THE SCHOOL ELECTION

TAKES PLACE SATURDAY, APRIL 16, AT SCHOOL HOUSE

PRESIDENT, TWO MEMBERS

Retiring Members will Again Present Their Names for Re-election—No Change Necessary nor Advisable

The annual school election for District No. 1, which includes the city of Genoa, takes place at the school building next Saturday afternoon, April 16, the polls to be open at two o'clock in the afternoon and close at six o'clock.

A president of the board and two members are to be elected, the retiring president being C. H. Smith and the members G. E. Stott and H. A. Perkins. These gentlemen have signified their willingness to again become candidates, a fact that should be gratifying to the patrons of the school. They are all men who are well qualified to fill the positions. Messrs. Smith and Perkins have had several years of experience on the board and are well acquainted with the needs of the school. Mr. Stott has served but one year, having been elected last year to fill a vacancy. During that one year, however, he has in many ways shown his ability to cope with the perplexing questions that are continually coming up for consideration. Considering this there is no reason why there should be any change in the make-up of the present board. There is no plum connected with the job and the little glory that one imagines he may acquire soon fades away before the little hammers of the knockers. It is therefore not advisable to hand the office around just to satisfy a whim. If a man on the board is acting for the best interests of the district and is willing to submit to the ordeal for another term, it is up to the voters to put him back. We do not mean to say that the present board has pleased all the patrons of the school, that would be as possible as friendship between the lion and the lamb, but it is true that all the members, including those who will be candidates next Saturday, have acted in a manner that would be for the best interests of the districts.

Everything in connection with the school is now working in perfect harmony, and the chances are that conditions will continue thus if the present plans of the board are not interfered with. The voters of the district can best help in carrying out these plans by voting for Smith, Perkins and Stott next Saturday.

Mr. Vincent is now in charge of the business, but his son-in-law, Mr. Shauger, will not arrive in Genoa until some time in May, he having remained in Michigan to settle up their affairs there. The latter has purchased Max Stoll's residence in the Citizens' addition.

GROCERY CHANGES HANDS

Shauger & Vincent Purchase the Store in Kiernan Block

The grocery store which has been conducted by M. R. Newcombe in the Kiernan block during the past few months has been purchased by Shauger & Vincent of Standish, Mich., the place changing hands this week.

Mr. Vincent is now in charge of the business, but his son-in-law, Mr. Shauger, will not arrive in Genoa until some time in May, he having remained in Michigan to settle up their affairs there. The latter has purchased Max Stoll's residence in the Citizens' addition.

In County Jail

Two DeKalb men, Williams and Perry, are serving a sentence of 12 days in the county jail in lieu of a fine which they were assessed in justice court for abusing a team of horses.

MRS. B. C. AWE

Funeral Services Held at M. E. Church Saturday Afternoon

Mrs. Minnie Stregge Awe was born in Griefenberg, Germany, May 30, 1863, and passed away at Genoa on the morning of April 6, 1910. In 1865 she came to America with her parents, located and lived at Cherry Valley. In 1866 they moved to Boone county and resided for six years on a farm where the village of Herbert was afterwards built, and in 1872 they moved from Herbert to Colvin Park, DeKalb county, where they lived a number of years. On the 4th of April, 1886, she was married to Benjamin C. Awe and lived on the Awe homestead for 24 years, with the exception of five years when they lived on the Wood farm in Kingston township. To this Union eleven children were born, two of whom, Elmer and Raymond, preceded their mother to the better world. Of the immediate family she leaves to mourn her loss her husband, B. C. Awe, and the following children: Mrs. James Nicholson of Garden Prairie; Ida of Chicago; Laura, Irene, Edward, Cora, Nora, Esther and LaVern, all of Genoa. Besides she leaves a little grand-daughter, Hazel Nicholson. A little grand-son, Ernest, has gone before. Of her father's family she leaves one brother, Charles Stregge of Colvin Park, and one sister, Mrs. Lettow of Genoa. Her father, mother and two sisters preceded her to the great beyond. Her aged father was laid to rest at North Kingston cemetery only a few weeks ago and little did she think that she would follow him so soon. Her remains were laid to rest in Genoa cemetery beside her two little sons.

Mrs. Awe was ill only one week and was a patient sufferer. All that could be done by her husband and family was done to save her life. Two nurses and the best medical skill cared for her, but without avail, and on Wednesday morning she passed away from the effects of blood poisoning.

Mrs. Awe lived a devoted religious life. She prized the church and its interests and was always ready and willing to support it in every way she could. She loved her home and family and while she will be missed by a large circle of friends and relatives, yet there is no place where she will be so missed, no place where there will be such a vacancy, as in the home.

The funeral was held from the M. E. church Saturday afternoon and was very largely attended. Rev. J. T. McMullen officiated. Mrs. Millard Hendrickson and Mrs. John Nicholson, both of Elgin, had charge of the singing. The Royal Neighbors marched in a body from the house to the church in honor of their deceased member.

Mr. Awe and family have the heartfelt sympathy of their many friends in and around Genoa in their sad and irreparable loss.

Woodmen Assist Neighbor

A large number of Woodmen with fifty horses went to Fred Scherf's place on the Olmsted farm last Thursday and assisted him in getting his land in shape and putting in the crops. It will be remembered that Mr. Scherf recently lost all of his horses and a large amount of other property in a fire. He is a member of Genoa Camp No. 163 M. W. A. and the neighbors did not forget the fact in his hour of need. It is just such fraternal spirit as this that is making the Woodmen the greatest society in the world.

FULLER LOVE FEAST

REPUBLICAN EDITORS MEET IN CHICAGO SATURDAY

NOT ONE DISSIDENTING VOICE

Administration Endorsed and Congressman Fuller Given Ovation that Means Re-election is Assured

The Republican editors of the 12th congressional district met at the Briggs House in Chicago last Saturday to talk over the political situation and also ascertain just what opposition there might be to the re-election of the present congressman, Charles E. Fuller.

Out of the twenty-five editors present there was not one that did not express himself as being heartily in favor of Mr. Fuller's renomination. There had been some intimation of opposition in the district, but when the men whose names had been mentioned were approached on the matter they denied any intention of getting into the field.

At the afternoon session Congressman Fuller delivered an address that left no doubt as to his position on the various questions of the day. He is not only with the administration, but is a friend and admirer of Uncle Joe Cannon, whom he rates as the fairest man who ever presided over the lower house.

The Republican-Journal has so often expressed its admiration of and confidence in Congressman Fuller that more words in that direction would seem superfluous. He is working for the interests of the 12th district all the time, and is the best friend that the old soldiers ever had in congress.

The resolutions adopted at the meeting Saturday were in part as follows:

"Resolved, That we endorse the administration of President Taft as being able, fearless and commend to congress the policies which he has advocated.

"Resolved, That we have unwavering confidence in the beneficent principles of a protective tariff, and believe these principles have found their best exemplification in the present tariff law. It has increased the revenues of the government. Under it the American workman has had uninterrupted employment at good wages, the farmer has received higher prices for his product, and today the country is enjoying a period of unprecedented prosperity. Wages have been and are being materially advanced, and the demand for labor is greater than ever before in the history of the republic. Manufacturers have enlarged their output and found profitable markets at home and abroad. Trade and transportation have been stimulated, and no legitimate industry has suffered.

"Resolved, That we endorse the republican senators and representatives of this state for their unflinching allegiance to the principles of the party, and especially do we commend the course of our own congressman, Charles E. Fuller, for his loyalty, faithful, honest, conscientious and able attention to the duties of his office, his valuable services to the old soldiers and generally to the people of his district."

Back to Kalamazoo

Harlan E. Babcock, Marengo young man who has been connected in an editorial capacity with the Spokesman-Review at Spokane, Wash., has given up his place there to return to Kalamazoo, Mich., where he was previously engaged in the newspaper business.

ECHO OF THE ELECTION

Disposition of Saloon Question in the Various Towns

The city of Rochelle voted a tie on the saloon question and as the city was dry it will remain so unless a mistake is found in the recount.

It is reported that Marengo saloon men will try to overthrow the result of the election which was won by the dries with a majority of four votes, on the grounds that certain legal steps were overlooked in submitting the petition.

The city of Sandwich will vote on the saloon issue next Tuesday.

Thirteen dram shop licenses were granted in Belvidere the day after election at a special session of the city council. Jesse Geithman and John Riddle & Son, formerly of Genoa, were among the applicants.

It is reported that the city of Sycamore has already mapped out the policy on which she will grant licenses. It will cost $1,500 per year for the license and the number will be limited to five. Also the first violation of the law will result in a suspension of thirty days; a second, six months and a third will forever bar a license from the guilty person. That's going some, if true.

There is talk of raising the license at Rockford to $2,000 per year. Will that improve the situation? On top of this the council may try to stop the treating habit. Under such conditions the city attorney will sure have his hands full. If a saloon can not run "straight" on $1,000 a year, how can it do so on double that amount with the treating cut out.

The fight at the township election in Mayfield was centered on the office of collector, and there was a lively scrimmage. Alf. Clarke offered to donate the salary for hard roads, but as in most cases in which an offer is made to give the salary away, the voters declined the gift, and selected Charles Wilson by a vote of 58 to 78.

