THE LEGION PLANS HOME COMING

Bayard Brown Post to Back Big Event on October 6

OYS NOW ARRANGING DETAILS

Will Be First Demonstration in Genoa This Year—Let's All Boost

At the last meeting of Bayard Brown Post of the American Legion the members decided to back a "Home Coming" celebration and festival in Genoa on the 6th of October and the Legion is now working on the plans and program. It will take some money to put on a program worth while, and Genoa citizens do not want anything that will not be a credit to the city. When the solicitors come to you for assistance, bear in mind that you are or should be just as much interested as they are. Genoa has been one of the very few cities in this part of the state which has not had any kind of celebration or picnic this year. We have been in a state of lethargy while other cities and villages have been drawing the crowds. Let's all get behind the Legionaires in their plans and pull the largest crowd that ever came to Genoa. It can be done, but there must be no crepe hangers. If one can not spare any money and feels that he cannot assist in any manner whatsoever, he can at least be a booster.

It is desired that those who formerly resided in Genoa come back to the old town on the 6th of October and renew old friendships and acquaintances. By arranging a smashing program for the day, they will come back and hundreds of others from surrounding towns will come to participate in the festivities.

The boys plan all kinds of amusements, with a band of course, field sports, games and other attractions. The Republican will keep you posted on plans as they are made. In the mean time get in touch with your old friends and invite them to come to Genoa on the 6th of October.

Be a booster.

FORESTER PICNIC

Genoa and Hampshire Courts Join in Festivities

Hampshire will be right in line with many other places on Labor Day with a big picnic, which will be held in the large grove of Allie Modine, located near the south end of State street. The picnic is being given by the Hampshire and Genoa Courts, Catholic Order of Foresters, and they invite the general public to attend the day's events at the picnic ground, and also the big dance in the evening.

The large crowd woods will be the scene of a large crowd on September 5, and there will be something to occupy the time all afternoon and evening. In the woods there will be refreshment stands and possibly some other concessions. There will be several good addresses by capable speakers, some good music and a baseball game between the two courts. There is good baseball material in each of the courts so the game will be exciting.

The evening events will be held at the Forester hall. There will be dancing in the hall and the Foresters have secured one of the best orchestras in Elgin to furnish the music for this event. For those who don't care to dance there will be free open air moving pictures on the lawn between the church and the hall. There will also be a refreshment stand or two to take care of your wants in this line.

The program of the day as planned promises to be a very enjoyable one for all and those who attend will find something to occupy every minute of their time. The Foresters invite you to their picnic and assure all of a good time.

KILLED IN HOG HOUSE

Ollie C. Oleson, aged forty, a farmer residing three miles west of Woodstock, was killed instantly when lightning struck a hog house in which he had taken shelter during a severe electrical storm last Friday evening. His nineteen-year-old son was badly burned when he dragged his father from the burning building. His father was burned beyond recognition. The boy will recover.

JAPAN PHONE SERVICE

Read This and Never Cuss Butcher Again

One should occasionally compare the telephone service of foreign countries with that given in the United States in order to appreciate the rapid and efficient service here.

Julian Street, a well-known author, who has been traveling in Japan and writing a series of articles for McClure's magazine, has the following to say about the telephone service of Japan, which is owned by the government.

"Japan's telephone backwardness is like opera bouffe. Though the demand for new telephones far exceeds the supply, the government makes no appreciable effort to remedy the situation. Every year an absurdly small number of lines is added to the existing system. They are assigned by lot among those who have applied for them. Thus, if a man be lucky in the draw, he may get a telephone within two or three years. But I know one gentleman in Tokyo who was not so lucky in the draw.

"At the ripe old age of 67 he applied to the government for an additional office telephone. The instrument was installed shortly after he had celebrated his 80th birthday.

"If one be in a hurry to have a telephone put in, one does not apply to the authorities, but attacks the problem in a manner more direct—either through a telephone broker or thru advertising. Thus, one can get in contact with a person wishing to sell an installation and a number. The number must, however, be in an exchange serving the district in which the telephone is placed.

"Though this is a very expensive method, it is the one usually employed in Tokyo and other large cities. A telephone for the business district of the capital city may cost as much as $1,200, but in a residence district it will be considerably cheaper—$500 or less.

"A curious detail of the business is that low numbers bring the highest price in the open market. This, I am informed, is because green operators, in process of being broken in, sit at the end of the central switchboard at which the high numbers occur, thus guaranteeing the owners of high numbers a grade of service calculated to drive them to the madhouse."

HAMPSHIRE FALL FESTIVAL

The People of Genoa Are Cordially Invited to Attend

Over in Hampshire a big Fall Festival has been planned, which will be held on Saturday, September 10th, and will last all day, from morning until after midnight, and the program that has been planned by the Hampshire business men includes something for every minute of the day. The Fall Festival in Hampshire will be the last big picnic of the season in this vicinity and will attract a crowd of over 5,000 people from every part of Kane and adjoining counties. Hampshire extends a cordial welcome to the people of Genoa and urge them to come early, bring their dinner and stay all day.

There will be band concerts, ball game, sports, big dance, wrestling, etc. Circuit Judge E. D. Shurtliff of Marengo will be the orator of the day.

BUTTER IN SYCAMORE

Marketing Company Will Operate Factory There

Sycamore is to have a new industry of worth while proportions says the Tribune. In sending their milk to St. Charles, the producers ship unnecessarily about 15,000 pounds of milk in order to have it skimmed at St. Charles. The local management that by skimming the milk here, and shipping the cream to St. Charles a great saving might be accomplished so they began immediately looking into the subject. Investigation proved that still better, they might make the butter right here and sell it from this market. Buildings were secured for the purpose and it is proposed hereafter to do that very thing.

Last Saturday a representative of the Co-operative Marketing company was in town looking over the situation and he was very much pleased with the buildings selected. The machinery for skimming will be installed as soon as possible. The price of milk will be $1.50 per hundred and the producer will not have to take back his skim milk unless he can use it conveniently.

OUSTED MANAGER IS NOT PEEVED

W. J. Kittle Still Stands With Milk Marketing Company

DISCUSS THE LOWERED PRICE

Anticipate Heavy Loss but Believe Cut Only Solution of Problems

W. J. Kittle, ousted sales manager of the Milk Producers' Co-operative marketing company, made his first public appearance since the ouster Monday at 2 o'clock when he addressed delegates from seventy locals of the marketing company says the Elgin News.

Kittle was permitted to speak at a stormy vote. Many opposed allowing the former superintendent to speak and others asked that he be limited to fifteen minutes on the platform. But the majority ruled that he should be allowed to speak for thirty minutes.

No Grievance With Farmer
Former manager Kittle's talk was brief and to the point. He discussed agitation relative to Chicago's high milk price of twelve cents for September.

"A committee to confer with Secretary Poole of the Chicago city council high cost committee has been selected," said Mr. Kittle. "They will have their hands full. I have had dealings with the secretary. When the farmer got two dollars for milk not long ago the dealers got ten cents a quart. In September they will pay $1.50 and sell milk for twelve cents. Something is wrong somewhere."

Speaking of his resignation from the board of directors and the committees of the marketing company, he stated that he had no grievance with the farmers and still remains a member of the marketing company. "I don't want a resolution passed about me at all," said Mr. Kittle. "Nothing has ever been done by me without the consent of the executive committee. I made some good sales. Now with the $1.50 price you have given away $480,000 at one stroke compared with what was lost under my management of $100,000."

ROB MARENGO STORE

Poorly Lighted City Invitation to Truck Thieves

Elgin News: Authorities are looking for the mysterious stranger who purchased a fifteen cent handkerchief at the S. C. Johnson store at Marengo Saturday evening about 9:30 o'clock, who obtained truck parking space at the Marengo garage for the night and never saw it, and who made arrangements to stay overnight at a boarding house and then disappeared.

He is being sought because more than $1,000 worth of women's dresses, silk stockings, suitcases and other goods in the Johnson store flitted away early Sunday morning, presumably by the stranger. A truck was backed up in front of the store, unseen because Marengo had been lightless for several days, and the fifteen cent handkerchief was wrapped around a hammer which smashed a window in the store and allowed the thief to enter. The handkerchief and hammer were found Sunday morning.

The Johnson store, which had been rebuilt after burning down two years ago, was passed at 12:30 o'clock by a night watchman of the city. At 3 o'clock when he passed it again he discovered a broken window and the robbery. In the interval most of the fine women's clothes, just received Saturday afternoon, and quantities of the best merchandise in the store were loaded into leather suitcases on sale at the store and carried to a waiting truck and spirited away in the darkness. The loss is not covered by insurance.

The women's clothing taken included $300 in new fall suits, just received from wholesalers. Marengo's street lights have been dark since the storm last week which despoiled the power.

