

PLANS CHANGED IN ROAD BUILDING

Conditions Demand Thicker and Wider Road Beds in State

SIXTEEN AND EIGHTEEN FEET

Weight of Trucks Must be Regulated in Order to Save Present Highways

"The evolution in highway specifications is, in view of the present traffic situation, an interesting study," says Bulletin No. 4 of the Illinois division of highways. "In 1913 our plans called for a concrete road 6 inches thick laid on a crowned subgrade. Beginning with 1915 we built a flat subgrade making the pavement 7 inches thick in the center and 6 inches on the side. Conditions brought about by the war forced a heavy truck hauling, especially in the east, and demonstrated that our roads would be called upon to carry a much heavier burden than anticipated. Accordingly, our federal aid plans for 1919 called for pavement 7 inches thick at the side and 8 inches in the center. We realized later that on our double track pavements traffic was practically as great on the side of the road as in the center. We therefore decided upon another change and are now building all concrete pavements 8 inches thick throughout their entire width—or where other types are used, what we consider the equivalent of an 8 inch pavement. "The evolution in widths has been much the same. In the beginning of state road construction, a 10 foot road was considered sufficient on all roads except those adjacent to large centers of population, like Chicago. Now we are building roads on the federal aid system 16 and 18 ft. wide. In the future 18 ft. will undoubtedly prevail—all of this because of the greatly increased traffic, as evidenced by the greatly increased registration of motor cars and trucks.

Law Limiting Weight
"During the last session of the legislature a law was passed limiting loads of motor trucks to 8 tons per axle, including weight of truck itself. In view of the fact that in most trucks about two-thirds of the weight is on the rear axle this law is generally equivalent to limiting the total load to 12 tons, including truck, or a 5 1/2 ton load exclusive of truck.

Law Enforcement Necessary
"The situation resolves itself into this—that if we are going to permit truck manufacturers and users of trucks to use any size, or carry any load that may suit their convenience or their fancy we shall have a repetition of the struggle between the weight of the rail and the size of the locomotive, a struggle which has been going on for fifty years and is not ended, the difference being that the cost of that struggle was paid by the corporation, while the cost of the same struggle between the highway and truck will be paid by taxpayers. There is still another difference lying in the fact that in the case of the railroads, a change of rails usually settled the matter for time being, while with the case of the highways, not only the case of surface will be destroyed but the foundation as well, which means that this situation cannot be permitted on our highways. We cannot permit a pavement paid for by the public, and which is ample to carry 95 per cent of the traffic, to be totally destroyed by a few unreasonably heavy trucks representing a fraction of 1 per cent of the traffic.

The solution lies in arriving at the proper beam strength of pavements to meet the weight of the economic load and then through legislation placing the proper limits on weight of loads, and enforcing the law rigorously.

"The bureau of public roads at Washington is making some interesting experiments with a view to determining the relative loads that different types and thickness of pavement will carry. The state division of highways in connection with the U. S. bureau of public roads is conducting some experiments along a different line for the purpose of determining the actual truck loads pavements of different types and thicknesses will carry."

THE STATE TREASURY

In Healthy Condition and Taxes Will Not Increase

It will not be necessary to increase the state tax rate when the rate fixing board meets early next month, administration officials declared in a recent bulletin. For the past several weeks the budget division in the Department of Finance has been working overtime on the second state budget under the Civil Administrative Code, which must be submitted to Governor Lowden on or before January 1.

"Seventy-five per cent of the requests for appropriations to be made by the next General Assembly, Omar H. Wright, Director of Finance said, "have been practically agreed upon between the Department of Finance and the heads of the various state activities. "Governor Lowden has insisted that appropriation requests must be kept to the minimum and that each item must be carefully considered in its relation to the necessary needs of the state. While the new budget will provide for moderate salary adjustments and the growing needs of the state, and while the total appropriations to be recommended to the next Legislature will doubtless exceed those two years ago, the excellent cash condition of the State Treasury will more than take care of the increase.

"Last year the State tax rate was 40 cents per $100. This was a reduction of 20 per cent from the previous year and 35 per cent from the amount fixed two years ago. But 14 cents of the last year's rate went into the general revenue fund, used for general purposes, while 23 cents went to the common school and University of Illinois funds, and 3 cents to the new waterway fund. Any further reduction this year must necessarily come out of the revenue fund, but with a cash balance in the revenue fund in the State Treasury of approximately $16,000,000, and with no abnormal appropriation needs of the state for the next biennium, it will be possible to reduce still further the rate for general state purposes and yet leave an excellent working balance in the Treasury."

ROB CRESTON ELEVATOR

DeKalb Man Finds Valuable Papers Near River

The Creston Elevator, owned by H. F. Hurst, was robbed Saturday night and money, notes and valuable papers were stolen. Sunday afternoon H. G. Maxwell of DeKalb was down near the Kishwaukee river and he ran across a tin box. After examining it he found a lot of insurance papers, receipts and other valuable documents belonging to Mr. Hurst of Creston.

The robber probably boarded a train at Creston and when he arrived near DeKalb opened the tin box. The robber took the money, $20.00 in cash, War Savings Stamps, two notes one $150.00 and one $500.00 a Liberty Bond, and threw the other contents away, and they were found by Mr. Maxwell.

Oil Prospects in St. Charles Cause Farm Leasing

Leases have been signed for half a dozen St. Charles farms by an oil company with offices in Louisiana, and drilling for oil will begin within the next six months at the places, according to the contracts signed. Among the farmers who leased their farms to the oil company are John Baldwin and made Mattsen. They will receive $1 an acre for their farms and one-eighth of the income should the drillers strike oil. The farms are leased for five years.

