JUDGE GROSSCUP'S CHARGE.

His Instructions to the Grand Jury Which Indicted Debs.

CHICAGO, July 12.—Following are the main points contained in the charge of Judge Grosscup to the federal grand jury on Tuesday:

The court defined the duties of the jury as an inquiry whether any of the laws of the United States within this judicial district had been violated." The judge explains the rights and obligations of the national government, and, as a consequence, the general range of inquiry apposite to this federal grand jury. The jurors were to take cognizance of the fact that the United States government has undertaken to early the government has undertaken to carry the mails of the people and to regulate interstate commerce. Matters belonging within the juris-diction of the state, and violation of the law, however heinous, relating to those matters, were outside the investigations of this jury.

Insurrection Defined.

If the deflance of law is such that it is necessary to its suppression to call in force to supplement the ordinary processes of the law with the military arm of the government, it is an insurrection, or rebellion, however far it may fall short of attaining the proportions to fit the popular idea of rebellion.

The court reads agitators a lesson when it says that "neither the torch of the incendiary nor the weapon of the insurrectionist nor the inflamed tongue of him who incites to fire and sword is the instrument to bring about reforms," and that there has been no appeal to the calm, dispassionate, sympathetic judgment of the public. "Men who appear as the champions of great changes must first submit them to discussion—discussion that reaches not simply the par--discussion that reaches not simply the par-ties interested, but the wider circles of soci-ety, and must be patient as well as persevering until the public intelligence has been reached and a public judgment made up."

What Constitutes a Conspiracy.

The court clearly defines the nature of conspiracy against the laws of the United States. These laws forbid any person, under penalty, from obstructing or retarding the passage of the mail. Upon this point the court was clear and explicit and thus instructed the jury:

"If therefore it shall amount to you that any

"If, therefore, it shall appear to you that any erson and persons have willfully obstructed arrest for such offense has been opposed by such arrest for such offense has been opposed by such a number of persons as would constitute a general uprising in that particular locality, and as threatens, for the time being, the civil and political authority, then the fact of an insurrection within the meaning of the law has been withing the proper written. established. And he who by speech, writing, promises or other inducements assists in setting it on foot, or carrying it along, or gives it aid or comfort, is guilty of a violation of law! It is not necessary that there should be blood-shed; it is not necessary that its dimensions should be so portentous as to insure probable success to constitute an insurrection. It is necessary, however, that the rising should be in opposition to the execution of the laws of the United States, and should be so formidable as for the time being to defy the authority of the United States. When pen gather to resist the civil or political power. men gather to resist the civil or political power of the United States, or to oppose the execution of its laws, and are in such force that the civil authorities are inadequate to put them down, and a considerable military fo needed to accomplish the result, they b insurgents, and every person who knowingly incites, aids or abets them, no matter what his motives may be, is likewise an insurgent."

Freedom of Commerce.

Upon the subject of the freedom of commerce the court was equally explicit. The regulation of commerce between the several states is placed within the keeping of the United States government by the constitution. Anything which is being transported from state to state, any car transporting it, and any person engaged in transporting it are the agencies of interstate commerce, and any conspiracy in restraint of such trade or commerce is an offense against the United States. Any physical interference forms the foundation for this offense and conspiracy completes the offense. fense and conspiracy completes the offense. On this point the court instructed: "If it shall appear to you that two or more persons corruptly or wrongfully agreed with each other that the employes of the several railroads carrying the mails and interstate commerce should quit, and that successors should, by threats, intimidation or violence be prevented from taking their places, such would constitute a conspiracy

The court further instructed the jury to inquire whether in case any two or more persons by concert have by intimidation, force or otherwise led men quitting the employment of railroads to obstruct them, whether they did so as strangers or as trustees or leaders of associations to which these men belonged; and whether they did so because they thought they were honestly performing their duty or because they wanted to satisfy ambition or pri-

Right of Labor to Organize.

The court in its charge clearly recognizes the right of labor to organize, the right to work or to quit it, the right to the highest wage that the strategy of work or the cessation of work may bring, and the right to choose a leader whom they may follow; and such associations are beneficial "when they do not restrain individual liberty and are un-der enlightened and conscientious leadership," out these associations are subject to law like all others, and "no man in his individual right can lawfully demand and insist upon conduct third person's lawful rights.'

She waited anxiously, watching keenly every motion of the group of joined in talking or laughing, their attention being thus absorbed, she moved an inch or two at a time. Thus the noise they made prevented them hearing her movements. In this way little by little she managed to crawl behind the heap of fodder and crouch down.

After a time the girl began to listen eagerly to what was said.

"What time was Gibeon to be here? It's past it now, ain't it?" asked one of

"Not later than nine o'clock," replied another. "He ought to be here by now."

"He's always late," growled a third. "Ah, and he takes precious good care to be out of the way when the fun begins, too," said one, whom Mary recog nized as Jack Dilworth, the man who had attacked Tom. "He kept out of the way tother night when we tried to square accounts with that young blackleg, Tom Roylance.

"Black-and-blue-leg, you should say, Jack," said another, laughing at the reference to the other's injury.

"Aye, curse the young devil," growled the man, angrily and fiercely, in reply. "I'll make him sorry he ever met me that night. See if I don't."

"Shut up, Jack; what do you want making such a devil of a row for? We've got something more to talk about than a touch of the calf of your leg."

"H-sh!" cried a man, warningly, who was standing outside. "I can hear some one coming. H-sh!"

There was silence among them in an instant; and Mary heard some one go past, whistling as he went. It seemed to her that he was hurrying.

She deliberated a moment whether she should call for help; but consideration showed her that such a course would be foolish.

The next minute she was more than glad she had kept silent.

"Here comes Gibeon," cried the man who was looking out. "Are you there, lads?" asked the newcomer. "Did you see him?"

"Who?" cried one or two together.
"Why, that knobstick, Tom Roy-

"Because there's a worse business in store for him than a cracked skull, Jack; as you yourself 'll see, before this job's over," answered Gibeon Prawle, with an oath.

"What's that?" asked the other eagerly.

