ENTERED AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER, SEPTEMBER 16, 1904, AT THE POSTOFFICE AT GENOA, ILLINOIS, UNDER ACT OF CONGRESS OF MARCH 3, 1879

GENOA, ILLINOIS, OCTOBER 20, 1922

VOLUME XVII, NO. 50

NOTES FROM THE COURT HOUSE

Mrs. Joe Meirath Files Suit for Divorce--Charges Cruelty

DRUNKEN DRIVER IS ARRESTED

After Nearly Causing a Series of Smash-ups on DeKalb's Busiest Corner

Dina Meirath of Malta filed her bill for divorce in the circuit court on Tuesday against Joseph Meirath. It is averred in the bill that the parties were married in Sycamore on April 22, 1912 and from the date of the marriage until October 5, 1922 continued to live together. There were born out of the marriage three children, Margaret 10 years, Frances, 7 years and Anna four years, all three of which are now living with the mother.

The complainant states in her bill that the defendant, a few years after their marriage, commenced the use of intoxicating liquor and has been guilty of habitual drunkenness; that whenever he can obtain liquor he becomes under the influence of it and stays under the influence until the liquor is all gone.

She further avers that the defendant has been guilty of extreme and repeated cruelty toward her and in 1922 grabbed hold of the complainant pushed her through a fence then took her to a wash house on the farm and there drew a knife and made scratches on her neck threatening to kill her; also that on October 5 of this year he threatened to kill her with a shot gun and as a result of his conduct it became necessary for her to seek safety at the home of her brother in Dixon.

Joe Meirath, the defendant, is now doing a five months' sentence in the county jail for an attempt to kill Sheriff Decker a week ago Friday.

FORD PRICES IN RECORD DROP

GOVERNMENT OFFERS BONDS

A Baby Issue of U. S. Treasury Certificates--to Bear 4 Per Cent

Ten million dollars worth of new U. S. Treasury Certificates dated September 30, are now in the hands of postmasters in the seventh Federal Reserve District. These certificates are issued in denominations of $25, $100 and $1,000 and are offered to the public on a discount basis for $20.50, $82.00 and $820.00 respectively. Each certificate is protected against all forms of loss by registration and money invested in them increases about 22 per cent in five years.

Secretary Mellon of the treasury department expects that this new issue of baby bonds will prove popular with millions of small investors and hopes to build up a large army of regular monthly buyers. The new certificates differ from other government securities in that the owner may demand the return of his investment at any time.

SOMEBODY IS MISLEAD

Charging that a deliberate attempt is being made to prejudice the people against the proposed new constitution before they had an opportunity to study it, Henry J. Green of Urbana, chairman of the committee on submission, today made a stinging reply to a statement given to the press by Henry Hooker Van Meter, a Bible League organizer, located at present in Springfield.

"The Van Meter statement charged that the words 'in the year of our Lord' had been omitted from the draft of the constitution and that this vitiated it. A number of Springfield ministers and others, according to press reports, signed the protest.

"Evidently the gentlemen who signed this statement," Mr. Green said, "were misled". If they will go to the office of the secretary of state, where the official copy of the constitution as adopted by the convention is on file, they will find that the closing words of the text are as follows:

Done in convention at the capitol in the city of Springfield on the twelfth day of September in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred twenty-two, of the Independence of the United States of America the one hundred forty-seventh and of the

MONKS LOSES CUSTODY OF CHILDREN

Judge Pond Makes Boy and Girl, Aged 12 and 5, Wards of the Court

ACTS AGAINST DEPRAVED PAIR

Ordered Monks to Dispense With Services of Housekeeper--Nearly Fined for Contempt of Court

Leland Monks of the age of 12 years and Mildred Monks of the age of 5 years, children of Frank W. Monks of the city of Genoa, appeared before Judge Pond in the county court on Friday to determine whether the father was a fit person to continue the custody of the children.

A petition was filed in the county court by Fred Shockley charging that the home of the children by reason of cruelty and depravity had become an unfit place for the boy and girl.

A number of Genoa's influential citizens appeared as witnesses in court to sustain the charge. From the evidence brought out by State's Attorney Poust it appeared that the mother of the children died some time ago and recently the father secured one Margaret Losseau, 23 years of age, to act as housekeeper. Ever since the housekeeper entered the home the children began to suffer. They were punished by the housekeeper for minor offenses and profane language was used everyday in the presence of the children, by both housekeeper and the father.

Even in the face of the evidence of the severe punishment administered by the housekeeper, Monks maintains she treated the children very good and came very close to contempt of court, when he stated he would marry whom he pleased.

RETURN MATCH IN BILLIARDS

To Be Played at Redwood Parlors Next Monday Evening at 7:00 p. m.

Lee Fischbach, the local young man who invaded the sanctum of the Earlville, Ill., billiard enthusiasts a short time back, and defeated their star cue artist in two straight games, one of billiards for 300 points and the same number in pool, will endeavor to defend his duly acquired title of one of the best in the county next Monday evening, October 23, when E. Burisch, the Earlville man, comes for a return match. Come early and get your seat. It will be worth the while.

Bids will be offered in November for the machinery for the new pumping outfit and Genoa will be well fixed when this is completed, in regards to a water famine or serious fire.

THREE WEEK-END AUTO ACCIDENTS

Henry Burroughs' Car is Badly Damaged Resulting From Collision

CHARLES WAGER TURNS TURTLE

Machine in Ditch at Chambelain's Corner--Geo. Van Wee Into Ditch Off Narrow Road

Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Burroughs, Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Scott and Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Patterson left last Saturday afternoon to visit friends in Chicago. However, fate had other plans in store for them. About ten miles east of Geneva on Roosevelt road the Burroughs' car, with Lewis Scott driving, was passing two wagons when a Chevrolet Sedan shot out from behind the rear wagon. The driver of the sedan attempted to get back into place behind the wagon again but skidded on the wet pavement and the two cars collided. "Scotty" turned toward the ditch in order to avoid a heavy blow and the occupants of the car emerged from the smash with out a scratch altho the car was quite badly damaged. The Genoa Garage responded to the help call and Welter towed in the car; Mr. Allen of Chicago was also notified and he brought the remaining members of the party to their homes here.

Charles Wager Turns Turtle

Monday night as Mr. Wager was approaching Genoa from the south on the Sycamore-Genoa road with the aid of lanterns instead of auto-lights, ran afoul of a ditch and turned completely over with the wheels sticking up in the air. Luckily for Mr. Wager the machine was a Ford and the weight did not crush him. He crawled from beneath the wreckage and walked into town to secure help in resurrecting the "fallen Lizzie".

Geo. Van Wee Slides Into Ditch

Sunday night as Geo. Van Wee was coming toward Genoa along the Genoa-Hampshire road, his lights went out. A flash light in the hands of Walter Rosenfeld tried to illuminate the rocky blackness along the extremely narrow highway at this particular point, but 'twas of no avail. The Ford slid into the ditch and turned gently over on the side, breaking the glass in the windshield. Help was procured and the machine righted and the two men continued their trip toward the city of their destination.

