Is Getting Along Very Well in Mastering Burmese Language

ATTENDED RECENT CONFERENCE

Writes That Burmese People Are Eager to Adopt Christian Religion Teach 6 Mo. Out of Year in Jungle

Thongwa, Hanthawaddy Dist., Burma January 30, 1923

Our Dear Friends:-

From the time of conference in Burma until after Christmas we are very busy. Then immediately follows the main evangelistic season and our evangelistic workers are now all out in the jungle. I wish I could get away from school and studying Burmese long enough to go, too.

Our Burmese District conference was held in Thongwa this year from Nov. 1 to 5. We are glad to be a part of that conference now. Alto I had been studying the language only four months, and it is a very difficult one. I wrote and read my report in Burmese. My teacher had corrected the errors for me, and the folks said they could really understand it. That I should even attempt that created quite a sensation. Mrs. Olmstead was more wise than I and wrote her report in English, so she could have done it in Burmese, too. I had also learned to pronounce the Benedictine in Burmese by that time, and the you may not believe it, I had stage fright the first time I said it worse than when I preached my first sermon.

The Thongwa Christian community numbering about 70, entertained the 200 Burmese visitors at the conference. They shouldered the responsibility themselves, putting us missionaries on the committees only in advisory relationships. Each worker subscribed one-quarter of a month's pay, thus raising about one-third the cost of entertainment. During the meetings they worked early and late and so joyfully, too. One night after working hard all day from 4 a. m. except for two hours in conference session, the Bible school girls came home at 11 p. m. singing as they walked. They all reaped a rich benefit from the meeting, even if they could not attend all of them. Several families of Baptist Christians worked as hard as our Methodists.

The climax of the conference was two altar services; one when the altar was full of people of all ages making their first open confession of Christ in preparation for their baptism the following morning; add the other on the last night when four young men consecrated themselves to the work of the ministry and many others to Christian service. One of these young men we expect to have in the theological school next year.

Annual conference was held in Rangoon at the new Burmese church, a beautiful structure built partly by Centenary funds and partly by local subscriptions. Bishop H. Lester Smith of South India held the conference in the absence of our own Bishop Fisher who was in America. Bishop Smith and his messages were a great help in both conferences.

Now the evangelistic work demands our thought. It rains so much here that during the rainy season we cannot get away from our home town. It is not good that we let these beginners in Christ stand without shepherding for six months, but it is impossible to reach them; so we have to give them as much help spiritually and educationally in Christianity as possible during the dry season and pray that they will keep true till we can be with them again. Every time the workers return now they bring fresh reports of the eagerness of Burmese people for Christ, a fact more true now than ever before. Pray with us for the workers at this time and for these new and inexperienced followers of Jesus.

Your friends in Christ,

The Olmsteads

ROCKFORD GROWING

Is Now Third Largest City of State—Ranks Next to Peoria

Rockford is given third place in a recent census of the state. The city's population was given as 72,419.

Steady growth in the population of leading downstate Illinois cities, reflecting improved employment and business conditions, is indicated in estimates for July 1, 1923, as compiled by the bureau of census.

Estimates were based on the monthly increase in the number of residents of each city since the regular census in 1920.

The comparative figures, including the 1920 census and estimate figures for July 1, 1923, are as follows:

KANE COUNTY TO THE FORE

Has Organized Under National "Plan to Plant Another Tree Movement"

Kane county has organized a great common planting plan to be known as the "Plan to Plant Another Tree Association of Kane County. The movement, which originated in Aurora will try to carry out the following program:

1. To have a Tree, a Fruit Tree, a Shrub or a Flower planted by every Man and Woman and Boy and Girl in Kane County.
2. To beautify the school grounds of the county.
3. To beautify the Children's Highway from Aurora to Algonquin.

This is a tremendous undertaking, but is deserving of wholehearted support from every individual. In fact it would be a good idea for DeKalb county to adopt the same program after the cement roads are all laid.

Has Kept Close Scrutiny Over Every City in County

According to reports from the court house on the business transacted by the sheriff's office, it is very apparent that the new sheriff has not been idle since assuming his duties on December 4, 1922.

From the first day since shouldering the responsibilities of keeping the county free from crime and rounding up of offenders, Sheriff Crawford has kept close vigilance throughout every city, town or village of his jurisdiction. During the four months he has been in office, there has been a total of 56 prisoners, including a few from Chicago placed there to serve

NOTES FROM THE COURT HOUSE

Reece Brothers Granted Continuance; Now Out on Bail

BERT FIELDS GETS 1 TO 20 YEARS

State's Attorney Poust in Receipt of Communication from Commission Grade Crossing Will be Guarded

Bert Fields, alias Pelong Fields, 43 years of age, a resident of Sandwich, was found guilty on Saturday, April 7, 1923 by Judge William F. Fulton sitting in the circuit court of DeKalb county on a charge of assault with intent to commit rape and sentenced to the penitentiary at Joliet for a period of one to fourteen years. The indictment against Fields was returned by the February grand jury and when arraigned in court by the state's attorney, March 30, 1923 he entered a plea of "not guilty." On Saturday Fields appeared in court together with his aged mother and his attorney, Charles G. Faxson, of Sandwich, withdrew his plea of not guilty and entered a plea of guilty upon which he was sentenced. Within an hour after the case was presented to the court by the state's attorney, Fields was on his way in the custody of Sheriff Crawford to the penitentiary.

The two Reece brothers of Esmond, indicted by the February grand jury on charges of burning to defraud insurance companies, two charges of arson and conspiracy whose trial was to begin Monday, April 9, 1923 in the circuit court decided to make a fight for liberty and have engaged Dwight McKay, former assistant state's attorney under Maclay Hoyne and attorney Rothbart of Chicago to represent them. These two attorneys are to be assisted by E. M. Burt of Sycamore. The attorneys on Saturday before Judge Fulton made a motion for a continuance on the ground of absence of witnesses and inability to prepare for trial due to being recently retained and, although vigorously opposed by the state's attorney secured the continuance. On the showing made by affidavits made by them the court could do nothing but grant the motion.

The attorneys also made a motion to reduce the bail in each case but in this motion they were not quite so successful as the court set the bail at $9,000 for Albert Reece and $7,000 for George Reece. Both cases will be disposed of at the June term of court.

A hearing was had in the divorce proceedings brought by Ella Kelllogg of Genoa against Vay Kellogg. After a hearing in which testimony given by her was corroborated by other witnesses the judge entered a decree of divorce in her favor. Under the terms of the decree the complainant is to have the care and custody of the child and the defendant is to pay her $50 per month alimony.

J. M. Leisch and C. N. Kenner, partners obtained a judgment by confession in the circuit court on Saturday in the sum of $584.80 against John P. Ryan. The judgment is based on a judgment note in the payment of which default had been made.

Carrie Lovell of Sycamore, trustee under the will of Ardna Lovell was authorized by virtue of an order entered by Judge Fulton to sell the real estate now occupied by her and her husband, Walter Lovell and re-invest the proceeds in a more suitable home in Sycamore.

The first case set for jury trial before Judge Irwin was that of Lawrence Roush against G. A. Dayton, being a controversy between a landlord and tenant. C. D. Rogers and Cassius Poust represent the plaintiff and L. B. Smith and John Faisstler the defendant. At four o'clock on Monday a jury consisting of the following: C. W. Hurt, John Lang, Jas. Rodger, Ezra Houtby, Byron Rowland, S. Henaughan, H. Rimsnyder, Emil Beckler, D. Gallagher, W. F. Fitzgerald, Geo. Keihl and Alfred Olson, was accepted and sworn to try the issues involved. The taking of testimony will begin on Tuesday morning. The defendant made a tender in open court of $87.26 to the plaintiff which was refused.