"What do you say if we put the whole job on to his shoulders?"

"Aye, lad, that'll be all right. You give me ten minutes, or at the outside fifteen, in the engine room, and I'll bet my last tanner that there won't be no work inside the place for a monthor six months, for that matter. All you've got to do is get me inside, and then leave me to do the rest."

"We'll manage that. Young Ben Druce was to have watched to-night; but he's off; and so old Ben takes his place, and you know what sort he is for his beer. He's been guzzling all the afternoon, with Tom Carter here, the chance of their not noticing her, and he's tight now, isn't he, Tom?"

"Aye, lad, that he is," said the man It was a difficult position. The addressed, with a laugh at his own chances of their letting her go without cunning. "He's more'n tight — he's downright boozed, and as muddlepresence, were very small. On the othheaded as a fool."

"You can get Jos inside, can't you, to be discovered, and if she kept quiet Tom, without his being seen by old

"Where is it, then?"

"Why, here, to be sure; along with Jos' tools. But it isn't good enough to walk about with things like them,

"All right. I only meant to make sure that everything was in order. It's a bit too early to start yet. You're sure you can do what has to be done in the time you say, Jos?" "Sure, of course I am. Do you think

I'm a fool?' "What are you going to do?" saked Jack Dilworth, in a surly voice.

"Never you mind. What I'm going to do won't take no lives and won't break no limbs. And if Tom Carter here manages the job properly, so as I can get in and out again without leaving any traces, and if you chaps keep a sharp look out, and save us from any awkward little interruptions, we shall be all snug away home and in bed be "Well, you needn't be so blessed secret about it. Only take care your time fuse don't set the place on fire, else you may do the gaffer just as good don't like your dynamite; it's pesky stuff to handle.

"Who said I was afraid?" answered Dilworth, hotly. "If no one was more afraid than me, it would be all right."

"That's all right," said Gibeon Prawle, quickly, interposing to make peace. "There's no need to talk about anyone being afraid, Jos, nor of any body standing out. The boss has done us all a bad turn, and we owe him a grudge for it, and mean to pay him. Now, what about that clew to show Tom Roylance's hand in this?

"I'd like that for my part of the business," cried Dilworth.

"It'll be done all right, lad, don't you fear," said Gibeon. "There are do it, could you?"
"Couldn't 1? Well, wait a bit and see. But now, what about things? In more than you do. We're jast going to the first place, I've got news for you, see that something belonging to him is found by the watchman to-night in a way that shows he must have been hanging round the place.

> "It'll take a clever bit of spinning to make much of a yarn out of a bit of short staple stuff like that," said one

> "That's as it may be," answered Gibstate of flurry and excitement that'll come after this business, folks ain't going to be too dainty about their suspicions. But now it's time we were thinking of moving. We'd better not go out altogether. You four, who have got to act as scouts, had better go off, two together. I shall follow you, and Jos and Tom will come on when we have made certain that the coast is clear. Have you got the tools?"

> "They're in the corner there, just buried a bit out of sight," answered

> "Can you manage without striking a light? There might be somebody about.

'Yes; I can do all right, I think," he said. "I know where to put my hand on them." As he spoke, Mary, whose eyes had grown accustomed to the darkness, saw him turn in her direction, and her heart sank within her when she heard him moving straight toward the corner where she was hiding. He groped along, muttering some thing about the darkness, and feeling his way by the side of the shed. When he was within a few inches of her he stopped, and she heard him, and almost felt him, stoop down and begin to clear away the hay from the ground, not a foot from where she crouched.

She could hear him breathe. Then he began to move a little of the earth flooring of the shed, and some of it actually lay upon her dress.

He rose for a moment, and Mary felt him standing close to her. Then she was conscious that he was stooping over her with his hands stretched out and down, and the next instant she felt his fingers touch first her hair and then her shoulders.

Knowing she was discovered, she sprang up to make a rush from the place, while the man cried out: "By God, lads, look out; there's some one in the shed." The next moment the girl felt herself caught by the arm, a light was kindled, and Gibeon Prawle, holding while the other men gathered round

CHAPTER X. FACE TO FACE WITH CERTAIN DEATH.

"Mary Ashworth!" The exclamation burst from several of the mer simultaneously, and for a time the fear which held the girl made her unable to speak. What were you doing here, you spying hussy?" said Jack Dilworth, pushing in front of the rest and thrusthis tean long features into hers. "How cante you here?' "I wish to go," said Mary, as firmly as she could. But it was a difficult task even to seem collected.

"I daresay you do, my lass; but you're not going any more for that," eried Dilworth, with a brutal laugh. 'Anyways not yet. We didn't expect the pleasure of your company, you know; but now you're here you'll have to stop.

The girl's answer to this was simply to break away from the group and rush to the entrance of the shed.

But Jos Hamer yur bimself in her

"You can't go, my lass, till this tangle has been cleared," he said, quietly. You don't seem to see that this is a serious business.

"If you force me, of course I can't resist seven men.

"No, you're right you can't; and so you'd better not try. We're none of us in a mood to be played the fool with, he added, meaningly.

"What do you mean to do, then?" asked Mary.

"That's just what we haven't settled yet," he replied. "You'd best go inside and wait, while we talk this thing a turn as you want to do him a bad out." And there was that in his voice one-through the insurance money. I and manner which urged Mary to do what he said.

She walked to the back of the shed and waited while the men talked togoing to use. Butit's something that'll ness. It was not until that moment that she realized fully the real char-

But she reflected then that the men had placed themselves in her power. She knew nothing of the criminal law, but she could not but be aware that what they had been plotting to do she felt that probably she held their liberty in her hands. At first she had thought of nothing except that she would be able possibly to prevent them carrying out their plan—and this she had determined to do at any risk to herself; but her chief pleasure had been that she would certainly be able to save Tom from the suspicion of having had any share in the work.

Now, however, the exceeding gravity and danger of her position flashed upon her. Her peril would be great indeed if these desperate men, who had put themselves in her power, believed she had played the spy in order to betray them.

It was a relief when at last they turned to her and began to put questions. Hamer was spokesman, and his manner was stern, hard and sharp.

