

NOTES FROM THE COURT HOUSE

D. S. Brown Victorious in Suit Brought against Rubber Co.

FACTORY CONVEYED BACK TO HIM

Marvel Tire and Rubber Co. Suits Dismissed in Many Cases—Government Suit Stands

D. S. Brown of Genoa, was victorious in his suit against Joseph A. Berger and others growing out of the Alpha Rubber Co. later the Genoa Rubber Company enterprise, according to a decree entered by Judge Slusser in circuit court on Monday July 23, 1923. According to the terms of the decree entered by the court the Genoa Rubber Mfg. Company by John A. Dowdall trustee in bankruptcy is directed to execute and deliver within 10 days a deed of conveyance to Mr. Brown of all right and interest of the Genoa Rubber Co. which it in any way derived by virtue of a deed from the defendants Joseph A. Berger and others in three acres of land in Genoa. It is further decreed by the court that the defendant Genoa Rubber Mfg. Co. formerly the Alpha Rubber Co. is divested of all the right it acquired under a deed from Mr. Brown and his wife, Louis Birkenstein is to be paid $1500 on account of his judgment now a lien on the property from Mr. Brown. In the event the deeds are not executed then the Master in Chancery is given power to execute deeds of conveyance to D. S. Brown.

An appeal was prayed from the decree entered by Judge Slusser which was allowed on filing of a bond in the sum of $500.

In the proceedings brought to foreclose the mortgage given by the Marvel Tire & Rubber Company and others to the Pierce Trust & Savings Bank which has been consolidated with the mechanics lien proceedings brought against the rubber company by E. J. Morgan and Charles Harbaugh Lumber Co. of Sycamore, an order dismissing the case as against the government was entered. The United States Internal Revenue was made a party on account of some unpaid revenue. A further order defaulting a number of defendants was also entered and a hearing had on the merits. The court then entered a decree which is to be filed in the near future.

Lester Groves of Sycamore who brought suit through his father Henry Groves against Harold Gorton for damages sustained to his automobile by reason of being struck by automobile driven by plaintiff recovered a judgment before Justice Mitchell of Sycamore in the sum of $100 on June 30, 1923. From this judgment the defendant appealed on July 23 to the circuit where the case will be tried anew.

P. G. Lundberg of Kirkland obtained two judgments by confession in the circuit court; the first judgment was against Earl L. McCoy for the sum of $67.75 and is based on a judgment note given May 29, 1923 in the payment of which default was made Sept. 1, 1922. The second judgment is against Harold B. Avery and Mildred Avery, for the sum of $44.57 and is also based on a judgment note executed Feb. 10, 1922 due 30 days after date.

The First State Bank of Maple Park, filed two transcripts of judgment in the circuit court of DeKalb county, one against Ira E. Hoover and Eliza Hoover for the sum of $3307.70 and one against Ira E. Hoover for the sum of $253.88. Both judgments were obtained by the bank on judgment notes given by defendants to the bank and both judgments were obtained before Judge Edward M. Magan of the city court of Aurora July 14, 1923.

POISON IVY

On the arrival of the Leviathan at Southampton, England, on its first trip across the ocean under the American flag, Albert D. Lasker, chairman of the United States Shipping Board, was asked if he believed in government ownership. His answer was: "No. Government ownership is a poison ivy which destroys individual enterprise and initiative."

Simple Arrangement.

When a warrior of the Hilvaros, a savage tribe of Indians in eastern Ecuador, desires the wife of another member he merely waits in ambush and kills the husband and then takes possession of the wife.

SANDWICH TO HAVE MOVIES

Citizens' Vote 2 to 1 in Favor of Repealing Law Prohibiting Them

Any subject that is considered to involve morality or to affect religious beliefs is always bitterly contested when it comes before the people for a decision. Thus it was that there was much feeling over the vote at Sandwich Saturday to decide whether moving pictures should be shown on Sunday.

The vote was nearly two to one—490 for repeal to 296 against—of an old ordinance prohibiting Sunday theaters.

Old residents can recall no election on a like issue which created more interest or waxed hotter—so hot in fact, that arguments emerged into scuffles in which fistcuffs were employed to settle where debate had failed. Deputy Sheriff C. Britton was largely occupied in parting excited citizens who could not agree. The excitement reached a climax shortly after the dinner hour when about 200 voters for the repeal arrived at the polls. The Puritans rallied and attempted to head off the avalanche of Sunday amusement seekers and attempted to disuade the movie fans from their purpose with the result that words were thrown aside and numerous clashes required all Sheriff C. Britton's efforts to quell the turbulent feeling of both sides.

HAL BILLIG STARTS SUIT

Wants $50,000 From W. E. D. Stokes—Alleges Slander

W. E. D. Stokes, multimillionaire New York publisher and hotel owner was named in a $50,000 damage suit filed against him in Chicago on behalf of Hal C. Billig, Jr., a Chicago real estate broker with offices at 70 W. Monroe street.

Only the praecipe of the suit was filed, and immediately after the filing Mr. Billig hurried to the Hawthorne race track with deputy bailiffs to obtain service on the millionaire.

Attorney Chas. E. Erbstein, counsel for the broker, asserted that the suit is based on an alleged slander, growing out of the naming of Mr. Billig in connection with the Stokes divorce suit.

Deposition Untrue, Charge

Mr. Billig, he said, was unrightfully named in a deposition taken in Chicago.

He added that certain allegations in the deposition were "entirely untrue," and that Mr. Billig had been injured to the extent of the damage sought.

With the filing of the suit interest in the Stokes case is for the time, at least, centered in Chicago.

Mrs. Helen Elwood Stokes, a titian haired beauty, is the other principal in this action.

She filed the first suit several years ago and was granted a divorce. Mr. Stokes then caused the case to be reopened and hearings have been held at intervals ever since.

Hal Billig lived in Genoa when a small boy, his father, Dr. Billig, was a well-known dentist here.

A REAL PEARL

Steve Abraham Found Huge Clam That Contained High Priced Pearl

Steve Abraham, local connoisseur of pearls and pearl fishing reaped further rewards last Saturday when he found a clam that contained a pearl priced according to him, around $200. It is a beautiful specimen, being a dull copper color. Incidentally he let us see a small box that contained about 30 such stones in various colors and shapes. We agree with Mr. Abraham that they are beautiful gems and reflect hours of work and hardship put forth by the proud owner in their acquisition.

CRAWFORD AT WEDDING PARTY

On Thursday Judge Mitchell beat the record when he joined in marriage Mr. Lowell Pruitt and Miss Clara with Sheriff Ed Crawford standing by to see that there would be no back talk. Mr. Pruitt had been living at Ed's hotel, otherwise known as the county jail, charged with rape. Both bride and groom were under age and the consent of the parents in both cases was furnished and when the judge had tied the knot, the happy groom was discharged from further custody by Sheriff Crawford.

