

NOTES FROM THE COURT HOUSE

Wesley Taylor of Sycamore Files Bill For Divorce---Wed Thirty Years

NODLAND-DAUM HIGHER COURT

Involves Sale of Farm to Satisfy $42,000 Mortgage--Second Mortgage of $16,303.96 Unsatisfied

Wesley Taylor of the city of Sycamore brought suit for divorce in the circuit court of DeKalb county on November 27 against Moleva Taylor. According to the allegations of the bill of complaint it is alleged that after 30 years of married bliss the parties agreed to disagree. They were married on October 19, 1890 and the complainant states that from the time of their marriage until June 1920 he lived with his wife and always treated her with kindness.

It is claimed by the complainant that, in the month of June 1920 his wife wholly regardless of her marriage covenants willfully deserted and absented herself from him without any reasonable cause and has persisted in such desertion for a space of two years. She now resides at St. Paul, Minn. As the issue of the marriage were born two children, one of the children died and one was born 1895 and is living. The complainant asks that the marriage be dissolved. The bill is filed to the February term of court.

Edward Roos of the city of Sycamore obtained a judgment by confession in the circuit court against C. L. Adeo in the sum of $360.60 and costs. The judgment is the result of a judgment note executed by the defendant under date of March 18, 1913 for the sum of $1,000 on which was paid certain amounts reducing the amount to the present sum for which judgment was recovered.

An appeal to the appellate court of the second district was taken by Arthur T. Nodland and Anna Marie Nodland, defendants in the foreclosure proceedings instituted against them in the circuit court of DeKalb county by Peter Daum of Rochelle.

The suit was filed in the circuit court by Peter Daum against the Nodland and W. V. Strong and John Anderson of Hincley to foreclose a mortgage for the sum of $42,000, executed by the Nodlands on March 1, 1920, and evidenced by nine promissory notes payable in five years after date. It was secured by 213 acres of farm property in Squaw Grove Township. The property had been purchased by Arthur T. Nodland and his wife on March 1, 1920 for the sum of $74,812 from Peter Daum and he took back the mortgage in question for $42,000.

Default was made in the payment of the interest due amounting to the sum of $2100 and the foreclosure proceedings were instituted. A decree of foreclosure was later entered and the property sold at Master's sale to the complainant for the sum of $47,196.84 leaving a deficiency of $500 still due the complainant on the amount due him under the mortgage. The sum of $16,303.96 found to be due on a second mortgage under the decree still remains unsatisfied.

The defendants, Arthur T. Nodland and wife claim that there are errors in the decree under which the property was sold and for this reason have asked the Appellate court to review the same.

BELVIDERE MAN INJURED

William Casper, section hand employed by the Rockford & Interurban company was struck by a Ford car Thursday afternoon, while working near the interurban station on West Pleasant street, Belvidere, and so badly hurt he was taken to the Public hospital where it is feared he may be internally injured.

Casper was on his knees applying a wrench to bolts on a piece of track just west of the station when the car, driven by Donald Little, aged about 13, of Kingston, struck him and dragged him for a short distance. At the hospital it was found no bones were broken but indications are he may be hurt internally. Little narrowly avoided striking Joe Sullivan of Rockford, foreman of the gang, who was working nearby.

Little, who was driving west, said the rays of the setting sun completely blinded him and he did not see the man he struck.—Sycamore Tribune.

GOLDEN WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Celebrated by Mr. and Mrs. James Gray Tuesday, November 28

The home of Mr. and Mrs. James Gray, north of Genoa about two miles was the scene of a happy gathering Tuesday when their family and relatives came to celebrate the golden wedding anniversary of this worthy couple. The affair was planned as a surprise by the family.

Among the guests present were Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Gray and Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Gray who witnessed the wedding ceremony fifty years ago at the home of the bride in West Virginia where Mr. and Mrs. Gray resided until 1903 when they came with their family to Genoa where they have since made their home.

There were present on this occasion their three daughters, four sons, daughter-in-laws and son-in-laws, fourteen grandchildren and one great-grandchild. One daughter, who lives in West Virginia, was unable to be present.

At one o'clock a buffet luncheon was served, the remainder of the day being given over to friendly chats and happy reminiscence.

Before departing Mrs. Phyla Gray, on behalf of the guests assembled, presented the bride and groom with a substantial purse of gold coins and wishing them many happy returns of the day.

CATHOLIC BAZAAR A SUCCESS

Large Crowd Attends Dinner at St. Catherine's Church Last Thursday

The many people who attended the chicken dinner at St. Catherine's dining hall last Thursday were not disappointed in the way of not getting enough to eat. The tables were filled with chicken, potatoes, gravy, in fact everything you would expect at a regular Thanksgiving dinner. There was enough to go round to everyone in spite of the fact that an exceptionally large crowd was on hand.

In the afternoon the ladies held a bazaar, but it was not until evening when the crowd began to gather for the dance that things began to hum at the various booths.

We have it on good authority that it was a very profitable dinner, bazaar and dance and are sure that everyone enjoyed themselves to the limit.

The following were the winners of prizes at the bazaar: 1 ton coal, Paul Lapham, 1 ton coal, Mrs. M. McKee own; $5 gold piece, Fred; Adams Auto robe, Mr. Dooley of Belvidere; Bed Blanket, Mrs. Merriman, Cut Glass bowl, Jas. McLean; Cake M. P. O'Brien.

BRADT FIELD SECURED

U. S. Government Leases DeKalb Ground for Landing of Mail Planes

By an arrangement brought about this week by S. E. and C. E. Bradt the government has leased 100 square feet of land opposite the house on the Bradt farm, South First street, which in the past has been used by flying machines. This ground will be used by the government as a night air mail landing station. The matter has been under negotiation for some time, and last week engineers were in the city giving this and other property an inspection. Monday of this week, the engineers returned and after a week completed all arrangements whereby the field becomes an aviation field.

For the most part, the field will be used as a night station. However, the area will be lighted on the four corners at all time and other identification marks installed which assists an airman day or night.

It is proposed by the government to build such a station every 25 miles between Chicago and Omaha. To the east of DeKalb, Batavia will have a station while Franklin Grove to the west will get a field. The surveyors in charge of the work relative to the establishment of such a field were in DeKalb all day Monday.

Judging from the remarks heard from the government men who were in the city, it will take a month to complete the field ready for service. The lease on the property, it is understood, expires June 30, the ending of the government's fiscal year.—DeKalb Chronicle.

ANSWERS TO NUMEROUS QUESTIONS

Compiled By the State Committee On Submission and Address

QUESTIONNAIRE ON THE NEW LAWS

Read the Following Carefully—Compare With Old Constitution—Vote Yes December 12

The General Assembly

17. Q. What system of representation in the general assembly is provided?
A. Fifty-seven senatorial districts are established in the state instead of fifty-one as at present, and only senators are to be elected from these districts. Instead of electing three members of the house of representatives from each senatorial district as at present, 153 representative districts are to be established, each of which will elect one member to the lower house.

18. Q. How are districts to be apportioned?
A. Cook county can never have more than 19 of the 57 senatorial districts; 38 senatorial districts are to be apportioned downstate. The 133 representative districts are to be apportioned over the state, according to the basis of representation. The basis of representation for both houses is the number voting for governor at the general election next preceding the particular apportionment. This puts a premium upon good citizenship.

19. Q. How does this affect Chicago representation in the general assembly?
A. Cook county under this plan can never have more than one-third of the state senate but will not be limited in the house.

20. Q. What about the plumping system of electing members of the lower house?
A. The new constitution abolishes cumulative voting for representatives by providing for only one member to be elected from each of the one hundred fifty-three districts. Illinois is the only state in the union which has retained the plumping system, and it has been generally condemned for many years by the voters of this state.

21. Q. Is it customary for states having large centers of population to limit the representation of these cities in the legislature?
A. Yes. The city of New York is limited in the senate of its state legislature. In Connecticut four principal cities which have one-third the population of the state have only one-third of the members of the senate. In Rhode Island no city is permitted to have more than one senator or over one-fourth the members of the larger house. In Florida and Georgia no county is permitted to have more than three representatives no matter what its population. In Maryland, Montana and South Carolina each county may have but one senator. Baltimore, Maryland, with two-fifths of the population of the state has but one-seventh of the members of the senate. All states limit in one house small areas with large populations. Illinois has heretofore been a notable exception to a well established and accepted rule.

22. Q. How is Chicago compensated for curtailment in the senate?
A. Chicago is given home rule. The city council with the approval of the voters may provide for a city charter dealing with public utilities and other questions of particular interest to Chicago.

Judiciary Reform

23. Q. What is the purpose of the changes made by the section relating to courts?
A. To make possible simpler procedure and less complicated appeals. To reduce the number of courts and provide higher qualifications for judges.

24. Q. How are local courts affected?
A. Municipal courts are abolished. Circuit judges, however, are permitted to hold court at other cities than the county seat. Probate courts are abolished, the work to be done by the county court. In large counties where it is necessary an additional county judge may be provided, and two or more small counties may combine their county courts under one judge if it is thought best. The county court is considerably strengthened. The fee system for justices of the peace and constables is abolished.

25. Q. How are districts to be apportioned?
A. Cook county can never have more than 19 of the 57 senatorial districts; 38 senatorial districts are to be apportioned downstate. The 133 representative districts are to be apportioned over the state, according to the basis of representation. The basis of representation for both houses is the number voting for governor at the general election next preceding the particular apportionment. This puts a premium upon good citizenship.

PIGS IS PIGS

Bue We Opine That Faber Brothers' Poland Chinas Are Some Hogs

The writer had occasion recently to wander forth into the country and by a stroke of good fortune happened on the premises of Village-Hill Farm conducted by Faber Brothers.

In days gone by we had always been of the opinion that a pig was a pig and good only for the pork derived therefrom. However it took about two minutes to shatter this idea when we gazed upon a bunch of some 190 odd pure bred Poland China hogs of all ages and sizes, but of the same color that has made this breed famous the world over.

It is customary, or has been in the past as far as we can remember, to associate mud holes and filth with pigs, or if you please hogs. Here another illusion was rudely broken on seeing this great collection of hogs, for they were, without a doubt, and we are voicing the opinion of Geo. Hunt of the Prairie Farmer reporting staff and another correspondent for the Orange Judd Farmer, one of the best looking lot of hogs, taken as a whole, in the state.

