The New York World.

Thrice-a-Week Edition.

The Most Widely Read Newspaper in America.

Time has demonstrated that the Thrice-a-Week World stands alone in its class. Other papers have imitated its form but not its success. This is because it tells all the news all the time and tells it impartially, whether that news be political or otherwise. It is in fact almost a daily at the price of a weekly and you cannot afford to be without it.

Republican and Democrat alike can read the Thrice-a-Week World with absolute confidence in its truth.

In addition to news, it publishes first class serial stories and other features suited to the home and fireside.

The Thrice-a-Week World's regular subscription price is only $1.00 per year and this pays for 156 papers. We offer this New York paper and the Genoa Journal together one year for $1.90. The regular price of the two papers is $2.25.

For Rent.

A good store room, suitable for a tailor-shop or clothing store. Inquire JOURNAL.

From The JOURNAL—1950

A Number of Items from the JOURNAL of fifty years Hence.

Byron Crawford, president of the Crawford Cannon works, has just received an order from the government for two hundred of their double action rifle cannons. These fire arms are considerably used now, as they will shoot in front, behind or both ways as may be desired.

Ed. Crawford has just let a contract to Orrin Merritt, Jr. for the construction of what will probably be the finest house in the seventh ward. The contract price was $35,614, which does not include the plumbing and painting. The building is to be completed by December 1 and ready for Mr. Crawford to move into.

A number of our wealthy citizens have chartered an air ship of the Genoa Air-Ship Co. for a tour of two weeks. They expect to leave here about the 10th and will visit New Orleans, Rio de Janeiro, Sidney, Pekin Paris, St. Petersburg and returning will spend a day at the ruins of DeKalb where once flourished the "Steel King" Ellwood.

Historical hunters in digging over the ruins of DeKalb have recently unearthed an iron box in which was a lengthy letter explaining how a gigantic scheme of an attempt to move the county seat to that place forty-nine years ago was frustrated by the people of Genoa voting solidly against it. How strange it is that there was once a people that craved and accomplished such noted things, and now; Oh! where are they?

In looking over the files of the JOURNAL dated 1900 we notice many accounts of a new system of water-works being put in here. It states that the pressure was maintained by the use of a 30 horse power gasoline engine and a pump. They seemed to be proud of their enterprise. If they could have only known that at a depth of 3100 feet they could have secured a flow of water with natural pressure at the surface of 97 pounds they would have been more economical in the spending of people's money. The well they speak of is the one in the west end that C. A. Patterson, Jr. has been trying to sell for post holes. It was 1500 feet deep when sunk. We now have two flowing wells that furnish water, and also power for running our electric plants and machinery in various parts of the city.

MILK CREW CHANGES.

In Consequence of the recent death of Ira J. Brown.

The changes made in the operation of the Illinois Central milk train consequent on the death of the business agent, Ira J. Brown of Genoa, who lost his life in a singular accident in the outskirts of Chicago six weeks ago, resulted in the permanent advancement of two faithful members of the crew. The position which Mr. Brown had held for twelve years, ever since the train was put on, was filled by advancing Walter Kirk, the former milk conductor. The latter position is filled by promotion of H. B. Brown, who has for several years filled the position of brakeman. Both promotions are in the line of service. The members of this crew have been unusually permanent in their assignment to this run, which is considered a desirable one among railroad men.

The family of the late business agent still make their home at Genoa, but it is understood by their friends that they will remove ere long to Elgin, the former home of Mrs. Brown, where the opportunities for her boys to secure desirable employment as they grow up will be all that could be asked. Mrs. Brown has received the insurance of $2,000 which her husband carried in one of the orders. The railroad company has not yet passed on the question of a settlement for the loss of her husband.—Advocate, Elgin.

Elgin Butter Market.

Elgin, Ill., Aug. 19.—For the first time in weeks, butter was offered for sale on the Board of Trade today. 3,000 lbs. being placed and quickly sold at 21 cents. The market was declared firm at this figure. There was a demand far in excess of the offerings. The sales of the week aggregated 610,500.

Prof. Madison, Expert Optician.

Will again be at Genoa at the McDowell House, Monday, August 26th, and until Friday P. M., August 30th, no longer this visit. Prof. Madison, has adjusted spectacles for hundreds of people in Genoa and surrounding country, and for thousands in Belvidere and Boone county. He does not exaggerate when he claims to have no superior in prescribing and correctly fitting spectacle lenses. It is true. Every word of it. Also he makes the frames a perfect fit too; something few opticians anywhere can do.

Examinations are free, and lenses changed free for five years. Will arrange to call at houses in forenoon when requested to do so.

Warning

If those four young ladies that were down to the A. C. Church Wednesday night and disturbed the meeting do not mend their ways their names will be published.

F. Foot.

POSTAL FUNDS DISAPPEAR.

Shortage of $833.36 in Marshalltown, Iowa Postoffice.

A shortage in the accounts of the Marshalltown, Iowa, postmaster, made public Thursday, created considerable excitement in business circles there. The shortage was discovered by Postoffice Inspector W. M. Ketcham and amounts to $833.36. Postmaster J. Q. Saint was at once informed of the shortage and promptly made good the loss. The responsibility of the $15,000 in stock and the $3,000 in postal funds has largely rested with Deputy Postmaster Max Kruskopf. However, others have access to the funds, which are kept in the vault, and there can be no determination made as to who must be held responsible until the matter has been fully investigated. A deputy United States marshal was summoned, but it is understood he made no arrests. Postmaster Saint, Deputy Kruskopf, and Chief Clerk Hawley accompanied the official to Des Moines, where they were cited to appear before United States Commissioner W. C. McArthur. Deputy Kruskopf arranged to reimburse Postmaster Saint, pending the investigation. He has been employed in the postoffice here for about sixteen years and the public is inclined to give him the benefit of every doubt. Saint was appointed during McKinley's first administration. That a crime has been committed has not yet been charged and whether or not any arrests will be made depends on the results of the investigation at Des Moines.

PRISONED UNDER LAKE.

Nine Men Die in Blazing Crib at Cleveland.

Thirteen men were imprisoned alive in a tunnel 200 feet below the bottom of Lake Erie, two miles from shore off Cleveland harbor, by a fire and explosion which destroyed the new waterworks crib and caused the death by burning or drowning of at least nine and probably thirteen persons. Of the men imprisoned in the tunnel ten were rescued alive many hours after the disaster. The other three are believed to be dead. The escape of the ten men was almost miraculous, for when the crib burned the machinery which pumped air to the tunnel was destroyed. After two hours of hard work by firemen five charred human bodies were found, burned beyond recognition. Two were in the attitude of prayer. They must have been awakened by the fire, but could not escape. One body was burned to almost nothing. All that could be found of it were a skull and some bones. The bodies of two other men lay close to those that were on their knees, and it looked as if they never knew what happened to them.

Details of Floods in Orkut.

Oriental advices received at Tacoma, Wash., give further details of terrible floods in the Yang-tse Kiang valley during July. It is estimated that not less than 20,000 people were drowned in the provinces of Kiangsi, Hupeh, Hunan, and Anhui, while tens of thousands have been rendered homeless. The provinces of Kiangsi and Hunan suffered most severely, fully 15,000 persons having perished in Kiangsi alone. Rain fell continuously for forty days.

Boers Capture Bremerdorp.

A small British force evacuated Bremerdorp, but took up a position near by. The Boers pursued them, but were repulsed. The Boers received 500 reinforcements and then compelled the British to retire. The Boers, assisted by Swazis, captured three wagons loaded with rations and a Maxim gun. They afterwards burned Bremerdorp. The British lost four killed and fourteen captured. The Boers lost heavily.

Italy Denies Slave Trade.

"The Italian government will address a remonstrance to the United States government," says the Rome correspondent of the Standard, "concerning Consul Long's report dealing on the Red Sea and at Massowah. It has documentary proof that slave traffic has ceased in the interior and is rigorously supervised on the Red Sea coast."

Find Fortune in Ambergris.

From Point Conception comes the news to Salinas, Cal., that a valuable find of ambergris has been made there, the value of which promised to reach $40,000. F. W. Walraven, a bridge carpenter at work on the Southern Pacific road; T. J. Reddington, agent at Conception; and J. B. Bosby, the night operator, found a large mass, about 140 pounds in weight, of a whitish, oily stuff, of which they brought specimens to San Francisco for analysis. The report received proved the substance was almost pure ambergris.

SHIP CRASHES INTO ICEBERG

Alaskan Steamer Islander Wrecked and Seventy Die.

DISASTER COMES IN A FOG.

Captain Sticks to His Post and Goes to Death with Many of His Passengers and Crew—Explosion Follows the Wreck.

As a result of a collision with an iceberg early last Thursday morning the steamer Islander, crack boat of the Canadian Pacific Navigation company, sank and carried down seventy of its passengers and crew. The steamer hit the floating mass of ice just before dawn. A heavy fog hung over the sea, and to this is attributed the fact that Captain Foote, who was on the bridge, failed to observe his danger. The force of the collision was such that an immense hole was torn in the bow of the vessel. The water poured into the ship in such volumes that it was impossible to close the water-tight compartment doors, and the flood soon reached the engine-rooms. Just as the boats were lowered a terrific explosion occurred, and scores of people who otherwise might have been saved were killed. The passengers, awakened by the shock, were confronted with what seemed certain death. When they started in a mad rush for the deck they found that the force of the collision had been such that every door and window was jammed fast. With whatever came handy they started to break doors and windows. A number succeeded, but those who had failed to gain even temporary liberty went down when the boilers exploded. Steward Simpson, who lost ten of his men, tells a graphic story of the wreck. He forced his way on deck and reached there just as the lifeboats were being lowered. The moment after the collision the chief engineer started the pumps, but the inrush of water was too rapid to be checked. The captain headed a party of officers and seamen, who, armed with axes, broke in the doors of the staterooms and rescued as many of the imprisoned passengers as they could. Soon the water drove them to the upper deck. By this time the boats were filled, and while the officers were getting out the last life raft the explosion came. The captain leaped into the sea and was picked up by a lifeboat. Just as he was pulled on board the boat was overturned and its occupants lost. The story of the wreck was first learned at Treadwell, Alaska, when a party of the survivors, headed by the chief engineer, staggered into that little town. They had walked twenty-five miles up the beach, and were nearly dead from exhaustion and hunger. Two steamers were at once sent to the scene of the wreck to search for possible survivors. At noon one of them, the Flossie, returned with its flag at half-mast. On board were six dead bodies and two score passengers who were picked up while drifting around in open boats without oars or sails. There was $275,000 in gold on the steamer, $100,000 of which was carried by passengers. H. H. Hart, who has spent sixteen years in the Klondike, lost $35,000 in dust. Among the lost are Mrs. Ross, the wife of the governor of Yukon Territory, her child, and niece.

