MILES PROMOTED.

He Succeeds Schofield, Who Retired Upon Reaching Age Limit.

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—Maj. Gen. Nelson A. Miles, at present commanding the department of the Atlantic at Governor's Island, announced officially Sunday night that he would go to Washington as successor to Lieut. Gen. Schofield. The title of "lieutenant general" died a natural death with Gen. Schofield's retirement, and Gen.

LIEUT. GEN. SCHOFIELD.

Miles will be still a major general, though he will command the army of the United States. Gen. Miles was in New York nearly all day. About 6 o'clock he returned to his home and received a reporter. He said:

"It is true that I am to succeed Gen. Schofield at Washington. Secretary Lamont sent for me last Thursday, and on Friday I met him by appointment at the Metropolitan club. We had a long talk, the substance of which I cannot give you. But I dealt with the future policy of the department. I was informed that I had been named to take charge of the army. I was also told that Gen. Ruger, now at Washington revising the tactics, had been named as my successor here. He will probably receive his formal orders when I receive mine—in a day or two. I hate to leave this post. It has been altogether a pleasant place for me and I should have been pleased to stay here, but these are orders and must be obeyed."

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 27.—Eugene N. The announcement of what the defense expected to prove and disprove contained one sensational statement, which dragged the name of Rev. J. G. Gibson, pastor of Emanuel church, into the case and pointed the finger of suspicion at him. Durrant's lawyer said in this connection:

"We shall show you that there are marks on the belfry door. We will show you there was a chisel in a tool box in the pastor's study to correspond with such a chisel as made these marks. We shall show you more. We shall show you those papers with writing on them in the alleged hand of this defendant. We shall show you that those words are in the hand of one man—Rev. John George Gibson's. The prosecution has cast suspicion upon one man. There are others open to suspicion."

THE MOONSHINER'S DREAM.

BY MATT CRIM,

AUTHOR OF THE ADVENTURES OF A FAIR REBEL.

(Copyright, 1894, by Bacheller, Johnson & Bacheller.)

"S'manthy, S'manthy, wake up. Eddy's mighty sick an' I want you to run down to the stiller an' tell Eph."

Samantha rubbed her sleepy eyes open, staring up at her sister-in-law quite vacantly for a moment. "What'd you say, Lizzy?"

"Eddy's sick, an' I can't leave him. He has a high fever, an' is callin' for his pa. Run, S'manthy, quick as you can. Here's your clothes, an' wrap my shawl round you."

Samantha sat up on the side of the bed still half dazed, but reaching mechanically for her dress. She occupied a little shed room opening out of the main room of the cabin, and the cold wind crept up through the cracks in the bare board floor.

"I wants my pa, where's my pa?" fretted a child's voice.

"There, there, honey, he'll come in a minute," soothed his mother. Samantha was about in an instant, the last vapor of sleep blown away by the breath of that childish trouble. Her teeth chattered a little as she dressed, groping around with no other light to aid her than the one shining through the doorway from the fireplace in the outer room.

"Put on another light 'ood knot, Lizzy," she called.

"Why don't you come out here where it's warmer?" was Lizzy's reply, but she thrust the rich pine under the logs and stirred up a brilliant blaze. She was a tall, sallow-faced young woman, with stooping shoulders and melancholy eyes, a direct contrast to her sister-in-law, who was short and rosy and laughter-loving.

"Now don't you be pestered, Lizzy. Eddy ain't goin' to be bad sick, I know," said Samantha, hopefully, as she came out of her little room flinging a shawl over her head. "He's just a little crampy an' feverish. He always is when he takes cold. Eph'll come right up, and then Eddy'll be all right. Won't you, honey?" glancing over her shoulder to the bed.

The little boy turned restlessly on his pillow, moaning softly.

"I tell you, S'manthy, he ain't tuk like he usually is," whispered Lizzy. "It 'pears to me erther have a doctor right now. I know I'm always scared

The trickling murmur of a little stream came up from the depths of the hollow, now and then a bird scared from its roost flew through the naked branches of the trees, or some small four-footed beast ran across the pathway. Of these sights or sounds Samantha had no fear. It was not the first time she had been to the distillery after nightfall. But her ears were keen to distinguish sound, and the element of danger always lurking in the air for the moonshiner and all those connected with him had sharpened Samantha's wits beyond the ordinary. Still, she did not fear danger that night until she came to a turn in the path where it shelved down very rapidly toward the bottom of the ravine, and found herself, without warning, within a few feet of a group of men. They were standing as motionless and noiseless as the trees, and after drawing one sharp breath of surprise and tremor, she also came to a standstill, trying to shield herself behind a shrub of laurel. The moon was hidden by the clouds, and she couldn't tell whether they were friends or foes, but instinct warned her that they were the dreaded revenue officers. The distillery was not fifty yards away, hidden in the depths of that hollow, and she could easily picture the careless security of her brother and her lover, Al Bishop, for they were partners. Her lips felt parched. The cold seemed to strike suddenly to her heart. For an instant she felt blind and dizzy with the thought of their being entrapped and taken. She clutched at a bush, loosening a shower of icicles. They fell to the ground with a loud, clinking sound.

"I heard something," muttered a cautious voice.

"Hush, it was only the ice falling," said another.

And then to the girl's straining ears came the soft punch, punch of footsteps behind her. She turned her head and saw a man looming up almost directly over her. She dared not move or breathe scarcely for fear of discovery.

"Straight ahead," whispered the newcomer to his comrades.

"You are sure?"

"Yes, I know it," impatiently. The group broke into single file, moving down the pathway like black shadows. Samantha lost all sense of her own danger in the desperate desire to warn those below. She leaped to her feet, giving utterance to a wild and piercing cry. It splintered the silence shots and trampling feet. Some one ran through the laurel thicket on the opposite side of the stream, an officer in swift pursuit. But he wasted both his strength and his ammunition, for he returned empty handed. She could hear his hoarse breathing, and now and then a profane exclamation, as he picked his way through the underbrush.

Then gradually the fury of conflict and of destruction died out, and silence reigned again—the silence of midnight. Samantha had lost all account of time, for she couldn't tell whether she had fainted or had slept. When she came fully and clearly to herself again the stillness of death seemed to prevail around her. Only the little stream rippled on softly, musically, undisturbed by human conflicts. Samantha found herself lying across some laurel boughs directly over it, and through the tree tops towering above she saw a patch of sky. It widened while she gazed; the clouds grew silvery, and then the moon appeared, sending a clear beam right down into her eyes. Her sluggish thoughts were quickened; she remembered her errand with a groan. But when she tried to move, to sit up, her numb limbs refused to obey her; she felt as though pinned to the earth.

"I mus' be plum' freeze'd, or I'm paralyzed, one or t'other. Did they git Eph an' Al? What will Lizzy do?"

Before she knew it tears were filling her eyes, trickling over her face. "Lal! What am I cryin' like a baby for? If I've got to die, the Almighty'll take keer of me. I done what I could to save 'em."

She tried to wipe away the tears, but her stiffened arm refused to be moved. It lay like a leaden weight across her chest. It was no use. She might as well give up. The drowsy numbness seemed to be creeping up even to her heart. Only her brain was still active, preternaturally active. All her life from childhood on crowded upon her thoughts. She and Al were to have been married in this spring. Poor Al how sorry he would feel. And Lizzy, and Eph and Eddy. She was again moved to tears, though scarcely conscious of them.

It seemed a long time that she lay thinking, thinking, then her thoughts became only dreams. She lay snug and warm in her own bed, with a stream of water flowing through the room, and a bird singing upon her rafter. What a shrill and piercing note. The voice of the running water was ten times sweeter, softer. Suddenly she was wide awake again, and listening intently.

The shrill bird-like whistle sounded very near. It thrilled her with reviving hope; she uttered a little cry of relief and joy. A man crashed through the underbrush at the opposite of the stream and leaped over very close to her.

"S'manthy, oh, S'manthy!"

"I'm here, Al; I'm right close."

