He propped the paper against the shining coffee pot and as he ate ran an eye over the headlines. Presently he paused midway in the act of buttering a hot roll and leaned suddenly forward to read something that particularly interested him.

It was about Quigg and Peevy. Quigg had inaugurated his "grand little mail-order scheme," and it had gone swimmingly. But its flourishing growth was not unobserved by Uncle Sam's post office boys and it had been sipped before it bloomed. In consequence, the ambitious exponent of disillusionment and his unassuming colleague were now undergoing imprison-

"hung up," rather abruptly. Although he was not quite positive, Fitzhugh thought he detected in his voice a note of unnaturalness, even of unfriendliness. He seemed too polite. too precise. At Burton's these suppositions were made certainties. Hunt acted in a very unwonted manner. After delivering the ninety-eight thousand dollars he fell strangely silent speaking only when asked a direct question, and, when he thought he was unnoticed, watching his co-operator with sidelong giances of suspicion. And Fitzhugh noted he was no longer "Dan" to him, but "Mr. Fitzhugh."

At last he could restrain himself no

"Mr. Fitzhugh," he began, apparently absorbed in the study of his fingernails, "I, er—a funny thing happened after you left I wanted to send you a York address, I looked you up in the New York directory. Fitzhugh looked down at him from his superior height. He was smiling engagingly. His eyes were as ingenuous as a child's. "I haven't any people in New York, Hunt. I don't know a soul in the town."

"What! Why, then-by George, I bet you're all bluff! I thought so.

You're not rich?" "Rich?" Fitzhugh laughed. "All I've got in the world is this check and a moving off. "Majestic looking devil," thousand or so on deposit."

Uncle Sam and the States Should Join in Americanizing by Education.

By SENATOR PHIPPS of Colorado. Speech in Congress.

One of our present problems, which should properly be termed a duty, is to make suitable provisions for the education of the 8,500,000 people in this country, over 10 years of age, who are unable to read, write, or speak English. Undoubtedly this duty rests primarily upon the individual states, which are sup- protecting a small boy, will form an posed to provide the necessary facilities for the educa- interesting chapter in the records of tion of all of their inhabitants.

Were we to leave this problem of Americanization to the several states for solution, it would, no doubt, murder, Engstrom and his young bride eventually be solved, although the greater part of the benefit to be derived by the people, the states, and the nation would be lost through the lapse of time necessary to accomplish by separate effort what may be more quickly and better done through concerted action.

No doubt, critics will raise a cry of paternalism. Can they successfully contend that the federal supervision and expenditure proposed at this time is either unwise, unjustifiable, or will prove unprofitable to the general government?

It has seemed to your committee that the federal government should take the initiative in this movement; that through its proper bureau it should systematize the plan of action and arrange for co-ordination and co-operation by the states; that it should be willing to appropriate one dollar for each dollar expended by the states.

The bulk of taxation, both state and national, is derived from real estate and other tangible property, or from operations of business; and as these interests are the ones which will benefit most through the operations of the proposed measure, it would seem wise to rely upon general taxation for the proposed education rather than to assess its cost upon those who will receive the instruction themselves.

No population can become homogeneous unless and until its people speak the same language and the attainment of such a condition in our country will be well worth whatever it may cost.

One-Room-and-Kitchenette Apartment Ruins Morals in the Big Cities.

By DR. R. S. COPELAND, New York Health Department.

The one-room-and-kitchenette apartment has demoralized New York city. Because of such living quarters, this city is suffering from increased number of divorces; diminished family life and relationship; lazy and shiftless women; increased immorality. And what is true of New York and, after a hard fight, rescued her is true also of every big city in the United States.

It does more than increase the cost of living. "I Urge the Next Great Moral Reform: Single Standard of Morality."

By W. J. BRYAN, Nebraska Constitutional Convention Speech.

