Form Trust to Raise Prices at Dubuque Rockford Dairymen Arrested for Adulterating Milk

About fourteen doctors of Dubuque were indicted by the grand jury there recently on a charge of conspiracy and violation of the anti-trust laws. The cause was the agreement of the physicians' association to raise the prices they charge for their services. The outcome of the indictment will be watched with interest all over the country.

Baldwin was buried beside his first wife at Hampshire, Mrs. Baldwin will be laid at rest in the churchyard in the Vermont town where they were married.

It is a surprising fact and one of general interest that in the state of New York there are 12,000 abandoned farms, representing an area of 12,000,000 acres and capable of caring for a population of 250,000. It is stated that farm lands in that state have decreased $170,000,000 in value in the last twenty years. The abandonment of the farms, according to the reports of government inspectors, is not because of lack of fertility. It is due to the fact that the sons and daughters of the farmers have been attracted to the cities. In many districts all of the farmers are men of advanced age and as fast as these die the farms become untenanted.

LIKE TREATMENT OF RICH AND POOR

THEME OF PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S ADDRESS TO THE PEOPLE OF KEOKUK.

He Talks to Thousands—Emphasizes Necessity of Individual Merit and Self-Mastery — Negroes Present Him with Gold-Headed Cane.

Keokuk, Ia., Oct. 2.—Keokuk put on her Sunday dress to receive the president of the United States when he arrived here at nine o'clock Tuesday, and the people of the city were assisted in their reception of the chief magistrate by a notable gathering of distinguished men, including the governors of more than a dozen states, a number of members of both houses of congress and the members of the inland waterway commission.

The occasion of the president's coming was the movement in the interest of a deep waterway down the Mississippi river to the gulf, and this city was selected as the point of embarkation on his voyage down the river, which will end at Memphis next Friday. He was given a drive through the city and made a noteworthy speech at Rand park to many thousands of people.

Mr. Roosevelt embarked on the steamer Mississippi a few minutes before noon, and it was scheduled to reach St. Louis at 9:45 a. m. Wednesday. He was accompanied by Gov. Frantz of Oklahoma and Seth Bullock of the Black Hills.

Varies His Written Speech. As at Canton, the president did not deliver his speech here just as he had prepared it and given it to the press. He did not omit any feature, but frequently turned from his manuscript to interject extemporaneous remarks for the purpose of emphasis and elaboration. Before beginning he insisted that the ropes be let down so as to admit enough people to fill a number of vacant seats, and when a man and a woman appeared carrying children he directed that they be given chairs.

"Now," he said, when these preliminaries had been arranged to his satisfaction, "we can proceed."

Again, as on Monday, his theme was like treatment for rich and poor, and again he found occasion to point his story with familiar colloquialisms. "Isn't that good doctrine?" he asked, after stating his proposition, addressing the Grand Army group in front of him, and when he received a shout of assent he proceeded to say that he was always willing to help a man who stumbles and falls, but not to carry the man who "lies down." "It does him no good, and it is too much for me," he added.

Individual Merit Counts. He dwelt on the necessity for self-mastery, declaring that "every man must have a master," and adding that "if he does not master himself, someone else will do so." In another connection he laid down the general proposition that "an Al private soldier is worth a number of poor major generals," but added that an Al major general is invaluable, the point being that individual merit is the pearl of great price in every walk of life. He was willing to help the big railroad man who was honest, and would protect him against the demagogue, but he would not desist in his condemnation of those who were not acting honestly.

"You will remember that a year ago I expressed my opinion of certain undesirable citizens," he said, "and I stand by what I said." He added that he would always condemn the man who incites to murder, and would demand punishment for that offense, as he would for the crime of the corporation criminals. He would treat both alike and just as he would treat other offenders. He also emphasized the importance of preparation for any work.

That the American people can "whip the world" he conceded, but contended that they would have a hard time doing it if not prepared. He would have all, both men and women, do well some work that was worth doing, and he announced his contempt for the woman who would shirk her duty as wife and mother.

Negroes Give Him a Cane. There was a considerable rainfall during the delivery of the speech, but the president did not allow it to interfere in any way. After he had concluded he was presented with a gold-headed cane by the negroes of Keokuk. The presentation speech was made by a negro plasterer, who assured the president that the negro population of Keokuk has every confidence in his administration and in his determination to treat the black race with fairness. The incident seemed to touch the president. He grasped the speaker's hand and held it tightly while he made reply, saying that he accepted the present with great pleasure, and adding that in dealing with the black man, as in dealing with the white, he followed what he believed to be the only sane principle, that of treating every man according to his merits, as an individual, regardless of race.

GREAT CATHEDRAL BEGUN AT CAPITAL

FOUNDATION STONE IS LAID OF EPISCOPAL EDIFICE IN WASHINGTON.

Bishop Satterlee Wields the Trowel—Address Is Made by President Roosevelt and the Bishop of London Delivers the Salutation.

