STATE TAX TO BE LOWER

Commission Reduces Rate from 35 Cents to 30 Cents on $100.00 Assessed Valuation—Pearl Worth $5,000

The state tax commission has fixed the rate for state taxes next year at thirty cents on the $100 assessed property valuation, compared with thirty-five cents for this year. There is a surplus of $3,000,000 now in the state treasury.

The Illinois river has furnished the highest priced pearl sent to the New York market this season. It is a round gem, pink in tint, weighs fifty grains and was sold for $5,000. The Mississippi has given up $500,000 worth of treasures this summer.

Alvin Thorsen is the latest victim of the corn shredder in this immediate vicinity, having his left hand and arm badly lacerated in a shredder Wednesday while at work on the Thomas Robbins farm near Belvidere. Thorsen was feeding the machine when the corner of his coat caught and he felt himself being slowly drawn into the machine. He managed to get his jack knife from his pocket and slashed part of his coat away but his sleeve had been drawn in and before the machine could be stopped his hand and arm had been lacerated to the elbow in the husking rollers.

C. C. Gleason lost the index finger on his left hand in a corn shredder accident on Monday at his home four miles north of Belvidere, and is lucky that his hand did not follow it. The story of the accident is the usual one, tho in this case not serious as the most of them.

R. A. Waite, who travels in Michigan for the Haish Co. of DeKalb, writes the home office that in sections of western Michigan the black small-pox is so bad that they have called out the state troops to help care for the situation. Business is practically suspended in the infested district.

Elginites are establishing a dead line, an exact location for the Fox river banks at that city. They have had blue prints made of the banks as they now exist, and woe to the person who fills in and "Captain Streeters" the made soil.

Pekin, Ill.—Filing a soldier's claim to a farm of 160 acres in Saline county, Michigan, forty-four years ago and then forgetting all about it, only to be reminded recently that he still owned it and asking him to place a cash valuation upon it, was the unusual experience of Sam Ross, who is a crossing flagman for the Big Four in Pekin.

The people four miles north of Sycamore were surprised on Saturday to see a full-grown deer bounding through the woods and over the fields, John Becker, rural carrier, encountered the deer as it was crossing the road, Charles Marshall saw it on his farm. It is supposed to belong to the C. W. Marsh herd between Sycamore and DeKalb.

Peter Tomasky, a track laborer on the Milwaukee road, was run down and horribly mangled beneath the wheels of the "push" engine from the Elgin yards, near a string of boarding cars on the Milwaukee right of way, just east of Almore, shortly after 6 o'clock Saturday evening.

The vacant lot owned by Mrs. Langlen, between Dr. Hill's and Mr. Hollenbeak's, has been purchased by those gentlemen.

Mr. N. Shutts, who for the last twenty five years has ranked among the best teachers of our county, has been engaged to teach the remainder of the winter term of the Derby Line school. His first term in Illinois was taught twenty-four years ago the present winter, at Genoa, in the little old wood-colored school-house near the Methodist church.

Mrs. John A. DeWolf, of Hampshire, formerly of Genoa, was buried near her home in Hampshire, on Sunday last.

H. N. Perkins has a pet in the shape of a large live rattle snake in a box in his store.

D. W. Schwartz has moved into Mr. Peter Corson's building, formerly occupied by C. L. Tavor's restaurant.

Robt. Frarey and John Thurston have taken the contract to build a school house in the district just south from Kingston.

Mr. J. W. Lord, the new candidate for the office of sheriff called on us last Thursday. He considers his prospects very flattering.

The hail storm last Thursday was quite heavy here, much grain being laid low. Some of the farmer girls improved the opportunity by freezing ice cream with the hail stones.

The charter for the Genoa M'fg. Co. was received last week. Everything is now in readiness. Just leave your name and the amount of stock you will want, with H. N. Perkins.

We hear that Ben Whipple, while trying to disentangle a horse from a rope which was attached to a hay fork, became entangled himself, and the horse falling on him, he now suffers a broken limb and jaw.

Mr. and Mrs. Yonken, A. D. Blagden, Dr. A. M. Hill, Fred White, Ralph Hollenbeak, Miss Addie White, Allie Taylor, Lydia Richardson and Edgar Harris, have been enjoying a season at Fox Lake.

We regret that a mistake occurred in our items last week. That little daughter belonged to John Brazill, not George. We shall be pleased to send down a marriage notice for the latter any time he will give us opportunity.

Mr. Willis Ide was so badly affected by the heat of the sun one day last week, that he nearly suffered sunstroke.

Marriage at Hampshire

The marriage of Miss Clara M. Babe and William H. Japp took place at Hampshire Wednesday evening, Nov. 16, says the Register. The bride was attended by Misses Mildred Heideman, Grace Bottcher and Minnie Babe and the groom by Messrs. W. H. Babe, Herman Pfingsten and Henry Japp. After the ceremony, the wedding party, which was a large one, repaired to the home of the bride's parents to celebrate the event and partake of the fine wedding supper that had been prepared. The newly married couple are from two of Hampshire's most respected families. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Babe. The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. August Japp. They will go to housekeeping on the groom's father's farm, north of New Lebanon, where Will has been going it alone for the past several months.

DEKALB YOUTH SHOT

GETS INTO MIX-UP WITH THE NIGHT POLICE

SATURDAY NIGHT CAROUSAL

John McGlynn Disturbs Peace and Later Resists the Officer when the Latter Tries to Make Arrest

As the result of a Saturday night carousal in which the young man assaulted an officer who was trying to arrest him, John McGlynn of DeKalb, lies in a dying condition at a DeKalb hospital, having been shot through the abdomen.

It appears, according to the Advertiser, that McGlynn and his younger brother, Eddie, both of whom had been drinking to excess, with some others, started trouble in Hugo Carlson's restaurant near the Northwestern station, and those in charge being unable to cope with them telephoned for the police. An order was issued for the arrest of the McGlynn boys who by this time had left the place, and the night police scattered over the east end in search of them.

Policeman Byron Lindsay came upon them on North Eleventh street and sought to place them under arrest. According to the officer they not only resisted arrest but assaulted him with such savagery and with such dire threats that, believing himself to be in danger he had recourse to his gun, a thirty-eight calibre Colts which he carried in his side coat pocket.

The only shot fired entered John McGlynn's abdomen on the right side and came out at the back. He was taken into a nearby house and a doctor summoned who had him taken to the hospital as quickly as possible.

The boy has been only partially conscious since he was hurt and owing to the nature and location of the wound his recovery is not looked for.

SAYS WADE IS INNOCENT

Prosecuting Attorney Says that His Accounts at Harlan are Straight

Rev. J. G. Wade, the Sycamore Universalist preacher who was taken back to Harlan, Ky., under charges of having misappropriated funds of a school which he helped erect there, is declared by the prosecuting attorney at Harlan to be innocent of any wrong doing in the matter. In a letter to Rev. E. L. Conklin of Elgin, state superintendent of the Universalist church, the prosecuting attorney says that he has looked into the case carefully and looked over the accounts of the school, and finds nothing wrong, saying that in his belief the trouble in which Wade finds himself is the result of spite work.

BUTTER PRICE IS UNCHANGED

Market Reported Firm at 31 Cents on Board of Trade

The quotation committee for the Elgin board reported the figure firm at 31 cents at the meeting Monday afternoon. No objections were raised. Comparisons in quotations are: Nov. 14, 1910, 31c. Nov. 22, 1909, 31½c. Nov. 23, 1908, 30c.

Bill for Divorce Filed

A bill for divorce was filed in circuit court last Saturday by Mrs. Jennie Story of Genoa against Amos Story. Mrs. Story represents that her husband uses intoxicating liquor to excess and is not only not fit to work at his occupation, but ill treats her.

AUTO VICTIM DEAD

Mrs. Pollage Never Regains Consciousness After Accident

After lingering nine days in a state of unconsciousness Mrs. Andrew Pollage of Lindenwood passed away Saturday night at the Sycamore hospital. Her death was the result of injuries sustained in an automobile accident near the Five Corners, in Mayfield, Friday afternoon, Nov. 11.