I would like to see the State of Nebraska raise here the banner of the next great moral reform by writing into the constitution the single standard of morality. All legislation rests upon a theory and that theory should be stated in the constitution. You necessarily indorse the single standard or the double standard.

I urge the indorsement of the single standard-no segregation of sin; no licensing of vice; the penalties for immorality enforced impartially against the two sexes. That, my friends, I believe is to be the next great moral reform, and I would like to see Nebraska lead the fight.

The women are here; their consciences will be with us; their influence will help us. How dare we longer discriminate against woman and give to an immoral man a respectability that we deny to her?

They will stand side by side before the judgment bar of God, and, if they must stand side by side there, we should not give one of them an advantage over the other in the tribunals which man creates.

Salvation of Nation Today Lies in Revival of Joy of Production.

By ROGER W. BABSON, Efficiency Expert.

By nature man likes to produce. Our boy as soon as he can totter out of the door starts instinctively to make a mud pie. When he gets a little older he goes out in the back yard and gets some boards together and some shingles and some paper and builds a hut. Just as soon as he gets a knife do you have to show him how to use it? No. He instinctively begins to make a boat or an arrow. Why? Because in his soul is a natural and inborn desire to produce, and a love and a joy in production.

The salvation of our country today depends on discovering scmething which will revive in man that desire to produce and that joy in production which he had instinctively when he was a small boy.

Increased wages will not do it. Shorter hours will not do it. The wage workers must feel right and the employer must feel right.

The reason that some people are not successful with collective bargaining and profit sharing and all these other plans is because they think that men act according to what they say, or according to what they learn, or according to what they agree to. Men act according to their feelings.

ing Discovery in Pinon Mining District.

Pinon mining district, northeast of here, O. I. Kennedy of San Bernardino discovered what may prove to be the relics of a 100-year-old tragedy.

In an inaccessible spot, but one distinctly visible from the foot trail, in the face of the mountain, he discovered a musket and a row of Indian water vessels. On examining the weapon through a high-power glass, it proved to be a flintlock of ancient design, and Kennedy believes from the peculiar formation of the stock it is of Spanish

Kennedy expects to return in a short time with a supply of ropes by which he will have himself lowered into the dry sea cavern where the relics were discovered. He brought with him samples of large sea shells, which he gathered on the edge of a great deposit of shells located at an altitude of 2.050

Used Body to Stop Leak; Saved Lives of the Crew

When the trawler Clara ran on the rocks at the harbor entrance at Plymouth, England, in a fog and stove a hole in her side, one of the seamen stopped the great rent with his body and enabled the boat to keep afloat until help came, thereby saving the lives of his comrades.

The sailor remained, waistdeep in water, for four hours until the boat was towed into

DYES FROM VARIOUS SOURCES

Indian Squaw Lays Many Plants and Trees Under Contribution for Her Bright Colorings.

In making Indian dyes the stems of the maidenhair fern and the dark of the willow produce a dark brown; a shining black from the claws of the unicorn plant; a brilliant red from the yucca roots and numerous mineral a pretty bride of a few months was and vegetable substances yield for her a variety of colors.

The season for gathering the fibers for baskets is when the stalk has finished growing and before it bardens These the squaw splits and rolls them in cloths or bark and lays them away for future use.

When about to be used the split withes are soaked in tepid water and woven when still saturated with water. Some tree roots, as spruce and cedar, require many weeks of soaking before they are free of all soft matter and ready to be woven.

thick on floured board; brush with melted butter, sprinkle with sugar, cinnamon and raisins. Roll as for jelly roll; cut into the inch pieces; place with cut edges up on well-greased pan; sprinkle with a little sugar and cinnamon. Bake in moderate oven 30 to 35 minutes; remove from pan at once.