WHY ILLINOIS UNIVERSITY LEADS

Careful Attention Given by Board of Trustees in Selecting Advisors

H. H. PARKE OF GENOA NAMED

Object of Selecting Men of Practical Experience Lies in "Taking Its Cue From Without"

Urbana, Illinois, July 26.—Advisory committees for the various departments of the College of Agriculture at the University of Illinois, made up of leaders in their line from all sections of the State, have been announced after approval by the University's Board of Trustees.

According to authorities, one of the reasons why the University's work has become so practical is because it "takes its cue from without." The appointment of these advisory committees is one of the manners by which the University gets its cue and becomes so useful.

The committees are as follows:

Farm Crops

Harvey Sconce, Sidell
Eugene D. Funk, Bloomington
William Webb, Joliet
Charles Rowe, Jacksonville
O. J. Sommer, Pekin

Soils

Ralph Allen, Delavan
Frank I. Mann, Gilman
A. N. Abbott, Morrison
G. F. Tullock, Rockford
N. F. Goodwin, Palestine

Animal Husbandry

Joseph Fulkerson, Jerseyville
W. S. Corsa, White Hall
A. A. Armstrong, Camargo
A. F. Rising, Champaign
Dan T. Davis, Sugar Grove

Horticulture

W. S. Perrine, Centralia
A. L. C. Clay, Hillview
H. M. Dunlap, Savoy
G. A. Bryant, Princeton
August Geweke, De Plaines

Floriculture

Joseph Kohout, Libertyville
Albert T. Hey, Maywood
W. N. Rudd, Morgan Park
W. J. Heimbrenner, Springfield
F. L. Washburn, Bloomington

Dairy Husbandry

George A. Fox, Chicago
Dr. N. W. Hepburn, Peoria
Senator Rodney B. Swift, Lake Forest

Fred Schuster, Springfield

H. J. Shultz, Shipman

Farm Organization & Management

C. A. Ewing, Decatur
F. H. McKelvey, Springfield
H. H. Parke, Genoa
W. E. Riegel, Tolono
W. H. Smith, Eureka

Farm Mechanics

J. P. Stout, Chatham
J. V. Stevenson, Streator
E. L. Gillham, Edwardsville

NOT SO BAD, NOT SO BAD

After touring through the country of several adjacent counties, we like to recall the good roads we had while in our own county, and what a relief it was to get back on them.

As fine an example of patrol work and non-patrol work as one would wish for is the step over between DeKalb and Kane counties, especially that part of Kane directly east of us.

The local patrolmen, Mr. Montgomery and Mr. Gray have their highways in first class shape, as good as can be expected in any gravel or dirt road, but when one gets off the old DeKalb Co. soil, the pumps become apparent by the rough riding of the slowest traveling auto. We are highly in favor of patrolled roads and think it is the only salvation for the upkeep of modern highway, be they cement or gravel or dirt. A look is enough, but a ride over them is convincing.

SHERMAN STOCK CO. HERE

The annual showing of the Sherman Stock Co. is taking place this week in the big tent, made famous by old "Steve" Hubbard. An entirely new cast is on the stage and these people are playing to large audiences every night.

MOORE ESCAPES JOLIET

Sentenced from DeKalb County for Burglary

Information has reached the office of State's attorney Poust that Robert W. Moore alias Walter Olinger, alias etc. sentenced to the Joliet penitentiary from this county on a charge of larceny and burglary for a term of from one to twenty years on March 3, 1921, made a successful escape from Joliet a few days ago and that a reward of $50 has been offered by that state for his capture.

On December 8, 1920 the Village of Malta was thrown into a flurry of excitement at about 2:30 a. m. when a light seen in the garage of Saur & O'Brien, Dan O'Brien one of the proprietors of the garage hastened to the garage and bumped into a man carrying an armful of tires, both men clinched and soon others appeared on the scene and several shots were fired after the fleeing form. The man went down and to all appearance was dead or seriously wounded. The thoughts of the men turned to his confederates which were discovered in an automobile and found to be his wife and mother-in-law. On reaching the place where the prostrate form of the robber was to be they found he had decamped. His wife and mother-in-law were arrested and later Moore surrendered himself to Henry Decker than Sheriff. On being searched by Sheriff Decker, several saws were discovered fastened with tape under his feet and when questioned at the time he admitted that his purpose of surrender was to liberate his friends.

Moore was later indicted by the grand jury and sentenced to the penitentiary. He was known as the burglar who played possum. His wife and mother-in-law were sentenced to the county jail and when their term expired were ordered out of town. Moore is sure a slippery crook and has had that reputation in his pen as well as the several counties where he came in contact with the police authorities.

BALL TEAM DISBANDED

Lack of Enthusiasm and Support Causes Mgr. Overlee to Withdraw Players

Sunday was the last game of the season for the local club as far as Mgr. Overlee is concerned. The crowd, amounting to some $15.00 hardly paid the expenses of one player let alone a few players and a visiting team, hence the drastic move. Ox states that as long as all the men would not come out to practice it was no use in trying to put a winner on the field and without a winner the gate receipts are generally pretty small.

The Belvidere Grays were on deck Sunday and made a noise that ended about 6 to 3 in their favor. The game itself was well played and but for the terrific heat more enthusiasm, could probably have been staged by the few fans present.

All the suits and accessories that belong to the team will be put away in good order. If anyone wants to organize a town team, Mr. Overlee is perfectly willing to turn over the stuff to said person and let him go to it.

We think Ox deserves quite a bit of praise for the way he has stuck to the job and battled on against some pretty tough odds and are quite sure that next year the local fans will want a real ball team again and will give it their unstinted support.