FORMER GENOA WOMAN DIES

Mrs. Sarah J. Thomas Sumner Dies in Sterling, Col., After Long Illness

Word was received Tuesday of the death of Mrs. Sarah J. Sumner (ne Thomas), former Genoa resident, who was born at Springboro, Penn., July 5, 1849 and after months of untold suffering, passed away at her home in Sterling, Colorado on Tuesday, October 17, 1922. She was preceded in death by her husband, Ebenezer G. Sumner, who died at Genoa December 5, 1899.

Obituary

Mrs. Sarah Thomas Sumner was born in Springboro, Pa., July 5, 1849. In 1864 she moved to Genoa and taught school until 1869 when she was married to E. I. Sumner. To this union were born 8 children, 3 of whom have preceded their mother in death. The living are Will Sumner of Payette, Idaho, Alma, Horace and Bells Walters all of Sterling. Besides the children there are many grand-children and other relatives.

She joined the Grace M. E. church in Rockford early in life and maintained her membership to the end. Her body was brought back to Genoa for burial on Wednesday, October 18, 1922 in Genoa cemetery.

She Had Her License Safe.
A tall, willowy young woman at Seventh avenue and Thirteenth street, New York, was reciting her complaint to an officer, charging a taxi driver who had jolted her car with failure to observe traffic regulations. The driver protested that she lied.
"I'll bring a complaint against her," said the driver. "She hasn't got a license."
"Yes, I have."
"Well, where is it?" asked the driver.
"Do I have to show it to him?" she asked the policeman.
"Show it to me," he said.
Without flinching, she lifted her skirts knee high, and produced the much desired license from her stocking.

Her Military Aunt.
Mrs. Smallwaist was annoyed. Her maid was always going out.
"Sarah," said Mrs. Smallwaist, "I cannot have you continually going out. Next Sunday you must stay at home."
"Oh, but ma'am. I've promised my aunt to spend the afternoon with her."
It was just then that little Jackie chipped in.
"Do let her go, ma!" he said. "Her aunt has been made a sergeant, and he's got a new coat with stripes on!"

BRITAIN SPURNS U.S. 'DRY' TREATY

London Government Refuses to Give America Right to Search Ships.

TO HELP CURB ILLICIT BOOZE

Declares International Law Involved Is Too Important for Change—Hughes' Plan Fails—Ambassador Geddes Presents Note.

Washington, Oct. 17.—Under no circumstances will the government of Great Britain consider entering into a reciprocal treaty arrangement with the United States whereby the three-mile limit of territorial water would be extended to facilitate the apprehension of liquor smugglers suspected of operating off American shores.

The refusal of the British government to extend the limit to twelve miles was communicated to Secretary Hughes by Sir Auckland Geddes, the British ambassador.

The British answer, dated October 13, was in reply to the American note of June 26 last, in which Secretary of State Hughes asked British co-operation in prevention of abuses in regard to clearance papers and false registries, and at the same time suggested an extension of territorial waters.

In effect, the British foreign office instructed Ambassador Geddes to inform the State department that the principle of international law embodied in the three-mile limit was too important for even considering an infringement of it. Great Britain, the note declared, always had opposed extension, and the situation confronting the United States in regard to liquor smuggling off its shores is not regarded as sufficient ground for a departure from the "principle."

The note concluded with the pious hope that the smuggling of which Secretary Hughes complained is temporary, and that the United States government in time will be able to check it by its own efforts. With regard to the abuses such as double clearance papers, given by port authorities, the false transfer of American ships to British registry, and more careful supervision of cargoes, the British government extended sympathy and promised the most complete co-operation.

DE KALB MAN "SOCKED" $200
After a sensational ride into St. Charles during which he crashed in to another car and almost drove his machine into the Fox river, F. F. Fisher, DeKalb hotelman, was arrested Tuesday night and fined the following day $200 and costs by Justice McConkey.

Officer Crawford, who arrested Fisher, declared that he was "driving while intoxicated." Scores of witnesses corroborated his statement.

Fisher, driving a new Buick roadster, which he had purchased Tuesday, drove into St. Charles on Prairie street going over forty miles an hour. He smashed into the machine of D. Elliott, an employe of the St. Charles School for Boys, but kept going until he crossed the railroad tracks, finally bringing his machine to a halt on the riverbank—DeKalb Chronicle.

WHEN DICKENS VISITED YALE

Students Sang Under Novelist's Window at Bedtime, and Their Efforts Were Not Appreciated.

With the departure from Boston for Worcester, Springfield, Hartford and "a place called New Haven," began the observations on American travel, American hotels, American expectation, which were in the main excluded from "American Notes" and which make the vital interest of the letters. After two hours and a half by boat from Springfield to Hartford—"queer traveling," Dickens avers—he undertook a bold venture—the train journey to New Haven. This was completed speedily in three hours and Dickens was again in university life. But alas for Yale! Whereas the young men of Harvard university had yearned as one man to sit under the novelist as a teacher, these others, more carnal, craved no intellectual nanna. Instead they sang to him—yes, sang to him, under his window at bedtime, Stanley T. Williams writes in the North American Review. And unsuccessfully. The Yale students, declared the Atlantic Monthly, in the dear, familiar phrase, "were there in force." Dickens' amazement at this custom was not wholly pleasurable. "And when," he says, sadly, "at last we got to bed and were going to fall asleep, choristers of the college turned out in body under the window and serenaded us! We had had, by the by, another serenade at Hartford, from a Mr. Adams, nephew of John Quincy Adams, and a German friend, They," says this cutting novelist, "were most beautiful singers."

DWARF TREE NATURAL FREAK

Frequently Attains Diameter of Six Feet, but is Never More Than a Foot in Height.

Welwitschia Mirabilis, nature's queerest tree, lives to be 100 years old, and often attains a diameter of six feet, but it is never more than a foot in height.

When the seedling of the tree first pokes its head above the dry and dusty soil of the most rainless region in which it grows, it puts forth two seed leaves or cotyledons, not unlike those of a bean. As the plant develops, two green leaves spring from the edges of the cotyledons. These two leaves are the only ones borne by the plant throughout its century of existence. Flat and leathery, six feet long and two or three feet wide when fully developed, they hang from either side of the stubby trunk in gracefully curving green streamers. In later years they split along straight lines into a number of narrow strips. When old enough to bear fruit, double-branched flower stalks, nearly a foot high, spring from the edges of the seed leaves, bearing small erect cones colored a brilliant scarlet. Between the scales of the cones are very small flowers which in due time bear seeds.

Dogs!

Ever since the days when old Homer wrote of the home-coming of Ulysses when his faithful old hound alone recognized him in his disguise as a beggar, there have been some of the finest bits of literature devoted to noble characteristics of dogs. Llewellyn's faithful hound, Bill Sykes' loyal mongrel; Bayard, Baldy of Nome, Jerry, and Michael, brother of Jerry; Pierrot, Dog of Belgium, Caesar the King's dog are just a few of the moderns whose names come to memory out of some of the golden books. Fond as the world has always been of love and romance it has always been glad to turn to the book which had a real dog for its hero, partly because of the innate liking of humanity for honesty and nobility of character, and partly because of all the creatures man has domesticated the dog has the liveliest sense of humor and the highest ideal of companionship.