Mr. and Mrs. Pollage, accompanied by their two daughters, two and five years old, respectively, Mrs. Pollage's sister and brother-in-law, and George Reed of the same town, left their home that day on a combined business and pleasure trip to DeKalb.

At the approach to a culvert on the road running south from the Five Corners, and but a short distance away from that point, a depression in the road caused Mr. Pollage to lose control of the steering wheel. In a frantic effort to prevent the car from running off the pike a series of manipulations of the steering apparatus caused one of the forward wheels to "buckle," and under a momentum of twenty or more

POLICE CALL SYSTEM

WILL SOON BE INSTALLED FOR YOUR PROTECTION

HELLO GIRLS GIVE ALARM

System of Lights Placed at Street Intersections Will Give Notice to Police that Help is Wanted

A police call system will soon be installed in Genoa for the convenience of the citizens and to assist the police, especially the night officer, in discharging his duties, or rather finding duties which under the present circumstances he does not always locate.

The system consists of several red lights placed at convenient street intersections where the officer can always see at least one, no matter what part of town he may be in. The power will be furnished by the DeKalb County Telephone Co. A person wishing to call the police may call up central and give the girl at the station the location of the trouble. The operator then presses a button and the red lights on the street are turned on. The officer seeing the light will hasten to the nearest telephone, which is not

BETTER DAIRY METHODS

Advocated by Prof. Wilbur J. Fraser at Farmers' Institute

Prof. Wilbur J. Fraser of the University, speaking at the State Farmers' Institute, made a strong argument from a mass of evidence for a better kind of dairying that would provide home comforts and interest and hold bright boys on the farm. Many a dairyman could increase his profit tenfold, as others have done, by simply putting intelligence into his business. Average annual production of cows in the United States, 150 pounds butterfat, loss of $1.40; average of some Illinois herds, 325 pounds of fat, profit of $40.40 per cow; there is no reason why all herds should not yield as much if they were as intelligently handled. Bookkeeping has shown that the shiftless hit-or-miss breeding of scrubs does not pay expenses. Remarkable improvement has come with the grading up of dairy herds.

This station has found by a full year's test of each individual cow: Herd 1, 15 cows, average production, 124 pounds butterfat; has ten head producing only 49 to 149 pounds of butterfat and each individual losing from $1.58 to $27.51, while the best cow made a profit of only $10.21, and the net loss on the herd was $112.39, or an average of $7.49 per cow. This is a deplorable state of affairs—a man trying to support a family with a herd utterly unable to return a profit. "Why test cows?" No man would conduct a losing business if fully aware of it.

Herd 2, 36 cows, average production, 214 pounds butterfat, has but three head on the losing side and the average profit is $15 per cow or a total of $540.11 above cost of feed and labor. But herd 3, containing only 13 cows, averaging 326 pounds of fat, did more real business, for every cow returned a profit of from $22.66 to $69.70, a total of $553.84, an average of $42.60 per cow. On 96 acres of land, with practically no expense for purchased cows or feed, the owner is making with his herd a comfortable living for himself and family. He is an enthusiast, and in four years this reading, thinking man has increased the average production of his herd 102 pounds of butterfat per cow. The same can be done with every other herd if as intelligently managed.

Another man on 60 acres of land keeping 23 cows and the young stock averaged the last five years $2,500 for cream alone, $1,500 for pure-bred young stock sold, besides $500 for hogs raised largely on skim milk, making the total receipts $4,500. He paid $500 for feed stuffs, and will not need to buy feed.

High School Items

The literary societies of the high school have been fully organized. We desire the presence and give a special invitation to all our parents and friends to attend the programs which will be given by these societies.

Mrs. Kepner visited one of the German classes Thursday afternoon.

A number from the high school attended the basket social at the Derby Line school last Saturday evening. A good time was reported by all.

Corra Watson and Leta Browne visited Mrs. Quanstrong at the Sycamore hospital Sunday.

Elma Kirk of the Rockford high school and Signa Anderson were callers Friday.

Bayard Brown was elected president and Myrtle Anderson secretary of the Non Pareil literary society.

BAZAAR A SUCCESS

BAND CLEARS ABOUT THREE HUNDRED FIFTY DOLLARS

ATTENDANCE 700 ONE NIGHT

Sycamore Band is Big Drawing Card Prizes for Best Cooking and Produce Awarded—Auction Sale

The Genoa band carnival was the most successful socially and financially of anything of the kind ever pulled off in Genoa, the net proceeds of the three nights and advance sale of season tickets amounting to about $350, while the attendance on every evening was record breaking. As far as can be ascertained everyone enjoyed the programs and the social part of the evenings. The largest crowd was present on Thursday evening when the Sycamore band was present, there being many over from the county seat besides the band men. Owing to the fact that many came in on season tickets which were sold in advance it was impossible to obtain accurate figures regarding the attendance on that evening. Three hundred twenty single admission tickets were sold at the door. There were between three and four hundred season tickets out and it is estimated that nearly all holders of these were present. Then there were many who came in on passes, including the members of the two bands and those who took an active part in the affairs of the evening. It is safe to estimate that 700 persons were in the pavilion at one time, the largest crowd ever under one roof in Genoa. The attendance on the other two evenings was also large altho not comparing with the banner night. The gross receipts on Wednesday evening were $82.00; on Thursday evening, $132.00 and on the last night, $152.00. This does not include the money taken in for season tickets. The receipts on the last night were swelled by the proceeds of the auction sale, all the remaining fancy work being sold to the highest bidder. Some of the goods brought good prices while other pieces were sold far below the actual value. The average was fair, however.

The bread, cake, pie, corn, oats and potato exhibits were interesting features of the bazaar, creating some good natured rivalry between the contestants. All these exhibits were sold to good advantage. As stated last week, Mrs. C. H. Altenberg was awarded the prize for the best bread. On Thursday evening Mrs. C. E. Adams won the blue ribbon for the best cake on exhibition, Miss Maria Holroyd presented a fruit cake weighing about 15 pounds and a special prize was given her for the exhibit. This cake sold readily at 40 cents per pound. The pie exhibit on Friday evening was distressing to the man who is fond of pastry and could not get his hooks onto a piece of the luscious pumpkin, apple, cherry or mince. There were about twenty of the pies on exhibition and all sold at the top notch figure. Mrs. G. W. Sowers captured the blue ribbon with a pie of the apple sort.

There was a good display of seed corn and oats, W. A. Eiklor & Son winning the blue ribbon for both. Will Foote had the best potatoes on exhibition and was awarded first prize for the tubers.

The attendance and the cash returns show beyond a doubt that the people of Genoa are interested in a band and if present plans are carried out Genoa will have a band next season second to few in this part of the country. There will be no let-up to the practicing during the winter.

MANY THANKS

For fear we may have failed to express to you personally our appreciation of your efforts in making the band carnival a success, we here wish to thank the people of Genoa and vicinity for their kind aid and support, particularly the young ladies who solicited donations and assisted at the booths and with the books, the club and society ladies who so kindly took charge of the booths and exhibits, those who assisted in the programs on the different evenings, the dance committee, and especially the many ladies and merchants who so splendidly helped by their numerous donations of fancy work, cooking and merchandise. If we have failed to thank any one personally, please do not be offended, as we here assure you that your kind effort was appreciated, and we hope that we may in a measure repay you by next summer showing you the best band ever on the streets of Genoa.

miles an hour the machine turned a complete somersault.

All the occupants were thrown out and except Mr. and Mrs. Pollage, were only slightly hurt. Both were taken to the hospital in Sycamore and upon examination it was found that Mrs. Pollage had sustained a very bad fracture of one ankle and an injury on the back of her head. Mr. Pollage suffered five broken ribs.

Unconscious when picked up Mrs. Pollage had remained in that condition ever since. She was twenty-five years of age. In the vigor of youth, the mother of two little girls and a happy wife, the circumstances are particularly sad.

