Sycamore vs. Genoa.

Last Saturday the Genoa boys went over to Sycamore and met the team there on the diamond where they tried to do up the home team, but were unsuccessful in the attempt. The game was a very interesting one although the result was not so very close. Sycamore scored 19 times while Genoa was only able to record 11. To Genoa was charged 23 errors and to Sycamore 17. Three of the Genoa team, however, are holding their chins a little high over the fact that they had no errors marked against them, Al. Hall, Harve Hall and A. Sowers. Below we give the line up of the opposing forces:

Sycamore.		Genoa.

Smith	SS	Sowers
J. Thiel	1B	Dan S
Brannon	2B	James

The game lasted two hours and fifteen minutes and was umpired by Keenan.

CHASING THE MULLAH

BRITISH PUSH CAMPAIGN IN SOMALILAND.

REPULSED WITH HEAVY LOSS.

Rebellious Chieftain Cut Off From Supply Base and Decisive Action Is Imminent.

London, June 17.—A dispatch to the foreign office from the consul general of Somaliland says the Mad Mullah expedition had heavy fighting on May 28. A flying column of mounted infantry under Captain Merewether struck the Mullah's supply camp during the night, captured 5,000 head of cattle, killed one important chief, captured another, covered over 100 miles, fought a sharp action and returned to its base, all in 24 hours.

The main force of the British under Colonel Swayne departed for Eldabon on June 2, leaving MacNeill with 300 men to guard Zariba. Swayne's column advanced against the Mullah's base.

In the meantime, the Mullah, with 3,000 followers, attacked Zariba three times. He was finally driven off by Captain MacNeill with a loss of 500 men, while the British in Zariba had ten killed and nine wounded.

The Mullah is now cut off from his base and a decisive action is imminent.

OLD ENMITIES FORGOTTEN.

French, Austrians and Germans Join Hands in Dedicating Two Monuments in Prussia.

Berlin, June 17.—A remarkable ceremony occurred at Hachenburg, Prussia, yesterday, when the military attaches to the French and Austrian embassy in Berlin, together with 55 German veteran associations jointly celebrated the dedication of the two monuments, one erected by Austria in honor of those Austrians who fell in 1796 during the war with France, and the other to French General Marquis, who was mortally wounded on a reconnaissance at Altenkierchen in Rhenish Prussia, Sept. 20, 1796, and died three days after.

At the dedication of these monuments the bands played the "Marsellaise" and the Prussian hymn. A French attaché proposed three cheers for Emperor William, and an Austrian attaché expressed his confidence in the durability of the driebund.

The ceremony was witnessed by large numbers of German army and navy officers on the active list and high civil and military officials from a number of districts.

Revolt in Turkish Town.

Belgrade, Serbia, June 17.—A serious rising is reported to have occurred in a Turkish town named Novi-Bazar, 1,000 Albanians rebelling at the appointment of an unpopular lieutenant governor, compelling him to flee. The rioters then turned their attention to the Serbian population. All the shops in Novi-Bazar were closed, and the houses were barricaded when the above advices were forwarded here.

LIFE IN UGANDA COUNTRY.

It is Almost Exclusively Confined to Majestic Beasts and Ape-Men.

London, June 17.—Sir Henry Hamilton Johnson, special commissioner for the Uganda protectorate, has returned to London after an absence of two years. He brings stories of the Uganda rivaling Henry M. Stanley's description in West Africa.

Sir Henry relates that the country surrounding Mount Ruwenzori is totally depopulated as a result of the inter-tribal wars, and is consequently marvellously stocked with big game. Zebras and antelopes can be approached to within ten yards, and there is no sport killing them. Elephants and rhinoceroses are also abundant, according to Sir Henry, and lions in Uganda are too busy eating hartebeeste to notice the passing of a caravan.

A pre-historic giraffe has been discovered in this country by the commissioner, who proposes to maintain the region referred to as a national park.

He photographed a race of ape-men in the Congo forest, differing entirely from Stanley's pigmies, and secured phonograph records of their language and music.

Sir Henry says that 12 varieties of rubber trees are found in this country in an inexhaustible supply.

THEY WEARY OF THE FIGHT.

Filipino Representatives of General Cailles Sign Terms Exacted By the Americans.

Manila, June 17.—Colonels Infant and Guivara, representatives of General Cailles, have signed the name of their principal to an agreement to surrender. Under the terms of this agreement General Cailles is to assemble his men at Santa Cruz, Laguna province, as quickly as possible, and there surrender himself and his command to the American authorities. The exact number of his force is uncertain, but there will probably be more than 500.

Surrender Pleases Washington.

Washington, D. C., June 17.—Officials of the war department are well pleased with the prospective surrender of General Cailles, the Filipino insurgent leader. Advices received at the department indicated that this would occur soon. Cailles is a man of considerable influence, and with his backing of some hundreds of men, has been a menace to the efforts of the military authorities to stamp out the rebellion in Luzon. His capitulation, therefore, is regarded with much satisfaction by the authorities here, who say they see in it another evidence of the general disintegration of the insurgent forces.

Summer Confirms Story.

Manila, June 17.—General Summer has returned here from Santa Cruz province, where he had been negotiating for the surrender of General Cailles. He confirms the dispatch of the Associated Press of Sunday announcing that the preliminaries of the surrender of the insurgent leader had been arranged. Cailles is collecting his scattering troops. Of these, 147 will surrender on Wednesday, and the rest will give themselves up next Monday. Colonels Guivara and Infant, representatives of Cailles, assured General Summer that Cailles is acting in good faith.

There have been several sharp skirmishes in Bohol since the departure of the Forty-fourth regiment. The conditions in Cebu are still backward.

It is officially reported that insurgent bands, with American deserters, are going to Mindoro.

MORE GAINS FOR STRIKERS.

Five Additional Chicago Plants Effect An Agreement With the Machinists.

Chicago, June 17.—Settlements with the striking machinists were effected today at five plants of the local manufacturers, making a total of 70 Chicago plants in which the strikers have won the fight inaugurated through the general strike three weeks ago. Of the original 2,300 involved in the local machinists' strike, only 1,600 are now out of work.

Canadian Railway Strike.

Montreal, June 17.—The officials of the Trackmen's Union announced that between 3,000 and 3,500 Canadian Pacific railway track men struck today for an increase in wages.

Butchers Call Off Strike.

San Francisco, Cal., June 17.—The butchers' strike was formally ended yesterday. The striking journeymen butchers decided to withdraw their demand that a union card should be displayed in all retail shops.

Special Session of Assembly.

Washington, June 17.—Dr. Jose C. Barbosa and Dr. Jose Gomez Brisca, members of the executive council of Porto Rico, have received cablegrams from Porto Rico calling them back to attend a special session of the legislature called for July 1. Although they had not been informed as to the purpose of the extraordinary session they believe it is called to take action upon the abolition of tariff duties between the United States and Porto Rico. They say that Treasurer Hollander has made a report showing the receipts of the island to be sufficient to carry on the administration of the government after the new Hollander law goes into effect July 1, and this being the case the legislature can request the United States to suspend further operation of the Foraker law.

Meets July 4.

Washington, June 17.—Secretary Hay today received the following telegram from Governor Allen of Porto Rico at San Juan:

"By unanimous vote today the heads of departments fixed the date for the special session of the legislature for July 4, and the date of the proclamation to be announced at the session."

The proclamation referred to is that which declares free trade exists between the United States and Porto Rico, after a designated date, in conformity with the terms of the Foraker act, which allowed two years' test of the ability of the island to sustain itself through internal taxation.

TO OPERATE ROADS AS ONE.

Railway Magnates Plan a Sweeping Change for Lines in Western Country.

Chicago, June 17.—The Tribune tomorrow will say:

All the roads in the Middle West and Northwest, in which E. H. Harriman, J. P. Morgan, the Vanderbilts and J. J. Hill are interested, will hereafter be practically under one management. J. C. Tubbs, now third vice president of the Southern Pacific, will be traffic expert or manager for the Harriman group of roads, while Darius Miller, second vice president of the Great Northern, will occupy a similar position for the Hill roads. Both will probably have offices in Chicago and will act in conjunction. The making of rates will be in their hands and they act in unison on all trans-continental and competitive traffic matter. This is one result of the conference held in Chicago Saturday between Harriman and various men.

Tubbs will have full charge of all the traffic offices of the Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Oregon Short line, and the Oregon Railway Navigation company. He will also have charge of the trans-continental traffic affairs of the Northwestern, Alton, Illinois Central, St. Paul and one or two other lines that may come under Harriman control.

Miller, who is one of Hill's trusted lieutenants, will be traffic expert for the Burlington, Great Northern and Northern Pacific, and to these may be added later on the Chicago Great Western, Wisconsin Central, Minneapolis & St. Louis and Iowa Central. Miller, it is understood, will also be made second vice president of the Burlington road.

City of Mexico, June 12.—Robert Remmet, 51 years old, an Englishman and manager of the Coronos Dista Mine company, was shot by robbers at his mine on Monday night. There was a desperate encounter with the watchman and a servant, and both were hacked to death with machetes. The robbers then encountered Remmet and shot him through the heart. Then entering the house they ill-treated his wife and obliged her to disclose where her jewelry and money were kept.

SHAWBOOMS ALLISON

GOVERNOR FAVORS SENATOR FOR PRESIDENT.

