

BOOST FOR GOOD ROADS JOIN THE ORGANIZATION

ATTEND MEETING FRIDAY EVENING

Committee Now Writing By-Laws for Club Formed Last Week Friday

S. T. ZELLER ELECTED PRESIDENT

Every Auto Owner, Business Man and Farmer Urged to Become a
Good Roads Booster at Once

A meeting of good roads boosters was held at the city hall last Friday evening for the purpose of organization, several prominent citizens having awakened to the fact that an organization is one of the essentials if Genoa is to get its share of the good roads apportionment.

The following officers were elected:

S. T. Zeller, president.
James Hutchinson, secretary.
E. W. Brown, treasurer.
Directors: All the officers and W. W. Buck, James R. Kiernan, A. G. Stewart, Ernest Corson.

No definite plan of procedure in securing recognition in the good roads program was taken up at this meeting. A committee was named to draw up by-laws and these will be submitted at a meeting to be held at the Auditorium Friday evening of this week, March 18.

Big Membership Wanted

Every business man in Genoa, every farmer in this vicinity and all persons interested in good roads are urged to attend the meeting Friday evening at which time the plans of organization will be formulated. Farmers and residents of Kingston township are also invited to join with Genoa in this organization as the interests of the two towns are identical in the matter of roads.

It is desired to perfect a permanent, effective organization at this meeting as matters pertaining to road construction in this immediate vicinity need immediate attention. Nothing can be done without a sound organization and one that really represents the community. This is one particular instance wherein community co-operation is imperative, where every one must be a booster and every booster a worker.

There is not a single man or woman in the community who is not interested in good roads, but being merely interested will not bring hard roads. If one is a unit in a large working organization, he is doing his share in bringing us out of the mud. Slater's hall should be packed to the doors next Friday evening. Every man who drives an automobile or a team should be present. There should be a membership of at least 400 to start with and if we can make it 500, so much the better.

The Elgin Motor Club, which was organized primarily for the spreading of good roads propaganda, has done some effective work and is an organization recognized by the state highway department, as well as by the governor himself, because that club really represents the sentiment of Elgin, Genoa and Kingston can form just as effective a club, if the citizens will take active and immediate interest.

Be one of the boosters at the hall Friday evening at eight o'clock.

GRAVEL CHEAPER
Reduction of Nearly Dollar a Yard Since Year Ago

Sand and gravel for highway construction can be shipped to Elgin for sixty cents a cubic yard, as compared to $1.55 one year ago.

A report to this effect was forwarded from Elgin to Governor Len Small and Colonel Miller, of the division of highways Tuesday, says the News. The governor had requested the figures of W. F. Hagel, an Elgin road booster, and who had accompanied the delegation to Springfield in the interest of the Lake street road improvement.

Mr. Hagel and Theodore J. Schmitz,

CUT PRICE OF FORDSON

Edsel B. Ford States Reason for Recent Reduction

Mr. Edsel B. Ford, President of the Ford Motor Company, gives out the following statement: "The price of the FORDSON Tractor has been reduced from $790.00 to $625.00, effective immediately.

"This price change has been made possible through lower costs of materials and the fact that we are now located in our new Tractor Plant with greatly increased economic manufacturing facilities in immediate connection with our foundry and machine shops and large blast furnaces where iron is poured directly from the ore, giving us maximum efficiency with the power to reduce cost of production, and down comes the price in line with our policy to market our products at the lowest possible figure without in any way affecting our high standard of quality.

"We are particularly pleased in being able to bring about this big reduction in price at this time because the farmer needs all the help we can give him and this big cut in price will be the means of placing a valuable power unit within the reach of practically every one of them, not to mention industrial and commercial concerns which have likewise benefited through its use and are realizing, to a much greater extent, its value as a power and hauling unit. But particularly has the FORDSON Tractor proved a most valuable unit in the saving of farm labor, at the same time increasing the per acre crop yield as well as making possible a utilization of previously uncultivated land, to say nothing of removing no end of drudgery.

"There is no question that the use of machine power on the farm is the greatest advancement made in the development of agriculture, not only in money saving and money making results, as well as raising the standards of living on the farm to a much higher level, but because of its proved value in making every type of land more productive, and consequently our desire to place the FORDSON within the reach of all.

"THERE IS NO CHANGE IN THE PRESENT FORD CAR AND TRUCK PRICES, which are already at the lowest possible figure and with rock bottom reached on the tractor price a further reduction in price of either the Car, Truck or Tractor is out of the question; in fact, the big price cuts have been made in anticipation of continuous maximum production and increases may be necessary before long if a large volume of new business is not obtained. Therefore, present prices of Ford products cannot be guaranteed against possible increases."

As for the book "The Fordson at Work", which will be supplied free of cost. Let us demonstrate the value of the Fordson on your farm, in your factory, lumber yard, coal yard, or in any general hauling or power work you have to do and let us have your order for a Fordson.

SCHOOL WEAKNESS

Hugh H. Magill Tells of Needs in Elgin Lecture

"It is time the American people elevated the standards of teaching in the schools, and bettered the profession of teaching.

"It is time the American people protected themselves from quackery in teaching and training of our children.

"Of the 650,000 teachers of the country, 300,000 of them have had no professional training.

"There are 1,500 teachers in Illinois who have had but seventh and eighth grade training."

These are a few of the verbal shrapnel fired Tuesday by Hugh Magill, field secretary of the National Educational association, speaking before the weekly meeting of the Kiwanis club in Elgin.

Mr. Magill, who has traveled in all parts of the United States, told of the present weakness of school systems.

Mr. Magill intimated that the present professional status of the teachers was such that young men and women of today do not care to enter the teaching profession.

"The schools are the greatest asset of the community and the country; they are the greatest asset for the upbuilding of the county. The greatest task of the community is to educate all of the children.

"It is the duty of various organizations to promote the spirit of co-operation, as co-operation is one of the fundamental things which make toward efficient schools.

"The teachers must have that recompense which will enable them to travel and learn; the public must be made to appreciate the true value of the teachers' services. The elevation of the standards of the profession of teaching, is the great object of the national education association.

"There is no shortage in point of mere numbers in teachers. But if we place a standard for the teachers, a standard of efficiency, then there is a great shortage.

"The way to overcome the shortage is to pay better salaries, and to establish better professional conditions. This is not a matter for the teachers themselves to solve, but one for the people and the legislatures. A competent teacher in every school in America, a teacher with American ideals, should be the slogan of every one."

THIS MAN WAS THERE

Wm. H. Rowen of Belvidere Attended Railroad Banquet

Belvidere, Ill., 3-13-'21
Editor Republican,
Genoa, Ill.,
Dear Sir:-

By way of introduction, I will say I am a rural carrier out of this post office. I was appointed July 1, 1900. I am 63 years old. I am a half brother of the late Gurdon C. Rowan of Genoa.

Now I will tell you what prompts me to write.

Saturday as I was on the route I happened to notice the headlines in the first column of your last issue, March 11, "Rail Road reaches Genoa." I was much interested, and it revived my memory. I was there at that railroad meeting with my father, and remember the big dinner and the excitement the coming of the road made.

Peter McElroy, R. M., and other officers you mention made our house their headquarters after the road reached Kirland, and were there most of the time until Byron was reached.

As you know, the Milwaukee St. Paul bought the road and made it what it now is.

But the little "ancient history" as you called it bade me hark back a long ways in my life.

I thank you,
Wm. H. Rowan.

ASK VEHICLE TAX
At the regular monthly meeting of the city council Tuesday evening, the question of creating a vehicle tax ordinance in Crystal Lake for the purpose of raising funds for maintaining the streets in the city was discussed to a considerable extent, and it seems likely that such an ordinance will be passed by the council to become effective May 1. City Attorney L. D. Lowell was instructed to draw up such an ordinance and submit it to the council for consideration at its meeting.