DeKalb will conduct his annual cattle sale Wednesday, August 31, at which time it may be settled by a number of farmers whether the dairy industry will continue to be followed by local farmers or not. Prices paid for cattle will determine the attitude the farmers say.

AMERICAN LEGION PICNIC

Sycamore Post will Sponsor Event at Electric Park

The Legion boys at Sycamore are now busily preparing for their second annual picnic to be held at Electric Park near Sycamore, September 11. Those who attended last year will recall that a wonderful program was given by the Sycamore Post and that the enormous crowd in attendance went home feeling that it had been royally entertained. This year the boys are going to do even better as they are presenting a much more expensive program at a lower admission.

Arrangements have been made for two ball games, Clare vs. DeKalb K.C.'s at 10:30 a. m. and Sycamore vs. Hinckley at 3 p. m. These teams for both games are well matched. Sycamore and Hinckley have opposed each other twice before this season, each taking one and this will be the rubber and for blood. Carlo will pitch for Hinckley and Bauman for Sycamore.

A big 30-piece concert band will be on the ground all day and play two concerts besides furnishing music for the games.

The county seat Legionaires urge that you bring your cup and basket lunch or dinner as they will have gallons of free coffee to give away from 11:30 to 1:30.

At 1:30 p. m. many games and contests will be staged for prizes given by the soldier-managers. These games, some old, some new, such as "Irish Polo," "Pie Eating," "Tug of War," "Nail Driving," "Jousting" and others, are open to all.

A contract is being signed with an aiman and it is expected that rides and stunts will be on all day.

The big program will also embrace a midway, concessions for which are rapidly being secured. Zach Chandler and his Jazz Band for dancing after noon and evening, and at 9 p. m. a drawing will take place at which three grand prizes will be given away. The choice of a Ford touring car or a Fordson tractor will be the first prize, a Victrola for the second and an Elgin gold watch, either lady's or gentleman's for the third.

Do not fail to attend for you will not only have a royal good time but also assist in raising the funds to be used for the ex-service men.

The last two years are alternated, the twelfth year work being given this year and the eleventh in 1922.

The teachers are in attendance at the County Institute at Sycamore this week.

Mr. Mackenzie has spent the summer quarter at Chicago University.

Mr. W. L. Moore is finishing some work at Iowa State College in preparation for the manual training classes.

Miss Sue Cook, who will teach Latin and mathematics, is back from her home in Cella, Ohio.

Miss Susan Skinner comes from a vacation in northern Wisconsin. She will teach the domestic science and ninth year history.

Mrs. Esther Snyder, who takes the work in fundamentals in the seventh and eighth grades again, has been spending the summer quietly at home.

Miss Merle Erwin spent her vacation in Michigan after the first term beginning of the fall term, as no new classes will be commenced in February in the School of Education.

Miss Grace Reimer, a graduate of Beloit College, majoring in history will teach history classes. She will lead the chorus and handle the girls' basketball, in which she has had experience. Miss Reimer taught in Polo High school last year.

The textbooks in the various subjects are given below.

GRADES

Miss C. C. Christian, Principal, has been studying in DeKalb normal. Miss Christian will teach the sixth grade and hear some of the fifth grades classes.

Mrs. C. D. Schoonmaker will teach the second and third grades.

Miss Birdie Drake, who attended the summer session at the University of Wisconsin, will teach first grade again.

Parents whose children will be six years old within the first half of the year and who wish to start them in school are requested to do so at the beginning of the fall term, as no new classes will be commenced in February.

GENOA MUST BE CONSIDERED

Discussion of State Highway No. 23 Milk This City Out

FROM MARENGO TO SYCAMORE

Letter from Department to Marengo Banker Explains 1922 Program

Route No. 23 of the Illinois good road program extends from the state line, north of Harvard, to Ottawa. As mentioned in all articles and published statements this route touches Harvard, Marengo, Sycamore and DeKalb—Genoa is not mentioned. The trail as originally laid out hits the above mentioned cities via the most direct route. This means that it would continue south at the school house east of Genoa and connect with the Genoa-Sycamore road at Chamberlain's corner.

It is up to Genoa to get busy and the Genoa Good Roads and Motor Club is now watching developments, ready to jump in at any minute and insists that the trail pass directly thru Genoa on Sycamore street. The Marengo Republican of last week says:

With Grant Highway assured as a through hard road, many good roads advocates are turning their attention to Route No. 23, which passes thru Marengo, in the hope that work on this road may be taken up in the near future. Route No. 23 starts at the State line at Big Foot and passes thru Harvard, Marengo, Sycamore, DeKalb and Ottawa, connecting with other highways at Ottawa, and making a splendid through route to distant points.

It seems very likely that action on Route No. 23 will be a part of the state's road building program for 1922, as is evidenced by letter written to E. D. Patrick of Marengo by C. R. Miller, director of the department of public works and buildings, in reply to an inquiry from the Marengo banker.

Mr. Miller's letter follows: "August 22, 1921, "Bond Issue Route No. 23.

"Mr. E. D. Patrick, President, "First National Bank, "Marengo, Ill.

"My dear Mr. Patrick: "Referring to your favor of the 13th, I would say that we are at present devoting just as much of our time as possible in pushing our construction program, concentrating the time of our officials and engineers on that work. When the rush of the summer work is over we will arrange to have public hearings on routes in ample time for our 1922 program.

"The Governor has urged me to get just as prompt action as possible in McHenry county, and I am filing your letter with our '1922 program' with a view of having a hearing just as early as possible.

"Very truly yours, "C. R. Miller, Director."

I. A. A. STATE PICNIC

Bands, baseball games, the tug of war, swimming, fried chicken, boating, motion pictures, athletic contests—the Illinois Agricultural Association state picnic will have them all at Dixon on Saturday, September 3. Farm bureau members from all parts of the state have been invited to the big festivity.

Nearly all of the county bureaus of the state will enter a horseshoe pitching team to compete in the Stae championship contest which will last throughout the day. The farm advisers are to play officials of the I. A. A. game of baseball. A tug of war and fifteen other athletic contests have been scheduled.

The farm photoplay "Spring Valley," recently filmed by the I. A. A., will be shown, as well as other farm movies. Swimming, boating and lots of grass may be had in the large park where the picnic is to be held. William G. Eckhardt of DeKalb, will speak on grain marketing, and President Howard Leonard, of the Illinois Agricultural Association, will make an address.

Preparations have been made for the parking of thousands of automobiles and a huge crowd from all parts of the state is expected.

LOTUS BED IN ELGIN

If plans succeed, Elgin is to have a lotus bed all of her own. A number of lotus roots, presented to the city, have been planted in one of the lagoons in Lord's park there.

Important News Events of the World Summarized

Washington

Official entertainment during the disarmament conference at Washington will cost the government $20,000, it is estimated. One banquet, two luncheons and two receptions are planned.

The report of the commissioner of internal revenue at Washington shows that collections from income and excess profits taxes for the fiscal year 1921 fell off three-fourths of a billion dollars from the collections in 1920.

President Harding is planning to call a national conference at Washington on unemployment, to be attended by representatives of labor and the leading groups of industries. The Department of Commerce has been commissioned to arrange the conference.

Immediate disposal of liquor seized under the national prohibition act on which storage charges are accruing was ordered by Prohibition Commissioner Haynes at Washington.

The bodies of the American victims of the ZR-2 disaster will be brought to the United States on a British warship, said the Navy department at Washington. A message of sympathy was received from Lloyd George, British premier.

The American army will be brought home from Germany immediately upon ratification of the peace treaty, says a Washington dispatch. The senate is expected to act on the treaty as soon as it reconvenes in September. This means the American forces may be moving out of Germany before October 1.

The treaty of peace with Germany negotiated by President Harding and Secretary Hughes in lieu of the rejected treaty of Versailles was signed in Berlin, Secretary of State Hughes announced at Washington. Here are the principal things the treaty does: Restores peace between the United States and Germany; definitely ignores the League of Nations covenant so far as the United States is concerned; reserves to the United States all rights and advantages stipulated for the United States in the Versailles treaty.

Failure of congress to agree to the anti-beer bill will not mean issuance of regulations for the sale of beer as medicine, Secretary of the Treasury Mellon announced at Washington. The secretary said he decided to withhold the regulations until after congress reconvenes.

The Capper-Tincher bill for regulating trading on grain exchanges and the bill which extends the period for doing assessment work on mining claims were signed at Washington by President Harding. The former bill imposes a prohibitive tax upon "puts and calls" and other speculative transactions and upon all grain exchanges which do not become "contract markets."

Domestic

Victor Bruner, twenty-nine, of Mishawaka, was killed at South Bend, Ind., when he fell 1,000 feet from an airplane while attempting to make a parachute leap. The parachute failed to adjust.

