Winter's Business and Bustle About Here.

Nothing but weather, and a few other things we might mention, now stand in the way of an enormous increase in business. Taking everything just as they are, we are having a trade that is a record breaker; merchants in towns all over the country are piling goods on their counters, and bracing themselves for the rush that will come with the first cold days. The farmer is fixing his fences these bright days, and our political friends are doing the same. The farmer can go to town any bad day, but uses the golden hours of this fine weather to get his stock and crops as well as his family into warm quarters.

That is why he is not buying very much just now, he is busy. But he has the money and our merchants has the goods, and a good cold storm will start the farmers to town with their fat wallets to lay in what comforts they will want during the winter.

So you see that not only the small boy will be pleased with the commencement of winter, but also the big ones.

Mr. John A. Johnston, the trumpet medium, and wife are visiting at Mrs. Kline Shipman's.

QUERIES FOR W. S. SCHLEY

Cross-Examination of the Admiral the Next Step.

COURT WILL TAKE A HAND.

Questioning by Attorney Rayner and the Judge Advocate May Occupy Two Days—Rayner Will Ask a Complete Vindication of Schley.

Washington dispatch: The next step in the programme of the Schley court of inquiry is to place the "applicant" under examination by Mr. Rayner in order to bring out more strongly the points which he had made and to make clear the ones which he left obscure. In the cross-examination of Schley centers the greatest interest. The judge advocate has prepared a long list of questions which he means to ask the witness, and the court has in store many more on which it needs enlightenment. It was noted that during Schley's recollection of the Santiago campaign, which he gave during the two days he was on the stand, Admiral Benham wrote on slips of paper questions which the court will ask when the cross-examination has been concluded. It is estimated that it will require fully two days to complete the cross-examination. Then will follow these questions by the court, and probably another day will be consumed in redirect examination. This finished, witnesses will be called in rebuttal. By these the navy department will endeavor to show that Schley had received direct intimation that the Spanish squadron was in Santiago before he began his retrograde movement. This retrograde movement, the failure to destroy the Colon and the Hodgson correspondence now seem to be the points on which the navy department mostly relies to prove its case.

No Criticism of "Loop."

As to the Brooklyn's "loop," that spectacular feature of the Santiago battle and the one which has been more widely discussed than any one of the ten precepts, it is pointed out by navy officers directly concerned in this investigation that whatever individual officers may have said, the department itself has never made any criticism of Schley for that maneuver. Secretary Long, in his letter, made no mention of it, and it is now known that he had early information that Cook and not Schley had given the order—that Cook had regarded it as a good tactical move and that officers like Clark of the Oregon had approved it as such. It is claimed by the Admiral's friends here that Schley in his narrative of events very nearly demolished or satisfactorily explained the mass of testimony which had piled up against him concerning the other counts. In his examination of the witness Mr. Rayner hopes similarly to dispose of all the rest, and in his summing up will endeavor to show cause why his client should receive full vindication at the hands of the court, as he has already received it from the public.

Schley Again on Stand.

Contrary to expectations, Judge Advocate Lemly began his cross-examination Monday morning, and assumed the role of prosecutor so clearly that those who have asserted it was an impartial court of inquiry were compelled to abandon that position. Captain Lemly read from the naval regulations in an attempt to show that Schley violated the code if he did not have a plan of battle July 3 and give it to his captains. General Rayner fought vigorously and in the course of his remarks declared that the simple signal, "Follow the flag" was a sufficient plan of battle.

Nelson at Trafalgar, signalled "England expects every man to do his duty," said the counsel. "Schley's words were, 'Follow the flag.'"

Admiral Dewey and his colleagues retired for consultation, and, returning announced that they wanted no questions asked concerning Schley's control of the fleet after the date when he surrendered command of the squadron.

Judge Advocate Lemly overlooked no opportunity to substantiate the charges made in the department precept. He asked a multitude of questions calculated to show that Schley was guilty of various misdemeanors, and delved into trivial details until the faces of the admirals of the court showed they were growing impatient. Lemly did his best to elicit information unfavorable to Schley, but made no effort to develop other lines of evidence. Doubtless the judge advocate will leave it to Schley's counsel to bring out that part of the testimony.

Kills Wife and Himself.

Chicago dispatch: Maddened by the report that his wife, from whom he had separated, was going to secure a divorce and marry again, James Kennedy killed her and then ended his life by sending a bullet into his left temple. The tragedy occurred at the residence of Mrs. Annie Barrett, mother of Mrs. Kennedy.

Wasps Start Panic in Church.

Excitement prevailed at the Methodist Episcopal church at Remsen, in Accomac county, Va. During a revival sermon a stampede was caused by a large wasp's nest falling into the center of the church. Thousands of the insects swarmed all over the church, stinging many persons. A number of worshippers made their escape through windows, and the pastor, Rev. J. F. Anderson, was forced to vacate the pulpit. The services were abruptly brought to a close.

Baby Starts a Fatal Fire.

Three persons were fatally burned in a lamp explosion at Pittsburg, Pa. James Busler, an infant son of John Busler, caught hold of a tablecloth and gave it a tug, pulling to the floor a burning lamp. Flaming oil covered the little one in an instant. Mrs. Busler shrieked for aid. James McGovern, neighbor, answered, and, tearing the child from the woman's grasp, beat out the flames with his hands. Mrs. Busler ran into the street enveloped with flames. Just as she fell to the ground Peter Grimes attempted to save her. He was burned about the head, face and hands. Patrick McDermot was also badly burned. Mrs. Busler and the child are sure to die, and Grimes' burns are believed to be fatal.

Jail Besieged; Negro Hanged.

A mob of about 200 men broke into the Wood county, Texas, jail and took out and hanged in the courthouse yard Gaines Gordon, a negro, who on Wednesday evening killed and robbed J. W. Shoemaker, a farmer. All day long the building was surrounded by townsmen and farmers howling for the life of the murderer. Sheriff Appel refused to surrender the prisoner. Until nightfall the mob seemed to be without a leader, then, learning that troops were being hurried there from Tyler and Gainesville, a rush was made, the door battered down, and instantly a surging crowd was inside searching for Gaines. The execution followed.

An attempted arrest, a pistol fight on the streets between a suspect and several officers, a desperate flight by the fugitive, first in an ice wagon, then in a buggy and next on a horse, all of which he pressed into service by the display of revolvers, the wounding of the suspect and his escape into the woods, caused commotion Sunday in Nashville, Tenn. It is reported that the fugitive is George Parker, alias "Dutch" Cassidy, alias George Cassidy, alias Ingerfield, aged 35 years, a notorious western criminal, who has served time in the Wyoming penitentiary.

May Set Mollieux Free.

New York dispatch: Counsel for Roland B. Mollieux has served notice of a motion to quash the indictment against Mollieux. The motion will come up before Judge McMahon in part No. 1 of the court of general sessions next Wednesday. In the event of a denial of the motion to quash the indictment there is an alternative motion for an inspection of the minutes of the grand jury that indicted the defendant.

Entombed Sixty-One Hours.

After being entombed in the Highland Boy mine at Bingham, Utah, for sixty-one hours, Charles Nutting was taken out by the rescuing party that has been constantly at work since the cave-in occurred. He was alive, but very weak. The space in which he was imprisoned was so small that he was unable to stand. A plentiful supply of fresh air, however, served to prolong life. William Anderson is still in the mine and the rescuers will continue at work until he is found. There is no hope, however, of finding him alive.

HE CONFESSES HIS GUILT.

Colored Man Assaults Mrs. John Ball and Robs Her Husband's Store—Captured After Being Wounded and Tried to Implicate Two Others.

Columbia, Miss., telegram: William Morris, the negro who assaulted Mrs. John Ball, was captured later in the day and burned at the stake at Balltown, the scene of his crime. He confessed his guilt before he died. When first captured Morris was inclined to deny his guilt, but he finally admitted he had attacked Mrs. Ball and robbed her husband's store. He first tried to implicate two other negroes. They were placed under arrest, too, and it was at first meant to have a triple burning. The negroes accused by Morris established conclusive alibis, however, and were released. Morris was confronted by Mrs. Ball. She positively identified him. The news of his capture and impending fate had spread far and wide throughout the community, and an enormous crowd gathered to see his punishment. Morris seemed dazed as he was chained to the sapling, and many hands began the work of piling pine knots and needles about him. When the barricade had been built up almost as high as his shoulders it was thoroughly saturated with coal oil.

Admits Fate Is Deserved.

During all these preparations Morris uttered no word of protest or entreaty. He admitted he deserved his fate. When the match was applied and flames enveloped him he still remained motionless and silent. Finally his sufferings gave him voice and he screamed several times. His tongue was soon stilled, however, and death put an end to his agony. The offense for which Morris paid so severe a penalty was committed while Mrs. Ball was alone in her husband's store, which is located at Balltown, a small settlement in Marion county, only a few miles from this place. Morris came in and pretended to make some trifling purchases. Mrs. Ball turned her back to reach the shelf for the article he desired, when he seized her by the throat. He dragged her from the building. With a pine knot which lay near by he repeatedly struck her in the head until she was unconscious.

Adds Robbery to Crime.

Morris left the woman for dead and retraced his steps to the store, which he proceeded to rob. He took all the cash from the drawer and several articles which he fancied.

Doubt Minister Wu's Loyalty.

Peking dispatch: There is strong opposition among conservative Chinese officials to Wu Ting-fang, Chinese minister at Washington, retaining a foreign mission. Those who take this view consider that his popularity abroad is a proof that he is not sufficiently loyal to the interests of China. It is probable that he will be recalled and given a position on the new board of foreign affairs, where his linguistic and legal attainments may be utilized under the eye of the government.

OVER NIAGARA IN A BARREL.

Mrs. Taylor, a Widow, Drops Over the Horseshoe Falls.

Niagara Falls teeming: At last the falls of Niagara have been conquered, and by a woman, for in the afternoon Mrs. Anna Edson Taylor, a widow, safely passed over them in a barrel.