The moon came out again, revealing her hiding place. Al bent over her and gathered her into his arms.

"Honey, I loved I'd never find you. I've been huntin' an' huntin'. What's the matter?"

"I fell down the bluff an'—"

"You're freezin' to death."

"Yes; I s'pose so, an' I feel all broke to pieces."

"I knowed it was your voice the minute I heard you scream, an' we all knowed what it meant, too."

"Eph—where is Eph?"

"They tuk him, S'manthy."

She gasped with horror.

"Tuk Eph! Oh, oh!"

"I been up to the house an' found Lizzy mighty nigh distracted. She's takin' it hard, an' Eddy bein' sick, too, I had to come an' hunt for you, an' I think I'm just here in time!"

All the time he had been talking he was busy rubbing his face and hands, and now he lifted her first into a sitting position and then to her feet. But he had to carry her in his arms.

A SINGULAR PHENOMENON.

Queer Sounds Issuing from Underground on the Shores of the Red Sea.

A singular phenomenon occurs on the borders of the Red sea at a place called Nakous, where the intermittent underground sounds have been heard for an unknown number of centuries. It is situated at about half a mile's distance from the shore, whence a long reach of sand ascends rapidly to a height of almost three hundred feet. This reach is eighty feet wide and resembles an amphitheater, being railed in by low rocks. The sounds coming up from the ground at this place occur at intervals of about an hour. They at first resemble a low murmur, but before long there is heard a loud knocking, somewhat like the strokes of a bell, and which, at the end of five minutes, become so strong as to agitate the sand. The explanation of this curious phenomenon given by the Arabs is that there is a convent under the ground, and these are the sounds of the bell which the monks ring for prayers. So they call it Nakous, which means a bell. The Arabs affirm that the noise so frightens their camels when they hear it as to render them furious. Scientists attribute the sounds to suppressed volcanic action—probably to the bubbling of gas or vapors underground.

TO AID CUBA.

Great Mass-Meetings in Chicago Sympathize with Insurgents.

CHICAGO, Oct. 1.—Surrounded by patriotic mottoes, with the American flag as a background, the declaration of independence as a text book and the spirit of liberty as an inspiration, 4,000 persons yelled themselves hoarse Monday night in the cause of Cuban independence. There could scarcely have been more enthusiasm had the meeting been held in Cuba itself. Central music hall was not big enough to hold all the sympathizers and there was an overflow meeting in the auditorium of the Young Men's Christian Association building. At both meetings the same resolutions were adopted and speeches were made by men prominent in civil affairs, all of whom uncompromisingly favored the freedom of the little island from the thralldom of Spain.

The resolutions express sympathy for the revolutionists; call on the United States to recognize them as belligerents, and ask other countries to join in making this demand. They begin with the best known paragraph in the declaration of independence and end with a determination to continue the work begun at Monday night's two big assemblages.

Nearly every prominent club and organization in the city was represented on the list of vice presidents, which included also the best known business and professional men. Among the associations represented were the Loyola Legion, G. A. R., Confederate association, Sons of the Revolution and State Federation of Labor, Irish-American, Scandinavian, German and Afro-American societies.

Mayor Swift presided at the meeting at Central music hall. In opening the proceedings he made no speech, but took occasion to express himself as in full accord with the movement.

The first speaker, Rev. Dr. Gunsaulus said he was a Spaniard, but he could not be true to his own country in the face of its action toward the oppressed. The dawn of Cuba's redemption was already breaking. All hail a righteous revolution. A reference made by Dr. Gunsaulus to the inactivity of the administration met with cheers and uproarious applause, and the temper of the audience was evident before ten sentences had been completed.

Dr. Gunsaulus was followed by Hon. Thomas B. Bryan, Judge William J. Hynes, ex-Congressman William E. Mason, Bishop Fallows, and Rev. Dr. Henson. The resolutions, an outline of which is given above, were read by Rev. Dr. Barrows. The resolutions were adopted amid tremendous enthusiasm, and the meeting closed with the singing of "America" by the audience.

The meeting at Association hall was no less enthusiastic or crowded. Judge William A. Vincent made a few remarks as presiding officer, saying he was a believer in the independence of Cuba, but did not wish to see a violation of international law. The audience was deeply interested and any good point made was taken up at once.

The speakers at this meeting were Rev. P. S. Henson, ex-Corporation Counsel John Mayo Palmer, Hon. W. J. Hynes and Hon. W. E. Mason. The resolutions were read by Rev. Dr. Thomas, and were adopted with loud cheering.

The audience applauded every sentiment expressed by the speakers suggesting the recognition of the Cuban's as belligerents. Two of the speakers defied the law of nations and Mr. Mason wanted an immediate repeal of that law which, he said, was only intended to prevent one nation from interfering while another nation was committing depredations of some kind against another nation. The sentiment for the annexation of Cuba was not strong. Three speakers wanted the inhabitants of the island to determine their own course by popular vote after independence was gained.

CRUSHED BY ROCK.

Six Men Killed in a Quarry Near Independence, Mo.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 1.—A special to the World from Independence, Mo., says: Six men were killed Sunday afternoon by a premature explosion in a rock quarry near that place. The dead are:

- Miles McTiernan, contractor.
- Thomas Ferguson, 14-year-old son of John Ferguson, a farmer.
- Dan Rogers.
- Pat Welsh.
- Charles Truett.
- Unknown Italian.

All the dead except the boy are of Kansas City. In addition to these John Ferguson, father of the boy killed, Joe Fleming and an unknown Italian were seriously injured by flying rocks, but it is thought that all of these will recover.

Two blasts were set just before quitting Sunday night, one on top of a large ledge of rocks, the other much higher and further up the side of the hill. They were to be touched off with wires from an electric battery. The men took refuge under the ledge of rocks, immediately beneath the first blast, intending to touch off the one higher up. By a mistake the blast over the ledge was fired first. The explosion tore loose the whole ledge of rock and the immense mass fell forward upon the men. All the bodies were recovered during the night except those of McTiernan and Truett, which are still beneath the mass.

CHINA YIELDS.

Viceroy Liu Degraded in Obedience to Great Britain's Demand.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—Minister Denby cabled the state department from Peking Monday as follows: "Imperial decree issued. Abstract—responsibility for Sze-Chuen riots rests with officials. Viceroy Liu careless; took no notice of the beginning of the riots. He is deprived of office, never to be reemployed. Other officials to be punished."

This would seem to indicate that the crisis impending in China, involving a naval demonstration by the British forces, has been averted for a time at least by a compliance with the principal demand of the British. It cannot be learned whether the decree concedes all of the demands made, and the cablegram makes no reference to the sweeping conditions imposed by the British minister that the guilty officials be punished by suspension for three years on all promotions and appointments in the civil service in the province of Sze-Chuen.

Viceroy Liu, whose fall is announced, has been in trouble before. It is understood that he was found guilty last November of misappropriation of funds, and later on, because the French investigations showed that he was responsible for the Cheng-Tu riots, he was obliged to pay an indemnity of $90,000 to the French Catholic missions from his own pocket.

The present conclusion, which has been brought about apparently by British threats, will not involve the abandonment of the independent investigation into the Cheng-Tu riots which has been ordered by Secretary Olney. There has been ordered a change in the personnel of the commission, and Commander Barber, the naval attaché who has fallen ill, has been relieved from duty as a commissioner by Lieutenant Commander John P. Merrill, executive officer of the United States steamship Baltimore.

LONDON, Oct. 1.—A dispatch from Peking was received at the foreign office Monday afternoon confirming the statement that China had acted favorably on the demands of the marquis of Salisbury for the punishment of the viceroy of Sze-Chuen, who Sir Nicholas O'Connor, British minister at Peking, reported was responsible for the outrages beginning in May at the mission stations in Cheng-Tu, the capital of Sze-Chuen.

The dispatch received at the foreign office says that the Chinese official gazette has published an imperial edict announcing that the viceroy of Sze-Chuen has been stripped of his rank for failing to protect the missionaries and will never again be allowed to hold office, so that his case will serve as a warning for all future time to officials who may be disposed to do wrong. The decree also denounces the subordinate officials of the province who failed to take proper action for the protection of the missionaries.