RACES AT ELGIN

Application Made for Second Annual Automobile Meet

Application for sanction of the second annual Elgin National stock chassis road races to be held in that city next summer was made to the American Automobile association by officers of the Chicago Motor club last Saturday.

Officers of the American association have intimated that they would be glad to sanction the holding of the second annual stock chassis at Elgin and it is expected that the privilege will be granted before the first of the year.

Officers of the Chicago Motor club are already working upon the details of the second annual race and are keeping constantly in touch with the directors of the Elgin Road Race association which financed the race last summer.

far at any point in Genoa, make inquiries regarding the call, and then it is up to him to get busy.

It is impossible for the night police to cover the resident portion of the village properly, especially in a place like Genoa which is scattered over an area of nearly a mile square. Many times during the night there are prowlers about, hobos and drunks. The police are not aware of the fact of course in every instance, and by the time word reaches them the prowlers are out of reach. Under the signal system, however, a woman who has been frightened by a beggar or a drunk, can step to the phone and soon have an officer on the scene. There is hardly an evening passes that there is not some one looking for a policeman and all will hail with delight this convenience. The system can be worked in the day light as well, but it is usually during the dark hours that the residence portion of the village is pestered.

The Referendum

South Dakota voters at the state election had the longest ballot ever offered to a voter in any state in the union. The ballot was over seven feet in length and fourteen inches in width, it being closely printed and in the smallest possible type. Owing to the gigantic size of the ballot, special ballot boxes had to be manufactured for the larger voting precincts. The ballot boxes thus used were much like ordinary size trunks. This ballot was due to the referendum law. Proposed laws were printed on the ballot for the approval of the voters.

THE WOMEN OF THE DIPLOMATIC CORPS

COLINT DE BUISSERET AND HIS WIFE

COLINT VON BERNSTORFF, HIS WIFE AND ONLY DAUGHTER

BARONESS HENGELMULLER AND HER HUSBAND

the course of true love did not always run smooth.

To many persons the greatest degree of interest and curiosity aroused by the women of the diplomatic corps attaches to the members of the fair sex who have accompanied to this western capital the statesmen from the Orient. Baroness Uchida, the wife of the Japanese ambassador, is a very attractive woman of her type and it is easy to believe that were she garbed in her native costume instead of in the clothing prescribed by American fashion, she would look for all the world like one of the fancy pictures of Japanese belles. The Chinese minister, Chang Yin Tang, has a wife, two daughters and a daughter-in-law in his household, and as Chang is a very wealthy man they are enabled to surround themselves with every luxury, including toilettes in accordance with the latest mode

THE OPENING of the "official season" at our national capital finds in evidence a most interesting group of women as the mistresses of the principal homes in the official "foreign colony." The foreign colony is made up, it will be understood, of the families of those alien officials who are sent to this country to represent their respective sovereigns or governments. Time was when very few of these foreign ambassadors, ministers and secretaries of embassies and legations brought their wives and families to the United States when they were delegated to act as diplomatic agents on this side of the Atlantic, but with the increasing importance of the republic as a world power there has come a change, and now it is very unusual for one of these foreign statesmen to take up his abode here without bringing his entire household with him.

This season the diplomatic corps has a new dean of leader, and this brings a new occupant to the coveted post of foremost woman of the foreign contingent. The new dean is Baroness Hengelmueller, the ambassador of Austria-Hungary. A diplomat must inevitably remain in the United States for some years ere he can advance to the position of dean, but the Hengelmuellers have had an especially long tenure in the land of the free having been here for more than a dozen years.

Consequently Baroness Hengelmueller is well known not only in most of our large cities, but in fashionable resorts such as Bar Harbor, Lenox and Hot Springs. She is a Polish woman and has become known for some of her fads, such as unique automobiles, fancy stationery and pet dogs.

The second most prominent place in the feminine roster of the diplomatic corps is held by an American woman, who is married to J. J. Jusserand, the ambassador of France to the United States. Mme. Jusserand, who is a very handsome woman, spent most of her early life in Paris, where her father was a banker, and in looks and dress she is much like the French women. Two interesting Russian women are to be found at the czar's branch office in Washington. They are Baroness Rosen and Baroness Elizabeth Rosen, the wife and daughter of Baron Rosen, the Russian ambassador. Two women also share the honors at the German embassy. Count von Bernstorff, alike to his fellow-ambassador from France, has an American wife, and the daughter of the house, Countess Lulise-Alexandra von Bernstorff, is as attractive as any American girl one could find in a day's journey, although withal possessed of the splendid complexion that is the common heritage of so many of the girls of the fatherland.

Yet another one of Miss Columbia's daughters who has a place of honor in this foreign community set down on American soil is the Countess de Buisseret, wife of the minister from Belgium, and Senora Dona Alicia Ward de Riano, the wife of the Spanish minister was Miss Alice Ward, a beautiful American girl, ere she wedded her Spanish lover after a long courtship, during which

In the far east. Many people may be surprised to learn that there is an American woman in China's headquarters at Washington. She is Mrs. Yung Kwal, the wife of Yung Kwal, the secretary of the legation. She is a native of Springfield, Mass., and her husband has spent practically all the time since his marriage at the Chinese legation at Washington, so that she and her children have seen very little of the Celestial empire.

There are dozens of Spanish-speaking women in the diplomatic colony at Washington, because each of the Pan-American nations has its embassy or legation at Uncle Sam's base of operations. Senora Calvo, wife of the minister from Costa Rica, and their daughters have been residents of the United States for more than eleven years now, and some of the other women from Central and South America have been here for almost a long. Of the lesser European countries there are many fair representatives in the diplomatic circle, but in this sphere also the American woman has won her way by her beauty and cleverness, for Countess Moltke, the wife of the minister from Denmark, and Mme. Coromillas, the beautiful bride of the minister from Greece, are both natives of the United States. Even the secretary of the Persian legation, Mirza Ali Kull Khan, has an American wife, who, like the Yankee woman at the Chinese legation, hails from New England.

A Point For Patricians

"I rented the first floor of a palace in Naples last year," said a globe trotter, "and the owner of the palace, a Neapolitan count, lived on the top floor with his family. Every day I used to see one of this man's servants trotting up the grand stairway with a pair of carriage doors on his shoulders.

"Yankee-like, the carriage doors made me curious. I did some detective work, and what do you suppose I discovered? Well, sir, I discovered that the count shared a carriage with three other noblemen, and each owner, when he went driving, used his own doors, so as to sport his crest on the panels.

"The Neapolitan nobility are great for show. Every evening, in their handsome turnouts, with two men on the box, they glide elegantly through the steep and crooked streets of Naples. These turnouts used to impress me, but now, when I see them, I smile and ask myself how many pairs of detached doors each carriage in the procession has."

At the One Horse. Jere L. Sullivan, the head of the Hotel and Restaurant Employees' International alliance, said in Cincinnati, apropos of Labor day:

"Our American hotels are better than they used to be, and for this betterment my organization deserves no little credit.

"We have today no such hotels as the One Horse of Tin Can, where, if you asked for a bath, they used to give you a shovel and tell you to go down to the hollow and dam the creek.

"An English earl once visited the One Horse hotel. The landlord without ceremony led him outside, pointed to a window on the fifth floor, and said:

"That's yer room."

Schurz Was Sure of Him. Carl Schurz was dining one night with a man who had written a book of poems, so called, and who was pleased with himself.

The poet was discoursing on the time-worn topic of politics of the men who take office.

"I consider politics and politicians beneath my notice," he said. "I do not care for office. I wouldn't be a senator or cabinet officer, and I doubt if I could be tempted by the offer of that. I would rather be known as a third-rate poet than a first-rate statesman."

"Well, aren't you?" Schurz shouted at him.

POWER HOUSE SUPERINTENDENT?

A line of practical engineering to begin in which your boy does not need any preparation besides being able to read and write—His first job will pay about $1.50 a day—The various positions and responsibilities that will be his on his way up to superintendent of power houses and substations that supply motive power to a great street railway system—A line of work in which there is always a good living for a good man.

By C. W. JENNINGS.