State's Attorney Poust again took up the matter of protecting the C. M. & St. P. crossing of the Sycamore road near the country with the Interstate Commission in order to hurry matters along and is in receipt of a communication from the commission that the railroad company has

LET'S SWAT THE FLY!

The Following Article is Handed in by the G. T. H. S.

Flies are always a nuisance. They crawl all over our food, fall into the milk, and spoil pictures. But their real harmfulness has only recently been realized.

Flies breed in manure. They fly directly from the manure pile to the table. When they crawl over our food and faces, and wash themselves in the cream pitcher, they leave a smear of bacteria brought directly from the filth in which the maggots hatched. Typhoid, cholera, dysentery are among the intestinal diseases the bacteria of which can be carried by flies to infect the food they share with us. To fight the diseases, we must fight flies.

A fly eats its own weight of food every day. It sandwiches spittoons and manure piles between visits to the dining table. Disease germs pass unharmed through the fly's intestinal tract and remain active in the familiar fly-specks, deposited at intervals of five minutes. Thus both on its feet and by its excreta, the fly carries the pestilence. If we would fight the pestilence, we must swat the fly.

Flies are not only a nuisance. They are more dangerous than the tiger or rattlesnake! The early settlers in Genoa fought wolves and grizzlies. The most dangerous wild animal is still here and increasing. A swat in time saves nine million. Now then, all together, LET'S SWAT!

advised it that they have been working on plans for the installation of an automatic wigwag signal, visible and audible both day and night and will be ready to work as soon as the frost is out of the ground.

This protection for the dangerous crossing directly east of the golf links near DeKalb, will be more than welcomed by autoists from all over the county.

The two Reece brothers obtained their release from jail on bonds in the sum of $10,000 for Albert E. Reece and $7,000 for George Reece. This bail was signed by William Masterson, Margaret Kirk and Anna Vassez. Approximately $40,000 worth of property was scheduled.

In the quo warranto proceedings brought by The People of the State of Illinois, ex rel B. H. Oleson, M. F. Carlson and Warren Hubbard against Frederick B. Townsend, Arthur H. Holcomb and Norman Westlake, the park commissioners Sycamore township, the default of all defendants was entered and an order of ouster was entered. This brings to an end the Park Board as well as the proposition to issue $25,000 worth of park bonds.

GENOA SHIPPING ASS'N ON MAR'T

Special to the Republican, Genoa, Ill., by Farm Bureau News Service. Samuel E. Guard Director, 58 E. Washington St., Chicago.

Chicago, April 2, 1923.-The Genoa Shipping Association of Genoa, Ill., was on the Chicago market Friday with a carload of hogs consigned to the Chicago Producers Commission Association. The load sold at $8.90. This firm handled 1,130 cars during March.

The Chicago Producers Commission Association is a branch of the National Live Stock Producers Association, the others being located at National Stock Yards (St. Louis market) Buffalo, Indianapolis, Kansas City, Peoria and Ft. Worth.

The Chicago Producers Commission Association is owned by the farmers who ship live stock to it and has been in operation less than a year. Every week this year with only one exception, it has sold more carloads of live stock than any other of the hundred commission firms at the Union Stock Yards, Chicago. The annual meeting will be held in May and the members will receive checks for their share of profits, prorata to the amount of the shipments they have sent in. By means of the Chicago Producers Commission Association live stock producers can market to the same advantage whether by small consignment, by truck or by carload.

ROADS IN BAD SHAPE

The warm days in the last two weeks have produced a repetition of the general rotten roads for the first spring months. It seems as tho the bottom of ruts "isn't" and many a car now-a-days goes down for the count in some soft spot. The patrolman on the Sycamore-Genoa road has been busy grading for two or three days and it is expected that before long this road will be quite passable on the north-west part. The roads east, west and north are fair, but its a chance taken to go anywhere at the present time.

GENOA NATIONALS ORGANIZE FOR YEAR

Held Meeting in City Hall Monday Evening of This Week

WILL START PLAY ABOUT MAY 6

Officers Were Elected for Various Positions—New Suits Needed This Year

Genoa is headed for a successful year of baseball as was denoted in the spirit and unanimous approval of the policy followed in the meeting last Monday evening in the city hall when officers were chosen for the ensuing season.

It is the purpose of the men in charge to use all home players except the battery. In fact some of Genoa's younger generation will be enticed to try out for positions on the nine and from what we've seen, they should have no trouble at all in making the war club "smack" with hits. Of course the suits that have stood up admirably for two years under exceptionally rough usage, are about worn out and these will have to be replaced. Ways and means of raising the necessary iron men will be discussed in a later issue.

Practice will begin as soon as the diamond will permit and it is hoped that the first game will be played about May 6.

All correspondence should be addressed to George T. Smith, lock box 327, Genoa.

DAD'S NIGHT AT GYM FRIDAY

Dad's night at the Gym Friday. Coming events cast their shadow before. Many boys look worried, trying to figure how to fit Dad out with tennis shoes for the baseball game. For when father and son convene at the high school gymnasium son must look after father—not only to see that he's properly coached for the ball game, if he plays, but as to outfit. Each son must bring father. At least one Dad, real or adopted, is the price of admission. The more the merrier. And if you don't happen to have a son in high school now, come anyway.

There will be an evening of fun and no speeches. The seventh and eighth grade boys will go through some of their regular gym work. A game of basket ball will be played by two aggressive teams of youngsters that some day will wear the high school suits. And the reds and blues will stage an exhibition match that promises to be the real thing. Capt. Geithman and Harry Adler, the regular forwards, will make their last appearance in the high school uniform. With Art Geithman at center the trio will stage a hard passing, fast shooting game that will bother the best defense that Bartle, Nelson Hill and Durban can put up. Russell, Pratt, Carlson and Siebens, with Krueger, a candidate for next year's five, will be in the lineup. Atlee, Fern Bartle and Baumann, likely men for next year's teams, may break into this game. It will be the real thing.

Of possibly even more interest, however, is Dads' game, where the old timers will try swatting the soft ball for home runs. Each Dad will draw a number, and two teams, odds against evens, will battle for the supremacy. Our most prominent citizens will be on the base lines—and attempt to reach home plate. Don't miss getting into the game. Mr. Moore, in charge of arrangements for this, is sparing no energy to obtain the best umpire possible, so that he will not have to do it. No pop bottles will be allowed in the building. Everything possible will be done to safeguard the official secured.

Don't forget—Friday Night—High School Gym. If you haven't a boy in school, adopt one. If you don't see one you like, come anyway and take your pick in the gymnasium. Lots of likely ones there Friday night. Every boy must bring his dad. And you're promised an evening with plenty of action. Come and enjoy a royal good time.

ROOF ADJUSTED TO WEATHER

Comparatively Easy to Regulate Temperature of Houses Constructed of Blocks of Ice.

Changing the thickness of the roof may not seem like a particularly handy way to keep the temperature of the house uniform. Certainly no one would think of doing it in that way in this country. But in the Arctic "shaving off the roof" is the regular thing. Mr. Vilhjalmur Stefansson, the polar explorer, explains in his book, "The Friendly Arctic," just how the Eskimo does it.