AN ART EXHIBIT AT GRADE SCHOOL

Many Beautiful Prints on Display in New Building

ARE ON DISPLAY THREE DAYS

Short Program Thursday and Friday Evenings—Open Saturday Afternoon

You need not necessarily be a connoisseur to enjoy the beautiful pictures which are now on display at the new building of the grade school. Anyone with an eye for the beautiful can enjoy them. There are dozens and dozens of beautiful prints ranging in size from ten or twelve inches square to three feet. All the prints are from world famous paintings, many of the subjects being familiar to everyone. Some are in colors, just as they appeared when the artist gave the canvas its last touch of paint, others are in sepia and a few in black; all wonderful reproductions and exquisite examples of the color printers' art.

These pictures will be on display to the public this (Thursday) afternoon and tomorrow (Friday) afternoons from 4:00 to 5:00 o'clock; in the evening of the same days from 7:00 to 9:00 o'clock. In the evening of both days a short program will be rendered.

The rooms will also be open Saturday afternoon from 2:00 to 5:00 o'clock.

These pictures are placed on display by one of the biggest art dealers in Chicago. Any picture may be purchased, but bear in mind that you are not urged, nor will you be solicited to buy anything. The exhibition is primarily to assist the school in securing prints for the walls of the school rooms. All of the money taken in as admission fees will be used in purchasing pictures for the rooms.

The admission fee is 25 cents for adults and 10 cents for children and the exhibit is really worth the money. One can spend an hour or two looking at the pictures and enjoy every minute, for they will bear the closest inspection.

Bear in mind the time:
Thursday, March 17 and Friday, March 18—four to five in the afternoon and seven to nine in the evening.

Saturday, March 19—two to five in the afternoon.

OVER HALF M. LION CARS

Illinois Pays $2,933,583 Auto License in 1920

There were 668,759 automobile licenses issued in Illinois in 1920, an increase of 90,321 over 1919. In fees the owner of these automobiles paid $5,893,586.02 into the state treasury, an increase of $2,631,909.45 over 1919.

In number of cars licensed and fees collected of course Cook County leads. LaSalle county leads in the down state counties, with Peoria second, McLean third and Kane fourth.

Below is published the number of cars and fees paid in 1920 by several of the larger counties and those in this vicinity:

County	Cars	Fees
Cook	169,431	$1,846,282
LaSalle	12,927	121,495
Peoria	12,897	130,444
McLean	11,809	119,340
Kane	11,066	66,033
DeKalb	5,892	59,428
McHenry	5,910	44,589
Boone	2,401	24,571
Winnebago	11,466	115,662
Lee	5,127	53,073
DuPage	4,096	41,776
Sangamon	11,511	116,830
Kendall	1,962	20,063
Whiteside	6,508	66,647

If there are any of our readers who are interested in learning the statistics of other counties in the state, they may be found on file in the Republican office.

WILL THE HORSE COME BACK?

Horse Association of America Sounds Warning to Farmer

A warning to farmers that the displacement of horses on farms as well as in cities and villages, is a direct blow at their interests, has just been issued by the Horse Association of America. J. R. Howard, president of the American Farm Bureau federation, in a statement issued by the association, calls attention to the following facts: "The displacement of horses in the last ten years has destroyed an annual market for 113,000,000 bushels of oats; 70,000,000 bushels of corn and 4,500,000 tons of hay. This means more than the average total export per year on these items.

"The prosperity of this country depends to a large extent upon the farmer and the farmer in turn depends upon the markets he is able to reach. I am doing all I can to arouse every farmer to the importance of using horses in farm work and in hauling. There should be a steady development of horse breeding, as this too will open up markets which have fallen into disuse."

According to the association, the farmers have lost in two markets; in horse sales and in the sale of their hay and coarse grain. It is estimated that an annual market for 60,000 horses has been destroyed and demands for hay and corn reduced about $80,000,000. This is figuring that each horse displaced, consumed $150 worth of feed a year. The curtailment of these markets for the farmer is one of the chief reasons why he is not getting the right price for his farm products today and is an essential cause for present low profits on the farm.

W. S. Dunham, of Wayne, is president of the Horse Association, which maintains headquarters in the Union Stock Yards, Chicago. Representatives are maintained on both the eastern and western coasts.

Investigations covering a long period of time have been conducted in order that statistics concerning the increased costs of business and farm operation may be placed at the disposal of the public.

"This question of lowering operating costs both in the city and on the farm is one which vitally affects the increased costs of business and farming in America," according to Wayne Dinsmore, secretary of the Horse association. "Facts concerning the use of horses prove conclusively that they do lower operation costs. The farmer is learning this, and the city man is beginning to see the light. Our figures show that in cities horses are more economical in short hauling work, in trucking and in delivery work. The same thing applies both to large and small farms."

MALONE TO JOLIET

Sycamore Degenerate Sentenced on Monday by Judge Cliffe

Redford Malone, Sycamore husband and father, indicted two weeks ago on charges made by the parents of 18-year old Hazel Tice, a bedridden cripple, and neighbor of the Malones, was captured by the police Wednesday night of last week at Pinley, Shelby county, Ill., just south of Springfield. He learned of the complaint made against him a couple of weeks ago, and escaped only an hour before the sheriff went to his home to arrest him.

Before Judge Cliffe in the circuit court Monday, Malone pleaded guilty, was sentenced from one to fifteen

PAGEANT OF PROGRESS

Chicago Plans Great Show for 14 Days in August

Chicago's 5 million dollar Municipal Pier will be the scene this summer of the greatest industrial and business exposition that has been held in this section of the country since the World's Fair of 1893. The show is to be known as the "Pageant of Progress" Exposition and the dates set are from July 30 to August 14.

The Exposition was conceived by Mayor Wm. Hale Thompson, whose original idea was an exposition of products manufactured and distributed in Chicago, with the aim of stimulating business and decreasing unemployment. After the first announcement of the project, so many inquiries were received from all over the United States that it was necessary to change the original plan and invite the business men of the entire United States to participate. Many of them have already arranged to take space for exhibits. The purpose of the "Pageant of Progress" Exposition, has also been broadened, and while it will be a great business show, it will also be thoroughly educational—unfolding to hundreds of thousands of visitors the vast panorama of the World's progress, educating them to the innumerable achievements in every phase of human activity. A complete realization of the great accomplishment of man's brain and hand will be impressed upon the public mind by the undoubted educational force of this Pageant of Progress.

SENATOR WRIGHT STOPS IT

Steps Into Limelight by Interrupting Wrangle

Senator H. G. Wright at the session of the senate the first of the week was responsible for the completion of the arguments and the roll call in the Van Meter-Rainey appointment, which is one of the sensations of the present senate.

Senator Wright, it is understood, stood for the wrangling for about four hours and then notified the president of the senate and other members that he was going to put a motion to consider the previous motion.

However, he yielded to one or two senators who wanted to bring out one or two major and important points and finally within another half hour he had stated his motion and it was sustained by the members of the senate. This was done after our senator had told his colleagues they were getting nowhere unless they were further from the business before them. It is the DeKalb senator's opinion that had the matter been allowed to go on, the appointment would not have been made this week. As it was, following the appointment considerable other important business was given attention.

FRIDAY CORN DAY IN DEKALB COUNTY

Farmers All Over DeKalb County Responding to the Call

FREE CORN FOR STARVED EUROPE

Genoa and Kingston Townships Will Each Donate 1100 Bushels as Their Share

Farmers all over the country have offered to give corn to the starving people in Europe provided it would reach them without further expense. Railroad companies volunteered the use of cars, the railroad labor unions have offered their services free and transatlantic transportation has been donated so that it is now up to the farmers of the country to do their end of this great work.