One man was killed and two were seriously wounded in the hills by a posse following a holdup of two mine officials of the New England Fuel and Transportation company near Lowesville, W. Va.

Five persons were killed when their automobile was struck by a train at La Harpe, Ill. Those reported dead are: Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Egge and Mrs. William Blean.

Miss Mary L. Downes of Chicago was elected high chief ranger of the Woman's Catholic Order of Foresters, in national convention at Omaha.

Dun's review of trade issued at New York says: As the end of summer approaches, hopes of further gains in business are strengthened and sentiment grows more confident. Nothing in the present situation suggests that sudden and general activity will follow the recent slow and irregular improvement, but a stronger basis now exists for subsequent betterment of conditions.

Donald and Merrill Lawson of Lafayette, Ind., both under twelve, were drowned in a gravel pit near Hoopston, Ill., where they were living. Both bodies were recovered by divers.

A sentence of six months in the Milwaukee house of correction and a fine of $1,000 was given to Thomas Tollerfson, president of the Cloverland (Wis.) bank and formerly of Superior, by Judge Claude Luse in Federal court at Superior, Wis. Tollerfson was found guilty of sending threatening letters through the mails.

Election of Miss Mary L. Downes of Chicago as high chief ranger of the Woman's Catholic Order of Foresters, in national convention, is announced at Omaha, Neb.

A lone thief held up a paymaster for the Rickenbacker Motor company in the company's office at Detroit, Mich., and escaped with $6,500.

Nine men raided a gambling resort in the business section of Stamford, Conn., took $15,000 from 30 players and killed one who resisted.

Six handits invaded the King James hotel, just off the heart of Broadway's famed "White Light District" in New York, and held up the clerks, elevator operators and a number of guests. They escaped with cash and valuables worth thousands of dollars.

Raymond Douglas, held in jail at Minneapolis on an automobile theft charge, fell five stories to his death in attempt to escape when an improvised rope on which he was lowering himself from one of the jail windows, parted.

What was described as the most sensational shooting ever seen on an American rifle range marked the performance of Machine Gunner C. A. Lloyd, United States marine corps, when he hung up a new world's record of 101 consecutive bull's-eyes at 600 yards in the all-comers expert match of the annual rifle tournament held at Searight, N. J.

Coal miners, rebelling against union officials captured a Chesapeake & Ohio passenger train at Danville, W. Va., and started it with several hundred armed men to Blair, Logan county. Several persons were shot.

Two masked men held up north-bound Missouri, Kansas & Texas train No. 4 about fifteen miles south of Denison, Tex. The handits rifled several pouches.

Shifting of the wind saved the entire Hoboken waterfront from what might have been the most serious conflagration in its history. As it was, damage estimated at $1,000,000 was caused by fire which broke out on army pier No. 5 and rapidly spread in all directions, at one time setting the forward portion of the giant U. S. S. Leviathan, the largest ship afloat, in flames.

Atlantic City was chosen as meeting place for the 1922 convention of the Women's Christian Temperance union in the convention which closed at San Francisco.

Personal

Peter Cooper Hewitt, American scientist and electrical inventor, died in the American hospital at Paris, France. Mrs. Hewitt and his two sisters were at the bedside.

Sporting

Ellas F. Haak of Canton, O., won the twenty-second annual Grand American handicap, highest honor in amateur trapshooting circles, over the traps of the South Shore Country club at Chicago. He broke 97 out of 100 targets.

Foreign

Great Britain cannot countenance the tearing up of the United Kingdom, said Premier Lloyd George in referring to the Irish question in a speech at Barnsley, England. It would mean civil war in England.

Three persons were killed when 30,000 communists, protesting assassination of Mathias Erzberger, clashed with monarchists at Berlin.

Hundreds of villages have been destroyed and thousands of persons left homeless by an overflow of the Hoang-Ho or Yellow river, which, after a month of heavy rainfall, has flooded large areas in the province of Shantung, China.

Soviet government officials at Moscow are preparing to receive the first installment of the American relief administration workers, who are due soon to relieve the suffering from the famine.

In rejecting the British settlement terms Ireland turned down a wider range of rights than enjoyed by the states of the American Union, Premier Lloyd George declared in his answer to the Irish parliament's refusal to the British peace conditions. The premier's reply, made public in London, while firm in tone, leaves the door wide open for a continuation of the negotiations.

Mathias Erzberger, former vice premier and minister of finance of Germany, was assassinated by two youths near Offenburg, Baden, where he was sojourning with his family. Twelve bullets entered his body.

Henry Sullivan of Lowell, Mass., who started to swim across the English channel from Cape Gris-Nez, near Calais, to Dover, England, failed to accomplish the feat. He was obliged to abandon his attempt after swimming ten hours.

Eamonn de Valera was unanimously re-elected president of the Irish republic by Dail Eireann (Sinn Fein parliament), says a Dublin dispatch. He was nominated by Commandant John Mac Keown, of the Irish republican army, a member of Dail Eireann

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

Structural Weakness Apparent Cause of Tragedy of Giant Airship ZR-2.

FAULTS KNOWN IN ENGLAND

Congress Takes Thirty-Day Recess After Dismissing Anti-Beer Bill—Panama Yields Coto to Costa Rica at Uncle Sam's Command, and Goes into Mourning.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD.

"The hull structure is, in general principles, of standard type such as used in Zeppelin airships and in earlier British types, but a very considerable saving of structural weight has been effected by a large number of improvements in details."

This excerpt from the official British description of the ZR-2 seems to explain the disaster which befell the giant dirigible while on its trial trip last Wednesday. The saving of structural weight was effected at the expense of the entire airship and the lives of 46 of the men who manned her. According to survivors, an abrupt change of direction when the vessel was above Hull strained the framework beyond its strength. It broke in two in the middle and fell into the Humber river with terrific explosions. Included in the dead were Commander Louis H. Maxfield and 15 more of the American crew which was to bring the airship to the United States, and British Air Commodore L. M. Maitland and 29 of the English crew. Only one American, a rigger, was among the survivors.

ZR-2 was the largest airship ever constructed and was built by the British government for the United States navy. The price was to be $2,000,000. Of course, as she had not yet been turned over to the Americans the financial loss does not fall on the American government. The catastrophe was not a great surprise to those in England who had watched the building and tests of the airship. On several preliminary trials defects and weaknesses were uncovered, and the final trial flight which ended so disastrously had been postponed repeatedly though the weather seemed entirely favorable. It is said that enlisted men of the British air service stationed at Howden had offered to bet ten to one that the dirigible never would get across the Atlantic; that they declared it was structurally weak, and impossibly large, with unreliable engines and a framework incapable of standing the strains of its own 33 tons of dead weight while in the air.

News of the disaster reached Washington while a congressional committee was listening to arguments in favor of an appropriation for the completion of ZR-1, an American-built companion ship of the ZR-2, on which more than a million dollars already has been expended. Officers of the naval bureau of aeronautics are confident that the navy will be permitted to continue its rigid airship building program notwithstanding the loss of ZR-2.

Plans for the ZR-1 call for an airship of slightly smaller size than the ZR-2, a length of 670 feet, diameter about 80 feet, and gas capacity of approximately 2,200,000 cubic feet. The total cost is estimated at $2,500,000. Her designers have adhered more closely than the British to the structural plans of the Germans, who were the original builders of rigid airships. The naval gas extracting plant at Fort Worth already has stored enough helium gas to fill the envelope of ZR-1. Helium is far less dangerous than hydrogen gas, being noninflammable.

Late Wednesday night congress adjourned for a 30-day recess, or until September 21. The senate finance committee remains on the job to continue its work on the permanent tariff and the tax revision measures which the house has passed. Among the bills passed at the closing session were the agricultural credits measure, the shipping board deficiency bill of $48,500,000, with its amendment carrying $200,000 for expenses of the disarmament conference, and the measure extending the dye embargo until January 1.

Chief interest in the senate centered about the anti-beer bill, which was attacked at length by Senators Reed and Stanley. The dry leaders found by test votes that the measure could not be carried, so they allowed it to be thrown into the discard. They failed even in their effort to have it made the unfinished business when the senate reconvenes. The more fanatical of the prohibition leaders are to be blamed for the failure of this bill, for they rejected all compromise and by their stubbornness led the wets to form a temporary coalition with the agricultural bloc. The members of the latter helped kill the anti-beer measure in return for the support of the wets for the farm export credits bill which was in danger of being caught in the jam and held up indefinitely.

This credits bill empowers the War Finance corporation to issue $1,500,000,000 of its own bonds and to lend $1,000,000,000 for financing agricultural exports. The house refused to agree to senate provisions which would allow the corporation to lend directly to European purchasers of the commodities, but the compromise will allow the Finance corporation to lend to anybody, provided satisfactory collateral is furnished to it for the sums advanced.