STATE WILL RALLY AT CALL.

Chief Executive Wants Iowa's Favorite Son to Make Race For Nation's Highest Gift.

Des Moines, June 15.—Governor Shaw, whose name has been frequently mentioned in connection with the Republican nomination for president in 1904, in view of the suggestions that Senator Allison be a candidate, tonight sent the following telegram:

"W. B. Allison, Washington: I notice with much satisfaction that the country is taking kindly to the mention of your name for the presidency. I hope you will encourage its use. I will be more than glad to aid to the best of my ability.

"Let Iowa and the nation rally to you as they never did before. Do not say no."

Medford, Mass., June 15.—President Capen of Tuft college stated this evening that Minister Conger of Iowa, who has accepted an invitation to attend the commencement exercises next Wednesday, will receive the degree of L.L.D. from Tufts.

Allison Not a Candidate.

Washington, June 18.—Senator Allison was at the white house today. Speaking of Governor Shaw's telegram urging him to enter the presidential race, Allison said he has already announced he would not be a candidate and had not changed his mind. There is reason to believe the senator has written a letter upon the subject to Shaw.

STADIUM ATHLETIC TOURNEY.

No Competition Records Broken in Senior Champion Buffalo Amateur Meet.

Buffalo, June 15.—The series of field and track sports, given under the direction of the Amateur Athletic association, ended today with the senior championships, and when the last event closed not a single amateur record had been broken in the competition. In the exhibition throw Harry J. Gill of Toronto tossed the discus 120 feet 11 1/2 inches, which is 2 feet 2 1/2 inches better than the record, but amateur records do not recognize performances outside of competition.

The prettiest performance of the day was the sprinting of Sears of Cornell, who ran 100 yards under N. Y. A. C. colors in 9 4/5 seconds, which is the record. Crediting it with the men who ran under its colors, the New York Athletic club was first in the wins, the Detroit Athletic club second and the Pastime Athletic club third.

The results were as follows:

- 800 Yard Run—Hayes, Detroit A. C., 2:20 4-5.
- 100 Yard Run—Sears, N. Y. A. C., 9 4/5 seconds.
- 16 Pound Shot Put—Beck, N. Y. A. C., 42 feet 11 1/2 inches.
- 120 Yard Hurdle—Fishleigh, Detroit A. C., 16 1-5 seconds.
- 1 Mile Run—Grant, N. Y. A. C., 4:36 2-5.
- 40 Yard Run—Hayes, Detroit A. C., 52 2-5 seconds.
- 220 Yard Run—Sears, Detroit A. C., 2:20 4-5.

WISH NOTTHOUGHT'S SIRE.

Justice Harlan Suggested As a Presidential Candidate By Colonel Bryan.

Lincoln, Neb., June 14.—In this week's Commoner Mr. Bryan brings forward Justice Harlan as a proper candidate for the reorganizationists in the Democratic party. Under the caption, "Why Not Harlan?" he says:

"The Gold Democrats seem anxious to find a presidential candidate who is not 'tainted with the silver heresy,' and insist that that was their main objection to the tickets nominated in 1896 and 1900. Why do they not urge the nomination of Justice Harlan? Of course, Mr. Harlan is not a Democrat, but that objection ought not to weigh with the Gold Democrats who voted for Mr. McKinley. Mr. Harlan has not only placed himself on record against imperialism, but he also wrote a dissenting opinion in the income tax case and opposed the position taken by the supreme court in the Sugar Trust case. He has a splendid record on three prominent questions, but this is the very reason why the Gold Democrats would object to him. They prefer a Democrat who indorses Republican policies to a Republican who supports Democratic policies."

Boston, June 13.—The Y. M. C. A. jubilee convention, now in session here, has received a message from the German ambassador at Washington transmitting a telegram of congratulations from Emperor William. The emperor says:

"With pride the brotherhood may look back on its past life, which promises to further flourish and increase."

May this expectation be fulfilled in a rich measure. With satisfaction I see that the German associations, active in the same endeavor, take part fraternally in this solemn gathering. May the American associations also in the future train for their great fatherland, citizens who are sound in body and soul, of earnest convictions of life, standing on the only unmovable foundation, the name of Christ, whose name is above every name."

The convention in reply sent a message to the emperor expressing thanks, saying the delegates were deeply touched by the reference of the fraternal relations existing between the young men of the German fatherland and America.

PLANS GREAT IMPROVEMENT.

Pere Marquette Railway System to Be Benefited By Expenditure Exceeding $1,000,000.

Chicago, June 13.—Between $1,000,000 and $2,000,000 will be spent for improvements by the Pere Marquette railway system during the next 12 months. To provide funds to facilitate the work the company has organized the Marquette Equipment company, limited, and an issue of $1,000,000 of 5 per cent bonds, guaranteed by the Pere Marquette road, has been authorized. A portion of the money will be spent for additional equipment, some of it for the betterment of the road bed, while $150,000 will be used to provide additional dock facilities. In this connection the company has appropriated $40,000 for the building of a new car ferry, which will be put into commission before the season closes. This will make eight car ferries run by the company in connection with its railway system, touching half a dozen important points on Lake Michigan.

The first annual report of the Pere Marquette company since the present consolidated system was established was presented today. The financial statement shows net earnings of $1,966,000, an increase of $265,000.

WILL TAX THE BURGHERS.

Great Britain Will Compel Them to Defray Part of the Cost of the War.

London, June 13.—Sir David Barbour, whom the chancellor of the exchequer sent to South Africa to investigate the source of revenue of the Transvaal and Orange River colony, with the view of estimating how much they should contribute towards the cost of the war, reports in favor of a 10 per cent tax on the profits on mines, yielding, on the basis of the profits of 1898, £450,000 yearly.

The Orange River colony will be unable for some years to meet the ordinary cost of the administration and pay its share of the cost of constabulary.

"It cannot, therefore," says Sir David, "as far as can be foreseen at the present time, pay anything towards the cost of the war."

The Transvaal, he thinks, can, two years after the conclusion of peace, begin out of its ordinary revenue, to pay part of the cost of the war. He is unable now to estimate how much.

SLAIN BY CANNIBALS

TWO MINISTERS EATEN BY THE BARBARIC NATIVES.

FOURTEEN TEACHERS KILLED.

Not Being Caucasians Their Remains Are Not Served Up at Resultant Orgy.

Victoria, B. C., June 13.—The Miowera, from Australia, brings the news: From New Guinea news was received via Sydney of the massacre of Revs. James Chalmers and B. F. Tomkins, and 14 native teachers by the cannibals. The whites were eaten.

The scene of the cannibal orgy was traversed by troops sent out to investigate the massacre, and a portion of the jaw and thigh bones of the missionaries was found, together with their hats and portions of the trousers which belonged to Rev. Chalmers.

The expedition punished the natives, destroying their villages and canoes. Some of the prisoners taken during the attack made by the natives on the troops told an awful tale of massacre and cannibalism.

RECALLS TICHBORNE CASE.

Alleged Murderer Under Arrest in London Claims to Be Victim of Mistaken Identity.

London, June 15.—The British steamer Duke of Norfolk, from New Zealand, which arrived today, brings a prisoner charged with murder committed at Colchester in 1893. The case promises to develop into a mistaken identity controversy almost equal to that of the Tichborne case.

In the year mentioned Arthur Blatch robbed and murdered Alfred Welch and set fire to his victim's tailor shop in order to cover the crime. He escaped and no trace of him was found until he was arrested at Wellington, New Zealand, Nov. 6, 1901, in consequence of information given by a woman. The prisoner was positively identified at Wellington by two residents of London, but he claims to be Charles Lilly, a white, naturalized American, who has been in the United States since 1851. He claims also that he has an aunt named Caroline Cook living in Chicago and that he homesteaded in the state of Washington in 1892. Some documentary evidence supports the prisoner's claims and the police are badly puzzled.

HAVOC OF THE ELEMENTS.

The residence of Fire Marshal Driscoll in South Chicago was shattered by lightning just as the marshal was preparing to answer a call to another residence, which had been set on fire by lightning.

Then he directed the department in the work upon his own residence and the neighboring house first struck.

A number of other buildings were struck by lightning, and throughout the city and suburbs much damage was done by wind and water.

Later she expressed interest, but nothing more, in the formal calling by the court clerk of the cases perfecting against her father, I. W. It was in her room at Mrs. Funk's that she ended her own life.

Disappointment at not finding life with her husband in Chicago all that she had expected led to quarrels, and the quarrels led to separation. It is said that the girl was disappointed with her husband's associates in the city, and also with the life he was leading.

HEAD CAMP MEETS.

HEAD CONSUL HAS NO OPPOSITION TO RE-ELECTION.

RE-ELECTION FOR NORTHCOTT

Questions of Vital Importance to Order Considered at Biennial Convention in St. Paul.

St. Paul, June 11.—The Twelfth Biennial Head camp of the Modern Woodmen of America assembled at the Auditorium today, the full complement of 623 delegates being present. The delegates early evinced a disposition to fully discuss all the questions of importance, and the morning session was enlivened by a contest over the question of appointing a committee to pass upon the revision of the ritual as submitted by Head Consul Northcott.