"The prospects for striking oil in this vicinity seem to be good," said Mr. Mattsen. "There have been signs of oil underneath the ground seen here for many years."

According to the terms of the contract signed, drilling for the oil must start within the next six months. Jack Langell, a representative of the oil company, has questioned farmers and asked them to sign the contracts to allow drilling on their property.

ON THE CEMENT ROAD

Work on the Sycamore-DeKalb road is going ahead each day but the main difficulty is keeping the road blocked so that the workmen can get the work done. Drivers pay no attention to the barriers and have broken them down a number of times.

DO YOU WANT

A CHAUTAUQUA?

Meeting to be Held at the City Hall Next Tuesday Evening

NEW PLAN TO BE PRESENTED

Miss Anne P. Laughlin of Bloomington Will Explain the Co-operative Plan

Miss Anne P. Laughlin of the Co-operative Chautauqua of Bloomington will be in Genoa next Tuesday and meet Genoa people at the city hall at eight o'clock in the evening. Every person who really wants a chautauqua next season should be present. Do not try to pass the deal on to someone else, for if that idea is foremost, there can be no chautauqua.

Remember the date, Tuesday evening, Nov. 23, at the city hall. The Chautauqua which the Co-operative plan offers is entirely different from anything that has previously been held in Genoa. There are three distinct kinds of chautauquas:

The Independent Chautauqua
The Independent Chautauquas are the best, but are dying. The principal reason is the high cost of talent charged by the Bureaus. Few if any new ones are being organized. It will not be long until nearly all the strictly Independent Chautauquas will be forced out of existence.

The Circuit Chautauqua
The Circuit Chautauqua, which we had for several years, is a substitute for the real Chautauqua. It is a purely Commercial Enterprise promoted by a Bureau for the Bureau's profit. The community has no voice in the selection of the program or any part of the Chautauqua management. The Bureau year after year demands of the local community a sufficient guarantee to protect the Bureau against any loss. It cannot long abide because it has no community life.

The Co-operative
The Co-operative Independent Chautauqua grew out of the necessity of Independent Chautauquas working together to save in the talent cost by co-operative buying. The plan has been so successful that fifty Chautauquas, Independent and Circuit, located in Illinois, Indiana and Ohio, have joined the organization. It has demonstrated that a saving of from $300.00 to $500.00 per program can be made. The plan combines the advantages of the Independent, namely local management, and of the Circuit, reduction in cost of talent. No Chautauquas buy what it does not want and, therefore, secures only the kind of program the local community desires.

If we can dispose of 500 tickets at $1.50 each the Chautauqua Company will guarantee the town against loss for a five day program costing around $1,200.

We make no guarantee, are not responsible for a cent except for the number of individual tickets we subscribe, we buy our program, and those who have gone over the list of talent offered say it is very superior to anything in the Chautauqua line we have had.

WOMEN ON JURY

First Case on Record in Belvidere Called last Tuesday

The first case on record in Belvidere where women were subpoenaed and accepted as jurors was staged in the court of Justice of the Peace J. Scott Clark on Tuesday. The issues in litigation were of a minor character involving only $20 between a farmer living near Poplar Grove and a local dealer in machinery. The dealer claimed the farmer owed him $20 more than had been paid on an account and the farmer said it was no such thing—he didn't owe a penny. And the jury also said he didn't.

AURORA AUTO THIEVES

An average of three automobiles per night are being stolen at Aurora and the efforts of the police to stop the raid are practically fruitless. Last month 60 were stolen.

The Want Adds for Quick Results.

LELAND PREPARED

Riot Guns Will Greet Thieves in the Future

The Earlville Loader says that Leland, eight miles east of that city is taking the lead in providing protection from bank robbers, either in the daytime or at night. One of Leland's banks has been burglarized twice within the past few years, and a gang of thieves visited the town not long ago, and while no attempt was made to rob the banks, another business house was entered and looted and then something happened and next morning a dead man was found back of the store, with a bullet hole through him. So far no body has found out what he was doing there or who killed him. His automobile was found in a cornfield some distance from town and it is still held at Leland, and we understand it will be sold at auction soon.

But to the latest move for protection. The banks have both provided up-to-date burglar alarms and received a number of sawed off Winchester shotguns, known as riot guns. These weapons are loaded with eleven buckshot in each cartridge and have been distributed at points of vantage about the town, so that if a daylight holdup is pulled off, it would be impossible for the robbers to get out of town on any road without going past a house where one of these guns is kept, and where resides a man who not only knows how to use it, but who has been selected because he has courage enough to shoot when the necessity requires and shoot to kill.

NO CAUSE FOR ACTION

McHenry County Farmers Win Case in Court

"No cause for action" was the verdict returned by the jury hastily summoned to hear the case of the McHenry County Soil Improvement association vs. S. J. Palmer and a group of thirty-eight farmers, charged with refusal to make good a pledge to the association in regards to membership fees says the Woodstock American.

The case was heard on Friday before Justice of Peace T. H. Brown but because of a large number of farmers gathered to hear the suit, the hearing was conducted in the Circuit court room in the court house and not in the justice's office. State's Atty. V. S. Lumley represented Palmer, a Harvard farmer, and the remaining defendants. The McHenry County Soil Improvement association was represented by D. T. Smiley, former county judge.

