WILL OF THE PEOPLE

LESS THAN ONE-HALF THE VOTERS OF GENOA TUESDAY

THE MINORITY NOMINATES

Roosevelt Carries the Township and State—Deneen Also—Smith, Hay and Wright Win on County Ticket

At the time of writing this article the returns show that Roosevelt and Deneen carry the state. If the same number of voters turned out through the state in proportion to the number registered, the sentiment expressed Tuesday was the sentiment of the minority, as only 262 votes were cast in Genoa out of a possible 600. How the stay-at-homes would have voted is a conjecture, but they might have turned the result in another direction. Then, again, they might have made the victory for Roosevelt and Deneen more decisive.

Reports from the county show that L. B. Smith wins as states attorney, W. M. Hay as circuit clerk and Dr. Wright as coroner. Maj. A. T. Tourtellot and A. N. Abbott were renominated as republican candidates for the legislature and John P. Divine as the democratic candidate.

The vote in Genoa township on the principal candidates resulted as follows:

M. J. Corson was elected republican committee of the 1st precinct and C. D. Schoonmaker committeeman of the 2nd.

The several committeemen of the county meet at Sycamore Monday and select delegates to the congressional convention held Wednesday following. This convention selects delegates to the national nominating convention and to the state convention.

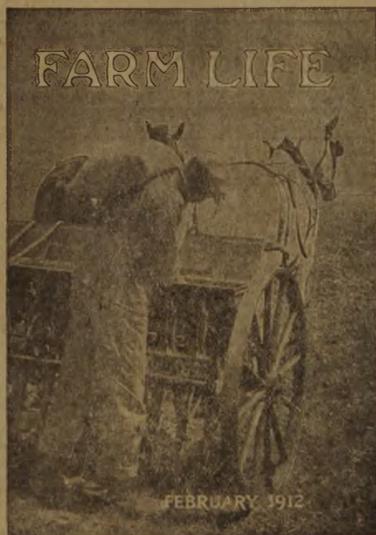

Company Grows

The DeKalb County Telephone Co. purchased and took over recently all of the DeKalb holdings of the Central Union Telephone company. The transaction included all of the DeKalb central offices and fixtures and several of the toll lines. It is current report that the deal represented a purchase price of about $50,000.

Biggest Value in Reading Matter Ever Offered the Public!

AN EARNEST APPEAL
Dr. Brushingham of Sycamore Vividly Gives His Views on the "Recall"

There was a goodly sized audience at the opera house last Friday evening despite the fact that it was the first political speech of the present campaign in Genoa, and judging from remarks heard after the meeting Dr. Brushingham just about hit the nail on the head regarding the initiative, referendum and recall proposition. Dr. Brushingham does not intend to be a political speaker in the literal sense of the word, but in speaking on these vital subjects he is defending a principle which should receive the careful attention of every voter no matter if he hates the word politics. The recall of judges and judicial decisions is the most absurd proposition which ever came up for consideration before the American people and Dr. Brushingham was not backward in stating his position in the matter. The article published last week in The Republican-Journal will answer as a good synopsis of the speech made Saturday evening.

To emphasize his arguments on the initiative and referendum he presented a South Dakota ballot containing one law of 12,000 words. To expect any man to enter a booth and vote such a ballot intelligently is beyond reason unless he has made a careful study of the proposed law, and there is little opportunity for him to do that.

Don't leave carcasses of animals lying around or carelessly bury them, for this invites dogs and crows, and they spread disease. Call Hemmelgarn at the rendering plant or at his residence and he will properly remove them. Notice, however, must be given immediately on death of the animal and hide must be left on 13-ft

SOMONAUK IS ALIVE

Votes to Put in Ten Miles of Macadamized Road
Ten miles of macadamized road is to be built in the town of Somonauk during the next five years. The voters most emphatically decided this at the election by a vote of 114 to 54. This is the most important movement that the town has ever taken in road construction and the Reveille firmly believes that the people of the town will have every reason to be thankful for this step in the coming years.

Altho the first installment of the money to be raised by the hard road tax will not be available until next spring, considerable work can be done during the coming summer by anticipating the tax levy and issuing April orders which will be payable as soon as the hard road tax is collected. This will enable the commissioners to build the roads that are in the worse condition before the muddy season next spring.

Milking Machine

One of Genoa's progressive young farmers is testing out a cow milker and if he can find one that will do the work right, it will cost him one cent for each milking for gasoline power in place of the work of two men on a job almost universally disliked. It is a triple action, complicated and expensive apparatus to couple up and milk four cows at once and altho patent was issued five years ago, the inventor is not entirely satisfied as yet but is strongly in hopes of having it ready for market next season. Visitors will be very welcome later on but at present it is in the experimental stage only.

UP ON THE HILL

The Citizens' Have a Little Tornado all to Themselves Saturday
The citizens up on the hill in the Citizens' and Morningside additions had a little tornado all to themselves last Saturday. Altho there was a little bluster down town, no one realized that in another section something in the way of scaring people was really taking place. It must have been one of those mysterious twisters, confining itself to a narrow path, and this time luckily it found nothing in its path except the woodshed at the home of E. M. Trautman. Here it dodged between the house and the barn caught the shed, which was a good sized building, and turned it over twice. There was a sewing machine and stuff in the building all of which was put out of commission. The building itself was badly damaged.

GET TOGETHER

School Men Organize For Better Work

There were about 100 school directors from the various townships of DeKalb county at DeKalb Wednesday of last week. On the call of Prof. W. W. Coultas they met at Normal and discussed many items of mutual interest. There seems to be a demand for an organization to further the interests of the school. The school directors next to the publishers do more free work and get more kicks than any other body of men in the country. The committees selected on organization was: Prof. W. W. Coultas, H. S. Early, Dr. J. M. Bjelland, H. H. Park, A. A. Bjelland. The school officers have the get-together spirit.

BIG MEETING EXPECTED

Elgin Woodmen Insurgents Have Stirred up a Hornets' Nest

Beyond all expectations of the local Woodmen, says the Elgin News, the magnitude of the Illinois convention has already assumed the proportion of a monster central United States convocation to push the fight against increased insurance rates, as indicated in communications from states within a radius of more than 1,000 miles of Elgin.

More than 2,000 delegates and visitors, voicing unanimous protest against the revision, will be assembled here over two days to co-operate in the fight against the head camp.

Letters have been received from Marion, Ohio, Indianapolis, Ind., Birmingham, Wis., Des Moines and Cedar Rapids, Iowa, Omaha, Nebr., Kansas City, Mo., and Topeka, Kas. Each one requested that the local order secure hotel accommodations for large delegated representations which they contemplate sending.

Complete organization of the insurgent body may be effected at the convention and action started to secure national wide opposition to the increased rates. The stand taken by the Elgin Silver-Leaf camp has been copied by camps in all sections of the country, and has augmented the daring of outside insurgents.

HAS EYE SHOT OUT

Little John Smith, Formerly of Genoa, Victim of Deplorable Accident

Little John Smith, son of the late Edson P. Smith, formerly a resident of Genoa, lost the sight of his right eye while playing in Chicago, where he resides with his mother, last Saturday, a BB shot from an air gun causing the mischief. The shot struck the boy fully in the eye ball, and altho the eye was not destroyed, specialists state that the sight is completely gone.

THE BISHOP HERE

SPEAKS TO CATHOLICS WEDNESDAY IN THE AFTERNOON

"ST. CATHERINE OF GENOA"

Name of the Church to be Erected in this City this Spring—$4057.00 Has Been Raised for Edifice

Rt. Rev. P. J. Muldoon and his architect visited Genoa Wednesday and were met at the depot by Father O'Brien who escorted them by automobile to the Kiernan chapel where he met the people of the new parish and laid before them the plans and specifications of the new church. The plans were accepted and a building large enough to accommodate the requirements of the people was decided upon. The style of architecture will be Gothic with all its modern features. Already $4057.00 has been subscribed so that the people expect to have a very small debt when the church is completed.

The new church will be known as "St. Catherine of Genoa," Genoa, Illinois, and is thus a typical name for this city named after the birthplace of Christopher Columbus. Genoa also is a spot sacred to the lovers of the emerald Isle, being hallowed by the memory of the great champion of Catholic emancipation, Daniel O'Connell, who died at Genoa in 1844. The people of Genoa are proud of their new patron, "St. Catherine of Genoa," and the church about to be erected in her honor will be one worthy of her unselfish and ennobling service to mankind from her cloistered home in Sunny Italy.

Mass will be celebrated at the Kiernan chapel on Sunday April 21, at 10 o'clock.

Father O'Brien wishes to thank the people of Genoa and Kirkland for their generous Easter contribution.

DROWNED IN CISTERN

DeKalb Boy Loses Life When Top of Cistern Caves In

DeKalb—A most distressing tragedy occurred this morning at the home of Mr. and Mrs. August Hartman, 311 South Fifth street, in which their little son, Leslie, was drowned in the big cistern at their home. The little fellow was apparently playing about the top of the big cistern when it caved in.

The mother noticed his absence and a short search revealed the caved-in cistern with the boy's hat floating on top of the water. The frantic mother summoned help and F. G. White, a solicitor for the Chronicle who happened to be working next door rescued the senseless form of the little fellow from the water and did everything possible to resuscitate the victim before the arrival of a physician who was called.

All of the efforts to revive the little lad were unsuccessful and it is probable that he was dead before his loss was discovered.

Sandwich to Have Sewers

A mass meeting of interested property owners was held at Sandwich last week to determine whether the sentiment was right for the construction of a sewer system. After speeches by the mayor and others a vote was taken and it was found conclusively that the people of Sandwich want the improvement. Of course they do, and when the time comes for Genoa to have a mass meeting for the same purpose they will respond in the same manner. We cannot imagine that Genoa would ever turn down the best improvement that could possibly be made.

PAPER BAG COOKING

WONDER-WORKING SYSTEM PERFECTED BY M. SOYER, WORLD'S GREATEST LIVING CHEF

FRUIT CAN BE COOKED DELICIOUSLY.

By Martha McCulloch Williams.

A French woman, a student of medicine, has just won her doctor's degree with a paper on scientific cookery. In it she impresses forcibly the fact that good feeding is not merely necessary to good health, but essential to its restoration. Further, she sets forth that the stews and messes to which invalids are commonly condemned not merely have no reason of being, but that they are positively hurtful. They overwork stomachs already weak, in sympathy with debilitated bodies; worse still there is no commensurate return for the work in the way of nourishment. Yet, it is manifestly impossible for sick or weak or ailing folk, old people and little children, to feed upon the "heartly" things, or those highly spiced and sauced, which suit healthy persons of strong appetites and stronger digestions.

Right here comes in the paper bag cookery. By help of it, food is made tender, easily digested and flavored as nature wills, with only the added savors that fire brings out. Not only meat and vegetables, but fruit as well. The French lady lays stress upon the fact that fruit is almost curative for many things if properly prepared.

Fruit cooked in a paper bag is wholly sanitary. There is, further, no trouble of watching, or stirring, or apprehension of scorching.