Head Consul Northcott had recommended that this matter be passed upon by a committee of ten to be selected from the members of the order not delegates. A resolution embodying the recommendation was introduced by Delegate Swanson of Missouri, but, after a heated debate, it was laid upon the table. Later Delegate Howard of Indiana presented a resolution for a committee of ten delegates to act upon the revision. An attempt to amend this by adding two outside members was lost and the Howard resolution was carried.

At the afternoon session the reports of the officers of various committees were presented. The committee on rules and order of business fixed the time for holding the election of officers for Thursday morning. As this would conflict with the big parade the rule was amended so the election will take place Wednesday afternoon. The report of the laws committee was taken up and the discussion begun. This report will be considered section by section, and will consume a large part of the work.

St. Paul, June 12.—The election of officers and the protracted contest over the admission of cities over 200,000 population to the jurisdiction of the order occupied the attention of the head camp of the Modern Woodmen of America today.

The proposition to take the city members into the order was finally voted down, and the action was considered as settling for years to come the membership limitations of the Modern Woodmen.

The election of head officers resulted as follows, the consul, clerk and advisor being re-elected:

Head Consul—W. A. Northcott, Illinois.

Head Clerk—C. W. Hawes, Rock Island.

Head Advisor—Dan B. Horne, Davenport, Ia.

Board of Auditors—M. R. Carrier, Michigan; F. W. Pratt, Kansas; E. B. Thomas, Ohio; John C. Dennison, Iowa, and A. N. Bort, Wisconsin.

A head physician for each state was elected, this being the list:

Iowa—John W. Lauder.

Wisconsin—A. C. Armstrong, Bos-cobel.

Nebraska—E. F. Blair.

Minnesota—Thomas Low, Slayton.

Michigan—Frank W. Martin, Portland.

The vote resulted as follows, the total number cast being 620:

The five highest were elected.

St. Paul, June 14.—The next convention of the Modern Woodmen of America goes to Indianapolis in 1903.

The executive committee was given power to change the place of meeting in case it is found impossible to get acceptable railroad rates.

The routine action on reports and the disposal of the recommendations of the law committee occupied most of the afternoon session. Several changes were promised to increase the list of prohibited classes, but these were generally voted down and the membership rights remain substantially as at present. The convention decided to change the basis of representation to 1,500 instead of 1,000 as at present.

This afternoon the Pontiac, Ill. team, Capt. A. J. Reno, took the lead in the competitive drill at Camp Northcott. Its score was 99 1-40, the highest a Woodman camp ever took.

SPEEDY SEA FIGHTER

BATTLESHIP ILLINOIS QUEEN OF HER CLASS.

FAST TIME ON TRIAL TRIP.

New Floating Fortress Maintains an Average Speed of 17.31 Knots an Hour.

Boston, June 12.—With the proud distinction of being the fastest battleship in America and the speediest of her class in the world, the new sea-fighter Illinois lies at anchor at President's Roads tonight, after a most successful trial over the government course from Cape Ann to Cape Porpoise and return. The distance is 66 nautical miles. The Illinois raced today under the watchful eye of United States naval representatives and established a new record by maintaining an average speed of 17.31 knots for four consecutive hours. She also proved her ability to turn upon an enemy with extraordinary quickness by describing a complete circle within 300 yards, or a little more than twice her length, in 3 minutes and 10 seconds, while ploughing through the sea at full speed. Steadiness and reserve power characterized the performance of the ship throughout the severe test. The machinery easily met every requirement, and not an accident of any kind marred the success of the day.

Read Admiral Sampson, who was aboard unofficially, and Rear Admiral Evans, who acted as president of the trial board, as well as other naval officers who participated in the trial, were thoroughly pleased with the new champion, and as she steamed back to her anchorage with a broom at the mast-head the officials of the Newport News Shipbuilding company, the builders, were enthusiastically congratulated.

BIG BLAZE AT WEST BADEN.

Mineral Springs Hotel Destroyed, the Loss Aggregating Quarter of a Million.

West Baden, Ind., June 14.—The Mineral Springs hotel, one of the best known hostleries of the state, was totally destroyed by fire early today, entailing a loss estimated at $250,000, with insurance aggregating $110,000. In addition to this the loss in diamonds, jewelry and clothing belonging to the guests will, it is estimated, reach $50,000.

It is believed all of the 268 persons in the building when the flames were discovered escaped safely, though there were many thrilling experiences, the guests being obliged to grope their way through the blinding smoke to the exits, leaving their personal effects and clothing behind. It is said that only 12 guests managed to save their wearing apparel.

The conflagration originated about 1 o'clock in the kitchen on the ground floor, immediately under two rows of sleeping rooms, all of which were occupied. The fire was discovered by the night watchman, who attempted to extinguish the blaze with hand grenades, but, failing in this, he rushed to the office and notified the night clerk, and together they ran through the halls, kicking open the doors and rousing the inmates.

The electric light current was soon burned out and the building was left in darkness.

In 30 minutes the entire building was a mass of ruins. Women, dressed in night robes and men's overcoats, hats and shoes, mingled in the crowd, congratulating each other on their narrow escape from a terrible holocaust.

Here and There.

The youth who was smoking a coffin nail near the monkey's cage took another one from his pocket. "Would it do any harm," he asked, "if I should offer him one of these?" "Not a bit," responded the attendant. "He wouldn't touch it. A monkey isn't half as big a fool as it looks."

If farmers could be induced to use broad tires on their wagons, from four to six inches in width, and also have the front axle as much shorter than the rear axle as the width of two tires, thereby making a broad track, our roads would stay in better condition and would not get rutted as they do with narrow tires.—Exchange.

A 3-horse team and a plow fell into a hole near Streator recently. There were two teams hitched to plows and going nicely, when the second team came to a certain place it went down about fifteen feet. The team and plow were got out without any serious damage. This is the deepest cave in known near Streator. Some day in all probability, the entire city of Streator will take a tumble for the coal has been mined from many acres which Streator covers.—Pawpaw Times.

Horse values touched low water mark in 1897 when the 14,364,967 horses in the United States were valued at $452,000,000. The Spanish war and the Boer war reduced the number and sent prices up, so that now there are about 13,000,000, valued at $604,000,000. During the same period there was a like decrease in the number of mules and their value increased from $82,302,090 in 1897 to $111,717,092 in 1899.

Few realize the benefit of birds to growing vegetation. One day last week in a maple tree a beautiful golden oriole furnished entertainment for some time by picking up tent caterpillars, pinching off the heads and tails and dropping the bodies to the sidewalk. How many were disposed of in this way is not known, as he was busily engaged when discovered, but it is probable that other of this species, as well as many others, are doing this constantly. Every citizen should assist in enforcing the laws protecting our song birds, as they are not only beautiful to look upon and listen to, but are the best friends of the fruit and vegetable grower.

Dr. Caldwell, of Freeport, who was known all over for his medical skill, died at his home last Friday, his death being caused by paralysis. He was 69 years old and was born at Little Rock, Ark. Since 1889 he has practiced medicine in Freeport. He was a thirty-second degree mason and a member of Freeport consistory. Dr. Caldwell is survived by his wife and one daughter and two sisters. The funeral was held Tuesday and nearly all the doctors within many miles of Freeport were in attendance. The funeral was a large one.

Two days' experience in running through cars between Elgin and Aurora demonstrated the fact that the present cars can not satisfactorily handle the traffic and make the proposed schedule between the two cities, and also that the system of collection on the Elgin and Aurora roads do not harmonize well. The through schedule has consequently been abandoned and the cars will be run as in the past until such time as the new and faster cars are received and the track has been put in satisfactory condition that faster time can be had.

John Harry Little, for many years Streator's leading drayman died at his home Sunday, June 9, 1901, after a long illness. The deceased settled east of Streator in 1855 coming here from New York where he was born Jan. 10, 1837. He was married to Lydia Jane Hatcher at New Lebanon this county 3 years after he came to Streator. Of the nine children born of this union seven are living. Mrs. J. O. Farnham, Seneca, Misses J. H. Clark, Irving Park, H. A. and L. L. Greenburg, Ind., Mrs. P. A. Merriam and Jennie and Edwin Little, all of Sycamore.

A limited number of members of the National Farmers' Alliance listened to a short address last Thursday night by "Corn King" Phillips, of Chicago, at the West hotel, Minneapolis. The address dealt principally with corn and corn "corners" let the government," he said, "tax the farmer a cent per bushel on his corn crop and with the money build elevators in which to store a hundred million bushels of corn, pay 40 cts. the Chicago basis for it and the world will pay the same price. There is not so much of it that we need to be uneasy about an extra large crop or so. With the government ready to pay 40 cents for it, the farmer can borrow 30 cents from his county bank if he needs money and carry the surplus for seven years if he need be."

Robber in Wolves' Cage.

For sheer melodrama the English Jew robber Houghton's arrest would be hard to beat. After his last big diamond theft, which occurred a few days ago, he was traced to West Bromwich, and thence led the detectives a dance over the country. At last, when the pursuers were hard on his heels, he dashed into a traveling menagerie, which was exhibiting just outside Birmingham. There he found one of the attendants fastening up a van cage containing a pair of large gray wolves. He flung the man on one side and opened the cage, shutting himself up with the beasts and daring any one to fetch him out. The strange thing was that the wolves, which the proprietor had always considered the most dangerous animals in the show, took no notice whatever of the fugitive, but showed great ill temper toward the keeper and a constable, who had great difficulty in dragging Houghton out.—Chicago Journal

Estimate of Milk Prices.

