—Literary Club Officers Elected

THE TOTAL ENROLLMENT IS 232

Bright Prospects for a Prosperous and Enjoyable School Year

Teaching Staff Organized

Everything is moving smoothly at the public school and the prospects are bright for a prosperous and enjoyable year in all grades. Superintendent Taylor has his teaching staff well organized and he is fortunate in having a corps of teachers that is willing and anxious to obtain results. The new janitor, Harlan Shattuck, is fitting into the position nicely and bids fair to have little trouble with the youngsters. "Mike" is not afraid of work and will do his best to keep the buildings neat and clean.

Mr. McClure, the principal, and Miss Ibbotson, teacher of the second primary, have taken it upon themselves to organize a school orchestra and the latter has also organized a girls' glee club, features which will be greatly appreciated by those students who are musically inclined. Miss Ibbotson expects to organize a boys' glee club later.

The high school students met on Monday evening of this week and organized a literary club, electing the following officers: Allen Patterson, president; Water Albertson, vice president; Horatio Perkins, secretary.

There are twenty tuition pupils in the high school and one tuition pupil in the grades, and more are expected as the season advances.

There are fifty-one enrolled in the high school, divided as follows: First year, 16; second, 10; third, 14; fourth, 11. One hundred eighty-one are divided among the grades as follows: First, 30; second, 24; third, 24; fourth, 21; fifth, 17; sixth, 23; seventh, 22; eighth, 20.

Section 6. The rate to be charged by said Illinois Northern Utilities Company, its successors and assigns for furnishing electric lighting service to any consumer will be as per Exhibit "A" which is the Company's standard maximum demand lighting rate "A," attached herewith and hereby made a part of this ordinance, or the present lighting rate, namely, 15c net per kilowatt hour for the first fifteen (15) kilowatt hours per month and 7½c net per kilowatt hour for the excess of fifteen (15) kilowatt hours used per month. All bills shall be rendered monthly as nearly as practicable and on each bill paid within ten days after its rendition, the consumer shall be entitled to a discount of one cent per kilowatt hour on the total consumption charged for there-in, provided, however, that if payment shall not be made within ten days, then said Grantee shall not be required to allow said discount.

The Grantee further agrees to give its consumers within the Municipality the benefit of any rates or rate reductions made from time to time in other towns of like size and conditions which they serve. If any consumer shall fail to pay any bill within twenty (20) days after its rendition, said Grantee may cut off the electric service to such consumer until all arrears including the cost of shutting off and re-connecting for resumption of service, shall be fully paid, and further, if any consumer, after being given service, orders the electric meter disconnected and again re-connected within twelve months, a charge of $1.00 will be made to cover the cost of setting, disconnecting and testing its meter.

Rate "A" General Lighting Service

Determination of maximum demand:
(a) Where the rated capacity of the installation connected exceeds 5 kilowatts, measurement is by maximum demand indicators.
(b) Where the rated capacity of the installation connected is 5 kilowatts or less, the number of kilowatt-hours equivalent to 30 hours' use per month of the maximum demand will be estimated and fixed in accordance with the table set out below.

A. The figures in line "A" of the table designate the number of sockets, or receptacles, of the installation connected. (Where the lighting in installation has a total rated capacity of 5 kilowatts or less, motors having a total rated capacity of 1 horse-power or under and small household utensils are disregarded in determining the active installation connected, unless the connection is permanent, in which case each motor or utensil is taken at its full rated capacity.)

INDUSTRIAL NOTES

Facts and Figures Clipped from Columns of "Manufacturers News"

There are five hundred commercial organizations in Illinois. Germany has forbidden the further importation of tobacco.

It is said that railroad, social and industrial conditions in Mexico are approaching normal.

Australia may prohibit the importation of motor cars on the theory that they are a luxury.

The Haynes Auto Co. plant at Kokomo, Ind., has been sold to a New York concern for $9,000,000.

Three million automobiles and motor trucks now traverse the streets and highways of the United States.

Fully 220,000 tons of steel will be needed for the naval vessels that are to be built next year under the new program just adopted.

It is said that the Russian government is preparing to build 25,000 miles of railroad, to be completed within the next five years, if possible.

The United States during one week in August exported an average value of $2,000,000 in goods to Russia.

The Pittsburgh chamber of commerce has put the question of advancing the clock an hour all over the country up to the commercial bodies of every state.

The American egg-preserving plant, owned and operated by the Amos Bird Co., of Boston, Mass., and recently completed at Shanghai, is now handling 300,000 eggs daily. The product is either frozen or dried, and shipped to the United States, at present via the Pacific Coast.

Loading coal operators of the Tennessee have engaged counsel to bring suit against the Southern railway for recovery of approximately $100,000 said to have been lost by them because of the alleged failure of the railroad company to furnish cars with which to transport coal. The alleged shortage is said to have existed for several years and to have become "desperate" this year.

Ten years ago, in 1906, there were produced 8,137,299,565 cigars. Compare this with the production of 1916—8,337,720,530—and we have an increase of 2½ percent during the decade. But note the growth of the cigarette business during that period.

In 1906 there were produced 4,511,997, 137 cigarettes, which, when compared with the 21,099,357,352 of 1916, shows an advance in production during the ten years of 369 per cent.

TO ASK MORE TIME

Supervisors Committee not yet Decided on Highway Proposition

It is now believed that the special committee of the DeKalb county board of supervisors, appointed last year and re-organized later and directed to report at the September meeting of the board on the important matter of bonding the county for the state aid roads, will not make a full report at the regular September meeting of the board to be held next week Tuesday, but instead will ask for still more time, says the True Republican.

A meeting of this committee was held in Sycamore on Monday and the matter was discussed at some length. The committee have driven over practically all the roads in this county and examined them with some care. Recently a number of the members went on a tour of inspection of two days in southern Wisconsin a few weeks ago. They have gathered much information on the subject on hand. Persons interested who have talked with the various members say a majority of them appear to favor the bonding proposition.

Want More Houses

There is a shortage of houses in Belvidere at the present time and unless some united effort is made to remedy the condition it will cause serious embarrassment to Belvidere manufacturers. Manufacturers have already suffered from the lack of houses to house their employees, having been unable to keep needed help here because the men were unable to find suitable homes.

Jas. Hutchison returned from Hayward, Wis., the first of the week and gives warning of the stories that the other fellows will bring back. There is one bear story that of course will be a head-liner. The ex-postmaster, G. J. Patterson, really shot a black bear and the bunch feasted on bear meat for several days. The story of the hunt will be left entirely to the hunter.

Mrs. S. T. Zeller Jr. is visiting relatives in Ashton this week.

SWIFT STATES CASE

Ousted President of Milk Producers' Association Explains

PRODUCERS SHOULD CONTROL

Co-operative Association Must be in Hands of Farmers to be a Successful Venture

R. B. Swift, recently ousted from the presidency of the Milk Producers' Association for condemning the methods being employed in organizing a co-operative company for handling milk, stated his side of the case as follows in a recent public speech:

I believe in the organization of the Milk Producers' association and maintaining the present organization.

I opposed the milk marketing corporation because it was a mere means of collecting $500,000 from the farmers and would result in failure and the loss of money.

I favor a co-operative association among the milk producers, an association not based on capital stock, but based upon the producing capacity of each member.

This association would be a compact body and organized by the law, always ready for united action in behalf of all the milk producers, and would save the necessity of organizing the milk producers at each time the price of milk was to be adjusted. Its members should be milk producers only. Its aim should be to organize all of the milk producers, tributary to Chicago, in a compact body so that the interest of the entire body could be handled for the interest of all and the protection of all. This co-operative association should be composed of actual milk producers and interested in proportion to their production of milk. No one should be a member not actually producing milk.

Now the milk marketing co-operation proposed, is a stock company based upon capital stock, open to purchase by anyone.

Nothing would prevent the Borden company or any other distributing company from being a stockholder in this milk marketing corporation. The shares, of course are limited to five shares to each member, but nothing would prevent any person holding shares in the names of dummies.

I favor an association that would legalize the organized milk producers in a body just as they were organized in April, 1916; that the entire production might be handled, and the production of milk protected by a co-operative association in the interest of the entire production and of each member.

The milk marketing corporation proposed, is not the milk producers' association.

It would consist of a few milk producers and as many outsiders interested commercially as wanted to come in, and each take five shares of stock. Having $500,000 capital, it would be interested in making that capital pay a dividend, if under any circumstances it could be successful, and its interest would be to buy milk at the cheapest price it could be furnished and then put on the market in competition with the dealers who had purchased the bulk of our milk.

Such a milk marketing corporation would be an injury to the milk producers rather than a benefit.