We were nearly dumfounded when Mr. Faber called our attention to a huge boar a few weeks over a year old that stood forty inches high and measured approximately 6 feet from nose to flank. This is only one of the two imported pure-bred boars that are helping Faber Brothers to raise some of the best hogs in the middle west.

Upon inquiry we were informed that the large boar's name is Peter Sensation, sired by Peter the 2nd, grand champion of Illinois in 1921. After seeing this marvel of hogdom we were quite ready to call it a day and go home, but no—we must see a six-months' old boar, "The Villager," recently acquired from a farm in the state of Iowa. Its sire was Dundale Giant by the Minute Man. The dam was Miss Porter by Big Porter. Both of the boars on Village Hill farm trace back to F's Big Jones, Grand Champion of Iowa in 1918.

Now we are not farmers or dealers in hogs, but we do say with pride that the herd of swine on Faber Brothers' farm is one of the best in the state and Genoa can well be proud of the acquisition.

We understand that the above firm is going to hold a Poland China sale sometime in the month of February and when they do there will certainly be a gathering of men looking for some prize stock and we are of the opinion that it will not be hard to find.

BELVIDERE NOT WIDE OPEN

So Mayor States, Altho People Voted 2 to 1 for Sunday Amusements

Belvidere Republican

The city council at its regular meeting on Monday evening canvassed from the pole books returned the vote cast at the referendum election on November 18. The figures were practically the same as those published, showing however, a gain in the yes vote for Sunday amusements of eight votes, two in the First ward and six in the fifth. The total vote cast was 2,995 and the yes majority 1,998.

Mayor Perkins stated that nobody need get the idea that the town would be a wide open one as a result of the referendum. The public might be assured that Belvidere would be run alright. It should be remembered that the mayor issues the licenses for all shows and none can show without one. All talk by outside newspapers along the line of a wide open town here was an absurdity.

With the authority given by a decision, 2,038 to 948, for the granting by ordinance of permission for Sunday theatricals and other amusements in Belvidere, the city council will probably at a meeting soon take up the matter of drafting an ordinance on the subject.

The form and extent of the ordinance to be passed will be determined by the city council. The authority granted by the referendum vote is broad and inclusive, the question on the ballot reading as follows:

"Shall theatricals and other exhibitions, shows and amusements, be allowed in the city of Belvidere on the first day of the week commonly called Sunday?"

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

Basket Ball Season Opens Friday, December 8

The local basketball season opens Friday evening, December 8, with a bang. Three teams will be in action, starting with the eighth grade team against Sycamore at 7:00 o'clock and winding up with the first team against Maple Park. Friday night will be the first time since the two schools commenced meeting each other that Maple Park has sent two teams to Genoa. Besides the old men from last year they have some promising new material and with the experience of last year's tournament will put up a good brand of basketball.

The high school lineup is not set. Three of the first string men graduated last year. The loss of Lackner, Rowen and Abraham leaves quite a gap to fill. Field is attending school in Milwaukee.

The eight grades team will probably be outwitted by their opponents from Sycamore, but nevertheless are expected to come forth victors.

The second team goes to Sycamore Friday night to meet the Sycamore high school seconds in the preliminary game while Sycamore plays Elburn, one of the strong teams in this section.

Plato Center Defeats Genoa Twice

Last Friday the boys dropped two close games to Plato Center. The second team score was 13 to 16 in five minutes overtime. The first team lost 25 to 18. Several men were out on account of vaccination. Genoa led at the first but lost it when Bartle went out with a turned ankle. A number of Genoa fans, who were in on the secret that Genoa was playing basketball out of town attended the game. High School Pupils Neither Absent Nor Tardy Second Term

AMERICAN EDUCATION WEEK

To be Observed Throughout Every State in the Union

DECEMBER 3RD TO 9TH INCLUSIVE

Every Organization is Requested Get Behind this Movement and Lower the Percentage of Illiteracy

Warren Hubbard, superintendent of schools of DeKalb county, has notified the public school that the week of December 3rd, to 9th has been set apart as "American Education Week".

The United States bureau of education in co-operation with the American Legion and the National Education Association, proposes to promote this week the object of which is to focus the attention of the entire nation upon education and to make national sentiment for the improvement of our schools, and the furtherance of our educational aims.

President Harding has issued a proclamation designating the week as "American Education Week", and a similar proclamation has been issued by the Governor of Illinois and the governors in other states. Every national organization has been invited to co-operate. This includes all men's clubs, women's clubs and organizations of every type regardless of their interest. The facilities of the motion picture houses are to be used. Every newspaper in the United States has been invited to co-operate. The Legion posts in the county have pledged their support.

It has seemed best to designate special phases of education that should be emphasized during this week from the standpoint of national welfare. The American Legion is particularly interested in Americanization work and has asked that Sunday, December 3, be designated as "God and Country Day."

Monday, December 4, American Citizenship Day.
Tuesday, December 5, Patriotism
Wednesday, December 6, School and Teacher Day.

Thursday, December 7, Illiteracy Day.

Friday, December 8, Equality of opportunity in education for American boys and girls.

Saturday, December 9, Physical Education and Hygiene.

This program will afford a careful study of our educational needs, opportunities, and responsibilities as well as for awakening a greater enthusiasm for the great cause of education generally.

Mr. Hubbard asks that we all unite in an earnest, enthusiastic and effective effort to make this one of the greatest movements in our National as well as our educational history. To start the week right, Sunday, December 3, should be appropriately observed in every church. The topic chosen for that day is timely and its proper consideration will be a fitting beginning for a great week.

Democracy All Against It

Measures Link Bonus and Modification of Volstead Act—Turks at Lausanne Are Having Hard Sledging—Clemenceau's Frank Speeches in American Cities.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

GEORGES CLEMENCEAU, the "Tiger" of France, is telling his American audiences that Europe's unrest is due to the fact that the United States abandoned the Old World to its troubles without trying to help it adjust matters after the war. He says we should enter an informal alliance with France and Great Britain. What do you and your acquaintances think about that?

President Harding, addressing the extra session of congress which opened Monday of last week, appealed for the enactment of a ship subsidy bill. He said there were but three courses to be taken in this matter—constructive, obstructive and destructive. And though he admitted there is, even in his own party, decided opposition to such a measure, he urged that congress take the constructive course. He argued that the measure as drafted provided complete safeguards against exploitation for favored interests and said that he believed government aid for the merchant marine was as justifiable as government aid of industry through tariff laws or railroads through land grants and loans, and government expenditures for good roads, inland waterways, reclamation and irrigation projects.

Mr. Harding especially emphasized the point that the contemplated legislation would not call for new expenditures, but instead proposes to substitute for the present annual draft of $50,000,000 upon the public treasury direct compensation equal to a trifle more than half that amount.

Congress listened to the President calmly and coldly and then the majority got busy with the program, to do the best it could in the circumstances. The bill was quickly reported favorably by the committee on merchant marine, and on Wednesday the house adopted a special rule for its consideration. This provided for three days of general debate and three for consideration of amendments, and a final vote on Wednesday of this week. Meanwhile the Democratic members in caucus decided to oppose the measure solidly, and some Republicans let it be known they would vote in the negative because they thought the people of their districts didn't want the bill.

THERE were two interesting features of the senate's session Tuesday. The first was the swearing in of the first woman to hold a seat in the United States senate—Mrs. W. H. Felton of Georgia. Senator-elect George delayed the presentation of his credentials that this historic event might take place. Next day Mrs. Felton answered once to her name in the roll call, told the senate how proud she was, and retired after 22 hours and 25 minutes of actual service.

The other feature was the bringing up of the Ku Klux Klan matter. A letter from Governor Parker of Louisiana to a New York ex-serviceman was read by Senator Walsh of Massachusetts. It urged that senators and congressmen be asked to assist in combating the organization. Governor Parker was in Washington at the time, having journeyed there to appeal to President Asks Congress in Extra Session to Pass Ship Subsidy Bill.

DEMOCRATS ALL AGAINST IT

Measures Link Bonus and Modification of Volstead Act—Turks at Lausanne Are Having Hard Sledging—Clemenceau's Frank Speeches in American Cities.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

GEORGES CLEMENCEAU, the "Tiger" of France, is telling his American audiences that Europe's unrest is due to the fact that the United States abandoned the Old World to its troubles without trying to help it adjust matters after the war. He says we should enter an informal alliance with France and Great Britain. What do you and your acquaintances think about that?

President Harding, addressing the extra session of congress which opened Monday of last week, appealed for the enactment of a ship subsidy bill. He said there were but three courses to be taken in this matter—constructive, obstructive and destructive. And though he admitted there is, even in his own party, decided opposition to such a measure, he urged that congress take the constructive course. He argued that the measure as drafted provided complete safeguards against exploitation for favored interests and said that he believed government aid for the merchant marine was as justifiable as government aid of industry through tariff laws or railroads through land grants and loans, and government expenditures for good roads, inland waterways, reclamation and irrigation projects.

Mr. Harding especially emphasized the point that the contemplated legislation would not call for new expenditures, but instead proposes to substitute for the present annual draft of $50,000,000 upon the public treasury direct compensation equal to a trifle more than half that amount.

Congress listened to the President calmly and coldly and then the majority got busy with the program, to do the best it could in the circumstances. The bill was quickly reported favorably by the committee on merchant marine, and on Wednesday the house adopted a special rule for its consideration. This provided for three days of general debate and three for consideration of amendments, and a final vote on Wednesday of this week. Meanwhile the Democratic members in caucus decided to oppose the measure solidly, and some Republicans let it be known they would vote in the negative because they thought the people of their districts didn't want the bill.

THERE were two interesting features of the senate's session Tuesday. The first was the swearing in of the first woman to hold a seat in the United States senate—Mrs. W. H. Felton of Georgia. Senator-elect George delayed the presentation of his credentials that this historic event might take place. Next day Mrs. Felton answered once to her name in the roll call, told the senate how proud she was, and retired after 22 hours and 25 minutes of actual service.

The other feature was the bringing up of the Ku Klux Klan matter. A letter from Governor Parker of Louisiana to a New York ex-serviceman was read by Senator Walsh of Massachusetts. It urged that senators and congressmen be asked to assist in combating the organization. Governor Parker was in Washington at the time, having journeyed there to appeal to the President for federal aid in driving the Klan from his state. Mr. Harding told him the federal government could interfere in the matter only where federal interests were involved and that he was confident Louisiana could take care of the situation. Parker left for home with the statement that he was going to make a fight to the finish against the Klan. Governor Hardwick of Georgia says he will cooperate with Governor Parker in this, and already Governor Allen of Kansas has started legal proceedings to stop the operations of the Klan in his state, because it has not filed its articles of incorporation. Governor Olcott of Oregon also has declared himself the unrelenting foe of the Klan.

