Rev. A. N. Alcott's subject for next Sunday morning is "What is the main object of human life." Service in Slater's hall at 10:30.

The address last Sunday morning was a very able one and the audience though small showed by their close attention that they were in full sympathy with the speaker.

At an entertainment given for the benefit of the M. E. Church of Moultrie a few nights ago, the prettiest young ladies of the town arrayed themselves in their best costumes and sold kisses to the boys at ten cents a piece. As a natural consequence the church debt has been paid in full, a nice surplus left, and the young men of Moultrie are bankrupt. This new and practical osculatory exercise may be all right, but it must strike the average reader that the Moultrie girls have made a big mistake. A kiss that isn't worth five times as much as a pound of cotton isn't worth having. Ten cents is a regular bargain counter price and should never have been set. This kind of caper for the relief of a church debt may spread. It may become a fad, and if it does and strikes Genoa, the young ladies of Moultrie will be shown a thing or two. In the first place the "kissables" will be classified just as cotton is. Sixteen-year-olds will be worth something like $5 a smack, and so on up in age until the elderly maiden class is reached. Those in that class will have to hustle for themselves, that's all.

DURRANT'S TRIAL.

Prosecution Makes a Strong Case Against the Young Man.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 23.—Probably the most important witness in the Durrant trial on Friday was Adolph Oppenheim, the pawnbroker, who said that a few days after the murder a man whom he recognized as Durrant came to his store and tried to sell one of the rings taken from the dead girl's fingers and sent to her aunt through the mail. This ring was picked out by the witness from among the three taken from Miss Lamont by the murderer. It had a chip diamond in a shield on the top and was otherwise peculiar. Its peculiarity is what Oppenheim said attracted his attention. The incident happened within a few days of his birthday, and that, he said, fixed the time in his mind.

The case consists of having shown by reputable witnesses that Durrant was in Miss Lamont's company on the morning of the day of the murder, and that he met her at the school and accompanied her to the church, where he was seen in an excited or collapsed condition a short time after the murder is thought to have been committed. This and the incidents of the attempted sale of the ring and of his not having attended a lecture when he should have been there, will face the defense when it comes forward to put on its case next week. The defense is still confident and reticent, and though many rumors as to what it will try to prove have been set afloat, nothing authoritative has yet been earned.

ALL FOUND ALIVE.

Members of the Peary Arctic Expedition Reach St. Johns.

ST. JOHNS, N. F., Sept. 24.—The Peary relief steamer has arrived here with Lieut. Peary and his companions from Greenland on board. When the Kite reached Whale sound August 3 Lieut. Peary, Hugh J. Lee and their colored servant, Matt Henson, were found waiting for it. The party had only ten days previously returned from its great overland expedition, which had proved a comparative failure.

Lieut. Peary and the other two started late in March and made their way to Independence bay, which is the most northerly point of Greenland which he had reached on his previous expedition. Independence bay was reached early in June, but there were not enough men in the party to accomplish any bold venture. They were further deterred from any great undertaking by the insufficiency of their food supply, an obstacle which was foreseen last year. All three of those who participated in the journey were greatly reduced from the lack of food, and were obliged to abandon the attempt to make further progress. In this respect this year's work was only a repetition of last year's failure, although the weather experienced was much more favorable this year than last.

Garibaldi on the Janiculum hill in the presence of King Humbert and the royal family, the court, ministers and deputations of veterans who served under Garibaldi. The 50,000 persons who witnessed the ceremony displayed the utmost enthusiasm. The decorations of public and private buildings were of the most imposing and liberal character. Every mention of the names of Garibaldi, Italy and King Humbert was greeted with loud cheers. The English and American embassies had their flags hoisted.

A LYNCHING IN MOSINEE.

Copyright 1894, by Bachelier, Johnson & Bachelier.

[CONCLUDED.]

The roar came nearer, and the shouts now took shape.

"Bring a rope—a rope!"

"We'll hang 'im right now."

That terrible voice seemed to inflame the whole mob, as a raucous snarl of a tiger rouses the beasts of a menagerie to primitive ferocity.

"Now, Annie," said Dan, "you go in and—"

"But you're goin' to need me out here, Dan. I'd rather be out here with you."

"Annie," said Dan, quietly, "go inside. Lock all the doors. Lock this door behind me and hide the keys. I'll stand right here alone."

"All right, Dan," she replied without a quaver. "But I'm afraid—"

"Don't open the doors for anybody or anybody till morning—not even to me." His voice had a peculiar inflexible quality. "I don't need any help."

She knew him in these moods. "All right, Dan. It's your duty."

After she went in and shut the door behind her, Dan put his ear to the door till he heard the bolt slide to with a click, and the chain rattle into place. Then he took out his revolvers, examined them as well as he could in the shadow, and calmly waited the approaching crowd.

Suddenly the city marshal dashed up. "Dan, they're comin'!"

"Let 'em come, Joe. We're here first."

"They're goin' to lynch 'im."

"Not while I stand here."

"But we can't stand out against the whole county, Dan."

"The whole county ain't here."

"Yes, they are. They've telephoned the news all over the county and teams are pouring in. Some of the best men in this town are in that mob, Dan—lawyers and—"

"Can't help it. You stand right here—"

"O, I can't do that. I dasn't do that."

"All right, I'll do it alone."

"But, Dan, they'll—"

"What?" asked Dan, coldly.

"They're wild. You better open the door—"

"Open nawthin'. Get out o' here, you white-livered skunk."

The crowd turned in at the gate, hooting like demons, and Joe flittered along the shadow of the jail wall and disappeared, to be seen no more that night. As those in advance came up, they saw Dan standing in the shadow grimly.

"That you, Dan?"

"It's me. What y' want?"

"Want that man," burst from several throats, as if they already smelled opposition from Dan.

"Open the door, Mr. Sheriff."

"I won't do it."

"Then we'll smash it down."

"That's the talk. Smash it down!"

"What y' think y'r doin'?" asked Dan.

"We're going to hang that damn Dimblebat, that killed Willey."

"Not to-night."

"Right now. Open that door!"

"Now just hold on a half-a-second," said Dan, coolly.

"Smash 'im in the lip," yelled a voice

"HALT! STOP RIGHT THERE!"

"I don't care if the man had killed ten men, it's my duty to keep the door of this jail shut."

"You'd better open—"

Again that strident, far-reaching, inflaming voice arose:

"Throw him out of the way."

A small section of the advancing line made a movement upon the sheriff.

"Halt!—stop right there. I give you notice I mean business. I'll let the moonlight through the first man that raises his hand. Now you hear me!" They halted abruptly. Dan continued: "This lynchin' has got to stop, in this county, anyway. The whole state is disgraced by 'em. This man nas got to be tried—"

The dim moon slanted down the roof and fell upon the steady barrel of the revolver. Dan spoke from the shadow, but those nearest caught glimpses of his glowing eyes.

The mob numbered thousands now, a wild sight—but in the soul of the sheriff was blind, unreasoning courage. He set his teeth so tight his muscles quivered. He felt dimly a massive joy in holding that vast flood of men at arm's length alone. He represented law and order.

Those nearest him plead:

"Stand out o' the way, Dan. Don't be a fool—they'll kill y', sure!"

"I take some of 'em with me" was his grim reply.

The mob halted—wavered. Most of them were spectators merely; and they would have turned away, but again that implacable, howling voice arose, with only curses for words.

"Go on, you sneaks! Smash 'im!"

Instantly a dozen desperate men began fighting their way toward the door. Dan waited immovable.

Friends shouted: "Open up, for God's sake, Dan—!" Those nearest him leaped up as if to seize his hands.

"Back! Stand off!" was his terrible cry, "or by the livin' God, I'll shoot." His words had death in them, and the crowd fell back and there was another pause which was portentous.

Dan shivered with a sort of awe. As far as his eye ranged, he saw a flood of human faces on which the moonlight and the electric lights, intermingling, fell. It began at his feet, this flood, it extended into the shadow at every point. And he stood there alone.

Suddenly the door behind him opened and shut with a slam. His wife stood beside him with a revolver in her hand.

"Annie, for God's sake." He turned his head and his hands fell. One of the shadowy figures near the wall sprang toward him. A shot rang and the figure sprang back with a scream.

"Don't look at me, Dan," cried the heroic little woman. "Watch out!"

Some of the crowd cheered, others cursed in a wild uproar. This was the unexpected again. A sort of daze fell on them. Then they called back and forth jests, suggestions, imprecations. But the nucleus of insatiable spirits did not surrender. They raised a new cry.

"The back door! Bring sledges."

"That's the talk. Roun' to the back!"

"Keep the sheriff where he is and we'll be inside—"

Dan turned to his wife bitterly:

"We're beat. We can't do anything here, and we can't get in."

The crowd jeered. "They ain't enough o' yeh, Dan."

"Let me stay here, Dan, while you—"

"No. I won't do it." He couldn't tell her that it was her coming that had broken his hold on the crowd. He turned to them again in appeal. As he spoke the crashing of the sledges began.

"For God's sake!—am I alone? Ain't they any law-abidin' citizens in this county? Where's the mayor? Where's all the lawyers and judges?"