Japan has formally accepted the invitation to the Washington conference and its embassy is obtaining accommodations for a delegation of about eighty persons. A large residence, an office building and a section of one of the hotels have been rented. Since the meeting of the Japanese diet probably will keep Premier Hara at home, the Japanese delegation is likely to be headed by either Foreign Secretary Uchida or Viscount Chinda. In its note of acceptance the Japanese government expressed the hope that the agenda of the conference on Far Eastern affairs would be arranged prior to the meeting in accordance with its suggestion that matters concerning only a few nations, or which are accomplished facts, be not brought into the discussion. So far nobody has shown any intention of supporting this proposition of the Japanese, which, of course, is put forward solely in behalf of their own selfish interests. They do not wish to be asked about Shantung, or Yip, or Manchuria.

Great Britain also accepted the invitation to the conference last week in a graceful note that contained no restrictions or qualifications. The representatives of the republic of South China are still asking recognition in Washington and a bid to the meeting. They assert that the people of South China have set up a government of their own that owes no allegiance to the Peking government, and that they constitute a full half of the population of China.

The republic of Panama is officially in mourning. President Porras has ordered the flag displayed at half-mast on all public buildings for one month because Costa Rica gets the disputed territory of Coto. Panama will not seek by force to prevent its neighbor from occupying the district, because the United States last week told her that the terms of the White award must be accepted and that warfare between Panama and Costa Rica would not be permitted. Porras then had no other course than to yield, though his political foes probably will take advantage of his plight and attempt to oust him from office. It is said they are trying to organize a revolution, and this may give some occupation to the battalion of American marines that was sent down to the isthmus ostensibly to protect American property and lives if the Panamanians did not give in.

When bids for the "wooden fleet" were opened by the United States shipping board there was but one bidder for the entire fleet—the Ship Construction and Trading company of New York. This concern offered to take the 205 vessels "as is" at $2,100 each or a total of $430,000. Although this was less than the estimated average cost of one of the ships, the board agreed to accept the offer. Most of the vessels have been lying idle in the James river and it has been costing the board almost $50,000 a month to care for them. Twenty ships were reserved to be sold at highest prices and fifty others may be kept for use as pontoons for the building of the proposed bridge across the Hudson river.

The peace treaty with Germany has been completed and last week was shown to the members of the senate committee on foreign relations, and also to other senators. All who saw it expressed their approval of the pact, and it was to be signed in Berlin. It must now be ratified by the senate and the reichstag. The treaty provides for the resumption of diplomatic and commercial relations between the two countries, awards the United States the fruits of victory specified in the Versailles treaty, and provides for the payment by Germany of American war damage claims. A similar treaty has been negotiated with Austria and signed at Vienna.

Unless the Dublin correspondents are wrong, another impasse in the Irish peace negotiations has been reached. De Valera, Dail Eireann and the Irish republican council, after long debate, have drawn up their reply to Lloyd George's offer and dispatched it to London. Presumably its contents will be made public before this reaches the reader. It is asserted now that the British offer has been rejected and no counter-proposition made by the Irish, but that the way is left open for further negotiation. The Sinn Fein leaders believe the premier is not sincere when he says Great Britain has made its ultimate offer; they think the truce will not be broken by their rejection and that Mr. Lloyd George will make further concessions.

The Roman Catholic church intervened in the Irish controversy last week with a message to De Valera "from the highest authority," delivered by the lord bishop of Downore. The source of the message and its purport were not made public.

Federal officials have punctured a $50,000,000 financial bubble, they assert, in the arrest of Charles W. French, partner of John W. Worthington, already in custody, and a number of his associates in various parts of the country. These men, it is charged, were selling stock in 20 companies, all organized by French, and having a total capitalization of more than $21,000,000. The federal agents have seized about $27,000,000 in suspicious "paper" and are getting confessions from several of the gang. Developments in the case are coming daily.

Of concrete interest in the South and at least academic interest in the rest of the country is the decision of Federal Judge Boyd in Greensboro, N. C., holding unconstitutional the federal law imposing a tax of 10 per cent on the profits derived from products on which child labor is employed. Regulation of labor, Judge Boyd ruled, is one of the powers retained by the states and not delegated to the federal government. State child labor laws are adequate to care for the situation and provide a penalty, not a tax, as is proposed by the act of congress, the decision said. The attempt of the federal government to regulate labor within the state is a usurpation of authority and a violation of the sovereign rights of the state, the judge decided.

The Pennsylvania Railroad company has again challenged the right of the federal railway labor board to dictate the road's policy in dealing with its employees, and has renewed the fight for the open shop. The Pennsylvania, in an application filed by Samuel Rea, president, denied the legality of the board's refusal to recognize a recent election of representatives of the railroad's employees. The ballots which selected them made no provision for unions as such, and the board ordered a new election, prescribing the form of the ballots. Agreements entered into subsequent to the first election were declared void.

LUMP ALL DEBTS, BRITISH DEMAND

England Will Insist on General Readjustment of War Debts.

MELLON'S VIEWS OPPOSED

London's Attitude Is Having Disquieting Effect in Administration Circles at Washington—Wants U. S. Debts Handled Individually.

Washington, Aug. 31.—The British government has informally advised the United States that, when negotiations for the payment of its war debt are resumed, it will insist upon a general readjustment of the interallied indebtedness as the basis for a final settlement, it was learned authoritatively here.

According to information in official quarters, Great Britain believes that in liquidating the war loans, those made by the United States to the allies and those made among themselves should be treated as a whole instead of severally. Her idea, it is said, is that it will facilitate the liquidation.

While the British government has proposed no definite plan for handling the war indebtedness, the tentative suggestion has been made that each country issue uniform bonds to the amount of its obligations.

The British attitude is having a disquieting effect in administration circles. It is diametrically opposed to that of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and severe complications between the two governments are in prospect if she persists in her view.

Secretary Mellon believes that the debts to this government should be handled individually without reference to obligations held by the allies between themselves. He also opposes acceptance of obligations other than those of the debtor country in repayment in the case of the larger nations such as Great Britain, France and Italy. As to the smaller governments whose stability is not so certain he believes it might be well to take even German reparation bonds in settlement.

The government was officially notified of Great Britain's position a year ago when negotiations which had been under way in London for some time were suddenly terminated. At that time the British premier, Lloyd George, wrote President Wilson that his government could not proceed to a settlement unless it was made "part and parcel of an all round arrangement of interallied debts."

As the British premier put it, the interallied indebtedness was the "larger question," and the settlement of the British debt to the United States could not be allowed to "prejudice it." If this country could formulate a plan reconciling the two, the "British government," he added, "would be glad to fall in with it."

The Treasury department refused summarily to entertain the proposal, and the American negotiators were recalled from London. When the administration changed hands and the question of resuming negotiations was again brought to the fore, it was thought that Great Britain had altered her opinion on the subject. The new administration has learned, however, that it is still the same.

According to treasury officials, the advantages of the British plan from their standpoint are obvious. They point out that a large share of the money she obtained from this country was subsequently passed along in loans to her allies. They assert if she could apply the securities she has taken for these loans against the indebtedness to the United States, the Treasury department would eventually have its vaults stacked with the bonds of half of the nations of the Old World, whose ability to pay in many cases is seriously doubted.

AMERICANS GO TO SHOWS

Amusement-Loving Yankees Spend Near $1,000,000,000 During the Last Year.

Washington, Aug. 31.—Amusement-loving America spent nearly $1,000,000,000 during the last year for theatrical entertainment, according to Internal Revenue Commissioner Blair. The 10 per cent tax on places of amusement amounted to $89,725,905.

Arrest Sixteen in Dry Raid.
Iron Mountain, Mich., Aug. 31.—State constabulary, traveling in six autos, surprised a gang of moonshiners in the Watersmeet district and arrested 16, including two women. Six stills were seized.

WOMAN AVOIDS AN OPERATION

Hope Nearly Gone, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Saved Her

Star, N. C.—"My monthly spells gave me so much trouble, sometimes they would last two weeks. I was treated by two doctors without relief and they both said I would have to have an operation. I had my trouble four years and was unfit to do anything, and had given up all hope of ever getting any better. I read about your medicine in the 'Primitive Baptist' paper and decided to try it. I have used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Lydia E. Pinkham's Liver Pills for about seven months and now I am able to do my work. I shall never forget your medicine and you may publish this if you want to as it is true."—Mrs. J. F. HURSEY, Star, N. C.

Here is another woman who adds her testimony to the many whose letters we have already published, proving that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound often restores health to suffering women even after they have gone so far that an operation is deemed advisable. Therefore it will surely pay any woman who suffers from ailments peculiar to her sex to give this good old fashioned remedy a fair trial.

