ENTERED AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER, SEPTEMBER 16, 1904, AT THE POSTOFFICE AT GENOA, ILLINOIS, UNDER ACT OF CONGRESS OF MARCH 3, 1879

GENOA, ILLINOIS, NOVEMBER 10, 1922

VOLUME XVIII, NO. 1

A DEMOCRATIC LANDSLIDE TUESDAY

Nation-wide Canvass Shows That Republican Party is Losing Grip

BYERS, ALLEN, DEVINE ELECTED

5th District Voted Nearly Solid Re- publican Ticket for Every Candi- date—Soldiers' Bonus Passes

Tuesday's election was apparently a landslide for the Democrats through the country.

In our own district, however, things were different, for the count shows nearly 80% of the votes to be Republican on a solid Republican ticket, with but one exception. That was the election of John P. Devine, Democrat, to the house who ran ahead of all other men for the place. As there were three men to be elected, it is needless to assert that the other two were Republican.

The count on the above for this district, with all but two districts heard from, is as follows:

Devine	24,670
Allen	22,631
Byers	14,942
Tourtilott	12,836
Harris	3,552

Dr. Harry Wright was returned as senator from this district.
The county ticket which won out is:
Treasurer—W. H. Decker
Clark—Charles H. Talbot
Sheriff—Edwin E. Crawford
Judge—W. L. Pond
Superintendent of Schools—W. G. Hubbard

As was expected the bonus passed for the soldiers about 3 to 1. This means that they will receive 50c a month from the time they were in service after April 6, 1917 until the end of the war, with a maximum amount of $300.

Following is the vote for Genoa township. The first column of figures are the first precinct, the second column the second precinct and the third column the total.

EPWORTH LEAGUE PARTY

The Epworth League of the M. E. church is putting on a new membership contest, lasting for the next seven Sundays. Rhea Saul and Clarence Pratt are the leaders of the "Rustlers," and Ione Stott and Wayne Gethman are leaders of the "Hustlers." To start the contest off on the right footing, there will be a rollicking good party in the church Friday evening, November 10.

Refreshments will be served. Everyone interested, COME!

NOTES FROM THE COURT HOUSE

Negro Simmons Fined for Knifing Wife while in Playful Mood

Eric Anderson of DeKalb was indicted by the Grand jury of the circuit court last June on charges of stealing chickens from Ella Baumgartner and with him was also indicted his uncle, Ernest Gustafson, a barber, formerly of DeKalb. Anderson was apprehended after being indicted and his case was continued until the October term on his motion that some of the witnesses were missing. Gustafson left DeKalb and was not heard from until about a week ago when Sheriff Decker discovered that he was working in a barber shop in Chicago. Gustafson was arrested in Chicago last week and brought back to Sycamore. On being brought before State's Attorney Poust, Gustafson after maintaining his innocence finally broke down and confessed the whole business. In his confession he stated that chickens on three different occasions had been brought to his place of residence in DeKalb by Eric Anderson and Leonard Twombly and that later they were sold and the proceeds divided between them.

A warrant was immediately issued for Leonard Twombly after the confession of Gustafson and he was taken into custody.

Gustafson on being arraigned by State's Attorney Poust before Judge Slusser on Tuesday afternoon entered a plea of guilty and placed himself upon the mercy of the court. Anderson decided this was the best thing to do and he withdrew his plea of "not guilty" formerly entered and plead guilty to the charge.

Anderson and Twombly admitted stealing eight chickens from Ella Baumgartner of the value of $8.00, and admitted stealing chickens from Geo. Love and R. M. Conlin of DeKalb. No complaint had ever been made by the two last named as to their losing chickens.

On account of the clean past record of both young men, Anderson and Gustafson, the court after a severe lecture fined each $100 and costs and sentenced them each to one day in the county jail. They must also make restitution to the parties from whom they admitted stealing the chickens. Leonard Twombly who was implicated by Gustafson was taken the same day before Judge Pond in the county court and he also entered a plea of guilty. Judge Pond likewise severely lectured Twombly and imposed a fine on him of $100 and costs and one day in jail. He is also to make restitution for the chickens stolen. All three of the boys are young and this may be a lesson to them. At any rate chickens will be undisturbed for awhile around the city of DeKalb.

Theodore Stanton, 17 years old, who was indicted by the October grand jury of DeKalb county, was arraigned in the circuit court on Tuesday afternoon by State's Attorney Poust before Judge Slusser, and on his plea of guilty to the charge of "grand larceny," was sentenced to the Reformatory at Pontiac, Ill., from one to ten years.

Stanton was last July paroled from St. Charles School for boys and was employed by George Schule of Hinckley. On September 23 he secured a blank check belonging to Mr. Schule and after forging Mr. Schule's name to it obtained $30 on it at the meat market of Mr. C. O. Dean of Hinckley. Later the same night he stole an Auburn five passenger car belonging to Mr. Schule out of his garage and drove it as far as Morrison where he had a collision with another machine and was arrested by the Morrison Police who were notified in the meantime of the theft. Part of the proceeds of the check he had spent in payment of damages to the other car before his arrest. He was brought back to Sycamore by Sheriff Decker.

State's Attorney Poust received information from the police authorities at Murphysboro, Ill., from which city Stanton comes from a bad nest. His brother, Lloyd Stanton, was recently taken to Joliet on conviction of manslaughter and another brother has had recent trouble on account of raising a check.

Stanton will be taken to Pontiac within the next few days.

Carv Simmons, colored, of Sycamore, who was arrested on July 2nd and has been confined in the county jail ever since for failure to give bail

Edwin E. Crawford Next Sheriff of DeKalb Co.

Genoa's candidate for sheriff of DeKalb County was elected Tuesday by one of the largest, if not the largest, vote ever given to an aspirant for that particular office. In standing behind Sheriff Crawford, as the people of DeKalb did, they are entitled to the unanimous praise of every voter in the county; for of all the votes cast, but 14 were for an opponent.

Mr. Crawford leaves Genoa in the near future with the knowledge that he can call everyone his friend and that he has upheld the law in ever respect, giving Genoa the best that was in him and making a record for himself that is the admiration and envy of every policeman in the country. That he will make the best sheriff this county ever had, it is needless to assert, for, the mark that he must attain, to come up to the previous holders of the office is very high, we believe that "Chief" can go at least a few steps higher and the Republican wishes him all the success that it is possible to give to a friend and real man.

HALF SOLES REIGN SUPREME

Defeat Greasehounds in Hard Combat Mooddogs Defeat Spark Plugs

Capt. Prain's Greasehounds suffered a beating last Thursday night at the hands of Overly's Halfsoles and consequently the "hounds" bark proved more terrible than the bite. Moor's upshoots were too much for "Greasers" and they simply slid off the floor.

The second game between the Polecats and the Sparkplugs was an evenly matched contest, the "Plugs" living up to their motto of "firing where others fail" and twisting the Polecats' tail for a 10 to 13 victory.

The Mooddogs thereupon betook themselves in the field to avenge their feline defeat which they did easily, biting a chunk right out of the old porcelain caps for a 19 to 7 win.

Genoa's young men are having excellent times on the evenings they visit the gym and some excellent indoor baseball teams are expected to develop before the season has advanced very far.

Three gagnes are played every Thursday evening to which the public at large is cordially invited, no admission fee is charged.

In future games to be played on the floor it is necessary to have but one umpire with a thorough knowledge of the rules of the floor and his decision must be taken as final.

DANCE DISTURBERS ARE FINED

Several weeks ago Walter Belinko, Herman Schuauers and William Miller Union young men, were arrested for causing a disturbance at a dance at Coral Inn, charges having been preferred by Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Powers, owners of the well-known dancing pavillion.

On Saturday the case was heard in the county court, and Judge Barnes fined each of the three defendants $5 and costs.

THE NEW CITY INN

Under Management Lee Fischbach and George Goding, Opened Saturday

Saturday noon of last week witnessed the opening of Genoa's "New City Inn" under the management of two local boys, George Goding and Lee Fischbach in the building formerly occupied by the Hughes Clothing Co.

Nothing has been left undone to make this an inviting and appetizing place to eat and the young men are entitled to a fine success which the Republican feels sure will be tendered them.

NEW MEAT MARKET

To Locate in the Wyld's Cash Store Grocery Dept.—Gallagher Proprietor

Frank Gallagher, who for the past two years has been employed in the meat market conducted by Lawrence Duval, will open a shop in the Wyld's Cash Store building in the near future.

Mr. Gallagher with his ready smile and affable manner will we are certain, have a splendid patronage.

ED. RICE AGAIN SENT TO PRISON

DeKalb County's Most Notorious Out- law Again in the Toils

Again it becomes necessary to mention Ed Rice alias Ed Mank alias Fry — etc., the most notorious and slyest criminal ever known in the history of DeKalb county. Four times he has been convicted and at last is behind the bars in a Tennessee penitentiary, the first three convictions merely meaning a little rest for him before he broke out of his restraining prison quarters, which he did almost at will with apparent ease.