The crowd laughed.

"In bed, Dan, where you ought to be."

"Open the door, Annie. I'll face 'em alone."

"I can't. I left the keys inside."

"What holds it? the spring catch?"

"That's all."

He threw his great weight with terrible force against the heavy door. Once, twice.

"Let us help, Dan," suggested the jocular mob. But Annie's steady hand kept them back. The door gave way. They sprang through and threw it shut; but could not hold it against the mob.

They were too late, anyhow. The main corridor was filled with a crowd of men hammering, wrenching at the iron door that led into the corridor before the cells.

Dan's heart swelled with grief and rage till he nearly choked. Had he been alone, such was the blind rage in his soul, he would have emptied his revolver into the massed faces and then assailed them with his bare hands.

"O, if I only stood on the other side of that door!" he moaned to his wife, whose white, set face had not a trace of fear.

He took his revolver by the barrel and flung it through the grating at the window of the cell where the prisoner cowered.

"Defend y'rself, y' fool!" he shouted, but the revolver struck crosswise and fell to the floor outside the cell. The mob of densely-packed men turned upon him with hell in their eyes: "Kill the damn fool!" Dan presented his other weapon to their eyes. "Keep y'r hands off us—!" They would have crushed and trampled them both under foot, only for a circle of friends who saw death in the air, and struggled to prevent shooting.

The gate gave way, and a deafening, reverberating shout went up. The prisoners, whose pale faces had been peering from the barred windows, shrank back and shivered.

The assailants were at a loss. "Which is him?" they called, as they halted before the lower row of cells. "Tell us, Dan."

Dan shook his hand. "Not by a d—n sight."

"This is the fellow!" yelled a big man in a spotted jacket.

The occupant of the cell gave a scream of fear. "Oh, no, no! My God, no! I ain't the man! It's that next—"

"We'll hang every d—n man—"

"Next door to the left," said a calm voice from one of the upper cells. "The man in red stockings."

"Defend y'rself!" cried Dan again.

THE GATE GAVE WAY.

But the prisoner was powerless. The revolver was out of his reach, and he couldn't have used it anyway. He could only cling to the bunk and to the door as they wrenched him out; his dry lips uttered no sound, and his eyes had the wide-open look a hunted animal wears. He made no other resistance than to catch at everything in reach.

"Out with 'im!"

"Here he comes. Get out o' the way."

Everybody was as mad now to get out as they had previously been to get in. They swept Dan and Annie into a corner by the door and held them there; but as they went by he called:

"You ain't done with me yet, John Haynes, Nick Gootz, Sam Morris." They were too intent on getting outside to do more than glance at him. A wild roar arose outside. For the first time Annie weakened and Dan saw it.

"Go inside, Annie."

He took her revolver from her hand and pushed her into the living room, then turned and rushed to the doorway.

The sight made his hair tingle and stir. Few men in their lifetime ever see such a scene. Thousands of human beings packed closely together, their faces centered, each man strained to tiptoe and motionless. Something—some vast mesmeric influence—seemed to emanate from the mass.

In the center of the lawn two nimble figures were mounting into a slender elm tree. As they went up, a deep expectant hush fell on the crowd, as if they stood waiting the bursting of a burning shell. Each ear was strained forward to taste the sweet horror of hearing the condemned man's agonizing prayers for life. But they were disappointed. Either he was dazed with fear, or he had reached that reckless mood where shudders and cries cease. He remained silent, and the raucous voice that had dominated and directed the crowd the whole evening, rose:

"String 'im up! Up with the black-hearted—"

A twisting, writhing form rose into the air. A cold creeping shudder touched all but the few incarnate demons who were pulling at the rope with jovial shouts.

"Ooop-a-daisy!"

"Heave ho!"

"Up she rises."

"Now, all together!"

The sheriff wept in his helpless horror and rage; but suddenly without noise the writhing shadow fell into the sea of men again. Then a new cry arose:

"Bring another rope. Another rope."

There was a little delay. Now again the crowd relented, and would have given up. But a rope came whizzing over their heads, and was thrown from hand to hand till it reached the hangman. As they knotted the noose and flung it over the head of the reviving prisoner, he raised his voice in agonized cries and prayers for mercy.

"Up with 'im! Shut his guzzle," commanded the leader.

"Stop!" shouted Dan. "Fr God Almighty's sake don't hang the man twice!"

"Here she goes—now, yo—hee!"

Dan raised his revolver and fired at the men in the trees.

"Get down! (Bang.) Dropout o' that. (Bang—bang.) You hellions!"

They dropped from the tree like ripe fruit. Snarling howls arose as the faces turned upon the sheriff. But he was oblivious to all danger now. His soul was at white heat. He faced them in a sort of delirium of joy.

His arm was struck down by a friend. "Drop it, Dan—they'll string you up, too—drop it, I say!"

A half dozen friendly arms seized him and dragged him away around the house, raving, lashing out like a madman.

When he came back it was after twelve o'clock, the town was quiet, deserted. There was no sign of that monstrous outbreak of savagery, save the trampled grass, the broken branches, and the swinging shape in the tallest elm, moving fitfully in the soft wind, the quiet moon shining upon the contorted face, crushed close against the limb.

He went in to Annie, his wife, with a grim face. "I go before the county with this as an issue," he said. "We'll see whether this represents the people of Pine county."

[THE END.]

A FORTUNATE SHOT.

How a Poor Marksman Got in One Good One.

A veteran of the Aroostook war tells a story of how good luck once favored a poor marksman, says the Lewiston (Me.) Journal. Gov. Fairfield visited Houlton and reviewed the troops stationed there as commander in chief, and of course it was the biggest kind of a military event. The Dexter rifle company had some crack shots in it, and as a part of the exercises in honor of the governor's coming, they were marched out for target practice. As they made some excellent hits (the figure of an Indian being set up for a mark) the governor expressed his pleasure in their proficiency, and said loud enough for the men to hear: "Now, I would like to see your very best marksman try his skill." In the company was a man noted for not ever being able to hit anything, and at once, in a spirit of deviltry, the cry ran along the line repeating his name in answer to the governor's call. Without finching he stepped six paces to the front and saluted. "Where do you want me to hit him, governor?" he asked with perfect composure. "Just at the bottom of the left ear, sir," said the chief magistrate, pointing at the mark. "All right, sir." The soldier raised his gun, shut his eyes and turned his head away as usual, and fired. The men were all on a broad grin at the great joke of the thing, but when the bullet struck the mark whittling off a piece of the Indian's left ear, there was a shout that could be heard all over the township.

ETIQUETTE IN WASHINGTON.

Senator Edmunds Was Authority on the Delicate Subject.

The wife of a new senator once told me that she was determined to make no social mistakes, so—wise woman that she was—she asked Senator Edmunds, who she knew was thoroughly conversant with every detail of official etiquette, by reason of his long career in the senate, if it was not incumbent upon her to make her first visit to the wives of foreign ministers, says Kate Field's Washington. He replied:

"Certainly not, madam; a senator never makes the first visit upon a foreign minister."

So, thanks to her good sense in consulting an old senator, this lady did not make the mistake that a few less wise new senators' wives have done of making first visits, when etiquette required that they should receive them. Of course, as the senate has increased in size the last few years, it can hardly be expected that foreign ministers should call upon new senators, but they ought to upon the old ones and upon others whom they wish to know.

I think the charming wife of one of the diplomats has adopted a very wise rule, as she remarked to a senator's wife to whom she had just been presented: "I know it is my place to call on senators' wives, but I wait until I meet them, and I shall now give myself the pleasure of calling upon you."

If the ladies of the diplomatic corps would follow the lead of this popular lady, they would avoid some of the mistakes that they now make in our official etiquette.

Unexpected Praise.

"What do you call these?" said the emancipated woman to her husband at the tea table.

"They are biscuits, dear," replied the husband timidly. "I made them very carefully and hoped you would like them."

"Like them? I should say I do like them. They are better biscuits than my father used to make."—Judge.

Matrimonial Items.

"Why did you run away from your first wife?"

"Because she poisoned my very existence."

"If your first wife poisoned your very existence, why did you get married a second time?"

"Well, you see, I took the second one as a sort of an antidote."—Tammany Times.

ALL KINDS OF WEATHER.

Various Sections Affected by Heat, Cold, Wind, Snow or Rain.

CHICAGO, Sept. 24.—Chicago people Monday morning enjoyed model autumn weather. The thermometer registered 46 degrees early in the morning—a little too cold for comfort, but by noon had risen 10 degrees with a prospect of a still further increase in temperature. The rain is over and the sun is shining. All kinds of business have received an added impetus from the change.

St. Louis, Sept. 24.—From 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon until 4 o'clock Monday morning the mercury dropped from 90 degrees to 45 degrees. The drop in temperature was preceded by severe westerly winds. At 9 o'clock in the morning the sun was shining brightly and the mercury registered 60 degrees. Reports received from a number of points in Missouri, Arkansas, Illinois, Iowa and Indian territory show that the drop in temperature was generally felt in these states. No damage to crops is anticipated.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 24.—The report sent out from the weather bureau just before midnight Sunday has been verified, in part. Sunday night was sweltering and the change made itself felt about 2 o'clock Monday morning when the mercury began to fall. The highest temperature Sunday was 95 degrees. At 7 o'clock Monday morning it was 68. At noon the weather was cloudy with the thermometer at 71.

