THE SUGAR BEET INDUSTRY

Is Attracting the Attention of Farmers in the Vicinity of Elgin—300 Acres Contracted

Other than Elgin's national reputation as a center in the dairy industry, she is, within a few years, to be known as the shipping point for one of the best sugar raising localities in the country, according to I. H. McKinney representing the Rock County Sugar company, of Janesville, Wis. Mr. McKinney has been in that city for the past week. He completed contracting for more than three hundred acres of sugar beets with farmers in this vicinity.

For more than a half century Elgin has had but two men to occupy the office of city clerk, a record that has never been made in any other town in this state and is equalled in but few states in the union. This feature is further peculiar in the fact that both men at the same age were very similar in appearance and had many customs in common, and a stranger might easily have taken one for the other. These two men are Redolphus William Paddelford, deceased, and William F. Sylla, the present incumbent of that office.

John W. Gates, the millionaire steel manufacturer and stock plunger, has again startled the country by the extravagance he has shown in renting a suite of eight rooms at the Plaza Hotel in New York City, for which he will pay the sum of $46,000 per year. The magnitude of this will seem all the more startling when it is known that the Gates family is limited to the steel magnate and his wife and their servants.

Since the fire which destroyed the school house in Afton township there is talk of consolidating three or more districts and building the new school building at Elva. There is sentiment for and against and it may be that a special school election will be held to decide the matter.

Louis and Fernand Baie, two farmers living at Hinckley, captured eight wolf cubs and incidentally forty dollars' worth of bounty, after a few minutes' exercise, Tuesday afternoon. The wolf family had been drowned out of its lair, and the cubs were tracked into a clump of hazel brush, where they were easily taken.

James Branan, who a short time ago sold his saloon business here, it is reported has purchased a large interest in a manufacturing concern making store fixtures in Chicago. He will spend the greater portion of his time in the city hereafter and possibly may move his family there.—Sycamore Tribune.

An English vegetarian proposed to a woman, whereupon she delivered herself of the following scathing words: "Go along with you! What? Be flesh of your flesh, and you a-living on cabbage? Go and marry a grass widow!"

A bill was introduced in the state legislature Friday which prohibits any person from accepting money for professing to tell fortunes, read palms and the like.

White Bros. of Marengo have received 4000 pounds of peanuts for their summer trade.

Entertained

Last Friday evening a party of young people were entertained at the home of E. H. Olmstead. A good social time was enjoyed by all present. Light refreshments were served after which the guests departed being well repaid for venturing out in the bad weather. Those present were Misses Elsie Fersen, Katherine Lane, Mabelle Corson, Etha Pierce, Mabelle Pierce, Phila Scott, Ada Taylor, Maude Sager, Belle Meyers, Blanche Patterson; Messrs. Clarence Olmstead, Floyd Olmstead, W. M. McCoy, Carl Harvey, E. H. Burr, Minard Scott, Loyal Brown, Roy Slater, R. C. Eiser, Chas. Leonard, John Leonard, Edgar Baldwin, Wm. Sumner, Adolph Anderson, Chas. Adams.

A New Firm in Meat Market

We have bought out the meat business from Carl Thorwarth and at the old stand we are going to conduct a first class market. Our ambition will be to please our customers, and we realize the only way that it can be done is to handle nothing but the best of meats. Soliciting a share of your patronage, we are

Yours very truly,

NEW COMBINATION

Market and Grocery Store as One Establishment

Another important business change was made this week on Main street which will bring a grocery store and meat market together. F. W. Duval and Howard King, who has been in the employ of F. O. Swan, have purchased the grocery business of Fred Wells. Lewis Duval who has been employed as meat cutter by F. W. will buy an interest in the market, thus making a strong combination of interests.

An arch will be cut through the wall separating the two stores, making it an ideal place for shopping.

A NEW DEVICE

For Attachment to Train Order Signals—Invented by Operator

T. H. Sampson, the operator at Kingston crossing has invented a device to be attached to all train order signals which may prove a great safety to railroads in handling trains. With this system rear end smash-ups, thru the negligence of operators, are impossible. If the operator has no orders, and the section is clear for the train he simply throws a small lever or switch; the signal goes to clear and he has nothing more to do with it. After the rear end of the train passes the signal, the signal goes back to the stop position of its own accord.

Mr. Sampson is now endeavoring to form a stock company for the purpose of getting the device before the public. He has had twelve years experience as an operator and knows that he has a good thing. He would be pleased to talk with anyone who has capital to invest.

A Surprise Party

Miss Jennie Pierce was given a surprise in honor of her sixteenth birthday. Many games were indulged in and a dainty lunch was served. Miss Pierce was left happy by a gold watch given by her parents, a chain and a manicure set by her friends. Everyone declared the party a great success. The following were present: Misses Bell Thomas, Ruth Crawford, Pearl Crawford, Cora Watson, Guyla Corson, Mamie Teyler, Emily Burroughs, Mamie Duval, Alvina Smith, Lena Tischler, Gertrude Ogden, Vernie Pierce, Gertrude Hammond; Messrs. Bayard Brown, Claude Patterson, Harvey Naker, Loyal Brown, Harvey King, Clive Watson, Ralph Brown, Everett Naker, Lawrence Duval, James Holmes, Harry Whipple, Ray Dunn, Victor Stott.

Epworth League Rally

On Sunday evening at the M. E. church will occur the annual rally meeting of the Genoa Epworth League at 7:30. Short addresses will be made by the following delegates to the Freeport Convention: Mrs. A. G. Stewart, Miss Ella Duval, Floyd Olmstead and Wm. Sumner. A committee has been appointed to arrange for special music and singing. At the close of the service the installation of the new officers for the coming year will be held. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Another Change

On Monday Carl Thorwarth sold his meat market in the Holroyd building, to Geithman Bros., possession being given the new firm Tuesday morning. Milton and Will Geithman constitute the new firm with the former as manager.