HERE is an occupation in which your boy—any ambitious boy—may work up to the highest grade of technical skill and authority without having had even the slightest preparation prior to getting his start. It is one of the numerous lines of employment that are offered by street railway companies throughout the land, and is open to any boy that wishes to begin at the bottom at a fairly good wage and have a certain and direct avenue of advancement straight up to a high position.

Maybe your boy has not cared to take up a job as motorman or street car conductor, which was elaborated upon in this series a few weeks ago, but still would like to get in some phase of railway work as represented by the street car interests. Well, if that is the case, and you have been unable to furnish him with a good education, and he has a mechanical turn of mind, he probably could not do better than to get into touch with one of the superintendents or foremen of power houses.

The job at their disposal, which is the subject of this article, leads to a line of practical electrical engineering, the basal power that enables street cars of the present day to be operated. The requirements are slight. Of course, the applicant must have had sufficient education to be able to read and write, as he must in practically all occupations; but further than this virtually nothing more is required than that he must be eighteen or twenty years old and of fairly good physique. Unusual shortness of stature is a handicap, as workmen have to do considerable reaching for levers.

The first pay your boy gets will be about $1.50 a day. He probably will not be very enthusiastic over his work, as there will seem to be nothing technical in wiping off machinery, cleaning up things generally, and running errands for the foreman; but he must remember that he has to become acquainted with tools and equipment before he can understand them, and this will come sooner than he expects, if he is attentive and ambitious. Indeed, it will probably be only a few months before he will be given an advance to $1.75 a day and sent out from the main power house to one of the substations in similar work.

The advantage of this move is that, on account of there being comparatively few employees, he will have a greater range of duties and responsibilities and thus advance more rapidly. He will have to clean the big generators, switchboards, and wiring apparatus, and thus the complex machinery will gradually become familiar to him.

Within a few months more he may be sent back to the power house as boss of the cleaners there, at about $2 a day, or be set to operating a small auxiliary switchboard under close supervision, and after he has advanced sufficiently, go back to a substation as dynamo tender. It will require probably a year and a half more before he reaches this position; but then he will be paid from $2.50 to $2.75 a day, while he is getting there.

Then, in all likelihood, he will go back to the power house as dynamo tender, to prepare him more thoroughly for the important advance to switchboard operator at a substation, which is one of the most important lesser places in the business. These operators must stand their watch of a third of a day with extreme faithfulness, as on them directly rests the responsibility of correctly distributing the power through the lines connected with that station. If they permitted their attention to be diverted from their work for even a moment, some sudden powerful change in distribution of current might take place that would cause great damage. All this is shown on indicators above the switchboard, requiring almost a constant shifting of levers. The pay of switchboard operators at substations runs from $3 to $3.25 a day.

After demonstrating his earnestness and ability at the substation, your boy will be again sent to the main power house to do similar, but more important work, at a further advance of 25 cents in his daily wages. The power distributed to the various lines by the substations is first generated and sent out from the power house.

It will not be more than a year or two now before your ambitious son has risen to be among the best operators and generator men with the company. It is the policy of practically all street railway institutions to advance their own men to the most responsible positions, as each company has its own peculiar methods of wiring and operating, and it would take some time for outsiders, no matter how capable, to muster these details; so the superintendents keep careful watch of their workmen, taking every pains to assist them in developing their competency and promoting them as rapidly as they show fitness and a place higher up opens for them.

As it requires a long time for the majority of workmen to settle upon their permanent callings, it follows that there are frequent resignations, particularly in the lower positions. This, of course, works to the advantage of your boy, who has already decided that he is going to stick to his work. Therefore, almost before he can reasonably expect it, it is quite likely that he will be appointed to the important places of foreman of one of the smaller substations, at a salary of $100 or so a month. In this position he is the absolute and direct boss of all employees at that station and is responsible directly to the superintendent for its maintenance and efficiency. He must know more than the dynamo tenders and switchboard operators, because he has to solve problems that puzzle them, as well as direct the repairing and overhauling of machinery, and can call upon the main office for such additional help as he may need.

A year or two at this, perhaps, after having served at the most important substations of the company, he will be promoted as assistant foreman in the power station, at $125 a month. As assistant he will be the actual acting foreman at night or the duller part of the day, in charge of all workmen at the station, which may number as many as 40 or 50, and will be in command during the absence of the foreman.

Of course, after sufficient time has elapsed for him to get intimately acquainted with all the details of this position, he is the man for the foremanship as soon as there is a vacancy, and will get the place, at a further advance of at least $25 a month. Some foremen, who have proved their special fitness, earn as much as $200 a month. It will require generally from six to eight years from the beginning for a young man to rise to a power house foremanship, though in special instances it has occurred much sooner.

In ten to fifteen years from the beginning your boy may get his next jump up the ladder of success and be made electrical superintendent of power house and substations at a salary of $2,500 to $3,500 annually, when he will be superior to all foremen, including the important man in the power house, and will have such a wide range of activities as to make him one of the most important officials in the company. He may even be required to direct the entire motive power of the system, including the steam plants, and he superintends the enlargement, construction and repair of all stations.

From here on your son's career rests largely upon his own efforts. He has reached this superintendency in ten to fifteen years from the time he began as a humble wiper and roustabout, and is just beginning his prime. If he wishes to advance still higher, as he probably will, it is reasonably certain that he can reach a general superintendency or other high station in time.

Different customs of administering the details of the work herein outlined obtain with various companies; but the general features are as given. (Copyright, 1910, by the Associated Literary Press.)

H. Chandler Egan, the golf champion said on the Wheaton links of a poor player: "The other day he had a rather detestable sneering sort of a caddy. He approached the third hole fairly well, but couldn't hole the ball. After a half dozen wretched and unsuccessful putts, he turned to his sneering caddy, and said: "Well, what am I to do, anyway?" "Oh," said the caddy, "get down on yer knees and blow it in."

Love and Poetry.

While we are young and the rich life-blood courses freely through our veins—before the fires of ambition burn down—there is in all of us a love of poetry. ## ILLINOIS STATE NEWS

Peoria.—Joseph Hoffman, charged with criminal assault, who was rushed to the McLean county jail ten days ago when it was feared he might be lynched, was brought to Peoria by Sheriff Hines and lodged in the county jail. Here he will probably remain until such time as his case is called for trial. Sheriff Hines went to Bloomington for the express purpose of getting Hoffman. Hoffman has been in the hospital ward, but is now in fine form physically and mentally so far as could be learned. When asked by the sheriff if he wanted to come to Peoria his face brightened and he said he did.

Verden.—Fire destroyed the north building of J. N. Halgrove's elevator and for the prompt response of the fire company another disastrous fire to Mr. Halgrove would have resulted, when his handsome residence was destroyed, resulting in a loss of $10,000 with a small insurance. The loss was $2,000 with no insurance. The origin of the fire is unknown, but is supposed to have resulted from sparks from a C. & A. engine.

Danville.—After investigating an epidemic of typhoid fever at Hoopston, bacteriologists from the Rush Medical college and the University of Chicago have traced the source to two milkmen, both of whom have gone out of business suddenly. It was found that 44 cases were among the customers of one milkman and 26 were served by the other. Since they stopped delivering there have been no new cases.

Verden.—John Price, a farmer residing near this city, offered to the ladies of the M. E. church a load of corn, the proceeds to be applied on the payments on the pipe organ for the new church. If the ladies would hush the corn. Headed by Mrs. H. H. Chaffin, nine ladies secured a wagon and team and left for the field. They returned in a short time with a load of 51 bushels of corn. The corn was offered for sale at auction and was purchased by H. H. Chaffin for $38.

Peoria.—This was conservation day for the state Federation of Women's clubs, and especial attention was directed to the last remaining white pine forest in Illinois in Ogle county near the Rock river. The women, after hearing an earnest appeal by Mrs. Elmer E. Kendall of Chicago, chairman of the committee on forestry, determined to make a united effort this winter to have this tract set aside as a state forest reserve, and a bill to this end will be introduced in the legislature.