At 4:05 o'clock the barrel was set adrift and Mrs. Taylor was at the mercy of currents in waters that never before have been known to spare a human life. From the spot where the rowboat left the barrel the current runs frightfully swift and soon breaks over reefs that cause the water to toss in fury. The barrel was weighted with a 2,000-pound anvil, and it floated nicely in the water. Mrs. Taylor apparently retaining an upright position for the greater part of the trip. In passing over the horseshoe fall the barrel kept toward the Canadian side at a point 300 feet from the center. It dropped over the fall at 4:23 o'clock. In less than a minute it appeared at the base of the fall and was swept down stream. The current cast it aside in an eddy, and, floating back up stream, it was held between two eddies until captured at 4:40 o'clock. As it was landed on a rock in the river it was difficult to handle, but several men soon had the hatch off. Mrs. Taylor was alive and conscious, but

Novel Naval Show

A proposal is on foot for holding an international naval and military exhibition in Brussels next year. Hitherto no such enterprise has been attempted on the continent, and the almost universal interest taken in naval and military matters by every European power, it is thought, should lead to a very large attendance from all parts. Such an exhibition could only take place in a neutral country, and Belgium as a central resort for tourists is the most suitable locality for carrying out the undertaking.

Sick Citizens Can Vote.

In Victoria a sick voter can record his vote by post; it has been enacted that he can obtain his ballot paper through the local postmaster from the returning officer, fill it up in the presence of the policeman, who must not look at the name he is writing, and post it.

Care of the Complexion.

Many persons with delicate skin suffer greatly in winter from chapping. Frequently the trouble arises from the use of impure soap and cheap salves. The face and hands should be washed only in clear, hot water with Ivory Soap. A little mutton tallow or almond oil may be used after the bath to soften the skin. ELIZA R. PARKER.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address F. J. To Preserve Flowers.

Several methods of preserving the natural color of pressed flowers have been suggested, but the best, it is said, is that used in the New York botanical garden. After the specimens have been under pressure for a day or two they are laid in papers heated in the sun, and this is repeated until the drying is completed. This, it is said, preserves the colors perfectly.

ESCAPES BY MAD FLIGHT.

Bandit Beats Down Detectives and Gets Away.

Nashville, Tenn., dispatch: A desperate man, shown by money he carried to be a train robber, beat down two detectives in a crowded store and after a thrilling chase escaped. In his race for liberty the man, flourishing two revolvers, captured an ice wagon, broke it to pieces in his wild flight; stole a horse and buggy, then a riding horse, and when that fell under him, continued his flight on foot, marking the trail with the bodies of two bloodhounds which were pursuing him. Officers believe the man is one of the gang that held up the Great Northern express near Wagner, Mont., last June, his attempt to get change for a $20 bill of the series secured in that robbery attracting the attention of the police to him. At 10:30 a. m. a raw-boned man, 5 feet 10 inches high, with florid complexion, offered the bill in payment of a small purchase made at a store in the business center of the city. Difficulty in making the change caused the salesman to closely notice the bill, which proved to be on the Montana bank to which the stolen bills were consigned.

Fights Way to Street.

The police were quietly notified, the clerks meanwhile delaying the matter of change. Detectives Dwyer and Dickens were soon on hand and, approaching the man, demanded his name. "Ferguson," was the reply, and, after another question or two, Detective Dwyer informed the man he was under arrest. Quick as a flash Ferguson had a revolver in each hand and started for the door. A hand-to-hand fight ensued, both detectives grappling with the stranger, who proved more than a match for them. Using his pistols as clubs he fought his way to the door and fled down the street.

Escapes in Ice Wagon.

A passing ice wagon caught his attention, and the three negro occupants were soon out of his way. Then, at a terrific clip, the wagon was headed across the Cumberland river bridge into East Nashville, a fusillade of shots following it. Out Woodland street went the flying team, but a sudden turn into First street brought it to grief. One of the horses fell and broke his leg, but the fugitive was not to be delayed. Running across First street, he held up an old negro who was driving by in a buggy, and the flight was continued. Out into the commons he sped. Once the buggy overturned, but was quickly righted. Finally the tired horse was abandoned and after a dive into Shelby Park on foot the supposed bandit secured another horse, hitched at a point near the park. Then, after a wild ride the horse was left and the flight continued on foot.

Clew in Big Stamp Robbery.

John Koist, who has been employed for a few days on the Medford farm at New Milford, Pa., is now badly wanted by the police for participation in the Chicago postoffice robbery. Koist was traced to the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western tracks, where evidently his pursuers had gotten too close, for he had thrown away a satchel full of stamps and boarded a west-bound train. A description of him was at once wired to all stations. Koist is known to have gone from the west about the time of the robbery. He applied for work on the farm, but didn't appear like a farm hand and anxiously scanned the daily papers, walking miles each day to obtain them.

Escapes Waiting Execution.

The war department has been informed that Phineas Foutz, a soldier convicted of murder in the Philippines and under sentence of death, has escaped. Foutz was a soldier in the regular army and enlisted from Zanesville, O. He murdered a Filipino woman and after his conviction the case was taken to the president. It was the only case wherein President McKinley approved the death sentence upon an American soldier serving in the Philippines. The execution of Foutz would have taken place some time ago had he not escaped from prison.

Woman Dies While Praying.

Mrs. Mary Cannon, aged 60 years, dropped dead while on her knees at prayer Sunday morning in St. John's church, Clinton, Mass. For a year she had not been able to go to church, but Sunday she decided to go. It was a walk of over a mile. Mrs. Cannon arrived before the service commenced. She passed up the aisle and into her pew and knelt. Those near her saw her head slip from the rail of the pew in front, and her body sank back against the seat. Assistance was at once given, but all efforts to revive her were unsuccessful.

Bankers Are Under Arrest.

Eufaula, Ala., dispatch: President S. H. Dent and Cashier E. B. Young of the Eufaula National Bank, which failed a few days ago, were arrested here in connection with a deposit of $50,000 in Alabama state bonds, which ex-Governor Oates is said to have had in the bank in a private box at the time of the failure. The prisoners were taken to Montgomery.

Will Extradite to Austria.

Jliet, Ill., dispatch: Chancellor Tavaszy of the Austrian consulate at Chicago was in Joliet looking after the government case against Franz Francic, alias Gresfelder, a prisoner here, who is wanted in Austria for the alleged murder of his wife. Extradition papers will probably be issued. Francic denies the crime, but says he will go back. The evidence is only circumstantial. For this reason Chancellor Tavaszy says the extreme penalty can not be given.

To Make Fur Look New.

When furs become worn and soiled at the neck they may be renovated by gently rubbing with cotton batting saturated with gasoline, which should not be used in a room that has artificial heat or light. Axle grease, tar, paint and pitch may be removed by rubbing first with oil of turpentine, and then with ether. Dark furs may be cleaned with fine cedar or mahogany sawdust which has been heated in oven. Alaska sable, seal, electric seal, fox, etc., should be beaten with a switch until free from dust, then laid with the fur side up and the hot sawdust rubbed in. Be lavish with the sawdust and vigorous with the rubbing. After this place the garment upon feather pillows with the furry side down, and beat well until all traces of the sawdust have disappeared. Then hang out in a shady place. White furs may be cleaned in the same way, using white cornmeal instead of the sawdust, or if only slightly soiled, by rubbing well with magnesia in cakes. Wet furs should never be dried near the fire, but shaken and hung away in a cold room and then brushed.—Ladies' Home Journal.

The Teacher's Wife.

Clarissa, Minn., Oct. 28th.—Mrs. Clara Keys wife of Charles Keys, school teacher of this place, tells a wonderful story.

For years her life was one of misery. Her back ached all the time; her head ached all the time; neuralgia pains drove her to desperation. She used much medicine, but failed to get any relief till she tried Dodd's Kidney Pills. She says:

"Very soon after I began using Dodd's Kidney Pills all my aches and pains vanished like the morning dew. I consider this remedy a God-send to suffering womanhood."

Encouraged by their success in her own case, Mrs. Keys induced her mother, an old lady of 74 years, to use Dodd's Kidney Pills for her many aches and pains. Now both mother and daughter rejoice in perfect freedom from illness or suffering which is something neither had enjoyed for years before.

Two Notable Exceptions.

The Irish are scarcely less noted for their gallantry than for their wit, and on example of this virtue is found in the case of an Irish judge who presided at a trial in which the plaintiffs were a lady and her daughter. In summing up the case, the judge thus gallantly began: "Gentlemen of the jury, everything in this case seems plain—except Mrs. O'Toole and her charming daughter."

THE STORY OF SOME WONDERFUL MINES IN COLORADO.

When gold was first found near Central City, in Colorado, there was a rush from all of the Eastern States to the gold diggings of the Rocky Mountains. Fortunes were quickly made, the Gregory-Bottall producing $10,000,000.00 in an incredibly short time, and many other mines producing vast sums of money. Very soon people began prospecting the higher peaks, going up as far as the main range or back-bone of the Rockies. On one of these high mountains was found some very rich ore carrying gold, lead and silver, and a number of assays of this ore gave an average value of $827.48 per ton. This produced such an excitement that soon the entire mountain was covered with prospectors staking off claims. The result was that a large number of claims were located, each man securing only a small piece of ground, in fact so small that no owner could afford to work his property at any great depth, hence only the surface of these rich ore bodies has ever been mined. One of these mines discovered in 1866, called the Stevens, produced nearly 2,000,000 in its first thousand feet, being the only ore body worked at any depth. The other mines were worked to a depth of from 100 to 400 feet and the work stopped because each owner had so little territory it would not justify placing heavy machinery on it to prosecute work. Near this territory and in the same belt of veins were located other mines, and one company securing a large group was justified in working at great depth, consequently making enormous sums of money. The Dives-Pelican, now down 2,200 feet, has proved the perpetuity of our fissure veins, and has produced more than $12,000,000.00 and the Colorado Central $5,000,000.00, and many other fortunes were made. And yet the richest ground and the largest surface ore bodies were those that have never been worked more than the 100 to 400 feet in depth.