The Pall Mall Gazette says that the Tsung-Li-Yamen (the board controlling Chinese foreign affairs) formally communicated its decision to the British minister, who expressed himself as satisfied with the terms of the edict. "It is now probable," also says the Pall Mall Gazette, "that the British vessels which had entered the Yang-Tse-Kiang river for the purpose of enforcing the demands of Great Britain will forthwith descend the river and resume their former stations."

LONDON, Oct. 1.—The Times prints a dispatch from its Berlin correspondent saying that China has informed Germany that the leaders of the attack on the German mission at Swatow have been arrested and that measures will be taken to capture the others implicated in the outrages.

GEN. MAHONE STRICKEN.

Famous Ex-Senator in a Critical State from Paralysis.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—Ex-Senator William Mahone had a slight stroke of paralysis Monday morning. The right arm is useless and the tongue is paralyzed so that speech is impossible.

Dr. Phillip S. Wales, one of the attending physicians of Gen. Mahone, stated that the general's condition was critical owing to the severity of the attack and his advanced age. The paralysis has spread to the right leg. Dr. Wales said that the vomiting and effusion in the head, which have set in, were bad signs, and it would not be surprising if Gen. Mahone died in a few hours. Still, there was a chance of an improvement in his condition. Mrs. Mahone, who is at her home in Virginia, has been telegraphed for.

SEPTEMBER'S SURPLUS.

Treasury Receipts Nearly $3,000,000 in Excess of Expenditures.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—The treasury statement of receipts and expenditures to be issued Tuesday will show a surplus for the month of September of nearly $3,000,000. In round figures the receipts were $27,500,000, and expenditures, $24,500,000. As compared with last September the receipts were nearly $5,000,000 greater, and expenditures, $4,500,000 less. Receipts from customs were slightly less than those of last September and from internal revenue they were nearly double. The greatest saving in expenditures was in the civil and miscellaneous account, which was less by nearly $3,000,000 than that of last September.

THE MOONSHINER'S HOME.

plum to death nearly when anything gets the matter with Eddy; but you'd be, too, if he was the only one you had." She turned away, wiping her eyes on her dress sleeve.

"I ain't blamin' you, Lizzy."

She went to the bed and bent over the sleeping child for an instant, listening to his breathing and laying a light finger on his pulse. The doctor lived five miles away down in the town, so it behooved the people of the mountains to know something about sickness and to exercise judgment. Samantha stepped out into the icy stillness of the night, with a feeling of anxiety tugging at her own heart. She debated whether it would not be wiser to saddle the mule and ride down to the distillery, as Eph could then go direct to the doctor; but she decided to let her brother see the child himself first.

"We air all plum fools bout Eddy, an' I reckon git skeered at mighty nigh nothin'. I'll let Eph judge for hisself." She stepped out briskly and fearlessly, gathering the shawl closely about her head and shoulders, for the night was bitter cold with a light powdering of snow upon the ground. Icicles snapped noisily under her feet, her breath made a frosty cloud about her face. The wind had risen, for high above that frozen silence of the earth the ragged clouds flew stormily. Now and then the moon shone down through a rent, illuminating mountain peak and ravine with its cold white light, but only momentarily.

The little cabin was perched away up on the side of Brandreth's peak in a sheltering cove, and Samantha's way led her across the clearing where the naked corn stalks of last year's crop yet stood in blackened rows, and half down a ravine half choked with laurel. Half way down the side of the declivity a well defined path had been beaten out, and to this the girl kept, treading carefully along its slippery surface for fear of falling.

SHE WENT CRASHING THROUGH THE BUSHES.

WELL DeKalb did herself proud. The biggest crowd that northern Illinois has seen together, outside of Chicago, was there. It was a vast assemblage and a well satisfied one. It was a day of unusual interest and neither too hot nor too cold, in fact an ideal picnic day. All roads certainly led to DeKalb on Tuesday.

The Darlington, Wis. Journal says editorially of a popular patent medicine: We know from experience that Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is all that is claimed for it, as on two occasions it stopped excruciating pains and possibly saved us from an untimely grave. We would not rest easy over night without it in the house." This remedy undoubtedly saves more pain and suffering than any other medicine in the world. Every family should keep it in the house, for it is sure to be needed sooner or later. For sale by F T Robinson, Genoa and H R Fuller, Kingston.

Lincoln's Good Breeding.

The writer remembers very well to have heard a very fastidious lady, a member of the Speed household, say, that though at that time Lincoln had none of that polish and gracefulness to be expected from those acquainted with the usages of society, he was one of Nature's gentlemen because of his kindness of heart and innate refinement. And after saying this she recalled an instance of real good manners on his part. At dinner there was a saddle of mutton. The servant after handing the mutton passed a glass of jelly. Mr Lincoln took the glass and ate the jelly from it. The servant got another glass and passed it around. Mr. Lincoln noticed that the others at the table merely took a spoonful. Without embarrassment or apology he quietly smiled and remarked, "I seem to have taken more than my share," and then he went on with his dinner. Most people, this lady thought, after committing such a solecism would have been covered with confusion and profuse in apologies.—JOHN GILMER SPEED in October Ladies' Home Journal.

Doesn't Care About Bloomers.

If women want to wear bloomers when riding a bicycle I don't believe there is much use in objecting. They will do it anyway, so there is no special need of saying anything for or against the costume. I do not believe, moreover, that it is a matter of much importance whether they do or not. It is a question of personal opinion, and the woman is the same whether in skirts or in trousers. Of course we like to see women attractive in appearance, but if they will wear bloomers we must bow to their will. It is really no concern of ours after all; women have a right, within the bounds of reason, to dress as they please, and personally I don't care what they wear on the wheel.—JOSEPH B. FORAKER, ex-governor of Ohio, in Demorest's Magazine for October.

The mountain lies about eight miles northwest from Mammoth Hot Springs, and the Northern boundary of the park runs across it. Send six cents to Chas S. Marvelous Results.

From a letter written by Rev. J. Gundersman, of Diamonddale, Mich., we are permitted to make this extract: "I have no hesitation in recommending Dr. King's New Discovery, as the results were almost marvelous in the case of my wife. While I was pastor of the baptist church at Rives Junction she was brought down with pneumonia succeeding la grippe. Terrible paroxysms of coughing would last hours with little interruption and it seemed as if she could not survive them. A friend recommended Dr. King's New Discovery; it was quick in its work and highly satisfactory in results." Trial bottles free at F T Robinson's, Genoa and L C Shaffer's, Kingston. Yellowstone Park Geysers.

Advises just received at the Northern Pacific offices from W. P. Howe, in charge of the lunch station at the Upper Geyser Basin, state that the geysers are playing better than ever. They are much finer than last year. The giant one of the finest in the park, plays to an height of about 250 feet. Last year its eruptions took place once in about five days and continued for 90 minutes. This year it is playing more frequently. Mr. Howe is regularly noting the temperature of the Giantess another of the large geysers. It is also playing frequently and its temperature at time of playing ranges from 188 to 198 Fahrenheit. For six cents sent to Chas S. Fee, General Passenger Agent Northern Pacific Railroad, St. Paul, Minn. you will receive a fine tourist book that contains a chapter on the park,

Schiller Theatre.

Coming to the Schiller Theatre after its long runs in Boston and N. Y. City that celebrated Egyptian comic opera success "The Sphinx" was eagerly welcomed by Chicago play-goers on Sunday evening. Seldom has so large and fine an audience occupied this handsomest of western play houses. The setting of Manager Harry Askin's latest contribution to the stage is truly described gorgeous. The costumes are rich and graceful, and the chorus of fifty, composed of unusually fresh voices and handsome figures. As for the music, it is aptly described as being more tuneful than the pinafore. It is the kind of music that sets people to whistling as they leave the theatre after the performance. The book is clever, several of the lyrics being exceptionally witty. The plot represents the chief comedian, Edwin Stevens, a college professor touring Egypt on a bicycle, where he falls in love with Hathor the spirit of the Sphinx. Marie Millard the handsome prima donna of the company was an ideal personification of this poetic idea, and her singing was nothing short of delicious. "The Sphinx" will remain three weeks at the Schiller.