The farmers in the United States are expecting to give 5,000,000 bushels of corn. This means that the major portion must come from Illinois, Iowa, Indiana and Ohio. Illinois has offered to raise 1,000,000 bushels of corn. This means 20,000 bushels for each corn producing County in this state or 1100 bushels in each corn producing township.

Woodford county has already donated 12 cars; Henderson county is following close in line and farmers in all other counties in the state are giving wonderful response to this work.

In DeKalb county everyone has taken hold of this project and given it a big boost.

The following elevators and others have donated their services:

Clare, Brennan's Elevator
DeKalb, DeKalb County Agricultural Ass'n.
Elva, J. A. McDole
Fairdale, E. E. Woodard
Genoa, Zeller & Son
Kingston, B. F. Uplinger
Kirland, Banks & Son
Sycamore, Farmers' Elevator

At each elevator there will be a corn sheller to shell the ear corn. The shellers have donated their services.

Bring your corn in on Friday, Mar. 18 and help do this thing "BIG for Humanity's sake."

ST. CHARLES STRIKE

Milk Marketing Company has First "Experience" With Union

The St. Charles plant of the Milk Producers' Co-operative Marketing company was closed down Tuesday when eighteen men in the labeling room walked out. More than a hundred and fifty employes were thrown out of work by the strike says the Elgin News.

Many farmers who had brought in loads of milk to St. Charles were forced to take their milk to Elgin. Others left their milk at the St. Charles plant, relying on a settlement of difficulties.

The men went on strike following the hiring of non-union men within the last few weeks by the marketing company, they claim, and charge that this was in violation of the agreement made last November when they accepted a twenty-five per cent reduction in wages. They also ask a new wage agreement.

The men declared that they were willing to arbitrate matters and held a mass meeting Tuesday afternoon for non-union workers.

Manager W. J. Kittle, superintendent of the Chicago district of the marketing company, said he knew nothing of the trouble. The St. Charles condenser was purchased last October from Borden's.

Late Tuesday afternoon farmers began operation of the condensing plant at St. Charles so that milk they had brought in would not be spoiled.

The DARK MIRROR

By LOUIS JOSEPH VANCE Author of "The False Faces," "The Lone Wolf," Etc. Illustrated by Irwin Myers

IN THE HOP JOINT. Synopsis.—Vaguely conscious of a double personality, but without any idea of its meaning, the girl Leonora, makes her accustomed way into the Street of Strange Faces in the underworld of New York. Mario joins her. Greatly in love and seeing the fine qualities which the girl really possesses, Mario seeks to turn her from the path of inevitable destruction. She promises to marry him. At Ristori's cafe, gathering place of criminals, Leonora meets her partner, "Red" Carnehan, and his associates, and is accused of betraying a fellow criminal to the police. She savagely defends herself. Police crash into the room and two are killed by Carnehan. Leonora and the rest escape. In her studio, Priscilla Maine, wealthy artist, awakes from troubled sleep with a distinct feeling of having her life linked with Leonora's. Priscilla has painted a picture of herself in fancy dress—a gipsy—which has a strange effect on her. Unnerved and fearful that her mind is affected, Priscilla calls to her a dear friend, Dr. Phillip Redick, who is in love with her. He is stunned to find that her dream story of the police fight is confirmed by the newspapers. Priscilla tells him about the mystery of her mother, who died when she was born. He sees the effect of the painting and pronounces it a case of auto-hypnosis. Priscilla makes him promise not to go to the police and she begins investigating it for herself. Priscilla senses with cold fear danger which threatens Leonora.

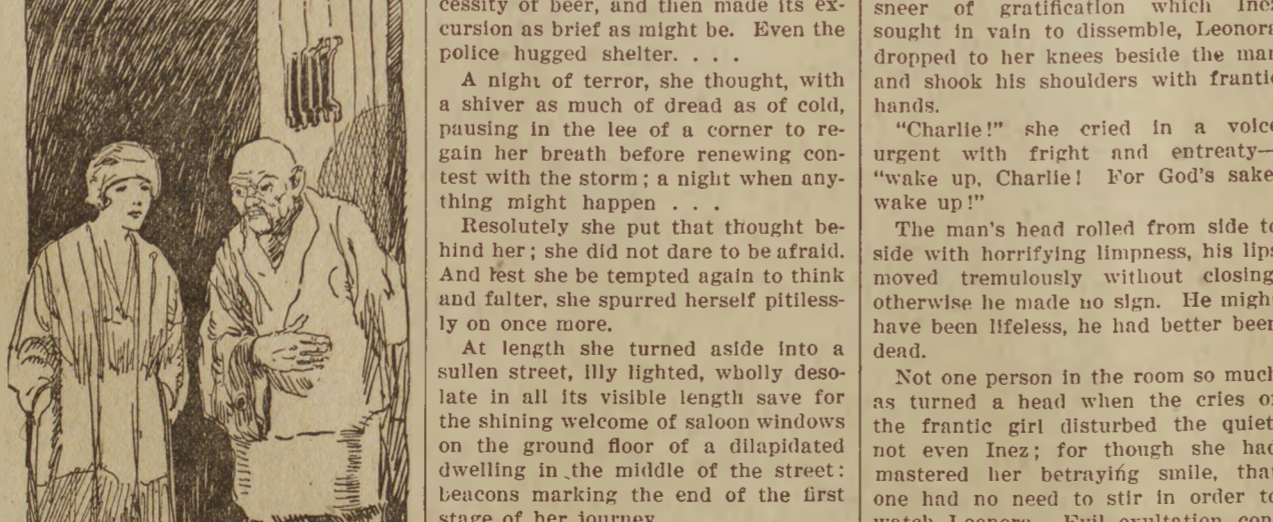

CHAPTER FIVE Rendezvous With Destiny. I. THE CLOCK. By the time Priscilla Maine had spent twenty minutes phoning and all her patience gazing snubs from one arrogant cab company after another, the van of the storm had passed, leaving the stunner and cringing city to the endless legions of the rain. Her own car was being used by Mrs. Trowbridge for a dinner visit out of town. In her present state of mind and nerves the prospect of stopping on indefinitely in the studio was insufferable. Resigning herself, then, to a drenching, the girl locked up and scampered through swimming streets to Fifth avenue—where she waited three minutes that seemed ten till a trudging bus consented to pick her up. At the uptown end of her journey, likewise, she had two blocks to run, from Fifth avenue to Park, before she got home, with hat, suit, furs and temper all demoralized.

While her maid prepared a bath, she begged off by telephone from a dinner engagement to which she had long been looking forward. Tonight she felt it would be impossible to hold her own, with anxiety on account of Mario and Leonora forever at her elbow, a gibbering specter. A hot bath and the ease of negligee should have lent her some tranquility, but did not. She made the merest pretense of dining from a tray in her room. She could not forget . . . Past seven: in less than three hours Leonora must start upon her journey. And she could do nothing . . . nothing! . . . but wait and wonder and wring useless hands . . . A little before ten an inexplicable change in the texture of her emotions made her aware that the peak of her transports had been reached and