Parker House Rolls

teaspoon salt
teaspoons Royal Baking Powder
2 tablespoons shortening
14 cups wilk

Sift flour, salt and baking powder together. Add melted shortening to milk and add slowly to dry ingredients stirring until smooth. Knead lightly on floured board and roll out ½ inch thick. Cut with biscuit cutter. Crease each circle with back of knife one side of center. Butter the small section and fold larger part well over the small. Place one inch apart in greased pan. Allow to stand 15 minutes in warm place. Brush each with melted butter and bake in moderate oven 15 to 20 minutes.

WATERMELON A LA FILIPINO

Well-Meant Effort of Native Chef Spoiled Surprise American Army Officer Had Planned.

The Filipinos, it seems, have more than one way of serving a watermelon. The melons grown in the far eastern archipelago are small in size and inferior in flavor. Lieutenant Smith, stationed in one of the towns of northern Luzon, hankered for the juicy lusciousness of a melon from his own sunny southland. So his family in Tennessee carefully crated a choice watermelon and shipped it to him by express. It cost him a good many pesos, but no matter. It was a beauty and arrived in perfect condition.

He instructed the cook to prepare a good dinner that very day; the splendid melon was to be served as a crowning glory. The provincial treasurer, the school teacher and the few Americans in the town were invited to purtake of a treat that was to be a surprise to them.

The dinner went forward successfully; but there was much curiosity concerning the surprise that the host had promised his guests, and all eyes were turned frequently toward the door through which it was expected to appear. At last it came. The cook entered, bearing aloft an immense platter, and there came from the company a chorus of "Ahs!" The platter was placed on the table under a halo, no, a cloud of-steam. The melon was boiled, thoroughly boiled.

The quick rising of the host to his feet with the carving knife in his hand convinced the cook that he had better make the quickest exist possible. which was through the window, and involved a leap of ten feet to the ground. Reports from the second barrio on the road leading north were that he was still running when he passed through. Lieutenant Smith has not been able to smile about that watermelon yet .- New York Herald.

ONION'S VIRTUES ARE MANY

Eaters of Odoriferous Bulb Rarely III. According to Physicians-Aid to Beauty Seekers.

Onlon eaters, as medical men have noted, are rarely ill, and that because onions clear, as nothing else does, all the poisons and Impurities and germs from the body, according to London Answers. Onlons, in fact, are strong disinfectants, and if sliced raw and put about a sickroom would gather to themselves all the infectious germs just as well as an expensive disinfectant would.

It is for that reason that it is extremely dangerous to eat a cut or skinned onion that has been exposed to the air. It has cleared the air, but gathered to its raw surface what it has

Medically, onions are excellent for insomnia and they aid digestion. Further, an onion diet is one of the cures for rheumatism. This is due to the large proportion of sulphur oil in Woman's Gift of Instinct.

A celebrated lecturer in giving ap informal talk to a number of women on ethics startled his audience, who fairly bristled with rage, when he announced that he did not think women possessed any reasoning powers at all. 'But," he continued, "you have what is far better-an instantaneous appre-

Where a man will exert all his mental faculties in revolving round and round a subject, looking at it from every point of view, thinking perhaps that he is using calm, cool judgment, he may, nine times out of ten, make a mistake, when a woman's unerring instinct leaps at one bound to the right conclusion.

A new electric lamp will not only stand wherever it is placed on a flat surface, but the base also comprises a clip which may be clamped on any projecting edge or post. Also the lamp may be hung on the wall or placed on a flat surface, using the clip as a base. Since practically all articles of furniture have either an edge, a post or a flat surface, it is possible to use this lamp almost anywhere. How much should I give to make this a better world?

CERTAIN man in New York filled out his income tax report.

It showed an income so large that his tax was 53%. And his total gifts to church and charity for the year were $148.

Think of it—thousands spent for luxuries and pleasure for himself; and $148 to leave the world a little better than he found it!

Most of us do better than that; but not so very much better.