Mason City.—The reopening of the First Methodist Episcopal church, remodeled at a cost of $9,000, was observed here. The building has been overhauled, new fixtures have been placed and it is now one of the most thoroughly modern edifices in central Illinois. The work of remodeling was begun in April under the leadership of Rev. Arthur W. Mills, formerly pastor of the church, and now of Mattoon.

Deatur.—After smashing a heavy plate glass window with a brick, two diamond thieves secured $500 worth of jewelry in the Yoke jewelry store in this city. The jewelry store is located in the heart of the city and the theft was committed when the streets were crowded. The thieves escaped.

Sycamore.—The beautiful altar and reredos that was presented to Waterman hall by Robert B. Gregory of Chicago, president of the Lyon & Healy company, in memory of his daughter, the late Miss Grace Elizabeth Gregory, was installed in the new chapel. On December 12 Bishop Anderson will dedicate the new chapel and altar.

East St. Louis.—An election was carried on in 13 tongues at a packing plant here. It was for the choice of a delegate to the quarterly meeting of the Employers' Benefit association in Chicago, and Thomas A. Crowe was re-elected by a scant majority of two votes in a total of 1,500. Note From the Basswood Bugle. Somebody took the rope off the bell in the fire engine house to use for a clothesline, and now, when there is a fire, the constable has to climb up into the tower and ring the bell with a hammer. Somebody took the hammer the other day and, when Hank Purdy's corncrib ketcher fire, the constable had to hurry down to Hilliker's store for to borrow a hammer. Hilliker had lent his hammer to Deacon Renfrew, who lives four miles out in the country, and by the time the constable had got there and hunted around in the barn for the hammer and got back to the engine house, the angry elements had done their worst and Hank's corncrib was a mass of smoldering ruins.—Judge's Library.

AN EFFECTIVE HOME MADE KIDNEY AND BACKACHE CURE. Easily Prepared Medicine Which is Said to Regulate the Kidneys and End Backache. To make up enough of the "Dandelion Mixture" which is claimed to be a prompt cure for Backache and Kidney and Bladder trouble, get from any good Prescription Pharmacist one-half ounce fluid extract Dandelion; one ounce Kargon Compound and three ounces Compound Syrup of Sarsaparilla. Shake well in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and again at bedtime.

Those who have tried it say it acts gently but thoroughly on the Kidneys and entire urinary system, relieving the most severe Backache at once. A well-known medical authority recommends the prescription to be taken the moment you suspect any Kidney, Bladder or Urinary disorder or feel a constant dull Backache, or if the urine is thick, cloudy, offensive or full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a scalding sensation; or for too frequent urination during the night.

This is a real harmless vegetable mixture which could not cause injury to anyone and the relief which is said to immediately follow its use is a revelation to men and women who suffer from Backache, Kidney trouble or any form of Urinary disorder. This is surely worth trying, as it is easily mixed at home or any druggist will do it for you, and doesn't cost much.

Dry Your Clothes on a Wet Washday With a New Perfection Oil Heater

When clothes can't be hung outside, and must be dried in a room or cellar, the New Perfection Oil Heater quickly does the work of sun and air. You can hang up the wet clothes, light your Perfection Oil Heater, open the damper top, and the heat rises and quickly dries the clothes.

Do not put off washing to await a sunny day in order to avoid mildew. Dry your washing any day with hot air from a PERFECTION OIL HEATER. Absolutely smokeless and odorless.

It gives just as much heat as you desire. It is safe, odorless and smokeless.

It has an automatic-locking flame spreader, which prevents the wick from being turned high enough to smoke, and is easy to remove and drop back, so the wick can be quickly cleaned. Burner body or gallery cannot become wedged, because of a new device in construction, and can always be easily unscrewed for reworking.

An indicator shows the amount of oil in the font. Filler-cap does not need to be screwed down, but is put in like a cork in a bottle, and is attached to the font by a chain. Finished in Japan or nickel, strong and durable, well-made, built for service and yet light and ornamental. It has a cool handle and a damper top.

THE HIGH COST OF LIVING REDUCED

Much has been said about the high cost of living, its causes, and the possibilities of its reduction. But little has been said about the most costly leak: the false economy existing to day in nearly every household.

Much foodstuffs are bought with but one point in view: "How cheap can I get it?" without a thought of quality or "after cost." One of the most serious is baking powder.

By the use of perfect baking powder the housewife can derive as much economy as from any other article used in baking and cooking. In selecting the baking powder, therefore, care should be exercised to purchase one that retains its original strength and always remains the same, thus making the food sweet and wholesome and producing sufficient leavening gas to make the baking light.

Very little of this leavening gas is produced by the cheap baking powders, making it necessary to use double the quantity ordinarily required to secure good results.

You cannot experiment every time you make a cake or biscuits, or test the strength of your baking powder to find out how much of it you should use; yet with most baking powders you should do this for they are put together so carelessly they are never uniform, the quality and strength varying with each can purchased.

Calumet Baking Powder is made of chemically pure ingredients of tested strength. Experienced chemists put it up. The proportions of the different materials remain always the same. Sealed in air tight cans, Calumet Baking Powder does not alter in strength and is not affected by atmospheric changes.

In using Calumet you are bound to have uniform bread, cake or biscuits, as Calumet does not contain any cheap, useless or adulterating ingredients so commonly used to increase the weight. Further, it produces pure, wholesome food, and is a baking powder of rare merit; therefore, is recommended by leading physicians and chemists. It complies with all pure food laws, both STATE and NATIONAL. The goods are moderate in price, and any lady purchasing Calumet from her grocer, if not satisfied with it, can return it and have her money refunded.

Fire Department Out

An incipient blaze at the home of Mrs. Carb called out the fire department last Friday afternoon, a few gallons of water being sufficient to get the flames under control. The fire started in the roof near the chimney, about four square feet of the shingles being burned off before the department arrived. The efficiency of Genoa's fire fighting apparatus was again proven, the company having a stream of water on the flames in a very short time after the alarm was turned in.

LEO TOLSTOI DIES

AGED NOVELIST CLOSES HIS LIFE IN VOLUNTARY EXILE.

COUNTRESS IS AT BEDSIDE

Sinking Man Falls to Recognize Wife and Passes Away Without Regaining Consciousness—Remained Under the Ban of Church.

Astapova, Nov. 21.—Count Leo Tolstoy is dead. Doctor Makovetsky and other attending physicians and Countess Tolstoy and children were at his side when the end, which was peaceful, came.

Efforts of the church to gather the famous reformer into its folds effected nothing, as neither side yielded.

Tolstoy, accompanied only by Doctor Makovetsky, left his home at Yasnaya Poliana for the purpose of ending his days in solitude, to which he more and more inclined during his later years.

Learning that his retreat had been discovered, he insisted upon proceeding on his journey to the Caucasus, where he hoped to spend his last days close to the Tolstolain colony on the shores of the Black Sea.

But during the railroad journey he was overcome with exhaustion and the cold, and Doctor Makovetsky was compelled to have him transferred to the flag station at Astapova, where he was made as comfortable as possible in the rude wooden building.

For five days he had lain there suffering first from bronchitis and later from inflammation of the lungs. Specialists were called from Moscow and other places, but notwithstanding their utmost efforts, the heart of the great Russian responded but feebly to the restoratives and stimulants administered.

Sketch of His Career. Count Lyof Nikolaievitch Tolstoy, usually called Count Leo Tolstoy, novelist and social reformer, was born August 28, 1828, at Yasnaya Poliana, in the province of Tula, Russia.

When twenty-three years old Tolstoy entered the army and served in the Caucasus and in the defense of Sevastopol against the British and French allied forces. He first made a reputation in literature by a series of vivid sketches written from Sevastopol, and when he left the army, soon after the Crimean war, he devoted himself entirely to literature.

In 1901 Tolstoy was excommunicated by the holy synod and in October, 1902, he deposited his memoirs and diaries with the curator of the Rumyantsev museum on the condition that they should not be published until ten years after his death, and in November of the same year he legally made over his whole fortune, including his real and personal estate, to his wife and children.