"Who sent you here to spy on us?" he said, bluntly and suddenly, turning to Mary. "If you tell us all, we may let you go."

"No one," answered the girl, readily. 'I was not sent here by anyone, and did not come here to spy.

"How came you to know we were going to meet here? Don't lie," he said, roughly and warningly. "I did not know you were going to meet. I came here by chance-quite by chance."

"But you were here when we entered. How was that! How came you to be near the shed at all?" "I tell you it was all by chance. was walking on the footpath outside, and was going back to the village when I heard your voices. I didn't know who you were, and had no fancy to be met by anyone, so I turned back and came in here to wait while you passed. Then you came in, and I couldn't get out." "So you stopped and listened to all that passed? Did you hear all that was

"I heard a great deal."

"Ah!" cried several of the men. "Why didn't you go when you found we were talking about matters that didn't concern you?" "I had a reason," said the girl. "Ah! hear that!" cried some of the others again, this time angrily. "What reason?" asked her ques

'I shall not say." "You'd better. It won't pay to trifle with us. "I shall not say," repeated Mary, firmly. She was determined not to bring Tom's name in if she could help it. "Ah, I thought we should come to some secret reason directly. I suppose you were told to say that by those who sent vou." "I was not sent," said Mary. "I have told you the truth." "Are you going to tell the whole truth?" asked the man.

"Yes, to those questions which I choose to answer.' "Well, then, what did you mean to do if we hadn't caught you before we left the shed?" "I meant to try and stop you from carrying out your plot to destroy the machinery of the mill," answered

Mary, boldly. "You meant to betray us, did you?" asked the man, and his voice was hard er and his manner harsher than before "I meant to save the mill and my

A MIRACLE IN MISSOURL

The Achievements of Medical Science Far More Wonderful Than the Magic of the East.

The Remarkable Experience of Post Master Woodson, of Panama, Mo.-For Ten Years a Cripple-To-Day A Well and Hearty Man.

[From the Kansas City Times.] The people of Rich Hill, Mo., and vicinity, have recently been startled by a seeming miracle of healing. For years one of the best known men in Bates and Vernon counties has been Mark M. Woodson, now postmaster at Panama, and brother of ex-State Inspector of Mines C. C. Woodson, of this The people of Rich Hill, where he formerly resided, and of his present home, remember well the bent form, misshapen almost from the semblance of man, which has painfully bowed its head half to earth and labored snail-like across the walks season after season, and when one day last month it straightened to its full height, threw away the heavy butt of cane which for years had been its only support from total helplessness, and walked erect, firmly, unhesitatingly about the two cities, people looked and wondered. The story of the remarkable case has become the marvel of the two counties. Exactly as Mr. Woodson told it to a Times reporter, it is here published: "For ten years I have suffered the torments of the damned and have been a useless invalid; to-day I am a well and hearty man free from almost every touch of pain. I don't think man ever suffered more acute and constant agony than I have since 1884 The rheumatism started then in my right knee, and after weeks of suffering in bed I was at last relieved sufficiently to arise, but it was only to get about on crutches for five years, the ailment having settled in the joint. Despite constant treatment of the most eminent physicians the rheumatism grew worse, and for the last four years I have been compelled to go about bent half toward the ground. In the winter of 1890-91, after the rheumatism had settled into its most chronic form, I went to Kansas City upon advice of my brother, and for six weeks I was treated in one of the largest and best known dispensaries of that city, but without the slightest improvement.

Before I came home I secured a strong galvanic battery, this I used for months with the same result. In August, 1892, I went to St. Louis, and there conferred with the widely known Dr. Mudd of hospital practice fame, and Dr. Kale of the city hospital.

None of them would take my case with any hope of affording me more than temporary relief, and so I came home, weak, doubled with pain, helpless and despondent. About this time my attention was called to the account of a remarkable cure by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People of locomotor ataxia, rhoumatism and paral-ysis .I ordered some of the pills as an experiment. When I began to take them, the rheumatism had developed into a phase of paralysis; my leg from the thigh down was cold all the time and could not be kept warm. In a short time the pills were gone, and so was the cane. I was able to attend to the duties of my office, to get about as a well and strong man. I was free from pain and I could enjoy a sound and restful night's sleep, something I had not known for ten years. To-day am practically, and, I firmly believe, permanently cured of my terrible and agonizing ailment. No ma-gician of the Far East ever wrought the miracle with his wand that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills did for me." To verify the story beyond all question of oubt Mr. Woodson made the following

THE FOREIGNER.

An extract from the Fourth of July address of C. F. Irwin, of Elgin, delivered at Genoa.

In what I say on this subject, I have no wish to hurt in the slightest degree the feelings of any person of foreign extraction, or of foreign birth. I believe in the absolute and eternal divorcement of church and state: I believe that one nation, one flag, one language is enough for any country. I have great sympathy for a man in this country who speaks and understands nothing but German, but when I find people who use it for choice in preference to good, pure grammatical English, I am afraid there is something radically wrong with that man's judgment and taste. There is plenty of room and opportunity here for the honest foreigners. Some of the Events Incident to the Great Pullman Boycott.

Ominous Turn of Affairs in California-The Allled Trades Fail to Go Out-Outlook Brightens for Chicago and Other Centers.

SOLDIERS SLAIN.

SAN FRANCISCO, July, 13.—On Wednesday he situation in northern California was cemed more serious than at any time previous. United States regulars had been on the field for over thirty-six hours, but blocade and not been broken. Central Pacific passen ger train No. 4, which left Wednesday morning for San Francisco under a heavy military guard, was wrecked, presumably by trikers at a trostle 2½ miles west of here. Three artillerymen were killed, also the engineer and four artillerymen were killed, also the engineer and four artillerymen were killed, also the engineer and four artillerymen were killed. neer, and four artillerymen were injured. dead and wounded soldiers were memb Battery L. Fifth United States artillery.