The Best Cosmetics.

Many years ago an old New England lady wrote out the following list of toilet articles and advised all women to acquire and use them:
First—Self-knowledge, a mirror showing the form in the most perfect light.
Second—Innocence, a white paint, beautiful but easily soiled and requiring continual care to preserve its luster.
Third—Modesty, a rouge giving a delightful bloom to the cheeks.
Fourth—Contentment, an infallible smotherer of wrinkles.
Fifth—Truth, a salve rendering the lips soft and delicious.
Sixth—Gentleness, a cordial imparting sweetness to the voice.
Seventh—Good humor, a universal beautifier.—Boston Transcript.

That Word "Whisky."

The word whisky is now only of historic interest, as it is obsolete in the English language as spoken in America. It is of historic interest, however, to recall that the word is a corruption of the name given to the commodity by the race that invented it—the Gaelic. The word in its original Gaelic form is "uisgebeatha," which means water of life. There is a species of cactus growing in southern Texas, which is called whisky-root. Chewed, and its juice swallowed, whisky-root produced effects similar to those produced by the whisky without the root. This species of cactus is now also, obsolete, although it still grows.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

Sensible Wedding Presents.

Wedding presents in Hungary are said to be given only to poor couples to help them to get their homes together.

King of Poets.

If Shakespeare had been a morose man, he might have been a great poet still; but he would not have been the one figure in literary history who today is regarded with as much real and intimate affection as if he were actually with us in the flesh. He is no longer, thank Heaven, so much as a "cult." To read Shakespeare's plays, to see them on the stage, to quote openly and with relish the passages you love most is not now to be thought "high-brow" or even odd. What other writer is read so extensively or with such unspoiled pleasure in the homes of the poor, even in the homes of the rich? In this age of a highly self-conscious intellectual pessimism the popularity of Shakespeare—a blithe prince of philosophers who looked upon life and found that it was good—is a salutary, not to say a sanitary, influence of supreme value and importance.—London Daily News.

Blackbirds' Curious Nesting Place.

After building five nests in a line on the head of a drag rake in a farm building at Devizes, a pair of blackbirds have just reared a brood of four in the fifth nest, the only one actually used. The number of half finished nests may be accounted for by the position of the head of the rake. Leaning against the wall with the teeth sloping downward, the nesting material kept slipping off, until, after four failures, the birds at length succeeded in getting the last nest to hold together. A somewhat similar incident was reported some time ago from Cambridgeshire, but in that case the nests were placed between the rungs of a ladder which hung horizontally against a wall.—From the Field.

Refused to Be Set Aside.

Owners of bull-terriers have countless stories to tell of their favorite breed. One of the best is of the animal which went to a dog show "on his own." He was a wonderful dog and had taken prizes everywhere, but eventually he grew old and his son reigned in his stead. Evidently, however, he thought this was an oversight on the part of his master which it was his duty to rectify. Consequently he jumped through a kitchen window, over several walls, made his way through miles of London's thickest traffic, and finally finished up at the Horticultural hall, where he took his place on the stand.

If You Are After Longer Service

There are two easy ways to convince yourself that an Exide Battery will give you the longest service.

One way is to ask a present user of an Exide, whether in an automobile, submarine, street truck, mine locomotive, telephone system or wherever batteries are used.

The other way is to call and let us dissect a battery with you. See for yourself why Exide construction, from separators to filler plugs, is bound to give you long-lasting power and care-free service.

We look forward to a call from you.

Duplicate keys are not wanted in Nigeria. An official ukase decrees that no machines for making duplicate keys are to be imported. ### Little Banking Stories

The Two Extremes

ONE DAY, a few months ago, a man was in the bank, to close up one of the largest deals, we ever helped to handle.

While we were busy with this important work, a small boy came to deposit the pennies from his little toy safe. Both of these patrons were given prompt and careful service.

What could better illustrate the fact that we are ready to serve all the people—no matter what age or the nature of their business.

That small boy with his pennies may some day be one of the largest depositors of this bank—who knows? At any rate it is our plan to give all patrons prompt and careful attention.

Isn't that what you are looking for?

TWO DAYS AFTER THANKSGIVING

The violinist has got a rival. I'm sure he has. It's Mr. Easterbrook. He's old—much as forty—and bald-headed and fat, and has got lots of money. And he's a very estimable man. (I heard Aunt Hattie say that.) He's awfully jolly, and I like him. He brings me the loveliest boxes of candy, and calls me Puss. (I don't like that, particularly. I'd prefer him to call me Miss Anderson.) He's not nearly so good-looking as the violinist. The violinist is lots more thrilling, but I shouldn't wonder if Mr. Easterbrook was more comfortable to live with.

The violinist is the kind of a man that makes you want to sit up and take notice, and have your hair and finger nails and shoes just right; but with Mr. Easterbrook you wouldn't mind a bit sitting in a big chair before the fire with a pair of old slippers on, if your feet were tired.

Mr. Easterbrook doesn't care for music. He's a broker. He looks awfully bored when the violinist is playing, and he fidgets with his watch-chain, and clears his throat very loudly just before he speaks every time. His automobile is bigger and handsomer than the violinist's. (Aunt Hattie says the violinist's automobile is a hired one.) And Mr. Easterbrook's flowers that he sends to Mother are handsomer, too, and lots more of them, than the violinist's. Aunt Hattie has noticed that, too. In fact, I guess there isn't anything about Mr. Easterbrook that she doesn't notice.

Aunt Hattie likes Mr. Easterbrook lots better than she does the violinist. I heard her talking to Mother one day.

ONE WEEK LATER

There hasn't much happened—only one or two things. But maybe I'd better tell them before I forget it, especially as they have a good deal to do with the love part of the story. And I'm always so glad to get anything of that kind. I've been so afraid this wouldn't be much of a love story, after all. But I guess it will be, all right. Anyway, I know Mother's part will be, for it's getting more and more exciting—about Mr. Easterbrook and the violinist, I mean.

They both want Mother. Anybody can see that now, and, of course, Mother sees it. But which she'll take I don't know. Nobody knows. It's perfectly plain to be seen, though, which one Grandfather and Aunt Hattie want her to take! It's Mr. Easterbrook.

And he is awfully nice. He brought me a perfectly beautiful bracelet the other day—but Mother wouldn't let me keep it. So he had to take it back. I don't think he liked it very well, and I didn't like it, either. I wanted that bracelet. But Mother says I'm much too young to wear much jewelry. Oh, will the time ever come when I'll be old enough to take my proper place in the world? Sometimes it seems as if it never would!

Well, as I said, it's plain to be seen who it is that Grandfather and Aunt Hattie favor; but I'm not so sure about Mother. Mother acts funny. Sometimes she won't go with either of them anywhere; then she seems to want to go all the time. And she acts as if she didn't care which she went with, so long as she was just going—somewhere. I think, though, she really likes the violinist the best; and I guess Grandfather and Aunt Hattie think so, too.

Something happened last night. Grandfather began to talk at the dinner table. He'd heard something he didn't like about the violinist, I guess, and he started in to tell Mother. But they stopped him. Mother and Aunt Hattie looked at him and then at me, and then back to him, in their most see-who's-here!—you mustn't-talk-before-his-shoulders-and-stopped.