Strike on at Joliet. The members of the Amalgamated association employed in the Joliet plant of the Illinois Steel works unanimously voted Thursday night to go out on a strike in accordance with President Shaffer's order. Thus closes all the mills there, throwing out of employment 3,000 men.

The action of the Joliet and Bay View steel workers in going on strike beginning to have effect on the employes of the South Chicago mills. Rumored that another vote on striking may be taken. The Chicago Federation of Labor adopted resolutions condemning the South Chicago steel workers for refusing to strike, and declaring them unfit to associate with union men.

President Shaffer was notified Monday that the success of the steel strike depends on the action of South Chicago workmen; that a decision to go out at that plant would mean the tying up of the Carnegie plants. The Amalgamated association leader was urged to come west.

Steel Bridge Collapses.

A big steel bridge connecting Neville Island in the Ohio River to the mainland collapsed Thursday. The bridge was being put up. A big casting on a freight train on the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie Railroad, which runs under the structure, hit the superstructure in passing and a span 120 feet long fell upon the train.

War on Mexican Gambling.

The government of Mexico has decided to wage war on the gambling houses, and Minister of War Reyes will issue a circular order to all army officers notifying them that if they are found in any gambling establishment they will be dismissed from the service and turned over to the civil authorities.

Prosperous Year for Italy.

Favorable crop reports throughout Italy indicate the wheat prospect as slightly in excess of last season's harvest of 42,000,000 hectoliters. The wine outlook is also promising. For the first time in several seasons the olive crop will be good, and the prospects for hemp, corn, and rice are uniformly bright.

China Not Quit of Britons.

"Sir Ernest Satow has notified the Chinese peace plenipotentiaries," says a dispatch to the London Times from Peking dated Aug. 19, "that unless the decrees for the punishment of the authors of the Chu-Chau massacre are carried out forthwith Great Britain will reconsider the arrangements for the withdrawal of the British troops."

AN ENEMY TO THE TRUSTS.

FRANK S. MONNETT.

The ex-attorney-general of the state of Ohio has lately been engaged by the "Anti-Trust League" to fight what is known as the Federal Steel Corporation, often referred to as the Billion Dollar Steel Trust. It is argued that under the Sherman law the Federal Steel Corporation has no existence outside of the state in which its charter was granted—New Jersey. Mr. Monnett will first begin operations in Ohio, where the corporation has vast interests and where the local anti-trust laws uphold the Sherman act. Mr. Monnett claims that nearly three-fourths of the stock in the Federal Steel Corporation is owned by foreigners, and that the "plants" not only include mills and factories, but big newspapers as well. The latter, it is said, are purchased in Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Boston, New York, Chicago, Detroit and other large cities. The suits to be prosecuted by Mr. Monnett grew out of the steel workers' strike.

Sir William Laird is Dead.

Sir William Laird, K. B., the ironmaster, is dead at Glasgow, Scotland. Sir William Laird was a member of the firm of William Laird & Co. He entered the service of the firm many years ago, and was made a partner in 1878. He was chairman of the North British Railway company, to which post he was elected in 1899. Early in life Sir William was trained to the legal profession, but abandoned that to enter the firm of Laird & Co.

Dark Fells Five Robbers.

Five men made an attempt at 1 o'clock Friday morning to rob the United States Express company at La Porte, Ind., and carry away the iron box which arrives over the Lake Erie and Western railroad and usually contains large sums. In the darkness the five men could not distinguish a hack from the express wagon and while two men stopped the horses the other three called to the cabman to hold up his hands. The men then discovered their mistake and disappeared.

TIDAL WAVE AT GULF COAST

Terrific Storm Sweeps Southern States—Lives Are Lost.

PORT EADS IS ISOLATED.

Telegraphic Wires Are Down; Ships Have Been Destroyed and Houses Carried Away—Greatest Flood Since 1893—Much Damage at Mobile, Ala.

The southern storm of Wednesday night developed Thursday into a hurricane, in many respects one of the worst ever known at New Orleans, La. The hurricane struck the Louisiana coasts from Pensacola to Grand Isle, La., with its center about the Rigolets, the mouth of Lake Pontchartrain, moving westward and threatening to reach the West Louisiana and Texas coast. As usual all the telegraph, telephone, and other wires were down from New Orleans to the district where the storm raged worst, and all communication by railroad and boat is cut off, so that the details of the storm were very meager. In New Orleans the storm was first felt at Lake Pontchartrain, in the rear of the city. The wind from the southeast, blowing at the rate of seventy miles an hour, accompanied by the highest tide ever known—seven and a half feet—which raised the lake ten feet or more above the levee, drove the water over the lake shore and rear protection levees. The greatest fears were entertained for the safety of the people living at Port Eads, which is at the mouth of the Mississippi river, and the ships that started for sea just before the storm began.

The wires to Port Eads have been protracted since Tuesday night at 8 o'clock, but a reporter reached a man who left there at 2 o'clock Wednesday. He was at Buras, which is sixty miles down the river and the farthest point with which there is wire communication at the present time. This man describes the storm which swept that section as a regular tidal wave, similar to the one which resulted in such awful loss of life in 1893. He says all the people living on the east bank of the river have moved up to the "jump," which is fifteen miles from the mouth of the river. The house of a man named Cobden, half a mile above the quarantine station, was swept away, and the fifteen members of the family, including nine children, were drowned. The quarantine buildings were badly damaged, but no one was injured. The big towboat Chamberlain was driven high and dry in the marsh, but her crew are safe. The government boat General Reese is believed to have been lost. Captain O'Brien's house was swept away, but he was on the boat which was believed to be outside. The pile driver at Port Eads was sunk. The steamboat Buras was driven ashore near the lighthouse, and later it was reported that she had sunk. Her crew were said to have been saved.

The storm completely isolated the city of Mobile, Ala., from the outside world.

At 4:30 Thursday afternoon the Western Union office in Mobile was abandoned, the water at that time being three feet deep in the operating room. Two hours later this message was received: "The water is over three feet deep in this operating room, and it is still rising. The wind is blowing at the rate of fifty miles an hour, and we look for worse things tonight. The business district is deserted." Here the wire failed and nothing more was heard from the town, although the most persistent efforts were made.

Fight New Public Library.

The Wheeling (W. Va.) board of education, which has control of public library matters, decided that it was useless in the face of the opposition from every labor organization in the city to submit to a vote the proposition to issue $50,000 bonds to provide for the acceptance of a public library building. The unions had decided to fight the proposition at every polling place.

Postmaster Is a Fugitive.

Postmaster Max Kruskopf, who had charge of the funds in the Marshalltown (Ia.) postoffice, in the accounts of which a shortage of over $800 was discovered by Postoffice Inspector Ketcham, has disappeared. He had not been placed under arrest, but was under the eye of a deputy United States marshal and had been ordered to appear before a United States commissioner and explain the shortage. He managed to conceal himself and was not to be found when the train left for Des Moines.

SAYS HE CAN CURE INSANE.

St. Louis Doctor Claims Paranoia Must Yield to His Treatment.

Dr. C. Bernstorff of St. Louis, Mo., has made the announcement that he has discovered a positive and permanent cure for insanity, restricting his declaration to those cases that come under the head of paranoia and what alienists call the gradual breakdown of the mental system due to over-brain exertion.

Dr. Bernstorff appeared at the four courts and appealed to the police and the press representatives to agree upon a deserving case which he states he will undertake free of charge simply to show that he is sincere in his statement. "I have cured five cases so far," he said, "and wish to demonstrate that I can cure others. You see, I have had much trouble with the medical fraternity because I will not give out the secret of my treatment. I would like to state in advance that I do not pretend to cure cases of insanity due to severe injuries to the head or where persons were born idiots. That is impossible. But in other cases I will cure in from four to eight weeks." Dr. Bernstorff holds high rank as a physician and his es-

DIE PENNED IN BOAT.

Seventeen Drown in Cabin of Sunken Packet.

In a severe storm at 6 o'clock Monday night the City of Golconda, the triweekly packet running between Paducah, Ky., and Golconda, was captured at Cottonwood bar, four miles above Paducah, and seventeen passengers in the cabin, the majority of whom were women and children, were drowned. The steamer was turned over on its side by a gale. A partial list of the lost is as follows: Miss Lizzie Graham, Grahamville, Ky.; Miss Tricie Grimes, niece of Miss Graham, Grahamville, Ky.; Colonel Turner, Smithland, Ky.; Chaylon Gordon, Smithland, Ky.; William Webb, Smithland, Ky.; Watts Davis, Livingstone county, Kentucky; Mrs. Dave Adams, Smithland, Ky.; Miss Lucy Barnett, niece of Mrs. Adams, Smithland, Ky.; Clarence Slayden, Lola, Ky.; W. A. Hogan, two sons and daughter, Paducah, Ky.; Will Woods, Golconda, Ill., deckhand; Horace Rondeau, Golconda, Ill., deckhand; Dee Jackson, Paducah, Ky., deckhand; George Stansberry, James McAllister of St. Louis, paralyzed partially in his lower limbs, swam ashore. The disaster occurred just as supper was being served and there were seventy-five passengers in the cabin. The captain and Pilot E. E. Peck were the last to leave the boat and swam to shore.

THE IOWA TO GO TO PANAMA.

Battleship Will Land Marines if Needed to Protect Railway.

The big battleship Iowa will be dispatched to Panama, and if necessary will land marines to protect the Panama railroad for its entire length across the isthmus to Colon. Secretary Hay is determined to not only safeguard American interests but to fulfill the treaty obligations of the United States toward Colombia. All reports to the State department confirm the belief that a concerted movement is on foot to combine the republics of Venezuela and Ecuador and to force Colombia into the combination.

Hobson Goes Into Business.

Captain Richmond Pearson Hobson, U. S. N., hero of the Merrimac incident at Santiago, has gone into business in Atlanta, Ga. He is a member of the cotton buyers' firm known in the business world as Beatty, Hobson & Co., with offices over the Maddox-Rucker bank. Captain Hobson, being in the navy, will of course not be active in the firm's management.

Shoots at Passing Trains.

Olin Hubbard, son of a Fulton county physician, was shot and probably fatally wounded at Stryker, Ohio, in a skirmish with officers, who attempted to arrest him and a young man of the name of Finch for shooting at passing trains on the Lake Shore road. Finch is in jail, while Hubbard was removed to his home.

