continental rights to the Canadian company, which resold the United States rights to a New Jersey firm.

The diploma was handed to her, in her brother's residence, on the occasion of her seventieth birthday, by a deputation from the University of Vienna, including the rector and several professors. In course of his address to her, the rector remarked that as a youth he had already been entranced by her stories, and that he little dreamed that it was to be his privilege to thus pay her his homage.

MRS. F. J. LYNCH, GRAND RAPIDS, MICH.
Mrs. F. J. Lynch, 324 South Division street, Grand Rapids, Mich., writes: The Peruna Medicine Company, Columbus, Ohio:

Gentlemen:—"I earnestly recommend Peruna to any suffering women as it cures quickly. I had a most persistent cough which nothing seemed to cure. Two bottles of Peruna did more for me than all the doctors seemed to do. In a couple of weeks I found myself in excellent health, and have been enjoying it ever since. Hence I look on Peruna as a true friend to women."

MRS. F. J. LYNCH.
Like the plague-stricken Egyptians a cry of distress has gone out from every household, and the mildew of woe clings to every hearthstone.

Catarrh in some form, catarrh in some stage lurks as an enemy in the slightest cough or cold and finishes its fiendish work in heart disease and consumption.

No tissue, function, or organ of the body escapes its ravages; muscles wither, nerves shatter, and secretions dry up under its blighting presence. So stubborn and difficult of cure is this disease that to invent a remedy to cure chronic catarrh has been the ambition of the greatest minds in all ages. Is it therefore any wonder that the vast multitude of people who have been cured of chronic catarrh by Peruna are so lavish in their praise of this remedy? That the discovery of Peruna has made the cure of catarrh a practical certainty is not only the testimony of the people, but many medical men declare it to be true.

As a drug store in this age of the world is incomplete without Peruna, it can be obtained anywhere with directions for use. A complete guide for the prevention and cure of catarrh and all diseases of winter, sent free by The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, Ohio.

CONSUMPTION

A BRIEF HISTORY.

Beginning in 1851, no One Can Foretell the End.

In later years culminated in a union which proved to be one that pleased the entire population, the rich and poor, the good and indifferent. Every one was remembered by the bride and groom. No one was to great to be approached or any one too low to be ignored. Such a wedding was entirely in keeping with the goodness of the young hearts that beat as one.

The engine is, however, restless and the train must on. The railway line was extended to Milton in 1852, Madison in 1854 and reached the Mississippi river at Prairie du Chien in 1857. The express to the leading terminals can now only be taken in the course of this article. The road via Prairie du Chien, McGregor, Owatonna and Faribault to St. Paul and Minneapolis was opened for business its entire length in 1867.

This road was constructed by starting at Minneapolis and at McGregor and meeting at Rose Creek, near Austin, Minn., 1867. This was the first road to connect St. Paul and Minneapolis with Milwaukee and the East.

It was the pioneer line which connected St. Paul and Minneapolis directly with the civilized world. In honor of this one of the great trains of the road is called the "Pioneer Limited."

In 1873 the Milwaukee and St. Paul entered Chicago over its own rails from Milwaukee. Its first regular passenger trains being run between these points on February 16, 1873. Prior to this it had done its business over a line owned by a company called the Chicago & Milwaukee Railway Company, which line was completed and connected the two cities in 1855.

When the Milwaukee & St. Paul proposed to come into Chicago there was great excitement in that city. Chicago had not then the number of roads it has now, but was working up towards becoming the great meeting point of Eastern and western trunk lines. The Milwaukee & St. Paul with its, for those times, immense mileage behind it, and the only line farthest into the Northwest, was hailed by the people as a great acquisition to Chicago.

The company had in 1872 a second route to St. Paul, the line from St. Paul, Red Wing, Winona and Rives Junction being completed in that year with its line from Milwaukee to La Crosse. In his annual report Mr. Alexander Mitchell (who had been elected president of the company on June 30, 1865) says: "Your company now owns a complete line of railway from Chicago by way of Milwaukee and La Crosse to St. Paul, which is the shortest and most desirable route between those cities."

After the line had reached Chicago the management of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway Company did something that surprised the transportation world. In judging of a past event one must have the faculty of seeing things at the time in question in relation to contemporary surroundings. When the great idea of connecting the Atlantic and Pacific by rail way commenced to take practical shape an important center at the foot of the lakes was in the minds of many about to loom into view as the terminus of Eastern roads and the starting of Western ones. Some thought that a point directly at the foot of the lakes would become the great railroad center, even superior to Chicago, which was a little way around the corner. But Chicago had acquired momentum and became on account of its geographical position coupled with its enterprise, the terminal point.