The Milk News says: As nearly as can be learned there is about 40 per cent of the milk output contracted for six months, three-quarters of that at 85 cents average or better, the balance at 82 1/2 cents, including possible 2 per cent. at 80. The 60 per cent, has been sold for only two months and at Union price, or for the six months to be at that price with the last four unnamed. The C. M. & St. Paul west of Elgin averages 85 or better, the C. & N. W. west of Elgin averages about 82 1/2 flat. Other divisions are 85. or better. The small roads are holding firm. The supply has been slightly in excess of demand for the latter half of the month due to cool weather and under consumption in town; there is no surplus milk for hot days, and a few of them will see every available shipment consumed.

THE CANDIDATE.

"Father, who travels the road so late?"
 "Hush, my child, 'tis the candidate."
 Fit example of human woes—
 Early he comes, and late he goes,
 He greets the women with courtly grace,
 He kisses the baby's dirty face,
 He calls to the fence the farmer at work,
 He bores the merchant, he bores the clerk.
 The blacksmith, while his anvil rings,
 He greets, and this is the song he sings:
 "Howdy, howdy, howdy do?"
 How is your wife, and how are you?
 Ah! it fits my fist as no other can,
 The horny hand of the workingman."

"Husband, who is that man at the gate?"
 "Hush, my love! 'tis the candidate."
 "Husband, why can't he work like you?
 Has he nothing at home to do?"
 "My dear, whenever a man is down,
 No cash at home, no money in town,
 Too stupid to preach, too proud to beg,
 Too timid to rob and too lazy to dig,
 Then over his horse his legs he flings,
 And to the dear people his song he sings:
 "Howdy, howdy, howdy do?"
 How is your wife, and how are you?
 Ah! it fits my fist as no other can,
 The horny hand of the workingman."

Lacy's Luck
 BY EDNA DEAN.

(Copyright, 1901, Wm. R. Miller.)

LACY was the unluckiest man on Oil Creek in the early sixties. He left his desk resolved to make his fortune in oil. Others were getting rich, why not he? He had an incentive. The brightest, truest face in the world rose before his eyes as he toiled at his well. It was his own now. His partner grew heart sick after working six months. He had invested an equal amount; both added their brawn. They were drilling it themselves. But the tools "stuck." More than a month was lost. Then they struck a "nigger-head," a hard rock that disheartened them. After that they struck a clay vein that ran in on them like soap. Weeks were lost again. Finally the tools stuck the second time. It was then Hank Waters, from Butler, said to the young townsman, "Here, Lacy, I'm going to quit."
 "But how am I to manage alone, Waters?"
 "I don't know. You'll fool away your time if you hang on."
 "I won't give up."
 "Well, I'm done for good."
 "But if I get oil?"
 "It's yours and welcome."
 To show that he meant just what he said Waters made out a release, giving all his right and title to Lacy in regular form. Lacy was left to fight it out alone.

He was made of the stuff heroes are made of, but Lacy would have laughed if any one had hinted at it. He employed a man to assist him, borrowing the money to pay him and giving a note to the lender.
 The day when he was wondering how much farther he would have to drill to reach the oil rock, Dick Hartly rode past. Dick was a successful operator and boatman. He transported his own oil down the Allegheny in barges. Dick checked his horse and called Lacy to him.
 "Do you know Archibald's trying to get your lease?"
 Lacy could not speak for a moment, his surprise was so great.
 "Well, he is. Overheard it. When's your lease expire?"
 "On the twentieth."
 It was one of the early leases which stipulated that the land should revert to the owner in case the lessee did not obtain oil within a given time.
 "That's bad, Lacy. Archibald's offering a hundred dollars hand money for an option of thirty days. He's got a company. He'll make five thousand afore the pipe's drove. All on the quiet."
 "That finishes me. I've borrowed all I can. In debt now a hundred dollars."
 "How far are you down?" Hartly flected a twig with his whip carelessly. He liked Lacy; everybody liked him.
 "Six hundred and forty-four feet."
 "Thunder!" Hartly sat bolt upright. "Why, that's farther than Saunders, and allowing for the difference up the creek you must be in the rock."
 At that moment Lacy's assistant called to him.
 "I think we've run agin another nigger-head, Mr. Lacy."
 Hartly dismounted and followed Lacy to the derrick. There the slack cable indicated an obstacle.
 "Like as not you are on the shell of the oil rock. Bet ten dollars on it," said Hartly in excitement.
 "Take in the slack and try awhile," said Lacy in his first glow of new-found hope. Hartly waited until the assistant screwed the slack up. He waited until the bit was fairly in the rock; waited until it pierced the rock and the sand pump brought up yellow clay again.
 "You see," said Lacy, "I don't think there's many men would hang to it the way I've done. But if Archibald's after it—"

"Tell you what, Lacy. I'm making a pond fresh. With Andrews and Potts. If you'll give me four days I'll make it worth two hundred dollars to you. I saw you helping Potts the first pond fresh he was in. If you do as well by me, I'll be ahead of the game if you'll drop this and take hold. Then you'll be able to stave Archibald off. You've lots of time—eight days."
 Lacy was not looking at him. He was staring apparently through the trees. He saw a bright fire, an old but sweet faced lady sat sewing; near her sitting about humming a low tune was another figure, neat, trim, alert, lithe—a girl with a sweet face.
 "You don't want a haul of money to see what's in this now—only a few feet further to go. Might strike the rock any minute now."
 The face Lacy saw there on that bright sunny day was hopeful. It smiled contentedly; her eyes looked proudly into his own. That was the look that had held him up in all his misfortunes. It said as plainly as words could say: "You will succeed. I know you will."

"We can get out tomorrow. With or without more rain. That last rain was heavier than anybody thought."
 Now back of the first picture Lacy saw was another. Archibald was riding into Franklin to record a new lease. Lacy's creditors were behind him.
 "I'd rather have you than Howe pilot for me. Lucky for you you fished on the Allegheny when you were a boy. You know it pretty well."
 "I'll do it," said Lacy, suddenly coming out of his day dream.

An hour later he gave his instructions to the man who assisted him. He was to get another man whom Lacy named, to take Lacy's place. That evening Lacy went down to the creek where Hartly's boats were moored. The small rivulets and brooks had become reservoirs where they neared the creek. By morning at the farthest, rain or dry, the pond fresh would carry the barges out.
 Lacy worked harder for Hartly than he had ever worked for himself. It was his last hope, his last chance. He inspired the other men. Hartly slapped his thigh with pride as the work progressed.

About 4 o'clock the next morning rain fell again, slowly at first, then came a downpour. The last shower accomplished more in two hours than Hartly and the other operators had accompanied in two weeks. Before the workers on the creek had their breakfast the signal to cut loose was given.
 One of Hartly's boats roared off smoothly, safely. A second floated off without obstacle. Now came the last—that Lacy had charge of. It was the most difficult to manage. Unless skill was displayed now one of Pott's barges lying above it might stove it in. Suddenly Lacy beheld two of Pott's boats swinging into the creek beyond the control of the boatmen. Potts, purple with excitement, leaped on one. His chief assistant, Bard, strove might and main to retard the other. There was a crash of timber, a tremendous rush of water, the swirling of an indescribable mass of leaves, branches and pieces of boards in eddies. Above all the shouts and commands of men could be heard as they struggled with an ungovernable element.

The yellow, oily water was coming down in a comb over a log that had swung across the creek suddenly. It was held fast there. Below this log was a long slide of clear smooth water.
 Lacy saw at once that unless this log was removed immediately two of Hartly's boats would be forced against the opposite side of the creek, in which case Pott's boats would be sure to collide with them. They would be smashed, crumpled up, their contents lost.
 He seized a cant hook, caught the end of the log, the swift water whirled the log around, throwing Lacy off his feet. He fell into the creek, grasped despairingly at the log, then disappeared.

Now the pond fresh was at its merriest. It scooped stones from the bottom of the creek, rushed headlong, tossing its yellow mane as it bore the barges down swiftly to Oil City and out far into the Allegheny.

When Lacy regained consciousness he fancied he was still at the water's edge. He heard the steady flow of water. There could be no mistaking that sound. He thought he was still at the water's edge.

"How do you feel now?"
 It was Watson, his assistant, who stood near.
 "Did they all get out right?"
 "Slack as grease."
 "Where am I?"
 "Where you ought to be. In your own bunk. Where'd you think you was?"
 "I hear water. It is water I hear. How did I get—what does it mean?"
 Lacy sat up and stared around him. He felt his head. It was bandaged.
 "It means you was nigh gone when we got you out of the creek. I'd gone down to tell you the news."
 Lacy was listening now intently.
 "Well, if that isn't water." He rubbed his bandaged head. "I feel kind of flighty. There, I hear it plain."
 He tried to get up. Watson pushed him back gently.
 "One leg's sprained. Best not. We brought you up so's I could tend to you better. That's oil you hear—oil from your well. Struck it about sundown last night. The gravel flew twice as high as the derrick. The tank builders will be here in ten minutes. Never was so tuckered out in all my life as we was making a bank to save the oil last night. Gee-whiz! More'n a hundred barrels, and oil selling at eight and nine dollars at the well."
 Lacy wondered if it was a dream. Just then Watson backed out of the shanty awkwardly. He returned suddenly, kicked some things under his bunk, straightened up the clothes over Lacy and said in a tone of assumed indifference:
 "Here's some folks that's come up to see the oil regions. Came up yesterday, they said. Been trying to find you."
 Then Watson backed out and the face he always saw in his dreams stood before him. Behind her stood her mother. As she stooped and kissed him Lacy drew a long breath.
 "It doesn't seem real," said Lacy, as he looked up at her.
 But there could be no doubt about the pressure of that soft, warm palm on his brow.