DENVER, Col., Sept. 24.—Reports from all over Colorado Monday morning show that quite a blizzard prevailed throughout the state early Sunday. Snow from 2 to 10 inches has fallen, which is unprecedented in Colorado for September. Sunday night the frost was very heavy in this vicinity, the thermometer falling to 30 degrees, killing all garden truck. Monday bright sunshine prevailed, but it is still unusually cool. Reports show damage to fruit is immaterial.

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 24.—Advices received from several parts of the state show that the storm of Sunday night was little less severe than that of last week. At Alpena the cyclone wrecked the big roof of the Moench tannery and blew the flagpole through the roof of a house near by. The pole crashed down to the first floor, upsetting a stove and setting fire to the house. Several vessels had their canvas blown away and masts split. The velocity of the wind at Middle Island off Alpena was 72 miles an hour. From Menominee comes the report that a cyclone swept over there wrecking buildings and uprooting trees with a damage estimated at over $100,000. Harrisville and Presque Isle suffered severely.

At St. Joseph the thermometer dropped 5 1/2 degrees inside of twenty-four hours, and a high wind carried disaster to the fruit trees. Cheboygan had winter weather, with a fierce westerly gale, and the thermometer showed a drop of over 50 degrees in ten hours. At Saginaw the wind blew the water up the river, lowering it 5 feet, so that the waterworks were obliged to suspend from lack of water. All the lake ports report a heavy wind. Off Sand Beach a sailboat was capsized and William Arndt was drowned.

NASHUA, N. H., Sept. 24.—Nashua and vicinity on Monday experienced the warmest September weather in twenty-five years. The mercury at the meteorological office was at 95.4 at 3 o'clock. Reports from the surrounding country state that the thermometer registered over 100 in the shade in some places.

BOSTON, Sept. 24.—The thermometer at the weather bureau office at 1:30 p. m., registered 94 degrees and was still rising. The day promises to be the hottest of the present spell. A slight breeze from the southwest does not alleviate the prevailing condition to any appreciable extent.

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—The warm wave is still here, but the thermometer had not climbed as high Monday as it did at the same hour Sunday. At 1:30 o'clock Monday the thermometer was 88 degrees.

OTTUMWA, Ia., Sept. 24.—The mercury fell 57 degrees after 2 o'clock Sunday and during the night ice formed in the lower parts of the city. Late crops are badly damaged.

OMAHA, Neb., Sept. 24.—The weather here is still cold, but the temperature is gradually rising, standing at 63 at noon Monday. So far no damage has been done to the crops.

HOLMES' TRIAL.

Set for October 28 at Philadelphia—Prisoner Pleads Not Guilty.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 24.—Herman W. Mudgett, alias H. H. Holmes, was arraigned before Judge Finletter in the court of oyer and terminer Monday on the indictment charging him with the murder of Benjamin W. Pitzel in this city, on September 2, 1894. Upon the advice of his counsel, the prisoner pleaded not guilty. District Attorney Graham asked that Monday, October 28, be fixed for the beginning of the trial. Holmes' counsel objected to this date, but the judge, after hearing argument on both sides, stated that he thought October 28 would give the defense sufficient time in which to prepare its case. He then ordered that the trial be set down for that day with the understanding that when the time arrived neither side could expect to come into court and obtain a continuance on paltry excuses.

Ceremony Day.

Genoa will have a big representation at DeKalb next Tuesday. Owing to the big crowd that is expected, it has been thought advisable to make the affair a basket picnic and our people are urged to take their lunches with them. It is also desired that those who can will take an extra lunch. Every town in the county is interested in the success of this celebration and as the crowd will be large it is feared that sufficient edibles cannot be secured by the restaurants and caterers to properly feed them. If the people of DeKalb Co. will each add a couple of lunches to their own, the feeding of the crowd will be assured. A large tent has been accorded Genoa where you can eat your lunch and make your headquarters. It is earnestly requested that you do this, and if you can, take with you cooked ham, meat, chicken or a number of loaves of bread. It will be all needed and you will not regret it.

It May do as Much for You.

YEARS OF INTENSE PAIN.

Dr. J. H. Watts, druggist and physician, Humboldt, Neb., who suffered with heart disease for four years, trying every remedy and all treatments known to himself and fellow-practitioners; believes that heart disease is curable. He writes:

"I wish to tell what your valuable medicine has done for me. For four years I had heart disease of the very worst kind. Several physicians I consulted, said it was Rheumatism of the Heart.

It was almost unendurable; with shortness of breath, palpitations severe pains, unable to sleep, especially on the left side. No pen can describe my sufferings, particularly during the last months of those four weary years. I finally tried

Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, and was surprised at the result. It put new life into and made a new man of me. I have not had a symptom of trouble since and I am satisfied your medicine has cured me for I have now enjoyed, since taking it

Three Years of Splendid Health.

I might add that I am a druggist and have sold and recommended your Heart Cure, for I know what it has done for me and only wish I could state more clearly my suffering then and the good health I now enjoy. Your Nervine and other remedies also give excellent satisfaction." J. H. WATTS. Humboldt, Neb., May 9, '04.

Dr. Miles Heart Cure is sold on a positive guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. All druggists sell it at $1.00 bottles for $5, or it will be sent, prepaid, on receipt of price by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

Yellowstone Park Geysers.

Advices just received at the Northern Pacific offices from W. P. Howe, in charge of the lunch station at the Upper Geyser Basin, state that the geysers are playing better than ever. They are much finer than last year. The giant one of the finest in the park, plays to an height of about 250 feet. Last year its eruptions took place once in about five days and continued for 90 minutes. This year it is playing more frequently. Mr. Howe is regularly noting the temperature of the Giantess another of the large geysers. It is also playing frequently and its temperature at time of playing ranges from 193 to 198 Fahrenheit. For six cents sent to Chas. S. Fee, General Passenger Agent Northern Pacific Railroad, St. Paul, Minn., you will receive a fine tourist book that contains a chapter on the park.

$50,000.00 at 6 per cent. Eastern money to loan on approved or farm security. JOHN BROWN, room 16 and 17. Town's block, Elgin.

Electric Peak.

Is the highest mountain around Yellowstone Park. It is 11,155 feet above sea level. As the park tourist leaves the train at Cinnabar, he will see this grand old mountain looming up in the west. After the stage leaves Golden Gate and enters Swan Lake Valley it is seen again to the north. From this place it stands out in fine style. The mountain lies about eight miles northwest from Mammoth Hot Springs, and the Northern boundary of the park runs across it. Send six cents to Chas. S. Fee, General Passenger Agent Northern Pacific Railroad, St. Paul, Minn., for a beautiful tourist book.

The Genoa Shut Out the Monroes and Make 16 Runs.

Up to the present time Genoa has been bothered but little in regard to the silver question. Other sections, however, have been having a merry strife over it. Last Saturday, however, she took a decided interest, and while a ratio of 15 to 1 may satisfy a large majority it was not necessary that it should satisfy Genoa. Monroe might have been satisfied with 16 to 1 but it was not so ordained by Genoa's "Pop Anson," who on Saturday last took his nine athletic young men down to a hamlet called Kirkland, known in ancient history as the land of the Kirks. It is thus rightly named, for the woods are full of 'em and the banks of the Kishwaukee resound with their mutterings. That Kirkland is a member of the DeKalb County family, cuts no figure with them. They are in most part "rooters" for the Ogle-eyed young farmers of Monroe, even down to the fair sex who put down their money on the losing boss. But then they "die game" as the expression goes.

But then why all this. There is but little to tell, although that little is awful. Suffice it that about midnight, Saturday, nine husky young farmers dressed in dress-of-wine sorrow (suits we mean) very meekly stole up the one street of that little hamlet, commonly called Monroe (but not discernible on the map today) and entered the back doors of their homes, sadder but much wiser men.

Oh, but it was easy. A regular lead pipe clench and had their been only two bases to make instead of four it would have availed those young farmers of Monroe but little.

Figuratively, mentally nor collectively were they in it and their fall was simply tobogganesque. It was even monotonous, relieved here and there by a particularly bright piece of fielding work by the Genoa infield. Parker, better known as "Jiggs" was a revelation to those vermilion clothed young men. He played the whole infield, assisted the pitcher and chased fowls for the catcher. He alone was worth the one price of admission.

And Lamont, well Eddie had lots of fun with those heavy hitting "Ogle-Eyes." They nearly broke their backs in frantic efforts to "smash it." Four measly little hits and not a man could get to third. Whether it was Lamont's fine work or their dread of meeting that "everywhere-in-a-minute-rubber-man" on third, we know not, but they did not get a man to third in the game. Oh, it was truly a slaughter of the innocents.

Other Than Base Hits.