Defense of Dukhobor Sect. In 1895 Tolstoy wrote a powerful defense of the Dukhobor Sect, which during the year had suffered great persecution for its religious professions. On the Russian censor refusing to permit its publication, Tolstoy applied to the London Times, which printed the long article in full. He continued from that time on to address his literary efforts to the British press.

Tolstoy several times was threatened with expulsion from Russia, and several times, according to report, was upon the point of being exiled; but he seemed on the whole to have been treated with unusual leniency, in view of his strongly pronounced views, especially as set forth in a manifesto entitled "The People's Rights," his criticisms of imperial acts and his open letters to the emperor. He was, however, expelled from Moscow in July 1901, and since had resided at Yasnaya Poliana.

KETCHEL'S BODY IS EXHUMED. Brothers of Former Fighter Discover Evidence That He Was Beaten and Shot.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Nov. 22.—The body of Stanley Ketchel, middleweight champion, who was murdered near Springfield, Mo., was exhumed by three brothers—John, Leon and Alexander Ketchel.

They explained they had heard Stanley was beaten to death and not shot. The brothers reported that they found the bullet holes and also evidence of a club having been used about Stanley's head. The body was immediately reburied.

INVENTOR GETS RICH REWARD

G. A. R. Veteran to Receive $17,000,000 for Concrete Railroad Tie Which He Devised.

San Francisco, Nov. 22.—The first payment of a total of $17,000,000 which is to be turned over to George Gates, a seventy-year-old G. A. R. veteran of San Jose, who has invented the concrete railroad tie, is now in escrow in the Crocker National bank.

A syndicate of eastern railroads has been formed to buy the patent rights of the San Jose man and $500,000 will be given to him when the contract is signed and by January 2, 1911, the total of $17,000,000 will be placed to his account.

SUFFRAGETTES' ARMY ATTACKS PARLIAMENT

Women Descend on Session of British Lawmakers and 116 Are Arrested After Lively Fight.

London, Nov. 19.—One hundred and sixteen of the 1,000 militant suffragettes who marched on the parliament building were arrested after a lively fight with the police.

Led by Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, the women made a determined attempt to force the police cordon about the house of commons and, reaching Premier Asquith, to insist upon the introduction of a woman's suffrage bill.

The women made every effort within their power to break the lines, bringing into play some rare military strategy and football tactics. Fighters in the front ranks retired many times to make way for fresh reserves, but the police were too strongly entrenched. Orders had been given the officers to make as few arrests as possible, but it soon became necessary to fall as many of the women as could be captured.

After Parliament square had been cleared the three leaders of the demonstration, led by Mrs. Pankhurst, were permitted to enter the lobby of the house of commons, where they were met by Mr. Asquith's secretary and informed that the premier would not see them and said that there was no chance for a suffrage bill at the present session.

WILSON SPEAKS OF PRICES

Secretary Declares Homesteaders Are Partly to Blame for Present High Values.

Chicago, Nov. 21.—Secretary of Agriculture Wilson blamed the homesteader of the west in part for the present high cost of living, in an address at the opening here of the United Land and Irrigation exposition.

"The homesteader," he said, "is reducing the field of operations of the ranchman, which is reducing the meat harvest of the west and becoming quite a factor in the cost of living."

Other causes, he said, were the great immigration to this country and the movement to the cities. The recent tumble in prices of meat he attributed to drought in the range country and to the big corn and oats crops.

BRAND HIT BY ROYALIST

Premier is Struck in Face Twice by Man Who Police Save from Mob.

Paris, Nov. 21.—Felled to the ground by blows of a youthful Royalist, Premier Briand pleaded with a mob that threw itself upon the assailant not to harm him.

President Fallieres, also attacked by the same man, assisted Briand before he looked to his own injuries.

But the pleading of Briand would not have saved the attacker had not the police quickly whisked him away, for the crowd had jumped upon him and had started to kick and beat him.

Briand was struck twice in the face and Fallieres was punched in the breast.

GUN EXPLOSION KILLS FOUR

Rifle Test at Indian Head Proves Fatal—Blast Blows Breach Lock Back Among Crew.

Washington, Nov. 21.—Four men were killed by the premature explosion of a five-inch 51-caliber gun at the Indian Head proving grounds of the navy.

The breach block of the gun, which was being tested, blew backward into the crew. Lieut. Arthur G. Chaffee, who was in charge of the gun, was one of the men killed.

The ordnance bureau has ordered a board of inquiry to inquire into causes of the accident, the only witnesses to which were John C. Coleman and Sidney Dyson, both colored.

MAN SHOT BY A WOMAN

Tragedy in Wisconsin City Puzzles Police—Surviving Victim May Die.

Washburn, Wis., Nov. 21.—Mrs. J. O'Neil is dead with three shots through her body and Edward Smith is lying at the point of death with two bullet holes through his body. Smith, before losing consciousness, stated to the authorities that Mrs. O'Neil had done the shooting, firing two shots at him and afterward turning the weapon upon herself.

He said the shooting was unexpected and that there had been no quarrel.

SHOTS COUSIN FOR DEER; SUICIDE.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Nov. 19.—True Smith, twenty-two years old, was found dead in the woods near here, from a self-inflicted wound. Near by his cousin, Samuel, fifteen years old, lay dying from a shot believed to have been fired by True. Circumstances indicate that the latter mistook his cousin for a deer and after realizing his mistake took his own life.

McVEY KNOCKS OUT BATTLING JOHNSON.

Paris, Nov. 21.—Samuel McVey, the colored heavyweight, knocked out Battling Jim Johnson in the twenty-first round of a fight for the championship of Europe. Many American bluejackets saw the fight.

JUST-BEFORE-THANKSGIVING CALAMITY

RAID STOCK FIRMS

POSTOFFICE INSPECTORS ARREST HEADS OF BURR BROS. AND CONTINENTAL WIRELESS.

MISUSING MAILS IS CHARGE

Said to Have Robbed Investors Out of Nearly $50,000,000 With Worthless Mining, Farming and Transportation Companies.

New York, Nov. 22.—In raids so important that Postmaster General Hitchcock took charge in person, his inspectors fell on two concerns which they charge with swindling the public out of more than $40,000,000 by fraudulent use of the mails.

Heads of Firm Arrested. Sheldon H. Burr, president of Burr Brothers, Eugene H. Burr, secretary and treasurer of the firm, and Frank H. Tobey, its vice-president, were arrested in the first raid and held in $20,000 bail each.

The government charges that the firm sold between $40,000,000 and $50,000,000 of mining and oil stock worth little or nothing.

Charles L. Vaughan, a director of the Continental Wireless Telegraph & Telephone company, incorporated in Arizona, was taken in the second raid and held in $10,000 bail. Inspectors say his company has sold stock to the amount of at least $1,000,000 which has brought in no return to the investors. Vaughan is treasurer of the Columbia Finance company, which acts as fiscal agent for the Continental company.

Government After Swindlers. Both raids are further evidence that the government means business and no longer will be content with issuing fraud orders denying them the use of the mails, but will press for convictions on criminal charges.

Postmaster General Hitchcock estimates that the public has been fleeced out of at least $100,000,000 by get-rich-quick concerns in the last five years, but says their hey-day has gone, and said that other arrests, involving corporations that have sought investors the length and breadth of the country are expected shortly.

"SANE" FOOTBALL KILLS 14

Injured Number 43 During Season Just Closing—New Rules Slightly Lessen Casualties.

Chicago, Nov. 21.—A total of 14 dead and 43 seriously injured was the price paid for football by its followers during the season just closing, despite the use of the new rules, which were brought into being in an effort to reform the game and make it less perilous to the players.

That the new rules were successful to a more or less extent in keeping down the list of victims, is shown by the decline in the list of victims, as compared with the previous year.

During the football season of 1909 there were 23 players killed and 64 injured. Of the latter, eight died between the close of the 1909 season and the opening of the 1910. Two years ago there was one less death than in 1910, but the number of injuries ran much higher. There were 134 youths so badly hurt that they were forced to have the attention of surgeons.