Peaches should be scalded in boiling water for a minute and a half, then the skins removed, and the fruit, on the seed, put to stew in a lightly buttered bag. Add a tablespoonful of water for a dozen large peaches—less if they are very juicy. Cook for 20 minutes in a fairly hot oven, slacking heat a third after five minutes from the putting in. The seed gives an adorable bitter-almond flavor. Add sugar to taste, while the fruit is very hot, and let stand several hours before using. For an invalid, choose sweet, very juicy peaches, cook in small quantity—say half a dozen at a time—without adding water, and buttering the bag well. Serve unsweetened with thick cream.

Wash gage plums very well, put them in a buttered bag with a very little water, and cook twelve to twenty-five minutes, depending on the quantity, in a fairly hot oven. Sweeten while very hot, or add soda if sweetening is forbidden.

Baked pears are relished by almost everybody. Ripen, full flavored fruit of medium size and even is the best. Cut off the stalks close, snip out the blossom end, and stick in a clove there. Pare thinly, pack in a buttered bag with a little water and cook fifteen to thirty minutes in a fairly hot oven.

Leg of Lamb, with Turnips: Get a fat leg of lamb, have the butcher take off carefully the outside membrane—in that most of the "sheep-y" taste resides. Scrape well, wipe over with a damp soft cloth, and if necessary, wash quickly in cold water, but avoid washing if possible. Salt and pepper moderately, then grease well—using either butter or clarified drippings—dredge very lightly with flour and put into a roasty, thick greased bag with a pint of sliced turnips, two small thinly sliced onions, a small sprig of mint, and a half cup of tomato pulp or catsup. Sliced potatoes can be added at will—in that case use fewer turnips. Be sure there are no sharp ends of bone projecting—they should be cut off rather under the flesh. Season the vegetables lightly with salt before putting them in the bag, but take care not to put in too much. Add half a tumbler of cold water, seal, put in a hot oven, slack heat after five minutes and cook until well done. Time depends on weight.

ITS MANY ECONOMIES.

A dollar's worth of paper bags will be ample to cook for any average family throughout a month. Add a box of clips at ten cents—they will be good for another month, and still another in careful hands—and the outlay is still inconsiderable. Add still further fifty cents for greasing—a pound of lard, half a pound of butter, half a pound of drippings—and the total is still more than moderate. Notwithstanding, it is more than plenty of us would care to spend monthly merely in the interest of flavor or ease of ease. Plenty more of us like to take duties laboriously, feeling that thus we win to the kingdom of thrift. So if there were no economic offset, paper bag cooking would have to be reckoned either a fad or a luxury. It is neither—it has come to stay.

Say you pay three to four dollars a month for gas—which is about a fair average. If the paper bag cooking cuts this a third, it has almost paid for itself at one fell swoop.

Next comes the saving in quantity of food cooked. Paper bag cooking is one-fifth to one-fourth ahead there. In pot cooking the scales show a shrinkage treble that of bag cooking. This is a saving well worth while, yet far from telling the whole story. Things bag-cooked nourish better because they are more readily digested.

Set this extra nourishment at one-tenth of the food cost, and the food cost for a family ten dollars a week. Right there you have more the price of bags, grease, clips, etc.—almost the cost of the gas.

But even then the sum in domestic economy is just fairly begun. Paper bag cooking not only saves thus negatively by preventing loss and insuring full edibility, but positively—and in many, many ways, as, for example, in the food bought. Round steak is more nourishing than any other—but the fact has been held to be offset by the extra dentist's bill the eating of it necessitated. Paper bag cooking makes it as tender as porterhouse itself—moreover, there is no bone to be thrown away—nothing but clear meat. And the favorable difference in price runs from eight to ten cents the pound.

Living is dearer in every way—the one possible alleviation of this increasing cost, without skimping of appetites, is in buying things less costly and so cooking them as to make the difference all in their favor.

Paper bag cooking will do it; it has done it for me. Let's recapitulate. Say one uses one hundred and fifty bags in the month, and then allow seventy-five cents for clips, lard, butter, and dripping. This gives an initial debit of two dollars beginning the account thus:

DEBIT.
Paper bags, butter, clips, one month	$2.00
CREDIT.
Gas saved	$1.00
Saved in wear and tear (5 per cent)	.50
Food saved ($1.00 a week)	$4.00
Saved on meat (75 cents week)	$3.00

Roast Ducks, Banana Stuffing. Wash your ducks well inside with cold salt water—they are wild ducks let them lie in the salt water for fifteen minutes. Drain, wipe dry inside and out, and season very lightly with salt and paprika inside, sprinkling black pepper on the outside. Set on ice while you make a stuffing of bananas cut in small cubes, mixed with their own bulk of toasted bread crumbs and seasoned with salt, black pepper, a little chopped celery and plenty of cold butter. Stuff the ducks lightly, truss firmly, grease well all over and tie the thin bacon over the breasts. Put in a well greased bag, fitting them close together. Add the juice of a lemon, a wineglass of either claret or sherry, seal bag and cook in a hot oven ten minutes, then slack heat, and finish—it ought to require about forty minutes more.

Pastry

By Nicolas Soyier, Chef of Brooks' Club, London.

Pastry, cakes and sweets generally are wonderfully improved by being cooked in paper bags. The concentration of heat which is thus gained has the effect of making the puff paste lighter and more regular in texture and all cake mixtures "rise" in a manner the oven cannot produce.

Then again the cooking takes much less time, and I need not point out the value of this. In the old style the oven door had frequently to be opened to watch progress. The pastry was thus exposed to draughts of cool air, which could but produce "doughy," heavy and unsatisfactory results.

Puff Paste: Take one pound flour, three-quarters of a pound butter, and mix the flour with water and salt lightly, to the consistency of butter. Leave this dough for half an hour, then flatten it with your hand, and lay your butter on top of the paste. Then fold four-corner way, and give it two rolls as usual. Leave your paste in a cool place for forty-five minutes, then roll twice more. Leave it for forty-five minutes, and roll twice again. Place it in a larger paper bag which will not touch the paste. Put on broiler and allow twenty minutes in a hot oven.

SUNDRY SWEETS.

Petit Nid: Peel and core half a dozen cooking apples. Empty a gill,

Mr. Leavitt, who has been connected with the United States forestry service, has accepted the position of chief forester for the Canadian Conservation association and also will be chief iron inspector for the Canadian railway commission.

WICKERSHAM RETIRES FROM OFFICE MARCH 4

Attorney General to Leave Cabinet at End of Taft's Term, According to Original Understanding.

Washington, April 10.—Attorney General Wickersham will not serve in the cabinet after March 4 next, if President Taft is re-elected. This statement was made at the capital. Mr. Wickersham, it was stated, endorsed the cabinet with a distinct understanding that he would not serve more than four years. It was also stated that President Taft and Mr. Wickersham were in thorough accord as to the administration's anti-trust policy and that the announcement was without political significance.

Attorney-General Wickersham.

General Suffering from Almost Complete Breakdown in Health—Has Not Cancered.

New York, April 10.—Major Gen. Frederick Dent Grant, U. S. A., commanding the eastern division of the army, will not return to Governor's Island to resume command of the division. The big house in the north-eastern part of the island, which has been General Grant's home, has been dismantled of General Grant's effects and they are packed and ready for removal.

That General Grant has suffered an almost complete breakdown in health is admitted by many of his army friends, but that he is suffering from cancer of the throat, the disease that killed Gen. Ulysses S. Grant, his father, is denied by those close to him.

LAKE IS OPEN AT CLEVELAND

Shipping Season Starts at the Big Ohio Port With an Oil Barge the First Entry.

Cleveland, O., April 9.—The lake shipping season is open. The first vessel to enter this port was the Standard Oil company's barge No. 6, which arrived from Lorain in tow of the tug Pearce. Two barges of the ferry between Conneaut and the Canadian shore also passed the city. Ice, the captains report, has cleared from the lake to a much greater degree than has been anticipated, the formation having been unusually thick owing to the very cold winter.

TROUT IN WISCONSIN SCARCE

Season Will Open Next Monday, but Promises Little Encouragement to Fishermen.

Superior, Wis., April 9.—The trout season will open in Wisconsin next Monday and the usual large influx of fishermen is expected. Owing to the extremely severe winter it is feared the supply of fish in the streams will be small.

Titanic on Her Maiden Voyage.

London, April 10.—Carrying many prominent persons, the liner Titanic of the White Star Line, than which there is no larger vessel afloat, sailed from Southampton today on her maiden voyage bound for New York. The Titanic, which is of 45,000 tons displacement, is sister ship to the Olympic

NEWS OF ILLINOIS

Springfield, Ill.—Members of the state executive board of the United Mine Workers of Illinois fixed April 25 for the joint conference of representatives of their organization and of the Illinois Coal Operators' association. The conference follows each national joint conference and is to agree upon the minor terms of the biennial agreement, which are not touched at the international conference. The conference will be in Chicago and is expected to terminate peacefully. Operators of the Fifth and Ninth districts including several counties in the southern part of the state, are not affiliated with the operators' association, and their joint conference with the miners will be held April 17. The state convention of miners will be held in May, probably in Peoria, at which time the agreement will be up for ratification.

Bloomington.—A twenty-four-acre tract at the northwest corner of Starved Rock reservation, known as "the Town of Silence," has been acquired by the Illinois Park commission and will be added to Starved Rock park, bringing the total acreage of the new State park up to 320. The town was laid out in the early forties, but the route of the Illinois-Michigan canal had the effect of killing Silence, and booming Utica. Lots in Silence sold for five to ten dollars each when first platted. The state is said to have paid $5,000 for the tract.

Calro.—William Lynn, wife and three children were drowned in the flood between Bird Point and Wyatt, Mo. Lynn was a farmer and was overtaken, with his family, by the rising water. J. S. Cary, a farmer, four miles from Wyatt, is missing. His skill was found and it is thought he was drowned. Henry Baker, a farmer at Texas Bend, is reported drowned. The long-distance telephone company and a telegraph company are not able to send messages from Calro.

Chicago.—Men in motor boats are searching the Desplaines river for the body of Miss Sarah B. Gardner, the Austin school-teacher who disappeared from her home, 5908 Midway park, leaving in her desk a note saying that she had "decided to end it all by means of the river." Miss Gardner, who was fifty-five years old, had taught in the Chicago and Austin public schools for the last twenty years. Two years ago she suffered a nervous breakdown and despair of ever regaining her health is believed to have driven her to commit suicide.

Springfield.—Governor Deneen issued a requisition on the governor of Michigan for the return to Chicago of Isaac Duberstein, under arrest at Detroit, Mich., and wanted on a charge of wife abandonment. A requisition was issued also on the governor of New York for the return to Chicago of Charles S. Keyes, under arrest in New York city, and wanted on a charge of working a confidence game.

Elgin.—A meeting at which national officers of the Modern Woodmen were to explain the increased rates of the order was disbanded when police were called to suppress a riot in which it is said insurgents and regulars took part. A state convention of insurgent woodmen is to be held in Elgin, April 18-19.

Rockford.—George and Lawrence Bildahl, seventeen and fourteen year old respectively, were in a critical condition as a result of eating pancakes containing arsenic. The food was prepared by the boys' mother, Mrs. Emma Bildahl. An inquiry is being made into the woman's mental condition.