Washington, Sept. 30.—Sunday witnessed two events here of general interest to the religious world at large, and especially to the Episcopal church. The first and chief of these events was the laying of the foundation stone of the Cathedral of Saints Peter and Paul at Mount St. Alban, Wisconsin avenue. The other was the great open air service on the same grounds, under the auspices of the international convention of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, which brought to a close the convention which has been in session here for the past week.

The corner stone laying was under the guidance of the Episcopal church in America. It was a notable occasion, made more so by the presence of the president of the United States, the bishop of London and other distinguished people.

Corner Stone Is Laid. After Scripture readings and prayers by the bishops, interspersed with selections by the Marine band, Bishop Satterlee performed the ceremony of laying the foundation stone. The trowel was the one used in laying the foundation stone of the capitol building and the gavel was used by George Washington.

The ceremony of laying the foundation stone completed, Bishop Satterlee introduced President Roosevelt, who spoke as follows:

"I have to say but one word of greeting to you to-day, and to wish you godspeed in the work begun this noon. The salutation is to be delivered by our guest, the bishop of London, who has a right to speak to us, because he has shown in his life that he treats his high office as high office should be treated, either in church or state, and above all, in a democracy such as ours, simply as giving a chance to render service. If office is accepted by any man for its own sake and because of the honor it is to confer, he accepts it to his own harm and to the infinite harm of those whom he ought to serve. Its sole value comes in the state, but above all its sole value comes in the church, if it is seized by the man who holds it as giving the chance to do yet more useful work for the people whom he serves."

Following the address of the president, the bishop of London delivered the salutation.

TO PRESERVE STATE RIGHTS

ATTORNEYS GENERAL ADOPT A MEMORIAL TO CONGRESS.

Ask Law Checking Federal Courts—Committed to Draft Anti-Trust Litigation Scheme.

St. Louis, Oct. 2.—Action that will have a far reaching effect in anti-trust and corporation litigation and which will bear fruit in almost every state in the union was taken by the convention of attorneys general in its final session here Tuesday. A committee was appointed to draft a resolution which is expected to remove a thorn in the flesh of the state officers, the interference by federal circuit courts with the operation of state laws.

The resolution is in the shape of a memorial to congress and is as follows:

"Resolved, by the convention of attorneys general of the several states here assembled, that we earnestly recommend to the favorable consideration of the president and the congress of the United States the enactment of a federal law providing that no circuit court of the United States, or any judge exercising powers of such circuit courts, shall have jurisdiction in any case brought to restrain any officers of a state or any administrative board of a state from instituting in a state court any suit or other appropriate proceeding to enforce the laws of such state or to enforce any order made by such administrative board; but allowing any person or corporation asserting in any such action in a state court any right arising under the constitution or any laws of the United States to have the decision of the highest court of such state reviewed by the supreme court of the United States as now provided by law.

We also recommend that suits in federal circuit courts by persons interested in corporations to restrain such corporations from obeying the laws of states in which they are doing business be prohibited."

On recommendation of the committee on organization the following were chosen as officers: President, H. S. Hadley, of Missouri; vice president, Dana Malone, of Massachusetts; secretary and treasurer, William H. Dickson, of Colorado.

"LITTLE BLACK BOOK" PROBE ON.

Minneapolis Lumbermen Accused of Scheme to Badger Firms.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 2.—Several Minneapolis and Chicago firms engaged in the mail-order business of sash, door and blinds expect to fasten on Minneapolis lumbermen the blame of publishing and distributing the "Little Black Book."

They hope to show the connection of these men with the Lumbermen's association. The investigation was begun before the federal grand jury in Minneapolis Tuesday.

These firms contend that the distribution of the "Little Black Book" was part of the scheme in a conspiracy to defraud by the use of the mails. The fraud, they say, consisted in the instructions in the book, that the recipient carry on a correspondence with certain listed firms, causing a noyance and cost, but transacting no business with them.

MONUMENT OF MARTYRED PRESIDENT IS DEDICATED AT CANTON.

Fifty Thousand There — President Roosevelt Delivers Eulogy of His Predecessor Before the Stately Mausoleum That Holds Remains.

Canton, O., Oct. 1.—The nation paid homage Monday to the memory of William McKinley when the splendid monument which marks his last resting place was unveiled in the presence of an assembled throng such as Canton never saw before, and with the president of the United States as the principal speaker.

It was the tribute of a grateful nation, both in word and in deed, to "a good citizen, a brave soldier, a wise executive," and more than 50,000 persons, representing all walks of life and every part of the country, participated in the ceremonies of dedicating the monument, the loving gift of a million Americans whose contributions, aggregating $600,000, provided the splendid tomb in which rests the bodies of the third of the martyred presidents, his wife and their two children.

Noted Men in Gathering.

Distinguished men from all parts of the country and many representatives of foreign countries made the pilgrimage here to participate in the dedication of the mausoleum and made the event a notable one.

The president arrived in Canton on a special train over the Pennsylvania railroad at 10:15 in the morning. The train was met by a reception committee. The president was escorted to the Central high school building, where he and his escort passed in review before 1,700 school children grouped and dressed to represent the national flag. The president immediately drove to the reviewing stand, where he witnessed the magnificent military and civic parade which took nearly an hour and a half in passing. At the close of the parade Mr. Roosevelt took luncheon at the Auditorium, and at one o'clock was taken to Monument Hill.