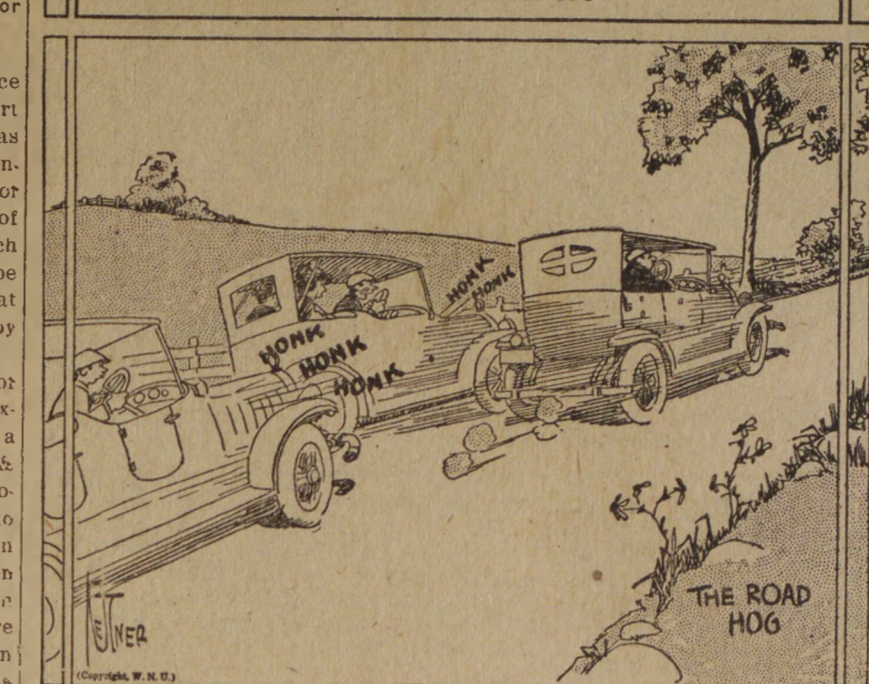

MANY GO TO CRYSTAL LAKE

Hot days and hotter nights hold no torment for the people around Genoa judging by the crowds that traveled to Crystal Lake Sunday to partake of the cooling waters and refreshing breezes. It is a beautiful lake and exceptionally clean and one of ten wonders why a few summer resort hotels have not been opened there. The only fault that can be found, if it is a fault, lies in the 23 mile journey to the place. Sometime in the near future the writer hopes to see a huge swimming pool in Genoa that will accommodate several hundred bathers at one time. The city has an ideal spot for such a place and the water supply is sufficient.

NEW CEMENT WALK AT SCHOOL

The school children that journey to the "high" building next fall will not need to be in fear of breaking their necks in a slide from the old wooden planks in case of rain. A large cement walk is now in the course of construction that will connect the walk on the north side of west Main street with the front door of the building.

BIG MYSTIC PICNIC

Mystic Workers of Five Counties Will Attend Gathering at Morrison, Ill.

The Mystic Workers of the Illinois district, composed of Ogle, Whiteside, Lee, Carroll and DeKalb counties, and presided over by Clara Cookson of Sterling, will hold a picnic on Thursday afternoon, August 2.

It will be an all-afternoon affair, starting promptly at one o'clock, running into a big picnic supper and winding up with a dance in the evening at the Legion open air pavilion in Morrison. This pavilion is a delightful place, the floor accommodating 400 couples and 200 spectators.

The program will be enlivened by music by the Fenton Mystic Band, and there will be various contests and games to entertain the young and old.

What promises to be a feature of the afternoon is a ball game between the mystic juveniles of Morrison and Fulton. The adults will also stage a game.

There will be exhibition drills by the adult team of Dixon, which is the champion team of the society, and by the Morrison juveniles, which won wide fame in the society by their work at the national convention of the Mystic Workers in Peoria last September.

There will be concessions on the grounds serving hot coffee, sandwiches, ice cream, soft drinks, dolls, etc. It is expected that a large delegation from the local lodge of Mystics will attend the big picnic.

HAMPSHIRE—STARKS ROAD

The much talked of link of cement from Hampshire to connect with the Grant Highway at Starks Station is now to be a reality. The contract for this stretch was let by the committee of the Kane County Board of Supervisors the fore part of last week. Gierz & Son of Elgin were awarded the contract.

NEW PUMP IN WORKING ORDER

City Now Fortified with Two Wells and Two Pumps

After several weeks' delay in getting the new pump to work just right Genoa is now in possession of two pumps and two artesian wells that insure to the people of the city the best water it is possible to procure.

This office was informed that for a time the new pump did not work just right and the firm of J. R. Kierman & Son, from whom the machinery was purchased, spared no expense in getting the thing fixed, a man being called directly from the factory to make the several adjustments necessary.

When we look at the trouble most of the other towns in our vicinity have with their pumps, water, and pressure systems, we think Genoa is mighty fortunate in having such progressive men at the head of the public utilities. For years this city has been noted for its up-to-dateness in every branch of business and it bids fair to continue the paths indefinitely.

NEW CROSSINGS IN CITY

Supt. of streets, Heed, and force of men have been busy the last two or three weeks putting in new crossings that connect new cement walks with the old. The one on Main and Brown street is a pretty nifty piece of work, the customary elevation or depression of half a foot or so having been eliminated. The other crossing was built across from the Wm. Lembke home on South Brown St.

HINTS TO AUTO-MOBILE TOURISTS

Choose only Camp Grounds That Are Safe and Sanitary

DANGER LIES IN DRINKING WATER

Observe all Fundamental Laws of Refuse Disposal same as at Home

HINTS TO AUTO TOURISTS

Springfield, Ill. July 25.—The Illinois department of public health realizes that the ever increasing number for people who travel by automobile and camp out along the highways has brought new duties upon health officials. The camp grounds used by auto tourists must be maintained in cleanly and sanitary conditions, not only for the benefit and health of the tourists but, to protect the welfare and health of people residing near the camp grounds.

Experience has shown that many auto tourists are often careless and deposit and scatter refuse without due regard to the welfare and health of others. Auto tourists should observe fundamental laws at camp grounds as well as at home. A beautiful camp site can be spoiled for the use of others by one camping party neglecting due consideration to cleanliness and sanitation.

The selection of a camp site should be primarily determined by sanitary conditions. The camp should be located on ground high enough to secure dry, porous soil, and good drainage. It should not be surrounded by dense vegetation or underbrush, but should have enough trees to afford suitable shade. Desirable sites are low ridges with gentle slopes, or high banks of rivers. In cold weather a site on the south side of the slope with a woods to the north will aid in breaking the force of the wind.

Undesirable sites are the following: (1) vicinity of swamps or low places for they render the soil damp, and breed many annoying insects; (2) close proximity to cemeteries; (3) old camping grounds which have not been left in a sanitary condition and which have not had proper facilities for the disposal of sewage.

The water should be of good sanitary quality, free from all harmful bacteria. All water from unknown streams and ponds should be considered unsafe for drinking purposes until it has been purified. Quite frequently a sparkling stream of water has been contaminated by surface washing and by the deliberate usage of the same as a means of removing sewage from adjacent habitations. The easiest method of purifying suspicious water is to boil it for at least twenty minutes. All ordinary harmful organisms will be killed by the boiling process. The normal taste of water can be restored, after boiling, by aeration, by pouring repeatedly from one vessel to another.

To assure against the contracting of the filth diseases such as typhoid and paratyphoid fevers, dysentery, and cholera infantum, the excrement from the human body should be buried under at least two feet of earth. A trench latrine, two feet deep, should be dug immediately upon the arrival at camp, and the deposits should be covered with earth. On leaving the camp, this pit should be completely filled with earth. All other wastes should either be burned or buried.

ADVERTISING IS CONTINUOUS JOB

Bruce Barton, well-known magazine writer and advertising expert, in an address before the recent convention of the national Electric Light Association said:

"My message to you utility men is to be genuine, be simple, be brief. Talk to people in terms of language that they understand and finally and most of all be persistent.

"You can't expect to advertise in flush times and live on the memory of it when you are hard up. You can't expect to advertise when you are in trouble, or about to be in trouble, and expect to get anything in that direction. It is a day-by-day and hour-by-hour business.

