What is the value of a gold dollar of 1849 in good condition?
$1.75.

Was the north in favor of the abolition of slavery prior to the civil war? If so, why were Wendell Phillips and Lloyd Garrison mobbed for advocating it?

Prior to and during the first years of the war the sentiment in the north was by no means unanimous for abolition. Many people, while opposed to slavery per se, were equally opposed to interference with the rights of the southern slaveholders. Others tacitly favored the extension of slavery rather than its abolition. It was these last probably that instigated the attacks on Phillips and Garrison in Boston and other places, as both of them were leaders of the so called "Abolition" party and prominent in the movement to do away with slavery.

Did the platform of the Republican party in the campaign which culminated in the election of Abraham Lincoln advocate the abolition of slavery?

Not specifically, although many abolitionists were enrolled under the party banner. The platform, however, did contain a plank unqualifiedly opposing the "extension" of slavery in any of the non-slaveholding states or in such states as might later be taken into the Union.

What is the meaning of R. S. V. P.? It is an abbreviation by initial letters of the French "repondez s'il vous plait" meaning "Reply if you please."

What is the present strength of the Japanese navy?

The Japanese fleet at the end of 1912 consisted of the following vessels: Dreadnoughts, 1; pre-Dreadnoughts, 16; armored cruisers, 13; protected cruisers, 17; torpedo gunboats, scouts, etc., 6; destroyers, 61; torpedo boats, 50; submarines, 12.

How do the sexes compare as to numbers in the United States and England?

According to the latest figures obtainable, in the United States there are 2,692,288 more males than females, while in England and Wales there are 1,179,276 more females than males.

SLAUGHTER OF CALVES

Bill Introduced in Congress to Prohibit Great Waste of Beef

As a measure to counteract the shrinking supply and increasing cost of beef, a bill prohibiting the slaughter of calves will be introduced in the lower house by Representative Britten of Chicago.

The Britten bill prohibits the slaughter for interstate commerce of beef cattle under two years of age. Argentina, which is preparing to ship beef to America on a large scale, has conserved its supply by a law prohibiting the killing of cattle under seven years of age.

"The price of meat cannot go up forever, and some provision must be made for a continued supply of beef," Mr. Britten said. "The conservation of calves is one of the answers to the problem, and a law must be passed meeting out punishment for their destruction."

"The number of calves slaughtered has increased 100 per cent in the last ten years. During 1911 there were slaughtered 8,000,000 calves, weighing 500,000,000 pounds. If my bill had been a law at that time, and these 8,000,000 calves had been allowed to live for two years, allowing 1,400 pounds as an average weight for a two-year-old cow or steer, they would have produced 11,200,000,000 pounds of beef to supply the scarcity we now feel."

Did the late Dr. J. F. Koch discover the germ of tuberculosis? Did he finally conclude that animal tubercular germs could give the disease to human beings or not?

We are unable to find out anything about a Dr. J. F. Koch. The late Dr. Robert Koch, the distinguished German bacteriologist, was the discoverer of the tubercle bacillus and the first to isolate the specific germ. He made this discovery while a member of the Imperial health board of Berlin and announced it to the medical world in 1882. In 1901, at the British congress for tuberculosis held in London, he announced that bovine tuberculosis and human tuberculosis were distinctly different diseases. These statements gave rise to extensive disputation and experiment. In 1908, at the international tuberculosis congress held in Washington, at which Dr. Koch was elected honorary president of the association by reason of his distinguished researches, he again announced it as his opinion that bovine and human tuberculosis were entirely different diseases. This opinion was combated by practically every expert of note at the congress, and today it is almost universally conceded by the medical world that Dr. Koch's theory was incorrect.

Is there any demand for brick clay? If so, where could one find a market for it?

The demand for brick clay depends upon the building activities of the cities and towns nearest you. It would not pay to ship it except in its finished form—i. e., bricks. The shipping facilities, both by rail and water, and the extent of the clay deposits on your land would also have an important bearing in determining the question of a market, for it would be necessary to build kilns and provide for the transportation of the finished product. This could not be done profitably unless these deposits are sufficiently extensive and the freight rates low enough to make competition with other brick-makers possible.

What state produces the most tobacco?

Kentucky produces more than one-third of the entire crop of the United States.

August Lackner Dead

August Lackner, who has been engaged in the shoe repairing business in the cottage at the rear of Jas. R. Kiernan's building for several years, died suddenly Wednesday afternoon, Sept. 17. He had not been ill, further than the ailments incident to old age. The deceased was born at Konigsberg, Germany, April 23, 1838. He was married to Louise Wegner, two sons and one daughter being born to them. In 1899 he came to America, locating first in Chicago, later coming to Genoa. Besides his wife, the daughter and one son, he leaves eleven grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at the home Friday afternoon at two o'clock and at the German Lutheran church at 2:30. Interment at Koselle, Ill.

Hopes for Harvard

Hamilton Browne, head of the Harvard-Marengo electric railway that has been in course of construction for several years, declares now that he has obtained the requisite amount of money to insure the road's near completion and he is sanguine of the project being taken up and pushed to a speedy completion. Mr. Browne saw Mayor Vickers with a view to asking for an extension of the city franchise, telling the city executive that the money problem has been solved; that he has been instrumental in interesting a number of wealthy bankers in the project, and that the road will soon be a reality.—Harvard Herald.

Kirkland Fans Still Sputtering Over the Dose Administered Sunday

A HAPPY REFRAIN OF 9 TO 3

Third Game of Series Goes to Genoa Recruits, and Kirkland Mourns—Savery Will Tell Exactly How and Why It Happened

"It is to laugh"—in Genoa.

Say, did you ever notice the expression on a man's face when he is, without warning, stung in the back of the neck by a hornet? If you meet a man with that same expression this week, it is not a hornet's fault. Most likely he's a Kirkland base ball fan. If he has the appearance of having pinched the tail of a mountain lion, thinking it was merely a little kitty—that's the reporter of the Kirkland Enterprise.

The simple fact that Genoa defeated Kirkland has not caused consternation in our neighboring village—it's the difficulty of coupling this defeat with the ludicrous and heartbreaking lamentation which appeared in last week's issue of the Enterprise which caused the fans to gasp.

Savery surely did roast our umpire last week in regular ancient newspaper style. It was painful for us to learn all those things about Mr. Brown (first name "Ole") and for a time we had a firm notion to cut the acquaintance of such a r-r-r-ober. On second thought, however, we had another notion which beat the first all to pieces. If the fans cut "Ole" he may never umpire again, and it may be necessary to steal another game before the series ends. We must cultivate Mr. Brown in the interests of "winning streaks."

Since the game last Sunday the reporter for the Enterprise has been trying to explain this paragraph which appeared under the heading "Robbed by Umpire."

"No, it was not the Genoa base ball team that defeated Kirkland, so don't let any one whisper that into your ear. The Kirklands do not claim to be the strongest aggregation of ball players in northern Illinois, or even in DeKalb county, and (listen to this) will take defeat as coolly and gentlemanly as any team, (laugh here) but they do boast of having just a little better ball team than Genoa and can cop the honors any time with square (a smile will do here) umpiring."

LANE TELLS MCKEE THE STORY OF THE FIFTH

The Genoa team went to Kirkland Sunday, followed by a large delegation of much interested fans, all having it in for that man Savery and nine other Kirkland men. They evened up matters to the utmost satisfaction of those who were compelled to stay at home. They left McKee and the other eight in a crestfallen condition, while Savery was completely wilted.

The first four innings of the game did not look good to the

Frank Kane of Kirkland Arrested for Stealing Wires from Poles

Operations of a gang which has been stealing wire from telegraph and telephone lines through the country in northern Illinois were brought to light in Elgin last week, when Frank Kane of Kirkland was bound over to the grand jury, under a bond of $500 on a charge of stealing wire from the Western Union company.

Kane is said to have confessed to stealing a barrel of wire from the lines of the company through the country. He had shipped the stolen wire to a junk dealer.

According to statements made by officials of the telephone and telegraph companies, miles of wire have been stolen during the last year. The thieves are said to go through the country in the guise of linemen and take down wire for a distance of up to a mile.

The wire shipped by Kane was cut up into short lengths so that it could be disposed of. Examination by police brought a confession of thefts from the Western Union company but Kane denied any knowledge of thefts from the telephone companies.

BIG DAY IN GENOA

Base Ball Game and Horse Races in the Afternoon of September 25

CONCERT BY KIRKLAND BAND

'Twill be a Genoa-Kirkland Love Feast with all Other Towns Invited to Witness the Demonstration of Love on the Diamond

Thursday, September 25, will be a big day in Genoa for the lovers of base ball, horse racing and band music. The balance of the money left in the hands of the Fourth of July celebration committee will be expended in giving the people of Genoa and her guests for the day a good time.

The fireworks will start at two o'clock in the afternoon when those friendly enemies, the Genoa and Kirkland base ball teams will meet at the driving park.

That event alone should draw out everybody in the country, but there are other events to make the day just a little more lively for those who can not possibly be base ball bugs in the enthusiastic sense of the word. Immediately after the game several horse races will be pulled off, including a 2:20 pace and 2:15 trot, special race and mule running race. The later race is for the special benefit of those who are "from Missouri."

The Kirkland band has been engaged for the day. Music will be furnished at the driving park during the sports and a concert will take place on Main street in the evening.

If the weather is right on Thursday, September 25, Genoa will entertain a regular Fourth of July crowd.

Rural Mail Carriers Need Not Pick Pennies From Box

In the September Official Postal Guide the Post Office Department issues a special notice warning patrons that rural carriers are not required to lift loose coins from rural mail boxes, requesting that publicity be given the notice for the information of rural route patrons. The notice is as follows:

"The attention of postmasters at rural delivery offices is again directed to the fact that carriers are not required to collect loose coins from rural mail boxes.

"Patrons should enclose coins in an envelope, wrap them securely in paper, or deposit them in a coin-holding receptacle, so they can be easily and quickly taken from the boxes, and carriers will be required to lift such coins, and when accompanied by mail for dispatch, attach the requisite stamps.

"Carriers who lift coins not so enclosed, wrapped or deposited will do so purely as a matter of accommodation and not by any direction or requirement of the Department."