City Decorated and Guarded.

The city of Canton was elaborately decorated for the occasion. Along the streets, in the downtown section, columns were erected, between which the president passed. The streets were roped off and no one was allowed on the pavement. This was done for the double purpose of protecting the president and handling the crowd to a better advantage. Thousands of soldiers manned the ropes, and every spot was guarded.

Both in the city and at the monument there were private grandstands to which admission was charged at a high figure. Some of these were authorized by the Memorial committee upon the condition that a percentage of the proceeds be devoted to the National McKinley Memorial association, to be used toward meeting the expenses of the day.

Cheers Great Roosevelt.

The arrival of President Roosevelt upon the stand was awaited anxiously and greeted with cheers. The audience arose. The president was the last to enter the stand. He was accompanied by Justice Day and Vice President Fairbanks. At 2:24 Justice Day called the assemblage to order, and in a few words introduced Gov. Harris, president of the day.

Gov. Harris introduced Rev. Dr. Bristol, of Washington, D. C., whose church President McKinley attended when in Washington. Dr. Bristol offered prayer. Gov. Harris then delivered the opening address of the ceremony.

Justice Day arose to tell the story of the history of the building of the mausoleum, which arose majestically in the background, after singing of "The Star Spangled Banner" by the assemblage.

Unveiled by Miss McKinley.

President Harris then asked the audience to rise while Miss Helen McKinley, the only sister of the late president, drew aside the flag disclosing the bronze figure of McKinley in the attitude of delivering his last speech on the day of his assassination at Buffalo, September 5, 1901. The flag was removed slowly and impressively. This was followed by the reading of the poem entitled "William McKinley," by James Whitcomb Riley. President Harris then introduced President Roosevelt. The president stepped to the front of the platform and was greeted with applause. He delivered an eloquent eulogy of William McKinley, and the exercises closed with another song.

Immediately upon the close of the program President Roosevelt and party visited the interior of the tomb. This was followed by a visit by the invited guests, and then the general public was admitted. Thousands passed through the tomb.

CHAPTER XIV.—Continued.

Latterly, whenever I was urging upon Burbank a line of action requiring courage or a sacrifice of some one of his many insidious forms of personal vanity, I always arranged for her to be present at our conferences. And she would sit there, apparently absorbed in her sewing; but in reality she was seeing not only the surface reasons I gave him, but also those underlying and more powerful reasons which we do not utter, sometimes because we like to play the hypocrite to ourselves, again because we must give the other person a chance to play the hypocrite himself—and us. And often I left him reluctant and trying to muster courage to refuse or fess to evade, only to find him the next day consenting, perhaps enthusiastic. Many's the time she spared me the disagreeable necessity of being peremptory—doubly disagreeable because show of authority has ever been distasteful to me and because an order can never be so heartily executed as is an assimilated suggestion.

When I went to him a month after her death, I expected he would still be crushed as he was at the funeral. I listened with a feeling of revulsion to his stilted and, as it seemed to me, perfunctory platitudes on his "irreparable loss"—stale rhetoric about her, and to her most intimate friend and his! I had thought he would be imagining himself done with ambition forever; I had feared his strongly religious nature would lead him to see a "judgment" upon him and her for having exaggerated her indisposition to gain a political point. And I had mapped out what I would say to induce him to go on. Instead, after a few of those stereotyped mortuary sentences, he shifted to politics and was presently showing me that her death had hardly interrupted his plans for the presidential nomination. As for the "judgment," I had forgotten that in his religion his duty was always on his side, and his misfortunes were always of the evil one. These duties of men of action! Man with his god a ventriloquist puppet in his pocket, and with his conscience an old dog Tray at his heels, needing no leading string!

However, it gave me a shock, this vivid reminder from Burbank of the slavery of ambition—ambition, the vice of vices. For it takes its victims' all—moral, mental, physical. And, while other vices rarely wreck any but small men or injure more than what is within their small circles of influence, ambition seizes only the superior and sets them on to use their superior powers to blast communities, states, nations, continents. Yet it is called a virtue. And men who have sold themselves to it and for it to the last shred of manhood are esteemed and, mystery of mysteries, esteem themselves!

I had come to Burbank to manufacture him into a president. His wife and I had together produced an excellent raw material. Now, to make it up into the finished product!

He pointed to the filing-cases that covered the west wall of his library from floor to ceiling, from north window to south. "I base my hope on those—next to you, of course," said he. Then with his "woeful wail" pose, he added: "They were her suggestions."

I looked at the filing-cases and waited for him to explain.

"When we first married," he went on presently, "she said, 'It seems to me, if I were a public man, I should keep everything relating to myself—every speech, all that the newspapers said, every meeting and the lists of the important people who were there, notes of all the people I ever met anywhere, every letter or telegram or note I received. If you do, you may find after a few years that you have an enormous list of acquaintances. You've forgotten them because you meet so many, but they will not have forgotten you, who were one of the principal figures at the meeting or reception.' That's in substance what she said. And so, we began and kept it up"—he paused in his deliberate manner, compressed his lips, then added—"together."