Rock Island.—Friends prevented William Yepka, an old printer, who had grown dependent over the death of his wife, from committing suicide. He had gone to her grave in a local cemetery and prepared to shoot himself.

Springfield.—The Knights of Pythias of Illinois district, No. 9, elected Dr. Arthur E. Walters of this city district deputy and G. N. Bromberg county deputy. Carlville was selected as the place of meeting April 2, 1913.

Catlin.—Claude, Donald and Madge Frazier, children of a Catlin citizen, have sued George James and Dan Shuckrow, saloonkeepers, for $5,000, alleging their father was made a drunkard.

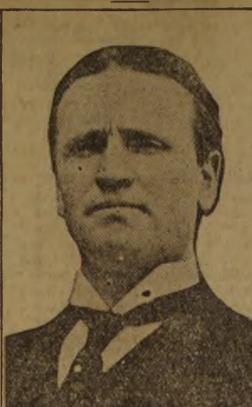

Joliet.—A murder which stirred central Illinois in 1906 is recalled by the death in the penitentiary of George Crumley. He killed James Gibbons, a well-to-do farmer.

Joliet.—Women of Joliet had the privilege of voting for members of the board of school trustees. Fewer than fifty of them availed themselves of the opportunity.

Bloomington.—John Dixon, a blacksmith, was killed by falling down stairs and fracturing his skull. One brother, Amos Dixon, of Chicago, survives him.

Elgin.—Building contractors voluntarily increased the wages of stone masons and bricklayers from 60 to 62½ cents an hour.

SENATOR H. F. ASHURST.

Mr. Ashurst was sworn in the other day as one of the new United States senators from Arizona, and drew a term expiring in 1917.

SOUTH SEEKS FEDERAL AID IN BIG DRAINAGE PROJECT

National Congress at New Orleans to Urge Government to Undertake Huge Task.

New Orleans, April 10.—The first national drainage congress, whose deliberations are expected to be of great importance to the entire Mississippi Valley, opened here today with several thousand delegates in attendance.

The object of the conference is the advancement of a policy calling for in the drainage of wet and overflow lands in the South, and other sections of the country, the argument being that if it is proper for the national government to expend vast sums for the irrigation of arid lands in the West, it is equally proper for the government to aid in removing the superfluous water from the fertile lowlands of the South. Such an undertaking would cost nearly $500,000,000.

The interest this project entertains for the inhabitants of the upper Mississippi and its tributaries lies in the fact that such a drainage, according to those in charge of the convention, must be largely effected at the headwaters of the Mississippi, and of the streams contributing to its volume, by means of reservoirs acting in conjunction all over the territory drained by the river from the Appalachians to the Rockies and from the Canadian border and the Great Lakes to the mouth of the river in the south.

Among those on the program are: W. L. Park, vice-president and general manager of the Illinois Central railroad; George H. Maxwell, the drainage expert, and other men of prominence in engineering and civic life.

STUDENTS GOING TO FRANCE

Two Hundred of Columbia Plan a Tour Abroad to Cost Each Man $375.

New York, April 9.—Two hundred students of Columbia university will pass their summer vacation seeing France in a tour organized and conducted by themselves and so arranged that the 80 day journey will cost each of them only $375. There will be no restrictions, no rules and no recommendations, except those to which all members of the party agree, and side trips, which are always an important feature of the average tour, will be arranged on the spur of the moment. The party will start from New York June 22. They will land at Havre.

HONOR U. S. ARMY CAPTAIN

Charles R. Howland of 21st Infantry Given Gold Medal for Heroism in a Typhoon.

Washington, April 8.—Capt. Charles R. Howland, 21st United States Infantry, has been awarded a gold medal by the treasury department in recognition of "heroic daring exhibited in swimming to the rescue of the crew of the quartermaster's launch San Francisco, who were in danger of drowning during a typhoon at San Fabian, in the Philippine islands, Nov. 9, 1899."

Capt. Howland, who is now attached to the office of the judge-advocate-general of the army in this city, is a native of Jefferson, O.

BOSTON PLANS BIG FOX HUNT

Franklin Park to Be Cleared of Animals Which Have Been Preying Upon Neighbors' Chickens.

Boston, April 9.—An organized fox hunt with dogs and guns in Franklin Park, the largest public reservation here, will be arranged if a petition to the city council is granted. During the past winter, raids of wild foxes upon chicken yards of residents of the Roxbury district have been frequent and ducks, geese and golden pheasants have mysteriously disappeared from the parks. Traps have failed to entangle the foxes and park officials have appealed to the city council for permission to wage war upon them.

Wage Increase Ends a Strike.

West Warren, Mass., April 10.—The strike which has been in effect at the West Warren cotton mills of the Thorndike company was ended with the return of 900 employees, who have been granted wage increases ranging from 7 to 15 per cent.

PART OF FREE SAMPLE CURED TETTER

Everybody Surprised at Quick Results from Resinol.

Often you hear of the continued use of advertised preparations effecting a cure, but whoever heard of a free sample being so successful? Here is the proof in the mother's own words:—"I am more than pleased with Resinol Ointment and Soap. Part of the sample of Resinol Ointment cured my baby's face of tetter."

"Mrs. Bertha Hodnett, Stovall, Va." Wonderful, isn't it? But you will find nothing which is such a successful remedy for all irritations, inflammations and itching of the skin, from piles, scalds and burns, to cuts, sores, felines, carbuncles, boils, eczema, tetter, barber's itch and other skin troubles. It can be instantly applied and as easily as cold cream and has the recommendation of thousands of physicians back of it. Resinol Soap contains the same medicinal qualities as the Ointment and should be used for all toilet purposes and in connection with the ointment. Dealers everywhere sell the Resinol preparations; the ointment in two sizes at fifty cents and a dollar; the soap at twenty-five cents a cake. Free sample of each sent on request. Address Dept. 4, Resinol Chemical Co., Baltimore, Md.

WHY PEOPLE GO TO CANADA

Those who are wondering why the number of Americans going to Canada year by year increases in the rates that it does, would not be so surprised were they to accompany one of the numerous excursions that are being run under the auspices of the Government from several of the states, and remain with the settlers until he gets onto the free homesteads, which, as stated by Speaker Champ Clark, in the U. S. senate the other day, comprises 160 acres of the most fertile soil and with remarkably easy settlement conditions. Then watch the results, whether it be on this free homestead of 160 acres or on land which he may purchase at from $15. to $20. per acre, fully as good as the $100. and $150. per acre land of his native state, and which his means will not permit his purchasing. On the part of the members of the U. S. Senate and Congress there is nothing but praise for Canada. Canadian laws and Canadian lands although the reasonable desire is shown in their remarks, that they pass legislation, (which is very praiseworthy) that will make the land laws of the United States much easier.

It is the success of the American settler in Canada that attracts others, and when experiences such as the following are related to the friend "back home" it is any wonder that increased interest is aroused and a determination arrived at, to participate in the new-found way up in Canada that means wealth and health and all that accompanies it.

William Johnston, who formerly lived at Alexandria, Minn., settled in the Alberg District near Battle River and in writing to one of the Canadian Government agents, located in the United States says: "We have had no failures of crops during our nine years in Canada. I threshed 1208 bushels of wheat and 1083 bushels of oats in 1911, off my 160 acres. This is a beautiful country. I keep six good work horses and milk seven cows, getting good prices for butter and eggs. We get our coal for $2.00 per ton at the mine, about one mile from the farm. Am about one and a half miles from a fine school. As for the cold weather it is much milder here than in Minnesota, where I lived for 21 years. Our well is 35 feet deep and we have fine water. Wild land is selling for $18. to $25. per acre. Improved farms are much higher. I am well satisfied with the country, and would not sell unless I got a big price, as we have all done well here."

Good reasons to account for the number going to Canada.

The woman who suffers in silence usually manages to make a lot of noise about it.

As we grow more sensible we refuse drug cathartics and take instead Nature's herb cure, Garfield Tea.

The more a man expects the more he will be surprised if he gets it.

BEAUTY IN CAPITAL

No More Bad Art to Be Allowed in Washington City.

MALL IS CENTER OF SCHEME

Spring Has Come to the Potomac, and Birds, Trees and Flower Beds Are Beautifying the Parks and Streets.

By GEORGE CLINTON.
Washington.—Plans to make Washington a worthy capital are being pushed vigorously. When the Lincoln memorial dispute is ended other matters less controversial in nature will be taken up and decision made. It is not yet definitely decided just what form the memorial to Abraham Lincoln will take, but the chances favor the erection of some lasting stone memorial near the Potomac river, virtually at the head of what is called The Mall.

This Mall, by the way, is a beautiful place. Eventually it will extend from a point on the river opposite Georgetown straight through to the capitol. It has a wide extent today, unbroken except by the Washington monument, some government buildings and by great trees. Before long, it is the firm belief of men charged with the beautifying of the city, that all the business buildings on the south side of Pennsylvania avenue will be removed and that there will be one great government park extending from the avenue to the river and from the capitol to the Lincoln memorial.

This is spring in Washington. It was a late spring, but it came finally, and with it on its march up the Potomac came the birds from the south, who instantly took up temporary, and in some cases, permanent, residence in Rock Creek park. This beautiful park will enter into the scheme of the comprehensive beautifying scheme of the city. Eventually there will be a broad park belt, virtually surrounding the capitol of the nation. When it is understood that in the city itself there are a score or more of small parks, and that every avenue and nearly every street has its double line of shade trees, some adequate idea can be obtained of the eventual beauty of this Potomac city.

No More Monstrosity Monuments.

Every effort will be made to prevent the erection in Washington of any more "monstrosity monuments." Some of the public memorials erected here in honor of men dead and gone are an honor neither to the sculptors, to the people, nor to the men whose deeds they are supposed to commemorate. Almost anything in the old days in the way of a monument used to pass the censor of art. Today it is virtually impossible to get anything by the critics except that which is eminently worthy, for the "board of approval" is composed of men who know excellence when they meet it.

Voluminous have been written about the "art" of Statuary Hall in the capitol. It is probable that all the marble and bronze memorials there are there to stay, for it would be regarded perhaps as an insult to the legislators of the states which voted these memorials to suggest that they be taken out and replaced by others.

Nature will beautify Washington in a few days. No statuary is needed here to make the city beautiful in late March and all of April, May and June. The trees on the avenues largely are flower bearing. It may be said that all trees blossom, but those in the main in Washington are of a kind which bear blossoms of size and fragrance. The small parks from now on will be flower beds with a constant succession of changes of coverlets. The crocuses come, then the hyacinths, then the tulips, and then the flowers of midsummer in constant change and always in profusion.

Two Bold Senators.

When Gen. Winfield Scott Hancock as a presidential candidate said "the tariff is a local issue" he said what since has proved to be true, although, as everybody knows, he was laughed at at the time for his "lack of appreciation of the real facts in the case." There are other local issues besides the tariff and chief among them is the matter of public buildings for the cities, towns and villages of the country. This matter just now is engaging the attention of the United States senate, although in haste let it be said that the senate is in no wise anxious to have the subject pressed upon it.

