CEMENT TILE

That the Cement Tile is one of the greatest boons to land owners is acknowledged by everyone who has investigated. They are far more absorbent than the clay tile and will never rot. In fact the cement tile will grow harder and more durable as the years pass. We make them in all sizes. Investigate today. It will pay you.

Remember, we also make the everlasting.

MRS. HERMAN EICKSTEDT

A Good Mother Passed Away on Monday, Oct. 20th, after a Brief Illness

(Contributed)

The messenger of death came to the home of Mrs. Herman Eickstedt, in Riley, on Monday, Oct. 20, 1913, with his sad, sad reaper, and called to the Great Beyond the wife and mother, whose sufferings and partings are unknown. Mrs. Eickstedt was a great sufferer for several days from pancreatitis, and despite skilled physicians, she only found relief in the sleep that knows no awakening in this world. She leaves the husband and children bowed in a grief almost unbearable, but confident in the thought of a great reunion, where parting will never mar their commingling.

The funeral was held on Wednesday Oct. 22, at the home at 1:00 o'clock, and at Zion Lutheran church at 2:20, Rev. A. C. Staats officiating, who found consolation for those in sorrow from Holy Writ, as it is told of the unseen world. The singing was tenderly furnished by Mrs. Otto Jahn, and Miss Otilie Hinz, and the pall bearers, Emil Nehring, Charles Sandman, C. H. Bremer, Henry Trebes, Max Burrow and Gus Ponlow, placed the form of a good woman in her last resting place. There was a large number of sympathizing friends in attendance to express their sorrow for the bereaved ones, and esteem for the departed dead. Many, many were the flowers that testified to the sorrow of all. Interment took place in the Marengo cemetery.

Elizabeth Maria Krause was born in Riley, Ill., on December 26, 1870, and had she lived two months more she would have been 43 years old. She was married to Herman Eickstedt on February 25th, 1892. To them were born seven children, of whom one son, Marvin, preceded her to the Spirit World a few years ago. Six children, with the husband and father survive, as follows: Elsie, Alfred, Max, Harold, Emma and Elizabeth. She is also survived by her father, Charles Krause, Sr., of Riley, and three sisters and four brothers, to-wit: Mrs. Minnie Hass, Kaukanna, Wis.; Mrs. Emma Carlson, Riley; Miss Amanda Krause, Chicago. Her brothers were Henry, Frank, Charles and Max Krause, all of whom were present at the funeral.

Early in life the deceased became a member of Zion Lutheran church, and amid her many home labors she never forgot her church duties, and exemplified the life taught by the Great Head of the church, not only in the home, but in every walk of life was she an ideal Christian. Many were her friends, and all realize their loss, and the grief of the immediate family is shared by all.

Among those from out of town were the following: Mrs. Minnie Hass and children of Kaukanna, Wis.; Mrs. Emma Persoll of Spokane, Wash.; Mrs. C. F. Wegener, L. Wegener, Emma Wegener, Miss Amanda Karuse of Chicago; Mrs. Fred V. Feltz, Mrs. Will Feltz and Albert Rossman of McHenry; Dr. W. Eickstedt and Herman Trebes of Harvard; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Krause of Huntly; Mr. and Mrs. Feabrants and Mrs. Henry Feltz of Belvidere; Walfred Carlson of Franklin Park, Ill.

The following briefly expresses the hope of the bereaved father and children:

"We know that our dear one has gone to that clime. Waiting for dear ones, we're coming some time. Beautiful life that bloomed so fair,

PREACHER RESIGNS

Rev. Bellamy, Pastor of the M. E. Church, Decides to Quit Ministry

TO ENGAGE IN PRINTING TRADE

Becomes Owner of Newspaper and Job Printing Plant at Ottawa, Ill., and Assumes Control Next Week--Preaches Next Sunday

Rev. W. O. Bellamy, pastor of the Genoa M. E. church for two years and starting on the third term, has resigned and will leave the ministry. He threw the bomb into the congregation last Sunday morning. It was received with pleasure by those who have not been able to "hitch up" with Mr. Bellamy, but the greater majority of Genoa people will regret that he must leave the city.

It has been known for some time by a few that Mr. Bellamy contemplated such a move and only awaited the opportunity which would look good to him. For some months he had been negotiating for the purchase of a printing plant at Ottawa, Ill., the deal finally being consummated last week. He will pack his household goods at once and assume control of the plant next Monday, filling the pulpit in Genoa for the last time next Sunday.

As stated in this paper previously the ideas of Rev. Bellamy, religiously, do not exactly conform to the straight, orthodox style of the Methodist church, there being many a little hitch which has been the cause of some little discontent. Under such conditions it was not possible to keep the "flock" together in unity. Rev. Bellamy believes in a working, everyday religion and wants a place where he can, without criticism, give vent to his opinions. This is one of the reasons for his purchase of a newspaper. The other reason no doubt for a better living. Of course it is hard for an old newspaper man to understand how a man can give up a "snap" like preaching to enter the grind of a print shop, with its days of plenty and other days of starvation. Anyway, we are mighty glad that Bellamy is going to be one us.

Waterman Farmer's Big Job

Bert H. Faltz, a well known farmer of Waterman, DeKalb county, has been appointed superintendent of the new farm which will be conducted by the state in connection with the Joliet penitentiary beginning next year, and he will move to Joliet this winter.

The tract acquired by the state comprises 2,200 acres, of which 1,200 acres will be sublet and 1,000 acres will be cultivated under the direction of Mr Faltz.

It is the idea of the commissioners to raise on this land practically all the produce consumed by the 2,000 convicts and their attendants in the penitentiary. It is estimated that out-door work will be given most of each season to 300 convicts.

Butter Sells at 31 Cents

Butter sold at 31 cents on the Elgin board of trade Monday, against 30 1/4 cents last week.

Your mission is done, no more you'll roam. God says gently, my lamb, come home."

We wish to publicly express our thanks for the many words of sympathy and deeds of kindness extended to us in this time of our sorrow. Also our appreciation of the many beautiful flowers that silently testified to the esteem in which our beloved one was held by the donors. HERMAN EICKSTEDT and CHILDREN.

A NEW FIRM ORGANIZED

Mayor T. J. Hoover Takes Geo. Loptien Into Partnership this Week

A new firm has been organized in Genoa this week, T. J. Hoover having taken Geo. Loptien into partnership in the business which the former has been conducting for several years. Mr. Loptien owned the electric light plant in Genoa for about eleven years, is a practical electrician and machinist and will make a good working partner for the mayor.

The new building which is now under construction will make the firm an ideal place for the business in which they will engage, there being plenty of room for the display of heating apparatus, plumbing, electrical goods, automobile supplies, etc. They will make a specialty of automobile repairing next summer and will have an expert machinist on the job for that purpose. The building is to be 50x125 feet, allowing plenty of room for about all the work that will come in for some time.

Bazaar, Chicken Pie Dinner, Supper

The Ladies' Aid Society of the M. E. Church will hold its annual bazaar and chicken pie dinner at the church parlors next Thursday, Nov. 13. Dinner will be served at noon and supper at six o'clock, the price being 25c per plate. The ladies are preparing to make it the best ever in every way. During the dinner hour music will be furnished by Dr. and Mrs. C. A. Patterson and Miss Pearl Renn. At supper time Prof. Toennings of DeKalb will assist in the musical program. A big display of fancy work is expected. Remember the date, November 13.

J. Frank Allen Dead

Mrs. Abbie Patterson received a telephone message from Chicago Tuesday announcing the death of a nephew, J. Frank Allen, who passed away the night before. Funeral services were held in Chicago Wednesday afternoon, under auspices of a newspapermen's association of which the deceased was a member for many years. Burial will take place at DeKalb Thursday afternoon of this week. He was a cousin of the Genoa Pattersons, several of whom will attend the burial services at DeKalb.

Perkins Farm Sold

The Henry Perkins farm of 235 acres, located just east of the city limits of Genoa, was sold recently to N. A. Montgomery of Elgin, former tenant on the Williamson farm, seven miles north of Genoa. He will take possession on March 1. The deal was made thru the Geithman & Hammond Land Agency. The same firm closed a deal whereby the old Martin Naker farm becomes the property of D. R. Emerson of Sheridan, Ill., who will take possession the first of March.

AFTER ART LAMPS

Committee is Meeting with Considerable Encouragement on Street

INVESTMENT, AND NOT LUXURY

Great Part of Business in Genoa is Done in the Evening, Well Lighted Street will Mean Dollars in Return on Investment

The committee having the matter in charge of soliciting funds for installing art lamps on Main street is meeting with considerable encouragement, in fact the members of the committee find that a large majority of the business men of Genoa want the improvement. It is true that a few are induced to subscribe only after a long argument, while others can see the benefit and subscribe willingly. There are a few who have not at this time signified their desire for the improvement, but it is believed that all will eventually see the benefit which may be derived from having a well lighted business street. The improvement will cost approximately $1,200.00, seven hundred dollars of which has been raised.

The promoters of the scheme have tried to levy the cost in an equitable manner, taking into consideration the frontage, nature of the business and location.

This should not be considered money expended for a luxury, rather an investment. When it is considered that other towns are doing this and that a large per cent of the business in Genoa is done in the evening, the business men should readily see that it is to be a pulling power to get people coming this way. It is estimated that the additional business obtained in a year would pay for the investment.

KERTCHER INDICTED

Man Who Carved John Powell in Genoa Last June Must Stand Trial for Attempt to Kill

Charles Kertcher, a lineman in the employ of the C. M. & St. P. Railway Co., was indicted at Sycamore last week for assault with intent to commit murder. The victim of the assault was John Powell, a fellow workman. It will be remembered that the two men started fighting in their room at the hotel, carried it out to the alley where Kertcher drew a knife and slashed Powell in the back as the latter started to run away.

Kertcher was bound over to the grand jury under $500.00 bonds. His father came up from St. Louis and put up the cash. Kertcher has not been heard from since, and the case against him being mighty strong, it is doubtful if he will try to save the $500.00.

Jos. Naker Dead

Jos. Naker passed away at his home near Hampshire last Friday, Oct. 31, after a short illness. The body was brought to Genoa Monday and funeral services held at the M. E. church, Rev. T. E. Ream officiating. Interment took place at Genoa Cemetery.

MARRIED AT DEKALB

Daughter of Judge and Mrs. W. L. Pond Becomes Bride of Fred M. Wyman

The marriage of Miss Jessie Pond, daughter of Judge and Mrs. W. L. Pond, and Mr. Fred M. Wyman, a former Sycamore boy, took place at the home of bride in DeKalb last Saturday. The bride is a niece of Mrs. D. S. Brown and Mrs. H. S. Burroughs of Genoa.

The following from Genoa attended the wedding: Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Burroughs, son Sidney and daughter, Emily, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Brown.

Invited to Wedding

Several Genoa people have received invitations to the marriage of James W. Coffey and Mrs. Sarah C. Welte on the twelfth of November. The invitation states that the marriage will take place at St. Mary's church at 8:00 a. m., but it fails to state what city. It is presumed, however, that the ceremony will be performed in El Paso, the home of the bride. Mrs. Welte conducted the Commercial Hotel in this city for some time. Mr. Coffey is a son of Mr. and Mrs. James Coffey of Genoa.

FIELDER IS ELECTED

DEMOCRAT, WILSON'S CHOICE, WINS GOVERNORSHIP IN NEW JERSEY.

WALSH IS BAY STATE VICTOR

Carries Massachusetts by Plurality of More Than 50,000—Foss Is Left Far Behind—Results of Election in Other Eastern Towns.

Trenton, N. J., Nov. 5.—Fielder, Democratic candidate for governor, was elected by over 25,000 plurality.

Hudson county, which includes Jersey City, reports 20,000 plurality for Fielder.

Merckless slashing of Fielder by organization Democrats sharply features the election in Essex county, which includes Newark.

Stokes received the bulk of flopped Democratic votes, a small percentage going to Everett Colby, Progressive, the third candidate for the post in the field.