A Pretty Boquet

A recent issue of the Woodstock Sentinel, published during the time of the McHenry County Fair, in a write-up of several progressive farmers of that county had the following to say of a man well known in Genoa:

"L. E. Mackey, of Riley, is another rural type worthy the emulation of ambitious boys of the present generation. He finds ample opportunity for the exercise of his genius on his forty acres of prairie land. Convenience is a motto with him and neatness is his idol. We dare say his forty will show as good a balance at the end of the year as many quarter sections. Besides, he finds time to enjoy life. His children know responsibilities, but have every advantage and joy of country life. His home is a virtual Paradise. And it is grew from the soil."

Some Slam for "Bill"

The Independent Reporter of South Bend, Ind., discourses thus on the Billy Sunday idea:

"Billy Sunday has just received $10,000 for saving souls at South Bend, Indiana. This same amount of money put where it ought to be put—in the churches of South Bend—would have accomplished far more good. But people who scream with horror when asked to give a dollar to the local ministers, the man who faithfully baptizes the babies, marries the sons and daughters and buries the beloved dead, will become so enamored of Billy Sunday's abuse that they will gladly part with their last cent to fill his already stuffed purse. This is a funny old world and among its other anomalies is its traveling evangelist who gets the coin."

The accident happened while Mr. Archibald was feeding the machine, his hand getting caught in the rolls and tearing it so badly that amputation was necessary above the wrist. The timely presence and foresight of his brother, Robert, in reversing the lever of the filler is claimed to have saved the young man's arm.

A SEWER FOR GENOA

Assessment Confirmed by County Court Monday of this Week

ONLY A FEW PROTESTS MADE

Again Demonstrating that Genoa People as a Whole Want all Modern Improvements and are Willing to Pay for Them

That Genoa will have a complete sanitary sewer system with laterals covering practically every point now reached by the water mains, is now an asured fact, the assessment as made by the superintendent of assessments, John Hadsall, having been confirmed in the county court on Monday of this week. There were only a few in court to make a protest.

In most cases their contentions were right and the matter was satisfactorily adjusted by the court. Perhaps no city in the country ever put in an improvement of this magnitude with as little friction and with fewer protests. There was, of course, considerable fault found and considerable discussion on the street after the assessment notices had been mailed to each lot owner. This was natural. However, the people had plenty of time to think the matter over before the date set for hearing of complaints, and by that time most of them lost sight of everything but the benefit to themselves, their neighbors and to the city.

No further action can now be taken until the first of October owing to a delay made necessary by a point of law. In the fifteen days intervening all the legal features of the job will be carefully taken care of; then the city will advertise for bids.

The plans call for about five miles of mains and laterals. This will require some digging and will mean that laborers will find plenty of employment during the next several months.

Cutting the Cost

DeKalb Review: One seldom sees a man who is a public man with many cares looking after other people's fields and crops and lecturing before chautauquas and farmers' institutes, who demonstrates what he preaches any more than Prof. Eckardt. He has a very small piece of ground where he has a garden just for his own table use and it is the joy of his neighbors to look at and still more joy when they have a chance to sample the goods. His tomatoes are P. The plants were gotten from Miss Annie Glidden's farms, and they are perfection. His cucumbers, celery, beans, etc., are ornaments. This small piece of ground demonstrates what can be done where there are trained brains to guide the hands what to do. It is good example of cutting the cost of high living.

Hampshire Gets Gas

Hampshire last week granted the Western United Gas and Electric company a fifty year franchise, at an adjourned regular meeting of the village board. The grant specifies a 95 cent rate per thousand cubic feet, with 5 cents off for payment before the 15th of the month. The terms pleased the board, which voted unanimously for the passage of the ordinance submitted. It will be necessary to lay nine miles of main to supply the village. The nearest point at which the mains now pass is between Union and Huntley, known as the "Five Corners." The company expects to begin digging October 15, and will attempt to have the main completed before snow flies. The right of way has been secured.

U. S. ACCUSES PRIEST

SECRET SERVICE CHIEF ARRIVES IN NEW YORK TO TAKE UP CASE.

COUNTERFEIT PLANT FOUND

Dark Room Camera and Other Paraphernalia Discovered in Rooms of Dentist Who is Friend of Schmidt, Confessed Slayer.

New York, Sept. 17.—Stripping from New York's river murder its mysteries, the police bared a nest of crime, which was feathered, they claim, by Rev. Hans Schmidt, confessed slayer of Anna Amuller, and his pal, Dr. Ernest A. Muret, dentist by day, by night counterfeiter.

William Flynn, chief of the United States secret service, reached New York and began an investigation of Schmidt and Muret's counterfeiting methods and plant.

Chief Flynn, after viewing the prisoners and the counterfeiting plant, made this statement: "The priest and the dentist resemble and nearly answer the description of two men who have recently passed counterfeit $20 bills in Boston, New Haven and other neighboring cities."

Muret told the police he was born in Chicago. Framed in his office was a membership certificate issued at Chicago December 23, 1911, by the Dental Protective Association of the United States of America.

Evidence in Priest's Rooms. Muret is under arrest on a technical charge of having in his possession a pistol in violation of the Sullivan law. He was arrested after detectives, ransacking Schmidt's apartments, had uncovered evidence to show that Schmidt was a counterfeiter. This evidence led them to a flat rented by a man under the name of George Miller, in which were found all essentials to the counterfeiter's craft.

Schmidt and Muret, the janitress of the building said, and Muret admitted, had spent long hours together in the flat. They told the renting agents that they were medical students and wanted the flat as a place for making experiments necessitated by their studies. What they really did, the police allege, was to experiment in counterfeiting. The kitchen was fitted up as a dark room; a camera, a printing press, photographic supplies and other equipment handy to counterfeiters was found there. But what the police relied on to rivet their case was a bundle of charred counterfeit bills under the kitchen sink and bits of many other such bills, charred by fire, scattered through the four rooms.

After detectives had placed Muret under arrest, they took into custody as a material witness the maid employed at his dental office. Surgeon's Tools Unearthed. With Muret locked up, detectives set about searching his office. There they found, in addition to such equipment as a dentist uses in practicing his profession, a revolver and all kinds of obstetrical instruments, several surgical saws and bone forceps. The finding of these instruments, coupled with the fact that Muret and Schmidt had been cronies for some months, caused the detectives to press with renewed vigor the search for something which might directly connect the dentist with the murder of Anna Amuller.

A strong physical resemblance between Muret and Schmidt led the detectives to question the dentist as to his possible relationship to the priest. Muret claimed there was none. Inspector Faurot, in charge of the detective bureau, was of different mind. "The foreheads are the same," he said. "The eyes are the same. The noses are the same. The ears are the same. If these two men are not brothers they are closely related."

The copper plate from which the spurious bills were struck was made, in the opinion of detectives, by an expert engraver. The maker may have been the priest or the dentist, but detectives believe that it was neither. They sought such an expert as an accomplice. The bills were imitations of $20 yellowbacks.

Called "Master Mind." Schmidt's pretensions to insanity, in the opinion of Coroner Feinberg, have been death a death blow by the barring of his record as a counterfeiter. "Father Schmidt impresses me as an unscrupulous man with a master mind," Mr. Feinberg said. "Think of a man who is able to qualify for the priesthood, who is a forger of great skill, a mechanic enough to coin money, who might have dabbled in medicine, and who had the ability to commit the crime Schmidt is charged with. That indicates no ordinary mind."

When arraigned on the technical charge of having a pistol in his possession, Muret was held in $5,000 bail for trial. He waived examination.

On many occasions, Muret said, Schmidt had visited the One Hundred and Thirty-fourth street apartments in his clerical garb, covering his Roman collar with his hand until he had entered the hallway.

"TIM" SULLIVAN KILLED BY TRAIN IN NEW YORK

Congressman and Former Tammany Power, Missing for Two Weeks—Body is Found in Morgue.

New York, Sept. 15.—Timothy D. ("Big Tim") Sullivan, the New York politician, who rose from newsboy to congressman, is dead.

His mangled body was identified by his half-brother, Larry Mulligan, after it had lain for 13 days in a local morgue.

Sullivan, who was ill, eluded his nurses at his brother's home in Williamsburg in the early morning of August 31, and a few hours afterward was struck and killed by a New York, New Haven & Hartford railway train at Pelham Parkway.

Although elected to the congress now in session, Mr. Sullivan never took his seat, owing to illness.

His death will necessitate a special election in the Thirteenth New York district, which comprises New York county. That will be the fifth special election caused by death since the Sixty-third congress began work in March.

Mr. Sullivan's disappearance had created anxiety among his friends. Some believed, however, that he had merely hidden from his friends because of the surveillance that had been kept over him at his brother's home since his return from Europe.

Before going to Europe Mr. Sullivan had been in a sanitarium. Upon his return from abroad, however, it was announced that his health had improved greatly.

G. A. R. VETERANS SEE PARADE

Officers of the National Association of Patriotic Instructors Were Elected.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Sept. 17.—Prospect of showers again marred the reunion plans of the Civil war veterans here attending the forty-seventh annual encampment of the G. A. R. Chickamauga Park day was to be celebrated, but most of the old soldiers remained down town.

The veterans were treated to their first military spectacle of the encampment when the Seventeenth U. S. infantry from Ft. McPherson and the first battalion of the Tennessee National Guard paraded. Foreworks enlivened the program.

The following officers of the National Association of Patriotic Instructors were elected: President, John B. Lewis, Boston; vice-presidents, Mrs. Flo Jamison Miller, Wilmington, Ill.; George H. Kellogg, Newcastle, Cal.; treasurer, L. E. Van Dodge, Berea, Ky.; historian, Mrs. Mary M. North, Herndon, Va., and secretary, Mrs. Elizabeth Robbins Berry, Boston.

THAW VICTOR AGAIN

FEDERAL JUDGE ALDRICH SUSPENDS WRIT OF HABEAS CORPUS PENDING HEARING.

JEROME OPPOSED TO DELAY

Federal Jurist Tells Special Prosecutor Jerome That He Finds No Law Under Which a Lunatic Could Be Extradited.

Littleton, N. H., Sept. 17.—Harry K. Thaw again scored on William T. Jerome. In the habeas corpus proceedings before Judge Aldrich the Matteaun fugitive sought delay so that he might retain the protection of the federal court until after his extradition hearing before Governor Felker, set for September 23. This delay was opposed by Jerome.