II. THE STREET. She had neither raincoat nor umbrella; demonic squalls hailed such defenseless prey, and gusts of pelting drops stung the bare flesh of her face like birdshot. Long before she managed to weather the corner her thin cloak was soaked through and so was all beneath it, her shoes were squelching, her sodden skirts, harried by the wind, were clinging tenaciously to her legs, making progress incredibly difficult. Yet she did not mind, but found a kind of savage delight in battling with the elements, gaining ground against their malicious will. Following long confinement to that room of un-speakable boredom there was compensation and to spare in this false sense of freedom, in the mere fact that she was at last at large, enough to render her indifferent to damaged clothing as well as to the clammy discomfort with which it plastered her chilled body. She leaned her slim young body against the wind and gladly fought it for every breath and step, she relished keenly the wet sweetness of the air, the gurgle of rushing gutters, the lilliputian drumfire of the rain, the motley cheer of weeping windows. But for these last one might pardonably have taken the Street for part of some drowned city peopled by gray ghostly shapes, figures glimpsed dimly through sweeping waves of rain as they scurried from curb to curb, lumbered down the wind, like Leonora, plodded doggedly against its howling opposition. But few such were visible at any time; humanity braved the elements that night solely under the lash of elemental appetites, such as the necessity of beer, and then made its excursion as brief as might be. Even the police hugged shelter. . . . A night of terror, she thought, with a shiver as much of dread as of cold, pausing in the lee of a corner to regain her breath before renewing contest with the storm; a night when anything might happen. . . . Resolutely she put that thought behind her; she did not dare to be afraid. And fast she was tempted again to think and falter, she spurred herself pitilessly on once more. At length she turned aside into a sullen street, dimly lighted, wholly desolate in all its visible length save for the shining welcome of saloon windows on the ground floor of a dilapidated dwelling in the middle of the street; beacons marking the end of the first stage of her journey. . . . III. THE HOP JOINT. The saloon, a boozing ken of the lowest order, occupied quarters first intended for a shop. Empty show windows, flanking a double doorway, were backed by screens of machine-carved wood stained to mock mahogany and hung with beer lithographs. To one side, under a sign-glit lettering on a black ground: "Family Entrance"—a single door stood open on a short hallway which led to a dreary room behind the bar, where local sots of both sexes sat in sodden congress over tables sticky with dregs, their feet scuffling in coarse, damp sawdust. To the right of this door a window with a ledge broke the side wall, communicating with the bar for the convenience of neighboring ladies and other fastidious souls who, rather than risk social contamination by entering a common barroom, fetched empty pails of tin and carried them away filled with nourishment for home consumption. To the left a constricted staircase ascended to regions of uninviting darkness. Leonora, however, mounted with confidence and, finding a blank shut door at the top, planted a confident finger on a push-button which she could not possibly have located by sight. A venomous buzz responded. Shuffling feet drew near the door, in which a grille opened, letting out a shaft of strong light which fell squarely on the girl's face. She said coolly: "Lo, John. Le me in." A chain bolt rattled. The door swung inward. Leonora entered, passed, faced the guardian of the portal—a Chinese, aged, shriveled of face, shrunken of body, impassive—whom she addressed with the brusque insouciance of old acquaintance. "Charlie anywheres about?" With racial economy of gesture the Chinese jerked a thumb toward the rear of the house and turned to re-fasten the door. Leonora moved down the hall, disdainfully sniffing tainted air, and entered a large room whose atmosphere was mephitic with the unforgettable, sickly sweet fumes of opium. Here, in half-curtained nooks or on thin mattresses upon the floor, in a forbidding half light furnished by a single, closely shaded lamp, perhaps a dozen men and women lay in uncouth postures, deep in drugged stupors. One only was in apparently complete possession of her wits: the woman Inez of whom Leonora had seen nothing since that fateful night at Ristori's. Inez alone recognized in any way this addition to the company, looking up with a sullen face from her seat on the edge of a mattress on which lay, with limbs sprawled and face of ghastly pallor upturned to the dim light, his mouth half open, his eyes half closed, the thick stem of an opium pipe dangling from limp fingers, the man whom Leonora had come to meet. In a seizure of dizziness so overpowering as to blind her completely to the sneer of gratification which Inez sought in vain to dissemble, Leonora dropped to her knees beside the man and shook his shoulders with frantic hands. "Charlie!" she cried in a voice urgent with fright and entreaty—"wake up, Charlie! For God's sake, wake up!" The man's head rolled from side to side with horrifying limpness, his lips moved tremulously without closing, otherwise he made no sign. He might have been lifeless, he had better been dead. Not one person in the room so much as turned a head when the cries of the frantic girl disturbed the quiet, not even Inez; for though she had mastered her betraying smile, that one had no need to stir in order to watch Leonora. Evil exultation continued to inform her cold eyes as long as they were unobserved; but Leonora found them quick with specious sympathy when, at length appreciating the futility of her efforts, she loosed her hold on Charlie's shoulders and sank on her heels. "My God!" she said, with a stricken face—"what'm I going to do?" "What's the trouble, dearie?" Inez spoke with cloying sweetness, but the other was too far gone in despair to notice, or to care if she had noticed. "Anything I can do to help?" "I don't know"—Leonora shook her head slowly—"guess not." "Why'n't you tell me and find out?" Inez leaned across the body of the drug victim and placed a coarse red hand affectionately over Leonora's.

"Charlie Anywheres About?"

passed. Of a sudden she found herself more calm, not with the calm of misgivings set at rest, rather with that of courage dauntlessly addressing itself to a forlorn hope. Intuition divined the explanation: In that strange, deep sympathy which made them one, her mental and emotional processes faithfully reflected Leonora's; what agonies of doubts and fears she had suffered tonight were but replicas of those which Leonora

"You can trust me, I guess. We're all in this mess together, ain't we?" "It's only Red," Leonora responded dully. "He said for me to come to him tonight. He sent word by Charlie—said I'd got to come tonight. Charlie promised he'd meet me here and show me the way. He wouldn't tell me—said Red made him swear not to. I don't see why . . . But I wish to God Charlie'd kept his word to me like he did to Red." "What do you mean?" "I was afraid of this." She nodded at the unconscious man. Charlie promised me he wouldn't smoke more'n two pipes." Inez laughed shrilly. "Guess he must've had six," she declared: "I rolled three pills for him since I came in." "And now he's down and out," Leonora pursued, "and I don't know how to find Red, and he won't take any excuses . . . Inez, I'm scared!" "You poor kid!" Inez tightened her clasp on Leonora's hand. "But you don't have to worry. I'll take you to Red. I been there half a dozen times at least."

The smile of conscious triumph, which Inez could not suppress, was un-speakably offensive, and brought back vividly to mind the rivalry which had always existed between them and which had flared up into open hostility at their last rencontre. Hot resentment kindled in Leonora's eyes, hot color flushed her cheeks; but she dug teeth into her underlip and grimly fought down the impulse to give her anger tongue. Not only was that precisely what Inez wanted, but it might prove fatal. There was more than pride at stake, there was the life of him who loved her and whom she loved. Nothing, indeed, but that love of hers for Mario had broken down her will to refuse Red's summons: only the threat of Red's vengeance wreaked on Mario had made her supple to the gangster's will. And now, if she quarreled with Inez, that one would never show her the way to Red. Anything (she repeated, in her secret thoughts) might happen. "Sure he did," Inez agreed cheerfully. "You don't suppose Leo's leary of me like Red is of you, Nora dear? Why, I've known all along where them two was layin' up."

Long lashes drooped to veil Leonora's smoldering eyes. Inez's malicious smile flashed and faded. The other clenched her hands into tight fists, then opened them. She looked up, pride conquered and trampled under foot by love. "Inez," she pleaded simply: "I got to see Red tonight or . . . I don't know what'll happen. Please take me to him, Inez!" The woman delayed her response for a moment, that she might relish the full flavor of her triumph. Then, jumping up, she said: "Sure I will, dearie. C'mon: let's go."

IV. THE ROOFS. Again the night, the wind, the rain, the laborious transit of dim, weltering streets . . . Inez led through a tortuous maze of murky backways, till they came to a sinister block of towering, teeming tenements, into which, plucking Leonora by the sleeve, she turned. In the unsavory lower hall Leonora spoke incredulously: "Not here?" Inez gave a negative gesture: "I should say not. Across the roofs . . . You don't suppose I'm such a simp as to lead a dick to the right door, do you?" "You don't think we're followed?" Leonora demanded in quick alarm. Inez nodded emphatically. "I know we was."