WORK ON SIDE TRACK

ONE CAR LOAD OF TIES ARE NOW IN POSITION

MATERIAL EXPECTED SOON

Ties, Rails and Ballast are Ready for Shipment—Thompson is Anxious

There will soon be a busy scene in the west end of town unless something unexpected happens to prevent activities. One car load of ties have already been placed in position and a few lengths of rails put in. Station Agent Crawford informs us that the balance of the construction material is loaded on cars and should be here in a few days. It will require but a few days' work to put the track in condition to receive cars.

No Crow Hunt This Year

The annual crow hunt, given by the Elgin Gun club, has been declared off for this season, owing to the scarcity of ravens.

It is expected that the state will offer a bounty on the black pest after a year or so, in which case the crow-slayer would turn his work to a good pecuniary profit. In the last six years nearly 10,000 crows have been killed in the annual crow hunts.

MARRIED AT FON DU LAC

Wm. M. Adams and Miss Coral McCadden Wed

Wm. M. Adams went to Fon du Lac, Wis., Tuesday and on Wednesday was married to Miss Coral McCadden of that city.

Mr. Adams is head book keeper and cashier of the Eureka Electric Company and that he is popular is manifested in the fact he was recently elected to the board of trustees of the village. The bride is well known here, having made many visits, and will be cordially received by society.

Mr. and Mrs. Adams will soon commence house keeping in the elegant new home being prepared by the groom.

Opening at Burlington

Paul Feustal will open his new saloon at Burlington on Saturday, May 18. Music will be in attendance and an excellent lunch will be served during the day. This saloon is one of the most elaborately furnished in the state, outside the large cities. The entire building is electric lighted, with hot and cold water, steam heat and all modern conveniences. The floor of the main room is mosaic and all furnishing is in hard wood. In connection with the saloon Mr. Feustal will conduct a hotel, having given dining room and sleeping rooms special attention for the comfort of guests. The building is a two-story brick and would be an ornament to any city.

Then and Now

Not long ago a farmer in Iowa went to a harness dealer to buy a team harness. He found one that suited, the price being $45. The farmer happened to remember that about a dozen years ago he had bought a harness just like it from the same dealer for $35, and mentioned the fact. The dealer went to his books and found it to be true. "But," said the dealer, "my books show that you did not pay cash for it because you didn't have the money. You hauled in 300 bushels of corn and gave it to me for the $35 earnest. Now I will tell you what I will do. If you are willing to bring me 300 bushels of corn I will give you the $45 harness, also a double buggy harness, worth $15, a plush robe worth $7, a boy's riding saddle worth $5, one pair of wool blankets worth $7, one whip and riding bridle worth $1.50, two leather halters worth $2.50, brush and curry comb worth $1, and a rawhide whip worth $1.

Local Option Wins

The local option bill passed the lower house Tuesday and will become a law on the first of July next if the governor signs the bill, which he will do without doubt. The principal feature of the bill is the township clause, which permits the entire township to vote on the license or no license question.

Notice

Persons knowing themselves to be indebted to me are requested to call at the meat market and settle account inside of twenty days. I appreciate the patronage which has been given me by Genoa people and trust that my successor will be accorded the same cordial treatment.

The Genoa White Sox lost a game to the Elgin Centrals last Saturday, the score being 12 to 5. WANT TO DISCLOSE CASE OF THE STATE

HAYWOOD'S COUNSEL AT BOISE ASK FOR A BILL OF PARTICULARS.

Court Delays Decision—Arguments of Lawyers Richardson and Darrow for the Defense Are Answered by Senator Borah.

The Pulpit's Failure.
The loss of moral leadership by the clergy is often deplored; but what else is to be expected, when so many clergymen appeal to the feminine rather than to the masculine conscience? To-day the virile, who see in graft and monopoly and foul politics worse enemies than beer, Sunday baseball and the army canteen, scoff when the pastor of the indicted boss of San Francisco pleads, "He never was known to smoke or take a drink. He never was seen in front of a saloon bar." In political battles, the sinister interests easily rally the religious people by standing for a "lid on" policy. In the struggle of a city to free itself from corporation bondage, is not the psychological moment always punctuated by a hectoring denunciation of clergymen to summon Mr. Mayor to enforce to the letter the Sunday closing ordinance, followed by a blast from the pulpits when the mayor declines to play the traction company's little game? Not long ago a reform mayor was discredited because, emerging late from his office, he descended into a basement lunch-room and ate at the same counter with street walkers and night birds, says E. A. Ross, in Atlantic. The pastors of the straight-laced magnates who had never stooped to anything worse than stealing a street were scandalized at the mayor's elbow-touch with disreputables, and appealed with success to the ossified Puritanism of their flock.

Walter Wellman, the Arctic explorer, who was expected last year to make an attempt to reach the north pole by means of an airship, has sailed from New York and will try to do the trick this summer. Mr. Wellman, who knows the frozen north, having led an expedition in that direction, while convinced of the practicability of the airship method, sensibly declares he will take as few chances as possible, and will make a thorough test of his apparatus before beginning his aerial flight. Andree, the only man up to date who has started for the north pole by balloon, has never been heard from. The hope is universal, says Troy Times, that the plucky American will have better fortune. Yet there are a whole lot of people who put more trust in the coming expedition of Commander Peary, which will go by the good ship Roosevelt.

