BELVIDERE GETS FACTORY

Janesville Man Gets One Year for Stealing Three Dozen Doughnuts—Ward Hotel Sold

It required $2,000 to secure a piano factory for Belvidere. As sixty dollars in excess of that amount has been raised, the location of the industry is considered assured.

For stealing three dozen doughnuts, valued at 30 cents, from a bakery, Albert Dorsey of Janesville was sentenced by Judge Fifield to one year in the state prison at Wausau.

The Ward Hotel of Sycamore was sold last week to C. V. Peterson of Hampshire for a consideration of $18,000. The new owner, whose family has had previous experience in hotel business, will take possession on or before March first. Mr. and Mrs. Ward, who have conducted the hotel almost continuously for twenty-five years, will remain in Sycamore for the present.

Rev. "Billy" Sunday is making a tremendous success of his meetings at Kankakee, and it is stated that he has already secured 3000 converts. It is said that the fund collected for the evangelist there will exceed that of any other place in which he has ever talked, the sum of $10,000 having been subscribed. The newspapers are devoting much space to the revivals, Sunday's sermons being practically printed in full. Excursions have been run from sixteen neighboring towns, and in fact old Kankakee has been stirred as it never has been before by any religious revival.

Six speakers of national reputation will address the Illinois League of Swedish-American Republican clubs at the John Ericson banquet on March 9, at the Nelson house, Rockford. They are: Governor Deneen of Illinois, Gov. Davidson of Wisconsin, Congressman Lowden, Congressman Fuller of Belvidere, Chief Justice Olson of the municipal court, Chicago.

The question of whether or not a person who carries a gun is compelled to have a license was settled in Justice Van Osdel's court at Aurora. The case was about two St. Charles boys, who were arrested Sunday afternoon, February 2, and it was decided that if a person was carrying a gun for the purpose of target practice it is not necessary to carry a license.

The merchant who advertises regularly and liberally pays a compliment to the reader. The merchant who thinks other things—almost all other things—of more importance than his advertising does not pay a compliment to the reader, nor take much trouble to secure his patronage.

Ottawa has a club known as the "For Ottawa Club" which is composed of a number of young business and professional men who, ignoring their party politics and creeds, have banded themselves together to unify public sentiment and boost Ottawa. The Republican Times says the contention is that too many "kickers" are on the streets and not enough who are systematically united to press the claims of the city to the front.

The management of the northern Illinois hospital for the insane at Elgin, much to the surprise of the people of this great dairy district, have been using buterine in the institution. This fact has just become known and it is creating much unfavorable comment.

Y. M. C. A. MEETING

Next Sunday Afternoon—H. B. Hawkins of Belvidere will Speak

Next Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock there will be a very interesting Y. M. C. A. meeting in the library rooms. H. B. Hawkins, secretary of the Belvidere Y. M. C. A., will make the address for men and boys only. Mr. Hawkins is a splendid speaker, and a great worker among the men and boys of Belvidere where he has been located for several years. There is a great deal of interest shown in these meetings by the men and boys of this community and it seems to be growing. At the last meeting held in January every one present voted to continue these meetings once each month during the winter and spring.

In the evening Mr. Hawkins will make a public address upon a very interesting topic at the M. E. church.

A cordial invitation is extended to all the men and boys of Genoa and vicinity to hear Mr. Hawkins next Sunday.

Valuable Ear of Corn

A single ear of corn weighing nineteen ounces sold lately at the Iowa State College for $150 which is at the rate of $8,850 a bushel. Each kernel is worth 13 cents. Dan L. Pascal of DeWitt, a member of the Iowa Corn Growers' Association, who grew this remarkable ear, was its purchaser at the sale which has eclipsed all previous prices for corn and established a world's record.

The grand champion single ear last year brought only $11 and was grown by H. J. Ross of Farragut, Iowa. The second grand champion last year was won by Fred Hethershaw of Des Moines and sold for $7. The grand champion ten ears of last year were those belonging to O. J. Easton of Whitney and sold for $30, which at that time was the highest price ever paid for that amount of seed corn.—Des Moines Register and Leader.

Marengo Boy Perishes

Word has been received from Boulder, Colorado, of the finding of the body of Arthur Sears, of Marengo, who was lost in the mountains during a blizzard some weeks ago. Sears left a mining camp there to go to a railroad for supplies, and never returned. Some hope had been felt that he might turn up alive.

YOUNG WOMAN DEAD

MISS CARRIE PASSED AWAY SUNDAY MORNING

FUNERAL HELD TUESDAY
Little Son of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Maderer Died Tuesday Night After Two Weeks' Illness

After a lingering illness Miss Carrie Nutt died at her home in this city last Sunday morning.

The funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 from the home of the deceased and at 2 o'clock from the M. E. church. The singing which was very beautiful and appropriate was furnished by Miss Alice Davis and Mesdames F. W. Olmsted, T. E. Ream and F. W. Marquart. Rev. T. E. Ream preached a sermon on "The Young and God" from the text found in Ecclesiastes 12-10: "Remember now thy Creator in the days of thy youth." The services were largely attended, some of the relatives and friends coming from Elgin and other places.

The following obituary was read by Rev. Ream:

Our deceased sister, Miss Carrie Nutt, well known here, was born in Boone county, Ill., on the 30th day of September, 1877, and died at her father's home on Saturday night, Feb. 16, 1907, at 12 o'clock. Miss Nutt was 29 years, 4 months and 16 days of age at the time of her decease.

About twenty years ago the deceased moved with her father's family from Boone county to Genoa where she has since made her home.

Miss Nutt was one of a family of nine children, five of whom survive her departure. Her mother died about 4 years ago and since that time she has had charge of her father's home and by her cheerful, unselfish life has made it a bright spot for all the loved ones who remained there.

She leaves to sorrow in her departure her father, Hiram S. Nutt of Genoa, three brothers and two sisters. Her brothers are Freeman Nutt of Genoa, Herbert H. Nutt of Elgin and Hiram A. Nutt of Genoa. Her sisters are Mrs. Ella Erickson of Rockford, Iowa, and Mrs. Ida Durham of Genoa. But besides the members of her immediate family she leaves many more distant relatives and a large circle of friends who sorrow with her loved ones because a life so useful and a character so beautiful has been so early called away from the active scenes of this world.

Those who were the most intimately acquainted with Miss Nutt, both in her home and social life, found her to be a beautiful character, always anxious for the happiness and welfare of others, and happy when it was in her power to make others happy, both in her home and among her neighbors and friends about her.

For several years she attended the Genoa schools. She was a member of the M. E. Sunday school when a girl and has been a regular attendant of the M. E. church whenever her health would permit. About four years ago she became a member of Evaline Lodge No. 344 of the Mystic Workers and was a member in good standing at the time of her death. Miss Nutt was especially friendly toward many of the leaders and workers of the Genoa Epworth League and was often found in the devotional services of the league. About three years ago she joined the League and was a member of the same at the time of her death.

About a year and a half ago her health began to fail and tho loving hearts and helping hands did all that could be done for her comfort and relief, yet it was of no avail, and at last when death came, it seemed to be an angel of mercy to release her from her suffering and weakness. A short time before she passed away she knew that the end was near, but trusting in her Lord and Savior Jesus Christ, she did not fear to go for somehow she felt that "All things work together for good to them that love God."

Walter, the four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Maderer, died at the family home in this city Tuesday night of heart failure. The funeral services were held at the house Wednesday afternoon, interment taking place at the Genoa cemetery.

The boy was ill for about two weeks with diptheria, from which disease he fully recovered. The disease left him in a weakened condition however, and heart failure was the direct cause of death.

Walter was a bright little fellow and in their deep grief the parents have the most sincere sympathy of everyone.

A PRETTY WEDDING

Mr. Raymond Crawford and Miss Emma Lindahl Married

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Swanson on Wednesday at high noon occurred the marriage of their sister, Miss Emma Celia Lindahl of Sycamore, to Mr. Raymond Vernon Crawford of Genoa.

The couple were unattended and entered the parlor while Lohengrin's wedding march was being played by the bride's friend, Miss Emma Larson. The ceremony was performed by Rev. T. E. Ream, assisted by Rev. M. Frykman of Sycamore, about 35 relatives and friends being present.

The bride wore a gown of white silk mull and carried an American beauty rose. After congratulations were offered, the guests were seated to an elaborate four-course dinner.

Many beautiful and costly presents were received.

The bride is a charming young lady who has always been popular among her acquaintances in Sycamore. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Crawford, one of Genoa's most prosperous farmers, and is a young man of whom nothing but good can be said.

Mr. and Mrs. Crawford left in the afternoon for a week in Chicago. After March 1 they will be at home on the home farm four miles east of Genoa which the groom and his brother have leased.

WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY

Chicken-Pie Dinner and Supper at M. E. Church

The Ladies' Aid Society will serve a Washington's birthday dinner and supper on Friday of this week, Feb. 22.

The ladies of the Aid are making a special effort to serve one of the best chicken-pie dinners on record and the national holiday will add to the social life of the occasion.

Dinner and supper will be served from 11 and 5 o'clock respectively until all have been served. Dinner and supper each 25c; children, 15c.

A cordial invitation is extended to the public.

Wolves Again

Two large grey wolves were seen in the neighborhood of Oscar Davis' farm Tuesday, in fact they were so near that a good rifle could have got them. But as is usually the case no one at the time had a gun at hand. One of the wolves had a chicken in his mouth, but it is likely that the pair were making plans for an attack on a flock of sheep in that vicinity.

No Scarlet Fever

The Sycamore-Tribune last week stated that Genoa had a case of scarlet fever. Such is not the case, however. We know that the erroneous statement was not made intentionally. In writing the item there was no doubt a slip of the pen on Brother Anderson's part, or perhaps the compositor made the error.

Athletics Defeated

The Genoa Athletic basket ball teams went over to Belvidere last Friday evening and had it put all over them in fine style. The Genoa boys made a good showing considering the disadvantages of strange hall and opponents of more than average ability. The first team was defeated 68 to 33 and the second 54 to 20.

EIGHT TEAMS IN RACE AT EVANS' ALLEYS

CUBS ARE NOW IN THE LEAD

High Score to Date is 208, Made by Grant Smith—Dr. Patterson Makes Highest Average

There is a contest on at Evan's bowling alleys which is attracting considerable attention every evening of the week and will continue for several weeks more.

A tournament has been arranged by eight teams of three men each, the several teams selecting names that in some cases are more suggestive than beautiful. A keen spirit of rivalry has developed and the ultimate result is looked forward to with interest by the bowling enthusiasts.

The highest average made in any one game is credited to Dr. C. A. Patterson of the Cubs with 177½. Grant Smith of the Eureka made the highest score thus far, 208.

Following is the standing of the teams up to and including Monday evening, each having played three games. The figure to the right of the club names represents the total number of pins made, while the figures at the right of the person's name represents the player's average for the three games.

Arising from Bed.