Strikers Denounce the Wreckers. Harry Knox, the leader of the strikers, has ued the following:

'I desire to state in behalf of the American Railway union that this order has not the re-motest connection with the ditching of the train between Sacramento and Davisville this aftermoon, in which several persons lost their lives We condemn this act as outrageous and bar-barous and entirely contrary to the spirit of the American Railway union, which is engaged in an honorable struggle in the interest of labor and is opposed to violence or the sacrifice of human life. This act was done by sympathizers and we regret it the more as it is calculated to injure rather than help us. We sincerely trust that this first act of violence will be the last."

Practically Under Martial Law The city is practically under martial law. Marshal Baldwin has issued a proclamation notifying all persons that the troops were in the city and that the orders of the command-ing general would be enforced. He also cau-tioned them against all unlawful assemblages Acting under instructions of Col. Graham a de achment of soldiers seized a number of rifles nd 100 shotguns. No resistance was offered Warlike Outlook at Oakland.

At Oakland the outlook is also warlike. An extra force of 150 special policemen under depties have been sworn in. The railroad officials ties have been sworn in. e making preparations early in to start trains simultaneously se sent out from Sacramento. the full force of deputies had arrived a band of strikers charged into the yards on the mole. When more mon arrived the strikers charged After all the engines that had been run out were killed the strikers withdrew. Then came news of the disaster near this city. When Division Superintendent Wilder heard that the train had been wrecked he stopped further preparations.

A gang of strikers ditched two trains at Oak-Iand and completely blocked the track. As yet no marines from Mare island have been landed at Oakland. A train was also sent down to Sonoma Valley branch from Callistoga but it was stopped at Vallejo, where strikers killed the engine. Trains are running in northern California only on the coast division. Neither in San Francisco nor at San Jose did the strik-ers cause any disturbance during the day.

Totedo, O. July 13.—Thursday found 10 roads tied up: The Chromnati, Hamilton & Dayton, the Pennsylvania, the Hocking Valley, the Wheeling & Lake Erie, the Ohio Central, the Wheeling & Lake Erie, the Ohio Central, the Michigan Central, the Lake Shore, the Ann Afbor and the Clover Leaf. There were no disturbances during the night and everything is quiet. The strikers have rented a large store in the business portion of the city for a headquarters and they are conducting their affairs as if they were in a political campaign. The Wheeling & Lake Erie road is shut down completely. General Manager Blair having issued orders to dis-Manager Blair having issued orders to dis-charge every man in the company's employ in every capacity. The only road on which men are working in the yards is the Toledo, St. Louis & Kansas City. The road is in the hands of the United States court and the men at work are guarded by Workmen Go Out. CHICAGO, July 13.—It was estimated Wednesday night that fully 10,000 men employed in the city had left their employment during the day in support of the strike of the American Railway union and in compliance with the decision of the meeting held Sunday night in Uhlich's

Debs Is Hopeful.

In an interview President Debs expressed himself as exceedingly hopeful of ultimate victory. Said he: "As I view the situation now it presents a more favorable outlook for us than ever before. The excitement and turbulence in variably incident to the birth of a great up heaval have passed away. The atmosphere is cleared. Strife and turmoil are elements that have 'passed in the night.' One is enabled to obtain a clear perspective of the environment of the immense waging. Cool-headedness and earnest purpose have succeeded to passion and diverse inten-Now public sentiment can calmly truly judge of the right and wrong in this struggle."

To Probe the Strike.

WASHINGTON, July 14.-It was officially announced at the white house Thursday night that the president will appoint a commission by the authority given him by the arbitration act of 1888, to investigate the labor troubles at Chicago and elsewhere, and report to the president and congress. This determination on the part of the president was arrived at after an interview with Secretary-Treasurer Hayes, of the Knights of Labor, McGuire and C. N. French, of the executive committee, and Mr. Schoenfaber, who were introduced to the president Thursday afternoon by Senator Kyle and who came bearing credentials from the American Railway union, the Pullman employes and several labor organizations.

Riots at Oakland.

San Francisco, July 14. - Early Thursday morning a mob of several hundred strikers rushed into the yards on the mole. They killed all the loco-motives that had been fired up, and blockaded the tracks by derailing a locomotive and a long line of coaches. Later in the day another crowd wrecked a turntable and did some damage a the roundhouse. Trouble came to an end, however, in the evening when a none of the old brotherhoods was inforce of marines from Mare island volved in the settlement of the strike. were landed.

Refuse to Treat.

CHICAGO, July 16.—The General Managers association refused to even consider the peaceful overtures which were made to that body by President Eugene V. Debs of the Amer- Railway union, General Master Workican Railway union. The proposition was not only not considered, but it was returned to Mayor Hopkins, who took the letter to the association, with the information that no communication whatever from the officers of the American Railway union could be received or considered by the association.

At 10:30 a. m. Friday President Debs and Vice President Howard, of the American Railway union, called on Mayor Hopkins and presented him with a document containing a proposal for a settlement of the strike which they asked him to hand to the General Managers' association and use his influence to have that organiza-tion indorse it. The plan pro-posed agreed that the strike would be declared off if the railway companies will take back the old men, except those who were arrested and those who have committed acts of violence.

Will Remain at Work.

CHICAGO, July 16.—The executive committee of the American Federation of Labor and the representatives of the national organizations which have been meeting at the Briggs house for the last two days on Friday decided against ordering a general strike in support of the American Railway union. The conference also decided against local sympathetic strikes by the trade unions, and requested the members of the organizations already out to return to their places. There was but one expression of opinion among delegates as to the justice of the strike of the American Railway union, but there was pronounced opposition to involving other trades of the country.

Wrecked by Miners.

Indianapolis. Ind., July 16 .- The miners, of Fontanet, a station on the Big Four a few miles west of Terre Haute, on Friday, ditched a train. The engineer and fireman were mangled to

The wreck was undoubtedly the work of a lawless mob of miners that possessed Fontanet all day Thursday and stopped and sidetracked five Big Four freight trains to show their sympathy for the railroad strikers. The trouble was so threatening that Sheriff Stout, of Vigo county, and several deputies went to Fontanet Thursday afternoon. No passengers were seriously injured.