James F. Fielder became acting governor when President Wilson retired from the office to go to Washington.

Walsh Defeats Foss. Boston, Nov. 5.—In what can be no better described than a landslide, David I. Walsh, Democrat, was elected governor of Massachusetts.

Edward P. Barry, Democrat, has been elected lieutenant governor by about 20,000, and the result is hardly less surprising than Walsh's great plurality, for the election of Augustus Goetting, Republican, to the second place had been conceded by even the Democrats.

The contest between Charles S. Bird, Progressive, and Congressman Augustus P. Gardner, Republican, which has developed nation-wide interest because it was the only really good fight between Progressives and the old guard anywhere in the country, has gone in favor of the followers of Roosevelt.

The city of Boston gave Bird a total vote only 300 smaller than last year, and in other sections of the state he held up quite as well.

Wilson Wires Fielder. Washington, Nov. 5.—Just before midnight President Wilson sent this telegram to James F. Fielder: "My warmest congratulations. You did not need to call out the reserves."

Richmond, Va., Nov. 5.—The entire state Democratic ticket, headed by Henry Carter Stuart for governor, was elected without Republican opposition.

Less than one-half of the normal primary vote was polled, conservative estimates placing it at 50,000.

The legislature is overwhelmingly Democratic.

Baltimore, Nov. 5.—Blair Lee, Democrat, was elected to the United States senate to succeed William P. Jackson, Republican appointed by Governor Goldsborough to fill the unexpired term of the late Isador Rayner, and Charles T. Coady, Democrat, was elected to the house of representatives from the Third district to fill the unexpired term of the late Representative Koenig, Democrat.

Mr. Lee will have a plurality of from 30,000 to 35,000 over former Representative Thomas Parra, Republican, and former Senator George L. Wellington, Progressive.

The Democrats were victorious all along the line, electing Emerson C. Harrington state comptroller and Caleb C. Magruder clerk of the court of appeals.

Louisville Democrats Win. Louisville, Ky., Nov. 5.—With 28 out of 198 precincts missing, John L. Buschmeyer, Democratic candidate for mayor, has a plurality of 5,464, enough to insure election.

Progressive, has 15,902; Wood, Republican, 1,385. Returns indicate one Progressive member of the state legislature has been elected from Louisville in place of a Republican.

Gary, Nov. 5.—Riot and bloodshed marked the city election in Gary, Ind. Gunmen and hired slugs paraded the streets in automobiles, battles were fought at polling places and the law-abiding citizens of the community took refuge indoors.

Twenty of the twenty-six precincts counted gave: Knotts 3,407 Johnson's plurality 959

Of the remaining six precincts one is considered strongly Johnson, one Knotts, one evenly divided between the two, and three doubtful.

Adherents of R. O. Johnson, head of the Citizens' league, hearing that he led Thomas E. Knotts in the fight for mayor by 812 votes, when only twelve precincts remained to be heard from, lined up in Seventh avenue in preparation for a parade.

The line had just begun to move when it was attacked by a crowd of Knotts' followers at Broadway. Clubs and fists were wielded freely and Springfield, Ill., Nov. 5.—With the aid of women's votes, which for the first time figured in local option elections in Illinois, the "drys" won sweeping victories in downstate cities and villages.

Twelve towns which now have saloons were captured by the "drys." In ten other places which already were "dry" the anti-saloon forces routed the "wets."

The "wets" won in only five towns, all of which already have saloons. In one "wet" town the vote was a tie. The "wets" failed to annex any new territory.

DENIES ULTIMATUM WAS SENT MEXICAN DICTATOR

Charge d'Affaires O'Shaughnessy Declares He Has Transmitted No Order to General Huerta.

Mexico City, Nov. 5.—Nelson O'Shaughnessy, American charge d'affaires, declared that he had transmitted no ultimatum to General Huerta.

"I have presented no note to the Mexican government within the last ten days," said O'Shaughnessy. "I have not told Huerta to get out. The international situation is unchanged to the best of my knowledge."

Washington, Nov. 5.—An air of confidence in official circles is taken to indicate that the United States is convinced that practically all the great powers have agreed to support the administration's policy, including a demand made on Huerta to step down, at least to the extent of observing a strictly neutral attitude and allowing the United States to test its own plan for restoring peace in Mexico.

Both the army and navy are ready for action, it was stated at the war and navy departments. Twelve troops are encamped along the Mexican border and three army transports are held, provisioned and equipped, at Galveston, Tex., to move troops to Vera Cruz, if necessary.

Three battleships are already at Vera Cruz and Tampico, and four others are on their way, due to arrive today. This will give the United States a force ample to shell and capture both of these seaports and hold them pending the arrival of the army transports.

The plans of the army war college assure the placing in the field of half a million troops within ten days after orders to so, and military experts here claim that the subjugation of Mexico ought not to take more than three months.

"I will neither affirm nor deny the report that an ultimatum has been delivered to President Huerta by Charge O'Shaughnessy. The state department will give out no information concerning Mexico at the present time," said Secretary of State Bryan to the newspaper correspondents when they asked for information on the latest developments in Mexico.

DEAD IN CAR STRIKE

NON-UNION MAN KILLED AT INDIANAPOLIS—ONE WOUND—ED IN RIOT.

RALSTON REFUSES TO AID

Governor Ralston Tells Mayor Shank That Police Failed to Do Their Duty and Urges Appeal Be Made to the Sheriff for Help.

Indianapolis, Nov. 3.—The first fatality of the Indianapolis street car strike came when Isaac Stretcher, a strike breaker, was shot and killed by one of his own companions.

The attempts of non-union men to run cars were followed by the shooting of James Johnson, a street car employe on strike. Superintendent Hyland had assigned twenty men to duty on any street cars that might be started, and patrolmen boarded cars into which the strike-breakers climbed.

The trolley flew from the wire at the curve. Immediately the crowd surrounded the car. Johnson was one of the foremost in the crowd. Suddenly the door of the car was opened and a policeman fired into one crowd, and Johnson was struck. Johnson was taken to the city hospital where his condition is considered serious.

Governor Refuses Aid. Governor Ralston refused to take any action in the street car strike, which completely tied up the service here.

He told Mayor Shank, who admitted that the situation was beyond control by the city authorities, that the police were not doing their full duty and if they would not do their duty to appeal to Sheriff Theodore Porteus of Marion county for aid. The mayor conferred with the sheriff, but no decision was reached.

Falls to Move Cars. No attempt had been made to move a car during the night, although about 400 strike-breakers were brought into the city on a special train from Chicago. President Robert I. Todd of the street railway company said he was prepared to start the cars at any time that he was offered adequate police protection for them.

Mobs rioted in the streets in the forenoon and for more than an hour late in the day a mob estimated at 5,000 persons fought in the downtown business section, before it was broken up by the mounted police.

Although vehicles of every description were pressed into service the great majority of the Indianapolis workers walked home.

During a riot a negro was hit by a patrol wagon and killed and a motor-man was cut by glass when the car he was running was stoned. His injuries were so serious that he may die.

Officials Are Injured. Robert I. Todd, president of the street car company; John J. Mahoney, superintendent of the company, and Superintendent of Police Hyland were attacked by a crowd of strikers and their friends, but were not seriously injured. The mob threw stones, bricks, lumps of coal and pieces of iron, striking the three men several times.

Receiver Asked for Company. A suit was filed in the circuit court against the company for a receiver and forfeiture of the franchise that the company has failed for several days to operate cars. Some believe that Philadelphia and other foreign stockholders will seek to have this litigation transferred to the federal court upon which will then fall the responsibility of operating the lines.

Police Refuse to Ride on Cars. A futile attempt was made to run an old-fashioned riot scarred car over the tracks of the street car company.

Manned by 14 imported strike breakers and Superintendent Mahoney of the traction company, the car was run out of the Louisiana street bars one-half block from Georgia street, where 50 policemen were ordered to board it.

The policemen mutinied and walked away with smiling faces. The mob in the vicinity cheered the policemen.

The 28 patrolmen who refused to board a car that the company was trying to operate surrendered their badges, but the police department refused to permit them to resign.

The officers said they would "go through hell on street, but would not protect imported strikebreakers in their attempts to operate cars."

Their cases will be referred to the board of public safety. In the meantime they will continue on street duty. The patrolmen themselves have recently been striking for an eight-hour day.

FOUR PRISONERS ESCAPE JAIL

Three Murderers Are at Liberty in Kentucky—Possess Scouring Hills for Them.

Lexington, Ky., Nov. 5.—Four prisoners, including three murderers, escaped jail at Beattyville, Lee County, by concerted action in cutting a section out of a steel cage and through a brick wall. The murderers are John Caudill, under life sentence; James Caudill, awaiting trial; Jesse James, and Price Alexander, who also escaped, are charged with placing dynamite on a railroad which resulted in the injury of 12 men. A posse is scouring the hills for the men.

THREE DIE WHEN TRAIN IS HURLED FROM RAILS

Seventy-Five Passengers Are Rescued From River After Crash Near Geneva, Wis.

Geneva, Wis., Nov. 4.—Three persons were killed, many others were injured, and seventy-five passengers were rescued from the river near here, when a north-bound Burlington train struck a large boulder and went off the track. The impact derailed almost the entire train and seven of the cars rolled down a short embankment into the river.

The limited is train No. 47 and always is heavily loaded. It makes fast time, leaving Chicago at 6:30 p. m. every day. When it left Chicago almost every sleeper was filled to capacity.

As soon as the report of the wreck reached here a relief train was made up and several physicians accompanied it to the scene. The train was so badly wrecked that traffic on the line in both directions was delayed for hours.

J. N. Pratt, engineer of the wrecked Burlington train, died at the Milwaukee Lutheran hospital. James Wilson, porter, will probably die. A number of others are seriously hurt. James Hunter, foreman of the wrecking crew, fell from the bridge while directing the work of rescue and was fatally injured.

ASKS FOR TRUST SAFEGUARD

United States Attorney Fears That the Harvester Units May Be Reunited.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 4.—Edwin P. Grosvenor, special assistant to Attorney General McReynolds, in opening final arguments for dissolution of the International Harvester company before the United States district court asked for dissolution in such manner as to prevent a possibility of two or more of the disintegrated parts coming into ownership of companies having common stockholders.

Mr. Grosvenor declared the International Harvester company is itself a combination in restraint of trade in harvest implements, and as such proper safeguards be made by the courts to prevent a possible re-establishment of such monopoly. The attorney pointed out how the supreme court had applied the "rule of reason" in nine cases decided since the court established the rule in the Standard Oil and Tobacco decisions, holding unlawful every combination that smothered competition and monopolizes trade.

EXECUTE SPANISH OFFICER

Shot at Madrid for Robbery and Murder of Wealthy Land Owner Last May.

Madrid, Spain, Nov. 4.—A firing squad of Spanish troops executed Capt. Manuel Sanchez, a Spanish army officer found guilty by a court-martial of the murder of Don Garcia Jalon, a wealthy land owner, last May. Detachments in the garrison witnessed the execution. Capt. Sanchez was tried and condemned for the crime as a sequel to the confession of a woman, Luisa Sanchez, said to be his daughter, who was sentenced to 12 years' imprisonment as his accomplice.

MITCHEL IS VICTOR

TAMMANY IS BURIED UNDER VOTES OF FUSIONIST—WILLIAM SULZER ELECTED.

MURPHY RULE IN DANGER

McAneny Wins on Board of Aldermen and Prendergast Defeats Metz by 25,000 for Comptroller—Assembly Is Republican.

New York, Nov. 5.—Fusion victory all along the line. The most crushing defeat that Tammany hall has known in a generation.

Those are the two striking results of the election which was held in New York city—the most important and spectacular contest of its kind in many years.

John Purroy Mitchel will be the new mayor. His plurality is 100,000. In Brooklyn and the Bronx he ran like wildfire. In Manhattan he led his rival, Edward E. McCall, by a plurality, estimated at 20,000. In Republican districts he piled up mountainous majorities. In Democratic strongholds he bored into the old-time Democratic pluralities.

