NOTES FROM THE COURT HOUSE

Motion for New Trial Made By Barr & Taylor Against Ashford

TRY TO DISSOLVE INJUNCTION

In the Case of the DeKalb Foundry & Mfg. Co. of DeKalb Against DeKalb Local No. 74

The action for damages to an automobile brought by Henry E. Lamman against the C. M. & St. P. R. Co. was dismissed on motion of plaintiff. A motion for new trial was made in the action brought by Barr & Taylor, a corporation against W. J. Ashford. The case was tried before a jury on December 1, 1920 and resulted in a verdict in favor of the defendant. The motion was set for hearing on June 5, 1922. A similar motion was made after the trial, but was considered indefinitely.

Judge Cliffe who was present in court on Friday entered the bench and overruled a motion in arrest of judgment in the action of J. E. Hardy or Shabbona against I. W. George. This case was tried before a jury in Judge Cliffe's court for several days and resulted in a verdict in favor of the defendant on March 17, 1922. The plaintiff prayed an appeal to the appellate court and this was allowed. The plaintiff has 30 days within which to file a bond in the sum of $250 and 60 days to file their bill of exception.

The motion to dissolve the injunction obtained by the DeKalb Foundry & Mfg. Co. of DeKalb against the DeKalb Local No. 74 and other defendants, came up for hearing before Judge Irwin, H. W. Prentice and Ed. Lyons of Aurora appeared on behalf of the complainant, and Mighell, Allen Gungel appeared for the defendants. A motion was made to amend the bill and this was granted. After arguments of counsel the matter was continued until the first day of the June term. Proofs will then be taken and a complete hearing on the merits will be had.

Amanda Pederson of the city of Saukville filed a bill for divorce in the circuit court against her husband, Theodore D. Pederson. The complainant sets forth that on August 15th, 1906, at Yorkville, Kendall county, she was married to the defendant and from the time of their marriage until May 6, 1920 she lived with the defendant and always treated him with kindness and affection. She says that the defendant deserted her on May 6, 1920 and still continues to absent himself from her. She asks that the ties of matrimony be severed and also for alimony.

The Way of the World.

The world usually pushes a man the way he makes up his mind to go. If going up, they push him up; if going down, they push him down—gravitation, however, making the speed greater on the decline.—George Francis Train.

WHO WILL GET CLIFFE'S PLACE?

Many Men in Several Counties Are After Job

Who will take the place of Judge Adam C. Cliffe, of the sixteenth judicial circuit, whose appointment to the federal bench, in the place of Judge K. M. Landis, now seems a certainty, asks the Daily News of Elgin, in a recent issue?

This is a question which is being asked in Kane DeKalb, Kendall and DuPage counties, forming the district, a question which has stirred the republican county central committees of the four counties into activity, and a question which has created much agitation in the judicial political pot.

It is the contention of the DeKalb central committee members that DeKalb county is entitled, by virtue of previous custom, to be permitted to name the judge, in view of the fact that Kane county is thus represented in Judge C. F. Irwin, and DuPage county, with Judge Mazzini Slusser.

REP. PIRECE HAS WRONG DOPE Says Hard Road Rout No. 23 Cannot Be Changed

Representative W. L. Pierce of Belvidere was in Marengo Tuesday and in a conversation with A. A. Crissey he wished it emphatically stated that he was in full sympathy with Marengo in having Rout 23 follow the lines originally laid out, that is, from Big Foot, Harvard, Marengo and then south. This route was laid out by the legislature bonds voted to build as laid out, and in his opinion there could be no material changes made even by the legislature without endangering the bond issue.

Rep. Pierce is also laboring under the illusion that Route No. 23 has been laid out. However, this is not so, for no definite route has ever been given.

CHAUTAUQUA TICKET DRIVE

On Thursday evening of this week the guarantors of the Community Chautauqua will start their drive for the sale of tickets. Without a doubt the program outlined by the company and the talent at hand with which to put over the series of entertainments, is the best that ever came to this city.

The prices on the tickets are very reasonable and when the person who comes to you to ask your support, do not turn him down, but purchase the ticket cheerfully if it is possible and help work for the benefit of our community.

WORLD FAMOUS JOURNALIST COMING

Frank Dilnot, Former Editor of Globe One of Chautauqua Speakers

OTHER NOTABLE ATTRACTIONS

Complete Outfit of Comfortable Seats Provided With Tent Equipment This Year

At our Community Chautauqua, June 8 to 12, we are to have the privilege of hearing one of the world's greatest newspaper men, Frank Dilnot, former editor of the London Globe. Mr. Dilnot's career is a notable one. He spent five years in the press gallery of the English Parliament and was the editor and manager of the London Daily News, which during the war, reached a daily circulation of more than 400,000. He was later editor of the London Globe, which position he resigned during the war to represent English and Continental newspapers in America. He was elected president of the foreign press correspondents in America during the war and was special writer for European papers during the Conference for the Limitation of Armaments at Washington. Mr. Dilnot is the author of several books, among them "The New America", "England After the War", "The Old Order Changeth", "Lloyd George, The Man and His Story," etc. Mr. Dilnot is a close personal friend of the English premier, as well as his biographer.