"Who was it? Could you see?" "Nobody I ever seen before; a new bird, I guess, from some uptown precinct. Coarse worker, too; he must've spotted you first, 'cause he was waitin' when we came out, and trailed us all the way." "Why didn't you tell me?" "What's the use? You know now, don't you? It wouldn't've done you any good to know in the street, as long as I knew and had sense enough to lead him wrong, like this. . . . C'mon."

They began to run up long flights of stairs lighted only by single gas jets low-turned on every other landing, and noisome with stratified stench of evil cookery and things worse yet; the predominant race tenanted each successive floor indicated by its dominant effluvium, were it garlic, boiled cabbage, fried fish, or the subtle, penetrating, indistinguishable odor of opium smoke. Gusts of voices lifted in rude laughter or more commonly quarrelsome issued from doorways that stood as a rule wide. Once there was a sound of weeping, too, sickening dull wails of some woman cruelly used. And always the inevitable squalling of children fretful in unhappiness. . . . On the top landing Inez paused to peer over the rail. "That's him," she panted, nodding. Leonora joined her. At the bottom of the gloomy, deep well of the staircase the fore-shortened figure of a man was visible, his upturned face a mere blur of flesh color. But something individual in the pose caught Leonora's eye and prodded what she took for some memory half erased.

In Gangs. "It's queer how these robbers all get into gangs," remarked Mr. Smith, looking up from his evening paper. "How is that?" asked his wife, looking up from the society page. Bobby, a four-year-old Columbus boy, is an observing youngster; also, he is kind-hearted and willing to oblige, characteristics that were brought out in a recent incident which was embarrassing to his mother. Bobby's mother is young and pretty, and to enhance her good looks has frequent recourse to a powderpuff, with the usual remark that she fears her face is shiny. One night this week Bobby sat with his mother in a movie, and directly in front of them sat a bald-headed man. His head was shiny, and this attracted Bobby's attention. "Say, mother," he said excitedly, "that man's head is awful shiny, isn't it?" His mother's look of distress evidently was interpreted by Bobby to mean sympathy for the man with shiny head, for he said, loud enough to be heard for several rows of seats, "Mother, couldn't you lend him your powderpuff?"—Indianapolis News.

How Dates Grow. The Arabs live almost entirely on this fruit when crossing the desert. The date is the fruit of the date-palm, which grows best in Persia, Palestine, Arabia, and the North of Africa. The stem reaches a height of 50 feet to 70 feet and throws on a magnificent crown of large leaves and a number of spadices. In the female plant these bear bunches of dates weighing from 20 to 25 pounds. A burglar, unlike a horse owner, is willing to take another man's dust. Between Sisters. ## Standardizes Hammermill Bond

In the Printing of Office Stationery

WHY?

We stopped using a dozen different grades and kinds of paper for the trade, and standardized printing on one reliable and watermarked bond.

"We chose Hammermill Bond, because we found it the one paper which combines quality, color-variety, price, and distribution so as to make standardization feasible.

"It has the quality for letterheads, and for the forms that go into office files. It's low enough in price so that we can use it for forms that are thrown away the same day they are used.

"We're able to offer different colors to distinguish various forms, which means that they're quickly handled, and don't go astray.

"Hammermill is the lowest-priced standard bond paper on the market, and our customers have one pretty good reason for thinking this is right—they haven't had to argue about a bill since we began using Hammermill Bond."

You, too, can save money, and get more satisfactory results by standardizing your forms and letterheads on Hammermill Bond.

Ask us for specimen forms, showing Hammermill's wide variety of color and finish.

MORE FOOL LEGISLATION

Opposition to the Watson bill requiring all municipal and county officials to submit their books to examination by the state auditor of public accounts, has been registered by the Logan county board of supervisors. May the laws of common sense uphold the Logan county men in their fight against this fool bill. It is true that such a law would create more jobs for politicians, but as far as any real benefit, there would be none. Under the existing laws, all officials handling public money must give adequate bonds and publish their financial statements every year that the citizens may read. In the case of municipal affairs, the city clerk's annual report is audited by a finance committee and approved by the entire city council. Does Mr. Watson imagine that a state auditor could do more to safeguard the public funds? The passage of such a bill could be nothing less than an insult to the intelligence of any municipality.

SOME COMPLIMENT

Geo. S. Faxon of Plano, editor of the Kendall County News and former postmaster of that town, has been sued for $50,000 in the circuit court at Yorkville by William Malone of Chicago, former member of the Illinois state board of equalization. The suit charges the publisher with libel and is based on statements in an editorial published in the Plano newspaper April 7, 1920, during the campaign for the republican nomination for president.

We congratulate Mr. Faxon on his standing in the business world. It is sure some compliment for a country newspaper man to be defendant in $50,000 damage suit. Suppose George will be so all-fired stuck up now that he will not recognize others of the fraternity.

PUBLIC UTILITIES

Altho the electric light was invented only 40 years ago, today 9,000,000 American homes are lighted by electricity, and industry would be paralyzed were electric plants to close. The entire nation is united into one great family by the telephone. A convenience at all times, the telephone is often a necessity. Without it, the business world in its present complex development could not operate and many things which we look upon as indispensable could not be obtained. A combination of financial resources has been instrumental in creating this wonderful development of utilities. In other words, the public utility corporations, which we are so free to condemn on the least provocation, are responsible for the growth of these wonderful improvements which are so essential in our business and homes.

Who are the public utility corporation?

Over 400,000 men and women of voting age of the state now own securities of the electric, gas, electric railway and telephone companies of the state, a compilation just prepared by the Illinois Committee on Public Utility Information shows.

Allowing 5 persons to a family, and with 400,000 security owners, there are now estimated to be 2,000,000 persons in the state directly interested in these companies furnishing the highly essential public services. All of these people are customers of the utilities. A large per centage of the 193,000 employees own utility securities.

The Mansfield News states the case in the following little story:

Thirty years ago, Dad poked an unwilling foot out of bed. Back it came with a jerk. Then, with an effort, he plunged into the chilly atmosphere. With numb fingers he searched for a match. It sputtered out. Again he tried and this time he got the lamp lighted.

Shivering, he pattered down to the kitchen and fixed up the fire in the range. Then, while mother fried the eggs, Dad struggled through his shave with lukewarm water. A slice out of his chin was charged to the unsteady flame of the lamp.

Breakfast over he started out on his frigid hike to work.

And then we talk of the good old days!

Most of the comforts that make life easier to live nowadays are supplied by those big common servants, the public utilities. The light that shines at a touch, the street car that saves chilblains, gas that instantly obeys the match, the telephone that eliminates the miles of walking, the telegraph that does away with days of uncertainty—these are our most useful—and our cheapest—conveniences.

So every citizen is interested in the prosperity of the public utilities. For unless these industries are successful, the quality of their service suffers—and so do we.

Turkish Women Fine Linguists.
It is no uncommon thing for Turkish women to be able to speak half the languages of Europe, and to have, in addition, a knowledge of ancient Greek, Persian and Arabic.

Flying Squirrels.

Along in April, if you are walking through a heavy piece of woods and you tap tentatively upon the trunk of a hollow tree because you see a promising looking hole higher up, then, once out of about 892 times you will see one or more curious little heads peering down at you. You will have found a family of flying squirrels, says a writer in the Christian Science Monitor.

You will be apt to notice that the little rascals above have unusually large eyes and you will perhaps be surprised at the number of inhabitants which will continue to emerge from that hole upon continued tapping (sometimes there will be eight or nine); but particularly you will be delighted by the wonderful lightness and gracefulness of the jumping flights they will make to the nearby tree trunks. Of course they land at a lower level than the spot from which they jump, yet by repeating the process they are in no time distributed to the four compass points and out of your range of observation. If, however, the young are very small they may be caught and you can examine their silky fur and the little sails which they spread with their feet when they volve.