"If the amount of money that has been thrown away by people who advertise spasmodically was all gathered together, it would form and endow a most wonderful home for aged advertising men and their widows in the world. Don't throw any of that money away. If it is worth doing at all, it is worth doing all the time.

"For every day, gentlemen, the King dies, and there arises a new King who knows not Joseph."

FRIENDS NOTICED IMPROVEMENT

Wonderful Results from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Beloit, Wis.—"My female trouble was brought on by overwork. I had worked in stores and had to do heavier work than my strength could stand, and had to be on my feet most of the time. Finally I had to give up this work entirely and stay at home. Doctor's medicine did not give me much relief, and my mother wanted me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took a couple of bottles of it and thought it did not help me as much as it should, so I gave it up to try something else. Nothing I took helped me much, so I finally decided to give the Vegetable Compound another trial and to take enough of it to make sure it would help me. I have taken it over a year now and it has brought wonderful results. I have gained from 93 to 110 pounds and am keeping house now. My friends all notice the change in my health. I will be glad to answer all letters that women write to me about the Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. W. G. MONSON, 1515 Park Ave., Beloit, Wis. New Wave-Changer Switch. A three-point wave-changer switch with locking attachment is now available for radio generators. The switch arm is so arranged that when it is moved across the face of the appliance it may be locked in either of three spring contacts. Each of these contacts gives the necessary connection for a different length of radio wave. By this method of securely fastening the arm in position on the contacts, there is no possibility of the arm jarring or vibrating out of place.

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

Johnson's Election in Minnesota Causes Excitement in Political Circles.

ADDS TO LAFOLLETTE BLOC

Kenyon's Boom for Presidential Nomination Launched by Brookhart—Governor General Wood's Row With Filipino Cabinet—France May Yield Enough to Preserve Entente.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

CAN you explain why the Capper-Tincher grain exchange bill and the other legislation put through by the farm bloc have failed to keep the price of wheat from falling below the dollar mark? If you can, tell the editor.

SURPASSING all other domestic news of the week, in interest if not in importance, was the decisive victory of Magnus Johnson, Farmer-Labor candidate for United States senator from Minnesota, over Governor Preus, nominee of the Republicans. The vote for Carley was negligible for most of the Democrats, disregarding the advice of their leaders, cast their ballots for Johnson. Minnesota now has two Farmer-Labor senators, both of whom may be counted on to support Senator LaFollette, and the Wisconsin man's little bloc thus is so strengthened that it can, in many cases, control the balance of power in the upper house. Johnson, who is a "self-made man," frankly says that on many issues he makes up his mind to accord with that of LaFollette. He declares, however, that already he is opposed to the world court, the League of Nations and foreign entanglements and in favor of a soldier bonus to be paid for out of excess profits taxes.

Republican chiefs, from the President down, were rather dismayed by the result in Minnesota. Of course Mr. Harding had nothing to say of it. Chairman Adams of the national committee said: "In a general way, the result was a protest against conditions temporarily affecting the farming interests adversely. Conditions in Minnesota and elsewhere in agricultural sections of the country are bound to improve, and with their improvement public opinion in those sections will right itself." Chairman Hull of the Democratic national committee, interpreted the result as "the most significant and humiliating defeat and repudiation the Harding administration has suffered since the nation-wide repudiation in 1922." "The election was the first reaction to President Harding's transcendent political tour with its boast of prosperity, its characteristic evasions and reversals and facing both ways," he said.

RESULTS of Johnson's victory may be more important than its causes. LaFollette, Senator Brookhart of Iowa and others gleefully predicted that it means the defeat of Mr. Harding for renomination next year, and it was said some of the party leaders might renew their efforts to induce him to decline a second term—efforts that they exerted first after the Republican reverses in the election of 1922. Brookhart, who had just returned from Europe, launched in New York a boom for the nomination of Judge Kenyon, former senator from Iowa, and LaFollette also spoke of him as a possibility though it is generally believed the Wisconsin senator will again have his own name presented to the Republican convention. Kenyon cannot well be classed with either the radicals or the extreme conservatives, but he may be found not distasteful to either wing of the party. Our other Senator Johnson—Hiram of California—also is to be brought forward by his admirers as a presidential nomination candidate, and his chances are admittedly better than they have been in the past. He is on his way back from a long tour of Europe and a rousing welcome and big banquet have been prepared for him in New York.

REVERTING to Senator Brookhart, the Iowa believes he learned a lot while abroad. He says he talked to "the living leaders of the common people in nearly all the countries of Europe," and his conclusion is "that economic co-operation upon the simple principles of the weavers of Rochdale, is the only constructive idea that has survived the war. It is the only plan that will end the criminal trusts and combinations in America and give to the producers and consumers the just rewards of their labors. It will take immediate action of congress along the line of the Norris bill to enable the farmers to get the cost of production out of their present crop. The President should call an extra session immediately.

Another of his assertions is that the Russian soviet government is second in stability only to that of the United States, and that Russia will soon be making inroads on the grain markets of America. He ignores the fact that Russian stability is based wholly on armed force exerted by a small group of men who admit they are leaders of a minority of the people.

PRESIDENT HARDING, now on his way south from Alaska after presumably learning what is the matter with the economic development of that territory, has had put up to him serious trouble in another of our possessions. For months the native leaders in the Philippines have been in conflict with Governor General Wood and the row has culminated in the resignation of the cabinet, the council of state, Manuel Quezon, president of the senate, and Speaker Roxas of the house of representatives. The crisis was brought on by General Wood's reinstatement of a secret service man who had been discharged, but this was merely an incident. The officials, in tendering their resignations, said to the governor general:

"We have observed for some time that it is your policy and desire as governor general to intervene and control, even to the smallest details, our government, both insular and local, in utter disregard of the authority and responsibility of the department heads and other officials concerned."

General Wood, accepting the resignations promptly, said: "In my opinion your action is wholly uncalled for. I beg to state most definitely and emphatically that each and every declaration made in your statement which charges neglect of the prerogatives and rights of the secretaries or disregard for the organic law is without the slightest foundation in fact."

"Your plans have been deliberately made and your action is in the nature of a challenge and threat which I cannot ignore."

GREAT BRITAIN'S draft of the reply to the German reparations note has been submitted to the allies and the United States, but its terms have not, at this writing, been given to the public. They were kept secret to give the various governments time for their consideration. Marquis Curzon had a hard job in framing the reply, and it is not at all likely that it will be acceptable to the others just as it stands, but there is an increasing belief that France will make concessions that will result in final accord in the note as sent to Berlin and thus avert a rupture of the entente. This despite the defiant speech made by Premier Poincare at Senlis at exercises in memory of those killed during the German occupation after the Franco-Prussian war. In effect he warned England that he preferred abrogation of the entente to further sacrifice of France's claims. However, Poincare and Baldwin may find common ground if the British tell the Germans that passive resistance in the Ruhr must cease, and in Germany it is said now that such an admonition from London is all that is necessary to put an end to that resistance.