BEATS TRAIN TO CHICAGO

Machine Accomplishes the Feat and Owner Wins Bet

The Kurtz auto accomplished the feat of beating a Northwestern train to Chicago from Rockford Friday night and won an even hundred dollars for the owner says the Register-Gazette.

The test came as a result of a banter and a bet. Kurtz was engaged in conversation with a traveling man at the Nelson Friday afternoon and during same made the declaration that he could go to Chicago by auto in faster time than by train.

The start was made at 6 o'clock Friday night, the traveling man aboard the Northwestern train, Kurtz in his auto with his regular driver.

When the Northwestern train pulled into Elgin Kurtz stepped aboard and shook hands with his doubting friend and when the train pulled into the depot in Chicago Kurtz was there again with the glad hand for the traveling man from Missouri.

Marengo Doctor Dead

Loss of fortune and marital troubles are believed by friends to have been the causes which led to the death of Dr. Ole Mesick, former Marengo and Chicago physician, who died Saturday afternoon in the Elgin State hospital. Although but 42 years of age, Dr. Mesick appeared to be an old man. Business reversals resulted in the fortune left him by his father being swept away. He brooded continually over his misfortune and when more than a year ago his wife left him to join her sister in Europe, his mind failed him.

GUN CLUB ORGANIZED

REGULAR SHOOTING EVENTS FOR THE SEASON

HAS TWENTY-NINE MEMBERS

Organization Effected at the Office of John Hadsall Monday Evening—Harry McGough, President

Thru the efforts of H. G. Taylor, who represents the U. M. C. Cartridge Co. and the Remington Arms Co., a gun club has been organized in Genoa, the details having been arranged at the office of John Hadsall on Monday evening of this week, and the following officers elected:

J. H. McGough, president.
Claude E. Senska, secretary.
John Hadsall, treasurer.

The organization will be known as "The Genoa Gun Club." The object of the club is to seek recreation and develop good shooting and incidentally advertise the town. The latter can be accomplished if the affairs of the club are properly exploited thru the columns of the various sporting papers. The date for the first shoot has not yet been determined, but will be in the near future. There will be an effort to develop both shot gun and rifle experts.

The club was organized with the following enrollment:

John Hadsall	C. E. Senska
A. D. Hadsall	K. H. Browne
J. H. McGough	T. C. Sager
H. E. King	E. M. Conner
T. A. Carey	Fred Hannah

MRS. NAKER DEAD

Aged Resident of Charter Grove Passed Away Sunday

Mrs. August Naker died at the home of her nephew, George Naker, in Charter Grove, on last Sunday evening at about 10:30 o'clock, at the advanced age of 86 years.

Johanna Dorwat was a native of Germany, but for over half a century had been a resident of DeKalb county. She married August Naker and for about three years they were residents of DuPage county, when they came to DeKalb county, and here they made their home for the remainder of their lives. Mr. Naker died on December 28, 1898, at the age of 87 years.

They had no children. A number of nephews and nieces survive. Considerable property was left by Mrs. Naker.

The funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at 1 o'clock at the Charter Grove church, Rev. J. T. McMullen, pastor of the Methodist church of Genoa, officiating, and the remains were interred in the Charter Grove cemetery.

BULL AUCTIONED FOR $10,000

Short Horn Blooded Animal is Bought at Aurora Sale

One short horn bull brought $10,000 at the sale of Thomas Staton's blooded cattle at William George's Brookline farm, near Aurora. The bull, which is three years old, was bought by George Sayer of Chicago.

The animal is of the low to the ground type, being 13 hands, and weighs over a ton. Staton bought him in Scotland for $3,000.

The highest prices that ever ruled at an auction of cattle prevailed. Fifty-six head brought $35,950. Dealers from all sections of the United States and Canada attended the sale.

Hereditary Criminality and Its Certain Cure

by WARREN W. FOSTER

JUDGE WARREN W. FOSTER

THE best way to train a child is to begin with his grandfather," is a remark attributed to that genial philosopher, Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes, and its wisdom is apparent to all students of the history of crime and criminals.

Whether crime is caused by heredity, environment or just "happens" is a much-mooted question. The potency of heredity as a causal factor of crime is doubtful to the casual observer, who is of the opinion that all depends on environment. But "atavism," or the tendency of nature "to return to type," has come to be recognized generally by scientists and historical and anthropological research undoubtedly prove its existence.

As the criminal stands at the bar and receives his sentence, immuring him behind the prison walls, little is known of his past, even less is learned of his future by the world at large. The average of mankind may know one or two or possibly three criminals, but in all probability does not know the "pedigree" of even one of them. Looking backward, we find that we have outgrown the friends of our youth whose "pedigree" or ancestry we did know, and so cannot trace them further. Thus it follows that whether heredity tends to criminality cannot be ascertained by every-day or common experience. There seems no doubt, however, that it can be determined by statistical research.

Formerly the theory of the criminal law was retribution—an eye for an eye, a tooth for a tooth; he who has sinned must be punished. But the advancement of scientific knowledge has furnished the foundation for a new system of penology, which has, at least upon the statute books, taken the place of the old. The trend of the law for many years has been toward the amelioration of punishment and largely because the nature of the criminal is better understood and it is felt that he is one who needs not so much punishment as proper instruction; and, moreover, because it is now believed that the purpose and intent of our criminal law should be to cure the criminal of his criminal tendencies and to restore him to righteous living.

Under the old theory of "responsibility" whoever or whatever sinned was deemed responsible for it and subject to punishment and in the middle ages even animals were tried and punished. Invertebrates, also, were not exempt from prosecution. Havelock Ellis tells us in "The Criminal" that in 1454 the bishop of Lauzanne initiated legal proceedings against the leeches which infested the water at Berne. The "affair" came before the judges at Berne, the bishop being properly represented. A leech was obtained and brought into the presence of the judges and all leeches, present and absent, were warned to abandon the spots they had the temerity to occupy, three full days being allowed them to evacuate, and a guardian was appointed to watch over their interests and take means for their defense in court. The bishop gained his cause, but the leeches having successfully resisted the decree of the court the bishop finally lost all patience and anathematized them.

Formerly, insanity, even with its apparent irresponsibility, was no defense to crime. Before 1789 insanity seems to have been unknown to the French law, although the seventeenth-century rule prescribed that no one in the state of "insensate fury" should be punished. The rule, however, proved of little avail. "Responsibility" has since received close attention and study and, through the persistent efforts of men of science, its field has steadily enlarged. Schopenhauer says "responsibility supposes that an individual could have acted differently from the way he actually did act." In a sense responsibility means that man suffers the consequences of his acts. Man becomes responsible because he lives in society. Society has the right to defend and preserve itself. It recognizes the need of suppressing the criminal and preventing his unlawful acts and it exercises its right so to do.

The progressive feature of the age in penology has been to determine not only whether crime was committed, but whether he who committed it was of such an understanding as to be properly punishable therefor and amenable to disciplinary treatment. Many of the world's greatest minds have studied this problem, but the first beneficent attempt to minister to the criminal as one "possessed of a devil" or "mind diseased" was made in the state of New York, when the New York State Reformatory at Elmira was created. There the inmates are kept under the strictest of mental and physical discipline; mental arithmetic and Turkish baths are applied together to create a sane mind in a sound body. They are taught that "honesty is the best policy," the only policy that pays from the practical, worldly point of view. The results have been surprisingly gratifying, only about 20 per cent. of the felons therein incarcerated having returned to ways of crime.

Punishment for crime had its origin in the innate savagery of the human race and is but much about the shambles where her husband, the boy's father, was a butcher, and the sight of the blood having thus worked out in the child. The begetting of children is the highest of all human functions and carries consequences that beggar description. It is well, therefore, to remember that every falling away from health, every new strain or break in man or woman may lay an additional burden on a man or woman yet unborn, perhaps wreck a life or a succession of lives.

Carefully drawn statistics of 4,000 criminals taken from the Elmira reformatory show that drunkenness existed in the parents of 38 per cent, and probably more. Dr. Christian, of the Elmira reformatory, reports that of 8,000 prisoners received there during the last eight years 19.9 per cent. were tuberculous, 43.7 per cent. were affected with some form of mental disease, and that 37.4 per cent. were mentally defective. Marro finds that on an average 41 per cent. of the criminals he had examined had a drunken parent, as against 16 per cent. for normal persons. A large number of criminals investigated by Rossi belonged to criminal families. Dr. Allison, superintendent at the Matteawan State Hospital for the Criminal Insane (New York), is impressed with the frequency with which very serious crimes, especially murder and violent assault, occur in the same family. Morrison reports that among the inmates of English industrial schools 51 per cent. are either illegitimates or have one or both parents dead or are the offspring of criminals.

A further proof of the potency of heredity is shown by the investigations of the Rev. Dr. Stocker of Berlin. He traced 834 descendants of two sisters who died in 1825 and found among them 76 who had served 116 years in prison, 164 prostitutes, 106 illegitimate children, 17 pimps, 142 beggars and 64 paupers.

Assuming it, then, as proved, first that the aim of all criminal law and procedure is public protection against crime, and, second, that criminal tendencies as well as virtuous tendencies are transmitted by inheritance, does there not follow, as the night the day, the logical conclusion that criminals ought not to be allowed to propagate their species? By "criminal" is meant, of course, that class best described as "instinctive criminals," who have an instinctive propensity to crime and to whom many authorities refer as "born" or "congenital criminals" and who are possessed of an ingrained malignity of disposition. If, then, it has been shown that heredity is the most potent source of crime and that society should protect itself by preventing the further breeding of criminals, how may society accomplish this?

