BETTER SPEECH BETTER CITIZENS

"Better Speech Week" Endorsed by Community Club of Genoa

OBSERVANCE WEEK OF NOV. 2-8
Talks in Public Schools by Club Members—A Good Subject for Thought

In February, 1915, the National Council of Teachers of English organized a Committee on American Speech for the purpose of interesting Americans in "conserving our melodious English tongue and improving our national speech manners."

The activities of the committee have been various. Letters seeking endorsements of the Speech Movement, leaflets of information, articles in newspapers and magazines, have touched all parts of our country. Concentration in particular states where conditions were favorable has counted much toward finding suitable methods of procedure.

The field of activity has been thus far in the school primarily and business, professional and social life secondarily. The Chicago Woman's Club organized in 1916 a standing committee on speech, with Mrs. Katherine Robbins as chairman. By means of its energetic and constructive methods this committee has conducted a valuable survey for speech purposes, secured the indorsement, in 1918, of the movement by the National Federation of Women's Clubs, and conducted in November, 1918, in Chicago, an ambitious and successful Speech Week.

Speech Week is primarily a concentrated effort toward "rousing public sentiment to the need and the possibility of improving the speaking voice and raising the standard of speech usage in daily life."

The National Federation of Women's clubs has decided that Better Speech week will be observed broadcast throughout the nation during the week November 2 to 8. All clubs associated with the Federation are urged to lend their concentrated efforts in the observance of this week.

At the October meeting of the Genoa Community club the President, Miss Perkins, appointed a Better Speech Week committee, with Cora Furr as chairman.

The committee have interviewed the teachers of the city and township high schools and find them ready and eager to assist in this nation-wide movement.

Five speakers from the club have been chosen to talk in the various school class rooms Tuesday of next week. Mrs. Alma Kohn will talk to the first, second and third grades; Mrs. Lois Brown, fourth and fifth; Mrs. Della Fisher, sixth; Mrs. Blanche Holtgren, seventh, eighth and ninth; Mrs. Ada Shesler, tenth, eleventh and twelfth. These talks will vary according to the age of the children.

It is expected that during the celebration of National American Speech week that there will be, all over the land, a rallying to the standard of good speech. "Better Speech for Better Americans." Everyone during this week must do something for his language, make some definite contribution, or a sacrifice. You may decide to give up a favorite and overworked expression, perhaps "say listen" or "sure", and try a good substitute. We can find a substitute for all phrases as "cut it out", "believe me", "that's some kid", "d'ye get me?", "it's up to you", "I can't stand for that."

Mrs. Robbins in her speech before the annual meeting of the Illinois Federation of Women's clubs, says, "The increase in profanity among both men and women is continually being brought to our notice. The great war has been somewhat responsible for this. The effect of the war on language must be reckoned with, but can it be held wholly responsible for the fact that with many of the educated women of England swearing is the commonplace of life? Is it to be so in America? Better Speech Week resulted in the formation of Clean Speech clubs in several of the High Schools in Chicago. I hope there may be more of them. The High schools need us, indeed all the schools need the impetus of this movement. The public should realize the far-reaching and helpful effect upon schools of a movement of this kind which comes as a demand from

DEKALB STORE ROBBED

Thieves Use Large Car in Moving Merchandise

One of the largest robberies DeKalb has had for a number of years occurred late Monday night when more than $3,500 worth of merchandise was stolen from the establishment of Carlson & Benson says the Chronicle.

Just what time the robbery took place is not known at the present but it certainly was after midnight for the owners of the store were there until nearly this time decorating windows. How the thieves made entrance to the store is not known but it is thought that a master key was used and that a large car was drawn up in the rear of the store and the stolen goods piled into this. The first things, apparently, to be taken, was the entire stock of neckwear which was purchased some time ago.

This was kept in the drawers of the show case and upon entering the store Tuesday morning the owners found all of the drawers closed as usual.

Besides the neckwear, all of the silk lining stock was taken and a large amount of other materials.

Immediately after discovering the loss the two men notified the police and word was sent to all of the state, giving a description of the goods stolen.

George Ward, the night watchman did not discover that the back door was open until after the thieves had left.

The loss is a serious one to the two young men as they just started in the business a few months ago.

CAN'T BE DONE

Advertising Placards on State Roads Prohibited

Do you know that when the state takes over a road in a country it carries with it complete control of that road, even to the point where individuals are not permitted to post placards or advertising matter of any character without placing themselves in a compromising position with the state?

This fact became apparent recently when two representatives of the state highway association went to Lake county and made a trip over some of the concrete roads which the state has designated as state aid roads, says the Waukegan Gazette.

Because the campaign for county and state officers was then on naturally the telephone poles along the route were smeared with advertising matter of various kinds.

The highway men took careful note of the different faces that appeared on the poles, etc., and immediately after their return to Chicago sent out formal letters to the candidates notifying them that they must immediately take down their placards. Many were evidently removed.

The only feature of the highway which the state doesn't assume responsibility for when it takes over roads is the matter of clearing out snow in winter. So far as that goes nobody assumes that responsibility as there is no law which covers it.

The only signs which the state highway commission allows to be put up along the state road are those referring to traffic and the like.

NO TREES IN ALLEY

Trimming of all shade and ornamental trees in Harvard is asked by officials of the Illinois Northern Utilities company, to whom complaints of poor electrical service frequently come. "If the overlapping branches are cut and the wires freed from contact during and after rain and windstorms, the service will not be interrupted and the complaints will be reduced," said an official of the utilities.

NEED NOT TELL AGE

Contrary to rumors which have been floating about the country, women will not be asked to state their age before voting next Tuesday outside the schools.

"The great Middle West is pre-eminent in the United States. We are pre-eminent in commerce. There is every indication that we shall set the standard for music and for art in America. Is it not our particular duty here in Illinois to set the standard for fine, dignified speech? Our present speech leaves much to be desired. In a slight paraphrase of Bander Mathews, let us say that in Illinois we will keep our precious heritage, the American language, "unimpaired in vigor, in variety, in freshness and in nobility."

Republican Candidates

All the state candidates whose pictures appear above were chosen by the Republican voters of Illinois in a direct primary. All quarters of the state are represented on the ticket, which is distinctly a "down state" ticket, as only four of the entire number live in Chicago. The addresses of the candidates are: William B. McKinley, Champaign; Len Small, Kankakee; Fred E. Sterling, Rockford; Louis L. Emmerson, Mt. Vernon; Andrew Russel, Jacksonville; Edward E. Miller, East St. Louis; Edward J. Brundage, Chicago; Charles W. Vail, Chicago; Laura B. Evans, Taylorville; Helen Matthews Grigsby, Pittsfield; William L. Noble, Evanston; William E. Mason, Chicago; Richard Yates, Springfield. All the candidates are experienced in the public service and the Republican State Central committee, conducting the campaign, urges every voter supporting Harding and Coolidge to "vote the ticket straight."

THEY GET IN
Belvidere Dairymen Join the Marketing Company
At the meeting of the Belvidere Milk Producers' association, held on Friday evening at the Y.M.C.A. it was voted to join the Milk Producers' Marketing company of Chicago, which would handle the product.
Out of 175 members of the association 100 were in attendance and the vote to become members of the Marketing company was unanimous. The rules of the company require that an association must represent at least 150 dairies in order to be taken into membership and subscribe to a certain amount of stock. Steps will be taken at once to secure the fifty more dairymen necessary and as many in addition as possible.

WOODSTOCK STORE ROBBED
The Frank Rosen store at Woodstock was entered early this morning by thieves. Unable to get a safe open they stole merchandise. The entire store was ransacked.
Entrance was made through a window about 2 o'clock in the morning. The knob of the safe was broken off in an attempt to open it. Loot is expected to total several hundred dollars.

BAKERY SALE
The Ladies' Aid Society will hold a bakery sale Saturday afternoon, Oct. 30 at 3 o'clock sharp. A large amount of home made foods have been solicited and the Society feels that there will be plenty for all. Nevertheless, it will pay to be there sharply at three o'clock.
The sale will be held in the Ladies' Rest Rooms.