A meeting of the W. C. T. U. will be held at the M. E. church Thursday evening, November 16, at 8 o'clock. A cordial invitation is extended to all

ARMISTICE DAY CELEBRATION

BIBLE CLASSES IN CONTEST

Three Adult Classes of the M. E. S. S. Out After New Members

The three adult Bible classes of the M. E. S. S. will engage in a triangular attendance contest beginning the second Sunday in November and ending the last Sunday in February.

A free banquet and program will be furnished at the close of the contest to all who take part by the two losing classes.

If you are interested and wish to take part in a real lively, snappy kindly "mill" and want to know the rules which govern it, inquire of any of the secretaries, Mesdames Clark, King, Russell and Tilley.

Slogan: "300 for the 'ban' contest!"
Let's go!

MRS. C. FABER ENTERTAINED

Saturday Afternoon and Evening in Honor of Daughter, Beverley Jane

Mrs. Clayton Faber entertained Saturday afternoon and evening in honor of her little daughter's first birthday anniversary. In the afternoon eight little boys were guests from four to five o'clock and from five to seven o'clock ten little girls were the guests. Games and a luncheon formed the entertainment for both afternoon and evening guests and a lovely birthday cake bearing one candle was the center of attraction.

Many dainty and pretty gifts were received by Beverley Jane.

GEO. LOPTEIN NIGHT POLICEMAN

During the Absence of Mr. Fay in the Sycamore Hospital

Edwin E. Crawford, Genoa's elected candidate to the office of sheriff of DeKalb county, has relinquished his hands from the duties of night officer of the law and chief of police to Mr. Fay, who at present is in the Sycamore hospital. During his absence however, Geo. Loptein wears the badge of authority, making his headquarters at the waterworks station during the night. It is necessary to be near the water works machinery owing to its crippled condition, for, until repairs are made, it cannot be left alone but for about an hour at a time.

PRETTY BIRTHDAY PARTY

Mrs. O. Overly entertained six little boys and six little girls Saturday afternoon in honor of her daughter, Doris' third anniversary of birth.

Games were played and a delightful luncheon was served with a large birthday cake bearing 3 candles. The little hostess received many beautiful gifts.

NOTICE

On and after November 10 we will not allow any trespassing on our farm under penalty. Faber Bros.

In December the people of the state of Illinois will vote for or against the ratification of the new state constitution. It is needless to delve into the seeming mysteries of this great piece of work, the new constitution, because it would take hours of hard study to digest its meaning to the full.

However, arrangements have been made with County Judge W. L. Pond, who is county chairman of the Committee and Address on the new constitution and one of the best posted men in the state on his new work, to give a talk next Friday evening in the Opera House, Genoa, to whomsoever cares to know more about the new constitution and why it should be ratified or voted down.

A fall house is desired, for thru his talk a person will know more about the proposed new basic laws of Illinois than a month of study could produce.

Remember the date and the place. The subject is certainly a vital one for these laws if ratified will govern you and your family the rest of your lives. It is up to you to say whether or not they shall do so.

If your fellow hasn't asked you to see it, you'll call his attention to it. "East is West" at the Princess Theatre DeKalb, next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday (Remember three days only.)

AT GENOA OPERA HOUSE SAT. NOV. 11

Woman's Auxiliary Will Serve Dinner at 12 O'clock—50c per Plate

PROGRAM IN THE AFTERNOON

Ladies Will Hold Bazaar—Stands for Amusement—Dance in the Eve —Ford to be Given Away

The stage is set and in readiness for the first act of Bayard Brown Post of the American Legion, second annual Armistice day celebration that will begin with a big chicken dinner at the Genoa Opera House at 12 o'clock Saturday, Nov. 11 under those masters of the culinary art, the Women's Auxiliary.

Along with the dinner, the women are conducting a bazaar containing many beautiful pieces of hand work for sale. They will also have a candy booth where the sweet tooth may be more satisfied.

In the afternoon a good program has been arranged, including singing and speaking. Stands on the sidewalks will afford amusement for young and old that will cause laughter and merriment befitting the celebration of the great day.

In the evening a jitney dance will hold sway, the "syncopated foghorns" blowing forth beautiful rhythm to enchant the young and old onto the polished floor.

Promptly at 10 o'clock the drawing for the holder of the lucky number will take place. The winner will have a choice of a Ford touring car, roadster or tractor.

The Legion boys urge everyone to come out and help eat the delicious dinner, remaining of course for the program.

It is up to all of us, let's go.

SMALLPOX CASES IN SYCAMORE

Seven Homes Quarantined—An Ex- ceptionally Light Form

On Monday the schools were closed in order to permit every school child to be vaccinated who had not been vaccinated.

Saturday afternoon the ministers of the city were called into the mayor's office and urged to request the co-operation of their congregations in preventing the spread of small pox which has appeared in a mild form. On Saturday six cases in town were reported and the houses and the occupants were quarantined promptly. Out in the country other cases are reported.

The cases number seven in Sycamore. Seven more exist in Cortland and Mayfield with a couple or so in South Grove. The pest has been driven from Dixon, but in Rock Falls and Sterling there are many cases. Sixty-five cases exist in Whiteside county—Sycamore Tribune.

"DON'T"
Say, "I never heard of East is West", it can't be any good. Don't say you never liked Constance Talmadge and stay away on that account. Don't figure that just because this picture has not been popular all over and every one has not been telling you about it, that it's not worth driving miles to see.

Take it from us that "East is West" is going to be appreciated by every one who sees it.
Remember and see Constance Talmadge in a roll that will make you walk miles and miles to see again if you can't ride.

Remember you are seeing a picture that's brand new. In fact no other theatre in this part of the country except the Chicago Theatre, Chicago, has run it. Because we are giving you the best there is as early as we can get it. Two months from today everyone will be classing it among the best pictures.

Above all, remember the name "East is West" and the days, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at the Princess theatre, DeKalb. We'll be glad you came.—Advertisement

DAUGHTER HAD TO HELP MOTHER

Now Can Do All Her Household Alone Because Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her

Jasper, Minn. — "I saw in the paper about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and took it because I was having such pains in my stomach and through my back that I could not do my work. I had tried other medicines, but none did me the good that your Vegetable Compound did. Now I am able to do all my work alone while before I had my daughter staying at home to do it. I have told a number of friends what it has done for me and give you permission to use my letter as a testimonial." — Mrs. JESSE PETERSEN, Route 1, Jasper, Minn.

There is no better reason for your trying Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound than this—it has helped other women. So if you suffer from displacements, irregularities, backache, nervousness or are passing through the Change of Life remember this splendid medicine. What it did for Mrs. Petersen it may do for you.

The Vegetable Compound stands upon a foundation of nearly fifty years of service.

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

Fascisti in Complete Control of Italian Government With Mussolini as Premier.

JUGO-SLAVIA TALKS OF WAR

America Declines to Participate in Near East Conference But Names Her Interests—Turkish Nationalists Dethrone Sultan—Marriage of Former Kaiser Wilhelm.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

THE United States has declined the invitation to participate in the Near East peace conference at Lausanne, Switzerland, but will be represented by observers who will keep tab on "certain subjects of particular American concern." Do you think the United States could or should do anything more than this in the settling of the tangled affairs of the Near East?

NO VICTORY could be more complete than that won by the Fascist in their peaceful revolution in Italy. They are now in absolute control of the government and their chief, Benito Mussolini, is premier and minister of foreign affairs and of the interior. Goltzi declined the invitation of the king took the place and promptly announced the new cabinet. Most of its members belong to the Fascist, but several places are given to the Nationalists, one to the Democrats and one to the Catholic party. From all over the country the Black Shirts flocked to Rome where 100,000 of them paraded before the king and premier, and then, at the order of their leaders, they dispersed to their homes to resume their vocations.

Italy seems to have supreme confidence in Mussolini, believing that he will put an end to the conflicts of political factions that have sadly hindered its development during the last three years and that under his rule economic prosperity will be restored. He is young, vigorous and unpretentious and already has buckled down to hard work. Once he was a revolutionary Socialist and was expelled from Switzerland and from what was then the Austrian Tyrol. But he broke with his old associates when in his paper, Popolo Italia, he urged Italy to enter the war on the side of the allies. To the world at large the victory of Mussolini and his Fascist is most important because it was a victory over the Communists, radical Socialists and "Reds" generally. These forces of disruption and disorder were so badly whipped that the Communist party in Italy has announced its own dissolution, which presumably means that the Communist deputies will resign from the chamber.