Fusion candidates will fill all the chairs in the important board of estimate meetings except that of Queens, where Borough President Connolly, independent Democrat, whom fusion did not endorse, is elected. Nobody, however, expects Tammany to get any benefit from his vote.

William Sulzer, whose impeachment as governor heightened the campaign against Tammany, was elected to the assembly from his East side district by 2,000.

Murphy Rule in Danger. Thomas F. Smith, secretary of Tammany hall, conceded Mitchel's plurality would reach 100,000. He said also that little if anything would be saved to the Democrats. This was taken to mean that the Tammany county and borough tickets would be swept to defeat by the avalanche of fusion votes.

Such a result would mean that the historic organization would be weakened as never before in recent times, that the Murphy dynasty would be dangerously imperiled and that without question a movement would be started, with national approval and encouragement, for the upbuilding of a new Democracy in New York city and state.

James J. Martin, one of the most powerful leaders in the Tammany organization, declared that the defeat meant the overthrow of Tammany. "It means further," he said, "that Mr. Murphy must walk the plank."

Mitchel to Fight Murphy. When Mr. Mitchel arrived at fusion headquarters he received an ovation and was kept busy answering the congratulations bestowed upon him. "What are you going to do about Murphy?" he was asked.

"By not recognizing either him or anyone connected with him," Mitchel replied, "I am going to do all I can to drive him out of business."

McCall retired early. He took the announcement of his defeat calmly.

McAneny Aldermanic Head. George McAneny is elected president of the board of aldermen, with the prospect of becoming mayor should anything happen to take Mr. Mitchel away. He wins by 50,000 plurality at least over Joseph A. Goulden, Tammany's candidate.

William A. Prendergast is elected comptroller over Herman A. Metz by about 25,000, due undoubtedly to the attacks directed especially against his candidacy.

Marcus M. Marks is chosen borough president of Manhattan over Dr. Thomas Darlington (Tammany) by 14,000. Tammany even loses its county ticket in New York county. It had lost the board of aldermen.

In the Bronx Mr. Mitchel polled an enormous vote. Indications were that his plurality would be from 15,000 to 18,000 there. The fusion borough president was elected, but the indications were that the local Democratic ticket would be elected by a fair-sized majority.

Voting Quietest in Years. With all the police captains shifted to new precincts, 700 picked detectives assigned to arrest recognized criminals if they appeared to vote, and thousands of watchers of the Honest Ballot association at the polls, the election was one of the quietest in years. There were only about one hundred arrests for illegal voting and most of these men were discharged.

Women took advantage of the election day enthusiasm to obtain pledges for the cause of equal suffrage.

DECLARES WILDE IS ALIVE

Nephew Tells of Visit and Offers to Bet 10,000 Francs Coffin Does Not Contain Body.

Paris, Nov. 3.—Wilde is alive and roaming about Paris, according to Wilde's nephew, Fabian Lloyd, who said that his uncle called upon him on the night of March 23 last.

Lloyd has offered to bet 10,000 francs that Oscar Wilde is alive and that the coffin in Bagneux cemetery, which is supposed to contain the body of Wilde, holds nothing but paving stones, cotton, wool and a large glass jar, which in turn holds a manuscript by Wilde.

Wilde, according to Lloyd, refused to discuss his supposed death and burial, other than to say he secreted himself in the Petit Trianon palace, Versailles, and then escaped to India, where he now is.

Thaw Document to Gov. Felker Assails Tactics of New York Lawyer—Pittsburgher's Aids Surrender.

Concord, N. H., Nov. 4.—The final brief for Harry K. Thaw in connection with his efforts to resist extradition from New Hampshire to New York was filed with Governor Felker. The brief asserts that the requisition is not in accordance with the rules of practice, that the laws of New York were violated in obtaining the indictment and that the requisition is not made in good faith.

The activity of William Travers Jerome in obtaining his indictment and his language at the hearings before Governor Felker are attacked.

New York, Nov. 4.—Eugene Duffy and Michael O'Keefe, who were indicted with Richard Butler, former assemblyman, and Roger Thompson, for conspiracy in connection with the escape of Harry K. Thaw from the Matteawan asylum for the criminal insane, were surrendered by their counsel to the district attorney. They were taken before Justice Graveney and held in $3,000 bail each.

More Important Than Success.

The most important thing in a man's life is that which he has been striving at. All that he actually accomplished was dependent on a considerable extent on purely accidental circumstances, and, in the best of cases, proved only a far inadequate realization of his intentions.—John Ruskin.

Only Wilhelm. At a singing contest at Frankfurt recently Kaiser Wilhelm, who attended, was served by several high-school boys as pages. According to Jugend, he was attracted by the bright face of one of them and asked his name.

"Korner, your majesty," said the boy.

"And your first name is Theodore?" said the emperor, thinking of the patriot-poet Theodore Korner, whose centennial year this is.

"I'm sorry," replied the uncourtier-like youngster, "but it's only Wilhelm."

When Kaiser Wilhelm broke into a hearty laugh at the answer the page realized his missed opportunity.—New York Evening Post.

JUDGE CURED HEART TROUBLE.

I took about 6 boxes of Dods's Kidney Pills for Heart Trouble from which I had suffered for 5 years. I had dizzy spells, my eyes puffed, my breath was short and I had chills and backache. I took the pills about a year ago and have had no return of the palpitations. Am now 63 years old, able to do lots of manual labor, am well and hearty and weigh about 200 pounds. I feel very grateful that I found Dods's Kidney Pills and you may publish this letter if you wish. I am serving my third term as Probate Judge of Gray Co., Missouri, Kan.

Penalty of Having Too Much Rope. "I note that Mexico is again peevish at the United States," commented Batsin Garrett. "This reminds me of the familiar yarn of the negro who was about to be hanged for the murder of another negro, and after a lengthy and rambling farewell to the world addressed the widow who, fat, black and pessimistic, sat in front of the scaffold: 'De Lawd in his infinite wisdom has done fubgiveness mub sins and innickerties, and now I axes yo', Sistah Wadkins, to fubgive me, and—' Aw, git hung, nigger!' impatiently interrupted the bereaved lady. 'Git hung!' Mexico having been given an abundance of rope, I am grimly awaiting the inevitable outcome. I am of the same attitude of mind, too, toward the person or persons, as the case may be, who has or have, been so long messing with and muddling up the gas situation."—Kansas City Star.

Peculiar Belief.

Two centuries have passed since the Scottish judge Lord Monboddo was born. In his "Origin and Progress of Language" he argued that human beings should be studied like other animals; but this doctrine seemed to the contemporaries of Dr. Johnson so ridiculous that the wages based many a jest upon it. His belief that men got rid of their tails by sitting upon them would now scarcely raise a smile among anthropologists. Among his more startling propositions was the earnestly maintained one that the orang-outang "was a class of the human species, and that its want of speech was merely accidental."

SPEAKS FOR ITSELF Experience of a Southern Man.

"Please allow me to thank the originator of Postum, which in my case, speaks for itself," writes a Fla. man. "I formerly drank so much coffee that my nervous system was almost a wreck" (Tea is just as injurious because it contains caffeine, the drug found in coffee). "My physician told me to quit drinking it but I had to have something, so I tried Postum."

"To my great surprise I saw quite a change in my nerves in about 10 days. That was a year ago and now my nerves are steady and I don't have those bilious sick headaches which I regularly had while drinking coffee."

"Postum seems to have body-building properties and leaves the head clear. And I do not have the bad taste in my mouth when I get up mornings. When Postum is boiled good and strong, it is far better ir drinker than coffee. My advice to coffee drinkers is to try Postum and be convinced."

Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Write for copy of the little book, "The Road to Wellville."

Postum comes in two forms: Regular Postum—must be well boiled.

Instant Postum is a soluble powder. A teaspoonful dissolves quickly in a cup of hot water and, with cream and sugar, makes a delicious beverage instantly. Grocers sell both kinds.

Are We Forgetting Hawaii?

NATIVE WOMEN AT THEIR MEAL OF FISH AND POI

NATIVE POUNDING TARO TO MAKE POI

RIDING THE SURF

PRINCIPAL ST. HONOLULU, H. I.

WHERE THE MOUNTAIN ROAD REACHES THE GAP, HONOLULU, H. I.

THE time of their annexation to the United States much was heard of the Hawaiian Islands as the key to the Pacific, a name which, unlike most tags, seems to be a fairly accurate description. Situated between 19 and 23 degrees north latitude and between 154 degrees 40 minutes and 162 degrees west longitude, they are at the junction of the principal steamer routes across the Pacific and indeed are the only land of any extent within a radius of 2,000 miles. This situation gives them, inevitably, great strategic and commercial importance. To the north the nearest land is Alaska with the chain of the Aleutian islands, 2,000 miles away; to the east, the North American continent, 2,000 miles, and to the west, the Philippine islands, 4,500 miles. Honolulu is distant 2,100 miles from San Francisco, 2,460 miles from Victoria, B. C., 4,700 from Manila, 3,400 from Yokohama, 3,810 from Auckland and 4,410 from Sydney.

The American tourist to the Hawaiian Islands will probably take ship at San Francisco, although the steamers from Vancouver are also good. He must remember that from a United States port it is possible to sail to Honolulu only on a ship under American register, unless he has a through ticket to the Orient and plans merely to stop over. The first day or two out of San Francisco are usually cold, so that heavy wraps are essential, but as the rest of the trip is warm, rooms on the starboard side, getting the trade winds, are preferable.

After the hills of the coast range have dropped below the horizon there is almost nothing to see—a whale perhaps, or porpoises, but no land and very rarely a passing ship. But to the man who has never been in the tropics the ocean, so utterly different from the North Atlantic, is a revelation. There usually are no waves, as the Atlantic traveler knows waves, but the whole surface of the sea sways gently in great, silent, lazy swells.

The harbor of Honolulu is not large. The entrance is 35 feet deep and 400 feet wide; the inner harbor is 35 feet deep and 900 feet wide, but this width is being extended to 1,200 feet. The water is always still. Indeed, the name Honolulu means "the sheltered" and is appropriate, since there are few severe storms and no weather affects the safety of the harbor, which in consequence is usually crowded with shipping. As the steamer enters the channel people watch the Japanese and Hawaiian fishing boats, usually dories painted some bright color, that contrast with the gray tenders of the men-of-war. Near the dock the water is alive with Hawaiian boys swimming about and shouting, ready to dive for nickels and dimes, not one of which do they miss. They are marvelously dexterous swimmers and give incoming passengers amusement that is pleasant and more unusual than looking at the undoubtedly practical but also undoubtedly ugly warehouses and United States government storehouses which line the shore.

The streets, in so far as the uneven character of the land permits, are laid out at right angles. Fort street and Nuuanu avenue running from the sea toward the mountains, and King, Hotel and Beretania streets, more or less parallel to the coast, give, as being the principal thoroughfares, sufficient indication of the street plan. All after leaving the business center pass between luxuriant gardens which are never shut in by walls, but are enclosed only by low hedges, usually of red flowering hibiscus. In many parts of the city the streets are bordered with tropical flowering trees that are a glory in the late spring months. An admirable electric car service covers the entire district of Honolulu, traversing or crossing all the main streets.

Of public buildings the first in importance is the Executive building, formerly the royal palace. This stands near the center of the city, on King street, in its own open park. It is used now as the office of the governor and of territorial officials and contains also the chambers of the senate and house of representatives. Built in 1880 of blocks of concrete, much over ornamented, to suit the king's ideas of beauty, it follows no recognized style of architecture, would be in any northern city amazingly ugly, but standing alone as it does, with no other buildings as contrast, approached on all four sides by short avenues of superb royal palms, surrounded by splendid great trees and gay shrubs, cream colored, its wide, cool galleries giving an effect of lightness. It has an appropriateness that makes it almost beautiful.