Gettling Invents Motor Plow.

A report from St. Louis says that Dr. R. J. Gettling, who invented the famous rapid-fire gun bearing his name, has turned his attention toward farm machinery and proposes to revolutionize existing agricultural methods. Dr. Gettling is the inventor of a motor plow, which he asserts will accomplish from a comparative standpoint on the farm what his gun did on the field of battle. The claim is made by the great inventor that his plow, under the guidance of one man, will break the surface of a thirty-acre field in a day,

TALMAGE'S SERMON.

"WOMAN AND HOME" THE SUBJECT LAST SUNDAY.

Home is the Only Sphere in Which Woman Can Succeed in Ruling the World—Her Best Rights Defined—The Ballot Box.

[Copyright, 1901, by Louis Kloppsch, N. Y.]
Washington, Aug. 18.—In this discourse Dr. Talmage extols home as a field of usefulness, and especially encourages wives and mothers; text, Genesis i, 27, "Male and female created he them."

In other words, God, who can make no mistake, made man and woman for a specific work and to move in particular spheres—man to be regnant in his realm, woman to be dominant in hers. The boundary line between Italy and Switzerland, between England and Scotland, is not more thoroughly marked than this distinction between the empire masculine and the empire feminine. So entirely dissimilar are the fields to which God called them that you can no more compare them than you can oxygen and hydrogen, water and grass, trees and stars. All this talk about the superiority of one sex to the other is an everlasting waste of ink and speech. A jeweler may have a scale so delicate that he can weigh the dust of diamonds, but where are the scales so delicate that you can weigh in them affection, sentiment against sentiment, thought against thought, soul against soul, a man's word against a woman's word?

You come out with your stereotyped remark that man is superior to woman in intellect, and then I open on my desk the swarthy, iron typed, thunderbolted writings of Harriet Martineau and Elizabeth Browning and George Eliot. You come on with your stereotyped remark about woman's superiority to man in the item of affection, but I ask you where was there more capacity to love than in John the disciple, and Robert McCheyne, the Scotchman, and John Summerfield, the Methodist, and Henry Martyn, the missionary? The heart of those men was so large that after you had rolled into it the hemispheres there was room still left to marshal the hosts of heaven and set up the throne of the eternal Jehovah. I deny to man the throne intellectual. I deny to woman the throne affectional. No human phraseology will ever define the spheres while there is an intuition by which we know when a man is in his realm and when a woman is in her realm and when either of them is out of it. No bungling legislature ought to attempt to make a definition or to say, "This is the line, and that is the line."

Woman's Best Rights.

I know there are women of most undesirable nature who wander up and down the country, having no homes of their own or forsaking their own homes, talking about their rights, and we know very well that they themselves are fit neither to vote nor fit to keep house. Their mission seems to be to humiliate the two sexes at the thought of what any one of us might become. No one would want to live under the laws that such women would enact, or to have cast upon society the children that such women would raise. But I will show you that the best rights that woman can own she already has in her possession; that her position in this country at this time is not one of commiseration, but one of congratulation; that the grandeur and power of her realm have never yet been appreciated; that she sits today on a throne so high that all the thrones of earth piled on top of each other would not make for her a footstool. Here is the platform on which she stands. Away down below it are the ballot box and the congressional assemblage and the legislative hall.

Appreciation of Her Rights.

Woman always has voted and always will vote. Our great-grandfathers thought they were by their votes putting Washington into the presidential chair. No. His mother, by the principles she taught him and by the habits she inculcated, made him president. It was a Christian mother's hand dropping the ballot when Lord Bacon wrote, and Newton philosophized, and Alfred the Great governed, and Jonathan Edwards thundered of judgment to come. How many men there have been in high political station who would have been insufficient to stand the test to which their moral principle was put had it not been for a wife's voice that encouraged them to do right and a wife's prayer that sounded louder than the clamor of partisanship! Why, my friends, the right of suffrage, as we men exercise it, seems to be a feeble thing. You, a Christian man, come up to the ballot box, and then drop your vote. Right after you come a libertine or a sot, the offscouring of the street, and he drops his vote, and his vote counteracts yours. But if in the quiet of home life a daughter by her Christian demeanor, a wife by her industry, a mother by her faithfulness, casts a vote in the right direction, then nothing can resist it, and the influence of that vote will thrill through the eternities.

My chief anxiety, then, is not that woman has other rights accorded her, but that she, by the grace of God, rise up to the appreciation of the glorious rights she already possesses. I shall only have time to speak of one grand and all absorbing right that every woman has, and that is to make home happy. That realm no one has ever disputed with her. Men may come home at noon or at night, and they carry a comparatively little while, but she all day long governs it, beautifies it, sanctifies it. It is within her power er to make it the most attractive place on earth. It is the only calm harbor in this world. You know as well as I do that this outside world and the business world is a long scene of jostle and contention. The man who has a dollar struggles to keep it; the man who has it not struggles to get it. Prices up. Prices down. Losses. Gains. Misrepresentations. Gouging. Underselling. Buyers depreciating; salesmen exaggerating. Tenants seeking less rent; landlords demanding more. Gold fidgety. Struggles about office. Men who are in trying to keep in; men out trying to get in. Slips. Tumbles. Defalcations. Panics. Catastrophes. O woman, thank God you have a home, and that you may be queen in it. Better be there than wear a queen's coronet. Better be there than carry the purse of a princess. Your abode may be humble, but you can by your faith in God and your cheerfulness of demeanor gild it with splendors such as an upholsterer's hand never yet kindled.

The Most Queenly Woman.

When you want to get your grandest idea of a queen, you do not think of Catherine of Russia, or of Anne of England, or Maria Theresa of Austria, but when you want to get your grandest idea of a queen you think of the plain woman who sat opposite your father at the table, or walked with him arm in arm down life's pathway, sometimes to the thanksgiving banquet, sometimes to the grave, but always together—soothing your petty griefs, correcting your childish waywardness, joining in your infantile sports, listening to your evening prayers, toiling for you with needle, or at the spinning wheel, and on cold nights wrapping you up snug and warm. And then at last, on that day when she lay in the back room dying, and you saw her take those thin hands with which she toiled for you so long and put them together in a dying prayer that commended you to God, whom she had taught you to trust—oh, she was the queen! The chariots of God came down to fetch her, and as she went in all heaven rose up. You cannot think of her now without a rush of tenderness that stirs the deep foundations of your soul, and you feel as much a child again as when you cried on her lap, and if you could bring her back again to speak just once more your name as tenderly as she used to speak it you would be willing to throw yourself on the ground and kiss the sod that covers her, crying, "Mother, mother! Ah, she was the queen—she was the queen!"

To the Ballot Box.

Now, can you tell me how many thousand miles a woman like that would have to travel down before she got to the ballot box? Compared with this work of training kings and queens for God eternally, how insignificant seems all this work of voting for aldermen and common councilmen and sheriffs and constables and mayors and presidents. To make one such grand woman as I have described how many thousand would you want of those people who go in the round of godlessness and fashion and dissipation, distorting their body and going as far toward disgraceful apparel as they dare go so as not to be arrested of the police, their behavior a sorrow to the good and a caricature of the vicious and an insult to that God who made them women and not gorgons, and tramping on, down through a frivolous and dissipated life, to temporal and eternal destruction. Oh, woman, with the lightning of your soul strike dead at your feet all these allurements to dissipation and to fashion. Your immortal soul cannot be fed upon such garbage. God calls you up to empire and dominion. Will you have it? Oh, give to God your heart, give to God your best energies, give to God all your youth, give to God all your refinement, give yourself to him for this world and the next. Soon all these bright eyes will be quenched and these voices will be hushed. For the last time you will look upon this fair earth; father's hand, mother's hand, sister's hand, child's hand, will be no more in yours. It will be night, and there will come up a cold wind from the Jordan, and you must start. Will it be a lone woman on a trackless moor? Ah, no, Jesus will come up in that hour and offer his hand, and he will say: "You stood by me when you were well; now I will not desert you when you are sick." One wave of his hand, and the storm will drop, and another wave of his hand and midnight shall break into noon, and another wave of his hand and the chamberlains of God will come down from the treasure houses of heaven with robes lustrous, blood washed and heaven gilded, in which you will array yourself for the marriage supper of the Lamb. And then with Miriam, who struck the timbrel by the Red sea, and with Deborah, who led the Lord's host into the fight, and with Hannah, who gave her Samuel to the Lord, and with Mary, who rocked Jesus to sleep while there were angels singing in the air, and with Florence Nightingale, who bound up the battle wounds of the Crimea, you will, from the chalice of God, drink to the soul's eternal rescue.

The Beautiful Home Above.

One twilight, after I had been playing with the children for some time, I lay down on the lounge to rest, and, half asleep and half awake, I seemed to dream this dream: It seemed to me that I was in a far distant land—not Persia, although more than oriental luxuriance crowned the cities; nor the tropics, although more than tropical fruitfulness filled the gardens; nor Italy, although more than Italian softness filled the air. And I wandered around looking for thorns and nettles, but I found none of them grew there. And I walked forth, and I saw the sun rise, and I said, "When will it set again?" and the sun sank not. And I saw all the people in holiday apparel, and I said, "When will they put on workingman's garb again and delve in the mine and sweater at the forge?" But neither the garments nor the robes did they put off. And I wandered in the suburbs, and I said, "Where do they bury the dead of this great city?" And I looked along by the hills where it would be most beautiful for the dead to sleep, and I saw castles and towers and battlements, but not a mausoleum, nor monument, nor white slab could I see. And I went into the great chapel of the town, and I said: "Where do the poor worship? Where are the benches on which they sit?" And a voice answered, "We have no poor in this great city." And I wandered out seeking to find the place where were the hovels of the destitute, and I found mansions of amber and ivory and gold, but no tear did I see or sight hear. I was bewildered, and I sat under the shadow of a great tree, and I said, "What am I and whence comes all this?" And at that moment there came from among the leaves, skipping up the flowery paths and across the sparkling waters, a very bright and sparkling group, and when I saw their step I knew it, and when I heard their voices I thought I knew them, but their apparel was so different from anything I had ever seen I bowed, a stranger to strangers. But after awhile, when they clapped their hands and shouted, "Welcome! Welcome!" the mystery was solved, and I saw that time had passed and that eternity had come, and that God had gathered us up into a higher home, and I said, "Are all here?" and the voices of innumerable generations answered, "All here." And while tears of gladness were raining down our cheeks and the branches of the Lebanon cedars were clapping their hands and the towers of the great city were chiming their welcome, we began to laugh and sing and leap and shout: "Home! Home! Home!"