Under Martial Law.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., July 16 .-- Friday was one of the most exciting days in the history of the strike, and martial law has been proclaimed. Two men wounded in the receiving hospital, while several others are reported dead or injured. Shortly after 10 o'clock Friday morning a switch engine was proceeding along Front street to clear the track. A company of regulars, under Capt. Roberts, of Battery L, Fifth United States artillery, accompanied the engine. As it reached I street it is said a gang of strikers fired on the troops. The soldiers returned the fire and several men were seen to fall. Two of them were picked up by the police and removed to the receiving hospital.

United States Marshal Baldwin was at the head of the troops and proclaimed martial law. He called upon the people in the name of the United States to go to their homes and remain there until the trouble is over. A few obeyed but the majority remained on the streets in defiance of the marshal's order.

A Brighter Outlook.

CHICAGO, July 17.—Railway managers declared Sunday that the strike was a thing of the past. They claim to have many of their old men back at work and are rapidly supplying the places of others. Trains are running with something of old-time regularity. Freight is being moved but the congestion is not ended. Trades' union men called out to support the strike have mostly resumed work. Uncle Sam's troops are still encamped on the lake front.

Telegrams from other railroad centers are more emphatic than ever before to the effect that the American Railway union strike is at an end outside Chicago. From Detroit, Toledo, Cleveland, Pittsburgh, and points the news is much the same effect - that most of the railroads are running freight and passenger trains on schedule time, that men who deserted their posts at the order to strike are applicants for reemployment; that new men are plentiful enough to supply the needs of the railway managers and that some of the roads | body. emphatically refuse to reinstate former employes who deserted at the dictates of the union.

Managers Quit.

Saturday the General Managers' association adjourned sine die. nizing that the railroad strike was virtually ended, the members felt that there was no further need for their daily meetings.

Before the meeting Chairman St. John and Strike Manager Egan both reiterated the statement that the General Managers' association would not recognize Mr. Debs or any of his associates in the settlement of the strike. It was also said emphatically that Leaders Confer. At a conference held at the Revere house on Saturday, at which President Debs, Vice President Howard, Secretary Keliher and Director Rogers, of the American man Sovereign, of the Knight of Labor, and Grand Chief Stephenson and Secretary Rodemos, of the National Brotherhood of Railway Carmen, were present, it was agreed that the Knights of Labor in Chicago and other points in the where there is trouble with the railroads will be called out. Knights of Labor at other places will remain at work and will contribute their moral and financial support to the strikers. When the meeting had adjourned it was announced that the leaders, in addition to ordering a strike of some Knights of Labor, had decided to call out all carmen and trackmen: to appoint a number of additional managers of the strike; to appeal to Chief Arthur to forbid members of the Engineers' brotherhood working with non-union men, and to push the strike and boycott more vigorously than ever.

Trains Moving in California. SAN FRANCISCO, July 17. All trains are moving approximately on schedule time. The west bound overland train, which has been tied up at Ogden, arrived at Sacramento Sunday with a number of passengers.

IN A GRAND CAUSE.

Opening of the Christian Endeavor Convention at Cleveland.

CLEVELAND, O., July 13 .- Notwithstanding the uncertain conditions of travel incident to the great railway strike, it is estimated that 20,000 strangers are temporarily quartered in this city to attend the Christian Endeavor convention, and every incoming train is adding to the number. Every one of this number was anxious to secure a place within the doors of the Saengerfest building, and long before 10 o'clock every seat and every available inch of standing room in the hall was occupied. Those who could not get into the hall were accommodated in a monster tent in the eastern part of the city, having a seating capacity for 10,000.

The address of welcome was delivered by Gov. McKinley. The governor was very cordially received and his words were applauded vigorously.

Secretary Baer's annual report showed the society to be in a very flourishing condition and with an ever increasing membership almost phenomenal in proportions. The growth of the society during the last twelve months has been the largest since it was organized thirteen years ago. During that period. 7.395 companies have been added to the ranks, against 5,276 companies added to the rolls during the previous year. England has now 1,453 regularly enrolled companies, including fifty-eight in Scotland and thirtyeight in Ireland, or a total of 75,000 individual members. The gains have been very heavy in India, Japan, Turkey, China, France, Spain, Mexico and 'other foreign countries.

In President Clark's report, which was read in the evening, he said:

"Right nobly have you rallied around this standard during the last year. From east and west and north and south has come the good news—'Christian Endeavor stands for the election of good men, for the enactment of good laws, for sturdy and steady opposition to the saloon, the gambling hell, the lottery, the violation of the Sabbath.

"It stands by such men as Charles H. Park-hurst and every kindred spirit in every political party that seeks to purify politics and to make this Immunuel's land. I congratulate you that none of you have been cajoled into making our organization the tail of any political kite. To be a Christian Endeavorer does not mean that one is necessarily a republican or a democrat or a populist or a third party man, tory or a liberal. It does mean that he is necessarily a good citizen, and that he will exert every ounce of his influence to which-ever sex he belongs (if the young men will ex-cuse the generic pronoun) for the right. "While Tummany fourishes in New York and open gambling in Chicago and licensed pro tntion in New Orleans, and the Louisiana tery has moved only across the street to Hon duras, the outlook is dark. It is dark, but not hopeless. This last year has seen Boss McKane sent to Sing Sing, and Brooklyn redeemed. It has seen Croker fly to Europe. It has heard Woolley speak in Chicago and Indianapolis, and Mur-phy in Boston, and has witnessed a score of other good-citizenship campaigns. It has seen thousands of Endeavorers go to the primaries who never went before. It has seen a splendic verdict pronounced against the saloon in Canada, a verdict that Endeavorers have made em-