Two new railroad lines have been opened into the Congo Free State in Africa. One runs from Stanley Falls, where the River Congo ceases to be navigable, in an easterly direction to Mahagi, on the Albert sea, a distance of 1,120 kilometers (kilometer, 0.62 mile), and the other route starts from Stanleyville, the city by the falls, and running from north to south, partly by boats on the navigable portions of the upper Congo and partly by a railway for such portions of the stream as are not navigable, ultimately is bound for the district of Katanga, in the extreme southern portion of the Free State, where there are great copper and gold fields. Of this latter line the road was opened last autumn from Stanleyville to Ponthlierville and is now in operation for a distance of 127 kilometers.

Andrew Carnegie is now a commander of the Legion of Honor, having been made such by the French government in recognition of his eminent services in behalf of peace. This is not only a merited distinction, but one in which it is easily conceivable the recipient takes justifiable pride. As was remarked by Baron d'Estournelles de Constant, who conferred the decoration in the name of the president of France, Mr. Carnegie is now a citizen of the world, made such by his devotion to the cause of promoting amity among the nations. To be a commander of the Legion of Honor under such circumstances as those attending the decoration of Mr. Carnegie, says Troy Times, is to be singled out as one who particularly typifies the growing humanity and the higher civilization of the age.

Of the income tax collected from securities in Great Britain, $18,000,000 was from American securities. Scotland during the last ten years has grown wealthy in business more rapidly than England, the rates of increase being 50 per cent. in Scotland and 41 per cent. in England.

Mr. George Gould has sold his polo ponies because, as he says, he cannot afford to keep them. Perhaps there is some truth in James J. Hill's predictions of hard times. But we can stand them if they don't strike anybody but those who have polo ponies.

Boise, Idaho, May 7.—Judge Fremont Wood will decide on Wednesday next if, on the eve of his trial for the murder of former Gov. Frank Steunenberg, William Haywood is entitled to receive at the hands of the state a bill of particulars specifying the overt acts charged against him. The motion of the defense for this disclosure of the case of the state was argued at length Monday, and at the conclusion of the discussion the court announced that it would make a decision at the time stated.

The prisoner, under guard of Sheriff Hodgins and two deputies, was brought into court for the argument, and of his counsel both Frank Richardson, of Denver, and Clarence Darrow, of Chicago, pleaded in his behalf. Senator Borah alone spoke in behalf of the state, although James H. Hawley, his associate, was in the court room when the proceedings began. The discussion, always earnest, was characterized at times by deep feeling and dramatic intensity.

Argument for Defendant.
Mr. Richardson, who opened the argument, contended that the indictment was lacking particularly; that it left the defendants in the dark as to the nature of the case to be presented against them, and the defendants were entitled to a more specific showing of the case. He submitted an extended brief citing a great number of authorities and precedents in favor of his contention.

Mr. Borah in reply declared that the defense was seeking a disclosure of the proof in the hands of the state, rather than more perfect pleadings, and asserted that the reports contained no single authority that would support such a contention.

Mr. Darrow, who closed the argument, began by saying that it was the purpose of the defense to secure a disclosure of the evidence in the hands of the prosecution, and asked why the defense was not entitled to such a showing. He made a spirited attack upon the attitude of the prosecution towards its witnesses and evidence, describing it as mysterious, unfair and unjust. He asserted that the only question involved was one of fairness and justice to the accused; laid stress upon the difficulty of securing testimony from distant points and the danger to the defense of "surprised" testimony, and passionately asserted that the rights of the prisoners were as much in the hands of the prosecution as in the keeping of the defense.

Ready for Trial Otherwise.
In answer to Judge Wood, Mr. Darrow said that the defense was not ready to go to trial, but Mr. Richardson interrupted him to make the qualification that the defense was as ready as it ever could be in the circumstances where the case of the state was withheld from it. He said that in all other respects the defense was ready.

Mr. Richardson, responding in brief to the argument of Mr. Borah, said that the counsel for the state made no distinction in his arguments between the overt acts which the state would seek to show against the prisoners and the evidence by which it would seek to show the commission of the alleged overt acts. The defense wished to know what the overt acts were.

Mr. Borah closed the discussion with a spirited speech in which he defended secrecy in obtaining witnesses, instancing the loss of two in Colorado, Sunday, disavowed a desire for any man's blood unjustly, and avowed the purpose of the state to do its duty.

President for Square Deal.
New York, May 6.—In a letter read Sunday before the Central Federated union President Roosevelt states that if evidence is submitted to him showing that there has been a miscarriage of justice for or against Moyer and Haywood awaiting trial at Boise, Idaho, charged with the murder of former Gov. Steunenberg, he will bring such evidence to the attention of the attorney general for such action, if any, as may be in the power of the federal authorities to take.

The communication was the formal reply of the president to the committee of the union which recently called upon the president in Washington and requested him to set forth in general his attitude toward the accused men, and specifically why he had referred to Moyer and Haywood as "undestorable citizens."

NORTHERN TEXAS SWEEP BY TORNADO

SEVERAL TOWNS ARE WIPED OUT OF EXISTENCE BY GREAT STORM.

Loss of Life is Small—Many Persons Suffer Severe Injuries—Wires Are Blown Down and Details Are Scanty.

Fort Worth, Tex., May 7.—A storm of wind and rain which was general throughout a considerable area in northern Texas Monday and which at some places assumed the proportions of a tornado, according to meager reports received here, resulted in the loss of at least three lives, the injury of many other persons and great damage to property and crops.