For a dozen years, past one man has been buying up all of these mines and grouping them into one immense combination. The Stevens group represents now 23 patented mines and mill sites, covering 117 acres, and the Independence group nearly the same amount of territory, while the Waldorf group covers about 400 acres of the richest mineral territory of the whole Rocky Mountain region. The Waldorf company has now purchased the Stevens and Independence groups, practically owning today all of this old and rich mineral ground. When these mines were originally found and worked there was no railway or market within 700 miles for the ore, while all of the mining supplies, powder, candles, tools, provisions, furniture, were freighted from the Missouri River in ox teams at the enormous cost of 25 cents per pound. Notwithstanding such conditions these ore bodies were so large and rich that they paid splendid profits to their owners until they struck water and were compelled to stop work until expensive machinery could be obtained. The Stevens group, in extracting only one ore body, has nearly two and one-half miles of drifts and tunnels, making about one and one-half miles of ore in the various levels. The Independence group has about one and one-half miles of work and the original Waldorf group the same. The Waldorf company, now owning all of these mines, covers with its territory fully one hundred miles of ore bodies, making the largest combination of mines owned by one company in the State of Colorado. The stock of this company last January was only 8 cents per share, now it is 25 cents per share, showing an increase of 300 per cent in ten months, and there is little doubt that the stock will be fully worth $1.00 per share in twelve months more. The company is now running three large tunnels from three sides of the mountain, which will open these mines at a depth of 2,000 feet, and which will undoubtedly give the greatest ore reserves in the history of mining. On the Mendham mine one man has produced $1,000 per month.

On the Commonwealth one man has produced as high as $1,600.00 per month.

The Johnson mine has produced $350,000.00 in about 350 feet in depth.

The Independence mine has been the largest producer in the group.

The Tobin tunnel is run on the Independence vein, and three weeks ago we opened a fine body of high-grade ore which will greatly increase our output during 1902.

The ores of the company run from $40.00 per ton to $1,900.00 per ton.

The average of all ore from our district last year was $109.00 per ton.

The Independence group has been worked only from 100 to 400 feet in depth and yet has produced nearly $1,000,000.00.

The company now owns territory about 3,000 feet in width by 9,000 feet in length, covering the entire width of the gold belt of veins and of the lead-silver belt of veins at their most productive points, and also owns the large tunnels which are developing these mines at a great depth.

There is no other enterprise in the East or West which offers so safe and profitable investment, and there never was a time when Eastern people had a better opportunity to make comfortable fortunes out of small investments.

Reasons Why You Should Buy Some Waldorf Mining Stock.

First.—You have saved a little money which you cannot invest safely and get any reasonable profit.

Second.—You cannot lose money in this stock and you will safely make 50 per cent per annum on your investment, with the chances in your favor of even much larger profit.

Third.—The management of the company is economical, experienced, honest, and always succeeds, and has the strongest banking and other indorsements.

Fourth.—The ordinary risks of mining are eliminated from this enterprise because we own nearly 100 mines and the three large tunnels which develop them.

Fifth.—During the past six years we have taken all the preliminary risks with our own money before suggesting that any person else should buy stock. The risks are all past and we are now in fine ore and constantly opening more.

Sixth.—This stock is full paid and non-assessable and carries no individual responsibility.

Seventh.—We will begin paying dividends within twelve months, having also increased the value of the stock possibly three or four times.

Eighth.—Because our proposition is the only mining enterprise in Colorado that has the indorsement of Bankers, Merchants, the Chamber of Commerce, County Officials, and many other eminent authorities.

Ninth.—There is no safer bank in the world than a gold mine, while offering most remarkable opportunities for increasing your deposit or the amount invested.

Tenth.—The combined properties of this company equal in area those of 25 ordinary companies.

Eleventh.—We are all stockholders and working to pay dividends on stock and hence have no large salaried officers, $200.00 per month covering management and office expenses.

The company is now shipping high grade ores, but are doing such extensive development work that they have decided to sell a limited amount of stock on easy payments at 25 cents per share.

Office of
COUNTY TREASURER
Clear Creek County,
Colorado.
GEORGETOWN, COLO., June 25th, 1901.

F. A. MOORE, Esq.
DEAR SIR:—Speaking from an experience of twenty years in Clear Creek County, and having been acquainted with Argentine Mining District for that length of time, being engaged there as a practical miner in 1881 and 1882, I consider it one of the best Mining Districts in Colorado, having produced more money than any other district known to me for the amount of development work done, a very large percentage of the value of its ores being in gold. What with new methods and reduced prices for the treatment of ores, and with proper and careful management, such as Mr. E. J. Wilcox, whom I know to be a very conservative, judicious and competent man, is able to give any mining enterprise, I therefore have no hesitancy whatever in recommending Argentine District and its mines to the most conservative investor, believing, as I do, investments made under such circumstances will be rewarded with good profits. Yours truly, [Signed] C. J. NICHOLS, County Treasurer.

James F. Tucker, President
Henry Selfrid, Cashier
THE BANK OF GEORGETOWN
GEORGETOWN, COLO., June 25th, 1901.

F. A. MOORE, Esq.
DEAR SIR:—In regard to the Waldorf M. & M. Co. properties here I would say that I have resided here for twenty-five years, and though I have only visited the Stevens group personally, I know that the Waldorf and Independence group (as well as the Stevens) have yielded large sums of money in the past twenty-five years, and comprise some of the best known and best paying lodes in this section.
I believe that, by connecting the three groups and extending the Stevens and Waldorf tunnels as proposed by the management of the Waldorf Company, it will prove to be one of the best-paying propositions in this State, and I would not hesitate to recommend it to my most intimate friends. Very truly yours, [Signed] HENRY SELFRID.

OCTOBER'S FAREWELL PARTY.

"October gave a party—
The leaves by hundreds came—
The Chestnut, Oak and Maples,
And leaves of every name;
The sunshine spread a carpet,
And everything was grand;
Miss Wea heard the dancing,
Professor Wind, the band.
The Chestnuts came in yellow,
The Oaks in crimson dress;
The lovely Misses Maple,
In scarlet, looked their best.
All balanced to their partners,
And gaily fluttered by;
The sight was like a rainbow,
New-fallen from the sky.
Then in the rusty hollows,
At hide-and-seek they played;
The party closed at sundown,
And everybody stayed.
Professor Wind played louder,
They flew along the ground,
And there the party ended,
In 'hands across, all round.'"

SANDWICH WOMEN ARE IT.

At Sandwich the ladies have taken the reform of the city in hand and propose to show the male population how the town can be improved at no great cost.

Among the things they want changed are the installation of electric lights, the railroad park beautiful, preventing the congregating of loafers on the street for the purpose of exchanging "hot shot," making remarks about passing ladies and squirting tobacco juice on the walks to be swept up by dress skirts, cleaning up the alleys and yards where people are too shiftless, indolent or lazy to do so without compulsion.

It is strange that men who are elected to attend to such affairs will allow things to assume such a desperate state that their wives and daughters should rise up and sweep the filth from the place that has accumulated under the very noses of the officials.

Speaking of the alleys and yards, some here in Genoa should be looked after. Don't make a "dung hill" of your back yard or alley. It is for our own good health to keep it in good condition. Be clean all over and do something besides for the sight of others.

Better Than Hay

Is what farmers say of corn fodder after it has been husked and shredded by a McCormick. The average crop of corn fodder, when properly cured and shredded, is worth as much in feeding value as the average crop of hay. The farmer who uses the McCormick Corn Binder, and the McCormick Husker and Shredder, can therefore double the earning power of his land. He can raise a crop of ear corn, the same as heretofore, and he can harvest from the same land the equivalent of a crop of hay.

The best way known to prepare fodder for feeding is to shred it. When the right kind of a shredder head is used the fodder is cut and torn, and torn to pieces and all of the stalk is eaten. The McCormick shredder head is a combination of shredder and cutter. The radial portion, or blade, splits and shreds the stalks while the smaller triangular knife on the end of each blade cuts the slivers into short lengths. The angle at which these knives cut is an acute one, so that they have a shearing action and run a long time without sharpening. The radial blades are serated and seldom need sharpening.

This is only one of the many advantages which the McCormick has and will be pleased to point them out to you. We will make you a right price and terms.

Farmers: You don't buy a wagon often. Buy the best. The STOUGHTON costs but a little, if any, more and you get extra quality and improvements that cannot be had in other makes. Boxes, Gears, Trucks and parts supplied and guarantees made perfect.

We invite you to try the MILLER Manure Spreader and if you appreciate good work done with greater ease you will buy none other.

Not so Confident as They Were.

For twenty five years, DeKalb County has developed in the vapor of an imaginary court house scrap. Today the mist has cleared away and DeKalb County is within the "circle of influence" of the real thing.

The Board of Supervisors at their last session took the preliminary steps and within the next few weeks the people of this city and county may confidently expect developments that will lead to the final settlement of this vexed question for all time.

The time for parables has passed. The day for action has arrived. DeKalb County needs and will build a new court house. That much the County Board has decided. Where?

No man can foresee and however widely the people of the county may differ upon this point, all will hail with delight the announcement that its final settlement will not be delayed more than a year. This much also is not fiction but fact. (DeKalb Chronicle).

IMPURE FLAVORS FOR SODA.

Nearly All the Syrups Used by Druggists Are Adulterated.

The use of adulterated and harmful flavoring syrups at the soda fountains is by no means as uncommon as many people suppose. Analysis has shown that even the cheapest of these are often far from wholesome. Most people who have been taught to ask for lemon or vanilla flavoring for the alleged reason that those syrups were less liable than others to adulteration will be surprised at the assertion that there is no extract for which substitutes are more often used than vanilla. This is said on the authority of the Massachusetts board of health. The true vanilla bean costs from $12 to $16 per pound, and were there no substitute it could not be used so freely and so extensively as at present. Vanillin, the active property of the extract, can be made from other substances at a cost of about $2 per gallon. The artificial compound is chemically identical with the vanillin found in the true vanilla extract and therefore has come to be used extensively by manufacturers and dealers. It has been made for commercial purposes from turpentine, but more satisfactory results are obtained from oil of cloves or benzoic acid. There is some comfort for confirmed soda water drinkers and a general warning for others in the further statement by the Massachusetts authorities that the metallic contamination of the water used in a glass of soda is far more detrimental to the health than any adulteration.