But I guess he told them in the library afterwards, for I heard them all talking very excitedly, and some loud; and I guess Mother didn't like what they said, and got quite angry, for I heard her say, when she came out through the door, that she didn't believe a word of it, and she thought it was a wicked, cruel shame to tell stories like that just because they didn't like a man.

ONE WEEK LATER

Well, I guess now something has happened all right! And let me say right away that I don't like that violinist now, either, any better than Grandfather and Aunt Hattie. And it's not entirely because of what happened last night, either. It's been coming on for a while—ever since I first saw him talking to Theresa in the hall when she let him in one night a week ago.

Theresa is awfully pretty, and I guess he thinks so. Anyhow, I heard him telling her so in the hall, and she laughed and blushed and looked sideways at him. Then they saw me, and she stiffened up and said, very proper and dignified, "Kindly hand my card to Mrs. Anderson." And Theresa said, "Yes, sir." And she was very proper and dignified, too.

Well, four days ago I saw them again. He tried to put his arm around her that time, and the very next day he tried to kiss her, and after a minute she let him. More than once, too. And last night I heard him tell her she was the dearest girl in all the world, and he'd be perfectly happy if he could only marry her.

Well, you can imagine how I felt, when I thought all the time it was Mother he was coming to see! And now to find out that it was Theresa he wanted all the time, and he was only coming to see Mother so he could see Theresa!

Of course, so far, I'm the only one that knows, for I haven't told it, and I'm the only one that's seen anything. Of course, I shall warn Mother, if I think it's necessary, so she'll understand it isn't her, but Theresa, that the violinist is really in love with and courting. She won't mind, I'm sure, after she thinks of it a minute. And won't it be a good joke on Aunt Hattie and Grandfather when they find out they've been fooled all the time, supposing it's Mother, and worrying about it?

Oh, I don't know! This is some love story, after all!

TWO DAYS LATER

What do you suppose has happened now? Why, that wretched violinist is nothing but a deep-dyed villain! Listen what he did. He proposed to Mother—actually proposed to her—and after all he'd said to that Theresa girl, about his being perfectly happy if he could marry her. And Mother—Mother all the time not knowing! Oh, I'm so glad I was there to rescue her! I don't mean at the proposal—I didn't hear that. But afterward.

It was like this: They had been out automobiling—Mother and the violinist. I was in my favorite window-seat, reading, when they came home and walked into the library. They never looked my way at all, but just walked toward the fireplace. And there he took hold of both her hands and said:

"Why must you wait, darling? Why can't you give me an answer now, and make me the happiest man in all the world?"

"Yes, yes, I know," answered Mother; and I knew by her voice that she was all shaky and trembling. "But if I could only be sure—sure of myself."

"But, dearest, you're sure of me!" cried the violinist. "You know how I love you. You know you're the only woman I have ever loved, or ever could love!"

"Why Must You Wait, Darling?"

Yes, just like that he said it—that awful lie—and to my mother. My stars! Do you suppose I waited to hear any more? I guess not!

I fairly tumbled off my seat, and my book dropped with a bang, as I ran forward. Dear, dear, but how they did jump—both of them! And I guess they were surprised. I never thought how't was going to affect them—my breaking in like that. But I didn't wait—not a minute. I just started right in and began to talk. And I talked hard and fast, and lots of it.

I don't know now what I said, but I know I asked him what he meant by saying such an awful lie to my mother, when he'd just said the same thing, exactly "most, to Theresa, and he'd hugged her and kissed her, and everything. I'd seen him. And—

But I didn't get a chance to say half I wanted to. I was going on to tell him what I thought of him; but Mother gasped out, "Marie! Marie! Stop!" And then I stopped. I had to, of course. Then she said that would do, and I might go to my room. And I went. And that's all I know about it, except that she came up, after a little, and said for me not to talk any more about it, to her, or to any one else; and to please try to forget it. I tried to tell her what I'd seen, and what I'd heard that wicked, deep-dyed villain say; but she wouldn't let me. She shook her head, and said, "Hush, hush, dear"; and that no good could come of talking of it, and she wanted me to forget it. She was very sweet and very gentle, and she smiled; but there were stern corners to her mouth, even when the smile was there. And I guess she told him what was what. Anyhow, I know they had quite a talk before she came up to me, for I was watching at the window for him to go; and when he did go he looked very red and cross and he stalked away with a never-will-I-darken-this-door-again kind of step, just as far as I could see him.

I don't know, of course, what will happen next, nor whether he'll ever come back for Theresa; but I shouldn't think even she would want him, after this. If she found out.

And now, where's my love story coming in, I should like to know?

TWO DAYS AFTER CHRISTMAS

Another wonderful thing has happened. I've had a letter from Father—from Father!—a letter—me!

It came this morning. Mother brought it in to me. She looked queer—a little. There were two red spots in her cheeks, and her eyes were very bright.

"I think you have a letter here from—your father," she said, handing it out.

I could see she was wondering what could be in it. But I guess she wasn't wondering any more than I was, only I was gladder to get it than she was. I suppose. Anyhow, when she saw how glad I was, and how I jumped for the letter, she drew back, and looked somehow as if she'd been hurt, and said:

"I did not know, Marie, that a letter from—your father would mean so much to you."

I don't know what I did say to that. I guess I didn't say anything. I'd already begun to read the letter, and I was in such a hurry to find out what he'd said.

I'll copy it here. It wasn't long. It was like this:

"My Dear Marie: "Some way Christmas has made me think of you. I wish I had sent you some gift. Yet I have not the slightest idea what would please you. To tell the truth, I tried to find something—but had to give it up.

"I am wondering if you had a good time, and what you did. After all, I'm pretty sure you did have a good time, for you are Marie now. You see, I have not forgotten how tired you got of being—Marie. Well, well, I do not know as I can blame you.

"And now that I have asked what you did for Christmas, I suspect it is no more than a fair turnout to tell you what I did. I suppose I had a very good time. Your Aunt Jane says I did. I heard her telling one of the neighbors that last night. She had a very fine dinner, and she invited Mrs. Darling and Miss Snow and Miss Snuborn to eat it with us. She said she didn't want me to feel lonesome. But you can feel lonesome in a crowd sometimes. Did you know that, Marie?"

"But I left them to their chatter after dinner and went out to the observatory. I think I must have fallen asleep on the couch there, for it was quite dark when I awoke. But I didn't mind that, for there were some observations I wanted to take. It was a beautifully clear night, so I stayed there till nearly morning.

"How about it? I suppose Marie plays the piano every day, now, doesn't she? The piano here hasn't been touched since you went away. Oh, yes, it was touched once. Your aunt played hymns on it for a missionary meeting.

"Well, what did you do Christmas? Suppose you write and tell

"Your Father."

I'd been reading the letter out loud, and when I got through Mother was pacing up and down the room. For a minute she didn't say anything; then she whirled round suddenly and faced me, and said, just as if something inside of her was making her say it:

"I notice there is no mention of your mother in that letter, Marie. I suppose—your father has quite forgotten that there is such a person in the world as I—"

But I told her no, oh, no, and that I was sure he remembered her, for he used to ask me questions often about what she did, and the violinist and all.