After hearing argument the court suspended proceedings. No date was set for a future hearing. This was a victory for Thaw, since the New York authorities were anxious to have the writ quashed.

Court Has Doubt on Extradition. In an open discussion with Mr. Jerome after announcing the suspension of the hearing, Judge Aldrich said that search of the statutes had failed to reveal to him any law under which a man in Thaw's position, a lunatic charged with no crime, could be extradited.

This decision means that Thaw will have a federal writ to check his immediate return to New York state in the event Governor Felker orders his extradition.

Marshal Nute announced this afternoon that he would keep Thaw here overnight. Thereafter his plans for the prisoner were undecided.

Attorney Shurtlett, for Thaw, pointing out that the extradition hearing in the Thaw case was to be held in the near future, asked that the habeas corpus hearing be postponed. Jerome objected.

Here he introduced an affidavit by Lindsay Dennison, a newspaper writer, setting forth that Thaw's counsel had told him that the writ had been obtained, not to bring about the fugitive's freedom now, but to safeguard him in the future against sudden removal should extradition be granted.

George F. Morris, one of Thaw's New Hampshire lawyers, answered Jerome. The application for the writ was entirely regular, he said, while the warrant on which New York sought to get Thaw was a mere subterfuge.

U. S. SHIP TO STAY IN MEXICO

To Be Kept in Readiness After Huerta's Warlike Message to Congress—Will Protect Americans.

Washington, Sept. 17.—The United States will not withdraw its warships from Mexican waters. They will be kept there as long as there exists the necessity for their presence.

This was the positive declaration made by officials of the state department commenting on the statement of the Mexican provisional president in his message to congress, that he would probably demand within a short time that the American war vessels be recalled from his harbors.

Huerta's message carried a defiant declaration of his readiness for war in these words:

"Mexico now has an army of 100,000 men, bound to the republic by ties of warmest patriotism, and all are ready at a moment's notice to rise to the defense of the country."

AVIATOR MAX LILLIE DIES; MACHINE FALLS 50 FEET

Chicagoan Caught in Air-Pocket and Aeroplane Plunges to Earth, Crushing Aviator.

Galesburg, Ill., Sept. 16.—Max Lillie, Chicago aviator, who by his policy of "safety first" had sought for years to demonstrate the freight carrying practicability of the aeroplane, was killed by a fall of 50 feet. His machine struck one of the dreaded "holes" in the air, of which he had often boasted that he was the master, and he was buried beneath the wreckage.

Thousands of persons who had gathered at the fair grounds were driven from the field and grand stand in a panic. Lillie's wife was only a few feet from where her husband's machine struck, was carried from the field unconscious and is in the care of physicians.

The accident was so sudden the aviator's confidence in himself so apparent, that several persons narrowly missed being struck by the aeroplane as it plunged to the ground. Even in the few feet of his fall Lillie struggled to gain control of his machine and made no attempt to leap as it neared the ground. His life undoubtedly would have been saved had he abandoned the control and jumped.

He was almost instantly killed. Parts of the torn framework struck his head and the weight of the entire engine pinioned part of his body. He lived only a few minutes and was unconscious when picked up.

It was Lillie's initial flight at the fair grounds. A fairly stiff breeze was passing over the field, but it was not considered perilous for flying. Lillie had just started to rise in a large spiral when his machine seemed to halt suddenly in the air, and then a puff of wind seemed to caress it and then send it crashing to the ground.

WORKMAN FINDS LOST PEARLS

$50,000 Treasure Was Taken En Route From Paris to England—Finder to Get Reward.

London, England, Sept. 17.—A workman found on a sidewalk practically the entire pearl necklace, valued at $650,000, which was stolen July 16 while in transit by mail from Paris to London. September 2 five men, three Englishmen and two Austrians, were arrested when trying to dispose of some of the pearls in London. They are believed by the police to belong to a notorious international gang of thieves. A reward of $50,000 which was offered for the return of the jewels, probably will go entirely to the workman. The necklace, said to be the most valuable in the world, was in transit between two dealers when stolen. Rumor indicated that it was destined for Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt.

MONUMENT FOR W. J. GAYNOR

Public Fund to Be Started Immediately After Funeral for That Purpose.

New York, Sept. 16.—Immediately after the funeral of William J. Gaynor, late mayor of New York city, next Monday, a public fund will be begun to erect a monument to the memory of the dead executive, it was learned today. The board of governors of the New York stock exchange today voted to keep the exchange closed until noon on the day of the funeral. John Purroy Mitchel, fusion candidate for mayor, has declined to make any speeches until after Mr. Gaynor is buried.

Liner Collides With Ferry. New York, Sept. 17.—The Old Dominion liner Hamilton collided with a Pennsylvania ferry-boat off Cortlandt street in the North river. After the collision both vessels went to their docks. So great was the force of the impact that the vessels were wedged tightly together and could not be released for several minutes. No lives were lost.

U. S. CUSTOM HOUSE ROBBED

4,400 Rounds of Ammunition Taken From Basement of Building on Texas Border.

El Paso, Tex., Sept. 17.—The theft of 4,400 rounds of ammunition from the United States customs house here was discovered. Federal agents removing ammunition recently seized from Mexican smugglers, to be sent to Fort Bliss, found that the basement of the customs house had been entered and the 4,400 rounds taken away.

BOMB SENT GEN. OTIS

ANOTHER INFERNAL MACHINE IS SENT OWNER OF LOS ANGELES TIMES.

BLAST PREVENTED BY JAP

Second Agent of Death Received by Publisher Since Plant Was Blown Up by McNamara Brothers—Explosive Fired by an Expert.

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 17.—An infernal machine, cleverly constructed and containing enough dynamite to wreck a house, was received by Gen. Harrison Grey Otis, proprietor of the Los Angeles Times, at his residence, near Westlake Park.

The fact that a Japanese servant became suspicious saved the lives of Otis and his family, all of whom were at home. The machine was arranged so that it would explode by sliding a box lid. Concealed in it were two sticks of 85 per cent. nitroglycerin connected with caps and fuses. Matches had been placed upright in the box and the removing of the cover would have instantly exploded the dynamite.

The attempt on the life of Otis was the second since the blowing up of the Times building.

Servant Discovers Danger. General Otis was in his study when his mail was carried to him. The servant had removed an outer wrapping of the small box and became suspicious, peering under one corner and seeing the matches.

"It's dynamite," he told his employer. The police were notified and the box taken to Central station. An immediate investigation by the police and federal authorities was started. It was found that the box had been mailed in a fashionable section of the city.

That the dynamite was not exploded while being handled at the post office is considered remarkable.

Expert Explodes It. Accompanied by two detectives, General Otis had the infernal machine examined by a powder expert, George Felts. Felts declared it too dangerous an article to handle at the post office station and the box was carried to a barren spot.

Later the dynamite was exploded, blowing a large hole in the earth. The handwriting was the only clew. Otis stated that he had no idea as to who the sender might be.

Follows Times Explosion. The Los Angeles Times building was blown up the night of October 1, 1910, and nineteen men were killed in the explosion and fire. From the first the destruction of the building was laid to labor troubles. On the day following the dynamite a bomb was exploded at one side of General Otis' home.

A short time later John J. McNamara, secretary-treasurer of the International Bridge and Structural Iron Workers' association, and his brother, James M. McNamara, were arrested in Indianapolis and rushed to the coast to stand trial for the blowing up of the Times.

James B. McNamara was the first man tried. After a bitter legal battle his attorneys entered a plea of guilty and the defendant was sentenced to life imprisonment. The trial of the other brother practically was a formality only. Both men were rushed to San Quentin penitentiary to begin the serving of their terms. Several efforts have been made to obtain a pardon for John J. McNamara, but without success.

CLAIMS BIG LOAN TO SULZER

Contractor Reilly Testifies Governor Now Owes Him $26,500—Lent Him $10,000 at One Time.

New York, Sept. 17.—Hugh J. Reilly, a contractor and railroad builder for the Cuban government, a witness before the Sulzer board of impeachment managers, said that he lent Governor Sulzer $10,000 shortly after his nomination. Sulzer, he said, still owed him this money, in addition to other loans, which brought his total indebtedness to Mr. Reilly up to $26,500. Reilly was examined in private before the impeachment managers' attorney and this is what he told the newspaper men he testified. He was examined regarding his dealings with Sulzer when the latter was chairman of the foreign relations committee in the house of representatives, in connection with claims Reilly was pressing against the Cuban government. Their relations were referred to in recent litigation in which Reilly was involved.

Japanese Courtesy. A country where courtesy is a business, and business but a gentle avocation, reflects its peculiarity in the most trifling details of conduct. Such a country is Japan and such a detail recently came into notice when a city electric bureau of Tokyo asked the patrons of its street car lines how they preferred to be addressed when it was necessary to urge them to "move up." Out of the 2,719 suggestions sent in the independent selects and translates six, as follows: "Those not getting off, to the middle, please!" "I'm sorry, but all move on by one strap!" "There's a pretty girl about the middle of the car!" "A pickpocket has just come on board!"

The municipal authorities frowned somewhat upon the last three suggestions, but the conductors were taught to use some of the other forms. Is it possible that the Japanese hope to enjoy an efficient traction service on such terms? Apparently they hope to, and we pass along the Japanese idea as a helpful hint to the gentlemen who jerk a gong on the rear of our own street cars.

PERIOD OF PREPARATION FOR WINTER

Two Houdan pullets hatched April, 1912. They commenced laying in September and from October 1 to April 1st of this year, laid 291 eggs.