Milwaukee, eighty-five miles north, was too great a detour; but to overcome this geographical disadvantage and reap the benefits of proximity to Chicago and the direct Eastern lines was a problem that presented itself to the management of the road and was ably solved.

The independent company previously connecting Chicago and Milwaukee was one with little prestige so far as the great Eastern trunk lines were concerned. This independent road subsequently fell into the hands of the Chicago & North-Western Railway Company. The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, with its lines of railway into new and growing territory behind it, was a road of prestige and importance.

A traffic contract was proposed to and accepted by the Eastern trunk lines placing Milwaukee, at this time becoming to be known in the East as a great Lake Michigan shipping port with a future before it, on the same basis as Chicago in relation to New York, Boston, Philadelphia and Baltimore.

The revenue to the "Milwaukee" road was from this arrangement for a long time very slim but manufacturing had been given an impetus through the contract and began to develop in Milwaukee as well as in Chicago and the east-bound and west-bound freight ultimately assumed an immense volume.

Madge Miller.
Published for the benefit of single ladies.

Madge Miller, on a summer day,
Walked as usual her pleasant way.
Her dress was tidy, her apron white
Her face was sweet as the morning light.

She was a comely village maid,
Learning a country milliner's trade.

Her hands were soft, her dress was clean,
And little she knew what care might mean.

She said "I'll work at my pretty trade
And live a happy and free old maid."

"Lovers may come, and lovers may go,
I'll have none of them. Oh no, no."

But a suitor, came with a tall silk hat,
Who told her a story worth two of that.

(The same old story by lovers told Since first the earth out of chaos rolled.)

(Let us kindly hope, who are old and wise
He didn't know he was telling her lies.)

"Marry me darling, and you shall be
The happiest woman on land or sea."

"No longer then will you have to go
To your daily labors, through heat and snow."

"It shall be my pleasure, my law, my life,
To make you a blest and happy wife."

"Marry me, and you never shall know
A sorrow or hardship, a care or woe."

"Marry me darling, and you shall be
The happiest woman on land or sea."

She heard the story of promised bliss;
She waited, wavered and answered "Yes."

Bright and big was the honey-moon;
And clouded by worldly cares too soon.

For house-work led her its weary round,
Her feet were tethered, her hands were bound.

And children came with their small demands,
Fettering still closer her burdened hands.

In her husband's house she came to be
A servant—in all but salary.

All her days, whether foul or fair,
Were endless circles of work and care.

And half her night, as up and down
She walked the floor in her dressing gown,

Hushing an ailing infant screams
Lest it disturb its father's dreams,

Or coaxed and doctored a sobbing child,
By the pangs of ear-ache driven wild,

Were seasons of wakeful nervous dread,
So fit, at last o'er her aching head

The angel of slumber chanced to stoop,
He brought her visions of mumps, or croup;

And she rose unrested, and went once more
Through the dull routine of the day before.

Week after week did she drudge and toil,
And stew, and pickle, and roast, and boil,

And scrub, and iron, and sweep, and cook,
(Her only reading a receipt book.)

And wash the dishes, and rub the knives,
(The lofty mission of dutiful wives),

And bathe the children, and brush their locks,
But on their aprons, and pin their frocks,

And patch old garments, and darn, and mend,
Oh, weary worry that has no end.

She lost her airy and sportive ways,
The pretty charm of her girl-hood days:

For how can a playful fancy rove
When one is tied to a cooking stove?

Her face was old ere she reached her prime,
Faded and care-worn before its time.

Sometimes would her well-kept husband look
Up, from the page of his paper or book,

And note how the blood had left her face,
And a sallow paleness won its place.

How gray had mixed with her locks of brown:

And her forehead had gained a growing frown;
And say, "She is ugly, I declare,
I wonder I ever thought her fair."

Season by season, year after year
Did she follow the round of "woman's sphere."

Nor vexed her husband's days or nights
By any question of "Woman's Rights."

Till she died at last, too severely tried;
Her life's one selfish act,—she died.

He was proud, and happy, and quite content
With the showish way her days were spent;

Thinking, no doubt, that her life was lost
Nobly, in saving a servant's cost.

Once he fancied her dim ghost spoke
Out of its cloud of kitchen smoke.

"Why did I leave my girlish life
To be a dowdy and drudging wife?"

"I might have worked at my tasteful trade
And been a happy and free old maid."