In his world travels as a newspaper man, he has come in contact with the great personages of the world and is considered one of the most accurate interpreters of great events and movements of the modern world. Mr. Dilnot's lecture "Lloyd George and America", is a discussion of the common problems and relationship of the two great English speaking nations of the earth. Our Chautauqua committee is particularly fortunate in having a man of this calibre as one of the speakers.

Other lectures on the Chautauqua program will be Dr. Alexander Cairns, in his celebrated lecture, "The Goose That Lays the Golden Egg." This witty Irishman, full of fire and vigor, has literally made the sides of millions ache from laughter, and all the time he has been driving home worth while thoughts and facts. Dr. Cairns is a preacher but the type of preacher who is vigorous, forceful and metropolitan daily newspapers devote even full pages of space to his utterances and the methods he employs in putting over his message.

Another lecture of very timely interest will be that of A. C. Everingham, called by the Chicago Tribune "The Thinking Farmer". Mr. Everingham's address, "The Balance Wheel of Democracy" is a discussion of the farm problems of today, and their relation to all other problems in America. Mr. Everingham is not a theorist, but rather a practical man who speaks from his experience as a practical farmer, and whose message is constantly in demand by great agricultural gatherings over the entire country.

The musical and entertainment end of the program have by no means been neglected. The Allpress All-Star Co., an interesting group of instrumentalists, appear on the first day of the Assembly. The Ladies' Rainbow Saxophone Band, presenting a program of saxophone ensembles, brass quartets, solos on a great variety of instruments, including unique and novel drum solos. The program also includes whistling solos and vocal ensembles. Satin uniforms, special stage settings, colorful lighting effects, etc., add attractiveness to their concerts.

Ambrose Wyrick, well known tenor assisted by Ethel Murray, famous English cellist, and Earl James Jacobs, concert pianist, appear on another day, while the LeClere Party in a program of great variety comes to us on the fourth day.

The musical part of the chautauqua is brought to a fitting climax by the Davies Light Opera Co., which has achieved remarkable success and an enviable reputation on the chautauqua platform. This company of professionals will present the Gilbert & Sullivan masterpiece, "The Mikado"—the rhythmic and tuneful music of which has never been surpassed in popular appeal. Each member of the cast is a soloist and their ensembles are truly remarkable. For this performance, special scenery, hanging lanterns and stage decorations will make the chautauqua platform present the appearance of a Japanese garden, and the highly colored flowing costumes of the Japanese people will be worn by the participants.

LADIES' RAINBOW SAXOPHONE BAND

LADIES' BAND WILL PRESENT PROGRAMS OF DISTINCTIVE MERIT

A DISTINCTLY different kind of a musical organization is the Ladies' Rainbow Saxophone Band. This group of talented and attractive young ladies under the direction of Sue Ernest Hewling, will delight our Chautauqua audience with a splendid program on the afternoon of the second day and a spectacular double concert on the evening of that day. Miss Hewling is unquestionably supreme as a lady drummer, her drum solos being unique, unusual and at the same time of real musical merit. In addition to her splendid ability as a drummer, Miss Hewling is a remarkable whistler and cornetist, trombonist and saxophonist. Like her, each member of her organization, in addition to her solo instrument, plays well one or more other instruments, thus making possible an almost unlimited variety of instrumentalizations. Their programs are enhanced by splendid costumes and stage settings, with the entire Assembly.

MARENGO MAN SHOTS SELF

George Groth, aged 24, shot and killed himself Tuesday afternoon about 3:30 o'clock at his home on south State street, Marengo. The body was discovered by his father-in-law, William Brown, about 3:45 o'clock of the same afternoon. Mr. Brown called a doctor who pronounced the young man dead. No "deathnote" was found, but it is generally believed that Groth committed suicide because his wife, formerly Ora Brown, had filed suit for divorce at Woodstock Monday. Coroner Eshbaugh was summoned and an inquest was held Wednesday morning.