Italy already, according to London correspondents, has agreed with Great Britain on a plan for calling an international conference in Rome to discuss reparations and Germany's condition, and it is rumored that the United States has consented to participate in the capacity of a friendly adviser. Public opinion in Belgium is turning to support of the British view in the controversy, and in two of the most influential newspapers is published this paragraph: "Any policy inspired systematically from Qual d'Orsay would be in the year 1923 as much an aberration on our part as during the French revolution, for we cannot forget that England is the only power whose interests oblige her to consider the necessity for our freedom and independence."

ISMET PASTIA was authorized by the Ankara government to sign the peace treaty formulated at Lausanne, and the act of signing was set for July 24. The treaty represents a triumph for Turkey and for the United States—the latter because on the demand of Minister Grew validation of prewar concessions is omitted and the open door policy prevails. The Turks gain practically everything for which they contended, and even their concessions were modified so that the treaty would not be rejected at Ankara. For instance, they objected to a provision that each allied nation should keep two warships in the Dardanelles until the final ratification of the treaty, so the pact as finally drawn says each allied nation shall keep one warship there "at the invitation of the Turkish government." The Turkish delegates and Mr. Grew were hurriedly completing the separate peace treaty with the United States so it could be signed immediately after that with the allies. In both cases various questions are left for diplomatic settlement.

FOR the first time during the proceedings of the mixed claims commission, a demand has been made that the German government produce its official records showing the activities of its spies in the United States during the war. An elevator of the Kentucky Elevator company was burned in February, 1917, and the company claims $1,000,000 damages. It is contended that the destruction of this and other elevators was a part of the plot of German agents to buy up all the grain, or, failing in that, to destroy the available wheat supply in America. The demand for the spy records is justified by an article in the treaty of Versailles.

PREMIER MUSSOLINI has clinched his complete control of the government of Italy by persuading the parliament to pass his new electoral law which permits the redistricting and gerrymandering of election districts. The liberals opposed the measure but Mussolini told the parliament he would get rid of it altogether unless it obeyed him. He is admitted doing great things for the restoration of his country, but his dictatorial methods are looked at askance by many Italians.

GOVERNOR PROCTOR of Vermont has called a special election on November 6 to fill the vacancy caused by the death of William P. Dillingham, for twenty-three years a United States senator. The primary will be held on October 9.

FOR ten years the government has been trying to break up the International Harvester company, apparently with only partial success. Now Attorney General Daugherty has asked the federal district court in St. Paul for a decree dissolving the company into at least three separate and independent corporations, asserting that it is still a combination in restraint of trade and commerce in harvesting machinery and "still is monopolizing and attempting to monopolize said trade and commerce in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law and contrary to the several opinions, orders, and decrees of this court."

The three separate companies proposed would include two implement companies of substantially equal size, one of which would feature the McCormick harvester machines while the other would handle the Deering line. The third company would take over the steel and coal subsidiaries of the Harvester company. The two implement companies, while larger than any other company in the industry, would be able to compete with each other, and other companies could compete on terms of equality with them.

SIEBERT AMAZED IT ENDED SO QUICK

"It surely is remarkable how quickly Tanlac fixed me up," declared Herman Siebert, well known auto mechanic, 125 Hennepin St., LaSalle, Ill. "For about a year I had stomach trouble so bad I could scarcely eat anything and was losing weight and strength all the time. I ate only light food, but I couldn't digest it and always felt like there was a lump, like lead, right in the pit of my stomach. I was so nervous I could scarcely sleep any and felt so tired and worn out I could hardly drag myself to work. "Well, Tanlac certainly fixed me up fine. I gained eight pounds, have an appetite like a horse and can digest anything and sleep well, too. In fact, I never felt better. I am glad to recommend Tanlac, for it made life and work a pleasure to me." Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 37 million bottles sold.

Tanlac Vegetable Pills are Nature's own remedy for constipation. For sale everywhere.—Advertisement.

Really Great Idea. "What! You are planning to go to Vienna?" exclaimed Guttenach. "But that will cost you a fortune." "Oh, not so much," replied the other. "You see I'll have my youth restored by Dr. Steinach and come back on a child's ticket."

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect It

Applicants for Insurance Often Rejected.

Judging from reports from druggists who are constantly in direct touch with the public, there is one preparation that has been very successful in overcoming these conditions. The mild and healing influence of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its remarkable record of success. An examining physician for one of the prominent Life Insurance Companies, in an interview on the subject, made the astonishing statement that one reason why so many applicants for insurance are rejected is because kidney trouble is so common to the American people, and the large majority of those whose applications are declined do not even suspect that they have the disease. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is on sale at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes, medium and large. However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper's advertisement.

What's an Abecedarium? This was a machine constructed by William S. Jevons and described by him in his "Principles of Science." It designed, by using symbolic terms, to perform analytic reasoning without making a mistake.

RECALL OF WOOD UP TO HARDING

Both Houses of Philippine Legislature Adopt Resolution Unanimously.

ASK IMMEDIATE DISMISSAL

Split Between the Governor General and Manuel Quezon Also Develops Into a Local Political Partisan Embroglio.

Manila, July 24.—Immediate recall of Governor General Leonard Wood was demanded in a resolution unanimously adopted at a joint meeting of both houses of the legislature here. The resolution was addressed to President Harding.

All of the parties participated in the action indorsing the stand taken by the cabinet when its members resigned recently.

Governor Wood is in the province of Samar making an inspection of health conditions there. The split between General Wood and Manuel Quezon, which resulted in the resignation of all leading officials of the Philippine government, has developed into a local political partisan embroglio, with the Democrat party supporting Governor Wood and the Collectivista party opposing him, according to political leaders here.

The Democrat leaders adopted resolutions opposing the joining of the parliamentary mission, which is to leave for Washington within the next two weeks to lay the facts of the Filipino controversy before President Harding. Instead the Democrat leaders favored a plan whereby the regularly elected resident commissioners would be given full power to lay the full facts before President Harding.

Governor Wood stated that no offer of cabinet positions had been made to members of the Democrat party, and, so far, no Collectivista members have been willing to accept such positions. In the meantime, he said, the undersecretaries are carrying forward the business of the Philippine government.

British Spurn Disarm Parley;

Commons Defeats Labor Plea

London, July 24.—Labor's attempt to swing the house of commons toward a policy calling for an international disarmament conference broke down after Prime Minister Baldwin clearly stated the government's opposition to the plan. Mr. Baldwin said the fighting instinct of human nature was one of the greatest stumbling blocks in the way of calling an international conference. "It is the tiger's instinct," he declared. "From creation it has been found in democracies and empires, and even among men whose political views might be classed as pacifist."

Father Gives Up Son

as Brother's Slayer

Russellville, Ark., July 24.—Accused of stabbing his brother to death, Jess Church, eighteen, son of Marcon Church, farmer, of the Hector community, was placed in jail here. The youth quarreled with his brother, Preacher, sixteen, over a horse after a party, according to information to officers, and the fight ensued, resulting in the younger brother's death. The youth was surrendered by his father.