Mussolini, denying that his program has any chauvinistic plans, said: "Italy needs peace at home as well as abroad. I never believed in a bellicose attitude, and therefore no clash is possible between Italy and Jugoslavians or any other power. We want to prove that our sole ambition is to make the country a true friend toward friends and of a people strong, fair and laborious, a people worthy to live alongside the greatest nations." Nevertheless Jugoslavians were greatly excited by Mussolini's triumph and talked wildly of mobilization and war. Her frontier guards were re-enforced and some fighting was reported. In Rome it was said the alarm of the Serbs was groundless.

by "observers." We were invited to full participation, but Secretary Hughes declined, stating:

"The conference proposed for the purpose of drawing up a treaty of peace with Turkey will have primarily to deal with the problems resulting from the state of belligerency between the allied powers, Turkey, and Greece. The United States was neither at war with Turkey nor a party to the armistice of 1918, and does not desire to participate in the final peace negotiations or to assume responsibility for the political and territorial adjustments which may be effected."

At the same time Mr. Hughes said his observers would keep watch over the disposition of "certain subjects of particular American concern."

Soviet Russia was invited to take part in that portion of the conference which has to do with the Dardanelles, and while she is indignant at the limitation, she probably will accept.

THE Angora national assembly has declared the sultan of Turkey deposed and also has condemned to death the Turkish signatories of the treaty of Sevres and the members of the cabinet of former Premier Damad Ferid Pasha. The sovereignty of the nation is declared to rest in the hands of the people, and the name Ottoman Empire is changed to the State of Turkey. This is virtually the proclamation of a republic, but another sultan may be elected later.

EXCEPT among the German monarchists, the marriage of the former emperor and Princess Hermione of Reuss on November 5 has caused only amusement. Really it is entirely unimportant, but Wilhelm spread himself so far as he could, with ludicrous pomp and proclamations in which all his lost titles appear. The ceremony was performed at Doorn and was attended by a considerable number of the faithful, including George Sylvester Viereck, the notorious pro-German-American publicist. Wilhelm wanted to take his bride for a honeymoon trip outside of Holland, but the allies and the Dutch government wouldn't permit that. The "queen of Prussia," as Hermione now styles herself, seems to be a determined lady and she has announced that she will spend several months each year away from Doorn which would be too dull for continuous residence. But hubby must remain there.

ATTORNEY GENERAL DAUGHERTY, who has been attacked repeatedly because of his alleged slowness in prosecuting the "wary swindlers," has announced that preliminary investigation into 475 wartime contracts has disclosed evidence on which the government will take action. "In every one of these cases, he says, either civil or criminal suits or both must be brought by the government. "Legal civil action will be taken in every case in which it has been discovered that fraud, collusion, or dishonesty was practiced," said the attorney general. "While great numbers of cases indicate on their face the worst kind of fraud and thievery, the government cannot, of course, go into court until it has established absolutely on the face of records in its possession that its case will stand the acid test. The government must be fair to itself, and fair even to those whom it would brand as crooks and profiteers, yet, every single individual, firm, or corporation involved in the cases now in the possession of the department, must satisfy the government's claims to the last penny."

PRESIDENT HARDING celebrated his fifty-seventh birthday last Thursday by going through with his usual round of official duties. The day was not forgotten, however, for telegraphic greetings came from many rulers and leaders of other countries and from innumerable friends in America. The President spent the evening quietly with Mrs. Harding, who, though recovering from her recent severe illness, is still confined to her bed.

FINANCIAL ballyhooing for the elections this week denuded much attention from Americans during the week just closing. To predict results would be foolish. Down in Texas there was a seemingly inextricable tangle that, it was believed, would leave both major parties without any candidate for the United States senate on the ballot. The Democrats had G. E. B. Pelly, fusion candidate, barred from the ticket because he participated in the Democratic primary. This affected the 150,000 Texans who voted for Harding. Then charges were brought against E. B. Mayfield, Democratic candidate, because he was said to have been a member of the Ku Klux Klan. This has resulted in a legal complication which at this writing seems likely to keep Mayfield's name off the ballot. The fight may be carried to the senate.

MUNICIPAL elections in England, which were taken as indication of the results in the coming general elections, turned out very badly for the laborites, usually classed there as Socialists. They lost 149 seats which they had held in London and about 160 seats they had held in 80 boroughs outside the capital.

Cuba also had elections and the Liberal party scored a sweeping victory, increasing their representation in the lower house of congress so much that the administration majority is imperiled. It is worthy of note that no disturbances were reported.

PRESIDENT OBREGON of Mexico got rid of one of his most dangerous enemies last week. General Murguia, leader of the latest revolt, was caught asleep in a church at Tepic and within a few hours had been court-martialed, condemned and executed by a firing squad. The haste was explained by the fact that he was seeking legal restraints to prevent an immediate trial. It was felt in Mexico City that Murguia's death brought appreciably nearer the general pacification of the country.

THREE notable men died last week. Father Bernard Vaughan, famous Jesuit preacher and brother of Cardinal Vaughan, passed away in England. Thomas Nelson Page, well-known American author and former ambassador to Italy, died in Virginia. Thomas DeWitt Cuyler of the Pennsylvania Railroad company and chairman of the Railroad Executives' association, was found dead in a private car at Philadelphia.

THE mixed claims commission, named to adjudicate war claims between the United States and Germany, is now busy in Washington. At the first sessions, with Justice Day presiding as umpire, the working system for presenting the claims was set forth. The American commissioner is Judge Edwin B. Farker and the German commissioner, Dr. Wilhelm Kieselsbach.

RECENTLY the federal railway labor board rendered a majority opinion rejecting "the living wage" theory advanced by spokesmen for railway unions. If given strict application, it would give common laborers a minimum wage of about 72 cents an hour, and as a step toward this the maintenance of way men asked a 48-cent minimum. The labor board, increasing the prevailing rate 2 cents an hour, granted a minimum ranging from 25 to 37 cents an hour. It was in connection with this decision that the living wage opinion was given, the board asserting that the wage theory of labor if given application "would wreck every road, and if extended to other industries, would carry them into communistic ruin." Samuel Gompers, Edsel Ford and William Randolph Hearst all assailed this view. Their attacks rolled Ben W. Hooper, chairman of the board, and he retaliated with a stinging statement. He gave Mr. Gompers credit for sincerity, marveled at the attitude of the Hearst papers and poked fun at young Ford. He continued:

"One of the expert economists who presented the matter to the board for the employees' stated that this would 'throw a monkey wrench into the industrial machinery' and that the theoretical living wage should not be established all at once, but the minimum should be made 45 cents per hour. This would likewise create a deficit of several hundred million dollars. "The swelling tide of prosperity in our country cannot be hastened by methods of this kind."

Mrs. Emma Gunter Decatur, Ill.—"At various times during my married life I have been greatly benefited by two of Dr. Pierce's medicines, Golden Medical Discovery and Favorite Prescription. The Golden Medical Discovery restored me to health at one time when I had a deep-seated bronchial cough and was in a weakened, debilitated state of health; and during one of my expectant periods Favorite Prescription proved not only to be a splendid tonic and nerve but I had practically no suffering. It is a pleasure to recommend medicines so reliable as Dr. Pierce's and I do so at every opportunity." — Mrs. Emma Gunter, 1228 N. Calhoun St.

Rare Find in English Church. After three centuries of concealment behind plaster and rubbish, the remains of a fourteenth century stained-glass window have been discovered at Chelsea (England) Old church. The old glass, which is of immense value, was found between layers of soft plaster behind a mass of old bricks. In one window only a fragment of a border was found, but in the other a panel two feet by two was brought to light. The panel is nearly complete, the head of the figure—apparently that of St. Lawrence or St. Stephen—is missing. The glass seems to be of a date not later than the middle of the fourteenth century. With the exception of Westminster abbey, there is no London church with its own glass of so early a date.

American Miners Outdig Russians. American coal miners, thrown out of work by the five months' strike in the United States, have been drifting into the pits of the Donetz basin in Russia.

The Bolshevik government at Moscow announced the other day that 32 Americans in the Yusovki mine had established a record by digging in one day two and one-half times as much coal as did the same number of Russian miners. It is understood that more American miners are on their way to Russia.

MADE RITE OF SNUFF TAKING

Fashionable "Vice" of Eighteenth Century Was Vehicle of Most Elaborate Ceremonial.

Snuff taking went out about 100 years ago after raging through the Eighteenth century and part of the Seventeenth, when it first made its appearance as a fashionable vice in Europe. But although it went out when Queen Victoria came in, it never entirely disappeared.

"It clears the nose—here's health—and up it goes," said a popular old rhyme. A thousand artists have handed down pictures of contemporary worthies dallying with their snuff-boxes, and always they convey an impression of grace and courtesy and mutual enjoyment. Kings delighted to present jeweled snuffboxes, exquisite examples of the goldsmith's and enameler's art to those they wished to honor. The ceremonial exchange of pinches of snuff was accomplished by a hundred flourishes, bows, greetings and elaborations of deportment.

In the lower walks of life, it was a tragedy to be without snuff. One hastened to fill the beggar's empty snuffbox before giving him a coin for bread. In the prosperous home a conspicuous object was the "mull," a silver-mounted ram's head hospitably crammed with snuff for all comers.

WIGS MARK OF DISTINCTION

First Worn by Lawyers as Sort of Uniform to Distinguish Them From the Priests.