Mr. Groth was a driver for the India Tea and Coffee Co. He was married four years ago. They have no children. Surviving the deceased, besides the wife, are his mother, Mrs. Groth of Garden Prairie, a sister Irene and brother Benjie also of Garden Prairie, a sister, Mrs. J. #### HIGH SCHOOL CLASS PLAY

Seniors will Present "Safety First" This Week Friday and Saturday

The class of 1922 first to be graduated from the new school, will present in the school auditorium on Friday and Saturday evenings of this week a farce comedy, entitled "Safety First". To say that the director, Miss Irwin and the students who are taking part have worked hard, would be rather a mild term, for they are trying their level best to produce one of the best amateur plays produced in Genoa.

Tickets are on sale at Baldwin's Pharmacy and a number of the students have a few of the coveted car-boards left. The price is 50 cents.

This little farce "Safety First," abounds in mirth-provoking situations. Its leading role is that of an innocent and inoffensive young husband, Jack Montgomery, who is plunged into the abyss of the law after trying to rescue a Turkish maiden from the hands of the police, Jack and his chum, Jerry, visit Zuleika to aid in the interests of Jack's cousin, Elmer Flannel, a shrinking young man, Jack, Jerry and Zuleika are arrested and sentenced to thirty days in jail.

In order to keep the disgrace from Jack's wife, Mabel, and Jerry's fiancée, Virginia, they resort to a clever subterfuge that is only too successful, proves to be a boomerang, and involves the unhappy young men in a maze of explanation. Incidentally the Irish detective, McNutt, comes to grief with his lady love, Miss Mary Ann O'Finnerty, and this misunderstanding leads to several laughable situations before it is straightened out. Jack's elopement with Mary Ann, a case of mistaken identity, is especially dramatic.

The characters are equally balanced and the audience will enjoy the acting of our own high school comedians in this sparkling farce.

GENOA MIDGETS WIN AGAIN

"Genoa's crack ball team, the "Genoa Midgets", composed of Keith Saul, Jay Williams, Donald Field, Albert Rudolph, Kenneth Cooper, John Zeller, Montford Bennett and George Evans, went over to Kingston last Saturday and walloped the daylight right out of the Kingston bunch 30 to 6.

From the looks of the score sheet handed in, the hits were as plentiful as raindrops on an April morning.

ALEXANDER KARR HITS NAIL ON HEAD

Stirring Address Sunday Evening Concerning Subject of Vital Interest to All

COMMUNITY SPIRIT IS NEEDED

A Community Building the Best Solution of the Age Old Problem of Bringing Farm and City Together

"Community Spirit," the lack of which is tending to undermine the very life of the villages, small cities and contributing territory, was the subject of an able lecture given by Alexander Karr of Fargo, N. D., at the opera house last Sunday evening. It was a message that should have been heard by every thinking man and woman in this community and every other community where city life depends upon the farm and the reverse. It should have been heard in every community where there is a lack of interests to hold the attention of the younger people as well as older people of a progressive nature. Mr. Karr cited fact and figures in connection with this subject which were astounding, relative to the decline of small cities and villages and the depopulation of farms. People of Northern Illinois have not yet been brought face to face with this condition as have those in other sections where the mail order house and the line between city and farm has been distinctly drawn. In many places villages and small cities have been paralyzed by the withdrawal of farm business from the natural trade center. The aftermath was depopulation of the very farms that destroyed the city thru lack of support. This story is not one-sided. It as frequently happens that the lethargy of the people living in the cities has caused the ruin of a community, socially and from a business standpoint. Mr. Karr is right when he states that the initiative rests with the people of the city for they are in touch with each other and can readily start a movement for a better community understanding.

The old imaginary line between city or village and the farm must be eliminated forever. The interests of all are identical, as well as inclinations. It is true that to some extent the dividing line has been eradicated by the building of community schools and the abandoning of rural churches. While in many cases these schools have caused temporary dissension, it is pleasing to note that in those communities where those schools have long been in existence, the spirit of adverse opinion has subsided. Bringing the people to one center to attend churches, lodges and clubs in a small way leads to the ultimate result desired, that it merely leads. Mr. Karr stated truthfully that practically all communities are thoroughly organized along the line of their differences. Now it is of vital importance that all these churches, clubs and lodges join forces with the one idea of creating a community spirit which will build up morally, spiritually and materially.

A community building, according to Mr. Karr, is the solution after the proper spirit has been manifested. This building should be large enough to accommodate large gatherings of the people, there must be all conveniences for our neighbors from the farms. It must be a home in fact for every person in the community at any time of the day or night. A place where our young people may congregate; a place where we would be glad to have them be; a place where within four walls the merchant, the farmer, the factory hand and the farm hand, the women of the city and farm, of all sects, creeds, lodge and club affiliation may meet and say: "Howdy Neighbor?"