(By RAY VAN BENTHUYSEN.) From the early part of August until the end of October the year-old stock is going through a period of preparation for the coming winter by getting rid of the worn and old covering and acquiring a beautiful new one. A slight molt is also experienced by some young pullets that have been hatched very early in the year. The only time we have ever had a chance to observe this, however, was in the case of six Plymouth Rock pullets that were hatched in February. These began to lay in the latter part of August, and while they went through a slight molt in the last part of October, this molt was so gradual that it did not seem to affect the egg yield to any noticeable extent. Other experiences that we have heard of differ from this and the above is probably the exception rather than the rule. Generally speaking, it appears that pullets hatched earlier than the first part of March will go through the molt in October and November and may not resume laying until late in January. Therefore, it would seem that old hens or April and early May hatched pullets are the most desired for early winter laying and for breeding purposes. Regarding the heavy molt which happens after the pullet year, several tests have been made from time to time to see if this molt could be "forced" so that the hens would resume laying at least in November. In forcing the molt, the general plan is to starve the flock for a period of from four to six weeks and then feed heavily during the remainder of the period. It has generally been found, however, that the fowls will molt almost as quickly under normal conditions as they will if forced. It is not generally known that the time for a fowl to complete its molt extends from about 80 days (in the pullet year) to over 100 days (for the older birds). Therefore, if a yearling begins molting in the middle of August she will not have her full plumage until about the middle of November. This, however, is the earliest date for the molt to commence and in some cases the hens do not begin till the last part of October or early in November. When such a late molt takes place the time for the complete molt is generally not much more than two months. Since it has practically been proven that forcing of the molt is not effective, except in a few individual cases, it would seem that the only thing to do in this period is to take as good care as is possible with the flock so that the fowls may finish their molt in the best health. It will be understood by anyone that the shedding of feathers and the building up of the new covering is a strain on any fowl and while the owner is getting almost no returns from his flock this is the time when their feeding should be most carefully watched. The usual habit is, however, to neglect the flock during this period simply because they are not giving good results. One of the best recommended mixtures to be fed the flock during the molting period is given below. This does not vary much from the feed given during the rest of the year except that cracked corn is used instead of whole corn and not as much corn is fed during the warmer months as during winter. Scratch mixture—Wheat 10 lbs., oats 10 lbs., cracked corn 16 lbs. Hopper mixture—Corn meal 4 lbs., wheat bran 2 lbs., wheat middlings 3 lbs., oil meal 1 lb., alfalfa meal 1 lb., meat scraps 1 lb. This latter mixture was used by the Cornell experimental station in tests along these lines. Our general opinion is that more thought should be given this question of molting, and that careful attention should be given flocks at this time. The days when 50 eggs per year per hen would be considered sufficient have passed and it is remembered that we now throw out the hen with such a record and even criticize the 100-egg hen; we should also remember that the results we expect cannot be reached unless we give the flock the best care that we possibly can and consider no details too small to be overlooked in the daily routine.

GUINEA FOWL IS MOST DELICIOUS

Cross of Pearl and White Will Produce Carcass Resembling English Grouse.

(By MICHAEL K. BOYER.) The Guinea hen is a good layer, but on account of the wild, gamey flavor, the eggs have never had an extensive sale for table use. However, by turning the eggs into broilers or roasters a considerable profit will be derived. The flesh is the nearest substitute we have for the wild game. The Guinea is of a roving disposition, and one of the best known destroyers of insects. The laying season starts in early April and continues until October, the hen laying as many as 120 eggs in a season. In the early part of the season it is not advisable to let the Guinea hen hatch a brood, as she is of too restless a nature, and will not give her young the proper attention. But after the first of July, on account of the warm weather, she will be more quiet, and can be safely entrusted with a brood. It requires four weeks to hatch out Guineas. The hen always hides her nest, and that, too, in some very obscure place. As it comes off the nest it gives a shrill cry, and in that way the hiding place can be detected. All the hens of a flock are apt to lay in the same nest, and in taking away the eggs they should not be touched with the hands, for if the hen discovers that the nest has been touched she will desert it and hunt another place. But if the eggs are removed with a stick she will not leave the nest, even though the eggs are taken out nearly every day. It is claimed that a cross of the Pearl and White Guineas will produce a carcass closely resembling that of the English grouse. If rightly cooked, the meat of even an old bird will be tender and delicious, while that of the young bird is unsurpassed as a broiler or frier. The dressed Guinea has a round, plump body, good-sized breast, and small bones. Guineas will pair if the sexes are equal. They generally lay between the hours of ten o'clock in the morning and two o'clock in the afternoon. Until well feathered, the young Guineas are delicate and tender. It is not advisable to hatch before June. The Guinea cock bird cares as much for the young as does the hen, guarding them during the day and hovering them at night. The male bird is larger than the female, is more aggressive, and has a different call. The hen makes a noise sounding like "Come back, come back," while the male gives "Tick, tick!" The cry of the Guinea is one of warning to the rest of the poultry, and they at once hide until the alarm ceases. Guineas do not scratch like other fowls, and therefore are safe to have in the garden. They should be given their freedom, as they do not thrive in confinement. Making Calla Lilies Bloom. A busy woman puts her callas out in the border during the summer and treats them as she does her vegetables—keeping the weeds down and hoeing occasionally. In September she pots them in a good-sized pot, allowing an inch of stones for drainage. She uses good, rich potting soil and when the new growth appears in December she places the pot in a crock and four or five times a week pours a quart of almost boiling water in the crock. She reports that often four and five flowers bloom at the same time. Look After the Fences. Don't forget to fix the fences. A trip around the pasture and field fences now and then will often save trouble, strength and the time of having to drive the cattle back into the pasture. Animals are almost human when it comes to going where some one does not want them. Remove the suggestion, therefore, by not allowing any sags in the wire or any loose or decayed posts in the line. A well-kept fence is an indication of a good farmer.

ALL SIMPLE OF CUT

BLOUSE EFFECTS IN ORDER FOR SEASON'S GARMENTS.

Smart Little Coat Suit Illustrated May Be Taken as Design That Will Have the Sanction of Those Who Know.

Delightful and more useful than ever are the coat and skirt suits of the coming season, the majority of which are suitable for dress wear or street in a wide range of handsome materials. The blouse effects are constantly growing in favor—in fact, they are the preferred designs for the soft, supple goods like the velour surfaced ones and the new chevrot weaves. All tailored suits are extremely simple of cut, but more or less complex of silhouette, and, contrary to preceding seasons, very little trimming is used the success of the costume depending largely on graceful draping and swathing of materials.

The smart little coat suit of the sketch is representative of the simpler models. The coat is what is known as a Russian cutaway, an attractive compromise between two of the season's favorite whims. Its material is one of the pebble-finished woolen weaves in mole brown. The skirt is rather long and plain, with the tunic fastened across the front at the knees by a square belt held in place with oval buttons, and trimmed with soucha motifs in purple and black. Mole brown satin is used for the under plain skirt and only needs a panel of the suit material down the center front to fill in the space above and below the buttoned-over section of the tunic. In the blouse the fullness is distributed

MAY BE MADE RICH OR PLAIN

Wide Variety of Styles Allowed in the Adornment of Popular Boleros and Etons.

Beaded wraps, boleros and etons are in a wide variety of styles. Many of these are decorated with beaded panels or borders in rich oriental designs. Futurist or cubist patterns are also employed. Coates of chiffon or net are elaborately beaded, and many beaded robes are seen. Handsome beaded and jeweled ornaments and very long beaded tassels adorn sashes. Beaded tunics and draperies are particularly smart for use with dainty dresses. In many models the waist and tunic are made in one, the beading showing pearls, crystals, rhinestones, colored glass and gold and silver. Jetted tunics are especially fashionable. These beaded draperies are used over slightly draped linings. The combination of beads with chenille embroidery is new and smart. A touch of wool embroidery is often introduced into chenille and beaded goods.

Smoking Table. A smoking table made of lacquered brass stands on a high standard which brings the table just about the level of the arm of a chair. It is equipped with the usual cigar jar, ash tray and match box holder. In the center of the table is a long-armed electric light, which bends to any angle and is shaded with a brass shade. The wire runs through the leg of the table, and is there run into a silk-covered cord, which is screwed into a convenient socket. Surely this table suggests a comfortable time with cigars and newspaper or magazine.

uted across the sides, which pouch a trifle over the crushed satin belt. The fronts cross each other, the right side over the left, in a tab that reproduces the one of the tunic, and similarly is trimmed and held in place with the oval-shaped buttons. The soft collar rolls up high about the neck, and the soft purple satin tie running under the tab hangs out below it in a loop and tasseled end. The three-quarter-length sleeves are set into dropped shoulders finished with soft roll-back cuffs and trimmed with the soucha motifs.

WHITE DECORATION ON GREEN

Effective Ornaments That May Be Applied on the Simplest of Costumes.

A stunning dress can be made from oyster-white linen embroidered in a rather subdued row of green. Button-hole a diagonal row of green scalloping from the neck to the bottom of the skirt and place from six to twelve white crochet buttons, the number depending upon the size, along the row of scalloping on the waist and continuing on down below the waist line for some distance on the skirt. Each white crochet button should have in its center a large green French knot. The lay-down collar and turn-back cuffs of the dress are scalloped in green, and in the curve of each of the collar and cuff scallops is nestled a group of three green French knots. One large knot may be used if preferred. A spray of green leaves worked solidly on the front of the waist, or a soft green silk slipped under the collar and knotted in front, carries out the color scheme. Wear with the dress a crush green silk girdle with the popular ends at the side back or a green suede leather belt. This costume over a green silk underskirt occasionally peeps out above white-shod feet should make, at the very least, an "impression." Heavy, clinging linen should be used, and no starch should be used in laundering it.

OF DAINTY CREPE DE CHINE

Charming Frock That Is Fresh From the Hands of One of the Most Famous Designers.

Crepe de chine, which is the most beautiful of the silks for draping and shirring, has been fashioned into the above charming frock. The blouse portion was gathered into two shirred puffs forming a bolero over a dainty vest of cream shadow lace with little pointed yokes of the same. The sleeves are similarly treated at the elbow and a little cuff of the lace shows below. Satin-covered buttons of the shade of the crepe, which is a soft gray, trim bodice and underskirt; the latter with this exception being perfectly plain.

Latest French Makeup. French women have abandoned their purple powder which was specially manufactured for electric light makeup. Nor are they as keen about the saffron powder that made them look as if they had just returned from long holidays and were nicely tanned. At the moment they seem inclined to turn to pink and whiteness, with patches and powdered hair.

ILLINOIS POSSE KILLS NEGRO

Attempt to Pass a "Raised" Bill on a Storekeeper in Town of Tammes Leads to a Fatal Fight.

Calro.—A negro was killed at Tammes by a posse of citizens following an attempt by two negroes to pass a "raised" bill at a store. The negroes entered the store and purchased a dime's worth of merchandise, giving in payment a one dollar bill which had been raised to five dollars. The clerk examined the bill and, seeing it was a dollar bill, gave the negro 90 cents in change. The negroes demanded $4.90 and when refused this amount drew revolvers and opened fire as they backed out of the store.