A building of real interest, constructed of brown tuff stone from Punch, Bowl and surrounded by striking gardens, is Lunallilo house. This was established by bequest of King Lunallilo as a home for aged and indigent Hawaiians, and here about a hundred of them live on and on. Some are blind; some deaf; all are decrepit. They sit in the sun under the palm trees and talk of times 70 years ago, quarrel happily and vociferously, and sometimes marry—these octogenarians and nonagenarians. They have plenty to eat, comfortable quarters, a weekly excursion to church in an omnibus, and life having become something nearly approximate to heaven, they see no valid reason for changing their state. Not seldom do they pass the century mark and many remember, or claim to remember, the death of the first Kamehameha.

Private gardens line all the streets, their luxuriant trees and shrubbery happily masking the houses themselves, most of which make no pretense to anything but comfort. People live out of doors, and the result is that broad vine covered verandas or "lanais"—the Hawaiian term is used universally—are the most noticeable and characteristic features of many of the houses. The glory of the gardens is their palms—royal palms and dates principally, but also wine palms and fan palms—and their flowering trees. In the spring the Polynesian regia makes huge flaming umbrellas of orange or scarlet or crimson; the Golden Shower, sometimes a stately tree, is hung with its thousands of loose clusters of yellow bells; the Cacla nodessa spreads its great sheaves of shell pink and white blossoms like a glorified apple tree; the Pride of India is a mist of lavender. But at all times of the year these trees look well, and in addition to them there are gigantic banyans throwing cool purple masses of shade; algarobas with their feathery leaves, through which the sunlight is pleasantly diluted and the insignificant flowers of which supply the tons of honey exported annually to England.

People work in Hawaii. For those whose lots are cast permanently in the islands life is not what it appears superficially to the tourist, one long, happy holiday. Nor is there here, as in so many tropical countries, a three-hour hiatus in the middle of the day, when men and women take their siesta. Hours of business are what they are in New York or Chicago, and life is planned—too completely perhaps—along northern lines. In Honolulu men go usually to their clubs to luncheon—the Pacific, the University or the City club—talk business and hurry back to a long afternoon in their offices. These clubs, it is fair to say, are delightfully arranged buildings with windows on all sides to catch any breeze. Of them the oldest is the Pacific, formerly the British club, on Alaeka street. The house has broad verandas on both floors and large, cool rooms. The University club, more especially a resort of younger men, has a pretty cottage near the Hawaiian hotel. Its membership includes a large number of army and navy officers, graduates of West Point and Annapolis, as well as men from American, English and German universities. The City club, much more inclusive in membership, is in a business block in the center of the town. There are also, of course, as in all American cities, lodges of various orders, Masons, Odd Fellows, Elks and Red Men.

While men are lunching at their clubs their wives give luncheon parties or go out to luncheon—a form of social entertainment which would seem more suited to a cold climate than to tropical midday. In the late afternoon the Country club in Nuuanu valley or the Pacific Tennis court near the Executive building or the various athletic fields and the bathing beaches at Waikiki are the meeting places of society. At night there are dinners, dances and bridge parties occasionally and much more amusing moon light surfing and swimming parties. There is no particular social season in Honolulu. More people are out of town in summer, but on the other hand that is the time when boys are at home with their friends from American colleges, and they must be entertained day and night. This, therefore, is the time to see more of the distinctively Hawaiian forms of amusement.

The ancient dances, or "hulas," are not often seen, both because the art of dancing is being lost and because many of the dances, in the motions, which make them up and in the words which accompany them, are, from a civilized point of view, indecent. Some of them are occasionally given in an expurgated form at the vaudeville theaters or certain selected dances, as entertainment after private "luaus," and no opportunity to see them should be neglected. They are often marvelously graceful—more so than are the Arab dances—Jand with the monotonous beat of their musical accompaniment are very poetical and quite in a class by themselves.

Of good theaters the islands are destitute. An occasional series of mediocre performances at the Opera house in Honolulu brings out the whole population. Of interest to tourists who have never been in the Orient, however, there are the Chinese and Japanese theaters with their interminably long plays, often gorgeously costumed and probably well acted. Nor is there naturally much opportunity to hear good professional musicians.

For the women of the place housekeeping is none of the easiest. Servants are all Orientals, admirable as far as they go, but with inevitable limitations. The Chinese are faithful, good cooks, and immaculately clean in their work. They are in general preferred to the Japanese, even though during the Chinese New Year, for three days in January or February, they all depart on their annual holiday. During these days no bribe could make them work. They also at that time have the habit of giving to the families for whom they work expensive and usually hideous presents, which must be prominently displayed for months after. An amusing part of the Chinese New Year is the necessity for men of calling on all the Chinese merchants of their acquaintance—ceremonial calls where they are regaled with queer, cloying sweetmeats and champagne. The Japanese are filling the ranks now as house servants, since under the United States immigration laws the Chinese population is gradually dwindling. They are far less reliable, but are often excellent cooks, and Japanese maids in their bright kimonos are picturesque about the house. They can be taught almost anything, and once taught never forget, but unfortunately the knowledge acquired is often of the parrot variety. For example, a lady gave a luncheon and before the guests arrived showed her new Japanese maid exactly how to serve each course and what plates to use. The following week she gave another luncheon exactly like the first, but omitting one course. Her Japanese maid served it perfectly, except that when the time arrived for the course which was left out she brought in all the plates and then carefully removed them empty.

Because of the lack of literature there is no way to get any permanent impression of the charm of Hawaii except by a visit. Its history one can read and can appreciate if one is able to adopt in the reading a sympathetic point of view. The fact that thoroughly American ideals pervade all phases of island industry, of modes of living and of social intercourse may be accepted and theoretically believed. But the Hawaiian flavor, with which these ideals are subtly impregnated and that insensibly affects all who have lived there, is something indescribable, something which seems to emanate from the misty hills, the whispering waters, the exquisite vegetation, the low voices of the people. All this may be grasped only through the senses. The eyes must see from the shores at Waikiki the bright carpet of water beyond which Diamond Head so proudly stands at the gateway of the world beyond. The ears must catch the melody of Hawaiian song and the swish of the wind in the palms. The scent of Stephanotis and plumeria and ginger must strike one as it steals through the hibiscus hedges around secluded gardens. The whole body must respond to the tender caress of trade winds that have blown across a thousand miles of warm ocean. Only this is full knowledge—and the sense of this no words can convey.

MINER HUGHES WAS A MAN OF IRON NERVE

Picks Up Arm Severed at the Shoulder and Walks 1,000 Feet.

Buffalo, N. Y.—After William Hughes, a miner whose home was in Soranton, Pa., was run over by a freight train on the Central near Forks station the other day, he showed remarkable fortitude by picking up his right arm, which was cut off close to the shoulder, and running more than 1,000 feet to a garage.

There he fainted and fell from the loss of blood. The man who runs the garage placed Hughes in an automobile and made a fast trip to the German Deaconess hospital.

Hughes, who was otherwise hurt, could not stand the shock, and he died during the night. Doctor Danser, the medical examiner, had the body taken to the morgue.

The miner was about twenty-five years old. He was riding on a freight train toward this city. The train stopped at Forks and he got off and was walking the tracks, when another train ran him down. To the amazement of the railroad men near by, he snatched up the severed arm and ran along the tracks toward the garage. Several times he stumbled and pitched forward, but, apparently, keeping his mind on the first house in sight, he regained his feet and reached the house.

LONGEST FUNERAL ON RECORD

Man Leaves $5,000 to Pay Expenses of Strange Trip From California to New York.

San Diego, Cal.—When Michael Moran of New York city went to San Francisco seeking health he met W. A. Peck, representative of an Ohio automobile concern. They became friends.

One day when Moran was feeling worse than usual and felt he was going to die, Peck tried to cheer him up.

"What do you care if you do pass out?" he asked as a joke. "I'll take you back to New York in an automobile hearse. Think of that! A funeral from coast to coast!"

Moran gave his friend a sour look and went back to the tuberculosis hospital. Soon after Peck drifted somewhere along the coast and forgot about the promise he had made.

Moran died on August 14. When he knew he could not live more than a few hours he called the nurse to his bedside.

"I want you to find W. A. Peck somewhere," he said, "and give him this $5,000, remind him of a promise he made to me, and tell him to spend it on the trip."

The nurse called the superintendent, who agreed to carry out Moran's last wishes. Peck was found in Seattle. Then it took several days more to make arrangements for the hearse.

The coast to coast funeral began on August 23.

SLEPT IN CORPSE'S PLACE

Sailor, Who Took Nap in a Rough Box, Fastened in by Chum.

Buffalo, N. Y.—A policeman was startled a few mornings ago when a rough box lying on the sidewalk in front of an undertaker's establishment slowly turned over. When he drew near to solve the mystery it again turned over. A man from the undertaker's shop was ordered to unscure the lid.

Inside they found a sailor who gave his name as John Deleth of Milwaukee, Wis., who said he had been out on a lark the night before with a fellow-sailor named Kelly.

"Says Kelly to me," Deleth told the chief, "the first guy to the dead box can sleep there. I slept all right, but when I woke up I couldn't get out. Kelly's been up to his tricks again." Deleth was locked up.

ITEMS OF GENERAL STATE INTEREST FRESH FROM THE TELEGRAPH.

TWO KILLED IN COLLISION

J. A. Melcher and S. J. Hunter, Employed by the Chicago & Alton, Are Crushed to Death in Accident.

Bloomington.—J. A. Melcher and S. J. Hunter, trainmen, employed by the Chicago & Alton railroad, was killed at Roadhouse, being crushed between a box car and switch engine in collision.

Springfield.—Emily Thomas, a great-granddaughter of former Governor Bissell, who disappeared from the Ursuline convent here, is believed to be tramping her way to Sacramento, Cal., to see her mother, because she became tired of convent life. Evidence that she had her hair cut short and that she procured a boy's costume, has been obtained by the police and private detectives. They think she is disguised as a boy. Her grandmother, Mrs. Rhoda Bissell Thomas, who is a daughter of former Governor Bissell, is unable to explain the girl's strange disappearance. Miss Thomas is sixteen years old.

Jacksonville.—The Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad company was made defendant in three suits, aggregating $40,000, filed against it in the circuit court here. The suits are the result of an accident at Arenzville, nearly two months ago when a freight train on the Burlington struck an automobile occupied by four men. Charles Wilday and Charles Pate were killed and suit is brought by their wives in the sum of $10,000 each, for the estates of the dead men. Henry L. Deppes sues for $20,000 for injuries received. The fourth occupant of the car had a miraculous escape from injury.

Bloomington.—Many counties of central Illinois report a falling off in the sale of hunting licenses this season. Various reasons are ascribed for the decrease. In some counties it is asserted that the wardens are not actively checking up the hunters. At other points it is claimed that there will be a rush for permits with the first snow and the opening of the rabbit season. Instructions have been issued to all wardens to make frequent trips into the country and arrest all who are hunting without the required permit.

Jerseyville.—After fifteen years of complete rest, during which time he refused to get out of bed on any account, even for meals or to be shaved, James J. Muncray, the tireless farmer in Illinois, died. He was seventy years old, but since his retirement from action of any sort at the age of fifty-five the physicians attending could find no trace of physical disability to explain his utter laziness. He died apparently because he was weary of breathing.

Peoria.—Maximilian Kott, a Russian count, highly connected with families at Warsaw and Moscow, has engaged local attorneys to bring suit against the Regis Hotel company of this city for $1,000 damages because of the alleged loss of a trunk, suit case and traveling box, with their contents. Law firms in Chicago and Peoria and higher officials, representing the Russian government, have been enlisted in his aid.

Calro.—The work of protecting the Illinois bank of the Mississippi river back of Calro was begun by the United States government engineers. There has been considerable erosion since the flood last spring and unless the cutting is stopped the Mobile & Ohio tracks will be in danger.

Waukegan.—Ground was broken for the new residence of Samuel Insull, on his estate just south of his present home. It is said Mr. Insull will spend close to a million dollars before it is ready for occupancy, a year from now.