Last fall the school children of Toledo, Ohio, began to save their pennies and one day of each week was set aside as banking day. The children on this day brought their pennies to school and bought stamps, with which they opened an account with one of the downtown banks. The system was not inaugurated at the beginning of the school year and yet, up to this time, the children have banked $20,000 and there is yet two weeks of the term. The Blade says the success of the scheme is admitted by all. The corner grocery and candy shops have not done such a business with the children, but the little people have started bank accounts and have nest eggs which, with proper attention, will be of no little value to them when they become men and women. It plan teaches the child economy and it gives it a business training which will be of great value.

FRENCH FASHION FANCIES.

CLOTH STRAPPED WITH CLOTH.

All Paris is a wheel these days. Two or three spins take one from the heart of busy Paris to the green suburbs that struggle close around the moat of the formidable "fortifications." It is noised here from across the Atlantic that the bicycle craze in America is decidedly on the wane, but nobody here can give credence to the report. Paris-bound folks still regard the wheel as a "God-send," a sort of ready and willing steed for the rich, poor and indifferent. It brings the green country so near to city homes and that means so much to Parisians.
 Sundays, wheels go spinning out the city gates in a steady stream. All the cafes tucked in among the green trees of the highways do a rushing business just now, for drinkables are very much in demand along the highways where the dust is kept in perpetual motion by the incessant roll of wheels.
 The feminine bicycle enthusiasts are naturally divided up into two classes—the earnest all day goers that don serious dark chevot suits planned entirely for comfort and the chic afternoon spinner who takes her brisk skirt in the Bois de Boulogne all rigged out in a crisp duck bicycle costume attractive in its exceedingly spick and spanness.

One of the new light cloth models is built of castor camels' hair. The rather short seven gored skirt had a full inverted box plait at the back. Around the bottom there was a broad shaped flounce of the camels' hair headed by a band of chalk white suede.
 The jacket was a novel shaped affair with an Eton front falling in points over the waistband. At the back it merged into crisp little swallow tails that were tipped with the white suede and ornamented with tiny dull silver buttons. The suede was faced back on the front of the jacket to give the effect of a narrow vest with silver buttons decorating the edges. A narrow belt of the suede was worn over the coat tails and clasped at the front with one of those indescribably attractive "art nouveau" buckles with its design worked out in several shades of silver and gold. The close fitting sleeves were finished with suede cuffs.

Suede trimming for cotton gowns is the newest thing out. It is not half so startling in reality as it sounds. The pertinent question is "does the result justify the expense?" for it adds quite a "pretty penny" to the price of one's summer outing gown and then too it debars them from the category of "wash deavors of a second rate couturier. Better a fickle belt and peeping safety pins than a princess skirt indifferently made. Such a pretty new model built of grey blue cloth has the trimming so arranged on jacket and skirt as to counterfeit a princess gown. The skirt is cut princess with the corset forming slight points at the back and front. It fastens at the front where there is a broad strap of stitched cloth just a trifle darker in shade. The fullness at the back is laid in an inverted box plait that is more than usually full. There are rows of stitching grouped in bunches that encircle the skirt for its entire length.
 The Eton jacket is cut round-necked and fastens over to the left side with silk loops. It is edged with a broad stitched band of the darker cloth that forms one in line with the stitched band on the skirt. Narrow stitched cuffs of the darker cloth give a finish to the close-fitting coat sleeves.

There are any number of crisp light plique bicycle gowns among the new models. So numerous are they in fact that one is ready to declare "wash outing gowns" in the majority this summer.
 A pretty girlish gown is built of mercerized white duck and is trimmed with turquoise blue duck. The jacket is cut on blouse lines and is round-necked. It is laid in narrow stitched box plaits that extend from the neck and from short loops below the centre so as to counterfeit basques. Under the plaits are run three broad strips of the pale blue stitched duck that fasten with white pearl buttons at the front. The lowest band forms the centre.
 The skirt is made with narrow box plaits that are faced along the under side with the pale blue duck. The effect is genuinely attractive when the skirt is in motion on the wheel. The girl that wears this delightful bicycle costume laces her dainty patent leather ties with blue silk strings that repeat exactly the shade used in the trimmings of her gown. She isn't alone either in the adoption of this fad. It's one of those new departures, a bit extreme, that will find admirers enough among the women who delight in being "the first by whom the new is tried."
 Another crisp bicycle gown is made of white duck flecked with a scarlet dot. The bolero is a short, round-necked affair, made of the material corded. It is finished with a broad band of the plain white duck stitched heavily with corded material fall a bit below the elbow and are topped and finished with broad stitched bands of the white duck.
 The skirt is made with a broad shaped flounce of the corded material headed by a wide band of the stitched white duck. At the center of the inverted box plait, which gives the fullness to the back, there is a strip of the stitched white duck. Hats worn with bicycle gowns this summer veer quite away from the severe. They are all draped in silk or gauzy materials and are rather flat. There is quite a preference shown the trim little outing hat that has a felt crown and rather broad straw brim. These hats are generally trimmed with a simple ribbon band and a single quill. There is a great deal of satisfaction to be gotten out of the stout, well built white cotton gloves made especially for cyclists.

gowns," strictly speaking. For of course plaques and duck gowns trimmed with bands and straps of suede can never be treated to a soap and water process when they need freshening up. They are at the mercy of professional cleaners when they become the slightest bit soiled. One's pocketbook suffers the consequences.
 Not a few of the new bicycle gowns made with Eton jackets have princess skirts. They are great successes, too, for there is no riding up of belts at the back, no bold peeps from shiny "safety pins." Perfectly made they are perfection, but woe to the woman who tries to make one by the aid of a "bought paper pattern" or who relies on the en-

NEW RESUSCITATION

PARISIAN SPECIALIST STIMULATES THE AURAL NERVES.

His Method Said to Be Far Ahead of Laborde's Novel Plan.

Paris Letter: French scientists have been busy for some time past working on the nourishment of the protoplasmic cell as the auxiliary to the salt treatment for restoring lost vitality.
 It now seems that with the resources of modern science the rehabilitation of life must proceed to almost the point of actually raising the dead.
 The actual source of life has long been thought to rest in the brain as the pulse of mental and nervous activity rather than at the heart, the arterial focus of the body. In fact it has actually been demonstrated by science to be so.

While Laborde has been making experiments of the most successful character with the resuscitation of persons in a state of suspended animation by means of the manipulation of the tongue, another noted specialist has been working on the theory that it might be possible to reach the most delicate and sensitive point of the brain through the aural nerves.

It has, of course, long been known that a certain amount of breathing is done by means of the ear through the Eastachian tube, a fact very plainly demonstrated by the trick of the clever cigaret smoker, who by what is known as inhalation, passes the smoke which he has apparently swallowed, out through his ears instead of through his mouth or nostrils.

The most acute perceptions of the normal person, either inward or outward, are through the nasal cavities. In experiments which have been made with the numerous delicately constructed instruments used for measuring the senses of smell, hearing, taste and respiration of children for the purpose of gathering statistical information the possibility of reaching to the farthest limit of the physical channels to the senses has been demonstrated. Basing his theory upon these the specialist referred to has been making experiments with results which promise to far out-distance the already remarkable ones of Laborde.

What the instrument, or process, used is, or in what exact manner the action is applied, cannot yet be fully ascertained, as no facts have been made public. As far as can be learned it consists of introducing by means of a bonge some subtle chemical combination which acts upon the membrane of the brain and sets up a reaction. This, in turn, imparts the lacking impetus to the nerves and thence starts the more important physical organs of the system.

"Necessarily," said my informant, a prominent Parisian physician, "in conjunction with this treatment all the other best means of restoring respiration are used and such a treatment would not be effective were there any impediments existing in the various channels through which it would have to pass to reach the coarser organs."
 "It is believed that many cases of sudden death are improperly diagnosed, and that in an extraordinary number of instances the alleged death is only coma due more to nervous than physical causes. These cases naturally occur more frequently in cities and congested centers of civilization than in rural communities. This is the worst feature of the case, as in such instances the supposed corpse is immediately embalmed and all chances of resuscitation are then gone, as the embalming operation is sufficient to prevent anything being done.

"The high pressure life of the city induces so many cases of death, practically through one of the many forms of nervous disease arising from the high tension, that we can not yet tell to what extent the science of resuscitation could be applied."
 "To add to the evils of this increasing possibility of being buried alive is the fact that many undertakers embalm the bodies before time has elapsed for the physician to make any protracted examination of the body beyond seeing that the ordinary signs of death are evident.

"The theory of the physicians is that money devoted towards taking care of such cases and having thorough examination made would be better applied than it would be in any attempt to discover if a person has been buried alive by an apparatus placed on their graves."
 "I cannot go beyond this except to say that the scientist who is making the experiments is a well known man here who has never been considered a mere theorist.