If, says Mr. Stefansson, the snow house we were camping in was built at 50 degrees below zero, each block in the wall was then of that temperature and contained what we may unscientifically speak of as a great deal of "latent cold." To neutralize the cold it was necessary to keep the inside of the house for a considerable time at a temperature of perhaps 60 degrees F. Snow is so nearly a non-conductor of heat that, once the "latent cold" had been neutralized, the heat of our bodies kept the temperature well above the freezing point, even when the hole in the roof was open for ventilation. But if the weather became a little warmer than it was when we made camp, the heat of our bodies or the heat from the fire would raise the temperature too high, and the roof would begin to melt. Then we sent a man out with a knife to shave it anywhere from four to two inches thinner so that the cold from outside would penetrate the snow blocks and stop the thawing. If the next day the weather turned cold again, hoarfrost would form on the roof and drop as snowflakes on the bed. We would know then that the roof was too thin and send a man out to blanket it with soft snow.

French Scientist Makes the Assertion That the Real Color of the Sun is Blue.

All the daylight comes from the sun, but it arrives here by different ways. The direct light, that which forms the solid rays, has grown weak by its passing through the atmosphere, slightly for the red light, more so for the blue. The diffused light of the sky, where the blue predominates, is made up of all that the direct radiation lacks.

The blue of the sky is taken from the sun itself and the result is that we do not see the royal star under its true color. If by some miracle, which science will perhaps realize, we could rise about a hundred kilometers above the diffusing layers of the atmosphere, the solar disc would appear to us, not white, but bluish, standing out in relief on a black sky, where stars glitter at full noon. In this way it would appear to the "men in the moon" if the moon were inhabited.

And this vision of science perfectly agrees with what we know of the solar temperature. Physicists admit that the radiant surface, the photosphere, is not far from a temperature of 6,000 degrees C. It is, therefore, hotter than the yellowish flame of our gas burners, than the white light of our electric lamps and the electric arc itself, whose color is bluish.

Now, it is known that the hotter a radiant body is the richer it is in blue and violet. Therefore, the sun is blue.—L. Houlelvigne in Le Temps (Paris).

of a kerness. The girls themselves put on their best dresses and wash most cleanly—but undue rouging is prohibited. Dancing is the order of the day, and the stealing of kisses does not constitute a misdemeanor. A speech encouraging marriage and decrying celibacy is made by the mistress of the fair. Provision is made for "courting" by the preparation of nooks and arbors near the fair grounds, where couples may stroll not too publicly.

Signs about the fair grounds suggest to the youth of Ecaussines: "Love, then marry." "Search, and you will find." "Let us marry."

Duck's Claim to Distinction.

The Sheldrake, unlike ducks in general, can walk on land with some amount of dignity, there being an entire absence of anything like a waddle. But this is not its only claim to distinction, for in nesting matters it shows marked individuality.

Its favorite breeding place is in some sandy spot near to, though not always on, the seashore, and it has an especial liking for rabbit-burrows, from which it evicts the rightful owners without so much as a "By your leave." Once the owner is out, he is never permitted to return while Mr. and Mrs. Sheldrake require the house. Mr. Sheldrake, unlike most others of the duck tribe, takes a great interest in the arrangement of the nest, and bears considerable share in looking after the little brood when it arrives.

short sentences by Federal Judge A. C. Cliffe of Chicago.
His reports shows a list of the following offenders against law and order, the majority of whose sentences have been served or the fines and costs paid: six insane cases; three federal prisoners, two arson charges, one stealing, 29 violation of prohibition, seven assault and battery, two cases of feeble minded children, one violation of fish and game laws, one conspiracy to robe, one larceny case and one child abandonment case.
Fines and costs received by the authorities for the enumerated cases total $4,747.50. It is understood of course that the costs in every case mount to a good high figure, and make up a goodly portion of the receipts as a result of the work of the sheriff. In the four months there has been paid in fees from writs issued and served $900 to the sheriff. From this the salary of the sheriff and that of chief deputy are taken.

The total sum for expenses to the sheriff's office every year is figured at $4680, which includes himself and his men. At present efforts are being made at the county jail to reduce expenses to the lowest point and still keep up the good record. DeKaib Chronicle.

OBITUARY
Sarah Melissa DeWolf was born in DeKaib County, Illinois, June 8, 1870. She spent most of her girlhood life in this county, doing most of her school work in the village of Genoa. A few years of her early childhood passed with the family residing in Wisconsin where the mother died in the spring of 1877. After her death the father returned with his children to Illinois.
In September 1884, the father having married a second time, the family went to Nebraska, settling on a homestead in Wheeler Co. Here Millie, as she was familiarly known, was united in marriage to James H. Myers, September 24, 1885. Three children came to bless this union, Geo. Wolf of Grand Island, Neb., and Mrs. Florence Fleischer of the same place and Mrs. Claribel Brown of Genoa, Ill.

Mr. Myers died May 28, 1900 just three years after the family had settled in Grand Island and the deceased continued to reside there until the time of her death which occurred at six o'clock in the morning of March 26, 1923.
Mrs. Myers united with the M. E. church in the fall of 1888 and with the Trinity M. E. church of Grand Island with her husband and children in 1897. She lived a faithful life, exhibiting some fine traits of genuine heroism which have not been apparent to all. Many years ago her sense of hearing began to fail and for the last twelve years dwelt in, literally, a silent world. Possessed originally of a nature at once sprightly and high strung, it was not easy for her to become a recluse which her total deafness almost forced upon her.
She trusted in God and looked forward to that time when at eventide, because of the presence of the Savior of men, the darkness would be dispersed in the light of perpetual day. She is survived by her sorrowing children, four grand children and one brother, Rev. Lotan R. DeWolf of York, Nebr.

YEAR OF ADVANCE

Canada Rightly Proud of Its Achievements in 1922.

Has Bravely Met and Overcome Depression Following the War—Financial Standing as Nation High.

The year 1922 in Canada, Western Canada particularly, has been a year of quiet achievement. If there has been nothing in its development of a spectacular nature, there has been a steady growth, a resolute elimination of things immaterial to prosperity.

The year 1923 is entered upon by the people of the West in high hope that it ushers in a period of prosperity based upon the productivity of the country and the vast riches of its natural resources.

Canada, in common with all other nations, has felt keenly the cycle of depression following the spurious activity and inflated business coming immediately after the cessation of the war. It has met and overcome many obstacles in the path of its prosperity.

The high standing of Canada as a nation is shown by the ease with which her bonds are absorbed and by the high prices paid for them, and Winnipeg, it may be mentioned, in a recent flotation obtained a higher price than even any provincial government for some time.

Western Canada in 1922 harvested its largest grain crop. Its production of grain, live stock, cereal and dairy products will, when all is marketed, produce in the neighborhood of a billion dollars. There has been, and there still is felt considerable disappointment that the total value is not larger, but the fact remains that this vast sum of money has come to the West, or is in the process of coming, and it is undoubtedly true, much of it is used in the liquidation of obligations incurred in the past, it is but a safer and saner, if longer, road to that prosperity to which all are looking.

As a matter of fact, it is the opinion of many prominent business men that 1922 saw the corner definitely turned and that 1923 will commence the upward swing.—Advertisement.

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

Pacifist Organizations Under Fire as Unpatriotic and Foes of Preparedness.

MR. WEEKS MAY TAKE A HAND

Russians, Resenting Protests, Execute Vicar General Butchkavich—German Rail Workers to Be Expelled From Ruhr—Death of the Earl of Carnarvon.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

"RADICALS" or "progressives" in congress in the next session are likely to urge these changes in tax legislation: Restoration of the excess profits tax but with a lower rate than formerly in the lower brackets but a heavier tax in the higher brackets; imposition of a retroactive tax on undistributed earnings of corporations; an increase in existing taxes on inheritances; a tax on gifts to prevent evasion of estate taxes, and abolition of the secrecy now required by law in the case of tax records and proceedings.

How does such a program suit you?