MOREHOUSE BROWN
Genoa Couple Bow at Hymen's Shrine Saturday
At the home of the bride's parents in this city on Saturday afternoon, Oct. 23, Mr. Albert T. Morehouse and Miss Gladys Brown were united in marriage. Rev. J. E. Robeson, pastor of the M. E. church officiated.
The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Lorene. About forty guests, relatives and intimate friends were present. After the ceremony luncheon was served.
The bride is the older daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Brown, and the groom a son of Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Morehouse. Both are held in the highest esteem by everyone, having always been active in church affairs and actively interested in Genoa's best interests.
Mr. and Mrs. Morehouse will reside in the Fishback residence on Genoa street.

STRAWBERRIES
Despite the fact that it is October and time for snappy weather strawberries are ripe. Last Saturday C. L. Teckler of Crystal Lake picked 125 quarts from the strawberry bed on which he has been so successfully growing strawberries, and many residents of Crystal Lake have shortcake entirely out of season.
Mrs. Langworthy of Genoa recently picked a quantity of red raspberries.

SYCAMORE TO VOTE
Sycamore will again vote on the township park proposition on the 16th of November. A bond issue of $25,000 is asked to purchase a site. The proposition was defeated at an election about a year ago.

TO INCREASE CAPITAL
Marketing Company May Make It $2,000,000
According to reports, members of the Milk Producers Co-Operative company appear to be in favor of the increase from $500,000, the present capital, to $2,000,000. The proposed increase will take care of expansion of the marketing company program for at least a year, members believe.
Delegates have been chosen to attend the annual meeting in Chicago November 9. Several important changes in the constitution may be made and an increase in capital stock. Officers will be selected for the coming year at the meeting.
Predictions are that the wholesale price of milk will be lower than the August-October rate of $3.70 a hundred pounds. Some fear it may go lower than $3.
"I think the price will be less than $3.70 a hundred pounds," said James Owen, secretary of the Elgin local. "The cause of the drop will be the large amount of condensed milk on hand."

FINE TOO LIGHT
Driving an automobile while he was in an intoxicated condition last Wednesday night resulted in a $100 fine being assessed against George Kelley in Police Magistrate George R. Thompson's court in Genoa last night.

THE LITTLE BALLOT
One of the "little ballots" to be voted November 2, is to ratify a change in the state banking law so as to allow the organization of a state bank in a town of 500 population or less, with a capital of $10,000.

RETURN INDICTMENTS
Fairdale Auto Thieves are to Stand Trial
The grand jury returned into court Monday night three indictments. One is against Charles Thomas, alias James Thomas alias James Maloney and one William Martin alias Will Smith and Mike Rudy for stealing an Oakland auto August 4, of the value of $500 from the garage of Gerson Banks of Fairdale.
One indictment is against one Geo. Bank for the larceny June first of a diamond ring, the property of Caroline Alms.
The other indictments consisting of various counts is against one John Mason of Hinckley. In that document it is charged that on September 1st the said Mason took certain immoral, improper and indecent liberties with one Mary Charnolds, aged 13 years. Other counts charge the language, it will be remembered that the little Mary is the 13 year old daughter of the sister of John Mason. The little girl came to this country last February and speaks but little English. She was attending school in Hinckley. She had come to school crying. When asked the trouble it was some time before the teacher could get the story which was to the effect that she was being beaten. Her arms and back were black and blue. The little one was taken away at once and placed in the family of Deputy Sheriff Ramer. A date in November has been set for the hearing to get the little one placed in a school.

TROUBLE TO FIND HUSKERS
Many Not Willing to Go Into Fields for Fixed Wage Scale
Frank Raduenz, Superintendent of the Illinois Free Employment office at Aurora, says he is having trouble to find corn huskers to work for the wages that the farmers are willing to pay.
"The farmers must therefore make their own bargains with the workers when they are sent to the country," says Raduenz. Last week Raduenz turned away many who applied for husking corn on this account and because the season here is several weeks later than last year.
The majority of farmers in LaSalle county are planning to follow the recommendation of the farm bureau conference in Decatur and pay huskers 5 cents a bushel with board and 6 cents a bushel without board. This matter had been thoroughly gone into by representatives of farm bureaus from 23 counties of the state.

TRAINOR PREFERENCES JAIL
John B. Trainor has concluded to stay in the pen says the Sycamore Tribune. Trainor is one of the four outo bandits who robbed Breunig & Dolder's garage about a year ago and was sent to the penitentiary. He was ready to walk out of Joliet prison last Thursday on a writ of superseas from the supreme court when his attorneys learned that U. S. marshals were awaiting in the office of the warden to arrest him on a charge of postoffice robbery. He chose to remain in prison.

ARE YOU A THINKER?

If You are, You Will Vote Next Tuesday

By request, we repeat below an editorial which appeared in The Genoa Republican in the issue of October 8:
Every CITIZEN should be a politician to the extent of exercising his franchise at the polls at EVERY OPPORTUNITY. It is undoubtedly true that many have become disgusted and actually feel like never going to the polls again. This is entirely the WRONG ATTITUDE to take and the man or woman who thinks twice will NOT become a SLACKER as a CITIZEN. The very man or woman who has given subjects of public policy and the character of public officials sufficient study to become disgusted, IS THE VERY CITIZEN who should express his views by word of mouth AND AT THE BALLOT BOX. It is surely up to the individual thinkers to overcome the evils that exist today. The intelligent voter must overcome any lead gained by irresponsible spell-binders who by eloquence and absurd promises, sway that voter who is willing to give full credence to such utterances. When every THINKING, INTELLIGENT CITIZEN becomes a BOOSTER for the BEST and a VOTER AT EVERY OPPORTUNITY, we will have no fear of the radical element, and the crooks and incompetent will soon be out of office.

HIGH WAGES

Everett Naker of Genoa Breaks Record in Canada

Everett Naker, who left Genoa several weeks ago, with two other Genoa boys for the harvest fields of Canada has certainly broken the record for high wages, he having received $600 for 30 days' work, or $20 per day. He operated a tractor engine in which he is an expert. He is now touring western Canada, stopping at Alberta, British Columbia and other places. He expects to pass the winter in California.

OIL MAY UNDERLAY FARMS

The rumor which has been heard for some time concerning the presence of oil being found in the vicinity of Charles is said to be about to be tested by drilling. If oil is found, there will be some excitement about these farms; a few miles northwest within the vicinity of Silver Glen.

There were no services at the M. E. church Sunday evening, the lightning apparatus being out of order. (The Illinois Northern was not to blame for it either.)

The yellow express wagon without the familiar form of Frank Swan thereon will be a novelty to our people, he having sold his business to Jesse Evans, including mail and express contracts and rolling stock. Frank has ever been at his post and served the public with a faithfulness seldom seen. (And he is still the same hustler.)

LIFE WAS A MISERY TO HER

Says this Woman Until Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Carrollton, Ky.—"I suffered almost two years with female weakness. I could not walk any distance, ride or take any exercise at all without resting. If I swept the floor or did any kind of work it would bring my sickness on. I was weak and languid, had no energy, and life was a misery to me. I was under the care of a good physician for several months and tried other remedies. I had read of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and decided to try it. After taking twelve bottles I found myself much improved and I took six more. I have never had any more trouble in that respect since. I have done all kinds of work and at present am an attendant at a State Hospital and am feeling fine. I have recommended your Vegetable Compound to dozens of my friends and always recommend it."—LILLIAN THARR, 824 S. 6th St., Carrollton, Ky.

Billy went up to dad and said: "Father, I know what Mary will want this year for Christmas."

"It's a bit early to start telling what you and Mary want for Christmas. But what is it?" replied the father.

"Mary will want a doll," said Billy. And just then little Mary came running into the room with big tears dripping down her cheeks and exclaimed: "Daddy, Billy broke my new doll!"

Poverty is no disgrace, but there is precious little else can be said for it.