"There may be some form of medical energy introduced in the operation conducted through the aural nerves for aught I know. The scientists would be on the verge of so many strange innovations through the comprehension of the various forces of nature that a new branch of therapeutics is about to develop."
 "These are apparently well authenticated cases of the magi of past ages having restored the dead and it is not impossible that the secret of restoring life after apparent death is what we are now on the verge of. It is certain that the magi could never have restored life after decay had commenced, but they might have been able to restore it in cases where it was suspended and where they understood the circumstances. Our modern magi will soon out-distance those of the past and if they do not actually succeed in making life eternal will probably stretch it out considerably for many persons within the range of the next decade.

In the new sanitarium which is in course of preparation for the rebuilding up of life by the use of the salt treatment and protoplasmic rehabilitation there will be some wonderful things seen. With oxygenation substitutes for drugs to a large extent, and all the latest mental effects for restoring the equilibrium, which will form a part of the treatment, the making of old people into young ones will mean no joke. The science of restoring decrepit or exhausted humanity is now in its beginning; where it will end one can only imagine. A friend of mine connected with the arrangement of the new palace remarked to me the other day: "We will be able to take an old young man, and if his constitution is good, give him a lease of life equal to his first one, provided he adheres strictly to our regimen, but he must come to us prepared to forego all previous inclinations and tastes, or he will have to be assisted by hypnotism to do so. The young old man who will have too much sense not to adhere to our course we will be able to make a Methuselah of. In fact, we shall inaugurate the first stage of the millennium for poor jaded humanity." I have no doubt that he said nothing more than practically will be done."

Chicago Tribune: Seven years ago the subscribers to the world's fair got back ten per cent of their money. In a few months they will get back from 31-2 to 41-2 per cent more. This will not be a large dividend, but, being unexpected to many of the stockholders, will be peculiarly gratifying to them. The dollar which a man picks up on the street or which is paid him by a debtor from whom he did not expect to get a cent, gives him greater pleasure than several dollars earned by hard work.

There is a tangle in the Virginia constitutional convention. The members dare not take the oath of allegiance to the federal government because if they do they cannot disfranchise the negro voters. Colorado, Montana and Arizona were ahead of California last year in the aggregate production of metals. The aggregate of Colorado was $17,000,000, and of Montana alone $59,000,000. Arizona will also make a good showing. California does not care as much for her reputation as a gold-producing state since she has entered the grain and fruit fields, and carried off the palm in that department. Her grapes, oranges, prunes, figs and other fruits are crowding those of other states and countries out of the market and there is almost no limit to her ability in that line. Gold is not to be thought of in connection with her agricultural exhibit. It will be forgotten soon that she ever made any particular claim to be a metal-producing state.

With the usual flamboyant tendency of the average Frenchman when he lets his imagination loose and bids it soar, M. Devourtelles drew upon that faculty without limit when he pictured to his hearers in the chamber of deputies at Paris the "American Danger." The real American danger to Europe lies in the superior ability of the average American citizen, no matter what his walk in life, and Europe will be compelled to submit to that with all that it means. But as for any plot to overrun and ruin Europe, industrially—that's French rot, and very bad rot at that.

An old teacher gives the following remedy for a restless child: "When I find a pupil restless and out of temper, with flushed face and generally heated look, I send him out to let cold water run on his wrists. In a few minutes he comes back cool and calm. The circulation is quickly affected by an application to the wrists. In a chill a nurse will put hot compresses at the pulse with excellent results, or bathe the wrist with camphor to revive from a fainting fit; and this gave me the idea of reducing the temperature of a restless, irritable pupil."

Joseph L. Ray, the head of the information bureau of the Carnegie steel works, and the confidential clerk of Charles M. Schwab, is in Chicago, examining models for a private car for Mr. Schwab. The cost of the car will be $35,000. It is to be the regulation length, 70 feet, and will contain two state rooms, a dressing room, a dining room, a bath room and a kitchen. An observation room will be made entirely of plate glass. Onyx will be used largely for the floor and walls, and the wood will be chosen carefully. A piano room will be one of the principal features. Mr. Ray, who is a negro, was born in Charlottesville, Va., and is a graduate of Howard university, Washington, D. C. He is 36 years old.

Woman At a Disadvantage.
Woman is always more or less at a disadvantage. She is seldom absolutely sure of her footing. The world is full of unsuspected quicksands into which she may fall through a limited knowledge of social geography. She has a keen sense of her limitations, and makes it her first business to hide them. Often she is unsuccessful, for where one can hide her weakness beneath a pleasant manner and a smiling exterior, a dozen choose a method which but accentuates what they so earnestly try to hide. And the world has an unpleasant little knack of judging by one's bad, instead of one's good, points. And when all is said and done, woman's failings, as a rule, are trivial and possess far more importance in her own eyes than in the estimation of anyone else. Her faults are more often of the head rather than of the heart; of inexperience rather than of thoughtlessness, and there's usually a good excuse for each little weakness. It's the fancy nowadays to sneer—just a little—at our sex, says the Montreal Star. Some of us openly declare that we wish we were men; many of the rest of us wish it, even while keeping silent. Yet to be a woman is a privilege for which we should return thanks, if we ever return thanks for anything. If our lot seems harder than that of our brother, it has compensations that outweigh the grief that must sooner or later come to all of us. The woman who, in admiration of her masculine relatives, is led to ape them in manner or dress, commits the greatest mistake of her life, and one she will assuredly regret.

Gave Her Eyes For the Baby.
New York Journal: Miss Ida Hathaway, the daughter of a wealthy business man of Hartford, Conn., has gone completely blind through her devotion to an infant hospital patient who was suffering from an infectious eye trouble. The young woman is a graduate of several schools. Not long ago she determined to devote her life to caring for the sick, and, against the wishes of her parents, became a nurse in the Hartford hospital.

Miss Hathaway has been more than ordinarily dutiful. Her devotion to her chosen life work was a religion with her and her studious care of patients has been a subject of constant praise. Six weeks ago the baby of poor Syrian parents was brought to the hospital suffering from a malignant eye trouble. The child was placed in the care of Miss Hathaway. The blind helplessness of the small patient made it the object for more than usual sympathy.

Miss Hathaway daily bathed the eyes with a powerful wash. Two weeks ago the right eye of the nurse became affected. She had caught the child's disease. Specialists were called, but they could do nothing to save the nurse's eyesight. Today Miss Hathaway became completely blind. The loss of sight if permanent, as the disease is incurable.

The child for which Miss Hathaway sacrificed herself has become blind, but its life was saved only by her tender care.

It is estimated that the fire insurance companies will lose an annual income of nearly $1,000,000 by the decision of the big steel trust to carry its own insurance.

INDIAN MARRIAGES.

THE DEPARTMENT REGULATIONS CAUSE COMMENT.

Although Congress Has Not Yet Acted Law Steps Are Taken to Enforce License Rules.

Washington Letter: One more step has been taken in the civilization of poor Lo, who, from the first of this month, will practically be amenable to the American marriage law.

Poor Lo's well wishers, who are doubtless good people themselves, believe that by urging the secretary of the interior to force the American code upon the Indian they will be taking one more step towards his enlightenment and sublimation.

The alleged object for this solicitude on behalf of the Indian is that it will prevent the swapping of wives, polygamy, immorality, etc.

Besides having no legal basis for action in issuing such instructions, however well intended they may be, it is held by the majority of those well acquainted with the habits and character of the Indians that the attempt to foist our marriage system upon them is a piece of folly as well as of sumptuary legislation of the worst kind, if so it may be phrased.

The current idea is that polygamy should be first restricted in Utah and the other parts of the United States where it flourishes abundantly, before an attempt is made to drag poor Lo into a system with which he has no sympathy and does not possess even a clear understanding of. To have allowed matters to stand and marriages to be consummated under the old tribal relations, as is done by the British government in India and elsewhere, would, it is thought, have been more beneficial to all concerned. As it is, it is feared an immense amount of official tape will be used and principally wasted.

The regulations require that no Indian shall now marry without first obtaining a marriage license, either from the agent or from some properly constituted state or territorial authority. The applicants may be married on an agent's license, by a minister or magistrate, or by a declaration before adult witnesses of their intention to live together permanently as husband and wife.

These licenses are to be furnished gratis, and at each agency a record is to be kept of both licenses and marriages. There are blanks furnished for marriage certificates to be given to the parties married, and for the returns to be made to the agent by the one who solemnized the marriage.

Further regulations are to the effect that the Indians must be made familiar with the laws of the state or territory in which they live and that they must be compelled to conform to them.

Every agent having charge of Indians must keep a record of all the families under his care, giving names, tribe and parentage of husband and wife, a description of ceremony used, its approximate date, names of unmarried children, and due information in regard to all other members of the family. If any attempt is made to withhold this information from agents' returns may be refused.

The idea which the commissioner of Indians affairs is trying to carry out is to establish a real status for the heirs of such Indians as have acquired citizens of the United States.

Another reason urged for requesting the commissioner's action by those who have agitated for these reforms is that even if an Indian be a citizen on the ground of being an allottee, there is no civil or criminal tribunal which will bother about a case either for or against him unless a white person be implicated. The local courts have over and over again refused to take cognizance of disputes in which Indians alone were concerned.

The judges claim that they are not called upon to bother about litigation between persons who are non-taxpayers.

Since, however, there is no law behind these new regulations it is doubtful whether they can possess the slightest value, as they must be sanctioned by congressional legislation, which has hitherto been refused in spite of strong pressure to bring it about.