TWO of the pacifist organizations which have headquarters in Washington and whose ideas and propaganda have often been declared exceedingly mischievous by persons who must be classed as real patriots, have laid themselves open to vigorous attack. They are the National Council for the Prevention of War and the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom. General Fries, head of the chemical warfare service, recently accused them of being unpatriotic and of advocating communism. To these charges the organizations made vigorous reply, defending themselves and their objects.

On Wednesday the American Defense society, through its Washington director, R. M. Whitney, issued a letter declaring that both the pacifist organizations are working directly along lines laid down by soviet Russia to bring about the "armed revolution."

The chief complaint against the organizations is that they are working tooth and nail against all military preparedness and seeking in every way to hamper the activities of the army and navy and to the peace-time operations that keep the defenders of the country up to the mark. For instance, they tried to induce congress to throw out the appropriation for summer camps for the reserve corps, and, failing in this, they now are sending broadcast articles alleging that the camps are designed to arouse a militaristic spirit and indirectly to produce war.

One good result of the controversy thus far is that the secretary of war is permitting army and navy officers to present to the public their views on preparedness and other professional matters.

DESPITE their rebuff by Secretary of State Hughes last month, the members of the Women's Committee for Recognition of Russia have made another appeal, in an open letter to President Harding and Mr. Hughes. They deprecate the secretary's apprehension of the spread of bolshevism in the United States, and they disagree with his conviction that the Soviet government will not assume the obligations of the czarist and Kerensky governments. The letter concludes:

"All that we ask is this: That an accredited commission from the Russian government be asked to sit with an American commission at a table in establishing the Roman Catholic church as the state religion, were altered, all parish priests would forbid their parishioners to vote for the government in the impending elections under penalty of eternal damnation.

It is not likely that the cause of these friends of Russia has been promoted by recent events in that land. In spite of the protests and appeals from other lands, and it may be because of them, the central executive committee in Moscow decided that the sentence of death against Mgr. Butchkavich, vicar general of the Roman Catholic church in Russia, should be carried out, and consequently the prelate was executed by a firing squad.

In southern Russia a serious peasant revolt broke out last week, but it was speedily suppressed by the Ukraine soviet assisted by the Moscow government. Three hundred and forty peasants were executed at Sehitomir by firing squads.

GERMAN resistance to the French in the Ruhr, which is actively promoted by the government at Berlin, is becoming more and more disastrous for the Germans, whatever may be the results for France.

Germany is increasing her walls of martyrdom because eleven employees of the Krupp plant at Essen were killed by French troops. There is every evidence that the workmen got what was coming to them, for the poll-tax—a small detachment—were surrounded by thousands of Germans and violently attacked when they entered the plant.

According to the French Intelligence service, the Steel Helms, a secret organization financed by the German nationalists, is becoming very active in the Ruhr and is preparing for armed measures against the French. A farmer of weapons and ammunition, seized by the Belgians near Doersten, is said to have been intended for the Steel Helms. The French are heavily reinforcing their garrisons along the eastern frontier of the occupied region and have a captive balloon at Dortmund from which the surrounding territory is kept under close observation.

TURKEY has accepted the suggestion of the allies that the peace conference at Lausanne be resumed on April 15, and there is good reason to believe the differences will be adjusted and a treaty negotiated.

It is quite possible to so organize that we will be able to refine our own sugar and market the finished product. We can stabilize the sugar market just as we have stabilized the cotton market, the prune market and the raisin market. We can do it by being our own salesman and our own financier.

There is something radically wrong with an economic system that permits the calm fleeing of more than 100,000,000 American people. The remedy for such situations as have been created by the unconscionable manipulators is not far to seek.

How Backache and Periodic Pains Yield to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Olean, N. Y. — "Every month my blood would go to my head and I would have such headaches, nosebleeds, backache and pains that I could not do my work. At night I could not get my rest and nothing seemed to do me any good. I read some of your testimonials about what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done for others, so I decided to try it. I had only taken two bottles when I began to be better, and my back did not hurt me nor my head ache. I felt like a new woman. The Vegetable Compound is a splendid medicine and I will always recommend it." — Mrs. A. D. EARLS, 680 N. 5th St., Olean, N. Y.

Mrs. Kelsey adds her Testimony

Copenhagen, N. Y. — "I read your advertisement in the papers and my husband induced me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to get relief from pains and weakness. I was so weak that I could not walk at times. Now I can do my housework and help my husband out doors, too. I am willing for you to publish this letter if you think it will help others." — Mrs. HERBERT KELSEY, R. F. D., Copenhagen, N. Y.

"Only in the vaguest way; is it my fortune? I have been held prisoner; lied to, and yet nothing has been made clear."
"It is a devilish conspiracy that has been plotted for a long while. There must be a dozen involved in it, one way or another, but, as near as I can learn, the chief devil, the brains of the gang, is the fellow named Hobart. Have you known him—long?"

"No," she said doubtfully, "not unless his other name was Jim. There was a fellow they called Jim. He was my jailor after that woman locked me into a room."
"Where was this?"
"Why surely you must know. In that cottage where we stopped with Percival Coolidge."
He drew a deep breath, more thoroughly puzzled than ever. What could be her purpose to make so bold an effort to deceive? His heart sank, but he determined to go on, and learn how far she would carry this strange tale. Perhaps out of the welter he could discern some truth.

"The fellow's name is Jim, all right, Jim Hobart. The woman passes as his wife. You knew nothing of all this?"
"No; I only saw the man twice; he was very rough then, and swore when I questioned him."
"And the woman?"
"She would not talk, either; only once she told me that Percival Coolidge had committed suicide. That made me wonder, for I believed he had something to do with my being held there. What did he say when he returned to the auto without me? What explanation did he make for my absence?"

"Explanation! He begged none; you came out of the cottage with him."
"I? What do you mean?"
"But I saw you with my own eyes, talked with you, and all three of us drove back to Fairlawn together. My G-d, Miss Natalie, have you lost your mind? Do you even deny dismissing me from your service?"
She gazed at him through the gloom, utterly unable to comprehend.
"I must have, if what you say is true," she admitted, "For I certainly have no such recollection."
He stared off into the black night, his lips pressed closely together. Could this be false? Could she sit there calmly, in the midst of such peril as surrounded them, and still deliberately endeavor to deceive?
"And you knew nothing of the death of Percival Coolidge, except what was told you by that woman?"
"She brought me a newspaper which I read; that was all I knew."
"And in that house on Wray street where I met you again last night. And you talked with me; tried to get me to quit following you. You surely haven't forgotten that already?"

"She dropped her face wearily into her hands, and her voice sounded listless."
"I—I almost believe you are the crazy one, Captain West. I swear I have never knowingly met, or spoken to you since we drove to that cottage on Sunday. I cannot believe what you say."

"Yet it is true, every word true," he asserted stoutly. "Why else should I be here? You returned with us to Fairlawn" and we chatted together pleasantly all the way. Later you seemed to change, and discharged me rather rudely. Then Percival Coolidge was killed—shot down by an assassin. You were at the inquest, and testified. The next day you discharged Sexton, and later he learned, and reported to me, that some one called you on the phone from Wray street, and wanted you to come over there at once. I found you there, and this fellow Hobart with you."

"But, Captain West, I never saw you; I never left the room in the third story where I was locked in, except when they took me away in a machine to the yacht."
"You dropped a note in the alley, enclosed in a silver knife?"
"Yes, I did. Did you find it?"
"Sexton did, and that was what brought me here."