The law, like every other profession, was largely in the hands of the church (practically the only educated people) during the Middle Ages, and when lay pleaders were first introduced they wore a special kind of head covering, to distinguish them from their clerical brethren. This headgear became a recognized part of the lawyer's dress. When (in the sixteenth century) the wig was introduced into England from France, all classes of "gentle folk" adopted the new fashion; courtiers and doctors, officers and lawyers were all bewigged. Indeed, the wig was an essential part of clerical dress, nor was it officially discontinued as such till well into the last century. With the conservative legal profession, however, it was still preserved as part of the court uniform, and today a barrister cannot "be heard" without his wig—he would be in much the same position as a soldier appearing on parade "improperly dressed." Not only are wigs still worn by barristers and judges—the latter having a much larger "full-bottomed" variety—but they are also part of the dress of the speaker of the house of commons, of the parliament clerks, and of the lord chancellor.—Montreal Family Herald.

Famous Micrographic Productions.

Micrography means minute writing. The Ten Commandments have been engraved in characters so fine that they could be stamped on the side of a nickel, and on several occasions the Lord's Prayer has been engraved on the side of a gold dollar, the diameter of which is six-tenths of an inch.

In the Hareian manuscript, 530, there is an account of a "rare piece of work brought to pass by Peter Bales, an Englishman and clerk of chancery. It was the whole Bible in an English walnut no bigger than a hen's egg. The nut holdeth the book; there are as many leaves in his little book as in the great Bible and he hath written as much in one of his little leaves as a great leaf of the Bible."

Concerning Ante-Nuptial Debts.

You love the girl, do you? Her eyes, her hair, her dainty, peaking gauzy things, that grande dame fur that lolls around her swanlike neck in the cool of eve? Have a care. If there's a rat or witch in the shining tresses and it isn't paid for, if that powder puff with which she dabs her nose to chalky hue has a bill attached, if that rich, sweeping fur was bought on tick, you'll have to settle for them all. Orange blossoms, caterer and high honeymoon outlays won't see you through. You'll have to pay her laundry, lingerie, gown, hat, joy-ride bills—in fact, every bill she's got, if you marry her. Thus a California judge interprets the law.—Los Angeles Express.

America Once Land of Many Horses.

A government scientist cites some interesting facts about ancient American horses. It appears that in North America there were always from four to six entirely different varieties of the horse family, living contemporaneously. Some were slow moving and relatively broad-footed horses, living in the forests; others were very swift having narrow feet more resembling those of deer, and lived on the plains. Moreover, there were American horses larger than the huge Percherons of today, and others smaller than the most diminutive Shetlands.

How Not to Get Money.

John and I were on a river steamboat about a year ago. During the excursion I happened to discover, seated on the railing of the second deck, a man I recognized as a multimillionaire. John and I framed up on him. We knew that if we could arrange a way to save him from drowning he would probably reward us handsomely. So John pushed him overboard and I dived in and saved him out. No good. It took the money the millionaire gave me every penny of it—to get John out of Barry Payne's column.

HAVE A PURPOSE, AND STICK

Admittedly Hard Lesson to Learn, but It Means Success to Those Who Master It.

Did you ever realize that it is not an easy thing to concentrate? If you don't believe this shut your eyes right now and try to think for five minutes absolutely on one subject. It may be that you will choose dollars, or doughnuts, or ducks. But if at the end of five minutes you can truthfully say that never once did your mind wander from the definite subject which you chose you're a wonder.

It is just the same with our actions. It is the unusual person who can stick to one purpose until it is fully accomplished. So many other things, apparently just as important, interfere.

Those who have learned this hard lesson are the most successful—Thomas Edison, Mme. Curie, Luther Burbank, each show of what the human mind is capable when it thinks on one set of facts.

We probably could not equal them if we did think, for, along with their power of concentration, are unusual talents, but the point is this: We all have some degree of possibility within. We all feel an interest in some special thing. Why not think seriously upon it? We're a great deal richer than we sometimes think we are. It pays to mind our own possibilities.

"As a man thinketh so is he," is no mere figure of speech. It is a psychological truism. A man's thoughts, his ideas, are the great determinants of all his behavior.

That man who fears to use his own mind is stumbling over an imaginary obstacle on the road to making good. The man who succeeds is the man who thinks he can. "Success comes in cans, failures in can'ts."—Chicago Industrial Research Laboratories.

MAY RESUME CORAL FISHING

Expected Revival of Industry as a Result of Systematic Exploration of the Banks.

The coasts of Algiers and Tunis in Africa have long been famous for their production of coral; but some years ago coral fishing on these coasts rapidly diminished, until it was abandoned. Now, however, this industry seems to be reviving in Algiers and it is expected that it will be resumed in Tunis. A systematic exploration of coral banks has been under way and the best methods of collecting the coral have been discussed. The old way, which was very wasteful, consisted in the use of various forms of grapples, combined with strong nets, which were swept over the banks, tearing delicate structures apart, and recovering but a small portion of the broken coral. The employment of divers is advocated as more economical, both in the quality of the harvest and the preservation of the banks. Divers can descend to a depth of about 180 feet, and good coral is seldom found at greater depths.

Real Economy.

Transparent animals are remarkable. Yet recent studies of two larval eels which possess this peculiarity, and which belong to one of the government bureaus at Washington, seem to show that among the possible advantages of being transparent is listed economy in personal decoration.

In ordinary opaque animals the color markings are symmetrical on both sides of the body, but this is not the case with the transparent eels. When looked at from one side these eels appear to have seven large, black spots arranged at nearly regular intervals along the length of its body; closer examination shows that in each case three spots are on the left side and four on the right. They are irregularly spaced, but in such a manner that on looking through the body all seven appear in a symmetrical row.

Wireless Hour Signals.

When a ship is approaching shore great caution is often necessary because of uncertainty as to the vessel's precise position. It was some years ago that it was first proposed that wireless telegraphy be utilized to send hour signals over the sea round England to a distance of 200 or 300 miles from shore, in order that the captains of incoming ships might thus be enabled to rectify their chronometers to Greenwich time. The government of Canada thereupon established a system of this kind at Camperdown, near Halifax. Every morning the exact hour is sent out over the sea, so that all vessels furnished with receiving apparatus may pick up the true time from the air.—Washington Star.

Waste and Wet Lands Have Value.

Waste and wet lands have their uses, and under proper management can be made to yield a good return. Drainage, which is always expensive, is often employed to transform land which would be available as a sanctuary for waterfowl, or for the production of fish or nut crops, into tillable land in regions where there is already plenty of farming soil. The needs of many communities would be better served if the wet lands were developed naturally.

Not Ungrateful.

"Republics are ungrateful," remarked the ready-made philosopher. "Not ungrateful," replied Senator Sorghum; "though maybe a trifle distrustful. A republic, like other forms of government, is constantly imagining it has found an intellectual treasure and then discovering it's a gold brick."

Turquois Always Popular.

A stone greatly admired and widely used in ancient days was the turquois. Throughout the East even today, there exists an intense though still unexplained love of the turquois. It has been so admired since some time prior to 5000 B. C., and was intimately associated with Hathor, goddess of motherhood, one of whose names was "The Lady of the Turquois."

Trees Fully Animate.

Trees are living things. They breathe, have circulation, digest their food and assimilate it, have sexual processes and power to adapt themselves to their environment. They lack only intelligence, nervous system and power of locomotion. In all other elementary processes they function as completely as man.

Daily Thought.

Perhaps the early grave which men weep over may be meant to save.—Byron.

WHY THE NEW CONSTITUTION SHOULD BE ADOPTED

From the Moline Dispatch:

Senator L. Y. Sherman voices a disturbing truth when he says that if the new constitution is not ratified, Chicago will soon rule the state. Cook county now has 47 percent of the state's population and it is sure to have 50 percent or more when the census of 1930 is taken.

The Chicago Tribune is putting it up to the voters of Cook county that ratification means to forgo the opportunity to control the whole state. It calls restriction of Cook county's representation in the legislature the "pivotal issue" in the election of December 12. It is practically an invitation to Cook county to defeat ratification.

Chicago is likewise objecting to the judiciary sections in the new constiitution. Under the present constitution the seventh judicial district, of which Chicago has the major part of the population, has but one member of the state supreme court. Under the new constitution it is proposed to give the seventh district three members of the supreme court, but still Chicago is dissatisfied. The main objection seems to be the fact that the new document has a stipulation that not more than two may be chosen from one county. That keeps poor old Chicago out of having the whole three of them.

A good many people down-state seem to contemplate voting against ratification because this or that wanted provision that the new draft of the constitution does not contain. Can we not all set aside consideration of the things the new basic law does not contain and make our decision on the basis of the things that it does contain? It does contain very liberal provision for home rule for Chicago, which ought to fully compensate Chicago for the reduction in Chicago and Cook county's legislative representation.