It was Wellington who said that when a man turns in bed he should turn out; it is time for him to arise. Should a mother who has been kept awake half the night by a teething infant turn out whenever she turns, or a literary man who finds that his best thoughts come to him the hour before he rises in the morning? Certainly, if one expects to rise early he should go to bed early, for it is false economy of time to deprive oneself of necessary sleep. But what is necessary sleep? That depends upon your age, your health, the work you do, and the way you sleep; for there is quality of sleep as well as quantity, and one man will sleep as much dreamless sleep in an hour as another will in three or four who sees disturbing visions or is attacked by nightmare. We know what is laid down as the regulation quantity of sleep. It is six hours for a man, seven for a woman, and eight for a fool; but many of us are foolish in this respect. When staying at a hotel one may notice young men who, though they are neither at work nor at play, but drowsing in a chair in a crowded smoking-room, will not go to bed until one or two o'clock in the morning. It looks as if they had bound themselves under a solemn vow not to do so. This is a sure way of creating a habit of sleeplessness, says New York Weekly. Sleeplessness is a habit, and one that is produced by late hours putting us past our sleep. It is nonsense to say that we cannot go to sleep if we retire early. Rather, it is harder to do this if we take rest so late and eat the bread of carelessness in the shape of an indigestible supper. Do not excite your brain with mental work just before your usual time for sleep, have a good conscience, and at least an hour of beauty sleep before 12 o'clock, and you will be able to rise, if not with the lark, certainly long before the sluggard has nerved himself to take the awful plunge—out of bed. Candidates for admission to the consular service will hereafter have to submit to an examination into their conversational abilities, says Youth's Companion. They must know one modern language besides English, something of the varied resources of the United States, be familiar with political economy and the elements of international, commercial and maritime law, and have knowledge of modern history. Their fitness in these respects will be tested by a written examination. Then they will be examined orally to discover whether they use good English in conversation, whether they can maintain their end of an argument with courtesy and tact, and, in short, to ascertain whether they will do credit to their country if sent abroad to represent it. The oral test will count for as much as the written test in determining the eligibility of the candidate. Those who pass will have to be good all-round men. Helen Keller's heroic struggles, undaunted perseverance and wonderful achievements are now about to furnish inspiration to many in a far-distant land who are struggling to gain an education under difficulties. The Christian Literature society of Madras has just added to its "anna library," consisting of books sold for one anna, or two cents, an abridged life of the blind and deaf student. "This Indian version closes with the beautiful thought written by Miss Keller in her diary in 1894, when she was but 14 years of age: "I find that I have four things to learn in my school life here, and, indeed, in life: to think clearly without hurry or confusion, to love everybody sincerely, to act in everything with the highest motives, and to trust in the dear God unhesitatingly." Many wonderful things happen in this country. One of them is the recent election to the United States senate from a western state of the son of an immigrant who came to this country in the steerage in the middle of the last century, and later married a fellow steerage passenger. But this is not so wonderful as the presence in the senate of another man who came over in the steerage himself, and has risen to a position of power and influence. Pike's Peak has been re-surveyed, and the surveys say that it is only 14,099 feet high, instead of 14,147, according to the former calculations. The difference, however, isn't noticeable to the tourist who goes up on foot. An Ohio man pushes a button in the house and dumps his horse's feed in the manger. The device, however, appears to be incomplete. Why not have another button for the horse to press in case it wants some more?

BASIS FOR ENDING JAPANESE TROUBLE

SCHOOLS ARE TO BE OPENED TO ALIEN CHILDREN UNDER RESTRICTIONS. Coolie Labor Shut Out—Passage of Immigration Bill Settles the Controversy—Tokio Disposed to Accept Plan Quietly. Washington, Feb. 19.—Japanese children are to be admitted to the white schools of San Francisco under certain restrictions; skilled and unskilled laborers coming from Japan are to be barred from the mainland of the United States, and American laborers, skilled, and unskilled, are to be excluded from Japan. This is the basis of the agreement between President Roosevelt, Secretary Root, Mayor Schmitz and the San Francisco school board as an adjustment of the anti-Japanese agitation brought about by the segregation of Japanese children in the schools of San Francisco. The agreement means that the schools of San Francisco will be conducted in the same manner as they were before the board of education adopted the resolution last October providing for the segregation of the Japanese, except that adult Japanese who are in primary grades must continue to attend the oriental schools and that Japanese children under 16 years of age will be admitted to classes with white children of their own ages. While the resolution of the school board, as amended reads, "Children of alien birth," it is freely admitted by Mayor Schmitz and his associates that the resolution will apply only to the Japanese children and that the change in the wording was to make it plain to the Tokio government that no discrimination was intended against Japanese children. Coolie Labor Excluded. Assistant City Attorney Williams of San Francisco, who has acted as legal adviser to Mayor Schmitz and the board of education since negotiations have been pending in Washington, Monday night said: "The only concession we have made is to admit Japanese children to the white schools while in return the administration has brought about the exclusion of Japanese laborers from this country." Mayor Schmitz said: "This is only a temporary agreement. President Roosevelt has given us direct and positive assurances that he will at once begin negotiations with Japan for the purpose of bringing about a new treaty that will exclude Japanese laborers, skilled and unskilled, from continental United States." Tokio Takes It Quietly. Tokio, Feb. 19.—The passage of President Roosevelt's passport bill by the senate of the United States was semi-officially announced Tuesday morning. The leading newspapers explained that this action by the United States government is perfectly legitimate and in accordance with treaty stipulations. It is also pointed out that the promise of success of the judicial procedure in the school question is lessening. The newspapers thus far have refrained from making comment on this latest news from Washington. It is believed that the immigration companies will combine to attack the government's attitude if an agreement is reached with America on the basis proposed. It is thought that the general public, while regretting the school question taking this form, will calmly resign itself to the situation. START TO SEE PANAMA CANAL. Members of Commercial Clubs Gathering For Trip to Isthmus. St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 19.—Twenty representatives of St. Louis Commercial organizations, members of the Commercial club, departed Monday night for Cincinnati, en route to Panama for the purpose of examining the work of construction of the canal. Representatives of the Chicago Commercial club will reach Cincinnati Tuesday and the St. Louis and Chicago representatives will be joined by Cincinnati representatives and will proceed by special train to Charleston, S. C. There they will be joined by representatives from the Boston Commercial club and the party will sail on Wednesday on the chartered steamer Prinz Joachim. Davis Pleads Not Guilty. Danville, Ill., Feb. 19.—Will J. Davis, former manager of the Iniquity theater, Chicago, was formally arraigned in the circuit court here Monday on a charge of manslaughter in connection with the theater fire and entered a plea of not guilty. He was required to give bond, it being agreed that the bond of $10,000 he gave in Chicago should stand. The case was set for trial March 4, and arrangements were completed to draw a special venire of 100 men from whom to select jurors. Shoots Former Wife; Dies. Vancouver, Wash., Feb. 19.—After shooting his divorced wife three times and inflicting fatal injuries, Louis Mazoretzki, a well-to-do second-hand dealer of Vancouver, sent a bullet through his own head, killing himself instantly.

VICTIM OF WIRE TAPPERS

BANK LOOTER WALKER SAID TO HAVE BEEN SWINDLED. Lost $260,000 to Confidence Men in New York, According to a Report.

New York, Feb. 19.—The police are investigating a report that William F. Walker, the missing treasurer of the New Britain, Conn., Savings bank, lost more than $350,000 of the banks funds in this city as a victim of skilled workers of the wire-tapping game. This report is to the effect that one of the two men who operated the game discovered last October that Walker had suffered losses through his ventures in stock speculation. The pretended wire-tapper then went to New Britain and unfolded to Walker, it is said, the usual scheme of tapping the race wires to get the name of the winning horse and then beating the pool rooms by betting on the horse before the pool room received the name of the winner. As a result Walker is said to have gone to New York, where he was taken to a pretended pool room, where he and the two conspirators acting as his agents bet and lost $110,000. Walker is said then to have gone back to New Britain, but was again convinced by the conspirators that the loss was due to his own mistake in taking the name of the winning horse. Walker is said to have consented to try it again and to have brought to New York a lot of the bank's securities and negotiated them for $240,000 cash. He was allowed to win $20,000, according to the report, but on the next trial lost the entire amount, $260,000, including his own winnings. The swindlers then disappeared. It is stated that most of the securities stolen have been located. Most of them have been found with reputable brokerage houses, and efforts are now being made for their restoration to the Connecticut institution. Walker, it is understood, disposed of about $200,000 worth of the securities a few days before he vanished from the Hotel Cumberland, and he is believed to have had a large amount of cash when he departed.

WHERE ANTIPASS LEGISLATION MIGHT BE WORTH WHILE.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—Senator Warren, chairman of the senate committee on military affairs, Monday introduced a bill providing for the raising of a volunteer army of the United States during actual or threatened war. The bill was prepared by the general staff and is a very comprehensive measure, outlining plans for the organization and mobilization of the proposed army in minute detail. It divides the military establishment into three branches, the regular army, the national guard and the volunteer army. It provides that the volunteer army shall be maintained in time of war and when war is imminent, and that it may be raised by proclamation by the president after congress shall have authorized such act. The extent of the force is to depend upon the emergency and the troops are to be raised in the various states in proportion to their population. The same bill was introduced in the house by Chairman Hull of the committee on military affairs. As the result of more than five hours' consideration of the agricultural appropriation bill, the senate increased from $3,500 to $5,000 the salary of Gifford Pinchot, chief of the bureau of forestry. The debate was devoted mostly to the methods of administration and general policy of the forest service and at times broadened to include the public land question generally. Practically no progress was made on the agricultural bill. The senate will meet at 11 o'clock hereafter. Under suspension of the rules the house adopted the conference report on the immigration bill although the Democrats generally made a party issue against the passport provision as well as to that requiring increased air space in vessels. The house refused to suspend the rules and pass the bill recommended by the interstate and foreign commerce committee as a substitute for the so-called La Follette bill limiting employment on railroads to 16 hours, the Democrats voting solidly against the substitute. Mr. Overstreet of Indiana asked that general debate terminate on the post office appropriation bill at four o'clock Tuesday afternoon, which was agreed to. LEAVES MUCH TO CHARITY. Count Creighton's Will Makes Several Handsome Bequests. Omaha, Neb., Feb. 19.—The will of the late Count John A. Creighton was filed for probate Monday afternoon. It makes specific bequests of $1,150,000, of which $250,000 goes to relatives and his housekeeper and $900,000 goes to educational and benevolent institutions, the Creighton university leading with $500,000. All that is left over, estimated to be upwards of $5,000,000, is to be distributed among the beneficiaries specifically named in the will in the same proportions that their shares bear to the whole amount. Thus it is estimated each one will receive four or five times as much as specifically named. The following institutions, besides Creighton university, are given the amounts named as relative shares in the residue of the estate: Creighton Memorial (St. Joseph's) hospital, $200,000; Little Sisters of the Poor, $30,000; Working Girl's home, $50,000; Sisters of Good Shepherd, $50,000; Sisters of Poor Clare, $50,000. Wholesale Challenge to Duel. St. Petersburg, Feb. 19.—A story is current here that Prince Paul Dolgoroukoff, leader of the constitutional democratic party, who was expelled by unanimous vote from the Imperial Russian Yacht club because of his antigovernment teachings, has challenged every one of the members to a duel. Thirty Oil Wells on Fire. Tulsa, I. T., Feb. 19.—Fire broke out in the Tulsa oil field, 17 miles northeast of here, Monday, and 30 wells are reported on fire. The property is owned by various companies. The loss is estimated at $75,000.