Pana.—James Lowe, aged twenty-eight years, died at his home in Windsor, east of Pana, of tetanus as the result of having his leg broken a few days ago when he was thrown from a horse.

Decatur.—Nearly $30,000 had been raised in the two-day campaign to raise funds for the new Macon County hospital. Leading citizens of Decatur are participating in the campaign.

Decatur.—John Magill, employed in the Lovington mines, unearthed what appeared to be a petrified human foot. It was embedded in the rock 1,000 feet below the surface of the earth. The foot has been sent to experts for examination.

Chicago.—The executive committee of the National Editorial association, at a meeting here, selected Houston, Tex., for the meeting place of the association next April.

Mount Auburn.—Charged with converting money order funds to his own use, John A. Henderson, a rural mail carrier, was arrested by federal authorities. Henderson was held for the federal grand jury next January.

Sterling.—Joseph Knox of Morrison, this county, sued the Drs. Fairchild of Clinton, Ia., for $20,000 damages, claiming they left 36 inches of gauze in him when they sewed him up following a recent operation.

Decatur.—Arrangements were completed for a campaign for $65,000 to finish building the new Decatur and Macon County hospital.

NEWS OF ILLINOIS

Sterling.—Joseph Knox of Morrison is suing his family doctor for $20,000, alleging that the doctor left a yard of gauze in his internals after an operation.

Danville.—John Savage fatally wounded his fiancée and killed himself because the girl insisted for the fourth time on postponing their wedding.

Rockford.—Co-operative barber shops will be established in Rockford, as a result of which the prices of shaves and haircuts will be reduced one-third.

Elizabeth.—Harvey Statham, thirty-two, while dressing a shoulder wound on one of his horses, was kicked in the forehead by the animal and instantly killed.

Freeport.—Rev. F. Holke, for sixteen years pastor of St. John's German Evangelical church of this city, has accepted a call extended him by St. John's church of Highland Park.

Maroa.—J. F. Harris has established a goose farm here, having imported 6,000 geese from Kentucky and Tennessee. It is the second enterprise of its kind in this part of the country.

Quincy.—Reckless auto drivers claimed another death here when William Erhardt was added to the long list of killed. Wholesale prosecutions are to follow.

Bloomington.—Joseph Baker, a prominent business man here, died at El Paso at the age of sixty-four. He was mayor several terms and also was president for a number of years of the National Implement and Vehicle Dealers' association.

Freeport.—Two men who appeared in Brownstown, Wis., representing themselves to be game wardens, are believed responsible for the robbery of the post office and two stores in Brownstown. The robbers obtained $50 worth of stamps and $25 cash in the post office.

Olney.—The Richland county courthouse, located in the heart of this city, was destroyed by fire. The fire originated in the dome. The courthouse was an imposing structure of brick and stone. It was built in 1874 at a cost of $50,000. The records were removed safely. The insurance totals $18,000.

Bloomington.—Engineers, firemen, conductors and brakemen of the Chicago & Eastern Illinois are seeking an audience with the receivers regarding an increase in pay and improved working conditions. It is claimed that the schedules now in effect are far behind competing roads.

Mattoon.—Clarence Altes and Charles Johnson, advertising man and linotype operator, respectively, on a Mattoon newspaper, were burned to death when fire destroyed a boarding house in which they were asleep. They evidently were overcome by smoke before the fire reached their room.

Princeton.—Farmers between Princeton and Walnut are in a state of terror over the presence in their vicinity of a demented woman, who ranges through the fields by night and keeps to the woods by day. It is feared she may fire houses and a posse will be organized soon if she is not otherwise apprehended.

Springfield.—Created by act of the Illinois legislature at least six years before the lawmaking body enacted the state civil service law, Attorney General Lucey holds that the head of the State Farmers' Institute and all employees are not under civil service regulation.

Centralla.—President L. C. Lord of the Eastern Illinois Normal addressed the Marion County Teachers' association on "Something About Human Nature." State Superintendent F. C. Blair talked on "The New Certificate Law." Two hundred and fifty teachers were present.

Springfield.—Governor Dunne removed from office the following deputy factory inspectors on the recommendation of Chief Factory Inspector Oscar F. Nelson, who charges them with incompetency. Walter H. Burnham, 6108 Ellis avenue, Chicago; Jacob Swanck, Forrester, Ogle county.

Centralla.—Before adjourning the Marion County Teachers' association adopted resolutions endorsing the certifying law, favoring a minimum wage law and approving the State Federation of Teachers. They also endorse the township as the school unit, instead of the district and the increase of $1,000,000 a year in the state school tax.

Galesburg.—Mrs. George W. Mead, who died at her home in Rio, Knox county, was eighty-four years old and was the last of a family of fifteen children, nearly all of whom lived to be past eighty years old. September 26, this year, she and her husband celebrated their sixtieth wedding anniversary. Mrs. Mead formerly, Alvira Proctor, was born at Proctor Hill, N. M.

Xenia.—Mrs. Daisy Lee, who shot herself with a rifle July 4, died from the effects of the wound. She did not make known the cause of her act.

Whittier.—A near riot occurred on one of the principal streets here when an angry crowd of citizens demanded that a banner, advertising a Socialist meeting, which had been attached to an American flag by a number of local Socialist leaders, be removed. The Socialists refused to heed the demand of the crowd and threatened the person with bodily injury. Later the banner was removed without trouble.

THE BEAGLES LEAVE

Most Successful Trail Meet of the Two Associations Comes to Close

The two beagle associations which held their annual trail meet in Genoa last week are more than satisfied with the result. There never were more good dogs together and there were a fair number of rabbits to give the sport the necessary zest.

Fanciers were here from all over the country, Dr. Still of the Kirksville School of Osteopathy, being among the number.

F. J. Williams of this city came in for his share of the prizes, winning in the field trails three firsts, one second and one divided third. He also won the blue ribbon in the bench show for the open class for bitches under thirteen inches. W. H. Leonard captured the blue ribbon in the pup class.

It is not likely that the fellows will come to Genoa next year, plans being now under way to take the trails to Kirksville, Mo.

ECKHARDT BUYS CLOVER

County Agriculturist Spends Several Days in Iowa with Profit to Himself

Clinton Herald: Professor William G. Eckhardt, consulting agriculturist of DeKalb county, Illinois, has returned home after spending several days in Scott county, buying a car load of clover seed for the farmers of his county, who buy all of their seed co-operatively through Mr. Eckhardt.

Mr. Eckhardt was shown a number of the best clover fields in the county by County Crop Specialist Bliss and he bought his seed from the farmers whose fields were freest from weeds. The crop betterment work in DeKalb county is about as organized as it is in Scott and Clinton counties in Iowa, according to Mr. Eckhardt, who has been the county agriculturist for the last fifteen months.

Mr. Eckhardt was taken to McCausland Saturday evening by Mr. Bliss to attend a meeting of farmers at which the latter spoke. In addition to securing the carload of seed Mr. Eckhardt secured information concerning the way in which the work of securing better crops is carried on in Scott county through township branches of the County Farm Improvement league and he will probably put the plan into operation in his own county.

State Game Preserves
President Dittmar, of the state fish and game commission, has announced that the commission will perfect a game preserve in every county in the state, early in the spring of the coming year. A tract of land will be leased in every county, the state to pay from two to five cents per acre for the use of the land and all the game in that tract will be properly protected. Not even the owner of the land will be permitted to shoot any of the game. The preserves will be stocked with game birds, including pheasants of various kinds, quail, prairie chicken, wild turkey and other species of wild game. The length of time the game will be protected has not been decided upon, this depending upon the success in raising the birds. It is the opinion of the commissioners that if the plan is carried through the state will have plenty of hunting in a few years.

A chicken pie dinner will be served at the catholic church on Saturday evening of this week, as a house-warming event for the new parsonage which is now being occupied by the pastor, Fr. O'Brien. Dinner will be served from five to eight o'clock at 25c per plate.

When She Wakes Up.
Once a woman realizes that it is a very awkward and wasteful method to wash dishes with the drainboard on her right and the dishes piled on her left, she will have the drainboard changed to her left and stack her dishes on the right side where they will be most quickly get-at-able. And if she will go to her dishwashing job with the idea of eliminating every minute of waste-labor, she will also quickly learn the importance of adjusting her dishpan to the right height.

Laughter Pays Well.
Laughing as a business-getter attracts favorable attention, makes pleasant impressions, transforms gruffness into cheerfulness and leaves the work done with a contented after-feeling.

Might Say Many Men.
"Some men," said Mrs. Pozzozele, "think that because they have one poor little woman bamboozled at home, that they possess great executive ability."

CO. SUPT. OF HIGHWAYS

William Miller of Sycamore and A. R. Russell Only Candidates From DeKalb County

At the examination last week of candidates for appointment to the new office of county superintendent of highways, provided for by the Tice highway bill, of the several from DeKalb county, William Miller of Sycamore and A. R. Russell of DeKalb were the only candidates who passed. Many candidates in the various counties failed because of the requirement that they should be civil engineers.

While the requirements are rigid and many, the remuneration in this county, which was established by the board of supervisors at $1,500, is not sufficient to induce a civil engineer of standing to accept it, and it may be necessary to raise the salary to get a man from this county to fill the position, although a man from outside the county may be appointed by the board if one can be secured and the board of supervisors to elect.

SPRING DUCK SHOOTING ENDS

U. S. Government Takes a Hand in Protecting Migratory Birds

Spring duck shooting is at an end in the United States. Regulations for the protection of migratory birds, approved on Oct. 1 by President Wilson, prohibit the killing of game and insectivorous birds during the breeding season, and place them in the custody of the United States government, which through the department of agriculture has established zones throughout the country and fixed closed seasons for each.

According to the rules laid down by the department of agriculture, the killing of ducks must cease in Illinois on December 16 and the closed season is to last until September 1.

Illinois hunters are hit hard by this decree of the government. In some portions of the state they are practically shut off entirely from hunting ducks, as owing to local conditions the spring months afford the only good shooting.

Counting Molecules.
A French mathematician has tried to convey to our minds some notion of the infinitesimal size of the molecule. He declares that if a person were to try to count the number of molecules in a cubic millimeter of hydrogen gas, taking one-billionth of a second to repeat each number, the task would occupy him for more than 1,000 years.—Youth's Companion.

"GETTYSBURG DAY"

Fiftieth Anniversary of Lincoln's Immortal Address to be Observed November 19

The greatest tribute ever paid any person, living or dead, will be paid to the memory of Abraham Lincoln on November 19th next. At half past three o'clock on the afternoon of that day five hundred thousand Illinois school children are expected to recite in unison the immortal address delivered by the martyred president on the Battlefield of Gettysburg. Abraham Lincoln delivered this "great literary and moral treasure" on November 19, 1863, at the dedication of the Gettysburg National Cemetery. It will be on the fiftieth anniversary of that occasion, and at the same hour of the day, that all school children above the Sixth Grade in the public schools of the State will be asked to recite the inspiring address.

Land History Repeats

(Private Car Excursion Tuesday, November 18th)

IN 1613 farms in America sold for beads or trinkets.

IN 1713 for tobacco.

IN 1813 for $1.00 or less an acre.

IN 1913 as high as $500 to $1,000 per acre.

From 1613 TO 1913 every generation has said: "Oh! If we could only have the opportunity to get land our fathers had." Some who saw the opportunity in their own day bought land and laid the foundations for some of the world's greatest fortunes.

YOUR GRAND DAD had some excuse for neglecting land opportunities, because 75 or 100 years ago the "unearned increment" came slowly and there was seemingly an endless amount of land to be had. In this generation we find men kicking themselves (and they ought to) because they did not buy even ten years ago and now be enjoying double and treble returns on the investment. THUNDER AND LIGHTNING could not trumpet forth and emblazon more plainly to the thinking man the fact that when any agricultural land in this country is worth $500 to $1,000 per acre, that any other good farm land that can be bought for $10 to $35 per acre is a great opportunity.