That he had never received any value for his money was the reason given by Mr. Palmer for his refusal to pay dues of $15 promised at the time of the soil improvement association membership campaign at which period 1,400 farmers joined the association.

Reading the by-laws wherein it was stated that a person became a member of the association on payment of dues into the treasury of said association, Mr. Lumley pointed out that Mr. Palmer had not in reality become a member. The attorney for the plaintiff, Judge Smiley, argued that signing the membership card was a moral pledge and to counteract the effect of the impression, endeavored to show the amount of work done by the soil improvement association and the willingness of the advisor to assist each member. In his examination Atty. Lumley questioned the assistance rendered by the soil advisor.

Mr. Lumley had Judge Smiley read law excerpts to the effect that where no value has been received a money payment cannot be demanded and the jury in its verdict gave a victory to the protesting farmers. However it is stated that the suit will be considered merely a test case and will be taken to a higher court.

PLATO CHILD KILLED

Falling from a wagonload of wood, Alvie Yurs, three year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Yurs of Plato township, met immediate death Monday afternoon near his father's farm.

When his brother, Elmer, went after wood, Alvie wanted to go too, so he toddled over to the nearby woods where Elmer was loading the wood. He was placed upon the loaded wagon when they started for home and as they reached a bend near the yard the road became rough. Alvie lost his balance and fell to the ground, breaking his neck and causing his death.

trestle, west of Genoa last Saturday night. Mr. Hays suffered a badly fractured wrist and was severely bruised about the body. Although his injuries are severe, it is a miracle that he escaped death.

Mr. Taylor, who is a farmer, was moving from Louisville to Iowa. His car of live stock and other property was in an I. C. train which passed thru Genoa shortly after twelve o'clock Saturday night. When the train stopped at the Hart station for water, Mr. Hays left the caboose and went forward to look after his stock. His car was on the trestle over which he was compelled to give a clear description of events, after he reached the trestle. It is assumed, however, that he was struck by a swinging car door and knocked from the end of the tie, there being no railing at that point. He pitched headlong into inky blackness below, striking the ground near the C. M. & St. P. tracks about thirty feet below. Mr. Hays did not lose consciousness, but called lustily for help. Solomon Kropp and Perry Cornell heard the cries, sent for Officer Crawford and after what seemed hours to the victim (probably less than a half hour) he was found and brought to Genoa, later being taken to the Sycamore hospital.

Officer Crawford sent a message to Mrs. Hayes, who was visiting in Taylorville, Ill., and she arrived in Sycamore Monday night. The train crew knew nothing of the accident until after leaving Genoa.

Boys' Skull Fractured

Lewis Beck, 13, whose parents reside nine miles north of Genoa, fell from a wagon at the Leonard Strack place, south east of Genoa, Monday and suffered a fracture at the base of the skull. Dr. Ovtiz, who was called, thinks that the boy will pull thru. Lewis had come to the Strack farm to play with other children and fell from a wagon loaded with corn as it was coming from the field.

Fingers Crushed

Ivan ZeKoff, an ex-service man employed by John Gahl, suffered painful injury Tuesday forenoon when the first three fingers of the right hand were caught in the rolls of a corn picker. He was rushed to the Sycamore hospital by Dr. Ovtiz where the wounds were dressed. Although the flesh was badly lacerated and the bones broken, all the digits will be saved.

Autos Head-on

Ford automobiles, driven by "Chink" Gorbet and Sydney Davis came together in a head on collision Saturday night on the road between Genoa and Burlington, badly smashing both machines. "Chink" assumed responsibility for the accident and settled for the damages.

BACK TO THE

STAGE COACH

Train Service on C. M. & St. P. is Worst in History of Road

MAIL SERVICE IS ALSO ROTTEN

First Mail to Chicago at 3:41 p. m. Milk Train for Morning Passengers

The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway Co. has handed Genoa (and all other towns between Chicago and the river) the biggest lemon in the way of passenger service in its history. And as a consequence of the curtailed train schedule the mail service is just as bad.

Despite the fact that three east bound passenger trains pass thru Genoa every morning between six and eight o'clock, not one is scheduled to stop here. We may take the milk train or stage coach at 8:10, arrive in Chicago at 10:35. The next and last east bound train leaves at 3:41, arriving in Chicago about six o'clock.

Arriving in Chicago we must leave at four o'clock in the afternoon or wait until 6:40 the next morning.

Every city between Chicago and Savanna is up in arms and demanding a change from the present inadequate and insulting service. Genoa is more fortunate than any other of the towns in that we have the Illinois Central. The Central is already doing a good passenger business, but it also lacks an early morning east bound train.

The Mail Service

The mail schedule is now as follows: Eastbound—3:41 p. m., 3:47 p. m. Westbound—9:00 a. m., 9:46 a. m., 5:51 p. m.

All the mail in the office at 5:21 in the evening is dispatched at 5:51, the eastern mail being transferred at Davis Junction and doubled back to Chicago the same night.

The first mail arriving in the morning is at eight o'clock and this is light. The train which arrives in Genoa over the C. M. & St. P. at 9:00 o'clock carries the heavy mail. Hereafter the local postoffice will open at 7:30 in the morning and close at 7:00 p. m.

VAULT FOILS THIEVES

Unsuccessful Attempt to Crack Vault of Esmond Bank

Saturday night burglars made an attempt to penetrate the vault in the bank at Esmond. Entrance was secured through one of the doors. The vault resisted every effort to penetrate it. The explosives disfigured the door some and a few dollars expense will be entailed for a bit of paint and perhaps a new knob.