Kylan caught a good game. Sager and Sisley were the fanning mill experts. Jack Dempsey played an errorless game at first, and how he did hit that ball. His brother is not a little bit slow either, at the bat or in the infield. Sager plays a good second, The colts have been rechristened. They are now known as Hadsall's colts. A game with Elgin is among the possibilities. The DeKalbs play the Chicago North Ends at DeKalb, Saturday. A number from here will attend. Kingston plays the Caprons at Capron Saturday. Lawyer Jones, of Sycamore, was here Tuesday. Mrs. Jas. Wyde is attending the M. E. conference at Elgin today.

COMPLETE IDENTIFICATION.

The Suicide of Last June known To be C. M. Thompson.

The old axiom that "seven murder will out" has been verified in the complete identification of the suicide who, on the 21st. of June last was found in a dying condition on one of our streets and shortly after died. It will be remembered that not a scrap of paper could be found in his possession which tended to identify him. It would seem that he sought to evade every possibility of identification, and had it not been for the building of concrete sidewalks on Main street he would still have remained in the list of unknown dead.

Without the shadow of a doubt the man who lies buried in Genoa Cemetery, in "Potters field," is C. M. Thompson, formerly in the jewelry business in Wilcox, Nebraska. In the book which was found under the sidewalk was a letter addressed to Claus Haasen, of Wilcox, Neb., regarding money matters. To this man, Steve Abraham, who has had charge of the case, wrote and on last Thursday received a letter from V. A. Thompson to whom Haasen had given Abraham's letter, asking for further information and also giving the address of a brother in Chicago and his father in Upland, Nebraska.

Friday, Mads Thompson, the Chicago brother came here and quickly identified the clothes and watch as being the property of his brother C. M. The brother's story is as follows:

"My brother had been despondent for some time brooding over the loss of his business through the dishonesty of his partner, and inability to obtain work. He left our home in Chicago on June 20th. and said he was going to try to get work in the Elgin watch factory. He evidently did not secure it and after staying in Elgin over night, he must have taken the evening train for Genoa where after hiding his note book, he swallowed strychnine or some other poison."

When asked if there was a woman in the case he emphatically answered "no." Every effort had been made to find him after a week's absence, but without avail until the letter from Abraham had been received.

It is not known what the brothers will do with the remains, but it is thought that they will be removed from Genoa.

Mr. Abraham is to be congratulated on the prompt and efficient work he has done in the case, and it must be a matter of gratification to himself at the complete identification of the unknown.

A Pleasant Surprise.

When Mrs. Howard returned from teacher's meeting last Saturday night she found the parsonage in possession of her Sunday School Class. A social chat and games whiled away an hour, when ice cream and cake were served by the visitors, in connection with which Mrs. Howard was presented with two souvenir spoons with initial letter and "S. S. Class" exquisitely engraved. The following "wish" accompanied them:

"To Our Dear Mrs. Howard: May these be laid beside your plate, At breakfast early, or tea-time late; And while you sup from cup or glass, Kindly remember your Genoa Class."

The following were present:
The Misses Messrs
Temp'nce Baldwin, Ben Haines,
Fannie Shutts, G. Whitwright,
Ava Clefford, Floyd Rowen,
Eva Jackman, Chas. Williams,
Fred Abraham.

The visit was wholly unexpected, and very highly appreciated by the teacher, who desires hereby to express her heartfelt thanks, and extends to each member of the class her very best wishes. May the pathway be smooth and delightful for each one through all the coming years. May the lessons which have been mutually studied bring to each life the highest results.

As a rule I am opposed to proprietary medicines. Still I value a good one, especially when such is the source of relief from pain. As a topical (external) application I have found Chamberlain's Pain Balm the best remedy I have ever used for neuralgia of any kind. I have conscientiously recommended it to many persons HORNE, M. "ROUGH SAILING."

Rev. Dr. Talmage Discourses on Christ Among the Fishermen.

Lessons to be Drawn From the Miracle on the Sea of Galilee—Followers of Jesus Must Expect Some Buffets.

The following discourse on "Rough Sailing," drawing lessons from Christ's sojourn among the fishermen of Galilee, is prepared by Rev. T. DeWitt Talmage for publication this week. It is based upon the text:

And there were also with him other little ships, and there arose a great storm of wind.—Mark iv., 35-37.

Tiberias, Galilee and Gennesaret were three names for the same lake. It lay in a scene of great luxuriance. The surrounding hills, high, terraced, sloping, gorged, were so many hanging gardens of beauty. The streams rumbled down through rocks of gray and red limestone, and flashing from the hillside, bounded to the sea. In the time of our Lord the valleys, headlands and ridges were covered thickly with vegetation, and so great was the variety of climate, that the palm tree of the torrid and the walnut tree of rigorous climate were only a little way apart. Men in vineyards and olive gardens were gathering up the riches for the oil press. The hills and valleys were starred and crimsoned with flowers, from which Christ took His text, and the disciples learned lessons of patience and trust. It seemed as if God had dashed a wave of beauty on all the scene until it hung dripping from the rocks, the hills, the oleanders. On the back of the Lebanon range the glory of the early scene was carried up as if to set it in range with the hills of Heaven.

No other gem ever had so exquisite a setting as beautiful Gennesaret. The waters were clear and sweet, and thickly inhabited, tempting innumerable nets, and affording a livelihood for great populations. Bethsaida, Chorazin and Capernaum stood on the bank, roaring with wheels of traffic and flashing with splendid equipages, and shooting their vessels across the lake, bringing merchandise for Damascus and passing great cargoes of wealthy product. Pleasure boats of Roman gentlemen, and fishing smacks of country people who had come down to cast a net there, passed each other with nod and shout and welcome, or side by side swung idly at the mooring. Palace and luxuriant bath and vineyard, tower and shadowy arbor, looked off upon the calm, sweet scene as the evening shadows began to drop, and Hermon, with its head covered with perpetual snow, in the glow of the setting sun looked like a white-bearded prophet ready to ascend in a chariot of fire. I think we shall have a quiet night! Not a leaf winks in the air, or a ripple disturbs the surface of Gennesaret. The shadows of the great headlands stalk clear across the water. The voices of evening-tide, how drowsily they strike the ear—the splash of the boatman's oar, and the thumping of the captured fish on the boat's bottom, and those indescribable sounds which fill the air at nightfall.

You hasten up the beach of the lake a little way, and there you find an excitement as of embarkation. A flotilla is pushing out from the western shore of the lake—not a squadron with a deadly armament; not a clipper to ply with valuable merchandise; not piratic vessels with grappling hook, to hug to death whatever they could seize, but a flotilla laden with messengers of light, and mercy, and peace. Jesus is in the front ship; His friends and admirers are in the small boats following after. Christ, by the rocking of the boat and the fatigues of the preaching exercises of the day, is induced to slumber, and I see Him in the stern of the boat, with a pillow perhaps extemporized out of a fisherman's coat, sound asleep. The breezes of the lake run their fingers through the locks of the worn-out sleeper, and on its surface there riseth and falleth the light ship, like a child on the bosom of its sleeping mother! Calm night. Starry night. Beautiful night. Run up all the sails, and ply all the oars, and let the boats—the big boat and the small boats—go gliding over the gentle Gennesaret.

The sailors prophesy a change in the weather. Clouds begin to travel up the sky and congregate. After awhile, even the passengers hear the moan of the storm, which comes on with rapid strides, and with all the terrors of hurricane and darkness. The boat, caught in the sudden fury, trembles like a deer at bay, amid the wild clangor of the hounds. Great patches of foam are flung through the air. The loosened sails, flapping in the wind, crack like pistols. The small boats poised on the white cliff of the driven sea tremble like ocean petrels, and then plunge into the trough with terrific swoop until a wave strikes them with thunder-crack, and overboard go the cordage, the tackling, and the masts, and the drenched disciples rush into the stern of the boat, and shout amid the hurricane: "Master, carest Thou not that we perish?" That great personage lifted His head from the fisherman's cot and walked out to the prow of the vessel and looked upon the storm. On all sides were the small boats tossing in helplessness, and from them came the cries of drowning men. By the flash of lightning I see the calmness of the uncovered brow of Jesus, and the spray of the sea dripping from His beard. He has two words of command—one for the wind, the other for the sea. He looks into the tempestuous heavens, and He cries, "Peace!" and then He looks down into the infuriate waters, and He says: "Be still!" The thunders beat a retreat. The waves fall flat on their faces. The extinguished stars rekindle their torches. The foam melts. The storm is dead. And while the crew are untangling the cordage and the cables, and bailing out the water from the hold of the ship, the disciples stand wonder-struck, now gazing into the calm sea, now gazing into the calm face of Jesus, and whispering one to another: "What manner of man is this, that even the winds and the sea obey Him?"