Any member subscribing $50 to $100 in this corporation would have no time to look after its business interest; would not have invested so that they could give any time to it, and it would only mean throwing away so much money into an association for the benefit of a few men, who would use it to the injury and detriment of the milk producers at large.

CONTROL HOG CHOLERA

Farmers of Winnebago County Employ "Single Treatment"

The farmers in Winnebago county are confident that they have found a very practical and satisfactory method of controlling hog cholera. The so-called "double treatment" is not employed, and for two reasons. First it introduces hog cholera on the farm where previously there was none.

Thus creating a new possible center of infection. Second, it creates the possibility of producing the so-called "carriers," hogs not sick with cholera, but carrying cholera germs. When these "carriers" are introduced into new herds not cholera immune, they become centers of infection, sometimes leading to a new outbreak of cholera.

The positive method employed. When hog cholera breaks out, the infected herd is given the so-called "single treatment." All hogs in the herd are carefully quarantined and the premises thoroughly disinfected with quick lime. When the disease has completed its course the premises are again cleaned up, litter etc., containing germs, being hauled to the field and so spread out as to be thoroughly disinfected thru the agent of sunlight. The premises are again thoroughly disinfected by the free use of quick lime.

Mr. TenEyck, county advisor for Winnebago county says this method has for the last two years proven very satisfactory and reduced loss from hog cholera to a minimum.

THE WORK OF THIEVES

Steal Wheat and Cause Death of Two Horses Owned by Will Little

Thieves entered Will Little's barn during the afternoon last Sunday or in the evening and stole about ten bushels of wheat but this was only a small part of the damage done. The thieves left the doors open so that the horses could enter the barn from the pasture and get at the wheat bin. The animals ate heartily of the grain and then drank considerable water, having free access to the trough. The result was a great mass of dough in the stomachs of four horses, two of which died and the others are left in a condition which will greatly lessen their value, even if they pull thru. All the animals were valuable as horse values go up these days and Mr. Little will suffer a loss of approximately $500.

CRAWFORD GETS TWO

Genoa Chief Captures Men Who Robbed Store in Bartlett Thursday

Chief of Police Crawford on Friday captured the two men who entered and robbed a hardware store in Bartlett the night before and the fellows are now in jail awaiting trial, the officer from Bartlett having come to Genoa after them in the afternoon.

Officer Crawford was notified early Friday morning of the robbery and given warning that the men might be on a special freight which was to come thru Genoa in the forenoon. Agent Canavan of the Milwaukee road had the train stop when it reached Genoa and sure enough there were the fellows in a box car.

Ault Buys Big Farm

The Kirkland Enterprise says that a big deal was closed last week in which Geo. W. Ault, banker of Kirkland, becomes the owner of the Roswell Keith farm. The property is located in Boone county, a mile and a half west of Irene, and consists of 240 acres of good land with modern buildings. Mr. Ault will probably further improve the property and continue to rent it. This is one of the most desirable farms in Northern Illinois and will undoubtedly prove a good investment for the Kirkland banker.

TWO DOLLAR MILK

Milk Producers Set Price for Winter Months' Supply

TO SELL THRU A COMMISSIONER

Dairymen Will Not Sign Contract as in Past—Price 15 Percent Higher Than Last Winter

Elgin News: After voting unanimously to stand behind a fixed price, even to a strike, directors of the Milk Producers' association Friday balloted to demand an average of $2 per hundred pounds for fall and winter milk. Shippers will receive $1.60 per can. The price agreed upon is for 3.5 milk. "This agreement was reached after one of the most enthusiastic and harmonious meetings of directors ever held," said C. H. Potter today. "You could hardly tell that there had been any trouble among the officers."

Vote of members, taken after a lengthy discussion showed that members were in favor of demanding from $1.90 to $2.25 per hundred pounds, and from $1.60 to $1.80 for cans. The average was taken and on recommendation of Director Abbot of Cary, the final price was adopted.

The price demanded by the association is about fifteen percent higher or than was paid by dealers last winter. The present average for summer is $1.55 per hundred pounds.

According to directors of the association, Borden's Condensed Milk company is the only large company that refused to discuss the winter price of milk. The Bowman Dairy company, it is said, has already agreed to pay the association price. Several of the other companies gave favorable replies but did not say that they would meet the demands.

The Chicago Milk Dealers' association has already agreed to meet the association price of $1.60 per can, according to Mr. Potter.

"Borden's representatives refused to meet with our directors," said Mr. Potter. "They informed us that attorneys have advised them that our demands are in violation of the Sherman Anti-Trust law but we contend that they are not."

The meeting Friday, which was attended by representatives from practically every local, was the second called to agree on the winter price schedule. At an earlier session the representatives demanded that the average be placed at $2.02½ per hundred pounds, and $1.68 per can. This was found to be excessive.

Altho the milk producers are prepared for another war, similar to the one this spring, they do not expect as hard a fight.

Failure of dealers in New York to meet the demands of farmers is said to have caused them to place the entire situation into the hands of T. J. Dillon, state commissioner of food and products. He is empowered to sell the milk to dealers who will pay the association price.

They Seek Divorce

A bill for divorce was filed in the circuit court on Tuesday by George J. Patterson of Genoa against Verda L. Patterson. They were married on Nov. 1, 1903. The complainant says he left her on June 29, 1916, when he became convinced of her unfaithfulness. Vernon M. Cole of DeKalb has filed in circuit court a bill for divorce from Laura Cole. They were married at Oregon, Ill., on Dec. 24, 1899, and lived together until August 31, 1912, when she deserted him without cause, he says in his bill.

NEAR RIOT AT HUNTLEY

Swift and Oman of Milk Producers' Association Clash

Elgin News: Feeling between supporters of Rodney B. Swift, ousted president of the Milk Producers' Association, and opponents reached a climax at Huntley Friday night when a riot was narrowly averted.

Trouble started when Swift, who was addressing a meeting of farmers, became the target of an attack by Robert Oman, director of the Huntley local of the association. Oman is alleged to have called Swift a liar.

Tearing off his coat, Swift challenged Oman to fight, declaring that no man could insult him. Farmers intervened and Oman beat a hasty retreat. Rivalry between Swift and Oman has been close since the publication of a statement, declaring that Oman had received $400 in "pecking" from the association.

BEYOND the FRONTIER A STORY OF EARLY DAYS by RANDALL PARRISH

SYNOPSIS. Adele la Chesnayne, a belle of New France, is among conspirators at her uncle's house. Cassion, the commissaire, has enlisted her Uncle Chevet's aid against La Salle. D'Artigny, La Salle's friend, offers his services as guide to Cassion's party on the journey to the wilderness. The uncle informs Adele that he has betrothed her to Cassion and forbids her to see D'Artigny again. In Quebec Adele visits her friend, Sister Celeste, who brings D'Artigny to her. She tells him her story and he vows to release her from the bargain with Cassion. D'Artigny leaves promising to see her at the dance. Cassion escorts Adele to the ball. She meets the governor, La Barre, and hears him warn the commissaire against D'Artigny. D'Artigny's ticket to the ball has been recalled.

The way of a man with a maid—Adele forgets her own danger to warn D'Artigny against the plotting of La Barre and Cassion. The youth finds himself in the role of protector to the girl. How he learns some of the enemy's secrets and why they hate him and want to control the girl are told in an absorbing manner in this installment.

(Adele, arrived at the ball with Cassion, has just been introduced to Governor La Barre. She hears him warn her escort to beware of D'Artigny.)

"Perchance not, yet the way is long, and he knows the wilderness. I advise you guard him well. I shall send to you for council in an hour; there are papers yet unsigned."

He turned away to greet those who followed us in line, while we moved forward into the crowd about the walls. Cassion whispered in my ear, telling me bits of gossip about this and that one who passed us, seeking to exhibit his wit, and impress me with his wide acquaintance. I must have made fit response, for his voice never ceased, yet I felt no interest in the stories, and disliked the man more than ever for his rapid boasting. The truth is my thought was principally concerned with D'Artigny, and whether he would really gain admission. Still of this I had small doubt, for his was a daring to make light of guards, or any threat of enemies, if desire urged him on. And I had his pledge.

My eyes watched every moving figure, but the man was not present, my anxiety increasing as I realized his absence, and speculated as to its cause. Could Cassion have interfered? Could he have learned of our interview, and used his influence secretly to prevent our meeting again? It was not impossible, for the man was seemingly in close touch with Quebec, and undoubtedly possessed power. My desire to see D'Artigny was now for his own sake—to warn him of danger and treachery. The few words I had caught passing between La Barre and Cassion had to me a sinister meaning; they were a promise of protection from the governor to his lieutenant, and this officer of La Salle's should be warned that he was suspected and watched. There was more to La Barre's words than appeared openly; it would be later, when they were alone, that he would give his real orders to Cassion. Yet I felt small doubt as to what those orders would be, nor of the failure of the lieutenant to execute them. The wilderness hid many a secret, and might well conceal another. In some manner that night I must find D'Artigny, and whisper my warning.

