FOUR ELECTIONS IN MONTH OF APRIL

Opposition on Only One Ticket at the Present Time

TOWNSHIP ELECTION APRIL 4

April 8, School District 404 and Dist. No. 1; April 11, State Primaries, April 18, City Election

The voters of Genoa and Genoa township will have the right to assert their prerogative four times during the month of April for the city of Genoa and Genoa township and will be able to cast their ballot at the state primaries on April 11.

The first election will be on Tuesday, April 4, when the township holds its annual election of officers. There is only one opposition vote on this ticket, namely Everett Smith and Ernest Corson who are running for the one position on the ticket of trustee of schools.

Saturday, April 8 will see the local school district No. 1 voting for two members of the board and one president. At present there is no opposition to the candidates who have filed petitions. The other election on this same day will be for one member of the board of education for township high school district No. 404.

April 11 will see the state primary ticket balloted upon. There is sure to be a great deal of opposition in every town in the state. Of course Genoa is concerned chiefly with the nomination of officer Crawford as Sheriff, but there is just as much opposition in all of the other offices.

Tuesday, April 18, is the last election this spring and will be for the purpose of electing an alderman for each ward of the city and a police magistrate.

FARM BUREAU CELEBRATION

A state-wide farm bureau celebration and pageant will be held at DeKalb on June 28 in honor of the tenth anniversary of the Farm Bureau movement in Illinois, the DeKalb County Farm Bureau announces. MARENGO ATTORNEY KILLS SELF

Took Bi-Chloride Tablets While Insane from Overwork

Rupert B. Donovan, thirty-five years old, well known Marengo attorney, who was brought to St. Joseph's hospital in Elgin a week ago Wednesday in a serious condition died Wednesday morning, March 24. Death was due to bichloride of mercury tablets which he took with suicidal intent while temporarily insane, a jury of Coroner Eugene H. Norton of Dundee determined. Testimony showed that Attorney Donovan had been affected by overwork during the income tax rush which ended March 15.

"For at least fifteen days he had been going to work at 8 o'clock in the morning and working on income tax schedules until 11 at night," Paul Donovan, Harvard attorney and his brother, testified. "There were several days that he ate no meals."

Attorney Donovan had been in Chicago Wednesday night and on arising Thursday morning took thirteen bi-chloride of mercury tablets each of seven and one-half grain strength, such as are used in hospitals. He was found soon after, lying on the floor of his home by Thomas Bourke, his assistant in income work. He was wearing pajamas and was conscious. Wrist, which had been cut, were bleeding.

He was brought to the St. Joseph's hospital in Elgin where he was attended by some of the best specialists in the country, but their efforts proved of no help and he died about 7 o'clock Wednesday morning.

Services were held in Woodstock last Saturday and were attended by many members of the McHenry and Kane county bars.

DANCE POSTPONED

The Benefit Dance that was to have been held Thursday evening, March 30, has been postponed on account of the poor condition of the roads and exceedingly inclement weather. It will be held on Tuesday, April 11, at the opera house. Election returns will be announced.

CRAWFORD MAKES A GOOD CAMPAIGN

Has Visited Every City and Town in The County

MOTTO: A SQUARE DEAL TO ALL

Has Seen Every Citizen Possible Since Campaigning—Always Left A Favorable Impression

Edwin E. Crawford, who is winding up his campaign for the office of sheriff of DeKalb county to be voted on at the primaries Tuesday, April 11, knows, as well as every one else, that his work has been a pleasure and of great benefit to him, whether or not his is victorious. In traveling about the county, it has been his desire to see every voter, both man and woman, though they live in town or in the country, and if he did not succeed in personally doing this, it was only because time did not permit.

Talks Straight From The Shoulder

In his customary manner, Mr. Crawford's journeys have been devoid of frills and fancies. He talked straight from the shoulder, made his personal campaign on his own hard earned money and all he asks in return is a square deal to prove to the citizens of the county, who are boosting for him that their confidence has not been misplaced.

In talking with people from different parts of the county, the writer has found that Mr. Crawford has always left a very favorable impression and his frank, open manner in stating facts and asking support has gained many a booster.

If there has been any slurring remarks made of "Chief" Crawford, he prefers not to take issue with the parties; but will strive in his own conscientious and gentlemanly manner to convince the voters that he is the right man for the office and now is the time that he should be nominated to get there.

He is not a member of any faction or political group, his integrity is unimpeachable, he does not fear any man on earth and his one motto is: "A square deal and justice to all." Is there anything more that could be demanded of any person seeking office as a public official and can be as readily and cheerfully given as the above qualifications of Edwin E. Crawford?

Genoa has never been honored with a representative holding a county office and Mr. Crawford now asks the support of every voter, who thinks that he is entitled to the office of sheriff of DeKalb county, to be present at the primary booths April 11 and to cast their ballot for him.