Inconsistency.
The inconsistent woman is a serious menace to the reputation of woman-kind in general. She says one thing and does another; in fact, she is usually all theory and no practice. Therefore, for the good of her sex, it behooves all women to ask themselves if they are inconsistent. Inconsistency is a fatal hindrance in the character of a business or professional woman, for it does away with the reliability, which is necessary to success.

Mr. and Mrs. Hoffman left early in the week for their home at Genoa, where Mr. Hoffman is extensively engaged in farming.

John Hadsall, who went to Rochester, Minn., last week, accompanied by his son, A. D., has been thru the great Mayo clinic and been informed that his vital organs are all in excellent condition, but that his trouble is due to infection. The surgeons believe that at some time in the past a silver entered the body and has caused the blood poisoning. Whether the silver is of wood, metal or glass will be determined by a minor operation which was performed the first of this week, a gland in the neck being removed. Mr. Hadsall is feeling much better than he did at the time of leaving Genoa. A. D. returned to Genoa the last of the week. John Sullivan is now with the senior Hadsall in Rochester.

Degrees and Rank. The two degrees, D. D., and LL. D., are quite different. The first is doctor of divinity, that is, a person learned in those subjects that form the education of a divine or theologian. The second, LL. D., is doctor of laws, the two L's being the plural form where initials are used. This degree is, or should be conferred upon those deeply learned in the subjects that make up higher education and culture—in languages, literature, science and philosophy. The former degree is only conferred upon ministers of religion, the latter upon both ministers and laymen. The ranks in the British peerage, ascending, are: Baron, viscount, earl, marquis, duke. Ex-officio, a Latin term, from officio, that is by virtue of his office, means that by reason of a person holding a certain office he also holds certain other offices or performs certain other functions. For example, the rector of a parish is ex-officio, that is because he is rector, chairman of a meeting of the vestry, or congregation.—Montreal Herald.

People of the World. The total population of the earth is 1,699,000,000, according to the latest edition of the Gotha Hofkalender. The 1919 estimate was 1,645,000,000. The eastern hemisphere, including Europe, Africa, Asia and Australia, has 1,494,000,000 people, while the Western hemisphere—the Americas—has a population of 205,000,000.

The average density of population of the earth is 23.5 per square mile, while Australia is most sparsely settled—2.45 people per square mile. In North America the average population per square mile is 15.

The greatest uncertainty exists as to the population of Persia, Abyssinia and the Congo, estimates differing from 4,000,000 to 9,000,000, 8,000,000 to 12,000,000 and from 15,000,000 to 20,000,000 respectively, so that the total difference between the lowest and highest estimates is 14,000,000. That difference is insignificant compared with a total population of nearly 1,700,000,000.

Love. A Philadelphia editor was talking about Anatole France, the famous French novelist whose serious illness is reported.

"Anatole France," he said, "is a cynic, a graceful and profound cynic. I once heard him make a cynical speech about love."

"Love," he said, "encountered Wisdom on the high road."

"The girl is beautiful today," said Wisdom, "but she will be the image of her mother when she gets to be her mother's age. You, though, of course, are blind."

"Love laughed carelessly."

"Oh, no," he said, "I simply shan't be there to see."

Very Bad Indeed.

"You are not eating very much, Mr. Shyful," said the girl coyly to the bashful sultor, who had been invited to the family Christmas dinner.

"Yes," he replied, and at last, for the first time during the evening, he got his chance, so seizing all his courage, he gasped:

"To sit next to you, Miss Betty, is to lose one's appetite."

A Winter Catastrophe. Little Howard had been accustomed to going for milk to a neighbor who kept a cow. One winter day he was told that the cow had gone dry and he could have no more milk until spring. The little fellow lost no time in running home and explaining to his mother:

"Oh, mudder, the cow's frozed up and he won't have no more milk till spring!"

GENOA 18, MAPLE PARK 11

The game with Maple Park was one of the best fought contests the local team has staged this year, superior guarding giving Genoa the long end of an 18 to 11 score. The floor work of the local team is improving, and sharp passing carried them through the Maple Park defence repeatedly for close shots. Genoa's score was made almost entirely on close field shots, Lackner, Adler and Bartle finding openings, while Getthman played a fast floor game, showing improvement in passing.

Maple Park relied on dribbling, Brown and Ahlin both showing very fast floor work. Gustavison's guarding broke up the dribbles repeatedly, however, and the Park boys were unable to force openings, getting very few shots. The dribbling game to some unavoidable encounter when a guard played a man coming in hard and culminated in the only regrettable incident of the game when Brown, carrying Gustavison into the crowd under the west basket, was struck (or thought he was) by some too ardent booster and started fighting. Both men were replaced and the game finished without change in the score.

The Maple Park team played a hard, driving game all the way thru and Captain Gustavison deserves the credit for making Genoa's win possible by his consistent back work. Loose guarding at any point would have spelled disaster. Muirhead refereed very acceptably. The next home game will be with DeKalb.

Freshmen on March 25, when Genoa should turn the tables and atone for the burlesque at DeKalb.

The curtain-raiser brought out an exciting game between the eighth and ninth grades, in which the latter nosed out a hard-earned victory 9 to 8. These two teams will meet again.

WEEKLY ITEMS

The notes this week are in charge of the eighth graders. If the news column is shorter than usual it is not their fault, however; and to prove themselves thoroughly awake, two editorials are submitted.

Last Monday Mr. Trimble of the University of Illinois made his annual inspection visit. His comment was, on the whole, severely critical, but he did praise the order and general spirit of the school.

The inspector's visit is not all that makes this week a crucial one. Thursday and Friday the Seniors will take the teachers' examinations at Sycamore; and Friday and Saturday the basketball team plays in the tournament at Maple Park.

MANUAL TRAINING

Elmer Siebens
The boys have not been taking manual training for nearly a month, having occupied their time with mechanical drawing. The course will soon be resumed, however, as there is still work to finish.

DOMESTIC SCIENCE

Naomia Hermanson
The sewing classes are continuing work on the gingham dresses and skirts. The advanced class in cooking is making pies this week. The freshmen are starting to work with eggs now that they are cheaper.

DAYLIGHT SAVING

Mamie Hecht
Daylight saving has again become one of the leading questions. Some of course favor it while others do not. In the cities, the extra hour of daylight affords the office man more time for recreation. If he is a motorist, it enables him to enjoy the scenery. If he happens to have a garden, it enables him to do more work in it.

The farmer cannot see where he is benefited by daylight saving. The dairyman has to rise earlier and milk in the dark while his city neighbor sleeps. During haymaking and harvest, he gets no farther ahead with his work because the dew does not dry until a certain hour and in order to get his work done, he has to work the extra hour in the evening while the city man can ride in his car if he has one.

Looking at both sides, I agree with the former because while the city people may like daylight saving and enjoy it, the farmer is the man who furnishes the milk, flour and meat, that we may live and should as far as possible have the best working hours.

The Deadly Arrow.
A mounted Indian or white man with bow and arrows sometimes could kill more buffaloes than a man could kill with a rifle, says the American Forestry Magazine. At close range the arrow was as deadly as the bullet. It made less noise, and arrows could be discharged four times as rapidly as bullets from muzzle-loading guns.

LINCOLN'S COUSIN

Earlville Man Celebrates His 104th Anniversary

The Ottawa Free Trader-Journal of last Friday said:

"While Warren G. Harding was being inaugurated as the twenty-ninth president of the United States, Alexander Herron Davisson, a second cousin of Abraham Lincoln celebrated the one hundred and fourth anniversary of his birth at the family home, two miles east of Earlville.