GIRLS' SECRET SOCIETIES.

Students at the College Support Their Fraternities with Enthusiasm.

Perhaps it is because women are barred from membership in many of the secret societies that they display such a pronounced fondness for such organizations in their own institutions of learning as give them a chance to be just a little mysterious. Certain it is that no Greek letter associations are more generously sustained than those at Vassar, Wellesley and at other female colleges and seminaries. It is stated that not less than $3,000,000 is invested in homes and other property belonging to the Greek letter fraternities of America, an amount greater than the value of all the college property in the country a century ago. Fraternity women have been very wise in this respect, and have been content to live modestly in rented houses, there being but three chapters which own their homes. At Sycamore university the parent chapter of Alpha Phi has a pretty "Queen Anne" house worth perhaps $10,000. Here the chapter has lived nearly a score of years. Kappa Kappa Gamma, Kappa Alpha Theta, Gamma Phi Beta, Pi Beta Phi, and Delta Delta Delta enjoy the comforts of modern homes which they rent at the same university. The Lambda chapter of Kappa Alpha Theta has lived in its own house at the university of Vermont for a decade, and one of the chapters of Delta Gamma is said to own a house. Many other chapters live in rented homes or own building lots or have chapter-house funds. Within the next ten years it is more than probable that two-thirds of the various chapters will be living in chapter-houses.

Thackeray Reproved for Introducing Charlotte Bronte as Jane Eyre.

Mr. George M. Smith, the publisher of "Jane Eyre," gives, in Cornhill, some of his recollections of Charlotte Bronte. He says that Thackeray, whom she greatly admired, made her very angry on the occasion of her first visit to London. She was determined at that time to keep her real name from the public, although she had written the most popular book of the day. Thackeray, who was in the secret, temporarily forgot to keep it. She had attended one of his lectures on "The English Humorists," and after it was over, he came down and talked with those of the audience who had stayed to offer their congratulations. He was in high spirits, and said, thoughtlessly, to his mother, "Mother, you must allow me to introduce you to 'Jane Eyre.'" His voice sounded distinctly over the room, and everybody present turned to look at the little lady, who became not only confused, but angry. The next afternoon Thackeray called upon her, and Mr. Smith entered the drawing room in time to find a scene in full progress. Thackeray was standing on the hearth rug, looking very happy, Charlotte Bronte stood near him, her head thrown back and her face white with anger. "No, sir!" she was saying. "If you had come to Yorkshire, what would you have thought of me if I had introduced you to my father, before a company of strangers, as 'Mr. Warrington'?" "No," said Thackeray, perhaps preferring another one of his characters, "you mean 'Arthur Pendennis.'" "No, I don't mean Arthur Pendennis!" retorted Miss Bronte. "I mean Mr. Warrington, and Mr. Warrington would not have behaved as you behaved to me yesterday." The little woman reached scarcely to Thackeray's elbow, but in her fierceness she looked no mean antagonist. He made some half-humorous apology, and the parting was a friendly one.

The Milburn House.

The Milburn house at Buffalo is daily visited by thousands who want to see the death place of the third martyr president of the United States. The people want something to take to their homes as souvenirs. They eagerly pounce upon leaves from the trees in front of the house; they hunt for pebbles, and, until the police interfere, they pluck leaves from the shrubbery in the yard. From early morning until late at night two policemen are on guard at the house. One of the officers on guard says: "Just about dusk one evening a fellow with long hair and a ministerial look about him appeared with a big hammer and a cold chisel. I asked him what he wanted. Then he informed me that he had come to get just three bricks out of the Milburn house. He only wanted three. I told that man Mr. Milburn still wanted that house, and he left very much disappointed."

Another Goose.

The sable cook who presides over the kitchen of a Boston house was fired with indignation one day when she saw a goose which had been sent by the butcher for the family's Sunday dinner. "Don't—don't you think it's a good goose, Hester?" timidly inquired the butcher's boy, who stood in great awe of the big cook. "What you mean by 'good goose,' boy?" sternly demanded the irate Hester, as she shook the offending fowl at him. "May had been a good goose in her day, for all I know, but what you got to do now is to kyarry de po' olde ting back to de butcher, and say to him dat he's made a mistake. It's de granddaughter ob dis goose dat my family wants!"

Corporations in England.

A curious illustration of the power of corporations is reported from England. From time immemorial it has been established law there that bequests made for the propagation of secular or freethinking doctrines were subject to confiscation by the king, and thousands of pounds have been thus confiscated. Recently, however, it occurred to some person to try a new plan. A company known as the Secular society (limited) was incorporated for the specific purpose of receiving such bequests, and the best English lawyers say that under its charter it can receive and use bequests for the very purpose so long held unlawful. A corporation is a strange entity.

The Spanish Alphabet.

The Spanish alphabet is perfect, save for a single silent letter—h. Each letter has only one sound. Every word is spelled as pronounced, and pronounced as spelled. The written language, therefore, is, with a single exception, free from redundant letters. The chief difficulty in the language to English-speaking people is the inflection in its verbs. These move from one mood and tense to another by terminal changes, while English verbs move by auxiliaries. In inflection Spanish follows Latin, of which it is a beautiful and richly endowed daughter, so much so that it adapts as well or phrase from other languages.

A Queen's Cup of Grief.

The queen of the Belgians, who recently celebrated her sixty-fifth birthday, comes to the ill-fated house of Hapsburg, and her cup of grief has been more than full. Her hair is said to have been white while she was still in her thirties. The queen's only son, the duke of Brabant, died suddenly under circumstances which suggested poisoning. Her son-in-law was the crown prince Rudolph, who ended his life in a most tragic manner. Her favorite nephew was killed in an accident and her sister is in a lunatic asylum not far from the palace of Brussels.

STARTLING FACTS ABOUT SUGAR.

As a good deal has recently appeared in print regarding the consumption of sugar, and as the importance of this article as a food, in which every individual is concerned, is apparently not sufficiently understood, the following facts and figures furnished to us by the well-known sugar statisticians, Messrs. Willett and Gray (91 Wall Street, New York) who are the publishers of the weekly Statistical Sugar Trade Journal, must necessarily be of great interest to all our readers:

Table with columns: RAW SUGAR, TONS. Total consumption, U. S. 19002, 219,847. Add 6.34 per cent, average annual increase in consumption last 19 years 140,738. Consumption for 1901 2,360,585. Of which Louisiana produces 350,000. Beet (domestic) produces 150,000. Hawaii (free) produces 150,000,000. Porto Rico (free) produces 150,000 1,000,000. 1,360,585. Paying duty at an average of say $36 per ton $48,981,060. (Equivalent to $40 per ton in Granulated) Price (increased because of tariff, $36 per ton) Total consumption, 2,360,585 tons $84,981,960. Additional, people taxed annually and pay to provide 49 millions for revenue $36,000,000.

Viz: To Louisiana planters on 350,000 tons at $36 per ton $12,600,000 To domestic beet planters on 150,000 tons at $36 per ton 5,400,000 To Hawaii planters on 350,000 ton at $36 per ton 12,600,000 To Porto Rico planters on 150,000 tons at $36 per ton 5,400,000 $36,000,000

Remove duty and the whole $84,981,060 accrue to public. On October 8, the quotation for Cuba Centrifugal sugar, 96 per cent. test, free on board Cuba, was 1.96 cents per pound, and the duty on same amounted to 1.685 cents per pound, which is equivalent to 86 per cent. ad valorem.

Three Regiments of Infantry to be Ordered to Philippines.

Washington telegram: Three regiments of infantry and two battalions of a regiment of cavalry have been practically selected for service in the Philippines. Y., and four companies at Fort McPherson, Ga.; the Twenty-eighth infantry, eight companies of which are at Vancouver barracks, Wash.; two at Boise barracks, Idaho, and two at Fort Wright, Wash., and the Twenty-ninth infantry, eight companies of which are at Fort Sheridan, Ill., and four at Columbus barracks, Ohio. The cavalry selected are eight companies distributed between the Presidio at San Francisco, at Benicia barracks, California, and at San Francisco. These troops have been ordered to hold themselves in readiness for orders to Manila. They will take the place of those regiments which will be withdrawn on account of the expiration of the terms of enlistment of their enlisted men, and will consequently not increase the force in the archipelago beyond its present strength of 42,000 men.

Hurts Kill Football Player

John L. Segrist, Ohio State university's center rush, died at Grant hospital at Columbus, O., from the injury he received Saturday in the varsity game with Western Reserve. An operation was to have been performed and his mother was at his bedside to witness it. Surgery, however, could not have saved his life. An autopsy showed that the neck was broken and the spinal cord crushed, causing paralysis of the body from the shoulders down. Several students have withdrawn from the team, and this will weaken it so seriously as to make a continuance of the season's schedule inadvisable. President Thompson does not think the accident will result in the prohibition of football at the university.

German Says "Hands Off."

During an address at a recent meeting of the Fleet society in Hanover, Germany, Captain Von Weltheim of the German navy is represented to have said: "Germany's interests in the five republics of Central America, in view of American competition, can only be maintained when we have a fleet strong enough to say to the Americans, 'Hands off!'" This declaration was received with stormy applause. The papers generally ignore it, and the Freisinnige Zeitung observes: "There is a species of political mischief-making which, while not punishable under the penal code, is none the less calculated to cause apprehension."

Anti-Liquor Law Held Void.

Judge Wheeler in the district court at Clarinda, Iowa, declared unconstitutional the law passed by the twenty-eighth general assembly prohibiting the sale of liquor shipped into Iowa from other states in original packages. Under this law liquor agents from Omaha who covered southwestern Iowa were arrested and fined in several counties. The Law and Order league of Iowa has pushed the prosecution of the alleged offenders. The agents combined to secure a ruling on the constitutionality that it interfered with interstate commerce. The case will probably be appealed to the United States supreme court.

Fines for a Gas Company.

Peoria, Ill., dispatch: Judge Puterbaugh found the Peoria Gas Light and Coke company guilty of three charges in the quo warranto proceedings instituted some months ago and fined them $50 for selling outside the city limits, $250 for a discrimination in prices of illuminating and fuel gas and $250 for charging an exorbitant price for illuminating gas. The fourth count, conspiracy in illegally combining with another company, was dismissed, as there was no evidence showing such combination. This will probably end the matter, as the gas company has rearranged its schedule in harmony with the law.