NEAR EAST RELIEF

Acknowledges Gift from The Golden Star Chapter No. 359, Genoa

A gift of $10 from the members of the Golden Star Chapter No. 359, Order of Eastern Star toward the support of helpless women and children in the Near East, has been acknowledged by the Illinois Headquarters of the Near East Relief in a letter to the secretary of the Chapter, Mrs. Bertha Patterson, Genoa, by whom the contribution was sent.

This money will help to maintain the work of feeding the war-orphan whose support is entirely dependent upon charity of the American people. Charles W. Vickrey, general secretary of the Near East Relief, has sent word from New York to the Illinois Headquarters that because of the enlarged task thrust upon the organization by the evacuation of Cilicia by the French, the officials here and overseas are under greater strain than ever before. All of the managing directors have cabled for additional funds with which to meet the new emergencies. Instead of granting these, the appropriations must be reduced according to Mr. Vickrey, which means sentencing to death hundreds of orphans now cared for. "Commute this death sentence," is the appeal made to all the workers.

FARMERS' COMMISSION FIRM

The Illinois Agricultural Association has been authorized by the National Live Stock Producers' Association to take immediate steps for the establishment of a co-operative, producer-owned live stock commission firm at the Peoria stock yards, which serve approximately ten Illinois counties. Plans have also been laid for the starting of a like firm at the Chicago yards.

All of these firms will be backed by county farm bureaus and will be similar to the one at East St. Louis which starting only January 2, 1922, has stood first or second in amount of business at the yards during the last month among fifty commission firms.

DEPUTY TO REMAIN

Internal Revenue Office Business Looked After by C. D. Schoonmaker

Many people of this territory are of the opinion that since the completion of the income tax drive, the work of the internal revenue department is finished. This is not the case, for the real work of Deputy Collector, C. D. Schoonmaker has just begun. During the next ten months he will be engaged in collecting current excise taxes, admission taxes, etc., and uncovering delinquencies.

The department has recognized the importance of this territory and placed a deputy collector here permanently. This does not mean that Mr. Schoonmaker will be in Genoa every hour of the day, for his work is chiefly in the field and that field covers part of DeKalb and Kane counties.

If there are any who have failed to file income tax returns for 1921 or other years, either through ignorance of the law or willful intent to evade the tax, the penalty will be less severe and the matter more easily adjusted if these persons voluntarily go to the office and state their cases.

The revenue department has a system of checking which will eventually uncover delinquencies. The department is a big machine and works slowly, but the ultimate result is sure. If any person is called to the deputy collector's office to show reason for failure to file an income tax return, that individual may know that he is not on record as a taxpayer. It may be in many cases, that he was not liable, but in that case it will be up to him to show his record of income for the years in question.

Wage earners and those drawing salaries of $1,000.00 or more cannot escape detection, for information regarding their income is mailed to Washington by the employer and eventually this information comes back to the deputy collector.

In the case of business houses and farmers, the size of the business and farm is taken into consideration as well as the general business conditions. If it is evident from observation that an individual probably had a taxable income for any year, but failed to file, he need not be surprised if called into the deputy's office to explain.

ROADS ARE IN TERRIBLE SHAPE

Have Not Been as Bad in The Last Fifteen Years

MANY CARS MIRED IN THE MUD

Genoa to Sycamore Road Is One Vast Sea of Mud—Farmers Busy Pulling Out Cars

Ask the motorist today regarding the condition of the dirt and gravel roads and he will tell you yarns which are almost unbelievable. In fact, he will tell you that the dirt roads are less treacherous than the oiled gravel roads which up to two weeks ago were boulevards.

The best example of undermined gravel road connects Genoa and Sycamore. Here are dozens of places where it is practically impossible for an automobile to get through without the aid of teams or tractors. On Sunday motorists abandoned the direct route to Genoa and traveled around to the east, through Charter Grove. The diverted traffic has now ruined this once beautiful road and there are spots through which no automobile can travel without the aid of horses. The place known as "Chamberlain's corner," a mile south of Genoa is a veritable sea of mud extending from fence to fence so deep that a horse has difficulty in getting thru.

One mile north of Sycamore is another hole which beggars description, and unless one happens to hit just the right spot in passing, the wheels go down to the hubs. In former years during the time of bad roads, there was some chance of an auto getting out with its own power, but today, when a machine goes down it goes to the differential housing, leaving the driver absolutely helpless, altho he may have a powerful engine. The spinning of the wheels simply digs the trench a little deeper for the benefit of the machine following.

The roads leading in every direction from Genoa (all formerly good oiled gravel roads) are practically impassable. On the north road a tractor was busy pulling out luckless motorists, but on Saturday this tractor went down to its finish and cannot be extricated until the sun has done its work.