Various methods have been suggested, among them a rigid regulation of marriage, which shall prohibit the criminal from mating, segregation or colonization of the criminal, and vasectomy. It may be possible by legislation to diminish marriage, but doubtless the effect would be to increase the number of illegitimates, thus augmenting instead of diminishing the "mischief." The segregation or "colonization" of the criminal, thus making impossible the commingling of the sexes, is approved chiefly by those who have apparently never known of vasectomy. As a matter of fact, it has been tried by the law for a time to which the memory of man runneth not to the contrary—for what else is it than imprisonment within four walls, and has this not already proved its inefficiency?

Returning to Prose. Flushed with triumph and 90 degrees in the shade, parched and scant of breath, they stood upon the towering mountain peak, and surveyed the gorgeous panorama that spread itself beneath them like a two-inch to the mile ordnance map of the whole world.

"There!" she exclaimed, angrily. "We have climbed all this distance to admire the beauties of nature, and we've left the glass at home!"

Tranquilly smiling, he shifted the lunch basket to the other arm. "Never mind, dear," he replied. "There's nobody about. It won't hurt us just this once to drink out of the bottle."

Newfoundland's Bad Record. The Newfoundland Society for the Prevention of Tuberculosis is carrying on a vigorous and necessary campaign this year in the island. The death rate from the disease in Newfoundland is very large. About one in every five of the total population dies of it, and what is worse, in the last six years the death rate, which is stationary or decreasing elsewhere, has increased about 50 per cent. This is due largely to the native horror of fresh air in the house.

A Minister's Indigestion

Rev. Fletcher of Tennessee Suggests a Remedy Based on Personal Experience—You Can Get It Free.

There is nothing that is so much sought after as a remedy for stomach trouble, and hence you will be interested to know how the Rev. A. J. Fletcher of Rutherford, Tenn., whose picture we present herewith, cured his indigestion. To use his own words, he says, in part: "I received the sample bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin that I asked you to send me, and I made no mistake in ordering it. I have been troubled with dyspepsia and indigestion more or less for about sixty years, and have taken many remedies, but Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin has done me more good than anything else. I am 72."

Rev. A. J. Fletcher

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin has been sold in drug stores for twenty years. The price is only 50 cents or $1 a bottle. It is especially adapted to the uses of babies, children, women and old folks. Its purity is vouched to the Government, and results from its use are guaranteed. If you have never tried it send name and address for a free trial bottle, which will be cheerfully sent to your home prepaid. If there is any medical advice that you want, or anything about your condition that you don't understand, write the doctor. Address your letter, Dr. W. B. GETTING HIS IDIOMS MIXED German-American May Have Meant Well, But Directions Were Somewhat Complex.

Passengers on a New York street car were treated to some choice examples of German-American English when a stout gentleman with a robust voice started to relate to a friend his adventures of the previous night.

"Twelf o'clock it was when he come alretty," said the stout man, "and on de door rap."

"But," said his companion, "it was only about ten o'clock when he started over there."

"Vell, twelf o'clock it was when he comes alretty und on de door rap. Und I tell him de dogtor he vant, he shouldn't go de frondt vay out, de sid vay roundt und de pack vay oop, und chust as blain as I, und den de plane fool, he rap yet und vake efery-pody de house in. Den I put myself my pants on und nayepe I don't pall him out. I call him a chump und a lopper."

"No," laughed his friend, "you surely didn't call him that."

"Call him dot?" snorted the fat man. "Say, I call him eferyting I can lay my hands on."

The Large Way. Apropos of J. Pierpont Morgan's immense resources, as shown in his recent purchase of $100,000,000 wherewith to build more New York subways, a broker said: "Mr. Morgan's wealth causes him to look at money in a large way. Once, at the Metropolitan club in Fifth avenue, I told him of the death of a mutual friend. "How much did he leave?" Mr. Morgan asked. "A matter of five or six millions, I believe," said I. "How deceptive circumstances sometimes are," he said. "I always supposed him quite comfortably off."

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address: F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio. Sold by Druggists, 75c. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Blind Boone Concert Company at Opera House, Next Tuesday Evening

The Forester Team of the Modern Woodmen has been fortunate in securing the Blind Boone Concert Company for the next attraction. This company will appear at the opera house on Tuesday evening, April 19. The company is headed by the marvelous musical prodigy, Blind Boone, of whom the press and the people of the whole country have given such generous words of praise, assisted by Miss Emma Smith, the wonderful vocalist. Wherever this company has appeared other dates have again and again been solicited.

The following from Kunkel's Musical Review of St. Louis speaks well for the attraction: "The Blind Boone Concert Company filled a splendid engagement for four weeks in this city. The principal member of the company, John W. Boone, is one of the most wonderful pianists of recent years. His playing is remarkable, not because of his blindness, but because of his artistic excellence. John W. Boone is justly considered the successor of the celebrated Gottschalk. He grasps with marvelous rapidity any composition played for him, and the most difficult pieces are played after single reading. His engagements here drew crowded houses nightly. He has met the leading professional men of the city, and the opinion is unanimous that he is the most wonderful artist before the public. We advise our patrons, wherever he appears, to take advantage of the opportunity of hearing him."

Seats on sale at the usual place. Prices 25 and 35c.

AN ECCENTRIC DOG.

His Pet Hobbigs Were Birds' Nests and a Cat.

I once knew a very eccentric dog. He was a real old English spaniel, with long body, short legs with great bone, grand head, jaws and teeth like a wolf's almost and long ears that would meet his nose. Poor fellow! His temper was certainly unamiable, but I think this was caused by the state of his health.

He was a very curious animal, never showing much attachment to any one. He would bite his best friends on the least provocation. Nothing, though, offended him so much as being laughed at. That was an insult he never forgave. If you began to laugh at him he would growl in a very ominous manner and if you persisted in it would snap at you and give you such a bite that you would not care to try again.

If you wished to please him you had to get a lot of old birds' nests and give them to him, one by one. He would carry them about for some time, and then he would sit down and tear them to pieces. He was not particularly fond of going for a walk with any one, but if you got some nests and gave him one occasionally he would trot along with you as happy as possible.

Another curious habit of his was that he would never get out of the way for any one. When he was trotting along he never moved from his line if he saw any one coming, but if he saw they did not intend to move would begin to growl and look so savage that people usually made haste out of his way. When he happened to be running down a hill he did not growl, but merely ran against people if they did not clear out, his great weight usually upsetting them, of which he took not the slightest notice.

A great friendship arose between this dog and a fine cat we had, and it was very amusing to see them together. He would walk up to the cat and begin to lick her all over, and then she would rub all around him, purring and seeming to be very fond of him, when all of a sudden she would stop, look up in his face and spit at him, at the same time giving him two or three sharp scratches, the only notice of which he took was to close his eyes so that they might not be hurt.—Bailey's Magazine.

Fully Grown.

The old lady had a son who intended to emigrate to Canada as soon as possible, and as he was temporarily confined to his room she had promised to find out as much as she could from the information office.

Accordingly she entered the building the next morning and was particularly struck by the stuffed head of a Canadian moose that graced one of the walls.

"Young man," she said to the clerk, "what kind of an animal is that—a hippopotamus?"

"No, ma'am," was the answer. "It's a Canadian moose."

The old lady took a step back and raised her hands in wonderment.

"What!" she cried. "You beast a Canadian mouse! Well, that beats anything I ever heard! I wonder what the rats out there is like!"—London Tit-Bits.

Inverted Rainbows.

Not very many persons have ever seen an inverted rainbow, although the phenomenon sometimes appears. At the Italian Geodynamic observatory of Rocca da Papa the director and a party of visitors were fortunate enough to see one. The morning was showery, and as the party looked down from an elevation of 2,300 feet they saw in the Campagna a perfect rainbow, with concave side up. From the Eiffel tower, in Paris, one has also been seen, in this case the rainbow being double and extending above and below the horizon to form two concentric circles nearly complete. Generally the inverted rainbow is to be seen only in the mountains and then very rarely. The phenomenon, of course, is due merely to the position of the observer, which must be above the refracting agent instead of below.

Growth of Postal Service.

In Washington's administration the postmaster general had but one clerk. There were only seventy-five postoffices and 1,875 miles of post roads in the United States. The cost of the mail transportation was $22,061, the total revenue $37,935, the total expenditure $32,140, leaving a surplus of $5,795. It was not till 1838 that the idea of utilizing the railroads in the mail service was thought of, and the present railway mail service was not inaugurated until 1864, when it was begun by Colonel Armstrong.—New York American.

"Gentleman Adventurers."

"Adventurer" is a word, once highly respectable, that has degenerated with the lapse of time. It was once a compliment to call a gentleman an adventurer, and the Merchant Venturers of Bristol, England, are still respected. The Hudson's Bay Company dates back from May 2, 1670. In the royal charter it was described as the "Governor and Company of Adventurers of England Trading in Hudson's Bay."

Calls for Tons of Flowers.

Italy every year uses 1,850 tons of orange blossoms and 1,000 tons of roses in the manufacture of perfume.