Wheat Hoarding Held Unwise

by Government Officials

Washington, July 24.—While appreciating the plight of the wheat growers, officials of the farm loan board, the federal reserve board, the war finance corporation and the Department of Agriculture appear a unit in regarding the suggestion of the American Farm Bureau federation for holding 200,000,000 bushels of wheat on the farms as unwise.

PROPHET TOLD OF LOCUSTS

Joel Warned People of Their Coming, Three Thousand Years Ago—Clades Less Numerous.

The locust has been a plague to mankind for centuries. "The land is as the Garden of Eden before them," said the Prophet Joel almost 3,000 years ago, "and behind them a wilderness; yea, nothing shall escape them." He described the coming of the locusts as "a day of cloud and thick darkness; as dusk spreads over the mountains." The periodical clades, some of which appear every 13 and others every 17 years, do not devastate the land they pass over in the same degree as locusts that descended from the arid steppes of Asia. Periodical clades are growing less numerous owing to the cutting down of forests. The eggs are laid in tender twigs of trees, and if no trees are at hand their propagation is prevented to a large extent. Birds are enemies of the insects, especially the English sparrow. No remedy is practicable against them in large numbers over large areas.—Detroit News.

Or Rare Combination. "Yes, she's married to a lawyer, and a good, honest fellow, too." "Bigamist!"

A man makes his mark and then his wife is apt to make him toe it.

Can Osteopathy Cure Everything?

We do not pretend to claim that Osteopathy cures all phases of disease or disability, for numerous ailments are but evidences of wanting vitality and the wearing out of the body's working parts. Assuming, however, that you are a normal creature and desire to realize the best there is in life, YOU MUST GIVE YOUR BODY EVERY CHANCE TO OVERCOME OR PREVENT DISEASE. For health lies within the body and not without. To replace parts, to remove obstructions, to equalize circulation, to govern the nervous system, to restore harmony to the active parts, and to effect other similar body-adjustments: appeal to the reason as common-sense disease-antidotes. It will be found that ONLY as a last recourse will the Osteopath recommend surgery.

Osteopathy is a safe and sane science because intimate knowledge of the human body co-operates directly with the laws of Nature. TYPHOID and STOMACH, KIDNEY and LIVER COMPLAINTS, SCARLET FEVER, WOMEN'S DISEASES, affections of the eye, ear and throat, chronic nervous troubles, and numerous other troubles, are being subdued and overcome daily by the able Osteopathic Physician.

Park's "Golden Gate."

The rocky pass called the Golden Gate in Yellowstone National park owes its rich color and its name to the yellow lichen covering its lofty walls, and the indescribable hues of the great hot-spring terraces arise mainly from the presence of minute plants flourishing in the water that overflows them.

SMALLPOX CASE NEARLY WELL
The man who is quarantined on the Sandall farm east of town will be released Saturday according to information received today, having completed the necessary three weeks' confinement.

The reason for his rapid recovery lies in the fact that he should have been in quarantine before coming to this vicinity, but was not, consequently he had but two weeks left to serve which will be completed on the 28th.

The Sandall family was vaccinated at once, thereby eliminating any chance for a continuation of the sickness.

C. J. COOPER VISITED GENOA
C. J. Cooper, formerly of Genoa, but of late a resident in Oak Park, Illinois, paid Genoa a visit over the week end, stopping at the home of his mother, Mrs. Carinda Cooper.

Mr. Cooper just returned from a trip back East where he has been talking and showing the farmers why it is advantageous to have farm bureaus, and do things in a co-operative manner. Incidentally he is also recovering from a shock received when, with a party of motorists in West Virginia touring over the mountains, a landslide engulfed the entire party, knocking them over a cliff in a fall of several feet.

Coal is, and will be for years to come, the biggest problem of all house owners in the long, cold months of dreary winter. There are people, however, who do not mind the question, but they order their fuel in the summer months, when prices are at the lowest ebb and delivery is made daily.

RADIO

(Edited by G. Douglas Wardrop, Editor of Radio Merchandising.)

A Selective Portable.

There is an unlimited field for good single tube portable set circuits. Any regenerative type of circuit will give good volume on a single tube. The main problem is to use a type of tuning unit that will permit maximum selectivity. In the hook-up illustrated a variocoupler is used in conjunction with a variable condenser for the tuning unit—the rotor supplies the feed back of the plate circuit.

The circuit is not primarily intended for loop aerial reception, although one end can be connected to the antenna post, the other end left open, and a regular ground connection used. When so connected, some very good results are possible. If a straight wire aerial is used, a length of 50 feet can be thrown over a convenient tree. Of course this will not give the best results. If time is available, the wire should be suspended between insulators.

A copper rod driven into moist ground will give sufficient ground connection. This can be improved by soaking the ground around the rod with salt water.

The tuning condenser should have a capacity of .001 microfarad, to cover the increased wave length range. The rotating plates should be connected to the ground side. A blocking condenser of .005 microfarad capacity is inserted in the rotor circuit so as to avoid short circuiting the batteries through the plate circuit.

The grid leak can be of the variable type, but this is left to the option of the maker. The tube is a detector, although hard tubes such as the C301A can be substituted. In such a case it may be advisable to increase the plate battery voltage. A cushion mounting for the tube socket is recommended, as a portable set gets considerable knocking around that does not help preserve the tube filament.

The rheostat resistance will depend on the type of tube used. If a UV199, C301A, or UV201A is used a 20 to 25-ohm rheostat is required. Otherwise the standard 6-ohm rheostat is sufficient.

BUTTONS ONCE HAD PURPOSE

In Old Times There Was Good Reason for the Present Merely "Ornamental" Appendages.

A well-known speaker recently engaged in some captious remarks at a gathering of women, upon the frivolities of fashion particularly as concerned women's dress. He was getting considerable fun out of it until one of the ladies interrupted him and asked what the buttons on the back of his coat were for. They are clearly superfluous and just as much out of place as some of the feminine fobles he was criticizing. He was unable to answer the question, whereupon the laugh was on him. The useless and supposedly ornamental extra buttons on a man's dress coat are relics of horseback-riding days, when it was customary to button up the skirts of the coat to prevent sitting upon them or getting the linings soiled from the horse. The slit up the back of the coat originally served the same good purpose. The buttons on the sleeves are inherited from the days when a really dashing blade had frequent necessity for turning up the sleeves of his coat to give his sword-arm play. Then the buttons served a real need. Finally the turned-up sleeve and its lining became a cuff that could no longer be turned down and the buttons became merely traditional.

The Fine Art of Conversation.

Quite often people who are willing to spend years in the perfection of other arts are loth to devote a little time daily to the interchange of good conversation. Practice three times a day, a few minutes at a time, during breakfast, luncheon and dinner, will enable the shyest boy or girl to become a ready conversationalist.