Jeffries Down to 215 Pounds.

Delaney at San Francisco thinks Jeffries has gone in for too much road work and mountain climbing. He reached this conclusion a few days ago, when the sales revealed the fact that Jeffries was down to 215 pounds. "Too light; too light," muttered Delaney. Next morning, it is said, Jeffries was in that condition known as "all broke up." From now on indoor baseball, handball, sparring and like exercises will enter more largely into the champion's programme, and Delaney will aim to send his man into the ring weighing somewhere around 225 pounds.

Fatally Wounds His Father.

Sioux Falls, S. D., dispatch: Edward Collier, aged 25, is in jail at Madison and his father is dying at a farmhouse near Ramona with his throat cut from ear to ear. Father and son quarreled over the sale of a farm while riding home in a covered buggy and the son cut the father's throat in the fight that followed. The injured man pleads self-defense.

Jilted Bride Seeks Death.

Lizzie Arnold attempted to commit suicide in a dramatic manner at Port Huron, Mich. She was to have been married to James Smith, but he did not appear. Later she found him in the company of another woman. After writing a pathetic note to her mother, she took a quantity of arsenic, but physicians saved her life. The note contained the statement that she "died for love of Jim." She will probably recover.

CZOLGOSZ IS ELECTROCUTED!

Murderer of President McKinley Pays the Penalty.

DIES IN THE ELECTRIC CHAIR IN AUBURN PRISON.

His Last Hours of Life Passed in Sullenness.

JUSTICE IS APPEASED.

Leon F. Czolgosz paid the penalty for the murder of William McKinley at precisely 7:12:30 Tuesday morning.

Three contacts were made, one lasting thirty seconds, and the two others of short duration. He was officially pronounced dead at 7:15 a. m. Death was instantaneous. A current of 1,700 volts was applied, and the first application of it, at 7:12:30, undoubtedly caused the man's death. Czolgosz suffered a slight nervous attack just before going to the chair. He refused to see a priest, and declined either to re-embrace his religion or renounce anarchy. He showed no strength of love of kin, nor did he turn to any of those higher considerations which ordinarily claim the thoughts of men knowing they are about to quit life. He may have suffered untold tortures, but outwardly he seemed sullen and indifferent. The state is not to surrender possession of his body, and by sundown it was secretly interred in ground controlled by the officials of the Auburn prison.

Gives Up Claim to Body.

Waldeck Czolgosz, brother of the murderer, foreseeing endless difficulties and possibly angry demonstrations in an attempt to give the body ordinary burial, had heeded the advice of Superintendent of State Prisons Collins and Warden Mead and formally relinquished all claim to it. Czolgosz spent the greater part of his last night on earth sleeping, apparently peacefully. During the night he had interviews with Superintendent Collins and his own brother and brother-in-law. Soon after they left he went to sleep and slept quietly until 5:30 a. m., when Warden Mead went to his cell. He was still asleep. He was awakened and the Warden read him the death warrant. The assassin listened in silence and gave no outward manifestation of any emotion he may have felt. Soon after this Superintendent of Prisons Collins and Warden Mead went to his cell in the death house.

Czolgosz asked that he might see his brother again, and was told that it was impossible. The warden and superintendent then left him and breakfast was sent down. The prisoner ate sparingly and then prepared for the death chamber.

Witnesses Early Astir.

There was a buzzing of bells in the rooms of those witnesses who were stopping at the Osborne House shortly after 5 o'clock in the morning. It was not daylight, and there was nothing about the gate of the prison, which is in sight of the hotel, to indicate the unusual incident that was soon to take place within. Men paced back and forth in the corridors impatiently waiting for the hour for the execution. The witnesses began to arrive shortly after 6 o'clock. A few messenger boys had gathered about the great iron gate at the entrance to the prison, but aside from their presence State street was almost deserted. Precautions had been taken, however, to guard against any unusual incident and the streets in the vicinity of the prison were well policed.

Physicians First to Appear.

Dr. Carlos F. MacDonald, who was asked by the prison authorities to witness the electrocution, was among the first to arrive at the prison gates. John Ross, Warden Mead's clerk, was at the gate with Gateman Bates, and the invitations presented were carefully scanned. Dr. Ely, Dr. Huntley, Dr. Wolf and others arrived soon after Dr. MacDonald. When the witnesses began to arrive Warden Mead, in full uniform, greeted them. He merely stipulated that at the close of the autopsy the body should be buried intact. All expectations of a sequel to the execution, either in popular contempt or the exhibition of ghastly relics, was disappointed. The plan of burning his clothing and papers was carried out. For the first time in the history of the prison a condemned man marched to the fatal chair unaccompanied by a spiritual adviser. Auburn prison was carefully guarded; the city was in its normal calm and there seemed to be no circumstance standing in the way of a successful execution. The witnesses were quietly requested Monday night to be on hand at 6 o'clock Tuesday morning, as Warden Mead's original intention was to put the condemned man to death a considerable time before the officially announced hour.

Refuses to See Priest.

Faithful Father Fudzvisky remained on a lounge in Father Hickey's house all night, ready to go to Czolgosz the minute he should be called, but the call never came. Czolgosz' last word to his brother had been to curse priests and religion, and he never wavered, up to the very last. Czolgosz was awakened at 6 o'clock by his keepers. He had passed a restful night and had to be stirred roughly before he was fully aroused. Even then he did not seem to realize that it was his last awakening. When finally awake he got up, dressed himself stoically in the new black suit, and ate a hearty breakfast. While Czolgosz was eating Warden Mead entered the cell and asked the prisoner how he felt. The latter responded gruffly and in an ungracious manner. Next the Warden inquired if there was anything he could do for him. Czolgosz shook his head.

"Would you like to see a priest?"

"No," snarled the assassin roughly. Even the keepers were disgusted by this exhibition of insensibility and not a word was spoken until the summons came for the march to the death chamber. In the chamber were assembled the witnesses, many of whom felt more uncomfortable than the principal himself. Among them were such celebrated specialists as Drs. MacDonald, Spitzka, Wolff and Gaylord and such well-known men as Superintendent Collins, State Railroad Commissioner Cole, Charles F. Rattigan and others.

Not Sorry He Did It.

Before this company Czolgosz comforted himself with no bravado, but with no evidence of weakness. He walked firmly, took his seat in the chair without a tremor, and then, as the cap was adjusted, said something through his teeth that sounded like a curse. The keepers paused and asked if he wished to say anything. Czolgosz straightened up and said: "I am not sorry I did this thing. I did it for the working people. My only regret is that I have not been able to see my father."

Then he sat back and allowed the keepers to adjust the straps and the electrodes. At exactly 7:12:30 o'clock the signal was given and the electric current shot through the body of Leon Czolgosz. There was the usual straining of the body during the passage of the current, and then after its cessation the prisoner sank back. The current was turned on again after 28 seconds, while the physicians listened at the heart and felt for the pulse of the unhappy man.

There was no pulse, and Czolgosz was apparently dead. To make sure, however, a reduced current of 1,200 volts was sent through the body, and when this had been turned off and a second examination made the assassin was officially pronounced dead.

The straps were loosened and the body removed at once to the operating table, where the autopsy was immediately begun by Dr. MacDonald and Dr. Gerwin, the prison physician. The autopsy lasted about two hours. The remains of the assassin belong to the state, and after the autopsy the nude body was placed in a rough box and covered with quicklime. It was buried in the prison cemetery on Fitch avenue in Auburn. Waldeck Czolgosz had intended to take the remains to Buffalo, where they would be cremated, and the ashes taken to his father, but Superintendent of Prisons Collins and Warden Mead pointed out the great expense and trouble he would have to undergo and finally persuaded him to sign a document relinquishing all claim on his brother's remains. Waldeck in his last talk with his brother told him what he had done, and he replied that it made no difference what became of his body after he was dead.

It was 7 o'clock Monday night when Superintendent Collins went into the death house and tried to get the prisoner to talk to him. Although he remained in the cell some time, he was apparently not successful in getting anything material from him. At 8 o'clock the brother and brother-in-law arrived and Superintendent Collins took them down to the condemned man's cell. There was no demonstration when they met. Czolgosz merely stepped to the front of his steel cage and said: "Hello."

The brother ventured the remark: "I wish you would tell us, Leon, who got you into this scrape." The assassin answered in a slow, hesitating manner: "No one. Nobody had anything to do with it but me."

"That is not how you were brought up," said the brother, "and you ought to tell us everything now."

"I haven't got anything to tell," he answered in a surly manner.

"Do you want to see the priests again?" asked his brother. And he answered with more vehemence than he had previously shown: "No, damn them! Don't send them here again. I don't want them."

The brother-in-law interjected here: "That's right, Leon."

The brother looked rather disturbed by the answer. Then, stepping up

THE CHAIR IN WHICH CZOLGOSZ EXPIATED HIS CRIME.

CZOLGOSZ' FATHER.

And His Connection with an Assassination in Michigan in 1876.

The tracing of the lineage of the assassin Czolgosz recalls the connection of his father with the Molitor murder mystery which shocked Michigan 23 years ago. Henry Molitor, the son of King Louis of Wurtemberg, had fled from Germany under sentence of death for selling the plans of certain German fortresses to the French.

As a civil engineer he explored the western coast of Lake Huron in the United States coast survey and finally established a sawmill in the timber belt of Presque Isle county. German capital was obtained, colonists sent over direct from Germany and German-Poland and soon Molitor ruled over 500 settlers totally ignorant of the English language and of the American government.

One of these colonists was the elder Czolgosz. Stung to desperation by the tyrannies and vices of King Molitor, as he was called, a band of 12 men marched into town about 9 o'clock August 16, 1876, and poured a volley through the window of the company store. Molitor's clerk fell dead and Molitor was so severely wounded that he died in three days.

THE ASSASSIN'S FATHER.