Over fifty years ago a young physician practiced widely in a rural district and became famous for his uniform success in the curing of disease. This was Dr. Pierce, who afterwards established himself in Buffalo, N. Y., and placed one of his prescriptions, which he called "Golden Medical Discovery," in the drug stores of the United States so that the public could easily obtain this very remarkable tonic, corrective and blood-maker. Dr. Pierce manufactured this "Discovery" from roots and barks—a corrective remedy, the ingredients of which nature had put in the fields and forests, for keeping us healthy. Few folks or families now living have not at sometime or other used this "Golden Medical Discovery" for the stomach, liver and heart. Over twenty-four million bottles of this tonic and blood remedy have been sold in this country.

"SILLY BOY."

Synopsis.—Writing long after the events described, Jack Calder, Scot farmer of West Inch, tells how, in his childhood, the fear of invasion by Napoleon, at that time complete master of Europe, had gripped the British nation. Following a false alarm that the French had landed, Jim Horscroft, the doctor's son, a youth of fifteen, quarrels with his father over joining the army, and from that incident a lifelong friendship begins between the boys. They go together to school at Berwick, where Jim is cock boy from the first. After two years Jim goes to Edinburgh to study medicine. Jack stays five years more at Berwick, becoming cock boy in his turn. A visit from Cousin Edie of Eyemouth to West Inch gives no hint of the part she is to play in the lives of the two friends. When Jack is eighteen Edie comes to live at West Inch and Jack falls in love at first sight with his attractive, romantic, selfish and autocratic cousin of seventeen. They watch from the cliffs the victory of an English merchantman over two French privateers.

But not an inch of canvas did she lower, floundering on in her stolid fashion, while a little black ball ran up her peak and the rare old flag streamed suddenly out from the hall-lard. Then again came the rap-rap-rap of her little guns and the boom-boom of the big carronades in the bows of the lugger. An instant later the three ships met, and the merchantman staggered on like a stag with two wolves hanging to its haunches. For a stricken hour the hell-cloud moved slowly across the face of the water, and still, with our hearts in our mouths, we watched the flap of the flag, straining to see if it were yet there. And then suddenly the ship, as proud and black and high as ever, shot on upon her way, and as the smoke cleared we saw one of the luggers squatting like a broken-winged duck upon the water, and the other working hard to get the crew from her before she sank.

For all that hour I had lived for nothing but the fight. My cap had been whisked away by the wind, but I had never given it a thought. Now, with my heart full, I turned upon Cousin Edie, and the sight of her took me back six years. There was the vacant, staring eye and the parted lips, just as I had seen them in her girlhood, and her little hands were clenched until the knuckles gleamed like ivory.

"Ah, that captain!" she said, talking to the heath and the whin bushes. "There is a man—so strong, so resolute! I would give a year of my life to meet such a man. But that is what living in the country means. One never sees anybody but just those who are fit for nothing better."

I do not know that she meant to hurt me, though she was never very backward at that; but, whatever her intention, her words seemed to strike straight upon a naked nerve.

"Very well, Cousin Edie," I said, trying to speak calmly. "That puts the cap on it. I'll take the bounty in Berwick tonight."

"Oh, you'd look sharp some in red coat, Jack, and I wish you wish your eyes were as blue as that, for it looks like a bloody maaly. But I am sure that you are joking about the soldiering."

"I'll let you see if I'm joking," Then and there I set off running over the moor, until I burst into the kitchen where my father and mother were sitting on either side of the ingle.

"Mother," I cried, "I'm off for a soldier."

Had I said that I was off to a soldier, they could not have looked over it, for in those days among the decent, canny country folks it was mostly the black sheep that were herded by the sergeant. But, my word, those same black sheep did their country some rare service, too! My mother put up her mittens to her eyes, and my father looked as black as a peat hole.

"Hoos, Jock, you're daft," says he. "Daft or no, I'm going."

"Then you'll have no blessing from me."

"Then I'll go without."

At this my mother gave a screech and throws her arms about my neck, and I saw her hand, all hard and worn and knucky with the work that she had done for my upbringing, and it pleaded with me as words could not have done. My heart was soft for her, but my will was as hard as a flint edge. I put her back in her chair with a kiss, and then ran to my room to pack my bundle. It was already growing dark, and I had a long walk before me; so I thrust a few things together and hastened out. As I came through the side door someone touched my shoulder, and there was Edie in the gloaming.

"Silly boy!" said she. "You are not really going? I don't want you to go, Jack."

"You said that the folk in the country were fit for nothing better. You always speak like that. You think no more of me than of those doves in cote. You think I'm nobody at all. I'll show you different." All my troubles came out in hot little spurts of speech. She colored up as I spoke and looked at me in her queer, half-mocking, half-petting fashion.

"Oh, I think so little of you as that," said she. "And that is the reason why you are going away. Well, then, Jack, will you stay if I am—I am kind to you?"

We were face to face and close together, and in an instant the thing was done. My arms were round her, and I was kissing her, and kissing her, and kissing her, on her mouth, her cheeks, her eyes, and pressing her to my heart, and whispering to her that she was all to me, and that I could not be without her. She said nothing, but it was long before she turned her face aside, and when she pushed me back it was not very hard.

"Why, you are quite your rade, old, impudent self!" said she, patting her hair with her two hands. "You have tossed me, Jack. I had no idea that you would be so forward."

But all my fear of her was gone, and a love tenfold hotter than ever was boiling in my veins. I took her up again and kissed her, as if it were my right.

"You are my very own now," I cried. "I shall not go to Berwick, but I'll stay and marry you."

But she laughed when I spoke of marriage. "Silly boy! Silly boy!" said she, with her forefinger up, and then when I tried to lay hands on her again she gave a little dainty courtesy and was off into the house.

CHAPTER IV.

The Choosing of Jim.

And then there came ten weeks which were like a dream, and are so now to look back upon. I would weary you were I to tell you what passed between us, but oh! how earnest and fateful and all-important it was at the time. Her waywardness, her ever-varying moods, now bright, now dark like a meadow under drifting clouds, her causeless angers, her sudden repentances, each in turn filling me with joy or sorrow—these were my life, and all the rest was but emptiness. But ever deep down behind all my other feelings was a vague disquiet—a fear that I was like the man who set forth to lay hands upon the rainbow, and that the real Edie Calder, however near she might seem, was in truth forever beyond my reach.

It was after Christmas, but the winter had been mild, with just frost enough to make it safe walking over the peat bogs. One fine morning Edie had been out early, and she came back to breakfast with a fleck of color on her cheeks.

"Has your friend, the doctor's son come home, Jack?" says she.

"I heard that he was expected."

"Ah, then it must have been him that I met on the moor."

"What? You met Jim Horscroft?"

"I am sure it must be he. A splendid-looking man, a hero, with curly black hair, a short, straight nose, and gray eyes. He was dressed in gray, and he has a grand, deep, strong voice."

"Oh, you spoke to him?" said I.

"I colored a little, as if he said more than she meant. 'I was soft, where the ground was a little soft, and he warned me of it,' she said.

"Ah, it must have been dear old Jim," said I. "Why, heart alive! here is the very man himself!" I had seen him through the kitchen window, and now I rushed out with my half-eaten bannock in my hand to greet him. He ran forward, too, with his great hand out and his eye shining.

"Ah, Jock!" he cried, "it's good to see you again. There are no friends like old ones." Then suddenly he held me by the neck and stared, with his mouth open over my shoulder. I tried to speak, but he was so close that I felt his breath, and of myself too, as I looked at her.

"This is my cousin, Miss Edie Calder, Jim," said I.

"Do you often take walks before breakfast, Mr. Horscroft?" she asked, still with that roguish smile.

"Yes," said he, staring at her with all his eyes.

"I, and generally over you," said she; "but you are not very good at your friend, Jack. If you do not care for the honors I shall have to take care for the credit of West Inch."