"Or taught a school as I had before
Or been a clerk in a dry goods store."

"Or reigned a trim, white handed queen
Over a dutiful sewing-machine,

"And earned a living, and some small praise
In any one of a dozen ways"

"No other servants than wives, I think,
Work for nothing but food and drink"

"A prisoning home like this I know
And a semi-annual calico."

"No other employer dame or man Makes life so hard as a husband can."

"Ah! Ah me! What curses are on his head
Who woes a woman, but does not wed!"

"Oh, mourning damsels who pine and cry
For fickle lovers who vow,—and fly,

"Heal your heart-aches, and soothe your woes
With the hard-earned wisdom of one who knows."

"Small reason have you to blame or rue
The lover who doesn't marry you."

"Ah! of all sad thoughts of women or men,
The saddest is this, "It needn't have been."

Trouble in the Knights of the Globe.

A suit of great interest to the numerous members in this vicinity of the order of the Knights of the Globe was filed this afternoon. It is in the form of a bill in chancery signed by Shepard H. Zimmerman against William W. Krape and Adam C. Schadel.

The complaint charges that in the fall of 1889 W. W. Krape, Israel G. Wise, E. Bonner, W. H. Bolander, A. H. Wheat and the orator entered into an argument for the organization of "a certain so called order to be by them designated as the Knights of the Globe, for their mutual benefit, emolument, gain, advantage and profit," and to organize an insurance association for similar objects, and that a large amount of profits had accrued up to 1896, but that on April 4, 1899, the other parties to the agreement or rather four of them, froze complainant out by unjustly and unlawfully expelling him from his membership. He seeks for an accounting and that his expulsion be set aside.—Freeport Bulletin.

This is another case of a large reserve fund in the hands of a few head officers who cannot withstand the temptation of playing a game of freeze-out. The Woodmen, we believe, are too wise to permit any such evils to exist in their order.

Mrs. John Mott Demented.

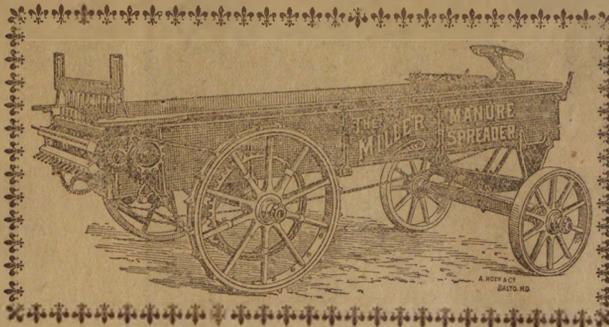

On Tuesday November 20, Mrs. John Mott was seized with a malady which necessitated her being taken to some hospital and accordingly was taken to Freeport and placed in the hands of the best doctors of that city. X Rays were employed to ascertain if any difficulty could be discerned which might be the cause of her mental delusion, but nothing was discovered.

It seems that she has conceived the idea that some one has planned to poison her and those whom have heretofore been her dearest and best friends are now the ones she most despises, although these spells do not continue all the time. At times she is apparently as rational as ever.

The doctors at Freeport decided that Mrs. Mott ought to be cared for at a place better equipped for caring for such cases and she was brought home and the necessary paper secured from Judge Pond and on last Friday she was taken to the asylum at Elgin. The doctors there consider it not a bad case to relieve in a few weeks and many of her friends are hoping that this assertion may prove true.

Mrs. Mott is a member of the Royal Neighbors of America and holds a policy for $1000.

REV. L. L. CARPENTER, Wabash, Ind., is President of the Bethany Assembly at Brooklyn, Ind. He is perhaps the most prominent clergyman in the Christian Church to-day. He has dedicated about 500 churches and baptised 7000 converts. He writes:—"It affords me great pleasure to give my testimony as to the efficiency of Dr. Kay's remedies.

Dr. Kay's Lung Balm is the very best cough, cold and throat remedy that I ever used.

I have also received great benefit from the use of Dr. Kay's Renovator. My son had for years been greatly afflicted with the piles; he commenced the use of Dr. Kay's remedies and experienced relief almost from the first.

Doing Well.

The Sycamore Rabbitry is assuming large proportions, and doing quite a business in thoroughbred Belgian Hares. They now have about thirty bred does for sale; also several fine bucks and a few youngsters.

All of the hares are pedigreed and come from the most popular strains. Lord Tennyson, a prize winner, imported from England in September, is a valuable acquisition to the Rabbitry.