"Matron of a Benevolent Home and knowing the good Dr. Miles' Nervine has done me, my wish to help others, overcomes my dislike for the publicity, this letter may give me. In Nov. and Dec., 1893, The inmates had the 'La Grippe,' and I was one of the first. Resuming duty too soon, with the care of so many sick, I did not regain my health, and in a month I became so debilitated and nervous from sleeplessness and the drafts made on my vitality, that it was a question if I could go on. A dear friend advised me to try Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine. I took 2 bottles and am happy to say, I am in better health than ever. I still continue its occasional use, as a nerve food, as my work is very trying. A letter addressed to Milwaukee, Wis., will reach me." June 6, 1894. Mrs. LAURA C. PHOENIX.

BIG PROFITS ON SMALL INVESTMENTS.

Returning prosperity will make many rich, but nowhere can they make so much within a short time as by successful speculation in grain, provisions and stock.

10.00 FOR EACH DOLLAR INVESTED Can be made by our SYSTEMATIC PLAN OF SPECULATION.

Originated by us. All successful speculators operate on a regular system. It is a well known fact that there are thousands of men in all parts of the United States, who by systematic trading through Chicago brokers, make large amounts every year, ranging from a few thousand dollars for the man who invests a hundred or two hundred dollars up to $50,000 to $100,000 or more by those who invest a few thousand.

It is also a fact that those who make the largest from comparatively small investments on this plan are persons who live away from Chicago and invest through brokers who thoroughly understand systematic trading.

Our plan does not risk the whole amount invested on any trade, but covers both sides, so that whether the market rises or falls it brings a steady profit that piles up enormously in a short time. WRITE FOR CONVINCING PROOFS, also our Manual on successful speculation and our daily Market Report, full of money-making pointers. ALL FREE. Our manual explains margin trading fully. DeKalb's Big Day.

Outside of the city of Chicago, there never has been such a splendid celebration in Northern Illinois as occurred in DeKalb Tuesday when the corner stone of the new normal school was laid.

Early in the morning teams began going into DeKalb and the roads in all directions were dotted with them bearing expectant thousands to DeKalb County's chief city. Heavily laden trains brought in the bigger part of the big crowd and by two o'clock fully thirty thousand strangers were within her gates, and up to a late hour everything possible was done for their entertainment. From the general expressions heard on every hand the day was heartily enjoyed by all. Many and flattering were the comments made on DeKalb's "entertaining proclivities" and "push."

Lack of time and space prohibits a detailed mention of the days doings but suffice it to say that it has never been equalled in a city of DeKalb's size. DeKalb county rejoices with her bustling member and she is deserving of all the praise to which she is fully entitled in the observance of the day.

Newly Organized.

The Genoa Concert Band has been newly organized with the following officers:
President,.....Geo. E. Sisley.
Vice President,.....H. Shattuck.
Secretary and Mng'r,.....H. M. Goldman.
Treasurer,.....E. Sisson.
Leader,.....Kessinger.

At present the band consists of sixteen members, but at the meeting to-night it will be increased to twenty. The members are going into the matter with a determination to give us a band worthy of the name. We have had good bands here before but interest has died out and the band was allowed to die out. But in the new band it is hoped this will be averted. An entertainment will be given next Thursday evening which will be well worth your attendance. An unusually interesting program has been arranged. Don't forget the date.

Our people will generally regret the departure of Rev. and Mrs. Howard. The former is a thorough worker in church matters and has built up the membership of the church to its present satisfactory standing. The handsome and commodious church edifice is a standing monument to his work. In Mrs. Howard, Genoa loses a most gracious and estimable lady who will leave behind her a host of friends. Her acquaintances are numbered as her friends. The following appointments of the Rock River conference will be of interest to our readers: Genoa, E. J. Rose; Richmond and Hebron, W. C. Howard; Ashton and Franklin, E. W. O'Neal; Light House C. H. Hoffman; Winnebago St., Rockford, F. F. Farmiloe; Kingston, E. K. D. Hester; Kirkland, not supplied; South Elgin and Campton, M. E. Fraser; Hampshire, G. H. Wells; Austin, M. W. Satterfield; Embury, Freeport, W. H. Haight; F. A. Hardin, presiding elder.
Rev. Howard and E. J. Rose change churches.

With two little children subject to croup we do not rest easy without a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in the house, for the most severe attacks quickly succumb to a few doses of it.—Morrison, Colo., Bud. 25 and 50 cents per bottle at F T Robinson's, Genoa and H R Fuller's, Kingston.

The bell for the new Lutheran church came yesterday, and it is a beauty and no mistake. It is one of the best bells ever hung in DeKalb county. The bell alone weighs 1258 pounds and when mounted nearly 1500 pounds. The tone is F sharp.

If your children are subject to croup watch for the first symptom of the disease—hoarseness. If Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is given as soon as the child becomes hoarse it will prevent the attack. Even after the croupy cough has appeared the attack can be prevented by giving this remedy. It is also invaluable for colds and whooping cough. For sale by F T Robinson, Genoa and H R Fuller, Kingston.

Miss M. Hulda Kylian, of DeKalb, a contralto singer of note, will sing at the band entertainment next Thursday evening. She has an exquisite voice and you should not fail to hear her.

For the Semi Centennial Celebration to be held at Milwaukee, Wis. Oct 16th. and 17th., the C. M. & St. P. Ry. will sell excursion tickets to Milwaukee at one fare for the round trip. Tickets on sale Oct. 15th. to 17th. and good to return until Oct. 18th.

On last Saturday evening about sixty of the friends of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Burton gathered at their residence and assisted them in observing their 20th. anniversary. They were also the recipients of another set and a number of articles of china ware. Those who enjoyed the pleasures of the evening were:

GOD'S WAY BEST.

Rev. Dr. Talmage Endeavors to Explain Why.

The Battle of Gideon's Little Army with the Midianites, Near Mount Gilboa, Used by Way of Illustration.

The following discourse by Rev. T. DeWitt Talmage is given out for publication this week. It is based on the text:

And the three companies blew the trumpets, and brake the pitchers, and held the lamps in their left hands, and the trumpets in their right hands to blow withal. And they stood every man in his place round about the camp, and all the host ran, and cried, and fled.—Judges vii., 20-21.

That is the strangest battle ever fought. God had told Gideon to go down and thrash the Midianites, but his army is too large; for the glory must be given to God, and not to man. And so proclamation is made that all those of the troops who are cowardly, and want to go home, may go; and twenty-two thousand of them scampered away, leaving only ten thousand men. But God says the army is too large yet, and so He orders these ten thousand remaining to march down through a stream, and commands Gideon to notice in what manner these men drink of the water as they pass through it. If they get down on all fours and drink, then they are pronounced lazy and incompetent for the campaign; but if, in passing through the stream, they scoop up the water in the palm of their hand and drink, and pass on, they are to be the men selected for the battle. Well, the ten thousand men marched down in the stream, the most of them come down on all-fours, and plunge their mouths, like a horse or an ox, into the water and drink; but there are three hundred men who, instead of stopping, just dip the palm of their hands in the water and bring it to their lips, "lapping it as a dog lappeth." Those three hundred brisk, rapid, enthusiastic men are chosen for the campaign. They are each to take a trumpet in the right hand and a pitcher in the left hand, and a lamp inside the pitcher, and then at a given signal they are to blow the trumpets and throw down the pitchers, and hold up the lamps. So it was done.

It is night. I see a great host of Midianites, sound asleep in the valley of Jezreel. Gideon comes up with his three hundred men, and when everything is ready, the signal is given, and they blow the trumpets, and they throw down the pitchers, and hold up the lamps, and the great host of Midianites, waking out of a sound sleep, take the crash of the crockery and the glare of the lamps for the coming on of an overwhelming foe; and they run, and cut themselves to pieces, and horribly perish.