LOVELOCK, Nev., July 17 .- Three men were killed near here Thursday night as the result of a husband's jealousy. Mrs. Logan had applied for a divorce, and her husband was insanely jealous of her, threatening to kill some of her male friends. Every man in the platoon was either killed outright or fearfully bruised and burned. The urrecognizable fragments of the two cannoners who sat on the limber were scattered had his head blown from his shoulders. The cavalry escort, consisting of two troops in front of the ill-fated battery and one behind, was stampeded, and many of the men blown from their horses and seriously injured. Nine heavy artillery and cavalry horses were killed outright, the pieces of some of them being blown through the air. Heavy caissons were torn literally to atoms. Great chunks of iron and sections of wheels were hurled hundreds of yards. Some of them pierced the stout oak doors and the plate-glass windows of the residences along the boulevard, and some buried themselves deep in the ground. eral persons on the street were more or less injured. One woman was driven insane. All the houses for a block or more in every direction were honeycombed with shot, the windows being broken, the roofs punctured, furniture and carpets torn and burned and yards of plastering shaken down. The shade trees, big elms and cottonwoods, which stand along the boulevard were stripped of their branches and foliage and pierced with hundreds of pieces of shrapnel shot and fragments of iron. Blood was everywhere Great pools of it stood along the edges of the pavements and were constantly fed by trickling streams from the mangled heaps of dead or dying men and horses. Theory of the Explosion.

Gen. Miles, on being informed of the disaster, sent Col. Williston to the scene to secure a report of the affair. Col. Williston, while he could discover absolutely no facts concerning the cause of the explosion, has a theory which may explain it. He said:

"My theory of the accident is that the plug at the base of one of the shrapnels became loosened, some of the powder leaked out, and being ground and pounded by the jolting of the limber, ignited, the powder in the cartridges exploded, and the ignition of the other two chests followed chests followed. chests followed.

"The shrapnel is probably the most deadly projectile thrown by modern guns. The 3-inch shells are of steel and carry at their tips a brass combination fuse screwed on; this fuse has both a fulminate cap and a time fuse, so that the shell will explode either on output of the shell will explode either on a street from the shell will explode either on the shell will explore the shell wil contact or at any desired range. In the head of the shell is about half a pound of powder. Back of these are the missiles that kill. The bullets are arranged in layers, each layer resting in a brittle cast-iron ring. The rings are perforated so that the bullets lie deeply in them. When the explosion comes each of these rings is burst into a number of jugged fragments that make awful wounds. Each shell holds 150 bullets, and it is expected the rings will burst into 150 bits—300 missiles in all, leaving out the scraps of the shell litself." HE IS HOPEFUL.

Debs Denies Defeat for Strikers-Future Plans Outlined.

CHICAGO, July 17. - The executive committee of the A. R. U. held a long session at the Revere house Monday At its conclusion President Debs said that he would not concede that the strike was lost at Chicago, and that it would be carried on with renewed vigor at points west of the Mississippi river. The committee had decided to place a number of battery F, Second United States artil- organizers in the field in order to carry on this work. The committee decided that henceforth the plans of the union would not be made public, and it was said that the first intimation the public would have of what the officers of the organization intended to do would be the accomplishment of the proposed plan. President Debs did not predict any new tie-ups for Chicago, but he said the various roads over several acres of ground. One man are moving very little freight. He said that the reports which had been received by the committee indicate that nearly all of the men who had gone out in the first place are still out. A dispatch from West Superior, Wis., announced that the terminal men at that point had gone out and another from La Salle, Ill., said that the Rock Island was again tied up at that point.

It appears from preparations that it is the intention of the strike committee to transfer the seat of operations to the territory west of the Mississippi river, and it was said that with the western country tied up the union would yet be able to bring a number of the leading roads into line. Reports were received from Kansas that members of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers were taking the places of the members of the American Railway union who had gone on strike. This report did not dishearten the strikers in the least, for they said it was nothing more than they had expected.

In the course of some remarks, in which he told his hearers that there was no intention of the officers of the American Railway union to declare the strike off and severely criticised the action of the American Federation of Labor, Vice President Howard said that there was a movement on foot to establish another organization among the working people which should be known as the American Labor union. The new organization was to include every man who had worked for a living, and it would have for its purpose the wiping out of the differences which have in the past existed between the great central bodies and which have kept them from acting in unison on any question, even though it might be of the utmost importance to the men represented by the national bodies.

After the meeting Mr. Howard said the new organization had already been given a start, a local union having been formed Sunday in the stock-yards district. It was composed of men who objected to joining the Knights of Labor and whom the American Federation had failed to organize. Mr. Howard said that as he understood it the American Labor union would occupy the gap between the American federation and the Knights of Labor and would take in all who work for a living on an equal footing. In its general workings it would pattern after the American Railway union. Among local labor men the formation of a new with much encouragement, and they say that while they will do nothing to retard its progress they will in no way aid in the movement.

There is peace once more in the ranks of the local labor organizations. Monday nearly all of the members of organizations which went on strike last week in sympathy with the American Railway union returned to their work, and it was said that soon all would be in their places. The Chicago trade unions have come to the conclusion that they can be of more practical benefit to the American Railway union by remaining at their work and providing the railroad organization with funds with which to continue the fight against the railroads.

According to railway managers and superintendents all through passenger and suburban trains left and arrived on schedule time Monday and the freight situation was greatly improved. None of the officials would say that the freight business was at all crippled and some of them asserted that they were moving more freight trains and doing a greater transfer business than at any other time during the

The Pullman strikers were given the opportunity Monday night to go back to work. No conditions were attached. They declined to accept the invitation. Col. Turner and Dr. H. W. Thomas acted as peacemakers. During the day placards were stuck up around town calling for a mass meeting at 8 o'clock in the New Market hall. More than 1,000 men and women attended. To the advice of Col. Turner and Dr. Thomas to return to work a unanimous shout of 'Never" was returned, and the object of the meeting proved fruitless. During the day negotiations looking to the opening of the works and the reemployment of the old men were conducted between Messrs. Turner and Thomas and Vice President Wickes. The latter agreed that if the men stated their willingness and desire to return to work the company would consider the proposition.

TALMAGE'S SERMON.

The Laughter of Sunshine and the Laughter of Midnight.

The Laugh of Skepticism, the Laugh of Spiritual Exultation, the Laugh of Sinful Merriment and Heaven's Laugh of Triumph.

Rev. Dr. Talmage, who is now in Australia, selected the following sermon for publication this week. Its subject is "Laughter," the text being: Then was our mouth filled with laughter.-Psalm exxvi., 2.