If something that to the individual voter seems vital does not appear in the new draft, and if it is something that the people really want, it need not be long delayed under the new constitution. Under the new constitution, the power of the people and the legislature to get amendments up for popular vote is twice as liberal as under the old. If the old is allowed to remain in force it will be very much more difficult to change it through amendment than it will be to amend the new one should it be ratified.

While the new constitution gives Chicago the home rule it has long wanted and confers other favors on the big city, the present prospect seems to be that Chicago will forego these things, preferring the imminent control of the whole state under the existing document.

People who do not want to take the desperate chance of having Chicago rule, instead of a measure of home rule, may be expected to forget any seeming defects or omissions in the new, rather than to continue under the present constitution with Chicago domination so near at hand under it, and with the power of amendment at the minimum.

THE BILL OF RIGHTS

Its Meaning and a Discussion of It as It Appears in the New Constitution

For the most part, the Bill of Rights has been allowed to remain as in the old constitution but there are a few changes which experience has proved are desirable. Under the existing constitution a defendant charged with felony can not waive a jury and submit his cause to a judge. Experience in other states has proved that there is no reason why a defendant, if he be so minded, may not waive a jury in cases other than capital, and permit himself to be tried by a judge. Accordingly, the new constitution so permits.

One of the defects existing under the present constitution, especially in the larger cities, is in the operation of that section which requires that every defendant "except for capital offenses where the proof is evident or the presumption great" shall be admitted to bail. Under this section, old-fashioned offenders readily obtain bail and are turned out upon the streets to renew their depredations while awaiting trial. Under the new constitution, the provision with reference to bail is the same as that in the federal constitution that "excessive bail shall not be required." It will therefore be within the sound discretion of the judge to whom application for bail is made whether the accused shall be allowed his freedom pending trial. It is to be expected that this discretion will be exercised favorably in the cases of first offenders, but that bail will be denied to those whose past history indicates how their time will be employed if they are not confined.

This change was advocated by the judges and lawyers most experienced in the handling of criminals and should add much to the security of the honest citizen.

Until a few years ago, it was generally supposed that under the existing constitution, there was nothing to prevent reading in the public school of passages from the Bible and in those communities where public opinion approved this course, the reading of the Bible was customary. A few years ago, however, the supreme court, by a majority opinion, held that the constitution of 1870 forbids the reading of the Bible in the schools. The convention, though zealous to maintain the American doctrine of the separation of church and state, was convinced that an overwhelming preponderance of public opinion in the state demands that, in those communities where public opinion approves, passages of the Bible may be read without comment over another and, accordingly, it is provided in the proposed constitution that the reading of selections from any version of the Old and New Testaments in the public schools without comment shall not be in conflict with the constitution.

Heretofore, no one could be held to answer for a felony except upon indictment by the grand jury. In communities where grand juries are held only at intervals of several months, one arrested who cannot give bail is kept in jail awaiting the action of the grand jury. This has frequently resulted in injustices to the innocent. In the larger communities there are many instances of crime where the proof is clear. In these cases it is a great waste of machinery to require first a preliminary jury hearing and then an indictment and then a trial before a petit jury ad yet, under the existing constitution, there is no method by which the grand jury hearing can be avoided. Under the proposed constitution, all felonies, save capital cases, may be prosecuted upon either the indictment or information shall be filed by the state's attorney until after leave granted by the court upon a showing of probable cause. These changes will certainly result in simplifying criminal procedure and expediting prosecution without the sacrifice of protection to the innocent.

The new constitution permits the general assembly to make women eligible as jurors. It also permits the general assembly to provide for juries of less than twelve in civil causes. This should result in saving much expense and bring great relief to citizens by diminishing the amount of jury service required and no reason is perceived why litigants should not be as well satisfied with the verdicts of smaller juries as they have been with those of juries of twelve.

One of the defects existing under the present constitution, especially in the larger cities, is in the operation of that section which requires that every defendant "except for capital offenses where the proof is evident or the presumption great" shall be admitted to bail. Under this section, old-fashioned offenders readily obtain bail and are turned out upon the streets to renew their depredations while awaiting trial. Under the new constitution, the provision with reference to bail is the same as that in the federal constitution that "excessive bail shall not be required." It will therefore be within the sound discretion of the judge to whom application for bail is made whether the accused shall be allowed his freedom pending trial. It is to be expected that this discretion will be exercised favorably in the cases of first offenders, but that bail will be denied to those whose past history indicates how their time will be employed if they are not confined.

This change was advocated by the judges and lawyers most experienced in the handling of criminals and should add much to the security of the honest citizen.

Until a few years ago, it was generally supposed that under the existing constitution, there was nothing to prevent reading in the public school of passages from the Bible and in those communities where public opinion approved this course, the reading of the Bible was customary. A few years ago, however, the supreme court, by a majority opinion, held that the constitution of 1870 forbids the reading of the Bible in the schools. The convention, though zealous to maintain the American doctrine of the separation of church and state, was convinced that an overwhelming preponderance of public opinion in the state demands that, in those communities where public opinion approves, passages of the Bible may be read without comment over another and, accordingly, it is provided in the proposed constitution that the reading of selections from any version of the Old and New Testaments in the public schools without comment shall not be in conflict with the constitution.

SURPRISE MR. AND MRS. GRAY
Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gray were the victims of a surprise party Tuesday evening when twenty-four friends went to their home on the Cohoon farm to spend the evening with them. Bunco afforded the evening's entertainment followed by a luncheon served by the self invited guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Gray will soon move to a farm near Kingston.

The Child and the Animal.
Everyone knows how quickly the child's interest is aroused in the presence of an animal. He takes to it much more naturally than to one of his own kind. This seems to be instinctive in childhood, and within reasonable limits parents should encourage it. Children brought up with animal pets are bound to show the influence of that companionship throughout the rest of their lives, but it is of great importance that parents and others should teach young children how to handle these pets of which they really become so fond. They should be taken up not by the nape of the neck, with all the rest of the body left dragging down, but picked up carefully in the arms, so the whole body gets some support; if they should not be squeezed and mauled about and their lives made unhappy by such usage, which, while it may denote affection, often grows into carelessness as to the animals' welfare.—Our Dumb Animals.

Bobby Burns' Snuff Box.
Robert Burns was never happier than when he could "pass a winter evening under some venerable roof and smoke a pipe of tobacco or drink water gruel." He also took tobacco in the form of snuff. Mr. Bacon, who kept a celebrated posting-house north of Dumfries, was his almost inseparable companion. Many a merry night they spent together over their cups of foaming ale or bowls of whiskey toddy, and on some of these occasions Scotland's great bard composed several of his best-loved convivial songs. The bard and innkeeper became so attached to each other that, as a token of regard, Burns gave Bacon his snuff box, which for many years had been his pocket companion.

GEO. WHITE PASSES TO REWARD

Well-known Resident of Noy Died This (Thursday) Morning

George White, a life long resident of Genoa township and seventy-three years of age passed away this (Thursday) morning following two strokes of paralysis and general infirmities of old age.

He was one of Noy's fine old gentlemen and has led a kind and exemplary life of which any man might be proud.

Funeral services will be held Saturday afternoon at two o'clock at the house, Rev. Robeson officiating.

The obituary will be published next week.

NOTES FROM THE COURT HOUSE

and who was indicted by the October grand jury on charges of an assault with a deadly weapon, was also arraigned in the circuit court before Judge Slusser and entered a plea of guilty.

Simons was arrested on complaint of his wife who alleged he had inflicted some injuries to her person with a knife. On his arrest Simons states he was in a playful mood when he did this and meant no harm. On account of his long period of incarceration in the county jail the court took this into consideration and fined him $25 and costs and sentenced him to the county jail for a period of ten days.

Jeremiah Albert Hamkins, alias Frank Hughes, formerly of Toulon, Illinois, but recently with residence nowhere, indicted by the October grand jury of the circuit court on charges of obtaining a signature under false pretenses, was arraigned in the circuit court before Judge Slusser on Tuesday afternoon and on his plea of guilty was sentenced to pay a fine of $50 and to be confined in the county jail for a period of ten days.

Hankins on July 12 entered the office of one of Sycamore's attorneys told a story of a serious accident to a relative, residing in Macou county arising out of a railroad wreck. He stated the relative had been offered settlement but this he considered too small and wished to retain an attorney to take up. After the explanation of the case he gave a pitiful story of finances and succeeded having a note signed on which he obtained $15 at a local bank. As soon as he departed inquiry developed that he was a swindler and he was arrested at DeKalb and brought to the county jail. Since July 12 the date of his arrest he has been confined in the county jail in default of bail. He promised the court to give Sycamore a wide berth hereafter.

Henry Hines and Leo A. Zenk of Elgin, who were arrested on August 14th at DeKalb on charges of being intoxicated after they had caused a disturbance in a DeKalb restaurant at 5 a. m., and indicted by the October grand jury on charges of transporting liquor, entered a plea of guilty on being arraigned by State's Attorney Poust, before Judge Slusser on October 31st, and were each fined $100 and costs.

