FOR PEACE, NOT FOR WAR

Reminds Students That No Armed Campaign Is Planned in Any Direction, in Addressing Citizen Soldiers From Camp Meade.

Washington, Aug. 23. - President Harding, in an address to citizen-solliers from Camp Meade, Md., declared he favored military training for more than 100,000 civilians annually, not for any prospective aggressive warfare, but to preserve peace.

After reviewing the civilian troops on the ellipse adjacent to the White House grounds, the President called ittention to the fact that 28,000 civillans were given training this summer. compared with 11,000 last year.

In the Camp Meade contingent were 1,000 young men from the District of Columbia, Maryland, Delaware and Pennsylvania, who have been in training for three weeks.

I congratulate ou with all my heart.

"It is a fine thing for the young manhood of America to turn from the ordinary engagements of the vacation season to a study of military service and training for service. I am not sure, however, but you have profited quite as well as your country. If I could have my wish this number would increase until more than 100,000 were annually studying and preparing for armed service, not that we ever expect to be called upon for such service, but solely for national defense and the preservation of the government under which we all live.

"You know, modern soldiery is very different from that of nearly all the history of the world. Our soldiering of today is solely for national defense and the preservation of that government under which we live.

"There is new assurance, there is new confidence, there is new belief in the perpetuity of this American republic when one can stand, as I have stood, and note such a company of TRISH insurgents, having been at ready volunteer defenders as you have shown us in this review. Again my your country."

AUNT JANE

SYNOPSIS,—In a preface Mary Marie explains her apparent "double personality" and just why is a "cross-current and a contradiction"; she also tells her reasons for writing the diary—later to be a novel. The diary is commenced at Andersonville. Mary begins with Nurse Serpl's account of her Nurse Sarah's account of her (Mary's) birth, which seemingly interested her father, who is a fa-mous astronomer, less than a new star which was discovered the same night. Her name is a compromise her mother wanted to call her Viola and her father insisted on Abigail Jane. The child quickly learned that her home was in some way different from those of her small friends, and was puzzled thereat.
Nurse Sarah tells her of her mother's arrival at Andersonville as a bride and how astonished they all were at the sight of the dainty eighteen-year-old girl whom the sedate professor had chosen for a wife. Nurse Sarah makes it plain why the household seemed a strange one to the child and how her father one to the child and how her father and mother drifted apart through misunderstanding, each too proud to in any way attempt to smooth over the situation. Mary tells of the time spent "out West" where the "perfectly all right and genteel and respectable" divorce was being arranged for, and her mother's (to her) unaccountable behavior. By the court's decree the child is to spend six months of the year with her six months of the year with her mother and six months with her fa-ther. Boston is Mother's home. Mary describes her life as Marie with her mother in Boston and about her mother's "prospective

"Dear Madam: Dr. Anderson desires me to say that he trusts you are bearing in mind the fact that, according to the decision of the court, his daughter Mary is to come to him on the first day of May. If you will kindly inform him as to the hour of her expected arrival, he will see that she is properly met at the station."

Then she signed her name, Abigail Jane Anderson. (She was named for her mother, Grandma Anderson, same as Father wanted them to name me. Mercy! I'm glad they didn't. "Mary" is bad enough, but "Abigail Jane"-!) Well, Mother read the letter aloud, then she began to talk about it-how she felt, and how awful it was to think of giving me up six whole months, and sending her bright little sunny-hearted Marie into that tomblike place with only an Abigail Jane to flee to for refuge. And she said that she almost wished Nurse Sarah was back again-that she, at least, was

This steadily increasing public preference is proof of the recognition by car owners of the greater values offered by Firestone. It is a tribute to Firestone men—all stockholders in the company—all actuated by the operating principle of Most Miles per Dollar.

The high average performance of Firestone Cords is without equal in the annals of tire making and is reflected by the general tendency to specify Firestone for hard service. Taxicab and bus lines, buying tires by the mile,

N the past two months Firestone are universally equipping with Firestone Cords.

Life as I See It.

5.00 no wings.—Louisville Courier-Journal

It's tough to want to soar and have

There are many reasons for the high quality of Firestone tires but chief among the special manufacturing processes are double gum-dipping, thus eliminating internal friction by insulating each cord strand, and air-bag cure, insuring a well-balanced and perfectly shaped product.

Don't speculate in tires—you will find the right combination of price and quality in Firestone. Come in and let us tell you about the service these Cords are giving other car-owners whom you know.