HAVE RULES FOR MOURNING.

Chinese Enforce Laws Proscribing How Bereavement Must Be Shown.

Chinese laws prescribe severe penalties for neglect of children to properly observe the prescribed customs on the death of an ancestor. If a son receiving information of the death of his father or mother or a wife suppress such intelligence and omits to go into lawful mourning for the deceased such neglect shall be punished with sixty blows and one year's banishment. If a son or wife enters into mourning in a lawful manner, but previous to the expiration of the term discards the mourning habit and, forgetful of the loss sustained, plays upon musical instruments or participates in festivities, the punishment shall amount for such offenses to eighty blows. Whoever on receiving information of the death of any other relative in the first degree than the above mentioned suppresses the notice of it and omits to mourn shall be punished with eighty blows; if previous to the expiration of the legal period of mourning for such relative any person casts away the mourning habit and resumes his wonted amusements he shall be punished with sixty blows. When any officer or other person in the employ of the government has received intelligence of the death of his father or mother, in consequence of which intelligence he is bound to retire from the office during the period of mourning, if in order to avoid such retirement he falsely represents the deceased to have been his grandfather, grandmother, uncle, aunt or cousin he shall suffer punishment of 100 blows, be deposed from office and rendered incapable of again entering into the public service.—Chicago Chronicle.

How the Mate Got Even.

The mate of a certain schooner was in the habit of drinking more than was good for him. On one occasion, after he had recovered from an unusually severe attack of intoxication, he was looking over the log and found that the captain had inscribed therein on a certain date: "Mate drunk." The mate promptly went to the captain and asked why such a statement had been written down. "It is true, isn't it?" asked the captain. "Yes," said the mate. "Then let it stand," said the captain. A few days later the captain, in looking over the log, found this inscription: "Captain sober." He summoned the mate and asked him what he meant by taking such a liberty. "It's true, isn't it?" "Yes," said the captain, "but—" "Then let it stand," said the mate.—Youths' Companion.

The Electric Eel's Victim.

At the Zoological gardens a large electric eel was swimming in its tank with more activity than usual, when a big cockroach fell into the water, and in its efforts to get out made a disturbance of the surface, which attracted the attention of the eel. The eel turned round, swam past it, discharged its battery at about eight inches off, and the cockroach instantly stopped stone dead. It did not even move its antennae after. The eel then proceeded to swallow its victim, and the narrator goes on to point out the curious circumstance that the fish, which weighed about twelve pounds, should find it worth while to fire its heavy artillery at a creature an inch and a half long, when it could easily have swallowed it sans facon.—Chambers' Journal.

The graduating lists of the American colleges this year show an increase of 25 per cent.

FARM AND GARDEN.

MATTERS OF INTEREST TO AGRICULTURISTS.

Some Up-to-Date Hints About Cultivation of the Soil and Yields Thereof—Horticulture, Viticulture and Floriculture.

The New Bureau of Forestry.

On the first of July the Division of Forestry and three other scientific divisions of the U. S. Department of Agriculture were advanced to bureaus. This was provided for by the last session of congress, which appropriated for the expenses of the Bureau of Forestry during its first year $185,440. The appropriation for the Division of Forestry during the year just ended was $83,520. For the year 1898-99 it was $28,520.

These figures show how rapidly the forest work of the government has expanded of late, and also how well it has commended itself to congress. There was a time when the practical value of the scientific investigations carried on by the government was not fully understood, and farmers were inclined to think that the money spent on experiment stations and chemical laboratories was of little benefit to them. Now the case is very different. The improvements in agriculture due to the work of the department have increased the value of the farm products of the country by many millions of dollars annually. As this kind of work has proved its practical utility, congress has shown itself generous toward it. The readiness with which congress has increased the appropriations for the Division of Forestry is the best evidence that forestry has proved its importance from a business standpoint.

The change from a Division to a Bureau, and the larger appropriation, will make possible both an improved office organization and more extended field work. The Bureau will be provided with a much larger office force and will be organized in three Divisions. But field work, not office work, is what the Bureau exists for. This work has been going on during the last year from Maine to California and from Georgia to Washington. It includes the study of forest conditions and forest problems all over the country, the giving of advice to owners of forest lands, and the supervising of conservative lumbering operations which illustrate forest management on business principles. This work can now be greatly extended. Private owners of some three million acres have applied for this advice, which in every case requires personal examination, and about 177,000 acres have been put under management. This land is in many tracts, large and small, and is owned by individuals, clubs, and corporations. Several state governments have also asked the aid of the Bureau. But the greatest demand is that of the Department of the Interior of National government, which has asked for working plans for all the forest reserves, with the enormous total area of about 47 million acres.

Wisconsin Horticulturists.

The summer meeting of the Wisconsin State Horticultural Society will be held in Madison, August 20-21. On the evening of August 19 there will be a meeting of the executive committee for the purpose of attending to important business.

The first public session will be opened at 9:00 Tuesday morning, August 20. The apple outlook will be discussed by prominent fruit growers. Small fruits will be discussed by A. L. Hatch and Wm. Hanchett. F. C. Edwards will talk on Lawn Decorations.

Tuesday afternoon will be a plum session, with the following papers to be read: Planting and Cultivation of Plums, A. D. Barnes, Waupaca. Pruning of Plum Trees, Wm. Toole, Baraboo. Seedling Plums, E. S. Goff, Madison. Preserving and Canning Our Fruits, Mrs. Jos. Trelevan, Omro.

The Tuesday evening session will be given up to the ladies, who have prepared an interesting program. The program for Wednesday as arranged by S. H. Marshall and Prof. E. S. Goff is as follows: Take cars out to University Farm buildings first thing in the morning. Go over them and down to the orchard in time to see that and have picnic dinner about 11:30 in grove on banks of the lake. Dinner to be furnished by the university. From here walk along lake to university boat house, back of gymnasium, reaching there about 3 o'clock. From here a trip will be taken around the lake and landing at Mr. Marshall's farm, where supper will be served and farm inspected. Boats return in time for evening trains.

There will be the usual exhibit of fruits and flowers. The Farmers' Review urges its Wisconsin readers to attend the convention. All will be welcome, including the general farmer that grows no fruit. It is a mistake to suppose that horticultural societies are for large commercial fruit growers only—they are for all that are interested in horticulture. Wisconsin farmers will benefit themselves by getting into closer touch with their state horticultural society.

Fighting the Chinch Bug.

The Ohio Experiment Station is receiving letters indicating an extensive outbreak of chinch bugs in certain parts of the state, and in response it is sending out small packages of a fungus culture in the hope that it may be of service in infecting the bugs with a parasitic fungus which, under favorable conditions, has been found to be very destructive to these pests.

This fungus, however, requires moist weather and masses of insects for successful operation, and it is feared that it may not act with sufficient promptness during the prevailing dry weather. The following remedy is therefore offered as probably better adapted to existing conditions, this remedy having been suggested in 1895 by Prof. S. A. Forbes, State Entomologist of Illinois: "Dissolve one-half pound hard or soft soap in one gallon of water, and heat to the boiling point. Remove from stove and add two gallons of coal oil, churning the mixture with a good force pump for fifteen minutes. When the emulsion is formed, it will look like buttermilk.

"To each quart of this emulsion add fifteen quarts of water, and apply to the corn in a spray—preferably before 10 a. m. or after 3 p. m. The bugs should be washed off so that they will float in the emulsion at the base of the plant. A teaspoonful to a hill is generally sufficient, but the quantity must vary with the number of bugs infesting the corn."

The progress of these bugs through a field may be obstructed by making a shallow, V-shaped trench with the corner of a hoe and filling it with coal tar, the tar to be renewed in two or three days. They may also be destroyed by plowing them under and harrowing and rolling. These two methods were successfully employed by the Ohio Station in 1888.—Chas. E. Thorne, Director Ohio Experiment Station.

The Tobacco Horn Worm.

Herewith we illustrate two species of the tobacco horn worm. A report of the Department of Agriculture says of them: There are two species of large sphinx moths whose larvae or caterpillars, eat the leaves of tobacco, tomato and allied plants, including occasionally the Irish potato. These caterpillars, from the fact that each bears upon one of the posterior segments of its body a rather stout curved horn, have become popularly known as horn worms. Tobacco growers do not distinguish between the two different kinds of horn worms, and for practical purposes it is not in the least necessary that they should distinguish them. As a matter of general interest, however, it may be stated that the horn on the end of the body of Carolina is red, while that of Ceeleus is black. Both are green in color with oblique white stripes on the side of the body. These moths of the two species may be distinguished from the fact that Carolina is darker and the orange spots along the side of the body are more vivid.

Both species occur from Canada to Florida, and as the region of the tobacco culture falls in the north, both feed upon the tomato. Generally these worms are not too numerous to be kept down by hand-picking.

Preparing the Wheat Field.

At this time of year farmers are plowing for fall wheat or preparing to do so. The ground is perhaps a little hard at this time for the plow to do good work, but the rains that have now fallen should go far to preparing the land for the operation. It makes a vast deal of difference about the condition of the land as to the ease of plowing, and it will pay every farmer to take advantage of the conditions when they are right. The saving to the horses is no small factor. When the ground is in right condition for the best work to be done the moisture in it is sufficient to make it easy to cut but not enough to make it stick to the plow.

That the seed bed should be well prepared is the consensus of opinion among all cultivators. Pulverization is necessary if the soil is to be made capable of giving the best returns. Poor plowing and poor preparation generally is responsible for much of the shortage in the wheat crops. It is evident that if the land be left in clods the soil in the clod will not be reached by the air, and the elaboration of plant food will not go on so rapidly as will be the case where the whole is broken to pieces. Even if the roots of the wheat plant succeed in penetrating the clods the amount of food found therein will be less than in other and better prepared soil.

When the wheat field is to be manured before being plowed, it is better to put on the manure, spread and plow it under at once. This will incorporate it with the soil. If permitted to lie on top of the ground for a considerable time it will dry in lumps, which cannot be readily incorporated with the soil, or if incorporated will not mix evenly with it.

Indolence is to the mind what rust is to iron.

A WEEK IN ILLINOIS.

RECORD OF HAPPENINGS FOR SEVEN DAYS.

Former Insurance Commissioner Van Cleave Is Charged with Abstracting State Papers from His Department at Springfield.