"Mr. Davisson is the father of the Davisson brothers, extensive farmers on the Cannon Ball Trail in Earl Township.

"The old gentleman was born in Harrison county, Va., March 4, 1817 and has lived in LaSalle county for many years.

While naturally, he is very feeble, he is able to be around the house every day, and is one of the county's most interesting citizens.

"For many years he has been unable to read and his interest in current events has waned considerably. He saw his first airplane the other day and it set him thinking that such a contrivance would be a wonderful weapon in warfare. He had not heard of its utility in the world war."

WRECK NEAR STERLING
Steel Cars on North Western Prevent Loss of Life

Train No. 2, on the Chicago North Western, composed entirely of sleepers, and in this instance an all-steel train, went into the ditch at Agnew, near Sterling, at about 6:30 Monday morning, eight sleepers and the engine leaving the rails. The fact that the train is composed of all steel coaches probably accounts for the fact that no one was killed. The baggageman was injured when a pile of trunks fell on him. It is reported too the conductor was slightly injured.

Every car in the train left the rails except the observation car. It is estimated by officials of the road here that the damage, even tho no one was killed or seriously injured, will be thousands of dollars. The cause was a broken rail in front of the station at Agnew.

For a distance of 500 feet the right of way and rails and ties were torn up as the heavy train plowed its way along after the engine had been derailed. There is a crossover at this point, and this was also torn out as were several switches and rails.

NEW LIGHT PLANT

Blouses Offer a Wide Choice

IN CHOOSING new blouses one is apt to waver between those that promise to be perpetually fresh looking—since they may be laundered easily—and those that entice with lovely color. In the end it turns out that both kinds find their way into the wardrobe. To wear with suits and separate skirts, the dulceness of sheer cotton fabrics, made up with exquisite needle work and good laces, never appeals in vain to women of refinement. There are many of these blouses in the shops now and they are among the things that a good seamstress can make for herself successfully. Delicate hand work is expensive for those who must buy it, but costs the needlewoman little but her time.

The new lingerie blouses are nearly all long-sleeved and have collars that reach the nape of the neck in the back but are open at the throat. Drawn work, hemstitching, pin tucks, narrow frills, fine laces in edgings and insertions tell the story of embellishments on them. Not all of them are white, for batiste is shown in some colors; porcelain blue makes a lovely blouse.

The blouses shown in the picture are both made of georgette, which appears in a lovely range of soft colors for spring. A poplin blouse appears at the left of the two, made with shoulder yoke and finished with satin piping. Scattered motifs in bead embroidery settle the question of decoration and the round neck survives in a model; but the sleeves are long, narrow, belt of georgette falls short of encircling the waist, stopping at each side of the front where two small buttons punctuate its finish.

Among so many colors in georgette one may choose a dark blouse, like that at the right. It has a short poplin at the back and has fallen in with the long-sleeved vogue, but chooses the flaring style. The neck reveals a pretty eccentricity in short slashes at each side, and for trimming there are bands of bugles and beads.

THIS YOUNG MOTHER

Tells Childless Women What Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Did for Her

Millston, Wis.—"I want to give you a word of praise for your wonderful medicine. We are very fond of children and for a considerable time after we married I feared I would not have any owing to my weak condition. I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and now I have a nice strong healthy baby girl. I can honestly say that I did not suffer much more when my baby was born than I used to suffer with my periods before I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound years ago. I give all the credit to your medicine and shall always recommend it very highly."—Mrs. H. H. JANSSEN, Millston, Wisconsin.

How can women who are weak and sickly expect or hope to become mothers of healthy children? Their first duty is to themselves. They should overcome the derangement or debility that is dragging them down, and strengthen the entire system, as did Mrs. Janssen, by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and then they will be in a position to give their children the blessing of a good constitution.

JOSEPH A. YORK, well-known business man of Portland, Me., who says he feels twenty years younger and has gained sixteen pounds on four bottles of Tanlac. Declares he can now eat three square meals a day.

"I am now able to eat three square meals a day for the first time in two years," was the emphatic statement made recently by Joseph A. York, well-known business man and highly respected citizen of Portland, Maine. "I am now sixty-nine years of age, and in all my life I have never run across a medicine that I consider in a class with Tanlac. I have just finished my fourth bottle and this medicine has benefited me even beyond my greatest hopes. Besides gaining sixteen pounds in weight, I have been built up and strengthened until I feel all of twenty years younger.

"For the past two years I have been in a miserably run-down condition, and was compelled a short time ago to give up all idea of business as I was too weak to look after anything. I was nervous, worn-out, had no appetite, and suffered most all the time with indigestion. Some days I would eat scarcely anything; in fact I was afraid to eat because I knew I would suffer afterward. Sometimes I had such severe cramping pains after eating that I would almost die. My nerves were all unstrung and the least thing would worry me and I never could get a good night's sound sleep. In fact I just lost interest in everything and was greatly discouraged over my condition.

"The ordinary treatment failed to do me any good, and as I had read so many statements from people I know here in Portland who had been benefited by Tanlac, I decided to give it a trial. And now I know for myself what it will do, for I have simply taken a new lease on life. I am now able to look after my work as usual, and never felt better in my life. I am able to eat three hearty meals a day and everything agrees with me perfectly. I eat anything I want and never feel a touch of indigestion. I never thought there was a medicine that could do me so much good, and I am only too glad to have the facts about my case given to the public." Tanlac is sold by leading druggists everywhere.—Adv.

Would Give Employees Equal Representation in Determining Wages—Dennis Lane of Workers' Union Brands Plan as Bunk.

Chicago, March 16.—Packers' employees will be represented by Dennis Lane, secretary-treasurer of the Meat Cutters' union, and one other leader, at the meeting with Secretary of Labor Davis to effect mediation in Washington next Monday, it was announced in a telegram to the secretary.

"We will defer to you and two representatives will be present at your meeting in Washington on March 21. We would greatly appreciate a statement from you as to whether or not packers will preserve status heretofore existing pending your mediatory efforts. We also respectfully suggest that you arrange to have the packers' principals present," the telegram said.

"In the past, men who had to report back to their employers before making decisions were sent to the meetings," Mr. Lane explained. "We wish to keep anything like that from entering into this conference."

Word came from Washington that Attorneys James C. Condon and Carol Meyer of Chicago had arrived to represent the packers before Secretary Davis.

Others on the mediation board will be Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover and Secretary of Agriculture Henry C. Wallace.

It was announced at the headquarters of the union that Samuel Gompers will be here to speak at a mass meeting of employees and to attend a session of their representatives, at which a definite plan of action in fighting the pay cuts will be decided on.

The unions announced they plan an alliance with farmers against the packers.

J. Ogden Armour said a co-operative plan, to become effective immediately, would give Armour & Co. employees equal representation in the determination of wages, working conditions, welfare, and all matters of mutual interest.

An election to choose representation on a temporary committee which will determine the methods of election in the plant will be held.

Swift & Co., it has been indicated, will announce a similar plan in the near future.

Dennis Lane branded the plan as "bunk."

"It is the old game of a company union wherein Mr. Armour and other packers will put up men who will pose as the representatives of their fellow workers," he said. "We're satisfied that the packers are not going to get away with this fake democracy. There is no more chance of the men standing for this than there would be for the packers consenting to have the men elect the directors of their companies."

FIUME SCORNS U. S. CONSUL

Wants Recognition to Be Mutual, So American Leaves City for Trieste.

Trieste, March 16.—William Kehlinger, the American consul to Fiume, left that city for Trieste to await instructions from the State department at Washington, after having been refused recognition by the Fiume government.

Dr. Antonia Grossich, provisional head of Fiume, said to Mr. Kehlinger: "We were surprised at this action on the part of your government in asking us to recognize you and protect you when the United States has not recognized us."