Decatur.—Father H. Gesenheus, a Catholic priest at Shelbyville, was found dead in bed. He weighed 400 pounds and measured 72 inches around the waist.

Harrisburg.—E. M. Crosnoe, manager of the Saline County Lumber company of this city, was arrested at Eldorado, charged with forging the names of J. B. Blackman and J. W. Shaw to a note for $750. In default of bond he was placed in jail pending action of the grand jury.

Carlo.—Theodore Wise and Fred Rudolph, members of Company K, who are charged with having stolen shoes, shirts and other effects from the storeroom in the Army, are in the city jail, a warrant having been sworn out against them by the United States district attorney for having misappropriated government property.

Galesburg.—Knox county refused state road aid under the Tice bill. Resolutions adopted by the board of supervisors declined $4,430 of state money because the law specified either concrete or brick roads and the board thought this amount plus an equal sum from the county would build less than a mile of the kind of road proposed.

Sollitt.—Grace and Mary, the seven and five-year-old daughters of Orvis J. Clapsaddle, were killed and their father and mother were seriously injured when their automobile was struck by a Chicago & Eastern Illinois train near here. Mr. and Mrs. Clapsaddle were taken to a hospital at Chicago Heights, where it was said Mrs. Clapsaddle's injuries may prove fatal.

Quincy.—Judge Otis Humphrey of the United States district court granted a permanent injunction to the local show case companies, which restrains former workmen from assaulting, intimidating or following workmen of the three Quincy show case companies. The action is the result of the strike between employes and bosses, which was called a year ago.

Quincy.—Police authorities throughout this section of southern Illinois have been asked to help find Octavia Sersch, the sixteen-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Sersch of Prairie Du Rocher, who is thought to have been kidnaped by a band of gypsies. The day the girl disappeared, while her parents were in Chester, the gypsies were seen, and it is said their daughter was seen several days later at Rockwood, northwest of Murphysboro, where the gypsies camped. Mrs. Sersch is prostrated over her disappearance.

Harrisburg.—The O'Gara Coal company paid off at its No. 4 mine, which greatly relieved the distress that has existed among the miners here the past ten days. A number of the miners are yet to be paid off and another pay roll will be due at all the company's mines within the next four days. Very little information can be gained from the Chicago offices or the offices here as to the reason for holding up the pay. All the mines that have not been paid off are shut down, the men refusing to work in accordance with their agreement signed in April, 1912, and if the coming pay rolls fail to show up all will shut down after the 16th.

Springfield.—A fire prevention proclamation, issued by Governor Dunne, was announced by his secretary, William L. Sullivan. The proclamation fixed October 9 as the state fire prevention day. Calling attention to the fact that the fire losses in Illinois average $1,000,000 a month the proclamation urges as a fitting observance of the day the following: "That all heating apparatus and chimneys be carefully gone over and placed in their proper condition for winter use."

"That all public and private institutions, hotels, asylums, factories and theaters be carefully looked over on that day and when necessary any changes made that will further protect the safety of the occupants."

Champaign.—Women took charge of the session of the seventy-seventh annual meeting of the Bloomfield Baptist association. The women are mission workers, under the leadership of Mrs. D. O. Hopkins of Champaign. Addresses were made by Mrs. R. M. Wood, Gifford; Miss Laura Caraway, Chrisman; Miss Bissinger, Mrs. W. H. Beby, Urbana; Mrs. M. S. Bryant, Champaign; Mrs. R. S. Schumacher, Paris; Mrs. L. Stevens, Arthur; Mrs. Pinespring, Urbana; Mrs. W. E. Poole, Fairmount; Miss Lillian Jones, Tuscola; Mrs. J. M. Daniels, Charleston.

ILLINOIS HAPPENINGS

Rockford.—Although his back was broken in a fall from a roof that he was shingling, physicians stated that Wallace Wells will live. Two vertebrae in his back were fractured.

Eureka.—James Evans died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. John Muddell, in Jamesport, Mo. He was one hundred and five years old. The body was brought here for burial.

Calro.—E. J. Quinlan of Chicago was arrested here for passing a forged check. He was arraigned, pleaded guilty and was held for the grand jury. He passed forged checks on several Calro business men.

Carroll.—Tony Jannus, an aviator, was nine hundred feet in the air when his carburetor came off. The gasoline streamed back on Jannus. The aviator, fearing the liquid would catch fire, shut off his motor and volplaned to the ground.

New Lenox.—Fire which destroyed the C. S. Hilton store in New Lenox also destroyed the postoffice and its contents. The loss in stamps and mail was $1,000. Adjoining buildings were burned and the entire business section threatened. The total damage was $20,000.

East St. Louis.—While an amusement park at Horse Shoe Lake, near here, was being destroyed by fire, a crowd of belated revellers moved about from one building to another and danced in the glare of the flames from the pavilion they had just deserted. The main dance hall, a hotel, and several other wooden structures were destroyed. The loss is estimated at $35,000.

Carlo.—The authorities here believe that the body of a dead negro found is that of one of the men they were pursuing after an attempt on the part of two negroes to force a merchant of Tammes to accept a raised bill. The body could not be identified positively. The other negro was killed, and it was believed the second was wounded fatally. The finding of the body tends to confirm that belief.

Springfield.—While on his deathbed, William Keller, an eccentric farmer of Shipman, confided to his brother that he had buried a considerable amount of money, which could be had for the digging. After the funeral the brother searched for the wealth. He found a total of $10,000, which had been buried in various places about the farm. It is said that some of the money was buried in 1863. Keller began concealing his money in the ground during the Civil war.

Duquoin.—The annual pastoral conference of the German Evangelical church of the Nashville district was held at Pinckneyville. Among the ministers who addressed the conference were: Rev. K. Barkau of New Athens, William Schlinkman of Mascoutah and Max Schroedel of Hoyleton. These new officers were elected: President, Rev. Rex K. Schroedel, Hoyleton; vice-president, Rev. C. L. Langerhans, Addleville; secretary and treasurer, Rev. J. H. Buescher, Irvington. The 1914 conference will be held at Freeburg. Rev. F. H. Mittendorf, pastor of the St. Paul German Evangelical church of Pinckneyville, resigned to accept a call to Toledo, O.

Jacksonville.—The thirty-third annual convention of the Christian church of Illinois closed after choosing Decatur as the place for the 1914 meeting and electing the following officers: President, Stephen S. Fisher, Champaign; vice-president, J. I. Gunn, Marion; recording secretaries, H. M. Jenner, Long Point and Ralph Galloway, Clinton; board of directors, J. P. Darst, Peoria; E. V. Smith, Decatur, and H. M. Zandt, Bloomington. Resolutions were adopted condemning the liquor and white slave traffic, the law against the reading of the Bible in the public schools and the appointment of J. Vopicka, a brewer, as minister to the Balkan states.

Rochelle.—Mr. and Mrs. Thompson Sheadle, both over seventy-five, were found in their home here unconscious from asphyxiation from gas. Neighbors noticed the curtains down and broke into the house. A jet in the hall was found wide open. Sheadle was found in bed and his wife in the bathroom. It is supposed she discovered the smell of gas and was overcome while trying to locate the open jet. Both will die, according to physicians.

Mattoon.—U. T. S. Rice, a preacher-broker, indicted for embezzlement, was taken from his home in Mattoon, where he has been under guard of deputies to the Charleston sanitarium to await trial. The move was made by Sheriff Vincent Aye to allay popular feeling that Rice would escape from his residence. The prisoner was driven 12 miles in an automobile ambulance and is guarded in the sanitarium by three deputies. Additional claims have developed before the grand jury. Robert Ginn, a Coles county farmer, is said to have been defrauded of $11,000, and William Fitzpatrick, a Mattoon business man, is short $4,000. These cases indicate that the total of Rice's defalcation will amount to $100,000.

Quincy.—Mr. and Mrs. Henry Schultz celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage. Shortly after the wedding took place in Bavaria, a half century ago, they came to America and settled in Quincy. Twenty relatives from Hannibal participated in the festivities.

Pontiac.—Charles Barkas, the Jonesboro (Ark.) negro arrested in Springfield accused of attacking a white girl, landed behind the bars of the Illinois state reformatory at Joliet, having been indicted, sentenced and begun serving his interdicted sentence within twenty-four hours.

MAN MADE MISTAKE

Penalties Caused by the Upright Position Are Shown.

German Scientists Point Out the Heavy Cost to Humanity for Standing Position—Experiments Prove Virtue of Locomotion on All Fours.

Three of Germany's famous scientists have been making experiments to prove that humanity makes a great mistake in walking upright instead of on all fours. Thereby, they declare man brings on himself many physical evils from which the more sensible and less aspiring horse and dog are free.

When man first stood on his hind legs he disturbed the whole equilibrium of his organism; and since then he has been trying in vain to adapt his architecture and organs to his unnatural carriage. As he has failed he has brought on himself weakness and disease.

One of the first to occupy himself with this question was Prof. Ernst Haeckel, the Jena biologist and Darwinian. It has now been carried much further by the experiments which Dr. H. Gerhart has lectured on at the Berlin University Polytechnical institute.

Dr. Gerhart placed quadrupeds in a similar position, and observed them. A typical test was made with a fox terrier, which stood and walked on its hind legs for seven hours a day for 28 weeks. The terrier was then compared with an ordinary dog. Examination showed that the change had radically transformed the terrier's anatomy. In order to counterbalance the tendency to fall forward, the dog had continually bent its spinal column backward. The result was a marked deformation of the vertebrae. Standing upright had also deformed the thorax and pelvis. The bones of the hind legs had bent forward in a way suggesting rickets or degeneration of the bone.

The internal organs also showed changes. The left lung had fallen slightly; the heart was enlarged owing to the constant exertion of standing as a biped, and it had turned round partly on its axis. The liver, stomach and kidneys had also receded further from the head. In other words, the dog had grown closer to the human type.

Certain penalties caused by the upright carriage are shown by Dr. Ernest Klotz of Leipzig. It was plainly intended, he says, that the spinal column should be horizontal; and that all vital and easily injured organs, such as the heart and stomach, should hang downward from it and be protected by it. "The spinal column," he says, "is nothing but a roof of bone." It is not at all intended to stiffen the body into an upright carriage. When man went four footed, with his organs pendant from his spinal column, all the organs were in exactly defined positions as regards one another.