Our average daily gift for all church causes is -less than we spend for daily papers -less than a local telephone call

-less than a third of the day's car fare -less than 3 cents a day

No wonder that 80% of the ministers of America are paid less than $20 a week. No wonder that the church hospitals turn away thousands of sick people a year. No wonder that China has only one doctor for every 400,600 people. No wonder that every church board and charity society is forever meeting deficits, forever passing the hat.

It isn't because we are selfish; it isn't because we don't want to help. It's just because no one has ever put up a great big program to us, and asked us to think of the work of the church in a systematic businesslike way.

The Interchurch World Movement represents the united program of thirty denominations. They have surveyed their whole task, no business could have done it better.

They have budgeted their needs; no business could have a more scientific budget. They have united to prevent the possibility of waste and duplication. At least a million dollars will be saved by the fact that thirty individual campaigns are joined in one united effort.

And they come to the men or women who love America to you this week asking you to use them as the channel through which a certain definite part of your income can be be applied to make this a better world.

Only you can determine what part of your income that should be.

It's a good time right now to answer that question. We're passing through the world just once; how much better will the world be because you passed through?

NOT CLOSING OUT

It is entirely unnecessary for us to go into details and tell you what these goods are. You all know the quality of goods carried in the John Lembke stock. They were honest merchandise and reliable in every respect. There are many items of broken lots (not junk) which we desire to close out and replace with new goods. These items will be sold at prices which are bound to make them move.

Peddler Had Laugh on Skeptical Shopkeeper Who Refused to Credit Truth of Vision.

In the time of Henry VII the story runs, so Edgar G. Goodspeed writes in the Atlantic Monthly, there lived in Swaffham Market, in Norfolk, a peddler named John Chapman. Age, Disproves Theory Which Seems Absurd.

An ancient controversy has been rerived by the published story of the teath in Dumfriesshire, Scotland, of

The fish was caught in an adjoining stream—the River Evan, a tributary of the Annan, near Moffat, and was placed in a well formed in a burn adjacent to a remote railway signal box, a few miles north of Beattock, on the Jaledonian main line. The signalman who at the time was in charge of the cabin took a lively interest in the fish, as did also various engine drivers and other railway workers on that section of the line, when intervals permitted of their visiting the "aquarium," with its solitary occupant. The trout gradually became quite tame and docile. and was accustomed to swim boldly to the edge of the well to receive titbits from visitors in the form of worms or insects suitable to its appetite. It is still argued by some authorities that unless some accident befalls him, a trout lives on indefinitely.

Opponents of that theory find support in the account of the death of the Scotch trout for their opinion that all salmon or trout class, have their appointed span of life.

A man going about from door to door with wood on his back to sell would be a distinct novelty in our country, but not so in Mexico. Sellers of wood with the wood on their backs are not uncommon in Mexico, and the dress of these men could not be more nondescript than it is. It is made up of odds and ends of wearing apparel and, like the Indian, the Mexican is apt to be seen wearing a blanket when it is warm enough to go without shoes, and no matter what his occupation, he would be seen wearing the wide sombrero which is the unchanging and distinctive feature of

Last Words Uttered by Tyrant's Victims in Tower of London Are Worth Recording.

Relieving the stories of royal cruelty connected with the Tower of London are the immortal "last words" of the brave mes and women who had laid their heads on the axman's block, says a National Geographic Society bulletin. "God forbid the king shall use any more such mercy to my friends," laughed Sir Thomas More when told that Henry VIII had "mercifully" consented to let him be beheaded instead of hanged, and, to the executioner, as he moved his beard aside, "pity that should be cut that has not committed treason.

The countess of Salisbury proudly refused to lay her head on the block because she had committed no wrong. so that, says an observer, apologizing for the executioner, "he was constrained to fetch it off slovenly. "If you strike me twice I cannot promise you not to stir," warned Monmouth.

Asked to raise his head a bit Algernon Sidney retormed, "Not until the general resurrection; strike on,"

"Peter," inquired Sir Walter Raleigh, to keep up the spirits of his attendant, "dost thou know of anyplaister to set a man's head on again when it was cut off?"