"The violinist!" cried Mother, whirling around on me again. (She'd be gun to walk up and down once more.) "You don't mean to say you ever told your father about him!"

"Oh, no, not everything," I explained, trying to show how patient I was, so she would be patient, too. (But it didn't work.) "I couldn't tell him everything because everything hadn't happened then. But I told about his being here, and about the others, too; but, of course, I said I didn't know which you'd take, and—"

"You told him you didn't know which I'd take!" gasped Mother. (TO BE CONTINUED.)

After Election. "The candidate shakes you by the hand."

"And then he shakes you by the hand." —Louisville Courier-Journal.

SWEET POTATO DISHES

The sweet potatoes grown in some parts of the West are so sweet that sugar sirup bursts out of them when baking. If a fork is thrust into them, they are delicious eating but somewhat cloying, after eating several times. The yam is not so sweet and is best baked. The part of the potato next the skin is the best flavored and should be carefully scraped from the skin. If the potatoes are lightly rubbed with sweet fat before putting them into the oven they will peel with a paper-like skin, leaving the slightly browned, smooth surface underneath. There are those fond of the sweet potato who prefer them boiled, then sliced and fried; seasoned well, they are very appetizing.

Sweet Potato Patties.—Dice six medium-sized sweet potatoes, add two teaspoonsful of salt, half of a beaten egg, a tiny pinch of ginger and cinnamon, three tablespoonsful of butter and, if needed, enough heated cream or milk so that the mixture may be molded. Beat well and mold into balls the size of small cups. Slightly flatten each ball and press into the bottom of a wet cup, making a shell like patty shell with walls one-half inch thick. Add two tablespoonsful of water to the remaining egg and brush the patties. Place on a baking sheet and brown slightly in a hot oven. Remove to a hot platter and just before serving fill with creamed chicken. Garnish with parsley and serve at once.

Virginia Sweet Potatoes.—Cook six potatoes until soft, slice lengthwise and arrange in layers in a well-buttered baking dish. Sprinkle each layer with one-half teaspoonful of salt, one teaspoonful of brown sugar, and one tablespoonful of coarsely chopped boiled chestnuts, then dot with bits of butter. Pour over the whole one-fourth of a cupful of boiling water in which one tablespoonful of butter has been melted. Bake in a hot oven twenty minutes or until the top is a rich brown and the moisture is nearly absorbed.

If he is honest, kindly, true, And glad to work from day to day, If when his bit of toil is through With children he will stop to play; If he does always what he can To serve another's time of need, Then I shall hail him as a man And never ask him what's his creed. —Edgar Guest.

FOOD WE ALL LIKE

A delicious spice cake which will keep and be better for the keeping is prepared as follows: Break two eggs into a measuring cup, fill it with sour cream, add one cupful of sugar, a quarter of a teaspoonful of soda and one teaspoonful of baking powder sifted in one and one-quarter cupfuls of flour, add spices to taste and bake in gem pans, in layers or in a sheet.

Sweet Potato Loaf.—Dice six medium-sized potatoes, season with two teaspoonsful of salt, two tablespoonsful of butter, one-eighth of a teaspoonful of pepper and one beaten egg. Beat well, adding hot milk or cream to make it of the consistency of mashed potatoes. Arrange in a loaf on a buttered pyrex plate and brown in a hot oven. Serve from the dish garnished with fried sausages, arranged in V's, two sausages of uncut links. Curls of bacon may be used if desired in place of the sausages.

Frizzled Cold Boiled Ham.—Take boiled ham cut in very thin slices, place in a hot frying pan and cook until hot and well-curled. Serve with boiled sweet potatoes cut in lengthwise slices and fried in butter.

When making chocolate sauce to use in various dishes, the graining may be avoided by cooking the chocolate with a part of the hot water, then adding the sugar gradually and the remainder of the water or milk. This will also prevent the separation of oily particles of chocolate which sometimes float on the surface of hot chocolate sauce.

Marshmallow and Cream Dessert.—Whip one pint of cream until stiff, add one-half pound of diced marshmallows, stir until well mixed, then set away to chill. Serve in sherbet cups garnished with a marshmallow cherry with a bit of the juice or sirup.

A nice frosting for spice cakes is prepared with powdered sugar, a tablespoonful of softened butter and enough cold coffee to flavor and make of the consistency to spread.

Broiled Hamburger.—Make a large cake of seasoned hamburger and broil over coals or under gas until well cooked. Prepare a cake of hot boiled rice well seasoned, place on a platter and cover with the broiled hamburger. Pour around the dish a highly seasoned tomato sauce and serve hot at once.

Doctor Advised Use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Happy Results in Both Cases

St. Joseph, Missouri.—"Both of my sides swelled and hurt me so that I could not move or do any of my work. There was heavy pressure and pains through my lower organs and the doctor told me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for these troubles. He said I had this one chance, and if the Vegetable Compound did not help me nothing but an operation would. After taking several bottles I felt it was helping me and now I am able to do my own work. If my testimonial will help others I shall be glad for them to read it and hope your Vegetable Compound will do them as much good as it did me." —Mrs. Wm. Lockman, 613 N. 4th St., St. Joseph, Mo.

Some female troubles may through neglect reach a stage when an operation is necessary. But most of the common ailments are not the surgical ones; they are not caused by serious displacements, tumors, or growths, although the symptoms may appear the same.

White Plains, N. Y.—"I had such a pain that I could hardly walk and the doctor said that I needed an operation. I was sick for a year before I started taking your medicine and I could not work. I saw your advertisement in a little book and that is how I came to take Lydia E. Pinkham's medicines. I have been taking the Vegetable Compound and Lydia E.

When disturbing ailments first appear, take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve the present distress and prevent more serious troubles. Many letters have been received from women who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound after operations have been advised by attending physicians.

WESTERN CANADA For Big Wheat Crops

Canada is the world's greatest producer of wheat—second only to the United States—yet only about 12% of the available area has been worked. Yields of 40 bushels of wheat per acre are not uncommon. Oats have given as high as 100 bushels per acre, while 40 to 50 bushels per acre are ordinary yields of barley and rye in like proportion. Cattle and horses thrive on the native grasses which grow abundantly and corn and sunflower culture are highly successful.

Stock Raising, Dairying and Mixed Farming

secure for the industrious settler ample returns for his energy. Clearing the cost of one's farm with a single year's crop has an appeal, and has been done by hundreds of Western Canada farmers. Taxes only upon land (not on improvements). Perfect climate, attractive social conditions, good neighbors, churches, schools, telephones, excellent markets and shipping facilities make life happy as well as prosperous.

When one of the Talmadge girls was in Washington some time ago she was being shown through the senate chamber by a well-known Washingtonian. Seeing a rather handsome little page, she leaned forward and impulsively kissed him. I learned the other day that after the story had reached a certain group of young girlie girls the fortunate youngster had been eagerly sought after by those who would emulate the movie screen star's actions. The lad should remember, however, what kissing did for Captain Hobson of Spanish war fame.—Washington Star.

Mudania Protocol Is Signed and Greeks Are Fleeing From Turkish Territory.