The men were arrested together with two women who gave the names of Mary Thorwarth Wallace and Hazel Holmes and a search of the automobile in which the party drove into DeKalb, revealed five bottles of liquor. The women were discharged as they denied participating in the beverage. Both men, it is said, are married. They were represented in court by McCarthy and McCarthy, attorneys of Elgin.

A RESORT AT ST. CHARLES
The eyes of the St. Charles city administration are now particularly directed toward the activities at White Rock springs, north of that city, since it was learned that the restaurant and one cottage at the resort have been leased by Carl Thorworth, who plans to open for business soon. Thorworth who formerly conducted a place east of Elgin was closed by the federal authorities several months ago.

At the time the federal padlocks were hooked on the doors at Thorworth's Elgin place, the proprietor was charged with a number of violations of the information that Thorworth had leased the place north of Sycamore, local authorities immediately became interested in his plans and endeavor to see that strict law enforcement prevails there at all times. White Rock springs is within the St. Charles city limits.

P. E. O. SISTERHOOD

The P. E. O. Sisterhood met Wednesday evening with Miss Irma Perkins. A report was given by the chairman of the P. E. O. Library Committee and by Mrs. Harry Perkins, chairman of the rummage and bakery sale committee. The chapter decided to retain the half of the proceeds of rummage sale which is to be used for charity in chapter treasury to be expended for clothes for needy children. A committee with Mrs. Cora Schoonmaker as chairman was appointed to purchase shoes, stockings, rubbers, mittens and caps as needed.

The program of the evening consisted of an interesting article on "Colonial Furniture" read by Mrs. Libby Kirby.

Refreshments were served by the hostess.

Poison in Mushroom Cap.

Animals usually know what is good for them and squirrels will consume the stalks of poisonous mushrooms without any apparent ill-effects. The cap of the plant is left. This suggests that the poison may be contained in the rejected portion, the escape of the feeding squirrels not being due to any special immunity. But the subject requires careful investigation.

Little Banking Stories

The Man Came Back

A man was passing the bank the other day when he noticed a sign in the window which suggested that he save a part of his money

At first he smiled. Why was the bank so anxious to have his money? It was true he had $10 in his pocket that could be spared, but he had not thought of laying it away.

"If I save this $10 now," he said, "It will come back to me later with interest added." So he turned and came back to the bank to start a new savings account with that $10.00.

Many people pass the bank every day with money they could easily save if they were only willing to make small deposits often.

She colored up and bit her lip, and gave a queer little laugh. Then she grew very sober and grave, and said: "I know, dear. Perhaps I am talking more than I used to. But, you see, I've been thinking quite a lot, and I—I've learned some things. I'm trying to make you forget what I said—about your loving me more than him. That wasn't right, dear. Mother was wrong. She shouldn't try to influence you against your father. He is a good man; and there are none too many good men in the world—no, no, I won't say that," she broke off.

But she'd already said it, and, of course, I knew she was thinking of the violinist. I'm no child.

JUNE

Well, once more school is done, my trunk is all packed, and I'm ready to go to Andersonville. I leave tomorrow morning. But not as I left last year. Oh, no. It is very, very different. Why this year I'm really going as Mary. Honestly, Mother has turned me into Mary before I go. Now, what do you think of that? And if I've got to be Mary then and Mary here, too, when can I ever be Marie? Oh, I know I said I'd be willing to be Mary half, and maybe more than half, the time. But when it comes to really being Mary out of turn extra time, that is quite another thing.

And I am Mary. Listen: I've learned to cook. That's Mary. I've been studying astronomy. That's Mary.

I've learned to walk quietly, speak softly, laugh not too loudly, and be a lady at all times. That's Mary.

And now, to add to all this, Mother has had me dress like Mary. Yes, she began two weeks ago. She came into my room one morning and said she wanted to look over my dresses and things; and I could see, by the way she frowned and bit her lip and tapped her foot on the floor, that she wasn't suited. She said:

"I think, my dear, that on Saturday we'll have to go in town shopping. Quite a number of these things will not do at all."

And I was so happy! Visions of new dresses and hats and shoes rose before me, and even the pink beaded silk came into my mind—though I didn't really have much hope of that.

Well, we went shopping on Saturday, but—did we get the pink silk? We did not. We did get—y'know never guess what. We got two new gingham dresses, very plain and homely, and a pair of horrid, thick, low shoes. Why, I could have cried! I did most cry as I exclaimed:

"Why Mother, those are Mary things!"

"Of course, they're Mary things," answered Mother, cheerfully. "That's what I meant to buy—Mary things, as you call them. Aren't you going to be Mary just next week? Of course, you are! And didn't you tell me last year, as soon as you got there, Miss Anderson objected to your clothing and bought new for you? Well, I am trying to see that she does not have to do that this year."

And then she bought me a brown serge suit and a hat so tiresomely sensible that even Aunt Jane would love them, I know. And tomorrow I've got to put them on to go in.

Do you wonder that I say I am Mary already?

CHAPTER VII

When I Am Neither One.
ANDERSONVILLE

Well, I came last night. I had on the brown suit and the sensible hat, and every turn of the wheels all day had been singing: "Mary, Mary, now you're Mary!" Why, Mother even called me Mary when she said good-by. She came to the junction with me just as she had before, and put me on the other train.

"Now, remember, dear, you're to try very hard to be a joy and a comfort to your father—just the little Mary that he wants you to be. Remember, he has been very kind to let you stay with me so long."

She cried when she kissed me just as she did before; but she didn't tell me this time to be sure and not love Father better than I did her. I noticed that. But, of course, I didn't say anything, though I might have told her easily that I knew nothing could ever make me love him better than I did her.

When we got to Andersonville, and the train rolled into the station, I stepped down from the cars and looked over to where the carriages were to find John and Aunt Jane. But they weren't there. There wasn't even the carriage there; and I can remember now just how my heart sort of felt sick inside of me when I thought that even Aunt Jane had forgotten, and that there wasn't anybody to meet me.

There was a beautiful big green automobile there, and I thought how I wished that had come to meet me; and I was just wondering what I should do, when all of a sudden somebody spoke my name. And who do you think it was? You'd never guess it in a month. It was Father. Yes, Father!

Why, I could have hugged him, I was so glad. But of course I didn't, right before all those people. But he was so tall and handsome and splendid, and I felt so proud to be walking along the platform with him and meeting folks see that he'd come to meet me! But I couldn't say anything—no anything, the way I wanted to; and all I could do was to stammer out:

"Why, where's Aunt Jane?" And that's just the thing I didn't want to say; and I knew it the minute I'd said it. Why it sounded as if I missed Aunt Jane, and wanted her instead of him, when all the time I was so pleased and excited to see him that I could hardly speak.

He just kind of smiled, and looked queer, and said that Aunt Jane—er—couldn't come. Then I felt sorry; for I saw, of course, that that was why he had come; not because he wanted to, but because Aunt Jane couldn't, so he had to. And I could have cried, all the while he was fixing it up about my trunk.

He turned then and led the way straight over to where the carriages were, and the next minute there was John touching his cap to me; only it was a brand-new John, looking too sweet for anything in a chauffeur's cap and uniform. And what do you think? He was helping me into that beautiful big green car before I knew it.

"Why, Father, Father!" I cried. "You don't mean—I just couldn't finish; but he finished for me."

"It is ours—yes. Do you like it?" "Like it?" I guess he didn't need to have me say any more. But I did say more. I just raved and raved over that car until Father's eyes crinkled all up in little smile wrinkles, and he said:

"I'm glad. I hoped you'd like it." "I guess I do like it," I cried. Then I went on to tell him how I thought

And She Is Pretty, and Everybody Loves Her.

It was the prettiest one I ever saw, and 'way ahead of even Mr. Easterbrook's.

"And, pray, who is Mr. Easterbrook?" asked Father then. "The violinist, perhaps—eh?"

Now, wasn't it funny he should have remembered that there was a violinist? But, of course, I told him no, it wasn't the violinist. It was another one that took Mother to ride, the one I told him about in the Christmas letter; and he was very rich, and had two perfectly beautiful cars; and I was going on to tell more—how he didn't take Mother now—but I didn't get a chance, for Father interrupted, and said, "Yes, yes, to be sure." And he showed he wasn't interested, for all the little smile wrinkles were gone, and he looked stern and dignified, more like he used to. And he went on to say that, as we had almost reached home, he had better explain right away that Aunt Jane was no longer living there; that his cousin from the West, Mrs. Whitney, was keeping house for him now. She was a very nice lady, and he hoped I would like her. And I might call her "Cousin Grace."

And before I could even draw breath to ask any questions, we were home; and a real pretty lady, with a light-blue dress on, was helping me out of the car, and kissing me as she did so. Now, do you wonder that I have been rubbing my eyes and wondering if I was really I, and if this was Andersonville?

ONE WEEK LATER

It isn't a dream. It's all really, truly true—everything; Father coming to meet me, the lovely automobile, and the pretty lady in the light-blue dress, who kissed me. And when I went downstairs the next morning I found out it was real, specially the pretty lady; for she kissed me again, and said she hoped I'd be happy there.