A few days ago Senators Lea and Kenyon, one a Democrat and the other a Republican, acting together, asked for reconsideration of bills which had been presented by other senators for the erection of public buildings in two or three small towns in the west. The action of these two senators was bold and unprecedented, for be it known that the senators by agreement in the past have not been in the habit of interfering with one another's attempts to secure fine postoffices, fine federal court buildings and fine custom houses for the towns of their home states.

By a sort of a joint agreement the senate has allowed its members to do pretty much as they chose in the public building appropriation matter, the thought being apparently, "If I don't interfere with another senator, the other senator won't interfere with me when I want something of a like kind done."

Public buildings bills are no respecters of parties. Whether the Republicans or the Democrats are in control of either house, the public buildings bill nearly always gets its linings. Postoffices and court houses erected at government expense and presenting a fine appearance architecturally always have been looked upon as good vote-getters. It is said that many congressmen owe their return to Washington to the fact that they have "done so much for their districts."

It is possible for a member to make no effort to familiarize himself with matters of great national concern, and to take no active part in the debates on momentous questions, and yet to commend himself to his constituents because he has been so active in sending them garden seeds, looking after private pension matters and above all, being active in getting appropriations for federal buildings which would be an ornament to the "public square."

The real trouble seems to be that in hundreds of cases the buildings which have been provided are altogether too large for the service intended, and costly beyond right. There are some villages in the United States holding only a handful of people which have finer public buildings than places of thirty times their size. The difference in the structures represents the difference either in influence of the representatives of the different districts, or in the way in which they view their public duties. Some men give their whole time to the greater affairs of state, while others are content to give time and energy only to local matters. As for the quality of statesmanship presented by these two courses, the people must take their choice.

Hughes as a Dark Horse.

There have been hints from time to time in Washington that there is a possibility that the progressives and the conservatives of the Republican party, if they should get into a deadlock condition at Chicago over the nomination for the presidency, might turn for a compromise candidate to the supreme bench and nominate Associate Justice Charles E. Hughes.

There is not one chance in a thousand, perhaps, that this will happen, for it is said that Mr. Hughes has heard the rumor that such a thing might be proposed and has "handed down a decision" against it in advance.

Charles E. Hughes is the only man of pure Welsh descent who has a seat on the supreme bench. If he should by any chance be nominated for the presidency, the probabilities are that he would have the largest majority in Oneida county, N. Y., ever given to a presidential candidate, for Oneida county is largely populated by Welsh people who settled there in great numbers during the period between 1830 and 1870. There are five or six Welsh churches in Utica alone and in several of them the Welsh language is heard from the pulpit. A Welsh newspaper which is published in Utica is read by Welshmen all over the United States.

To Save Mountain Forests.

Not long ago congress passed a bill which gives Uncle Sam the right to take over for forest reserve purposes tracts of lands in the White Mountains of New Hampshire and in two or three states of the southern Appalachian region. In a week or two the commission which has this matter in charge will report on certain sections which it is thought wise for the government to take over in order to save the forests, to preserve the natural scenic beauty and to keep equable the flow of the streams which are used for navigation and for water power for manufacturing purposes.

Thousands of people go to the White Mountains in summer to spend their vacations. This statement will not startle anyone by its novelty, but there may be something new in the knowledge that the people who go to New Hampshire for the beauty of the scenery and the purity of the air spend $3,000,000 in that state in the months before the leaves of the forest are taken on the color of the expended gold.

Plans of the Government.

Congress was told not long ago that the tide of summer travel actually was beginning to turn away from New Hampshire because the mountains were being robbed of their tree glories by the hand of trade, and that the mountain streams were losing their waters, the rapids were becoming rills and the depths were becoming murmuring shallows. Of course, not the entire forested mountain country of New Hampshire can be preserved by the government of the United States. The intention seems to be to take over 1,000,000 acres and to care for the reserve under such regulations as best may be provided for the reforestation of the waste places and for protection of the water supply.

It must not be understood that lumbering operations will be stopped by the fact that Uncle Sam is to become a land owner in the Appalachian region north and south. It does follow, however, that only such lumbering operations will be allowed as will increase rather than decrease the supply of wood for commercial purposes. This statement may seem to contain contradictory propositions, but it does not. The government maintains that when a tree is properly cut the operation makes two trees grow where one grew before.

Last year forest fires in the United States destroyed $20,000,000 worth of property. The government now is co-operating with such states as ask co-operation for the prevention of forest fires. Several states have availed themselves of the opportunity to get government aid. The government gives its help only in sections where the forests guard the water supply of navigable streams. Under the Constitution this was the only way in which the government could act with the states, for Uncle Sam has charge of streams which are navigable in any part of their course.

Premier Says Concession Obtained on Coast of Mexico Was Granted Oriental Whaling Company—Has No Political Significance.

New York, April 8.—Reports that Japan was negotiating for a naval base at Magdalena Bay, in the Mexican territory of Lower California, are positively denied by Marquis Saloni, the Japanese prime minister, according to a statement cabled to the Japanese ambassador in Washington in reply to a request to the New York Times for an explanation of the report.

"So far as the Japanese government is concerned," the statement reads, "there is positively no truth in the Tokyo dispatch that negotiations between Mexico and Japan were concluded a few days ago for the establishment of a large Japanese settlement at Magdalena Bay."

Company Has Permit.

The marquis adds that the Oriental Whaling company of Japan has acquired fishing rights, in common with citizens and subjects of other countries, not at Magdalena Bay, but on the coast of Mexico between the states of Tepec and Oaxaca.

"The term of the fishing right is for ten years," he premier cabled, "and has no political significance whatever. It being only an industrial enterprise on the part of a Japanese private concern."

BOAT COLLISION IS FATAL

Two Hundred Persons Drown When Excursion Steamer Sinks in Nile in Egypt.

Cairo, Egypt, April 10.—Two hundred passengers were drowned by the sinking of a Nile excursion steamer after a collision with another steamer in the vicinity of the Great Dam on the river, 15 miles to the northwest of Cairo, and a few miles from Kalyub. The steamer was one used on the river in connection with the tramway service.

The steamer had 300 passengers on board, who had taken advantage of the Easter holiday to make a trip to the river dam. On the return journey up stream and not far from the dam the excursion boat was in collision with another steamer and sank almost instantly.

All on board were thrown into the river, but many lives were saved by the vessel with which the excursion boat had been in collision.

Another passenger steamer and several boats from shore hastened to the rescue and picked up many of those struggling in the water. The identity of the bodies recovered has not been ascertained.

Two Detectives Capture U. S. Army Men from Fort Sheridan After Chase in Chicago.

Chicago, April 9.—Sergeant Harry Van Reed of the United States army and Frank Coonfield, a private, both stationed at Fort Sheridan, were pursued through Jefferson park and captured by two detectives of the Des-plaines street station after, it is alleged, they held up and robbed D. A. Caldwell, a merchant tailor, at the muzzle of a revolver in his home at 1436 West Monroe street. Caldwell identified the soldiers, and the police say that a gold watch valued at $100, a diamond stickpin worth $50 and a pair of cuff buttons, which had been taken from the tailor, were found in the possession of the prisoners, who were formally booked on charges of robbery.

Van Reed and Coonfield declared they had nothing to say when they were interrogated at the police station.

Two Smiles.

Erza Pound, the poet, was talking at the Authors' club, in New York, about Shelley's cremation.

"Cremation, although beautiful," he said, "lends itself to ribald jest in a way that sepulture doesn't."

"Who can forbear a smile at the thought of that devoted young man, who, her front steps being covered with sleet, sprinkled her first husband's ashes over them in order that her second husband might descend in safety?"

Smiling himself, Mr. Pound resumed:

"And who could forbear another smile at the thought of the young widow on the blustery March morning who entered her drawing room to find that the wind had overturned the vase which contained her husband's remains?"

"Pshaw," she said, "now isn't it just like George to throw his ashes all over my new Kilmanshag rug!"

FOR HUBBY TO PONDER OVER

Innocent Answer of Quiet Little Wife Got Him Started on Train of Thought.

The husband and wife were on their way to the theater, when the husband began kicking because his wife took such a long time dressing.

"What delayed you this time?" he growled.

"Seeing the children to bed," she responded, quietly.

"What's the nurse for?" snapped the man.

"The nurse is for our convenience—yours and mine, especially mine," she answered. "But the boy certainly takes after you. He asked the same kind of a fool question just as I was kissing him good night."

"Fool question, eh? Well, what was it?"

"I asked him if he had said his prayers. And he said no. And I asked him if he didn't want God to take care of him during the night. He answered: 'What's the nurse for?'"

For the remainder of the way the man pondered on this answer.

Why Should a Chicken Lay a Soft-Shellled Egg?

Because, Willie, the chicken don't know how to create a hard-shelled egg unless it has some food with lime in it.

So chicken-raisers often provide limestone gravel, broken oyster shells or some other form of lime.

Let the chicken wander free and it finds its own food and behaves sensibly. Shut it up and feed stuff lacking lime and the eggs are soft-shelled.

Let's step from chickens to human beings.

Why is a child "backward" and why does a man or woman have nervous prostration or brain-fag? There may be a variety of reasons but one thing is certain.

If the food is deficient in Phosphate of Potash the gray matter in the nerve centres and brain cannot be rebuilt each day to make good the cells broken down by the activities of yesterday.

Phosphate of Potash is the most important element Nature demands to unite albumin and water to make gray matter.

Not to Their Liking
The article regarding saloons written by Rev. C. A. Briggs of Kingston and published in The Republican-Journal last week, would of passed without much comment at any other time, but appearing just before election it has caused some of the voters to remonstrate. Perhaps a vast majority of the voters would vote against the liquor business if the issue were state wide and the restrictions were right. The local option law has caused a difference of opinion among men who have made a study of the liquor traffic (not on the question from a moral standpoint, for there is no argument there) but from the standpoint of actual prohibition. Many men who are total abstainers, to say nothing of not being classed with "gamblers, anarchists, beer guzzling politicians, ballot box stuffers," etc are of the opinion that the local option law has failed to get the desired result. It is a fact that the Prohibition party leaders are opposed to the local plan of trying to muzzle the liquor business. The men who fear the blind pig and bootlegging methods more than they do the saloon (and there are thousands of them who are thinking men) can not rightly be classed with the element enumerated in last week's article.

TAX BOOKS RETURNED

Genoa Third in Amount of Delinquent Payments

The several tax collectors of the county have turned in their books. In several cases the delinquency is almost nothing, Somonauk being the banner town with only $12.00 left unpaid. DeKalb has held back the largest sum, with Genoa third. The following table tells the tale:

A Beautiful Display of New Spring Millinery
Our present showing comprises the best and most exclusive of the new models. Our large assortments make it easy for you to find just the hat you want and ought to have. Especially worthy of your time and money are our charming trimmed hats and tailored effects in every fashionable size, shape and color, at popular prices, starting at $1.75 and ranging upward to $13.98. Theo. F. Swan, Elgin.