J. B. Van Cleave Arrested.

Former Insurance Commissioner J. B. Van Cleave was arrested at his home in Springfield on a state warrant sworn out by H. H. Klayer charging him with abstracting from the insurance department state papers. Van Cleave gave bond in the sum of $100 for his appearance before Justice Connolly in Springfield next Wednesday afternoon. Klayer was formerly an employee of the Aetna Fire Insurance company at Cincinnati, but for some reason left the company. Since then he has devoted his time to hunting up violations of the insurance laws of Illinois alleged to have been committed by the Aetna. One of his first efforts was to unearth violations of the laws in relation to taxes and agents' certificates. Experts examined the Aetna's books and reported that it owed the state $20,000. The Aetna paid this money, admitting all but $8,000, which was protested and which the company decided to sue for. Van Cleave, knowing that he had this suit to defend, says that he ordered one of the clerks in the department to get together all the papers relating to the Aetna and deposit them in the safety vaults of the Marine bank. This was done. After using them he says he gave instructions that they all be taken back to the department. When he arrived home he found a constable with the warrant.

Yates Reviews State Troops.

Governor's day at Camp Lincoln, Springfield, drew a large crowd to the review and evening parade. The review took place at 5 o'clock. Governor Yates arrived at the camp gate a few minutes before that time, and passed into the lines as the cannon boomed the usual salute of seventeen guns to the Commander-in-chief. The Governor's dinner to the officers of the two commands was served at general headquarters, commencing at 6:30 o'clock. The ladies of the Governor's party and also the ladies in camp with the Fourth Regiment and Eighth Battalion were guests at the dinner.

Typhoid in Chicago.

Typhoid fever is epidemic in the Nineteenth ward, Chicago, according to the Ward Improvement society, and the authority of Dr. N. S. Davis is given for the statement that the prevalence of the disease is due to the filth in the streets and the alleys. "There is undoubtedly much typhoid fever in the Nineteenth ward," Secretary Pritchard said, "but it does not require a doctor to tell that such fever is not due to dirty streets and alleys, but to substances taken internally. The water supply in this ward should be investigated as well as the milk and food."

Brief Strike in a Brewery.

Because Pete Chez, a nonunion brewer, was allowed to go to work by the foreman twenty-five union brewers quit work at Hebel's brewery in Peru. The action of the union men was a great surprise to the officials of the company, who demanded an immediate investigation. When the cause of the difficulty was learned Chez was dismissed without further notice. The union men then returned to work and Chez left the place swearing vengeance.

New Illinois Corporations.

The secretary of state has licensed the following corporations: Sims, Wilson & Sims company, Chicago; capital stock, $15,000; incorporators, George R. Sims, Albert B. Wilson, and Robert H. Sims. Libertyville Foundry and Machine company, Libertyville; capital stock, $50,000; incorporators, Loren Busbee, William Laycock, and Robert J. Proctor. Diamond Meter company, Peoria; capital stock increased from $30,000 to $100,000.

Archdeacon De Rosset Accepts Call.

The Ven. P. A. De Rosset, archdeacon of Cairo, Episcopal church, and rector of the Church of the Redeemer, Cairo, has notified the vestry of St. Paul's Pro-Cathedral, Springfield, of his acceptance of the unanimous call extended him to be rector of St. Paul's to succeed the Right Rev. Frederick W. Taylor, who was on Aug. 8 consecrated bishop coadjutor of Quincy. Archdeacon De Rosset will assume his new charge Sept. 1.

Court Orders Coal Mines Sold.

In the suits of Lionel Liberty against the Big Muddy Coal and Washing company, De Soto, Jackson county, Judge Humphrey, in the United States Circuit Court at Springfield, entered a decree of foreclosure and ordered the sale of the mines and other property of the defendant, by Walter W. Allen, master in chancery.

Peoria Millionaire Dying.

Charles C. Clark, the millionaire, ex-mayor of Peoria, and head of the great distilling house of Clark Bros. & Co., is dying at his home in Peoria of locomotor ataxia. Clark was elected mayor of Peoria in 1890.

Club Picnic Near Rockford.

The first annual reunion and picnic of the Yates Veterans' 1860-1890 Club was held at Illinois Park, near Rockford. Judge Joel M. Longenecker of Chicago was the principal speaker.

ILLINOIS CENTRAL AN INNOVATION.

Elegant new Parlor-Dining Cars between Chicago and Omaha on the Fast Mail.

These combinations cars, which have been especially fitted up for service between Chicago and Omaha at the company's shops, are run west bound from Chicago on Fast Mail, train No. 5, and east bound from Omaha and Council Bluffs on the Chicago Express, train No. 4. They are artistic and handsome in design, and convenient in arrangement. They have all the features of a regular dining car and of a Pullman parlor car, the two being in separate compartments and entirely independent one from the other. The dining compartment has a large kitchen and an uncramped seating capacity of fourteen at the dining tables. The parlor compartment is handsomely decorated, and is equipped with ten heavily upholstered revolving arm-chairs. These chairs are particularly comfortable, being of a new and special shape designed for these cars. As these trains make the trip across Iowa for the most part by daylight, this innovation in car equipment, in addition to its convenience for through passengers, is especially advantageous for Omaha and Chicago passengers to or from local points.

Particulars as to this and other Illinois Central train service between Chicago and Dubuque, Sioux City, Sioux Falls, Council Bluffs and Omaha of your local ticket agent, or by addressing the nearest of the following: J. F. Merry, A. G. P. A. Dubuque, Iowa; W. H. Brill, D. P. A., Omaha, Neb.

The honor of attaining the highest standing in the last civil service examination for stenographers in Milwaukee, fell to Joseph M. Carney, whose address is City Engineer's office, Milwaukee, Wis. Mr. Carney was the youngest contestant, being but nineteen years of age, and many of his competitors wrote shorthand before Mr. Carney was born. He attributes his success to the thorough and comprehensive instruction in shorthand he received as a student in the correspondence school of the Robert F. Rose School for Shorthand. Thousands of other successful shorthand writers have graduated from this school in the last few years, and every graduate expresses himself pleased with the instruction given. See advertisement of the school in another column.

We desire to call the attention of our readers to the advertisement of the Robert F. Rose School for Shorthand, contained in another column. This is the largest and most successful correspondence school of shorthand in the world, and thousands of excellent shorthand writers through the United States and Canada owe their success in life to the instruction in the "winged art" given them by this school. The instructor, Mr. Robert F. Rose, is one of the leading experts in the shorthand profession in this country. He was the official shorthand reporter of the Democratic National convention held in Kansas City in 1900, and during the campaigns of 1896 and 1900 traveled with and reported the speeches of Hon. William J. Bryan, as the official shorthand reporter of those trips. In this course he will teach you at your home every principle in shorthand used by himself and give personal attention to your work. Write for references and information, addressing L. D. Kidd, Business Manager, Metropolitan, Block, Chicago, Ill.

The Subscriber.

How dear to my heart is the steady subscriber, who pays in advance at the birth of each year, who lays down his dollar bill gladly and casts round the office a halo of cheer. He never says "stop it, I can't afford it," nor "I'm getting more papers now than I can read." But always "send it the family likes it, in fact, we all think it a household need." How welcome he is when he steps in the sanctum how he makes my heart throb how he makes my eyes dance! I outwardly thank him, I inwardly bless him, the steady subscriber who pays in advance.

AN OLD RECEIPT FOR SCANDAL.

Take a grain of falsehood, a handful of rancor, the same quantity of nimble-tongue, a sprig of the herb back-bite, a teaspoonful of don't-you-tell-it, six drops of malice and a few drachms of envy; add a little discontent and jealousy, and strain through a bag of misconception, cork it up in a bottle of malevolence, and hang it up on a skein of street yarn; keep in a hot atmosphere; shake it occasionally for a few days and it will be fit for use. Let a few drops be taken before walking out and the desired result will follow.

The Prosperous Farmer always has a has these Leading Points, Light Draft, Perfect Work, Simplicity, Durability.

The MAIN WHEEL although the strongest ever put on a harvesting machine, is lighter than the main wheels on other binders.

Three years ago a European Government tested the McCormick binder in the field for two weeks, with seven other American machines, to determine which used the least twine in binding a given amount of grain. After the most painstaking measurements it was found that nineteen balls of twine on the McCormick bound more grain than twenty balls on any other binder.

The McCormick New 4 Mower

Every Prosperous Farmer has a
McCORMICK

Is the only mower that gets all the grass. It is a very easy matter for a poorly constructed machine to run over a dollar's worth of grass on an acre, leaving it in stubble where it is lost. It is the only mower with a draft rod extending from the inner shoe to the shifting doubletrees.

The McCormick Corn Binder

has the greatest success from the fact that it cuts and binds in the vertical position the only practical way to handle big corn that grows in fertile spots in every field, also because of our "locked joint" conveyor chain, the only chain ever made that will handle the stiff and stubborn corn stalks.

The McCormick is the only machine that makes a square butted bundle. Corn stands on a level floor while the bundle is being shaped and bound. Square butted bundles stand up well in the shock, a great advantage in curing the fodder.

ILLINOIS CENTRAL RAILROAD COMPANY.

NOTICE TO STOCKHOLDERS
The Board of Directors of the Illinois Central Railroad Company, at a meeting held July 18, 1901, adopted the following Preamble and Resolution; Upon the recommendation of the President the Resolution adopted July 21, 1897, authorizing the free transportation of stockholders over the Company's lines, to Chicago and return, at the time of the annual meeting of stock holders over the Company's lines, to Chicago and return, at the time of the annual meeting of stockholders, was reconsidered and amended so as to read as follows:

RESOLVED, That, until the further order of this Board, there may be issued, to each holder of one or more shares of the Capital Stock of the Illinois Central Railroad Company, as registered on the books of the Company a ticket enabling him, or her, to travel free over the Company's lines from the station on the Illinois Central Railroad nearest to his or her registered address to Chicago and return, for the purpose of attending in person the Meeting of Stockholders. Such ticket to be good for the journey to Chicago only during the four days immediately preceding, and the day of, the meeting, and for the return journey from Chicago only on the day of the meeting, and the four days immediately following, when properly countersigned and stamped during business hours—that is to say, between 9:00 A. M. and 5:00 P. M.—in the office of the Assistant Secretary, Mr. W. G. Bruen, in Chicago. Such ticket may be obtained by any registered holder of stock on application must state, in writing, to the President of the Company in Chicago.
Each application must state the full name and address of the Stockholder exactly as given in his or her Certificate of stock, together with the number and date of such certificate. No more than one person will be carried free in respect to any one holding of stock as registered on the books of the company.

By order of the Board of Directors.
A. G. Hackstaß, Secretary.