PAINS NEARLY DOUBLED ME UP

Nothing Helped Me Until I Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Wyandotte, Mich.—"For the last four years I have doctored off and on without help. I have had pains every month so bad that I would nearly double up. Sometimes I could not sweep a room without stopping to rest, and everything I ate upset my stomach. Three years ago I lost a child and suffered so badly that I was out of my head at times. My bowels did not move for days and I could not sleep without suffering. The doctor could not help me and one day I told my husband that I could not stand the pain any longer and sent him to the drug-store to get me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and three the doctor's medicine and I took them and after taking three bottles of Vegetable Compound and using two bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash I could do my own housework. If it had not been for your medicine I don't know where I would be today and I am never without a bottle of it in the house. WRANGLER ON FRENCH SHIP

U. S. Warships Rushed to Save Refugees From the Bolsheviki—"White" Army Annihilated—People Flee on Foreign Vessels.

Washington, Nov. 17.—All available American warships in the Black sea are to be used to assist refugees in leaving the Crimea in advance of the Bolsheviki armies. Authority for such use of the ships was given by the State and Navy departments upon the urgent recommendations of Rear Admiral McCully, commander of American warships in southern Russian waters.

It has not yet been determined where the refugees will be taken. At the State department it was said that because of the epidemic of typhus at Sebastopol they might not be taken to Constantinople, but to one of the Greek islands in the Aegean sea.

Constantinople, Nov. 17.—Sebastopol fell to the Russian soviet forces at five o'clock Sunday evening after the evacuation plans had been fully carried out, according to word received here. General Wrangel, it is stated, was the last to leave, cheered by his troops.

General Wrangel, members of his staff, and M. Martel, French high commissioner at Sebastopol, were taken on board the French warship Waldeck Rousseau and are expected to arrive in Constantinople today. The whole of the Crimea must be given up as lost by the Wrangel forces.

The Waldeck Rousseau and the other French and the American and British ships at Sebastopol did not leave that port until the Bolsheviki were within the walls of the city.

These ships, according to the foreign office advices, were loaded to capacity with refugees and the remnants of General Wrangel's troops. Many refugees, however, were left behind, and these, it was said, probably numbered 100,000.

The fate of these refugees is causing great anxiety, as the American relief organization also has left the Crimea. The majority of the refugees have been dependent upon the American relief workers for their sustenance.

Officials here did not appear at all optimistic over the outlook and it seemed to be their real belief that General Wrangel had failed, as did General Denikin, Yudenich and Admiral Kolchak.

Because of the Crimean developments and the junction effected recently by the Turkish nationalists and Bolsheviki and the occupation of Batum, the position of the Soviet regime in the Black sea territory was pointed to as stronger than it ever had been.

The reports indicated that only a few members of General Wrangel's staff had managed to escape. The staff a sa whole, it was said, had been virtually wiped out, its members either being killed or taken prisoner.

Propaganda behind General Wrangel's lines had much to do with the collapse on the front, according to information reaching official circles here. The Bolsheviki, it is declared, spread reports that General Wrangel was a reactionary and that his success would mean the return of the czardom and absolute monarchy, and distributed pamphlets and booklets to re-enforce these statements.

WOMEN NEED SWAMP-ROOT

Thousands of women have kidney and bladder trouble and never suspect it. Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease. If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased.

Pain in the back, headache, loss of ambition, nervousness, are often times symptoms of kidney trouble. Don't delay starting treatment. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a physician's prescription, obtained at any drug store, may be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions.

Get a medium or large size bottle immediately from any drug store. However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Adv.

Awful Sick With Gas

When a Woman is Nervous—Worried. The lives of most women are full of worry. Men's troubles are bad enough, but women's are worse. Worry makes women sick. It pulls them down, and in their weakened condition they are subject to pains, aches, weakness, backaches, headaches and dizzy spells.

Most women neglect their health, and for this they pay the penalty. Any woman will find that neglect does not pay. A little more attention to health would brighten up her life. If she asks her neighbors she finds that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription benefits a woman's whole system. It not only acts upon the troubles and weaknesses peculiar to women, but is an all-round tonic that braces the entire body, overcoming nervousness, sleeplessness, headaches, dizziness and a run-down condition.

MOUNT VERNON, ILL.—"I am glad to say that Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription proved just as good as it is advertised to be. I was weak and lacked strength and ambition. I had worked hard and was poorly. I used the 'Favorite Prescription' and it gave me new strength, and seemed to put new life in me. I was pleased that it did so much for me and I am very glad to recommend it."—Mrs. WILL NEWAY, No. 1213 West Broadway.

Eatonio Brings Relief

"I have been awful sick with gas," writes Mrs. W. H. Person, "and Eatonio is all I can get to give me relief."

Acidity and gas on the stomach quickly taken up and carried out by Eatonio, then appetite and strength come back. And many other beddily miseries disappear when the stomach is right. Don't let sourness, belching, bloating, indigestion and other stomach ills go on. Take Eatonio tablets after you eat—see how much better you feel. Big box costs only a trifler with your druggist's guarantee.

Awful. "Grandpa, when I'm grown up can I get married?" "My child, I regret to see you anti-clipping trouble so early in life."

High School Notes

Miss Skinner will take charge of the English Literature class Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week.

The Domestic Science class would like to have at least the jar returned mysteriously.

The Manual training class is progressing rapidly. They are making furniture now, Earle Russell having completed the first article, a table for the school.