PROFANITY UNDER A BAN.

Chicago Packing Company Moves to Prohibit Swearing.

Chicago Record-Herald: The action of the big packing firm of Swift & Co. in posting notices forbidding profanity on the company's premises will receive the unqualified commendation of every person who has any conception of the elemental decencies of life.

It is not necessary to inquire into the immediate causes which led Swift & Co. to post this order. Its significance lies in the fact that a great corporation employing 5,000 persons in its packing establishment should conceive it to be necessary or desirable to forbid indulgence in profanity among its employees. The presumption is that the corporation was impelled by considerations which affected its own interests as well as the morals of the employees.

Profanity among employees in such an establishment as that of Swift & Co. is provocative of bad temper and bad feeling. It not only lowers the moral tone of the employees who are compelled to listen to it but it is a breeder of dissension. It is the firebrand that kindles a hot temper and turns hatred into violence. It is easy to see, therefore, that it may lower the efficiency of a large body of employees.

As a matter of fact there is not a shadow of excuse for profanity in any relation or exigency of life. It adds no force or power to speech. It is the confession of vocal impotency in the man who uses it. The blustering, blabbering blesphemer who flies into a rage and pours forth a stream of profanity upon all occasions is a man that is not to be feared. When it comes to a question of vocal dynamics the man whose speech is as clean and sharp as a hound's tooth will inspire most fear and respect.

The Americans have the reputation of being the most profane people on earth. In no other land or clime does the common speech reek with the pollution of profanity as here. The Japanese, the most docile, sweet-tempered and artistic and ingenious people on earth, never poison the atmosphere of the "flowery kingdom" with profanity. There are no oaths or cuss words in the Japanese language.

A traveler in England, Germany or France very rarely hears the name of Deity taken in vain. The continental languages do not appear to lend themselves to such vile and variegated profanity as the Anglo-Saxon tongue is capable of.

Profanity is a vile, disgusting and useless habit. It is the one abhorrent blight upon a language that is destined one day to become the common vehicle of all human thought. Stop it!

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

Full-length coats are sure of a certain vogue in the early autumn.

Candy should be kept in a cool, dry place. It is the moisture that makes it sticky.

A white veil with black dots is becoming, but dotted veils are injurious to the eyes if the dots come before the vision.

Turpentine in starch gives an added whiteness and lustre to the ironed article. Use one tablespoonful to a quart of starch.

A small turkey is not the best selection, for it is liable to be dry. One weighing 12 pounds or over will be tender and juicy.

Some experience is needed to make a wise choice when a goose is on the marketing-list. To be good it must be fat, but not too fat, and the skin white and clean.

When a plant needs attention in any way, see to it at once. Much injury may result from your neglect to do so. In business we preach and practice promptness; this same principle should be applied to plant-growing.

Ribbon collars are correct with silk or flannel waists. You can buy "collar embroidery" in narrow bands by the yard from 15 cents up, for the tiny collars worn turned over the ribbon or any band collar, to protect it from soil.

Ducks need special preparation in the way of cooking to make them tender, and for the sake of the carver as well. Their joints sometimes seem not intended for dissection. In choosing ducks the bodies should be plump and the feet thick and yellow.

Flannel shirt waists that are bought ready made are not usually lined. Those made at home should have a thin percale lining. It is safe to buy remnants of flannel now to make up in the fall, for the comfortable flannel shirt waist is not likely to go out of favor.

Cucumber Fritters—Grate three peeled cucumbers, add the beaten yolks of three eggs, one level teaspoonful of salt, one-half salt-spoonful of pepper, the whites of the eggs beaten to a stiff froth and enough flour to make a stiff drop-batter. Fry in a spider in drippings of any kind of nice fat.

It is far less trouble to cook meat than to cook poultry and game, and sometimes this is the objection made. So far as the expense is concerned there is no excuse whatever. At certain times the markets are flooded with these seeming luxuries and they can be bought cheaper than can meat.

The cost of dressing grows greater every year, the fabrics themselves more expensive, the variety of trimmings and accessories more bewildering and more costly, dressmakers' charges are higher, and the changes and shifts of fashion are prompter and more imperative. And how patient and responsive we are to it all!

To be a father or mother is to hold the keys of Heaven and hell for the human race. The relation is a divine one, with infinite demands, and yet how often undertaken with no forethought, no sense of the awful responsibility. Wisdom, goodness, nobility, strength and patience are needed by the parent, and, above all, love.

Heightening the Color of Flowers—Shrubs growing in a poor soil seldom produce bright, high-colored flowers. Generally the application of manure in liberal quantities will improve their color. Iron filings and scales collected about a blacksmith's anvil have a tendency to intensify the color of many plants, if dug into the soil about their roots.

The friendships formed at college are among the most precious inheritances of the student. A girl should find her intimate friends among girls. After the study-years are over there will be time enough to meet men, and then true judgment will have something to say. One of the chief blessings of school and college life is freedom from the disturbing influences certain to be felt whenever young men and women are associated together.

To develop the neck or to reduce the prominence of the collar-bone, stand before a mirror and practice different ways of deep breathing, taking deep, broad breaths. There are two ways of doing this. One makes the cavities very deep, while the other, which is the right way, but slightly depresses them. Practice this and learn to breathe in this way continually. A marked improvement will soon be noticed.

The most substantial piece of furniture for a piazza is the wooden settee with inclosed seat and table combined. The ideal rug for piazza use is the Navajo blanket, made by our American Indians. The least expensive, by way of contrast, is a denim rug woven like a rag carpet in suitable lengths. Japanese rugs, Indian moodji and wood-fiber are each in their way attractive for summer wear.

Corn-Oysters—The secret of fine corn-oysters is to use not a drop of milk nor a grain of flour. Select corn that is fully matured—no underripe nor old enough to be juiceless—grate eight ears and then scrape the cobs. To the pulp obtained add one teaspoonful of salt, one half salt-spoonful of pepper and two eggs beaten separately. Fry in a spider, dropping in by spoonfuls, making the little cakes as nearly oyster size and shape as possible. Serve hot. Never throw away any left-overs, as they are good food.

Countless numbers of young men and women would be saved from steps they afterward bitterly repent by the loving co-operation of father and mother. If they felt free to go to them from childhood all through life's years with their plans, their ambitions, their joys and sorrows, trivial or great, sure always of a sympathetic interest in their affairs, though the thing itself might not be approved, life would be filled with a sweetness no gloom or trial could take away.

SCARES MADE FORTUNES.

Bank's Run In England On Its Rival Had a Boomerang Effect.

London Answers: Irish roughs attacked the Salvationists in a Monmouthshire town some time ago, and one of the worst riots of recent years ensued.

The Irish quarter was sacked, and 600 Irish driven out. During the fighting, one of the Irishmen, who had not, personally, anything to do with the rioting, got down an old blunderbuss, which hung on his cottage wall, in order to protect his home. With its aid he kept his assailants off. In putting the heavy weapon back upon its hook, the chair he stood upon broke, and the blunderbuss fell on the stone floor, splintering its wooden butt, which was found to be partly hollow, and the cavity stuffed with rolls of paper. These proved to inclose a will, dated 60 years before. It was that of the great-aunt of the Irishman, and it left a sum of $2,000 to his father. The man took the papers to a lawyer, and within six months recovered the money with interest.

A curious case of a scare benefiting the very people it was engineered to destroy, occurred in a Yorkshire town, in 1872. The place had two banks, between which a bitter rivalry existed. At last one firm began a campaign of slander, which ended in a panic and a regular run upon their rivals. But the latter was forewarned and forearmed. They waited till the crowd was thick around the doors, and then drove up a cab. A way was made for the police, and a huge chest of gold lifted up the steps and across the counter. Five minutes later, up came another cab, with another large consignment of coin. The game was kept up merrily, and as the spectators had no idea that the chests were dummies, full of pig iron, and only covered at the top with coin, the scare began to abate and soon was over. Not only that, but the story spread through the countryside that B.'s must be rolling in money and good people to bank with. The result was that many took their accounts from their rivals, and gave their money into B.'s keeping. Within two years the other firm had gone under.

GOT A SENATOR'S HAT.

Actor Crane Appropriated the Headgear of a Kansas Statesman.

Chicago Chronicle: Among the stories that are retailed in the cloakroom of the senate when that body is in session at Washington is one of how William H. Crane, the actor, put the finishing touches upon his great character study, "The Senator."

"As you well know," said one of the group, "Crane took his character almost directly from Senator Plumb of Kansas. Crane had just started out with 'The Senator,' and had opened in Washington. We had all seen the performance and liked it immensely. But I thought I saw one defect. Crane wore a high silk hat, which was not at all, according to my thinking, in keeping with the imitation of Plumb, who always wore the characteristic broad-brimmed hat of the Southerner. One evening, when Crane, Ingalls, Plumb and myself happened to be dining together, I remarked to Crane about the matter of the high hat.

"You really ought not to wear it, for it is not in keeping with the character," said I. "You ought to wear one like Plumb's."

"Crane did not say much in answer, but when he arose from the table he reached out for Plumb's hat and calmly put it on. Leaving his own hat for Plumb, Crane went off down the street with the old felt affair jammed down over his forehead. The senator was too surprised to offer objection. The next night Crane appeared on the stage with Plumb's hat on his head, and thereafter wore it at every performance."