Hunger.
Judge Horace Plunigan of Duluth was praising the fortitude of the hunger striker. "Hunger is a terrible thing," he said. "I remember one evening when my wife sent our eldest boy to bed without any supper—punishment, you know, for some slight misdemeanor. 'Well, after my own supper I got to feeling sorry for the little fellow, so I tiptoed upstairs to his room and whispered through the door: "Bill, could you eat some honey in the comb?" "Daddy," said the boy, 'I could eat it in the brush!'"

Difficult Feat.
"I suppose," said a lady to a conductor, "if I pay the fare for my dog he will be treated the same as other passengers and be allowed to occupy a seat?" "Of course, madam," the conductor replied politely "he will be treated the same as other passengers and can occupy a seat, provided he does not put his feet on it."

TAPLIN MAKES FORTUNE

Well Known Traveling Salesman is "Sitting Pretty"

Joseph D. Taplin, 921 Whitney street, is one of the principal parties in a chain grocery merger deal, recently consummated in Milwaukee, involving a large amount of capital.

"Incidentally, the Belvidere man comes out of the transaction with a heavily increased bank account, having disposed of the major share of his stock holdings in the Waukegan Tea company, operating forty grocery stores in Wisconsin cities, which Mr. Taplin and E. W. Perry, of Waukegan organized about seventeen years ago.

"During all these years Mr. Taplin has continued his connection with the wholesale grocery house of Mc Neil & Higgins, holding a record of twenty-four years of active work as traveling salesman for the Chicago firm.

"As a result of the big merger deal Mr. Taplin will take a year's rest from active business, a vacation that he feels he has well earned. Early in October Mr. and Mrs. Taplin and three children will depart for Los Angeles where they will remain until the close of the school term next spring. At the present time the Taplins are occupying their summer cottage in Belvidere Park, Delevan Lake."

The above as part of a two-column article appearing in the Belvidere

Republican. Mr. Taplin has been "making Genoa" for many years and has scores of friends here.

HUMBLE BEGINNING

Peter Manning, the world's champion trotter, was trained on the Woodstock track and while in training there the horse wasn't considered anything out of the ordinary. In fact in 1919, when the animal was in training at the fair grounds, he was offered for sale at $150.

Successful Experiment.

By affording a means to keep it warm enough to remain liquid, Belgian experimenters have succeeded in using African palm oil to drive an internal combustion engine.

BANKING HAS ITS ROMANCE

Quiet Spot in London Where Monetary Transactions of Immense Importance Are Ordinary.

Romance is hidden away in all kinds of old corners of the city of London, and some of it is to be found within half a minute's walk of the vortex of traffic outside the Mansion house, London T.R. Bitts states.

Here, in a secluded building that few persons ever see, is the beating heart of one of the greatest romances in the world—the romance of banking.

In and out of this almost unknown building flows, minute by minute, the life stream of the trade and commerce of the land. Last year the almost incredible river of thirty-nine thousand million pounds passed in at one door and out by the other.

It is not the Bank of England that pulses with this current of fabulous wealth, but it is the London clearing house, that nestles in a corner of Post Office court, tucked away in the wedge of buildings between Lombard street and King William street, with an insurance building hiding it at one side and Lubbock's bank at the other.

Every time one of its doors, marked "Private-In" and "Private-Out," swings a fortune goes in or comes out—an average of £127,512,700 a day last year.

The river consists not of silver or gold, but of pieces of paper—"bills, checks and so on"—and it is carried by messengers from the banks. Each bank associated with the clearing house has its own desk in the building.

Year by year the river increases. In 1868 it topped three thousand millions. By 1908 it was over twelve thousand millions. In 1913 it rose to more than sixteen thousand millions. The second year of the war saw it down by a trifle of three thousand millions. Since then it has leaped up each year.

Now its volume is so great that the clearing house has to find more room, and the Standard Life Assurance company's offices, facing King William street, have been bought for £300,000. Part of the building has for some time been annexed to the clearing house. Now the whole is to be taken in.

Alaskan Volcanic Fires.

At a recent meeting of the American Society for the Advancement of Science, Dr. Robert F. Griggs described a fiery flood which occurred in Alaska in the "Valley of Ten Thousand Smokes." Here he found traces of the flood of fire which, issuing from a fissure in the earth, swept a roaring torrent of molten sand through the fertile valley, devastating all in its path for a distance of more than fifteen miles.

From thousands of fissures live steam, heated gas and smoke issued. One could do one's cooking in any of the smaller holes. And that was the only salvation of the expedition, for all fuel had been destroyed by the flood of fire. It is only a few steps from the steaming fissures to a cave in the side of the glacier, in order to have the most perfect refrigeration in the world.

The explorers' tents were steam heated, as it were, and the bathing conditions were of the best, for a stream from the glacier fed a crystal pure lake. In the middle of this lake a steam jet bubbled, and it was possible to get any desired temperature.

Asphalt Much Used in Building.

"Roofing" constitutes an important branch of a much broader field of engineering, known as "waterproofing," in which asphalt has for thousands of years played an important part. The ancient Egyptians were able to preserve their mummies in good condition to the present day by wrapping them in fabric saturated and made waterproof and weather resisting with asphalt. Modern ingenuity has discovered no material better adapted to waterproofing and preserving its present day structures than asphalt. It is not surprising, therefore, that in recent years the production of asphalt in large quantities has been rendered possible by refining crude petroleum. Its use for roofing and waterproofing has developed rapidly. In many structures from roof to cellar asphalt plays an important part, first as roofing, then as sheathing and insulating and finally as a waterproofing membrane for the underground portion.—Exchange.

Sixteen-Wheeled Automobiles?

Hippolyte W. Romanoff, a Russian inventor residing in New York, has been granted a patent on a sixteen-wheel vehicle for which he claims more riding comfort and greater economy of wear than at present available in the four-wheel a vehicle. According to Motor World the inventor plans four four-wheeled trucks, one at each corner of the car, each wheel turning on an independent spindle and four spindles supported by a linked parallelogram, so that if one wheel rises over an obstruction all of the wheels remain vertical.

Made Fun of Canadian Flag.

Ribald comment by sailors of the world has caused the government to have the house flag of the Canadian government merchant marine changed. Until now the flag displayed on it the Canadian beaver, but the likeness of this industrious animal to another rodent caused sailors the world over to refer to the Canadian government service as "the rat line." Hereafter the house flag will display in place of the beaver a cross enclosed in a circle.

What's the Penalty for This?

"Ah!" exclaimed the facetious "cub" reporter, as he slid into a hammock with the season's most beautiful flapper. "This reminds me of a typewriter keyboard."

"How?" asked the lovely creature.

"Because U and I are so close together."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Extravagant Hope.

"I understand robbery is on the increase."

"I hope so," replied Bill the Burg. "Maybe in the course of time it'll become so fashionable that there'll be no use tryin' to enforce the laws agin it."

When Sunday Was Abandoned.

The movement to enforce a "Blue Law" Sunday on the people of the United States recalls the fact that only once since the days of Moses on Mt. Sinai has Sunday been abandoned by any nation claiming Jehovah as God. That once was during and immediately after the French revolution. A decree was drawn up by Gomet, archbishop of Paris, that the French should worship Liberty, Equality and Reason in place of God, and to make sure of the people's forgetting of the church, the buildings were denuded of their sacred ornaments and civic feasts substituted for the feasts of saints' days, while Sunday was wiped from the calendar.

PATRICK HENRY

By GRACE R. OLIN.

(© 1921, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

The third of July dawned reluctantly and sultry. Outside, the sounds of the day were already heard.

Inside, the Raff flat was commencing to show signs of the beginning of the daily routine.

Mrs. Raff, smart in her morning dress of striped blue and white, was putting the finishing touches to little Anna's and the baby's toilet.

"Jimmie," she called to James, Jr., "didn't you call grandpa, yet?"

"Sure," answered the eight-year-old heir; "but grandpa says he ain't going to eat any breakfast this morning; he says he's got a 'gagement.'"

"A what?" with a puzzled frown.

"A 'gagement,'" shrieked Jimmie, above the clatter of the dishes, as he vigorously set the breakfast table.

"He means an engagement," explained Raff, Sr., with a grin. "Where do you suppose the old boy's going?"

"I can't be guessin' now," replied his wife. "He ain't going to see mother until tomorrow, Jim," she added, lowering her voice, "this is the second time this week he's gone without his breakfast; the other time he had an engagement, too."

"Hint anything?"

"No; him, he's as mum as a clam. If Ellen's house was not so far away I would suspect him of going to see mother. He's getting pretty restless lately, I've noticed."

Mrs. Raff sighed in a pained fashion. "We can't have everything we want in this world," she continued. Now, wouldn't I love to go to Ellen's for the Fourth, dressed up swell, with you and the kids. But we can't afford it, costs too much for fares.