Another minute we were in the kitchen, and Jim had his plate of porridge ladled out for him, but he would not speak, but sat there staring in his hand, staring at her. She shot little twinkling glances at him all the time, and I saw that she was amused, and I saw that she was trying to do what she said to give him heart.

"Jack," she was telling me that you were studying to be a doctor," said she. "But oh! how hard it must be, and how long it must take before one can gather so much learning as that."

"It takes me long enough," Jim answered, humbly, "but I'll beat it yet." "How grand and truthful you are!"

she cried, and so they went on, she decking him with every virtue and twisting his words to make him play the part, in the way that I knew so well. Before she was done I could see that his head was buzzing with her beauty and her kindly words. I thrilled with pride to think he should think so well of my kin.

"Isn't she fine, Jim?" I could not help saying when we stood alone outside the door, he lighting his pipe before he set off home.

"Fine!" he cried. "I never saw her match."

"We're going to be married," said I. The pipe fell out of his mouth, and he stood staring at me. Then he picked it up and walked off without a word. I thought that he would likely come back, but he never did, and I saw him far off walking up the brae with his chin on his chest.

But I was not to forget him, for Cousin Edie had a hundred questions to ask me about his boyhood, about his strength, about the women that he was likely to know; there was no satisfying her. And then again, later in the day, I heard of him, but in a less pleasant fashion.

It was my father who came home in the evening with his mouth full of poor Jim. He had been dandy drunk since midday, had been down to West-house Links to fight the gypsy champion, and it was not certain that the man would live through the night. My father had met Jim on the highroad, dour as a thunder cloud, and with an insult in his eye for every man that passed him. "Guld sakes!" said the old man. "He'll make a fine practice for himself! If breaking bones will do it." Cousin Edie laughed at all this, and I laughed because she did, but I was not so sure that it was funny.

On the third day afterward I was going up Corriemuir by the sheep track, when who should I see striding down but Jim himself. But he was another man from the big, kindly fellow who had supped his porridge with us the other morning. He had no collar nor tie, his vest was open, his hair matted, and his face mottled like a man who has drunk heavily overnight. He carried an oak stick, and he slashed at the whin bushes on either side of the path.

"Why, Jim!" said I.

But he looked at me in the way that I had often seen at school when the devil was strong in him, and when he knew that he was in the wrong, and yet set his will to brazen it out. Not a word did he say, but he brushed past me on the narrow path, and he swaggered on, still brandishing his stick and cutting at the bushes.

Ah well, I was not angry with him. I was sorry, very sorry, and that was all. Of course I was not so blind but that I could see how the matter stood. He was in love with Edie, and he could not bear to think that I should have her. Poor devil! how could he help it? Maybe I should have been the same. There was a time when I should have wondered that a girl could have turned a strong man's head like that, but I knew more about it now.

For a fortnight I saw nothing of Jim Horscroft, and then came the Thursday which was to change the whole current of my life.

I had woke early that day, and with a little thrill of joy, which is a rare thing to feel when a man first opens his eyes. Edie had been kinder than usual the night before, and I had fallen asleep with the thought that maybe at last I had caught the rainbow, and that, without any imaginings or make-believes, she was learning to love plain Jack Calder of West Inch. It was this thought, still at my heart, which had given me that little morning chirrup of joy. And then I remembered that if I hastened I might be in time for her, for it was her custom to go out with the sunrise.

But I was too late. When I came to her door it was half open and the room empty. Well, thought I, at least I may meet her and have the home-walk with her. I zigzagged up the steep pathway, breathing in the thin, keen morning air, and humming a lilt as I went, until I came out, a little short of breath, among the whins upon the top. Looking down the long slope of the farther side, I saw Cousin Edie as I had expected, and I saw Jim Horscroft walking by her side.

"See here, Jock, this woman is fooling us both."

Home Versus House.

Home cannot be given us. We may be given a house, a place to eat and sleep. This is not a home. A home is a place of love and rest and peace. Love and rest and peace must be deserved, must be earned. Nobody can hand them to you as so many packages. They are matters of reciprocity. If you have none to give there will be but little for you to receive.—West-ern Methodist.

Forty-Eight Hours Notice Must Be Given Before Either Side Can Break It—If It Is Not Broken for 25 Days, to Continue.

Riga, Oct. 13.—The Polish and Russian soviet peace delegates signed a preliminary peace treaty at the Black Head house here last night.

The treaty contains 17 articles and two annexes, one the armistice to be concluded and the other a map.

The preliminary treaty must be ratified within fifteen days after its signature and the formal exchange of ratification papers must take place at Libau within six days after ratification.

Failure so to do will constitute an abrogation of the armistice within forty-eight hours after the time limit expires.

Both parties must ratify the preliminary treaty before October 28, and the formal exchange of ratifications must be effected at Libau by November 1. Otherwise the armistice will expire automatically November 3.

The armistice specifically provides that fighting is to cease within 144 hours after signature of the preliminary peace terms and names midnight, October 17, as the definite time war is to cease on land and sea, and in the air.

An agreement was reached as to the boundary line between Poland and white Russia and Ukraine. It runs, roughly, from Drissa, on the Dvinsk river east of the city of Dvinsk, southward, passing near Baranovitchi. It passes west of Rovno and reaches the Dniester river east of Kamenetz-Podolsk.

Settlement in liquidation of Polish monetary claims was not included in the armistice agreement, but will be taken up by the treaty of peace, according to Polish officials. The armistice contains 19 sections.

The armistice, in the course of determining the boundary line, recognizes the independence of the Ukraine and white Russia.

More Taxes Paid in 1920

Uncle Sam's Bill for Current Fiscal Year Goes Up Billion and a Half.

Washington, Oct. 13.—America's tax bill for the fiscal year ending June 30 amounted to $5,408,075,468, approximately a billion and a half dollars more than was paid into the federal treasury in the previous 12 months.

Final figures for the year were contained in the preliminary report of the commissioner of internal revenue.

It shows that from income and profits taxes the government received approximately three-fourths of all its revenue. In these two items there was an increase of $1,356,000,000 over the fiscal year of 1919, receipts for the two years being: 1920, $3,957,701,000; 1919, $2,601,701,000.

From multifarious sources of "miscellaneous" taxation the levy produced $1,450,374,000, an increase over the previous year of $201,000,000.

PLENTY OF COAL FOR WINTER

Traffic Association's Chief Assures the Country of an Adequate Supply of Fuel.

Washington, Oct. 13.—The entire country is assured of an adequate supply of bituminous coal during the winter, according to John Callahan, traffic manager of the National Coal Association, in a statement issued here.

To this end the association is prepared to produce 12,000,000 tons per week. Already it has been arranged to give the Middle Western states an emergency supply of 2,100 cars for immediate requirements, said Mr. Callahan.

Ask Peanut Tariff.

Importation of peanuts from China threaten to ruin the growers of America, according to a statement which is being distributed to farmers in the Southern states by the United Peanut Association of America, urging them to co-operate for their own protection. The association proposes as a remedy a restrictive tariff on peanuts and vegetable oils.

The production of peanuts in China, it asserts, has increased on a tremendous scale in the past few years, and the importations for the year ending June 30, it adds, were in excess of 150,000,000 pounds.

If some fools were to remain quiet they might acquire a reputation for wisdom.

Water Power in China.

China's great commercial water highway, the Yang-tse Kiang, is to be put to work. To keep the river always at flood level, and, incidentally, to get rid of rapids which interfere with navigation, seven dams will be constructed. The project contemplates the development of 31,000,000 electric horsepower, and will cost $4,000,000.

This is the first important water power development undertaken in China, whose industrial future has a wonderful outlook in that direction. For, thanks to its lofty mountain ranges, the Flowery land has far greater water power available than any other country in the world.

COMMON ERROR IN GRAMMAR

Words "Begun" and "Began" Are Wrongly Used by Those Careless in Their Speech.