These were my thoughts, crystallizing into purpose, yet I managed to smile cheerily into the face of the commissaire and make such reply to his badinage as gave him pleasure. I dined with him twice, pleased to know I had not forgotten the step, and then, as he felt compelled to show attention to the governor's lady, he left me in charge of a tall, thin officer—a Major Callons, I think—reluctantly, and disappeared in the crowd. Never did I part with one more willingly, and as the major spoke scarcely a dozen words during our long dance together I found opportunity to think, and decide upon a course of action.

As the music ceased my only plan was to avoid Cassion as long as possible, and, at my suggestion, the silent major conducted me to a side room, and then disappeared, seeking refreshments. I grasped the opportunity to slip through the crowd, and find concealment in a quiet corner.

I leaned forward scanning each passing face, my whole attention concentrated on the discovery of D'Artigny. Where he came from I knew not, but his voice softly speaking at my very ear brought me to my feet, with a little cry of relief. The joy of finding him must have found expression in my eyes, in my eager clasping of his hand, for he laughed.

"'Tis as though I was truly welcomed, mademoiselle," he said, and gravely enough. "Could I hope that you were even seeking me yonder?" "It would be the truth, if you did," I responded frankly, "and I was glad to doubt your promise."

"Nor was it as easily kept as I supposed when given," he said under his breath. "Come with me into this side room where we can converse more freely—I can perceive Monsieur Cassion across the floor. No doubt he is seeking you, and my presence here will give the man no pleasure."

I glanced in the direction indicated, and although I saw nothing of the commissaire, I slipped back willingly enough through the lifted curtain into the deserted room behind. It was evidently an office of some kind, for it contained only a desk and some chairs, and was unlighted, except for the gleam from between the curtains. The outer wall was so thick a considerable space separated the room from the window, which was screened off by heavy drapery. D'Artigny appeared familiar with these details, for, with scarcely a glance about, he led me into this recess, where we stood concealed. Lights from below illumined our faces, and revealed an open window looking down on the court. My companion glanced out at the scene beneath, and his eyes and lips smiled as he turned again and faced me.

"But, monsieur," I questioned puzzled, "why was it not easy? You met with trouble?" "Hardly that; a mere annoyance. I may only suspect the cause, but an hour after I left you my ticket of invitation was withdrawn."

"Withdrawn? by whom?" "The order of La Barre, no doubt; an officer of his guard called on me to say he preferred my absence."

"'Twas the work of Cassion." "So I chose to believe, especially as he sent me word later to remain at the boats, and have them in readiness for departure at any minute. Some inkling of our meeting must have reached his ears."

"But how came you here, then?" He laughed in careless good humor. "Why, that was no trick! Think you I am one to disappoint because of so small an obstacle? As the door was refused me I sought other entrance, and found it here." He pointed through the open window. "It was not a difficult passage, but I had to wait the withdrawal of the guards below, which caused my late arrival. Yet this was compensated for by discovering you so quickly. My only fear was encountering someone I knew while seeking you on the floor."

"You entered through this window?" "Yes; there is a lattice work below." "And whose office is that within?" "My guess is that of Colonel Delgand, La Barre's chief of staff, for there was a letter for him lying on the desk. What difference? You are glad I came?"

"Yes, monsieur, but not so much for my own sake as for yours. I bring you warning that you adventure with those who would do you evil if the chance arrive."

"Bah! Monsieur Cassion?" "Tis not well for you to despise the man, for he has power and is a villain at heart in spite of all his pretty ways." "Tis said he has the cruelty of a tiger, and in this case La Barre gives him full authority."

"Hath the governor grudge against me also?" "Only that you are follower of La Salle, and loyal, while he is heart and hand with the other faction. He guided Cassion for accepting you as guide, and advised close watch lest you show treachery."

D'Artigny leaned motionless against the window ledge, and the light streaming in through the opening of the draperies revealed the gravity of his expression.

"Bah! Monsieur Cassion!" his expression. For the moment he remained silent, turning the affair over in his mind. "I thank you, mademoiselle," he said finally, and touched my hand, "for your report gives me one more link to my chain. I have picked up several in the past few hours, and all seem to lead back to the manipulations of Cassion. Faith! there is some mystery here, for surely the man seemed happy enough when first we met at Chevet's house, and accepted my offer gladly. Have you any theory as to this change in his front?"

I felt the blood surge to my cheeks, and my eyes fell before the intensity of his glance. "If I have, monsieur, 'tis no need that it be mentioned." "Your pardon, mademoiselle, but your words already answer me—'tis then that I have shown interest in you; the dog is jealous!" "Monsieur?" He laughed, and I felt the tightening of his hand on mine. "Good! by all the gods, I will give him fair cause. The thought pleases me, for rather would I be your soldier than my own. See how it dovetails in—I meet you at the convent and pledge you my aid; some spy hears word of our conference to monsieur, and an hour later I receive word that if I have more to do with you I die. I smile at the warning and send back a message of insult. Then my invitation to this ball is withdrawn, and, later still, La Barre even advises that I be assassinated at the least excuse. 'Twould seem they deem you of importance, mademoiselle."

"You make it no more than a joke?" "Far from it; the very fact that I know the men makes it matter of grave concern. I might, indeed, smile did it concern myself alone, but I have your interests in mind—you have honored me by calling me your only friend, and now I know not where I may serve you best—in the wilderness, or here in Quebec?"

"'Tis well, madame does not over-hear that confession. An heiress, and beautiful! Pff! but she might find others to her liking rather than this Cassion."

"It is small chance she has had to make choice, and as to her being an heiress, where heard you such a rumor, Colonel Delgand?" The officer straightened up. "You forget, sir," he said slowly, "that the papers passed through my hands after Captain la Chesnayne's death. It was at your request they failed to reach the hands of Frontenac."

La Barre gazed at him across the desk, his brows contracted into a frown. "No, I had not forgotten," and the words sounded harsh. "But they came to me properly sealed, and I supposed unopened. I think I have some reason to ask an explanation, monsieur."

"And one easily made. I saw only the letter, but that revealed enough to permit of my guessing the rest. It is true, is it not, that La Chesnayne left an estate of value?" "He thought so, but, as you must be aware, it had been alienated by act of treason."

"Ay! but Comte de Frontenac appealed the case to the king, who granted pardon and restoration." "So, 'twas rumored, but unsupported by the records. So far as New France knew there was no reply from Versailles." The colonel stood erect and advanced a step, his expression one of sudden curiosity.

"In faith, governor," he said swiftly, "but your statement awakens wonder. If this be so why does Francois Cassion seek the maid so ardently? Never did I deem that cavalier one to throw himself away without due reward."

La Barre laughed. "Perchance you do Francois ill judgment, Monsieur le Colonel," he replied amused. "No doubt 'tis love, for, in truth, the wench would send sluggish blood dancing with the glance of her eyes. Still, 'tis more soberly, his eyes falling to the desk, 'tis, as you say, scarce in accord with Cassion's nature to thus make sacrifice, and there have been times when I suspected he did some secret purpose. I use the man, yet never trust him."

"Nor I, since he played me foul trick at La Chine. Could he have found the paper of restoration, and kept it concealed, until all was in his hands?" "I have thought of that, yet it doth not appear possible. Francois was in ill grace with Frontenac, and could never have reached the archives. If the paper came to his hands it was by accident, or through some treachery. Well, 'tis small use of our discussing the matter. He hath won my pledge to Mademoiselle la Chesnayne's hand, for I would have him friend, not enemy, just now. They marry on his return."

"He is chosen then for the mission to Fort St. Louis?" "Ay, there were reasons for his selection. The company departs at dawn. Tell him, monsieur, that I await him now for final interview."

I watched Delgand salute, and turn away to execute his order. La Barre drew a paper from a drawer of the desk and bent over it, now in hand. My eyes lifted to the face of D'Artigny, standing motionless behind me in the deeper shadow.

"You overheard, monsieur?" I whispered. He leaned closer, his lips at my ear, his eyes dark with eagerness. "Every word, mademoiselle! Fear not, I shall yet learn the truth from this Cassion. You suspected?"

I shook my head, uncertain. "My father died in that faith, monsieur, but Chevet called me a beggar."

"Chevet! no doubt he knows all, and has a dirty hand in the mess. He called you beggar, hey!—hush, the fellow comes."

He was a picture of insolent servility, as he stood there bowing, his gay dress fluttering with ribbons, his face smiling, yet utterly expressionless. La Barre lifted his eyes, and surveyed him coldly.