Amid such surroundings Assassin Czolgosz was born and reared. His father had a subordinate part in the conspiracy and was one of the first to weaken and turn state's evidence. Those who confessed were never electrocuted.

LEON F. CZOLGOSZ, ASSASSIN OF PRESIDENT MCKINLEY, WHO DIED IN THE ELECTRIC CHAIR AT AUBURN PRISON, TUESDAY MORNING.

TALMAGE'S SERMON.

RIGHTEOUSNESS OF RELIGION LAST SUNDAY'S SUBJECT.

From Job XXXVIII as follows: "Canst Thou Bind the Most Influences of the Pleiades?"—The Meaning of the Passage Clearly Defined.

[Copyright, 1901, by Louis Klopsch, N. Y.] Washington, Oct. 27.—In this discourse Dr. Talmage demonstrates that we are affected by forces that we seldom recognize and enlarges upon human accountability; the text is Job xxxviii, 31, "Canst thou bind the sweet influences of Pleiades?"

What is the meaning of that question that God put to Job? Have we all our lives been reading it and are most of us ignorant of its beauty and power and practical suggestiveness? A meaningless passage of Scripture many thought it to be. But the telescopes were busy age after age and astronomical observations kept on questioning the skies until the meaning of my text comes out lustroously. The Pleiades is a constellation of seven stars appearing to the naked eye, but scientific instruments reveal more than 400 properly belonging to the group. Alcyone is the name of the brightest star of that group called the Pleiades. A Russian astronomer observed that Alcyone is the center of gravitation of our solar system. Hugh Macmillan says that the sun and its planets wheel around that center at the rate of 422,000 miles a day in an orbit which will take 19,000,000 years to complete. The Pleiades appear in the springtime and are associated with flowers and genial warmth and good weather. The navigation of the Mediterranean was from May to November—the rising and the setting of the Pleiades. The priests of Belus noticed that rising and setting 2,000 years before Christ.

Now, the glorious meaning of my text is plain as well as radiant. To give Job the beautiful grace of humility God asked him, "Canst thou bind the sweet influences of the Pleiades?" Have you any power over the laws of gravitation? Can you modify or change an influence wielded by a star more than 400,000 miles away? Can you control the winds of the springtime? Can you call out the flowers? How little you know compared with omniscience! How little you can do compared with omnipotence!

Armed with interrogations. Called upon, as we all are at times, to defend our holy religion, instead of argument that can always be answered by argument let us try the power of interrogation. We ought to be loaded with at least half a dozen questions, and always ready, and when Christianity is assailed and we are told there is nothing in it, and there is no God, and there never was a miracle, and that the Scriptures are unreasonable and cruel, and that there never will be a judgment day, take out of your portable armory of interrogation something like this: What makes the condition of woman in Christian lands better than in heathen lands? Do you think it would be kind in God to turn the human race into a world without any written revelation to explain and encourage and elevate and save? And if a revelation was made which do you prefer, the Zenda-Vesta of the Persian or the Confucian writings of the Chinese or the Koran of Mohammed or our Bible? If Christ is not a divine being what did he mean when he said, "Before Abram was I am?" If the Bible is a bad book, where are the evil results of reading it? Did you see any degrading influence of the book in your father or mother or sister, who used to read it? Do you not think that a judgment day is necessary in order to explain and fix up things that were never explained or fixed up? If our religion is illogical and an imposition upon human credulity, why were Herschel and Washington and Gladstone and William McKinley its advocates? How did it happen that our religion furnished the theme for the greatest poem ever written, "Paradise Lost," and to the painters their greatest themes in the "Adoration of the Magi," "The Transfiguration," "The Last Supper," "The Crucifixion," "The Entombment," "The Last Supper," and that all the schools of painting put forth their utmost genius in presenting "The Madonna?"

Sweet Influence from Afar. Astronomers can easily locate the Pleiades. They take you into their observatories on a clear night and aim their revealing instruments toward the part in the heavens where those seven stars have their habitude, and they will point to the constellation Taurus, and you can see for yourself. But it is impossible to point to influences far back that have affected our character and will affect our destiny. We know the influences near by—paternal, maternal, conjugal—but by the time we have gone back two generations or at most three our investigations falter and fail. Through the modern interesting habit of searching back to find the ancestral tree we may find a long list of names, but they are only names. The consecration or abandonment of some one 200 years ago was not recorded. It would not be so important if you and I by our good or bad behavior blessed or blasted only those immediately around us but our goodness or our badness will reach as far as the strongest ray of Alcyone—yea, across the eternities. Under this consideration what do you think of those who give themselves up to frivolity or idleness and throw away fifty years of their existence as though they were shells or pebbles or pods instead of embryo or nities?

Surprises of the Next World. I suppose one of the greatest surprises of the next world will be to see what wide, far-reaching influence for good or evil we have all exerted. I am speaking of ourselves, who are only ordinary people. But who can fully appreciate the far-reaching good done by men of wealth in Great Britain for the working classes—Mr. Lister of Bradford, Edward Akroyd of Halifax, Thomas Sikes of Huddersfield, Joseph Wentworth and Josiah Mason and Sir Titus Salt? This last great soul, with his vast wealth, provided 756 houses at cheap rent for 6,000 working people and chapel and cricket ground and croquet lawn and concert hall and savings bank where they might deposit some of their earnings and life insurance for those who looked further ahead and bathing houses and parks and museums and lecture halls with philosophical apparatus, the generous example of those men of a previous generation being copied in many places in Canada and the United States, making life, which would otherwise be prolonged drudgery, an inspiration and a joy.

At Dunfermline, Scotland, is a stone house, the room on the second floor twelve feet by fourteen in size. The annual rent of this room years ago was $7.50. That was the one room in which the father and mother of Andrew Carnegie lived with the whole family. Influences were started there which made Andrew Carnegie the most distinguished philanthropist of all time, and what his gifts of great libraries on both sides the sea will do for the coming generations I do not think any angel of God would have enough capacity to calculate. Who could bind the sweet influences of that Pleiades?

Influence of Other Worlds. Notice also in my text the influence of other worlds upon this world. We all regard the effect which our continent has upon other continents or one hemisphere upon the other hemisphere. Great harvest or drought on one side of our world affects the other side of our world. A panic in Wall street, New York, has its echo in Lombard street and the bourse. The nations of the earth cablegrammed together all feel the same thrill of delight or shock of woe. But we do not appreciate the influence of other worlds upon our world. The author of my text rouses us to the consideration. It takes all the worlds of known and unknown astronomy to keep our world in its orbit, every world dependent on other worlds. The stellar existence is felt all through the heavens. Every constellation is a sisterhood. Our planet feels the benediction of Alcyone and all the other stars of the Pleiades. Yea, there are two other worlds that decide the fate of our world, its redemption or its demolition. These two worlds are the headquarters of angelology and demonology. From the one world came Christ, come ministering spirits, come all gracious influences. From the other world rise all satanic and diabolic influences. From that world of moral night rose the power that wrecked our poor world 6,000 years ago, and all the good work done since then has not been able to get our world out of the breakers. But the signals of distress have been hoisted and the life lines are out, and our world's release is certain. The good influences of the consecrated people in our world will be enticed by the help from the heavenly world, and the divine power will overcome the demoniac. O man, O woman, expand your idea and know the magnitude of a contest in which three worlds are specially interested. From all the seven worlds which my text calls the Pleiades there come no such powerful influences as from the two worlds that I am now mentioning. My only hope for this world is in the reinforcement that is to come from another world. But that is promised, and so I feel as sure of the ratification of all evil as though looking out of my window today I saw the parks and the gardens flowering into another paradise and the apocalyptic angel flying through the mist of heaven with the news that the kingdoms of this world have become the kingdoms of our Lord.

The Wife's Influence. Not sufficiently do we recognize the sweet influence of the wife. We men are of rougher mold, and our voice is loud, and our manners need to be tamed, and gentleness is not as much of a characteristic as it ought to be, and we often say things we ought to take back. It is to change this that the good wife comes in. The interests of the twain are identical. That which from outsiders would be considered criticism and to be resented becomes kindly suggestion, sweet influences that make us better men than we otherwise would have been or could have been.

The last chapter of Proverbs recognizes the good wife's influence when it says, "Her husband is known in the gates when he sitteth among the elders of the land"—that is, his apparel indicates that he has some one to look after his wardrobe, and his manners show that he is under refining influences at home. But no one fully appreciates the sweet influences of the wife until the dark day comes and the slight symptoms become serious and the serious phases of the disorder pass into the fatal and the temperature is 106 and mental ingenuity is exhausted and you are told for your consolation that "while there is life there is hope," which means there is no hope at all, and the precious life flutters and is gone and you must put out of sight the one who from the day she took the vow amid the orange blossoms under the marriage bell had been to you more than all the world besides. Then you realize as never before what had been the sweet influences.

The World of Reunion. The sweet influences of the heavenly world, which many wise men thought for a long while was Alcyone, the center of the constellation of the Pleiades, world of our future residence, as we hope; world of chorus and illumination, world of reunion, world where we shall be everlastingly complete, world where our old faculties will be intensified and quickened and new faculties implanted, world of high association with Christ, through whose grace we got there at all, and apostles and poets—Habakkuk and St. John of Patmos and Edward Young, his "Night Thoughts" turned into eternal day, and Horatius Bonar of modern hymnology and Hannah More and Mrs. Hemans and Mrs. Sigourney, who struck their harps till nations listened, and David, the victor over Goliath with what seemed insufficient weapons, and Joshua of the prolonged day in Gibeon, and Havelock, the evangelist hero, and those thousands of men of the sword who fought on the right side. What company to move in! What guests to entertain! What personages to visit! What choirs to chant! What banquets with lifted chalices filled with "the new wine of the kingdom!" What victories to celebrate!