TRUMAN H. NEWBERRY of Michigan put an end to the long controversy over his election as senator and at the same time relieved his party of great embarrassment by resigning his seat. He said it would be futile for him to attempt to continue his public service as he would be continually hampered by "partisan political persecution." Republican leaders, though sympathizing with Mr. Newberry, agreed that he had adopted a wise course.

TWO soldiers' bonus bills have been introduced in the house, and both of them involve modification of the Volstead prohibition act for both provide for financing the bonus by taxes on liquors now classed as intoxicating. The bill introduced by Representative Hill of Maryland provides that the bonus be financed by a 20 per cent tax on beer and cider containing not more than 2.75 per cent alcohol. The measure sponsored by Representative Britten is the old bill amended so that the necessary funds shall be raised by a tax of $10 a barrel on domestic beer, $30 a barrel on imported beer, $10 a gallon on imported champagne, $5 a gallon on imported still wines, and $2 a gallon on domestic wines.

Whether either or both of these bills are fathered by the "wet" organization is not stated, but the coupling of the bonus and the liberalizing of the Volstead act may turn out to be a clever and winning move. The Association Opposed to Prohibition is on the war path and overlooking no chance. Its executive committee has decided to conduct active campaigns to have the state and national conventions of both parties insert "wet" planks in their platforms.

Senator Spencer of Missouri, Democrat, has announced that he will introduce a bill to create a scientific commission to investigate and decide the question, "When is liquor intoxicating?"

ISMET PASHA and his Turkish Nationalist colleagues find themselves up against a tough proposition in the Near East peace conference which began its sessions at Lausanne on Monday. Lord Curzon, by promising Britain's full support for the French program in relation to Germany, brought about complete accord between Great Britain and France in regard to the terms to be imposed on the Turks, and in general it appeared that Italy would agree with them. To start with, the allies decided, over the protests of the Turks, that the proceedings of the conference should be secret and every delegate was pledged not to reveal them, the press being given only a brief communiqué each day. After several days the Turks again protested against this, asserting that the British and French delegates were giving out the news to correspondents secretly, while they, as Moslem gentlemen, were observing their pledge. All of which availed them nothing. Ismet also objected in vain to the presence of "third parties," especially the Japanese, in the conference, and asked "by Russia was not fully represented. In the latter he was backed up by Premier Mussolini of Italy who declared Russia should participate fully in the conference. This stand of the Fascist statesman was a great surprise to the British and French. The soviet delegation was a week late in arriving.

When the conferees got down to business Ismet Pasha submitted the demand of Turkey for the 1913 frontiers or those resulting from the second Balkan war, and for a plebiscite in western Thrace. The allies virtually decided at once that these demands should be rejected, but it was said the matter might be referred to a committee. They were opposed vigorously by Venizelos for Greece and by the Bulgarians, Rumanians and Jugoslavs.

Stambullski asked the conference to give Bulgaria a corridor to the Aegean sea, including Dedeagatch, but Greece and the allied powers opposed this. It is not unlikely Bulgaria will be granted an outlet by the free use of a railroad to Dedeagatch, which would remain Greek territory.

Abdul Medjid Effendi, a man of scholarly attainments, has been elected caliph of the Mohammedan church by the Nationalist assembly, and installed in Constantinople. The deposed sultan reached Malta safely under protection of the British, and it has been rumored that they will make use of him later in India to create antagonism there against the Nationalists.

WILHELM CUNO, the new German chancellor, spent much of the week selecting the members of his cabinet from the bourgeoisie parties, and seemingly he believes his government will be strong enough to withstand the assaults of the angry united Socialists. The latter rejected President Ebert's appeal to drop their quarrel with the People's party, and help save Germany from collapse. This caused Ebert to repudiate his own party and authorize Cuno to ignore the Socialists.

KING GEORGE opened the new British parliament with the usual speech from the throne, in which he asked that, as regards trade and employment, the ameliorative measures prepared by the Lloyd George government be continued and extended. James R. MacDonald, who had been elected leader of the Labor party and therefore is leader of the opposition in parliament, started the debate on the king's speech by calling for alleviation of the distress arising from unemployment. How serious this question is was made plain by the enormous parade of the unemployed in London which at first demanded access to Prime Minister Bonar Law but was turned away from Downing street by diplomacy. The first urgent business of parliament, however, will be the passage of the Irish bill, for if the Free State constitution has not been ratified by December 6 the Anglo-Irish treaty will lapse.

M. GEORGES CLEMENCEAU is delivering a series of addresses in the largest American cities, explaining the present day attitude of France and telling Americans wherein, as he thinks, their own country is at fault in not taking an active part in the efforts to revive Europe. His strictures and his advice are received with enthusiasm, with interest or with dissent, according to the opinions of his individual hearers and readers, but always they are received with friendly spirit, for the old man himself inspires admiration and liking everywhere. It is not likely that he can induce America to enter into the alliance with France and Great Britain which he advocates, but probably he will be successful in giving us a better understanding of the policy of France and her urgent needs.

ANOTHER great mine disaster occurred last week, this time near Birmingham, Ala. Cars running wild severed an electric cable and a spark caused a terrible dust explosion 1,100 feet from the entrance. Four hundred and seventy-five men were trapped, and of these 84 were killed. Many others were severely injured.

EVERYONE will be interested in the story which came out of French Lick Springs, Ind., where Mayor Hyman of New York has been stopping after a visit to Chicago. It is to the effect that Hyman and Mayor Thompson of Chicago have formed an alliance for the purpose of getting William Randolph Hearst nominated for the presidency in 1924. It is said they will hold over the heads of the leaders of the Democratic party the threat of forming a third party to include all the insurgents and more radical farmer and labor elements. In fact, Hyman made just that threat in a statement to the press.

MEXICANS FIGHT THE BOLSHEVIKS

Many Are Slain as the Fascisti Rise Against the Reds.

BIG PROTEST PARADE STAGED

Battle in Streets of Xochimilco, Neighboring Town of the Capital—Socialists Ambushed and Slain in Campeche State.

Mexico City, Nov. 28.—Pitched warfare has started in various parts of Mexico between the rising Mexican Fascisti and the bolsheviks and radical Socialists.

In the neighboring town of Xochimilco two political processions of opposing parties on the eve of elections had a battle in the streets, resulting in several killed and more than a score wounded.

Socialists of the state of Campeche wired the department of interior here saying that eight members of the Socialists were ambushed and assassinated for political reasons while on a political campaign on the island of Carmen. Others members of the party were seriously wounded. Conditions are anarchical in Campeche and getting worse as elections approach.

Twenty thousand people at the invitation of the metropolitan dailies have marched through the principal streets of the city in protest against the alleged incompetency of the board of aldermen and the mayor. The procession consisted largely of middle-class people animated by the Fascisti movement.

The city now is altogether without water from official sources, being dependent upon artesian wells and ditches with no hope of a renewal of water service for another ten days or more.

GIRL ADMITS MAILING POISON

Miss Anna Lenz of Chilton, Wis., Says Her Error Slew the Wrong Woman.

Chilton, Wis., Nov. 28.—Miss Anna Lenz confessed that she had mailed the poisoned candy which caused the death of Mrs. Frank Schneider, a mother of eight children.

She said she had purchased the poison for the purpose of sending poisoned candy to Mrs. Henry Schneider, a sister-in-law of the dead woman, but addressed the package by mistake to Mrs. Frank Schneider.

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 28.—An entire family was killed here when an automobile carrying Mr. and Mrs. Percy Wilcox and their two daughters, one and three years old, was struck by a Chicago and Alton northbound passenger train.

A snowstorm prevented them from seeing the train. They resided six miles south of Springfield.

MARY MAC SWINEY WINS OUT

Militant Sister of Terence MacSwiney Is Released From the Mount Joy Prison.

Dublin, Nov. 28.—Miss Mary MacSwiney, militant sister of Terence MacSwiney, lord mayor of Cork, who starved himself to death in prison in protest against British rule in Ireland, won her hunger strike against the Irish Free State government. The wasted form of the irreconcilable feminine republican was rushed from Mount Joy prison to a hospital.

DEFEAT LIBERIAN LOAN BILL

Thirteen Republicans Join Democrats in Administering First Setback to G. O. P.

Washington, Nov. 28.—The Harding administration met its first defeat when the senate by a vote of 42 to 33 recommitted the Liberian loan bill to the finance committee. The bill provided a loan of $5,000,000 to the Republic of Liberia. It had aroused strenuous opposition among progressive senators.

Senator After the Klan.

Washington, Nov. 28.—A demand that the federal government take steps at once to break up and prosecute the Ku Klux Klan was voiced by Senator Walsh (Mass.), Democrat, in a letter addressed to Attorney General Daugherty.

Barcelona, Nov. 28.—At least ten persons were killed and seven injured when a customs boat ran into a local passenger steambot, capsizing it and throwing 80 of the passengers into the sea.

Death Rate Drops in 1921.

Washington, Nov. 28.—The American death rate decreased in 1921, government officials estimate, after study of the figures for the death registration area of the country. Nearly every state shows a decrease.

SPENT HALF HER TIME IN BED

Farmer's Wife Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Made Her a Well Woman

Carter's Creek, Tenn.—"Three years ago I was almost an invalid. I spent half of my time in bed, being afflicted with a trouble which women of a certain age are apt to have. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Tablets and used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash. I am a well woman now and have been for two years. I can work as well as any one who is younger and as I am a farmer's wife I have plenty to do for I cultivate my own garden, raise many chickens and do my own housework. You may publish this letter as I am ready to do anything to help other women as I have been so well and happy since my troubles are past."—Mrs. E. T. GALLOWAY, Carter's Creek, Tenn.

Most women find plenty to do. If they are upset with some female ailment and troubled with such symptoms as Mrs. Galloway had, the smallest duty seems a mountain.

If you find it hard to keep up, if you are nervous and irritable, without ambition and out of sorts generally, give the Vegetable Compound a fair trial. We believe it will help you greatly, for it has helped others.

A TRUE RAT STORY

Auburntown, Tenn., 6-22-22.
Stearns Electric Paste Co.,
Dear Sirs: Mr. Robert T. Donnell of Auburntown, Tenn., came in our store the other day and wanted something to kill rats, so I sold him a box Stearns Rat Paste. And he put some paste on six biscuits that night and the next morning he found fifty-four big rats. And the second night he put out four more biscuits with paste on them, and the second morning he found seventeen more rats, making a total of seventy-one rats in two nights, and there were lots more that he did not find.