Consigned to the tower for some thirteen years Sir Walter set a fashion which made a salon out of the palace prison. While he was not attending his garden, and distilling essence from plants, he wrote his quaint "History of the World," and there, too. William Penn wrote "No cross, no crown," not to mention the writings of the duke of Orleans and Sir John Ellot.

A man came into our store who had been pricing clothing in other towns. He asked, "How are you selling so much cheaper than the big towns?". Very easily explained; by keeping down expenses. We haven't a delivery wagon, elevator service, fine fixtures, a porter to keep them polished, high rents, bookkeepers, cashier, a bunch of clerks late one half the time and we sell for cash. That last item alone means 6 per cent and you have not some one elses bad debts to pay.

PROBLEMS FACING STRICKEN WORLD

Shall Chaos or Reconstruction in Europe Follow the Great World War?

HOPE FOR PERMANENT PEACE

Those Who Fought, and Those Who Suffered at Home, Alike Favor Some Form of a League of Nations.

Article X.

By FRANK COMERFORD.

Europe was succumbing to exhaustion when the war came to an end. The terrible waste was telling. Endurance had reached the breaking point. With peace one thought ran around the world: There must be no more war. The men who did the fighting said it loudest.

"I'm glad I had a chance to do my part—I wouldn't have missed the 'show' for a million dollars, and I wouldn't take a million dollars to go through it again," is the way they put it. Everywhere in Europe I heard,

"It is over, it is finished, thank God." The first thought of reconstruction was a plan to make peace permanent. The laboratory and the machine shop gave to this war a terrible meaning, new agencies had been introduced to kill and maim men, liquid fire, mustard gas, high explosives. bombs from the clouds, torpedoes from the sea depths. The world was horrified. The length of the war, the number of dead and crippled, the raiding and bombing of defenseless cities taught the world that an end must be put to war if civilization was to

So the people, particularly the working people, took heart when a League of Nations was suggested as a means of enforcing peace. They placed their hopes in it. They had suffered most from the war. The dead were largely their dead. The returning cripples were blood of their blood. As they put it, they were from their class. Of course the sons of the other class fought, shared the hardships, paid the price, but they were few. The group from which they came is small, while the toll of casualties from labor's Peace Conference Fell Short. The peace conference met in Paris. Labor watched it. At an early stage In its proceedings intrigue was discovered at work. Wrangling, bickering, bargaining and trading for commercial advantage occupied the time and thought that the world expected would be devoted to the building up of a league that would at least decrease the chances of future wars. Statesmen in their blind devotion to expediency lost sight of the great reason for the conference. They talked of boundary lines, discussed frontiers, and always from the point of view of TAXES IN GERMANY HEAVY financial and military advantage to their respective countries. one class in the world a power so great that political governments would be puppets in their hands, and yet in the light of the happenings of the last five years labor could not be blamed. The world is entitled to protection against such slaughter as we have just gone through, and if the political governments fail to take the necessary steps the plain people will.

World Now Closely Knit.

Internationalism is coming—in fact it is already here. Inventions have brought the people of the world close together. The wireless and the cable give us the happenings of remote parts of the world in a few hours. Distance has been destroyed. We are becoming neighbors in knowledge of each other, whether we live on the same continent or not. Modern transportation is shortening the time between places. An air service is in prospect which promises to make London as near New York tomorrow as Chicago

We already have a successful internationalism in finance and credits. Big business long ago obliterated national lines. The commerce of the world is already organized internationally.

The important question at this time is what form will the new internationalism take? Will it be an internationalism of organized dollars? If so, the world is in serious danger of a financial autocracy. Will it be an internationalism of organized labor? If this happens it means the dictatorship of the proletariat. Both are equally undesirable. No part of the people should be permitted to enforce their will upon the rest. One kind of slavery is as bad as another. The great majority of the human race wants freedom, not advantage. It is not ambitious to dictate-it will not be dictated to.