A band of gypsies struck Genoa last Friday and the beautiful queens proceeded to tell the fortunes of all those who had the quarter and a hankering to look into the future. There were not many anxious about the future and the band found this a poor vicinity for their "graft," in fact they were run out of town as soon as the police became aware of their presence. It was positively the dirtiest, most greasy, disreputable bunch of animals laying claim to humanity that ever came over the pike into this beautiful city. One sight of them would destroy all the romance you ever read of beautiful gypsy queens.

Pains or Cramps

L. W. DUVAL Makes Quality Count

He stands for quality. Economy is not measured by what you pay, it is measured by what you get for what you pay, and the people of Genoa are beginning to realize this fact by demanding high grade groceries. If you get an article at Duval's you can be sure it is of highest quality kind, for he does not and will not handle any other kind but pure food goods.

On Friday and Saturday

He will have fresh green onions, radishes, celery, lettuce, tomatoes, spinach, cucumbers, pineapples, asparagus, green peas and strawberries.

The Master of Craven

By Marie Van Vorst

Author of "Amanda of the Mill," "Miss Desmond," etc., etc.

Copyright 1905, by J. B. Lippincott Company.

SYNOPSIS.

Basil Tempest, world's greatest poet and novelist, refusing further to be lionized, shuts himself up in Craven, his country home. His gloomy meditations are broken by the admission of an American, Lucy Carew, who has come to England to get a study of the author. He meets especially a synopsis of his new suite of poems. Tempest, angry at being disturbed, declares he will write no more, and asks Lucy to go. Repenting his rudeness in sending her out at night in the rain, Tempest hastens after her, but she refuses to return to Craven with him and takes lodging with a cottager. Next morning Lucy receives an apology from Tempest and an offer to assist her in writing her essay. Tempest dictates to Lucy, who listens spellbound as she writes. Lucy decides to go to London, but Tempest induces her to remain and read her manuscript to him. Lucy declines an invitation to dine with Tempest, who in anger and disappointment, goes to London. He asks Lady Ormond, with whom his name has been linked, to leave her husband, promising to marry her when the husband gets a divorce. She insists on the divorce first. Tempest departs for Craven. He burns Lady Ormond's picture after forcing a reluctant opinion of that lady from Lucy. The latter consents to continue the writing. Tempest burns the letters and photographs of Lady Ormond. He takes great pleasure in Lucy's presence as they work together. He takes her to Penthen castle, where unexpectedly he meets Lady Ormond.

CHAPTER VI.

Tempest tortured himself with wondering whether or not Miss Carew had heard and how much; if she had heard, would it affect her, and why? That it would not be indifferent to her he was too versed in women not to mark, and he read with delight all that this clear-eyed girl revealed.

Took the Corner of the Table and Sat Himself Down on It.

"If I could have a right to her, would I be so quick to understand her? Probably not! It is simply because she is safe from me that I am tortured by a sight of bliss I can never claim. If things had been so that we might have married I dare say I should have eaten my heart out with doubt regarding her state of mind!"

During the drive from Penthen to Craven over miles swiftly and easily covered by the heavy-rolling motor Tempest had not been able very satisfactorily to study his companion. Excitement may have blurred his vision; he several times impatiently passed his hand across his eyes, straining to see what change had come to her face. Once he muttered something under his breath which she could not hear—it sounded like an imprecation.

With all his power of making himself delightful he filled the short hour so perfectly as to leave Miss Carew no time in which to think and puzzle and to withdraw from him. He made her conscious of herself and of him, and crowded out every possible other person from her mind.

On leaving her at Ramsdill's he said nothing whatsoever about seeing her the following day, and before it dawned he had regretted it.

During the early hours he was up at dawn pacing his bedroom; later tramping his study, his face towards the window through which he could catch the first glimpse of Miss Carew when she should appear, he searched the avenue with the eagerness of one who waits for a herald.

Over and over again he murmured: "Well, she has gone! She should have gone long ago. I am quite mad—and have I dared to dream? Letty did a good turn to the child—"

He gathered together the manuscript she had copied in a pile, on the top a sonnet he had written during the last few days. It was half after ten, a good 30 minutes beyond her hour.

"I'll give her another hour to wonder in—to be jealous in—and to make up her mind to be late in—then if she fails me, I will scatter these sheets to the wind." He steadfastly watched the unloveliness of the changed November atmosphere.

He had been right in his prediction—the phenomenal beauty of the autumn was gone, and England had settled down into the early winter gloom. In another five minutes Tempest saw her coming up the alley to the terrace steps.

She found him standing by what he called a sacrificial pile of all their work, one hand on it, one stretched out to her, and a radiant wreath on his face:

"I should have waited just one hour more," he said, "and then have destroyed this stuff, Miss Carew."

Between them there was already the embarrassment of intense personal feeling undeclared. His delight at her return was too much for her composure. She turned away with the excuse of taking off her coat and gloves, and to-day—she laid aside her hat—for the first time he saw her hair free of covering; it gave him the pleasure of thinking her at home in his room.

When he said brusquely: "I don't want to write to-day, Miss Carew," she flushed painfully.

"No? You did not perhaps expect me?"

"I never dare to expect you—I have never dared. If hope is expectation, then I do. I can't say I didn't look. I was at the window; you saw me?"

"Yes."

"Why do you gather up your gloves again?"

"If you don't care to work?"

"Oh!—his impatience was boyish. "What a school-mistress! I have worked as you call it, made you work for weeks, a methodical honest labor quite unusual even to me, and yet I have produced pas mal de choses. Can't I have one holiday?"

"We had yesterday."

"We," he laughed, delighted. "We," he emphasized, "will have this morning. Let me rest in the agreeable sense of—talking with you—an hour or two." Other words, whose warmth colored even the simple phrase he used, were at his tongue's end.

Miss Carew sat down before her table and her materials and folded her hands over them.

"I have asked you nothing, Miss Carew, during these faithful weeks. I mean about yourself. You must have sometimes thought me selfish?"

"No."

"I am," he confessed, "horribly selfish, but that is not the reason—I have not wished to know. You came to me like a dream as it might be, like a fairy godmother out of an old tale on one windy night in the storm—against my will. How rude I was! But you forgave me!" He had drawn near to her. "I like to think of you so—you seemed to have a wand with you, you know; you touched the bewitched fancies in my brain and things came to life again."

Tempest was under a control whose strength only a man of his nearly ungovernable passions knows how to use.

"I've an idea there are no fairy stories in America—at any rate, I don't connect you with anything 3,000 miles away. You said something about careers and working for your living—"

Here he stopped. Her slender hands, her slender figure, the grace and femininity of her, coming in contrast with the harsh facts he broached appeared to distress him. "I can't think of money, or the lack of it, in connection with you. I can't believe you are poor, you don't look it."

"Don't think it, please, Mr. Tempest, nor about it. Let me write now, or go."

The presence of Lucy Carew to-day was so grateful to him, her coming so far more than he had let himself

No sentimental revolution had made an empire room of Mrs. Henly's arch-English quarters! Here she had lived a tranquil existence for over forty years, falling heir to the uses and duties of the place when she was a very young woman at the first house-keeper's decease.

Tempest had associations even with the wall-paper's blazing roses and knots of floating streamers, which his child's imagination had untied and retied to find there were no ends, no real continuations, and all the flowers and ribbons fell into confusion in his mind! The mantel clock with its quaint Chinese figures, brought to Mrs. Henly by a sailor brother, had made the little Tempest dream of ships and those distant ports that possessed the maddening fascination of the far-away and the unknown. He had intended joining the nautical man's ship some day, just as he had intended doing at some period everything that amused him or stimulated his live fancy. In the big armchair with its print-covered back and arms Mrs. Henly had held him and soothed his griefs. His own little chair stood by the fireplace as it had for more than thirty years. He had been a sailor in it; it had been a boat, a chariot, a ship of dreams. To the quaint room with its individual odors (Tempest had always thought of woofs and worsteds, and fire and fogs and tea) he had come stormily with his miseries of boy-love, which he had confided on Mrs. Henly's breast; here, stormily, later, with the miseries of man's love, he had not confided. But never had he gone away without some solace from the homely little room. To-day he came in and shut the door. Mrs. Henly sat knitting in her big chair.

"She's old," he thought for the first. "She's aged very much of late, but she'll stand by me till—the end." Then aloud: "Sit still, Henly; don't get up." And Tempest took the corner of the table and sat himself down on it, starting at her.

He was past 40 years old, but only she would have known it. There was no gray in the thick, dark hair that grew close as that around his beautiful head. Bodily and mentally he was so vibrant, so magnetic, so strong, that youth seemed inherent in him, and he would never be old. To her, indeed, he had never grown up. His naturally uncontrolled nature made him often like a naughty child, and when he was his more lovable self she called him to her heart "my dear, dear boy." As she said, she had wept tears already so bitter that she would not claim a nearer tie if it could have added salt to their brine. Her master said shortly:

"Henly, she must go."

Mrs. Henly knitted a line in order to collect herself, then put her work down on the table and looked at her master over her glasses. ("He speaks of her as if she were the housemaid," she thought.)

"I'm heart sorry, Mr. Basil," she said.

"Why," he demanded, rudely, "why?"

"She's a sweet and gentle lady, coming as she does, clinging to the door as I might say; here as she is, day in and out, no one could or does think harm of her."