This is some big rat tale, but nevertheless, it is so. Just thought would write to let you know that your rat paste is good.

Respectfully, KENNEDY BROTHERS.

Gold in Madagascar.

Gold discoveries in Madagascar are arousing interest, as several rich finds have been reported. On the eastern slope of the island are districts said to be very rich. Nuggets and dust are found in stream beds, but the principal lode has not yet been discovered. The methods of recovering the gold have been very crude, and only native workmen have so far proved capable of withstanding the climate.

ZELLER & SON

Racine.
Strange as it may seem to those who have been accustomed to think of that great artist merely as a type of the frigid pomposity of an antiquated age, his music, to ears that are attuned to hear it, comes fraught with a poignancy of loveliness whose peculiar quality is shared by no other poetry in the world. To have grown familiar with the voice of Racine, to have realized once and for all its intensity, its beauty and its depth, is to have learnt a new happiness, to have discovered something exquisite and splendid, to have enlarged the glorious boundaries of art. For such benefits as these, who would not be grateful? Who would not seek to make them known to others, that they too may enjoy, and render thanks.—Lytton Strachey, in "Books and Character."

Nature's Little Joke.
A food expert warns the public against the Ben Davis apple. "Such apples," he says, "are neither flavorful nor have they good keeping qualities. They are good for neither eating nor cooking." He might have said more. He might have told of the reproachful looks cast on you by a hog or cow when you give it a Ben Davis. Someone must have had an awful grouch to call this thing after a man of that name. The Ben Davis is a deceptive-looking vegetable. In color and shape it resembles a fine apple. It is good only to look at. Its flesh is tasteless and without juice. It looks like an apple, but it isn't one. It is one of Nature's jokes.—New York Daily News.

Heat.
On hot days most of us are about as efficient as dull razors. We blame the heat. The trouble may be in the sunshine—brilliant daylight—instead of the heat, according to a new theory among English meteorologists. Some of them are coming out against daylight saving, arguing that the more hours of daylight we have the less efficient we are. You have observed that you are most energetic in winter, when daylight is short, with sky laden and light dim. We are puppets of the sun.

URGES ADOPTION OF NEW CONSTITUTION; IS BETTER THAN OLD

PRESIDENT OF CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION EXPLAINS MERITS OF DOCUMENT.

WHY CHANGE WAS NEEDED

People Found Basic Law of 1870 Not Suited to Needs of Present Day.

Charles E. Woodward of Ottawa, president of the Constitutional convention, believes the people of the state of Illinois will do themselves a grave injustice if they fail to adopt the new constitution at the election to be held Tuesday, December 12.

"The voters must choose between the new and the old," he said. "The question is whether or not the proposed constitution shall be accepted or rejected. There is no third course. If accepted it becomes the supreme law of the state on and after January 15, 1923. If rejected, we continue to live under our present constitution.

"The two documents must be compared. Which is the better? Which is better adapted to conditions—the new or the old?"

Principal Provisions.
"Space does not permit an extended discussion of the new constitution. Its principal points may be briefly summarized.

"The representation of Cook county in the general assembly is restricted. The country counties will always have two-thirds of the senate. Cook county can never exceed one-third. The state will be divided into 153 representative districts, the districts having as nearly as possible an equal number of citizens. One representative will be elected from each district. Cook county can never control legislation. It is best for the state and best for Cook county that this limitation should be adopted. It is promotive of stability in government and good order in society. If this restriction is not now adopted, Cook county, in a few years, will control both houses of the general assembly. Other states which have large centers of population have found it necessary to restrict representation. No small area should dictate the policies of the entire state.

Abolish Cumulative Voting.
"By electing members of the house of representatives from representative districts, cumulative voting, or the 'plumping' system, is abolished. This system has outlived its usefulness. It was never adopted in any other state. Its continuance was not even urged upon the constitutional convention. Representative districts will be small. The candidates will be known. If one man is put up against another man in small representative districts the standard of legislation will be materially improved.

"Growing out of the restriction of Cook county's representation, and as compensation for restriction, home rule for Chicago is provided for. Chicago is now in a condition of dependence upon the general assembly. The state has been required to shoulder problems local to Chicago. The new constitution allows Chicago to write its own ticket on local affairs. The downstate is intensely interested in this provision. The general assembly will be relieved from consideration of problems peculiarly local to Chicago. For the protection of the state as a whole, a veto power is reserved to the legislature.

Tax Reform.

"Provision is made for future tax reform. Under the constitution of 1870 the legislature is restricted to the general property tax; its hands are tied. The general property tax has broken down under modern economic conditions; it is not fitted to a commercial state; its injustice and inequity are admitted. The new document simply allows the general assembly to diversify taxation and more justly and equitably to distribute its burdens. A tax on the income from intangible property—notes, stocks, bonds, etc.—may be substituted for a tax by value on such property. A general income tax may be enacted, from which reasonable exemptions are allowed. It may be graduated and progressive, but the highest rate cannot exceed three times the lowest rate. Deductions and set-offs to prohibit double taxation are provided for. The additional provisions are not self-executing. The legislature may, or may not, in its wisdom, avail itself of the extension of power authorized. If it should do so, it would not mean additional taxes. It would mean distributing of the tax burden more fairly. The experience of all commercial states has demonstrated the wisdom of diversification.

Courts Function More Freely.

"The judiciary is made to function more expeditiously. Expense and failure of justice are proverbial. This is because power has been withheld from judges. The new document vests the rule-making power in the Supreme court. This is neither new nor radical. It has been exercised by the United States Supreme court from the foundation of the government in admiralty and bankruptcy cases, and recently it has been extended to include equity cases. The Supreme courts of a number of states exercise this power.

FIIJANS POLITE TO A FAULT

In Some Respects, It Might Be Criticized, They Carry Desirable Quality to Excess.

So eager are the Fijians to be polite to visitors that if a guest slips and falls they most immediately follow suit. If a guest slips and happens to fall in the presence of many Fijians, there will be a great scrambling, as everyone tries to place himself prostrate upon the ground first. Instead of hastily getting up and looking around in an embarrassed manner to see if any one saw the mishap, a guest in Fiji has the satisfaction of feeling that he is not the only unfortunate one.

In many other ways the Fijian shows his respect for his guest. When the subjects of a ruler in Fiji hear that the tribe is to be visited by a chief from another tribe, or a person from another country, all volunteer to help entertain the guest.

Each man begs to be allowed to contribute something toward the feast, or in some other way to add to the comfort of the visitor. The chief is at liberty to command anything the Fijian has for the comfort of his guest. The ruler seldom abuses this privilege. He is very desirous to win and hold the favor of his subjects, and, as a rule, rewards them liberally for their services.

SPARED OBLIVION OF GRAVE

Many Animal Pets Receive ministrations of Taxidermists Instead of Sextons.

There are hundreds of people in Greater New York who become so fond of their pets that when they die they will not permit them to be buried. When a pet cat or a toy dog dies they find the idea of sending it to the city dump so utterly intolerable that they take the departed favorite to a taxidermist, and by this route it acquires the right to remain in New York with them indefinitely, and the stuffed animal becomes a cherished ornament.

There is nothing flippant about the owners' feelings in the matter. Downtown taxidermists who conduct annually thirty or forty of these ceremonial burials of those who have lost their pets, smile a little always as they speak of this branch of the business, which is a small but steady item in every year's work.

Some taxidermists have more birds brought in for mounting than cats and dogs. Canaries are still being mounted, sitting on a branch, surrounded by the same sort of grasses and immortelles that were in vogue a generation ago. They are still covered by a grass bell, and the resulting ornament is as fondly treasured today as it ever was.

Caveman's Hearth.

What we know of our cave-dwelling ancestors we have gleaned chiefly from the relics left by the cavemen in their places of habitation in caverns and holes in the rock. Marett, the anthropologist, tells of a cave in Jersey, near the Bay of St. Brelaide, where scientists dug down through some twenty feet of clay and rock rubbish, probably carried there in the course of the last Ice age that mantled Europe, and found large stones that had dropped up the fire, and even some of the ashes. Bones were found in a heap of food-refuse, which, when examined, proved to be the remains of the woolly rhinoceros, the reindeer, two kinds of horses, of a wild ox and of a deer. Thirteen human teeth were found in the food-heap. The diners had also left their knives—flint chipped on one side.

Chinese Bird Lovers.

Birds play an important part in the domestic life of the Chinese. Besides using their flesh, eggs, and even their nests as food, they keep a great many as pets. Indeed their fondness for birds is one of the most pleasant features of their national character. Birds furnish them with much amusement. Some, like the pelican and cormorant, they teach to fish for them. Several kinds of bird pets are taught to catch seeds thrown into the air after jumping from perches held in the hand. Except in winter one can always see people going into the open country early in the morning with their pets, to catch grasshoppers for them and to teach their pets new songs.

Intermittent Grandeur.

In an aristocratic Virginia town where the spirit has long outlived the letter of social grandeur, and where in the scarcity of servants any respectable colored person of any age may be employed, some callers were received at the front door by an ample negress of the "mammy" type. Greeting them, she apologized: "You ladies must excuse me for coming to the door, but the butler's gone to school."—Harper's Magazine.

Value of Publicity.

"No," replied Senator Sorghum; "and he doesn't think so, either. He accepted the nomination merely for the sake of the advertising."

BEFORE LIFE WAS COMPLEX

Prehistoric Woman Whose Remains Have Just Been Found Had Comparatively Placid Existence.

Bones of a prehistoric woman, believed to have been a tree-climber, have been found in the bed of the River Cam, and are being submitted to expert opinion in London, England.

The bones were brought to the surface by a dredger within a quarter of a mile of the famous Fenland Inn, "The Five Miles From Anywhere; No Hurry!"

The whole district is one vast forest of buried oaks, which were in existence many thousands of years ago, before the Fens were formed, and it is hoped to recover the complete skeleton.

"The find is a most interesting one," said a Fellow of the Royal Society.

"The leg bones are undoubtedly those of a woman, but they are of extraordinary conformation."

"Whoever she was, she had a pretty foot."

"If alive today, she would be a short, deep-chested creature, covered with hair, and with long, ape-like arms and prehensile toes."