TWENTY-ONE KILLED IN RAIL DISASTER

NEW YORK CENTRAL SUBURBAN ELECTRIC TRAIN IS WRECKED. Cars Flung from Track—One Hundred and Forty-five Passengers, Nearly All of Them Women, Are Mangled and Bruised.

New York, Feb. 18.—Twenty-one dead and 145 others more or less seriously injured, is the result of the wreck of an electric express train on the New York Central railroad at Webster avenue Saturday night. Of the large number of injured, 50 according to hospital and police reports, are seriously hurt and the death list may be increased within the next 24 hours. Most of the others are suffering from lacerations or shock, and will recover. Cars Hurled from Track. Four cars of the train, which was drawn by two big electric locomotives and running at high speed, left the track and plunged down an embankment. The wreck occurred on a curve, and so great was the momentum of the train that the cars which left the track were dragged along the ties and shattered to bits. The rear coach, which was filled mainly by women, snapped from the train, rolled over and over and finally collapsed, a mass of splintered wood and twisted steel, while the bodies of dead and injured passengers were strewn for 100 yards along Woodlawn avenue. Wrecked with Women. The train, which was made up of the two motors, a combination baggage car and smoker and four passenger coaches, left the Grand Central station at 6:13 o'clock. It was crowded with women on their way home from matinees, and with commuters for White Plains and points beyond. After making the stop at One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street, the train was scheduled to run to White Plains without a stop. It had a clear track, and was making unusually fast time. At Woodlawn avenue the four tracks run through a rocky cut and take a sharp curve. When the train reached the curve both motors and the smoking car swung safely around, but the cars following left the rails and, plunging over on their sides with a terrific crash, tore up the tracks and after sliding 100 yards collapsed. Dead Strewn on Track. The dead and dying were strewn along the tracks. Many of the victims were almost unrecognizable. In being dragged along the cinders and coal dust had been so ground into their faces and the exposed parts of their bodies that it was with difficulty that the rescuers could tell whether they were white or black. Many of them had their clothing torn off and were almost nude when found. Ambulances and surgeons from every hospital in Bronxborough and from Bellevue, and the police reserves from many stations were soon on hand and the work of rescue was carried on rapidly. To Commemorate Marathon. Athens, Feb. 19.—The chamber of deputies decided to commemorate the battle of Marathon, which was fought in September, 490 B. C., in 1910, exactly 24 centuries after the occurrence. This commemoration will take place simultaneously with the next Olympic games. Helena Tied Up By Strikes. Helena, Mont., Feb. 19.—Street car service, electric light service and telephone service in Helena were disorganized Monday by strikes of motor-men, conductors, linemen and telephone girls. All demand higher wages. Thirty Oil Wells on Fire. Tulsa, I. T., Feb. 19.—Fire broke out in the Tulsa oil field, 17 miles northeast of here, Monday, and 30 wells are reported on fire. The property is owned by various companies. The loss is estimated at $75,000.

VOLUNTEER ARMY PLANS

BILL PREPARED BY THE GENERAL STAFF IS INTRODUCED. Senate Makes Little Progress on Agricultural Measure—House Passes Immigration Bill.

Washington, Feb. 19.—Senator Warren, chairman of the senate committee on military affairs, Monday introduced a bill providing for the raising of a volunteer army of the United States during actual or threatened war. ACT OF PROVIDENCE

HARRY THAW SO REGARDED HIS DEED, SAYS DR. EVANS, THE ALIENIST. Talks in the Tombs Told—Will and Codicil Admitted in Evidence—Latter Provides for Other Alleged Victims of White.

New York, Feb. 19.—"I never wanted to shoot the creature. I never wanted to kill him. I knew he was a foul creature, destroying the mothers and daughters of America, but I wanted through legal means to bring him to trial. I wanted to get him into court—to bring him to justice. But Providence took charge of it; it was an act of Providence." This is Harry K. Thaw's own story of the killing of Stanford White. It was told by him to Dr. Britton D. Evans, the alienist, last August in the Tombs. Monday Dr. Evans repeated the prisoner's words to the jury which is trying Thaw for his life. District Attorney Jerome fought hard last week against the introduction of this evidence, which the defense believes is conclusive proof that Thaw did not know his act was wrong. Once the testifying physicians had declared that in their opinion Thaw was insane at the time he made the statements to them, however, the rules of evidence permitted the introduction of the prisoner's words. Will Placed Before Jury. In further bulwarking their contention that Thaw was insane when he killed White, the defendant's counsel succeeded Monday in placing before the jury the will executed by Thaw the night of his marriage in April, 1905, and a codicil to the will executed at the same time. Again Mr. Jerome fought the evidence, but he significantly withdrew his objections after Dr. Evans had given it as his expert opinion that Thaw was insane at the time he executed the will. The fact that the district attorney seems disposed to let his testimony of every character provided there is a preliminary opinion from the witness that the man was of unsound mind at the time to which the testimony refers, was taken as further indicating that Mr. Jerome may, at the psychological moment, if he deems his hand strong enough, demand the appointment of a commission to pass upon Thaw's state of mind at the present moment. Contents of Will and Codicil. The will and the codicil, as read to the jurors Monday, were offered in evidence as cumulative testimony of Thaw's mental unsoundness prior to the killing of White. In his will Thaw provided that his executors should set apart the sum of $50,000 for the investigation of his death in case of a violent or suspicious end, and for the prosecution of the persons suspected of having had a hand in his taking off. In the codicil Thaw left to a lawyer in Pittsburg the sum of $7,500 to be used in securing legal redress from Stanford White and one other person, whose name was not allowed to be read, for the benefit of four young women who, Thaw declared, had been the victims of "degrading assaults" in a house "furnished and used for orgies by Stanford White and other inhuman scoundrels." The names of the four young women were mentioned by Thaw, but were not made public. Thaw also bequeathed sums of $2,500 each to Rev. Dr. Charles H. Parkhurst, Anthony Comstock and a lawyer in his codicil to be used in discovering Stanford White and securing redress for the women. Two other physicians will take the stand Tuesday, Drs. Hammond and Jelliffe, and it is said that it will be part of their function to detail the improvement in Thaw's mental condition during the period of his confinement in the Tombs, declaring that the stress which caused the mental explosion was removed with the putting away of Stanford White. It was also said that Mrs. Evelyn Nesbit Thaw might go on the stand Tuesday afternoon to complete her story. Delmas Doesn't Quit Thaw. New York, Feb. 18.—Late Sunday night it was stated that through the intercession of Mrs. William Thaw, mother of Harry K. Thaw, the dissemination between counsel which threatened the disruption of the forces of the defense has ceased, and D. M. Delmas, the California lawyer, will continue as the principal in the examination of witnesses and, when the evidence is all in, make the closing plea for the defense. It was added that Mr. Delmas' lay partner, Henry T. McPike, would not figure actively in the future court proceedings. The following statement was credited to Mr. Delmas: "All statements that I intend to withdraw as counsel or that I have been asked to withdraw, in the case of Harry Thaw, are without foundation and absolutely false. I will be in court Monday as usual ready to perform my duties." Vialatte to Sue for Libel. Paris, Feb. 19.—Archbishop Vialatte of Texas, head of the Independent Catholic movement in America, who recently made an unsuccessful attempt to organize a National French Catholic church, and who has been denounced by the Vatican, has announced a decision to bring suits for libel against newspapers that have called him a fraudulent prelate.

THE LIONS OF THE LORD

A TALE OF THE OLD WEST
BY HARRY LEON WILSON

She had been standing much like a statue, in guarded restraint, but at his words and the touch of his hand she seemed to melt and flow into eager acquiescence, murmuring some hurried little words of thanks for her father, and stepping by his side with eyes down.

In words that were well-chosen but somewhat hurried, he proceeded to instruct her in the three-fold character of the Godhead. The voice at first was not like his own, but as he went on it grew steadier. After she drew her hand gently out of his, which she presently did, it seemed to regain its normal and calmness.

He saw her to the door of the cabin on the outskirts of the settlement and there he spoke a few words of cheer to her ailing father.

Then he was off into the desert, pacing swiftly into the grim, sandy solitude beyond the farthest cabin light and the bark of the outmost watchdog. Feverishly he walked, and far, until at last, as if caught in himself could avail, he threw himself to the ground and prayed.

"Keep me good! Keep me for my vows! Help me till my own strength grows, for I am weak and wanting. Let me endure the pain until this wicked fire within me hath burned itself out. Keep me for her!"

Back where the houses were, in the shadow of one of them, was the flushed, full-breathing woman, hurt but dumb, wondering, in her bruised tenderness, why it must be so.

Still farther back, inside the stockade, where the gossiping group yet lingered, they were saying it was strange that Elder Rae waited so long to take him a wife or two.

CHAPTER XII. A Fight for Life.

The stream of Saints to the Great Basin had become well-nigh continuous—Saints of all degrees of prosperity, from Parley Pratt, the Archer of Paradise, with his wealth of wives, wagons and cattle, to Barney Bigler, unblest with wives or herds, who put his earthly goods on a wheelbarrow and, to the everlasting glory of God, trundled it from the Missouri river to the valley of the Great Salt Lake. Train after train set out for the new Zion with faith that God would drop manna before them.

One by one the trains worked down into the valley, the tired Saints making fresh their covenants by rebaptism as they came. In the waters of the River Jordan, Joel Rae made hundreds to be renewed in the Kingdom, swearing them to obey Brigham, the Lord's anointed, in all his orders, spiritual or temporal, and the priesthood or either of them, and all church authorities in like manner; to regard this obligation as superior to all laws of the United States and all earthly laws whatsoever; to cherish enmity against the government of the United States, that the blood of Joseph Smith and the Apostles slain in that generation might be avenged; and to keep the matter of this oath a profound secret then and forever. And from these waters of baptism the purified Saints went to their inheritances in Zion—took their humble places, and began to sweat and bleed in the up-building of the new Jerusalem.

From a high, tented wagon in one such train, creaking its rough way down Emigration canyon, with straining oxen and tired but eager people, there had leaped late one afternoon the girl whose eyes were to call to him so potentially—incomparable eyes, large and deep, of a velvety grayness, under black brows splendidly bent. Nor had the eyes alone voiced that call to his starved senses. He had caught the free, fearless confidence in her leap over the wheel, and her graceful abandon as she stood there, finely erect and full-curved, her head with its Greek lines thrown well back, and her strong hands raised to readjust the dusky hair that tumbled about her head like a storm cloud.

Men from the train were all about, and others from the settlement, and these spoke to her, some in serious greeting, some with jesting words. She returned it all in good part without embarrassment—even the sally of the winking wag who called out: "Now, then, Mara Cavan! Here we are, and a girl like yourself ought to catch an Elder, at the very lowest."