When he began to go upright these organs tended to sag and fall downward and thus disturbed their functions. This caused many ailments, and particularly digestive complaints, which no animal suffers from. These complaints have been a cause of weakness to man and, instead of returning to an all four attitude, he has for millions of years past been trying to adapt himself to the new conditions. But he has not altogether succeeded, and is still suffering from the disturbed equilibrium.

Most marked is the fact that the human legs have not adapted themselves to be man's only support. It even seems that in civilized countries the adaptive process has come to a stop and as a result of the failure of two legs to do the work of four pathological deformation of the sole of the foot is going on.

Today man unconsciously hankers after his lost position of quadruped. This is seen by the attitudes he takes during sleep. Numerous scientific tests show that the regenerative effect of sleep both on body and mind is greatest when a man sleeps face downward as do the majority of animals. Nightmares, "sleep drunkenness," "brain pressure" and other abnormal sleep conditions are never experienced by a man sleeping in this position. They are caused by the genuine biped attitude of sleeping on the back. Sleeping on the back with the limbs outstretched, is so unnatural that the lower animals can be temporarily paralyzed by fixing them in that position.

In short, man's upright carriage, which he regards as his unique distinction and glory, is merely a psychological blunder, and it will remain so until man has perfectly adapted himself to it. Unluckily, there is reason to think that the perfect equipoise will never be attained.

Circus Catastrophe.

At the circus grounds many people wondered at the unusual delay, caused by the late arrival and a deficient workmen. "They ain't goin' t' be here," said a live looking man. "Ain't goin' t' be here," said another, anxiously questioning. "Cause the olephant's coffee pot and they're 'rounds."

Worth Remembering. Always try to remember that the longer a company does to m...

Ancient and Honorable.

The word Gumbold, when used as a surname, has nothing at all to do with any part of the anatomy. It denotes that its first bearer was a man of considerable importance and great power in the state. It is derived from the Norse word "gumbald," which itself has nothing to do with any affliction, but means "bold in war."

Heart to Heart Talks

By JAMES A. EDGERTON

THE PATH TO SUCCESS.

A New York minister wrote to seven prominent men a series of questions as to their rules for success in life.

He incorporated the replies in a sermon, and, although this man is an eloquent preacher, this was one of the best discourses ever heard from his pulpit.

Among the secrets of success mentioned were honesty, loyalty, absorption in one's work, dependability, invention, earnestness, enthusiasm, tenacity of purpose and hard work.

As to whether it is hard work or worry that breaks men down, all agreed that hard work would not endanger any one's physical or mental health, and two said that hard work is a tonic.

Among the causes of failure were mentioned intemperance, immorality, untruthfulness, cigarette smoking, making a drudge of oneself and getting into debt.

A majority agreed that a college education is not necessary to success, though it might help the right sort of man. If not the right sort it might prove a detriment.

All agreed that religion is an asset, but one added that it must be "real and not lip cant or hypocrisy."

All these ideas are old, you say? Yes, but the beauty in these men's cases is that they have tried their notions out in actual life and have every one succeeded, some of them in an eminent degree.

They have proved their words. The men that have won have told us how they won, almost from the beginning of history. There have been thousands of testimonials, and they have all sounded much like these.

The universality of the testimony is a proof of its truth. Thus the winners have plumed guideposts all along the road to success, so that the wayfaring man, even though a fool, need not miss the directions.

There are many roads leading from this main highway. One is called intemperance. Beware of that.

Another is laziness. Spun it as you would a pestilence. A third is untruthfulness. Do not let your feet stray this way.

A fourth is named debt. You will find pitfalls in this path. Avoid the byways. They lead nowhere.

Keep in the middle of the road.

Tax Levy Ordinance No. 68

Whereas the City Council of the City of Genoa, of the County of DeKalb and State of Illinois, did on the 9th day of May A. D. 1913, pass the annual appropriation bill for said City for the fiscal year beginning on the first day of May A. A PAINTER AND HIS BASSOON.

Gainsborough Loved to Play, Though He Tortured His Friends.
"Gainsborough's profession," says one of his friends, "was painting, and music was his amusement, yet there were times when music seemed to be his employment and painting his diversion."

He was so passionately fond of music that he filled his house with all manner of instruments and permitted his table to be infested with all sorts of musical professors except only bagpipers.

Gainsborough never had application enough to learn his notes thoroughly, yet he loved melody so much that he tried his native skill upon almost every instrument. He could perform a tune on the fiddle, the guitar, the harpsichord or the flute. He also took lessons upon either the hautboy or the clarinet, but made nothing of it.

According to a biographer of Gainsborough, Johann Christian Bach, a son of the great Sebastian, who lived for many years in London, had a certain dry and testy humor. He used to sit and endure Gainsborough's unhappy efforts and, laughing in his sleeve, exclaim: "Bravo, bravo!"

Gainsborough, not at all abashed at his irony, if indeed he perceived it, would go at it again, laboring hard at his task. "Now for Purcell's chaunt," or "Here is a bit of old Bird," he would say.

"Dat is very fine!" cried Bach when the ordeal was over.

"Now for a touch of old Henry Lawes," continued Gainsborough. "Now, dat is too pad!" Bach would shout, his patience worn out at last. "Dere is no law why de company is to listen to your murder of all dese ancient gombosers."

Then he would get up from his seat, run his fingers along all the keys of the harpsichord and flourish voluntaries as if he were inspired.

One day Bach called on Gainsborough in Pall Mall and found him in his studio, working hard at the bassoon. The painter's cheeks were puffed out till his face was round and red as the harvest moon. Bach stood astounded.

"Pote it away, man, pote it away!" he commanded. "Do you want to burst yourself like the frog in the fable? It is only fit for the lungs of a cuntry blackschildt."

"Nay, now," exclaimed Gainsborough, "it is the richest bass in the world. Now listen again."

"Listen!" cried Bach. "Mine friend, I did listen at your door in the passage, and by all the powers above it is for all the world as the veritable braying of a jackass."

"Why, you have no ear for music, man," Gainsborough exclaimed, "no more ear than an adder!"—Youth's Companion.

An Undiscovered Interior.
A magazine editor recently returned a story to an aspiring contributor.

Immediately the latter wrote an indignant letter to him, saying that he had slightly pasted together several of the inner pages. When the story was returned to her it was in its original condition. She had always suspected editors of neglecting their duties; now she was sure of their carelessness, for her own story had not been read. To all this the much-berated man made reply:

"Dear Madam—At breakfast, when I find that an egg is bad, I do not have to eat the whole of it to make sure."
—Chicago Record-Herald.

Jarred the Professor.
When in 1883 Professor Freeman was examining Battle abbey he found himself dogged by a person, who, as he thought, somewhat officiously obtruded his offers of assistance. After vainly trying to shake him off he broke forth with: "I don't want your help. The Duke of Cleveland promised that I should not be interfered with by the gardeners."

"Exactly so," was the reply; "I hope they have obeyed my orders. I am the Duke of Cleveland."

More Than Kind.
"In my young days," says Mr. A. J. Swinburne in "Memories of a School Inspector," "a rural school-mistress entirely misinterpreted my kindness, which was prompted by a desire to quiet her nervousness.

"I asked her as pleasant a voice as I could summon if she could have the children recite on the 'Reindeer.'"

"She replied, simpering, 'I have a lesson on clouds and one on mist, but I'm sorry I have none on rain.'"

Took Him at His Word.
"Yes; the engagement is off."
"What came between your two loving hearts?"

"I hardly know. I told her I was unworthy of her, and she agreed with me so heartily on the point that our courtship kind of languished after that."
—Washington Herald.

PRAYING FOR PREY.

The Mantis Seems to Be Doing That While Awaiting Victims.

Most persons know the praying mantis—that large, greenish, grasshopper-like insect which holds up adoring arms as if venerating some deity of the woods or making an invocation—an oracle among insects, as the old Greeks thought it. But these attitudes of prayer conceal the most atrocious habits. These supplicating arms, to fall into Fabre's picturesque phrasing, are lethal weapons. These fingers tell no rosaries, but exist to seize the passerby. Although a member of a vegetarian family, the mantis feeds exclusively on its living prey. It is a tiger in ambush, and if only it had sufficient strength its greedy appetite and its horrible facility of concealment by color and form among the green leaves where peaceful insects travel would make it the terror of the countryside.

At first glance it does not look very terrible. Its neck is flexible, and it can turn its head and look with sharp eyes in all directions, but no formidable jaws affright a victim. In its powerful uplifted fore limbs lies the hidden danger, the cruel trap. Each long thigh, shaped like a flattened spindle, carries on the forward half of its lower face a double row of steeple spines, alternately long and short, and three needlelike spikes, longest of all, rise behind the parallel rows, between which the fore leg lies when folded in "prayer." This fore part of the leg is similarly armed, but with smaller spikes, and terminates in a hook with a blade like a pruning knife and a tip as sharp as a needle. Handle the insect incautiously and this armament discovers itself to you instantly, thrusting its needles and blades into your flesh, gripping you in a stinging vise and forcing you to crush it to get free.

When the mantis is in repose these weapons are folded and pressed against the chest, showing nothing of their ferocity. The bandit's sword is sheathed, and it seems at its devotions. But let a victim come within reach and the ruse—if it be—is abandoned like a flash. The three long joints of the deadly fore limbs straighten and shoot out their talons, which strike the victim like the unsheathed claws of a cat and drag it back between the saws of the thighs. The vise closes with an upward motion, as a man would bring his hand up to his shoulder, and no cricket, grasshopper, beetle or spider can struggle out of the crook of that terrible elbow.—Harper's Weekly.

Friendship.
A little boy got out of bed wrong one morning and was so hateful all day that his father finally found it necessary to punish him.

A little while after the ordeal was over his mother found him out back of the barn tenderly caressing and petting an old ram that was pastured there. Her heart was touched by this display of kindness on his part, and she watched him tenderly for some time. Then, walking over to where he sat, she inquired:

"What makes my little boy so good to the old sheep?"

He did not stop or look up, but answered, stifling a sob:

"'Cause he just butted pa."—New York Times.

Profitable Discard.
While passing an old fashioned inn in Scotland some tourists were attracted by an aged bagpiper, who was tooting atrocious sounds through an instrument that was both dilapidated and squeaky.