The Caesar class is having a series of battles. They can't get enough fought out during school hours so they are staying after school.

The domestic science class will design an ironing board to be used in class. The best drawing will be given the manual training class to be made into an ironing board.

Klea Schoonmaker acted as chairman of the senior high school program given last Thursday. The program was opened with the song, "Columbia the Gem of the Ocean." Ruth Austin and Floyd Gustafson gave reports and Frieda Lohne played a piano solo. The song, "America" ended the program.

Claude Bartle acted as chairman of the Junior high school program and Marie Naker as secretary. The program consisted of a song by Norma Hermanson and a duet by Zella Fisher and Jeanette Shierk. Elsie Leonard, Lois Cooper, Donald Feink and Elmer Siebens gave readings.

Vila Naker, Harold Nelson and Clarence Russell gave reports on the celebration of armistice day. A number of children from the fifth and sixth grades sang a song and the choir sang, "Let the rest of the world go by."

A storm comes in from the north every morning but grows milder in Geometry class.

Hearing the birds sing in Latin class makes us think of good old summertime.

We'll have fair weather in English Literature the next few days. (Teacher out of town.)

Hall all the year in Caesar Class.

Alumni
Marperie Hemenway is attending Columbia college and is doing splendidly.

Esmer Teyler is a student at the McDonald school.

Ella Hansow is employed in the bank and at Kiernan's machine shop as bookkeeper.

Editorial
Thanksgiving is not a holiday for merry making only, but is a holiday on which thanks is rendered to God for the mercies and favors of the past year. We, as a nation, have much to be thankful for. Are we one of those countries which has known nothing but starvation? Have we been afflicted with devastation of lands and civil strife? No! We are a peaceful people and should use the foregoing day, set apart from the rest, to give thanks for what America has received.

Joke Column
Nick and Kellogg in Brown's store and one of the G. T. H. S. students go by.
Nick: "There goes the missing link."
Kellogg: "No, that was Carroll Swanson."
Mrs. Moore in Eng: "Carroll, give me a sentence with the word ransome."
Carroll: "Russell was about to take a ride in a fellow's car when the owner came along and then he ransome."
Russell: "Say, Don, how did you ever invest 50c for its best use?"
Don: "The night I slipped a kid 50c to tell me where his bobbed hair sister was."
Gus to Rus: "Every time ladies are admitted free at the show, I take Ruth."
Paul Molthan: "How is it that Russell is gaining so much weight?"
Loop: "Cream is a very nourishing food."
Mr. Mackenzie in Eng. Class: "Have any of you ever read Romeo and Juliet?"
Erwin: "I have read Romea but not Juliet."
Rhea, having not heard one of Miss Skinner's explanations: "I didn't get that."
Miss Skinner: "Why I thought I made that as plain as A. B. C."

Rhea: "Yes, but I was D. E. F." Mrs. Moore in Freshman Eng: Griffith have you read Silas Marner?" Griffith: "No!" Mrs. M: "Have you read Julius Caesar?" Griffith: "No!" Mrs. M: "Well what have you read?" Griffith: "I have red hair."

Personals
Nellie Geithman attended Homecoming at Northwestern Saturday. Vera Sowers spent Saturday in Elgin.
Paul Molthan has been absent from school for a few days taking care of his corn crops.
Evelyn Patterson took part in a home talent play in Kirkland, Friday and Saturday nights of last week.
Klea says she's been out of town lately, but won't tell where, why or when.
We see Nellie has invented a new way to comb her hair of late, without "buns."
Frieda Kohn is pianist in Mr. Kuser's newly organized orchestra. At present her thoughts are not with the entire orchestra but with the saxophone player.
Ruth is taking treatments to rid her of those awful hysterics.
Orville and Claude were absent from school Monday having corn shelling on the farm. The farmer was greatly missed by Myrtle.
Frieda had her first real snow slide of the season Sunday evening.

Rhea has her old cough raked up again to amuse the school this winter.

Next Thursday is Thanksgiving. We wonder if Gus will start a petition to have the day off.

Rhea spent Sunday evening scouting about the city to see that the snow did not get too deep on the sidewalks.

Myrtle says that Orville knows enough not to let the car stop in front of the house. We wonder where it stops.

Evelyn: "I heard that Miss Hilbish was a good fisher."
Klea: "I'll say she is; she's only been here two months and has caught an Illinois sucker."

Why Frankfurt.
King Carl the Great (Charlemagne) was once defeated by the Saxons, and fled with his Franks to the Main. But they could find no fording place by which to escape the pursuit of their enemies. Suddenly a cart appeared and made for a spot where it crossed easily, thus showing the Franks where the river was fordable. So they came across the Main, and the place has ever since been called "Frankfurt" (the ford of the Franks).

Importation of the Elephant.
The first instance of an elephant being brought to western Europe was in 807, when the Caliph Haroun al Raschid presented one to Charlemagne. It was not until 1255, however, that this well-known and sagacious animal went to England.

Federal Prisons.
Federal civil prisons are located at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., Atlanta, Ga., and McNeil Island, Wash.

Insect Life in Winter.
In the dead wood of the old snags are many insects that live through the winter regardless of how cold it gets; creatures whose weak bodies seem to defy the frigid temperature. Pull off a bit of old bark from a snag and note that there is life beneath it; little people that try to scurry for cover when their home is wrecked. They are not so agile as when the weather is warm, but they are not in a state of torpor.