She laughed with easy good nature, still fumbling in the dusk of blowing hair at the back of her head, showing a full-lipped mouth, beautifully large, with strong-looking, white teeth. "I'll catch never a one myself, if you please, Nathan Tanner! I'll do no catching at all, now! I'm the one will have to be caught!"

Her voice was a contrast, with the little hint of roughness that made it warm and richly golden; that made it fall, indeed, upon the ears of the listening Elder like a cathedral chime calling him to forget all and worship—forget all but that he was five and twenty with the hot blood surging and crowding and crying out in his veins.

Now, having a little subdued the tossing storm cloud of hair, she stood with one hand upon her hip and the other shading her eyes, looking intently into the streets of the new settlement. And again there was bantering jest from the men about, and the ready, careless response from her, with gestures of an impulsively reckless unconcern, of a full readiness to give and take in easy good fellowship. But then, in the very midst of a light response to one of the bantering men, her gray eyes met for the first time the very living look of the young Elder standing near. She was at once confused, breaking off her speech with an awkward laugh, and looking down. But, his eyes keeping steadily upon her, she, as if defiantly, returned his look for a fluttering second, trying to make her eyes survey him slowly from head to foot with her late cool carelessness; but she had to let them fall again, and he saw the color come under the clear skin.

He knew by these tokens that he possessed a power over this splendid woman that none of the other men could wield—she had lowered her eyes to no other but him—and all the man in him sang exultantly under the knowledge. He greeted her father, the little Seumas Cavan, of indomitable spirit, fresh, for all his march of a thousand miles, and he welcomed them both to Zion. Again and again while he talked to them he caught quick glances from the wonderful eyes—glances of interest, of inquiry—now of half-hearted defiance, now of wondering submission.

The succeeding months had been a time of struggle with him—a struggle to maintain his character of Elder after the Order of Melchisedek in the full gaze of those velvety gray eyes, and in the light of her reckless, full-lipped smile; to present to the temptress a shield of austere piety which her softest glances should not avail to melt. For something in her manner told him that she divined all his weakness; that, if she acknowledged his power over her, she recognized her own power over him, a power equal to and justly balancing the other. Even when he discoursed from the pulpit, his glance would fasten upon hers, as if there were but the one face before him instead of a thousand, and he knew that she mocked him in her heart; knew she divined there was that within him which strongly would have had her and himself far away—alone.

She Had Lowered Her Eyes to No Other But Him.

Nor was the girl's own mind all of a piece. For, if she flaunted herself before him, as if with an impish resolve to be his undoing, there were still times when he awed her by his words of fire, and by his high, determined stand in some circle to which she knew she could never mount. That night when he walked with her in the moonlight, she knew he had trembled on the edge of the gulf fixed so mysteriously between them. She had even felt herself leaning over to draw him down with her own warm arms; and then all at once he had strangely moved away, widening this mysterious gulf that always separated them, leaving her solitary, hurt, and wondering. She could not understand it. Life called through them so strongly. How could he breast the mighty rush? And why, why must it be so?

During the winter that now came upon them, it became even a greater wonder to her; for it was common suffering—a time of dark days which she felt they might have lightened for each other, and a time when she knew that more than ever she drew him.

For hardly had the feast of the Harvest Home gone by when food once more became scarce. The heaven-sent gulls had, after all, saved but half a crop. Drought and early frost had diminished this; and those who came in from the east came all too trustfully with empty meal sacks.

By the beginning of winter there were 5,000 people in the valley to be fed with miraculous loaves and fishes. Half of these were without decent shelter, dwelling under wagon covers or in flimsy tents, and forced much of the time to be without fuel; for wood had to be hauled through the snow from the distant canyons, and so was precious stuff. For three months the cutting winds came down from the north, and the pitiless winter snows raged about them. An inventory was early taken of the food-stuffs, and thereafter rations were issued, alike to all, whether rich or poor. Otherwise many of the latter must have perished. It was a time of hard expedients, such as men are content to face only for the love of God. They ranged the hills and benches to dig sego and thistle roots, and in the last days of winter many took the rawhides from their roofs, boiling and eating them. When spring came, they watched hungrily for the first green vegetation, which they gathered and cooked. Truly it seemed they had stopped in a desert as cruel in its way as the human foes from whom they had fled.

It was now that the genius of their leader showed. He was no longer Brigham Young, the preacher, but a father in Israel to his starving children.

The efforts of Brigham to put heart into the people were aided seconded by Joel Rae. He was loved like Brigham, but not feared. He preached like Brigham submission to the divine will as interpreted by the priesthood, but he was more extravagant than Brigham in his promises of blessings in store for them. He never resorted to vagueness in his pictures of what the Lord was about to do for them. He cradle of faith, there was made for it a golden spoon of plenty.

Over across the mountains the year before, on the decayed granite bed-rock of the tall race at the mill of one Sutter, a man had picked up a few particles of gold, the largest as big as grains of wheat. The news of the wonder had spread to the east, and now came frenzied hordes of gold seekers. The valley of the mountains where the Saints had hoped to hide was directly in their path, and there they stopped their richly laden trains to rest and to renew their supplies.

The harvest of '49 was bountiful in all the valley; and thus was the wild prophecy of Joel Rae made sober truth. Many of the gold seekers had loaded their wagons with merchandise for the mining camps; but in their haste to be at the golden hills, they now sold it at a sacrifice in order to lighten their loads. The movement across the Sierras became a wild race; clothing, provisions, tools and arms—things most needful to the half-clad, half-starved community on the shores of the lake—were bartered to them at less than half-price for fresh horses and light wagons.

The next year the gain to the Saints was even greater, as the tide of gold seekers rose. Early that summer they sold flour to the oncoming legions for a dollar a pound, taking their pay in the supplies they most needed on almost their own terms.

This passing of the gold seekers was not, however, a blessing without drawbacks. For the Saints had hoped to wax strong unobserved, unmolested, forgotten, in this mountain retreat. But now obscurity could no longer be their lot. The hated Gentiles had again to be reckoned with.

First, the United States had expanded on the west to include their territory—the fruit of the Mexican war—the poor bleak desert they were making to blossom. Next, the government at Washington had sent to construe and administer their laws men who were aliens from the Commonwealth of Israel. True, Millard Fillmore had appointed Brigham governor of the new territory—but there were chief justices and associate justices, secretaries, attorneys, marshals, Indian agents from the wicked and benighted East; men who frankly disbelieved that the voice of Brigham was as the voice of God, and who did not hesitate to let their heresy be known. A stream of these came and went—trouble-mongers who despised and insulted the Saints, and returned to Washington with calumnies on their lips. It was true that Brigham had continued, as was right, to be the only power in the territory; but the narrow-minded appointees of the federal government persisted in misconstruing this circumstance; refusing to look upon it as the just mark of Heaven's favor, and declaring it to be the arrogance of a mere civil usurper.

Under such provocation Joel Rae longed more than ever to be a Lion of the Lord, for those above him in the church endured too easily, he considered, the indignities that were put upon them by these evil-minded Gentile politicians. He would have rejected them forthwith, as he believed the Lord would have had them do,—nay, as he believed the Lord would sooner or later punish them for not doing. He would have thrust them into the desert, and called upon the Lord for strength to meet the storm that would doubtless be raised by such a course. He was impatient when the older men cautioned moderation and the petty wiles of diplomacy. Yet he was not altogether discouraged; for even they lost patience at times, and were almost as outspoken as he could have wished.

The spring of '56 found them again digging roots and resorting to all the old pitiful makeshifts of famine.

"This," declared Joel Rae, to the starving people, "is a judgment of Heaven upon us for permitting Gentile aggression. It is meant to clench into our minds the God's truth that we must stand by our faith with the arms of war if need be."

"Brother Rae is just a little mife sou-proud," Brigham thereupon confided to his counselors, "and I wouldn't wonder if the Lord would be glad to see some of it taken out of him. Anyway, I've got a job for him that will just about do it."

Brigham sent for him the next day and did him the honor to entrust to him an important mission. He was to go back to the Missouri river and bring on one of the hand-cart parties that were to leave there that summer. The three years of famine had left the Saints in the valley poor, so that the immigration fund was depleted. The oncoming Saints, therefore, who were not able to pay their own way, were this summer, instead of riding in oxcarts, to walk across the plains and mountains, and push their belongings before them in hand-carts. It had become Brigham's pet scheme, and the Lord had revealed to him that it would work out auspiciously. Joel prepared to obey, though it was not without aversion that he went again to the edge of the Gentile country.

He was full of bitterness while he was obliged to tarry on the banks of the Missouri. The hatred of those who had persecuted him and his people, bred into him from boyhood, flashed up in his heart with more fire than ever. Even when a late comer from Nauvoo told him that Prudence Corson had married Capt. Girway of the Carthage Grays, two years after the exodus from Nauvoo, his first feeling was one of blazing anger against the mobocrats rather than regret for his lost love.

Lincoln College Wants Endowment.
Lincoln.—C. E. Gullett, a member of the board of managers of Lincoln college, has left for New York city to appear before the general educational board and present the needs of the school with a view of securing a large part of the $32,000,000 John D. Rockefeller recently donated to the cause of education.

Recent Happenings of Interest in the Various Cities and Towns.

POST OFFICE IS ROBBED.

Robbers Secure Two Hundred and Forty Dollars.

Bloomington.—The safe in the post office at Normal was blown by robbers and about $240 in money and stamps were taken.

The discovery of the robbery was made by Postmaster James A. Court-right when he went down to open the office. They overlooked a package containing $166 which was the day's receipts in the money order department, but which was thrown on the floor with some empty envelopes and evidently not discovered by the robbers.

GET $3,000 IN VILLAGE BANK.

Robbers Blew Open Safe in Private Institution at Ellisville, Ill.

Canton.—A private bank at Ellisville, a village 18 miles northwest of this city, was entered by four men. The safe was blown open with nitroglycerin and $1,400 in gold and $1,600 in bills taken.

The village has no police. Citizens, roused by the explosion, rushed into the streets half dressed, but were unable to intercept the burglars, who escaped.

The bank is owned by E. W. Butler, of Ellisville. Its financial standing will not be impaired.

Investigates Negro Asylum.

Bloomington.—Charles Virden, representing the state board of charities, investigated the Harriet Beecher Stowe institute, which shelters negro orphans. The institution was founded two years ago, and at present has about 60 inmates. Complaints were filed that the children were misused and that some of the attaches were cruel to them. A report will be filed with the governor.

Chicago Boy Hurt at College.

Alton.—During a floor rush in the dormitories of Shurtleff college at Upper Alton Ray L. Feshleigh, 20 years old, one of the students, was thrown over the banisters and fell nearly four stories. He suffered concussion of the brain. Drs. E. A. Cook and E. C. Lemm, of Alton, attended the young man and fear that he has developed a cerebral hemorrhage, which may prove fatal.

Davis Will Contest Settled.