Table talk need not be brilliant, but it must be agreeable. Impassioned arguments, malicious gossip, shop talk, housekeeping troubles, details of hospital operations or dental saunces—these and kindred topics are not social subjects. Young people should be encouraged to report at the dinner table any pleasant incident of the day or to invite comment upon books, music, pictures, etc. Good stories—brief and well told—may be repeated at dessert time. What is essential is to acquire the habit of ready conversation.

Some Satisfaction.

"Don't worry," said Uncle Eben, "if you gets imposed on foh bein' kind-hearted. De chances are dat you feels a heap mo' comfortable in yoh own conscience dan de man what done you de meanness."—Washington Star.

Pearls Always Popular.

Pearls were known to the ancients and used by them for personal adornment. It is probable that they wore pearl necklaces. It is not definitely known just who was the first person to wear one. Marco Polo, the famous traveler of the Middle ages, describes the king of Malabar as wearing around his neck a necklace made of 104 large pearls and rubies.

Forest Lands.

In the United States there are five acres of forest land to every person, in Norway there are seven and in Sweden there are nine.

"If Ain't Lorene going to be married next week?"

"S the talk. But, as Mis' Percy says, there ain't nothin' sure till it happens. It's easy seen she ain't struck with that young Chase. She don't b'lieve he's much in love. Says he's just as calm as veg'able soup. He tends to business just as steady as if he'd never heard of love, and he gives right in to all Lorene's notions. He ain't impetuous 'nough to suit Mis' Percy."

Mrs. Penfield was amused. "That red-hot unreasonableness never made any hit with me. My observation is: the lover that pursues the hardest, flees the fastest. What I like 'bout Dick Chase is that he keeps his head. The love 'tween those two young people has grown naturally and steadily, and it stands ten times the chance to last."

Mrs. Wopple bridled with faded coquetry. "Me, I don't know nothin' 'bout that slow kind. Josiah was awful eager."

A vision of Mr. Josiah Wopple—with the sneaking gait and the crafty, peering eyes—flashed into Mrs. Penfield's mind. She prodded her imagination to picture the restless impetuosity of his younger days, but found herself lacking in the requisite visualization.

"There's all kinds of courtin'," she said, with polite vagueness. "Yes—yes, Lettie! I'm in the bedroom."

Mrs. Wopple rose hastily. "I'll be goin' if that heathen young'un's comin' in. You got a big job to civilize her. Run over when you can, Mis' Penfield; you ain't very neighborly. I got a brand-new dress to show you, and I'm embroderin' a beautiful table cover. I know you'll like to see 'em."

"Yes, thank you. I'd just love to see 'em. I'll be in as soon's I can get a minute."

"O Penzie," cried Lettie, when the caller had gone, "I got the swellest pickings." Proudly she exhibited an old pasteboard box well filled with ink bottles, each containing a small residue—India ink, red, black. "Ain't it grand? I guess it was a school or somepin'—mebbe a feller that draws these here pictures in the paper."

Mrs. Penfield surveyed this charming find with some dubiousness. "We hadn't got any immediate call for ink. Lettie. And, honest, dear, I hate to see you so set on prowling."

Lettie gazed at her reproachfully. "I've always brung in things. I told you I would when you said you'd keep 'em."

"Yes, dear, but there are lots of things that would suit me better. You've got to get over this habit. In January you must go to school and learn things out of books, so't you can grow up smart."

"Jiminy!" exclaimed Lettie, in dismay. "I'll bet I can't never sit still. I wish they taught school by running. And look here, Penzie, you just give these here ink bottles another up-and-down. They're grand, and I'll be switched if I can't think of somepin' to do with 'em."

Mrs. Penfield, washing potatoes for supper, decided to accept ink bottles with polite graciousness. "Put 'em on the lower shelf in the cupboard, Lettie. Sometime we'll play an ink game. I'll show you how." She put the potatoes in the oven and regulated the drafts.

"Mis' Penfield," called a voice, the owner of which was nowhere visible. "Mis' Penfield, can you come over?" "That's Mrs. Catterbox," said Mrs. Penfield. "Something's happened. You watch the fire, Lettie, the way I've showed you."

She dashed through the house, toward the driveway. She was used to these calls out of the atmosphere and had become very accurate in distinguishing one voice from another. Tenants of The Custard Cup were prone to shrill their crises and their demands in the direction of Number 47 without taking the trouble to send their bodies with their voices.

It seemed that Mrs. Catterbox had become exasperated because her very young son Timmy, when sent upon nearby errands, was in the habit of losing whatever he had gone after. Today Mrs. Catterbox had sent him to the corner drug store for ten postage stamps and had charged him, with particular vehemence, not to lose them. Timmy thought he wouldn't. For once he would prove his trustworthiness. He had therefore immediately affixed the ten stamps to the rough material of his coat sleeve, and that by means of the mullage for such purposes provided.

There was no denying that Timmy had come home with the stamps. Further, there was no denying that no one could readily get them off. Mrs. Catterbox had tried gentle pulling, and had even snipped the outer fuzz of the goods; but there her ingenuity had failed. It was left to Mrs. Penfield to divest Tommy of the garment and immerse the stamps, face down, in water, which presently disintegrated the cohesion.

"They'll be worth money when they dry," she said pleasantly, "and you can stick 'em with mullage or white of egg."

But on her way home her mind was full of perplexity. "I wish there was two of me—or something," she thought. "Land knows I'm glad to do anything I can, but I got a house to keep and three children to support. It's going to take me day and night both, at this rate."

The problem had assumed serious proportions. More and more frequently Mrs. Penfield was summoned in different directions, to solve difficulties which the tenants might have solved for themselves. Often she worked far into the night, ironing or sewing or mending, because these tasks had been crowded out of her interrupted day. Moreover, it meant added expense for light and fuel, to say nothing of the heat which was repeatedly wasted in the daytime because of sudden calls from the neighbors.

The situation had grown out of the few duties which she performed in exchange for her rent—and had grown naturally, because when a person of general utility is found, he is generally utilized. Mrs. Penfield was finding herself in a quandary. She believed in service, but she was also keenly conscious of home duty.

"I'll bet I'll have to keep office hours before long," she told herself, as she entered her own kitchen again.

She found three hungry young people awaiting her.

"What are we going to have for supper, Penzie?" asked Crink, whose interest in this subject was constantly to be depended upon.

"Well, my dear, we're going to have a grand meal. We're going to have baked potatoes with chipped-beef."

"Is he at home?"

"Didn't I tell you I didn't know where he was?" Inquired Lettie tartly. He shrugged his shoulders in a way that discredited anything that Lettie Penfield might say.

She glared at him, started to speak, then paused. A plan was springing into being in her mind. She would do something for Penzie. More than once she had seen Penzie's face grow sad and troubled when this man and Uncle Jerry went out of The Custard Cup together, and her lightning intuition had told her that Penzie disapproved of the friendship between the two men. Now here was a chance to show Frank Bosley how the family felt toward him. Then perhaps he would let Uncle Jerry alone. Penzie would be delighted.