West of Genoa farmers are kept busy pulling out rigs on the roads leading to Kingston and Belvidere.

East of town there are two bad places before the school house is reached and to get by them with an auto almost invariably requires the assistance of a good team.

There can be no change in conditions until the frost is entirely out of the ground. This unheard of condition of the hard roads is due to the fact that frost below held the water while the crust above prevented evaporation. The water between the frost and crust during the warm days of the last two weeks eventually made mush of the road sub-structure; the heavy trucks broke through the crust and that tells the story.

FIRE LAST SATURDAY MORNING

Van Dusen House in East End Emits Clouds of Smoke

Last Saturday morning the local fire department was called out to extinguish a blaze in the upper floor of the Carl Van Dusen home in the east end of town. The origin of the fire is a mystery, but it seems that in some manner the clothes in a wardrobe caught fire which necessitated the flow of water. The damage of the fire amounted to approximately $50 while the water damage will almost triple that.

Genoa needs a good chemical wagon to quench these small fires that cause more damage by water being thrown than by the fire itself.

The Republican has the statement from one in authority and who is in a position to know about fire apparatus that when Genoa secures one of these outfits the insurance rates stand a good chance of being greatly reduced.

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

Four-Power Pacific Treaty Is Ratified by Senate After Bitter Debate.

HOUSE PASSES BONUS BILL

President Orders American Army Home From Rhine and Hughes Notifies Allies They Must Pay Expense Bill—Moslem Unrest.

By JOHN DICKINSON SHERMAN

The four-power Pacific treaty was ratified by the United States senate Friday, March 24.

By agreement made ten days in advance the vote had been set for that date. It came as the climax to a week of strenuous oratory. The bitter debate was precipitated Monday when Senator Borah (Republican of Idaho) read into the record a stenographic report of a statement attributed to Paul D. Cravath, "the representative of the Morgans and the Ryans," to the effect that the United States had entered into a secret agreement to co-operate with Great Britain against Japan in the Pacific. Senators Lodge and Underwood, Republican and Democratic floor leaders and American delegates to the conference with Secretary of State Hughes and Elihu Root, denied the alleged Cravath statement. Senator Robinson of Arkansas, leading the Democratic opposition to the treaty, demanded a senatorial investigation and asked that Secretary Hughes and Mr. Root be called before the foreign relations committee. At this point Senator Lodge said:

"This debate is proceeding upon the theory that the four American delegates were not only ignorant and incompetent but that they were prepared to betray their country. It is an implication against the honesty and patriotism of the President. I believe that they are as patriotic and as desirous of protecting the interests of their country as those who are slandered by implication and insinuations. I will trust the people of the United States to stand by the President and the four delegates in this great conference."

Later Mr. Cravath emphatically denied the statement attributed to him. Secretary Hughes wrote a letter in which he said:

"In my letter to Senator Underwood on March 11th, in relation to the four-power treaty, I said: 'There are no secret notes or understandings.'"

"Permit me to express the hope that the American delegates will be saved further aspersions upon their veracity and honor."

To the Man in the Street the astonishing part of this is the fact that anyone—United States senator or anyone else—should expect to get across with charges, direct or indirect, against either the honor, the efficiency, the veracity or the patriotism of the four American delegates.

Secretary of State Hughes has made the government's second answer. In effect he has served notice on the allies that they cannot dodge payment of the Rhine debt by attempting to hide behind a technicality which doesn't exist. Identical communications were placed Wednesday, March 21, by American ambassadors before the governments of Great Britain, France, Italy, Japan and Belgium. Secretary Hughes insists that the right of the United States to be paid is not only clearly equitable but free from any technical objection. He sets forth in detail this right, as established jointly under the terms of the armistice, the treaty of Versailles and the treaty of peace between the United States and Germany. He says the United States will welcome any suggestion from the allies for reasonable adjustment. And in the meantime they please refrain from giving effect to any arrangements for the distribution of German cash payments to the exclusion of the claim of the United States.

Evidently the situation is one which requires an able secretary of state. It apparently has many complications. In debate in the senate Senator Lodge said that our claim had nothing to do with either treaty, that it was based to pay the bonus, which is omitted from the house bill. Some political prophets predict a deadlock between the two houses. Nobody pretends to be able to say whether or not President Harding will veto the bill.

President Harding, upon his return from a short vacation in Florida, was called upon Monday, March 20, at the White House by a delegation from the house: Floor Leader Mondell (Wyoming) and Representatives Fordney (Michigan), Towner (Iowa), Campbell (Kansas), Longworth (Ohio) and Fess (Ohio). They discussed bonus legislation for two hours, with this result, according to the official communiqué: "The legislative situation relating to the bonus bill was fully presented to the President, with detailed explanation of the provisions which remove the menace of excessive drafts on the treasury in the immediate future and avoid any program of added taxation. The President went over the entire situation with an appraisal of commitments made. He advised the committee that the legislation is a responsibility of congress, and in view of expressions previously made he did not think it essential to offer any recommendations."