I learn, first, from this subject that when you are going to take a voyage of any kind you ought to have Christ in the ship. The fact is, that those boats would have all gone to the bottom if Christ had not been there. Now, you are about to voyage out into some new enterprise—into some new business relation; you are going to plan some great matter of profit. I hope it is so. If you are content to go along in the treadmill course and plan nothing new, you are not fulfilling your mission. What you can do by the utmost tension of body, mind, and soul, that you are bound to do. You have no right to be colonel of a regiment if God calls you to command an army. You have no right to be stoker in a steamer if God commands you to be admiral of the navy. You have no right to engineer a ferryboat from river bank to river bank if God commands you to engineer a Cunarder from New York to Liverpool. But whatever enterprise you undertake, and upon whatever voyage you start, be sure to take Christ in the ship. Here are men largely prospered. The seed of a small enterprise grew into an accumulated and overshadowing success. Their cup of prosperity is running over. Every day sees a commercial or a mechanical triumph. Yet they are not puffed up. They acknowledge the God who grows the harvests, and gives them all their prosperity. When disaster comes that destroys others, they are only helped into higher experiences. The coldest winds that ever blew down from snow-capped Hermon and tossed Gennesaret into foam and agony could not hurt them. Let the winds blow until they crack their cheeks; let the breakers boom—all is well, Christ is in the ship. Here are other men, the prey of uncertainties. When they succeed, they strut through the world in great vanity, and wipe their feet on the sensitiveness of others. Disaster comes, and they are utterly down. They are good sailors on a fair day, when the sky is clear and the sea is smooth; but they can not out-ride the storm. After awhile the packet is tossed abeam's end, and it seems as if she must go down with all the cargo. Push out from the shore with lifeboat, longboat, shallop, and pinnace. You can not save the crew. The storm twists off the masts. The sea rises up to take down the vessel. Down she goes? No Christ in that ship.

I learn, in the next place, that people who follow Christ must not always expect smooth sailing. When these disciples got into the small boats they said: "What a delightful thing this is! Who would not be a follower of Christ when he can ride in one of these small boats after the ship in which Jesus is sailing?" But when the storm came down these disciples found out that following Jesus did not always make smooth sailing. So you have found out, and so I have found out. If there are any people you would think ought to have a good time in getting out of this world, the apostles of Jesus Christ ought to have been the men. Have you ever noticed how they got out of the world? St. James lost his head. St. Philip was hung to death against a pillar. St. Matthew was struck to death by a halberd. St. Mark was dragged to death through the streets. St. James the Less had his brains dashed out with a fuller's club. St. Mattheas was stoned to death. St. Thomas was struck through with a spear. John Huss in the fire, the Albigenses, the Waldenses, the Scotch Covenanters—did they always find smooth sailing?

Again, my subject teaches me that good people sometimes get very much frightened. From the tone and manner of these disciples as they rushed into the stern of the vessel and woke Christ up, you know that they are fearfully scared. And so it is now that you often find good people wildly agitated. "Oh!" says some Christian man, "the infidel magazines, the bad newspapers, the spiritualistic societies, the importation of so many foreign errors, the Church of God is going to be lost, the ship is going to founder! The ship is going down!" What are you frightened about? An old lion goes into his cavern to take a sleep, and he lies down until his shaggy mane covers his paws. Meanwhile, the spiders outside begin to spin webs over the mouth of his cavern and say, "That lion can not break out through this web," and they keep on spinning the gossamer threads until they get the mouth of the cavern covered over. "Now," they say, "the lion's done, the lion's done." After awhile the lion awakes and shakes himself, and he walks out from the cavern, never knowing there were any spiders' webs, and with his voice he shakes the mountain. Let the infidels and the skeptics of the day go on spinning their webs, spinning their infidel gossamer theories, spinning them all over the place where Christ seems to be sleeping. They say: "Christ can never again come out; the work is done; He can never get through this logical web we have been spinning." The day will come when the Lion of Judah's tribe will raise Himself and come forth and shake mighty the nations. What then all your gossamer threads? What is a spider's web to an aroused lion? Do not fret, then, about the world's going backward. It is going forward.

Again, I learn from this subject that Christ is God and man in the same person. I go into the back part of that boat and I look on Christ's sleeping face, and see in that face the story of sorrow and weariness, and a deeper shadow comes over His face, and I think He must be dreaming of the cross that is to come. As I stand on the back part of the boat looking on His face, I say: "He is a Man! He is a Man!" But when I see Him come to the bow of the boat, and the sea kneels in His presence, and the winds fold their wings at His command, I say: "He is God! He is God!" The hand that set up the starry pillars of the universe wiping away the tears of an orphan. When I want pity and sympathy, I go into the back part of this boat, and I look at Him, and I say: "O Lord Jesus, thou weary one, thou suffering one, have mercy on me." "Ecce homo!" Behold the man! But when I want courage for the conflict of life, when I want some one to beat down my enemies, when I want faith for the great future, then I come to the front of the boat, and I see Christ standing there in all His omnipotence, and I say: "O Christ, Thou who couldst hush the storm, can hush all my sorrows, all my temptations, all my fears." "Ecce Deus!" Behold the God!

I learn also from this subject that Christ can hush the tempest. Some of you, my hearers, have a heavy load of troubles. Some of you have wept until you can weep no more. Perhaps God took the sweetest child out of your house—the one that asked the most curious questions—the one that hung around you with greatest fondness. The grave-digger's spade cut down through your bleeding heart. Or perhaps it was the only one that you had, and your soul has ever since been like a desolated castle, where the birds of the night hoot, amid the falling towers and along the crumbling stairway. Or perhaps it was an aged mother that was called away. You used to send for her when you had any kind of trouble. She was in your home to welcome your children into life, and when they died she was there to pity you. You know that the old hand will never do any more kindnesses for you, and the lock of white hair that you keep so well in the casket of the locket does not look so well as it did on the day when she moved it back from the wrinkled forehead under the old-fashioned bonnet in the church in the country. Or perhaps your property has gone. You said, "There, I have so much in bank stock, so much I have in houses, so much I have in lands, so much I have in securities." Suddenly, it is all gone. Alas! for the man who once had plenty of money, but who has hardly enough now for the morning marketing. No storm ever swept over Gennesaret like that which has gone tramping its thunders over your quaking soul. But you awake Christ in the back part of the ship, crying, "Master, carest thou not that I perish?" and Christ rose up and quieted you. Jesus hushing the tempest.

There is one storm into which we must all run. When a man lets go this life to take hold of the next, I do not care how much grace he has, he will want it all. What is that out yonder? That is a dying Christian rocked on the surges of death. Winds that have wrecked magnificent flotillas of pomp and worldly power come down on that Christian soul. All the spirits of darkness seem to be let loose, for it is their last chance. The wailing of kindred seems to mingle with the swirl of the waters, and the scream of the wind and the thunder of the sky. Deep to deep, billow to billow; yet no tremor, no gloom, no terror, no sighing for the dying Christian. The fact is that from the back part of the boat a voice sings out: "When thou passest through the waters, I will be with thee." By the flash of the storm the dying Christian sees that the harbor is only just ahead. From heavenly castles voices of welcome come over the waters. Peace drops on the angry wave as the storm sobs itself to rest like a child falling asleep amid tears and trouble. Christ has hushed the tempest.

—In 1856 a band of Sioux Indians raided a little colony of settlers who had built cabins on the shores of Lake Okoboji, in Iowa. They massacred all the unfortunates except three young girls, one of whom, Miss Abbie Gardner, is still alive, the only survivor of the tragedy. She now has a museum of Indian relics in the identical cabin that was her home at the time of the massacre. Miss Gardner has secured from the Iowa legislature an appropriation of seven thousand dollars for a monument to mark the spot.

ATLANTA EXPOSITION OPENED.

Cleveland Starts the Machinery by Pressing a Button.

ATLANTA, Ga., Sept. 20.—President Grover Cleveland touched a button at Buzzard's Bay at 6:54 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, and instantly the wheels of the machinery at the Cotton States and International exposition, 1,000 miles away, leaped into life. Cannon blazed and thundered, 60,000 people cheered, 1,000 flags floated from the tops of many buildings and the great south's industrial exposition was officially opened.

When the parade reached the exposition grounds the official party proceeded to the auditorium. Judge Emory Speer, of the United States court at Macon, delivered the address of the day. He was followed by Mrs. Joseph Thompson, chairman of the woman's board. Booker T. Washington, of Muskegee, Ala., one of the leading colored men of this country, spoke on behalf of the negro board.

Mr. Albert Howell, a prominent member of the Atlanta bar, read a stately ode written by Mr. Frank L. Stanton, the south's best known poet of to-day. An address by Gov. Atkinson, of Georgia, was read by Gen. Brown.

President Charles B. Collier, of the exposition company, reviewed the work of building the exposition.

When he concluded his speech he called Gray Gables, which had direct wire communication by the Western Union line with the auditorium. This was the signal that all was ready.

President Cleveland touched the electric button and thereby started the ponderous engines in Machinery hall. Then a pandemonium of noise followed and the exposition was formally open.

ATLANTA, Ga., Sept. 21.—Saturday was veterans' day at the Atlanta exposition and there is no doubt that the old soldiers realized and enjoyed it.

Capt. W. D. Ellis, of Atlanta, spoke for the confederate veterans. He voiced the spirit of mutual forgiveness on the part of blue and gray and declared that if he could find the federal soldier who fired the gun that laid him low in one of the battles of the war he would take him by the hand and salute him as a brother.