It is quite common to hear some one say, "I begun to do that work yesterday," "the battle begun between the two armies," etc. This use of "begun" to express the past tense (sometimes called the preterit) of "begin" is not incorrect, according to some authorities on the uses of words, but there is a fairly general agreement that the better word to use is "began." If you wish to safeguard yourself against possible criticism, say "I began to do that work yesterday."

"The battle begun between the two armies," etc., not "began."

Richard Grant White, in "Words and Their Uses," a high authority, criticizes and condemns the use of "begun" instead of "began" to express the past.

Of course, it is incorrect beyond any doubt to say, "I have begun" to express the perfect tense of "begin." Say, "I have begun," never "I have begun."

THE DOLPHINS

By CLARA C. HOLMES.

"Oh, Mr. Campbell, see!" exclaimed Janet Ashmont, rising in her seat in the motorboat.

"Those monsters are called 'black-fish,'" he replied. "There is a big school and some of them are 10 feet long. I'm going ashore."

"Please, don't go—the fishermen aren't minding," remonstrated the fearless young woman.

"But the creatures are chasing us, Janet. See, one just leaped right out of the water! Suppose one jumps at us!"

Campbell put on speed and soon reached the boat moorings, some distance from the rock-bound shore.

Janet sat silent; she was disappointed, for she had been enjoying her boat ride.

Frank stopped and gazed up and around the sky. A black cloudbank hovered on the eastern horizon. Frank knotted the ropes securely and then adjusted a canvas covering. He was very methodical.

"My boat is dancing where I tied her myself before I was ill; I haven't a cover, either," ejaculated Janet, spitefully.

"That is only a matter of judgment," Frank responded, assisting the girl into his rowboat. He was gentle, but not love-like; but she was cross with him.

On the shore, delaying to push off his dory, Atwell Reynolds awaited them.

"Engine trouble, Campbell," he asked. "No black fish," frankly admitted Frank.

"Oh, ho!" scoffed Atwell. "Dolphins avoid motorboats."

"They are strange creatures to me, so I took no chances," retorted Frank. "Miss Ashmont," smiled the suave Reynolds. "May I ask you to accompany me? The dolphins are sportful, and like to race at a safe distance."

"I'll go with you; the water is rough."

Frank sauntered toward an old fisherman repairing traps. He began to chat, but he was jealously watching the couple rowing away.

Since she had met Reynolds, three weeks before at this Cape Cod resort, Miss Ashmont had encouraged the new friend's advances, and had seemed annoyed because Frank was so unyielding.

"So you're afraid of black fish?" asked the old lobsterman, quizzically. "I did not want to enhance the lady's safety," explained Frank.

"You're safe in a motorboat; them fish ain't got no use for propellers."

The old man was a true weather prophet. Suddenly the wind turned northeast and rain fell. Frank hurried out and refastened Janet's motorboat. Atwell landed his passenger; but she was frightened and drenched.

All day the storm raged, and all night. Several in-bound boats came ashore. Atwell's launch was dashed to pieces upon the rocks. Mud-black waves rolled in and, curling, spent their fury in a seething, angry foam.

Among the on-lookers upon the bank Janet stood worrying about her boat. At length, when the wind abated, two hardy fishermen launched a rowboat.

"The fishermen will look after their property, and wisely leave us to do likewise," sagely suggested Frank Campbell. "Come, Reynolds," he continued deliberately, "you are the best boatman and swimmer here; it is up to you to assist me in saving our friends sinking boats."

"All the boats in this bay aren't worth two human lives," refused Reynolds.

Then a U. S. marine volunteered to accompany Frank.

With hearts beating anxiously, the people gathered saw the young men battling with the breakers. They watched them struggle from craft to craft and bail each one light. They cheered when the brave boatmen, drenched and chilled, reached the shore.

The next day Frank Campbell made a business trip to town. He was so deeply engrossed in business affairs for a week, indeed, that Janet hesitated to approach him. At last she met him alone in a grove path. His manner was formal, but she slipped her arm into his.

"I told father about the dolphins," she ventured, "and he admires your discretion. I got a scolding for going out with Mr. Reynolds."

"I'm sorry, Janet, you were scolded; I dare say I bored you enough with my logic."

"Your logic!" she replied. "Yes; in this I am a disciple of Colton: 'Deliberate with caution but act with decision.'"

After a pause she resumed, sweetly: "The girl you choose for your wife will be honored."

For the moment he lost his head; his arm tightened around her as he asked tensely:

"Do you sincerely think so, Janet?"

"Yes."

To her surprise he smiled and changed the subject.

She was constant afterward. Several times she tried to intimate him again, but he was adamant until near the close of his vacation; then he declared his intention to secure a license and wished her to marry him the very next week. In her surprise she said nothing.