KAISER PUTS BAN ON DRINK

Tells Naval Cadets They Need Strong Nerve and Character to Succeed.

Berlin, Nov. 22.—"The nation which consumes the least amount of alcohol will be found at the head of the column on the fields of art and war," was the keynote of Emperor William's speech at the opening of the new naval academy at Flensburg, Prussia.

The kaiser warned the cadets against the use of alcohol and said that a fighter "needs strong nerves." The times, the emperor said, required from-hearted men. Character was the first essential and character was founded upon strong moral and religious convictions.

DENY CRIPPEN REPRIEVE; MUST HANG WEDNESDAY

Reported in London Wife Murderer Has Made Confession—Leneve Girl Visits Prisoner.

London, Nov. 22.—Dr. H. H. Crippen, convicted of killing his wife, Belle Elmore, will be hanged November 23, the home office having denied his petition for a reprieve. When Crippen's attorneys informed him of the decision of the home office he merely bowed his head.

When Solicitor Arthur Newton, who conducted the defense of Crippen, was asked regarding the rumor that his client had confessed he refused to confirm or deny the report.

Regardless of the fact that officials of Scotland Yard denied the report that Crippen had confessed, it is asserted that a newspaper has obtained a confession from Crippen and in return will pay a large sum of money to Ethel Clare Leneve.

The Leneve girl visited Crippen in the Pentonville prison after the decision of the home secretary had been announced. The young woman for whose love Crippen was charged with killing his wife wept and cried out hysterically as they talked. Crippen was deeply moved himself, more so, the prison attendants said, than at any time since his incarceration.

The friends of Doctor Crippen have not given up all hope of saving him, and a second petition is being prepared urging the home secretary to grant a reprieve on account of the doubt existing whether Belle Elmore's death has been conclusively proved.

The news of the death of Doctor Crippen's father in California has been mercifully withheld from him.

Fred W. Warren Will Have to Pay $1,000 Fine and Serve Six Months at Leavenworth.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 22.—Fred W. Warren was convicted on a charge of violating the law forbidding the use of the mails for the circulation of scurrilous, defamatory or threatening language on the outside of an envelope or wrapper. Warren's offense consisted of using wrappers on which he printed these words:

"One thousand dollars reward will be paid to any person who kidnaps ex-Governor Taylor and returns him to the Kentucky authorities."

This referred to William S. Taylor, former governor of Kentucky.

SEES WIFE BURN TO DEATH

Disabled Husband Unable to Aid Woman Who is Afire—Child Starts the Blaze.

Chicago, Nov. 21.—Unable to move because of injuries sustained in a boiler explosion two weeks ago, Thomas Kelly, a watchman, was compelled to remain seated in a chair ten feet away and look on while his wife, Mrs. Alice Kelly, forty-five years old, her clothing in flames, stood screaming for help.

The woman's hair and nearly all of her clothing had been burned off when a neighbor reached her. She was taken unconscious to a hospital, where death followed several hours afterward.

Mrs. Kelly's six-year-old boy accidentally dropped a lighted candle, which ignited his mother's garments.

REVOLT IN MEXICO

FORTY ARE KILLED IN BATTLE AGAINST DIAZ'S SOLDIERS.

FIGHT GOES ON FOR HOURS

Revolutionists Use Bombs in Severe Clash With Troops and Rurales—Anti-Diaz Conspirators Said to Have Date Fixed for Uprising.

Laredo, Tex., Nov. 22.—Reports reaching this city from what is considered to be a reliable source are to the effect that rioting was renewed in Puebla, Mexico, Monday, and that 30 persons were killed in the fighting.

It is said on the streets here that the Mexican military authorities are conscripting large numbers of the residents of Nuevo Laredo into the army for emergency service.

United States troops have been sent to the border to be stationed at many points to protect Americans.

Rioting Starts in Puebla. Mexico City, Mex., Nov. 21.—Forty persons were killed and many were wounded in battles in the streets of Puebla between the forces of the government and a large number of persons who seek the overthrow of the present government. The fighting continued for many hours and ceased only after reinforcements of federal troops had been hurried to the aid of the Puebla rurales and police and the building in which the enemy had taken refuge was taken by storm.

Started by a Woman. The fighting was started when a woman, seeing the approach of the police, fired into them, killing the chief. She is supposed to have been acting as guard for the anti-Diaz forces, who were holding a large meeting to disperse. As soon as the first shot was fired the anti-electionists opened fire with rifles from the windows of the building and a few seconds later a bomb was thrown into the midst of the police and rurales, killing and wounding scores.

Date Fixed for Uprising. Details of the anti-Diaz conspiracy alleged to have been promoted by Francisco I. Madero, now a fugitive from Mexico, and which resulted in the arrest of several conspirators in this city and elsewhere, came to light, indicating that the date has been fixed for a general uprising. The conspirators appeared to have extended their operations to the states of Vera Cruz, Hidalgo, Coahuila, San Luis Potosi, Nuevo Leon, Puebla, Jalisco, Guanajuato, Yucatan and Zacatecas. To the authorities in all these states orders have been sent to put down any disturbances.

Government is Confident. Notwithstanding the rumors which are still prevalent of a proposed uprising against the government, the authorities appear to feel no uneasiness over the prospect. Various regiments are under arms and ready for service at a moment's notice. As a precautionary measure the customary Sunday bull fights were prohibited.

Speaking of the situation here, Governor Guillermo de Lanta y Escandon of the federal district said:

"There will be no uprising of the Maderistas. The government is fully prepared to meet any demonstration whatever, and to crush it in its inception."

SYNOPSIS.

At a private view of the Chaworth personal estate, to be sold at auction, the Crew Idol mysteriously disappears. Harry Cressy, who was present, describes the ring to his fiancée, Flora Gilsey, and her chaperon, Mrs. Clara Britton, as being like a heathen god, with a beautiful sapphire set in the head. Flora meets Mr. Kerr, an Englishman, in discussing the disappearance of the ring, the exploits of an English thief, Farrell Wand, are recalled. Kerr tells Flora that he has met Harry somewhere, but cannot place him. A $2,000 reward is offered for the return of the ring. Harry takes Flora to a Chinese goldsmith's to buy an engagement ring. An exquisite sapphire set in a hoop of brass is selected. Harry urges her not to wear it until it is reset. The possession of the ring seems to cast a spell over Flora. She becomes uneasy and apprehensive. Flora is startled by the effect on Kerr when he gets a glimpse of the sapphire. The possibility that the stone is part of the Crew Idol causes Flora much anxiety. Unseen, Flora discovers Clara ransacking her dressing room. Flora refuses to give or sell the stone to Kerr, and suspects him of being the thief. She decides to return the ring to Harry, but he tells her to keep it for a day or two. Ella Butler tells Flora that Clara is setting her cap for her father, Judge Butler. Flora believes Harry suspects Kerr and is waiting to make sure of the reward before unmasking the thief. Kerr and Clara confess their love for each other. Clara is followed by a Chinaman.

"Well, for a fact, I know it is stolen!" He leaned toward her; and his arms, still flung out with the hands open as argument had left them, seemed to her frightened eyes all ready for her, ready with his last argument, his strength.

She pressed back against the glass until she felt it hard behind her. "Harry," she whispered, "if you care anything, if you ever want me for yours, you'll take your hands away." She meant it; she was sincere in that moment, for all she shrank from him. Her body and mind would not have been too great a price to give him for the sapphire.

Then all at once she felt his arm around her neck. She couldn't move her body. She could only turn her head from his hot breath. For a moment he held her, and yet another moment; and then, terrified at what this strange immobility might mean, she raised her eyes and saw he was not looking at her. Though he held her fast he was not conscious of her. Straight over her head he looked, through the window and down into the garden. Her eyes followed. It lay beneath the wonder of its morning aspect all blanched and dim. She saw the silhouette of rose branches in black on the sky. She saw the flowers and bushes all one dull tone. But in the midst of them the oval of the path shone white; and there, as in the afternoon, standing looking upward, was the dark figure of a man.