"But it is all so strange," she exclaimed despairingly. "How could I have done all these things, been in all these places, and yet know nothing about it? Could I have been drugged or influenced in some way by those people?"
"I do not believe you were either hypnotized or drugged. Good G-d; why did I not think of this solution before? I must have been blind; that was not you; I can recall a hundred little things now to convince me."
"What is it you mean?"
"Another woman played your part; a woman most wonderfully like you, even to the voice. There is no other solution of the problem. And that reveals the plan of robbery—to get you out of the way, and then have her take the fortune."

"She sat silent, motionless, apparently unable at once to grasp all the meaning in his words. Then she pointed away into the distance.
"See, there is light over there," she exclaimed eagerly. "That must be the east, and it is morning."
He lifted his head, and looked where she pointed. A dull, gray light topped the waters, and the sky above held a faint tinge of crimson. The wan glow accented the loneliness, and for the moment left him depressed. Nothing appeared within range of vision to break the drear monotony of gray sea and sky. Neither felt any desire to Speak; they could only stare out silently across the desolation of waters, feeling their helplessness and peril.

Her head sank forward into her hands, as though she would shut out the whole weird picture, and West, aroused by the slight movement, glanced quickly aside. His hand sought her own, where it gripped for support, and closed over it warmly.
"It cannot be as bad as it seems," he insisted, trying to say the words cheerfully. "I know these waters, and they are never long deserted. Luck will change, surely; perhaps within the hour we shall be picked up, and can laugh at all this experience."
She lifted her head, and their eyes met frankly.

"I am not afraid," she protested. "Not physically, at least. Truly I have not felt fear, since you joined me, Captain West."

"But you are very tired?"
"Perhaps so, yet I have not thought about that. There are other things; you do not believe in me."
"Why say that?" he asked in astonishment. "There is no question of the kind between us now."
"Truly, is there not? What was it you believed of me—that that I was part of this conspiracy?"
"I do not know what I believed, if I actually believed anything. Miss Natalie, he explained rather lamely, "I cannot make the situation altogether clear even to myself. Under the circumstances, you cannot condemn me justly."
"Condemn! I do not. How could I? You must have kept faith in me, nevertheless, or you would never be here now. That is what seems marvelous to me—that you actually cared enough to believe."
"I realize now that I have," he said gravely. "Through it all I have kept a very large measure of faith in you."
"Why should that faith have survived?" she questioned persistently, as though doubt would not wholly leave her mind. "Surely there was never a madder story told than the one I told you, and I couldn't have proven an item of it."
"Yet it has shown itself true," he interrupted.

"You actually believe, then, that there is another woman—a counterfeit of myself?"
"It is the only theory feasible; you have convinced me of that. Will you believe what I say?"
"Implicitly."
"Perhaps it sounds like a fairy tale," he spoke frankly, his eyes seeking her own, all their surroundings forgotten in the eagerness of the moment, "but I will tell you the exact truth. Before this misunderstanding occurred you had confided in me, trusted me, although I was a stranger and I believed absolutely in your story. I had that basis to rest on. Then I got hold of various odds and ends of evidence which convinced me that something was wrong—that you were actually being conspired against. I even gained a suspicion that Percival Coolidge was the actual leader of the conspiracy. You could never have been made prisoner in that cottage without his connivance; he must have lured you there for that particular purpose, so that this other girl could take your place without danger of discovery. The reason for Percival's participation is only a guess, but my theory is the fellow had so juggled your fortune, and the time for final accounting was so near, he had to take a desperate chance in order to save himself."

"My own theory is that when Hobart learned what Percival Coolidge proposed doing, his own criminal tendencies told him that there was some easy money. The girl was undoubtedly wholly under his control; some denizen of the underworld probably. She had already played her part sufficiently well to convince Hobart of success. Why then, shouldn't he have this money instead of Percival? There was no reason except that Percival was in the way. That was why he was killed."
"And," she questioned breathlessly, "the man meant to murder me also?"

"Not at that time, in my judgment." West answered thoughtfully. "Such an additional crime was not a part of the original plan. Once the money, and other property, were delivered to the fake Natalie, the cashing in and get away would be easy; even the identity of the thieves would be concealed."
"But they did try to kill me."
"Yes, later, by the sinking of the yacht. Probably I am largely responsible for that. My appearance in Wray street must have been quite a shock. And when I succeeded in escaping from their trap there, Hobart very evidently lost his head completely. The knowledge that I was free, perhaps in communication with the police, led to your night trip to the Seminole, and the secret sinking of the yacht. He had gone too far by then to hesitate at another murder."
"—I think I understand now," she admitted, "how all this occurred; but why—why were you so persistent? There—there must have been a reason more impelling than a vague suspicion?"
"There was—the most compelling impulse in the world."
"You mean faith in me?"
"Even more than that; love for you. Natalie, I love you, have loved you all the time, without fully realizing exactly what it meant. There have been times when I have doubted you, when I could not wholly escape the evidence that you were also concerned personally in this fraud. I have endeavored to withdraw from the case, to forget, and blot everything from memory. But something stronger than will prevented; I could not desert you; could not believe you were wilfully wrong. You understand what I mean."

"Yes," the words barely reaching him. "It was the other girl; she undermined your faith."
"That is the truth; yet how could it be, do you suppose? My very love should have enabled me to detect the difference."
She touched his arm with her hand, and under the slight pressure he looked aside at her.

"You know now," she said softly, "and I know. All this is past and gone between us. We are here alone, the sport of the waves, and I have no reason to be other than frank. I believe in you, Matthew West; in your honesty and manhood. You say you love me?"
"With all my heart and soul; it seems to me now I have always loved you—you came to me, the lady of my dreams."
Her eyes were wet with unshed tears, yet she smiled back into his face, her voice trembling as she answered:
"And I," she said slowly, "have had no thought but of you since our morning in the garden together. How far away that seems."
"You mean you love me?"
"Yes; I love you; there is no word stronger, but I would speak it—is that not enough?"
He held her in his arms, in spite of the trembling raft, tossed by the swell of the sea, and crushed her against him in the ardent strain of passion. An instant she held her head back, her eyes gazing straight into his; then, with sigh of content, yielded, and their lips met, and clung.

CHAPTER XVI

The House in the Bluffs.

The cleft in the bluff was both narrow and steep, but it gave them passage. At the upper end Natalie's reserve strength suddenly deserted her, and she sank down on the grass, laboring for breath, feeling unable to advance a step farther. The days and nights of excitement, coupled with lack of food and sleep, had left her physically weakened; now suddenly, even her will and courage both gave way.
"No, it is nothing," she explained in a whisper. "I am just completely tired out, I guess. You go on, Matt, and find some place of shelter. I'll just sit where I am now until you come back—only—only don't go very far away."
She held out her hand, and endeavored to smile.

"Desert me! Of course you are not, dear. I am bidding you go. I shall not mind being left here alone. I am so tired."
West felt the importance of gaining a view inland before the closing door of night obscured everything, and therefore reluctantly left her alone there while he made his way to the top of the ridge. It was a wild, broken country revealed to his gaze, a land of ridges and ravines, rugged and picturesque, but exhibiting no evidence of roads, or inhabitants. Then his eyes caught a thin spiral of smoke rising from out a narrow valley almost directly beneath where he stood, the depths of which were totally concealed from sight. As he stared at this, uncertain of its reality, a single spark of light winked out at him through the darkness. There was certainly a habitation of some kind hidden away down there. If he could only leave Natalie there in safe hands, in the security of a home, however humble, food would give him strength to push on alone. West turned and hastened back through the woods, clambering down the slope of the ridge in darkness to the spot where he had left the girl. For the moment he could not distinguish her presence in the gloom, and, fearing he might have gone astray, called her name aloud.

"Yes," she answered. "I am here; to your right. I am standing up. Have you discovered anything?"