"Her home would be a rudely built platform of sticks, with a family likeness to a glorified crow's nest. From this, excursions would be made among the tree tops, she and her mate swinging themselves, monkey-fashion, from bough to bough."

"When on the ground, her gait would be that of a monkey, with the arms swinging to the knees."

ROCKFORD PASTOR DROPS DEAD

The Rev. William H. Pierce, 60, of Grace church, Rockford, formerly pastor of Trinity M. E. church, Chicago, died in the lobby of the Nelson hotel in Rockford Wednesday, November 29, a few minutes after he had given the invocation at the Lions' club weekly luncheon. Heart disease was the cause. The Rev. Mr. Pierce has had pastorates in DeKalb, Freeport, Belvidere and Plano.

Rev. R. E. Pierce of Colorado, former pastor of the Genoa M. E. church is a brother of the deceased.

HOT STOVE LEAGUE BURNING

A wicked battle was waged last Thursday evening in the gym when the lowly Polecats made it two straight by trimming the exhalted half-soles for a victory that was earned but nearly lost anyway. Swinging in to the last inning four runs behind, the polecats clawed a victory right out of the old hot coals and gave the stove a shaking that it will long remember.

The Spark plugs continued their winning streak and knocked a few pounds of lard out of the Greasehounds and smeared them by a large count. However in the final stanza of the evening the Greasehounds rose to the occasion and tied the engagement with the Moondogs. It was a hectic struggle featured by a few bad breaks on both teams. Next week Thursday evening will see a real battle for second place take place.

EXAMPLE OF FOOL PARENTS

Onlookers Doubtless Would Have Said the "Twig" Might Have Been "Bent" to Advantage.

"They" boarded an outbound street car. "They"—father and mother, mistakenly, unfairly adoring and old enough to be wiser, and sturdy, handsome, adorable (at times) two-year-old son, wise beyond his years and beyond his parents. Not quite so adorable at this particular time, for he was screeching, yelling, howling, screaming, kicking and doing everything else in his small but mighty power to make known his wants and attain his desire. His attention refused to be distracted. Older people might have envied him his power of concentration.

"What do you want, darling? Come on, let's have a little lunch. Oh, look at the pretty lights. Tell mother what sweetheart wants"—repeated in tones of varying invitation and hopefulness—were all in vain. "Darling sweetheart!" refused to be diverted from his purpose or to vouchsafe a single word of reply.

After two blocks of this uninterrupted performance the small family rose to leave the car, the mother explaining to an obviously curious beholder: "We have to get off. He won't ride in a street car. He must have a taxi." Last seen, adored and adoring were hiking up Sixth avenue to a taxi station, adored all smiles and sunshine in his father's arms.—Rehoboth Sunday Herald.

Embarrassing Moment.

I was appointed sergeant of decoration for the school hall. I had a number of assistants, together with some forty-odd spectators who offered criticisms whenever there was an opportunity.

It was a few hours before the play, and I was hurriedly attending to "last-minute" preparations, perched on the top of the shaky ladder. I remember distinctly, reaching out to untwist a Saving Money Through Fossils.

The invertebrate fossil is the clock by which the geologist tells the time in history when the rock bed containing the fossil was formed. This clock has been put to practical uses. New York was spending thousands of dollars in search of anthracite coal beds until geologists demonstrated that the beds in this state could not possibly contain coal. Fossils prove that the rock beds belong to the Devonian age, not the Carboniferous, and the useless expenditure of money at once ceased.—Scientific American

Near the Dividing Line.

Robert was anxious to attend kindergarten with Billy, but he was not quite four years old. One day he went as a visitor, and before leaving he sidled up to the teacher and said: "Please, can't I come to your school? I see just on the edge of four."

"Blue-Blooded" Ants.

Ants had developed their present highly organized society long before our ape-like ancestors had settled down into communities.

Great Reservoirs of India.

For conserving her water supply there are to be found in India tremendous artificial lakes. At Dhebar, in the Rajputana province, for instance, there is a reservoir with a superficial area of 21 square miles; the masonry dam measuring over 300 yards in length and 32 yards in height. In southern India, too, there are several reservoirs over 12 square miles in area.

An All-Around Source of Supply.

Nothing was wasted by the early day hunters and the natives of Alaska when they were taking the big sea lions about the Pribiloff islands. The meat was dried and saved for food, the skins used as covering for the boats, intestines were made into garments, its stomach was used as a pouch for oil and the long whiskers were sold to the Chinese as pickers for opium pipes.

New Light on Biblical Lore.

A ludicrous distortion of scripture occurred not long ago in an English school when a small pupil wrote of the Pharisees: "The fareses were a mean, messy lot. One day one of them gave our Lord a penny and our Lord held it out in his hand and looked at it with scorn and said, 'Whose subscription is this?'"—Boston Transcript.

Business Woman Feared She Had Heart Trouble

"Since Tanlac has overcome a bad case of indigestion and nervousness of three or four years' standing for me, my work here in the store is a pleasure, and I am certainly grateful for the good health it has given me," said Mrs. J. W. Pickins, of 516 E. 15th St., Los Angeles, who owns and operates the book store at 219 Mercantile Place.

"I was so run down that I felt miserable all the time. My sleep was broken and restless, I had no appetite, and the gas from undigested food caused my heart to palpitate so I thought I had heart trouble. For a time I had a swelling in my legs, too, and it was an effort for me to get about.

"It is wonderful how Tanlac has given me such perfect relief from these troubles. I eat heartily now, sleep like a child at night, and just feel fine all the time."

You Have to Be an Optimist.

The amateur gardener was digging away at the weeds in his potato patch.

"Makes it harder with the weeds so thick, doesn't it?" said a friend who was looking on.

"No, it's easier," retorted the enthusiast. "You don't have to walk so far to the next weed."—Wheeler's Magazine.

Help That Bad Back!

ARE you tortured with constant back-ache—tired, weak, all unstrung after the least exertion? Evening find you worn out and discouraged? Then look to your kidneys! When the kidneys weaken, poisons accumulate in the system and cause nagging backache, stabbing pains, headaches and dizziness. You feel nervous, irritable and "blue," and likely suffer annoying bladder irregularities. Don't wait. Neglect may lead to serious kidney sickness. Use Doan's Kidney Pills. Doan's have helped thousands and should help you. Ask your neighbor!

An Illinois Case

E. Grossman, retired farmer, 701 Merchants Street, Effingham, Ill., says: "I could hardly get around, my back was so stiff and sore. I tired and couldn't rest at night because the kidney secretions passed so frequently. I read of Doan's Kidney Pills and bought a supply. One box of Doan's regulated the action of my kidneys and the aches and pains left."

Wise is Youth.

A few evenings ago, a little girl, three years old, was enjoying some Mother Goose jingles on her father's knee. Little Bo Peep was being rehearsed and when the place was reached where, in the rhyme, it says "bringing their tails behind them," the father purposely changed it to read this way, "bringing their tails before them," and noticing the surprised look on her face said, "I made a beefstake, didn't I?" She promptly answered, "No, it was a sheepstake."

CHAPTER VIII—Continued.

He saw me. And, oh, how I did love the look that came to his face; it was so surprised and glad, and said, "Oh! You!" In such a perfectly lovely way that I choked all up and wanted to cry. (The idea—cry when I was so glad to see him!)

The next minute he had drawn me out of the line, and we were both talking at once, and telling each other how glad we were to see each other.

But he was looking for Mother—I know he was; for the next minute after he saw me, he looked right over my head at the woman back of me. And all the while he was talking with me, his eyes would look at me and then leap as swift as lightning first here, and then there, all over the hall. But he didn't see her. I knew he didn't see her, by the look on his face. And pretty quick I said I'd have to go. And then he said:

"Your mother—perhaps she didn't—did she come?" And his face grew all red and rosy as he asked the question.

And I said yes, and she was waiting, and that was why I had to go back right away.

And he said, "Yes, yes, to be sure," and, "good-by." But he still held my hand tight, and his eyes were still roving all over the house. And I had to tell him again that I really had to go; and I had to pull real determined at my hand, before I could break away.

I went back to Mother then. The hall was almost empty, and she wasn't anywhere in sight at all; but I found her just outside the door. I knew then why Father's face showed that he hadn't found her. She wasn't there to find. I suspect she had looked out for that.

In the afternoon I went to walk with one of the girls; and when I came in I couldn't find Mother. She wasn't anywhere downstairs, nor in her room, nor mine, nor anywhere else on that floor. Aunt Hattie said no, she wasn't out, but that she was sure she didn't know where she was. She must be somewhere in the house.

I went upstairs then, another flight. There wasn't anywhere else to go, and Mother must be somewhere, of course. And it seemed suddenly to me as if I'd just got to find her. I wanted her so.

And I found her.

In the little back room where Aunt Hattie keeps her trunks and mothball bags, Mother was on the floor in the corner crying. And when I exclaimed out and ran over to her, I found she was sitting beside an old trunk that she flushed up red then, oh, so red! and said, "Certainly not." Then she added quick, with a funny little drawing-in of her breath, that she should let Marie go, though, with her Aunt Hattie. It was the only chance Father would have to see me, and she didn't feel that she had any right to deprive him of that privilege, and she didn't think it would do me any harm to be out this once late in the evening. And she intended to let me go.

TWO DAYS LATER

Well, now I guess something's doing all right! And my hand is shaking so I can hardly write—it wants to get ahead so fast and tell. But I'm going to keep it sternerly back and tell it just as it happened, and not begin at the ice cream instead of the soup.

At the reception I saw Father right away, but he didn't see me for a long time. He stood in a corner, and lots of folks came up and spoke to him and shook hands; and he bowed and smiled—but in between, when there wasn't anybody noticing, he looked so tired and bored. After a time he stirred and changed his position, and I think he was hunting for a chance to get away, when all of a sudden his eyes, roving around the room, lighted on me.

My! but just didn't I love the way he came through that crowd, straight toward me, without paying one bit of attention to the folks that tried to stop him on the way. And when he got to me, he looked so glad to see me, only there was the same quick searching and crying as if her heart would break.

Of course, I tried and tried to stop her, and I begged her to tell me what was the matter. But I couldn't do a thing, not a thing, not for a long time. Then I happened to say what a lovely dress, only that a pity it was that the lace was all black.

She said yes, it was all black—tarnished; and that it was just like everything that she had had anything to do with—tarnished; her life and her marriage, and Father's life, and mine—everything was tarnished, just like that silver lace on that dress. And she had done it by her thoughtless selfishness and lack of self-discipline.