The President's "expressions previously made" were recommendations of a sales tax to provide the revenue to pay the bonus or postponement of the passage of the measure until the funds were in hand. The delegation was divided as to whether the President would or would not veto the bill passed.

Everybody was on hand when the house opened Monday and nobody seemed to know what Speaker Gillett intended to do. Garner (Democrat, Texas) asked that Mondell be given two minutes to tell the status of the bonus bill. Campbell called for the regular order. The speaker announced that no one would be recognized that day to bring up the bill. Then there was a conference in the speaker's office. It got nowhere. The speaker held that he would not assume the responsibility of letting the bill come up until he had the express command of the majority members. Democratic members of the ways and means committee made a minority report which called the bill all the financial, economic and political names on the calendar. Tuesday a definite program for the passage of the bill Thursday by the house under a suspension of the rules was announced by the Republican leaders.

EUROPE is confronted by the danger of a devastating plague of typhus, according to the health department of the League of Nations. Ten million emigrants bearing typhus germs are bearing down on the western frontiers of Russia and no barrier European nations can erect will stop this panic-stricken horde of peasants fleeing from famine and death. Already the Polish barrier has been broken down; 600,000 Russians have swarmed into Eastern Galicia. Everywhere the route of the hordes is lined with unburied corpses. In the famine districts they are dying so fast that little effort is made to bury the dead. The league will attempt to establish a sanitary cordon. Bayonets will be abandoned and an attempt made to cleanse and cure the millions.

MAINE furnished the first test of strength in the congressional elections. John E. Nelson, Republican, defeated Ernest McLean, Democrat, in a special election in the Third district. The Republican victory was in the face of "Democratic weather." The Democrats cut down the majority, however, in a district which is normally strongly Republican, basing their campaign largely on the bonus and treaty issues. Query: What does the test of strength show?

STEFANSSON, the Arctic explorer, has planted the flag of Great Britain on Wrangell Island and claimed it for the British government. Just the same, in 1881 Capt. C. L. Hopper of the Corwin and Lieut. Robert M. Berry of the Rodgers landed on Wrangell island, erected an American flag, took possession in the name of the United States by right of discovery and left a written record in a cairn. The island is important—if it is important—because of strategic dominance of northeastern Siberia.

"My name is B—," he said to the secretary. "Is my wife here?"

He was informed that she was not.

"Are there any other hospitals near here?" he asked, and again came the reply in the negative.

In despair, and with a view to advice how to act, he showed the secretary the note his wife had left.

"Dearest Jack—I have gone to have my kimono cut out."

Sensible Nurse.

Most folk at one time or another regale their friends with details of the surgical operations they have undergone. Nearly always great stress is laid on the discomfort attendant upon "coming to."

This patient was well on the road to recovery, and the Woman, who had visited her many times, had as yet heard nothing of the throes of "coming to." Wondering why, she asked her friend if she had experienced any trouble along that line. Her friend laughed. "That part was funny," she said. "Funny?" repeated the Woman, "in what way?" "Why, I asked the nurse, 'Am I coming to?' and the nurse replied, simply, 'No, you're to.' That's all there was to it."—Chicago Journal.

His Fortune.

Sense of humor in a profiteer is a redeeming feature. A particularly snobbish young man was talking to a self-made, war-made man the other day. "Of course," he said, "you, in your busy life have no time for culture. Now I can speak Italian, Spanish, French, German and many other languages. I wonder what can you speak?" "Billingsgate and golf," said the profiteer.

A Fish as a Mousetrap.

A large brook trout was caught by J. E. Barbour of Paterson, N. J., in the St. John's river, Gaspe, Canada, June 20, 1921, and when opened it was found that its stomach contained nine mice, five of them quite large.

Now you can get yeast the way you want it

For the first time you can get a pure whole yeast in agreeable and convenient tablet form

Of surpassing interest to you thousands of men and women who understand the remarkable health-building properties of yeast is the knowledge that you can now get yeast the way you want it.

Ever since the therapeutic value of yeast was definitely determined by leading scientists, there has been an insistent demand for a pure whole yeast of high vitamin potency—that would keep; that would be easy and agreeable to take; that could be conveniently carried about in the pocket, and, finally, that would not form gas nor cause flatulency or belching.

In Yeast Foam Tablets these demands have been met.

A food—not a medicine
Yeast has within itself the amazing therapeutic element, vitamin, the corrective properties of which are more astounding than any known drug or medicine.