The exposition was closed Sunday. Every building and everything on the grounds was closed to the public. The future policy of the exposition as to Sunday opening has not yet been determined upon.

SNOW IN THE WEST.

A Cold Wave Follows Closely Upon the Heels of the Hot Spell.

CHICAGO, Sept. 24.—Ten deaths from heat directly were recorded for the week ending Saturday night and many serious prostrations. The total number of deaths for the week was 517, a great increase over the same week last year. The record of horses killed by heat was broken, the number being 250. The maximum temperature for week was 91. The majority of deaths were of infants, thirty-one in one day being the highest.

SALT LAKE CITY, U. T., Sept. 24.—Heavy rain was followed by snow which fell steadily up to noon Saturday. A strong north wind prevailed and everything has the appearance of midwinter.

LEAD, S. D., Sept. 24.—Six inches of snow has fallen at Bell Mountain and 3 inches here. There have been no frosts, and the trees in full leaf are breaking beneath the load of snow.

CHICAGO, Sept. 24.—The hottest September week which the people of Chicago have experienced in over twenty years was followed Sunday night by a sudden cold. The temperature all day was as high as on any day during the phenomenal hot spell, the thermometer at 8 o'clock p. m. registering at the United States bureau 91 degrees. At 11 o'clock p. m. the mercury in the Auditorium tower showed 66 degrees, a drop of 25 in three hours.

FORTY-SIX DROWNED.

HAVANA, Sept. 20.—The cruiser Barcastegui was wrecked at midnight by coming into collision with the merchant steamer Mortera in the canal at the entrance of Port Barcastegui. The drowned are: Admiral Parejo, Capt. Ybanez, First Lieut. Lopez Aldozajo, Second Lieut. Junco, Second Lieut. Soto, Second Lieut. Canajo, Dr. Martin, Purser Pueyo, Mechanist Zarzuela, Thirty-seven seamen.

Admiral Parejo's body has been recovered. Capt. Ybanez' body was also recovered, but in a badly mutilated condition, indicating that he had been crushed in the collision.

Bimetallists Unite.

CHICAGO, Sept. 20.—The American Bimetallic union, formed of the three bimetallic leagues, is the outcome of the conference of silver leaders which concluded here Wednesday afternoon. The headquarters of the union will be in Chicago. Gen. A. J. Warner, of Marietta, O., will be president and E. B. Light, of Denver, secretary. An executive committee of nine was appointed to arrange for a conference of bimetallists from all states preliminary to holding a national convention to nominate candidates for president and vice president of the United States upon a platform of independent bimetallicism. The committee will arrange for the holding of the conference as early as possible.

A NEAT SUM.

Bond Syndicate Nets Nearly $4,000,000—Danger Probably Past.

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—The profits of the government bond syndicate were distributed Saturday by checks issued by Morgan and Belmont. The amounts sent out represented an allowance of 1½ per cent for interest on advances made from February to June, being at the rate of 4 per cent a year and 4.9 per cent for profits. The distribution constituted a final settlement with the subscribers who underwrote the bonds.

These subscribers were bound to furnish gold for the American subscription of $32,500,000, receiving bonds therefor, and to furnish the syndicate on demand an equal amount of gold in exchange for greenbacks. These pledges entitled them to a full share in the profits of the undertaking. The face value of the bonds was $62,315,000, which was increased to about $65,000,000 by the syndicate's price to the government of 104½. It was arranged that the principals in the government contract—J. P. Morgan & Co. and August Belmont & Co., of New York, and J. S. Morgan & Co., of London—should receive ½ of 1 per cent for placing and managing the loan.

The syndicate offered the bonds to the public at 112½, an advance of 7½ per cent on the purchase price, making a profit to the syndicate, on the face value, of $4,365,987. Deducting the commission of ½ of 1 per cent allowed for management, $392,362, left $3,973,625 for distribution. This was to be divided equally between Europe and the United States, making a profit to each of $1,986,812.

News of the settlement attracted much interest in the financial district. The security market responded to it with a rushing advance in prices. It was regarded by investors as a signal that all possible danger to the treasury reserve had passed and that reason can no longer exist for continuing the formality of associated protection.

Messrs. Lazard Freres, when asked what the prospects were for gold shipments this week, replied: "Unless something unforeseen should intervene, there will probably be no further gold shipments for some time to come."

TRADE REVIEW.

Dun Outlines the Situation During the Past Week.

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

"Movements of exchange and of gold have somewhat affected all markets this week. Exchange has fallen, though not because commercial bills have greatly increased and exports of specie, though diminished, will reach about $2,400,000. It is confidently believed that the international syndicate will allow no financial disorder and many are certain that an issue of bonds will come, but the root of difficulty is not removable by bankers, namely, that merchandise exports disappoints the government and the syndicate, failing to meet the cost of merchandise imported, and leaving a heavy balance to be paid abroad. August imports exceeded exports by $55,323,723, and net exports of gold were $15,152,782. A small cotton crop, with large stocks held abroad, a slender demand for Atlantic wheat, with Russian arriving in London in large quantities, and merchandise exports and imports at New York 30 per cent larger last year in September thus far, scarcely promise speedy change. The volume of domestic trade, measured by exchanges, 20 per cent greater than last year, but 9.8 per cent less than in 1892, is not quite as near the record of full prosperity for September as for August or July advanced.

"In spite of gold exports which advanced for some days, in all nearly two cents. Corn rose and fell in sympathy with wheat, with a little reason. Western wheat receipts for three weeks of September have been 16,791,660 bushels, against 16,491,629 bushels last year, while Atlantic exports, flour included, have been 3,941,654 bushels, against 7,621,986 bushels last year.

"The surprising increase in production and advance in prices of iron seem to be bringing a natural check, as prices have gone so high as to cause some purchases from Europe, both of pig and finished products, and have also caused a distinct shrinkage in home demand.

"The cotton mills which laid in stocks of cotton below six cents are enriched by the advance in material, and enabled to make frequent advances in goods, which are sustained. The present demand is dull, but there are no reports of stoppage, and the threatened strike at Fall River does not come. The woolen manufacture is doing well in dress goods and hosiery, but the demand for men's woolsens is much restricted, and a few mills have closed.

"Commercial failures for two weeks of the month were $4,154,227 this year, against $2,867,764 last year and $8,280,813 for the same weeks in 1893. This year $1,725,814 were of manufacturing concerns, against $639,716 last year, and $2,311,588 of trading concerns, against $1,790,048 last year. The failures this week have been 218 in the United States, against 210 last year, and 32 in Canada, against 43 last year."

FOUR MEN SHOT DEAD.

Terrible Result of a Fight Over a Game of Poker in Kentucky.

McKINNEY, Ky., Sept. 23.—News of a most terrific battle was reported Friday from Adams & Trowbridge's distillery, in Pulaski county, 15 miles south of this place. Lee McKinney says five men, one of them named Cain, of Mintonville, engaged in a game of poker in a little 12-by-12 room at the distillery. A dispute over the game arose and the shooting began. Cain alone escaped, and is credited with slaying all the rest. Most of the slain were either shot through the head or heart. Cain, it is reported, is evading arrest, though the officers are hot on his trail. The four dead men lie side by side in the mealroom of the distillery, awaiting identification and the order of their funerals.

Are Against Free Silver.

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—The sound-money committee of the chamber of commerce, of which ex-Congressman J. C. Hendricks is the head, has made a poll of the next house of representatives on the money question. Its list records 85 members for free silver, 216 opposed to free silver and 59 whose views are not known. Of the 88 put down for free silver 30 are republicans, 51 democrats and 7 populists.

ON TO HAVANA.

Cuban Rebels Said to Be About to Attack the Capital.

Hot Engagement in Which the Spanish Forces Are Defeated with a Loss of 800 Men—Insurgents Elect a President.

CHICAGO, Sept. 24.—The Tribune's Havana correspondent says in a dispatch sent from Havana September 19: Armed parties of revolutionists are already in the province of Matanzas and actually within 75 miles of the city of Havana. For a long time this will be denied, and as news of other attacks are received they will be either suppressed or twisted into stories of mere predatory bands of evildoers, having no real connection with the revolution, until the facts become impossible of further concealment. The west end of the island will soon be the scene of an uprising. This seems improbable, but I have it on the best authority. When this fact develops the formidable nature of the revolution will become apparent. With armed forces on both sides of Havana it would require not 80,000 but 500,000 Spanish troops to keep the revolutionists in check. Martinez Campos is at once hiding the truth of defeat and disaster and creating a belief in the immense power of his troops. It is safe to say the rebels have 25,000 men under arms at the present time and their forces are growing daily.

The salient fact is that around Santa Clara as a center a large number of well armed and well-managed revolutionists are operating. They are sorely harassing the enemy, destroying their basis of supplies and seriously impeding all railroad and telegraph communication.

Of greater importance is the reported advance into the province of Matanzas. If, as it is said, they have quantities of arms and munitions there concealed, and if they are really advancing in force, the crisis is not far off.