The fish do not hibernate during the winter. Some species find homes in holes or beneath rocks and roots and get along very well without food during the cold weather, but they are not torpid like the bears and groundhogs that hibernate. Most of the fish swim about in the cold water and gather a living in winter just as they do in summer, but none of them require so much food when the water is cold.

In Praise of Violets.
There are about a hundred different species of violets, of which there are five species in England, and a few subspecies. One of these is the viola tricolor, from which is descended the garden pansy, or Love-in-idleness. But in all the passages in which Shakespeare names the violet, he alludes to the purple sweet-scented violet, of which he was evidently very fond, and which is said to be very abundant in the neighborhood of Stratford-on-Avon. For all the eighteen passages tell of some point of beauty or sweetness that attracted him. And so it is with all the poets from Chaucer downward—the violet is noticed by all, and by all with affection.—Christian Science Monitor.

is not an experiment; it is the result of years of experience in piano building, an experience that has brought perfection of workmanship, perfection of tone and perfect action. When you buy a Nelson & Son Piano, you are getting all that is good in piano construction. Nothing but the best of material is used, from the castors to the keys. But the best material will not make a piano. There must be a knowledge of proper construction and Mr. Nelson has that knowledge. The Nelson pianos have been on the market for many years and have always been rated among the best. We know that they are good in every respect or we would not try to sell them to our friends. When you buy one of these pianos, made in Genoa, you have the assurance of complete satisfaction. If the instrument is not as represented, go to the factory and take the matter up directly with the manufacturer. He wants you to be satisfied, for the record of the past has proven to him that a satisfied customer is one of the best assets that any business can have.

The DeKalb Chronicle says that night driving is becoming very unsafe for motorists at the present time and within the past few days a number of people have reported men trying to stop them while on the highway. "In one case north-east of Genoa the men came out in front of three men driving new cars, commanded them to stop and get out and took the cars away from them." The foregoing story is one a par with dozens of others floating about. It has even developed in other cities that Genoa boys are implicated in the "hold-up." It keeps the Genoa police busy in quieting the rumors.

MISTAKES ABOUT SEA WAVES

Really They Are Not Nearly as High as Some Voyagers Have Asserted.

Voyagers on stormy seas come safely ashore and tell their friends of waves that rose mountains high and at times threatened to overwhelm the vessel on which they braved the deep. The untrained eyes of the amateur seafarer generally exaggerate the height of the waves, and when the statement is made that the waves rose at least 100 feet above the vessel it is seldom that any of the auditors can disprove it.

Exhaustive observations made by scientists give the maximum height attained by waves at not more than sixty feet, and then only when the wind has been of hurricane force. The average height of waves in a strong gale is about thirty feet, in a whole gale about thirty-seven feet, and in a storm about forty-five feet. The scientists further state that if waves travel as fast as the average velocity of the strongest winds and if there be swift waves produced directly or indirectly by action of the wind upon the sea they do not attain sufficient height to form noticeable breakers.

Moros Skilled Iron Workers.

Bolts, huge, heavy and keen-edged knives that are swung with both hands or may be used for thrusting, were effective weapons used by Filipino soldiers in their rebellion against the United States at the expense of American lives.

Their merits were appreciated by the Americans, and, at the advice of Gen. Leonard Wood, were adopted and are in use today as a supplementary arm for the United States troops in the Philippines.

The finest and most elaborate bolos, of many different patterns and shapes, are used by the Moros of Mindanao and the Sulu Islands, who make them themselves. The Moros are skilled workers in iron, although savages. They know how to get the metal from its ores, and the production of good steel is no mystery to them. They are said to have learned these arts originally from the Arabs.

Poison Gas Born by Accident.

Some years ago a disastrous fire followed a chemical explosion at Greifshelm, near Frankfort-on-the-Main, in Germany.

Fire engines came rushing up, but as they approached the men were seen to fall from their seats. Spectators running after them dropped as if shot, and meanwhile the blaze increased, involving fresh buildings, and even crossing the river into the village of Schwandheim.

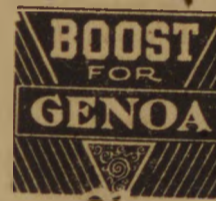

What had happened was this: The sudden mixture of vats of different chemicals under intense heat had filled the air with a gas of so terribly poisonous a nature that those who came within its deadly influence were suffocated at once. Fifty-one dead, and three times that number injured, was the result of that terrible fire. This accident led to the use of poison gas in warfare.

It is said that President Wilson yields on the League of Nations. We assumed that he might, after the "great and solemn referendum."

As secretary of state, W. J. Bryan resigned, under fire. He now suggests that President Wilson do the same. The "great and solemn referendum" proved to the president that the minority is with him, but he is no quitter.

THE MAN WHO SAVED
The man who saved during the time of high wages and high prices is the same man who saved during normal times. Every dollar placed in the bank prior to the war represented about fifty cents up to a few months ago. Now that dollar is again beginning to look like a cart wheel, while the dollar saved during the time of big wages and high prices will soon look like two. The reaction was inevitable and thinking people saved. Those who failed to look into the future are now thinking. There comes a day in every spender's life when he regrets that he lived up to his income every day. The silk shirt and silk sock orgy is a thing of the past. It is now back to common sense, cotton and real value for the money.

THE NEWS
"According to a recent edict any laborer employed in the state, war and navy department building at Washington, who talks during his working hours, except regarding official business, will be penalized."