Several villages were wiped out, but because of the prostration of both telegraph and telephone wires, details are almost impossible to obtain. At Deport, one of the largest villages in Lamar county, 20 miles from Paris, the storm passed northeast, cutting a path about 100 yards wide. The business part of the town was not touched, the damage being in the residential district. The Baptist parsonage was blown to pieces, its timbers and the furniture scattered over the ground. R. H. Bryson's residence was demolished. As far as can be ascertained no one was hurt at this place. Crops are badly damaged.

It is reported that at Halesboro, in Red River county, the wife and child of Andrew Bell were hurt.

Develops into Tornado.
A terrific wind passed over Sulphur Springs about two o'clock, traveling from the southwest to the northeast. West of Sulphur Springs he wind assumed the proportions of a tornado, carrying death and great property damage in its wake.

At the village of Antioch, or Pleasant Grove, as it is also called, the whole village was practically destroyed. Antioch is about seven miles north of Sulphur Springs. This is in the tornado belt and most of the houses are provided with storm cellars. To this fact is due the escape of a number of those who were caught almost in the path of the storm. The home of Wm. Lemmons was destroyed, entailing a loss of about $10,000. Three barns on the place were also destroyed and many head of live stock killed.

Man Crushed by Debris.

The renter of the place named Barzil, whose family consisted of himself and seven children, saw the storm coming and made a run for the cellar at the Lemmons home. Barzil was caught by the wind before he could reach shelter and crushed by flying debris. Five of the children reached the cellar in safety, but Mrs. Barzil and two of the children were fearfully injured and fears are entertained for their recovery.

The home of James Ferguson was destroyed and Mrs. Ferguson was dangerously hurt by flying debris. Ben Pogue and his wife were badly hurt when their home was blown down, but it is thought they may recover. Mrs. Sid Lackey was hurt and will probably die.

There were others injured at Antioch, but it is impossible at this time to learn their names. Crops in the path of the storm, which was unusually wide, were completely destroyed.

The village of Birthwright was destroyed and it was known that at least one death occurred there and it is said one person was fatally hurt. Crawford Martin and J. P. Conner were seriously hurt and may die. Birthwright is a village of between 300 and 400 persons.

TWO ROBBERS HOLD UP NORTHERN PACIFIC TRAIN.

Man at Throttle Resists and is Murdered—Attempt to Blow Open Express Car Abandoned.

Butte, Mont., May 8.—The North Coast Limited, east-bound train No. 22 on the Northern Pacific railway, was held up by two masked men near Welch's Spur, a siding 13 miles east of Butte at 2:15 Tuesday morning. Engineer James Clow was shot and killed and Fireman James Sullivan was shot through the arm. Without making an attempt to blow up the express car, as was evidently intended, the robbers jumped from the engine and ran down the mountain-side, disappearing in a gulch several hundred yards from the track.

Sheriff Henderson of Butte was notified and, with a posse, left on a train for the scene of the hold-up. Sheriff Webb of Yellowstone county, was on the train and, with one of the train crew, started on the trail of the hold-up men five minutes after the shooting. He trailed the men half a mile and after picking up their masks, lost all tracks of the bandits. On the tender of the locomotive was found a telescope grip full of giant powder, evidently intended for use in blowing up the express car. The men boarded the train presumably at the Butte transfer, where a locomotive for the Montana division was attached. One mile west of Welch the men crawled over the tender and, with drawn guns, commanded the engineer to stop the train, which he did. Engineer Clow, however, made a show of resistance and one of the robbers fired, shooting him through the body, killing him instantly. The other man shot at Sullivan, breaking his arm.

Late in the afternoon a sheriff's posse arrested William Powers at Woodville, suspected of being one of the bandits.

Jap Sign of Fidelity.
"The Japs are a fine race," said a globe trotter, "but there's one thing about them I don't like. The married women all blacken their teeth with a paste made out of sweet oil and soot. When a young married woman gives you a smile, instead of being ravished with a glimpse as of snow on roses—pearly teeth gleaming between red lips—you look into a black hole. You frown. You turn away in disgust. The idea is that the married women's black teeth, making them unattractive, keeps them faithful to their husbands. Seems to me it must have the opposite effect on the husbands."—New York Press.

A Typical Yankee.

That Dr. Holmes was a typical Yankee in undemonstrativeness was shown in the meeting with his son, who was wounded at Chancellorsville. For many days he had sought the captain in the fields and in the hospitals and at last learned that he was on a train that was carrying the wounded to Washington. He entered the car, saw the pale face of his wounded boy, and they clasped hands with a "Hello, cap!" and "Hello, dad!"

Lord Denman and the Hatter.

This odd story is told of the late Lord Denman, who, on being reminded by a west end hatter that a small account was "overdue," visited the shop and gave the manager a legal reply to the request for payment. "You state," he said solemnly as he stood over him, shaking his finger at him as though warning him to be careful, "that this account is overdue. Remember that a bill of exchange or bill of acceptance may become overdue, but a tradesman's account never. A gentleman pays when he thinks he will or when he has the money. But, to show that no ill feeling exists, I will pay the account and take another hat."

Your Nerve History.

You are unconsciously writing a history in your nerves, and this history you cannot wipe out at will, as you may wipe out a scrawl on a blackboard. It endures, and it reproduces itself. The thoughts of your mind, the purposes and impulses of your heart, your passions, your affections, your inspirations and your beliefs stamp themselves indelibly on your nervous system. They cut channels of habit. They react on your soul continually for good or evil. They shape your character, and your character is what you are, what you will be always.—Philip S. Moxon, D. D., in "The Form of Life."

Spots on Clothing.