He exclaimed furiously: "Harm! how do you dare, Henly, to mean—"

"I mean," said the housekeeper, steadily, "that for a young lady alone here—with no mother or friend even—even the Ford would talk; but she bears it in her face what she is—good and true."

"Yes," he interrupted more reasonably, "she does, and good she shall remain. That's why she must go. She must leave Cravenford; no good will come to her for staying on."

"But," interrupted the devoted woman, "to you, Mr. Basil?"

Tempest was forced to smile. "You would sacrifice anything to that, I think. You have kept silent and patient, never considering her so far, or her reputation, because you thought it was good for me!"

Food for Reminiscence.

Twenty-five years hence the Pennsylvania railroad station will give a lot of people a chance to reminisce," said the gray-headed New Yorker. "I was born on the site of the Pennsylvania station, they can tell their acquaintances, and then proceed to give an account of their vicissitudes during the trying time of eviction to make way for the great improvement."

"That introduction, I was born on the site of such and such a building," is a favorite reminiscence with many men. Even the new buildings afford considerable satisfaction to the fellow who likes to hark back to his birthplace. Why, I heard a man boast the other day that he was born where the Hippodrome now stands. Hotels, churches, theaters, offices—any building to which present interest attaches—are a scaffolding to which men born on that site may tack their stories. The larger and more important the building, the more boastful the tone. That being the case, the possibilities of the Pennsylvania station as a future topic of conversation are immeasurable."

The New Veil.

It originated in Paris, but you need not wait upon the pleasure of the French or the amiability of the shipping clerk to adopt the very attractive and convenient veil for this spring.

The mesh should be of a coarse silk fillet, the threads of a gossamer-like texture. Beauty without the trip to the oculist is promised.

But let's go to Hecuba. The main point is that the veil is divided in front, falling from the turban in straight lines at each side and the back.

Training the Eyebrows.

For stubby eyebrows a formula for a bandoline is to dissolve two ounces of powdered gum arabic in a gill of rosewater; add a drop of aniline dye, and this may be kept on during the day, as well as at night until the hairs are properly trained.

More White Serge.

The spring models will answer perfectly for the white mohair or serge tailor made, commonly regarded as a mid-summer costume, but none the less likely to prove eminently serviceable if included in the Easter week-end wardrobe.

Sanctum Confidences.

"Brooks," said Rivers, "can you give me a synonym for 'utility'?"

"I suppose I can," growled Brooks, "but what's the use?"

"Use? Use? Thanks; that'll do." Thereupon the rattle of the typewriter began again.

So It Is.

"I see where Boston observed 'Apple day.'"

"When is 'Bean day' in Boston?"

"Oh, every day is bean day in Boston."

IN PAPER NAPERY

PLEASING DESIGNS ARE SHOWN IN PROFUSION.

For Many Occasions These Articles Are Preferable to the More Formal Linen—May Be Arranged in Attractive Manner.

For a child's party, the informal luncheon, the chafing dish supper, and other little feasts which do not require formal tables, there is nothing like the convenience of "paper napery." The table covers and napkins supplied may even express a considerable degree of smartness, for there are smart or vulgar paper fixings, just as there are smart or poor linen ones.

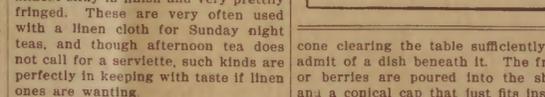

There is a round table cover big enough for a table that would seat four people, this and the six napkins that go with it showing a charming border of bright red hearts connected at intervals with a garish band that simulates a blue ribbon. For the season soon to follow there are other sets showing borders of crisp jonquils, yellow tulips and very nice looking, apple boughs in full bloom. These naturally appeal to young folks, so one is not surprised that such distinctive and pretty table capers often set off very nice boy and girl luncheons. From 35 to 50 cents is charged for the handsome of these sets and the covers at least are stout enough to last several times with care.

For the younger children, the paper napery takes on high jinks in the animal or Mother Goose way, and with some of the plain white things which are intended for the housekeeper of taste who must economize on her napery, there are some thin napkins, almost silky in finish and very prettily fringed. These are very often used with a linen cloth for Sunday night teas, and though afternoon tea does not call for a serviette, such kinds are perfectly in keeping with taste if linen ones are wanting.

A pretty way to put the napkins on the afternoon tea table is to fold each one in a neat square, and then tie the bundle prettily with a narrow ribbon. The guest helps herself from the bundle, or leaves it alone as she wishes.

The plain white paper napkin, or one lightly decorated, is never vulgar, and if it comes from China or Japan it may even be a thing of beauty.

one clearing the table sufficiently to admit of a dish beneath it. The fruit or berries are poured into the shell and a conical cap that just fits inside the shell is pressed down through the contents. The juice that is thus squeezed out of the fruit drips through perforations of the shell into the dish, below, and a few twists of the cap suffice to drain the stuff as dry as it can be gotten. The cap is hollow and can be filled with sand or water or some weighting substance if desired, so that its own weight will cause it to settle and do the work.

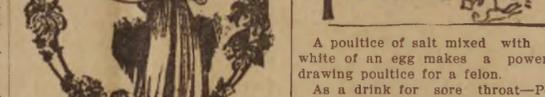

Such tasteful and inexpensive serviettes indeed would help out a home limited in house linen tremendously, for they could be used when a linen one could not. Then there is the eternal comfort of their never needing to be washed, or counted, or mended! Twenty-five cents will buy a package of a hundred of the simpler sort of napkins.

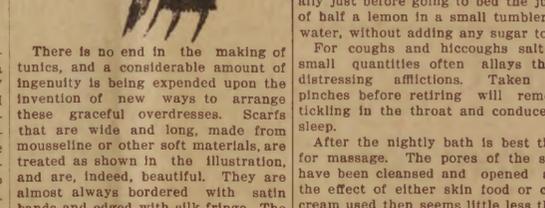

EXTRACTS ALL THE JUICE

Effective Fruit Press, Californian's Invention, Has Much to Recommend It.

A most effective fruit press and stainer is that designed by a Californian man. It is easy and rapid of operation, and gets every drop of juice from the fruits or berries that are used. The press consists of a circular rim with detachable legs. When the legs are adjusted it makes a tripod. A perforated conical shell fits into the rim of the tripod, the bottom of the

The Toilet Table

A poultice of salt mixed with the white of an egg makes a powerful drawing poultice for a felon. As a drink for sore throat—Pour half a pint of boiling water on one tablespoonful of black currant jam. Strain when cold. Give freely.

To brighten the eyes take occasionally just before going to bed the juice of half a lemon in a small tumbler of water, without adding any salt to it. For coughs and hiccoughs sugar in small quantities often allays these distressing afflictions. Taken in pinches before retiring will remove tickling in the throat and conduce to sleep.

After the nightly bath is best time for massage. The pores of the skin have been cleansed and opened and the effect of ether skin food or cold cream used then seems little less than magical.

When a person is hurt, to prevent swelling and discoloration apply butter immediately, and bind on a piece of brown paper. This is excellent where there are children, as the remedy is always near at hand.

Massage makes the muscles firm, improves the outline of the features, makes the face plump when thin, and produces pleasing contours and curves. It also maintains the skin and underlying tissues in a healthy condition, and thus prevents pimples and discolorations.

To Clean Swansdown.

Swansdown can be cleaned in the following way: Tack the strips firmly to a piece of muslin or calico. Make a lather of soap jelly and water, just hot enough to bear the hand in comfortably, and add a teaspoonful of liquid ammonia. Place the swansdown in this, leave it for a few minutes, soapse up and down, and, without wringing, put it into another lot of suds prepared in the same way. If it still looks soiled, use a third lot of suds, then rinse in clear water and hang in the air to dry, giving it an occasional shake. When quite dry rip it from the muslin and rub the tack gently between the hands to soften it.

ILLINOIS HAPPENINGS

Springfield.—By a decision of the supreme court the case of Joseph Joyce of Cook county, in which the court at the January term held that the parole law of 1899 was unconstitutional because it made an appropriation for the payment of the members of the board, was assigned for a rehearing. It was believed the former decision would affect a large number of other state boards and commissions and the announcement in January caused great excitement. Attorney General Stead at once petitioned for a rehearing and the supreme court at a session in Chicago, which the attorney general attended, handed down an order halting the operation of the decision, pending the decision.

Elgin.—Investing less than $1,000 two years ago in a gold mine project in Washington, Harvey Durant, an Elgin printer, has received word that $100,000 has been offered for his share of the enterprise. Durant's brother went west two years ago and became interested with a trio of prospectors. He wrote to his brother in Elgin offering him an equal share in the project for $1,000. The prospectors made a lucky strike, erected a plant and have incorporated for $1,000,000. Durant had no idea of the value of his share until he received word it was worth $100,000. He resigned his position here and will leave immediately for the mine.

Danville.—Danville township voted "wet" by a majority of 1,018, after one of the most exciting elections in the history of the township. There was no trouble to amount to anything, except at the polling place at Grape Creek, where there were numerous fights, and at one time it looked like it would be necessary to call out the troops. Judge S. Murray Clark, prominent among the "drys," and Earl Springer, a challenger for the same party, were assaulted and severely beaten. Springer is seriously hurt.