The Genoa Nationals went over to Burlington Sunday and with a patched lineup, attempted to take the Burlington aggregation into camp. Burlington had other plans, however, and Genoa was beaten 10 to 13.

At first it looked as though our boys would come home with a victory, but after knocking one pitcher from the box, Burlington shoved in a still better heavier and then the battle waged back and forth with the above result.

Sunday the Sycamore colored team comes to Genoa and will try to make it merry for our boys. A strong lineup up for the home team is promised.

Bringing Home Our Soldier Dead

By JESSIE DELL,
(Historian, Quartermaster Corps, United States Army.)

O THE quartermaster corps of the United States army has fallen the reverent task of bringing home the soldier dead, returned for burial under the stars and stripes.

On March 30 last, the army transport Cambrai reached New York with 1,224 flag-draped coffins. With her arrival, the solemn duty of the quartermaster corps of returning the bodies of those who fell in France, was practically completed.

There are left over seas now only 325 bodies to be brought back to the United States, the last of the 44,418 of those Americans who will be buried in the homeland. About 32,000 more will sleep forever overseas, according to the desires of their next of kin.

At this time it is fitting to tell our people just how America has been returning to the bosom of their native land the mortal remains of thousands of her sons who followed the flag—

Into that realm where battle furies are furled
And war drums throb no longer.

This sacred duty, under the direction of Major General H. L. Rogers, quartermaster general of the army, is performed by the graves registration service through the cemeterial division, and the efficient, sympathetic and reverent manner in which it is done has been a source of satisfaction to every one.

That one may visualize the work involved—its methods and operations in preparing our soldier dead for the last journey—we will endeavor to draw a picture which will show, step by step, how this has been accomplished.

Early morning sun finds the field operating units ready for the day's work and with trucks containing all materials necessary—tools, implements, caskets and shipping boxes—they start on their way to the sacred regions where lie our soldier dead. Each unit has its corps of highly-specialized and technical men in mortuary affairs (embalmers, undertakers and technical assistants) to perform this service. The working squads or laborers are composed chiefly of ex-service men.

Guards and watchmen attached to each unit are also discharged American soldiers, and during the time that the bodies are under the jurisdiction of operating units, this guard is constantly on duty over them. A commissioned officer filling a dual capacity of commanding officer and inspector is in command of each unit.

Once at the graves, excavating is commenced. When the bodies are reached, only one is allowed to be lifted to the surface of the ground at a time, in order that no possible chance will be taken in confusing identities. This is a requirement rigidly adhered to. The outer wrapping of the body is removed and search is made for identification tags and marks; when found they are securely fastened to the remains; the body is then wrapped in a new, clean blanket.

The identification disk and long narrow strip of aluminum, showing name, rank and organization, taken from the cross or star which marked the grave, is pinned to the blanket over the chest of the dead. Tenderly lifting and placing the body in a metallic container is the next step, using soft, flat cushions as padding to hold the body steady; after this a soft, clean sheet is carefully tucked in, further insuring against the shifting of the body during transportation.

After this the metallic container is placed in its silk-lined casket of chestnut wood or oak, and it, too, is securely fastened; across the head of the lid is attached a narrow aluminum strip showing the name, serial number, rank and organization of the soldier, and the number of the grave and cemetery from which the body was taken. The casket is then placed in the shipping box, which has been secured by the blocks of white wood or chestnut, covered with white plush to prevent jarring or scratching the casket.

Name, rank and organization is then stenciled on each end of the shipping case. A tag giving the name and address of the consignee is tacked to the side, and the whole box is enveloped with our flag, which remains until the body is placed on the transport for sailing.

The sun sinking low in the West sees all bodies which have been exhumed entirely prepared for shipment, for this is another requirement which is rigidly adhered to. The bodies are then placed

In local storage under constant guard of American watchmen. And thus the day's work is done.

All evacuations being completed within that section, the bodies are then removed from the local storage, and accompanied by convoys and guards, are taken by rail or river barges, as conditions allow, to the concentration point for that particular section.

Port officers maintain at all times a close liaison with the field operating unit in order to obviate misunderstandings, to prevent delays, and to permit satisfactory and definite plans being made in sufficient time for sailing. These concentration points are under the personal and constant supervision of commissioned officers and watchmen who are honorably discharged American soldiers.

The ports chosen as shipping bases are: Brest, St. Nazaire, Bordeaux, Toulon, Cherbourg, Calais, France; and Antwerp, Belgium, through which, during last year, 20,918 bodies were returned to America. Cherbourg has had the greatest number to handle, as evacuation of bodies for return from areas of Romagne, Thiaccourt and Belleau all passed through this port, to the number of 25,000.