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—News of a battle, in which the Spanish were defeated by the Cubans and lost 300 men, was received Monday by President Palma. It came in a letter written September 14 by Pedro Rovira, a Spanish private who deserted to the Cuban ranks at Pera Lago when Campos was defeated. The Cubans had no cavalry, but made effective use of dynamite bombs, which, the letter says, struck terror to the enemy.

In the engagement the Cubans' loss was forty men wounded and killed. The Spaniards lost over 300 men, forty horses and a large store of provisions and munitions of war. The Cubans are still capturing stragglers and picking up arms near Mountain.

In a later engagement Rovira was captured by the Spanish, court-martialed and sentenced to receive 400 lashes and to be shot. The sentence was carried out while Rovira was shouting for Cuban liberty. The Spaniards were greatly incensed against him, as he had killed three of their men before being captured.

TAMPA, Fla., Sept. 24.—Letters received Monday by prominent Cuban leaders here state that on September 10 a constitutional convention was held at Najasa at which Bartolome Maso was elected president of the Cuban republic, marquis of Santa Lucia minister of the interior, Tomas Estrada Palma, representative of the government in the exterior and Maximo Gomez general-in-chief.

HINSHAW'S TRIAL.

Evidence Offered That Strangers Were in the Vicinity on the Fatal Night.

DANVILLE, Ind., Sept. 24.—The trial of Rev. William E. Hinshaw, charged with wife murder, was resumed Monday. Jacob McGowen testified that upon the night of the tragedy he was awakened at 12 o'clock and heard two men walking. He further stated that the men were walking toward the parsonage and seemed to be walking slowly. This is the first direct evidence that there were strangers in the vicinity upon the night of the tragedy. On cross-examination witness testified that it might have been a horse.

Dr. Strong, who was called to dress the wounds, testified that there were marks on defendant's left arm made by a hand-clasp which it would have been impossible for defendant to have caused himself. There were similar marks on the dead woman's arm.

The defense introduced expert testimony by Dr. Weise, of Richmond, who held the post-mortem examination on the body of Mrs. Hinshaw, to show that it could not be possible for one having such wounds to walk and talk. On cross-examination he said it would not be impossible but hardly probable for her to have walked or talked. The general opinion is that the defense has failed to establish the claim that Mrs. Hinshaw remained conscious for an hour after she was wounded.

Want to Recover Land.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—The secretary of the interior has recommended to the attorney general that action be taken against the Little Rock and Fort Smith Railroad company for an accounting to the government looking to the recovery of 5,000 acres of land inadvertently granted in excess to that road.

LOST ON LAKE MICHIGAN.

Schooner E. R. Williams Wrecked During a Gale—Seven Lives Lost.

ESCANABA, Mich., Sept. 24.—The schooner E. R. Williams sunk in a gale Sunday night and all on board are supposed to be lost, as it would be impossible for them to reach shore in such a furious sea. Following are the names of the crew so far as known: Capt. Hunton, master of the schooner, home in Cleveland; Maggie Bennett, stewardess, home in Cleveland; mate and four sailors, names unknown.

The cargo of the Williams consisted of 570 tons of iron ore for Toledo. The Williams was in tow of the steamer Santa Maria, and both boats left at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon. The sea was running reavily from the south on Green bay, and the schooner, laden deep in the water, made bad work of the head sea. The Santa Maria headed for the Poverty passage in Lake Michigan, and up to 9 o'clock Sunday night the schooner's lights could be seen by the crew of the Santa Maria. Shortly after that time the tow line parted and the Williams disappeared from sight. At daylight its topmast was discovered sticking out of the water under St. Martin's island. No trace of the crew could be seen.

MARQUETTE, Mich., Sept. 24.—The steamer Stafford arrived Monday afternoon with the burges Francomb and Ed Williams in tow. The captain reports that on the way up Sunday night the steamer Simon Langell and two consorts were just ahead. During the night they were lost sight of, and nothing has been heard of them since.

ST. IGNACE, Mich., Sept. 24.—The schooner C. H. Johnson went ashore at Gross Cap, behind the island of St. Helena, in Sunday night's gale and the crew had a narrow escape from being drowned. The schooner commenced going to pieces five minutes after she struck. The yawl-boat was filled and stove to pieces almost immediately it was launched, and the crew began firing distress signals with a gun. These awoke Fisherman Ambrose Corps, who, with his two sons, manned his fishing boat and pulled out to the wreck. They nearly lost their lives in saving the crew, but finally all reached the shore. The woman cook of the schooner was nearly dead from fright and exposure, however, and had leaped into the boat half naked. The crew of the schooner lost everything they had except the clothes they wore at the time.

PAWN-BROKER TESTIFIES.

Lawyers for Defense Question Witness in Durrant Trial.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 24.—Pawnbroker Oppenheim again took the stand Monday morning in the Durrant trial. He was questioned closely by the attorneys for the defense about Durrant and his alleged offer of Blanche Lemont's rings for sale. The witness remembered that on April 3, the day of the girl's disappearance, he had only two customers, one of whom was a farmer who offered a watch for sale and the other was a woman, who wished to dispose of her wedding ring. From the way the questions were asked it was apparent that the defense would endeavor to show that Durrant was somewhere else on the mornings between the 4th and 10th of April. The witness gave a complete description of the accused, but admitted that he had read it.

W. J. Phillips, a cigar manufacturer of San Rafael, was the next witness. He testified that one morning in the early part of April last while walking along Dupont street, he saw a man, whom he positively identified as Durrant, standing in front of Oppenheim's store with his right hand closed and extended in front of him, and also saw Oppenheim about 3 feet inside of the door, looking at Durrant. Phillips then pointed Durrant out in the court as the man referred to.

DECLARED NOT GUILTY.

Alleged Cuban Filibusters at Wilmington, Del., Set Free.

WILMINGTON, Del., Sept. 24.—The jury in the trial of the alleged Cuban filibusters, after being out fifty minutes, returned a verdict of not guilty. It was greeted with cheers by the crowd assembled in the courtroom. The friends of the Cubans on Monday night procured a band and, forming a procession, marched to the house of Ralph de Soto, where they met the twenty-one acquitted men. They then marched in turn to the residences of Senator Gray and Judge Wales, tendering serenades to both of those gentlemen. Neither Senator Gray nor Judge Wales made any remarks to the serenaders, however.

FARMERS NEED LABORERS.

Women and School Children Put to Work in Western Kansas.

TOPEKA, Kan., Sept. 24.—Western Kansas farmers have sent to the eastern counties for laborers to harvest the broom corn. The crop is unexampled in the history of the state and the local labor supply does not nearly meet the demand. They offer $1.50 a day and board. In some counties where frost comes early schools have been dismissed and the boys put in the broom corn, and in Morton county young women have joined in the harvest.

Heartbreak.
Here's a meadow full of sunshine,
Ripe grasses lush and high;
There's a reaper in the roadway,
And a lark hangs in the sky.
Oh, the nest of love, inclosing
Three little beaks that cry!
The reaper's in the meadow,
And the lark sings in the sky.
Here's a mead all full of summer,
And a tragedy goes by,
With a knife among the grasses,
And a song up in the sky!

SAVED BY A FRIEND.

From the Evening Post, Chicago, Ill.
William H. Theel, who is employed by the Title, Guaranty and Trust Company, in the Stock Exchange, Chicago, was seen one evening last week at the residence of his parents, 238 East Blackhawk Street. His experience is an interesting one, indeed, which will prove more interesting in allowing him to tell it in his own words. He says: "Some time ago I had an attack of typhoid fever which kept me in bed for several weeks. Having from childhood always been in very delicate health, my physician and also my parents feared that I must surely succumb to the disease. But I gradually passed the danger point and after some time became convalescent, and in due course of time became strong enough to go down town and attend to my clerical duties. But for some reason I could not get back my strength and I found that the effects of the malady were still present in my system. I had no appetite, and the most tempting dishes which my anxious mother could prepare had no attractions for me. I became pale, languid, gained no strength and, in fact, became weaker day after day. I became morose and peevish, and added to this state of my nervous system there was every evidence of quick consumption—such as short breathing, a deathly pallor, relieved only by hectic flushes, and, in fact, a general breaking down of my whole system. My condition was such that my parents became very much alarmed, although of course they did not communicate their fears to me. The fact is that while I saw their alarm and felt myself surely and slowly losing my hold on this life I really did not care, for life had become a burden to me the way that I felt."