"Great Jericho, Sandy!" exclaimed one in desperation. "Why don't you have your bagpipe repaired?"

The old man ceased playing and looked up in astonishment.

"Havers, mon, ye dinna understand! If ma bagpipes wor in good tune the inn mon wadna gie me 2 shillings to move on."

Shuts Off the Black Looks.
"What a magnificent bouquet of flowers! For your wife, I presume?"

"Yes, I am a little on the outs in that quarter just now, and"—

"And this is to square yourself?"

"No, not exactly. These flowers are for the center of our dining table. Always get 'em when the wife and I have a little tiff. Big bouquet in the center of the table gives us each something pleasant to look at while we eat. She can't see me and I can't see her. Get me?"

FULLER A CANDIDATE

Belvidere Judge Will Again Submit His Name for Congress.

Former Representative Charles E. Fuller of Belvidere has announced that he will run as candidate for congress again at the Republican primaries next September, a fact which will be gratifying to his friends in the Republican ranks. No one among the friends of Mr. Fuller ever anticipated that he would retire from active politics, for the old adage holds good here, "You can't keep a good man down," that is, not thru one defeat.

Judge Fuller's formal announcement appeared in a recent issue of the Belvidere Republican as follows:

Editor Republican:

In answer to the solicitations of many friends, and in fairness to them and in justice to all concerned, I deem it my duty to now announce that I shall be a candidate for the Republican nomination for Representative in Congress at the primaries next September.

Very truly yours,
CHARLES E. FULLER.

No Such Simplicity.
And yet there was never such a thing as "Jeffersonian simplicity." Mr. Jefferson was not a man of simple life, but of a full and expensive life. He was an aristocrat in all his personal tastes and indulged himself. He had traveled in Europe and observed how the trick was turned there. And both as secretary of state and as president he lived at the top of his time.—Washington Star.

Miss Florence Pratt, who has been caring for Mrs. Schoonmaker during the past several weeks, went to DeKalb Wednesday where she will have charge of a case. Mrs. Hoover of DeKalb is in charge at the Schoonmaker home.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hollembeak of Stonewall, La., who are visiting at the home of the former's sister, Mrs. Totten, accompanied by G. H. Ide and Frank McQuarrie, attended the reunion of the 17th Illinois cavalry at Geneva Wednesday.

There was nothing doing in the Odd Fellow picnic line last Thursday on account of rain, the event being postponed to Saturday, September 27. It will be purely a local affair, all Genoa Odd Fellows, Rebekahs, their families and friends being invited.

Mrs. Louis Gnekow passed away at her home in Utica, Neb., on Friday, Sept. 12, after a long illness. Funeral services were held on Monday, John Lembke, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Awe and Mrs. Wm. Gnekow of this city being in attendance. The deceased was a sister of Mrs. John Lembke.

Business at the cider press has been flourishing since operations began. Cider vinegar should be about the cheapest thing on the market next summer. Altho hundreds of bushels of apples are being ground up there will be many thousands of bushels left to rot on the grounds or for the hogs and other stock to eat, in Northern Illinois.

The ice cream social given by the Epworth League of the M. E. church, last Friday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Olmsted, was a successful affair, notwithstanding the cold weather. Quite a number of the young people from town were there and the evening was spent in playing games, and other social enjoyments.

The engine of L. M. Olmsted's automobile caught fire at the Sandwich fair last Thursday, putting the machine out of commission for the day. When cranking the engine flames suddenly burst out, enveloping all the working parts. Efforts of Mr. Olmsted and others standing about to put out the fire were futile until someone came up with a patent fire extinguisher which did the work. No damage was done other than burning off the wiring. Mr. Olmsted went over to Sandwich the next day and brought the machine home.

At the regular meeting of the city council Friday evening it was decided to remove the surface of the side walk on the south side Main street between Monroe and Genoa streets and widen it to twelve feet. The old walk was uneven and not at grade at any point, hence the only solution to making it presentable and permanent was in rebuilding. It will be an expensive operation but worth the money. If the street is paved next years contemplated the old walk would have been a worse eye sore than it is at present.

A New Store

A. E. Pickett, our enterprising clothing merchant, will open his new store in the building recently vacated by E. H. Cohoon on Saturday of this week, Sept. 20, at nine o'clock. A complete line of ladies' and children's furnishings will be handled here, including cloaks, suits, dresses, shirt waists, sweaters, corsets, table linens, towelings, leather goods, notions and drug sundries. Only the best of merchandise will be handled and at correct prices. In looking about for some one to open a ladies' store Mr. Pickett was very fortunate in securing the services of Miss L. V. McCartha who is a thoroughly experienced and accomplished business woman. Miss McCartha comes to Genoa highly recommended by Carson, Pierce, Scott & Co. of Chicago. It is to be hoped that our general public will come out and give her the benefit of its patronage.—Advertisement.

Women Avoid Operations

When a woman suffering from some form of feminine disorder is told that an operation is necessary, it of course frightens her.

The very thought of the hospital operating table and the surgeon's knife strikes terror to her heart, and no wonder. It is quite true that some of these troubles may reach a stage where an operation is the only resource, but thousands of women have avoided the necessity of an operation by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. This fact is attested by the grateful letters they write to us after their health has been restored.

These Two Women Prove Our Claim.

Cary, Maine.—"I feel it a duty I owe to all suffering women to tell what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for me. One year ago I found myself a terrible sufferer. I had pains in both sides and a soreness I could scarcely straighten up at times. My back ached, I had no appetite and was so nervous I could not sleep, then I would be so tired mornings that I could scarcely get around. It seemed almost impossible to move or do a bit of work and I thought I never would be any better until I submitted to an operation. I commenced taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and soon felt like a new woman. I had no pains, slept well, had good appetite and was fat and could do almost all my own work for a family of four. I shall always feel that I owe my good health to your medicine."—Mrs. HAYWARD SOWERS, Cary, Me.

Charlotte, N. C.—"I was in bad health for two years, with pains in both sides and was very nervous. If I even lifted a chair it would cause a hemorrhage. I had a growth which the doctor said was a tumor and I never would get well unless I had an operation. A friend advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I gladly say that I am now enjoying fine health and am the mother of a nice baby girl. You can use this letter to help other suffering women."—Mrs. ROSA SIMS, 16 Wyona St., Charlotte, N. C.

Now answer this question if you can. Why should a woman submit to a surgical operation without first giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial? You know that it has saved many others—why should it fail in your case?

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the best remedy for female ills. No one sick with woman's ailments does justice to herself if she does not try this famous medicine made from roots and herbs, it has restored so many suffering women to health.

Write to LYDIA E. PINKHAM MEDICINE CO., (CONFIDENTIAL) LYNN, MASS., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

MELISSA WOULD RATHER EMPLOY HER OWN FACULTIES.

Mrs. Merriwid paused in front of the mirror that panelled a section of the wall space from floor to ceiling—a satisfactory mirror in a good light. She was attired in a crimson morning gown and her hair was still in its braid.

"Quite gay and girlish!" she murmured.

"Who is?" demanded her maternal maiden aunt Jane.

"You are, dearie," replied Mrs. Merriwid, turning herself half around to get the effect of the back.

"You know perfectly well you weren't thinking of me," said Aunt Jane, severely. "You were thinking of yourself."

"Do you know how my thoughts could be better employed?" demanded Mrs. Merriwid, with a brilliant smile. "Of course I might have been thinking of Mr. Elghmee," she continued.

"You will have to be giving him a little consideration pretty soon," replied Aunt Jane.

"He's a most remarkable man," said Mrs. Merriwid, reflectively. "Not an ordinary man, by any means."

"He impresses one," assented Aunt Jane.

"Like a boot heel on a pet corn," said her niece. "But I've learned more about him during the short period that he has been calling than I would about most men in a lifetime. I even know that he wears medicated and prefers a good full-cream American cheese to the decayed and germ-infested importations from abroad. He's a plain man and makes no pretensions."

"Mercy!" exclaimed Aunt Jane.

"He has several relatives but he doesn't like them and makes no bones of saying so," Mrs. Merriwid proceeded, disregarding the interruption.

"He doesn't see why the accident of relationship should give one person any special claim on another. A man is what he is. He ought to be able to stand on his own merits. Mr. Elghmee stands on his own merit and he's got a fairly firm footing, if you ask him. His favorite color is red—something about the shade of this dress I think. He used to be subject to rheumatism. He likes the country once in a while as a change from town, but he wouldn't care to live there. He has the social instincts and likes to feel himself a force among his fellow men. What he wants and what he intends is to go into politics and rattle up some of these dry bones that have been fattening on the life blood of the nation. He isn't opposed to trusts, but he would control them in such a manner that would prevent the accumulation of colossal wealth to the individual. That is his idea. There may be people who disagree with him, but that's the way he looks at the subject."

"Is there any more?" inquired Aunt Jane.

"Lots, honey," Mrs. Merriwid answered. "He is a little quick-tem-flannel next to his skin, winter and summer."

"Melissa!" exclaimed Aunt Jane, in horror-stricken tones.

"I couldn't help it, dearie," protested Mrs. Merriwid. "I didn't ask him for the information. He thought it would interest me so he naturally and simply told me."

"I don't see how he could possibly consider it a matter of interest—to say nothing of the impropriety," said Aunt Jane.

"It's a matter intimately concerning him, isn't it?" said Mrs. Merriwid. "Very well," then. It ought to interest anybody. I'm surprised! I suppose when I tell you that he has had two of his back teeth filled, you will fail to realize the significance and importance of it. Keeping one's teeth in proper condition is necessary for the proper mastication and subsequent assimilation of food. If there is any derangement of Mr. Elghmee's digestive apparatus, it affects his energy and his mental faculties and the world is a loser by just so much."

"I should imagine that something had affected his mental faculties," said Aunt Jane, rubbing her nose.

"Say not so, dearie," begged Mrs. Merriwid. "Mr. Elghmee is particularly sane. He prides himself above all things on his sanity. He is a modest man, but that is one thing he insists on. The trouble with most people is that they allow their views to become distorted by prejudices of one sort or another. Mr. Elghmee has no prejudices. Convictions he has, firm and unalterable convictions, but no prejudices."

"That's very nice, I'm sure," remarked Aunt Jane.