Chicago.—The body of an unidentified man about thirty years old was found in a gas-filled room at 3322 East Ninety-second street, a lodging house. The police say the case was suicide. The stranger rented the room. Four hours later John Chimars, who has a restaurant on the first floor of the building, went upstairs to awaken John Endermors, a waiter, and noticed the smell of gas. He broke in the door and found the man dead. Nothing was found by which his identity could be established.

Joliet.—Joseph Tezak, a wealthy building contractor and a life-long resident of Joliet, leaped from a third-story window of St. Joseph hospital while temporarily insane, and escaped without the slightest injury. The elevation from which the man dived is more than sixty feet, and his escape from death is regarded as marvelous. Tezak seized an opportunity offered by a momentary absence of his attendant to make the leap. He is now confined in the county jail.

Springfield.—Permits for the organization of two new state banks were issued by the state auditor. The Wataga State bank of Wataga, Knox county, will be organized by E. P. Robson, George Bohringer, E. P. Williamson, James Gehring and S. R. Parkinson, with a capital of $25,000. The second is the Farmers' First State bank of Sadorus, Champaign county, capital $25,000. The permit is issued to R. E. Cathart, David Rice and Clifton Chambers.

Streator.—Joseph M. Basso, a Mexican, 19 years old, who has been representing the freight department of the Mexican Central railroad in Chicago, and Lella Best, said to be the daughter of a Chicago merchant, who eloped and were married in Chicago, were taken off of a Santa Fe train here and are being held pending the arrival of the girl's father. Both are well dressed and the girl has several diamonds.

Chicago.—Katherine Kantor, seven years old, 675 Fay street, was instantly killed when she was struck by an east-bound Division street car at Milwaukee avenue and North Carpenter street. The child was attempting to cross the street when she was run over. She was thrown several feet, according to the police, striking on her head and fracturing her skull.

Chicago.—Two horses were burned to death, several families were routed from their beds and a loss estimated at $10,000 was caused by a fire which attacked the cooper shop of the Illinois Barrel company's plant, 2831 Butler street. Dwellings near the burning shop were in danger for a time and the police and firemen awakened the occupants.

Chicago.—Martha Kuhlman committed suicide by inhaling illuminating gas in the bathroom of her home, 2140 Belmont avenue. She lived alone and was known as "Mary Jensen." According to the woman's mother, Mrs. Rose Kuhlman, 3065 North Albany avenue, she was mentally unsound. Springfield.—State Auditor McCullough has appointed John H. Rife as chief examiner of state banks in Chicago to fill the vacancy caused by the appointment of Charles H. Meyer as national bank examiner. Mr. Rife has been connected with the state banking department for a number of years.

Carroll.—George Wheeler, aged 26, a farm hand, shot and killed Herman Parker, aged 40, for whom he was working, because Parker upbraided him for whipping a team of horses. Wheeler surrendered and is held for unjustifiable homicide.

WORTH MOUNTAINS OF GOLD

During Change of Life, says Mrs. Chas. Barclay

Graniteville, Vt.—"I was passing through the Change of Life and suffered from nervousness and other annoying symptoms, and I can truly say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has proved worth mountains of gold to me, as it restored my health and strength. I never forget to tell my friends what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me, during this trying period. Complete restoration to health means so much to me that for the sake of other suffering women I am willing to make my trouble public. So you may judge from this letter."—MRS. CHAS. BARCLAY, R.F.D., Graniteville, Vt.

No other medicine for woman's ills has received such wide-spread and unqualified endorsement. No other medicine we know of has such a record of cures of female ills as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

For more than 30 years it has been curing female complaints such as inflammation, ulceration, local weaknesses, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, indigestion and nervous prostration, and it is unequalled for curing women sorely through the period of change of life. It costs but little to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and, as Mrs. Barclay says, it is "worth mountains of gold" to suffering women.

WESTERN CANADA

What Prof. Shaw, the Well-Known Agriculturist, Says About It: "I would sooner raise cattle in Western Canada than in any other part of the United States. Feed crops are abundant and cheap, and climate better for the purpose. Some markets will improve faster than you farmers will produce the surplus. Western Canada has grown up to the 6th parallel 100 miles north of the International boundary. The soil is rich and will be taken at a rate of interest that is not to be compared with the rates of interest in the United States alone who want homes to take up this land." Nearly 70,000 Americans will enter and make their homes in Western Canada this year. In 1909 produced another large crop of wheat, oats and barley. REHEAR TRUST SUITS

SUPREME COURT ORDERS NEW ARGUMENTS IN OIL AND TOBACCO CASES.

DEATH OF BREWER IS CAUSE

Left Only Seven Justices to Decide as Justice Moody Is Barred—Action Causes Stocks to Take a Jump Upward.

Washington, April 12.—The Standard Oil and Tobacco cases were reargued for argument by the United States Supreme court.

The reargument of these cases comes as the direct death of Justice Brewer. This noted jurist died just a few days after the Standard Oil case had been argued. As Justice Moody was unable to participate in the consideration of these cases, only seven justices were left to give a decision in these cases. The fact that the corporation tax cases were not set for reargument is taken to mean that a decision will be announced in regard to the constitutionality of the law authorizing it within a short time.

Wickersham Is Surprised.
Attorney General Wickersham was as much surprised as anyone at the sudden turn in the fight against these corporations. He expressed his utter ignorance of any further knowledge of the action of the court.

Unless a motion to advance the cases is made, they will not come up in the regular order of business for nearly a year. It is regarded as improbable that such a motion for reargument before next term will be made. Only three more weeks of this term remain for hearing the argument of cases, although the court has come in before its adjournment, about the first of June, to hear arguments in a particular case.

Stock Market Rallies.
New York, April 12.—After early heaviness and dullness the stock market made a sharp and excited rally on the Washington news that the United States Supreme court had ordered that both the American and Standard companies cases should be reargued. There was a wild scramble of shorts to cover and the bear stampede resulted in almost general rallies of one to five points. These advances followed many previous losses of stout fractions to a point.

SWOPE MURDER CASE OPENED

Sensational Trial of Doctor Bennett C. Hyde Is Started in Kansas City.

Kansas City, Mo., April 11.—Dr. Bennett Clark Hyde was placed on trial this morning in the criminal court, Judge Ralph S. Latschaw presiding, on a charge of first degree murder for the alleged poisoning of Col. Thomas H. Swope, the noted philanthropist, several months ago.

Probably the most talented array of counsel ever gathered together in a criminal trial in this part of the country is sitting in the courtroom.

On the side of the prosecution are Virgil Conklin, prosecuting attorney;

Dr. B. C. Hyde.

John G. Paxton, executor for the Swope estate, and Assistant Prosecutors Henry L. Jost and Edward P. Curtin. The defense is represented by Frank P. Walsh, Judge T. Johnson, John H. Locas and John M. Cleary.

Doctor Hyde is to be tried on the charge of killing Colonel Swope first. There are other charges against him as follows:

First degree murder, for the killing of Chrisman Swope, Colonel Swope's nephew; manslaughter, for the killing of Col. Moss Hunton, Colonel Swope's cousin; six charges of assault with intent to kill in connection with the members of the Swope family and servants being stricken with typhoid fever, the germs alleged to have been administered by Doctor Hyde.

Wall Paper Worth Fortune.

San Francisco, April 13.—Ten years ago Henry Brink of Melrose purchased a few thousand shares of stock in an Arizona gold mine. Later he papered his room with the certificates. He was informed that porcelain clay of rare quality had been discovered on the mine site and that his certificates were worth a fortune.

Wives Poison Grand Vizier.
Fez, Morocco, April 12.—It is reported that Grand Vizier Madani Glau has been poisoned by three of his wives and is in a critical condition.

INSURGENTS CONFER ON OUSTING CANNON

Angered by Speaker's Defi, House Rebels Hold Conference and Discuss Plans for Fight.

Washington, April 13.—It may be that Speaker Cannon will be taken at his word by the insurgent members of his party and thrown out of his job as speaker of the house of representatives.

A resolution declaring the speaker's chair to be vacant has been drawn by the insurgent faction to discuss the desirability of presenting that resolution at once. After an extended conference, however, it was decided that it should not be introduced until after the president's legislative program is carried out.

The confab was behind closed doors in Representative Poindexter's room, before the house met, and though the calmer judgment of the more conservative radicals prevailed in the end, there were several of those who are in rebellion against the speaker who favored the immediate introduction of the resolution.

ATTORNEY GENERAL DEFIANT

Wickersham Says Running With Hares and Hunting With Hounds Must Stop.

Chicago, April 11.—George W. Wickersham, attorney general of the United States, speaking for his chief, William Howard Taft, presented to the Hamilton club of Chicago a comprehensive, defiant defense of the present administration.

And he concluded with the following warning or appeal that reminded many of those at the banquet of the scriptural words: "He who is not with us is against me."

"I speak to an assembly of loyal Republicans. I am sure I voice your thought when I say the time of running with the hare and hunting with the hounds is over and every one must choose whether or not he is for the president and the Republican party. He that hath no stomach to the fight let him depart. Treason has ever consisted in giving aid and comfort to the enemy. If anyone wishes to join the Democratic party let him do so. But let him not claim to be a Republican and in and out of season work to defeat Republican measures and to subvert the influence of the Republican president."

Attorney General Wickersham.

He declared that every pledge made by the Republican party had been fulfilled as far as it lay in the power of the administration to fulfill it.