The next Annual Meeting of the Stockholders of the Illinois Central Railroad Company will be held at the office of the Company, in Chicago, on Wednesday, October 16, 1901, at noon.
For the purpose of this meeting, the Stock Transfer Books will be closed from the close of business on September 21st, to the morning of October 17.

FLEES FROM FIANCE.

Elgin Young Lady Decides Not To Be Wed As The Day Approaches.
They do things queer up in Elgin,
but the latest is a popular society girl running away to escape from her fiance, whom she was to marry, August 14.

A year ago Miss Minnie Brady and John H. Stimpson were both students at the Elgin Academy. Their friendship soon ripened into love and last winter their engagement was announced.

Two weeks ago, the day for the wedding was set, and all the preparation for the function, which promised to be a very elaborate one, were begun.
The best man, ushers, maid of honor and bridesmaid had all been spoken to, and several of the girls that were to have taken part have their dresses for the event finished.

Even the friend who was to play the wedding march had been engaged and she had practiced the bride-to-be's cru'cher, "was to have been," favorite selection for the past four weeks.

On Monday there was a sudden flurry caused in Elgin society circles by the announcement that the wedding had been declared off. Miss Brady suddenly decided that she was too young to assume the responsibilities of married life and she left for a visit with an aunt in a distant town.

The groom was heart-broken by the sudden decision of Miss Brady and has gone to one of the lakes where he can dole forth his grief to the birds.
Miss Brady is the daughter of Mr.
and Mrs. W. Brady, who are among the best known and wealthiest residents in Elgin. She is nineteen years of age and is an accomplished musician.
The groom is also under twenty-one years of age.

CALLY SIGHS FOR A SOLDIER.

A young woman school teacher of Kansas on her way to the Philippines, where she is to teach, writes thus to a friend: "Dear Mazie: Yes, it is true that I have signed a contract to teach three years in the Philippines, and that contract looks pretty big and horrid to me now, for papa says the government will hold me to it, whatever happens. But I don't believe the government would force a girl to keep on teaching if one of those brave, noble colonels or cap'tains asked it to let her off so he could—oh, you say thing!
You know what we talked about. Anyway, I am going, and if I come back with a military title to my name, won't you pokey things envy me? Your own, Cally."

age before the first day of Jan. 1902 will be allowed to commence school at the beginning of the school year. And all after Jan. 1st not until the following school year.

ABOUT INSECT WEEDS.

Highly toxic and also insecticidal by Douglas, Idaho.

Few countries have suffered more from the introduction of insect pests than the Hawaiian Islands. The two chief products of these islands were sugar and coffee, which a considerable amount of fruit is also grown. Along with the imported trees came their insect enemies, notably the scale insect and the aphids. In the course of time these increased so prodigiously that they threatened to destroy the agricultural products of the country. Man is doomed to a constant struggle against nature, and he is often compelled, so to speak,
to fight her with her own weapons.
So it was in this case. The trees were being destroyed by insects; naturally import more insects. So in 1890 a certain ladybird (Vodalia cardinalis) was sent over from Australia. It became completely naturalized, and increased prodigiously, feeding on the scale insects, which it soon reduced to numbers, until they became comparatively scarce. But there were other insect plagues—aphides and others of different origin. The government therefore employed a naturalist to import more insects. These were brought from Australia, and many of them have established themselves and some have spread. One of the most useful is a ladybird which feeds on the aphides, which had seriously attacked the sugar cane. It has done such good work that there is every prospect of the cane being speedily cured.—Chambers' Journal.

NOW

Break now the alabaster box
Of sympathy and love,
Amid the cherished friends of earth,
Ere they are called above.
How many burdened hearts are here
That long for present help and cheer.

The kindly words you mean to say
When they are dead and gone
Speak now, and fill their souls with joy
Before the morning's dawn.
'Tis better far when friends are near
Their saddened hearts to soothe and cheer.

The flowers, withheld till after death
Has closed their eyes in sleep,
It proffered in life's weary hours
Would still their fragrance keep,
While hearts can thrill and ears can hear,
Let loving deed and word bring cheer.
—James J. Reeves.

The Success of Failure.

BY SARA LINDSAY COLEMAN.
(Copyright, 1901, by Daily Story Pub. Co.)

She was a tiny creature. It seemed precocious for her to be twenty years old; her hair curled wilfully on her neck and brow; in the dark-lashed gray eyes, in the mocking red mouth, a charm, rare, perverse, a charm that transcended beauty lurked. She rode slowly up the mountain trail. On every side strange flowers shone, mosses covered fallen logs; in the interstices of broken rock great pines grew; a stream in its seaward rush leaped and swirled over its rocky bed.

Lost in a mesh of thought she was brought back to the mountain trail by a sharp blow on her face that dislodged her hat. Her steed, a mule, went on in spite of the desperate pull on his mouth. She felt herself being lifted from the saddle, her eyes stood out, her face blanched with pain; unless something stopped the mule's course the low-lying limb of a tree that had caught her hair threatened to place her in a very uncomfortable position, for the party had gone on and there was no help in shouting distance.

"Absalom, Absalom," a laughing voice called, "I am coming," and down the mountain full speed. He threw the mule back and released the girl from her painful position.

In radiant good humor with himself and all the world he looked up at her with laughing eyes.

It was her fate to be seen by him at a disadvantage. There are people who always see one at one's best, but the Professor came on the scene when Miss Peyton was least desirous of spectators. Not two hours before she had plunged from a rock into the Professor's long arms and he had laughed and said he knew she would fall just there so he had waited to save her a few bruises. The afternoon before when the male members of the camping party were fishing, she, at the entreaty of the girls who knew her reputation for such adventures, had climbed to the top of an apple tree, gone out on the limbs and tossed apples to the hungry girls, and in an endeavor to descend swiftly, warned by them that the men were approaching, had caught her dress which refused to tear, and hung in mid-air to be rescued by the Professor.

"Are you all right?" The Professor's laughter had changed to solicitude.

"Yes." The haughtiness in her voice was born of humiliation.

The Professor led the mule up the mountain side, a breathless task. In spite of the young woman's protest he clung on to the bridle. Finding conversation a failure he relapsed into silence.

Miss Peyton sat erect, a flush on her cheeks. It would have been impossible for him to follow the train of her thought. It is said that every bachelor is secretly watched by some woman. Miss Peyton had known the Professor for several summers. His mother's cottage was not a hundred yards from her own summer home. There was a vague report that his mother's and his sister's avowed disapproval of matrimony had caused him to give up the woman he loved. Each year he grew more preoccupied, more wrapped in his studies. If one might judge from externalities, the Professor seemed drifting into permanent bachelorhood.

She Rode Slowly Up the Mountain.

Miss Peyton was young, pretty.

She counted her lovers by the dozen, and she was not accustomed to have her plans miscarry. The Professor's ill-luck depressed her—she believed his relatives had doomed him to unhappiness. She took things into her own hands. She filled her house with guests.

The summer had been one round of frolic, which was to terminate with the week of camp life. The Professor had joined the party and had thrown himself into the gay life with an abandon and a boyishness that had delighted Miss Peyton.

There was a unanimous vote that the summer without him would have been a failure. He danced with

"You!"

Daphne, played cards with the men, Maud claimed him for golf, he rode with Irene, talked books with Isabel, rescued a half dozen girls from perilous positions, but Miss Peyton was forced to acknowledge that he seemed no nearer matrimony than at the beginning of the season.

Lunch was served on the mountain's top. The daintiest of lunches, with water clear as crystal, cold as ice, from the depths of a fern-shadowed spring. A mountain top lunch—happy faces, careless laughter born of youth and joyousness, a background of mighty hills clothed to their crests in verdure, golden sunshine, the country below spread out in the beauty of blue, misty distance, mountains melting into mountains and receding into dimmest distance—and over all the wide panorama, shifting shadows.

After lunch Miss Peyton did not accompany the party to a distant point to see the view—she was tired.

The Professor found her in the depths of a very flimsy handkerchief. His consternation got the better of his caution, and he made himself known by taking the handkerchief from the hidden face. He was rewarded by an indignant glance under which he quailed, but he sat down beside her.

"You've made my summer miserable!" with a burst of righteous anger. "I was sorry because you were lonely, and I thought you needed a wife—every man does who reaches your age. I've done everything to help you out. But you have no sentiment, no gratitude!" She paused for lack of breath and the Professor regarded her helplessly.

She said every man of his age needed a wife—she thought him old—and he had been dreaming such sweet dreams.

"I've given up my summer to you, I've been dragged to picnics, crawled up mountain sides, danced on hot nights, and this is the end of it!" she threw out her small hands tragically, "I can't make you marry anybody!"

"Why do you want me to marry?" the Professor's face was graver than she had ever seen it.

"Because I do," she said. "Because I want you to be happy."

"Do the girls know?" he asked.

"No," indignantly. "It was my own plan, I never told a soul."

There was a wonderful tenderness in the man's eyes as he regarded this spoiled child of happiness—she was so young so tenderly nurtured.

"I had committed the folly of falling in love at an earlier date," the Professor was pontifical in his speech. "It was folly, but folly is sometimes divine." The Professor's calm voice actually trembled.

"And I didn't have anything to do with it," the girl said regretfully.

"You had everything to do with it. I danced attendance on them, I didn't care a rap for them but I saw it pleased you. Lord," the Professor groaned, "what fools men are! You wanted me to marry one of them, and I wanted—"

"Who?" breathlessly.

"You."

The trees and the landscape were out of their normal places. There was a rushing and a roaring as of many waters in the girl's ears.

"If time would help my cause," his voice was very far away.

Time! It was such an old, old fact that the Professor wanted to marry her—to marry little Dorothy Peyton with all her faults and inconsistencies.

"If I were younger," the Professor said sorrowfully.

"Wed not boys, but wed grave and gentle men;" some where she had heard these words that rang in her brain.

The Professor's watchful eyes that had not left the girl's face, saw a soft color flush her cheeks.

"Dorothy, Dorothy," the Professor's hand closed over hers, his voice was tremulously eager.

Without warning the other members of the party flocked into the quietness and sweetness of their retreat, then stopped discreetly, but Daphne, the irrepresible, cried: "The Professor is in love with Dorothy."

There was an awkward moment.

"And I am in love with the Professor," Dorothy's laughter rang out as amused and unconscious as a child's. It's silvery peal opened the gates of heaven to a man.

WATER PURIFIED BY OZONE.

Moscow's Successful Plan for Keeping Down Infectious Disease Germs.