The lessons of this subject are very spirited and impressive. This seemingly vague lump of quartz has the pure gold in it. The smallest dewdrop on the meadow has a star sleeping in its bosom, and the most insignificant passage of Scripture has in it a shining truth. God's mint coins no small change.

I learn in the first place, from this subject, the lawfulness of Christian stratagem. You know very well that the greatest victories ever gained by Washington or Napoleon were gained through the fact that they came when and in a way they were not expected—sometimes falling back to draw out the foe, sometimes breaking from ambush, sometimes crossing a river on unheard-of rafts; all the time keeping the opposing forces in wonderment as to what would be done next.

You all know what strategy is in military affairs. Now I think it is high time we had this art sanctified and spiritualized. In the church, when we are about to make a Christian assault, we send word to the opposing force when we expect to come, how many troops we have, and how many rounds of shot, and whether we will come with artillery, infantry or cavalry, and of course we are defeated. There are thousands of men who might be surprised into the kingdom of God. We need more tact and ingenuity in Christian work. It is in spiritual affairs as in military, that success depends in attacking that part of the castle which is not armed and entrenched.

For instance, here is a man all armed on the doctrine of election; all his troops of argument and prejudice are at that particular gate. You may batter away at the side of the castle fifty years and you will not take it; but just wheel your troops to the side gate of the heart's affections, and in five minutes you capture him. I never knew a man to be saved through a brilliant argument. You can not hook men into the kingdom of God by the horns of a dilemma. There is no grace in syllogisms. Here is a man armed on the subject of perseverance of the saints; he does not believe in it. Attack him at that point, and he will persevere to the very last in not believing it. Here is a man armed on the subject of baptism; he believes in sprinkling or immersion. All your discussion of ecclesiastical hydrophobia will not change him. I remember, when I was a boy, that with other boys I went into the river on a summer day to bathe, and we used to dash water on each other, but never got any result except that our eyes were blinded; and all this splashing of water between Baptists and Pedo-Baptists never results in anything but the blurring of the spiritual eyesight. In other words, you can never capture a man's soul at the point at which he is especially entrenched. But there is in every man's heart a bolt that can be easily shoved. A little child four years old may touch that bolt, and it will spring back, and the door will swing open, and Christ will come in.

I think that the finest of all the fine arts is the art of doing good, and yet this art is the least cultured. We have in the kingdom of God to-day enough troops to conquer the whole earth for Christ if we only had skillful maneuvering. I would rather have the three hundred lamps and pitchers of Christian stratagem than one hundred thousand drawn swords of literary and ecclesiastical combat.

I learn from this subject, also, that a small part of the army of God will have to do all the hard fighting. Gideon's army was originally composed of thirty-two thousand men, but they went off until there were only ten thousand left, and that was subtracted from until there were only three hundred. It is the same in all ages of the Christian church; a few men have to do the hard fighting. Take a membership of a thousand, and you generally find that fifty people do the work. Take a membership of five hundred, and you generally find that ten people do the work. There are scores of churches where two or three people do the work.

We mourn that there is so much useless lumber in the mountains of Lebanon. I think of the ten million membership of the Christian church to-day, if five millions of the names were off the books the church would be stronger. You know that the more cowards and drones there are in any army the weaker it is. I would rather have the three hundred picked men of Gideon than the thirty-two thousand unsifted host. How many Christians are standing in the way of all progress! I think it is the duty of the church of God to ride over them, and the quicker it does it, the quicker it does its duty.

Do not worry, oh Christian, if you have to do more than your share of the work. You had better thank God that He has called you to be one of the picked men, rather than to belong to the host of stragglers. Would not you rather be one of the three hundred that fight than the twenty-two thousand that run? I suppose those cowardly Gideonites who went off congratulated themselves. They said, "We got rid of all that fighting, did not we? How lucky we have been; that battle costs us nothing at all." But they got none of the spoils of the victory. After the battle the 300 men went down and took the wealth of the Midianites, and out of the cups and platters of their enemies they feasted. And the time will come, my dear brethren, when the hosts of darkness will be routed, and Christ will say to His troops, "Well done, my brave men, go up and take the spoils! Be more than conquerors forever!" and in that day all deserters will be shot!

Again, I learn from this subject that God's way is different from man's, but is always the best way. If we had the planning of that battle, we would have taken those thirty-two thousand men that originally belonged to the army, and we would have drilled them, and marched them up and down by the day and week, and month, and we would have had them equipped with swords or spears, according to the way of arming in those times; and then we would have marched them down in solid column upon the foe. But that is not the way. God depletes the army, and takes away all their weapons, and gives them a lamp, and a pitcher, and a trumpet, and tells them to go down and drive out the Midianites. I suppose some wiseacres were there who said: "That is not military tactics. The idea of three hundred men, unarmed, conquering such a great host of Midianites!" It was the best way. What sword, spear or cannon ever accomplished such a victory as the lamp, pitcher and trumpet?

God's way is different from man's way, but it is always best! Take, for instance, the composition of the Bible. If we had had the writing of the Bible we would have said: "Let one man write it. If you have twenty or thirty men to write a poem or make a statue or write a history, or make an argument, there will be flaws and contradictions." But God says: "Let not one man do it, but forty men shall do it." And they did, differing enough to show there had been no collusion between them, but not contradicting each other on any important point, while they all wrote from their own standpoint and temperament; so that the matter-of-fact man has his Moses; the romantic nature his Ezekiel; the epigrammatic nature his Solomon; the warrior his Joshua; the sailor his Jonah; the loving the John; the logician his Paul. Instead of this Bible, which now I can lift in my hand—instead of the Bible the child can carry to Sunday school—instead of the little Bible the sailor can put in his jacket when he goes to sea—if it had been left to men to write, it would have been a thousand volumes, judging from the amount of ecclesiastical controversy which has arisen. God's way is different from man's, but it is best, infinitely best.

So it is in regard to the Christian life. If we had had the planning of a Christian's life we would have said: "Let him have eighty years of sunshine, a fine house to live in; let his surroundings all be agreeable; let him have sound health; let no chill shiver through his limbs, no pain ache his brow, or trouble shadow his soul." I enjoy the prosperity of others so much. I would let every man have as much money as he wants, and roses for his children's cheeks, and fountains of gladness glancing in their large round eyes. But that is not God's way. It seems as if man must be cut, and hit, and pounded just in proportion as he is useful. His child falls from a third-story window, and has his life dashed out; his most confident investment tumbles him into bankruptcy; his friends, on whom he depended, aid the natural force of gravitation in taking him down; his life is a Bull Run defeat. Instead of thirty-two thousand advantages, he has only ten thousand—aye, only three hundred—aye, none at all. How many good people there are at their wits' end about their livelihood, about their reputation. But they will find out it is the best way after awhile; God will show him that He depletes their advantages just for the same reason He depleted the army of Gideon—that they may be induced to throw themselves on His mercy.

So God's way, in the redemption of the world, is different from ours. If we had our way, we would have had Jesus stand in the door of Heaven and beckon the nations up to-night, or we would have had angels flying around the earth proclaiming the unsearchable riches of Christ. Why is it that the cause goes on so slowly? Why is it that the chains stay on, when God could knock them off? Why do thrones of despotism stand, when God could so easily demolish them? It is His way, in order that all generations may co-operate, and that all men may know they can not do the work themselves. Just in proportion as these pyramids of sin go up in height will they come down in ghastliness of ruin.

I learn from this subject that the overthrow of God's enemies will be sudden and terrific. There is the army of the Midianites down in the valley of Jezreel. I suppose the mighty men are dreaming of the victory. Mount Gilboa never stood sentinel for so large a host. The spears and shields of the Midianites gleam in the moonlight, and glance on the eye of the Israelites, who hover like a battle of eagles, ready to sweep from the cliff. Sleep on, oh army of the Midianites! With the night to hide them, and the mountain to guard them, and strong arms to defend them, let no slumbering foe-man dream of disaster! Peace to the captain and the spearman!