A League of Nations is the solution. It is a union of the nations of the world, and as the nations of the world represent all the people of the various states such a combination is demo-That it is necessary is cratic. plain. Rivalry for markets, competition for trade, are bound to lead to war unless we have an agreement that these and other problems will be submitted to arbitration. It is not necessary to submit questions involving national honor. Few of such questions ever directly provoke war. It is when nations fighting each other for markets reach a point of positive disagreement that they begin calling each other names. These insults wound honor, war results.

This gives our country the commanding place as the one disinterested power in the world. With this moral force we can do much to maintain the peace of the world. The propaganda of revolution coming out of bolshevik Russia, urging the workers to organize an international dictatorship of the proletariat and seize the world, is not nearly as dangerous to the peace of the world as the political heckling against the League of Nations.

Much Sugar in This Maple. The hard or sugar maple is by far the most important of all the maples. The lumber is valuable for many purposes, but the unique thing about the tree is the abundance of sweet sap which it furnishes, says the American Forestry Magazine of Washington. While all the maples have sweet sap none of the others are so important as sugar producers. This was appreciated in early times and a century and a quarter ago when the real estate men of the time were attempting to lure New England men to Pennsylvania lands "out west" they put on their map in big letters, "The Sugar Tree Grows Here."

"GOOD TIME" DN FNGLISH"

FIRST XNGLISH EXERCISE

Luigi, only dimly comprehended. but a fellow-workman passed the message along in Italian. "Good supper, good music, good time" -those three phrases danced through his mind all the afternoon. At the close of the day's work he made his way to the restaurant, designed by engineers to serve a million meals a year. Crowds of men were surging through the doors and he pushed his way in and to a seat, his black eyes shining with expectation.

Yes; there was music to set Luigi's blood tingling, and his feet tapping the floor, for the band as for the supper-not once since he had been on American soil had Luigi so enjoyed a repast. He glanced over at Casimir, his Polish neighbor, whose face was lighted with smiles.

Then a keen-eyed, pleasant-faced man mounted a platform, and a whisper, followed by a hush. ran about the assembly, for the speaker was Mr. Emmons, vice president and general manager of the company. He spoke with such goodwill that Luigi caught the spirit of his message, if not the actual meaning. To his delight, Father Neyroz, of Luigi's own nationality, stepped forward with an interpretation of Mr. Emmons' words in Italian, and a Polish priest also interpreted likewise. Luigi and Casimir listened eagerly and joined in the applause and cheers.

"We have invited you here tonight," explained Mr. Emmons, "to tell you about a new Americanization plan. We represent many nationalities and races. Tonight I welcome you as Americans, and hope that all of you who have not made this country the land of your adoption, are thinking of doing so. The company is glad to have you as its guests at this Americanization supper, and hopes that many of you will be interested in the work to be undertaken, which will not only teach you something of our language, but also teach you our American standards of thought and life. We have much to learn from the nations you represent. You are well able to teach us many

"We wish, however, to teach you the language in which all our shop work is done. Several reasons make it important that you should talk English. You will be safer in your work and less liable to accident if you understand all safety instructions. You will progress faster in your development if you understand better all that is said from day to day. You will enjoy more of the shop life if you can share what other men are talking about.

"If this country is now your home and the home of your children, you should know its language, should possess its citizenship, should obey its laws, and follow the spirit of its institutions.

"I want you to feel that the company for which you work and the executive officers are interested in helping you become Americans of the best kind. not forgetting the lands in which you were born and their languages, but remembering that Amer-Ica is now your home and the home of your children. Your sons fought in the American armies. Many of them died for their country. We honor them for the sacrifice. You may honor them also by sharing the citizenship they fought and died

"I greet you as Americans of the future, if not of the present, and appreciate your interest in the meeting.'