The stories of that world and its holy hilarities come in upon our soul sometimes in song, sometimes in sermon, sometimes in hours of solitary reflection, and they are, to use the words of my text, sweet influences. But there is one star that affects us more with its sweet influence than the center star, the Alcyone of the Pleiades, and that is what one Bible author calls the Star of Jacob and another Bible author calls the Morning Star. Of all the sweet influences that have ever touched our earth those that radiate from Christ are the sweetest. Born an Asiatic villager in a mechanic's home, living more among hammers and saws and planes than among books, yet at twelve years of age confounding robed ecclesiastics and starting out on a mission under which those born without optic nerve took in the clear daylight, and those afflicted with unresponsive tympanum were made to hear, and those almost doubled up with deformities were straightened into graceful poise, and the leprosy became rubicund, and the widow's only son exchanged the bier on which he lay lifeless for the arms of his overjoyed mother, and pronouncing nine benedictions on the Mount of Beatitudes and doing deeds and speaking words which are filling the centuries with sweet influences. Christ started every ambulance, kindled every electric ray, spread every soft hospital pillow and introduced all the alleviations and pacifications and rescues and mercies of all time. He was the loveliest being who ever trod our earth, more beauty in his eye, more tenderness in his manner, more gentleness in his footstep, more music in his voice, more dignity in his brow, more gracefulness in the locks that rolled upon his shoulders, more compassion in his soul.

How Gladstone Was Relieved. The fact that the duke and duchess of Cornwall had to give up promiscuous hand-shaking while on their visit to Canada recalls an incident of Mr. Gladstone's memorable Midlothian tour. At one time there was a great hand-shaking ordeal at the window of the old gentleman's railway carriage, and he was rapidly getting the worst of it. A stalwart young policeman who accompanied Mr. Gladstone proved equal to the occasion. Crouching behind the great man and thrusting his hand under Mr. Gladstone's Inverness cape the muscular policeman gave each comer in turn a grip that had no lack of cordiality. "The auld man's uncommon veegerous at his time o' life," observed one unsuspecting Scot as he stroked his fingers. "He is that," concurred another of the policeman's victims, "but did ye notice his nails?"

Official Mourning Paper. All departments of the government are now using mourning stationery, and will continue to use it until the thirty days of mourning for the late president shall have expired. At first only the executive mansion, the state and the treasury departments adopted mourning stationery, but President Roosevelt ordered that all departments at the capital should use the same paper. So great were the demands of the white house, the state and treasury departments for this paper that the supply in Washington was quickly exhausted and telegraphic orders were sent to other cities. Black bordered paper is used for all communications to the world outside of the national capital. Such paper costs a goodly price, and the total expense of this government mark of respect to the late chief will be $20,000.

A Circus Tragedy. A tragic occurrence took place recently in a circus in Batignolles, France. Carrere, a well known tamer, made his first entrance into a cage containing a tiger. He had scarcely closed the door when the animal sprang at him, tearing his clothes, and fixing its claws tightly around his ribs. A terrible panic ensued. The keepers were at length able to rescue the unfortunate tamer, who was taken mangled and bleeding to the hospital.

Crimes of a Mexican. Rafael Pohando, a wealthy ranchman, who is well known on the Rio Grande frontier, Mexico, killed one of his servants a few days ago. The authorities while investigating this crime discovered the bodies of fourteen other men in an old well on the ranch and all bore marks of having been murdered. The murdered men were formerly employed on the ranch, and all disappeared suddenly.

ILLINOIS ITEMS

Court dockets of northern Illinois counties crowded with divorce cases, Winnebago county leading with seventy-five.

Governor Yates has issued a requisition on the governor of Kentucky for Tines Cartwright, John Earon and Wat Meacham, residents of Paducah, who are charged with violating the game laws of Illinois. Doubt is felt as to whether the governor of Kentucky will honor the papers from Illinois, as the offense alleged is only a misdemeanor. The game laws have been repeatedly broken by non-resident hunters from Kentucky and Missouri, who have crossed the Ohio and Mississippi at all seasons of the year, and hunted without taking out the required license, and it was to break up the practice that the papers were sent out.

Death, after a painful illness of over two weeks, came to Mrs. Anna L. Brown, wife of the Rev. George H. Brown, pastor of the Lake View Baptist church. Mrs. Brown was one of the most prominent workers in the Baptist Home Missionary Society for years. For the past three years she had been the assistant of her husband in the pastorate of the Lake View church. Mrs. Brown was born in England. Three sons and one daughter survive to mourn with the aged mother, Mrs. Wakefield, and the husband.

Henry Brislin of Maple Park was chloroformed and his money stolen and his house set on fire. In a few minutes after the assault the structure was a mass of flames, from which the neighbors succeeded in rescuing Brislin only after he had been fatally burned. The thief secured $250 in money which was in the house at the time. Edward Grace, a notorious character, is under arrest charged with the crime and a lynching may follow if his guilt can be established. Brislin is an albino and for many years was one of the attractions with Barnum's circus.

Tom Farley of Chicago was signed as manager of the Decatur team of the "Three I" league at Decatur. He will have full charge of the team. He expects to land his team in the first division of the league race next season.

The business district of Cooksville, a village near Bloomington, was destroyed by fire. The loss is estimated at $40,000. It is presumed that burglars started the fire, as many houses were robbed while it was at its height.

The sixth annual convention of the State Conference of Charities adjourned at Lincoln to meet at Peoria next October. President T. D. Hurley of Chicago has another year to serve as the head of the conference, while Howard Humphreys of Bloomington was elected as vice president and Mrs. Emma Kiefer as secretary. The conference proposes to do what it can to aid the state home for delinquent boys. This was the principal topic of discussion and a committee consisting of Edwin A. Harris of Normal, Professor J. M. Newell of White Hall and Charles A. Donald of Chicago was appointed to interest women's clubs and ministers in the home. Another committee appointed to present its cause to the Odd Fellows' state convention at Springfield consists of Judge Cochran of Sullivan, General Alfred Orendorf of Springfield, Dr. R. F. Bennett of Anna and Charles Mansfield of Mansfield.

The dispatch from Los Angeles, Cal., that Lieutenant Governor Northcott had resigned as head counsel of the Modern Woodmen is incorrect, says a dispatch from Greenville. He authorizes the statement that he will continue his entire term of two years and that he has no intention of resigning.

R. N. Badenoch of Chicago, son of Alderman Joseph Badenoch, and Miss Mary Russel, a society girl, were married at Jacksonville in Westminster church by Dr. C. W. Brown.

The Knights Templar's convocation has been concluded. Judge C. P. Kane, retiring Grand Commander, was presented with a Past Grand Commander's jewel by the commandery.

By the breaking of the will of the late Ida Harris, who attracted attention by her claim to the authorship of "The Breadwinners," an estate valued at $300,000 will go to her immediate relatives, who are already rich, says a dispatch from Champaign. On her death, it is said, she refused to allow her father or other relatives to approach her. Her will bequeathed a large sum to Burnham hospital and other institutions, as well as a legacy to a cousin. Relatives brought suit to break the will and the court decision in their favor was announced. Miss Harris was an eccentric young woman and for several years lived in retirement.

Monroe Manion, aged 47 years, was found dead in the public highway near Benton with his neck broken. He had been buying stock, and is supposed to have had considerable money and papers on him. These are gone, and it is a question whether he was murdered or accidentally fell from his horse.

The hearing of the motion to dissolve the temporary injunction obtained by Dr. J. A. Marshall against the board of managers of the Illinois State Reformatory at Pontiac, restraining them from interfering with his duties, is now in the hands of Judge Moffitt for his decision. The argument was on the matter of the jurisdiction of the court, but in the argument and bill it is thought the court will continue jurisdiction and proceed to a hearing of the case on its merits.

Corn shredders cut off one arm on each of three men employed on farms near Elgin. The injured are Charles Reiser of Genoa, August Pängste of Hampshire and Orlo Loomis of Dundee. In each instance the men were feeding the machine when their left arms were caught and so badly chopped up by the knives that amputation was necessary. All were taken to the Sherman hospital in Elgin.

Public opinion relative to a retrial for George Durden on the charge of murdering Marsha. Hileman about two years ago at Villa Ridge differs widely. Many declare that Durden was proved guilty at the trial in the circuit court and should be hanged. Others declare that he is guilty as charged, but that it was not proved in the trial.

The dead are: Thomas Evers, fireman, East St. Louis, Ill.; Thomas Holland, brakeman, Clayton, Ill. The injured are: E. M. Donnelly, engineer, Decatur, Ill.; George Anthony, tramp. Miss Margaret Schneider, 19 years of age, dropped dead while dancing at Quincy. She was at a ball in Ertel's Hall and was dancing a two-step with B. R. Coleman, a college student. She stopped in the middle of the dance, saying she was tired. Coleman conducted her to a seat, and as she sat down she toppled forward into his arms, dead. The coroner held an inquest, and the jury returned a verdict that death had resulted from heart disease, brought on by overexertion.

Governor Yates issued a proclamation urging residents of Illinois to contribute to the McKinley monument fund.

Harvest Notes.

Reports from crop correspondents indicate that the dry, clear weather which has prevailed largely during the past month in the states of the middle West has been very favorable to the maturing of sugar beets and some other crops, particularly corn, which, in many localities is giving a larger yield than was expected. Much of the crop was cut before frost caught it and the universal testimony is that a larger amount has been shocked and saved for feed than ever before.

The dryness of the soil has prevented the completion of fall seeding and proved unfavorable to germination and growth of early sowings, particularly in Missouri, where little more than half the usual wheat acreage has been put in. Hessian fly and chinch bugs are an additional cause of delay to Illinois, Ohio and Michigan farmers. In the state last named the area sown to wheat this fall is 20 to 40 per cent less than average.

Correspondents continue to report light crops of potatoes in Ohio and central and southern Illinois. Irish potatoes in Kentucky are very poor and in Missouri the late crop is practically a failure. In northern Illinois, Wisconsin, central and southern Michigan and South Dakota, though the crop will be considerably below a full average, yields are much better than were expected, as tubers have made good growth during the past two months. Northern Michigan has a good crop, the yield averaging 113 bushels to the acre.

There has been some improvement in the pastures of northern Illinois, Kentucky, northern and western Missouri and some portions of Ohio. Kansas and South Dakota pastures are generally good and in the state last named the range west of the Missouri is pronounced the best in years. As haying is still in progress in that state, live stock are likely to have an abundance of feed for the winter. Pastures in southwestern Ohio and central and southern Illinois are short and poor.