M. E. Church Notes
Next Sunday the pastor will speak at both the morning and evening services on the subject Wet-Dry. In the afternoon at Ney he will discuss the farmer and his town. The service at Ney will be held at the home of Mr. Kellogg as the church is still being repaired. Mr. Kellogg's home is large and he can make it larger. Come out to the Sunday school and church, live folks will grow there better than they will under other influences. Then it is the way our good fathers and mothers did. The Sunday school at Charter Grove will meet next Sunday afternoon. Mrs. Haines is superintendent and she wants you there.

A Word to You Cream Separator Buyers

You can get at your dealers a lantern for 59c and one for a dollar. You know which is the cheapest. Three things to remember in buying a cream separator: Life of machine, ease of turning and closeness of skimming. The U. S. HOLDS THE RECORD. Turn the other fellow's machine 500 times, then the U. S. 750 times. We are willing to leave the judgment of results to you. Visit the farms of E. B. Little, Chas. Leonard and C. J. Cooper, or any of the many users in this vicinity and hear what they have to say about the efficiency of the U. S. Cream Separator. Vermont Farm Machinery Co. Bellons Falls, Vt.

Fred Renn has been confined to the house during the past three weeks with a severe attack of rheumatism.

High School Notes

Prof. Toenniges has organized two high school choruses, a boys' and a girls. Rehearsals are held every Tuesday afternoon.

Several of our students will see Robert Mantell in Julius Ceasar, Hamlet and Macbeth. These plays have been studied in the English classes this year.

Ernest Fulcher, who formerly attended the DeKalb Township High School is now a member of the Sophomore class.

June Hammond, Dillion Patterson, Pyrlle Renn, Vila White, May Cross, Marion Slater and Amarette Harlow gave musical numbers at the general exercises this week.

Thursday morning G. E. Stott gave a very interesting and instructive talk on the Primary election.

Emily Burroughs was a Chicago visitor Monday.

The proceeds of the Mendelssohn musical, which consisted of fifteen dollars, have been invested in books for the school library.

Twice each week Supt. Kepner organizes the school into an old fashioned spelling school. Those who have spelled down are Myrtle Vandresser; and Edwin Cooper, Edward Welsh and Elma Hemenway have spelled down the entire school three successive times.

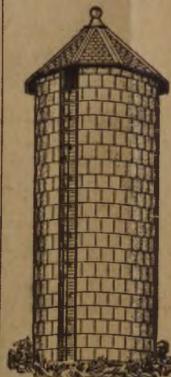

Ruth Corson met with an accident Tuesday in which she sprained her ankle.

Miss Hatch spent Saturday and Sunday at her home.

Members of the Sophomore class gave two interesting scenes from Julius Ceasar Wednesday morning.

Merle Evans and Edwin Cooper have received the class honors of the class of 1912. If all make the required number of credits the following persons will graduate: Blanche Hemenway, Myrtle Vandresser, Emily Burroughs, Floyd Brown, Edwin Cooper, Clayton Brown, Merle Evans and William Lankton.

To Every Man--

experienced in the use of a silo, our IMPERISHABLE SILO strongly recommends itself. Made from vitrified clay, it stands to reason that it can never crumble or decay. Neither will it shrink, swell or absorb moisture from the ensilage. All forms of concrete will absorb moisture which will cause the ensilage to spoil more or less next to the wall. A well re-inforced concrete silo will cost as much or more than our "IMPERISHABLE". Our silo is given immense extra strength by use of a patent channel block in which steel bars are buried in mortar, protected from air and concealed from view. This form of construction is used in grain tanks 100 feet high. Customers are protected by a warranty.

By using the Campbell Varnish Stain Graining process you can produce a fine effect over any old discolored floor. First apply the Ground color, then the Surfer, going over it with the Graining Roller; finish with Campbell's Varnish Stain, Light Oak or any desired shade. It wears like iron. Ask S. S. Slater about it.

A. C. Reid's Sunday School class of the M. E. Church was entertained at his home last Friday evening. A fine supper was served, the kind that appeals to the real boy's heart, thru his stomach. Mr. Reid has been entertaining the boys regularly during the winter and has won their confidence and friendship.

John Corson, son of M. J. Corson, graduated from the Chicago Veterinary College on Thursday of this week. John has not fully decided where he will hang out his shingle. It is a good guess that he will make good wherever he goes, having an affable manner and sincere expression which will create confidence.

The books which have been gathering dust in the Epworth League Library over the Farmers' State Bank for several months, have been donated to the public school by the League. The rooms thus vacated will be sub-let by the society. This is a move in the right direction. If a library is a good thing for any town, the best place for it is in the high school building, where the ones who are most interested will have direct access to them.

F. W. Duval's name appears on the ballot in the third ward as a candidate for alderman, much against his wishes. He was nominated on the peoples ticket and fully intended to withdraw, but overlooked the matter until too late. He is not a candidate thru any desire of his own and would appreciate it if his friends would not vote for him. Vote for the other fellow.

LABOR EXCHANGES IN ENGLAND.

On February 1 the system of labor exchanges instituted in England by act of Parliament had received a two years' trial, and the results have an interest in this country, where similar plans for bringing unemployed labor in touch with employers have been agitated. There are now 261 exchanges as compared with the 82 with which the experiment was begun. During 1910 notification of 468,943 vacancies was given by employers, of which 373,313 were filled by the exchanges, and during 1911 these figures rose to 757,109 and 589,770, respectively. In 1911 casual employment was provided through the exchanges for 112,492 men and 12,812 women. Last year 64,901 vacancies were filled by the transfer of applicants to districts other than those in which they were registered. To facilitate this movement of labor from one part of the country to another, an obstacle to which in the case of women workers is the lack of suitable lodgings, the suggestion is made of establishing women's hotels in connection with the exchanges. During 1911 the demand for operatives exceeded the supply in the cotton, woolen and worsted trades, and in the case of women in the clothing trades and in the laundry work. One favorable outcome of the experiment is the growing confidence shown by both employers and workmen in the system and the prospect of friendly co-operation in extending its scope.

One of the curious provisions of the woman suffrage law of California calls for the registration of the height of women voters. Naturally the registrars are having trouble with it. First of all, it has to be decided where the foot of a woman begins and where her head leaves off. Shall French heels be subtracted, or ought the authorities to assume that it is indelicate for them to consider that women have heels? Are puffs, rats and other apparatus of the sort to be taken into account, or must women discard these affairs when they come up for measurement? Artificial hair is said to have gone out of fashion. We are not prepared to speak with authority on that matter, says the Toledo Blade. But supposing that next year, that fashion of the latter part of the eighteenth century, when women had their hair made up with flour and the whole baked, should be the rage. What would the registrar say when a voter came before him? Would he ask her to remove her bun? Or, being a man of experience, would he merely sigh and credit the elector with 10 inches growth in the course of a year?

A clean, honest, kind criticism is wholesome, but an underhand thrust, intended to be smart, is dangerous. There is so much of this flippant criticism these days. We are nearly all guilty of it, and yet it is a kind of sin that keeps the right from succeeding. There are instances every day where a noble fact is kicked aside by a disparaging remark, intended only as a slap. The serious trouble with these flippant criticisms is, they never leave a truth behind; it is always a blotch. The thing to do is to leave off the flippant and make a criticism sincere, thoughtful, frank and kind. If a criticism is not thus attended, it is false and flippant, unworthy of a true man or woman.

A New York factory commission has discovered in its investigations that from 50 to 75 per cent of fires in that city are caused by carelessness, principally in the thoughtless use of matches, cigars and cigarettes. The terrible results of this carelessness should be made an important point in the education of children, to the end of its elimination from the ordinary risks of life. Apparently, not even the horrors resulting from this thoughtlessness can induce the average adult to take the very slight trouble required to prevent it.

The young Indian prince, son of the Gaekwar of Baroda, has left Harvard because he could not get along there on his allowance of $250 a week. Even Oriental lavishness, apparently, cannot live up to the standard of the American money kings' sons. And this must rather puzzle the European and eastern minds to reconcile with all that has been told them about the simplicity of our republican institutions.

Telling people how to sleep, the London Globe says: "You must have your head on a level with or lower than your feet." We are opposed to an arbitrary rule for sleeping; it would destroy all individuality.

A Brooklyn railway has had a verdict rendered against it of over $1,000 because one of its employees was rude to a woman passenger. Who says the world's male chivalry has perished out?

ROOSEVELT AND CLARK WIN IN PRIMARY FIGHT

Former President and Speaker
Choice of Illinois Voters for President.

DENEEN RENOMINATED

Governor and Ex-Mayor Dunne of Chicago Selected to Head Respective State Tickets—Senator Cullom Beaten by Lawrence Y. Sherman—Result of Vote in Various Sections of the State.

Chicago. — Ex-President Theodore Roosevelt and Champ Clark of Missouri, speaker of the national house of representatives, are the choice of the Republican and Democratic voters of Illinois as expressed at the primary election held throughout the state on Tuesday.

The returns indicate that the former president carried every congressional district except one and won the whole state by a plurality of 125,000 over President Taft.

The returns indicate that fifty-six out of the fifty-eight Illinois delegates to the national convention will be instructed to vote for Colonel Roosevelt. He captured forty-eight of the fifty district delegates and the eight delegates-at-large will be elected by the Republican state convention and instructed for Roosevelt by the popular vote in the state at large.

Speaker Champ Clark was endorsed for the Democratic nomination for president by a majority of approximately 100,000. Mr. Clark carried Chicago by about 80,000 over Governor Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey and more than held his own downstate.

Ex-President Theodore Roosevelt.

Charles S. Deneen was renominated for governor by a plurality of approximately 75,000. The Deneen plurality in Cook county is about 30,000 and his vote will be almost as large as the combined vote of his chief adversaries.

Edward F. Dunne, former mayor of Chicago, was nominated for governor by the Democrats by a plurality of about 35,000.

Senator Shelby M. Cullom, continuously in public life for fifty-seven years, was retired as effectively as an advisory primary ballot can bring about that effect.

Returns show that Lawrence Y. Sherman is the choice of the Republicans for the seat in the upper house of congress that has been occupied by "Uncle Shelby" since 1883, and his plurality will total close to 30,000.

Since both Senator Cullom and Mr. Sherman repeatedly announced that they would abide by the result of the balloting, it is considered almost certain that the legislature will follow the expressed will of the people and elect Sherman to the senate.

J. Ham. Lewis of Chicago had no opposition on the Democratic ballot and received the united support of all factions.

Taft Beaten Three to One. Ex-President Roosevelt carried nearly all of the counties in the state. He defeated President Taft by a vote of at least three to one from Galena to Cairo.

Both the Cannon and McKinley districts were swept into the Roosevelt column by an unprecedented plurality. Livingston county, the home county of Col. Frank L. Smith, President Taft's western manager, is in the Roosevelt camp by a three to one vote.

Roosevelt carried Cook county by a plurality of approximately 30,000. Official returns from down state probably will swell his plurality to more than 100,000 votes.

La Follette polled a fairly good vote in the mining and union labor districts. In some sections down state his vote ran close to that of President Taft.

Champ Clark smothered Governor Wilson both in Cook county and throughout the state. The national speaker swept Chicago by a plurality over the New Jersey governor of close to 50,000 votes.