MAY WAS AN AVERAGE MONTH.

Temperature Was All Right, But Was a Deficiency in Rainfall.

The month of May hit the average in temperature squarely. For the past 30 years it has averaged 61 degrees, and that is just what the past month averaged according to the monthly meteorological summary prepared by Observer Sherier of the weather bureau. The highest temperature was 88 degrees on the 2d, and the lowest 40 degree on the 26th. The greatest daily range of temperature was 30 degrees on the 3d, and the least, 7 degrees, on the 6th. There is an accumulated deficiency of daily mean temperature since Jan. 1st, of 35 degrees.

Nineteen per cent of the wind that blew during the month of May was northeast, the total movement of the wind being 5722 miles. The maximum velocity of the wind was 36 miles per hour from the west on May 11th. The total precipitation for the month was 1.37 inches, a deficiency since the first of the year to 5.15 inches. During the month there were 14 clear days, nine partly cloudy days and eight cloudy days. There were thunderstorms on May 5th and 10th.

SECRETS OF ROYAL FOLK.

Iron Boxes of Czar Paul and Queen Elizabeth May Soon Be Opened.

New York Sun: When Paul I. czar of Russia, was assassinated on May 6, 1801, he left an iron box at Gatchina, with the strict injunction that it was not to be opened until 1901. The present czar, it seems, is very curious to have its mysterious contents thoroughly examined and handed over to the national archives.

Few people are perhaps aware that there exists in our roll office a sealed-up bag of letters and documents which once belonged to Queen Elizabeth and has never been opened. It seems that, according to tradition, it contains the most secret correspondence of "our great Eliza"—possibly the love letters of Elizabeth—and that it can only be examined with the joint consent of the reigning sovereign, the archbishop of Canterbury and the lord chancellor—who, considering that Queen Elizabeth and her affairs are ancient history, might now be induced to see for themselves, if not for the public, what the bag really contains.

There are 19,602 working locomotives in Great Britain.

FARM NOTES.

Some drivers try to teach a horse that "whoa" means everything. If you were a horse, there would be a good many more runaways.

The farmer so far this year has reason to congratulate himself upon the price which has been maintained upon the hog product.

Ventilate well the roosting houses for poultry during hot weather. Poultry would be healthier if not confined in any building to roost in at night, for most houses for this purpose are entirely too close.

Farmers in some sections of Illinois have been making experiments with the milk product, as to the money value when comparing cheese and butter. So far the experiments seem to be much in favor of cheese as a money-producer.

Some of the farmers who were not satisfied with the price of corn in the recent market flurry, and still looked for a higher quotation before selling, are apt to be disappointed. Past experience should always be a good guide to the wide-awake farmer.

It is time millet was in the ground. This is time of year when "butcher's stuff," as light cattle are called, sell at good prices. Most of the light cattle are on grass putting on flesh for later markets and heavier ones are not so desirable for summer trade.

The time to see the corn belt at its best is when the grain is in full head, the clover in bloom and corn breast high, with not a weed to mar the scene. That's about as near paradise regained as the descendants of father Adam are permitted to enjoy in mortal form.

Do not rob the hog of the mudhole to wallow in. Some writers have gone so far in extremes as to want to rob the hog of all the luxury of living. The mudhole is the hog's friend, inasmuch as it gives protection against the flies and gnats which infest in summer and autumn.

Whether there is a good, big future in farming—enough to satisfy any young man with a healthy ambition to get to the front and have a fortune—is well answered by the fact that quite recently three farmers in Central Illinois left, at their death, fortunes of more than $3,000,000 each. This wealth was made in farming.

There seems to be a very heavy demand for good farm lands. Prices are up and still going upward. The man who expects to quit farming had better study before selling his farm. The domain for opening up into new farms is getting scarce. The demand for good farm land is greater than the supply. That is why prices are advancing.

It is a noticeable fact, says A. Close Observer who has been spending several years in investigation, that in localities where corn is "snapped" and fed to the hogs, that these same localities have been burdened more with the dreaded hog cholera. Whether this be due to feeding uncurd corn to the hogs or whether it is merely a coincidence, remains for the practical farmer to solve.

If you want a good roof, get shingles that are made of timber that is cut when the sap is down. Lay the shingles and nail them properly, and they will not curl up. Shingles that are made of timber cut when the sap is up will curl more or less; some timber curls more than others. The moon has about as much to do with the curling up of shingles as the side of one of the Rocky mountains, in Colorado.

Grass and green feed should now be an important part of the summer feed for sows and pigs to maintain good health and appetite. As the grass is cooling, and the greatest tonic for all live stock to grow bone and muscle. Grain may be given to encourage more vigorous growth; cut green grass is also beneficial and is greatly enjoyed by the fattening hogs in the pens. We will have less hog cholera if we feed more grass.

I know that in the many homes where this paper goes there are plenty of wide awake boys, and I would like to ask a few questions for their benefit. We frequently see white horses but how many boys and girls have observed a white colt? Why does a horse eat grass backward and a cow forward? Why does a hop vine always wind one way and a bean vine another? Why does a horse, tethered with a rope, always unwind it and a cow kink it all up by winding it into knots? Why do leaves turn upside down before a rain?

The domesticated pig is very intelligent, far more so than the cow or horse and not much less so than the cat and dog. I once observed a large mother pig help half a dozen of her children through a small hole in a fence, by various means. She dug away the earth to make the space larger; she pulled the little ones by the ears; she straddled their heads with her front legs and backed away as a locomotive would with a car, and she executed many other practical schemes, until, after a half hour's work, the litter were all free and bounding off with the joyful sound to a neighboring wood.

One of the biggest problems of farm management is, of course, the distribution of crops. Whenever this question comes up among farmers there is always a great deal of wise talk about "crop rotation." Sift this down to the bottom and it will be found, in most cases, that farmers understand this term to mean sowing a field for oats one year and wheat the next—alternating these crops indefinitely year after year. Every field used for wheat, corn and oats should have a season's rest once every three or four years. Give each field a chance to serve as pasture land as frequently as this, and it will pay big returns in rich and heavy yields.

The same feed which is required for producing one pound of butter will make two pounds of grain on the steer. The Minnesota experiment station found that 100 pounds of grain mixture with an equal amount of hay and roots fed to four steers produced 24.19 pounds of gain, and equal amount of the same food fed to four cows produced 12.04 pounds of butter. The type is not of so much significance with the steer as with the dairy cow, for the reason that a steer not of good type may be a large feeder and a good digester, and convert all the food taken over his own maintenance into gain; while a cow not of the dairy type has the alternative of converting food either into milk or gain, and she may choose the latter when owner wants only the former.

The McCormick Right-Hand Binder

The Prosperous Farmer always has a has these Leading Points, Light Draft, Perfect Work, Simplicity, Durability.

The MAIN WHEEL although the strongest ever put on a harvesting machine, is lighter than the main wheels on other binders.

Three years ago a European Government tested the McCormick binder in the field for two weeks, with seven other American machines, to determine which used the least twine in binding a given amount of grain. After the most painstaking measurements it was found that nineteen balls of twine on the McCormick bound more grain than twenty balls on any other binder.

The McCormick New 4 Mower

Is the only mower that gets all the grass. It is a very easy matter for a poorly constructed machine to run over a dollar's worth of grass on an acre, leaving it in stubble where it is lost. It is the only mower with a draft rod extending from the inner shoe to the shifting doubletrees.

The McCormick Corn Binder

Every Prosperous Farmer has a

has the greatest success from the fact that it cuts and binds in the vertical position the only practical way to handle big corn that grows in fertile spots in every field, also because of our "locked joint" conveyor chain, the only chain ever made that will handle the stiff and stubborn corn stalks.

The McCormick is the only machine that makes a square butted bundle. Corn stands on a level floor while the bundle is being shaped and bound. Square butted bundles stand up well in the shock, a great advantage in curing the fodder.

Kingston Celebrates Under the N.D. C.S-S.P.A.

Notice has been given by the press and preparations are being made for the biggest Sunday School Picnic ever held in Kingston. It is estimated that between a dozen and twenty schools will be present. The great success that has attended all the other picnics will not be lacking in this one, as no pains are being spared to make the visiting schools enjoy themselves to the utmost.

The Malta band will be present to discourse music. Rev. Wm. A. Burch of Evanston, will deliver the oration of the day and a game of ball will attract many.

The committee does not intend to mar the pleasure of anybody who behave themselves, although A.V. Pierce has been appointed marshal of the day and will performed the work pertaining to the office to which he has been elevated.

Let everyone put aside their daily labor and come prepared to make the day one long to be remembered.

Pontiac Wins Woodmen Drill.

Highest Score Ever Made—Convention Makes no Change in Membership Rights.

The next convention of the Modern Woodmen of America goes to Indianapolis in 1903. The executive committee was given power to change the place in case it is found impossible to get acceptable railroad rates.

Routine action on reports and the disposals of the recommendations of the law committee occupied the most of the day of the 14th. Several changes were proposed to increase the prohibited cities, but were generally voted down and the membership rights remain substantially the same.

Captain A. J. Reno, of Pontiac, took the lead in the competitive drill at Camp Northcott, scoring 99 1-40, the highest a Woodman camp ever took.

At a night session the Modern Woodmen of America, it was voted to change the basis of representation to one delegate for 1,500 of membership instead of each 1,000, as at present.