If you wish to take drugs or medicine, do so on the advice of your physician. If you wish to take a supplementary food, for its tonic action on the whole body, take pure, whole, concentrated yeast—Yeast Foam Tablets.

What this new yeast does

"Foods which lack vitamin will not maintain health," says a noted medical authority, "and many foods which originally contained this element reach our table with all vitamin eliminated, due to various heating and preparing processes."

The vitamin thus eliminated is restored through the addition to your regular food of Yeast Foam Tablets. They stimulate the appetite, aid digestion and enable the body to convert food into firm, healthy tissue.

What to take Yeast Foam Tablets for

For that ill health, commonly known as a run-down condition, and all its distressing symptoms such as sluggishness, anaemia, failing strength and endurance, lost appetite and malnutrition, you will find nothing more efficacious than a prompt treatment of Yeast Foam Tablets. They are sold by all druggists.

The only pure whole yeast in easy-to-take tablet form.

They contain no drugs or other ingredients.

They do not form gas nor cause belching.

They are the only pure whole yeast suitable for children; they do not cause fermentation.

Each lot is tested to insure high and uniform vitamin potency.

AFTER CARL THORWARTH

Former Genoa Man's Actions Are Watched by Elgin Police

Immediate action to close up Carl Thorwarth's Villa street road house, which has been allowed to operate for months without serious interference from authorities was promised today. Thorwarth was ordered to appear in Police Magistrate George R. Thompson's court to explain alleged carousels in his place, which was formerly the property of the United States Brewing company.

Cigaret and Soft drink licenses at his place may be revoked and a strict watch kept by Elgin police to prevent repetition of occurrences said to have taken place since its opening.

Police have been furnished with information that tends to show Thorwarth's roadhouse has been the scene of "moonshine" sales, fights, gambling and even shooting affairs.

Mayor May Cancel Licenses
The existence of Thorwarth's place depends now upon Mayor Arwin E. Price, according to officers and city hall attaches. As mayor and ex-officio chief of police he can bring about the revoking of soft drink and cigarette licenses and see that the resort permits no lawlessness.

Eighteen-year-old Walter Jacobson was bound over to the Kane county grand jury today on $500 bonds for larceny. He pleaded guilty to stealing $30 from his sister on Wednesday and $20 more yesterday. He was arrested by Officer Charles Struckman last night.

Asked to explain what he did with the money the youth told Police Magistrate George R. Thompson, Attorney Charles Seidel, representing the state's attorney's office, and others in the courtroom that he went out to Thorwarth's place.

"What did you do there?" asked Attorney Seidel.

"Well, we took a couple of drinks of moonshine and had some beer," he answered.

"Did it affect you any?"

"Yes, it made me feel happy. I left after awhile."

"Who did you go out there with," he was asked.

"I don't know their names," he replied. "They were two fellows. One was tall and the other short. I met them in a pool room. They had a Paige automobile."

Call Thorwarth To Court

The boy explained that he paid seventy-five cents a "shot" for liquor and spent several dollars. Then when he became intoxicated he lent $15 to one, and $10 to the other of his two companions.

Although Thorwarth was called on the telephone shortly after 9 o'clock this morning and ordered to appear in court he had not arrived at the courtroom late this afternoon and he is said to have been in consultation with an attorney.

Thorwarth is still at large and going on a big as ever. He even has the audacity to "carry-on" in the face of district attorney Clyde of Cook county.

Classifying Youthful Visitor

One day a caller brought her small son, who had evidently never been taught to obey, and the pleasure of the visit was much marred. As the guests walked away Anita stood looking after them and, in a disapproving tone, said: "He certainly is the worst-est milder I ever saw."

FOR COMMITTEEMAN

Axel Hammerberg of Rockford, a young and popular business man of that city, is a candidate for state committeeman on the Republican ticket. The Republican is willing to stake its reputation for honesty on the integrity of this man. He is clean cut, a man of convictions and one who is not afraid to stand for the things that are right politically. He is not hooked up with the Lundin-Thompson crowd in any manner. If he were, The Republican could not possibly support him. He is for the state of Illinois in all that concerns the best interests of the state as a whole. He is friendly to the interests which concern this immediate vicinity at the present time and it behooves Genoa and the other towns of the county to get behind this man with a vote on the 11th of April. Look for the name of Axel Hammerberg on the ticket and do not fail to place a cross before the name.

HENRY R. RATHBONE

Genoa people know Henry R. Rathbone, candidate for congressman at large. It was this man who gave the eloquent address on Main street about two years ago. To know Rathbone is to like him. And the better one knows him, that liking grows. Mr. Rathbone has a reputation for uprightness that is enviable among all candidates. He establishes confidence at once when he clasps the hand and his homely face beams with that whole-hearted sincere smile of greeting. Rathbone is one of the cleanest men before the public in this campaign and no one can imagine him at any time in the future but as keeping politically clean and as honest with his constituents as he has always been with his fellow men in private life.