Clark's Lead 100,000. Clark's lead in the entire state will run close to 100,000 votes. He carried every congressional district in the state, which probably will carry with it the instructions of the delegates at large to be named in the state convention at Peoria on April 19.

In Peoria County, for instance, the Roosevelt vote ran about the same in the country districts and among the mining camps as it did in Peoria city and Pekin over in Tazewell county. Peoria has more federal employes than any other city in the state outside of Chicago, because of the internal revenue office there. Roosevelt, however, carried Peoria county by a vote of more than five to one, based on the returns from thirty-one precincts out of seventy-four.

Over in the "military tract" in the Fourteenth congressional district, Roosevelt maintained his three to one lead over Taft, while Champ Clark kept his two to one smothering of Wilson. Springfield went overwhelmingly for Roosevelt and Clark.

Sweeps Lowden District. The Thirteenth congressional district, the old Lowden district, went down before the Roosevelt tidal wave by the same three to one lead.

Coles and Dewitt counties, two of the counties in Congressman McKinley's district, were carried by Roosevelt by a big lead.

Kane county, the home county of former Senator Albert J. Hopkins, was carried by Roosevelt by 8,000 plurality.

Vermillion and Champaign counties, the home counties of Congressman Cannon and Congressman McKinley, are also in the Roosevelt column. The city of Danville, as well as Champaign, gave a preference to Roosevelt.

Roosevelt also swept Monticello, Platt county, the home city of Speaker Charles Adkins of the Illinois house of representatives.

Rockford and Galesburg went for Roosevelt by a three to one vote, with the outlying districts maintaining about the same ratio.

Blamé Combination for Defeat. Governor Wilson's overwhelming defeat in Chicago was a blow to his supporters who found some consolation, however, in the charge that a coalition of the Clark-Harmon forces had brought about the former Princeton president's undoing.

The New Jersey man developed some strength in some unexpected quarters, notably St. Clair county, which embraces East St. Louis, but lost Sangamon county, which includes Springfield, by 400. The only other county given to Wilson was Winnebago, which he won by the small margin of 15.

Clark carried, in addition to Sangamon county, the following: Adams, by 6 to 1; Bond, by 3 to 1; Brown, by 5 to 1; Cass, by a small margin; Coles, by 300; Effingham, by 1,200; Henry, by 7 to 1; Knox, by nearly 2 to 1; Macon, by 2 to 1; Madison, which borders the Mississippi, by 1,000; Marion, by 4 to 1; Mason, by 2 to 1; McLean, by 1,000; Menard, by 250; Montgomery, by 1,000; Richland, by 2 to 1; Saline, by 1,400; and Stephenson by 600.

Deneen and Dunne Head Tickets. In the gubernatorial fight Governor Deneen was renominated by a large plurality. He carried Cook county by about 20,000 and ran ahead in most of the down state counties.

On the Democratic side Edward F. Dunne, former mayor of Chicago, swept everything before him in Chicago and his plurality is about 35,000.

Second place in the Republican contest was between State's Attorney John E. Wayman of Chicago and Len Small of Kankakee, the Lincoln Lorimer league candidate. Wayman ran Small fourth, Hurlburgh fifth, Brown sixth, Jones seventh, and Davis eighth. Bloomington, in this county, is the home of Senator Frank H. Funk, who was one of Senator Hurlburgh's campaign managers.

Former Gov. Richard Yates furnished the surprise party to the seasoned politicians. His down state vote was exceptionally heavy, but not nearly enough to bring him within striking distance, considering the great lead which Governor Deneen seized early in Cook county and the northern Republican counties.

State Officials Renominated.

All the present state officials were renominated by large majorities. Lieutenant Governor John G. Oglesby won renomination on the Republican ticket over Reuben R. Tiffany of Freeport. Some of the Deneen men were supporting Tiffany, but factional lines were not closely drawn. Kinzie Ostewig, village clerk of Lee county, who ran on an anti-Lorimer platform, failed to make much headway.

Secretary of State James A. Rose, who has served for sixteen years, won renomination over Chester W. Church of Chicago.

Auditor of Public Accounts James S. McCullough, who has served the same length of time as Mr. Rose, was renominated on the Republican ticket. His opponents were George A. Smith of Chicago and John K. Ball of Carmi.

Attorney General William H. Stead, with eight years of service to his credit, won the Republican nomination over Frank R. Reid of Aurora. Reid made a strong fight, but the principal faction leaders remained out of the contest or threw their support to Stead. John H. Weaver, county judge of Sangamon county, was a third candidate.

The contest for the Republican nomination for attorney general was close between Andrew Russell of Jacksonville, former state treasurer, who retired two years ago because of the constitutional provision that a treasurer must not serve two consecutive terms, and L. L. Emmerson of Mount Vernon. The Deneen forces backed Emmerson. William E. Rothermel of Chicago and Herman R. Heimberger, progressive, also were candidates.

Cullom's Record Unique. The retirement of Senator Cullom from public life means the removal of Dunne's plurality in Cook county is from 40,000 to 50,000 over Samuel Alschuler. Ben F. Caldwell ran a poor third.

In the down state counties, however, the result was different. Caldwell and Alschuler each carried many counties.

McLean county was carried by Governor Deneen by 90 votes over former Governor Yates, who carried the county four years ago. Wayman ran third.

"I am profoundly grateful to the Democrats of Illinois and hope that in other states will go and do likewise."

Former Senator Dubois, manager of the Clark bureau, said:

"The size of Mr. Clark's majority, far exceeding our expectations, justifies the belief that Speaker Clark's supporters have always had that he possesses those qualities which appeal strongly to the public favor and which make of him a winning candidate for the Democratic party. We felicitate our friends upon the speaker's handsome victory and commend this result in Illinois, one of the pivotal states of the Union, to the thoughtful consideration of the Democracy of the country as indicating the speaker's ability to command such overwhelming popular feeling as to vouchsafe his success in November."

Cullom Will Accept Verdict. Washington.—Senator Cullom was greatly disappointed with the returns from the Illinois primaries. He had been led by the reports which had come to him from his managers and from friends who wrote him to look forward with confidence to the outcome. He expected Mr. Sherman to give him a hard race, but he looked forward to the voters of the state permitting him to die in the harness, which was his great desire. Mr. Cullom stated that should the final returns show that he is not the choice of the Republicans of the state for senator, he will completely withdraw from the race and will accept the verdict of the primaries and will not permit his name to be presented to the legislature.

the last remaining link between the days of Abraham Lincoln and the nation's present-day statesmen.

For fifty-seven years the name of Shelby M. Cullom has been associated intimately with some phase of national, state, county or civic activities in Illinois. For fifty-seven years he has occupied some public office.

And one of the peculiar features of the record is that with but two exceptions all of the offices were direct from the people. The two appointive offices he filled for only a short time. While other men have served in various appointive offices for that period, the retiring senator stands alone in that the people selected him repeatedly to serve them year after year for more than half a century.

In 1855 Mr. Cullom was admitted to the bar and elected to the office of city attorney in Springfield. That was his introduction to the people. From the post of prosecutor at the state capital he climbed gradually, but insistently, until he reached one of the highest positions in the gift of the people.

Cook County Slate. Chicago.—The entire Cook county slate selected by the committee of 100 will be the Republican nominees, with an exception or two.

One exception is Joseph E. Bidwill, Jr., clerk of the circuit court. He won a renomination. Bidwill made an independent campaign and was endorsed on his record in office.

Samuel A. Ettelson, an independent, said to have the backing of the liquor interests, made a remarkable showing in the city. But Lewis Rinaker will be the Republican nominee.

The only other close race was between Matthew Mills and William Hale Thompson for member of board of review.

Clark Pleasured With Victory. Washington.—"It goes without saying that I am delighted with the news from Illinois," said Speaker Clark, speaking of the Illinois primary elections. "I would be either more or less than human if I did not feel good over the splendid victory which my friends achieved. I have now something over 130 delegates. Of course, these cannot nominate a candidate, but they constitute a fine start in that direction."

"I am profoundly grateful to the Democrats of Illinois and hope that in other states will go and do likewise."

SYNOPSIS.

The story opens with a scream from Dorothy March in the opera box of Mrs. Missioner, a wealthy widow. It is occasioned when Mrs. Missioner's necklace breaks, scattering the diamonds all over the floor. Curtis Griswold and Braxton Sands, society men in love with Mrs. Missioner, gather up the gems. Griswold steps on what is supposed to be the celebrated Maharanee and crushes it. He declares it was not the genuine. An expert later pronounces all the stones substitutes for the original. One of the missing diamonds is found in the room of Elinor Holcomb, confidential companion of Mrs. Missioner. She is arrested, notwithstanding Mrs. Missioner's belief in her innocence. Detective Britz takes up the case. He asks the co-operation of Dr. Fitch, Elinor's fiance, in running down the real criminal. Britz learns that the diamond is Mrs. Missioner's diamond duplicate of Mrs. Missioner's diamonds were made in Paris on the order of Elinor Holcomb. While walking Britz is seized, bound and gagged by the Hindoos. He is imprisoned in a deserted house, but makes his escape. Britz discovers an insane diamond expert whom he believes was employed by either Sands or Griswold to make counterfeit diamonds. He visits their quarters and has an exciting experience with a snake. The Swami returns all the real diamonds to Mrs. Missioner, except the Maharanee, which he insists must be returned to the temple in India, whence it was brought. Britz gives his theories to the chief of police, showing how Griswold has devised the whole plot, placing the blame on Elinor. The detective captures the Hindoos just as they are about to sail for India, one of them has the Maharanee imbedded in his leg. Griswold and Mrs. Delaroché are arrested.

"Perjurer!" she screamed. "Liar! Ingrate! Thief!"

Each word was like the snap of a lash that brought a wincing start from Griswold as if a black snake whip had stung him. He stretched his hands toward her imploringly.

"Millicent!" he cried.

"Never call me by that name again," she almost screamed. "I wish I could forget every occasion on which you have dared to utter it. You wretch!" and she wrung her hands futilely, as if she would like to clasp them about his throat.

Fitch opened the door softly and looked in. Behind him stood Elinor Holcomb and Detective Williams. At a sign from Britz, they entered the room noiselessly and stood beside the door. Before Williams could close it upon them, Mrs. Missioner and Braxton Sands appeared on the threshold.

Mrs. Delaroché turned to Britz in cold fury, an icy reaction from her volcanic rage of the moment before.

"I will tell you all you wish to know, lieutenant," she said. "I will tell you all I know about Mr. Griswold. He is the man," Mrs. Delaroché continued, "who stole Mrs. Missioner's diamonds!"

The wealthy widow, standing near the door, put her hand to her heart as if about to faint from the shock. Sands, his only thought being to support her in such a trying moment, forgot the presence of all the others, and passed his arm about her shoulders to steady her slightly swaying form. Elinor, with a little sigh, turned to Fitch and clasped both his hands with unmistakable tenderness. Then her head sank upon his shoulder, and the doctor, bolder than Sands, encircled her waist with his arm.