Finally the news comes from one of the six ports that the transport is ready for its precious cargo. Officers, convoys and guards then place the dead on special French trains or barges which have been draped with American flags. Departure is taken amid large gatherings of the population of the town and a guard of honor, comprising two or more companies of French soldiers who come to pay homage to our dead.

Quickly the news spreads that "les Américains" are taking their dead heroes home, and all along the line of the journey many are waiting. Priests are there, and these men of God gently and lovingly chant the prayers for the dead, while children with arms full of flowers are waiting to place them in the care of the guards or drop them on the barges as they slowly pass by. Every honor is shown both by civil and military France; and so the journey becomes a triumphal procession of America's heroic dead.

The port is reached, and there on its great "Pier of the Dead" the bodies are gently laid side by side, under the watchful care of the military "Guard of Honor" comprising a company of men detailed from the American forces in Germany.

Before it goes on the transport, each shipping case containing a body is carefully gone over to ascertain if it is in perfect condition for ocean transportation.

The tag showing the name and address of the consignee, which has been tacked to the side of the box, is then removed, and name and address stenciled on the side instead. The port officers, who are commissioned officers of our army, are present when this stenciling is done, the quartermaster general holding them personally responsible for all discrepancies and inaccuracies. Everything finished to the satisfaction of these officers, the bodies are finally placed on the transport, the warning bell is sounded and the transport slowly moves away.

The military attachments stand at "Attention" while their bugles salute the dead. All flags and ensigns of shipping, or those on vessels of the various navies of the world, which may be represented in the harbor, are lowered as our funeral ship solemnly passes out, and then begins the long, last voyage of our soldier dead.

Simultaneously with the sailing of the transport, a cable message bearing the names of the dead returning speeds on its way to Washington and is received by the chief of the cemeterial division, who immediately takes steps to provide that every care and attention shall be attendant upon the arrival of the sacred cargo at the home port.

Let us leave for awhile our dead as they cross the great Atlantic and let us get a glimpse of the fields of honor in whose beautiful, broad, white acres will repose for all time those whose nearest of kin desire that they shall stay sleeping in France. The quartermaster corps has spared no effort in making lovely and lasting monuments to the boys who made the supreme sacrifice. Grounds, graceful and majestic, were chosen and arranged with a simple dignity that seems to be eminently fitting for the resting places of the dead.

At the present time, only five cemeteries in France and Belgium have official approval and sanction for their permanency, but the advisability of increasing the number of national cemeteries abroad is receiving favorable consideration; it is recently that Thiaccourt has been added to the number. In this cemetery lie so many of the men of the air service whose daring and brilliancy will ornament many pages of the World's war history. Already extensive plans are on foot to make our cemeteries over there great national memorials; and to insure the success of the undertaking, plans for beautifying and ornamenting have been placed in the hands of a special commission appointed by the secretary of war.

It is headed by the chief of the cemeterial division; other members are: Charles Moore, secretary of the National Fine Arts commission; James L. Greenleaf, New York landscape artist; and William Mitchell Kendall, the well-known artist of New York. Their ideas when carried out will make the "American Fields of Honor" the most impressive war cemeteries in the world. And every one will be an outpost of America in France or Belgium, for wherever lies the grave of an American soldier, lies, too, a spot that is forever America.

Romagne, which is our Argonne cemetery, originally held in its bosom 23,000 of our men who fell in the Meuse-Argonne offensive, America's greatest battle. There every State of the Union, as well as the territories of Hawaii, Porto Rico, and the Philippine Islands, had representation. No spot in France is more historically famous than this, the Argonne sector, where lies our largest field of honor.

Here France's greatest battles have been fought, but none so great as that of 1918, when America and France again fought side by side, as in the days of Washington and Lafayette, and again for the principles of freedom and liberty. So, Romagne-Argonne, our beautiful and largest cemetery, stands as a monument to America's share in the world's greatest struggle.

Belleau, whose name memory lovingly links with the heroism and sacrifice of our men of the Second division, lies in a green, fertile valley, daintily wooded, with loved and shattered Chateaufort near its portals. This cemetery is and always will be of the greatest national pride and glory to the United States, for it was at Chateaufort that the American soldiers cried, "They shall not pass!" and, like a barrier across their path, halted the Huns on their way to Paris.

Suresnes cemetery, in the winding valley of the Seine and surrounded by a semi-circle of hills, is like a white gem in an exquisite setting of emerald. Old Fort Valerien, whose massive gray walls crown one of the hilltops, stands like a grim sentinel guarding our dead. Lying off in the distance can be seen one of the world's greatest cities—Paris—whose beautiful Washington boulevard, curving in graceful lines, connects it with our cemetery.