EVERY VOTE WILL COUNT

Genoa's candidate for sheriff, Edwin E. Crawford, has, during the past several months, been conducting a clean campaign thruout the county and he is decidedly optimistic regarding the results on the 11th of April. Everywhere he is making friends and has been greatly encouraged by his contact with people in every part of the county. However, his nomination may hinge on a few votes. It sometimes happens that way. Remember the small majority at the last primary election for state's attorney. Every friend of Edwin Crawford must get out and vote on the 11th. Genoa township should cast 1100 votes. Genoa township is entitled to a representation at the county seat and this candidate will not cause any regrets if elected. One vote may mean election or defeat. Be sure that yours is in the ballot box on the 11th of April.

Mothers—Important

Mothers should see that the whole family take a thorough purifying system cleaning laxative this Spring NOW IS THE TIME. The family will be healthier, happier, and get along better if the blood is given a thorough purifying, the stomach and bowels cleaned out, and the germs of winter accumulated in the system, driven away. Little Banking Stories

Three Good Rules

A YOUNG MAN who was determined to build up a snug little fortune decided to learn how others had solved the same problems that confronted him. He found three things were necessary.

First—Of course he must learn to earn money and the more he could earn the easier his success would be.

Second—He found that it was very important to learn to spend his money properly. It is very easy to "blow in" a man earns.

Third—He found it was no trick to save money if the first and second rules were observed. Any one who knows how to earn money and spend wisely will find a snug bank account easily obtained.

Try these rules for yourself.

AGRICULTURE

Prepared and Edited by the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois

Job of Farmers' Institute

By EUGENE DAVENPORT, Dean, College of Agriculture.
 Every now and again somebody asks whether in the interest of economy some cheaper method might not be found for holding farmers' institutes than the one that is now in operation in Illinois whereby a board of directors representing the various congressional districts administers both the county institutes and the state round-up.

Whoever asks the question in this form has in mind the meetings that are held rather than the body of men that really constitute the organization known as the Illinois Farmers' Institute. Almost anybody can hold meetings; but the important feature of the Illinois Farmers' Institute is the institute itself, that is to say, the body of men who constitute it. The great thing about the institute is that it constitutes a forum for the discussion of really live topics in agriculture, and a forum, moreover, that cannot be prostituted to political purposes or the designs of agitators. The Institute has always operated for the public good, and upon that record its work will stand.

The first real job undertaken by the farmers' institute was the organization of the college of agriculture at the State university. No sooner was that enterprise well on its feet than the institute fathered the project of a state soil survey whereby the experiment station is identifying, locating and mapping all the different types of Illinois soils, covering area of as much as five acres in extent. In addition to the soil survey the institute has backed the project of series of soil experimental fields, now some thirty-five in number, scattered over the state in different sections and upon different types of soil. This is the most extensive study of the soils of a region that has ever been made by any state or any nation of the world, and it could not have been done without the support and the counsel of a body of men like the Illinois Farmers' Institute.

It is true that anybody can hold meetings, but only a body of responsible citizens can insure that the meetings will really be worth holding, that the topics discussed are significant topics and that those who discuss them are competent to undertake the service. From this point of view the Farmers' Institute is a public servant, and as long as the score or so of leading farmers of the state are willing to give their services in this way for the bare cost of traveling expenses, Illinois is fortunate indeed.

We of the Upper Mississippi Valley are entering upon a new era of agricultural development. Chicago will probably be an ocean port within the next quarter of a century. Illinois will then become an industrial as well as an agricultural state. We have here a soil of the best, a population unrivaled in intelligence and industry. Just under our feet are coal and oil, and everywhere is a surface over which transportation by land is easily and cheaply carried on. The center of population will soon come within the borders of Illinois probably to there remain.

To keep pace with all these developments, the agriculture of the state has much to do, and the job of the Illinois Farmers' Institute in the future as in the past will be one that is worthy of the best efforts of the best citizens.

Hotbed Helps Your Garden

For early crops of cabbage, cauliflower and head lettuce, and for maximum crops of tomatoes, peppers and eggplant, seed should be sown under glass several weeks in advance of gardening weather out-of-doors. The home gardener (and the market gardener who has no greenhouse) should therefore construct a hotbed for starting these important crops.