"It was while I was in this desperate frame of mind that one day my fellow clerk handed me a pamphlet and two boxes of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills which he brought me from the drug store across the street. I took both the boxes and the pamphlet home and showed them to my mother. She was of the opinion that if the medicine would do as it was claimed, it might save my life, and she advised me by all means to give it a fair trial. I did so and the result exceeded my fondest hopes. Although I have so far only used three boxes of the pills, the improvement of general condition is almost marvelous. The severe headaches from which I suffered untold torments have wholly disappeared, my appetite is again good, I eat hearty meals three times a day and digest the food splendidly, and my strength is returning. My complexion, as you can see for yourself, is quite clear. My lungs are sound and, in fact, I am now a healthy and strong man."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain, in a condensed form, all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are an unfailing specific for such diseases as locomotor ataxia, partial paralysis, St. Vitus' dance, sciatica, neuralgia, rheumatism, nervous headache, the after effect of la grippe, palpitation of the heart, pale and sallow complexion, all forms of weakness either in male or female, and all diseases resulting from vitiated humors in the blood. Pink Pills are sold by all dealers, or will be sent post paid on receipt of price, (50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50) by addressing Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

Keep Your Weather Eye Open.
Fraud loves a shining mark. Occasionally spurious imitations spring up of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the great American family remedy for chills and fever, dyspepsia, constipation, biliousness, nervousness, neuralgia, rheumatism and kidney disorder. These imitations are usually fiery local bitters full of high wines. Look out for the firm signature on the genuine label and vignette of St. George and the Dragon.

Tobacco's Triumph.
Every day we meet men who have apparently lost all interest in life, but they chew and smoke all the time and wonder why the sunshine is not bright, and the sweet birds' song sound discordant. Tobacco takes away the pleasures of life and leaves irritated nerve centers in return. No-To-Bac is the easy way out. Guaranteed to cure and make you well and strong. By Druggists everywhere.

DE KALBCO. S. S. CONVENTION

Held at Kingston Tuesday and Wednesday of Last Week—An Interesting Session.

On Tuesday morning at 9.30 o'clock the annual convention was opened by a devotional service followed by offerings of prayer and testimony, all of which was led by Rev. E. K. D. Hester, and after numerous prayers for the success of the convention, reports were heard from various township officers present, on the work that they had done in their districts during the year that had just ended. The reports were all very satisfactory to the county officers, who were glad to note the great improvement that had been made. These reports were taken in charge of Rev. Rees.

The exercises in the afternoon began at 1.30 p. m., and the delegates commenced to gather until the church was nearly filled. The afternoon's session was opened by prayer and conference, followed by an address on the subject, "One Thing Needed in Our Schools," by Rev. Geo. J. French, pastor of the A. C. Church at Genoa. Rev. French's treatment of the subject under discussion proved that the subject was a well chosen one and also that no one could have handled it to better advantage than did he.

The executive committee were very fortunate in securing the president of the State Sunday School Association to be present, and bring with him the greetings of the State Association. At this juncture a treat was announced that was not on the program. Dr. C. C. Miller, of Marengo, favored the audience with the solo, "That Bright Happy Home," and it was indeed beautiful. Dr. Miller was the musical director throughout the convention, and notwithstanding his age he is perfectly adapted to such a position.

At 2.20 p. m., Mrs. H. O. Smith, of DeKalb was to have given her experience in the Home Class work, but as she could not be present, the conference was conducted by Pres. Mosher.

A paper on Primary Work was read by Miss Ada Davis, of Shabbona, and the paper revealed plainly that she was deeply interested in the work. Pres. appointed the following committees: Nominating Committee, Mrs. Patten, F. Hampton, Rev. Rees; Com. on Executive Committee's Report, W. S. Poust, Mrs. Mary Harvey, Rev. J. Stengel; Com. on Resolutions, Miss Clapsaddle, Miss Anna Heyward and Mrs. Earl.

Prof. Hamill, state supt. Normal work, outlined that work in such a clear and concise manner that it was easily made familiar to all.

TUESDAY EVENING.
With praise service led by Rev. M. E. Fraser, of Kirkland, the evening session opened at 7.30 p. m.

The address on "Progress," by Rev. Huelster, of DeKalb, was decidedly interesting, and he handled his subject to the delight of all his hearers.

The address, "The Lord's Messenger with the Lord's Message," by Prof. H. M. Hamill, of Jacksonville, notwithstanding the extremely warm evening, and the almost suffocating condition of the atmosphere was greatly enjoyed.

WEDNESDAY MORNING.
On Wednesday morning the principal event of interest, was the conference on "Township Organization, Institutes and Classes," led by Dr. Miller.

The report of Mrs. E. E. Noble was then read.

She reported 19 township conventions held of which the president had attended 17 and herself 6. There are 42 schools in the county at present, 4 having discontinued, but 5 new ones being added. She then reported as having heard from 56 schools, having 5486 members, and 703 officers and teachers. As Treasurer her report was as follows: Expenditures, $44.23; Receipts, $52.98, leaving a balance of $8.75. On motion, the report of the Sec'y and Treas. was adopted.

Resolutions were then made by Prof. Hamill and unanimously passed by convention thanking both the Pres. and Sec'y for the grand work they have done for the county.

Rev. Highfield, of Waterman, gave an interesting talk on "What Should be the End of all Bible Study." His treatment of the subject showed a most careful thought.

"Duty of the Sunday School Teacher," was a paper read by Miss Leila Clapsaddle, of Rolla. She shows a marked familiarity with their duties and if they follow her instructions they will be greatly benefitted.

The committee to act on the executive committee's report reported as follows:

Your committee respectfully recommend the adoption of the ex-committee's report with the following suggestions: We recommend that the traveling expenses of the president and vice-president in attending township conventions be paid, and also the expenses of the executive committee in committee meetings. We suggest that our president be authorized to take up a collection at each township convention for county work. We think that the available funds at this present time, for county work, does not justify us in the employment of a president or someone else for full time in the field, but we do recommend a careful consideration on the part of all the delegates at the convention. We recommend the organization of a Normal Class as soon as possible and the adoption of the State Normal Plan.

W. S. Poust, Mary H. Harvey, Rev. J. Stengel, Committee.

At 11 o'clock Prof. Hamill took into consideration the questions which were handed in to be answered, and his disposal of all of them was in a manner that was a great benefit to the delegates. It was an exceedingly profitable hour.

WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON.

The attendance was large at the closing session. The program commenced with a praise service conducted by the German S. S. of North Kingston. This service was followed by short selections of scripture and several German songs.

Dr. Mosher extended the thanks of the convention to Dr. Miller for his aid, who responded by singing "The Model Church."

The nominating committee's report was adopted and the following officers were declared elected:

President, Frank Mosher, DeKalb; Vice Pres., W. S. Poust, Kingston; S. M. Henderson, Waterman; Secy and Treasurer, Mrs. E. Noble, Elva; Supt. Normal Dept., Mrs. J. A. Gibbs, Genoa; Executive Committee, Rev. E. J. Rees, chairman, Kingston; Mrs. Mary Harvey, Sycamore; Miss Leila Clapsaddle, Rolla.

Pres. Mosher thanked the convention for the honor conferred on him and spoke of the valuable services rendered by Rev. Rees.

Prof. Gibbs, of Genoa, addressed the convention on "My Experience as a Teacher." His remarks were of unusual interest and were well received.

The committee on resolutions reported as follows:

WHEREAS, This has been a very profitable as well as pleasant convention, be it

Resolved, That we remember with appreciation the presence of our state president, W. L. Weld, of Elgin.

Resolved, That we extend to Prof. H. M. Hamill, our much esteemed state president of Normal Work, our heartfelt thanks for his earnest work among us and his words of encouragement to us as a county.

Resolved, That we continue to show our appreciation by bringing to Dr. Miller, of Marengo, our hearty thanks for his earnest words to us and his enthusiastic work in conducting the singing and not as the least the fine solos that he rendered. That we extend thanks to Miss Riddell, who has so kindly presided at the organ during the convention. That we continue the words of appreciation that have already been extended to our dear county president and secretary for their very efficient and able efforts in the promotion of our county Sunday School work. That the pastors and all who have aided in making our convention such a success be kindly remembered. That we extend to the executive committee and others, also to the kind people of Kingston words of sincere appreciation for their generous hospitality to us during our presence in their midst, and that we as an assembly, remember that we owe all to the bountiful Father that is over all.

MISS LEILA CLAPSADDLE
MISS ANNA HEYWARD
MRS. EARL, Committee.

Prof. Hamill then explained further about the state normal work and the Legion of Honor, with the result that a number of books for the systematic study of the Bible were sold.

A very interesting paper by Mrs. M. J. Macklin, of Waterman, was then read on "How to Teach Temperance in the S. S."

Mrs. Mary Harvey, of Sycamore, read a paper on "The Use of the Bible in the S. S." Although it has been read at several of the township conventions it was greatly enjoyed.

As was done last year the convention pledged $60 from DeKalb county for the state work.

An invitation was received from Kirkland to hold the convention there next year. It was referred to the executive committee for consideration.

The closing consecration service was led by Pres. Mosher. By the singing of "Blest be the Tie That Binds" and benediction by Rev. Highfield, the convention of '95 stood adjourned.

The following is the list of delegates present from

Genoa—Rev. W. C. Howard, N. H. Stanley, Mr and Mrs D. M. Gibbs, Ella White, Linda Patterson, Mrs. M. Wager, Mr. and Mrs. H. Holroyd, Rev and Mrs. G. J. French, Mrs. M. Adee,

Several years ago I was taken with a severe attack of flux. I was sick in bed about ten days and could get nothing to relieve me until I used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, which cured me and has been a household remedy with us ever since.