"You sent for me, sir?" "Yes, although I scarcely thought at this hour you would appear in the apparel of a dandy. I have chosen you for serious work, monsieur, and the time is near for your departure. Surely my orders were sufficient clear?"

"They were, Governor la Barre."

and Cassion's lips set their grin, "and my delay in changing dress has occurred through the strange disappearance of Mademoiselle la Chesnayne. I left her with Major Callons while I danced with my lady, and have since found no trace of the maid."

"Does not Callons know?" "Only that, seeking refreshments, he left her, and found her gone on his return. Her wraps are in the dressing room."

"Then 'tis not like she has fled the palace. No doubt she awaits you in some corner. I will have the servants look, and meanwhile pay heed to me. This is a mission of more import than love-making with a maid, Monsieur Cassion, and its success or failure will determine your future. You have my letter of instruction?"

"It has been carefully read." "And the sealed orders for Chevallier de Baugis?" "Here, protected in oiled silk."

"See that they reach him, and no one else; they give him an authority I could not grant before, and should end La Salle's control of that country. You have met this Henri de Tonty? He was here with his master three years since and had audience."

"Ay, but that was before my time. Is he one to resist De Baugis?" "He impressed me as a man who would obey to the letter, monsieur; a dark-faced soldier, with an iron jaw. He had lost one arm in battle, and was loyal to his chief."

"So I have heard—a stronger man than De Baugis?" "A more resolute; all depends on what orders La Salle left, and the number of men the two command."

"In that respect the difference is not great. De Baugis had but a handful of soldiers to take from Mackinac, although his voyageurs may be depended upon to obey his will. His instructions were not to employ force."

"And the garrison of St. Louis?" "Tis hard to tell, as there are fur hunters there of whom we have no record. La Salle's report would make his own command 18, but they are well chosen, and he hath lieutenants not so far away as to be forgotten. La Forest would strike at a word, and De la Durantaye is at the Chicago portage, and no friend of mine. 'Tis of importance, therefore, that your voyage be swiftly completed, and my orders placed in De Baugis' hands. Are all things ready for departure?"

"Ay, the boats only await my coming." The governor leaned his head on his hand, crumpling the paper between his fingers.

"This young fellow—D'Artigny," he said thoughtfully, "you have some special reason for keeping him in your company?" Cassion crossed the room, his face suddenly darkening.

"Ay, now I have," he explained shortly, "although I first engaged his services merely for what I deemed to be their value. He spoke me most fairly."

"But since?" "I have cause to suspect. Chevet tells me that today he had conference with mademoiselle at the house of the Ursulines."

"Ah, 'twas for that then you had his ticket revoked. I see where the shoe pinches. 'Twill be safer with him in the boats than back here in Quebec. Then I give permission, and wash my hands of the whole affair—but beware of him, Cassion."

"I may be trusted, sir."

"I question that no longer." He hesitated slightly, then added in lower tone: "If accident occur the report may be briefly made. I think that will be all."

Both men were upon their feet, and La Barre extended his hand across the desk. I do not know what movement may have caused it, but at that moment a wooden ring holding the curtain fell, and struck the floor at my feet. Obeying the first impulse I thrust D'Artigny back behind me into the shadow, and held aside the drapery. Both men, turning, started at the sound, beheld me clearly, and stared in amazement. Cassion took a step forward, an exclamation of surprise breaking from his lips.

"Adele! Mademoiselle!" I stepped more fully into the light, permitting the curtain to fall behind me, and my eyes swept their faces.

"Yes, monsieur—you were seeking me?" "For an hour past; for what reason did you leave the ballroom?"

With no purpose in my mind but to gain time in which to collect my thought and protect D'Artigny from discovery, I made answer, assuming a carelessness of demeanor which I was far from feeling.

"Has it been so long, monsieur?" I returned in apparent surprise. "Why I merely sought a breath of fresh air, and became interested in the scene without."

La Barre stood motionless, just as he had risen to his feet at the first alarm, his eyes on my face, his heavy eyebrows contracted in a frown.

"I will question the young lady, Cassion," he said sternly, "for I have interests here of my own. Mademoiselle!"

"Yes, monsieur." "How long have you been behind that curtain?"

With only a few hours intervening before the perilous journey to the Illinois country is begun by Cassion and D'Artigny and the others, what can the young gentleman of France do to assure Adele's safety until his return to Quebec?

The Republican-Journal Trade at Home Department

DECEPTION GRAVE OFFENSE (By Thomas J. Sullivan) Of all the evil spirits abroad in the land deception is the most dangerous. It is the first and worst of all frauds. Exaggeration is a blood relative to falsehood and nearly as blamable. Some men and some business concerns can never state an ordinary fact in ordinary terms. All their geese are swans till you see them. There is no strength in exaggeration. Even the truth is weakened by being expressed too strongly. Catalogs Look Inviting. The illustrations in the catalogs of the retail mail order houses look inviting. The reading matter sounds nice and sometimes the deal turns out all right. But, even supposing it does, where is the buyer any better off than if he bought from the home merchant? Take any article you choose from the long list of things sold by mail and you will find upon investigation that you can buy it just as cheaply and just as well at home. The expense of selling it by mail is just as great as the expense of selling it over the counter. Your local merchants have rent, taxes, clerk hire, etc., to pay, and the mail order houses have the same expenses, only rent and taxes are higher in the large cities than in the country town. And, in addition, they have to maintain a small army of bookkeepers, stenographers, shipping clerks and other employees, besides the immense cost of advertising. How many of the rural consumers know that advertising appearing in what are known as mail order advertising mediums costs from $42 to $85 an inch in single columns? It is true nevertheless, where does the enormous profit come from out of which these enormous bills are paid? Out of the pockets of the consumers. Would Welcome Such Bargains. The city people would go wild with joy if these mail order houses actually had values with style and quality. They would not need to leave their own large cities to sell at the prices they quote, as the city people would swoop down upon their bargains like hungry hen hawks on green goslings. But with style and value lacking they do not dare show their goods in the exaggerated description they make the would have the opportunity of comparison, but by cleverly worded and exaggerated description they make the country people believe they are offering more desirable wares than the country merchant carries and at a less price, and, having no opportunity for comparison before buying, many people naturally are duped. Every body knows the picture of a five dollar suit of clothes looks as good as the picture of a twenty dollar suit. The description reads well. The suit seems to be what you want. Cash With the Order. You send your good money because the mail order house will not accept an order where the money does not accompany it. Then the suit arrives. It was to be all wool, but it is not. It is fully a size too large and several years out of date, and, besides, it has the style and general appearance of the prison made garment. If Mr. Mail Order Man were right there you would not accept the goods, but he is far away, selling suits, no doubt, to some other nonsuspecting sons of man. Next time you are attracted by an ad. of some mail order "bargain" just clip it out and take it to your local dealer and see if he will not duplicate it. That's only neighborly and fair and gives your merchant a chance to make good his statement that his prices are the lowest and his goods the best. Best Source of Beauty. There is no beautifier of complexion or form or behavior like the wish to scatter joy and not pain around us.—Emerson.

If you deal exclusively with the local merchant and give him a check on this bank, it gives him confidence in you that may be to your advantage in time of distress. Farmers State Bank.

If you intend to have that furnace repaired or a new one installed, better get your order in now. We'll begin the work as soon as the weather cools a little. Let's talk it over. Perkins & Rosenfeld.

We can beat the mail order house every time on the same class of goods. Don't believe it? Bring in a sample of M. O. goods and let us prove it. We'll be fair, will you? I. W. Douglass.

Does the mail order house guarantee its stock food? Not much. We do, and know that we can make good the guarantee. The Crescent stock food gives results. Crescent Remedy Co.

We do not guarantee to sell clothing cheaper than the mail order fellows, but we do guarantee that we could not under any circumstances sell the mail order class of goods. Bixby-Hughes Clothing Co.

If you send by mail for automobile accessories you are taking a grave chance. Better be sure than sorry. Our stock is complete and prices right, and in trouble we'll befriend you. Shipman Garage.

The primary object of the mail order house is to select goods to sell. Our object in selection is to get lumber and building supplies to sell and give service. There's a difference. Tibbits, Cameron Lumber Co.

Did you ever hear of mail order houses selling nationally advertised goods? Sure not. They could not quote those "flashy" prices on furniture of that kind. We guarantee full value. Do they? S. S. Slater & Son.

They are so good—those Case & Martin pies at the Evans Restaurant. Served at the table or retailed to the trade. The best pies in Genoa. Ask for them at Evans Restaurant.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; no cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free. P. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio. RED CROSS SEALS National Association Printing Three Hundred Million

Three hundred million Red Cross Christmas Seals are being printed in Cincinnati for the annual holiday campaign to be conducted under the joint auspices of the American Red Cross and The National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis. The campaign for the sale of Red Cross Seals this year will be larger than ever before. Altho in 1915 the sale reached the record total of 80,000,000 seals, bringing in $800,000, it is expected that this year at least 100,000,000 seals or $1,000,000 worth will be sold. The sale will be organized from Alaska to the Canal Zone and from Hawaii to Porto Rico. Every state and territory in the United States will have seals on sale. New organizations will be working in a number of the western states, including Montana, Utah and Wyoming. Distribution of the seals is now under way.