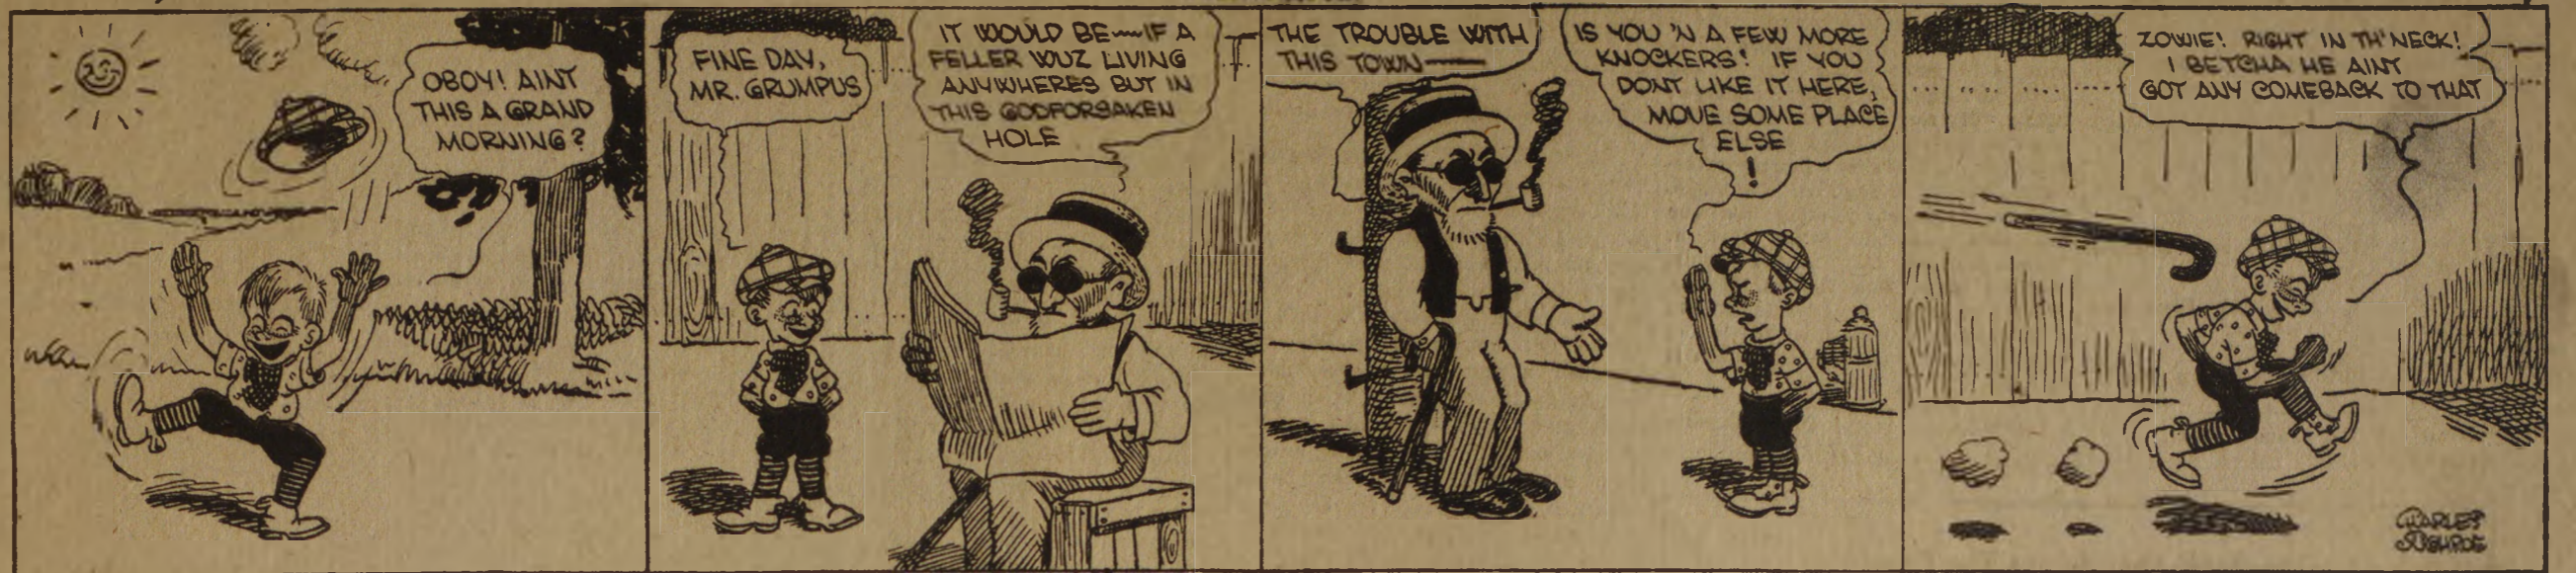

Later, when she conferred with her mother, she advised:

"It's no use trying to change his dear, stubborn head."

TEACHERS' PENSION FUND

Twenty-five Thousand Teachers Now Contributing

More than 25,000 school teachers in Illinois are contributing to the Illinois teachers pension and retirement fund and 1,076 have retired under its provisions, according to a report of Secretary R. O. Clarida, made at the quarterly meeting of the pension board.

Thirty teachers were added to the retired list last quarter, which ended Oct. 1. Included in this thirty are two former city superintendents, Hugh S. Magill of Springfield and John K. Stableton of Bloomington. Among the teachers whose retirement was announced are the following: Elizabeth A. Arnett, Bloomington; Grace Cooley, Evanston; Julia D. Estes, Taylorville; May A. Fanson, Bloomington; Mary E. McIntyre, Monmouth; Minnie A. Rudolph, Belleville; Jennie A. Schwartz, Knoxville; Sallie Ver Bryck, Champaign; Mrs. C. H. Coates, Edwardsville; Edith S. Patten, DeKalb.

Sixteen years' service in school teaching is required before retirement. The total of those retired, Mr. Clarida announced, was reduced this quarter by the death of 57 pensioned teachers and the return to service of 45.

When a pensioned teacher retires she is entitled under the law to receive $25 annually for each year in the service up to 16 years.

ANOTHER RELIGION

Bound to be a Change at the White House

There is bound to be a change in the religious complexion of things at the White House after the presidential election that is coming.

No matter which one of the two old party candidates is chosen, and it is now considered tolerably certain that one of these candidates will be selected, there will be a new brand of denominational belief represented. Never has a man of the Baptist faith held the office of chief executive. Warren G. Harding, republican, is a Baptist.

No member of the United Brethren church has ever been at the head of this nation. James M. Cox is a member of the United Brethren.

It is interesting to note what phases of religious faith have been represented by the men who have been elected to the presidency of the United States. The catalogue would read as follows:

George Washington was an Episcopalian; John Adams, Unitarian; Thomas Jefferson, Liberal; James Monroe, Episcopalian; John Quincy Adams, Unitarian; Andrew Jackson, Presbyterian; Martin Van Buren, Reformed Dutch; William H. Harrison, Episcopalian; John Tyler, Episcopalian; James K. Polk, Presbyterian; Zachary Taylor, Episcopalian; Millard Fillmore, Unitarian; Franklin Pierce, Episcopalian; James Buchanan, Presbyterian; Abraham Lincoln, Presbyterian; Andrew Johnson, Methodist; U. S. Grant, Methodist; Rufus B. Hayes, Methodist; James A. Garfield, Disciples; Chester A. Arthur, Episcopalian; Grover Cleveland, Presbyterian; Benjamin Harrison, Presbyterian; William McKinley, Methodist; Theodore Roosevelt, Reformed Dutch; William H. Taft, Unitarian; and Woodrow Wilson is a Presbyterian.

Eight Episcopallians, seven Presbyterians, four Methodists, four Unitarians, with the rest "scattering" is the record. And the next President will be none of these. The first United Brethren or the first Baptist is to be chosen.

Republican Voters

EVERY good American—man or woman—owes it to his country, as a debt of honor, to vote on November 2. To fail in this is to fail in a plain duty and to shirk the obligation of citizenship.

Republicans of steadfast faith, Independents who would rescue America from Democratic misgovernment, Democrats who distrust their own leadership, new voters—men and women—who seek their country's best good, all can achieve their desires on election day. To do this they should—

PARTIES are responsible for conditions in America, not persons. We depend upon a party to promote progress, remedy evils and give efficiency in the public service. Persons can do neither. A vote for a party is a vote that will count. A vote for a person is a wasted vote.

In Tuesday's election the issue is one between a party and a person—between Republicanism and Wilsonism. Every vote cast for any Republican candidate will be an endorsement of Republican principles. Every vote cast against any Republican candidate will be an endorsement of Wilson policies and practices.

Republican principles mean the maintenance of American independence; protection of American labor, husbandry and industry; economy in the expenditure of public money; reduced taxes; efficiency in the public service in nation, state and county; stability of American institutions and consequent prosperity and progress.

Wilson policies and practices have been for surrender of American independence to a super-state League of Nations; free trade and protection of profiteering; extravagance and waste in spending the people's money and high taxes; caring for "deserving Democrats" in the public service; social, commercial and industrial unrest.

Lincoln, greatest of Republicans, said, "A house divided against itself cannot stand." Team work gets the best results. Harmony between the executive and the legislative branches of government in both state and nation is essential to real achievement. To vote the straight Republican ticket is to vote for harmony and team work in the public service. To "scratch" a ballot is to endorse turmoil and inefficiency.

Women of Illinois have attained full citizenship. The Republican party was the chief instrument in giving it to them. With men just come of age they are "first voters." For all these the "scratched" ballot has fatal pit-falls. The one sure way, and the easiest, to make their first full vote count is to mark a cross in the Republican party circle.

For a new deal at Washington; for harmony and continued efficiency in state government; for the success of Republican principles, take no chances.

Republican men and women, voters of all faiths opposed to Wilson, to accomplish this, vote on Tuesday, Nov. 2, and—

Vain Warnings.

An eminent actor-manager tells a story concerning a clergyman and his actor son. Prior to his going on the stage the father wrote to the manager, saying, "My son, John, has threatened to go on the stage, and I want you to stop him." However, shortly afterward, the son did go on the stage, and the manager, meeting him one day, asked how his father took it. "I have not seen him," was the reply, "but he takes some interest in me, because whenever any actor is charged with a crime he underlines the report of it in the newspapers and sends it to me."

High School Notes

Contributed by Sophomore Class

The members of the eighth grade were guests of the ninth grade at the Sodeberg home Friday evening. The party was a Halloween affair and the entertainers arose to the occasion with great spirit.

The location was ideal for such an affair. The youngsters greatly felt the need of protection as they made their way up the lane, for on each fence post a ghostly face greeted them. Upon arriving at their destination, they found the yard and house decorated with autumn flowers, corn shocks and pumpkins, and other Halloween decorations.

Games were played, and, after a light lunch, the majority returned home, tired but happy.

The Domestic Science class has taken possession of the basement. The electric burners and ovens have arrived, and the girls have entered into the spirit of the subject. Each girl was obliged to make her own apparel, which consists of white aprons, wristlets, and holders. Two days of the week are devoted to cooking and two days to sewing, while the fifth is used for recitations. Each girl was assigned a certain task, after which she was allowed to cook.

The girls are picking on Mr. Mackenzie most enthusiastically.