Fermenting manure is the most common source of heat for home garden hotbeds, and there are two types of manure hotbeds, namely, pit hotbeds and surface hotbeds. In a pit hotbed the manure is placed in a pit of sufficient depth so that the top of the hotbed frame, which is placed on top of the manure, is about on a level with the surface of the ground. A surface hotbed is simpler to construct and consists merely of a level pile of hot manure about two feet deep on which the hotbed frame is placed. Manure is then banked to the top of the frame and extending out about two feet around it to give added warmth and protection from the wind.

In a locality where outdoor gardening can commence about the first week in April, seed for the crops previously mentioned should be sown in the hotbed about the first week in March. Preparation of manure for the hotbed should commence two or three weeks previous to the time for sowing the seed.

Fresh horse manure should be stacked in a compact pile and, if rather dry, should be moistened as it is being stacked. As soon as it is heating well, it should be forked over and lumps broken up and thoroughly mixed, and stacked again so that fermentation will be uniform. When the whole pile is again steaming hot, it is ready to construct the hotbed. When constructing the hotbed the manure should be put down in layers six inches deep, thoroughly tramping each layer. When the bed is complete the manure should be two feet deep. The frame should then be placed on the manure. The frame should be 12 inches high on the south side and 18 to 18 inches high on the north side, and of the exact width and length to fit the hotbed sash. The standard sash is 6 feet long and 3 feet wide, and a two-sash frame is sufficient to start plants for the average home garden, though three or four sashes can be used to advantage.

From four to six inches of soil should be placed in the frame, but the hotbed should not be planted for a week or more, because the manure will generate sufficient heat to kill the seeds or plants. After the bed has heated and then cooled down to 85 degrees Fahrenheit, the seeds may safely be sown.

Soil Moisture Control

By R. S. Smith.
 An old Pennsylvania Dutch farmer from the fertile Cumberland valley, decided to invest some of his wealth, which had come from long years of frugal living and hard work on his increasingly productive farm, in a pleasure trip to the Pacific coast. He boarded a Pullman in Harrisburg and journeyed to Chicago and on west over one of the northern routes. Nothing of great interest attracted his attention until he passed a general north-south line which may be drawn from Grand Forks, N. D., south through North Platte, Neb., and Amarillo, Tex. Coming as he did from a fertile section with an abundant rainfall, the tragedy of living where the daily anxiety was for sufficient moisture to nourish the crops had never been a part of his experience.

As the train covered mile after mile of semi-arid country dotted at frequent intervals with settlers' shanties surrounded by pathetic little patches of corn and broad acres of sparse pastures, the old farmer grew weary; and settling back in his seat and closing his eyes to what to him was a desolate but thought-stimulating country, he pieced together the fragments of knowledge gained through long experience into the story of soil moisture. Here is the story:

All plants are composed largely of water, but far more water escapes through the minute pores in the leaves than remains in the plant. In fact, it requires several hundred pounds of water to produce one pound of plant tissue. If this large amount of water is not forthcoming when needed, the plant's growth is stunted and once stunted, complete recovery is never possible. Even in a humid climate, crops frequently suffer for more or less brief periods from drought, therefore the importance of moisture control. Experience and investigation have shown that in its simplest terms this means proper drainage, and good farming to keep the absorbent power of the soil up to par and the weeds under control. If these two points are taken care of, we have done all that is possible towards moisture control in non-irrigated regions.

Thus the old farmer in his musings, which were stimulated by apparent drought in the country through which he was riding, had hit upon the essentials of moisture control.

Illinois Hog Population

Did you ever stop to figure Illinois' hog population?
 The total number of hogs in Illinois, according to the 1920 census, was 4,639,182. Of this number nearly 930,000 were sows and gilts of breeding age. The number of hogs for the average farm in Illinois of 135 acres was 19.5 hogs.

The ten counties which lead in the hog population are in the western and northwest central section of the state. One-fourth of the hogs in the 102 counties of the state are in these ten counties:
 Henry, 140,286; Fulton, 134,833; Mercer, 119,337; Bureau, 118,282; McLean, 113,576; Knox, 113,262; Warren, 105,679; Pike, 104,762; Hancock, 96,618; Sangamon, 95,232.

The total number of hogs reported for the state in the 1920 census is practically the same as given in 1910. The number by counties, however, has undergone some change. The thirty-four southern counties show a decrease of 10 per cent. The majority of the western northern counties likewise show a decrease. This loss is made up by an increase in the number in the northeast central part of the state. Fourteen counties in this section show an average increase of 19 per cent. This is a section where much corn is grown for the number of hogs raised. Champaign county, one of the highest producing corn counties, had an increase of 31 per cent in the number of hogs in the last ten years.

Fast After a Week-End.
 The wider freedom of the leisure hours of the week-end produces in the case of many ordinary sedentary persons a condition of well-being and increased appetite which is apt to last on into the beginning of the working week, with disastrous consequences. Thus the Lancet (London) is advising persons returning to town from week-ends in the country to cut out their midday meal on Monday.