It's a waste of time and energy to try to cook and bake with the old-fashioned cook stove—and, worse still, an actual waste of fuel. The modern kitchen stoves and ranges are marvels of efficiency, economy and convenience in comparison. They make cooking and baking easier, cheaper and more uniform.

We have them in the best makes—for small families and for large—with coal or wood grates—malleable, rust-proof and with the latest inventions and attachments.

REN ROBINSON DEAD

Passed Away Wednesday Evening of This Week, Victim of Consumption

L. Robinson passed away at his home in this city Wednesday evening of this week after a long illness, a victim of tuberculosis. The deceased had been in poor health for several months, but only recently was compelled to give up activity and remain at home. He was out for an automobile ride last Sunday, at that time feeling much better than for several weeks, this condition being due to the nature of the disease.

At the time of going to press the funeral arrangements had not been made.

Coming soon at the Grand Theatre in nine reels, "The Eternal City." Watch for advertising.

N. Petersen, former superintendent of the Cracraft-Leich factory, was married recently, according to announcements received in Genoa.

H. J. Glass, the electrician, furnishes supplies and repairs of every nature. He will be glad to give you figures on house wiring or fixture installation. Satisfaction always guaranteed.

Epworth League service at 7:00 o'clock Sunday evening. The topic for the evening will be treated by Mrs. R. E. Pierce. All the young people in Genoa should come and hear Mrs. Pierce present this topic in her own interesting way.

The dance scheduled to take place at the opera house on Friday night of this week has been postponed until Friday night of next week on account of the Camp Fire at Kingston. A platform dance will be held at Kingston Thursday and Friday afternoons and evenings.

Famous Players present another Paramount star, Charles Cherry, who is ably assisted by Lillian Tucker and Arthur Hoops in "The Mummy and the Humming Bird." The humming bird flits here and there, visits the rarest flowers and sips their nectar leaving them to wither and die. The awakening of the mummy husband comes in time to save his young and innocent wife from the deepest of disgrace. Also a comedy with so much humor that it will enliven the hearts of all who see it. A drama real and convincing and emotional.

Rev. J. Molthan preached at the Mission Festival held at Cissna Park last Sunday, there being no services in Genoa on that day. Next Sunday services here will be resumed. Holy Communion will be administered at ten o'clock.

WEEK'S SOCIAL EVENTS

MRS. HELEN SEYMOUR, Editor

Downing—Killdow

The marriage of John William Downing of Beloit, Wis., and Miss Iva Blanche Killdow of Whitewater, Wis., was solemnized at 4:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents in Whitewater, in the presence of immediate relatives of the young people, by the Rev. Andrews, pastor of the Methodist church. The bridal couple were unattended. Miss Hazel Lawyer, niece of the groom, played the wedding march and dirging the ceremony. The bride has been teaching school in Beloit for some time. She has visited in this city several times and has quite a number of acquaintances here. The groom is the son of Mrs. J. B. Downing of this city and has for the past four years been employed as bookkeeper for the Madison Machine Co. at Beloit. The happy couple left immediately after the ceremony for a two weeks' honeymoon at Delavan Lake after which they will be at home to friends in Beloit.

A Swarm of B's

The officers of the Exchange Bank and their families spent a most delightful evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Brown Tuesday. Plans had been made for a lawn party but owing to the stormy weather, they contented themselves with staying indoors. The following were present: Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Bevan and children, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Brown and children, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Brown and daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Beardsley and Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Brown. It was a regular swarm of "B's." A picnic supper was served.

Picnic Party

Fourteen members of the Woman's Club of Monroe Center spent a most delightful afternoon with Mrs. Fred Worcester Saturday. The ladies came at noon and brought their lunch baskets and an old time picnic dinner was spread on the lawn. The time was spent in reminiscence. Mrs. Worcester has been a member of the club for the past thirteen years and about one half of the ladies present have also been members for the same number of years.

Royal Neighbors

After the regular meeting of the Royal Neighbors at the Odd Fellows' hall last Thursday evening a party, somewhat in the nature of a farewell party, was given. Mrs. Wm. Rosenstock was the guest of honor and was presented with a beautiful cut glass dish by her Neighbors. Light refreshments were served.

Birthday Dinner

Mrs. Emma Lord entertained a number of relatives last Thursday at a one o'clock dinner in honor of her small twin grand daughters, Ruth and Ruby Adams, who on that day reached their second birthday. There was a birthday cake for each little Miss on which two candles were lighted.

John Bain, the claim adjuster for the Central Business Men's Association of Chicago, who was here about a week ago adjusting a claim for Geo. Buck, is again in town on account of the injury of Ray Shipman, another of its members. The Genoa membership of the Association now includes about seventy of its leading business and professional people.

Teeth of a Shark.

In respect to its dentition the shark is a very remarkable creature. The white shark has seven rows of teeth, while other species vary in the number of rows they possess. It must be understood, however, that the shark only uses one row at a time. The other rows lie down inside the mouth behind the edge of the jaw, erecting themselves when it is time for them to take successively the place of the first row. When one observes how keen edged these incisors are it seems no wonder that they can bite off a big rope as readily as if it were thread.

A well-dressed Spaniard, accompanied by six young and pretty Spanish girls, occupied seven seats in the orchestra circle at the Metropolitan opera house, New York, one night. Before the curtain rose, the entire group fell asleep, one after the other, and stayed asleep for two hours. It was a curious sight, and old opera-goers said they never knew of the feat being equaled. The Spaniard paid $21 for the seven seats.

Surprise the Rosenstocks

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Rosenstock, who moved to Harvard this week, were pleasantly surprised by about thirty of their friends last Friday evening. Although the Rosenstocks had commenced to tear-up in anticipation of moving the first of the week, they made the best of the situation and gave their guests a hearty welcome. The latter brought all kinds of good things to eat with them, so that all the host and hostess were asked to do was to look pleasant. They did that very thing and realized before the evening was over that they leave many warm friends in Genoa.

Woman's Club

The Woman's Club met at the home of Mrs. D. S. Brown last Wednesday afternoon. This was the first meeting of the club year and was led by the hostess. At her request each member responded to the roll call with her favorite recipe, an original idea which served as a diversion for the afternoon, and also corresponded nicely with her subject, "Food Values," on which she gave a very interesting talk. The club has some very good lessons in store for the year and hopes to make it a profitable one. Mrs. Henry Burroughs and daughter, Miss Emily, will be the hostesses at the next meeting.

Epworth League Reception

The Epworth League reception for the faculty of the school given in the church parlors Friday evening proved a very pleasant event. A splendid program was given. Miss Marjorie Hemenway gave a piano solo, Miss Edith Reed a reading as did also Miss Ione Stott, Miss Florence Rogers and C. J. Bevan rendered very pleasing vocal solos. The parlors were decorated in asters, golden-rod and thorn-apples. Frape and wafers were served.

W. T. W. Club Entertained

Mrs. Frank Eklor very pleasantly entertained the W. T. W. Birthday Club and Miss May McCormick the latter of Mendota, at cards Thursday afternoon. Euchre was played with Mrs. John McKeown winning first prize, Mrs. Lulu Rudolph, second and Mrs. Reba Rudolph, consolation. A dainty two course luncheon was served by the hostess.

LOWDEN EASY WINNER And "Bud" Smith Beats A. G. Kennedy About Two to One

At the time of making up the forms for this edition The Republican Journal has not been able to secure the complete returns of the primary election, but enough has come over the wires to show that Col. Lowden leads his opponents in the race for the gubernatorial nomination by about 150,000, a plurality that should be very gratifying to those who do not believe in mud slinging tactics.

In the race for states attorney of DeKalb county, "Bud" Smith made a remarkable showing, considering the strong opposition and hard work due by his opponent, Mr. Kennedy. The incomplete returns give Smith the nomination by a two to one majority. Genoa gave Smith 145 and Kennedy 55. For governor, Genoa cast 116 for Lowden, 62 for Hull and 24 for Smith.

Mrs. C. A. Stewart went to Chicago last Wednesday where she met her sister, Miss Maud Sager, of Elgin and attended the afternoon performance of "Fair and Warner," now playing at the Cort theatre.