Miss Skinner, who is very competent along these lines, will not be forgotten in the future when the girls are forced to cook for themselves.

The basket-ball team, under the supervision of Mr. Hood, is gaining headway. The boys are practicing three nights a week, on the grounds back of the old school house; and Mr. Hood has received a list of the names of schools with whom we might schedule games.

As yet no definite playing schedule has been arranged. Kingston has written for a game and, if it is not too cold for outside playing, the boys will probably take them up inside of a few weeks.

The hall has not yet been secured for playing.

In Commerce and Industry Mr. Moore said that automobiles and their parts were much more expensive in Europe than in the United States. It's a good thing that Gus doesn't live in France.

Three well known "alley-rats" (so called by one of the intelligent Freshies, who ought to know) crept thru Brown's woods last Friday night to partake of eighth and ninth grade fun and met with the greatest surprise in their lives, in the form of one of the—nuff sed.

Why is it that the Junior High School has more pep than the Senior classes? It's about time for us to come to life, have some parties, and show that we are existing.

Say girls: Why doesn't Myrtle share some of her popularity with the rest of us?

Iolene Gallagher is absent from school because of her father's illness. We all hope to see her back soon.

Who is the "one" boy who has left school that Evelyn misses? We all extend our sincere sympathy to her.

Wanted: A man. Preferably one wearing glasses. Ruth Austin, 141 Edward and Margaret Hill have returned to their home in Oklahoma. They will be greatly missed by all.

Eunice manages to get six letters a week, but she is careful enough not to let us get a peek at them.

Wayne had better practice reading on the old cow.

Earle Russell says that it is necessary for him to go to band practice at Kingston on Friday nights. But does he always go there when he goes to Kingston?

The Seniors of this year seem to think that it is something unusual that they are going to graduate in May. Others have done it in years before and it will be continued in years to come, Seniors.

The Junior and Senior assemblies are progressing nicely. The chairman for the Senior assembly for last week, was Paul Nolthan. Reports were given by Evelyn Patterson, Florence Brown, Earle Ausell, Eunice Berkly and John Dyer. There was a violin solo by Harry Adler.

Franz Grans is now employed in The Republican office, working after school during the week and all day Saturday. Edward Christensen, who graduated a year ago, learned the printer's trade while attending high school. In The Republican office, and the editor states that Franz is faithfully following in the footsteps of the incomparable "Eddie."

Arctic Cold Misunderstood. There is a great deal of misunderstanding relative to the cold of the Arctic regions. The absence or presence of water and altitude are important factors in determining temperature. As the altitude increases going North, the bite of the weather is lessened so that there is little or no inconvenience to be experienced from the cold.

Ford
 THE UNIVERSAL CAR

The Ford Sedan, with electric self-starting and lighting system and demountable rims with 3 1/2-inch tires front and rear, for every day in the year has no equal as a family car. Just as popular on the farm as it is in the city. In fact, it fits the family demands in every vocation of life. Large, roomy seats, finely upholstered, plate glass windows make it an open car in pleasant weather, while in rainy and inclement weather it becomes a closed car, dust-proof and rain-proof. It is not only comfortable, but really cozy, and above all, economical in operation and maintenance, and has all the Ford merits of strength and durability.

It's the vote in the ballot box that counts.

Eleven hundred votes should be cast in Genoa next Tuesday. Remember it is the vote in the ballot box that counts. See that yours is counted.

President Wilson says that we are still at war with Germany. Very well, that being the case, let us vote for peace next Tuesday and bring the balance of our soldiers home.

Is every member of the American Legion for the League of Nations? Ask them. They have seen enough of foreign entanglements, they, more than any others, visualize the burden that such a league will place on the United States soldiery.

Were a soldier at the front to refuse to enter action, saying that his bullet could not win the battle, he would be called a traitor. What will we term the man or woman who refuses to vote, saying that his or her vote will not win the election?

Every woman should vote next Tuesday and not only because it is her duty as a citizen. She must repudiate and prove erroneous the statement of the anti-suffragists that women do not want the ballot. Do not give them an opportunity to say "I told you so."

THE KISS OF DEATH

Despite the fact that one of the owners of the Chicago Tribune is a United States senator, elected by Republican votes, despite the fact that the Tribune is opposed to the league of nations, despite the fact that it claims to be the world's greatest newspaper and professes to stand for all that is good, it quite frequently proves itself to be the world's greatest organ for self interest. In supporting Lewis for Governor it proves itself to be in a class several degrees below the Chicago Journal. The Journal is a Democratic paper and is radically so, making no apologies and asking no favors from the opposition. One always knows where the Journal stands. The Tribune, for personal spite, throws its professed principles aside. The support of the Tribune is more the "kiss of death" than ever the Hearst papers were supposed to be. It has lost its prestige for influence, for the people now know that it has no other platform than self interest.

MISREPRESENTATION

The insincere and biased attitude of the metropolitan press is proven in an article in the Chicago Journal under date of October 27. The Journal attempts to turn the farmer vote from Senator Harding by deliberate misrepresentation. The Journal insists that the senator favors $1.00 wheat. The statement is a deliberate contortion of the facts.

What Senator Harding said may be found on pages 5,268 and 5,269 of the congressional record. The speeches were made in July, 1917. The record is clear enough. The following extracts are taken from it verbatim.

"I know a little something about farming. I have followed the cradle senators, with the rake when wheat sold for 40 cents a bushel. That was in the day when farming was something of a contest of subsistence. In the latter day, farming has become an occupation of profit, and I happen to know that under normal conditions dollar wheat makes it a very profitable occupation—perhaps not to the farmer who farms the farmers, but it is to the farmer who farms a farm."

Note the date this speech was uttered (over three years ago) and note that the Senator was speaking of normal conditions.

Mrs. J. R. Kiernan was called to Chicago Thursday morning on account of the death of her cousin, Mrs. Helen Colbert.

CENTER OF MUCH HISTORY

Palace of Versailles Has Figured in Events Which Affected Whole Civilized World.

The palace at Versailles ranks among the world's historic centers where nations made history. There Great Britain first recognized the independence of the United States. The French Revolution was given birth when the Third Estate formed a national assembly there. William I was crowned German emperor at Versailles while Paris was being besieged, and representatives of the civilized world made peace at this eminent palace with the "Madman of Europe."

Versailles became historically great by mere chance. Having first served as a hunting chateau for Louis XIII, it attracted the next Louis, who planned his residence on so large a scale that the construction of an aqueduct engaged 30,000 men for many years. It later vibrated with the echoes of human dramas, involving the disaster of Louis XIV and Marie Antoinette. The unhappy Valliere, the vainglorious Montespan, and the austere Maintenon successively loved, infatuated and exploited Louis at Versailles. The brilliant Pompadour and the seductive du Barry shone among the mistresses at the palace, while some 10,000 drunken women from Paris broke through the gates and sent Louis fleeing to the Tuilleries. The "Gallery of Mirrors" reflects a great many interesting scenes connected with the story of Versailles among them being one which shows Louis making pancakes for his mistress' breakfast, the most arduous exercise of the man who proclaimed himself "the state."

Florida's Exceptional Climate. Throughout Florida there is more rain in the summer than in the winter. The rainy season begins and ends a little earlier in the western part than in the eastern part of the state. The dryness of the winters is an important factor in making Florida an ideal winter resort. By far the greatest part of the summer rain comes in the daytime in the form of brief showers, which cool the air.

Gruesome Paving. Tombstones have been employed in Nottinghamshire, Derbyshire, Lincolnshire and Lancashire, England, for purposes of paving, and some years ago the inhabitants of the Vale of Belvoir raised a vehement protest against such stones being used as a pathway leading to the parish church. The local authorities, however, sought to justify the measure on the ground that there were plenty of old gravestones on hand, which, if used, might result in a saving of taxes.

Diversified Decoration. William was leading the way to where he kept his rabbits. The visitors followed and finally reached the rabbit house, where they stopped to admire the little white, gray, and black-spotted rabbits. "Look," William exclaimed, pointing to the rabbits. "they are all decorated differently, aren't they?"