"Isn't it?" said Mrs. Merriwid. "To continue this interesting subject, Mr. Elghmee rises punctually at half-past six o'clock in the winter and at five o'clock in the summer. He believes in regularity—in system. He takes a cold bath. He hasn't missed taking his cold bath once in ten years. He finds it stimulating and he attributes his immunity from colds and his general good condition to this and the few simple gymnastic exercises that he takes after the bath. Then he takes a light breakfast and arrives at his office clear-headed and fit and able to cope successfully with any of the difficult problems that invariably arise. He is not capricious in his tastes. He likes his roast beef rare pered, but not a man to sulk or bear a grudge. He is rather inclined to be reckless about spending money and a little foolish about lending it to people who never pay him back; still, he makes a point of living well within his income. He uses Brissels shaving soap and thinks Tilly a really remarkable actress. Finally and most important of all, he likes brunettes—not the blue-black raven's wing variety, but the softer and less decided type to which I belong. There's one thing though—he doesn't know just how decided I can be when I set my mind to it."

"I infer that you have arrived at a decision in his case," said Aunt Jane.

"The surest thing you know, sweet heart," said Mrs. Merriwid, returning to the mirror and smiling at her own reflection. "You know I'm quite a little interested in myself, and admitting that Mr. Elghmee is interested in me, too, he is so much more interested in Mr. Elghmee. Another thing, no woman wants a lot of accurate and reliable knowledge about her intended that she hasn't found out by her little lonesome."

"But they always tell about them selves, I've understood," said Aunt Jane.

"I know," admitted Mrs. Merriwid, "but I believe that most of this stuff he's told me is quite true, and that makes a difference."

Not the Culprit.

Above the writing table in her nephew's library Aunt Maria found a framed New Year's resolution: "On the first of the New Year I resolve to stop smoking cigarettes."

"How shocking," said Aunt Maria. "Harry, it is possible that the habit of smoking these odious things has fastened itself so strongly upon you that it takes a New Year's resolution to break it off?"

"Oh, it isn't I that have sworn off," said Harry. "It's my wife."

Physicians Recommend Castoria

CASTORIA has met with pronounced favor on the part of physicians, pharmaceutical societies and medical authorities. It is used by physicians with results most gratifying. The extended use of Castoria is unquestionably the result of three facts: First—The indisputable evidence that it is harmless; Second—That it not only allays stomach pains and quiets the nerves, but assimilates the food; Third—It is an agreeable and perfect substitute for Castor Oil. It is absolutely safe. It does not contain any Opium, Morphine, or other narcotic and does not stupefy. It is unlike Soothing Syrups, Bateman's Drops, Godfrey's Cordial, etc. This is a good deal for a Medical Journal to say. Our duty, however, is to expose danger and record the means of advancing health. The day for poisoning innocent children through greed or ignorance ought to end. To our knowledge, Castoria is a remedy which produces composure and health, by regulating the system—not by stupefying it—and our readers are entitled to the information.—Hall's Journal of Health.

Letters from Prominent Physicians addressed to Chas. H. Fletcher.

Dr. B. Halstead Scott, of Chicago, Ills., says: "I have prescribed your Castoria often for infants during my practice, and find it very satisfactory."

Dr. William Belmont, of Cleveland, Ohio, says: "Your Castoria stands first in its class. In my thirty years of practice I can say I never have found anything that so filled the place."

Dr. J. H. Taft, of Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "I have used your Castoria and found it an excellent remedy in my household and private practice for many years. The formula is excellent."

Dr. R. J. Hamlen, of Detroit, Mich., says: "I prescribe your Castoria extensively, as I have never found anything to equal it for children's troubles. I am aware that there are imitations in the field, but I always see that my patients get Fletcher's."

Dr. Wm. J. McCrann, of Omaha, Neb., says: "As the father of thirteen children I certainly know something about your great medicine, and aside from my own family experience I have in my years of practice found Castoria a popular and efficient remedy in almost every home."

Dr. J. R. Clausen, of Philadelphia, Pa., says: "The name that your Castoria has made for itself in the tens of thousands of homes blessed by the presence of children, scarcely needs to be supplemented by the endorsement of the medical profession, but I, for one, most heartily endorse it and believe it an excellent remedy."

Dr. R. M. Ward, of Kansas City, Mo., says: "Physicians generally do not prescribe proprietary preparations, but in the case of Castoria my experience, like that of many other physicians, has taught me to make an exception. I prescribe your Castoria in my practice because I have found it to be a thoroughly reliable remedy for children's complaints. Any physician who has raised a family, as I have, will join me in heartiest recommendation of Castoria."

MADE RULES FOR COMPOSERS

Frederick the Great, Talented Musician Himself, Laid Down Imperative Orders.

Frederick the Great was the most distinguished musical amateur of his age, and his position gave him the power to regulate the style of composition employed by the musicians of his period. For instance, he made the following rules to be followed by operatic composers: "All the principal singers must have big arias and different in character, as an adagio aria, which must be very cantabile to show off to good advantage the voice and delivery of the singer; in da capo the artist can then display her art in embellishing variations; then there must be an allegro aria with brilliant passages, a gallant aria, a duet for the first male singer and the prima donna. In these pieces the big forms or measure must be used so as to give pathos to the tragedy; the smaller forms of time, such as two-four and three-eight, are for the secondary roles, and for these a tempo minuetto can be written. There must be the necessary changes of time, but minor keys must be avoided in the theater, because they are too mournful."

Another Area.

"The prima donna fell down in the opening to that aria."

"Laudy days! So did our cook."

Most men are too polite to adhere strictly to the truth.

BARBER WINS SUIT

Tonsorial Artist of Marengo Defeats the Ordinance of that City

John S. Rowland, who conducts a barber shop at Marengo, will hereafter shave his customers on Sunday, having won in a legal action brought by the city to force him to close in accordance with an ordinance passed to that effect.

The case was brought before Justice Kitchen and was taken on change of venue before Justice Parkhurst who decided that the city ordinance was void according to a recent decision handed down by the state supreme court that hotels, livery stables, meat markets, restaurants, grocery stores and barber shops were excepted from the closing on Sunday and could remain open if they chose.

The justice in his decision said that "if the supreme court of Illinois says that barber shops can open on Sunday for work no city can make laws greater than the state." He dismissed the case declaring the city ordinance void and unconstitutional.

Hongkong's Tobacco Trade.

The import tobacco trade into Hongkong consists almost entirely of second-rate to waste tobacco, chiefly of filler from the Philippines which has been discarded for the fine trade by the great Philippine factories, and of wrapper from Sumatra discarded by the high-grade trade, and various tobaccos from Java, India and the Malay states which are not suitable for the fine trade anywhere.

"Wanted—A Collaborator."

That all persons of artistic or literary aspirations are not as impractical as they are generally supposed to be, is proved by the following advertisement, which, says the Boston Herald, recently appeared in a morning paper: "Wanted—A collaborator, by a young lady playwright. The play is already written; collaborator to furnish board and bed until play is produced."

United States' Superiority.

According to a report issued by the American bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, based upon a study of seventeen industries in the United States and Great Britain, it requires 18 per cent more power and two and one-half times more labor to do the same work, in the industries examined, in Great Britain than it does in the United States.

Penny Gone! No Warts.

Maurice, age six, was weeping bitterly and mother inquired as to the cause of the deluge. "I bought two warts from Vincent for a penny," he wailed, "and Vincent hasn't given me the warts and won't give my penny back."

WORLD'S FINEST FARMING LAND

Such Is Joseph W. Wing's Characterization of Northern Illinois

Nearly every farmer in the United States and all who are interested in farming know personally or by reputation Joseph E. Wing of Mechanicsburg, Ohio, the great Ohio farmer and expert authority on alfalfa, for Mr. Wing has attained a wide reputation by reason of his contributions to the Breeders' Gazette. Mr. Wing was in Harvard less than two months ago. He was enthusiastic of what he had seen of Northern Illinois farms. He wrote the appended article in the form of an editorial in the Breeders' Gazette:

"Why is it, I wonder, that the poets and those who love natural beauty do not enrapture more over Northern Illinois? I wonder if in all the world there is a region of greater natural beauty. Recently I went by train up through Lake and McHenry counties, and returned by Kane, through the town of Elgin, then over into DuPage, and so back again to Chicago. Drouth has not touched it; instead the corn fields stand lush and green, the oats white to the harvest and the shocks set thick on the land."

"What manner of quiet country roads there are, often well graveled and tree-shaded; what manner of quiet and comfortable country homes. Great barns abound and evidence of sure prosperity. They are being enlarged on many a farm, because the land grows richer under good farming methods and more cows will be kept. This is the land that supplies Chicago with a great part of its milk, mainly from pretty good Dutch cows. Silos abound and new ones are being erected, often of imperishable concrete. Little villages are close-set and little towns not far apart. The country people are sober and serious, as befits men who milk cows, and while they have their troubles I wonder if they realize just how blest they are. I have seen most of the farming lands of the world, but none sweeter, more smiling, more responsive than these. Now comes alfalfa to this land to intensify its greenness and to increase the volume of milk that shall pour into the great town."

"JOSEPH E. WING."

FAVORS GERMAN FARM PLAN

California Declares System Will Be Introduced in His State

A California investigator who has been looking into the plan used in Europe to help the farmer own and operate his own farm writes back that it will be used in California. He illustrates the German idea in these words:

"Roughly estimating, let me say that we sell a man 20 acres of land for $2,000 and build him a house for $1,000 on it. He pays one-fifth down, leaving the balance of $2,400. He is given 50 years in which to pay it off. He pays 6 per cent, 5 of that is interest and 1 per cent applies on the principal. That is amortization. It is the German plan. It works splendidly."

The plan is, of course, perfectly practicable, once the capital is obtained for its working. It is even more applicable to conditions in Minnesota with its great area of unused lands. In the illustration given, the farmer would pay only $144 a year, of which $24 would go to repay his principal. And he would have the pride and inspiration of ownership. A plan for the purpose of giving this sort of financial assistance to farmers should be evolved for the United States.—Minneapolis Journal.

Chickens Come High

A new game warden dropped into Rochelle a day or two ago and picked up a couple of fellows who were shooting prairie chickens contrary to law. It cost them $200 each. The official saw the men going out in a machine. He got out a search warrant and met them with it on their return. They had bagged about a dozen chickens.