I opened one of the filing-cases, glanced at him for permission, took out a slip of paper under the M's. It was covered with notes, in Mrs. Burbank's writing, of a reception given to him at the Manufacturers Club in St. Louis three years before. A lot of names, after each sum reminders of the standing and personal appearance of the man. Another slip, taken at random from the same box contained similar notes of a trip through Montana eight years before.

"Wonderful!" I exclaimed, as the full value of these accumulations loomed in my mind. "I knew that she was an extraordinary woman. Now I see that she had genius for politics."

His expression—a peering through that eternal pose of his—made me revise my first judgment of his mourning. For I caught a glimpse of a real human being, one who loved and lost, looking grief and pride and gratitude.

"If she had left me two or three years earlier," he said in that solemn, posing tone, "I doubt if I should have got one step further. As it is, I may be able to go on, though—I have lost—my staff."

What fantastic envelopes does man, after he has been finished by nature, wrap about himself in his efforts to improve her handiwork! Physically, even when most dressed, we are naked in comparison with the enswathings that hide our real mental and moral selves from one another—and from ourselves.

My campaign was based on the contents of those filing-cases. I learned all the places throughout the west—cities, towns, centrally-located villages—where he had been and had made an impression; and by simple and obvious means we were able to convert them into centers of "the Burbank boom." I could afterward trace to the use we made of those memoranda the direct getting of no less than 107 delegates to the national convention—and that takes no account of the vaster indirect value of so much easily worked-up, genuine, un-purchased and unpurchasable "Burbank sentiment." The man of only local prominence, whom Burbank remembered perfectly after a chance meeting years before, could have no doubt who ought to be the party's nominee for president.

The national machine of our party was then in the custody, and supposedly in the control, of Senator Goodrich of New Jersey. He had a reputation for Machiavellian dexterity, but I found that he was an accident rather than an actuality.

The domination of the great business interests over politics was the rapid growth of about 20 years—the consolidations of business naturally producing concentrations of the business world's political power in the hands of the few controllers of the big railway, industrial and financial combines. Goodrich had happened to be acquainted with some of the most influential of these business "kings;" they naturally made him their agent for the conveying of their wishes and their bribes of one kind and another to the national managers of both parties. They knew little of the details of practical politics, knew only what they needed in their businesses; and as long as they got that, it did not interest them what was done with the rest of the power their "campaign contributions" gave.

With such resources any man of good intelligence and discretion could have got the same results as Goodrich's. He was simply a lackey, strutting and cutting a figure in his master's clothes and under his master's name. He was pitifully vain of his reputation as a Machiavelli and a go-between. Vanity is sometimes a source of great strength; but vanity of that sort and about a position in which secrecy is the prime requisite, could mean only weakness.

Throughout his eight years of control of our party it had had possession of all departments of the national administration—except of the house of representatives during the past two years. This meant the interrupted and unchecked reign of the interests. To treat with consideration the interests, the strong men of the country, they who must have a free hand for developing its resources, to give them privileges and immunities beyond what can be permitted the ordinary citizen or corporation—that is a course which, however offensive to abstract justice, still has, as it seems to me, a practical justice in it, and at any rate, must be pursued so long as the masses of the voters are short-sighted, unreasoning and in nose-rings to political machines. A man's rights, whatever they may be in theory, are in practice only what he has the intelligence and the power to compel. But, for the sake of the nation, for the upholding of civilization itself, these over-powerful interests should never be given their heads, should be restrained as closely as may be to their rights—their practical rights. Goodrich had neither the sagacity nor the patriotism—nor the force of will, for that matter—to keep them within the limits of decency and discretion. Hence the riot of plunder and privilege which revolted and alarmed me when I came to Washington, and saw politics in the country-wide, yes, history-wide, horizon of that view-point.

Probably I should have been more leisurely in bringing my presidential plans to a focus, had I not seen how great and how near was the peril to my party. It seemed to me not indeed a perfect or even a satisfactory, but the best available, instrument for holding the balances of order as even as might be between our country's two opposing elements of disorder—the greedy plunderers and the rapidly infuriating plundered. And I saw that no time was to be lost, if the party was not to be blown to fragments. The first mutterings of the storm were in our summary ejection from control of the house in the midway elec-sion. I had accumulated a fund of $500,000 for my "presidential flotation"—half of it contributed by Roebuck in exchange for a promise that his son-in-law should have an ambassadorship if Burbank were elected; the other half set aside by me from the "reserve" I had formed out of the year-by-year contributions of my combine. By the judicious investment of that capital I purposed to get Burbank the nomination on the first ballot—at least 460 of the 900-odd delegates.

In a national convention the delegates are, roughly speaking, about evenly divided among the three sections of the country—a third from east of the Alleghenies; a third from the west; a third from the south. It was hopeless for us to gun for delegates in the east; that was the especial bailiwick of Senator Goodrich. The most we could do there would be to keep him occupied by quietly encouraging an anti-Cromwell sentiment—and it existed aplenty. Our real efforts were to be in the west and south.