And she told me to amuse myself any way I liked, and said, if I wanted to, I might run over to see some of the girls, but not to make any plans for the afternoon, for she was going to take me to ride.

Now, what do you think of that? Go to see the girls in the morning, and take a ride—an automobile ride!—in the afternoon. In Andersonville! Why, I couldn't believe my ears. Of course, I was wild and crazy with delight—but it was all so different. Why, I began to think almost that I was Marie, and not Mary at all.

And it's been that way the whole week through. I've had a beautiful time. I've been so excited! And Mother is excited, too. "Of course, I wrote her and told her all about it right away. And she wrote right back and wanted to know everything—everything I could tell her; and all the little things. And she was so interested in Cousin Grace, and wanted to know all about her; said she never heard of her before, and was she Father's own cousin, and how old she was, and was she pretty, and was Father around the house more now, and did I see a lot of him? She thought from something I said that I did."

I've just been writing her again, and I could tell her more now of course, than I could in that first letter. I've been here a whole week, and, of course, I know more about things, and have done more.

I told her that Cousin Grace wasn't really Father's cousin at all, so it wasn't any wonder she hadn't ever heard of her. She was the wife of Father's third cousin who went to South America six years ago and caught the fever and died there. So this Mrs. Whitney isn't really any relation of his at all. But he'd always known her, even before she married his cousin; and so, when her husband died, and she didn't have any house, he asked her to come here.

I don't know why Aunt Jane went away, but she's been gone most four months now, they say here. Nellie told me. Nellie is the maid—I mean hired girl—here now. (I will keep forgetting that I'm Mary now and must use the Mary words here.)

I told Mother that she (Cousin Grace) was quite old, but not so old as Aunt Jane. And she is pretty, and everybody loves her. I think even Father likes to have her around better than he did his own sister Jane, for he sometimes stays around quite a lot now—after meals, and in the evening, I mean. And that's what I told Mother. Of course, he still likes his stars the best of anything, but not quite as well as he used to, maybe—not to give all his time to them.

I forgot to say that Father is going to let me go back to school again this year ahead of his time, just as he did last year. So you see, really, I'm here only a little bit of a while, as it is now, and it's no wonder I keep forgetting I am Mary.

TWO WEEKS LATER

I understand it all now—everything; why the house is different, and Father, and everything. And it is Cousin Grace, and it is a love story.

Father is in love with her. Now I guess I shall have something for this book!

It seems funny now that I didn't think of it at first. But I didn't—not until I heard Nellie and her beau talking about it. Nellie said she wasn't the only one in the house that was going to get married. And when he asked her what she meant, she said it was Dr. Anderson and Mrs. Whitney. That anybody could see that that wasn't as blind as a bat.

My, but wasn't I excited? I just guess I was. And, of course, I saw that I had been blind as a bat. But I began to open my eyes after that, and watch—not disagreeably, you know, but just glad and interested and on account of the book.

And I saw: That Father stayed in the house a lot more than he used to. That he smiled more.

That he actually asked Cousin Grace and me to play for him several times. That he went with us to the Sunday school picnic. (I never saw Father at a picnic before, and I don't believe he ever saw himself at one.)

That—oh, I don't know, but a whole lot of little things that I can't remember, but they were all unmistakable, very unmistakable. And I wondered, when I saw it all, that I had been as blind as a bat before.

When I wrote Mother I told her all about it—the signs and symptoms, I mean, and how different and thawed-out Father was; and I asked if she didn't think it was so, too. But she didn't answer that part. She didn't write much, anyway. It was an awfully snippy letter; but she said she had a headache and didn't feel at all well. So that was the reason, probably, why she didn't say more—about Father's love affair, I mean. She only said she was glad, she was sure, if Father had found an estimable woman to make a home for him, and she hoped they'd be happy. Then she went on talking about some thing else. And she didn't write much more, anyway.

Rev. B. M. Bridges Gives Facts in His Case

It is doubtful if there has ever been a medicine endorsed by so many ministers of the Gospel as has Tanlac. Indeed, there is scarcely a faith, creed or denomination in all the land in which one, or more, of the clergymen has not publicly expressed their indebtedness to the Premier Preparation for the benefits they have derived from its use.

One of the latest to speak out in this connection is Rev. B. M. Bridges, a widely known and beloved Baptist preacher, residing at Mooresboro, N. C., whose statement follows:

"Tanlac has given me a good appetite, toned up my system and renewed my strength in such a gratifying way that I am glad to recommend it to anyone who is in a run-down condition. For ten years past I have had such a severe case of indigestion that I could not find anything to eat that agreed with me. Finally I became very nervous and could get but very little sleep or rest.

"It seems that I took nearly everything trying to get myself right, but nothing helped me until I ran across Tanlac. My nerves are so much better now that my sleep is sound and refreshing. I enjoy my meals and have also gained weight. I can say from experience that Tanlac is a splendid medicine and tonic, for it has built me up wonderfully."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists. —Advertisement.

On the Anxious Seat.

At the Brightwood branch library one little girl was much interested in the book-reading contest. However, she wasn't interested to the extent that she would make the effort to read the ten books necessary to receive a diploma.

After the contest was closed and the winners had received their diplomas, she remarked, "If there are any diplomas left, I believe I will take one." —Indianapolis News.

DYED HER SKIRT, DRESS, SWEATER AND DRAPERIES WITH "DIAMOND DYES"

Each package of "Diamond Dyes" contains directions so simple any woman can dye or tint her worn, shabby dresses, skirts, waists, coats, stockings, sweaters, coverings, draperies, hangings, everything, even if she has never dyed before. Buy "Diamond Dyes"—no other kind—then perfect home dyeing is sure because Diamond Dyes are guaranteed not to spot, fade, streak, or run. Tell your druggist whether the material you wish to dye is wool or silk, or whether it is linen, cotton or mixed goods.—Advertisement.

Births and Deaths in England. The report of the registrar general for England and Wales for 1920, just issued, shows the highest marriage rate yet recorded—20.2 per one thousand of population; the highest birth rate since 1900—25.5 per one thousand; and the highest natural increase by births over deaths of any period ever recorded in the history of the country. England and Wales added almost 500,000 to their population by natural increase during this year. The number of deaths was the lowest since 1892, when the population was half that of 1920.—The Living Age.

PIT STREWN WITH BODIES

Terrific Explosion in Heart of the Workings Is Cause—Miners From Other Shafts Aid in Rescue Work.

Spangler, Pa., Nov. 7.—Between fifty and sixty miners lost their lives in a gas explosion in Reilly mine of the Reilly Coal company near here, according to an official estimate made public here by rescue workers and company officials.

Exploration of the workings by trained rescuers is being continued. Thirty blanching survivors, most of them young men, lay on a double row of cots in the miners' hospital here. They were the known survivors of the ninety-four miners who went into the mine this morning a few minutes before a terrific explosion.

At 7:30 o'clock in the morning the explosion occurred in the heart of the mine. As soon as miners from neighboring pits could reach the mine preliminary work of rescue began, and it was supplemented later in the day by trained engineers from the United States bureau of mines in Pittsburgh and the rescue crews of neighboring mines.

The rescue men all told the same story as they came to the surface. They declared that bodies were scattered through the workings for more than 500 feet.

"The sad part of it," said one sturdy miner, "is that at least twenty of the victims were within 100 feet of fresh air when they were overcome by the gas."

PLACE TO SELL THEIR WARES

The "Hut," a Downtown Los Angeles Store, Operated for Benefit of Disabled Veterans.

Out Los Angeles way the care and comfort of the boys who went away to war and returned maimed and broken in health is a matter of vital concern. Leading citizens, editors, writers, business and professional men and women believe it their patriotic duty to help these boys back to health and competition with their fellow men. Hence the "Hut," established in downtown Los Angeles.

Rupert Hughes.

The "Hut" is a store, where veterans emerging from hospitals, and disabled veterans at home may sell articles they have learned to make, or where they may work at various trades catering to the general public. The "Hut" was established by a committee which includes such well-known persons as Rupert Hughes, the novelist; Edward A. Dickson, publisher of the Los Angeles Evening Express; Harry Chandler, publisher of the Los Angeles Times; Hays Rice, Stanley Chapman, Louis M. Cole, Rabbi Maguin, Henry A. Strauss, Roy L. Laswell, Mrs. John J. Urquhart, Mrs. J. R. Coffman, Mrs. Daisy C. Danziger, Mrs. E. R. Brainger, Mrs. Boyle Workman and other prominent citizens.

The committee was formed and the "Hut" established because of the hundreds of veterans who come from the hospitals with only small, or no compensation, and who during the period of convalescence are in dire financial straits. At the store they may ply their crafts and sell their handicraft, all the receipts their own.