And when I tried and tried to tell her no, it wasn't, and that I didn't feel tarnished a bit, and that she wasn't, nor Father either, she only it pretty well. But after a while he grew sober again, and his eyes began to rove all around the room.

He took me to a little seat in the corner afterward, and we sat down and began to talk—only Father didn't talk much. He just listened to what I said, and his eyes grew deeper and darker and sadder, and they didn't rove around so much, after a time, but just stared fixedly at nothing, away out across the room. By and by he stirred and drew a long sigh, and said, almost under his breath:

"It was just such another night as this."

And of course, I asked what was—and then I knew, almost before he had told me.

"That I first saw your mother, my dear."

"Oh, yes, I know!" I cried, eager to tell him that I did know. "And she must have looked lovely in that perfectly beautiful blue silk dress all silver lace."

He turned and stared at me.

"How did you know that?" he demanded.

"I saw it."

"You saw it?"

"Yesterday, yes—the dress," I nodded.

"But how could you?" he asked, frowning, and looking so surprised. "Why, that dress must be—seventeen years old, or more."

I nodded again, and I suppose I did look pleased; it's such fun to have a secret, you know, and watch folks guess and wonder. And I kept him guessing and wondering for quite a while. Then, of course, I told him that it was upstairs in Grandfather's trunk room; that Mother had got it out, and I saw it.

"But, what—was your mother doing with that dress?" he asked then, looking even more puzzled and mystified.

And then suddenly I thought and remembered that Mother was crying. And, of course, she wouldn't want Father to know she was crying over it—that dress she had worn when he first met her long ago! (I don't think women ever want men to know such things, do you? I know I shouldn't!) So I didn't tell. Father had begun to talk again, softly, as if to himself:

"I suppose tonight, seeing you, and all this, brought it back to me so vividly." Then he turned and looked at me. "You are very like your mother tonight, dear."

"I suppose I am, maybe, when I'm Marie," I nodded.

He laughed with his lips, but his eyes didn't laugh one bit as he said: "What a quaint little fancy of yours that is, child—as if you were two in one."

"But I am two in one," I declared. "That's why I'm a cross-current and a contradiction, you know." I explained. "A what?" he demanded.

"A cross-current and a contradiction," I explained once more. "Children of unlikes, you know. Nurse Sarah told me that long ago. Didn't you ever hear that—that a child of unlikes was a cross-current and a contradiction?"

"Well, no—I hadn't," answered Father, in a queer, half-smothered voice. "I suppose, Marie, we were—unlikes, your mother and I. That's just what we were; though I never thought of it before. In just that way."

He waited, then went on, still half to himself, his eyes on the dancers: "She loved things like this—music, laughter, gaiety. I abhorred them. I remember how bored I was that night here—(ill I saw her.)"

"And did you fall in love with her right away?" I just couldn't help ask that question. Oh, I do so adore love stories!

A queer little smile came to Father's lips.

"Well, yes, I think I did, Marie. I just looked at her once—and then kept on looking till it seemed as if I just couldn't take my eyes off her. And after a little her glance met mine—and there wasn't another soul in the room but just us two. Then she looked away, and the throng came back. But I still looked at her."

gentle reminder.

"After a man is elected to office he ought not to forget his friends."

"It never happens," replied Senator Sorghum. "They never let you forget."

CHAPTER ON SOUPS

For the beginning of a dinner or a luncheon or even a supper dish on a cool, crisp night, there is nothing that quite touches the spot as a good seasoned soup. If one objects to meat soups, there are the vegetable soups; if neither suits, there is still fruit.

Cherry Soup.—Take one quart of fresh or a pint of canned cherries, one quart of water; cook and strain. Return to the fire; add sugar and whole cinnamon and whole cloves to taste; thicken with two tablespoonfuls of cornstarch, stirred smooth in a little cold water. Serve hot with croutons or with dumplings prepared of choux paste and cooked in the soup.

Philadelphia Fruit Soup.—Take one cupful each of dried apples, pears and raisins. Cover with warm water and soak for an hour, then add two cupfuls of cranberries which have been cooked until tender and pressed through a sieve. Cover with two quarts of cold water, boil for an hour, sweeten to taste, press through a sieve and thicken with two tablespoonfuls of cornstarch rubbed smooth with a little cold water. Cook until the cornstarch is well-cooked; serve either cold or hot.

Velvet Soup.—Cook one-half cupful of tapoca in six cupfuls of well-seasoned veal stock. Beat the yolks of three eggs and pour in the soup; stir until smooth and creamy; season with salt, pepper and grated nutmeg. Serve hot with croutons.

Brown Onion Soup.—Peel a dozen brown onions and fry until brown in butter, add two teaspoonfuls of sugar. When brown add four cupfuls of beef stock, bring to the boiling point and serve very hot.

Scotch Puree.—Put into a kettle one pound of mutton with the broken bones. Cover with three quarts of water and bring to the boiling point. Skim and simmer for one hour. Add six potatoes, two onions, one carrot cut fine, and simmer two hours longer. Season with salt, pepper and butter; simmer 30 minutes, strain through a coarse sieve, reheat and serve with croutons.

Noodles.—Take one egg, a pinch of salt and one-half an egg shell full of water. Stir in flour until it can be rolled as thin as paper. Spread out to dry. Roll like a jelly roll and cut in thin slices with a sharp knife. Add to the boiling soup and cook twenty minutes.

The noodles which can be bought and the letter crackers are attractive garnishes for soups.

DESSERTS

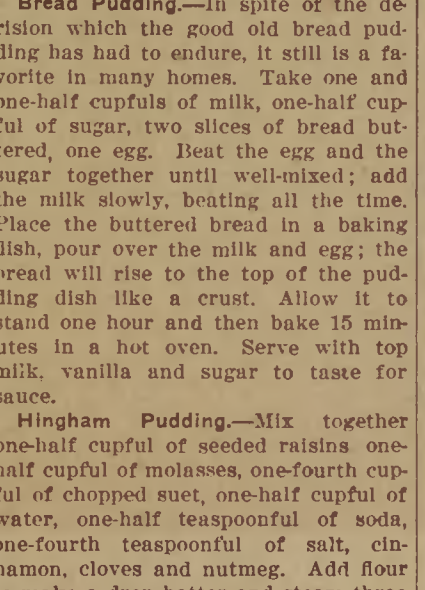

A good dessert which may be passed on and become a layer cake is a economy. Bake a sheet of any plain white cake. Serve one-third or one-quarter cut in squares for the dessert with a good pudding sauce made as follows: Take two table spoonfuls of flour, three-quarters of a cupful of sugar; mix well and add a half-cupful or more of any fruit juice at hand, or water with a tablespoonful of vinegar. Cook until smooth; add a tablespoonful of butter and a grating of nutmeg and pour over each serving, or pass at the table in a pitcher. The remainder of the cake may be cut in halves and put together with any desired filling, and iced or covered with chocolate, making a dessert and a cake from one recipe.

Lemon Rice Pudding.—Take one cupful of rice cooked in one quart of milk until tender, add the yolks of three eggs (two will do), the grated rind of a lemon and sugar to sweeten. Heap in a baking dish, cover with a meringue made of the egg whites, and two to three tablespoonfuls of sugar, and a teaspoonful of lemon juice. Brown the meringue and serve either hot or cold. Bits of jelly may be added if desired, for a garnish.

Bread Pudding.—In spite of the derision which the good old bread pudding has had to endure, it still is a favorite in many homes. Take one and one-half cupfuls of milk, one-half cupful of sugar, two slices of bread buttered, one egg. Beat the egg and the sugar together until well-mixed; add the milk slowly, beating all the time. Place the buttered bread in a baking dish, pour over the milk and egg; the bread will rise to the top of the pudding dish like a crust. Allow it to stand one hour and then bake 15 minutes in a hot oven. Serve with top milk, vanilla and sugar to taste for sauce.

Hingham Pudding.—Mix together one-half cupful of seeded raisins one-half cupful of molasses, one-fourth cupful of chopped suet, one-half cupful of water, one-half teaspoonful of soda, one-fourth teaspoonful of salt, cinnamon, cloves and nutmeg. Add flour to make a drop batter and steam three hours.

A good conscience, a good table, good digestion and a good wife—what better hast thou in thy store, O heaven!

THE WORLD'S GREATEST BAKING POWDER

WESTERN CANADA

For Big Wheat Crops

Canada is the world's greatest producer of wheat—second only to the United States—yet only about 12% of the tillable area has been worked. Yields of 40 bushels of wheat per acre are not uncommon. Oats have given as high as 100 bushels per acre, while 40 to 50 bushels per acre are ordinary yields; barley and rye in like proportion. Cattle and horses thrive on the native grasses which grow abundantly and corn and alfalfa culture are highly successful.

Stock Raising, Dairying and Mixed Farming

secure for the industrious settler ample returns for his energy. Clearing the cost of one's farm with a single year's crop has an appeal, and has been done by hundreds of Western Canada farmers. Taxes only upon land (not on improvements). Perfect climate, attractive social conditions, good neighbors, churches, schools, telephones, excellent markets and shipping facilities make life happy as well as prosperous.

Gifts Made By Their Donors

ARE ADORABLY PRETTY

Youthful eyes will brighten when they see among their gifts girdles made of gay ribbons, and older lips will smile when corsage flowers bloom on the Christmas tree. One of the girdles pictured here is made of narrow fallie ribbons, in three colors, braided together and picot-edged ribbons, in two colors, are used for the other. A shower corsage of violets and a rose set in millinery foliage are adorably pretty.

SPARKLE ON THE TREE

Small horns of paper or tin wound with bright crepe paper and tied with sparkling tinsel, that falls in tassels from them, are among the new Christmas tree ornaments that any one can make.

THREE GIFTS FOR MEN

Small and unimportant gifts are the kind that make Christmas merry. Here are three of them that men will appreciate. They are an astonished gentleman, with painted face, made of a ball of twine and wearing a stiff white collar and tie of paper, a pair of painted and intailed shoe-trees and a cretonne-covered ash tray, fitted with a glass bottom.

SANTA MAKES MERRY

Santa Claus sometimes jokes with folks, big and little, and he nearly always has some comic toys for the children. This year he will leave them funny spoon dolls made of paper picnic spoons and dressed in crepe paper clothes. A clown doll, with dangling legs, a Chinaman and a Puritan had their pictures taken so that any one can make them.