I organized under Woodruff a corps of about 30 traveling agents. Each man knew only his own duties, knew nothing of the general plan, not even that there was a general plan. Each was a trained political worker, a personal retainer of ours. I gave them their instructions; Woodruff equipped them with the necessary cash. During the next five months they were incessantly on the go—dealing with our party's western machines where they could; setting up rival machines in promising localities where Goodrich controlled the regular machines; using money here, diplomacy there, both yonder, promises of patronage everywhere.

Such was my department of secrecy. At the head of my department of publicity I put De Mill, a sort of cousin of Burbank's and a newspaper man. He attended to the news agencies. He and three assistants wrote each week many columns of "boom" matter, all of which was carefully revised by Burbank himself before it went out as "syndicate letters." If Goodrich hadn't been ignorant of conditions west of the Alleghenies and confident that his will was law, he would have scented out this department of publicity of mine, and so would have seen into my "flotation." But he knew nothing beyond his routine. I once asked him how many country newspapers there were in the United States, and he said: "Oh, I don't know. Perhaps 3,000 or 4,000." Even had I enlightened him to the extent of telling him that there were about five times that number, he would have profited nothing. Had he been able to see the importance of such a fact to capable political management, he would have learned it long before through years of constant use of the easiest avenue into the heart of the people.

He did not wake up to adequate action until the fourth of that group of states whose delegations to our national conventions were habitually bought and sold, broke its agreement with him and instructed its delegation to vote for Burbank. By the time he had a corps of agents in those states. Doc Woodruff had "acquired" more than a hundred delegates. Goodrich was working only through the regular machinery of the party and was fighting against a widespread feeling that Cromwell shouldn't, and probably couldn't, be elected; we, on the other hand, were manufacturing presidential sentiment for a candidate who was already popular. Nor had Goodrich much advantage over us with the regular machines anywhere except in the east.

Just as I was congratulating myself that nothing could happen to prevent our triumph at the convention, Roebuck telegraphed me to come to Chicago. I found with him in the sitting-room of his suite in the Auditorium Annex, Partridge and Granby, next to him the most important members of my combine, since they were the only ones who had interests that extended into many states. It was after an uneasy silence that Granby, the uncouth one of the three, said: "Senator, we brought you here to tell you this Burbank nonsense has gone far enough."

It was all I could do not to show my astonishment and sudden fury. "I don't understand," said I, in a tone which I somehow managed to keep down to tranquil inquiry.

But I did understand. It instantly came to me that the three had been brought into line for Cromwell by their powerful business associates in Wall Street, probably by the great bankers who loaned them money. Swift upon the surge of anger I had suppressed before it flamed at the surface came a surge of triumph—which I also suppressed. I had often wished, perhaps as a matter of personal pride, just this opportunity; and here it was!

"Cromwell must be nominated," said Granby, in his insolent tone. He had but two tones—the insolent and the cringing. "He's safe and sound. Burbank isn't trusted in the east. And we didn't like his conduct last year. He caters to the demagogues." (TO BE CONTINUED.)

An admirable summing up of Cromwell's candidacy. And I knew that it would so appear to the country, that no matter how great a corruption fund Goodrich might throw into the campaign, we should, in that time of public exasperation, be routed if Cromwell was our standard-bearer—so utterly routed that we could not possibly get ourselves together again for 8, perhaps 12 years. There might even be a re-alignment of parties with some sort of socialism in control of one of them. If control were to be retained by the few who have the capital and the intellect to make efficient the nation's resources and energy, my project must be put through at once.

MARRIED ON A STREET CAR.

Unique Ceremony Performed While Traveling 30 Miles an Hour.

East Chicago.—With no other wedding bells than the motorman's gong and the conductor's five cent register, John Chikero and Madolena Fillip, of East Chicago, received a "fare" start upon the road of matrimony—they were married by Justice of the Peace George W. Rieland on an Indiana Harbor-East Chicago trolley car while the unique vehicle to happiness rolled along upon its speedy journey. The street car wedding, which was spread over ten miles, had its beginning when Justice Rieland adjourned court at noon and hurried to the street car bent upon keeping an engagement. Just as he left the court building he was stopped by Chikero, who, producing and pointing to his blushing bride to be, demanded that they be married immediately. Haven't time," called the judge, as he made a dash for a car. Mut Chikero and Miss Fillip were not to be outdone or outrun. They caught the same car. "We must be married," panted the bridegroom to be. "We leave for New York at two o'clock. The judge looked at him a moment, then turned to Attorney Abe Optenbeimer, who happened to be on the car, asked, "Will you be the best man?" The attorney consented. The car was going at 30 miles an hour. The couple stood up in front of the judge, whose back was supported by the front doors. Through-out the wedding the conductor continued to collect his fares.

MESSAGE TO ROOSEVELT.

Motor Boats Convey Parchment from Chicago to St. Louis.