Concerning tobacco, Kentucky correspondents report a splendid crop in the dark tobacco districts of western counties, all of which has been housed and is curing well. The Burley tobacco of the blue grass district is nearly a full crop, but some of it was cut too green and on that account is curing badly. Ohio tobacco was housed in good condition, but as in Kentucky some of it was cut prematurely to save it from threatened frost.

The South Dakota flax crop is light to fair, with a considerable percentage of damaged seed.

The Illinois crop of broom corn has been harvested and reports concerning it are favorable.

Relative to apples, Missouri reports indicate that great improvement has been made and that the principal apple-growing counties will harvest a good crop; in Kentucky apple trees are yielding very lightly and in some counties there is no crop; in only a few counties in Ohio will there be a fair crop of winter fruit; Illinois reports continue unfavorable, as fruit is still falling; the crop of eastern and middle Kansas is reported good.

Spraying a Science.

The time has gone by when spraying of fruit trees is considered a task that can be successfully performed by any novice. When fruit growers first realized that their trees must be sprayed it was currently supposed that any hired man could take a spray pump of any make and cover the trees with a spray solution destructive to the insects and fungi, but harmless to the tree itself. This belief was the cause of the many failures that were early recorded against the operators. Spraying is now recognized as a science, and all of our agricultural colleges are teaching how to do the work correctly. The advice is now given, "Do not trust an inexperienced man behind the nozzle of a sprayer." Most of the men that spray are mere bunglers at the business, having no complete conception of the great principles underlying the operation. Spraying is rapidly becoming a profession, and we predict that it will not be long before men skillful in spraying trees will be in demand both in the city and country. It is becoming evident that the owner of a small orchard, can better pay an expert owing his own apparatus to do the work than to himself invest in an outfit and trust his own experience.

Neatness in Butter Packages.

The careful packing of butter has a good deal to do with the fostering of the butter trade whether that trade be with a few private families or with large commission houses. This matter has been frequently referred to in these columns, and without doubt some improvement is being made. The commission men report that the manner in which butter is put up helps or hinders them in making sales. A creamery that has a reputation of neatness in packing finds itself sought not only by the commission men, but by large grocers that want an article that looks well. This matter of looks is especially important in butter that goes to the homes of the wealthy. They will form opinions on the looks of things. Two packages of butter may be similar in quality, but if one is put up in better style than the other the buyers are prejudiced in favor of that package, and the eaters, if they have seen the package, will actually imagine that the butter is of better flavor. This helps sales.

At the present rate of growth, in fact, Illinois will overtake Canada in population in 1902.

Be natural. Even an ass does not pretend to be a horse. Neither does a dude pretend to be an ass—he don't have to.

Here and There.

Chris Pflingston at Hampshire and Charley Reiser at New Lebanon were victims last week to the man-eating corn husker. In fact the list of casualties are growing this season much faster than ever before.

His son Will now lives in Elgin and is a member of the famous military band which lately returned from a six week's engagement at the Pan American Exposition.

OPPOSED TO SECRET ORDERS.

At the German Evangelical Lutheran Synod in Dixon last week it was developed that the clergy was opposed to members joining secret societies where the Bible is used in the ritual or ceremonial work. It was, however, voted to allow members to join fraternal insurance orders, where the Bible was not used in the manner named.

Mayor Baumgarten, of Freeport, has his name used in connection with some patent medicine tablets. Quite no taint.

MAN AND WOMAN.

The human animal finds in the opposite sex the greater part of his and her mental life. The arts rose out of sex. When man ceased to capture woman, he cut a reed and blew a tone to win her, and it was not until he had won her that he began to take an interest in the tune for his own sake.

Physical intimacies are but surface emotions, forgotten as soon as they are satisfied, whereas spiritual intimacies live in the heart. They are part of our eternal life and seem to reach beyond the stars.—George Moore's "Sister Teresa."

The price of advertising or publicity is a variable quantity. To use a commercial term it is not staple. How much per line, advertisers should pay for space in newspapers is far from a fixed figure. Advertising is, however, productive of results, and those results are in a degree measurable. Advertisers are shrewd bargain hunters and bargain buyers. A publication which can sell its advertising space must sell it at a price which will make the advertising profitable. The cheaper the price the larger the sales and conversely, the larger the sales the cheaper the price. The Journal offers to place you ad in every family in this section of Illinois who are up to date, alert for bargains.

Several Genoa People pay Fifty cents for a Two cent Glass Ball.

Our town has been very quiet for a long time past. Not much of any excitement or entertainments to which people could go and get a little amusement. But it is said that there is always a lull just before a storm, and this has been no exception. It has been so long since our people have had an opportunity to look upon a real live, first class fake that when one showed upon the street in front of the hotel everyone were on hand with outstretched arms to receive. Ready to be gulled for any amount they handed out their checkbooks for a hollow glass bulb filled with water; costing at a fair value of about two and a half cents by the dozen. Indeed were they so eager to hand in their money before the fellow closed his grip that they fairly climbed over one another in order to get closer.

The epidemic did not only seize hold of the worldly people but even a number of good church people were on hand to participate in the collection for benefit of a man many times smarter than they, themselves.

About the time the sale of his goods began to wane he announced that the show in the hall would be free and as the crowd begin to turn their toes thither. Mr. Fake Man closed his grip, handed the landlord some change and strode to the depot just in time to catch the 9:17 train for the east.

LITTLE BROTHER'S "QUERY."

So you're going to marry my sister! She told us about it last night, And said if you wasn't so handsome You was otherwise jest about right. Ma looked sorta' wild for a minute— I guess she was thinkin' of you— But pa only s' M' atable r' c'ed! 'Twas m'bbe the best she could do.

She give us a sort of a sample Of what you've bin sayin' to her, Of love flowin' deep as the ocean An' heavens that never blue. Of how you belleyed her an' angel! Jest loaned to the earth from the sky, But pa said she ought'n to worry— You'd git over all that by an' by.

There's one thing I'll say for my sister, She never paints up fur a beau; Jest rolls up her foretop in papers. Fur frizzes becomes her you know. An' ma says regardin' her figger She's lucky that she can escape A havin' a dressmaker help her 'Build up a presentable shape.

I think when you and here in harness You're goin' to work double all right; She'll never kick over the traces, If the marriage bandwagon runs light Jes do the square thing an' you'll find Her the sweetest old rose in the bunch But if you—say, cheese it! she's comin'! Don't tell her I've give you a hunch.

BUILD NEW GRANARIES.

Messrs. Frank Caldwell and J. R. Furr, who live some four miles north east of Genoa, have each of them just finished building a large corn crib and granary combined, the capacity being nine thousand bushels of grain. They now have in progress the work of putting in elevators which, when completed, are expected to convey grain into its proper bin at the rate of twelve bushels per minute.

In the arrangement for the handling of corn in the ear they propose to show a big saving of time and labor. The ears are dumped into a hopper and elevated into the crib. When they wish to shell it is sent by conveyors to the sheller and thence to the granary. They estimate that with their six hole Sandwich sheller two men will shell and put away into the proper bins three thousand bushels per day. These gentlemen are among our most thrifty and well-to-do farmers and this new feature in lighting the labor of handling ear corn from the wagon to the crib will, we believe, soon be followed by others.

MADE MASON A WOODMAN.

The United States Senator Given a Ride on the Goat and Made to Saw Wood.

"The impression made upon my mind by the first scene in your adoption ceremony I shall never forget." Thus spoke Hon. W. E. Mason, United States senator, when called upon for "remarks" after he had been initiated by a camp of the Modern Woodmen of America.

The adoption was by Goodfellowship Camp 3052, of Chicago, Ill., and the work was performed Thursday evening, September 26, in the drill hall of Masonic Temple by the officers and forester team of Camp 60, of Elgin, Ill.

"It recalls to my mind," continued Mr. Mason, "that day when I, an unknown young man almost a lad in years, passed alone down State street in this great busy city. I was without a friend, and as the thousands jostled me about I was, amongst all those thousands, more lonesome and homesick than ever I had been before. The adoption scene, with the beautiful lesson taught, has affected me deeply. Then, too, coming as it were from the death bed of that greatest of all Presidents since the martyred Lincoln, with a heart tender and sad, your beautiful 'death watch' scene touched my heart and I shall go forth from this hall a better husband, a more loving father, a more patriotic citizen, a better man, because of the lesson taught me in the beautiful ritualistic ceremony used in making me a member of the Modern Woodmen of America."

SYCAMORE IMPORTS MORE FISH.

Harvey Westgate of the (Sycamore) Advertiser is considered quite a chum among the sporting people of Illinois and Wisconsin and it is no great wonder that one of his friends sent him a basket of fine fish from Wisconsin, but when two baskets of the same kind came he was at a loss what to do with so much brain food. He even supplied every member of his office force with a goodly lot. In the course of a day a letter came in lieu of a presentation speech and adding that one of the baskets were for Capt. Shafter. Great Scott. What was to be done. The fishes had all been devoured, but Harvey was not slow in telling "the devil" what a joke he had on the captain.

THIRD NOTICE.

Every editor has received them. The postmaster sends them to the editor, but the postmaster is not to blame. For instance, there was a man named Tim Short, who sent us three notices to stop his paper, he did not want it any longer. We were at a loss to know what was the matter. Upon looking upon subscription list we found Tim was short $1.25. He had never paid a cent and had ordered his paper stopped as a matter of economy—to us. A few evenings after we stepped into the church and Tim's melodious voice rang out that soul-stirring song "Jesus Paid It All." The next day we sent him a receipt in full, begging his pardon for not knowing that he had made an assignment of his liabilities to Jesus.

Over Niagara Alive.

Last week Mrs. Anna Edson Taylor, a dancing teacher of Bay City, Michigan, went over Horseshoe falls in a barrel and came out without serious injury. The barrel was set adrift and came out without serious injury. The barrel was set adrift and made the plunge over the falls at 4:23 p. m., and at 4:40 it was captured and the woman released. Her ship had sprung a leak and was half full of water when opened.
"I would rather face a cannon, knowing that I would be blown to pieces, than go over the falls again," was her comment after the trip.