Crash go the pitchers! up flare the lamps! To the mountains! fly! fly! Troop running against troop, thousands tramping upon thousands. Hark to the scream and groan of the routed foe, with the Lord God Almighty after them! How sudden the onset, how wild the consternation, how utter the defeat! I do not care so much what is against me, if God is not. You want a better sword or carbine than I have ever seen to go out and fight against the Lord Omnipotent. Give me God for my ally, and you may have all the battlements and battalions.

Alas for those who fight against God! Only two sides. Man immortal, which side are you on? Woman immortal, which side are you on? Do you belong to the tree hundred that are going to win the day, or to the great host of Midianites asleep in the valley, only to be aroused up in consternation and ruin? Suddenly the golden bowl of life will be broken, and the trumpet blown that will startle our soul into eternity? The day of the Lord cometh as a thief in the night, and as the God-armed Israelites upon the sleeping foe. Ha! Canst thou pluck up courage for the day when the trumpet which hath never been blown shall speak the roll-call of the dead, and the earth, dashing against a lost meteor, have the mountains scattered to the stars, and oceans emptied in the air? Oh, then, what will become of you? What will become of me?

If those Midianites had only given up their swords the day before the disaster, all would have been well; and if you will now surrender the sins with which you have been fighting against God, you will be safe. Oh, make peace with Him, now, through Jesus Christ, the Lord. With the clutch of a drowning man seize the Cross. Oh, surrender! surrender! Christ, with His hand on His pierced side, asks you to—

It Is Impossible.

The gold is passed through the furnace; the great heat only purifies it from the worthless things combined with it, but it is still perishable. It is subject to wear, and in time its value is gone. But your faith in Christ, being of the life of the Spirit, is imperishable. Years do not dim it, use does not wear it. After all to which it may be subjected, when Christ comes it will be found unto praise and honor and glory. Rejoice in the assurance of that day.—United Presbyterian.

AN IRISH REPUBLIC.

Sons of Erin in America Advocate Drastic Measures.

The New Movement Means Open Warfare on England—Plans of Leaders Partially Disclosed at the Chicago Convention.

CHICAGO, Sept. 26.—Representatives of the Irish race in America met in conclave Tuesday at noon in the auditorium of the Young Men's Christian association to devise ways and means to bring Ireland the liberty which for centuries she has aspired to.

John L. O'Connell, chairman of the executive committee, called the convention to order. He stated the object of the convention, saying that they had met for the practical good of the Irish people and for the taking of steps to establish upon Irish soil a republic based upon such principles as those governing the American republic. The secretary then read the call, and President Finerty, amid tremendous cheering, came upon the platform. He announced that messages of welcome and of sympathy had come from all over the United States and the world. After the reading of the telegram, Mr. Finerty made the address of the day.

In the afternoon the committee on permanent organization reported in favor of continuing the temporary officers, and John T. Finerty resumed the chair. The session was short and the remainder was devoted to routine business.

Wednesday's Session.

CHICAGO, Sept. 27.—When Chairman Finerty appeared on the platform and opened the second day's session he was greeted with the same kind of applause that met him Tuesday. Then were read additional telegrams and cables expressing approval of the objects of the convention. Among these were expressions of sympathy with the movement from the Polish Young Men's Alliance of America, and a batch of telegrams from every center of Orangeism in the north of Ireland.

The adoption of the report of the committee on credentials excluding John Madden and Dr. Paul M. Sheehy, both of Pittsburgh, representing the Board of Erin Ancient Order of Hibernians was significant in that it showed the convention to be in no way in touch with anything savoring of moral suasion, which principle the Pittsburgh men were supposed to represent. Chairman Finerty then came forward and made one of his glowing speeches. After thanking the convention for the honor done him by choosing him as president, he went on to say:

Finerty's Fiery Speech.

American papers question the prudence of holding this convention and dictating to us a policy, and hoping we will do nothing to offend English sentiment. What do we care for English sentiment? [Laughter.] We don't want to offend American sentiment, nor French sentiment, nor Russian sentiment, but we want to offend most seriously our hereditary and merciless foe. [Cheers.] We are here to-day to sound the death knell of whiggery in Irish politics. We stand on our rights as a race to advocate the absolute independence of the land that gave us and our fathers life. Our friends, the editorial writers, may preach the doctrines of prudence. We will follow their advice so long as it may be necessary. I will remind my American editorial friends that when America had a grievance against England they did not stand on the order on which they threw the British tea chests into Boston harbor.

The speaker then went back into the history of the Irish struggle for liberty. "England stole our parliament," said he. "We have asked it back. We have gone out of our way to humiliate ourselves at the feet of England. Are we to remain thus forever? We are not here to tell that we contemplate murder or swindling. These properties belong to England. We are here to invite the sympathy of the whole world to our cause. We are here to tell our beloved Uncle Sam that if he draws the sword in defense of the Monroe doctrine the Irish Americans will be behind the stars and stripes when the struggle comes. We are here to tell Russia if she desires the conquest of India that our hearts and hands are with her; the French who hate England that whenever they get tangled up in a dispute with England over the colonies that they can rely upon our support.

"We are here to encourage the enlistment of young Irishmen, whether in independent or regular battalions, to be ready when the time comes." [Prolonged cheering.] Mr. Finerty having thus outlined the cause and purpose of the meeting, concluded with a ringing peroration that brought the audience to its feet again and again. The close of the speech produced a wonderful scene in its way, the audience standing and cheering for fully ten minutes.

Other Addresses.

When the convention reassembled at 3 o'clock the names of the members of the committees selected by the state delegations were announced.

Then followed a number of enthusiastic addresses. Maurice W. Wilner, of Philadelphia, was loudly cheered when he said: "We are here to declare in the open Irish independence and entire separation, to express our purpose and determination, with God's help, to free our mother country. We proclaim our devotion to American citizenship and to the stars and stripes, but never will we turn our backs upon the land of our birth. From the birth of this new movement, with Irish manhood and American integrity we will work unceasingly until Ireland is once more a nation, free and independent."

Maj. Timothy O'Leary, of Montana, Gen. O'Neill's right-hand man in the famous expedition into Canada, urged the appointment by the convention of an "enlisting agent" to rally the Irishmen of every country, and to tender their services, 50,000 or 100,000 strong, to any nation or republic that might become embroiled with England.

Thursday's Session.

CHICAGO, Sept. 27.—Birth was given by the Irish national convention Thursday afternoon to an organization which has for its avowed object the liberation of Ireland from England's yoke by a policy of physical force.

Nothing was done by the convention at the morning session owing to the delay on the part of the committee on resolutions in agreeing to a report. When the delegates reassembled at 3 o'clock the committee on ways and means and plan of organization presented its report. The introductory was as follows:

"The new movement organization shall be known by the style and title of the Irish National Alliance.

"It shall have for its object the securing of the independence of Ireland by any means within its power consistent with the laws and usages of civilized nations.

"The qualifications for membership shall be good moral character, birth on Irish soil or descent from Irish parentage on paternal or maternal side, or both, and the taking of the following pledge:

"I—herby pledge my word of honor to aid by every means within my power in conformity with the constitution and by-laws of the Irish national alliance in securing the independence of Ireland."

In subsequent paragraphs it was provided that the officers should consist of a president, vice president and treasurer, a secretary to be appointed by the president and an executive council of nine. It was provided that 75 per cent. of the gross receipts of the subordinate councils should be turned into the national treasury.

The report was accepted after some debate. The report of the committee on platform and resolutions was presented by O'Neil Ryan, of St. Louis, and was unanimously adopted amid great cheering. It reads thus:

The Platform.

"The people of Ireland are a sovereign people. Ireland is by nature separate from every other country, and liberty is the birthright of her people. Ireland was known throughout Europe as a nation long before the dawn of Christianity, and was the home of civilization while England was still barbarous.