Chicago.—A motor boat expedition carrying a message from Mayor Busse, of Chicago, to President Roosevelt started from Chicago on a trip down the drainage canal as far as Ottawa. There are two boats in the expedition, the Lizzie S., in command of Capt. John T. Flanning, of the Illinois Motor Boat club, and the Berada, in command of Capt. Arthur Ballou, of the same club.

Commodore Theodore Wiese, of the Illinois Motor Boat club is the official bearer of the message. He is aboard the Lizzie S. The message is engraved on parchment and inclosed in a leather portfolio. After the arrival at Ottawa, Commodore Wiese turned the document over to the commander of a fleet of motor boats and yachts which will proceed to St. Louis, where the message will be delivered to the president upon his start on the Mississippi river trip. The expedition also will deliver messages from the mayors of Joliet, Lockport, Peoria and other towns along the route.

Boy Groom Arrested.

Lacon.—An hour after the marriage of Charles Edward Armstrong to Miss Bertha Schlumpf, the groom was placed under arrest on a warrant sworn out by the father of the bride charging him with abduction. The couple eloped from Peoria to this city. On the arrival of the couple in Peoria the state's attorney refused to prosecute Arsdale on a charge of abduction. As both parties to the marriage are under age it is probable that they will be held for larceny.

Elopes with a Mere Child.

Chicago.—After a secret courtship of three months Catherine Citro, 11 years old, and Frank De Sando, 22 years old, a tailor who boarded at the home of the former's parents, have disappeared. The police have been asked by the girl's parents to find her and arrest De Sando as her kidnaper.

The police in their search learned that the couple spent three days in a hotel at Peoria and West Madison streets.

Vandals Cut 500 Shade Trees.

Sterling.—Personal violence may follow the capture of a band of vandals who cut down 500 hard maple trees two years old on three of the principal residence streets of this city. A reward of $700 has been offered for information leading to the capture of the vandals.

Widely Known Horseman Dead.

Bloomington.—S. John Shermierhorn, one of Illinois' most prominent and successful horsemen, is dead at his home in this city. Heart trouble caused death.

Wants $20,000 for His Legs.

Mattoon.—Elisha Adams, who lost both legs on the Big Four tracks here over a year ago, has brought suit against the Big Four and the C. V. & C. railroad in the Coles county circuit court at Charleston for $20,000.

Thinks She Is Evelyn Thaw. Sterling.—After brooding over the trial of Harry K. Thaw for months and believing she was Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, Miss Mary Myers, of Amboy, became violently insane and was taken to the Waterford sanitarium.

WANT DRUNKARDS REGISTERED.

Liquor Dealers of Illinois Demand Such Legislation as Protection.

Rock Island.—The Liquor Dealers' association of Illinois closed its session after adopting resolutions favoring what was termed "reasonable and sane legislation" for the regulation of the liquor traffic. As an example of laws that harm the trade without benefiting any one the act governing the sale of intoxicants to habitual drunkards was singled out. It was claimed that saloonkeepers have no opportunity to protect themselves. It was urged that the law be changed to provide for the registry of drunkards by the authorities in each city. East St. Louis was chosen for the next meeting.

Following are the officers elected: President—Henry F. Maiwurm, Chicago.

Vice president—Fred Tellebuescher, Quincy.

Secretary—Michael J. McCarthy, Chicago.

Treasurer—Thomas J. Murray, Springfield.

Board of auditors—Peter Bell, Chicago; Gus E. Yooss, West Chicago; A. W. Schwane, Chicago.

Trustees for the district of Cook—H. F. Gronbeck, Henry Von Meeter and Charles Siebert.

National delegates—Fred Rohde and John A. Cervente, Chicago.

EX-GOVERNOR'S DAUGHTER.

Appeal to Deneen to Save Mrs. Davies from the County Farm.

Lincoln.—Interested in the future of Mrs. Anna Davies, the only living daughter of former Gov. Ford, of the state of Illinois, Rev. G. Niebuhr, an official of the local Deaconess hospital, where Mrs. Davies now is, went to Springfield and consulted Gov. Deneen with the object of bettering her condition when she again was able to leave the hospital.

TIRED BACKS.

The kidneys have a great work to do in keeping the blood pure. When they get out of order it causes backache, headaches, dizziness, languor and distressing urinary troubles. Keep the kidneys well and all these sufferings will be saved you. Mrs. S. A. Moore, proprietor of a restaurant at Waterville, Mo., says:

"Before using Doan's Kidney Pills I suffered everything from kidney troubles for a year and a half. I had pain in the back and head, and almost continuous in the loins and felt weary all the time. A few doses of Doan's Kidney Pills brought great relief, and I kept on taking them until in a short time I was cured. I think Doan's Kidney Pills are wonderful."

First Aid.

A Washington doctor was recently called to his telephone by a colored woman formerly in the service of his wife. In great agitation the darky advised the physician that her youngest child was in a bad way.

"What seems to be the trouble?" asked the doctor.

"Doc, she done swallowed a whole bottle of ink!"

"I'll be there in a short while to see her," said the Medico. "In the mean time have you done anything for her?"