Novel Use for Ice. An engineer has invented the following method for making hollow concrete blocks. Hitherto it has been difficult to make large cavities in concrete, but it can be done, the engineer points out, by embedding blocks of ice in the mass of concrete and introducing small outlets for the escape of the water after melting. This method also makes unnecessary the constant moistening usual in concrete work as it is automatically supplied by the melting ice.

De Kalb County, Ill. Gentlemen: I submit below an estimate of the cost of constructing a macadam shoulder along each side of the concrete road leading between Sycamore and De Kalb, from the point west of Sycamore where the two cement drives join in front of the Stevens farm, to the twelve-toe driveway in De Kalb township. The only cost of stone to be used in this estimate is for the macadam shoulders, as estimated, which would be three feet in width with a depth of eight inches at the front of the cement and six inches at the outer edge. Freight on 1,555 cu. yds. (2322 tons) at $35 cents per ton would be $54,425.00. Excavating 80 cubic yards, including trimming edges, 40 cents per yd. would be $32.00. Total $54,457.00. Respectfully submitted, A. R. RUSSELL, Chairman.

Mr. Jarboe presented the following resolution in regard to the proposition made by the state highway commission: "Resolved that we accept the offer made by the state highway commission to pay one-half of the cost of the improvements on the De Kalb-Sycamore road."

The question being on motion of Mr. Jarboe and the roll being called the vote was as follows: Ayes, 10; Nays, 0. Messrs. Anderson, Bartlett, Conrad, Hippie, Jarboe, Pooler, Townsend, Wright, Horan and Hyde, aye. Mr. Kingsley being absent.

Mr. White presented and read the following reports of the county clerk and auditor: Mr. White reported that he had received from the state highway commission a check for $1,000.00, which he had deposited to the credit of the county.

Mr. Jarboe presented the following letter from the state highway commission regarding the concrete road between Sycamore and DeKalb, which was referred to the superintendent of highways, DeKalb, Ill., Sept. 15, 1920.

Dear Sir: Referring to the concrete pavement between DeKalb and Sycamore, you will see that the state is willing to furnish the stone necessary to place a stone shoulder thereon. I am in receipt of a check for one-half of the freight and one-half of the cost of placing the stone, providing the county is willing to arrange to have the trucks with them on the same basis as offered to the county.

We would like to place them through you and arrange to have them in the manner in which they are being handled. We do not mean to request you to do any special work along this line but if it comes to your attention at any time that the trucks are not being properly taken care of, please let us know.

Yours truly, S. E. BRADT, Superintendent of Highways. The board adjourned on motion of Mr. White to meet at 1:30 p. m. Motion carried.

Metal Pen Result of Accident.
 Some 80 years ago Joseph Gillett was a working jeweler in Birmingham, England. One day he accidentally split one of his fine steel tools, and, being suddenly required to sign a receipt, and not finding a pen handy, he used the split tool as a substitute. This happy accident is said to have led to the idea of making pens of metal.

Dreaming of Ditches.
 It's bad luck to dream of ditches. If they are deep, it foretells all kinds of misfortune, lessened in degree only by growing shallowness. Thieves will rob your house. When your children grow up they will be undisciplined. If you are in love, you'll have a quarrel with your sweetheart. If you are in business, you will suffer heavy loss. LAND PRICES

Average in DeKalb County $210.43 For Five Year Period

Sycamore True Republican: The average sale price of land in DeKalb county from January, 1915, to September, 1920, a period of about 5 1/2 years was $210.43 an acre. The total number of sales in the county during that time was 539, and the total acreage covered by said sales 60,821. Although the average estimated true value per acre, including improvements, of the county, on April 1, 1920, by complete assessment ration process was $250.75, the average assessed full value of the land per acre for 1919 was only $77.05. The above and other interesting figures were compiled by T. A. Polleys, tax commissioner for the C. & N. W. railroad company.

He also gives the number of transfers, acreages covered by said transfers and the average sale price during the 1915-1920 period mentioned in each township of this county as follows:

Franklin—47 transfers, 4,772 acres at $130.78 per acre.

Kingston—41 transfers, 3,666 acres at $136.94 per acre.

Genoa—41 transfers, 5,151 acres at $204.92 per acre.

South Grove—36 transfers, 3,894 acres at $195.71 per acre.

DeKalb—26 transfers, 2,576 acres at $271.63 per acre.

Cortland—32 transfers, 2,913 acres at $244.85 per acre.

Milan—32 transfers, 4,019 acres at $206.93 per acre.

Aiton—32 transfers, 5,532 acres at $204.99 per acre.

Pierce—18 transfers, 2,429 acres at $200.21 per acre.

Shabbona—37 transfers, 4,049 acres at $194.21 per acre.

Clinton—22 transfers, 2,360 acres at $187.78 per acre.

Squaw Grove—33 transfers, 4,068 acres at $231.73 per acre.

Paw Paw—15 transfers, 2,302 acres at $243.36 per acre.

Sandwich-Somonauk—44 transfers, 3,691 acres at $253.27.

The estimated true value of real estate and the 1919 assessment full value of general personal property are given by Mr. Polleys in 42 towns of northern Illinois of a population between 2,000 and 5,000. He says that Sycamore had during the 1915-1920 period mentioned 156 transfers of the estimated 1920 true value of the real estate per capita being $4,219.564; the per capita value $987; and that real estate assessment ration was high—over 55 per cent which was equalled in the 42 towns by only Ladd, Marengo, Marselles, Petersburg and Princeton.

Illinois Indians Defeat Michigan Saturday—Homecoming This Week

A tremendous ovation was given Bob Zuppke and the victorious Indians when they returned yesterday from Ann Arbor. Several thousand students were at the Illinois Central station to welcome them home.

Fighting on a strange field and against a team inspired by 30,000 frantic rooters, their victory was indeed a creditable one. The closeness of the score does not reveal the real strength of the teams, for, during the game, Illinois made 14 first downs to the 3 which Michigan made. The Illinois players came through the struggle in good shape. Bobbie Fletcher suffered, in fact, the only serious injury, in getting a severe cut over his eye.

Attention is now being turned toward the Homecoming game with Minnesota. The Gophers would rather beat Illinois this year than any of the other teams they know, and Dr. Williams has been pointing his charges toward this game for weeks.

The Illini rooters are rejoicing at the return of last year's captain, Bill Kopf, into the game. Bill was one of the best captains Illinois ever had and he was endowed with the real school spirit.

The Illinois Union is making extensive plans to entertain their visitors this week. The entire University district is to be decorated with flags and colors, and the week end will be given over to the hundreds of returning Alumni. On Friday there will be staged a monster class scrap, in which through tugs-of-war, and boxing and wrestling bouts, the freshman and sophomore classes will struggle for supremacy. Following this will be a gigantic hobo parade, in which every senior in school, disguised as a "ho" will march.

Friday night there will be a monstrous pep meeting, where the old graduates and student body will hear from Coach Zuppke and from Captain Depler. Saturday afternoon, at 2:30, there will be the true test of the Homecoming, when the Indians will endeavor to send Dr. Williams' Gophers back to their native land in a hurry.

Lines to Be Remembered.
 Thought takes man out of servitude into freedom.—Emerson.

Nine Points of the Law.
 It has been said that success in litigation requires a good deal of patience, a good deal of money, a good cause, a good lawyer, a good counsel, good witnesses, a good jury, a good judge, and, last but not least, good luck. But the saying is really a part of the proverb which says that "possession is nine points of the law," and that anybody is welcome to the tenth if they can get anything out of it.

Belgian Hares.
 The Belgian hare is of a mahogany color, with wide black markings on the ears and wavy black ticking on the body; no sign of white should appear, even on the feet. There are several varieties of Flemish Giant, one being steel gray with the under part of the body nearly white, another more nearly white, another more nearly brown than gray, and another black. White Giants are pure white with pink eyes.