Flanders Fields, familiarly known by its old name of Bony, is the spot made historically famous to America by the Twenty-seventh and Thirtieth divisions, whose united effort as the Second corps, furnish one of history's most brilliant pages. Boys of the North and South, sons of the men who wore the Blue and the Gray—who can say that, in spirit, the great commanders of that long past war were not near to guide their boys, as they advanced to meet a common enemy, on the battleground of Flanders Fields.

In smashing the Hindenburg line, many of the division's bravest sons were left to sleep in the field they had so gallantly defended—"In Flanders Fields where poppies blow"—the deep, rich crimson of those poppies; how they cover every hillside and dell! Growing thickly among them are the white lilies of the valley and the beautiful blue cornflowers. And "Old Glory," floating high and wide, finds its colors reflected in these flowers below.

So peaceful and restful! It seems such a little while ago that the boom of cannon and the scream of shell had sent fleeing from their native haunts the sky larks now pouring forth floods of melody—all through the day pour forth floods of melody—a requiem over the dead, a psalm of thanksgiving to the Great Creator for bringing again to their home peace and quiet.

Beauty in Every Jar

Out of the Mouths of Babes.

You've heard about the little girl who was given a woolly bear that she would name "Gladly," after the bear in the hymn—"Gladly, my cross-eyed bear."

Another little girl was asked if she knew who Nero was.

"He's the Good Man," she answered, in awed tones.

"The Good Man? What makes you think he's the Good Man?" said her teacher.

Then, in answer, the little girl, still in awed tones, quoted the hymn, "Nero My God to Thee!"

A Lone Exception.

"Somebody is always offering to make you rich."

"That's a fact," said the credulous citizen.

"But did a man ever attempt to make you take cold cash without having a string tied to his offer?"

"Only once, but after his keeper had called me aside and explained the situation, I handed it back."—Birmingham Age Herald.

Costly Language.

In one of the palatial homes of the new rich, a man sat before a blazing fire, a cigar between his teeth, a liqueur at his elbow. His friend sat opposite, likewise fortified.

The host was bewailing the enormous cost of keeping his son at college.

"Such expenses!" he cried, "And the worst of all is the languages."

"Languages?" repeated his friend, "How's that?"

"Well," said the host, "there is one item in the bill which runs, 'For Scotch, $250.'"—London Answers.

Useless.

"Great men," said Chief Justice Taft at a dinner, "are usually tactful men. Look at Edson, Henry Ford, Lincoln. All strong, silent fellows.

"Talkative men, after all"—and Mr. Taft chuckled—"Well you know the Mark Twain story:

"Isn't Gabbell a splendid talker, though?" a friend said to Mark Twain.

"Best I ever escaped from," Mark answered.

Diplomatic Modesty.
Every discreet diplomat refrains from magnifying any impression that he has got the best of a bargain. Politeness is a part of diplomacy, and in order to be polite it is often necessary to appear modest.—Washington Star.

Only Real Thing in Life.
No man can afford to work for money alone. Simply accumulating wealth adds nothing permanent to human welfare. Wealth is only a means to an end. It is life with real purpose that counts most.

Unexpected.
"How is it with you and Mr. Windy, Anna? Did you explain everything to him? You told him about your rich aunt, of course; and after that what followed?" "He eloped with her."—Berlin Der Brummer.

Smoking at Washington.
The Japanese were the most incessant smokers of all the visitors to the conference on limitation of armaments, said a newspaper man who attended the meetings. Baron Kato seldom is seen without a cigarette, and quite frequently lights one with another. Prince Tokugawa does likewise, while the diminutive Mr. Dubuchi is never seen without a cigarette. Mr. Hanihara is more temperate in his use of the weed. There was never any prohibition about smoking in the Japanese conference rooms. Mr. Hughes prohibits smoking when the correspondents gather. They park their partly smoked weeds on the outside. The Chinese never offered any objection to the cloud-filled conference rooms. For the French, M. Briand was the principal user of tobacco, and when he was not in a plenary session, where no one is permitted to smoke, he never was seen without his Turkish cigarette.

NOW THE CRANBERRY "FARM"
New and Successful Industry Has Been Developed of Late Years in the Pacific Northwest.

Shortage in the cranberry crop in other parts of the United States last year has focused attention upon this new industry of the Pacific Northwest, which promises to furnish strong competition for the product of the eastern part of the American continent, as described in Popular Mechanics Magazine. After years of experimentation and selection and the development of artificial growing areas the states of Washington and Oregon have come to the front as producers of cranberries in large commercial quantities.

Lewis and Clark, in the log of their trip across the continent in the early part of the Nineteenth century, mention the fine flavor of the wild cranberries purchased from the Indians along Columbia river. Cultivation of the wild cranberry bogs was not attempted until about thirty-five years ago, and continued in a desultory manner until recently, when a successful means of preparing growing ground was developed.