A cake of magnesia and a clothes brush are good friends and save many trips to the cleaners. Rub the spot with magnesia and let it remain a few hours, then brush away. The stain will have disappeared. Rub both sides of the spot if possible and let the magnesia remain for two days or more if the spot is a bad one. This can be used for spots on silk.

A little Kodol taken occasionally, especially after eating, will relieve sour stomach, belching and heartburn. J. B. Jones, of Newport, Tenn., says three bottles of Kodol cured him of dyspepsia. It is sold here by Hunt's pharmacy.

Proposed In Public.

One of the most unique specimens of the courting crisis on record occurred at a London dinner party. He had long made love to her, and while at the table he learned from a friend sitting next to him that his rival intended to "pop the question" that very day. What was to be done? He was some distance from her, while the dreaded rival was at her side. Tearing a leaf from a notebook, he wrote on it with a pencil: "Will you be my wife? Write your answer, yes or no, on this paper and return it to me." This he sent to her by a waiter, saying: "To the lady in blue at the end of the table. Be very careful." This servant was careful enough, but the sender forgot to give him the pencil for the lady to use. She didn't have a pencil, but she coolly put the note into her bosom and answered to the waiter, "Tell the gentleman yes," with a little betrayal of excitement as if she were accepting an invitation to a game of croquet.

Deafness Can not be Cured
by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever, nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sciatica Cured after Twenty Years of Torture

For more than twenty years Mr. J. B. Massey, of 3322 Clinton St., Minneapolis, Minn., was tortured by sciatica. The pain and suffering which he endured during this time is beyond comprehension. Nothing gave him any permanent relief until he used Chamberlain's Pain Balm. One application of that liniment relieved the pain and made sleep and rest possible, and less than one bottle has effected a permanent cure. If troubled with sciatica or rheumatism why not try a 25-cent bottle of Pain Balm and see for yourself how quickly it relieves pain. For sale by G. H. Hunt.

THE LIONS OF THE LORD

A TALE OF THE OLD WEST
BY HARRY LEON WILSON

He had been all animation and eagerness in the telling of the story, but had now become curiously silent and listless; so that, although she was eager with many questions about what he had said, she did not ask them, waiting to see if he would not talk again. But instead of talking, he stayed silent and presently began to fidget in his chair. At last he said, "If you'll excuse us, Miss Prudence, your pa and I have got a little business matter to talk over—to-night. I guess we can go down here by the corral and do it."

But she arose quickly and bade him good night. "I hope I shall see you tomorrow," she said.

She bent over to kiss her father as she went in, and when she had done so, warned him that he must not sit in the night air.

"Why your face is actually wet with a cold sweat. You ought to come in at once."

"After a very little, dear. Go to bed now—and always be a good girl!"

"And you've grown so hoarse sitting here."

"In a little while,—always be a good girl!"

She went in with a parting admonition: "Remember your cough—good night!"

When she had gone neither man stirred for the space of a minute. The little man, huddled in his seat, had not changed his position; he still sat with his chair tilted back against the house, his chin on his breast.

The other had remained standing where the girl left him, the revolver in his hand. After the minute of silence he crossed over and stood in front of the seated man.

"Come," he said, gruffly, "where do you want to go?"

CHAPTER XXIX.

How the Avenger Bungled His Vengeance.

At last he stood up, slowly, unsteadily, grasping Follett by the arm for support. He spoke almost in a whisper.

"Come back here first—to talk—then I'll go with you."

He entered the house, the young man following close, suspicious, narrowly watchful.

"No fooling now,—feel the end of that gun in your back?" The other made no reply. Inside the door he took a candle from the box against the wall and lighted it.

"Don't think I'm trying anything—come here."

They went on, the little bent man ahead, holding the candle well up. His room was at the far end of the long house. When they reached it, he closed the door and fixed the candle on the table in some of its own grease. Then he pointed Follett to the one stool in the little cell-like room, and threw himself face down on the bed.

Follett, still standing, waited for him to speak. After a moment's silence he grew impatient.

"Come, come! What would you be saying if you were talking? I can't wait here all night."

But the little man on the bed was still silent, nor did he stir, and after another wait Follett broke out again.

"If you want to talk, talk, I tell you. If you don't want to, I can say all I have to say, quick."

Then the other turned himself over on the bed and half sat up, leaning on his elbow.

"I'm sorry to keep you waiting, but you see I'm so weak"—the strained little smile came to his face—"and tremble so, there's so much to think of—do you hear those women scream—there! did you hear that?—but of course not. Now—wait just a moment—have you come to kill me?"

"You and those two other hellions—the two that took me and that boy out that night to bury us."

"Did you think of the consequences?"

"I reckon you'd be called paid for, in time any one come gunning for you. I didn't think there'd be any consequences."

"Hereafter, I mean; to your soul. What a pity you didn't wait a little longer! Those other two are already punished."

"Don't lie to me now?"

The little smile lighted his face again.

"I have a load of sin on me—but I don't think I ever did lie to any one—I guess I never was tempted—"

"Oh, you've acted lies enough."

"You're right—that's so. But I'm telling you truth now—those two men had both been in the Meadows that day and it killed them. One went crazy and ran off into the desert. They found his bones. The other shot himself a few years ago. Those of us that live are already in hell—"

He sat up, now animated for the moment.

"—in hell right here, I tell you. I'd have welcomed you, or any other man that would kill me, any time this 15 years. I'd have gone out to meet you. Do you think I like to hear the women scream? Do you think I'm not crazed myself by this thing—right back of me here, now—crawling, bleeding, breathing on me—trying to come here in front where I must see it? Don't you see God has known how to punish me worse than you could, just by keeping me alive and sane? Oh, man! you don't know how I've longed for that bullet of yours, right here through the temples where the cries sound worst. I didn't dare to do it myself—I was afraid I'd make my punishment worse if I tried to strike; but I used to hope you would come as you said you would. I wonder I didn't know you at once."