A HUNDRED YEARS may have been required to double land values in medieval times when men fought for land with the lance and sword; but in these times, when peace reigns practically throughout the world, it has taken less than ten years, as is shown by the census statistics. Since the multitudes went from Egypt to the promised land, land history has been repeating itself, and as surely as the price of land in the U. S. has doubled in the last ten years, just so surely will $10 to $35 land in the Swigart Tract double in value in the next ten years. It ought to do far better. Much of this land is now selling at $17 and $18 per acre and is ridiculously under priced, and I believe will sell for $150 per acre in the year 1921. You can see it right now producing staple crops that bring as much money per acre as the average $150 land in Illinois.

THERE'S A CLAIM ON YOU, Mr. Investor, Mr. Home Seeker, Mr. Farmer, Mr. Fruit Grower, in this tract, because it has things you want. Plants take their food, 1,000 parts of water to one of dry matter. A pound loaf of bread takes two tons of water from the time of planting the wheat. A ton of hay pumps 500 tons of water through the soil. You want pure water and plenty of it. This land has it. Good markets, short hauls, good transportation are things you want. This tract is worth more because it is only

170 miles from Chicago, and is nearer Grand Rapids, Milwaukee and Detroit. It has four railroads, several steamship lines and no 40 acres more than five miles from a shipping point, and 30,000 people to buy its products in Ludington and Manistee, cities located on the edge of the tract. You want a healthful climate, doctors recommend ours. You want good schools, churches, roads and telephones. We have them. You want good crops; we have plenty. If you know the productivity of rich, warm, sandy loam. Now is the time to come and see splendid crops that have been harvested of clover, rye, alfalfa, hay, beans, potatoes and all vegetables. I want doubters and seekers—those who find it hard to believe that such low-priced land will produce such good crops—to come and be convinced. IT IS EASY TO READ the past. It is an open book. Knowing the same things will happen over again, why do you not act? The terms on the land permit of your taking hold at once. They are as low as $10 to $50 down and $5 to $10 per month on 40 acres. While paying for the land, if you should die it will be decreed to your family free from any further payments, 5 per cent off for all cash, or annual payments if preferred. WHAT ARE YOUR future prospects? What are your plans? Ever feel the independence of owning a piece of land you could call your own and make your home? I want you to send me your address so I can send you a booklet telling about this district and showing photographic views of the lands and things of interest, also literature showing the development and improving going on, including electric power dams that are being built in the center of the tract at an expenditure of millions of dollars. MY NEXT PRIVATE CAR excursion will be Tuesday, Nov. 18, by P. M. R. R., leaving my offices at 11:30 a. m. Fare $8.30 round trip to Wellston, rebated on purchase. You get back to Chicago at 7:20 a. m. Thursday or Friday of the same week. F. H. Holtgren, Genoa, Illinois

A thriller that thrills, "The Fight at Grizzly Gulch" at the Petey Wales show next Wednesday night. This is positively one of the best that has ever been produced in western plays. It takes two reels to tell the story, and there is action in every inch of the two thousand feet of film. Don't miss this one. Then comes the great Pathe Weekly, comedy, drama and two other good reels. All for ten cents.

Mrs. G. E. Stott was an Elgin visitor Wednesday.

Mrs. Fred Waite was over from Belvidere Tuesday.

Edwin Albertson and Wm. Schnur were Batavia visitors Sunday.

Mrs. Fannie King went to Joliet Wednesday for a few weeks' visit.

Mrs. F. W. Duvall of Fairdale was in Genoa Monday calling on friends.

F. G. Robinson of Rockford called on Genoa friends the first of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Leonard and daughter, Kleona, visited in Chicago this week.

Fred Johnson and two daughters were Chicago visitors Monday.

Mesdames Cora Robinson and C. A. Brown were Chicago visitors Tuesday.

Mrs. F. E. Ball of Hampshire visited her cousin, Mrs. S. H. Matteson, last Friday.

The W. C. T. U. will meet Thursday afternoon, Nov. 13, at the home of Mrs. Perry Harlow.

The Royal Neighbors will meet at the home of Mrs. Fred Duvall on Tuesday afternoon, Nov. 5.

Mrs. Edna Eells entertained her sisters, Mrs. R. Stites and Miss Carrie Lloyd, from Winslow, over Sunday.

N. P. Thurber and wife of Milwaukee were guests this week at the home of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Holroyd.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Smith of Chicago were week end visitors at the home of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Smith.

Mrs. Marts and Mrs. Tracy, who have been visiting at the home of their uncle, H. R. Patterson, left Wednesday morning for their home in Wattsburg, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Anderson entertained their son of Davenport, Ia., the first of the week. The latter came here to attend the funeral of his cousin, Jos. Naker.

Rev. Fr. O'Brien will occupy his new home this week, the house having been completed and all furniture installed. The house is modern in every respect, being as complete in every detail as any house in Genoa.

Mrs. H. S. Matteson submitted to a severe operation at the Sycamore hospital Tuesday, being on the table about two and one-half hours. Present conditions indicate a complete recovery. The operation was performed by Dr. J. W. Ovit of this city, assisted by Dr. A. M. Hill.

The C. W. Best "Dutch Company" of the concert course appeared before a large audience last Friday evening at the M. E. church, it being the second number of the course which will be put on this winter. The program was above the average and was well received. Miss Smith is a good reader while Miss Paine and Miss Lister in the musical numbers held the attention of the audience.

The new Whipple building on Genoa street, which will be occupied by Robert Furr as a garage, will be practically finished this week with the exception of the cement floor. It will make an ideal garage building and is in a good location.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Corson of Elgin were here over Sunday, making the trip for the purpose of attending the fair and dinner at the home of G. C. Kitchen. It was some dinner too, according to the reports. Several of the fellows have not fully recovered at this time. It does beat all what harm can be done to a man's system for twenty-five cents. The editor knows, for he has eaten several dinners in Ney, himself, and has never fully recovered.

BIG HOLSTEIN SALE

Full Blood Cattle at Woodstock Bring Average Price of $200

That McHenry county has become one of the prominent centers in the Central West as the home of the Holstein-Friesian industry was demonstrated very fully last week Thursday at the big sale at the fair grounds in Woodstock, where over 100 head of these cattle brought together by prominent breeders from all over the country were sold to ready buyers says the Sentinel.

Among those at the sale were breeders from Indiana, Pennsylvania, Iowa, Michigan, Missouri, Washington and other states. The building was spirited and from time to time close competition among the stockmen was evinced when an especially fine pure bred was offered. The sale was a success from the standpoint of the consignors, although in several instances the selling price was conceded as too small.

The highest price in the sale was $450 paid for the Segis Plum, consigned by T. E. Getzelman of Hampshire. The buyer was J. F. DeYarmond of Marengo. Two other individuals topped the $400 mark and seven went well into the $300.

FRAN

BY JOHN BRECKENRIDGE ELLIS

(COPYRIGHT 1912 BOBBS-MERRILL CO.)

SYNOPSIS.

Fran arrives at Hamilton Gregory's home in Littleburg, but finds him absent conducting the choir at a camp meeting. She repairs thither in search of him, laughs during the service and is asked to leave. Abbott Ashton, superintendent of schools, escorts Fran from the tent. He tells her Gregory is a wealthy man, deeply interested in charity work, and a pillar of the church. Ashton becomes greatly interested in Fran and while taking leave of her, holds her hand and is seen by Sapphira Clinton, sister of Robert Clinton, chairman of the school board. Fran tells Gregory she wants a home with him. Grace Noir, Gregory's private secretary, takes a violent dislike to Fran and advises her to go away at once. Fran hints at a twenty-year-old secret, and Gregory in agitation asks Grace to leave the room. Fran relates the story of how Gregory married a young girl at Springfield while attending college and then deserted her. Fran is the child of that marriage. Gregory had married his present wife three years before the death of Fran's mother. Fran takes a liking to Mrs. Gregory. Gregory explains that Fran is the daughter of a very dear friend who is dead. Fran agrees to the story. Mrs. Gregory insists on her making her home with them and takes her to her room. The breach between Fran and Grace widens. It is decided that Fran must go to school. Grace shows persistent interest in Gregory's story of his dead friend and hints that Fran may be an impostor. She threatens to marry Bob Clinton and leave Gregory's service, much to the latter's dismay. Fran declares that the secretary must go.

CHAPTER IX.

Skirmishing.

Fran made no delay in planning her campaign against Grace Noir. Now that her position in Hamilton Gregory's household was assured, she resolved to seek support from Abbott Ashton. That is why, one afternoon, Abbott met her in the lower hall of the public school, after the other pupils had gone, and supposed he was meeting her by accident.

"Good evening, Nonpareil," he said, pleased that her name should have come to him at once. His attentive look found her different from the night of their meeting; she had lost her elfish smile and with it the romance of the unknown and unexpected. Was it because, at half-past four, one's charm is at lowest ebb? The janitor was sweeping down the hall stairs. The very air was filled with dusty realism—Fran was no longer pretty; he had thought—

"Then you haven't forgotten me," murmured Fran.

"No," he answered, proud of the fact. "You have made your home with Mr. Gregory. You are in Miss Bull's class-room. I knew Mr. Gregory would befriend you—he's one of the best men living. You should be very happy there."

"No," said Fran, shaking her head decidedly, "not happy."

He was rather glad the janitor was sweeping them out of the house. "You must find it pretty hard," he remarked, with covert reproach, "to keep from being happy."

"It isn't at all hard for me," Fran assured him, as she paused on the front steps. "Really, it's easy to be unhappy where Miss Grace Noir is."

It happened that just then the name Grace Noir was a sort of talisman opening to the young man's vision the interior of wonderful treasure-caves; it was like crying "Sesame!" to the very rocks, for though he was not

"and you will be Miss Noir." Then she twisted her mouth. "She makes me feel like tearing up things. I don't like her. I hoped you'd be on my side."

He came down the steps gravely. "She is my friend."

"I'm a good deal like you," Fran declared, following. "I can like most anything and anybody; but I can't go that far. Well, I don't like Miss Noir and she doesn't like me—isn't that fair?"

"Examine yourself," he advised, "and find out what it is in you that she doesn't like; then get rid of what you find."

"Huh!" Fran exclaimed, "I'm going to get rid of her, all right."

He saw the old elfish smile now when he least wanted to see it, for it threatened the secretary, mocked the grave superintendent, and asserted the girl's right to like whom she pleased.

Fran escaped, recognizing defeat; but on her homeward way, she was already preparing herself for the next move. So intent was she in estimating the forces of both sides, that she gave no heed to the watchful faces at cottage windows, she did not recognize the infrequent passers-by, nor observe the occasional bugles that creaked along the rutted road. With Grace stood, of course, Hamilton Gregory; and, judging from Bob Clinton's regular visits, and his particular attentions to Grace, Fran classed him also as a victim of the enemy. It now seemed that Abbott Ashton followed the flag Noir; and behind these three leaders, massed the congregation of Walnut Street church, and presumably the town of Littleburg.

Fran could count for her support an old bachelor with a weak heart, and an old lady with an ear-trumpet. The odds were terribly against her.

The first light skirmish between Fran and Grace took place on Sunday. All the Gregory household were at late breakfast Sunday-school bells were ringing their first call, and there was not a cloud in the heavens as big as a man's hand, to furnish excuse for non-attendance.

The secretary fired the first shot. Apropos of nothing that had gone before, but as if it were an integral part of the conversation, she offered—"And, Mrs. Gregory, it is so nice that you can go to church now, since, if Fran doesn't want to go, herself—"

"Which she doesn't, herself," Fran interjected.

"So I presumed," Grace remarked significantly. "Mrs. Gregory, Fran can stay with your mother—since she doesn't care for church—and you can attend services as you did when I first came to Littleburg."

"I am sure," Mrs. Gregory said quietly, "that it would be much better for Fran to go to church. She ought to go—I don't like to think of her staying away from the services—and my duty is with nothing."