Rupert Hughes is a former service man and a member of the American Legion in Los Angeles. To him all former service men are "buddies." He is never too busy, never too engrossed, to aid in good works which are for the benefit of his former comrades in arms. As with other American Legion members, the "Hut" project is meeting with Mr. Hughes' approval and active co-operation.

"There isn't too much, can never be too much, we can do for our disabled," is a slogan with the novelist. Among the directors of the "Hut" are representatives of all the American Legion posts in Los Angeles county. The Needlework Guild of America gave $2,000 to get the project started, and the American Legion pledged $250 a month for six months to insure its success. It will be operated on a "strictly business basis," giving the veterans the opportunity to support themselves by their skill in various crafts without any plea for favors or charity from the public.

LEGION MEN PROUD OF HIM

Mayor Leach, "Minneapolis' Little Colonel," One of Several Successful Gopher State Officials.

They call him "Minneapolis' Little Colonel"—Mayor George E. Leach of that city. He is one of a number of Minnesota mayors who have swelled the pride of the American Legion of that state in the fact of their success in civil life by being voted officers of public trust after their return from war.

Just across that line of "unfriendly relations"—at least that's what some who know the rivalry between the Twin Cities call it—is another Legion executive, Mayor Nelson of St. Paul. And Gophers point to the harmony between the two executives, though they differ radically on many things, as exemplification of the American Legion "buddy" spirit. Other Minnesota mayors who are active members of the American Legion are:

Mayor Cannon of Hibbing, Mayor Maertz of New Prague, Mayor Empe of Virginia, Mayor Quinn of Faribault, Mayor Essling of Eveleth. Then there's Lieutenant Governor Collins State Bank Examiner Rathbun and State Coal Commissioner Bowen who, though not mayors, are Legionnaires.

Mayor Leach was colonel of the famous One Hundred and Fifty-first field artillery, a regiment which was on the front line for 248 consecutive days, longer, it is said, than any other regiment in the United States army. The regiment took part in all the major engagements, and served with its own division, the Rainbow division, the First, Second, Fourth, Twenty-sixth, Thirty-second, Seventy-seventh and Eighty-eighth divisions.

And the "Little Colonel" was a gallant soldier. He was decorated for bravery in action with the Distinguished Service Cross, the Croix De Guerre, with two palms and star and the Legion of Honor, officers' grade, and after returning to the United States was decorated with the Distinguished Service Medal. He now is colonel of the One Hundred and Fifty-first in the National Guard.

Form Organization.

Nebraska sailors and marines, who attended the state Legion convocation at York, Neb., have formed an organization for social purposes.

Energetic Reform.

"Are you a reformer?" "Of course I am," answered Senator Sorghum.

"What are you trying to reform?" "The opposition. I'm doing my best to give them the benefit of a long term of retirement and meditation."

QUEER LIKES AND DISLIKES

Have Been People Who Hated the Smell of Roses, and to Some It Was Fatal.

The ancient writers tell us some wonderful stories about queer likes and dislikes, and some of the most amazing of these are about people who dreaded to see or smell a rose, says London Tit-Bits.

According to Sir Kenelm Digby, one of the ladies of the bedchamber to Queen Elizabeth had her cheek blistered by placing a rose against it. She was Lady Heneage. Afterward whenever she saw a rose she would fall into a swoon.

Cardinal Don Henrique de Cardona became faint and ill if he entered a room where roses were placed; and it is said that Laurentius, bishop of Uratislava, was killed by the smell of a rose. Cardinal Oliverius Carassia lived in fear of roses. He would not allow a rose to be brought into his palace, and dreaded to approach any person who had a rose about him.

The smell of a rose was considered fatal by all the members of the noble Venetian family named Barbarigi. Doctors warned them to remain at home in the rose season, as if they went abroad they were in danger of being overcome.

AS TO TURKEY IN EUROPE

Question Involves Not Geographical Matters but the Introduction of the Famous Bird.

There is a turkey question. It is not of capital moment and it is certain that the fate of Europe is not involved in its solution, but it is still curious, because it raises a point in gastronomic history.

At what epoch did the turkey make its first appearance on the European continent?

Anderson and Cruzy assert that the first turkey eaten in France was at the marriage of Charles IX, i. e., in 1571. Now, a document has been discovered of 1490 where mention is made of the Indian fowls of Charles VIII, two years before Columbus' first voyage, although this precious bird had come from America.

Until now it was thought that the first turkeys raised in France were in Bourges in 1518. On the other hand, it is confidently declared that these birds were introduced somewhat later in Spain, whence they were taken to England in 1524.

A grave problem indeed. Who will furnish the solution?

TO CORRECT AN IMPRESSION

Concerning Cracks in the Cement Roads, the Following Letter Received

In an attempt to correct an impression which seems prevalent among a number of people over the state that cracks in the surfaces of the state highways are indications of their early destruction, the State Highway Department at Springfield has issued the following statements regarding the various cracks which form on pavements:

Concrete, as any other material which is subjected to various temperatures such as the different seasons impose, must expand and contract. This stretching of the concrete in the summer and shrinking in the winter causes cracks to form across the pavements. Immediately after the cracks are formed they are filled with tar or asphalt which, due to the elastic qualities allows movement of the concrete without further cracking and at the same time present a smooth surface over which the traffic passes. Expansion joints placed at equal intervals down the pavement are used in some states but as no especial advantage as derived from the use of these joints and as the costs of these joints add considerable to the cost of a mile of road, Illinois prefers to let these expansion joints develop as nature would have it. These cracks are absolutely normal and are not injurious to the least extent. They might be compared with the gap between railroad rails to allow expansion of the metal.

The longitudinal crack down the center of the road also has been criticized as a fault in the pavement. To some it would probably be a surprise to know that this crack is developed by a construction feature of the Illinois standard design. As longitudinal cracks inevitably occur in pavements regardless of precautions taken to prevent them, it then remains to the engineers to control these cracks to the best advantage of the road. For this reason Illinois uses a metallic joint placed in the center of the pavement to force the longitudinal crack to appear directly down the middle of the road. Since this control joint has been in use the ragged unsightly crack down the pavement has disappeared and a straight joint has been obtained which, in addition to its many technical advantages, acts as a dividing line for two way traffic.

"The only crack which is at all injurious and which should be repaired immediately is a corner crack which separates a small area of concrete from the pavement. There is not only a possibility for a settlement of these small areas with a consequent forming of uneven surface but there is also the tendency for these areas to gradually work away from the rest of the pavement. The presence of a steel bar placed along each side of the pavement six inches from the edges does much to prevent the breaking off of corners and the result is that Illinois has had practically no failures of this nature since this design was adopted in 1921.

"It is, therefore, quite evident that there is no cause for alarm at the appearance of cracks in state highways. The design of this year's pavements is identical with that used in 1921 and the same rigid inspection of materials and construction is present as in previous years.

"Tests on the Bates Road which contained 63 different sections of pavements proved that the Illinois standard design of pavement was correct. That a number of other states have adopted this design as their standard is excellent proof that Illinois' pavements are of the strongest and most economical highways that can be built.

CAUGHT IN PICKER

Warren Stewart's Finger Broken and Hand Badly Cut

Corn huskers are scarce and mechanical pickers are being put into use more and more each year. And these machines are taking their toll in injuries to the men who operate them.

Last Monday Warren Stewart, while operating a picker on the Phil Stewart farm west of Earlville, attempted to pull some stalks and an ear of corn that were clogging the picker and got his right hand caught in such a manner that it was badly cut and crushed. The middle finger was broken and the hand cut in several places. He was plucky and drove his car to town to get surgical aid, which was given and he is now nursing a very sore hand and thankful that it is not worse.—Earlville Leader

Studying Smoke.

Smoke is perhaps the chief enemy of fire-fighters. It chokes and may kill. The United States bureau of standards has newly built what it calls a "smoke house," for experiments which are expected to be of practical usefulness to the fire departments of our cities. It will be used to determine exactly what is required to make "smoke masks" a safe and sure protection for men engaged in subduing fires.

An Aesthetic.

A number of dentists were swapping experiences the other day and one related how a colored man had brought his wife to him to have some teeth extracted. When the employment of gas was suggested the husband looked quite worried and said: "Couldn't you give her sufflin' a little milder'n gas, doctah? Couldn't you give her gasoline?"—Boston Transcript.

Trees Fully Animate.

Trees are living things. They breathe, have circulation, digest their food and assimilate it, have sexual processes and power to adapt themselves to their environment. They lack only intelligence, nervous system and power of locomotion. In all other elementary processes they function as completely as man.

Right-sightedness.
The assertion comes from France but the majority of people are not only right-handed but also right-sighted. By this is meant that most persons see better with the right eye than with the left and habitually, though unconsciously, employ it more. Some persons, however, make greater use of the left eye than of the right, and accordingly are said to be "left-eyed."

How Wonderful is Man!
Man's a curious animal. He'll hear a little knock in his four-wheel motor and heat it to the service station to find out what's wrong. But let his own throat get sore or his own pipes become wheezy and he'll go right on leaving them to get well the best way they may.—Exchange.