PEACE CONFERENCE ON NOV. 1

Attorney General Daugherty's "Dry Seas" Order Creates a Stir—May Help Ship Subsidy Bill—Great Britain Pays America $50,000,000 Interest.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

ATTORNEY General Daugherty has ruled that no intoxicating liquor may be served on any American vessel anywhere, and that no vessel whatever may bring liquor within the three-mile limit, even though it be sealed. Do you agree with the opinion that this ruling will increase the chances of passage of the ship subsidy bill; and what do you think of that measure?

TURKEY for the Turks—that in a word will be the effect of the protocol signed by the allied commanders and the Kemalists Thursday morning at the little village of Mudania, if the Near East peace conference soon to be held follows along the same lines. Something like a million and a half Greeks who have been residents of Asia Minor, Constantinople and eastern Thrace are fleeing westward, fairly panic stricken at the thought of massacre and outrage which Christian peoples have been taught to expect from the Moslem. An added incentive to their flight is afforded by the fear of Turkish reprisal for the acts of the Greek army in Anatolia and the Greek civilians in Constantinople.

Truly the plight of these refugees is most serious. Abandoning their long-time homes and sacrificing their possessions, they are struggling in disorganized masses to get out of Turkish territory, and the means of transportation are pitifully scant. Pestilence already is appearing in the crowded concentration camps, and food is scarce. Of course they are all trying to get to Greece, but what is becoming of them there, is a problem. The government at Athens is striving to devise means of caring for them, but the country already is crowded and has neither the food nor the money to provide for these hundreds of thousands of newcomers. In eastern Thrace the Greeks are working feverishly to save all they can of their harvest. There is a lot of wheat there and the Greek government may purchase it to help stave off a famine. The Thracian delegates in the Greek parliament have cabled to Secretary Hoover for aid from America.

Another thing that is trying to get out of Turkish territory is composed of the many thousands of Russian refugees. They believe that Kemal has secretly promised the soviet government that he will send them back to Russia, and the record of the Bolshevik leaves them in no doubt as to what their fate would be there.

COMPLETION of the armistice protocol was accomplished at six o'clock Thursday morning and the document was signed by Generals Harington, Charpy, Mombelli and Ismet Pasha, for Great Britain, France, Italy and the Turkish Nationalists respectively. Full agreement was reached only after many anxious days during which Ismet's excessive demands were met by General Harington's calm and unafraid firmness. The Englishman told the Turk plainly that his government had said its last word, and that if its terms were not accepted the Turks must take the consequences. He reminded Ismet that England had a strong navy, a good army and an abundance of guns. "While the British people want peace" said he, "they are equally determined to have fair play and are dangerous opponents when aroused." Meantime General Charpy received instructions from Paris, where Lord Curzon had been in conference with Premier Poincare, and announced that France adhered to the terms proposed. Ismet Pasha, losing thus the support he may have counted on, had no alternative but to yield, and this he did with good grace. The Greek representatives sent a note saying they could not sign the protocol, but the Turks were assured that it would be effective in three days despite this refusal. "Let's sign," said Ismet, and the signatures were appended and the threat of war faded out. Later Greece decided to sign.

The terms of the Mudania convention are substantially as given in this column a week ago. Greece is given fifteen days to evacuate Thrace as far west as the Maritza river, handing over the civil powers to the allied authorities, who will immediately transfer them to the Turkish authorities. Turkish gendarmes in limited numbers will control the territory for the time being, with allied troops on guard to prevent disorders, but within thirty days after Greece gets out Thrace is to be turned over wholly to the Turks. New neutral zones in the Chanak and Ismid areas, in the Constantinople peninsula and in Gallipoli are to be defined by mixed commissions and are to be respected by the Angora government.

It is understood the peace conference will open on November 1 in Scutari, or possibly in some city in Italy. It is probable that Bulgaria, Georgia and the Ukraine will be invited to send representatives, but not the Moscow government. Other nations that are likely to have delegates, in addition to Great Britain, France, Turkey and Italy, are Jugoslavia, Rumania, Greece, Hungary, Austria, Czechoslovakia and possibly Poland.

HAVING avoided war with Turkey without losing dignity, and retaining for the present the actual control of the Dardanelles, the British government seems more solidly entrenched, and the talk of retiring Prime Minister Lloyd George, which broke off furiously a few days ago, is dying down. His opponents at home, indeed, now have no fit man to suggest as his successor, for Bonar Law, upon whom they had counted, has renewed his fealty to the Weismann, as has Lord Birkenhead. The Unionists are said to have decided to stick by the coalition and make it practically a permanent party when the general election comes, which probably will be about Christmas. The premier, after a week of retirement in the country, made a notable speech Saturday in Manchester, telling his opponents what he thought of them and demanding the support of the country for his policies.

BUCHAREST was en fete Saturday, when King Ferdinand and Queen Marie were formally crowned as rulers of the Kingdom of Rumania which was enlarged by the addition of Besarabia and Transylvania. The ceremonies were gorgeous and many other nations were represented by princes and high dignitaries. In view of the fact that soviet Russia still threatens Rumania, it is worthy of note that France sent Marshal Foch and with him General Weygand, who organized Poland's successful opposition to the Bolshevik two years ago.

ATTORNEY General Daugherty certainly stirred up the animals when he barred liquors not only from all American vessels, but even from all other ships while within the American three-mile limits. At first there was a storm of comment punctuated with excited predictions of what foreign governments would do to us in the way of retaliation and with predictions that all foreign steamship lines would divert their ships to Canadian ports, leaving New York, Boston, Philadelphia, San Francisco, Seattle and our other coast cities to go to wreck and ruin. With the subsidence of the tempest these facts appear: The British government says it has no interest in the domestic legislation of the United States, which it has a perfect right to put into operation, and if British subjects break United States law they will have to take the consequences. The French government may send a protest to Washington, but will wait to see how the decree is enforced and how it affects French interests.

French labor circles are concerned because the French law provides that sailors must be given wine daily. All American vessels, notified by wireless, at once sealed their liquor supplies and are turning them over to the authorities on reaching port. Many foreign vessels sailed with their usual supplies of booze, in order to bring about test cases, and the Cunard and Anchor Steamship companies began proceedings in the United States district court in New York to restrain government officials from seizing their ships or the liquor aboard them. These companies attack the legality of the Daugherty order on the ground that it is in contravention of the general commercial treaty of 1815 and a misinterpretation of the Volstead act.

The International Mercantile Marine corporation obtained from Federal Judge Hand a temporary restraining order enjoining New York officials from molesting the liquor on the steamers Finland and St. Paul.

The American Steamship Owners' association decided to abide peacefully by the ruling provided the prohibitionists will reciprocate by giving their support to the ship subsidy bill. It cannot be denied that the attorney general's decision met with general approval throughout at least the Middle West and South, and it is believed its effect will be greatly to improve the chances of the ship subsidy measure when it comes up for passage in congress.

GREAT BRITAIN, through Ambassador Geddes, has just paid to the United States $50,000,000, which is approximately the amount of this year's interest on the British debt to America. Sir Robert Horne, who is coming to help adjust the terms of the debt, is delayed by the unsettled state of foreign and domestic policies and may not arrive before the end of the month.