Kewanee.—In the third trial of a $30,000 contest over the will of Ewen Davis, a settlement was unexpectedly made. Misses Anna and Emma Erolson, housekeepers for many years for Davis, to whom he left all his property, agreed to pay court costs to contesting Iowa City, Ia., relatives. The suit was dropped. Costs amounted to $2,600.

Ewing College Gets $10,000.

Mount Vernon.—Andrew Carnegie has informed President Leavitt, of Ewing college, that he will give the college $10,000, if a like amount be raised by the college. This college is in Franklin county, and is the only school for higher education in 27 counties in southern Illinois. Benton and Marion, Ill., each have pledged $1,000.

Fifer Captures a "Hugger."

Bloomington.—Ex-Gov. Pifer captured a "Jack the Hugger" in Franklin square here after a fight with the fellow and his vicious dog. The "hugger" proved to be Wesley Greenley, a carpenter, half witted and dumb. He has been frightening young girls in Bloomington for years, but always eluded detection until to-night.

Heirs Sell Part of Cline Estate.

Litchfield.—The heirs of the late J. W. Cline have sold 240 acres more of the original Cline farm of 510 acres, three and a half miles west of Raymond and one-half mile east of Zanesville, to Louis Koreger and sons for $24,000, or $100 per acre.

Lincoln College Wants Endowment.

Lincoln.—C. E. Gullett, a member of the board of managers of Lincoln college, has left for New York city to appear before the general educational board and present the needs of the school with a view of securing a large part of the $32,000,000 John D. Rockefeller recently donated to the cause of education.

Asylum Baker Discharged.

Lincoln.—Fred Reiman, for nearly 20 years head baker at the feeble-minded asylum in this city, was discharged by Superintendent Hardt. Reasons for the discharge were not made public.

Killed and Hurt in Collision.

Pearl City.—Two freight trains on the Chicago Great Western railroad collided here. Daniel B. Kooz, of Stoyeston, Pa., going east with a carload of horses, was killed. Three trainmen were injured in jumbling.

Crib on Fire; Baby Burns.

Mount Vernon.—The infant son of Alexander Dale, of Bonnie, was burned to death. An older child set fire to the crib in which the little one was sleeping, then gave the alarm, but too late to save the baby.

ROBBERS GET NO MONEY.

Yeggmen Blow Safe in Strasburg Bank, But Are Frightened Away.

Shelbyville.—An attempt was made by yeggmen to rob the Strasburg bank. The two doors of the vault were forced open and the front plate and the lock of the safe were blown off. The money box was not reached. A number of private boxes in which there were private papers were destroyed. The funds of the bank probably were saved by the arrival of the night policeman, Ben Bingham, who heard the explosion of the dynamite and hastened to the scene to investigate. The policeman carried a lantern and it is likely that the robbers saw the light and made good their escape.

NEW EASTERN ILLINOIS LEAGUE.

Charles Welvart of Pana Elected President of Baseball Association.

Pana.—At Charleston the Eastern Illinois Baseball league was organized by the election of the following officers: President and secretary, Charles Welvart, of Pana; treasurer, Fred Moore of Charleston; directors, Joe Young and W. A. Walker, of Shelbyville and T. J. Cunningham of Taylorville. Pana, Taylorville, Shelbyville and Charleston have signed. Mattoon and Centralia will join.

Say City Controls Liquor Traffic.

Chicago.—That ever since the granting of the first charter to the city of Chicago in 1837 the city has had absolute control of the liquor traffic and that the state Sunday closing law, enacted many years thereafter, is not applicable to Chicago, is the declaration contained in answers filed to 31 suits brought against Mayor Dunne to compel the closing on Sunday of as many bars in downtown hotels and clubs. The answers were filed by Levy Mayer, counsel for the defendants, and were presented to the circuit court.

Bement Post Office Robbed.

Bement.—The safe in the post office was blown open and $150 to $175 worth of stamps taken, besides between $15 and $20 in money. The stamps taken were in the following denominations: Three, four, five, eight and ten, also special deliveries and some stamp books. Altogether there was about $60 in money in the safe. Most of it was in bills, and though the robbers took about everything out of the safe, they overlooked most of the money.

Seeks Assailant of Witness.

Peoria.—J. A. Simpson is being sought in Kentucky for his alleged assault on Charles Johnson, ex-deputy sheriff and graft witness before the grand jury. The other supposed assailant has been discovered to be Earl Breeding, a shoe clerk, who says Johnson was the victim of his own temper. That Johnson was the victim of a plot is now scouted by the police. He is recovering from the knife wounds inflicted.

Child Victim of Scarlet Fever.

Aurora.—The first death in the epidemic of scarlet fever at the state home for girls at Geneva occurred when Dorothy Hayden, seven years old, daughter of Matron Lillian Hayden, died, after an illness of a week. A total of 24 cases of scarlet fever had been reported up to February 12 at the Geneva home. A corps of seven trained nurses is in charge of the cases, which are in quarantine in Geneva cottage.

Loses Reason at Husband's Funeral.

Edwardsville.—During the funeral of John Triska, superintendent of an Edwardsville mine, who was killed by a fall of slate, Triska's widow became violently insane. She broke up the service, and it was necessary to summon the police. She was adjudged insane in the county court and ordered sent to the asylum at Anna.

Waterworks System at Mount Auburn.

Mount Auburn.—At the last regular session of the village council the question of waterworks was brought up by Alderman Chick and was debated. It is the desire of the board that a petition be circulated among the people to see how they feel on the subject before final action is taken.

Plays Piano for 27 Hours.

Belleville.—J. H. Mohr, of New York, broke the record for continuous piano playing by playing without stopping for 27 hours.

First Train Enters Taylorville.

Taylorville.—Several blasts of a locomotive whistle February 10 announced the arrival in Taylorville of the first Illinois Midland train. Connection having been made with the B. & O. road about one-half mile northwest of the city, the construction train of the new railroad ran to the Taylorville passenger station. The Illinois Midland is the new coal road now practically completed in Christian county. It probably will put on a passenger service at once. The freight service will come a little later.

DONE BY SIGNALS

HOW RAILROAD SWITCHMEN TALK TOGETHER.

Language Consists of Motions of the Hands and Arms—Easily Understood and Mistakes Are of Rare Occurrence.

They speak a various language, these switchmen do. And much of it is spoken with the hands and arms, says the Kansas City Star. Down in the Union depot yards they have signs which look odd, yet which tell things as plainly as words, and more quickly.

A Frisco transfer approached a signal tower a few days ago from the east. The pilot riding the front of the engine held up two hands, his fingers spread apart; then he stuck both thumbs to his ears; he gripped his left thumb with his right hand and jerked it away, then pointed to the lower Talks to Towerman With His Hands. button of his vest. The four motions were these:

1. I have a string of cars for the Burlington yards.
2. I want in on track 19.
3. I want to cut off cars on 19.
4. I have also cars for 17.

M. A. Sheeley, the signal board operator, went to the telephone, called up another tower, got a favorable reply and swung the arm of a signal. The switch engine "wheezed" its way forward.

After the cars had been switched the pilot again faced the signal operator. He crossed and recrossed his forearms.

In a moment the semaphore swung for him and his train backed out on a main track. His crossed arms meant he wanted to cross state line with cars for the Union Pacific yards. The swinging semaphore gave him the track. When the string of cars stood safely in the Union Pacific yards the pilot held up two thumbs to another tower operator. This signal meant, "I'm on the spot."

A switch train stood on a siding in the West bottoms freight yard for half an hour a few days ago. The conductor stepped from the caboose, glanced along the line of box cars to where the brakeman stood "sunning" himself. He raised his left elbow and struck it several times with his right hand. The brakeman nodded and the two walked away.

A sidetrack in one freight yard leads to a brewery. When a string of cars is to be stored in on this track the conductor extends his left elbow and strikes it with his right hand. When these same train crews are thirsty they don't ask "Have a drink?" They give the elbow signal, which means "to the brewery."

A switchman made several futile attempts to couple a flat car onto the end of a freight train in the Santa Fe yards last evening. Time and again the train rammed back against the car, but the couplers would not clasp. The switchman stepped out where the engineer could see and slapped his stomach with his hand. The engineer understood. They left the car.

The signal meant "to the rip track." "Rip track" is the repair track. "The signals in all yards are not the same," Mr. Sheeley said. "Necessity caused them to be invented. A pilot may ride up to my tower and without uttering a word tell how many cars he has; where he got them and what he wants to do with them. Perhaps they go to two or three different lines. It would take some time in talking to tell me what he wants to do. The signs may look odd but they do the work."

Good Penmanship

The penmanship class opened Monday with 14 members at the afternoon and 34 at the evening session, also several new members have entered since. There are many to begin next Monday. This is certainly a chance of a lifetime to secure the best instructions combining legibility, speed and ease of execution. Genoa people have for years solicited me to conduct a class here and those in attendance are doing marvelous work. The best ladies and gentlemen are well represented. A good handwriting is a decided advantage in everyday life and a great source of pleasure. Consider carefully and begin Monday. It will pay you.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

FRANK W. OLMSTED, GENOA

VALLEY FORGE!

Perhaps no spot in all America has a significance to Americans such as attaches to that little vale in the hills of Chester county, Pennsylvania. Plymouth Rock has its halo of history, but without Valley Forge the landing of the Pilgrims would have been a forgotten incident. It was at Valley Forge that the young nation was tried in bitterness and defeat, only to come out of it steeled for the work that in that long, dreadful winter was ripening for it.

Through it all Washington, as commander-in-chief, as soldier, and as an individual sufferer with his men, was the colossal figure that emphasizes this supreme test of patriotism. Defeat at Germantown on Oct. 3, 1777, had sent Washington in retreat. Fort Mifflin and Fort Mercer in quick succession had been abandoned by the continental army. At Whitemarsh Washington had made a stand so unexpected and determined as to cause the British general, Howe, to return to his comfortable winter quarters in Philadelphia. There, on Dec. 11, Gen. Washington, with his suffering army of 17,000 men, took up the weary march to Valley Forge, a steep depression in the hills, 22 miles from Philadelphia. On one side was the Schuylkill river and on the north was Valley creek.

Snow lay deep on the ground when, on Dec. 19, the patriot army reached the site of the winter camp. Tents were stretched for as many as could be housed, hundreds slept in the snow, already reddened by their bleeding bare feet. At once Gen. Washington directed that work begin on log huts, previously designed. To do this, men were divided into squads of 12, furnished with rude tools, and directed to build huts large enough to house each squad. According to specifications these huts were 14 by 16 feet, with sides, ends and roofs made of logs. The roofs were made water-tight with bark, split slabs, or other material. The cracks in the sides were filled with clay. In the rear of each hut was a fireplace made of wood, protected by clay. The door was in the end next to the camp street and was made of oak slabs.

may have added mirth to its cheerless gloom. His name was Abigebne Waldo, a surgeon, and in addition to his official duties he kept a diary, which, after a hundred years, is strangely interesting. This diary came to light in 1861 in the old Pennsylvania Magazine, and read through from the first entry on Nov. 19 it indicates, as nothing else could, the wearing effect of the times and circumstances. On Dec. 11 the hardships of Valley Forge have begun to tell on this surgeon to the continental army. He writes: "I am prodigious sick and cannot get anything comfortable. What in the name of providence can I do with a fit of sickness in this place, where nothing appears pleasant to the sickened eye and nauseating stomach? But I doubt not providence will find a way for my relief, only I cannot eat beef if I starve; for my stomach positively refuses such company, and how can I help that?"