Such is the nature of a dispatch from Washington, appearing in the daily papers of November 15. The bare announcement is made that laborers in the department name must refrain from talking; the situation is that the laborers must refrain from acting as human beings; they must be no more and no less than beasts of burden or a machine.

The dispatch may be the truth but it is a lie, in that all the truth is not told. The facts leading up to the edict and the general conditions are not mentioned. There is just enough news item to incite the laborers everywhere, whereas if all the facts were told, the matter would not have been considered a news item worth sending over the wire.

Every dose taken from the metropolitan press must be treated with a liberal sprinkling of salt. Appealing to every passion to which man or woman is subject is the chief aim of the "scare head" papers.

From his paper to find clinging to the strap before him a handsome young woman with a poodle under her arm.

The hero of this experience is a quick thinker, but also set in his convictions. Of course, he reasoned, a dog isn't a baby; a woman who will carry one on the subway in the rush hour isn't a "fired working girl;" if I gave up my seat to a woman with a baby I should be doing only what is right, but if I give my seat to this woman with the pup every man in the car will laugh and I shall feel silly myself.

Being a diplomat he got off at the next station and waited for another train.—New York Sun.

CLIMB THAT REQUIRED NERVE
English Workman Went 450 Feet in Air to Make Repairs to Marconi Wireless Mast.

The Morning Post of London gives the description of a climb performed by a workman in the employ of the Marconi company at their works in Chelmsford. A short time ago the highest part of a wireless mast 450 feet high, higher than the cross on the top of St. Paul's, was broken by a gale. How was it to be repaired? Ladders were out of the question. But the difficulties did not daunt one of the workmen, who noticed that the mast was made of quarter-sections bolted together and then fitted one on top of the other. He asked, and was given permission, to try the climb. He made himself a belt, at the two ends of which were rings that would slip over the ends of the bolts. Thus equipped he started to mount on high, the bolts being his only means of support. On the first day he swarmed up 200 feet, fitted the tackle, and descended to earth, for it was too cold to proceed farther. On the second day he was hoisted up the 200 feet, and then, hand over hand by means of his rings and bolts, he got to the top of the mast, where he effected the necessary repairs. The last 250 feet of climbing was done in an hour. The man's name was Post.

Mark Twain's Imagination.
Mark Twain had such a vivid imagination, such a brain for embroidery, that it was a difficult task for him to tell a straight story just as it happened—he could make up one that was so much better. We all know that Albert Bigelow Paine, working on Mark Twain's "Life," found it necessary to discard much of the autobiographic material Mark Twain had written. Investigation, talks with men still living who knew the facts, simply proved that the tales were not so. And Mark Twain was no liar. He had

New Yorker Saw Only One Way to Settle Problem of Street-Car Etiquette Confronting Him.

A business man who was raised far enough away from New York still to say "ma'am" when he speaks to a strange woman was recently confronted with a new angle of one of the major transportation problems of city life.

His theory is that since women have sought and found equal opportunity in business and in politics, a tired man should have an equal opportunity in the seat lottery on the way home at night. It isn't a fixed rule, but he has the exceptions to it pretty well in mind. He will not take a seat if there is a woman standing near it. He will yield his seat to an elderly woman, and—this is a cardinal exception—to a woman with a baby.

Opening of Toyland

Saturday, November Twentieth

at "The Christmas Store"

Here's the joyful news that every little boy and girl has been waiting for. Toyland is ready, and it is a real wonderland of joy for the little folks. When you come you'll say that Jolly Old Santa must have been very busy in his workshop way up at the North Pole, for he has sent just about everything in toys from his home among the icebergs. And he's got lots of surprises for you, too, for he's sent lots of new toys this time; some that are different from any he ever brought you before.

Dolls? Why there are so many you'll hardly be able to count them. Dolls that can walk and some that can say mama when you press them. Lots of dandy doll cabs too, and everything that little girls with a large doll family could wish for. Santa has remembered all about the little boys, too. He wants you to come and see them and pick out from all these dandy playthings just what you want for Christmas. There are brightly painted autos parked in long rows; coaster wagons with real ball bearings that almost go alone. Jiggings coons and funny Trikautos that'll go every way but straight; air guns, airplanes that'll whiz through the air and a whole menagerie of animals and other toys to make little boys' hearts glad on Christmas morning.

We want every little boy and girl who can to come here Saturday to the opening of this great Toyland. Ask mama or papa or big brother or sister to bring you to see all the wonderful toys that Santa has sent. There'll be plenty of helpers here to show you Santa's newest playthings. And there'll be a

About Those Whimsical Brims

IN SOME seasons milliners appear to center attention on the brims of hats and at other times it is the crowns that command all of their consideration. Just now, in winter millinery, crowns are playing an inconspicuous part. They refuse to take any responsibility, being soft and unsupported, their contour indefinite, except after they are adjusted to the head. Occasionally when assisted by a side band they are equal to supporting a little embroidery but usually they are merely a soft covering for the top of the head in all fabric hats.

Meanwhile designers are showing just how many things can be done with brims. They are fanciful—eccentric, whimsical, and they are exceedingly pretty and becoming. With the advance of the season and the appearance of midwinter hats for formal wear a great many handsome velvet hats show brims of uneven width—and in addition to mere unevenness they are split, curved, dented, slashed, folded and draped. Their ways are devious and there is no telling what will happen to them next, but it is a safe guess that they will not return to the straight and narrow path for some time to come.