Ready With Purchase Price.
While a dog show was in progress, a friend took her little boy to see the dogs. He immediately fell in love with a small Boston bull, and couldn't be lured away. His mother said: "Well, if you can buy him, you may have him." Whereupon he produced four pennies from his overcoat pocket, reached up to the dog's owner, and said: "Wrap up the dog. I'll take him."
Spots on Furniture.
Essence of peppermint, applied with a soft cloth, will successfully remove the white spots that so frequently mar highly polished surfaces on furniture. Furniture polish ordinarily will not do the work, especially when used on the surface of a piano or any other hand-rubbed mahogany surface. A few drops on a cheesecloth rag, rubbed vigorously, will wipe out the spots.

for the popularity of this store, in fact there are several reasons, chief among them being prompt service and superior class of goods. We could sell cheaper goods for less money, but you would not be satisfied. Most everyone would rather pay a little more and get things to eat that are really fit to eat. We might sell a little cheaper by cutting down our delivery service, but you would not like that either. When you want an order of groceries, you want it on time, and that's where we "deliver the goods." We are not just satisfied to sell you groceries; we want to "serve" you. WILL HASTEN MATTERS

Deplorable as was the death of George Niss last week when he received an electric shock of 2200 volts, the accident will be an incentive for haste on the part of the Illinois Northern Utilities Company in rebuilding the lighting system in Genoa. The city council did the right thing last Friday night in ordering the arc lights out of commission until the wiring has been inspected by the State Utilities Commission. There can be little doubt as to the outcome of the inspection. The wiring in Genoa has been in rotten shape for years, although few if any realized that there was danger to life. Frequently the wires have been down or crossed with tree branches. The Illinois Northern Utilities Company knew the condition, but were awaiting the granting of a franchise before expending money for rebuilding. Representatives of the company, at the time the franchise was passed, in August, assured the city council that work of rebuilding would begin as soon as material could be obtained. While the arc lights are out of commission the company is slogging approximately $175 a month and the switch should never again be thrown in until the citizens can be assured of absolute safety. It may be that temporary repairs can be made. It is doubtful if the company will concede to this for they will surely be brought to time for not having made the temporary repairs before.

THE TOBACCO HABIT

This is not a sermon on "The tobacco habit" but rather a warning to those who are trying to deceive themselves regarding the use of the weed. Under certain conditions there is nothing quite as soothing as a fragrant cigar, a pipe full of "Corn Cake" or a chew of "Battle-ax." It is not the use of tobacco in the same way that is causing the damage. One may smoke and chew moderately without serious effects, but of course it is better not to use the weed at all. The great evil of the present day smoke habit is in inhaling. Some smokers will even say that inhaling does not injure them. Such talk is not pure and simple. The cigarette and pipe smokers nearly have a spasm if they happen to inhale a little smoke from burning wood or coal, yet it is not as injurious as inhaling tobacco smoke, for it does not leave the system filled with nicotine. Do not try to deceive yourselves, boys, in believing that inhaling smoke from a pipe or cigarette is not injurious. The Creator never intended a man's lungs as a smoke filter or he would have constructed the human body so that the lungs could be taken out occasionally and sent to the dry cleaner.

The writer has always been a great admirer of Jack London's books, despite the fact that he has been termed a "nature faker" by our illustrious Teddy. We never did like Teddy's criticism of London, but realize now that perhaps the former had reasons for placing the novelist in the "faker" class. Only recently it was our privilege to come across a pamphlet (issued by the socialists) in which London expresses his views regarding class. Only recently it was our privilege to read this article, for it pictures to us Jack London as he is. The article regarding the soldier was so vile, contemptible and outrageously contrary to the general conception of the man who is willing to lay down his life for his country, that it could not be sent thru the United States mails. "The Appeal to Reason," a socialist paper, thru its agents, is spreading this product of a diseased brain over the land. It is not even decent food for a socialist; it has all the earmarks of anarchy.

The president's admirers may "Thank God for Wilson" to their heart's content at the present time, for keeping the United States out of war, but really now, can you imagine any act on the part of the president that would have led to war with Germany or any other one of the warring nations? If Germany had been in any condition at all to take on another enemy, Wilson could not have escaped a mix-up. Under conditions as they were and are now the president could not beg his way into the quarrel on the other side of the pond. When that war ends and the present tariff schedule is in effect, there will be something else beside "Thank God for Wilson." War is hell, but it will be more so if it comes to pass that the American workmen must compete with those of Europe. The greatest calamity of all time awaits this nation when the European war ceases, if the tariff is not changed. Nothing in this tariff stuff? Read the history of free trade in America.

As a reward for the little vacation the national guard has enjoyed down in Texas, the boys will unquestionably cast a strong vote for Wilson next November. Perhaps the president will so fully appreciate the possibility that he will extend the vacation until after the election, paying the boys for their good intentions, as it were.

Which goes to prove conclusively and most emphatically that the people do not care so much for the "mud slinger" in politics.

If we give President Wilson credit for forcing thru the eight hour bill, what are we going to do with the representatives or the railway brotherhoods who forced Wilson to get busy? If the law had been passed after meditation there might have been something to this "credit" business. If our Democratic friends hail the passage of this law with such delight and count it a Democratic measure, why was it not put over months ago? Wilson deserves about as much credit for the enactment of the eight hour law as he does for keeping us out of war with Germany.

Genoa citizens have responded almost unanimously to The Republican-Journal's appeal for cleanliness this summer and as a result there is a decidedly noticeable reduction in the crop of flies. A careful inspection of the alleys and back yards will find very few places where garbage is exposed or other filth allowed to accumulate. Fine work. We'll do better next year.

The Illinois Northern Utilities Company has gained little by cutting down its force of linemen and managers. One man is not enough to look after the service allotted to Mr. Rosenstock. Perhaps, had the system been better patrolled the accident of last week would not have happened.

Even the small boy can not throw mud successfully without besmearing himself. And the big men politicians can do no better as the results of the election yesterday plainly show.

Genoa and Kingston to Have Exclusive Tanlac Agency and Benefits of "Master Medicine"

I. W. DOUGLASS DRUG STORES, AGENTS

Nothing in recent years in Genoa favorable comment as the announcement and Kingston has created so much interest that Tanlac, the "Master Medicine," that is being introduced in many larger cities, will be distributed in these two cities, commencing today, through the drug stores of I. W. Douglass.

Genoa and Kingston are indeed fortunate to secure exclusive agencies for Tanlac, and to be two of the few towns in Illinois to derive the advantages of this excellent preparation.

W. B. McPherson, distributor for Tanlac in Illinois, in speaking of the distribution of Tanlac in Genoa and Kingston, said:

"It is always my custom to have but one thoroughly responsible and centrally located representative in each city and in this connection will say, that no matter where you go in the North or East, you will always find the 'Tanlac Store' to be the leading and most reputable druggist in the town.

"Just such firms as I. W. Douglass are always anxious and willing to cooperate in promoting the sale of Tanlac, not only because of its superior merit but because of the superior publicity which they receive from its enormous sale as well.

"Tanlac is a preparation of superior merit. No extravagant claims have been made in regard to its power but the high quality of the 'Master Medicine' is plainly demonstrated in the phenomenal sale which it has had wherever it has been sold.

"In the capital of this great state of Illinois, one retail druggist sold over six thousand bottles in a little less than sixty days. Anyone doubting this statement is at liberty to write to R. A. Clarkson, 229 South Sixth street, Springfield, Ill."

Other interesting announcements will be made in papers regarding the Tanlac agency in these cities.

New Light on Rheumatism

Rheumatism, is regarded primarily as a failure of elimination. But not due to acid in the blood, as the older theory had it. There is no acid in the blood; never was; never will be. By its slightly alkaline nature, the blood would promptly neutralize acid, were it present; and, were this not so, such acidity would kill the blood cells, which require practically a neutral blood stream. Rheumatism is now known to be due to acute invasion of the body by germs, as thru diseased tonsils, or an abscessed tooth, or an infection of the naso-pharyngeal passages, or the gastro-intestinal or genito-urinary tract. It is often found associated with pus somewhere, even if in very small quantities. But defective elimination is probably to be traced as the original source or condition of the infection. Whether seemingly due to fatigue, undue exposure, poor hygiene or what not, infection is intimately associated with retarded elimination. This is explained by the fact that a poisoned blood stream prevents the normal production of the body's antibodies or natural antitoxins to disease germs. Osteopathy finds such tie-ups in vital process controlled by tissue lesions. And it cures many difficult rheumatic cases.—Advertisement.

Days That Count.
The course of life is a thousand trilles, then some crisis; nothing but green leaves under common sun and shadow, and then a storm or a rare June day. And far more than the storm or the perfect day the common sun and common shadow do to make the autumn rich. It is the "every days" that count. They must be made to tell, or the years have failed.

Coat Suits for Fall and Winter Show Little Changes in Style, Though Their Designers Have Been Successful in Turning Out Becoming and Beautiful Garments — Illustration Shows Some of the New Millinery Styles.