Next day he is worse, and in a worse mood he scribbles: "Dec. 12.—Sunset. We are ordered to march over the river. It snows—I'm sick—eat nothing—no whisky—no baggage—Lord—Lord—Lord!" Twelve days later he begins with a tribute to the endurance and patience of the soldiery, followed with loud protestings for himself and his condition, and winds up his memorandum by taking it all back: "Dec. 24.—Prisoners and deserters are continually coming in. The army, who have been surprisingly healthy hitherto, have now begun to grow sickly from the continued fatigues they have suffered in this campaign. Yet they still show spirit and alacrity and contentment not to be expected from so young troops. Why are we sent here to starve and freeze? What sweet facilities have I left at home—a charming wife, pretty children, good beds, good food, good cooking—all agreeable—all harmonious. Here all confusion—cold, smoke, hunger, and filthiness. Here comes a bowl of soup—full of burnt leaves and dirt. Away with it, boys—I'll live like a chameleon upon air!"

"Poh, poh," cries Patience within me; 'you talk like a fool! Your being sick covers your mind with a melancholic gloom, which makes you anything about you appear gloomy. See the poor soldier when in health—with what cheerfulness he meets his foe and encounters every hardship. If barefoot, he labors through the mud and cold with a song in his mouth, extolling war and Washington. "But harkon, Patience, a moment. There comes a soldier, his bare feet are seen nearly naked from the tattered remains of an only pair of stockings—his shirt hanging in strings—his hair disheveled—his face meager—his whole appearance picturing a person forsaken and discouraged. He comes and cries with an air of wretchedness: 'I am sick—my feet lame—my legs are sore—my clothes worn out—my constitution broken—I fall fast—I shall soon be no more! And all the reward I shall get will be: Poor Will is no more.'"

In the rear of each line of huts for troops were the huts for officers. Each general officer got a hut to himself; each field officer of a regiment got one; the staff of each brigade shared another; the staff of each regiment was assigned one; commissioned officers for two regiments had one, while for the non-commissioned officers and men of the army 12 persons were allotted to each hut.

The winter of 1777-78 was remarkable for its severity and its deep snows, and when work was begun at making camp, nearly 3,000 men were unfit for duty. British sympathizers populated the surrounding country and food and bedding were hard to get, even when the soldiers had the depreciated currency of the country to offer in exchange. As an incentive to hut-building, Gen. Washington offered a purse of $100 to the officer or man who would suggest the best substitute for boards as a roofing material, having especial reference to cheapness and celerity in building. Then, to the squad in each regiment which built its hut quickest and in the best manner he gave a purse of $12. So encouraged, the tattered, emaciated army was housed late in January.

Twenty-two miles away was Howe's army of 19,500 men in Philadelphia paying British gold and silver for supplies. Washington's starving army had only the continental currency worth $25 to the $100 of face value. Even with the spirit of Toryism absent the army at Valley Forge would have been handicapped. As it was they found farmers defending their cattle, grain and straw at the musket's muzzle.

With reference to these uncomfortable quarters for the men, it may be said that Washington shared them with his men until all had been housed in huts. Then only did he take up headquarters with the old Quaker preacher near the mouth of Valley creek. Around his headquarters were stationed the members of his life guard.

Abigebne Waldo's Diary. Somewhere in this chilled, starved, half-naked camp was a genius who Went at pretty fast clip. It jarred loose the range in the dining car.

WILL BE RAILROAD WONDER.

Air Line Planned to Run Underground a Good Many Miles.

The latest and biggest project of David H. Moffat, the Colorado railroad man, is an air line from Denver to Salt Lake City over the continental divide, midway between the Union Pacific on the north and the Rio Grande on the south, says the Railroad Man's Magazine. David Moffat has dug down into his own pocket and built several railroads which nobody else had the courage to tackle. He made money every time. But the present proposition is the stiffest one he has encouraged yet. As soon as the scheme was broached it met with opposition from the roads that would be effected by it. When it was suggested that Moffat was at last up against a job too big for him and that he could not get a route one who knew him well remarked confidently: "A right of way block David Moffat? I guess not. If there's no other chance he'll cuss a right of way through."

He didn't have to go to such an extreme, but he did have to furnish the money for the building. New York capitalists whom he visited refused to advance any money for the building, so he said. "Never mind. I'll build it myself. We have a little money out in Colorado, I and my friends. We can all chip in and I guess among us we can make up a fair sized pot. The road is one of the plums of Colorado, but it'll take a little shaking to bring it down."

It took more than a fair sized pot, as the preliminary work for the surveys cost a quarter of a million dollars. The Burlington had tried to get over the mountains and had become frightened when a million dollars had been put into the work and brought no visible results and Moffat bought the rights the Burlington had acquired.

The first fifty miles of road out of Denver cost $60,000 a mile, and the 35 miles up the foothills to the Main Range tunnel cost $100,000 a mile, all this for grading before a single tie was laid. In 11 miles there are 29 tunnels through solid granite, and the road has every conceivable sort of curve, from a horseshoe to a tennis racket. Bridges and fills cost a million dollars. Steam shovel cut, through rock, is 2,200 feet long and averages 40 feet deep.

The Main Range tunnel, nearly three miles in length, is under James Peak, at an elevation of 9,600 feet, and cost three-quarters of a million dollars. William Cook, whose firm had the contract for building one of the worst sections of the road, took down 12,000 cubic yards of granite with one blast, using 1,000 kegs of black powder and 15 boxes of dynamite to do it.

The worst part of the road, the way through the mountains, has been conquered, and what remains to be done is comparatively easy. Through-out, the road is of standard gauge, 3,600 heavy Texas pine ties to the mile, instead of the usual 2,800, and 80-pound rails, and all equipment fitted for heavy through traffic. It was a magnificent conception in railroad building, and it took a magnificent courage to risk millions of dollars in a venture that had swallowed millions and given no return.

WENT AT PRETTY FAST CLIP.

It Jarred Loose the Range in the Dining Car.

"Yes, that was a pretty fast run we made on the Hummer," said Conductor Carl Smith at the Union depot recently, "but the run we made on the California special last Thursday night was a winner. We left Bloomington 40 minutes late, and when I got to the register book at LaSalle street we had made it up and had three minutes to spare it credit. That's going some! As I passed the diner on my way to the head end the cook beckoned to me and said: "Look a-beeh, boss, this year range is jabed 'bout eight inches out place 'count dat dah engineer man goin' round dem curves in too big a rush."

"The range was out of place, all right," continued Smith, "and when I reached the engine I said to the driver: "The darkey back there is going to hold an executive session with you because you jarred his cook stove loose."

"How much?" asked the engineer. "He says you knocked it eight inches out of place," said I. "You tell that African for me," said the engineer, "that if he will wait till we go back to-night I'll promise to give him a ride that will put the stove back in place and scramble his supply of eggs in the bargain."—Kansas City Star.

Primitive English Railroad.

In the lake district of England there is a tiny railway which has only one train, run by two officials, one of whom is managing director, ticket collector, guard and porter, and the other chief engineer, engine driver and stoker. The train stops anywhere. It frequently goes off the line, but crows-bars are carried, with which the train is persuaded to return to its proper position. When a friend of either official is observed the train is brought to a standstill. At one time, when the managing director was courting the daughter of a farmer through whose lands the line ran, the young lady would take her stand at a certain gate every evening, the train would stop and the young man would kiss her good night.

DON'T DESPAIR.

Read the Experience of a Minnesota Woman and Take Heart.

If your back aches, and you feel sick, languid, weak and miserable day after day—don't worry. Doan's Kidney Pills have cured thousands of women in the same condition. Mrs. A. Heiman of Stillwater, Minn., says: "But for Doan's Kidney Pills I would not be living now. They cured me in 1899 and I've been well since. I used to have such pain in my back that once I fainted. The kidney secretions were much disordered, and I was so far gone that I was thought to be at death's door. Since Doan's Kidney Pills cured me I feel as if I had been pulled back from the tomb."

A Mortifying Answer.

Richard, aged seven years, in company with his parents, was visiting a friend. At the dinner table he was asked to have some cake. He hesitated.

"Say, quickly, Richard! Will you have some cake?" said his mother. "Imagine her chagrin when Richard replied: 'If it's the kind we have at home, I don't want any.'"

The revelations regarding fraudulent paint materials which have been made by the Agricultural Experiment Station of Fargo, N. D., and published by Prof. E. F. Ladd, state commissioner, have occasioned almost as much of a sensation as the exposure of adulteration in food products did when the latter first began to appear. It has been shown that kegs marked "Pure White Lead" often contain other substances such as chalk, barytes, silica, etc., and that oil supposed to be linseed often contains petroleum adulterants, to say nothing of water in large proportions. Sometimes, so-called "White Leads" contain not an iota of genuine White Lead. The farmer is a large user of paint. No one is more interested than he is, that the label should enable him to get what he supposes he is paying for. There should be a law in every state requiring that all paint packages be labeled exactly according to their contents. That would enable every paint-buyer to buy intelligently.

ONE WAY OUT OF DIFFICULTY.

Match Twins with Twins, Was the Fond Mother's Idea.

A little woman entered a drug store and asked the proprietor if he had "another picture." "What kind of a picture do you mean?" the druggist asked. "One like this," said the woman, holding up an attractive advertising print. "I may have one or two of them left," the proprietor said, "but I haven't many of them."

The woman said she only wanted one, and her tone indicated that she was anxious for that one. She explained that the one she had with her had been given to one of her children. Another child, she stated, was sick, and was crying for a picture such as his brother had.

"That's a bad way to bring up your children," ventured a woman customer in the store. "Do you try to give a child everything he cries for just because his brother is more fortunate?"

"But," said the mother of the children, "you don't know. The children are twins and what one has the other wants."

"Suppose," objected the moralist, "when your children get older, they fall in love with the same girl, what will they do?"

But the mother was ready. She promptly replied: "Find twins and fall in love with them."

DREADED TO EAT.

A Quaker Couple's Experience.

How many persons dread to eat their meals, although actually hungry nearly all the time! Nature never intended this should be so, for we are given a thing called appetite that should guide us as to what the system needs at any time and can digest.

But we get in a hurry, swallow our food very much as we shovel coal into the furnace, and our sense of appetite becomes unnatural and perverted. Then we eat the wrong kind of food or eat too much, and there you are—indigestion and its accompanying miseries.

A Phila. lady said, the other day: "My husband and I have been sick and nervous for 15 or 20 years from drinking coffee—feverish, indigestion, totally unfit, a good part of the time, for work or pleasure. We actually dreaded to eat our meals. "We tried doctors and patent medicines that counted up into hundreds of dollars, with little if any benefit. "Accidentally, a small package of Postum came into my hands. I made some according to directions, with surprising results. We both liked it and have not used any coffee since. "The dull feeling after meals has left us and we feel better every way. We are so well satisfied with Postum that we recommend it to our friends who have been made sick and nervous and miserable by coffee." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a Reason."