Thirty-eight times does the Bible make reference to this configuration of the features and quick expulsion of breath which we call laughter. Sometimes it is born of the sunshine, and sometimes the midnight. Sometimes it stirs the sympathies of angels, and sometimes the cachinnation of devils. All healthy people laugh. Whether it pleases the Lord or displeases Him, that depends upon when we laugh and at what we laugh. My theme to-day is the laughter of the Bible, namely: Sarah's laugh, or that of skepticism; David's laugh, or that of spiritual exultation; the fool's laugh, or that of sinful merriment; God's laugh, or that of infinite condemnation; lleaven's laugh, or that of eternal triumph. Scene: An oriental tent; the occupants, old Abraham and Sarah, perhaps wrinkled and decrepit. Their three guests are three angels-the Lord Almighty one of them. In return for the hospitality shown by the old people, God promises Sarah that she shall become the ancestress of the Lord Jesus Christ. Sarah laughs in the face of God; she does not believe it. She is affrighted at what she has done. She denies it. She says: "I didn't Then God retorted with an emphasis that silenced all disputation: "But thou didst laugh." My friends, the laugh of skepticism in all ages is only the echo of Sarah's laughter. God says He will accomplish a thing, and men say it can not be done. A great multitude laugh at the miracles. They say they are contrary to the laws of nature. What is a law of nature? is God's way of doing a thing. You ordinarily cross a river at one ferry. To-morrow you change for one day, and you go across another ferry. You made the rule. Have you not the right to change it? You ordinarily come in at that door of the church. Suppose that next Sabbath you should come in at the other door? It is a habit you have. Have you not a right to change your habit? A law of nature is God's habit-His way of doing things. If He makes the law, has He not a right to change it at any time He wants to change it? Alas! for the folly of those who laugh at God when He says: "I will do a thing," they responding: "You can't do it." God says that the Bible is true-it is all true. Bishop Colenso laughs; Herbert Spencer laughs; Stuart Mill laughs; great German universities laugh; Harvard laughs-softly! A great many of the learned institutions, with long rows of professers seated on the fence between Christianity and infidelity, laugh softly. They say: "We didn't laugh." That was Sarah's trick. God thunders from the heavens: "But thou didst laugh." The Garden of Eden was only a fable. There never was an ark built; or, if it was built, it was too small to have two of every kind. The pillar of of fire was only the northern light; the teth in the Heavens shall laugh.' ten plagues of Egypt only a brilliant specimen of jugglery. The sea parted because the wind blew violently a great while from one direction. The sun and moon did not put themselves out of the way for Joshua. Jacob's ladder was only horizontal and picturesque clouds. The destroying angel smitting the first born in Egypt was only cholera infatum become epidemic. The gullet of the whale, by positive measurement, too small to swallow a prophet. The story of the immaculate conpositive ception a shock of all decency. The lame, the dumb, the blind, the halt, cured by mere human surgery. The resurrection of Christ's friend only a beautiful tableaux, Christ and Lazarus and Mary and Martha acting their parts well. My friends, there is not a doctrine or statement of God's holy word that has not been derided by the skepticism of the day. I take up the book of King James' translation. I consider it a perfect Bible; but here are skeptics who want it tore to pieces. And now, with this Bible in my hand, let me tear out all those portions which the skepticism of the day demands shall be torn out. What shall go first? "Well," says some one in the audience, "take out all that about the creation, and about the first settlement of the world." Away goes it was a sudden turn in Eric railway Genesis. "Now," says someone, "take stock, or in Western Union, or in Illinois out all that about the miraculous Central; some said on thing and some out all that about the miracinous guidance of the children of Israel in another. They all guessed wrong. I will tell you what it was: "He in the wilderness." Away goes Exodus. "Now," says someone else in the audience, "there are things in the audience, "there are things in Deuteronomy and Kings that are not fit to be read." Away go Deuteronomy and the Kings. "Now," says someone, "the Book of Joh is a fable that the same audience, "the book of Joh is a fable that the same audience, "the heavens laughed." A man in New York said he would be the richest man in the city. He left his honest work as a mechanic, and got interest. the Book of Job is a fable that ought to come out." Away goes the Book of Job. "Now," says someone, "those passages in the New Testament which imply the divinity of Jesus Christ ought to come out." Away go the Evangelists. "Now," says some one, "the Book of Revelation-how preposterous! It represents a man with the moon under his feet and a sharp sword

Revelation. Now there are a few pieces left. What shall we do with them? "Oh," says some man in the audience, "I don't believe a word in the Bible, from one end to the other." Well, it is all gone. Now you have put out the last light for the nations. Now it is the pitch darkness of eternal midnight. How do you like it?

The next laughter mentioned in the Bible is David's laughter, or the expression of spirtual exultation, "Then was our mouth filled with laughter." He got very much down sometimes; but there are other chapters where for four or five times he calls upon the people to praise and exult. It was not a mere twitch of the lips; it was a demonstration that took hold of the whole physical nature. "Then was our mouth filled with laughter." My friends, this world will never be converted to God until Christians cry less, and laugh and sing more. The horrors are a poor bait. If people are to be persuaded to adopt our holy religion, it will be because they have made up their mind it is a happy religion. They don't like a morbid Christianity. I know there are moral people who enjoy a funeral. They come early to see the friends take leave of the corpse; and they steal a ride to the cemetery; but all healthy people enjoy a wedding better than they do a burial. Now, you take the religion of Christ sepulchral and hearselike, and you make it repulsive. I say, plant the rose of Sharon along the church walks, and columbine to clamber over the church wall: and have a smile on your lip, and have the mouth filled with holy laughter. There is no man in the world, except the Christian, that has the right to feel an untrammeled glee.