Britz, without making a move to interrupt Mrs. Delaroché, stretched one hand behind him and pressed a button that communicated with the room where Gordon and Hicks waited with the four Hindoos. The connecting door opened and the Orientals could be seen within. Mrs. Delaroché, absorbed in her own grievances, intent only upon vengeance that should shatter Curtis Griswold to the very foundation of the man, again fixed her eyes upon him as she continued her denunciation to the detective. Britz and Manning listened alertly. Gordon, in the adjoining room, whipped out a notebook and began taking in shorthand everything the woman said.

"Yes, you stole the jewels," said Mrs. Delaroché to the crouching clubman in his chair. "I didn't know it when you gave them to me, and fool that I was, the suspicious I might have had were kept aloof by my affection for you. You wooed me for a long time. You told me I was the only woman in the world. You swore you never had a single thought of any other. And all that time, it seems, you were courting this Mrs. Missioner. You were seeking to win her—for her wealth, I suppose—it matters not for what. And even while you were in her house as a recognized, even an accepted suitor, you robbed the very woman you really intended to marry!"

Turning with a panther's speed and with its steely strength, she addressed herself again to Britz.

"Mr. Griswold!" she said, "gave me a necklace a few weeks ago—a diamond necklace. It was contained in the jewel case you found in my room. He told me he had purchased it for me, and that it was to be his bridal gift. I wondered at the munificence of the present, but he assured me he was a man of much greater wealth than was generally supposed, and that when we were wed, we would live in luxury equaling that of anyone in New York society. I believed him. He explained that he wished me to take charge of the necklace at once as he feared to keep it in his own apartment, and for business reasons did not wish to intrust it to a safe deposit company. When the news of the Missioner diamond robbery was published in the newspapers, I commented upon it to the man I supposed to be my fiance, and expressed wonder as to whether Mrs. Missioner's diamonds were as beautiful as those he had given me. He asked me to say nothing about my possession of the necklace until our wedding day. He said he did not wish the directors of the Iroquois Trust Company to know he had laid out such a large sum of money yet awhile.

"When you, Mr. Britz, tried to steal the necklace from my room; when, in fact, you did take the case that had contained them, I supposed you to be an ordinary burglar. Naturally I became excited at the thought of losing such magnificent gems. How the jewels were ever taken from my custody I do not yet know. I have no idea where they are. All I do know is that Curtis Griswold stole them, and that, in turn, they were stolen from him.

"As for you," and she turned upon

Griswold anew, "I pray Heaven I shall never hear your name again unless it be under circumstances that will give me further opportunity to revenge myself upon you!"

Silence followed the theatrical outburst of the woman. Griswold stood with clasped hands, his eyes on the floor. Mrs. Missioner, her eyes resolutely averted from his crouching form, gazed at Britz expectantly. Elinor, her fine womanhood athrill with sympathy in spite of her weeks of suffering—more keenly because of it, perhaps—sought to soothe the agitation of Mrs. Delaroché, who was close to collapse. Fitch, too, strove to calm the woman. As a man he pitied her as a physician, he felt some alarm for her because of the great excitement to which she had wrought herself—excitement plainly beyond the endurance of her emotional nature. A feeling akin to indignation stirred him when, glancing toward Britz, he saw a sarcastic smile on the detective's face. His hands in his pockets, he was rocking gently on his heels, and watching Mrs. Delaroché as one would concentrate his vision on a great tragedienne near the grand finale of her performance.

"Bravo!" said the lieutenant quietly. "I understand their connection with the mystery thoroughly. In spite of the drastic methods they pursued, I do not blame them. They did not seek the lesser stones of the necklace. In fact, those gems were returned to me this morning by one of the Orientals—a man of scholarly attainment and high character, whom I met in the East. These devotees—fanatics if you will—have braved death and imprisonment to recover a jewel which I take it is precious in their eyes as was the Holy Grail to the Crusaders. It is a question not merely of religion, but of extreme piety with them. Under such circumstances I cannot consent to appear against them, nor to countenance any attempt to punish them. Besides, there was a mistake in the acquisition of the Maharanee diamond. It belongs to these men of the East. They are free to take it. I surrender all claim upon it."

"With an air of unmistakable respect Britz turned toward the widow. "In the eyes of the law," he said, extending the big Maharanee, "this stone is yours. You may do with it as you choose."

Mrs. Missioner accepted the stone, permitting her eyes to linger a moment on its blazing splendor. Then she wheeled abruptly and passed the diamond to the Prince.

"It is yours," she said. "Take it." Kananda's eager fingers closed on the gem.

"Mrs. Missioner has restored your property," Britz said, turning to the Oriental, "and I dare say the Chief will agree with me that it is not necessary for us to take your case as far as the District Attorney's office. You and your fellow countrymen are at liberty to go. I advise you to go quickly before I get to thinking too strongly about that little upside-down ride you gave me in Riverside drive. I have the honor to wish your Royal Highness a very good morning!"

He made a mock obeisance as the Hindoos, released from their shining steel bonds, filed silently out of the room.

"Miss Holcomb," said Britz, "Chief Manning will procure your release in just about the time it takes us to go from here to the court. You will be discharged at once. Yes, doctor, that "The jewels were stolen in Paris." A tense silence was broken by Britz.

"You'll have to show me," he snapped. "It's your last chance to tell the truth."

"I stole the collarette from Mr. Missioner," she admitted. "It was shortly before his death, a long time ago. The plot had all been laid. Griswold and Prince Kananda got me to do it. I met Griswold through Mr. Missioner. He made love to me, made me believe he wanted to marry me. Then, one day, he proposed the plan to steal the jewels. It almost made me laugh, for I was already trying to get them for the Prince. His plan was to have me induce Mr. Missioner to let me wear them one night and disappear with the collarette about my throat. I had agreed to do this, when Griswold—she cast a withering look at the clubman—"brought me the substitute. He didn't know, of course, that I was in the pay of the Prince, and I didn't inform him of it. Well, one night Mr. Missioner, after much urging on my part, took the collarette from his wife's jewel box and let me wear it at a little supper party. It was then I made the substitution."

"What did you do with the real necklace?" Manning interjected.

"I kept it," Mrs. Delaroché returned with a bland smile. "I informed the Prince that I had changed my mind about committing the robbery, and I told Mr. Griswold that I had been unable to make the substitution."

"But the paste jewels he had given you—what did you tell him in regard to them?" Britz asked.

"I simply told him I had lost them," she replied. "The fact of the matter is, I fooled both the Prince and Mr. Griswold. Of course, when Mrs. Missioner discovered the robbery, Mr. Griswold guessed what I had done, and since then he has been urging me to turn the real jewels over to him. But I was determined not to let him have them, until our marriage," she added in a voice laden with the vindictiveness she felt.

The semicircle of listeners contracted until Mrs. Missioner, Miss Holcomb, Sands, and Fitch were close to Britz. The detective, turning to the others, said:

"I have had the good fortune to recover the Maharanee diamond for you, Mrs. Missioner, and it remains only to trace the other jewels of the necklace. I dare say Prince Kananda can tell us where they are."

"As I told you over the telephone, Lieutenant Britz," Mrs. Missioner answered, "I have recovered my jewels."

"All?" asked the detective, slightly astonished.

"All," replied the widow. "Moreover, I do not care to prosecute anyone connected with their disappearance."

"Not the Hindoos who were responsible for their second disappearance—is it possible you do not wish them to be punished?" Britz expostulated.

"I do not," said Mrs. Missioner quietly. "I understand their connection with the mystery thoroughly. In spite of the drastic methods they pursued, I do not blame them. They did not seek the lesser stones of the necklace. In fact, those gems were returned to me this morning by one of the Orientals—a man of scholarly attainment and high character, whom I met in the East. Besides, there was a mistake in the acquisition of the Maharanee diamond. It belongs to these men of the East. They are free to take it. I surrender all claim upon it."

"How," ran the detective's monologue, "you'll have to admit, Mrs. Delaroché, that it wasn't exactly grateful on Miss Vincent's part to listen to the Hindoo when he offered her a large bribe to—shall we say, steal a certain rare and very beautiful diamond from the multi-millionaire."

Mrs. Delaroché's breath came in a series of soft gasps—almost in sobs. A rose film seemed to spread over her exquisite complexion.

The famous detective paused for a moment and looked accusingly at her. When he spoke, it was with finality.

"Mrs. Delaroché, you were Miss Vincent," he said; "you were the impoverished girl artist of the Latin Quarter. You have been married since, and now you are a divorcee—and you were Miss Vincent."

She recovered her poise for a moment and gazed at him defiantly. Then her courage broke again, and she answered:

"It is true. How you have learned it I cannot guess, but—it is true."

Doris Missioner, despite the suggestion conveyed in the lieutenant's revelations, gazed at Millicent Delaroché commiseratingly. Elinor's pity was more open.

"And now," Britz went on, "Mrs. Delaroché either stole those jewels in Paris or in New York. If they were stolen in Paris, the authorities of this city have no jurisdiction in the case. On the other hand, we can prove the necklace was in her possession only a day or two ago, and if the crime was committed in this country, we will call in the District Attorney." He turned abruptly toward the woman.

"Mrs. Delaroché," Britz said, "I do not believe Mrs. Missioner will call on the French authorities to act, if the crime was committed in their jurisdiction. If the jewels were taken here, Mrs. Missioner will have no choice in the matter."

She seized at the bait. Turning her flashing eyes on the detective, she burst forth:

will be a complete vindication of your fiancée. My best wishes for your happiness."

Britz then turned to Mrs. Missioner. "As for the prisoner, Griswold, Mrs. Missioner," he said, "it makes little difference to him that he was not arrested for the theft of your diamonds. The directors of the Iroquois Trust Company have a case against him strong enough to send him up the river for a long while. I trust, Mr. Sands," Britz added significantly, "that in your new-found happiness you will forget the momentary unpleasantness between us. After all, you see, I was acting in your interests."

The rare smile the millionaire flashed at the lieutenant as with a proprietary air he took Doris Missioner's hand in his was as eloquent an expression of friendly gratitude as anyone in "Silent" Sands.

THE END.

SWIFT POSTMEN OF VENICE

They Are Clever in Dodging the Canals and Know Every Street in City.

Probably the letter carriers of Venice are the most ingenious in the world. They know how to dodge every waterway, turning up on their routes with a precise regularity that convinces you they have mapped every scrap of the damp city's dry land on their brains. If you go to your destination by gondola they can beat you thereto by a good bit of time. What they know about canals has been applied by them to navigation on land and they know every street in the city.

Of course, there are postoffice gondolas, too, gay yellow things that quite outcolor the yellow sunlight, and any day you happen over the bridge of the Rialto you will see them fastened to their red-and-gold poles just underneath the old palatial Fondaco del Tedeschi, which, centuries ago, by decree of the Venetian senate, two famous architects of early days, Girolamo Tedesco and Giorgio Spavento, built for the use of the many German merchants then living in Venice (somewhere about the year 1505).—Travel Magazine.

In Case of a Fall.

Not enough attention is paid to the falls of childhood. Mothers get so used to children tumbling around that they take it quite lightly unless bones are broken.

It should be remembered that injuries to the soft bones of a child may do permanent harm, especially if there be a head hurt.