Before the war Fiume had a large trade with America.

If You Need a Medicine You Should Have the Best

Have you ever stopped to reason why it is that so many products that are extensively advertised, all at once drop out of sight and are soon forgotten? The reason is plain—the article did not fulfill the promises of the manufacturer. This applies more particularly to a medicine. A medicinal preparation that has real curative value almost sells itself, as like an endless chain system the remedy is recommended by those who have been benefited, to those who are in need of it. A prominent druggist says "Take for example Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a preparation I have sold for many years and never hesitate to recommend, for in almost every case it shows excellent results, as many of my customers testify. No other kidney remedy has so large a sale."

According to sworn statements and verified testimony of thousands who have used the preparation, the success of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is due to the fact, so many people claim, that it fulfills almost every wish in overcoming kidney, liver and bladder ailments; corrects urinary troubles and neutralizes the uric acid which causes rheumatism.

You may receive a sample bottle of Swamp-Root by Parcels Post. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and enclose ten cents; also mention this paper. Large and medium size bottles for sale at all drug stores.—Adv.

Saving Up. Friend—"Is your husband saving up for a rainy day?" Wife—"He's a perfect Noah! He's saving up for the flood."

WOMEN USE "DIAMOND DYES"

Dye Old Skirts, Dresses, Waists, Coats, Stockings, Draperies—Everything.

Each package of "Diamond Dyes" contains easy directions for dyeing any article of wool, silk, cotton, linen, or mixed goods. Beware! Poor dye streaks, spots, fades, and ruins material by giving it a "dyed-look." Buy "Diamond Dyes" only. Druggist has Color Card.—Adv.

Positive. "Would you love me as much if father lost his money?" "But he hasn't lost it, has he?" "No."

"Of course I would, you silly boy!"—Birmingham Age-Herald.

RUB RHEUMATIC PAIN FROM ACHING JOINTS

Stop "dosing" Rheumatism. It's pain only; not one case in fifty requires internal treatment. Rub soothing, penetrating "St. Jacobs Oil" right on the "tender spot," and by the time you say Jack Robinson—out comes the rheumatic pain and distress.

"St. Jacob's Oil" is a harmless rheumatism liniment which never disappoints and doesn't burn the skin. It takes pain, soreness and stiffness from aching joints, muscles and bones; stops sciatica, lumbago, backache and neuralgia.

Linger up! Get a small trial bottle of old-time, honest "St. Jacobs Oil" from any drug store, and in a moment, you'll be free from pains, aches and stiffness. Don't suffer! Rub rheumatism away.—Adv.

Yes, Why? "I shall tell mother you have kissed me!" "Why incite jealousy?"

Some people fail to recognize opportunity when it comes up and shakes hands with them.

As One Raised From Dead STOMACH PAINS GONE

Eaton's Made Him Well

"After suffering ten long months with stomach pains, I have taken Eaton's and am now without any pain whatever. Am as one raised from the dead," writes A. Perfield.

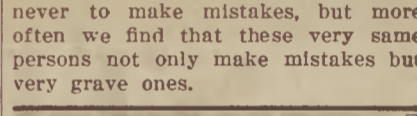

Thousands of stomach sufferers report wonderful relief. Their trouble is too much acidity and gas which Eaton's quickly takes up and carries out, restoring the stomach to a healthy, active condition. Always carry a few Eaton's, take one after eating, food will digest well—you will feel fine. Big box costs only a trifle with your druggist's guarantee.

Mistakes We Often Make. There is a proverb which reads—"The man who never made a mistake never made anything else." There is a great deal of truth in that saying. Sometimes we come across one of those perfect individuals who claims never to make mistakes, but more often we find that these very same persons not only make mistakes but very grave ones.

TOOK A FRIEND'S ADVICE

CRUSHED BY TURKS
Invader's Heel-Trod Heavily on Town of Aintab.

American's Are Busily at Work Helping to Rebuild Once Prosperous Little City in Eastern Syria.

Clustering red-tiled roofs, white stuccoed walls, the fresh green of graceful poplars, and minarets rising here and there in slender beauty—this is the picture greeting the visitor approaching through the mountains rimming it about, the once important town of Aintab, which nestles at the foot of Mount Taurus on the eastern coast of Syria, says the Christian Science Monitor.

Aintab was not only beautiful, but prosperous in those days before the Turk invaded the land, swept it bare of its industry, scattered its people to the four corners of the earth, and deported them inland to the desert or outward to the fringe of seacoast.

Today, however, as one approaches more closely to the town, one sees that there are gaps in the rows of white stuccoed houses, that many of those picturesque red-tiled roofs are falling in, that many of the houses are empty and decaying, and that the town which looked so beautiful from afar is really a shell, an echo of that once busy, flourishing Aintab which with its 43,000 inhabitants, formed an important link in the caravan route from Constantinople, and was known far and wide for its trade in tanned leather and its great cattle market.

When the first party of Americans from the Near East relief reached Aintab after the Turkish military had swept on its devastating course, the wanderers, hearing that help was to be had, began to come straggling back. They must be fed and housed, their homes remade, schools rebuilt for their children, and places must be provided for the little ones left homeless. Promptly the work was begun and took on at once a twofold significance; not only did it furnish employment for the workmen, but also shelter for their families. The women found employment in weaving, and turned the wool, which is plentiful in Syria, into fabrics much needed by those who had lost all their possessions, including clothing. Some of them wove rugs, and a ready market was found for them, often among the American relief workers.

Slowly but surely Aintab is coming into her own once more. New Armenian houses are beginning to rise from the ashes of the old; refugees are pouring back from desert and mountains and the shore of the sea. And once more the cries of merchants resound as they call their wares, their rugs and scraps of household commodities, in the bazaar in the center of the town.

Pointer for the Housewife.
The woman who reduces herself to a frazzle and her family to nervous wrecks does it by trying to do each separate piece of work to perfection. We all like a perfectly appointed household, but it is vastly more important that a home should be comfortable, where the family likes to gather, than that no grain of dust should ever be seen. Housework, done right, is more healthful than almost any other work. Making beds is an excellent exercise for a sluggish liver, but don't forget that a tired housewife may be rested and refreshed by a brisk walk in the fresh air. Fatigue is often caused from bad air, and with the lungs filled with pure air the body is able to throw off the poisons.

Pick out the important things to be done daily and do them, reserving time and strength for these things. The important thing is meals. They mean more to the family than anything else, as they are the fuel which keeps you going.—Exchange.

Oil Prospects in Australia.
Analyses of petroleum gas at Roma, Queensland, have been made which show it to be considerably richer than the gas from most petroleum wells. Using American standards of pressure and temperature in absorption tests, it is estimated that the Roma gas will yield 2 pints of petrol per 1,000 cubic feet. The mines department has decided to continue boring below the gas strata, in the belief that oil will be found. Difficulty in obtaining casing is delaying further boring at Marburg, Queensland. The bore is now over 400 feet down, penetrating sandstones and shales which contain productive coal measures, while tests of a sample of the sludge from the bottom of the bore reveal a small percentage of oil.

School for Customers.
Once a week an Ohio department store conducts what it calls a "buying school." The public is invited to attend this school, which is conducted by experienced salesmen who talk on a variety of subjects interesting to shoppers—such, for instance, as methods of testing different kinds of materials for quality, strength, and so on. Every once in a while the management arranges to have representatives from different concerns come to the school and lecture.—System.

How High Do Birds Fly?
This appears to be still an unsettled question in ornithology, and recently a scientific institution requested air-men engaged in meteorological exploration to observe the heights at which birds are found. At present it is believed that birds generally do not rise more than about 1,300 feet above the ground, although occasionally they attain an elevation of between 6,000 and 7,000 feet.