Grace said nothing, but the expression of her mouth seemed to cry aloud. Duty, indeed! What did Mrs. Gregory know about duty, neglecting the God who had made her, to stay with an old lady who ought to be wheeled to church! Mrs. Gregory was willing for her husband to fight his Christian warfare alone. But alone? No! not while Grace could go with him.

Gregory coldly addressed Fran: "Then, will you go to church?" It was as if he complained, "Since my wife won't—"

"I might laugh," said Fran. "I don't understand religion."

Grace felt her purest ideals insulted. She rose, a little pale, but without rudeness. "Will you please excuse me?" she asked with admirable restraint.

"Miss Grace!" Hamilton Gregory exclaimed, disturbed. That she should be driven from his table by an insult to their religion was intolerable. "Miss Grace—forgive her."

Mrs. Gregory was pale, for she, too, had felt the blow. "Fran!" she exclaimed reproachfully.

Old Mrs. Jefferson stared from the girl seated at the table to the erect secretary, and her eyes kindled with admiration. Had Fran commanded the "dragon" to "stand?"

Simon Jefferson held his head close to his plate, as if hoping the storm might pass over his head.

"Don't go away!" Fran cried, overcome at sight of Mrs. Gregory's distress. "Sit down, Miss Noir. Let me be the one to leave the room, since it isn't big enough for both of us." She darted up, and ran to the head of the table.

Mrs. Gregory buried her face in her hands.

"Don't you bother about me," Fran coaxed; "to think of giving you pain, dear lady! I wouldn't hurt you for anything in the world, and the person who would isn't worthy of being touched by my foot," and Fran stamped her foot. "If it'll make you a mite happier, I'll go to church, and Sunday-school, and prayer meeting, and the young people's society, and the Ladies' Aid, and the missionary society, and the choir practice, and the night service—and—"

She darted from the room.

Grace looked at Gregory, seeming to ask him if, after this outrageous behavior, he would suffer Fran to dwell under his roof. Of course, Mrs. Gregory did not count; Grace made no attempt to understand this woman who, while seemingly of a yielding nature, could show such hardness, such a fixed purpose in separating herself from her husband's spiritual adventures. It made Grace feel so sorry for the husband that she quietly resumed her place at the table.

Grace was now more than ever resolved that she would drive Fran away—it had become a religious duty. How could it be accomplished? The way was already prepared; the secretary was convinced that Fran was an impostor. It was merely needful to prove that the girl was not the daughter of Gregory's dead friend. Grace would have to delve into the past, possibly visit the scenes of Gregory's youth—but it would pay. She looked at her employer with an air suggesting protection.

Gregory's face relaxed on finding himself once more near her. Fortunately for his peace of mind, he could not read the purpose hidden behind those beautiful eyes.

"I wonder," Simon Jefferson growled, "why somebody doesn't badger me to go to church!" Indignant because Fran had fled the pleasing fields of his interested vision, he paused, as if to invite antagonism.

He announced, "This talk has excited me. If we can't live and let live, I'll go and take my meals at Miss Sapphira Clinton's."

No one dared to answer him, not even Grace. He marched into the garden where Fran sat huddled upon a rustic bench. "I was just saying," Simon told her indignantly, "that if all this to-do over religion isn't put a stop to, I'll take my meals at the Clintons'!"

Fran looked up at him without moving her chin from her palms, and asked as she tried, apparently, to tie her feet into a knot, "Isn't that where Abbott Ashton boards?"

"Do you mean Professor Ashton?" he returned, with subtle reproach.

Fran, still dejected, nodded carelessly. "We're both after the same man."

Simon lit the pipe which his physician had warned him was bad for his heart. "Yes, Professor Ashton boards at the Clintons'."

"Must be awfully jolly at the Clintons'," Fran said wistfully.

CHAPTER X.

An Ambuscade.

Fran's conception of the Clinton Boarding-House, the home of jollity, was not warranted by its real atmosphere. Since there were not many inhabitants of Littleburg detached from housekeeping, Miss Sapphira Clinton depended for the most part on "transients;" and, to hold such in subjection, preventing them from indulging in that noisy gaiety to which "transients" are naturally inclined—just because they are transitory—the elderly spinster had developed an abnormal solemnity.

This solemnity was not only beneficial to "drummers" and "court men" acutely conscious of being away from home, but it helped her brother Bob. Penetrated his thick skin, the popular Littleburg merchant was as unmaneuverable as the wall. Before he grew accustomed to fall into a semi-coma,

TRAGEDY TURNED TO COMEDY

British Officer Tells How Snuff Saved Him From a Hungry Indian Tigress.

A comedy which came very near to tragedy is related by a gallant officer of the Bengal Lancers, now home on furlough.

Here is the strange true story in the soldier's own words:

"I was out for a day in the jungle, and had had rather poor sport. Lying down for a bit of a rest upon some bark in the grass on the edge of a wood in the afternoon, I was seized from behind without a moment's warning by a huge tigress, which had got my scent and silently tracked me down.

"She seized me by the breast of the coat with her great teeth, and quickly shook me into a state of unconsciousness. Of course, I thought it was all up with me.

"But no. Before long I made a startling recovery. Hardly realizing for a while where I was and what had happened, I heard a little distance away a peculiar noise, as if someone was sneezing violently. It was the terrible tigress.

"I rubbed my still somewhat dazed eyes, and then discerned the great beast slinking away, sneezing all the time, and every now and again emitting a frightful roar.

"Only when she had got clean out of sight did the strange truth dawn upon me. The tigress, in shaking me preparatory to finishing me off, had jerked my recently replenished snuff-box open from my jacket pocket, and received the contents full in her face and eyes. Hence the sudden retreat and my salvation."

Extravagance Rebuked.

Two bachelors live together in a flat on East Nineteenth street. They did themselves into thinking that they save rent and board and clothes and gain freedom and a lot of other things by so doing. But the collector comes to them the same as he does to married folk.

The other morning one of the bachelors awoke from a sound sleep and called to the other:

"What was that noise I heard?"

"A shot," replied the other, from the hall.

"What did you do?"

"I killed a bill collector."

in love with Gregory's secretary, he fancied the day of fate was not far ahead.

He had no time to seek fair and romantic ladies. Five years ago, Grace Noir had come from Chicago as if to spare him the trouble of a search. Fate seemed to thrust her between his eyes and the pages of his textbooks. Abbott never felt so unworthy as when in her presence; an unerring instinct seemed to have provided her with an absolute standard of right and wrong, and she was so invariably right that no human affection was worthy of her unless refined seven times. Within himself, Abbott discovered dross.

"Try to be a good girl, Fran," he counseled. "Be good, and your association with Miss Noir will prove the happiest experience of your life."

"Be good," she returned mockingly, locked her up. Miss Gordon was persuaded to unlock the iron door of the manager's office. Caruthers was lured down from a rafter and John Logan, the stage doorkeeper, began shouting for help from an elevator pit. Donita was revived.

TURTLE HEADS NAB CHICKENS

Jefferson City, Mo.—Mr. and Mrs. M. F. See, of Montgomery county, Missouri, caught two turtles some time ago which they prepared to fatten for soup. The day for killing them came recently. Mr. See went out and chopped their head off and threw them away and proceeded to prepare for the feast.

Presently he heard a flutter among the chickens which attracted his attention, and he found the head of a turtle had caught a chicken and from all appearance was trying to swallow it.

Later he heard the second disturbance among the chickens and upon investigation he found the other head had caught a chicken. Now Mr. See wants to know when a turtle is supposed to know it is dead.

GREAT EXCITEMENT BEHIND THE SCENES

Escaped Lioness in Theater Gives Dainty Donita Scare of Her Life.

NO CHANCE TO RUN

Vaudeville Dancer Wakes From Reverie to Find Ramping Beast at Her Shoulder; Showed Presence of Mind by Rolling Downstairs.

Chicago.—Dainty Donita's "Book of Etiquette and Social Guide" contains no directions for conduct when one awakens from a reverie to find a fierce escaped lioness hungrily opening a foot or two of tooth-lined mouth right at one's shoulder.

So when such a denouement came at a local theater the other day, when Charley Caruthers, a giant negro boy who works back-stage, became nearly incandescent because of the speed with which he flashed up a spiral stairway, and when a crowd of stage helpers melted into thin air all around her, Donita forgot all her bewitching graces as a dancer.

She wasn't, for the moment, "Dainty Donita." She was just a girl, and a "mighty scared one at that," she admits, so she did just what any girl might do. She fainted away and rolled down the stairway into a dressing-room under the stage.

The steel curtain of the theater came down with a crash. Trainers rushed upon the frightened lioness and drove her back into an iron cage, and the audience of 2,000 persons had only the screams of Donita and Miss Blanch Gordon to advise it of the excitement behind the scenes.

The "Gypsy Princess" had finished her act with the eight lions that perform with her in the steel-clad arena. "Arcona," the lioness which caused the disturbance, has been annoyed because the other beasts kept her two-weeks-old cubs nervous.

So when the "princess" entered the cage after her act to help shut the animals into their permanent quarters, "Arcona" slipped out.

Donita sat at the head of the stairway, waiting for Jack Crippen, a piano player, to come up, and dreaming of a day when not Pavlova, but Donita, should be looked upon by the world as its foremost dancer.

"I looked around," said the dancer afterward, "and there was that awful lioness, her mouth open wide enough just simply to swallow me whole. Thank Heaven, I had presence of mind enough to faint away."

No one could know, of course, that "Arcona," with every man's hand against her, was frightened almost into leonine hysterics.

The "princess" and "Arcona's" trainer, "Pete" Taylor, finally pushed the lioness behind some scenery and

STOP THAT BACKACHE

There's nothing more discouraging than a constant backache. You are lame when you awake. Pains pierce you when you bend or lift. It's hard to rest and next day it's the same old story.

Pain in the back is nature's warning of kidney ills. Neglect may pave the way to dropsy, gravel, or other serious kidney sickness.

Don't delay—begin using Doan's Kidney Pills—the remedy that has been curing backache and kidney trouble for over fifty years.

A MICHIGAN CASE

Peter Locks, Leelanau St. Frankfort, Mich., says: "I had awful backaches brought on by hard work. I couldn't control the kidney secretion and in the morning I was so lame and tired I could hardly get out of bed. My back ached terribly and if I tried to stoop, the pain was so bad I often got so dizzy that I almost toppled over. After the doctors had failed, I used Doan's Kidney Pills and six boxes cured me."

400,000 Settlers a Year

60 ACRE FARMS IN WESTERN CANADA FREE

Immigration figures show that the population of Canada increased during 1911, by the addition of 400,000 new settlers from the United States and Europe. Most of these have gone on farms in the provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta.

Lord William Paerey, an English Nobleman, says: "The possibilities and opportunities offered by the West are so infinitely greater than those which exist in England, that it seems absurd to think that people should be impeded from coming to the country where they can most easily and certainly improve their position."

New districts are being opened up, which will make accessible a great number of homesteads in districts especially adapted to mixed farming and grain raising.

FOR COUGHS AND COLDS

PROPER TREATMENT OF THE VEGETABLES

Let onions dry a day or two if the weather is favorable, and then gather and store them. The onion is one of the hardiest of garden plants and is grown largely as a winter crop.

Not all vegetables require the same treatment, and it must be understood that the kind of storage that is good for one is fatal to another. Cabbages, parsnips, salsify and carrots are not injured by freezing. Irish potatoes, celery and apples will stand a light freeze, while sweet potatoes will be ruined even by a frost.

I have not often kept a great amount of vegetables in a cellar, and prefer the outdoor pits, especially for apples and celery and the vegetables that are not injured by freezing. I dig a shallow trench wide enough for two rows of heads, pull the cabbage by the root, bury in the trench and cover with dirt, and it does not matter whether they are covered deep enough for keeping out frost, as cabbage will thaw out again and not be injured, providing the thawing is while in contact with the dirt.