It is stated in Paris that France will not be able to pay any part of her debts for four years, since all receipts for that period must be devoted to reconstruction of the devastated regions. When the interallied financial congress meets in Brussels the French government will probably submit a plan drawn up by Premier Poincare. It calls for a revision of Germany's indebtedness on a basis of actual reparations only, wiping out all charges for pensions, war allowances and the like. France's claim would thus be reduced by almost 25 per cent.

THE Irish hierarchy last week delivered a shrewd blow at the rebellious Republicans in the form of a pastoral letter strongly condemning guerrilla warfare against the Free State government and declaring "the killing of National soldiers is murder before God."

JAPAN notified Washington last week that the official documents of ratification of the Washington treaties were on the way and that her embassy had been given full power to exchange ratifications. This was most gratifying to the administration, which is beginning to get a bit annoyed by France's long delay in ratifying the pacts. Paris dispatches say action by the French parliament is not likely during the forthcoming session because of the great number of domestic issues and the Near East affairs.

PRESIDENT Harding has appointed seven nationally prominent men as members of the coal fact-finding commission created by congress. They are: John Hays Hammond, California and Washington, mining engineer, Thomas Riley Marshall, Indiana, former vice president of the United States and former governor of Indiana, Samuel Aischuler of Illinois, judge of the seventh United States Circuit court, Clark Howell, Atlanta, editor of the Atlanta Constitution, George Otis Smith, Maine, director of the United States geological survey, Dr. Edward T. Devine, Iowa, noy of New York, editor, teacher and publicist, Charles P. Nell, Illinois and Washington, commissioner of labor in Roosevelt's administration.

NEW YORK Giants, champions of the National league, won the world's series in decisive fashion, defeating the New York Yankees, champions of the American league, in four games out of five, the fifth being a draw called on account of darkness.

If You Need a Medicine You Should Have the Best

Have you ever stopped to reason why it is that so many products that are extensively advertised, all at once drop out of sight and are soon forgotten? The reason is plain—the article did not fulfill the promises of the manufacturer. This applies more particularly to a medicine. A medicinal preparation that has real curative value almost sells itself, as like an endless chain system the remedy is recommended by those who have benefited to those who are in need of it. A prominent druggist says, "Take for example Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a preparation I have sold for many years and never hesitate to recommend, for in almost every case it shows excellent results, as many of my customers testify. No other kidney remedy has so large a sale."

According to sworn statements and verified testimony of thousands who have used the preparation, the success of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is due to the fact, so many people claim, that it fulfills almost every wish in overcoming kidney, liver and bladder ailments, corrects urinary troubles and neutralizes the uric acid which causes rheumatism.

You may receive a sample bottle of Swamp-Root by parcel post. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and enclose ten cents; also mention this paper. Large and medium size bottles for sale at all drug stores.—Advertisement.

The queen thumbed the pages of the seven native novels.

"Bah!" she ejaculated after a time. "The same old stuff. Eight men pursuing one woman. I'm tired of this eternal polygon business. Fetch me one of those racy, risque, imported novels where one man and one woman brave the world and his wives and dare to love each other despite our polyandrian conventionality. They're a little bit immoral, perhaps, but what a relief from the banality of our everyday existence."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Writer Thinks Practice Might Mitigate the Horrors of Tooth-Pulling Operations.

A new idea for dentists. If you've never had a tooth pulled don't read this suggestion, for it's beyond the comprehension of such. Far! One certain friend of a certain dentist in this city, having read a delicious dissertation on the pulling of teeth via the novocaine method, happened upon the end of the story, in which the dentist said: "That's all. Perhaps you'd better have a little stimulant."

By way of suggestion to the local dentist his friend wrote: "By introducing this innovation there is no doubt but that you can soon take over the entire building for your practice. Of course, the technique of extraction will be lengthened. One pull by the dentist to be followed by one pull by the patient, and then, I suppose, a long pull all together."—Washington Star.

Sandy's Prediction for Son's Future, However, Contained One Rather Unfortunate Proviso.

In Scotland there is told a story of one Sandy McIntosh, who started to build a small outhouse of brick. After the usual plan of bricklayers he worked from the inside, and, as he had the material close beside him, the walls were rising fast when noon arrived, and with it his son, John, who brought his father's dinner.

With honest pride in his eye, Sandy looked at John over the wall on which he was engaged, and asked:

"How de ye think I am gettin' on?"

"Fine, father; but how dae ye get out? You've forgot the door?"

One glance around him showed Sandy that his son was right; but, looking at him kindly, he said:

"Oh, but ye've got a grand held on ye, John! Ye'll be an architect yet, as sure's yer fether's a builder!"—Philadelphia Ledger.

ODD IDEAS CONCERNING TIDES

Ancients Held Fearful and Wonderful Beliefs as to Cause of Water's Ebb and Flow.

Aristotle and Heraclitus said the tides were caused by the sun, which whirling the winds about, cause them to fall with violence on the Atlantic, which swells and thus causes the tides. Plato's explanation was that they were caused by an animal living in a cavern, which through the movement of its mouth caused the tides. Another belief was that the tides were a natural movement of the respiration or breathing of the sea.

There are records of medieval beliefs among the Arabs. Some thought that the tides were caused by the moon heating the waters so that they swelled up and thus rose higher, while others believed they were caused by vapors generated in the bowels of the earth. Again, others believed they were caused by the alternate decomposition of the sea by the air, and then the air by the sea, thus accounting for the ebb and flow. Still another belief was that a great serpent swallowed and vomited water alternately.

Early Cape Cod folk and those in other districts along the New England coast believed that people died at the ebb or flowing out of the tide. Watchers by the bedside of dying people firmly believed that one could not die until the ebb tide began to run. In Scotland it was formerly thought that in setting eggs to hatch one should set the eggs at flood tide if one wanted roosters, and at the ebb tide if one wanted hens.

VIKINGS BURIED WITH SHIPS

Oldtime Leading Freebooters of the Seas Were Appropriately Honored by Their Followers.

It was one of the ancient Vikings' customs to bury their prominent dead in a ship which was sunk in the earth and covered with a mound. Within these burial ships were placed the choicest belongings, horses, carts or wagons, sleds, apparel, cooking utensils and quite often a living servant accompanied the master to the grave to minister to his wants in the halls of Walhalla.

Only through a fortunate circumstance are any relics of this kind in existence, and that is due to the fact that in several cases the ships were buried in potters' clay, which is particularly good for the preservation of wood. Under ordinary circumstances these burial boats have been totally destroyed by the dampness of the earth, only the rotted rivets giving any clue as to the size of the boats.

To date only three such boats have been found that could be reconstructed; the last one was found quite recently, and it has proved to be the finest of the three. It is known as the Oseberg ship, being unearthed in the place of that name, in the province of Jarisberg and Larvik.

No Danger.

The horse looked more like a living skeleton than a thing of flesh and blood, and it had scarcely enough strength to pull the light, ramshackle cart which trundled behind it. When the animal began to trot very slowly after a good deal of practical persuasion on the part of the driver, a young hopeful standing in the road could not let the opportunity pass of planting himself directly in front of the oncoming steed.