"England's claims to authority in Ireland originated in force and have been maintained by corruption and coercion; they have never ripened into a right to rule: the title to the conquest has never been perfected, inasmuch as the Irish people have continually by constitutional agitation or revolutionary movements resisted England's power and endeavored to destroy her unlawful supremacy.

"Ireland is deprived of almost every civil right which the American people most dearly cherish. Unexampled cruelty and brutal vindictiveness have been the distinguishing features of English rule in Ireland. England has destroyed Ireland's industries and ruined her commerce; she has placed upon her statute books laws making it a crime to educate an Irish child; she burned Ireland's school houses and destroyed her churches; she has driven into exile, or left to perish in her dungeons thousands of men whose only crime was their love of Ireland. Every measure for the last century looking towards legislative independence of the Irish people has either suffered defeat in the commons or been traitorously rejected by the lords. England has violated every treaty and broken every pledge, and with almost every year of the century she has imposed upon Ireland brutal laws of coercion, and one of the most drastic character is now upon her statute books.

"To the pleas of the people for justice and their prayers for mercy, England has responded with the scourge and the scaffold, and yet to-day, Ireland enthralled, but not enslaved, crushed, but not conquered, is in spirit a nation.

"It has become evident, after many years of earnest endeavor to obtain a measure of independence from the English government by peaceful agitation, that appeals to reason for justice are futile. It is left, therefore, for the men of the Irish race to proclaim again the truth recorded by all history that the liberties of a people in the independence of a nation cannot be achieved by debate, but must be won upon the field of battle, and we declare our belief that the men of Ireland who are being driven into exile, or into the graves of serfs in their native land, by English misgovernment are entitled by the laws of God and man to use every means in their power to drive from their country the tyrants and usurper, and we believe that Ireland has the right to make England's difficulty her opportunity and to use all possible means to create that difficulty.

"In view of these facts, members of this convention appeal with confidence to their American fellow-citizens and all lovers of liberty to cooperate with them in aiding the people of Ireland in the achievement of the same measure of liberty enjoyed in these United States.

"Resolved, That we earnestly protest against the continued incarceration in English prisons of Irish patriots. That we consider it inhuman and against the policy of civilized nations to keep in prison men who have acted only in the interest of their country and human liberty; and that the release of these men is imperatively demanded, not only by the Irish people but by civilization.

"Resolved, That this convention expresses the hope that the people of Cuba, who are struggling for political independence and the establishment of a republic, will be successful, and that we extend to them our heartfelt sympathy.

"Resolved, That this convention, recognizing the importance of the Irish nation of preserving the language, literature and music of the people, commends the work now being done by the Gaelic league and the National Literary society in Ireland and by the Gaelic societies of this country, and earnestly trusts our people will give them hearty cooperation and generous support.

"Resolved, That this convention recommends the formation of military companies, wherever practicable, in order to foster and preserve the military of the Irish race, and to be prepared for action in the hour of England's difficulty."

Officers Chosen.

Nominations for officers and the executive council were next in order. Chairman Finerty declined to be considered as a candidate for president, and William Lyman, of New York, at one time treasurer of the Irish National league, was nominated by J. S. Keating, of Illinois, and elected by acclamation with equal unanimity. O'Neil Ryan, of St. Louis, was selected as vice president and State Senator P. V. Fitzpatrick, of Chicago, as treasurer. The executive council was constituted as follows: J. J. Donovan, Massachusetts; Chris Gallagher, Minnesota; Martin Kelly, Tennessee; Capt. Mangin, Wisconsin; J. Sheehy, California; J. M. Kennedy, Montana; T. J. Durden, Ohio; J. S. Lawler, Texas; Thomas H. Greevy, Pennsylvania.

When the officers-elect were introduced, President Lyman promised that he would start the "work" forthwith; and Vice President Ryan declared that before many months the organization would be in the heart of London itself.

GALES BRING DEATH.

Storms on the Lakes Cause Great Disaster to Shipping.

The Schooner Elma Founders in Lake Superior—Nine Persons Are Drowned—Two of the Crew of the Raber Perish in Lake Michigan.

WHITING, Ind., Oct. 1.—At 4:30 o'clock Monday afternoon the schooner John R. Raber, bound from South Chicago to Michigan City, Ind., went ashore at Dune Park, 18 miles east of Whiting. The drowned are Johnson, captain and owner of the boat, and an unknown sailor.

The Raber was lumber-laden and left the South Chicago harbor early in the morning. When the boat was opposite Whiting a stiff breeze sprung up which threw the vessel out of her course and she struck a sandbar with terrible force. The hull began to fill with water and four of the crew manned a boat and started to land for help. Capt. Johnson was one of the party, and before they covered half the distance to shore he was swept from the boat by the waves and sank immediately. At this hour his body has not been recovered. The remaining three reached the shore in safety and started to walk to Whiting, when, having traveled about 4 miles, they came upon the body of one of the sailors who had remained on board the Raber. The name of the dead man cannot be learned. The life-saving crew and a tug have gone to the scene, but at this hour have not returned. The crew consisted of seven men all told, and the fate of the two men who are supposed to be on the vessel cannot be learned till the life-savers return. Later another body is reported to have been found 3 miles from here.

MARQUETTE, Mich., Oct. 1.—News has just reached here of the loss of the schooner Elma with all hands at Pictured Rocks during the frightful gale Saturday night. The steamer Birkhead left Baraga loaded with lumber Saturday, having in tow the schooners Elma and C. B. Jones. When off Whitefish Point the wind shifted to the northeast with such fury that they were unable to get around the point and put back in hopes of getting behind Grand Island. The Jones was lost soon after turning back, but reports from the Soo state she is anchored at Whitefish Point and the crew are all saved.

When off Miner's river, which is at the eastern end of the 40-mile range of enormous cliffs known as the Pictured Rocks, the Elma parted her towline and disappeared in the darkness. The Birkhead was unable to assist her consort and was compelled to hold on for Grand Island, where she found shelter early Sunday morning.

As soon as the gale subsided her captain, Marstepo, returned down the coast in search of the Elma. Fragments of wreckage were found washing in the lake which left no doubt that the schooner had been dashed to pieces on the gigantic cliffs. The Pictured Rocks begin near the mouth of Miner's river with the great cliff, 200 feet high, known as Miner's castle, and rise from the lake for miles west of that point. A sailing vessel adrift near those huge cliffs with the north wind pushing her would have absolutely no chance of escape.

There is no doubt that the Elma was torn to pieces upon the crags and that every soul on board was lost. The Elma had a crew of seven men and a woman and child on board, and that any of her company escaped alive is out of the range of probability.

Eight or nine boats are reported in shelter under Grand Island. Two of them are ashore and one is leaking badly. The steamer City of Paris is reported aground at Copper Harbor by the captain of the E. E. Schuck. The Manola, Grecian, Gilbert, America, Italia and Roby are hung up at the encampment on account of low water.

CHICAGO, Oct. 1.—Advices from lake ports late Monday night report a total of ten vessels ashore. Several of them will be totally lost. Many boats are overdue at this port on account of the recent gale. Telegrams keep coming in saying that the missing craft are in havens down the lake awaiting the subsidence of the heavy seas. The suspension of navigation to the east shore for two days has resulted in a large accumulation of fruit at all Michigan ports.

NIPPED BY FROST.

Late Corn and Tobacco Crops Ruined—Vegetation Entirely Destroyed.

MIDDLESBORO, Ky., Oct. 1.—There was a heavy frost Monday morning. Late corn and tobacco are ruined. The financial loss is heavy. Farmers from Bean's Fork report ice a quarter of an inch thick. Vegetation is entirely destroyed.

MARSHALLTOWN, Ia., Oct. 1.—This section was visited by the first material frost of the season Monday morning. Late market garden stuff was nipped, but the damage is only nominal.