A review of numbers of new coat suits for fall and winter reveals only minor changes in style and no radical new departures in trimmings and finish. But styles are reserved and elegant, lines are trim and becoming, and colors are beautiful, so the new fall suits are destined to satisfy even an exacting taste. Manufacturers say that women are growing more discriminating and that the demand is for good materials and exact workmanship as well as smart style.

As to changes in styles, coats are longer than they have been and many widen the figure. Even the collar lengthens the neck and shoulder lines. Three pretty new hats, each an exponent of its particular kind of millinery, are shown in the group pictured. They are of velvet and of felt and velvet. So far, velvet dominates the season, but there are close seconds to it in popularity. Hatter's plush, velours, felt, and soft, brilliant silks and satins are used, alone or in conjunction with velvet, for making the new shapes.

Shapes the coming fall are characterized by great variety in size, from of them show a closer adjustment to the figure, above the waistline, than for several seasons. Collars are high, usually of the turnover variety. Skirts and coats remain full, and for trimming there is the choice of fur or fur-fabrics, braid, buttons, and machine stitching. Skirts have been made longer also and appear in both ankle and instep lengths. But it remains to be proved that women will make a fashion of this feature of the new models. The skirt cut to reach a little below the shoe top has so much to recommend it. For the street suit it is easy to walk in, clean, and smart looking. Some designers have pinned their faith to the tailored skirt of a sensible length, and in this one instance, anyway, sensible goes hand in the close-fitting turban to the very broad-brimmed sailors. They include mushroom brims, those that show a colonial inspiration, the Napoleon, and many "tams." Many inequalities in width abound in a single brim and all sorts of curvings, droopings, and liftings make them interesting. Trimmings are exquisitely made and they are designed to emphasize the contour of the shape, or at least not to interfere with its lines. Tinsel braids, bead and silk embroidery, narrow ribbons and fancy feathers are among the most important trimmings. At the center of the picture a wide-brimmed mushroom shape is shown. It is made of black velvet and the facing is of satin in a contrasting color. It will be noticed that the brim widens band with smart-looking. The longer skirt is not as attractive as the short model. A good example of the new styles appears in the street suit shown. It is of duvetine in dark brown and employs a little silk braid of the same color, with bone buttons for adornment. The skirt is plain and moderately full. The coat is an excellent model for a stout figure, with an unbroken line down the front and a flare to its skirt that is not calculated to at the back. Its simple decoration is made of a ruche of box-plaited ribbon tied in a rosette at the base of a spray of fancy feathers at the front. The small turban at the left is in burgundy felt with a wide collar of velvet about it. Velvet ribbon in two shades is drawn through slashes in the collar. Loops of gilt cord and two pendant balls finish the trimming. The small colonial shape at the right is in black velvet trimmed with two curving feathers in black also,

The KITCHEN CABINET

DESSERTS FOR HOT DAYS.

He knows not his own strength who has not met adversity.—Ben Johnson. Our critics and failures are our best friends.—Chas. Mann.

The iced dishes made of buttermilk or sour milk, egg, fruit juices and sugar, frozen as any ice cream, are most acceptable for a change during the hot weather and many like the flavor, finding them more agreeable than the richer ice creams.

Midsummer Ice.—Take a pint each of raspberries and currants, canned fruit will do. Put the fruit through a sieve and add a sirup of sugar and water, using a cupful of sugar to two of water; cool and add to the strained juice. Freeze as usual; serve with a garnish of preserved or fresh fruit.

Rice With Raspberry Sauce.—Cook rice and mold in a hollow mold. Turn on to a platter and surround with raspberry sauce, or jam or the fresh berries well mixed with sugar.

Raspberry Whip.—It is wise to prepare berries for this dish in their season. Simply mash them and mix with an equal bulk of sugar, then put in sterile jars and seal. Keep in the ice chest or on the floor of a cool cellar. Take a cupful and a half of the crushed berries and beat with two egg whites until stiff enough to stand in shape. Serve in high glasses with a soft custard. If fresh berries are used, add a cupful of powdered sugar to a cupful and a half of berries.

Raspberry Bavarian Cream.—Take a cupful and a half of sifted raspberry pulp and juice and the same amount of heavy cream, a cupful of sugar, if fruit is fresh, and a tablespoonful of gelatin, a tablespoonful of lemon juice and a fourth of a cupful of water in which the gelatin was softened. Stir in the fruit juices with the gelatin until it begins to thicken. Whip the cream and fold it in, pour into a mold that has been lightly greased with olive oil. Chill five hours and serve with a garnish of fresh berries or jam.

Angel Food With Berries.—Cut angel food in squares, cover with sweetened crushed berries, top with whipped cream, and serve well chilled. This is such a simple dessert and yet most tasty. Sponge cake may be used in the place of angel food.

LIGHT DESSERTS.

You will realize the vision (not the idle wish) of your heart, be it base or beautiful, or a mixture of both, for you will always gravitate toward that which you secretly love. Into your hands will be placed the exact results of your own thoughts; you will receive that which you earn, no more, no less. Whatever your present environment may be, you will fall or rise with your own thoughts, your vision, your ideal. You will become as small as your controlling desire, as great as your dominant aspiration.—James Allen.

At the Palace of Sweets one finds many new tempting dishes that can be easily prepared at home. The banana split or banana royal is one of these. Split a well-ripened banana in two and place on a chilled plate, on the top of the fruit put a layer of vanilla ice cream and over this a little finely chopped or grated pineapple, a few chopped almonds and lastly a spoonful of whipped cream garnished with a cherry.

Walnut Delight.—Scald a pint of sweet milk with two level tablespoonfuls of cornstarch; add one-half cupful of sugar and cook until the starch is well done. Beat one egg until light, stir into the slightly cooled custard, then add a half cupful of chopped walnuts and a half teaspoonful of vanilla. Pour into molds and allow to set. When ready to serve, garnish with two or three toasted marshmallows.

Marshmallow Glace.—Make a sirup of a cupful of sugar and one-half cupful of water, add ten marshmallows and allow them to melt. Stir and if too thick add a little hot water to make a sort of paste; flavor with vanilla and set aside to cool. Make a second sirup of a cupful of sugar and a half cupful of water, when well dissolved mix a little of the sirup with three teaspoonfuls of cocoa; stir into the sirup and melt the cocoa. Put portions of vanilla ice cream in sherbet cups, pour over some of the marshmallow mixture and over all the hot chocolate sirup. Serve immediately.

Chantreuse of Jelly.—Remove the center from a round sponge cake, leaving an inch at the bottom and sides. Into this pour any flavored gelatin jelly when it is just ready to set. Serve with a cover of sweetened and flavored whipped cream and with a garnish of fresh fruits.

Custards with cocoanut are delicious. Put the custard in the cups, then over the top put a generous tablespoonful of fresh grated cocoanut and a grating of orange peel. A little more sugar will be needed in this custard, as the cocoanut increases the bulk.

SALADS FOR HOT DAYS.

To grow a little wiser day by day, To school my mind and body to obey, To keep my inner life both clean and strong To free my life from guile, my hand from wrong, To shut the door on hate and scorn and pride, To open then to love the windows wide.

During the hot days we eliminate as much heat from the house as possible and the thinking housewife remembers that foods produce heat, and those which give off the minimum are the foods to serve during the hot weather.

The one who reduces the heat-producing foods, starch, fat and sugar, and replaces them with foods not rich in these elements, will be better fitted to endure the weather without overheating the system.

Eggs, cheese, fish, in combination with various vegetables served in the place of meat are most attractive and satisfying salads.

Some vegetables are richer in the protid element than others; peas, beans and lentils are the nearest to meat of any vegetable.

Roquefort Salad.—Prepare crisp head lettuce and arrange on individual plates. Prepare a salad dressing of a tablespoonful of vinegar to three of oil, a half teaspoonful of salt, a few dashes of red pepper; doubling this portion as needed. Cream a tablespoonful of roquefort cheese and add to the dressing, beaten well to blend, with an egg beater.

Cheese Jelly Salad.—Mix a half cupful of good flavored cheese with a cupful of whipped cream; add salt and pepper to season and a teaspoonful of gelatin dissolved in three-fourths of a cupful of water. Mold in one large or in individual molds. Cover each mold with grated cheese when it begins to harden. Serve with French dressing to which grated cheese has been added, as well as a tablespoonful of catchup.

Nearly all fruits have acids and salts in solution which are cooling, and that have tonic properties. A fruit salad is a most gratifying one to serve on a hot day; it serves as a salad and as a dessert. With the addition of a few nuts it will also be sufficiently nourishing.

Slice tomatoes, small ones, in halves, sprinkle with chopped, green peppers and onion and serve with French dressing.