WOMEN NEED SWAMP-ROOT

Thousands of women have kidney and bladder trouble and never suspect it. Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease. If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased.
Pain in the back, headache, loss of ambition, nervousness, are often times symptoms of kidney trouble.
Don't delay starting treatment. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a physician's prescription, obtained at any drug store, may be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions.
Get a medium or large size bottle immediately from any drug store.
However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Advertisement.

I. C. R. R. DOING THINGS

Maintains an Agricultural Service Department for Farmers' Use

The Illinois Central System has for a number of years maintained a department of service for the farmers in its territory. Agriculture is the principal industry in the fertile Mississippi Valley, fourteen states of which are served by the lines of the I. C. R. R.

"The prosperity of the railroad depends in a large measure upon the prosperity of the farmers," according to President Markham of the I. C. System, who recently made a public statement of the aims and purposes of the railroad's development work. "The only true progress is that which is shared by all. We feel that we are justified, therefore, in doing our utmost to put agriculture on a sound, substantial basis."

The personnel of the Illinois Central development bureau includes men of both technical training and practical experience in the various phases of agriculture, and the services of these men are given without charge to communities on any part of the system. They go into the communities and work with the local agencies in carrying on the promotion of better farming methods. Meetings are frequently held at which lectures are given and educational motion pictures are shown on such subjects as dairying, poultry raising, beef cattle production, the care of swine and the growing of fruits and vegetables.

The fertility of the soil is one phase of the agricultural subject to which the development bureau has in the past given particular attention. Surveys of soil conditions are made in various territories along lines of the railroad, and the development bureau is prepared to give expert advice on the crops best adapted to profitable growing in the various soils encountered. The rotation of crops is advocated, and the farm advisers of the bureau assist the farmers to select fertilizers most suitable for use according to varying conditions. Frequently tests are made on the use of fertilizers, and the farmers in the communities where these tests are made not only observe the results, but assist the railroad's representatives in conducting the experiments.

The mild winters and abundant forage of the south are admirably adapted to the raising of all kinds of food-producing animals. Plenty of rainfall and the long growing season contribute to the success of fruit and vegetable production. In all phases of agricultural activities the railroad's development bureau takes a leading part—from planting time to harvest.

ACCOUNTS GREAT AID TO ECONOMY

Keeping Track of Expenses of Household Supplements Records of Farm Business.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
 Household accounts are valuable on the farm as elsewhere, even though farm household expenses are very intimately associated with the business of the farm itself. The farm normally supplies much material which otherwise would become a household expense. The household, in turn, very often furnishes board for farm labor, which would otherwise be a farm expense. Keeping track of household expenses therefore supplements the records of the farm business, points out the United States Department of Agriculture.

More than this, household accounts are an important aid to economy. The first step toward saving lies usually in finding out where unnecessary expenses are incurred. It is important, therefore, to analyze or classify the expenditures and go over them carefully at the end of regular periods. One way of doing this is to record all purchases when money is paid out and then make up a monthly statement for each kind or class of expenditure.

Another method is to enter everything in a column at one side of a broad page, and at the same time enter the amounts again in the columns for each class. This system makes it possible to find out at any time the amount being spent for any given kind of purchase, and the monthly totals are easy to add up.

Book Not Important.

The kind of a book to use is not important. Each family will have a different way of classifying its expenses. An ordinary ruled, square blank book bound at the left side is usually satisfactory for dividing up into columns according to the needs of the individual family. To avoid the work of writing the heading over and over, a number of pages may be cut off at the tops so that permanent column heads may be read above them. A large page is usually easier to record on and to study when the record is complete.

Foods may be classed as "animal foods," "fruits and vegetables," "cereal products," "groceries." Many farms furnish a large part of the first three items. The totals for these groups should offer suggestions as to how the expenses for them may be reduced by greater home production. It has been found that on the average farm 80 per cent of the animal products and 70 per cent of the fruits and vegetables consumed by the family are taken out of the farm.

Clothing, household furnishings, running expenses, advancement, incidentals, and savings are other general classes of expenditures for which separate accounts may be kept according to the second method. Under each of these heads many subdivisions may be made, but for the most purposes this general classification will be found sufficient.

Analyze Totals Yearly.

Recording the expenditures, however, is but half the task. If the totals are not analyzed at least once a year with the idea of making a spending plan for the coming year, little is gained from merely writing down the daily expenditures. This spending plan may be made for a month or even a week ahead, if the future is uncertain. The aim should then be, if possible, to spend less actual cash than the proposed plan allows. On the farm it is often possible to accomplish this by enlarging the vegetable garden, so that the family eats more vegetables and desires less of foods which must be bought, and also so that there is a good surplus to can for winter use. More well-managed poultry may be needed to provide eggs for the table and chickens to eat or can. The amount of milk, butter and cheese furnished by the farm cows may be insufficient. Possibly investigation will show that this is because of a low grade of farm animals which could be improved by better farm practice.

It has been found that, in general, over 60 per cent of the food and over 50 per cent of the fuel consumed by farm families are produced on the farm. Some records showing what farm products have actually been used in the household is of interest and value. One might not be able to write down each bunch of beets, each head of lettuce, each quart of berries, and each quart of milk taken from the products raised for sale, but the estimated quantity of the different kinds of vegetables, the number of eggs, quarts of milk and other products used by the housekeeper during a week would furnish a sufficiently accurate guide for all purposes.

An easy way to keep closer track of the farm products used would be to hang a list of them up in the kitchen, with space for checks or strokes opposite each item, such marks indicating the normal amount of that article used or taken out at one time. To determine the value of these products per month or year, the checks can be translated into pounds or quarts and multiplied by the average price the article sold for during the period being estimated.

SOME ITEMS OF FOOD WASTED IN KITCHEN

Serve Butter in Individual Pats and Cut Off Bread as Needed; Save Cereals.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
 Ask yourself occasionally if any of the following foods are wasted needlessly in your kitchen or on your table, suggests the United States Department of Agriculture:

Butter—Using individual butter plates, bread and butter plates, or even individual saucers for butter keeps all unused butter clean and usable in cooking. The saving is worth the additional dishwashing. Serving butter in individual pats rather than putting a whole piece on the table prevents waste and, if the pats are made small, it is easier for each person to take as much as he wishes, and no more.

Slices of Cut Bread—Use a bread board and sharp knife at the table, and cut off just what is needed. Pieces of bread left over for any reason have many uses. They can be toasted or oven-dried and eaten like toast, rolled out for the bread-crumbs jar, used for scalloped dishes, bread pudding, stuffing, thickening for soups, sauces, or gravies, in place of part of the flour in muffins, pancakes or breads, or rolled in hot milk to serve in place of cereal.

Small Amounts of Cooked Cereal—Put them into bread, muffins or griddle-cakes in place of part of the flour and liquid. Use them to thicken soups, steams or gravies. Fry them for use like a starchy dinner vegetable, or serve with a slirup for a dessert.

Skim Milk—Except for the butter-fat and vitamins, skim milk is as valuable as other milk. It enriches soups, sauces or puddings, and may be given to the children if butter is used elsewhere in the diet to make good the loss of the cream. Each child should have its regular allotment of whole milk, but leftover skim milk may be given to them in addition.

Sour Milk—Cottage cheese can always be made from it, but there are also biscuits, gingerbread, pancakes, muffins and cakes, for which many cooks prefer sour milk.

Stale Cake—Make it into cabinet pudding, with a custard mixture and a few raisins or prunes; or dry it, roll it into crumbs and sprinkle them through or over ice cream, whipped cream or custard desserts.