Keep the child quiet for a time who has had a hard fall, bathe the part freely with some soothing lotion, and if there seems to be trouble that does not yield to simple home remedies, send for a doctor at once.

Rules? Well!

"If you only had some ruins in this country," said the foreigner, "it would be much more interesting than it is."

"Ruins!" replied the leading citizens; "if ruins add interest, we have 'em. Come around and have a look at the courthouse that we built here about fifteen years ago."

Convenient Code.

Frank I. Cobb used to be a reporter in Detroit, and knew intimately a former governor of the state of Michigan, who was renowned, among other things, for his ability as a free-hand sweeper.

One night Cobb was dining with the ex-governor and his family. A messenger came in to tell the host that one of his pet political schemes had just been defeated through the bungling of a lieutenant. The old man ripped out a string of dark blue ones. "Now, pa," said his wife, "you promised me you would quit cursing."

"Marie," said the ex-governor, "I'm not cursing—this is just the way I talk!"—Philadelphia Saturday Evening Post.

RASH ALL OVER BABY'S BODY

Itched So He Could Not Sleep

"On July 27, 1909, we left Boston for a trip to England and Ireland, taking baby with us. After being in Ireland a few days a nasty rash came out all over his body. We took him to a doctor who gave us medicine for him. The trouble started in the form of a rash and was all over baby's body, head and face, at different times. It irritated, and he would scratch it with all his might. The consequence was it developed into sores, and we were afraid it would leave nasty scars on his face.

"When we reached England we took baby to another doctor, who said his condition was due to change of food and climate, and gave more medicine. The rash got no better, and it used to itch and burn at night so bad that the child could not sleep. He was completely covered with it at different times. It was at this time that my mother advised us to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment. After using Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment for about nine months the places disappeared. There are not any scars, of other kind of disfigurement, and baby is completely cured by the Cuticura Soap and Ointment. We have no further trouble with baby's skin. Nothing stopped the itching, and allowed baby to sleep but Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment." (Signed) Mrs. Margaret Gunn, 29 Burrell St., Roxbury, Mass., March 12, 1911.

Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold everywhere, a sample of each, with 32-page book, will be mailed free on application to Cuticura, Dept. L, Boston.

BACKACHE IS DISCOURAGING

Until You Get After The Cause

Nothing more discouraging than a constant backache. Lame when you awake. Pains pierce you when you bend or lift. It's hard to work, or to rest. You sleep poorly and next day is the same old story.

That backache indicates bad kidneys and calls for some good kidney remedy. None so well recommended as Doan's Kidney Pills. Grateful testimony is convincing proof.

DE LAVAL CREAM
SEPARATOR

More Than

The Machine By Which
All Others Are Judged

For more than thirty years the De Laval cream separator has been acknowledged as the World's Standard.

You may hear it said of some separator that "It's as good as a De Laval;" or if some competing salesman wants to make his argument particularly strong, he'll say
 "It's better than a De Laval."

The concern with a cheaply and poorly constructed machine says "Just as good as a De Laval and costs less."
 But everywhere the De Laval is recognized by experienced creamerymen and dairymen and even by makers of would-be competing machines as the World's Standard.

The cream separator is more frequently used than any other machine on the farm, and for that reason, if for no other, only the very best should be purchased, and that's the De Laval.

Mrs. H. G. Burgess entertained the "Thimble Club" last week Friday. A good time was reported by all. Refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Ortt went to Rockford Monday, Tuesday morning Mr. Ortt underwent an operation at St. Anthony hospital. At this writing he is recovering nicely.

The Charles Mulford farm adjoining this village has been sold to Sycamore parties at $40,000. J. Heckman made the deal. A condemnation suit to acquire 10 acres of the timber land for a township park is now pending in court. The sale will probably not materially affect the acquiring of the park by the commissioners.

Bids Wanted

An ordinance authorizing the sale of a part of the Pumping Station lots in the village of Kingston and also the base and engine house.

Be it ordained by the President and Board of Trustees of the Village of Kingston, County of DeKalb and State of Illinois.

Section I: That the west half (w $\frac{1}{2}$) of lots five (5) and six (6) block one (1) of J. Y. Stuart's Third Addition to the Village of Kingston, be advertised and sold.

Section II. That the building now used as an engine and hose house standing at the rear of the council room lot, be advertised and sold.

Section III: The village council reserves the right to reject any and all bids. Passed and approved this 5th day of July A. D. 1912.

C. G. CHELLGREN,

President.

Attest: F. P. SMITH,

Village Clerk.

In pursuance with the above Ordinance the Board of Trustees of the Village of Kingston will, at its regular meeting on Monday evening, October 7, 1912, receive bids for the above described property. Inquiries in regard to same may be made to the Village Clerk at Kingston.

F. P. SMITH,

45-10t Village Clerk.

Silly Campaign Yarn Nailed

(From the Ottawa Republican Times)

The statement of the LaSalle Post that an agent of Congressman Fuller "has visited practically every newspaper in the district and has offered to buy space in the newspapers in which to boost his candidacy" is one of the silliest of campaign yarns. The Congressman has the hearty support of the Republican papers of the district, and has no occasion to "buy space" in their columns. The Democratic papers are few in number and have been bitterly hostile to him. Congressman Fuller has made a good record as a member of Congress from the Republican and progressive standpoint, but of course he is no free trader nor is he in sympathy with any of the distinctive Democratic policies of government.

New Jail at Woodstock

On Wednesday the McHenry county board of supervisors let the contract for the building and equipping of an entirely new county jail. This includes enlarging the old building by ten feet in width, the tearing out of the entire old interior cell work and the installing of modern steel cages, patterned after the most improved present day methods of construction. The entire cost will approximate $13,000.

WANTED NO GENERALS.

The Old Southern Farmer Knew Where to Draw the Line.

Probably in no military organization that ever existed were there such cordial relations between officers and private soldiers as in the Confederate army. This was due, doubtless, to the fact that in our ranks there were lawyers, teachers, bankers, merchants, planters, college professors and students who afterward became chief justices, governors and occupants of the highest public stations.

Since the war some of these privates have told with great relish of the old farmer near Appomattox who decided to give employment, after the surrender, to any of Lee's veterans who might wish to work a few days for food and small wages. He divided the Confederate employees into squads according to the respective ranks held by them in the army. He was uneducated, but entirely loyal to the southern cause. A neighbor inquired of him as to the different squads:

"Who are those men working over there?"

"Them is privates, sir, of Lee's army."

"Well, how do they work?"

"Very fine, sir; first rate workers."

"Who are those in the second group?"

"Them is lieutenants and captains, and they works fairly well, but not as good workers as the privates."

"I see you have a third squad. Who are they?"

"Them is colonels."

"Well, what about the colonels? How do they work?"

"Now, neighbor, you'll never hear me say a word about any man who fit in the southern army, but I ain't a-gwine to hire no generals."

—General John B. Gordon's "Reminiscences of the Civil War."

Superstition.

"For downright idiotic, superstitious, weak minded, gullible credulity," growled Judkins, "recommend me to a woman! Gave away a pair of my trousers to an old peddler to charm warts off the children's hands! Madam, are you aware that this is the twentieth century and not the middle ages?"

"It does seem a little silly," said Mrs. Judkins mildly, "but I've heard of such things being done. You know those trousers, John, were the pair you tore on the lawn mower the other day and threw aside."

"It's not the trousers, madam; it's the childish, imbecile, fatuous puerility of the thing. Besides, I left a hare's foot in one of those pockets, madam, that I've carried for rheumatism the past three years."—London Tit-Bits.

Wonderful Geneva.

Geneva, a little canton four miles square and which did not wish to be six miles square; a little town composed of a cluster of water mills, a street of penthouses, two wooden bridges, two dozen of stone houses on a little hill and three or four perpendicular lanes up and down the hill; four miles of acreage round, in grass, with modest gardens and farm dwelling houses; the people pious, learned and busy, to a man, to a woman, to a boy, to a girl of them, progressing to and fro mostly on their feet and only where they had business. And this bird's nest of a place to be the center of religious and social thought and of physical beauty to all of living Europe!—John Ruskin.

Had No Kick Coming.

An old gentleman who was in the habit of imbibing too freely was sitting one day on the veranda of a village hotel at which he was a regular boarder. When dinner was ready the dinner bell, a large one such as are used on farms, began to ring. A large dog happened to be passing by just then, and, hearing the bell, he stopped and raised his head as high as he could and howled nervously until the bell ceased ringing. The old gentleman looked at the dog a moment as if disgusted with the noise he was making and then said:

"What are you howling about? You don't have to eat here?"

Just How He Felt.

Mr. Meckins was habitually all that the first syllable of his name might imply, but a day came when the worm turned at last and spoke his mind freely to that other member of the domestic firm who had assumed leadership. Mrs. M. stood agast and then remarked ominously:

"Timothy, you'd regret those words if you should suddenly lose your wife."

"Oh, I don't want to lose her," came the cheerful retort, "but there are times when I'd like very much to mislay her for a few hours."—Harper's Weekly.

THREE FORMS OF WATER.

Either of Which Can Ever Be Changed Into One of the Others.

There are three forms of matter, solid, liquid and gas, and water is capable of taking any of them, just as the famous genie in the "Arabian Nights" could take various forms at pleasure.

We usually drink water in what is called its natural state. When we put the kettle on the fire to boil, some water our object is simply to make it hot, but we still want the water to be water.

If we forget about the kettle and leave it on the fire too long we shall find the water all gone. The heat has turned it to gas, and it has floated off and mixed with the air.

But when we have a stove in the room and put a pan of water upon it we do not want the water. What we want now is the gas. As it boils away it restores to the air in the room the moisture that is dried up by the heat of the stove, so that the air is still fit to breathe.

In winter, when the skating season is on, we like to find some water that is neither liquid nor gas, but solid. The reason that it has turned solid and not gas is that instead of heat being applied to it all the heat has been taken out of it, but we can soon get it back to water again if we take a piece of ice into a warm room.

Water absorbs heat very quickly, and that is why it is easy to boil it. We use this absorbent quality when we sprinkle water on the floor in summer. It absorbs the heat and cools off the room. We pull down the shades to keep the heat out, because we know that the walls and the stone pavements make things hotter. Remember the scientific rule, "Solids reflect heat; fluids absorb it."

No matter in what form we find water, we can always change it into either of the two other forms. When the water boils away we can hold a cold plate over it and see the vapor condense again into drops. We can take the drops out into the cold winter air and watch them freeze solid and then take the ice back into the room and thaw it and put it into the kettle again and see it rise its vapor once more.—New York Sun.

Misapprehending a Title.

He was barefooted, his trousers were fringed at the bottom, his face was dirty, his years eleven. He approached the librarian with a confident air:

"Got Shakespeare?"

"Yes. What volume would you like?"

At this he looked puzzled, and the librarian took him to an alcove where she showed him row upon row of Shakespeare. As he still looked puzzled at the number of volumes, the librarian took one down, "The Merchant of Venice," and gave it to him. He looked it over critically.

"Now, that ain't the one. I want the one about Dr. Jay killing llyde."—Washington Star.