SALADS AND SANDWICHES.

If we do our best, if we do not magnify trifling troubles, if we look resolutely, I do not say at the bright side of things, but at things as they really are; if we avail ourselves of the manifold blessings which surround us, we cannot but feel that life is indeed a glorious inheritance.—Sir John Lubbock.

Salads and sandwiches seem the most appropriate foods to serve for the light supper or refreshments on a hot day.

St. Regis Salad.—Wash a pair of sweetbreads and drop with a bay leaf into boiling water, simmer until tender, then chill by putting into cold water and cut in bits, removing all the membrane. Take equal parts of finely-cut celery and mix with the sweetbreads; add a handful of blanched almonds, cut in shreds. Walnuts may be used, but they are more difficult to munch. Cut in halves, a cupful of Malaga grapes, removing the seeds, add mayonnaise dressing which has been mixed with a little whipped cream. Mix all the ingredients and arrange on individual plates in lettuce leaves. Garnish with stuffed olives, sliced. This will serve eight persons amply.

Fruit and Pepper Salad.—Cut in dice a small bunch of celery, enough to make three cupfuls; add four medium-sized apples and a can of pineapple, one can of red peppers and one sweet, green pepper, chopped. Mix lightly with mayonnaise dressing and serve in green pepper cups or in halves of lemons. These may be saved for the purpose when making lemonade. The green peppers may be cut, leaving a small handle like a basket.

Olive and Celery Sandwiches.—Chop separately in a chopping bowl an equal quantity of stuffed olives, (the kind stuffed with pimientos) and tender celery. Mix and moisten with sufficient mayonnaise dressing to spread easily. Put on buttered bread and cut in any desired form.

Poppy Seed Salad.—Place head lettuce, well crisped and drained, on the salad plates; sprinkle with grated sage cheese. Roast until well browned in a half cupful of poppy seeds and sprinkle over with salad. Serve with French dressing.

A tart apple chopped with equal quantities of southern onion served on lettuce with any good dressing is a most tasty salad.

TERM "GRINGO" LONG IN USE

Contemptuous Epithet Applied to Foreigners Alleged to Have Had Its Origin in Spain.

Will you permit me to contribute a few words on the subject of the origin of the word gringo? Gringo is an old Spanish word that antedates the Mexican war by 70 years. It was defined by the first edition of the Standard Dictionary, in 1891, "One of English blood or speech; a contemptuous epithet." By the New Standard, 1913, the term was treated as follows: "In Spanish America, a foreigner, particularly an American or one of English blood or speech; a contemptuous epithet (Spanish gibberish)."

I have been able to trace the word back to 1787, 129 years, and find it explained in P. Esteban de Terreros y Pardo's "Diccionario Castellano," published in Madrid in that year. See Vol. II, page 240, column 1: "Gringos—Liamao en Malaga a los extranjeros, que tienen cierta especie de acento, que los priva de una locucion facil y natural Castellana; y en Madrid dan el mismo y por la misma causa con particularidad a los Irlandeses."

Roughly translated, this means: "Gringos—The name given in Malaga to those foreigners who have a certain accent which prevents them from speaking Spanish fluently and naturally, and in Madrid the same term is used for the same reason, especially with reference to the Irish. 'The word may be found also in Melchior Emmanuel Nunez de Taboada's 'Diccionario Espanol-Francés,' published in Paris in 1845: 'Gringos, ga—Adj., (figure et familiar.) Grec. Hebreu. On le dit d'une chose inintelligible.' Translation: 'Gringos, ga (figuratively and colloquially.) Greek. Hebrew. It is said of a thing that is not intelligible.'—Letter to Editor of New York Times.

Foolish Man.

A Boston woman has won a wager of $50 by promenadeing the principal streets of Boston, Providence and Worcester, wearing a startling hand-painted gown and hat and carrying a hand-painted parasol. Her venture was the result of a dare from a Boston artist. She has given the money to the Red Cross relief fund.

"You must not dare a woman to do anything, even if she is growing old," says this successful creature, "for she will do it, even if her husband should object."

Here and there there may be a husband who will wonder what that word "even" is doing in this declaration of feminine intentions, but otherwise the sentiment will go uncorrected. During a woman is a superfluous, redundant and superogatory piece of work. The gentleman gets off cheaply at $50.—Knickerbocker Press.

There Are Some.

"I just adore western men," gushed the girl who had never been west of Hoboken. "You are all so big and bluff and hearty."

"Well, when it comes to that," replied the westerner, "I've seen some pretty big bluffs right here in New York city."—New York World.

Preliminaries.

"You ought to forgive your enemies."

"I may eventually," replied Senator Sorghum. "But I should like to give them a lesson beforehand, so that they will know my forgiveness is generous and strictly voluntary."

If girls went on parade in breakfast attire there would be fewer hasty marriages.

Th man who brags about his past career of wickedness is usually a harmless cuss.

THE REPEATER PAR EXCELLENCE

Peace. "This war can't last much longer." "How do you figure that out?" "At the present rate it won't be long before all the allied troops will be prisoners of war in Germany, and all the German troops will be prisoners in the hands of the allies. When that happens they'll have to stop."

Figuring on Buying Land?

Are you thinking about buying a piece of land or an improved farm? If you are, why do business through a land-man or some agent and have to pay him a profit of from $5 to $10 an acre on the place he sells you? Why not do business yourself direct with the men who own and are anxious, for some good reason, to sell just the kind of a farm or piece of land you want to get? Just tell us how much land you are figuring on buying; whether or not you want an improved farm with buildings; and in what state you are figuring on buying—and we will tell you how you can do business yourself direct with the men who own and are anxious, for some good reason, to sell at a bargain just the kind of a place you want to get.

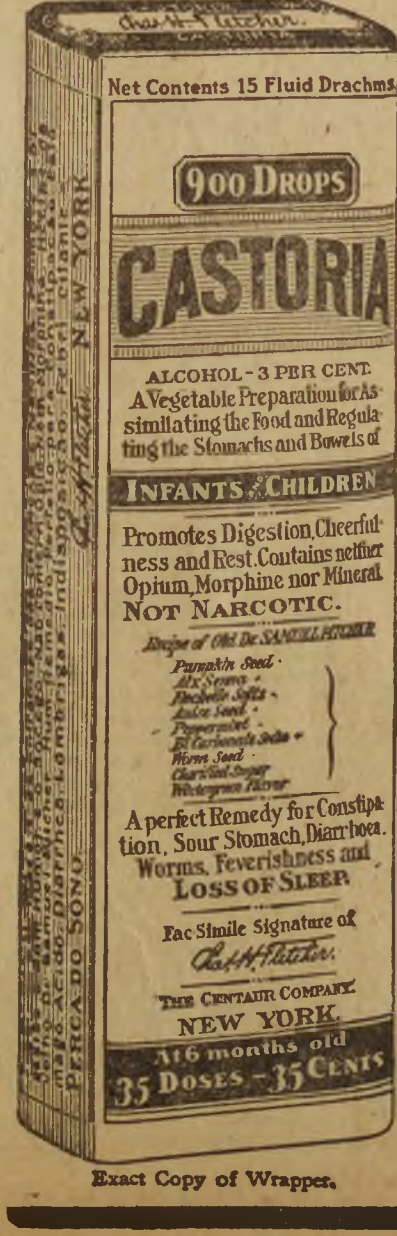

Writing us costs you but a two-cent stamp, puts you under no obligation whatever, and will be worth hundreds of dollars to you if you are going to buy land—so just sit down and drop us a line RIGHT NOW before you forget it.

Not Keeping Up. "Don't you feel kind o' behind the times when your boy Josh gets to cuttin' up?" asked the neighbor. "Way behind the times," replied Farmer Corntassel. "I don't know any dances that ain't at least a year old."

In the Suburbs. "Did you plant a garden this season?" "No; I was afraid from my last experience that the garden would plant me."

Too Late. "Of course he tried to save his face." "And did he succeed?" "No, his countenance had fallen."

Eating and Fighting.
It is not creditable to a thinking people that the two things they most thank God for should be eating and fighting. We say grace when we are going to cut up lamb and chicken, and when we have stuffed ourselves to an extent that an orang-outang would be ashamed of we offer up our best praises to the Creator for having blown and slobbered his "images," our fellow creatures, to atoms and drenched them in blood and dirt.—Leigh Hunt.

In Case of Burns.
The best immediate application for a burn or scald is carron oil. This preparation of equal parts of linseed oil and lime water should be kept always at hand when there are young children about. When a child receives a burn or scald, shake the bottle of carron oil thoroughly, then saturate some lint, gauze or muslin with it and put on the burned surface. Clean olive oil or vaseline are good substitutes for the carron oil.—De lineator.