He put his hands to his head and fell back again on the pillow, with a little moan.

"Well, it ain't strange I didn't know you. I was looking for a big man. You seemed as big as a house to me that day. I forgot that I'd grown up and you might be small. When those fellows got tight up there and let on like it was you that some folks hinted had took a child and kept it out of that mess, I couldn't hardly believe it; and everybody seeming to regard you so highly. And I couldn't believe this big girl was little Prue Grinway that I remembered. It seemed like you two

"Well, it ain't strange I didn't know you. I was looking for a big man. You seemed as big as a house to me that day. I forgot that I'd grown up and you might be small. When those fellows got tight up there and let on like it was you that some folks hinted had took a child and kept it out of that mess, I couldn't hardly believe it; and everybody seeming to regard you so highly. And I couldn't believe this big girl was little Prue Grinway that I remembered. It seemed like you two

"We did as the Lord directed us—"
"Oh, shucks!"
"And then we thought the time had come to stand up for our rights; that the Lord meant us to be free and independent."

"Seesh, eh?" Follett was amused. "You, an' all?—Uncle Sam could have licked you with both hands tied behind him. Why, you crazy fool, he'd have spit on you and drowned every last one of you, old Brigham Young and all. Fighting the United States! A few dozen women-butchers going to do what the whole South couldn't! Well, I am danged."

He mused over it, and for awhile neither spoke.

"And the nearest you ever got to it was cutting up a lot of women and children after you'd cheated the men into giving up their guns!"

The other groaned.

"There now, that's right—don't you see that hurts worse than killing?"

"But I certainly wish I could have got those other two that took us off into the sage-brush that night. I didn't guess what for, but the first thing I knew the other boy was scratching, and kicking, and hollering, and like to have wriggled away, so the cuss that was with me ran up to help. Then I heard little John making a kind of a squeally noise in his throat like he was being choked, and that was all I wanted. I legged it into the sage-brush. I heard them swearing and coming after me, and ran harder, and what saved me, I tripped and fell down and hurt myself, so I lay still and they lost track of me. I was scared, I promise you that; but after they got off a ways I worked in the other direction by spells till I got to a little wady, and by sunup they weren't in sight any longer. When I saw the Indians coming along I wasn't a bit scared. I knew they weren't Mormons."

"I used to pray that you might come back and kill me."

"I used to wish I would grow faster geance was well thought out. Oh, how much more He can make us suffer than you could with your clumsy killings! She must go, but wait—not yet—not yet. Oh, my God! I would not stand it to see her go. It couldn't into my heart and leave me to bleed to death. No, no, no—don't! Please don't! Don't pile it all on me at the last. The end has come anyway. Don't do that—don't, don't!"

"There, there, be still now." There was a rough sort of soothing in Follett's voice, and they were both silent a moment. Then the young man went on:

"But what do you expect? Suppose everything was left to you, Mister. Come now, you're trying to talk fair. Suppose I leave it to you—only you know you can't keep her."

"Yes, it can't be, but let her stay a little while; let me see her a few times more; let me know she doesn't think I'm bad; let me promise never to tell her all of it. Let her always think I was a good man. Do you promise me that? I'd do it for you, Follett. It won't hurt you. Let her think I was a good man."

"How long do you want her to stay here?—a week, ten days?"

"It will kill me when she goes!"

"Oh, well, two weeks?"

"That's good of you; you're kinder at your age than I was—I shall die when she goes."

"Well, I wouldn't want to live if I were you."

"Just a little longer, knowing that she cares for me. I've never been free to have the love of a woman the way you will some day, though I've hungered and sickened for it—for a woman who would understand and be close. But this girl has been the soul of it some way. See here, Follett, let her stay this summer, or until I'm dead. That can't be a long time. I've felt the end coming for a year or so. Let her stay, believing in me. Let her know to the last that I'm the only man who has been in her heart, who has won her confidence and her love. Oh, I mean fair. You stay with us yourself and watch. Come—but look there, look, man!"

"Well,—what?"

"That candle is going out,—we'll be in the dark"—he grasped the other's arm—"in the dark, and now I'm afraid again. Don't leave me here! It would be an awful death to die. Here's that thing now on the bed behind me. It's trying to get around in front where I'll have to see it—get another candle. No—don't leave me,—this one will go out while you're gone. All his strength went into the candle as Follett's arm. The candle was sputtering in its pool of grease.

"There, it's gone—now don't, don't leave me. It's trying to crawl over me—I smell the blood—"

"Well—he down there—it serves you right. There—stop it—I'll stay with you."

Until dawn Follett sat by the bunk, submitting his arm to the other's frenzied grip. From time to time he would awkwardly utter little words that were meant to be soothing, as he would have done to a frightened child.

When morning brought the gray light into the little room, the haunted man fell into a doze, and Follett, gently unclasping the hand from his arm, arose and went softly out. He was cramped from sitting so long, and chilled, and his arm hurt, where the other had gripped it. He pulled back the blue woollen sleeve and saw above his wrist livid marks where the nails had sunk into his flesh.

Then out of the room back of him came a sharp cry, as from one who had awakened from a dream of terror. He stepped to the door again and looked in.

"There now—don't be scared any more. The daylight has come; it's all right—all right—go to sleep now—"

He stood listening until the man's had come to kill was again quiet. Then he went outside and over to the creek back of the willows to bathe in the fresh running water.