SOME NEW FRENCH KNIGHTS.

Queen of Holland Has Agreed to Recognize Vatican Titles.

Among the lucrative sources of revenue of the pope before the separation of church and state in France was the toll or tax on titles of nobility and decorations. Since the rupture the French government no longer recognizes the ennobling titles and decorations of the holy father. To have the right to wear the Vatican ribbon, or to be called count, it was necessary to obtain a confirmation of title. This gave much perplexity to the candidates.

The question has just been settled. Queen Wilhelmina has consented to validate such titles and distinctions. The result has been an amusing pilgrimage to The Hague—and also in an increase in the price of these pontifical favors.

In the last few weeks the French Knights of the Golden Spur, of the Holy Sepulcher, of Christ, of Gregory the Great, of Pius IX, have greatly increased.

BABY TORTURED BY ITCHING.

Rash Covered Face and Feet—Would Cry Until Tired Out—Speedy Cure by Cuticura.

"My baby was about nine months old when she had rash on her face and feet. Her feet seemed to irritate her most, especially nights. They would cause her to be broken in her rest, and sometimes she would cry until she was tired out. I had always used Cuticura Soap myself, and had heard of so many cures by the Cuticura Remedies that I thought I would give them a trial. The improvement was noticeable in a few hours, and before I had used one box of the Cuticura Ointment her feet were well and have never troubled her since. I also used it to remove what is known as "cradle cap" from her head, and it worked like a charm, as it cleansed and healed the scalp at the same time. Now I keep Cuticura Ointment on hand in case of any little rash or insect bites, as it takes out the inflammation at once. Perhaps this may be the means of helping other suffering babies. Mrs. Hatfield Currier, Thomaston, Me., June 9, 1906."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a Specific For Anaemia and a Safe Family Medicine.

When the body becomes run down, either as a result of overwork, worry or a severe illness, an examination of the blood would show it to be weak and watery. This condition is called anaemia, which is the medical term for "bloodless." The common symptoms are paleness of the lips, gums and cheeks, shortness of breath and palpitation of the heart after the slightest exertion, dull eyes and loss of appetite.

Mr. Louis L. Clark, a painter, of 19 Lincoln Place, Plainfield, N. J., says: "Last May I was obliged to undergo an operation for appendicitis and while the operation in itself was successful, I did not recover my strength and health. I was confined to my bed for over a month and was under the doctor's care. When I was able to get up my legs were so weak and unsteady that I could only walk with a cane with difficulty."

"I was getting no better and could not think of going back to work. I was discouraged, when a neighbor told me that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills had cured her and advised me to try them. I began taking them about the middle of June and soon felt so much better that I kept on and was cured."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have cured rheumatism, chlorosis, after-effects of the grip and fever, and, as the health of the nerves depends upon the purity of the blood, they are invaluable in neuralgia, nervous debility, sleeplessness, dizziness and even locomotor ataxia and paralysis.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists or sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box, six boxes $2.50 by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

ROAD AND FARM IMPROVEMENT

PRACTICAL ROAD MAKING.
How Many Highways Through the Country Are Being Improved.

Our two illustrations taken from the New York Times show how hundreds of miles of roadway in the rural districts of New York state are being improved. The slag and crushed stone roadways are popular in many other sections of the country, and where the materials are not too expensive is the cheapest in the long run as they make a permanent road bed which will last for years with slight repairs.

A CHEAP FARM POWER.
Gasoline Engines Coming Into More General Use.

An engine is a time and labor saver on a farm. With a 24-inch buzz saw, wood enough can be sawed in one day to last several months. An engine will grind feed enough in one day to last several weeks, and save toll, wear of harness and vehicles going to mill. In the dairy time and strength will be saved running the separator and churn with power.

Gasoline engines are used to quite an extent by farmers and the time saved in starting them is in their favor. You can get first-class steam engines now that will be ready to run in 15 to 30 minutes after fire is started, and if in good repair are apt to run all day without stopping. Whether to get steam or gasoline, must be decided by everyone for himself. If you have a wood lot, a buzz saw and a steam engine, you have the fuel problem settled.

Be sure to get an engine that is large enough. I first bought a small steam engine, using kerosene for fuel. I found it too small for some of my work and fuel too expensive, so I exchanged for a larger size. This lowered my pocketbook some. I now use a three-horse power boiler and two-horse power engine on a small farm. I run a bone cutter, emery wheels, grindstone, buzz saw and a small farm feed mill. I can saw two cords pole wood per hour, grind two bags feed per hour, cut 100 pounds bones per hour, gum saws and grind axes in a prompt and vigorous manner. I have found my workshop and engine a very satisfactory investment.

FARM NOTES.

Buy a good file and keep your tools sharp. It will lighten work wonderfully.

Quality is more important than quantity in any kind of stock raising. The extra price more than makes up for the deficiency in numbers.

It is no greater hardship for a boy to provide dry wood for his mother to cook his meals than it is to beat all the old hars at the crossroads store at their own game.

Little pigs should have a separate trough from their mother and the other hogs during the weaning period. In that way they are taught to eat and really wean themselves.

Agriculture is one of the oldest vocations known, but there is no other business about which so little is known and which affords such unlimited possibilities for improvement.

Winter Time.
Winter is the farmer's vacation time, but he can improve it to good advantage by posting himself on the innovations in agriculture. Following old methods is not the road to fortune in this age of progression.

Start That Set of Books.
Have you started that set of books yet? Unless you keep an account of your expenditures and receipts during the year you will never know what your profits and losses were.

Plow Deep.
Improvements on the farm should be, better farming by plowing deeper and using more farm-made manure, more thorough cultivation, better drainage, and more scientific balancing of the live stock.

THE FARM ROADS.

Suggestions Which Indiana Farmer Makes as to Their Construction.

Here are a few suggestions as to building roads about farm premises. Under no circumstances throw up any grade. Stake off your road and place your road material on the surface; do not disturb the edges. If drainage is absolutely necessary, use tile; place from six to eight feet beyond your road bed. 4 1/2 yards of good gravel or broken stone; this will make one rod of good enough farm road. Use no boulders or other coarse material, as coarse stuff will be worked to the top by freeze and jar. The road should be five or six inches higher in the center than at the edges. I would use fine gravel or very coarse sand; if sand is used, it should be of sharp grit, and free from dirt; it will require more attention to keep in place for awhile than gravel, but will in time make the finest driveway, and, unless you have considerable heavy hauling, it is to be preferred to all other roads. Rocks of any size will be always shuffling about, and a source of annoyance; especially is this the case where you wish to use a lawn mower. A road of this kind is easily kept clean, and the edges soon set to grass. I have seen a line of boulders laid for edges; to my mind this is a great mistake; it makes a place for weeds, and cannot be kept clean only by hand weeding. Every winter the freeze loosens the rocks, and it is a tedious job to replace your sand and gravel every spring.

Another objection to this form of road is that you cannot readily drive on or off. Cinders make a fairly good barn lot road, but has this objection, the cinders cut up and stick to your feet, and vehicle tires, and the last quality are not so great as good sand, gravel, or broken stone. Brick bats, broken tile, and other coarse material should never be used.

The best time to build roads, as spoken of here, is in the spring or early summer; they set more readily to grass, and are not exposed to freeze until they have time to settle. I will say again, never make a grade, if it is possible to prevent doing so, and in cases where grades cannot be avoided recollect that, as a rule, it is cheaper to build a hill than it is to cut one down; it is harder to keep a cut in order than it is to keep up a fill. A fill set once in grass is practically done for all time to come, whilst a cut is a continued source of annoyance by sliding in and filling in side ditches and washing your grade.

FARMING PAYS.

It Does When the Right Kind of Methods Are Used.

A man the other day asked us if farming pays. Of course it pays, or it would not have been carried on from the beginning of the world. But it does not pay with all men, and the number that do not make it pay is now very large. If farming is to pay the conditions must be favorable, just as they must be for any other enterprise. There is no kind of occupation that will pay if badly handled. Some of the greatest money-making enterprises in the world have proved of no benefit to the men that went into them half prepared to succeed.

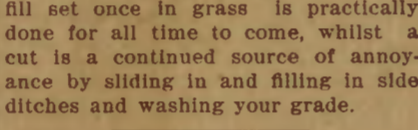

The mental equipment counts for much these days. If the man that owns a farm does not know how to take advantage of all the conditions that arise he is more than likely to make a good many moves that will return him no profit. The question of brains is a great one on the modern farm of to-day. Fortunately the facilities for acquiring brain force were never better than now, and the man that does not increase this commodity is not doing what he can to strengthen his business.

Farming pays good profits to-day if the farmer knows how to farm, says Farmers' Review. The competition is, however, so strong that he will find it more difficult than ever to make a living by the old methods. The men that are studying and putting in modern methods and modern equipment are crowding out the farmer that still goes on in the way he learned from his grandfather. The number of the wrecks coming from this class of farmers is increased by the fact that most of them never take an agricultural paper and do not know that their methods are leading to bankruptcy. The reading, thinking, working farmer is finding that farming pays.

KENTUCKY CLOD CRUSHER.

One Made Out of a Split Hardwood Log Does Good Service.

A Kentucky farmer tells in Practical Farmer his method of making a clod crusher and dirt leveler of a hardwood log. He says: "I find that such a crusher works satisfactory, and recommend that a log two feet in diameter be taken and split into two equal parts; 2x4 scantlings are spiked on to the log with 60-penny nails."

Clod Crusher.

The manure pile should now be making its best growth.

Fire Record for Last Year.

The fact that when a servant becomes master a cruel foe is suddenly developed is attested by the dreadful havoc and loss of life occasioned by fire in the United States within the 12 months covered by a summing up of these losses for 1906. This record shows that nearly 7,000 lives were lost and more than $500,000,000 worth of property was destroyed by fire during that period. In no other country in the world is the fire loss, in bulk or pro rata, anywhere near our own. Last year, owing to the devastating fire that followed the earthquake in San Francisco, this loss was in great excess of the average, but the average for some years past has been $200,000,000 a year.

HOME-MADE CATARRH CURE.

Sufferers Should Make This Up and Try It Anyway.

Any one can mix right at home the best remedy of its kind known. The name "Cyclone" is given to the following prescription, it is supposed, because of its promptness in driving from the blood and system every vestige of catarrhal poison, relieving this foul and dread disease, no matter where located. To prepare the mixture: Get from any good pharmacy one half-ounce Fluid Extract Dandelion, one ounce Compound Kargon and three ounces Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla. Shake well and use in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime.

This is a harmless, inexpensive mixture, which has a peculiar action upon the eliminative tissues of the kidneys, assisting them to filter and strain from the blood and system all catarrhal poisons, which, if not eradicated, are absorbed by the mucous membrane, and an open sore or catarrh is the result.

Prepare some and try it, as it is the prescription of an eminent catarrh specialist of national reputation.