It should not be stored until quite severe weather, but if it turns cold suddenly so as to freeze the heads solid, they should be buried at once so that they may thaw out in the ground. Carrots, salsify and parsnips are benefited by freezing in the ground and turnips are not injured.

All these are stored similar to the cabbage, being piled in a conical heap and covered with dirt.

In order that they may be convenient to get at during the winter, cover the dirt with straw or fodder, so that the ground will not freeze more than a few inches.

Irish potatoes should be buried in a slight depression, have straw placed under and on top, then covered with dirt; or, stored in the cellar, they may be piled down in one corner, as moisture does not hurt them, and they should be kept as cold as possible without freezing.

Apples are kept the same way as potatoes, and it adds to convenience in handling if the pit is kept dry by a movable shed or short boards.

Apples are much better kept this way, and only a few should be kept in cellar for immediate use.

Celery must be stored in moist earth whether in the cellar or pit.

By far the best method I have ever followed is to dig the bunches, roots and all, and bank them on top of the ground or in a slight depression on a well drained spot in a heap two feet or less wide and as long as necessary.

Set the roots in contact with the moist earth, draw the tops together and pull the dirt around in such a way as to completely cover without getting any in the crown or the heart.

Sufficient covering should be added to keep out the frost. Celery should not be stored until it is cold enough for thin ice to form at night, and if banked in the fall to begin blanching before it is stored, a little covering on top will protect it until late in November, when the ground freezes hard.

It will not thaw out in the ground, as cabbage, and be good after a solid freeze. If stored in the cellar, it must be kept in a box or a barrel with the roots in contact with the moist earth, care being taken to keep the water off the stalks.

It is not a difficult matter to force-rubarb during the winter, and if properly done, people living near a good, big market can make fine profit in this work.

Sweet potatoes must be dug before the frost if they are to be kept long. If the vines are bitten by frost, cut them off immediately and dig the potatoes in a few days.

It is necessary that they be kept above the frost point, about 65 degrees being the ideal temperature.

It is also essential that they be kept dry, with a free circulation of air, and possibly the best building for keeping large quantities would be of brick or stone, heated by a furnace. Where a few are wanted for home use, a box or barrel of dry sand or road dust is a good place to keep them, and this should be kept in a room where the

IN COLOR COMBINATION

NEW MILLINERY HAS A CHARM OF ITS OWN.

Small Hat is Most in Favor—For Trimmings, Feathers and Ribbon Are Preferred—Illustration Shows Popular Design.

There is much to be said in favor of the new millinery, for, although many, perhaps the majority of hats seem almost ridiculous in their eccentricities, as they are viewed from their pedestals in the glass cases of the shops, they are certainly picturesque and conservative enough when properly adjusted atop of the head.

The new hats show the interesting color combinations so fashionable in gowns. Many models have either the crown and brim of different colors, not to mention different fabrics also, or else the crown and brim are one of color with an under facing that is in strong contrast.

Almost without exception the hats are small, with close-fitting crown and brims—if there are brims—that hug the head. The trimmings are legion, with feathers and ribbons in the lead.

Most of the dressy models are planned to give extra height, and the result is achieved through the trimmings, as in the hat here sketched with its large mount of black plume toward the rear. The hat itself is one of the new "fan-tailed" shapes with a close "cap" crown slightly gathered, and a narrow poke brim that increases in width at the back, where it is turned abruptly up against the crown, allowing a glimpse of the coil.

On this particular instance it is developed in black and white. The crown and upper side of the brim are covered with white beaver plush and the under brim facing is of black carried just over the upper edge in a cord piping.

It is a model well adapted to many color schemes and one that can be nicely made to match a street costume.—Lillian Young in Washington Star.

To Tell Linen. In purchasing a piece of linen, if in doubt, dampen a finger in the mouth, put it on the material, and if the dampness shows on the opposite side at the same time the goods is linen. Cotton fabrics are slower to absorb moisture.

Pretty Baby Cap. Use white lace all over, and draw the fullness in at the back with ribbon run through a tiny hem. Edge the bonnet with a lace ruffle, and make long strings of fine lace insertion about three inches wide.

FOR THE AFTERNOON TEA. Hostess Must Be Quick to Pick Up Ideas Others May Be Able to Give Her. The clever hostess knows there is no surer way to keep abreast of the times in the matter of afternoon tea accessories than to pay frequent visits to the big hotels and restaurants at the tea hour.

The home caterer need have no hesitancy in trying to duplicate the dainty tea wafers known at the fashionable tea-drinking establishments as "hick-ories" and "pecanecakes." These are easily made; rich little nut cakes, with often a dash of sherry or a few drops of brandy to accentuate the nutty flavor.

USEFUL IN THE HOUSE WORK. Extensive Pockets in Which Many Articles May Be Bestowed Are Worth Consideration. For such occupations as housework the older the garments worn the better, for the obvious reason that good clothes would be quickly soiled, therefore an old skirt that "doesn't matter" should especially be set aside for the purpose.

remnant of material from which the skirt was made, then that could be used.

In such work as nailing up pictures, laying carpets, hanging curtains, an apron is very often much in the way, and an old skirt with roomy pockets of the nature described is almost as easily slipped on as an apron and will be found a great improvement upon it, and hammer, tacks, pins, etc., can be placed in the pockets and be ready to hand whenever required.

PINCUSHION IN HEART SHAPE

Dainty Design That Calls for Little Work to Make Attractive Ornament.

Our sketch shows a decorative little pincushion which is very simple and easy to make. It should be carried out in quite a small size, and it is intended for hanging from the post of the looking glass or a nail in the wall by the side of the glass.

In making it, in the first place, a piece of cardboard is cut out in the shape of a heart, measuring three and a quarter inches by two and three-quarter inches. This cardboard is well padded on both sides with cotton wool, and then covered with scarlet velvet, the pieces of material being neatly sewn together at the edges and the seam afterwards being hidden with a fine silk cord of an old gold color. Sewn in at the center at the top is a loop of narrow ribbon of a color to match the cord, for hanging up the cushion.

This cushion might, of course, be carried out in other combinations of color to please different tastes, and it is a specially suitable little article to prepare for sale in a bazaar, as very little material is required in the making of it, and it should sell at a good profit. A number of these little cushions, hung about here and there will form a decorative addition to a stall, and some of them might be embroidered with pretty floral designs or single initials.

Rings Tear Stockings. Many women who wear silk stockings complain of small rips and broken stitches and imagine that the stockings are faulty of make, but this is not always the difficulty. The cause of the little break often comes from running one's hand within the stockings while rings are on the fingers. These rings and the stones in them catch the tiny threads and break them, causing the damage.

Darning Hint. Instead of darning, cut the hole round or oblong, as the case may be. Place over a darning ball, then cut from an old stocking a piece to fit the hole, place in, care being taken to have the threads in patch run the same as in the stocking. Then with a fine needle, and one strand of darning cotton, darn neatly back and forth, bringing the edges just together.

To Clean Light Woolen. Make a mixture of borax and half a cake of magnesia. Mix this dry and scrub the goods with it. To clean wool shawls, sweaters, etc., sprinkle the mixture over the garment, place inside a sheet folded several times and beat lightly. It is surprising how much the borax assists in the cleaning process.

The simple suggestion illustrated by the accompanying sketch can be carried out in a few moments. It merely consists of making two roomy pockets of the nature shown in the front of the skirt. These pockets can be made of any strong material such as brown holland, for instance, and may be cut out in one piece, sewn down the center and bound at the openings with braid, or possibly, should we have a Perpetual Motion. One may well be sure that there is no "perpetual motion machine." For this purpose machines have been constructed from time immemorial, but nothing has ever come of it. Men have gone mad on the subject, but without any practical results. It was demonstrated long ago by Sir Isaac Newton and De la Hire that perpetual motion is impossible of attainment. Even the solar system, the most wonderful machine of which we have any knowledge, will run down in the course of time, some say in about $11,000,000 of years from now.

NOT AS BAD AS ALL THAT

Judge Resents Attitudes of "Funny Men" as to Present Tendency in Dress.

Judge Ralph S. Latschaw squelched in Kansas City, the other day, an impatient movement against the close-fitting skirt with a slash.

"Narrow skirts don't mean immorality," said Judge Latschaw. "One of the most vicious epoch was when hoop skirts were worn.

"Why, I remember when it was considered immodest for a woman to arrange her coiffure so as to show her ears. We have advanced.

"We have advanced, but we haven't advanced as far as the jokesmiths and cartoonists would pretend.

"Doctor," said a pretty girl—so runs the latest joke—doctor, I want you to vaccinate me, please, where it won't show.

"Humph," said the gruff doctor. "I guess you'll have to take it internally, then."

Preposterous. Old Party—Do you stop at the Savoy, my good man?

If you are ill do not drag along until an operation is necessary, but at once take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

WOMAN ESCAPES OPERATION

By Timely Use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Here is her own statement. Cary, Maine.—"I feel it a duty I owe to all suffering women to tell what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for me. One year ago I found myself a terrible sufferer. I had pains in both sides and such a soreness I could scarcely straighten up at times. My back ached, I had no appetite and was so nervous I could not sleep, then I would be so tired mornings that I could scarcely get around. It seemed almost impossible to move or do a bit of work and I thought I never would be any better until I submitted to an operation. I commenced taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and soon felt like a new woman. I had no pains, slept well, had good appetite and was fat and could do almost all my own work for a family of four. I shall always feel that I owe my good health to your medicine."—Mrs. HATWARD SOWERS, Cary, Maine.

Rheumatism, Sprains Backache, Neuralgia

"Yes, daughter, that's good stuff. The pain in my back is all gone—I never saw anything work as quickly as Sloan's Liniment." Thousands of grateful people voice the same opinion. Here's the proof.

Relieved Pain in Back. "I was troubled with a very bad pain in my back for some time. I went to a doctor but he did not do me any good, so I purchased a bottle of Sloan's Liniment, and now I am a well woman. I always keep a bottle of Sloan's Liniment in the house."—Miss Maudie Cotton, 364 Myrtle Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Sciatic Rheumatism. "We have used Sloan's Liniment for over six years and found it the best we ever used. When my wife had sciatic rheumatism the only thing that did her any good was Sloan's Liniment. We cannot praise it highly enough."—Mr. Parigo, 126 Adams, Iowa.

Sprained Ankle Relieved. "I was ill for a long time with a severely sprained ankle. I got a bottle of Sloan's Liniment and now I am able to be about and can walk a great deal. I write this because I think you deserve a lot of credit for putting such a fine Liniment on the market and I shall always take time to recommend Dr. Sloan's Liniment."—Mrs. Chas. Ross, Baltimore, Md.

EGGE is a good, honest, reliable, and economical medicine. It is the most known medicine and tonic for poultry. It contains Phosphate, Food, Iron, Calcium, etc. It is the best for all poultry diseases. It keeps poultry healthy and increases egg production, supplying the necessary nutrition for the egg and phosphate for the shell. It is composed of 60 parts egg-forming material, 10 parts liver, kidney and heart regulator, 10 parts food, 10 parts iron and phosphorus, 10 parts blood solvent and purifier. In each package is a booklet telling in simple every day language how to feed for eggs; how to feed baby chicks, and the easiest way to treat poultry diseases - worth many dollars to poultry men. EGGE Cures cholera, rot, rickets, diarrhoea, pin, gapes, diarrhoea, etc. If leaves one fowl 12 more than lays for the day - it may save 100. Only 1 extra egg a month will pay cost of feeding EGGE. Better paying chicks grow like magic. Very economical to use. Money back if it fails. Price $1.00 for large pkg. Your dealer will supply you. If he refuses send $1.00 per pkg. express prepaid. Rats Fought for Comrade.
Rats defended a comrade at Hungerford near London, England, on a recent night. An engineer at the Hungerford outfall works of the London Sewage system struck a large rat when making his rounds. Immediately scores of rats appeared and attacked the man fiercely, tearing at his trousers. Taking to his heels, the man was pursued by the animals for several hundred yards.