COOPERATIVE WORKMEN STRIKE

Although Stockholders in Company, They Demand Higher Wages.

Edwardsville.—Twenty-one years ago N. O. Nelson, of Edwardsville, widely known for his philanthropic plans, established near Edwardsville an industrial village, which he named Leclair, where all workmen in the factories were to be on a cooperative basis. Each year he gave the men in addition to their wages 25 per cent of their salaries in stock of the company, bearing six per cent interest.

Now the machinists and brassworkers have struck, demanding higher wages. Mounting a big planer in the center of one of the mills, Mr. Nelson declared that hereafter no union men would be employed.

IN PRISON TO SAVE HUSBAND.

Woman Serving Time for Murder Done by Spouse Is Pardoned.

According to the statement of the state's attorney the woman took no part in the crime for which she was convicted. It appears that her husband shot and killed a man and that she was a witness to the crime. In a few days thereafter she gave information that led to the finding of the murdered man's body and when the case came to trial pleaded guilty.

STAR FISH A TRAINED ACROBAT.

Lowest Form of Animal Life Taught Somersault by Professor.

Baltimore.—A star fish has been trained to turn somersaults, by Dr. Herbert S. Jennings, associate professor of physiology in John Hopkins university.

The training was directed toward getting the animal to employ regularly a certain pair of rays for this purpose, the experimenter at first not permitting it to use other rays.

Prof. Jennings, in a report in the university circular, states: "By this method it was found that the star fish very readily acquired what may be called temporary habits. Thus in one typical case in which the star fish was trained to use a certain pair of rays that was never used naturally, after 12 lessons, one following the other immediately, the animal was found to have adopted the habit. It was allowed to right itself eight times in succession without interference from the experimenter, and in every case it used the pair of rays that it had been trained to use.

"At first many of them resisted obstinately, but by the training process this resistance was gradually overcome, and at the end of the period of training the fish employed this pair of rays more frequently than any other. In several specimens thus trained it was found that the effects of the training lasted for at least a week after the training ceased. It is clear, therefore, that habits may be formed in the star fish after a brief period of training. There is no doubt that by beginning with young specimens and continuing well planned training for a long time very marked results could be reached. The starfish is the lowest form of animal life in which habit formation has been demonstrated."

PREFERS HOTELS TO HOME.

Richest Woman in Portland Never Passes a Night in Own Mansion.

Portland, Me.—One of the largest and finest mansions in Portland has been closed for years because its owner, Miss Mary J. E. Clapp, prefers to live in hotels. It stands on Monument square, on a lot worth $60,000. Repeated offers to buy it have failed.

Miss Clapp, who is about 70 years of age, spends her winters in the south and travels much in summer. She frequently visits her native city, and at times remains weeks at one of the best hotels. Not a night does she pass in the old home. Some one asked her a short time ago why she didn't sell the house if she didn't care to occupy it.

"I don't need to," was her response. She doesn't need to. She has a greater income than she can spend. The assessors' books show that she owns real estate in this city aggregating in assessed value $205,000 and her personal property is listed at $95,000.

She never makes a personal protest against a marking up of her valuation, but a business representative usually drops into the assessors' office about April 1 to sound them and suggest that they be as lenient as possible with the Miss Clapp.

WIFE'S FAD DIVORCE PLEA.

Former Archduke Objects to No Clothes and Vegetarianism.

Geneva.—Herr Woelfing, who at one time was Archduke Leopold of Austria, and his wife, from whom he is seeking a divorce, appeared in court here for the usual attempt at reconciliation prior to granting the decree. Both parties declined to resume conjugal relations, the former archduke declaring he was tired of vegetarianism, the fantastic undress and other fads of his wife. The case, consequently, will take its ordinary course.

Herr Woelfing gave up his position, expectations and honors as an Austrian archduke some four years ago in order to marry Wilhelmina Adamovich, an actress in Vienna, from whom he now would be divorced. After leaving Austria Herr Woelfing and his wife resided in Switzerland, where the former archduke became a citizen and served his time in the Swiss army.

The present divorce proceedings were brought on the ground of eccentricity. For some time past Frau Woelfing has been a vegetarian. She recently joined a colony of "nature people," who live in caves, subsist upon uncooked vegetables, go practically without clothes and abstain from all civilized customs. She attempted to convert her husband to this manner of life.

Goat Ranch of 12,000 Acres.

St. Louis.—Jacob Speer, a wealthy property owner of Springfield, Mo., has cash-entered 12,000 acres of government land in Ozark county. Mr. Speer will use the land for the establishment of a gigantic ranch, where he will raise sheep and goats. The price paid for the land was $15,000. The entry is not all in one body, but is scattered over four townships in the southern part of the county. There is now only about 10,000 acres of government land left in Ozark county.

Live Toads in "Dead" Letter.

Washington.—The dead letter office of the post office department came to life the other day when a woman clerk, in opening dead-letter mail, took the lid off a box containing three horned toads from Texas. After the woman clerk had climbed down from their desks a summary court-martial sentenced the animals to death for inciting a riot, but a tender-hearted messenger rescued the culprits and turned them loose in Farragut square, where the children play.

SEEDING COMMENCED IN WESTERN CANADA.

The Prospects for a Large Acreage to Be Sown in Wheat.

St. Paul, April 24, 1907.—Word has been received at the office of the Canadian Government in St. Paul that seeding has commenced at various points throughout Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta.

The heavy snowfall during the past winter has left the ground in splendid shape for successful seeding operations. The fine weather of the past few days has taken much of the frost out of the ground and during next week there will scarcely be a district in which the seeder is not being operated. The most optimistic conditions exist and in all districts the farmers are busy getting things in shape.