All blame for non-fulfillment of pledges he placed on congress, to which, he said, President Taft had caused to be submitted the bills embodying the promised legislation.

PANIC IN BIG HOTEL FIRE

Chicago Man Is Fatally Injured by Jumping From Third-Story Window.

Dubuque, Ia., April 12.—Fire started in the Julien hotel while 200 guests were asleep. A panic followed and several were injured.

Sam Levy of Chicago was fatally hurt by jumping from a third-story window. Charles Evans of Philadelphia suffered internal injuries.

Firemen rescued the other guests. The interior of the hotel was ruined. The loss is $50,000.

FIND WIDOW DEAD IN TRUNK

Body of Mrs. Gertrude Maxwell, Who Has Been Missing for Six Days, Is Discovered.

Hannibal, Mo., April 13.—The body of Mrs. Gertrude Maxwell, a well-to-do widow, who lived alone on her farm, one mile east of Palmyra, was found in a trunk at her home by Sheriff Thomas C. Lasley. She had been missing since last Wednesday. The lid of the trunk was closed, but not locked. A club was found in the room, but there were no marks of violence on the body. Mrs. Maxwell is the mother of Wade Maxwell, county clerk of Marion county.

80,000 Goats Perish in Rain.
San Antonio, Tex., April 11.—It is estimated that 80,000 goats perished in the Frio and Nueces valleys as a result of the recent heavy rains, which were accompanied by cold winds.

ROMANCES THAT MIGHT HAVE BEEN WRECKED

CHICAGO, CALY NEWS

WANTS PARTY UNITY

TAFT IN SPEECH EXTENDS OLIVE BRANCH TO THE INSURGENTS.

"TIME FOR DOING THINGS"

President Says No Man Has Right to Read Another Out of Republican Fold—Demands Support for Measures Pledged.

Washington, April 11.—President Taft went to the banquet of the League of Republican Clubs determined to sound no "keynote speech."

He announced his determination in his first sentence; but in the next few moments he had enunciated a call to party unity and a statement of his attitude toward insurgency which brought the diners to their feet with yells of approval.

The president declared he had no quarrel with the insurgents; that he sought to read no one out of the party, but that he proposed to demand the party should judge its members by the support they give to the party legislation during the remaining months of the present session of congress.

Time for "Doing Things."
"This is not exactly the time for speaking, except in the two houses of the national legislature," said the president. "This is the time for doing things; the time for voting upon and passing the measures to which the party has pledged itself."

"We are reading no one out of the Republican party. We want all of them within the party ranks. They have the opportunity to establish their claim to Republicanism by that which they shall do as legislators in both houses of congress; by helping to enact the legislation to which the party is pledged."

"By their fruits ye shall know them." Old friends who in good faith stand to the enactment of legislation to redeem the promises the party has made have the right to stand forth as Republicans. If they don't want to stand with the party or help the party to the enactment of its legislation, I have no quarrel with them. They have the right to vote or speak as they will, but we want their aid as Republicans so long as they will be Republicans."

Republican Party Is Not Rigid.

"The Republican party is not a rigid party. We may not all agree in our opinions upon legislation, and we have the right to express those opinions within the party."

"But when the evidence is shown that a man does not desire to support the Republican party; when he shows himself unwilling to redeem for the party the pledges made to the people by the party; when he withdraws support from the party and wishes success for another party, then we have the right to say that the label he bears is not Republican."

Appeals for Party Harmony.

"No man has the right to read another man out of the Republican party. He reads himself out if he is disloyal to the party, and if not he can, by his own words, show that he is loyal. So you see it is in no defiant spirit that I am here. I want the help of all Republicans, whether or not they may in the past have slipped away a little."

SHRINERS IN NEW ORLEANS

Thirty-Sixth Annual Session of the Imperial Council Opens in the Crescent City.

New Orleans, April 11.—The Crescent City is swarming with fez-topped men from all over the country, for the thirty-sixth convention of the Imperial council, Ancient Arabic Order Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, is in session here. The convention began today with religious services, and tomorrow the program of entertainment will be in full operation.

ARREST ITALIAN SUSPECT AT THE CAROW VILLA

Is Believed to Be Demented—Roosevelt and Pinchot Have Meeting in Italy.

Porto Maurizio, Italy, April 12.—The Italian secret service police, who are guarding Miss Carow's villa, where the Roosevelts are stopping, last evening arrested an Italian named Magagno, who upon the pretext that he was carrying a letter from a correspondent, endeavored to force his way into the villa. Colonel Roosevelt was absent at the time.

The man was searched, but no weapons were found upon him. The police found that the man was from Bologna and had worked as a barber at Ventimiglia.

Magagno explained that he desired to have an audience with Roosevelt in order to get a job as valet when he became president again. A letter written in English and found on Magagno bears out this statement. The police believe he is demented.

The most significant development in connection with the meeting here of Theodore Roosevelt and Gifford Pinchot was the announcement that Mr. Roosevelt had accepted an invitation from the former chief forester to address the national conservation congress late in the coming summer at a time and place yet to be fixed.

Despite the reticence of both men it is accepted as a matter of course that Mr. Roosevelt is in possession now of Mr. Pinchot's complete case against Secretary Ballinger's conservation policy and of what has been described here as "a reactionary tendency" in forestry matters of the administration of President Taft.

DISCOVER NO COOK PROOFS

Fairbanks Party Scale Summit of Tallest Peak in America After Weary Climb.

Fairbanks, Alaska, April 13.—The Fairbanks expedition to Mount McKinley, the tallest peak in North America, reached the summit April 3 after a climb of one month from the base, it is just announced. No traces of Dr. Frederick A. Cook's alleged ascent of the mountain were found by the exploring party.

Thomas Lloyd, leader of the expedition, arrived here. His companions were Daniel Patterson, W. R. Taylor and Charles McGonnigle, and all say they reached the top of the great mountain.

The obstacles encountered were not so great as had been predicted, according to the climbers.

The expedition, which was provided with Dr. Cook's maps and data, endeavored to follow his supposed route, but utterly failed to verify any part of his story of an ascent.

CANNON DEFIES HIS FOES

Intimates He May Again Run for Speaker—Provision for Upkeep of His Auto Defeated.

Washington, April 12.—Speaker Cannon predicted a Republican victory at the congressional elections in a speech from the floor of the house and at the same time left a supposed inference that he is not out of the race for speaker in the next congress.

Incidentally he scored his Republican enemies in the house and promised that he would be speaker of this congress until March 4, 1911, unless they joined with a solid minority to remove him.

Ostensibly the speaker arose to discuss an amendment to the legislative appropriation bill carrying $2,500 for the support of his automobile.

A coalition of insurgents and Democrats against the provision in the legislative bill to provide the speaker with an automobile defeated the clause by 111 to 132 votes.

St. Louis Police Chief Out.

St. Louis, April 11.—Chief of Police Edmond P. Creedy was dismissed from his position by the police board. He was found guilty of five of the eight charges on which he was tried. Capt. William Young was appointed to succeed the deposed chief.

THE NEWS IN BRIEF.

Tramway employes and store clerks at Marseilles, France, have walked out in sympathy with the striking naval reserve men.

By a majority of 930, which is 668 votes in excess of the majority of a year ago, Lincoln, Neb., voted at a referendum election to keep out the saloons.

New York friends of Mrs. Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, wife of Harry K. Thaw, assert that Mrs. Thaw will leave for Paris, France, next Thursday to study sculpture.

Practically all the estate of Thomas F. Walsh, the Colorado mining millionaire, is left to the widow, Mrs. Carrie B. Walsh, and daughter, Mrs. Evelyn B. McLean.

William Blaikie, who, previous to the Civil war, aided in the escape of 1,200 negroes by the "underground railroad," is dead at Utica, N. Y., at the age of eighty-three.

John D. Rockefeller, Sr., subscribed half the amount of a building fund of $324,000, which was raised at the Fifth Avenue Baptist church in New York in just 23 minutes.

Dr. Elliott Alden of Pasadena, Cal., in an operation on an insane woman in Los Angeles, removed from her stomach a table knife nine inches long. The woman will recover.

A shirtwaist factory owned by 50 girls, former factory employes, and conducted along cooperative lines, will be opened in Sedalia, Mo., as soon as the equipment can be shipped from St. Louis.

At the opening of the electoral campaign by Premier Briand at Saint Chamond, France, anarchist and revolutionary groups interrupted the premier's speech by smashing windows and firing revolvers.

A New York cable dispatch tells of the recent death in Paris of Baroness de Rognes, mother of Mrs. Maybrick, who was confined many years in a British prison under a life sentence. The baroness is said to have died in poverty.

A message scrawled on a big air fan, reading "All alive 2 p. m. Nov. 14," was discovered yesterday with the recovery of 31 more bodies from the St. Paul mine at Cherty, Ill. On one body was a belt containing $1,400 in cash.

Rev. Bishop William Croswell Doane, head of the Albany (N. Y.) Episcopal diocese, fainted while administering communion at Troy, N. Y., and was severely cut about his head, which struck the stone floor of the chancel in his fall.

After being wrecked in an automobile at Henryville, Ind., five Louisville (Ky.) people, including E. H. McCone and wife, J. W. Day and wife and Leonard Baker, chauffeur, who were uninjured, were taken home on the Pennsylvania train that struck them.