The driver shouted, but the boy refused to move.

"Why can't you get out of the road?" cried the driver. "Do you want to be run over?"

Without moving, the lad glanced contemptuously at the horse, and shouted, with withering scorn:

"That bony thing run over me? It couldn't! It might tumble over me!"

Sewer System 3,500 Years Old.

In the palace of the Cretan kings of Knossos (about 1500 B. C.) were bathrooms and a drainage system that astonished the excavators. When we remember that even London and Paris had no sewage systems in the days of Queen Elizabeth, we certainly should not expect such a thing in a forgotten civilization of thirty-five hundred years ago. Yet experts tell us the drains of this ancient palace were superior to anything known afterward in history until the middle of the Nineteenth century.—Joseph McCabe in "The Evolution of Civilization."

A Good Game.

Here is a good game for you to play. Take two sheets of paper. At the top write this: "What I Can Do." On the other sheet write: "What I Can't Do." Then see which list is longer. After that place the list of the things you can do in the hand of some friend and ask him to question you in order to test the knowledge.

If you do this often enough you are bound to grow.—Tom Drier, in Forbes Magazine.

In Too Much of a Hurry.

An old woman, having for sixteen francs bought a trunk filled with rags at the Hotel Drouot, where official sales are held in Paris, immediately dived her hand among the rags and pulled forth a small bag containing 15,000 francs in gold. Unfortunately for her, the public auctioneer saw her and confiscated both the bag of gold and the trunk and the old woman is now lamenting her impatience which prompted her to examine the trunk's contents before taking it home.

Had Dad's Word for It.

"Which reaches you the quicker?" asked the clergyman; "sight or sound?"

"Sound, sir," answered Tommy smartly.

"No, Tommy; that's not the right answer. Sight reaches us first. If you watch a hand playing a good waltz off you'll see the drummer hit the drum a second or so before you hear the sound of it."

"Yes, sir, but sometimes sound does reach you first."

"Can you give me an example?"

"Yes, sir. The new church bell. Dad said this morning that we had been hearing about it for the last ten years and wouldn't see it for the next twenty!"

Customs From Time of Henry I.

Some peculiar duties and strange perquisites fall to the lot of the lord great chamberlain of England. At a coronation one of his duties is to serve the king with water for washing his hands before the banquet, and he receives "forty ells of crimson velvet for his own robes," besides the gilt basin and towels for this service. Nowadays the lord great chamberlain is also entitled to £200 ($1,000) in lieu of the furniture of the king's bedroom which was formerly his by right.

Nature's Plan in Flower Arrangement.

In Japan arranging cut flowers is an art. The way every branch or spray is placed means something, is symbolic. The Japanese insist on keeping the natural and typical form of each stem or branch and depend on combining two or three branches to make an effective design. Rarely is more than one kind of plant used in the same vase, and the vases are purposely kept simple, so that they shall not distract attention from the flowers.

SOMEBODY IS MISLEAD

statehood of Illinois the one hundred fourth. In witness whereof we have hereunto subscribed our names.

"The names of the officers and members of the convention are signed under this closing clause.

"It is apparent, therefore, that whoever is responsible for the circulation of the statement that 'the year of our Lord' had been omitted from the constitution either was ignorant or maliciously intended to create a prejudice. The words are in the constitution and in their proper place, the attestation clause.

"Moreover, the preamble to the constitution begins, 'We, the people of the state of Illinois, grateful to Almighty God, for the civil, political and religious liberties which He hath so long permitted us to enjoy and looking to Him for a blessing upon our endeavors to secure and transmit them unimpaired to succeeding generations' etc.

"This is but one example of many attacks of the same kind that are being made on this new constitution. The men who framed it were elected by the people for that purpose. They spent nearly three years of their time working out the sections and do not believe any set of men ever worked more conscientiously for what they believed to be for the public good.

"The people who commanded them to do this work at least should be permitted to view the finished product without prejudice. They should not be compelled to sweep away a great rubbish heap of misinformation before getting to the truth."

Great Reservoirs of India.

For conserving her water supply there are to be found in India tremendous artificial lakes. At Dhebar, in the Rajputana province, for instance, there is a reservoir with a superficial area of 21 square miles; the masonry dam measuring over 300 yards in length and 32 yards in height. In southern India, too, there are several reservoirs over 12 square miles in area.

Marriage is a Mode.

It is well life in the South seas is so simple and not complicated by social or financial pressure; otherwise, their young married set would have a difficult time, for the average age of the bride is twelve and that of the bridegroom seventeen. Usually the woman does the proposing and the man waits to be chosen.

Embalmed Bodies as Medicine.

Six or seven hundred years ago our doctors held firmly to the belief that there was great medicinal value in ground mummies, and many a nasty dose given ailing youngsters contained a bit of the embalmed body of a man or woman who may have known Joseph, or seen the miracles of Moses.

Merely an Opinion.

A controversy has been raised over the question whether "the first hundred years are the longest" or "the first hundred years the hardest." We bizzard the opinion that the first hundred years are the most plausible.—Exchange.

Indians in Confederate Army.

In the latter part of 1861 the Cherokee nation entered into a treaty of alliance with the Confederate states and agreed to furnish a regiment of troops for the Confederate military service. The regiment became demoralized and practically ceased to exist soon after the battle of Pea Ridge, Ark., in 1862.

Shakespeariana.

In the last 200 years more than 3,000 men and women have produced books dealing with Shakespeare and his works. More than 600 have been foreigners. It is estimated 6,000,000 were published during the past century.

Read and Use the Want Ad Column

BUY ADVERTISED GOODS

part of a wholesome meal may be prepared with almost no work for the housewife.

Think of the household conveniences and business conveniences—the time savers in your office or home—the accessories which make your automobile a greater pleasure.

All of these things are rather intricate. It would cost a small fortune to prepare a few of them for private use.

How do you suppose the man who first thought of these things was able to make them for you at a price you could afford to pay?

It was through advertising—of course. Advertising organizes co-operative buying units. The man with a new idea knows that he can tell thousands or millions of people about his idea through advertising. He knows that the united buying power of all these people will enable him to produce his idea in practical form at a cost which is only a fraction of what the first article would cost.

But advertising does more than introduce new ideas to you. It safeguards you in the purchase of any advertised product. You can depend upon it—nothing can succeed through advertising unless the article itself has merit. Advertising a bad product will make just as many enemies for that product as advertising a good product will make friends for the good product.

And so, if an article has been widely advertised for a long time, you can be sure that it is good or the public would never have supported it. You know that the advertised and trademarked product must have a definite quality—and be fully worth the price. You can be sure that you get more real value in an advertised product for every penny you spend, than you will an unadvertised product, because advertising is the cheapest selling method there is.

Individuality.

Individuality is the salt of common life. You may have to live in a crowd, but you do not have to live like it, nor subsist on its food. You may have your own orchard, you may drink at a hidden spring. Be yourself, if you would serve others.—Henry Van Dyke.

Land of the Canteloupe.

The Imperial valley, California, alone produces cantaloupes enough to supply one to each inhabitant of the United States, with many millions over.