"I done give her three pieces of blottin' paper, Doc," said the negress, doubtfully.—Harper's Weekly.

Sheer white goods, in fact, any fine wash goods when new, owe much of their attractiveness to the way they are laundered, this being done in a manner to enhance their textile beauty. Home laundering would be equally satisfactory if proper attention was given to starching, the first essential being good starch, which has sufficient strength to stiffen, without thickening the goods. Try Defiance Starch and you will be pleasantly surprised at the improved appearance of your work.

Fanciful Finance.

"Haven't you loaned that De Broke a good deal of money?"

"No. I've let him have a number of small sums."

"Knowing his reputation, why did you give him that last five?"

"It was this way. He said if I'd let him have it he'd pay me something on what he already owed me."

"Well?"

"So I let him have the five and he paid me one dollar on account."

SAVED STATE MONEY

FAIR DEALING IN ERECTION OF ILLINOIS BUILDINGS.

RECORD TO BE PROUD OF ### Administration Has Insisted on Open Competition in All Cases, and Tax-payers Have Received Full Value for Their Money.

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 23.—The work of the state architect of Illinois covers a broad field. He is called upon to design and erect every imaginable type of buildings and improvements for various state purposes. He must design root-cellars for the protection and preservation of the vegetables raised on the institution farms or carried for institution consumption. He must design chapels, gymnasiums, park pavilions, armories, swimming pools and drainage systems. Within the past three years he has been called upon to draw plans for and superintend the construction of a palace of justice. To obtain the best designs, utilize the latest improvements and give the state the very best that is obtainable in the way of modern architecture, it is necessary for him to inspect institutions of other states and compare them with institutions in Illinois, and then with the aid and advice of the superintendents of the Illinois institutions, or departments, to give to the state the most improved designs that he can offer as a result of these comparisons.

Within the past two years the state architect of Illinois, W. Carby Zimmerman of Chicago, has been called upon to superintend work that has cost $3,000,000. Structures which he has designed have ranged in value from $1,000 and $350,000. In awarding contracts for the work that has been done a fair deal has been given to contractors.

Upon completion of the plans in every instance bids were publicly advertised in papers certain to reach all contractors interested. Competition was further encouraged by privately inviting desirable bidders to submit estimates. The result of this effort was to produce genuine competition, and an unusual number of competitors submitted estimates for the work. That this plan was a decided advantage to the state has been shown by the results. In most cases the bids were below the cost that could, considering the rise in price of labor and material, be reasonably expected.

Open to Competition. In writing specifications for the work a special effort was made to frame them in such a way as to give the dealers and manufacturers of building material, fixtures and equipments an equal opportunity. The specifications were worded so definitely as to call for the best materials to be had and at the same time to make them so broad as not to limit the bidder to any special make or brand. Public work in many instances was let for less than was forecast carefully estimated cost, based on the cost of similar buildings erected for private clients. For instance, the new supreme court building now being completed in Springfield, brought estimates from fourteen general bidders with prices ranging from $148,000 to $181,877. This favorable competition was repeated when the interior finishing of the building was contracted for.

For the extensive repairs and improvements undertaken on the state capitol, similarly satisfactory competition took place. Detailed estimates had been prepared some years before of the cost of this work and an appropriation based on this estimate was very decidedly reduced, notwithstanding the increased cost of material and labor. When the appropriation was made for these repairs and improvements it was regarded hopelessly insufficient. Nevertheless, through the close competition which was secured, figures were obtained and contracts let, which not only kept the cost within the appropriation but left quite a substantial balance in the treasury.

Whenever there was the faintest idea of political or other influence being brought to bear, the administration made it a point to see that there was an equal opportunity for all competitors.

Must Pound Down Cost. One of the great difficulties confronting the state architect is to plan and design the buildings so as to keep their cost within the appropriations provided. Appropriations for the state's new buildings can, of course, be only a fraction of its total income, and the amount available for some of the buildings is very small, considering the requirement caused by the constant growth and rapid development of the institutions and departments. The architect must plan a high-type building so as to give the greatest capacity at the lowest possible cost, which, of course, must be within the amount of the appropriation. It can be pointed out with considerable satisfaction that the cost of the new buildings last year was kept within the amounts appropriated for the service.

Among Buildings Designed. His Luck. "Johnson's a lucky man, isn't he?" "I thought he had lost a good deal of money in Wall street recently."

"But his wife thinks she is so young looking and so beautiful herself that she doesn't compel him to be civil to plain old ladies only when they are out anywhere."—Judge.

HOME-MADE REMEDY

INEXPENSIVE AND EASILY PREPARED BY ANYONE.

Is Said to Promptly Relieve Backache and Overcome Kidney Trouble and Bladder Weakness Though Harmless and Pleasant to Take.

What will appear very interesting to many people here is the article taken from a New York daily paper, giving a simple prescription, as formulated by a noted authority, who claims that he has found a positive remedy to cure almost any case of backache or kidney or bladder derangement, in the following simple prescription, it taken before the stage of Bright's disease:

Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Shake well in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and again at bedtime.