A UNION OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

Healthy Housewife---Happy Home

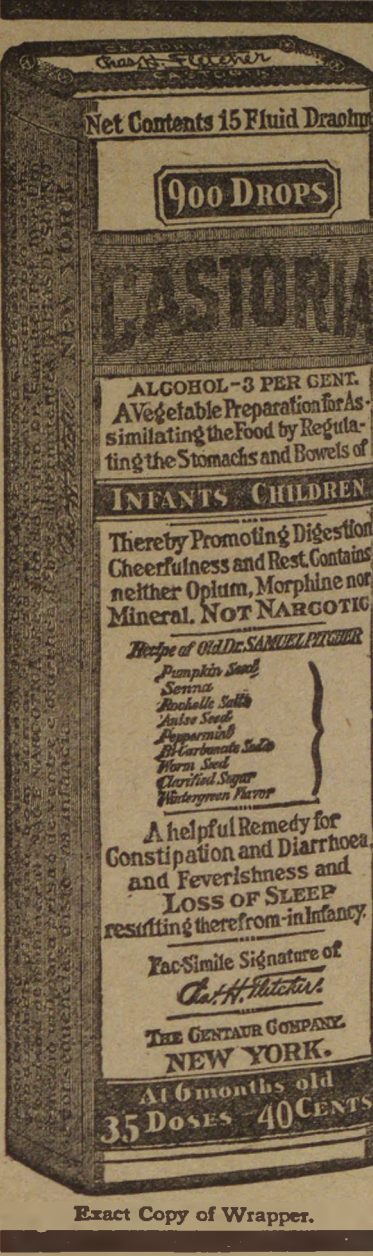

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Has Helped Form Many

For the ailing, half-sick housewife such a union is impossible. Often times even the slightest form of housework cannot be accomplished. Yet the work must be done.
 Many women struggle along for years suffering from some form of female trouble that make their lives miserable and their homes far from happy.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped thousands of just such women regain their health and strength. Just give your thought to the following letters and remember that the women who wrote these letters knew how they felt before taking the Vegetable Compound and again afterwards. It helped them—let it help you.
Had Nervous Spells
 Horatio, Ark.—"I had nervous spells and awful bad feelings. My right side and my back hurt me all the time and I had been going down in health for six or seven years. For three years I had not been able to do my work without help. I weighed only 95 pounds when my husband's mother persuaded me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Now I heartily recommend it to all suffering women, as I have gained weight and health. I can do all my work, anything I want to do."—Mrs. JIM REARICK, Horatio, Arkansas.

PLATONIC FRIENDSHIP A JOKE

Opinion Firmly Held by One Man, and He Has Good Reason for So Believing.

I never believed in platonic friendship. I've heard a lot about it, but I claim it's a joke!
 But one summer I met a pretty girl who believed in it. She told me that our friendship would have to be platonic or nothing. She said we could be good chums and not spoil it all by becoming sentimental. I didn't want to get married, so I readily agreed. As we both then knew that it would be perfectly safe, we started in at once with moonlight and so forth.

That was ten years ago. Today we have seven fine children and my wife is very busy. So am I. Any woman who has ever had to take care of seven fine children knows how busy my wife is, and any man who has ever had to provide for that number knows how busy I am.
 I never believe in platonic friendship. I've heard a lot about it, but I claim it's a joke.—William Sanford in Judge.

Revolutionizing the Orchestra.
 Leo Sir, an aged violin maker of Marmande, France, has perfected instruments that may revolutionize the orchestra. At present we use four violin-type instruments, ranging from the soprano violin to the bass viol. M. Sir provides two super-sopranos, a mezzo-soprano slightly above the present alto, barytone just below the tenor and a sub-bass. The newly organized orchestra has been tried out at the Montmartre theater and critics declare that the possibilities of interpretation are wonderfully increased.—Scientific American.

DOG KILLS 141 RODENTS
 Sycamore Fox Terrier Kills 141 Rats in 2 Hours on John Waterman Farm

Speaking of dogs, little Teddy, the fox terrier, belonging to Mrs. W. H. Baker of Sycamore, is a dog worth his weight in gold. Mr. Baker was asked by John Waterman to take Teddy out to the Waterman farm on the Sycamore road to try his bite on the rats which had taken possession of the Waterman corn crib. Thursday morning Mr. Baker and Mr. Waterman went out with Teddy. Boards were placed around the corner so that no rat could escape and then the floor of it was raised board by board. Teddy began his engagement at 9:15 in the morning; at 11:15 he had killed 141 rats and Mr. Baker brought them to town where every one could have a look at them. The dog is only a year and a month old and it is safe to say that there is not a record in the county that can equal it.—Sycamore Tribune.