A new method of sterilizing a city's water supply is being successfully operated in Russia and it was described at the annual meeting of the American Association of Waterworks Engineers recently held in New York, in a paper forwarded by Nicholas Simin, chief engineer of the city of Moscow where the system has been adopted and according to M. Simin is universally commended. The plan is to sterilize the water by the introduction of ozonized air and it is contended on its behalf that it destroys all the bacteria in the water and makes it at comparatively small cost absolutely safe for drinking purposes. So far, the system has not been adopted outside Russia, but M. Simin contends that in this country conditions are more favorable than anywhere else for its adoption, and he advocates its introduction here as tending to solve all problems in regard to contaminated water supplies.

The system is based upon the principles that ozone burns all organic matter with which it comes into contact in water, including bacteria and their vital products, that with water which has been freed previously of suspended matter the destruction of the bacteria is equally efficient no matter how great may be the number, and that the pathogenic bacteria are among the first to be destroyed. The purification of the water in this way is simply a development of and an improvement upon the ordinary aeration of water by means of atmospheric air. The air, before coming in contact with the water, is subjected to a series of electrical discharges which convert the oxygen from diatomic oxygen to triatomic oxygen which is ozone and is remarkable for its power of oxidizing organic matter including the bacteria in water. The cost is put at $6.25 for each million gallons, or in large plants even less. Extensive experiments in the system have been made in France, Germany, Holland and Belgium. The necessary removal of suspended matter is accomplished by using a small quantity of coagulant for mere clarification, M. Simin says. Oxidation oxidizes not only the bacteria, but all organic matter. The water is rendered colorless, sparkling and odorless. It has an agreeable and refreshing taste and there is introduced into it no foreign matter except oxygen, which, of course, is beneficial.—New York Sun.

BUFFALO, MODEL CITY.

Its Water System a Wonder to Experts From Other Towns.

To persons interested in municipal government one of the sights of the Pan-American Exposition at Buffalo is the city of Buffalo itself, which has the reputation among municipal experts of being one of the best governed cities in the world. It has 4,000,000 square yards of asphalt pavement, almost as much as New York itself, its system of parks and boulevards is scarcely surpassed in the world and its other public utilities are not equalled in a town of its size. Most of all, however, Buffalo's water system is agreed by experts to be a wonder. Its plant is valued at $9,000,000; the water supply, coming from an intake in the middle of the Niagara River within a mile of Lake Erie, is inexhaustible, and in the center of the city is kept a vast distributing reservoir, which alone has a capacity of 116,000,000 gallons. Water comes to Buffalo from the river through two great tunnels, both hewn out of the solid rock. The pumping station which controls the supply is the largest in the world. It has 6,880 horse power, driving through the mains daily 187,000,000 gallons, which is almost equal to the flow of the River Thames. Buffalo owns and operates its own water plant. Although the population of Boston is twice that of Buffalo, twice as much water is consumed in Buffalo, as in Boston, and the cost and revenue of the Boston water plant are four times those of Buffalo.—New York Sun.

LATE 33 MRS. KRUGER SHE WAS A QUANT, LOVABLE WOMAN.

The death recently at Pretoria of Mrs. Kruger, wife of ex-President Kruger, of the South African Republic, removed a picturesque figure from the world's stage. As the wife of the president of the Transvaal Republic she was the first lady of the land, yet the wives of the common burghers on the great veldts were not as plain and unassuming as she. Frugal in her habits Mrs. Kruger did much of her housework and almost daily did the kitchen work that she might save the expense of a servant. In her eyes her beloved husband was the greatest statesman in the world. While she admired his statecraft she mended his socks, cared for his wardrobe and sewed buttons on his clothing as though she had been the humblest wife in the republic.

Through the thrift of this invaluable woman, it is claimed, Paul Kruger has been enabled to save $25,000,000. Mrs. Kruger saw to it that the household always subsisted on the $2,000 a year coffee money allowed by the Transvaal Republic, while his (the ex-president's) salary of $35,000 was annually saved. On this coffee money foreign diplomats and distinguished personages were entertained and yet none ever left the hospitable old mansion hungry.

Mrs. Kruger never had more than three dresses at one time and they were invariably black. She was also satisfied with two hats, and one of her hobbies was that there should be no feathers on them as she held it a sin to kill birds for the sake of adorning hats. A quaint, old-fashioned, loving woman, Mrs. Kruger was the reflex of many of the characteristics of stern old "Oom Paul." The war with England was a great trial on Mrs. Kruger. Frequently she was heard bewailing the awful carnage and yet even in the midst of her sorrow for the fallen burghers she found eloquent words in which to express her sympathies for the British wives and mothers who had lost their dear ones on the broad veldts. Then, too, the long separation from her husband, combined with the recent death of her favorite daughter, completely broke the gentle spirit and the spark of a noble life went out.

Mrs. Kruger was "Oom Paul's" second wife, and was a Miss Du Plessis, a family of prominence in South Africa and which gave to France one of the greatest princes of the church and state, the Cardinal Richelieu. Sixteen children blessed their union, eleven of whom are still living.

When ex-President Kruger was informed at Hilversum, in Holland, of his wife's death he wept bitterly and requested that he be left alone. Her son-in-law, Eloff, and many other members of the family were at Mrs. Kruger's bedside when she died.

HOW COLD IS ICE.

Frozen Water Is Really Much Warmer in Summer Than Winter.

Is ice any colder in winter than in summer? Most people suppose not. They understand that ice is ice and can not be any colder or warmer. If a thermometer is buried in ice in summer it will indicate 32 degrees. If you throw a piece of ice into boiling water and leave it there till it is almost gone, what is left will still be at 32 degrees. Ice can never be had above that temperature. But while ice can never be warmed above 32 degrees it will go as much below that as the weather does. An iceman delivering ice one zero day in January was asked whether his ice was any colder than in July. He thought not. But as a matter of fact, a piece of summer ice, if he had had it, would have been something of a foot warmer for him, as it would have been thirty degrees warmer than the air of the bottom of his wagon. Mixing salt with ice makes it much cooler. The ice in an ice-cream freezer goes down to about zero. This is why the point zero on our common thermometers was fixed where it is. It was supposed to be the lowest point which could be reached by artificial means. Since then we have reached about 383 degrees below zero, by chemical processes. Ice will cool down, with everything else, on a cold night to zero or below. What should prevent it? On a day when it is just freezing a block of iron and a block of ice outdoors will stand at 32 degrees. If the weather grows warmer the iron will warm up with the weather, but the ice will stay at 32 degrees and melt away. But if the weather grows colder the iron and the ice will cool off, too, and one just as much as the other. As ice grows colder it gets harder and more brittle. There can be no "hickory bend" on the skating pond on a zero day, for the ice is then too brittle. Silvers of ice dipped in liquid air becomes so hard that they will cut glass. Water thrown on ice in the Arctic regions will shiver it like pouring boiling water upon cold glass. This is because the ice is so much colder than the water.

The Boers and Their Prisoners.

The recent dispatches from South Africa have been rather puzzling to the readers of American newspapers. One day the announcement will be made that a detachment of British troops has been captured by the Boers, and two or three days later the information comes that the prisoners have been liberated. The natural query is: What is the use of making these captures if the prisoners are only to be released? This matter was broached recently to Rev. Herman D. von Brockhuizer, who has been banished from Pretoria, and is now in this country in the interest of his fellow countrymen. He seems surprised that the situation was not fully understood here. "The Boers," he explained, "are short of supplies. When the British soldiers are captured they are taken to headquarters and relieved of their shoes, hats, coats and trousers. When they are turned loose they find their way back to their own lines clad only in their underclothing." "But suppose they have no underclothes?" was suggested. Mr. von Brockhuizer smiled and shrugged his broad shoulders. "They should not be so careless," he replied.

Heavy Drinkers in Queensland.

Drinking is very common in Queensland, writes Frank G. Carpenter. Every block has its hotel or public house, or, as we call it, saloon, and every saloon has its barmaids. The barmaids are not as pretty as those of Melbourne and Sydney, but they do on the whole quite as much business. Nearly every one drinks, both in the public houses and at home. In many respectable families it is common to serve whisky and soda at afternoon teas, the men taking the whisky and the women the tea. The Queenslanders are very sociable. They will not drink alone, and the custom of treating is universal. The most common drink is whisky and soda and the common way of drinking it is to sip it. In our country a glass of whisky goes down at one gulp. Here the same amount mixed with water may last for an hour.

The inspiration of oxygen has permitted aeronauts to ascend to heights where their lives would have been unsafe had they depended alone on the thin air of these high regions. The oxygen is breathed in through a tube held to the mouth.

WILL APPLY FOR STATEHOOD.

Delegate Wilcox to Present Bill for Hawaii at Next Congress.

Delegate Wilcox is managing a movement at Honolulu toward securing the admission of Hawaii to the American union as a state. This movement has already counteracted the plan for the annexation of the islands as a county or number of counties to the state of California. Hawaii will apply through Delegate Wilcox for statehood next winter. He sees no reason why Hawaii should not become a state along with Arizona and New Mexico. From the main standpoint of population and wealth her claims are better than those of the other territories. There will a clause in the bill for the exclusion of Chinese from Hawaii. As steamship and sugar companies wish to have a cable laid between the United States and the new territory and as the delegate has it in his power to prevent the laying of the cable for some time he is able to insist upon the support of the companies to his proposition of excluding Chinese. In consequence of the agitation for statehood the prices of sugar stocks are going down still further, as the prospects for a relief of the labor stringency are destroyed in the discussion. No arrangements, temporary or permanent, can be made to supply Hawaii with laborers until the political status of the country is determined upon.

SEES A VISION AND DIES.

St. Paul Invalid Is Thrown Into Convulsions by Shock.

A vision at the window was responsible for hastening the death of Mrs. Catherine Norman Cariveau, who has died at her home in St. Paul, Minn. Mrs. Cariveau had been ill for several months, heart disease and consumption having gradually sapped her vitality until death was only a matter of time. Saturday evening William Cariveau, husband of the woman, was sitting with her. She had fallen asleep. Suddenly she awakened, pointing out of the window, crying: "Look, Will! Look!" Cariveau heard something strike on the screen, but could see nothing when he looked. The sick woman was thrown into convulsions, and when she had quieted sufficiently, told her husband that she had seen his sister, Miss Cariveau, dressed entirely in white, and wearing wings, standing outside the window and stretching out her hands. Mrs. Cariveau maintained that the noise of something striking the screen which her husband had heard was the striking of the sister's wings as she passed the window. The shock following this vision was so great that Mrs. Cariveau never recovered, dying at 3 o'clock Sunday morning. Miss Cariveau was at that time hanging between life and death. She is still alive, but her death is expected momentarily.