PRETTY SEWING BASKET

Work baskets of figured cretonne or silk may be made, in several sizes, of two circular pieces of the material. For the foundation of the basket a light, square cardboard box is used, split at the corners, so that it can be flattened out. A pocket, gathered on one edge over an elastic band, and an oblong pin cushion, are sewed to the sides of the circular pieces. The two pieces are then pasted together with the flattened box between them. Eyelet holes in the spaces between the sides of the cardboard foundation carry a small cord that holds the basket in shape as shown in the picture.

PAINTED TEA TRAY

This good-looking, home-made tea tray is only a shallow tin baking pan painted gray. Circular figures on the bottom make backgrounds for a number of things, in gay colors, that look like futurists' sun, moon and stars. At any rate, the tray is a vivid and cheerful affair that will be useful to the housewife.

A PULLMAN HANGER

Everyone who travels will like this handy Pullman hanger which folds up so that it will slip into a suitcase. It is merely a large pocket made of cretonne and plain chambray, 18 inches long and 11 inches wide and it is made over a jointed, metal hanger. A large safety pin hangs from a loop of tape at each end and the plain side has a small pocket that fastens down with snap fasteners.

NEW CARD TABLE COVERS

Something new in card table covers will make a charming gift for the hostess. This cover is made of black satin and provided with two little pockets of figured cretonne attached to each corner. Guests are delighted to find a parking place for their handkerchiefs, score cards, pencils, etc. Either black ribbon or braid serves for ties that fasten the cover to the table.

AGRICULTURE

Prepared and Edited by the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois

Frank I. Mann

(From the Daily Illini—The Student Newspaper of the University of Illinois.)

Frank I. Mann, graduate of the University of Illinois in 1876, brother to James R. Mann, '76, of congressional fame, has often been called "the best farmer in America." Among those granting him this distinction is no less an agricultural authority than Eugene Davenport, retired dean of the College of Agriculture.

Frank Mann has always been an enthusiastic lover of plants and flowers. Many of the shrubs growing on the lawn of his brother's home on the South side in Chicago received their start in Frank Mann's gardens in Gilman.

His agricultural interest, however, is not a spare-time proposition. It consists of the full-time business of operating a remarkable farm of 500 acres at Gilman. Bol d'Arc, as the place is called, is probably the most productive agricultural area of its size in the Middle West. Here Mr. Mann regularly produces crops that are from three to four times the average of most farms in the United States. Among other notable achievements, he has produced 63 bushels of wheat to the acre, and 93 bushels of corn as acre average of a field. But he has not stopped contentedly with making and breaking records. The remarkable fact about Mr. Mann's farming is that the productive ability of his land is constantly increasing instead of decreasing. His yields have grown consistently larger for many years, and apparently there is not limit to them.

Mr. Mann assumed the management of Bois d'Arc farm soon after his graduation from the university in 1876. For many years he tried to increase the yields, putting into practice every improvement known to the science of agriculture. Despite all his attempts, the crop yields remained stationary and farming became discouraging for him.

Then in 1903 he began a practice that was destined to revolutionize the methods of thousands of Middle Western farmers. He resolved to feed the soil. About that time some soil tests had been made by the university which seemed to indicate that the difference in crop production was due to the absence in proper amount of certain essentials of plant food. To this end Mr. Mann applied regularly large quantities of rock phosphate to his soil and turned under great crops of legumes to maintain the nitrogen supply.

Mr. Mann was nearly fifty when he began the soil-fertilizing practice which was to mean so much to his fellow farmers, and part of his success may be credited to the fact that he has never felt too old to refuse to learn new methods of farming, or originate them. He has already lived to see his dream of steadily increasing yields come true, not only on Bois d'Arc farm, but on hundreds of others where his methods have been employed.

Mr. Mann gave conferences to students in agriculture during several months in 1921, and has continually experimented on his own farm with any tests that have been made by the College of Agriculture. For several years he edited the Prairie Farmer.

He was born May 8, 1854, in Marshall county, Illinois, and prepared for college in the Gilman public schools. After his graduation from the university in 1876, he attended Lincoln university. He is a member of Delta Tau Delta, and Adelphi.

From 1882-1886 he held the position of circuit clerk and recorder of Iroquois county; he has been a director of the Illinois Farmers' Institute since 1886, and auditor of the same since 1904; he has also been a member of the advisory committee on soil investigation of the Illinois agricultural experiment station since 1905.

He was married to Fannie Judson in 1878. They have a son—Charles J., and daughter—Mary Elizabeth.

Sulphur Fertilizer

Do we need sulphur fertilizer? During the last two or three years several states, including Illinois, have been engaged in intensive study to answer this important question. The final word cannot be given until conclusions drawn from all experiments shall have been verified by field tests in different parts of the state, according to E. E. DeTurk of the agronomy department of the University of Illinois. "In the meantime," says Mr. DeTurk, "it is worth while to consider the relations of sulphur to soils and to crop production.

"Let us consider (1) the stock of sulphur in soils; (2) the losses through cropping and leaching, and (3) additions to the soil through natural processes.

"(1) The soils of Illinois contain, in the various types examined, from 60 to over 7,000 pounds of sulphur per acre to the depth of about seven inches. The large majority of the soil area of these types contain from 500 to 800 pounds per acre. These amounts, unless supplemented either naturally or artificially, are entirely insufficient to meet the losses noted below.

"(2) Experiments have shown that on silt loam soils, somewhat similar to many soils of Illinois, sulphur is leached out in the drainage water at the rate of 30 to 60 pounds per acre per year. This, added to the removals in crops harvested, which are eight to fourteen pounds per acre annually, makes a total of approximately 40 to 75 pounds of sulphur lost from our soils each year.

"(3) Part of this loss is compensated by the sulphur brought down in the rain, and the degree to which this source of sulphur suffices to make good the losses varies greatly in different localities. Much of the sulphur contained in the air is derived from the burning of coal. Analyses of rain water from 12 widely scattered counties in Illinois show variations in sulphur added to the soil, ranging from practically none up to more than 50 pounds per acre annually.

"In those soils which contain large quantities of sulphur and in those localities where the sulphur additions in rain water are large, this element will probably never be needed as a fertilizer. On the other hand, where a deficient natural supply in the soil is coupled with small sulphur additions in the rainfall, sulphur fertilizers may in the future become necessary to the most profitable crop production."

Growing Bulbs in Water

Chinese Sacred Lily and Paper-white Narcissus bulbs may be planted to secure a succession of flowers. They may be planted in soil, moss, sawdust or water alone.

The cleanest and simplest method of growing or "forcing" them is by placing them in shallow bowls, arranging pebbles around them to hold them in place, and then adding water until from one-third to one-half of the bulb is covered. By using the larger size bulbs, more flower stalks and better flowers can be obtained.

The bowls should be placed in a cool, dry cellar, garret or storeroom in a dim light. The temperature should be from 40 to 50 degrees. These bulbs are not hardy, so any chance of freezing should be avoided. The water level should be maintained and they should be kept in the storeroom from four to six weeks, or until there is a thick mass of roots in the water and the shoot has started to grow. Then bring them into the light and living room temperature and in a short time they will bloom.

The object of keeping the bulbs cool and in the dark is to force root growth and retard top growth. The more roots that are formed, the sturdier the plant. Too much water at first will produce long, limp leaves and may cause the flowers to "blast" or fall to open. With a little care as to the water level, light and temperature, fragrant, graceful flowers may be grown that will more than repay for the time and trouble.

Buying Limestone

There are at least two factors to be considered when buying ground limestone for application to soils in need of this material. The cost per unit of neutralizing power is a very important consideration. If stone having a purity of 95 per cent calcium carbonate equivalent can be purchased for $2.00 per ton, an 88 per cent grade would be worth $1.85, even if we neglect the extra cost for handling the lower grade of material. Fineness is another point worthy of mention. The finer the material, the more rapid its effect on the soil. This fact should especially be kept in mind when making the first application to soils which are rather acid. Many failures of clover are reported the first year after liming where rather coarse stone has been applied. Dolomitic limestone in particular acts rather slowly. On the other hand, the finer material is probably lost more readily by leaching. Since the dolomitic form is not so readily attacked, it would be expected to be lost to a lesser extent than the high-calcium stone. Other things being equal, the finer grades of limestone are preferable, especially for the first application.

Well Ventilated Barns

One of the important phases of tuberculosis eradication is the thorough cleaning up of the barns. Several of these barns were visited recently and the clean-up work was done in an excellent manner. A good many farmers are putting in more windows for more light and also installing proper ventilation systems. The ventilation on the average farm is worse than none at all. In the testing of cattle for T. B. we are finding barns which are well ventilated produce a less number of reactors. Also, where farmers have bought cattle from the cattle dealers we are finding the greatest percentage of infection.

TO FIGHT FOR WORLD PEACE

Interallied Veterans' Association Asks Assistance From Ex-Service Men in All Countries.

Recommending the establishment of an international court followed by universal disarmament, the Interallied Veterans' association at its convention in New Orleans has called upon ex-service men in all allied countries to take up the fight for world peace.

Chas. Bertrand.

Another prominent delegate was Julien David, a member of the Belgian chamber of deputies one of the few men to be captured by the Germans who escaped and returned to their old regiments. Ezio Gioja, head of the Italian delegation, was wounded four times with the loss of one leg.

Sessions of the convention were attended by twenty-eight representatives from the following powers: United States, represented by five members of the American Legion; Great Britain, France, Italy, Belgium, Rumania, Czechoslovakia and Serbia.

A manifesto issued by the convention delegates embodies the hopes for international amity. "It seems providential," the statement in part, declares, "that we, representing fifteen million former service men should be assembled at this very hour when the distracted world most needs a unifying word. The burden of our duty to speak our deepest convictions to governments and the public rests heavily upon us. Surely the voice of the men who stood shoulder to shoulder in the trenches to save civilization, and who know the hearts of the allied armies, should be heard equally with the utterances of professional statesmen and office holders.

"From this international reunion of allied war veterans, we send to our comrades and to the world a message in behalf of restoration of peace, order and well being. It is our deliberate judgment after admitting the failure of repeated international conferences and councils, and the steady growth ever since the armistice, of influences that make for distrust, disunion and disaster, that the only way to tranquility and prosperity for mankind as a whole, lies in a return to a sacred observance of those principles upon which we achieved our victory—the allied war aims. The calamities which have since overtaken civilization have been primarily due to recreancy to those pledges."