There will be a very large acreage sown in spring wheat, oats and barley. At many points throughout the three provinces the newcomers are busy unloading their stock and effects, working night and day in order to get on their farms and become active agencies in the effort to make the year 1907 the banner year in grain production in Western Canada. As compared with districts many hundred miles further south than this, it will be seen that Western Canada ranks amongst the first in the line of seeding operations for the present year. It is safe to say that farmers who get in their crop before the 20th or 24th of May, will receive magnificent returns. A number of those coming in this spring, who had not their land prepared last fall, will break up enough land to get in a crop of oats and barley and probably some flax. This, together with the vegetables they will plant, will give them ample food for themselves and stock during the coming summer and winter. These early seeding operations are not confined to one district, but are spread over a country 900 miles long by 400 miles in width.

The agents of the Canadian Government, located at different points throughout the United States, are busy giving information regarding the many new districts that are being made available for settlers. Low railway rates, information and literature are given on application to the agent, whose name appears in advertisement elsewhere in this paper.

The Estimable Family.

"Reynolds," said Millionaire Banks to his valet, "go 'round to the house of that little girl whom I ran down with the auto this morning and extend to the family my sincere regrets and sympathy. Also give them this $50 bill. I understand that they are very poor and in want."

Accordingly the valet obeyed. When he returned his master met him at the door.

"Well, Reynolds?" "The father wished me to say, sir, that he hoped you wouldn't take the affair too much to heart. As for the family, they all feel very grateful to you sir, and couldn't bring themselves to accept your very kind offer."

"A most estimable family! Yet I wonder why they didn't accept the money?" "The father said such matters should be arranged through his lawyer, sir."—Judge.

No Criticism to Make.

Mrs. Ilwta Williams, the English society leader, talked at a dance in New York about the fashion of riding astride that has taken hold of English equestriennes.

"Some of our young women," said Mrs. Williams, "dress out and out like men. They wear a long coat out like a hunting coat, a cap, riding breeches and top boots. It is a handsome costume and it is not immodest, but undoubtedly it attracts a good deal of attention. They have been telling in London lately a story about an English girl who has adopted this riding rig, hauling up her horse one afternoon she said to an artisan who was passing: 'Can you tell me if this is the way to Wareham?'"

"The man looked her over carefully. Then he touched his cap in a respectful manner and replied: 'Yes, miss, yes—you seem to 'ave got 'em on all right.'"

FRIENDS HELP.

St. Paul Park Incident.

"After drinking coffee for breakfast I always felt languid and dull, having no ambition to get to my morning duties. Then in about an hour or so a weak, nervous derangement of the heart and stomach would come over me with such force I would frequently have to lie down.

"At other times I had severe headaches; stomach finally became affected and digestion so impaired that I had serious chronic dyspepsia and constipation. A lady, for many years State President of the W. C. T. U., told me she had been greatly benefited by quitting coffee and using Postum Food Coffee; she was troubled for years with asthma. She said it was no cross to quit coffee when she found she could have as delicious an article as Postum.

"Another lady, who had been troubled with chronic dyspepsia for years, found immediate relief on ceasing coffee and beginning Postum twice a day. She was wholly cured. Still another friend told me that Postum Food Coffee was a Godsend to her, her heart trouble having been relieved after leaving off coffee and taking Postum.

"So many such cases came to my notice that I concluded coffee was the cause of my trouble and I quit and took up Postum. I am more than pleased to say that my days of trouble have disappeared. I am well and happy. "There's a Reason." Read "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

A Fish Story.

"Trout protection! Nonsense!" said a gunner of local eminence. "Trout are amply able to protect themselves. Look at their depredations among ducks, for example, and you will agree with me that it's the birds that need protection. It's a common thing for a trout to jump from the water, seize a duck by the neck, drag the unfortunate fowl into the depths sufficiently to leave its feet sticking in the air, where it can get no purchase upon the universe, and thus drown it. Then the trout picks the feathers from the bird, eats it at its leisure and swims away out of the jurisdiction of the courts. Are there any fishermen? None? Too bad. This would be a match for one of their fish stories."

FAMILY'S SKIN TROUBLES.

Eczema, Heat Rash, and Scalp Affections Afflict Different Members, But Cuticura Cures Them.

"My wife had eczema for five or six years. It was on her face and would come and go. We thought we would give the Cuticura Remedies a trial. We did so and she has never had a sign of eczema for four years. I myself used Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment some time ago for falling hair. I now have a very heavy head of hair. We used Cuticura Remedies for our baby, who was nearly bald when young. She has very nice hair now. She is very fleshy, and we had so much trouble with heat that we would bathe her with Cuticura Soap and then apply Cuticura Ointment, it would dry the heat up so much quicker than anything else. Importance of Sleep.

We should get up well every morning. If we do not, we are certain gradually to run behind in our physical bank account. This proves that sleeping is quite as important as eating. The luxury of sound sleep is one of the greatest means given to a man or beast for restoring and invigorating the whole system. No one should allow business or anything else to curtail this luxury, and parents should, promote it in children, instead of drumming them out of bed early.—Homeopathic Envoy.

Does It Make You Hot?

It strikes us that it would make most anybody hot to sit down on a sizzling hot stove lid. But that's the result of carelessness. Carelessness is always expensive. For instance, if you are going to need some lumber this season for building or fixing up about the place, and through carelessness, forget to get our prices it will probably cost you more money.

See the point? Get all your Lumber, Building Material, Storm Sash, Windows, Doors, etc., here and you'll be dead sure of satisfaction every day.