Typical brims appear in the group of hats shown in the picture. One of them has a very wide brim slashed at even intervals. It is made of velvet and its edges are bound with heavier cloth. A rose and foliage design is embroidered about the side crown with angora yarn and a little flat bow of ribbon is posed on the brim at the front. A great favorite in shapes has an upturned brim of beaded satin, folded into a plait at the center with chain and ball ornaments placed in the folds. An upturned brim draped with embroidered velvet is pinned to the duvety crown with two large, ornamental pins. A shape of black velvet, faced with blue, has a brim that widens at the sides where it is split, curls backward, curves upward and turns downward into a hat that is as beautiful as it is eccentric and the simplest hat of the group contents itself with a brim made of velvet petals, chain-stitched with heavy silk.

SONNY-BUNNY

By ANNETTE C. SYMMES.

(©, 1920, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Sonny-Bunny and Little Mother were looking in at the milliner's window. They were almost laughably alike, with their curly brown hair, blue eyes and trim slightness, and the expression on the two faces was much the same as Sonny-Bunny's in front of the candy shop display. Their eyes were riveted upon a dainty creation of white straw and pink roses. Even the little boy knew it just to be the thing for Little Mother.

"Go in an' buy it, moth'!" he begged. "Can't, Sonny," said Little Mother, her cheery tone belying her longing eyes. "There haven't been enough weddings this spring."

"Weddings?" queried the child. "Yes; you know daddy gives me the wedding fees for my own. This year there haven't been enough so I can afford a new hat."

At this moment the minister drove up in his shiny Ford and took his wife and little son for the homeward drive. The new Ford had been necessary, but almost too expensive. This had something to do with the lack of money for a new hat for Little Mother.

When Sonny-Bunny got home he changed into his blue overall suit and went out in the parsonage orchard to reflect. He did it in the crotch of the August-sweet tree, which grew low and was a trap nest for a small boy.

Little Mother needed some weddings. He knew a little about weddings, for mother had explained something about them when young couples had come to the house. As far as he could see, though, weddings came unsolicited. Sonny-Bunny was positive that his father did nothing to attract custom.

At this moment Silas Lovejoy chanced to drive by. The sight of him started the child's mind upon a new tack. A conversation between his parents, overheard only the other day, recurred to his memory.

"How long has Silas Lovejoy been going with Abbie Dunn?" mother had asked.

"Seven or eight years," had been the minister's reply.

"Well, I should think they would get married now," mother had said. "Since old Mrs. Lovejoy died there's nothing to prevent."

"Silas is a man of habit," responded the minister. "He's got into a rut, and he will stick there till somebody or something jolts him out of it." The mental processes of a child may be as direct as light, or as circuitous—well, as a country road. After mull-ing it over for a while Sonny-Bunny concluded that it would be a good idea to mention the subject of weddings to Mr. Lovejoy.

That afternoon Sonny-Bunny went fishing in the brook. There was a myth that a trout lived in this brook, and Sonny had spells of trying to catch him. On the other side of the brook was Mr. Lovejoy's potato patch, and in the patch the owner, hoeing. Sonny had thought he might be there. By and by, the trout declining to appear, the small boy went over to visit Mr. Lovejoy.

"Hullo, Sonny," boomed Silas. "Hullo," responded the child. He sat down beside the green rows, in the shade, and watched the man work. By-and-by Mr. Lovejoy came and drank from the water jug hidden in the bushes near the child and sat down to rest a bit.

"Mr. Lovejoy," said Sonny-Bunny seriously, "did you ever think about getting married?" "Hey? What? Git married? What for?" cried the man.

"Why lots of folks do—you know—and then you'd have somebody to do the housework," stammered Sonny, a trifle frightened.

Silas had not only common sense, but a sense of humor. Seeing that the child meant no harm he answered jokingly:

"Well, I never seemed to get round to it."

"It says on one of the motto cards at school, 'Never put off till tomorrow what you can do today,'" said Sonny. "And Moth' says today is all the time anybody ever has to do anything. Yesterday's gone and tomorrow never gets here."

"She's a wise woman," said Silas. "Daddy says a man without a wife is a poor mis'ble thing," remarked Sonny. "He says Moth' has been the making of him."

"Sho!" "Mr. Lovejoy," timidly, "are you a poor mis'ble thing 'cause you ain't married?"

A pause. "Yes, I be!" was the reply.

"Then don't you think you better get married right off?" suggested Sonny.

"Yes, I do!" came the answer with emphasis.

A week later the minister almost had heart failure when Silas and Abbie Dunn appeared at the parsonage to get married. Unfortunately Sonny-Bunny was in bed and knew nothing about it till next morning. He saw the bill which his father gave to his mother, however, the same that Mr. Lovejoy had handed him with the license. It was big enough to cover the new hat and the white pumps little mother wanted.

Sonny-Bunny feels sure that he engineered that wedding—and so he did—but somehow he has never felt just like telling even little mother anything about his connection with it!

AVIATION GASOLINE

Don't order just "high test" gasoline, make sure to order U. S. Army Aviation gasoline. You want aviation gasoline because it will make your motor run quieter and smoother, greatly increase the power of the motor, make it more flexible, increase the mileage on gas and oils, insure better lubrication, practically eliminate carbon, avoid fouling spark plugs. In gasoline stoves and wherever used it gives a blue, smokeless flame. It is real gasoline. Call Fred Ecklund, phone 191, Genoa.

The Orphanage is endeavoring to raise funds at Thanksgiving to enable it to properly carry on its humane efforts. The bank was not a member of the Federal Reserve bank. It is closed under orders from State Auditor Russell because slow paper and un-