Among the other definite steps recommended by the war heroes were: Full publicity for all international agreements; faithful observance of treaties; opposition to territorial aggrandizement, suppression of movements to overthrow governments by force; clarification of exchange rates and resumption of international commerce, with a proviso for suspension of trade relations with countries maintaining armies organized for aggressive purposes; and organization of a news disseminating bureau to offset destructive and inflammatory propaganda.

Medal for French Girl.

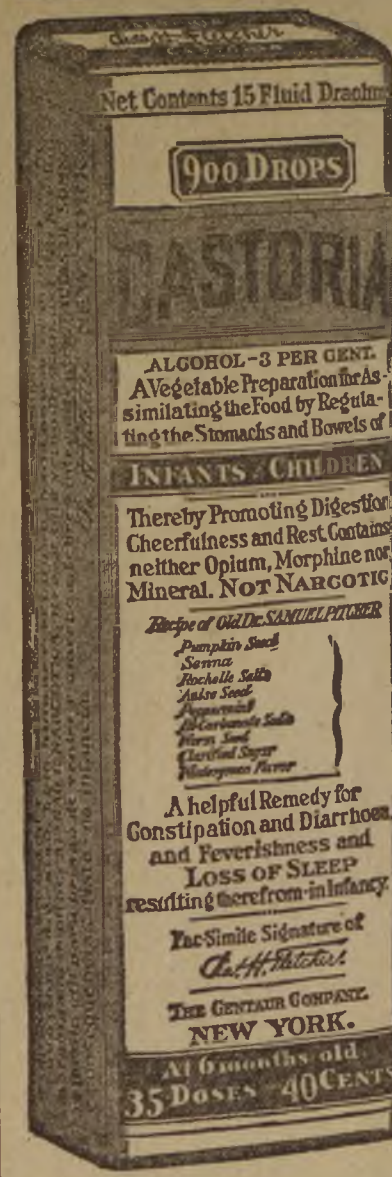

Miss Olga Appleby, nineteen-year-old daughter of Capt. William Appleby, British representative to the recent Interallied Veterans' association convention at New Orleans, was decorated by France in "recognition of her filial devotion in the hour of her father's greatest affliction." She has been his companion since he was blinded at Ypres in 1915. The medal was bestowed in the salon of the steamer Lorraine on the voyage to America. The presentation was made by Charles Bertrand, president of the Interallied Veterans' association. Miss Appleby is said to be the only woman to receive the medal "Le Merit de L'Union Nationale des Combattants."

Important to All Women Readers of This Paper

Thousands upon thousands of women have kidney or bladder trouble and never suspect it.

Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease.

If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased.

You may suffer pain in the back, headache and loss of ambition.

Poor health makes you nervous, irritable and maybe despondent; it makes any one so.

But hundreds of women claim that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, by restoring health to the kidneys, proved to be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions.

Many send for a sample bottle to see what Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder medicine, will do for them. By enclosing ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., you may receive sample size bottle by parcel post. You can purchase medium and large size bottles at all drug stores.—Advertisement.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Gieske of Elgin spent Saturday night and Sunday at the home of the latter's father, Elmer Bacon.

Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Ball entertained their son, Harley, and wife of Rockford Saturday afternoon and Sunday.

Miss Doris Sherman of Dwight came to the home of her parents Wednesday evening to remain until Sunday.

Miss Eleanor Uplinger of Elgin came to the home of her parents Wednesday evening and remained over Sunday.

Miss Clara Baker entertained several friends Thursday evening; the time was spent in making candy and popping corn.

Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Tazewell and son, Richard, Mrs. Susan Stark and Mrs. Grace Armbruster motored to Belvidere Saturday.

Sydney Rasmussen was an Aurora visitor Wednesday. From there he went to Sandwich to remain with his parents over Thanksgiving.

Wilmer Laureant, James White and Meridich Rankin took supper with Lennord Witter Monday night to help celebrate his eighth birthday.

Miss Esther Branch, who is doing Red Cross work in Wisconsin came Wednesday to spend Thanksgiving with her mother, Mrs. H. F. Branch.

Mrs. Josephine Johnson and Mrs. Nellie Grovestein of Chicago came Saturday to the Arthur Phelps home. Mrs. Grovestein returned home Sunday.

Those who missed the Virginia Girls missed a very good concert. The next and third number of the Lyceum course will be the Waldo Wetzel Duo, Wednesday, January 3.

William Wyke and Mrs. Lettie Turner of Sycamore were united in marriage Wednesday, November 22.

Mr. Wyke lived on his farm, southwest of town, now occupied by his son, Ira, for several years. His many friends here extend their congratulations.

Miss Allie Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Wilson, was united in marriage Saturday, November 18, to Mr. Eddie Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jones of Kirkland, at the Court Street Methodist parsonage, Rockford, by Rev. J. F. Daucey. They will make their home in Rockford. Their many friends extend their best wishes.

The high school pupils were busy after school hours last week selling the "Country Gentleman." Sides were chosen, one side called "Jeff" the other "Mutt"; the losers to give a "feed" to the winners. "Jeffs" were the losers by one subscription so they served a chicken dinner in the M. E. church basement Saturday evening at six o'clock. Half of the proceeds from selling the papers go to the high school. The boy and girl selling the most papers were presented with a Campton Gold pencil. Marion Bradford and Hazel Brandt won the pencils.

Word has been received here of the death of Mrs. Elizabeth Landis at Red Oak, Iowa. She made her home in Kingston for many years. She was born Nov. 15, 1835, at Hagerstown, Maryland, and came to Illinois at the age of 15. She passed away at the home of her son Charles, where she has been the last four years, Monday, Nov. 20, age 87 years 5 days. Her husband, who died several years ago was a doctor here. Surviving are six children, Henry, and Alonzo of Kirkland, Charles of Red Oak, Iowa; George and Mrs. Belle Boyce of Los Angeles, Cal., and Mrs. Verna Dulits of Swalesdale, Iowa.

The Eastern Star ladies served a chicken dinner in the dining room of the M. E. church Tuesday evening. Before dinner they were entertained by hearing grand opera from Chicago over a radio installed in the hall by Mr. Clark from Clark's Radio Shop at DeKalb. About ten o'clock they were served baked chicken, scalloped oysters, dressing, mashed potatoes, cabbage salad, cranberries, pickles, cheese, parker house rolls, mince and pumpkin pie and coffee. Among the out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. John O'Brien, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stark and Mrs. Bower from Sycamore, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Ball and Mr. and Mrs. Lawn from Poplar Grove; Mr. and Mrs. Ira Douglas, Genoa, and Mr. and Mrs. Walter White of Beloit.

Mr. Jonas Kepple passed away in Belvidere last Thursday. He had been in poor health for several months. Funeral services were held at the late home Sunday. Burial in North Kingston cemetery. Several from here attended the services at the cemetery. Mr. Kepple was proprietor of a hotel here for several years, had a confectionary store and gave music lessons. About twenty years ago he moved to Belvidere where his first wife, who was Anna Hackman, died. To this union were born five children, who survive. They are Ernest of New York City, who attended the funeral, Mrs. Jessie Rowan of Genoa; Mrs. Florence Haines and Mrs. Besse Ormans of Los Angeles, California, and Mrs. Pearl Miller of Cleveland, Ohio. Several years after his first wife passed away he was married to Mrs. Myra Lelevagn of Belvidere, who with three children also survive.

Gigantic Codfish.
The largest single cod of which Wilfred T. Grenfell has a record, he tells in "Labrador," weighed 102 pounds. The record on the Newfoundland banks is held by a fish taken in 1838, which weighed after being gutted, 136 pounds; the American record by a fish weighing 160 pounds.

Monkeys Cleanly Animals.
Monkeys, in their wild state, are very clean animals, and explorers who have visited their forest homes, and observed their habits, report that they have often seen these animals dashing water into their faces, and having a good wash very much as mankind does, of course, without the soap!

Speed of Light Measured.
Between the ticks of a watch a ray of light could move eight times round the world.

Author's Sound Advice.
It is a familiar custom for an author of some merit but little fame to get a more celebrated colleague to introduce his book. The custom is sometimes run into the ground. Such an author applied to Mr. Bernard Shaw for a preface. Shaw replied: "Swim on your own; don't trust corks."

Take Another Path of Thought.
When you find yourself beginning to think things that you know perfectly well are unkind and uncharitable—don't. Pull yourself up short and resolutely turn your thoughts to other and pleasanter things.—Grace H. Dodge.

ANSWERS TO NUMEROUS QUESTIONS

25. Q. In what respect are appellate courts changed?
A. Only in that the supreme court in its appointing power, will not be restricted to the choice of circuit judges to the appellate bench, but may extend such appointments to any qualified attorney.

26. What changes affect the supreme court?
A. Its personnel is raised from seven to nine justices. Rules of pleading practice and procedure are to be prescribed exclusively by the supreme court, but the legislature is given a veto power to set aside any prescribed rule.

27. Q. What about the provision relating to the granting of bail?
A. This section is the same as the provision for bail in the federal constitution. It provides that "Excessive bail shall not be required." Under this section the legislature may continue to follow the federal example by enacting that all persons shall be bailable by sufficient sureties, except in capital cases, etc., or may permit judges to refuse bail to a seasoned offender for second or succeeding felonies.

28. Q. How are trials in criminal cases expediated?
A. By the provision that in any except capital cases, after permission has been obtained from the court, the trial may be had upon information by the state's attorney, instead of waiting until the grand jury convenes. This will avoid several months' stay in jail on the part of many offenders in small counties where grand jury sessions are infrequent. Salutory and efficient rules to shorten the course of justice may be prescribed by the supreme court.

Novelty for Jerusalem.
Jerusalem has passed through a siege and war without being damaged by the invaders or the besieged, for the first time in the history of the city. The British airplanes flew over the Holy city frequently to observe the movements of the Turkish forces, but no bombs were dropped on its historical buildings by order of General Allenby, the commander-in-chief. It was the eighteenth time the place had been captured since the city was built.

Turqu Coast Always Popular.
A stone greatly admired and widely used in ancient days was the turquoise. Throughout the East even today, there exists an intense though still unexplained love of the turquoise. It has been so admired since some time prior to 5000 B. C., and was intimately associated with Hathor, goddess of motherhood, one of whose names was "The Lady of the Turquoise."

Something Worth while.
Nat Goodwin used to tell a story of a tramp who, upon being asked to undertake the task of eating 30 quail in 30 days, pathetically exclaimed: "Make it turkeys!"—Philadelphia Public Ledger.