Meat—If you know the fat-ends of steaks or chops will not be eaten, why not cut them off before serving and reserve them for a stew, hash, meat balls or other "made" dish at another meal? Cutting meat into individual portions before serving and keeping the part not needed at the meal out of sight in the kitchen, where it will not tempt the appetite unnecessarily, is economical. Meat leftovers kept too long and allowed to spoil are a total loss. Remember also that overcooked meat is often wasted meat. Fuel saving is often food saving.

Fish—Use any fish not eaten at a meal in some such way as creamed fish, scalloped fish, or fish chowder. With potatoes and other vegetables any of these constitutes an appetizing lunch dish.

Gravy—Make a good deal of gravy after cooking a roast, as many of the good meat extractives are in the roasting pan. Save what gravy is not served at table to warm up the leftover slices for use in a "shepherd's pie," to thicken croquettes or to combine with vegetables, macaroni or noodles.

Fats—Most fats can be used for frying, baking or other cooking, when cleanly rendered. Many housekeepers who have the time find it economy to save fat and make it into soap.

OF INTEREST TO THE HOUSEWIFE

Remove grass stains with ammonia and water.

Remove tea and coffee stains with boiling water.

Empty talcum powder boxes make handy salt and pepper shakers for the kitchen.

To remove iron rust, moisten with ammonia, then use salts of lemon, rinse in boiling water.

Grease spots on suede shoes will disappear if they are rubbed with a piece of cloth dipped in glycerin.

To open a glass jar of fruit without cutting the rubber, let the top stand in hot water several minutes.

If ants get into the ice chest, set a pail of water under each edge and remove box away from the wall.

Ugly gas or electric fixtures can be painted the color of the wall. Camouflage them with pretty parchment shades.

STEEL WORKERS' WAGES RAISED

Big Corporation Increases Day Laborers' Pay Eleven Per Cent.

AFFECTS OTHER EMPLOYEES

Three Independents Follow Lead Swelling Pay of Laborers Throughout the Country—Prosperity Revival Is Presaged.

New York, April 10.—The U. S. Steel corporation instructed its subsidiary companies to effect an 11 per cent advance in the wages of their common labor April 16. This was quickly followed by similar action on the part of the Jones & Laughlin Steel corporation, one of the largest independent manufacturers of steel, the Republic Iron and Steel company, and the Bethlehem corporation, and announcements were forthcoming that the managements of the other independent steel mills are considering a like action.

The proportional readjustment of the pay of other classes of labor, also ordered by the steel corporation, means that virtually all its employees will share the increase. They are estimated to number between 235,000 and 250,000. On the basis of the 1922 wage bill, it is estimated that the resulting addition to the payroll may reach $40,000,000 yearly.

The announcement of the change has been expected for some time in financial and trade circles.

From the Cunarder "Mauretania," two days out from Cherbourg, Judge Albert H. Gary, chairman of the board of directors, sent the following statement by radio:

"It has been recommended to the presidents of the subsidiary companies of the United States Steel corporation that the wage rates of day labor at their plants be increased about 11 per cent and that other wage rates in the manufacturing plants be equitably adjusted, to become effective April 16, 1923."

Following the established precedent, the independent steel manufacturing companies are expected to advance their wage scales in similar amount. The general advance in steel wages was foreshadowed by increases effected by a few small companies and by recent reports from the Pittsburgh, Monongahela, and Chicago districts setting forth the growing seriousness of the labor situation.

CZECHOSLAVS SAIL FOR U. S.

JAPAN MAY ORGANIZE LEGION

American Body Is Influential in Creating Better Feeling Between the Two Countries.

The American Legion is playing an important part in the fostering of a better feeling between Japan and the United States, according to Walter Myers of Indianapolis, former national committeeman of the Legion, who recently returned from a business trip in the Far East, during which he took occasion to visit the Legion post in Japan and China.

"In Yokohama," said Mr. Myers, "the alarmist press was creating quite a bit of furor with the assertions that the American government was gaining a military foothold in Japan. Allan Tukey, who was at that time commander of the Yokohama-Tokyo post of the Legion, was much concerned over the state of affairs. He finally decided that the most effective way of overcoming the antagonism would be by gaining more official recognition for the Legion's principles."

Mr. Myers tells how Tukey persuaded an attaché of the American embassy in Yokohama to accompany him on a formal visit to invite a Japanese general to attend one of the post meetings. The general accepted, although with reluctance.

The Legion post served dinner and conducted their regular business meeting, with the general, who understood English, present. At the conclusion the Japanese was asked to make a talk. This he did, explaining what a revelation it was to him to find a body of young men gathered together for the sole purpose of mutual helpfulness and social pleasure. Organizations of this character are foreign to anything in the Japanese life, he explained, in accepting the invitation extended through him to any of his race to attend the meetings at any time.

"From that time on," said Mr. Myers, "the talk of there being an ulterior motive back of the Legion was silenced. A few months later an admiral of the Imperial navy, visiting the Philippines, made inquiries of the post there as to the possibility of Japan organizing an association of its young men along the same lines as the American Legion."

"A HISTORY OF THE LEGION" Book by Marquis James Has Created Much Interest Within Ranks of the Organization.

Marquis James, whose book "A History of the American Legion," has created much interest within the organization, has enjoyed exceptional opportunities as an observer of events and personalities which have gone to constitute Legion history.

He has been identified with the national organization since 1919 and has known every person and has witnessed most events which have contributed to the Legion's development and growth. Mr. James has noted these down and his book reveals many interesting episodes which have influenced the destinies of the Legion. The foreword to Mr. James' volume is written by Alvin Owsley, the national commander.

Mr. James joined the staff of the American Legion Weekly in August of 1919 and in 1920 became the editor. He left the magazine to organize the American Legion News Service. Subsequently he organized the National Speakers' Bureau and the American Legion Film Service, and was appointed National Director of Publicity, which position he resigned in 1922 to return to New York as a special writer for the Weekly and for magazine and newspaper interests outside the Legion organization.

Mr. James conducted an exhaustive investigation of war-time profiteering and the series of articles he wrote under the title of "Who Got the Money" created a national sensation. They resulted in renewed activity by the War department and the Department of Justice against alleged irregularities by contractors.

Evidence uncovered by Mr. James has been utilized in governmental actions against contractors and more than $10,000,000 has been recovered to the treasury.

Mr. James is a native of Oklahoma. During the war he was an infantry captain, spending nineteen months overseas. He has worked on newspapers in Kansas City, St. Louis, New Orleans, Chicago, New York and other cities.

Entertained Bulgarians. The William Peck post of the American Legion of Minneapolis recently acted as host to 12 Bulgarians, recent arrivals in this country. The affair was part of the post's Americanism campaign, which calls for deeds and not mere words. The Legionnaires found that although their guests understood little English they were not unversed in the mysteries of the fox-trot. The meetings will be held monthly hereafter.

MRS. M. SNYDER GAINS 20 LBS.

Declares Tanlac Overcame Rheumatism and Stomach Trouble, Restoring Full Vigor.

"Tanlac built me up twenty pounds, and I am as happy over my new health as my little boy was over his Christmases," declared Mrs. Mary Snyder, 838 Estes St., Charlottesville, Va.

"For two years I suffered from stomach trouble, rheumatism and a nervous, run-down condition. I was almost a skeleton and got to the point where, when I went to bed nights, I wondered if I would be able to get up in the morning. Rheumatism in my shoulders was so painful, and I was so thin and weak that I did little of anything except try to get well."

"I was in despair when I started taking Tanlac, but now my troubles are all gone and I am as healthy and happy as I could wish to be. Tanlac has earned my undying gratitude."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Over 35 million bottles sold.—Advertisement.