The interpreters then told how an Americanization secretary had been engaged by the company, te devote all his time to the foreign-born workers. First, there was to be instruction in English. The shop was to be the classroom. Regular classes were to be organized with sessions each week. The classes were to be graded so that the beginners might study together, and those more advanced be grouped according to their knowledge of the language.

It was emphasized that these opportunities were to be purely voluntary. No one was compelled to learn against his will.

Then, when sufficient progress had been made in mastering English, it would be possible to take out citizenship papers and to become a real part of the country of their adoption At 5 o'clock, if any one had told Luigi and Casimir that before they reached home at night they would not only understand but speak, five sentences of English, they wouldn't have believed it. But that is precisely what occurred—and all in the short space of twenty minutes. Fred Rindge, Jr., an industrial service worker, brought to pass this seeming miracle. Grouping fifty of the men before him, Mr. Rindge named five simple words-see, find, awake, look, arise. Pronouncing each word distinctly a number of times, he asked his hearers to repeat them after him. When this had been done to his satisfaction all was in readiness for the first lesson. "Getting up in the morning," said he, vawning and stretching his arm . "Now altogether repeat after me. 'I' (pointing to himself) 'I,' 'I,' Nor 'awake,' 'awake,' 'awake,' 'awake,' Now, 'from sleep,'" and so on, until within twenty minutes the entire class said fluently and with perfect understanding:

"I awake from sleep. I open my eyes. I look for my watch. I see what time it is. It is six Deep down in the heart of Luigi, a new respect for the company which employed him, a new sense of responsibility, and a new ambition took root before long. He felt that he had been given an opportunity. He was not going to spend his best years as a stranger in a strange land, struggling with an unfamiliar tongue, unrecognized, a mere cog in the wheel of industry. Soon he would speak English readily. He would understand all that was going on in the shop. He would work hard, would buy a little house, would give up the idea of hoarding his money and some day taking steerage passage to Italy. He would give Maria all sorts of comforts, would teach her, English, too. A new day had dawned in the life of Luigi.

As for Casimir, it had seemed to him that he was no farther along than when he had first came, years ago, from Poland. He had made no effort to learn English, for the simple reason that nobody cared whether he did or not. Now he had changed his mind. His employers were making an effort to understand him; very well, he would make an effort to understand his employers. There was no question but that if he understood and could talk English, he would get along bet-

Luigi and Casimir are typical of the men in whose behalf the company has launched this Americanization campaign, which is being watched by industrial managers the country over. A canvass of the allen workers was made in the Schenectady plant, disclosing the fact that there are 1,000 Italians, 600 Poles, and five hundred of other nationalities, all aliens. Of the Italians 357 do not read or write their own language, and cannot speak English, 362 read and write Italian, but have no similar knowledge of English. The remainder can speak, write and read both Italian

Of the 660 Poles, 179 neither read or write the Polish language and have no knowledge of English; and 234 are wholly unfamiliar with Eng-

The campaign undertaken by the company has given an impetus to Americanization work in the city proper and all industries and organizations have expressed hearty interest and support. E. E. Fink, superintendent of night schools, is perfecting an arrangement whereby classes in English may be held in the homes of the foreignborn. The foreigner is naturally inclined to be sociable and hospitable and it is thought that if he may invite his friends and neighbors to study English and citizenship at his own fireside there will be more pleasure and less effort in the new

A. L. Hahn, the Americanization secretary of the company, has had years of successful experience. Mr. Hahn's office is in building 44, and his duties are not only to make 100 per cent Americans of the foreign-born employees, but to assist them in the problems that they may bring to his attention, from matters of personal hygiene to the sending of money to relatives in Europe.

The company hopes that this campaign, which is so unique in many respects, will soon grow from an experimental stage into a permanent and successful work. Incidentally it is supplementing its shop work in the plant by an intensive advertising campaign in the foreign-language was finally expelled for tormenting newspapers, showing the foreigners of the city animals. He was an insurance agent the many opportunities they have to learn English and become real American citizens.