"I'd like pretty frocks, and a car, and cute clothes for the young ones, and some new things for the house. But if I can't, I can't, and I ain't going to mope over it. I've tried to make a nice home for father, but if he don't appreciate it, and tries to keep things from me, I can't do a thing. But I do say as how I think it's kinder ungrateful like."

Mrs. Raff deposited Baby Johnnie in his high chair, and stepping across the hall, she knocked on her father's door.

"Father," she called, "it's terrible hot out this morning, you'd better have an egg and some coffee to brace you up. Come on, we're just sitting down."

"I'll be out in a minute, Nellie," the voice inside had answered.

It was quite some five minutes later that the Raff family suffered a severe shock. They had heard the warning of steps, but they were altogether unprepared for the apparition that stood in the doorway. She had seen her husband's eyes fairly bulge over his coffee cup, and had heard Junior's excited exclamation, before she turned to look.

"Patrick Henry Grandman," she cried, quite ignoring the familiar "father" in her wonder.

"Wherever in the world did you get the fine duds and where, I ask, are you going?"

For answer, Mr. Patrick Henry Grandman advanced jauntily into the room.

His eyes were twinkling, but when he spoke his tone was calmness itself.

"Nellie," he said, "did you think your old dad was content to wear old togs and work in the factory for twenty dollars a week, when I worked full time?"

"Did you think I wanted to be separated from your blessed mother? But I was tied, hand and foot. First, I was sick, and then your mother, then they cut us down to half a week's work and I had my trade and could do nothing else."

"Well, Nellie, to make a long story short, I've been working on an invention. I've thought of it and dreamed of it and at last my dream has come true. Nellie, I signed the Declaration of Independence last night when I sold it to the government." He placed a roll of bills at her plate.

"Celebrate tomorrow," he told her.

"But, father," broke in Mrs. Raff, "you aren't going to leave me. I won't—"

Patrick Henry Grandman raised his hand.

"Didn't I tell you, girl, I had signed the Declaration of Independence? Your mother and I will never be bossed again." He patted her hand as he spoke, and for the first time his daughter could find no answer.

And meanwhile, down in Ellen's house some sixty odd miles away, a little old lady was smoothing down her soft black silk, and white laces, with hands that shook.

"No, thank you, Ellen," she was saying. "I don't want to do it myself. Patrick always liked it the way I did it."

It was rather an awestruck little throng that watched them depart the next day. The flag waved proudly from their automobile, and around them and above them burst firecrackers and the crack of Jimmie Junior's pistol.

"Dearest," he whispered, as the big red car rolled off, "we've got good children, but I'm glad we are going to be together, just you and I."

"Patrick Henry," exclaimed his wife, anxiously, "you didn't tell 'em that, did you, dear?"

"Of course not, darling," the corners of his mouth deepened suddenly. "I'm just telling you, dear. Give me liberty or give me death," quoted Patrick Henry.

By C. N. LURIE

Common Errors in English and How to Avoid Them

"MAD" AND "ANGRY."

FEW words are more frequently misused than "mad" and "angry." It must be confessed, however, that there is some excuse for the misuse of the words, since many psychologists hold that it is difficult to tell, when the emotions of a person are aroused, just where anger ends and madness begins. But in grammar there is a sharp distinction between "angry" and "mad." The former means to be vexed or out of patience, while the latter indicates madness, insanity. A person who is insane is mad, but a person whose mail is delayed is not mad, but merely angry. There is a figurative use of the word "mad"—that is, a use in which the words are not to be taken literally—such as "mad with pain," "mad with terror," etc.
"I am mad at that fellow," says a man; "he cheated me in a stock deal." He should say, "I am angry at that fellow," etc.

THE KODAK.

IN 1732 J. H. Schultze accidentally discovered that silver chloride was darkened by light. Hellet, in 1737, made the same discovery about silver nitrate. Wedgwood, in England, made silhouette profiles by the use of this chemical. In 1839 Herschel discovered the fixing solution, or "hypo." These independent discoveries were united in 1840, when Miss Dorothy Catherine Draper posed for the first picture ever taken. The next year Talbot discovered the developing fluid, and the art of photography was born. The invention of the roll film instead of the glass plate started the kodak.

Increase in American Egrets.
A gratifying report telling of an increase in American egrets noted on a plantation on the Cooper river in South Carolina has been received by the bureau of biological survey, United States Department of Agriculture, from a correspondent there. Two years ago, the writer said, he saw on his plantation two birds of this variety; last season he counted ten; and this year he found twenty-nine on two different occasions. Officials express themselves as much pleased with such results of the protection afforded migratory birds under the federal bird treaty act.

GENOA WINS ONE; LOSES ONE

In a one sided combat last Thursday, Genoa whaled the ball all over the lot at the Kingston Township park and won the game 19 to 9. Hits, errors, bases on balls and arguments were the diversion of the afternoon, but nevertheless we won the game and that's what we went after.

Maple Park Wins 7-4

Genoa went over to Maple Park Sunday intending to create a little disturbance in the matter of base hits put were met by a well constructed defense and a barrage of hits in the first inning, good for four runs. After the attack the boys settled down and held their own, neither being able to out do the other. The final score was 7-4.

Sunday the Nationals go to Sycamore and engage in another tussle with Sycamore. It will be a good game and if the boys get a little soothing syrup about the seventh inning, we will come home with the long end of the score.

New Vocation for Women.

As Corney Grain used to say, "We all come round, you come round, I come round." It was never imagined, in his day, that the smart London clubs would come round to having a woman as secretary, but the Devonshire and Green Room clubs have done so, and the Savage threatens to follow suit. It is pointed out, however, that during the war men saw how extremely comfortable a woman could make a club, and, as clubs become more and more the homes of both men and women, a woman secretary seems to supply the touch needed to make them complete.

Prehistoric River.

A French engineer claims to have discovered evidence that a great river once flowed northward across the Sahara desert into the Mediterranean sea and was lined with prosperous communities.

The Candle End.

Burning a candle right to the end is always something of a problem. Try this on the next set. Put three pins into the bottom of each candle, letting them extend out quite a distance. Then set them in the pins on the holder.

The Bible Translation.

Landor said that "to talk well we must drop our Greek and Latin out of sight," and Coleridge thought it "a kind of providence that our Bible was translated about the time of the greatest strength of the language."—A. Bronson Alcott.

Unlucky Signs.

The idea that it is unlucky to walk under a ladder has its origin in the remembrance of the ladder used at Calvary, while the dislike to the number "13" can be traced to the number present at the Last Supper.

Illinois Central System Shows How Taxes
Have a Bearing on Railway Rates

Notwithstanding that for the past twelve months the railroads as a whole have earned almost no net return on the capital invested in them, many persons insist that freight and passenger rates be reduced, regardless of the costs of producing that transportation service which the public must have. We wish, therefore, to direct attention to the fact that the costs of producing transportation are still relatively much higher than the rates. We think it fair to ask the public to give consideration to what the railroads are having to pay for labor, materials, locomotives, fuel, cars, taxes and interest on borrowed capital before passing final judgment upon the reasonableness of present freight and passenger rates.

It is true that, effective July 1, railway wages were reduced 12 per cent, but they are still 108 per cent higher than they were in 1914—the year of the beginning of the great war which upset everything. Road locomotives cost 123 per cent more, switch engines cost 144 per cent more, gondola cars cost 117 per cent more, refrigerator cars cost 107 per cent more, box cars cost 122 per cent more, steel passenger coaches cost 100 per cent more and locomotive fuel costs 138 per cent more at present than in 1914. The Illinois Central System sold bonds in 1914 on a basis yielding less than 5 per cent to the purchasers. It recently sold $8,000,000 of bonds running for fifteen years, and the best terms it was able to secure yielded a return of more than 7 per cent to the purchasers.

Take the single item of direct taxes for a ten-year period. The Class I railroads, which include all railroads having gross operating incomes of $1,000,000 or more annually, paid $98,626,848 in taxes in 1911. In 1920 the same railroads paid $278,868,668 in taxes, an increase of $180,241,820, or 183 per cent.

The Illinois Central System paid $3,278,107.96 in taxes in 1911, while in 1920 it paid $9,575,680.87, an increase of $6,297,572.91, or 192 per cent.

But these are not the only taxes affecting transportation charges. When the shipper pays his freight bill, he should remember that 3 per cent of what the railroad's bill otherwise would be is added and collected by the railroad as a transportation tax. Likewise, when the passenger pays for his ticket, he should remember that 8 per cent of what he otherwise would pay the railroad is added and collected for the government as a transportation tax. Patrons generally consider only the total cost of freight and passenger transportation, and many think the railroads get the whole amount.

The transportation tax collected by the railroads for the government on freight bills in 1920 totaled $129,710,329.80, and on passenger fares, $103,099,633.36—a grand total of $232,809,963.16! This vast sum is not included in any of the railway accounts. It was collected by the railroads acting as agents for the government and remitted directly to the government.