"You'd better go home," began Lettie directly. She tied a string to the well leg of the chicken and fastened the other end to a nail on the outside wall of the kitchen.

Frank Bosley laughed—not so much in amusement as in lazy defiance. "Winston!" he called, with his eyes on the loft. "Hoo-hoo! Winston!" Lettie turned on him. "What'd you mean? Didn't I tell you he wasn't here?"

"You did not," denied Bosley coolly, leaning against one of the clothes-line poles and smiling at her scornfully. "You said you didn't know where he was."

"If he was here, I'd know it, wouldn't I?" she returned, with equal scorn. "He ain't to home. Do you get it now?"

Looking up, he gave a shrill whistle. "Hoo-hoo, there! Winston!" Lettie, tying I'll Caesar to the new wire fence to forestall further interest in the injured chicken, tightened the knot with a jerk and wheeled around. Her lean brown fingers were working. "Don't you b'lieve what I say? When I say he ain't here, don't you b'lieve me?"

He gave her an impudent look from his prominent, heavy-lidded eyes. "No, I don't, if you want to know. What do you think you are, anyhow? You ain't anybody. And stop sassing me, darn you!"

A flush rose in Lettie's pale cheeks. She stamped her foot. "I am somebody; too," she stormed. "I'm going to be a fine woman sometime. Penzie says I'm to be. So!"

Frank Bosley threw back his head and laughed. Straightening to catch his breath, he suddenly bent forward, as if limp from merriment. Lettie, watching, felt her rage turn to fear, to cold terror. Was it possible that Penzie's love had held up a false hope to encourage her and that everybody else looked down on her?

achs. And you got another grand treat coming tonight. I got a fine story to tell you just's you go to bed. It's 'bout the lazy beaver."

"Why, Penzie," Crink pointed out. "I thought all the beavers liked to work."

"The regular beavers do," admitted Mrs. Penfield, "but this one didn't. He was kind of a disgrace to all the other beavers, and I guess they s'pressed him somehow. But his story is out at last, and I'm going to tell it to you."

"Glory be!" cried Lettie. "I can't stand 'em too good. When they're bad, there's more doing."

CHAPTER XII

A Busy Day for the Gong. "Eli Caesar, be still!" commanded Lettie severely. "You can't have this chicken, 'cause I'm going to raise it for Penzie. Poor little feller!" she crooned. "We're going to grow you into a nice hen, ain't we? Get away, Filibuster Caesar Penfield, I tell you. This here chicken's been chawed into 'tready. Think I'm going to let it be at any more?"

Her hands being fully occupied with the injured chicken, she emphasized her attitude toward Eli by vigorous thrusts of her foot. She was sitting on the back steps, binding up a long yellow leg, the accidental bruising of which had been the basis of this gift. No one would have thought of giving her a whole fowl; but when she had been found lavishing sympathy upon this maimed specimen, the owner had bestowed it upon her with relieved carelessness.

And Lettie had accepted it eagerly. The half of a person's kingdom was as much as she ever expected, and that half considerably battered and tattered. The time had not yet come when Lettie would wonder why she was living; so far her brief years had been filled with a desperate struggle to keep that life existent without regard to its purpose, and until recently there had never been anything but the merest scraps to do it with.

"Awk! Awk!" complained the chicken.

"Woo! Woo!" worried the dog. "Shut up, both of you," advised Lettie sharply. "My lady patience, ain't you both the limit? Keep still, hen can't you? Don't you never want two legs again?"

"Hello, spitfire. Where's your Uncle Jerry?"

The child's black eyes flashed as she looked up. Instinctively she disliked Frank Bosley, and the feeling was constantly being strengthened by his treatment of her as a superfluous thread in the fabric of humanity.

She made no reply.

"Where's your Uncle Jerry?" he repeated.

"I don't know," declared Lettie briefly, tying the bandage into a hard knot.

"Is he at home?"

"Didn't I tell you I didn't know where he was?" Inquired Lettie tartly. He shrugged his shoulders in a way that discredited anything that Lettie Penfield might say.

RECORD IN CROPS

Western Canada Farmers Assured of Bountiful Yields.

Conditions Reported From All Parts of the Provinces Satisfactory in the Highest Degree—Pass Expectations.

From as early as April 17, when seeding became general throughout the Western Canadian Provinces, was there anything but optimism in the feelings of the farmers of that country. An uninterrupted chain of favorable conditions have bound the early seeding data with the conditions of the crop today. There were no setbacks. There may have been a hail storm or two with some ill effects through portions of the country, but the track they took was so small that the percentage of loss was almost imperceptible compared with the whole. Rains fell just when needed, the sun shone as if regulated by the farmer himself, the ground, generally, was in perfect condition and fully responsive. It is now a question of rivalry between districts and provinces which will produce the greatest results in crop yields and averages. Out in Alberta, whether it be in the north or in the south, that which gave assurance, in a well-prepared seed bed, of an excellent crop is passing expectation, and experts say there will be produced a crop away greater than ever before in the history of the province, and Alberta has had some big yields. Then, in Saskatchewan there exist the same conditions. The extreme north and extreme south will vie with the east and west in the story at harvest and threshing time.

Manitoba, while not boastful, complacently watches fields of wheat, oats, rye and barley that promise to set a new record for that province. The fact is apparent that Western Canada will have a crop yield in all grains away ahead of any year in the history of the country. This will be pleasing news to the thousands in the United States, who have friends and relatives farming in that country. It should not be forgotten that these crops will be raised on land that in many cases cost less than $40 an acre and some of it was procured by merely homesteading. It is possible today to secure improved farms at very low figures, as well as raw or virgin prairie. Any Canadian government agent will gladly give information as to the condition of the crops, and dates when special rates may be had by those who wish to look over what is probably one of the greatest grain fields on the continent.—Advertisement.

Elsewhere Sometimes. The village was having its spring tea party and was getting rather tired of it. Finally they decided to propose conundrums and one of the company asked, "Which is the most warlike nation?"

"Vaccination," replied the village doctor, who was one of the party. "How do you account for that?" said the man who had put the question. "Because it's nearly always in arms," said the medic.

Rose Chosen as State Flower.
New York school children chose the rose for their state flower; Georgia the Cherokee rose; Iowa the wild rose, and North Dakota the wild prairie rose, the last three states by legislative action.

Rings of Trees.
The structure of the wood developed in the summer is different from that which is developed in autumn, and the alternation makes the lines of growth show plainly. Some tropical trees show no annual rings, probably indicating that the growth is identical throughout the year.

Tradition Easily Acquired.
There is a peculiar flower growing in Central America which bears in the center of the petals a snow-white image of a dove. The Spaniards, upon discovering this peculiar blossom, called it the Holy Ghost flower, and soon created a tradition according to which it came down from heaven.