New Trunk Line in View.

A report that the Norfolk and Western, Memphis and Chattanooga, the Choctaw and Fort Worth and Denver are forming a through transcontinental trunk line has caused a substantial rise in some of the interested stocks at Philadelphia. It is said that a party of surveyors has recently been at work between Knoxville, Tenn., and Bristol, which is the Norfolk and Western terminus of the Tennessee line. A well-equipped railroad already extends from Knoxville to Memphis, and this road is connected with the Fort Worth and Denver City by the Choctaw, Oklahoma and Gulf. The control of the Fort Worth and Denver City rests with the Colorado Southern, which makes a close and advantageous connection with the Gould system at Denver.

Uses Redhot Poker to Punish Boy.

With his tongue nearly burned out and his lips and mouth terribly scarred and blistered, Daniel Bizzard, a 7-year-old lad, was placed in care of the Society for Protection of Children from Cruelty, at Baltimore, Md. The boy's mother was sentenced to six months in jail for torturing the child. The lad told his mother a falsehood. She lighted a coaloil lamp and held a stove poker over the blaze until it was red hot. She then forced the boy's jaws open and thrust the burning iron into his mouth and tortured him by keeping it there several minutes.

Guards Deck Tanner's Grave.

Memorial exercises were held at the grave of the late Governor Tanner at Springfield, Ill., by the Eighth Battalion of colored troops of the Illinois National Guards. Under command of Major Marshall the members of the battalion marched from Camp Lincoln to the cemetery, where several hundred people, including Colonel J. Mack Tanner, the governor's son, and Cora Edith English Tanner, the widow, had gathered.

Project Big Button Trust.

Now there is to be a million-dollar button trust. This combination, by the plans of men now at work in New York perfecting it, will take in all the important manufacturers of ivory buttons in the United States. There are more than a dozen of them and they supply from 75 to 80 per cent of all the buttons sold to the American trade by home manufacturers.

Slain at the Buffalo Fair.

Policeman Diebold, at Buffalo, N. Y., shot and killed Judson C. Burr of Albion, N. Y., who was engaged in tearing down a platform in what is known as the "Free Midway" outside the pan-American exposition grounds. Diebold claims to have acted in self-defense. He had warned Burr that he could not continue his work without a permit, when the latter struck him with a scantling. Diebold was in citizen's clothes. He was arrested and locked up. Burr is said by his friends to have been an inoffensive man.

The Fighting in Colombia

The present rebellion in the Republic of Colombia is likely to involve the governments of Colombia and Venezuela in war.

There is a contingency which might involve the United States in difficulties with foreign countries. Both Venezuela and Colombia have large foreign debts, on most of which interest has not been paid for years. Bonds representing this indebtedness are held chiefly by England and Holland. If, in order to protect these bondholders from further loss by a disastrous war, either of these nations should interfere it is probable that the Monroe doctrine would be involved and the United States would cry "Hands off."

In the meantime it may be well to explain that the popular idea that this is a mere farce comedy revolution is not altogether well founded. In the first place the territory of the Republic of Colombia is ten times as large as that of the State of Illinois, while its population is only 6,000, against 4,800,000 in Illinois. In the second place the attacks on the present government of Colombia have been so many during recent years that the Colombian army has been greatly enlarged. It is now said to consist of upward of 40,000 well-drilled and experienced soldiers, who are under the command of able generals. The government is conservative, and its friends say that it is devoted to building up the trade and commerce of the republic.

On the other hand, even his bitterest enemies admit that General Uribe Uribe, the revolutionist leader (reported dead, but report is not credited) is a man of spotless personal character, who is actuated by the purest motives.

GENERAL URIBE-URIBE.

He is at the same time one of the most picturesque characters ever developed on the isthmus. He is only 40 years old, tall, athletic, and unsmiling. There is nothing of the adventurer or swashbuckler in his appearance. He is a man who takes everything seriously and who knows how to work hard and to dare greatly. He came to the United States last February with a number of his staff, including R. Perez, his private secretary, whose wife is a Chicago girl. Even at that time the revolution was well under way, and General Uribe Uribe directed his operations for several weeks from his Broadway hotel. While in this country he made friends with many prominent business men, who were impressed with his plain sincerity and his patriotic fervor.

Uribe Uribe was born up in the mountains of Antiochia, in the interior of Colombia and on the crest of the Andes. His mother was famous for her beauty, while his father was an athlete and rancher. Many patriots and fighters for liberty have been born in the mountains, and the friends of Uribe Uribe point out that his was the proper birthplace for a man destined to rescue his country from the hands of "corrupt and tyrannical politicians." While a boy he was taught by his father to break and ride the wild horses of the hills, to take long tramps

Hard on the Officer.

Cupid will have a hard time soon with Russian army officers, if one is to judge from a recent regulation fixing the conditions under which Russian officers will be permitted to marry. In the first place the lady must have good manners and be well brought up; her social position will also be taken into account. Then with regard to the officer, he must be at least 23 years of age, his pay and mess allowance must amount to at least $600 and he must have either real estate bringing in $150 or more per annum on a capital of $2,500 or more. If the capital does not exceed $2,500 no more than $150, including interest, must be drawn in any one year.

Would Rather be Doctor Than King.

Little Prince Edward, son of the Duke of Cornwall and York and future king of England, has his own ideas of what he wants to be. Not long ago the little fellow was given his first book of English history. The volume was full of illustrations, including one of the unfortunate Charles I. on his way to his execution. Immediately the young prince wanted to know all about it, and he was told the story at length. On its conclusion he slammed the book shut with a decided air and said: "Oh, I don't like that at all. I shan't be a king. I'm going to be a doctor."—Milwaukee Wisconsin.

"A Princess of the Hills," by Mrs. Burton Harrison is really Mrs. Harrison's first serious attempt at fiction. It is neither a society novel nor a colonial story, but is a strong and effective romance of an American hero and an Italian heroine in the most picturesque portion of the section of the Italian Alps known as the Dolomites. It is vigorous, artistic and dramatic.

A FRONTIER EXPERIENCE.

Family Had to Pick Their Wheat Over Kernel by Kernel.

In narrating the frontier experiences of "The First White Baby Born in the Northwest," in The Ladies' Home Journal, W. S. Harwood tells of a queer experience that befell the family in the first year after settling on a farm far removed from the settlements. "The winter had been unusually long and severe, and their store of provisions ran low. It was a long distance to the nearest base of supplies, and communication with the outside world had been cut off. Indians in the neighborhood one night broke into the granary where the wheat was stored and stole a quantity. In doing this a large amount of broken glass became mixed with the wheat which the Indians left, so for many days amidst much merry story-telling and many a joke and laugh, in spite of the serious situation, the family gathered about a large table in their living-room and spent the short winter days picking over the wheat, kernel by kernel, in order to free it from the pieces of glass. For this wheat stood between them and starvation, and none of its precious kernels must be lost. Their stock of flour had long since wasted away, as had most of their food supplies, so they boiled and ate the wheat without grinding. Relief reached them just in time to prevent a sad ending to the experience."

Wicked Ankle Bug.

Cleveland is the field of activity of an "ankle bug," which promises to rival the "kissing bug" in evil notoriety. It is partial to low shoes and openwork hosiery, and its bite is said to be so severe that the swelling sometimes extends to the knee. In some cases the victim has been crippled for a week or more. The local scientists have not yet discovered the insect that does the mischief.

MRS. E. A. CROZIER.

Mrs. E. A. Crozier, Senior Vice President of the James Morgan Post, W. R. C., the largest corps in Minnesota, writes from "The Landour," 9th and Nicollet, Minneapolis, Minn., as follows:

"Please accept hearty thanks on behalf of Peru-na, that wonderful medicine which raised me from a sick bed and made me strong and well woman of me in two weeks. I suffered with bearing-down pains, backache and continual headache, and found no relief until I tried Peru-na. It cured me completely, and I feel as young and well as when 18. I wish every woman knew the merits of the medicine, and no home would be without it."—Mrs. E. A. Crozier.

Mrs. Wm. Henderson, Bordulac, N. C., writes:

"I was troubled with very serious

female weakness; had spells of flowing that exhausted me so that I feared I would lose my mind. I suffered untold agony with my back, the pain extending down my left leg. My pain was so severe that I would have welcomed death at any moment—so no one need wonder that I recommended Peru-na so highly, for it cured me entirely of that. Not a sign of pain has returned, and that will soon be two years now.

"I am glad that there is a way I can speak, trusting that many a sufferer will read my testimonial, and not only read but believe."—Mrs. Wm. Henderson.

FOR WOMEN ONLY.

Free Treatment During Hot Weather by Dr. Hartman.

By the assistance of an experienced staff of physicians, Dr. Hartman proposes to direct the treatment of several thousand women, who, for one reason or another are ailing.

Each patient sends name, symptoms, and a short description of previous treatment, and are entered in the doctor's books as regular patients.

The treatment is directed from time to time as may be found necessary by the doctor, without charge. Every letter and name is held strictly confidential, and in no case will any one be published except by the express wish of the patient herself.

These cases are treated with the same care and fidelity as the private patients of a regular family physician. During the past year a large number of cases have been cured. Every item of the treatment is directed for which no charge whatever is made.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium Columbus, Ohio, for free treatment.

GENOA, ILL., AUG. 22, 1901.

By provision in the will of the late A. A. Ryder, of Marengo, that village after a term of years will receive $25,000 for a public library.

A good fresh story is told of one of our country teachers, who, to prevent tardiness, offered to kiss the first arrival at school each morning. The next morning at five o'clock a number of young men were seen roosting on the fence and by 8:30 all the small boys and two directors were in evidence. The teacher is 18 and as beautiful as an angel.

"Rockford Watch company, Limited" is the title of the concern which is to rebuild the watch-making industry in Rockford. The new owners decided to retain the old name, and the incorporation papers have been issued. The company has a capital of $500,000. The incorporators are A. M. Brooks, an employe in the office, G. F. Johnson, the superintendent, and M. Abraham, who is associated with Messrs Eppenstein and Franks.

Hoopston, this state, occupies a unique place among the cities of the country. It has a population of 4,000 and not a saloon. It never had one. It has splendidly paved streets, efficient fire department, a good water supply and other public works, but needs but a small police force. The mayor draws the magnificent salary of fifty cents a year and is not stuck up, and the aldermen are in receipt of half as much for their labors, and manage to expend it all, yet are never accused of extravagance.