STERLING, Kan., Oct. 1.—There was a heavy frost here Sunday night and ice formed to a thickness of an eighth of an inch. This will injure the broom corn brush yet to be pulled.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Oct. 1.—Central Kentucky experienced a killing frost Sunday night, almost entirely ruining the tobacco crop now in the field. Sorghum and other green vegetation was damaged likewise.

WORDS OF PRAISE.

President Cleveland Has Them for Gen. Schofield.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—The following order, announcing officially to the army the retirement from active service of Lieut. Gen. John M. Schofield, was published Monday:

"EXECUTIVE MANSION, WASHINGTON, Sept. 30, 1895.—Lieut. Gen. John M. Schofield has reached the age entitling him to relief from active military service. He is, in accordance with the provisions of law, hereby placed upon the retired list of the army to date September 29, 1895, with all the pay and allowances belonging to his rank upon such retirement.

"It is with much regret that the president makes the announcement that the country is thus to lose from the command of its army this distinguished general who has done so much for its honor and efficiency. His gallantry in war challenges the admiration of all his countrymen, while they will not fail to gratefully remember and appreciate how faithfully he has served his country in times of peace by his splendid and successful performance of civil as well as military duty.

GEN. NELSON A. MILES.

"Lieut. Gen. Schofield's career, exhibiting an unvarying love for his profession, a zealous care for its honor and good name, a just apprehension of the subordination it exacts and a constant manifestation of the best traits of true Americanism, furnishes to the army an example of inestimable value and should teach all our people that the highest soldierly qualities are built upon the keener sense of the obligations belonging to good citizenship.

"(Signed) GROVER CLEVELAND."

Gen. Miles, now in the command of the department of the east, will succeed Gen. Schofield as commander of the army. When he will be detached from the department of the east and ordered to Washington cannot yet be stated. Until the order bringing him to Washington is issued, orders to the army from army headquarters will be by order of the secretary of war.

PROF. PASTEUR'S FUNERAL.

Will Take Place Saturday in Cathedral of Notre Dame.

PARIS, Oct. 1.—The funeral services over the remains of Prof. Louis Pasteur, who died on Saturday last, will take place in the cathedral of Notre Dame on Saturday next. The remains will be deposited in the cemetery of Montmartre temporarily, and the final interment will take place on October 23, the centenary of the foundation of the French institute. The directors, members and employes of the institute viewed the remains Monday morning, after which the general public was permitted to do the same. Floral wreaths and other such emblems of mourning are arriving from all parts and are being deposited about the bier.

TO CLOSE ON SUNDAY.

Action to That End Taken by Exposition Officers at Atlanta.

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 1.—At the meeting of the board of exposition directors held Monday evening action was taken which apparently kills for all time the project to open the exposition on Sundays. A resolution providing for Sunday opening was introduced by Director Cabanis, but after some lively discussion was tabled. The advocates of Sunday opening have not lost hope, but it is pretty safe to say the chances of that resolution remaining tabled are excellent.

Editors at Toledo.

TOLEDO, O., Oct. 1.—Representative editors of Ohio, Indiana and Michigan to the number of 100 invaded Toledo Monday as guests of the chamber of commerce and thoroughly enjoyed themselves at its expense. In the morning they visited various points of interest around the city and after dinner were taken to Fort Meigs where they were addressed by ex-Congressman Frank Hurd and others. In the evening the party was banqueted at the Boody house. Speeches were made by the mayor, Judge J. H. Doyle and several of the visiting editors.

A DIFFICULT GUEST.

Charles Dickens' Aggravating Experience with Hans Christian Andersen.

When Dickens first met Hans Christian Andersen, in a London drawing-room, he asked his fellow novelist to pay him a visit at Gadshill. The invitation was promptly accepted, and the guest remained a long time.

Upon many occasions, during this very protracted visit, Dickens found his patience put to the test by his new friend.

In spite of Hans Christian's many merits and good qualities, his very marked peculiarities made him an exceedingly difficult person to entertain.

He was extremely sentimental and emotional, and frequently, for no apparent reason, would burst into a flood of womanish tears, and rush away to his own room.

A few days after his arrival, he rang the bell and asked to see the eldest son of the house.

The eldest son was away, and when Dickens himself went to see what his guest desired, he found that Andersen wished the eldest son to shave him, that being the custom of his own country.

Dickens explained that, in the first place, young Dickens was away, and that, secondly, it would be an experiment fraught with danger for him to attempt the desired service, as, with the very best intentions, he would probably decapitate his illustrious guest.

Under these most untoward circumstances, Hans Christian, weeping, betook himself to the nearest barber shop, and had his beard attended to professionally.—N. Y. Herald.

New Cushions.

An attractive corner can be made for a boudoir or for one's sleeping room, if used during the day as a sitting-room, with three large cushions. Two of these should be made from pieces of material thirty-six inches square, with a side piece six inches deep set in all around. The stuffing can be of excelsior, with a top of curled hair. The third pillow should be thirty inches square and stuffed with down. Let the first covering be of heavily waxed ticking, of a good quality. It is waxed by rubbing a hot flat iron lavishly with wax, and ironing on the wrong side of the ticking. This will prevent down and fluff from working through and spoiling one's gowns. For the outer covering, blue, red or yellow denim, according to the tone of the room, may be used. The linens are also serviceable and pretty. An arabesque pattern, worked coarsely in Asiatic rope silk, in black, yellows and blues, will transform them into very effective and oriental looking pillows.—N. Y. Herald.

Plimsoll's Mark.

The next time you get near one of the big ocean greyhounds, or, in fact, any of the ocean going craft, look along her side, just above the water line, and about the center you will see a peculiar mark which looks as though it might have been made by an inebriated cobra. This is known as "Plimsoll's mark." Load a ship so that this is below water, and if she sinks you can collect no insurance. It is the danger mark. It is an outcome of marine insurance, and the regulation has undoubtedly saved many million dollars' worth of property and many lives. Weighted below it a vessel is loggy and unbuoyant. In a storm she could not ride the waves easily and would be likely to founder. The Plimsoll mark is simply a bisected circle. To the left of it are the private Lloyd, measurements and marks. In England these are regarded very closely; in America we are more lax.—N. Y. Mail and Express.

borrowing from health.

The sign of this borrowing is thinness; the result, nerve-waste. You need fat to keep the blood in health unless you want to live with no reserve force—live from hand to mouth. SCOTT'S EMULSION of Cod-liver Oil is more than a medicine. It is a food. The Hypophosphites make it a nerve food, too. It comes as near perfection as good things ever come in this world.

Be sure you get Scott's Emulsion when you want it and not a cheap substitute.

Scott & Bowne, New York. All Druggists: 50c. and $1.

If you have borrowed from health to satisfy the demands of business, if your blood is not getting that constant supply of fat from your food it should have, you must pay back from somewhere, and the somewhere will be from the fat stored up in the body.

 There was nothing at all about Sunday evening's temperature and all vegetation that was not protected was visited by John Frost, Esq. It was one of those genuine old frosts that you read about in the dictionary.
 Rev. Rees was in attendance upon quarterly meeting on Friday and Saturday but came home on Sunday afternoon and preached a very interesting sermon to the young people in the evening.
 Mrs. Hannah Taylor, A. J. Lettow, and several others from this place, including Rev. Rees, of the Baptist church were at conference at Elgin, during one or more of its sessions. There were no preaching services in the M. E. Church last Sunday whatever.

 R. R. Quigley and wife returned last week from a three months visit with friends and relatives at Buffalo, and other points of interest in New York. Mr. Quigley reports as having a very pleasant time in the "Empire" state, but, "First, last-home's best."

Mrs. E. J. Rees and daughter Fay left on last Thursday for Canton, Fulton Co., where they will visit for several weeks. The former went to see a brother who was about to leave home to be gone some time. Meantime, Rev. Rees is wretched.

 The ball game at Capron Saturday did not mature, owing to the inability of the Kingstons to be present at the awful carnage. The boys started all right but the damp, moist rain that was falling was too many for them and they were obliged to return. A game will probably be arranged for some day this week, and then--?!

Several years ago I was taken with a severe attack of flux.