Preparation of cranberry ground in the Pacific Northwest is an expensive undertaking, the cost being around $1,000 an acre. A wild marsh is selected, drained by ditches, cleared of trees and brush, then the turf is removed by what is called the "sculpting" process, laying bare the peat of the bog. Over the peat is spread a four-inch layer of clean white sand. Planting is the next proceeding. Vine cuttings are used for this purpose and are pressed through the sand into the peat with a dibble or planting tool. The vines are planted ten inches apart, which makes about 60,000 to the acre.

Impressing the Visitors.
You never can tell what will impress the stranger within the gates. The foreign correspondents "doing" the conference were curious spectators of congressional proceedings when the President delivered his message, but the thing that most attracted their attention was the sight of William Alton White of Kansas sharpening a pencil as he sat in the press gallery and letting the shavings fall on the dignitaries below.—Manchester Union.

Salt Supply Here to Stay.
The salt supply is not likely to be exhausted. Every pint of sea water contains a half ounce of salt and it is estimated that there is salt enough in the seas to cover the entire globe to a depth of 60 feet. The Scandinavians and people of northern Russia are the greatest salt eaters in the world.

Elaborate Plans Made for Dedication of War Veterans' Building at Elgin; American Legion Men to Be Present

Governor Small and National and State Commanders of Legion Will Speak.

Elgin, Ill., May 23.—Five thousand World War Veterans, representing 150 posts in Illinois are expected to attend the exercises here next Sunday at the dedication of the new building for World War Veterans at the Elgin State hospital. The principal addresses will be delivered by National Commander Hanford MacNider and State Commander W. R. McCauley of the American Legion, Gov. Len Small and Director C. H. Jenkins of the Department of Public Welfare.

The building is the first to be completed under the terms of an approriation made by the last general assembly at the urgent request of Governor Small, for the treatment and rehabilitation of veterans in the State insane hospitals. It cost approximately $150,000 and will house 250 patients. It has a frontage of 273 feet and contains dormitories, dining rooms, serving rooms, day rooms, toilets, baths, wash rooms, linen rooms and clothing and mending rooms. A large court and 1,500 feet of sidewalk provide room for outdoor exercise and recreation. The physically sick will be cared for in small wards of from five to six beds each and a separate entrance permits relatives to enter those wards without coming in contact with other parts of the building.

New furniture of the highest quality has been provided at a cost of between $10,000 and $15,000, and every effort has been made to make the building as home-like and pleasant as possible, as it is believed the environment will have an effect upon the recovery of the afflicted veterans.

The cost of the construction has been reduced materially by the use of institution inmates wherever possible under the new system of occupational therapy. All of the common labor was furnished by hospital inmates. They did all of the excavating and furnished all of the concrete blocks. Material was provided from the sand and gravel pits owned and operated by the hospital.

At the exercises next Sunday which will be held in front of the building, where a large stand has been erected, two battalions of boys from St. Charles School for Boys will be present with their band.

Another similar building is under course of construction at the Jacksonville State hospital.

Niagara's Future City.
An idea which has occurred to many minds since the last "harnessing" of Niagara falls was clearly put by a speaker before the Engineers' society of New York. It is that most of the electric power obtained from the falls will be used within a few miles of its place of origin instead of being transmitted to distant cities. In other words, it is believed that at and near the falls will be situated the future industrial center of America. It would be theoretically possible, it is stated, to transmit power from Niagara as far as San Francisco, but the cost would be prohibitive. It is much cheaper to locate factories near the falls.

Dire Threat.
Bartholomew had been very naughty, and at last in despair his mother shut him up in a large cupboard, wherein were stored all sorts of articles. He immediately began to bellow and stamp and make a terrific noise generally. Finally silence ensued, and his mother who was just showing his auntie out remarked as they passed the cupboard "I think Bartie has broken the record this time!" "Yes" came the unexpected rejoinder from within. "I have, an' if you don't let me out I'll smash the machine as well!"—Detroit Free Press.

20,994 MILES AND TREAD ONLY 1/3 WORN

MOST MILES per DOLLAR Firestone CORD TIRES

The tire section above at the left shows the condition of a Firestone 83x4 1/2 Cord Tire after 20,994 miles on a Yellow Cab in Chicago.

The section at the right was cut from a new Cord of the same size. Careful measurements show that only 1/3 of the tread of the tire on the Yellow Cab has been worn away after this long, gruelling test. The carcass is intact after more than 11,000,000 revolutions.