One of the Important Duties of Physicians and the Well-Informed of the World is to learn as to the relative standing and reliability of the leading manufacturers of medicinal agents, as the most eminent physicians are the most careful as to the uniform quality and perfect purity of remedies prescribed by them, and it is well known to physicians and the Well-Informed generally that the California Fig Syrup Co., by reason of its correct methods and perfect equipment and the ethical character of its product has attained to the high standing in scientific and commercial circles which is accorded to successful and reliable houses only, and, therefore, that the name of the Company has become a guarantee of the excellence of its remedy.

TRUTH AND QUALITY

appeal to the Well-Informed in every walk of life and are essential to permanent success and creditable standing, therefore we wish to call the attention of all who would enjoy good health, with its blessings, to the fact that it involves the question of right living with all the term implies. With proper knowledge of what is best each hour of recreation, of enjoyment, of contemplation and of effort may be made to contribute to that end and the use of medicines dispensed with generally to great advantage, but as in many instances a simple, wholesome remedy may be invaluable if taken at the proper time, the California Fig Syrup Co. feels that it is alike important to present truthfully the subject and to supply the one perfect laxative remedy which has won the approval of physicians and the world-wide acceptance of the Well-Informed because of the excellence of the combination, known to all, and the original method of manufacture, which is known to the California Fig Syrup Co. only.

This valuable remedy has been long and favorably known under the name of—Syrup of Figs—and has attained to world-wide acceptance as the most excellent of family laxatives, and as its pure laxative principles, obtained from Senna, are well known to physicians and the Well-Informed of the world to be the best of natural laxatives, we have adopted the more elaborate name of—Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna—as more fully descriptive of the remedy, but doubtless it will always be called for by the shorter name of Syrup of Figs—and to get its beneficial effects always note, when purchasing, the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—plainly printed on the front of every package, whether you simply call for—Syrup of Figs—or by the full name—Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna—as—Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna—is the one laxative remedy manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. and the same heretofore known by the name—Syrup of Figs—which has given satisfaction to millions. The genuine is for sale by all leading druggists throughout the United States in original packages of one size only, the regular price of which is fifty cents per bottle.

Every bottle is sold under the general guarantee of the Company, filed with the Secretary of Agriculture, at Washington, D. C., that the remedy is not adulterated or misbranded within the meaning of the Food and Drugs Act, June 30th, 1906.

One of the Important Duties of Physicians and the Well-Informed of the World is to learn as to the relative standing and reliability of the leading manufacturers of medicinal agents, as the most eminent physicians are the most careful as to the uniform quality and perfect purity of remedies prescribed by them, and it is well known to physicians and the Well-Informed generally that the California Fig Syrup Co., by reason of its correct methods and perfect equipment and the ethical character of its product has attained to the high standing in scientific and commercial circles which is accorded to successful and reliable houses only, and, therefore, that the name of the Company has become a guarantee of the excellence of its remedy.

TRUTH AND QUALITY

appeal to the Well-Informed in every walk of life and are essential to permanent success and creditable standing, therefore we wish to call the attention of all who would enjoy good health, with its blessings, to the fact that it involves the question of right living with all the term implies. With proper knowledge of what is best each hour of recreation, of enjoyment, of contemplation and of effort may be made to contribute to that end and the use of medicines dispensed with generally to great advantage, but as in many instances a simple, wholesome remedy may be invaluable if taken at the proper time, the California Fig Syrup Co. feels that it is alike important to present truthfully the subject and to supply the one perfect laxative remedy which has won the approval of physicians and the world-wide acceptance of the Well-Informed because of the excellence of the combination, known to all, and the original method of manufacture, which is known to the California Fig Syrup Co. only.

This valuable remedy has been long and favorably known under the name of—Syrup of Figs—and has attained to world-wide acceptance as the most excellent of family laxatives, and as its pure laxative principles, obtained from Senna, are well known to physicians and the Well-Informed of the world to be the best of natural laxatives, we have adopted the more elaborate name of—Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna—as more fully descriptive of the remedy, but doubtless it will always be called for by the shorter name of Syrup of Figs—and to get its beneficial effects always note, when purchasing, the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—plainly printed on the front of every package, whether you simply call for—Syrup of Figs—or by the full name—Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna—as—Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna—is the one laxative remedy manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. and the same heretofore known by the name—Syrup of Figs—which has given satisfaction to millions. Common Colds are the Cause of Many Serious Diseases

Physicians who have gained a national reputation as analysts of the cause of various diseases, claim that if catching cold could be avoided a long list of dangerous ailments would never be heard of. Every one knows that pneumonia and consumption originate from a cold, and chronic catarrh, bronchitis, and all throat and lung trouble are aggravated and rendered more serious by each fresh attack. Do not risk your life or take chances when you have a cold. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy will cure it before these diseases develop. This remedy contains no opium, morphine or other harmful drug and has thirty years of reputation back of it, gained by its cures under every condition. For sale by G. H. Hunt.

Our Object

In selling our $5.00 Eye-Glasses at $1.00 a pair is simply to get people who wear glasses acquainted with our methods. We have but one object in view—to make ourselves known as Genoa's leading Opticians, who help the most and charge the least.

WE ARE POSITIVE that we can induce the public to come to us. They will be convinced as thousands of patrons we have had during our twenty-five years' experience that the Duplex Lenses are absolutely the best in every detail, that they will help you see better, and our prices, not only on these $5.00 glasses, but on everything, are considerably less than those of any other first-class optician.

Duplex Lenses are the Best

And most marvelous achievements in the science of lens grinding. They surpass all other lenses that have ever been produced. They give double seeing power, relieve the eye of every particle of strain, act as a corrective for every ailment to which the optic nerves are subject. They have proven a wonderful success in New York, Boston, St. Louis and Chicago and all cities where they have been introduced, and we know they will meet with favor here as soon as their merits are understood and appreciated.

HE TURNED THE LAUGH.

A Quick Witted Orator Who Was Equal to the Occasion.

An orator who was equal to an emergency was the late George A. Sheridan, who was a noted "spell-binder" often engaged by the Republican national committee. At a big meeting he was addressing in a town near New York he was introduced by a Mr. O'Brien, the chairman, in most flattering terms. In order to reciprocate Mr. Sheridan paid a glowing tribute to the sterling qualities of the chairman and wound up the eulogy by asserting that no man could say Mr. O'Brien owed him a cent.

"He owes me $3!" came a keen Celtic voice from the rear of the audience.

It was almost a solar plexus blow for the orator, and the audience started to laugh and jeer. Rallying, the speaker said: "Don't be alarmed, good friends. I will answer that man presently." This assertion was to gain time and if possible have the audience forget the incident. But again that penetrating voice cried out:

"He owes me $3 cold cash!"

Advancing to the edge of the platform, General Sheridan in a confidential tone said: "Yes. I know all about the $3, for my friend, Mr. O'Brien, has given me the inside facts. Ladies and gentlemen, the truth is simply this, and it reveals a peculiar character: This man who has interrupted me met Mr. O'Brien recently and asked him for the loan of $10. 'I haven't got ten,' said generous Mr. O'Brien, 'but here are $7,' handing the money to him. Now this man is going around saying my friend, the honorable chairman, owes him $3 because he could lend him only $7 when ten were requested." A roar of laughter filled the hall, and the indignant man tried to answer the orator. He was howled down. The chairman whispered in General Sheridan's ear: "You have saved me. You are a genius."—Leslie's Weekly.

Beyond Speech.

The conversation of pigs is not usually considered a matter of serious import, yet by it Uncle David gained the physical condition of his porkers. Uncle David was a native of old Saco, Me. Some of his peculiarities are recorded by Mr. Redlon in his book on the town.

The old man raised pigs for the market. At one time a scourge devastated his sties. During this affliction a neighbor, meeting him and seeing his doleful countenance, inquired sympathetically for his stock.

"Well, Uncle David," he said cheerily, "how is the litter getting on?"

"Getting on!" replied Uncle David mournfully. "Getting on! They are all dead but two, and they are speechless!"

Cheap Brains.

One day as John W. Mugridge, the lawyer, and Judge Minot were walking along the street in Concord, N. H., together, Mr. Mugridge, in his sepulchral voice, said: "Judge, let's go into partnership. You furnish the capital and I'll furnish the brains." The judge quickly pulled a two cent piece from his pocket and, holding it in the palm of his hand, said to Mugridge: "Very well. Cover that, John! Cover that!"

She Knew About Peter.

A visiting pastor was examining the Sunday school of a Germantown church a few Sundays ago and had asked the class just in front of him if any member of it could tell anything about the Apostle Peter. A little girl with a precocious face raised her hand. "Come up here, my little lady," said the minister. "I am much gratified to see that you have remembered your lesson. Now tell the school what you know about Peter." The little tot was quite willing to show off her knowledge and commenced, "Peter, Peter, pumpkin eater, had a wife and couldn't keep her; put her in a"—The school never heard where he put her on account of the general uproar.—Philadelphia Record.

An Ill Timed Lecture.

"There was once a minister in Hartford," said Mark Twain, "who had a lot of boys in his Sunday school who were in the habit of staying away on the Sunday when the big steamer City of Hartford docked in the morning. One Sunday the minister came down to Sunday school and found all the boys there. He was profoundly affected. 'Boys,' he said, 'you cannot imagine how much this exhibition of loyalty on your part to the Sunday school affects me. When I came by the dock this morning and saw the City of Hartford there—'

"'Gee whiz!' shouted the boys in chorus. 'Is she in?' And they left in a body."

The Scented Court.

"The scented court" was the name by which the court of Louis XV. was known throughout Europe, on account of the rage for perfumes which then prevailed in France. The expenditure of Mme. de Pompadour for this one branch of her toilet amounted to $100,000 annually. It became the fashion for the host or hostess of a great entertainment to signalize to their guests what particular perfume was to be employed for scenting their rooms on the night for which the invitations were issued, and they were expected to use no other, so that the delicate effect of a unity of odors might be produced. At court a different perfume was presented for each day of the week.

Pelted With Flowers.

"Was your wife angry when you got home so late last night?"

"Angry! Why, my boy, the dear woman pelted me with flowers!"

"But how did you get that black eye?"

"Well, you see, she neglected to take the flowers out of the pots before she threw them." — London Telegraph.

The Lobster an Idiot.

The best naturalists remain timorous enough and hesitate to dogmatize. Take the case of the lobster. Poke him here, he does this; poke him there, he does that; poke a thousand of him in the same way, and they do the same things. Shall we therefore conclude that the lobster lacks mentality, that he's a mere machine and that he doesn't even know he's a lobster? By no means. All we can affirm with scientific justice is that apparently—and only apparently—he's an idiot. The way to know for sure—is to be a lobster!—Boston Transcript.

Amateur Essays.

Apropos of extravagant education there is no more utter waste, whether in board schools or those of higher class, than essay writing by children. A poultry paper quotes a little boy's effort on that subject. "Geece is a nasty animal, for they will jump up your back and beat you with their feathers," writes this budding literary genius, and "the turkese is a large kind of hen." This may be an extreme instance, but it furnishes the text for an essay on "geece" of quite another kind.—London Sketch.