A well-known authority, when asked regarding this prescription, stated that the ingredients are all harmless, and can be obtained at a small cost from any good prescription pharmacy, or the mixture would be put up if asked to do so. He further stated that while this prescription is often prescribed in rheumatic afflictions with splendid results, he could see no reason why it would not be a splendid remedy for kidney and urinary troubles and backache, as it has a peculiar action upon the kidney structure, cleansing these most important organs and helping them to sift and filter from the blood the foul acids and waste matter which cause sickness and suffering. Those who suffer can make no mistake in giving it a trial.

"I believe," said Mr. Fiske, "in subtlety and restraint. A nod, a shake of the head, a silent pause—these things are often more effective than the most violent yelling and ranting.

"Life is like that, subtle and silent. What, for instance, could be more expressive than this scene, a scene without a spoken word, that I once witnessed in the country?"

"After my granddaughter of about seven years had been cured of the measles, she was attacked about a fortnight later by a furious itching and painful eruption all over her body, especially the upper part of it, forming watery and bleeding sores, especially under the arms, of considerable size. She suffered a great deal and for three weeks we nursed her every night, using all the remedies we could think of. Nothing would help. We tried the Cuticura Remedies and after twenty-four hours we noted considerable improvement, and after using only one complete set of the Cuticura Remedies, in five consecutive days the little one, much to our joy, had been entirely cured, and has been well for a long time. Mrs. F. Rufenacht, R. F. D. No. 3, Bakersfield, Cal., June 25 and July 20, 1906."

ENGLISHMAN'S FIRST AND SUCCESSFUL ATTEMPTS IN MANITOBA—SOIL PRODUCES STRIKING RESULTS.

The Winnipeg (Canada) Free Press of a few days since contains account of the success that followed the efforts of William Knowles, an Englishman who located near Winnipeg, Manitoba. This is but one of many letters giving experiences of settlers, and should be encouraging to those who are looking about for a new home in which they may better their conditions. The following is a copy of the article referred to:

William Knowles, who cultivates some twelve acres of land just below Middlechurch ferry on east side of the Red River has probably as fine a display of horticultural products as any in Manitoba. The whole of his holding is in a high state of cultivation and literally crowded with splendid vegetable specimens, which have fortunately escaped damage by hail, although heavy storms have more than once occurred within a few miles. The potatoes are a wonderful crop, and he expects to raise 1,500 bushels from his patch of 4 1/2 acres. A half dozen of tubers selected yesterday average more than a pound each. Adjoining the potatoes may be seen a marvelous collection of tomatoes. There are 600 plants, all growing under an enormous weight of fruit. One single stock picked yesterday contained eighteen tomatoes and weighed four pounds. This extraordinary example of marvelous growth, together with some of the potatoes were sent to the Free Press office.

The proprietor was the first in town with several specimens, including green corn. The season has been favorable for onions, and one square patch of nearly an acre is looking remarkably healthy. In addition there are good crops of cabbages, cauliflower, turnips, parsnips, carrots, pumpkins, marrows, cucumbers, celery, peas, lettuce, rhubarb, etc. The floral department has not been neglected and a charming display of all the well known blooms were shown, including a specially choice lot of asters.

Mr. Knowles, who gained most of his gardening experience in England, is loud in his praise of Manitoba soil for vegetable raising, and is gratified with the result of his first attempt at extensive horticulture.

PURE FOOD.

The pure food law does not prohibit the sale of Cream of Tartar Baking Powders because Cream of Tartar is as pure as Alum—but it is a well known fact that a baking powder in which Alum is used instead of Cream of Tartar is less injurious. Dr. Herman Reinhold, the expert German chemist, in a recent official report concerning Baking Powders, declares that a pure Alum baking powder is better and less injurious than the so-called Cream of Tartar powders. He says that if the quantity of alum contained in a sufficient quantity of baking powder for a batch of bread or cakes for an ordinary family, be concentrated to one mouthful of food, and taken into the stomach of any one person, no matter how delicate, it could do no harm.

WOMEN AVOID OPERATIONS

When a woman suffering from female trouble is told that an operation is necessary, it, of course, frightens her.

The very thought of the hospital, the operating table and the knife strikes terror to her heart.

It is quite true that these troubles may reach a stage where an operation is the only resource, but a great many women have been cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound after an operation has been decided upon as the only cure. The strongest and most grateful statements possible to make come from women who by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made from native roots and herbs, have escaped serious operations, as evidenced by Miss Rose Moore's case, of 307 W. 26th St., N. Y. She writes:—

"Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has cured me of the very worst form of female trouble and I wish to express to you my deepest gratitude. I suffered intensely for two years so that I was unable to attend to my duties and was a burden to my family. I doctored and doctored with only temporary relief and constantly objecting to an operation which I was advised to undergo. I decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; it cured me of the terrible trouble and I am now in better health than I have been for many years."

This and other such cases should encourage every woman to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before she submits to an operation.

Mrs. Pinkham's Standing Invitation to Women

Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to promptly communicate with Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. From the symptoms given, the trouble may be located and the quickest and surest way of recovery advised.