Firestone Cords have averaged over 10,000 miles on Chicago Yellow Cabs (1,200 cabs all Firestone equipped). In thousands of instances, they have given from 15,000 to 30,000 miles.

Look at the tread—scientifically angled against skid, massive and heavy in the center where the wear comes, tapered at the edges to make steering easy and to protect the carcass against destructive hinging action of high tread edges. The carcass is air bag expanded to insure uniform tension and paralleling of every individual cord. It is double "gum dipped" to make sure that each cord is thoroughly insulated with rubber.

This is the reason why Firestone Cords unfailingly deliver extraordinary mileage. It explains the unanimous demand of thoughtful tire buyers for these values. The local Firestone dealer will continue to provide the personal service that makes Firestone tire comfort and economy complete.

Khaki.

To India, by way of England, we owe the word "khaki." There was a sect of Brahmins—and it is still in existence—who applied the ashes of cow-dung to their clothes and persons. They were called "khako" because of that coloration—or discoloration. The word was naturally applied to the earthy or clay color in the uniforms of soldiers or sepoy in the British government. Hence the protective light-chocolate dye employed in British military uniforms.

Wouldn't You Like to Own It?

The Price Makes It Easy

High cost has prevented most buyers from enjoying full motoring comforts—possible only in closed cars.

The Essex Coach alone provides those advantages at little more than open car cost.

It is light, sturdy and durable. Has open car performance and economy.

Builders of the famous Super-Six designed and produce it. Here they have created a new type as they have done with so many Hudson closed models.

It has the well known Essex nimbleness and reliability. As a family or business car it meets all season requirements in all service. Easy to drive—easy to park—easy to care for, easy to buy.

Come See—Ride and Compare It?

"48,000 Miles at Low Cost"

"I have driven my Essex 48,000 miles without replacing over $50 worth of parts. I get about 17 miles to the gallon of gasoline, and about 150 miles to the quart of oil. It has been more than satisfactory in every way. The best car on the market."

Little Banking Stories

Does This Prove It?

EVERY DAY OF THE WEEK there are nine dollars in bank checks used to every dollar of actual Cash that changes hands.

The reason for this is not hard to find.

When bank checks are used they represent money that remains safely in the bank. The risk is eliminated. Checks are also far more convenient and business-like.

Every cancelled check is a valuable record of the transaction—a perfect receipt for payment and proof in case any question ever comes up concerning it.

The checking system is most popular because it is the best method ever devised for handling money.

Don't be satisfied with bad business methods.

Come in and talk it over.

How to Save on Clincher Tires

The one sure way to save money on tires is to buy the tire which has the greatest possible value built into it and then get that value out.

The tire made cheaply to sell at a low price, and sold without service behind it, cannot meet these specifications.

The fact that "More People Ride on Goodyear Tires than on any other Kind," is due largely to one thing. Instead of building tires as cheaply as it can, Goodyear builds them as Good as it can, putting into them all possible value.

And we as Goodyear dealers make a sincere effort to help Goodyear users get out of these tires all the value the factory has built in.

Goodyear tires are lower in price and better in quality than ever before.

As a result you can enjoy from Goodyear tires with our service behind them not only greater tire satisfaction and less tire trouble, but also lower final cost.

RAIL OFFICIALS SEEK WAGE CUT

Will Make No Move to Reduce Rates Until Pay Is Lowered.

UP TO RAIL LABOR BOARD

Interstate Commerce Commission Withholds Decision on Question Until Wage Body Completes Its Hearing.

Washington, May 24.—There will be no move on the part of the railway managers to reduce rates until wages are lowered.

The railway labor board, which has the sole power to adjust railway wages, has practically completed its hearings in Chicago. A decision reducing wages of railway workers is expected from the board within a month.

It is now evident that President Harding has been unable to do what he expected in bringing about voluntary reductions by the railway managers.

But from a reliable source it was learned that the conference of the rail executives at the White House and the subsequent conferences all were brought about as a result of the nature of the proposed rate-reduction decision on which the interstate commerce commission has been working several months.

TOOK THREE ENEMY SCALPS

Exploit of Indian Girl Made Her Famous Among the Tribes of the Northwest.

One of the most warlike of Indian maidens was Hanging Cloud, a Chippewa girl, the daughter of Na-nong-ga-bee, chief of a branch of that tribe which occupied the territory around Rice lake in northern Wisconsin, some 75 years ago.

This exploit she performed when a party, including herself and her father, were ambushed by a force of Sioux, the Chippewas' traditional enemies. Her father was slain, and Hanging Cloud, feigning death, waited until the Sioux came to secure the scalps of the slain Chippewas, and then, seizing her father's rifle, killed one and, in the pursuit which followed, succeeded in killing two more.