As the agent of the government the Illinois Central System collected from its patrons in 1920 the sum of $3,084,072.54 as transportation tax on freight, and $2,254,256.87 as transportation tax on passenger fares, a total of $5,338,329.41! This is not included in the above mentioned item of $9,575,680.87 direct taxes paid, but was collected and remitted directly to the government.

The question of abolishing the transportation tax is having consideration at Washington. The abolition of this tax would reduce railway rates without injury to the railroads.

We do not bring up the question of railway taxation in a spirit of complaint. We realize that all citizens and all businesses must bear their just proportion of the expense of government. We refer to the matter just now to make it clear that railway taxation must be added to the cost of transportation and necessarily has a bearing on freight and passenger rates.

The Illinois Central System has been striving for more than a year to present facts in regard to railway problems for the consideration of the public. The public will be able to decide for itself the advisability of such a course when it considers that the management of the Illinois Central System is the trustee of an investment in roadway and equipment of more than a half billion dollars. We realize that this property, and all railway property, will be dealt with accordingly as public sentiment develops and crystallizes. We feel, therefore, that we must present our case before the court of public opinion, and we are glad to do that, having an abiding faith in the fairness and justice of the people when they have the facts before them.

Constructive criticism and suggestions are invited.

C. H. MARKHAM,
President, Illinois Central System.

MERCHANT TELLS OF A REMARKABLE CASE

Writing from Maxey's, Ga., A. J. Gillen, proprietor of a large department store at that place, says:

"I have a customer here who was in bed for three years and did not go to a meal at any time. She had five physicians and they gave her out. One bottle of Tanlac got her up, on the second bottle she commenced keeping house and on the third she did all the cooking and housework for a family of eight."

This sounds really incredible, but it comes uncollected from a highly credible source and is copied verbatim from the letter.

Tanlac is sold by leading druggists everywhere.—Advertisement.

The talk had turned on the subject of the arrival in this country of Professor Einstein.

"What's all this here talk he started about relativity?" said an old man.

"It's a new complaint of some kind, I'm thinking," answered his companion.

"Not so very new, neither," said a listener. "I've suffered from it, I reckon, ever since me mother-in-law's been me mother-in-law."

"Your position is unanswerable. I will tell you all I can, but that may not be much."

"You mean I am to question you?" "You may try, but I warn you; I am a very difficult subject. I may answer and I may not. If I refuse, still you must pretend to be content. Are the terms too rigorous?"

"It sounds like a test."

"It is a test. I must remain a mystery, not from any real desire to conceal my identity from you, but because of a duty to others. Now I will tell you all I can."

"You greet me as Phillip Severn tonight, yet last evening I told you my name was Harry Daly. How did you know I lied? And how did you discover who I really was?"

Her eyes sparkled with enjoyment. "I knew that would be your first question. The answer is extremely simple. Did you wonder why I did not denounce you to those men in the other room? Oh, you did! You knew you were there surreptitiously, in disguise, under a false name, masquerading as a friend of that fellow Horner. You knew it—well, so did I."

"But how could you know that? What gave you such a suspicion? And, knowing it, why should you desire to protect me?"

"I'll wait your last question; that can wait its own answer." She leaned toward me and her extended hand touched a ring I wore.

"Because men who wear a Yale signet of 1899 are not going to be connected with that kind of a gang," she said gravely.

"But," I exclaimed, bewildered, "how did you recognize the signet?"

"My brother wears one."

"Your brother! In my class? You will not tell me his name?"

"No, Mr. Severn. I have reason to believe you know him very well, or did a few years ago. However, that was why I trusted you so suddenly. I planned my faith on the honor of old Yale. That is why I kept silent and asked you to call at 247 Le Comte street."

"I did call," rather indignantly. "And was informed there was no 'Miss Conrad' residing in the house."

"I suspected you might make some such discovery. Yet your coming was appreciated; it afforded me the opportunity I sought to discover where you were stopping and under what name you registered. To confess the truth, this was my sole object in the sudden invention of Miss Conrad."

"Then there is no such person?" "I would hardly go as far as that; undoubtedly there is; in fact, I know a very estimable stenographer by that name, but she does not reside on Le Comte street."

"But how could my inquiry there have brought you the information desired? I was not asked my name."

"A boy got into the car with you at the corner, did he not—a Jewish boy? You paid no attention to him after that; you had no conception that he got off also where you did and was not far behind you when you entered the hotel. He did not remain long, merely long enough to assure himself that you were given a key from the box and went upstairs. That proved you to be a registered guest. Ten minutes later he met me outside and told me what he had learned. Then I paid him and he went away. Not at all complicated, you see."

"No, but even then your information was incomplete."

"Yet I found it quite easy to fill in the details. Do you recall your class picture, with the names printed below? I copied those names—it was quite a task—and, in a way, memorized them. With these in mind I ran back over the hotel register until I came to 'Phillip Severn, Washington, D. C., G-145.' Then I knew I had found you." She laughed softly.

"Then you did not return to Washington?"

"There was really no need. Besides, circumstances compelled me to change my plans."

"The answer instantly brought back to my mind what those circumstances might be. Her immediate presence, her ease of manner and happy mood of speech had for the moment obliterated the dark crime with which she was associated."

"You know of Alva's death, I presume?" I asked, endeavoring to put the question carelessly.

Her lips were grave again, but her clear eyes met mine frankly.

"I read what the papers said. It was very terrible. Who do you suppose did it?"

Of course, I only met him that night—you remember in the saloon, but he was very disagreeable even during the short time we were together. I would not have ridden alone with him at that hour for worlds. Mr. Krantz and I came downtown together on a street car—he was the old man, you may remember. I asked him to escort me."

"I am very glad to hear you say that."

"Glad! Why, what do you mean?" her eyes widened, with sudden apprehension. "You did not suppose I was with Alva when he was murdered, did you?"

"Yet is it so strange, after all?" I defended, rather indignantly. "In a way it seemed impossible enough to connect you even indirectly with such a crime. But I have only known you as an associate with these men. In truth, I know very little more regarding you, even now. You meet them secretly, bearing credentials and orders from high junta conspirators, who are plotting against the very life of their country. You know their plans and are aiding them. Why, under such conditions should I make an exception in your case—merely because you are a woman?"

"So you actually believed me capable of that atrocity? Perhaps you are justified, if you think me a Chilean."

"Are you not?"

"No, I am not a Chilean, Mr. Severn. I am an American girl, as loyal to my country as my ancestors. Will you accept my word for this?"

"I certainly do, more gladly than you dream."

"Then let us talk no more about it," she glanced at her wrist watch. "You have a story to tell me—how you came to be present last night?"

"A mere accident put me in possession of certain information that a coterie of South American conspirators in this country were receiving a large sum of money from friends in London. I explained briefly. 'This money was to be expended either in the purchase of arms or the killing of certain Chilean officials, leading to an overthrow of government. My knowledge was extremely vague—not sufficient, you understand, to warrant my making any report to the United States authorities. I had no proof beyond a rather vague suspicion. In truth, about all the clew I actually possessed was that these fellows met secretly at a certain number on Gans street. I was half a day in learning that Gans street was located in Jersey City and I went over there that evening to seek blindly for further information."

"You knew the names of those involved?"

"Only casually. I had heard of Alva; that the agent bringing the hoozie from England was known as Horner and that the actual money exchange was to be made through Adolph Krantz, the banker."

"You had never seen any of these men?"

"Only Krantz; I knew him by sight."

"Then it was my meeting with Alva which led you to the factory?"

"Yes, I had dropped into the saloon because it was the only place to get out of the rain. When Alva arrived, it was perfectly plain to be seen you two had never met before. You went out together and I could not help but connect the whole affair together. The mud enabled me to trail you down the alley and good luck enabled me to gain entrance to the factory without detection. That is about the whole story."

She sat motionless, with hands clasped in her lap and eyes fastened upon me. The depth of her interest in my recital was very apparent.

"Then you were not really a friend of that Horner? You told me you were."

I laughed, the absurdity of the recollection coming suddenly home with full force.

"I had to account in some way for my presence; that was the only inspiration which came to mind. It happened that Horner had adopted me and even given me a rechristening, which I was compelled to accept."

"Harry Daly, the name you gave me?"

"Yes. He ran across me prowling about in the dark and flashed an electric light in my face. Before I could move the fellow thought he recognized me and jumped at once to the conclusion that I was there on the same job he was."

"What was that?"

"Robbery."

"The—the English money which was to be paid over?"

"Of course—it looked easy; all cash and no one would care go after it by law."

"And Horner was in it—the agent? Why didn't he help himself before?"