The next laughter mentioned in the Bible that I shall speak of is the fool's laughter, or the expression of sinful merriment. Solomon was very quick at simile; when he makes a comparison we all catch it. What is laughter of a fool like? He says: "It is the crackling of thorns under a pot." The kettle is swung, a bunch of brambles is put under it, and the torch is applied to it, and there is a great noise, and a big blaze, and a sputter and a quick extinguishment. Then it is darker than it was before. Fool's laughter. The most miserable thing on earth is a bad man's fun. There they are-ten men in a bar room; they have at home wives, mothers, daughters. The impure jest starts at one corner of the bar room, and crackle, crackle, crackle, it goes all around. In five hundred such guffaws there is not one item of happiness. They all feel bemeaned, if they have any conscience left. Have nothing to do with men or women who tell immoral stories. I have no confidence either in their Christian character or their morality. So, all merriment that spring up out of the defects of others-caricature of a lame foot, or a curved spine, or a blind eye, or a deaf ear-will be met with the judgment of God, either upon you, or upon your children. Twenty years ago I knew a man who was particularly skillful in imitating the lameness of a neighbor. Not long ago, the son of the skillful mimic had his leg amputated for the very defect which his father had mimicked years before. I do not say it was a judgment of God; I leave you to make your own inference.

The next laughter that I shall mention as being in the Bible, is the laugh God's condemnation; 'He that sit-Again: "The Lord will laugh at him." Again: "I will laugh at his calamity." With such demonstration will God meet every kind of great sin and wickedness. But men build up villanies higher and higher. Good men almost pity God, because He is so schemed against by men. Suddenly a pin drops out of the machinery of wickedness, or a secret is revealed, and the foundation begins to rock; finally, the whole thing is demolished. What is the matter? I will tell you what the matter is: That crash of ruin is only the reverberation of God's laughter. In the money market there are a great many good men, and a great many fraudulent men. A fraudulent man there says: "I mean to have my millions." He goes to work reckless of honesty, and he gets his first one hundred thousand dollars. He gets after awhile his two hundred thousand dollars. After awhile he gets his five hundred thousand dollars. "Now," he says, "I have only one more move to make, and I shall have my million." He gathers up all his resources; he makes that one last grand move, he falls and loses all, and he has not enough money of his own left to pay the cost of the car to his home. People can not understand this spasmodio revulsion. Some said it was a sudden turn in Eric railway will tell you what it was: that sitteth in the hea city councils some way, and in ten years stole $15,000,000 from the city government. Fifteen million dollars! ·He held the legislature of the state of New York in the grip of his right hand. Suspicions were aroused, The grand land stood aghast. The man who exrearrested and brought back, and again remanded to jail. Why? "He that sitteth in the heavens laughed." Rome was a great empire. She had Horace and Virgil among her poets; she had Augustus and Constantine amongst her emperors. But what means the defaced Pantheon, and the Forum turned into a cattle market, and the broken-walled Coliseum, and the architectural skeleton of her great aqueduets? What was that thunder? 'Oh," you say, "that was the roar of the battering-rams against her walls.' No. What was that quiver? "Oh," you say, "that was the tramp of hostile legions." No. The quiver and the roar were the outbursts of Omnipotent laughter from the defied and insulted heavens. Rome defied God, and He laughed her down. Thebes defied God, and He laughed her down. Nineveh defied God, and He laughed her down. Babylon defied God, and He laughed her down. There is a great difference between God's laugh and His smile. His smile is eternal beatitude. He smiled when David sang, and Miriam clapped the cymbals, and Hannah made garments for her son, and Paul preached, and John kindled with apocalytic vision, and when any man has anything to do and does it well. His smile! Why, it is the 15th of May, the apple orchards in full bloom; it is morning breaking on a rippling sea: it is Heaven at high noon, all the bells beating the marriage peal. But His laughter-may it never fall on us! It is a condemnation for our sin; it is a wasting away. We may let the satirist laugh at us, and all our companions may laugh at us, and we may be made the target for the merriment of earth and hell; but God forbid that we should ever come to the fulfillment of the prophecy against the rejectors of the truth: "I will laugh at your calamity." But, my friends, all of us who reject Christ and the pardon of the Gospel must come under that tremendous bombardment. God wants us all to repent. The other laughter mentioned in the Bible, the only one I shall speak of, is Heaven's laughter, or the expression of eternal triumph. Christ said to His disciples: "Blessed are ye that weep now, for ye shall laugh." That makes me know positively that we are not to spend our days in Heaven singing longmeter psalms. The formalistic and stiff notions of Heaven that some people have would make me miserable. I am glad to know that the Heaven of the Bible is not only a place of holy worship, but of magnificent sociality. "What," say you. "will the ringing laugh go around the circles of the saved?" I say, yes; pure laughter, cheering laughter, holy laughter. It will be a laugh of congratulation. When we meet a friend who has suddenly come to a fortune, or who has got over some dire sickness, do you not shake hands, do we not shake hands, do we not laugh with him? And when we get to Heaven and see our friends there, some of them having come up out of of them having control of them; "The last time I saw you you had been suffering for six weeks under a low intermittent fever;" or, to another we will sav: "You for ten years were limping with the rheumatism, and you were full of complaints when we saw you last, I congratulate you on this et We shall laugh. Yes; we shall congratulate all those who have come out of great financial embarrassments in this world, because they have become millionaires in Heaven. laugh. It shall be a laugh of reassocition. It is just as natural for us to laugh when we meet a friend we have not seen for ten years as anything is possible to be natural. Does not your heart beat quickly at the thought of the great jubilee upon which we are soon to enter? I pray God that when we get through with this world and are going out of it, we may have some such vision as the dying Christian had when he saw written all over the clouds in the sky the letter "W;" and they asked him, standing by his side, what he thought that letter "W" meant. "Oh!" he said, "that stands for welcome." And so may it be when we quit this world. "W" on the gate, "W" on the door of the mansion, "W" on the throne. Welcome! Welcome! Welcome! I have preached this sermon with five prayerful wishes: That you might see what a mean thing is the laugh of skepticism, what bright thing is the laugh of spiritual exultation; what a hollow thing is the laugh of sinful merriment, what an awful thing is the laugh of condemnation; what a radiant. rubicund thing is the laugh of eternal triumph. Avoid the ill; choose the right. Be comforted. "Blessed are ye that weep now-ye shall laugh, ye shall