In the presence of President Taft and many other distinguished guests prominent in official and social circles in Washington Miss Frances Dyer Clark, daughter of Senator Clarence D. Clark of Wyoming, was wedded to George Hobart Chapman of Evanston, Wyo., at the Church of the Incarnation.

PULLMAN RATES ARE REDUCED

Interstate Commerce Commission Assumes Unequivocal Jurisdiction Over Sleeping Car Charges.

Washington, April 11.—America's traveling public is likely to rise up and call the interstate commerce commission blessed.

The reason for such action is that the commission has unequivocally taken jurisdiction of Pullman company rates and has emphasized that assumption of authority by reducing the company's rates in a half a dozen notable instances.

That important stand by the commission appears in a decision by Commissioner Frank K. Lane, made public. It is a decision that virtually convicts the Pullman concern of extortion and which if it is affirmed upon an appeal to the Supreme court will mean a very material reduction of rates throughout the country.

EXCORIATES MORGAN

LA FOLLETTE OF WISCONSIN CALLS J. PIERPONT A THICK-NECKED BULLY.

ATTACKS TAFT RAIL BILL

Mann Opens Debate on Measure in House—Declares Elkins and Hepburn Laws Have Not Brought About Predicted Disasters.

Washington, April 13.—"A beefy, red-faced, thick-necked financial bully, drunk with wealth and power, who bawls his orders to stock markets, directors, courts, governments and nations."

This is a characterization of J. Pierpont Morgan delivered by Senator La Follette in the course of an attack on the administration railroad bill.

The Wisconsin member criticised the bill as opening the way for unrestricted consolidation of lines and cited the case of the Boston & Maine merger with the New Haven as an illustration of the possibilities of the act under the present administration.

Criticizes the Attorney General.

Charging the attorney general with undue haste in discontinuing the suit begun by the Roosevelt administration against these roads, he declared that, judging by what that official did in that case, it was not a violent assumption to state that if the pending bill had been a law "he would have entered into a stipulation with the New Haven road that the roads proposed to be acquired were not directly and substantially competitive; that on such stipulation judgment would have been rendered by the court of commerce in accordance with the stipulation, thereby estopping the government forever from making any claim that such acquisitions were in violation of the Sherman anti-trust act."

New Haven Road as "Master."

Asserting that Massachusetts had found its master in the New Haven company, Senator La Follette entered on a detailed statement of the steps by which that company had acquired control of the Boston & Maine, a rival line, in defiance of the anti-trust law and in opposition to the wishes of the people of Massachusetts, where most of the state proceedings were conducted.

He characterized Charles S. Mellen of that road as "Morgan's man," and undertaking to show how Mr. Mellen had sought by various devices to bring about the complete merger of the two roads prior to the national administration of President Taft and the state administration of Governor Draper, he strongly contrasted these administrations with those preceding.

Mann Opens Fight in House.

The opening gun in the battle in the house over the administration railroad bill was fired by Representative Mann of Illinois, chairman of the interstate commerce committee, which reported the measure after a thorough revision of its text. The bill was originally introduced by Representative Townsend of Michigan.

Mr. Mann said that the Elkins and Hepburn laws had not been followed by the disasters that had been predicted freely.

"Under the wise leadership," he declared, "of the great statesman now in the White House, who himself served as a judge on the federal bench, in construing and enforcing the commerce act, we are considering propositions somewhat in advance of those heretofore made into law."

GUILTY OF SAYLER MURDER

Wife of Victim Sentenced to Three Years' Imprisonment—Dr. Miller Gets Twelve.

Waukegan, Ill., April 12.—Dr. William R. Miller and Mrs. Lucy Sayler were found guilty of manslaughter for the killing of John Byron Sayler of Crescent City, Ill., last summer.

John Grunden, the woman's father, was acquitted. The jury had been balloting and quarrelling for 40 hours. The penitentiary term of Miller was fixed at 12 years and that of the woman at three.

Pathetic scenes followed the polling of the panel. Mrs. Sayler buried her head on the shoulder of her daughter, Golda, and wept audibly. Mrs. Miller threw her arms about her husband's neck as the tears streamed down her cheeks. Even the aged and stolid John Grunden had much difficulty in repressing an inclination to join the others in weeping.

A motion for a new trial for Doctor Miller and Mrs. Sayler was set by Judge Dibel for April 30 in the Waukegan courthouse.

BATTLESHIP PLANS BURNED

Drafting Plant Is Destroyed and With It Designs for Two War Vessels.

Camden, N. J., April 13.—A two-story drafting building of the New York Shipbuilding company was destroyed by fire. The engine and sanitary plans for the battleships Utah and Arkansas, on drawing boards, were burned. The total loss was $100,000.

Eleven Passengers Hurt.

Des Moines, Ia., April 12.—Eleven passengers were injured, one perhaps fatally, when a motor train on the Rock Island railroad crashed head-on into a freight train near Garrison at a grade crossing.

NO TIME TO LOSE.

Turtle—Wait a minute; I want to see you!
Snail—I can't; I'm in a hurry; I want to get home before dark, and it's nearly 12 o'clock now.

WASTED A FORTUNE ON SKIN TROUBLE

"I began to have an itching over my whole body about seven years ago and this settled in my limb, from the knee to the toes. I went to see a great many physicians, a matter which cost me a fortune, and after I noticed that I did not get any relief that way, I went for three years to the hospital. But they were unable to help me there. I used all the medicines that I could see but became worse and worse. I had an inflammation which made me almost crazy with pain. When I showed my foot to my friends they would get really frightened. I did not know what to do. I was so sick and had become so nervous that I positively lost all hope.

"I had seen the advertisement of the Cuticura Remedies a great many times, but could not make up my mind to try them, for I had already used so many medicines. Finally I did decide to use the Cuticura Remedies and I tell you that I was never so pleased as when I noticed that, after having used two sets of Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment and Cuticura Pills, the entire inflammation had gone. I was completely cured. I should be only too glad if people with similar disease would come to me and find out the truth. I would only recommend them to use Cuticura. Mrs. Bertha Sachs, 1621 Second Ave., New York, N. Y., Aug. 20, 1909."

"Mrs. Bertha Sachs is my sister-in-law and I know well how she suffered and was cured by Cuticura Remedies after many other treatments failed. Morris Sachs, 321 E. 89th St., New York, N. Y., Secretary of Deutsch-Ostrower Unt-Verein, Kempner Hebrew Benevolent Society, etc."

Britain's Rulers.

Mr. Lloyd-George is pleasantly proud of his nationality, but it is amazing that he had to go back to Queen Elizabeth and the Tudors to find historical precedence for a Welsh government of Great Britain. On the other hand, England has often been ruled by Scotsmen. Of the last three premiers, two—Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman and Mr. Balfour—were Scotch. Mr. Gladstone sat for a Scotch constituency, and so does Mr. Asquith. Ireland has always been busy supplying us with governing men. The Duke of Wellington, Lord Roberts, Lord Charles Berosford, Lord Russell and a dozen others immediately occur to me. It is odd to remember that it is centuries since Great Britain had a purely English sovereign. The Tudors were Welsh. The Stuarts were Scotch, William III. was a Dutchman and the Guelphs are of German descent.—London Chronicle.

Reasons for Envy.

The stingy man had come home and had objected when his wife attempted to kiss him.
"I've just had a tooth pulled," he explained.
"Well, I envy the dentist," his wife replied.
"You envy the dentist? What do you mean?"
"Oh, nothing much," the wife sighed. "Only he's the first person I've ever heard of who succeeded in getting anything out of you."—Woman's National Daily.

$2,000 LICENSE IN ROCKFORD

Forest City Saloonmen may be Compelled to Pay Big Fee

Rockford may have a $2,000 saloon license fee according to Rockford newspapers.

Several weeks ago the high-license league, consisting of former saloon owners, issued a statement to the public and one of the parts was their willingness to have a few saloons with a $2,000 license.

The newspapers there were all in favor of a dry town and they are now demanding that the license ordinance be amended so that the $2,000 license figure will rule instead of the $1,000.

Look Out for Brown

The police of surrounding places have been warned by the Elgin police to be on the lookout for a man giving his name as "Harry Brown" and said to be working the cities throughout the state as a wall paper cleaner. According to the Elgin police, Brown's method is to enter and rob houses of articles of value while under the guise of a skilled wall paper cleaner. Evidences of his work were first discovered through his failure to finish several jobs, the owners of buildings unfinished later discovering their losses, but too late to apprehend "Brown."

Remedies and Diseases.
Extreme remedies are very appropriate for extreme diseases.—Hippocrates.

CLOSING OUT

PAINTS

At Bargain Prices

I have decided to close out my stock of mixed paints and to make them move quickly have put the price way down. These are all high grade goods, consisting of the New Era and Patten Sun Proof lines, which always sell at the highest market price. Paints are higher this spring owing to the great advance in linseed oil, you will note therefore the big bargains presented here.

NEW DISCOVERY

FOR COUGHS AND COLDS

PREVENTS PNEUMONIA

I had the most debilitating cough a mortal was ever afflicted with, and my friends expected that when I left my bed it would surely be for my grave. Our doctor pronounced my case incurable, but thanks be to God, four bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery cured me so completely that I am all sound and well.—MRS. EVA UNCAPHER, Grovertown, Ind.