When Hubby Agreed. "Aias," sighed the shapely wife, "I suppose I'll simply have to begin wearing my skirts longer."

"You will," grimly replied the husband, "for I simply can't wear these old trousers any longer."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

10 Cents Gives Cheerful New Color Tone to Old Curtains

BY THE SCIENTIFIC METHOD Modern Mother, Physician Thinks, Has Poor Ways of Bringing Up Her Children.

Dr. Alzamon Lucas of New York, who claims that by the exercise of will power a mother can determine both the sex and the vocation of her unborn child, said at Atlantic City the other day:

"I hope to see—in fact, I do see—a revival of the good old-fashioned motherhood idea. The modern mother was too scientific altogether. She glanced through a textbook and thought she knew it all. "There's a story about a nursemaid who rushed into the smoking room of one of these modern mothers and shrieked: "Oh, my goodness, ma'am, the twins have fallen down the well! What shall I do?" "The lady lit a cigarette and answered calmly: "Go to the library and bring me the last number of 'Modern Motherhood.' There's a very complete article in it on 'How to Bring Up Children.'"

Why Multimillionaire is "Sore." Millionaire—After sending your son to college it must be disappointing to have him run off with a chorus girl. Multimillionaire—I should say it was disappointing. I expected to marry the little lady myself.—London Mail.

There is DANGER AHEAD if you neglect your KIDNEYS. Take DODD'S Kidney Pills NOW and avert such possible dangers and fortify yourself against KIDNEY TROUBLE.

READ WHAT THESE PEOPLE, ONCE SICK AND AILING, NOW FULL OF LIFE, HEALTH AND ENTHUSIASM, HAVE TO SAY ABOUT DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS:

Three Score and Ten and Feeling Fine

"About fifteen years ago I used DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS and was relieved of a very stubborn case of KIDNEY TROUBLE. I have now rounded out my "THREE SCORE AND TEN" and am still feeling fine—better than for twenty years. I attribute my present good health and vitality to DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS, and I always recommend them whenever I can."

SAMUEL P. BENTON, 528 Central Avenue, Hot Springs National Park, Arkansas.

Given Up by Three Doctors

"Several years ago I was very low with a severe attack of KIDNEY TROUBLE. Three noted physicians had given me up, expecting DEATH at any moment. I bought a supply of DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS, took a double dose right away, and the second day I actually felt relieved. I continued to use them and they CURED me. This was years ago, and I never had another attack. Last winter DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS cured me from a severe attack of the FLU."

B. C. BIRCHLER, Fulda, Ind. They Saved His Life

"My trouble was SCIATICA. My back was affected and I took the form of LUMBAGO. Also had NEURALGIA, cramps in my muscles, pain and ache on the top of my head and in different parts of the body. DODD'S MEDICINE COMPANY, 700 Main St., BUFFALO, N. Y.

nervous spells, dizzy spells. Symptoms of Kidney trouble. I then commenced to take DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS. They were the means of saving my life."
 REV. W. H. WARNER, 188 East Ridge Street, Natick, Pa.

Consulted Many Doctors. Told Had Bright's Disease and Lumbago.

"I had been troubled with LUMBAGO for twenty years. Consulted many doctors and tried all kinds of medicine, but all to no purpose. Six years ago I was told I had BRIGHT'S DISEASE in the last stages. I commenced then to use DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS and contribute my present good health to them. I no longer take DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS twice a year, in spring and fall, in order to keep in good shape at all times. Mrs. Schmitt has also used DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS, and she is surely getting better. I recommend DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS to all friends."

MATTER COULD BE ARRANGED JUST HAD TO "MINGLE THEM"

Rather Embarrassing, However, the Frankness With Which Ruth Discussed the Idea.

We had a wealthy bachelor, terribly stingy, living across the hall in our apartment. He came to our apartment frequently to play cards.

He and our little four-year-old daughter, Ruth, became friends. He always tried to get her to call him "Uncle Frank."

I remarked to my husband I would teach her to call him uncle if I thought he would leave her something in his will.

One evening in the midst of our card game, Ruth touched him on an elbow and said, "Mother says she will teach me to call you uncle if you leave me some of your will."—Chicago Tribune.

It Usually Lands 'Em.

When I was a young girl I never allowed a boy friend to be sentimental or even kiss me. (This may seem exaggerated to youthful readers.)

I had been going with a young man who had been repeatedly refused a "good-night kiss." One evening he asked me why I refused. I told him I would never permit any young man to kiss me unless I was engaged to him. Well, he kissed me that very night! —Exchange.

Nervousness is too often but another name for ill-nature.

Erastus was dressing to go to Sunday school. He couldn't find his clothes and pestered his mother in his efforts to discover them. On this particular Sunday he seemed worse than ever. Finally he was dressed except for his feet. "Ma!" he said plaintively, "does you know whereabouts ma shoes and stockin's is?" "Rastus," said his mother, exasperated, "yo is de good-for-nothin-ness chile dat I knows. Yo' shoes am behind de do', yo' stockin's am undah de bed and yo' feets am on you. Now see can you mingle 'em."

The Modern Child. "So these are your little children, Joan," said auntie, trying to enter into the spirit of her small niece's game, in which a large and mixed family of dolls played a leading part. "You mustn't call me Joan; you must call me Mrs. Jenkins," replied the indignant parent.

"I'm sorry, dear," said auntie, humbly, "but you never told me you were married." "Well, really, auntie!" cried Joan scornfully; "where did you think I got all my children from?"

A man's strength is estimated by his ability to fight against odds.

No need to say, "I wish I dared"

How often have you heard the expression, "I can't drink coffee; it doesn't agree with me!" Yet there is an undeniable satisfaction in having a hot drink with meals.

Postum supplies satisfaction and safety, both. No need to deny yourself the pleasure of this fragrant, invigorating cup through fear of nervous disturbance afterward. Postum is rich and comforting, and there's nothing in it that can harm anybody.

Why not follow the example of the thousands who have left off the risks of coffee, for the assured satisfaction and safety of Postum?

Your grocer sells Postum in two forms: Instant Postum (in tins) prepared instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages) for those who prefer to make the drink while the meal is being prepared; made by boiling fully 20 minutes.

A NOVEL ORGANIZATION

Farmers and Sportsmen of State To Form Body for Game Protection

Springfield, Illinois, April 5, 1923—A novel organization combining in one group the farmers and sportsmen of the state of Illinois, for purposes of mutual protection, is being formed under the name of the Illinois Game Protective Association with state headquarters in Springfield.

The plan contemplates a local branch in every county, to be officered and operated by local farmers and sportsmen. To each local organization will be assigned the duty and responsibility for seeing that farmers of that county are protected in their rights, that all game laws are respected and that all offenders are properly punished.

"Not even the farmers themselves know any better than the sportsmen, the great impositions they have been subjected to," said C. F. Mansfield, Jr., secretary of the association, who qualifies in both classes. "In some communities the nuisance has become so intolerable the farmers for mutual protection for themselves, their livestock and other property, have found this alliance. We believe it is now up to the responsible and law-respecting sportsman to work with the farmer to give him this protection and to make certain that every offender is adequately punished.

"When every farmer in Illinois knows that no hunter will set foot on his land if it is 'posted' or without his permission, that every person who kills a game bird or animal out of season or in excess of the legal limit will be severely dealt with, and that a determined and vigilant state-wide organization is on the job to see that his personal rights and property are not encroached upon, then the full purpose of this organization will be accomplished.

"Every farmer and every farmer's son, every nature-lover, every believer in the protection and propagation of game laws will find none but kindred spirits in the membership of the Illinois Game Protective Association."