"How could he? It was a mere letter of credit to be cashed in this country. He had to wait until it was transmitted into currency. Besides, this fellow was not the real Horner; he is an American chief who has been operating in London. The real Horner has been put out of the way."

"Good heavens! I am beginning to see a ray of light. Who, then, is the man?"

"George Harris—'Gentleman George' they call him."

"And he actually mistook you for one of his kind?"

"He certainly did; extremely flattering, wasn't it? I am supposed to be one of the fraternity, in good standing—Harry Daly, whoever he may be. Unfortunately I am not up in criminal biography."

Her glance left my face and swept the room; then sought her watch again.

"I am so glad you told me all this," she said gravely. "It is going to be a wonderful help when I have time to think. You are still willing to go where I ask, without questioning?"

"I am even pleased to be asked—and trusted."

"Then we will go now. Perhaps it will be better if you depart first and wait for me outside at the entrance."

She arose when I did, turning slightly so that the back of her brimmed hat became visible for the first time. There, bravely displayed, was the ornamental dagger hilt I had believed hidden in my valise at the hotel. The sight of it there vanquished my last suspicion.

CHAPTER IX.

Perord's Case.

A thousand questions were upon my lips as I waited just outside the door, yet when she appeared, wrapped from head to foot in a raincoat, I asked nothing. The pressure of her hand on my arm guided me across Broadway, into the quieter streets beyond. It was a dark, cool night, cloudy but without rain, and we walked rapidly, entering a region with which I was unfamiliar. Here was a strange situation indeed, acting as escort to a woman about whom I knew next to nothing; voluntarily accompanying her on a mission of peril, with no conception of its nature, or the purpose she had in view. I glanced aside at her profile revealed by the gleam of a street lamp, but she appeared indifferent to my presence, intent only upon whatever object she had in mind.

We were in the gloom of the deserted block beyond, when she spoke abruptly, startling me with the inquiry:

"Do you know a Russian named Waldron?"

"No, I have heard of him; that is, if you refer to the agitator, the socialist. That was his wife, wasn't it, where you sent me this afternoon?"

"He turned toward me in surprise. 'How did you chance to learn that, pray?'"

"I stopped on the corner, at the delicatessen store, and made some inquiries."

She laughed, one of her soft laughs, with an odd suggestion of music in the tone.

"Why, really, you are developing wonderfully. I must give you credit. Well, then it may interest you to know that I am going now to meet Ivan Waldron. The place where I believe him to be is not altogether safe for a woman without an escort. Your mere presence will be sufficient protection, however; it is not necessary that you encounter him. By the way, what has become of your friend—'Horner, alias Harris?'"

"Dropped completely out of sight."

I admitted, "since early this morning. That chances to be why I feel some interest in this man Waldron. It was a note from him, left at Costigan's saloon, which caused Harris to leave so hurriedly."

"Who brought the note?" she stopped suddenly, and faced me in the dim lamp light.

"A Jewish boy, known as 'Sly Levy.'"

IS LEGION LEADER IN PARIS

Famous New Orleans Ace Heads American Volunteers of French Foreign Organization.

Edgar John Bouligny of New Orleans, famous Ace of the Lafayette Esquadron and scion of an old French family has been chosen to head an association of veterans organized at Paris and called "American Volunteers of the French Foreign Legion." When Germany announced its intention of meeting the terms of the armistice, Bouligny was one of the first Americans to volunteer his services for France and was decorated four times for bravery with the esquadron. He is a member of Alvin Calender post, American Legion.

Bouligny first served with the Second regiment of the French Foreign Legion. When transferred to the Lafayette fliers, his intrepid maneuvering over the enemy lines, eagerness to engage any plane bearing the maltese cross, contributed many of the thrilling chapters which comprise the history of that heroic group. He was transferred to the American air forces when this country entered the fight and became an ace. He also secured numerous remarkable photographs, among them being one of enemy shells bursting over the Rhelms cathedral during the first bombardment of this historic structure.

The organization of which Bouligny is president, includes American volunteers who enlisted in the early days of the war, while their country was still neutral, and is intended to include "the bonafide American citizens who served honorably at the front with the Legion, for the purpose of keeping fresh the memory of fallen comrades and furthering friendship among those surviving."

It's Generally Done. Scott Fitzgerald, the brilliant young novelist, was the wit of his class at Princeton.

He once attended a Salvation Army meeting. A pretty Salvation lass rose and spoke fervently. She declared that if any one were to strike her on the right cheek she would turn the left.

"And if some one were to kiss you on the right cheek?" the young undergraduate called gayly from his seat. "would you do the same thing, miss?"

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect It

Applicants for Insurance Often Rejected.

Judging from reports from druggists who are constantly in direct touch with the public, there is one preparation that has been very successful in overcoming these conditions. The mild and healing influence of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its remarkable record of success.

An examining physician for one of the prominent Life Insurance Companies, in an interview on the subject, made the astonishing statement that one reason why so many applicants for insurance are rejected is because kidney trouble is so common to the American people, and the large majority of those whose applications are declined do not even suspect that they have the disease.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is on sale at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes, medium and large. However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing, be sure and mention this paper.

IS LEGION LEADER IN SOUTH

Florida National Committeeman is One of the Most Active Workers in the State.

Dr. David Forster, of New Smyrna, Fla., who has been re-elected national committeeman of the American Legion from Florida, is one of the Legion's leaders in the South. He has been a national committeeman since the first convention in 1919.

Doctor Forster is resident surgeon of the Forster sanitarium at New Smyrna. He was born October 24, 1870, at Fayette, Mo. He received his early education there and his medical training at St. Louis, later doing postgraduate surgery in large hospitals in the United States and in Europe. He was organizer and first chief physician of the St. Louis Maternity hospital at St. Louis, Mo. He served in the medical corps during the war.

NEW STADIUM

With the new University of Illinois Memorial Stadium, costing more than $2,000,000 seating 75,000, the largest recreational field in America, the state of Illinois will be among the first in the Union to commemorate the heroes of the World War.

Seventeen states have tentative plans for memorials, but only three, Kansas, Nebraska and Illinois, have definitely started campaign work. Kansas will build a new Stadium on the campus at Lawrence, while a memorial gymnasium is being erected at the University of Nebraska.

In each instance the proposed memorials are combining utility with beauty. The showy, elaborate memorials of other American wars, archways, towers, monuments, gateways, are giving way to a newer, more useful type, stadiums, libraries, municipal buildings, armories, bridges and roads of remembrances.

The Illini memorial will be dedicated to soldiers of the state and University, but is being built entirely without state aid.

600 FARMERS JOIN IN 2 WEEKS

Forty-five elevators and nearly six hundred individual grain growers have been signed up in LaSalle and McLean counties as a result of the first two weeks of organization for the U. S. Grain Growers, Inc., the new farmer-owned grain marketing company, according to a report received, by the DeKalb County Farm Bureau from the Illinois Agricultural Association.

A big majority of all farmers approached have put their names on contracts, organizers report.

Twenty-two new organizers are now being schooled at Chicago for work in Illinois, and Douglas county will probably be the next to be organized. Other Illinois grain growing counties are to be organized as soon as possible.

World's Largest Snake.
The python is considered the largest snake in the world. It is found in the East Indies and in the Philippine Islands. Specimens thirty feet long have been seen. All the various species of pythons lend themselves easily to captivity and taming.

Camels are made for Men who Think for Themselves

Such folks know real quality—and DEMAND it. They prefer Camels because Camels give them the smoothest, mellowest smoke they can buy—because they love the mild, rich flavor of choicest tobaccos, perfectly blended—and because Camels leave NO CIGARETTE AFTERTASTE.

Like every man who does his own thinking, you want fine tobacco in your cigarettes. You'll find it in Camels.

And, mind you, no flashy package just for show. No extra wrappers! No costly frills! These things don't improve the smoke any more than premiums or coupons.

But QUALITY! Listen! That's CAMELS!

Ford
THE UNIVERSAL CAR

"THE FORD TOURING CAR"

Here is the greatest motor car in all the world. Great because there is more of it in use than of any other car in the world. Great because that in our demand for a million and a quarter Ford cars this year fully 50% of that demand is for the Touring Car. Surely every Ford touring car is a car of great service. You see it wherever you go, day or night, shine or rain, summer or winter—the ever-faithful Ford Touring Car is delivering service and satisfaction, pleasure and economy, in a larger measure than falls to the lot of any other one piece of mechanism in the world.

We can now deliver Ford cars to you with reasonable promptness. Leave your orders without delay, if you would be wise. The prudent man carries his umbrella when it is dry, because any fool can carry one when it rains!

Never forget that right hand to every Ford Touring Car is that ever-dependable and universal "Ford After-Service." Here we are, with the genuine made Ford parts, Ford mechanics, and Ford equipment, to give service to Ford cars instantly, so that your car is never out of commission.