Her heart gave a great leap. Just so she'd been summoned once before that day, but what infernal freak had fetched him back to repeat that dangerous sally, and brought him finally into his enemy's grasp? She tried to make a gesture to warn him, and just then Harry released her, dropped her so that she half fell upon the window-seat, and made a dash across the room for the light. In a moment they were in darkness. In a moment, to Flora pressed against the window, the garden sprang clear, and on the formless figure below the face appeared, white in the starlight looking up. She cried out in wonder. It was not Kerr. It was the blue-eyed Chinaman.

After her haunted drive, after her escape, after Shima's search, he was there, still inexorably there; small, diminished by the great facade of the house, but looking up at it with his calm eye, surveying it, measuring its height, numbering its doors, trying its windows. Harry was beside her again. He was tugging frantically at the window. It resisted. She saw his hands trembling while he wrestled with it. Then it went shrieking up and he leaped out.

"What do you want?" he called, and, though he used no name, Flora saw he knew with whom he was speaking. The Chinaman stood immobile, lifting his round, white face, whose mouth seemed to gape a little. Harry leaped far out and lowered his voice.

"Go away, Joe! Don't come here; never come here!" There was a quiver in his voice. Anger or apprehension, or both, whatever his passion was, for the moment it overwhelmed him, and as the Chinaman stood unmoved, unmoving, at his commands, Harry turned sharp from the window and dashed out of the room. Flora heard him running, running down the stairs. She hung there breathless, waiting to see him meet the motionless figure; but while she looked and waited that motionless figure suddenly took life. It moved, it turned, it flitted, it mixed with shadows, became a shadow; and then there was nothing there.

In her turn she ran, up and up a twisted side stair, shortest passage to her own rooms. At least lock and key could keep her safe for the next few hours. After that she must think of something else.

CHAPTER XX.

Flight.

By five o'clock in the morning she was already moving softly to and fro, so softly as not to rouse the sleeping Marrika. By seven her lightest bag was packed, herself was bathed, brushed, dressed even to hat and gloves, and standing at her window with all the listening alert look of one in a waiting room expecting a train. She was watching for the city to begin to stir; watching for enough traffic below in the streets to make her own movement there not too noticeable. Yet every moment she waited she was in terror lest her fate should take violent form at last and assail her in the moment of escape. She listened for a foot ascending to her room with a message from Clara demanding an audience. She listened for the peal of the electric bell under Harry's hasty hand—Harry, arrived even at this unwarranted hour with heaven knew what representative of law to force the sapphire from her.

But all her household was still un-stirring when at last she went, soft step after step, down the broad and polished stair and across the empty hall. She went quiet, direct, determined, not at all as she had fled on her other perilous enterprise only yesterday. She shut the outer door after her without a sound and with great relief breathed in the fresh and faintly smoky air of morning.

She walked quickly. It was a cross-town car bound for quite another locality that she climbed aboard. It was filled only with mechanics and workmen with picks and shovels. She sat crowded elbow to elbow among odors of stale tobacco, stale garlic, stale perspiration, and looking straight before her through the car window watched the aspect of the city, still gray, grow less gleaming and formal and finally quite dirty, and quite, quite dull.

This was all as she had intended, very much in the direction of her errand, and safe. But in Market street the car line ended, and she was turned out again in this broad artery of commerce where she was in danger of meeting at any moment people she knew. She made straight across the thoroughfare to its south side, turned down Eighteenth and in a moment was hidden in Mission street.

It was ten o'clock in the morning, three hours since she had left her house and a most reasonable time of daylight, when Flora turned out of the flatness of "south of Market street" and began to mount a slow-rising hill.

As she neared the hilltop she glanced at a card from her chaperon, consulting the address upon it. Then anxiously she scanned the house-fronts. It was not this one, nor this; but the square white mansion she came to now stood so far retired at the end of its lawn that she could not make out the number. As she peered a young girl came down the steps between the dark wings of the cypress hedge, a slim, fair, even-gaited creature dressed for the street and drawing on her gloves. As she passed Flora made sure she had seen her before. There was something familiar in the carriage of the girl's head and hands; something also like a pale reflection of another presence. Pale as it was, it was enough to reassure her that this was the house she wanted.

This appearance of the place began to bring before Flora the full enormity and impertinence of her errand, but though her heart beat on her side as loud as the brass knocker upon the door, she had no mind for turning back.

A high, cool, darkly gleaming interior, mellow with that precious tint of time which her own house so lacked, received her. And here, as well as out of doors, all the while she sat waiting she felt that protected peace was still the deity of the place. To Flora's eager heart time was streaming by, but the tall clock facing her measured it out slowly. Its longest golden finger had pointed out five minutes before the sweeping of a skirt coming down the hall brought her to her feet.

Mrs. Herrick came in hatless, a honeysuckle leaf caught in her gray crown of hair, geraniums in her hand. Flora had never seen her so informal and so gay.

Flora apologized. "I knew if I came at this hour I should interrupt you, but really there was no help for it." She glanced down at her satchel. "I had to go this morning, and before I went I had to see you about the house. I'm going down to look at it—and to stop a while."

Mrs. Herrick hesitated, deprecating. "But you know Mrs. Britton wasn't satisfied with the price I asked."

"Oh," said Flora promptly, "but I shall be perfectly satisfied with it, and I want to take possession at once." The positive manner in which she waved Clara out of her way brought up in Mrs. Herrick's face a faint flash of surprise; but it was gone in an instant, supplanted by her questioning, puzzled consideration of the main proposition.

"Oh, I hope you haven't come to tell me you want it changed," she protested. "You know it's quite absurd in places—quite terrible indeed. It's 1870 straight through, and French at that; but even such whims acquire a dignity if they've been long cherished. You couldn't put in or take out one thing without spoiling the whole character."

"But I don't want to change it, I want it just as it is," Flora explained. "It isn't about the house itself I've come, it's about going down there. You see there are—some people, some friends of mine. I haven't promised them to show the house, but I have quite promised myself to show it to them, and they are only here for a few days more. They are going immediately." She was looking at Mrs. Herrick all the while she was telling her wretched lie, and now she even managed to smile at her. "I thought how lovely it would be if you could go there with me. I should like so very much to be in it first with you, to have you go over it with me and tell me how to take care of it, as it's always been done. I should hate to do it any disrespect."

Her hostess smiled with ready answer. "Of course I will go down. I should be glad, but it must be in a day or two. Indeed, perhaps it would be better for you to have your people first, and I can come down, say Monday afternoon or Tuesday."

Flora faced this unexpected turn of the matter a little blankly. "Ah, but the trouble is I can't go down alone."

It was Mrs. Herrick's turn to look blank. "But Mrs. Britton?"

"Mrs. Britton isn't going with me; she can't."

"I see," Mrs. Herrick with a long, soft scrutiny seemed to be taking in more than Flora's mere words represented. "And you wouldn't put it off until she can?"

"I couldn't put it off a moment," Flora ended with a little breathless laugh. "I do so wish you would come down with me this morning, for I must go, and you see I can't go alone."

Mrs. Herrick, sitting there, composed, in her cool, flowing, white and violet gown with the red flowers in her lap, still looked at Flora inquiringly. "But aren't there some women in your party old enough to make it possible and young enough to take pleasure in it?"

Flora shook her head. "Oh, no," she said. Her house of cards was tottering. She could not keep up her brave smiling. She knew her distress must be plain. Indeed, as she looked at Mrs. Herrick she saw the effect of it.

Her heart sank. If only she had told the truth—even so much of it as to say there was something she could not tell. What she had said was unworthy not only of herself but of the end she was so desperately holding out for. Now in the lucid gaze confronting her she knew all her intentions were taking on a dubious color, stained false, like her words, under the dark cloud of her own misrepresentation. Yet they were not false, she knew. Her motives, the end she was struggling for, were as austere as truth itself. She could not give up without one bold stroke to clear them of this accusation.

"Do you think there's anything queer about it?" she faltered.

"Queer?" To Flora's ears that sounded the coldest word she had ever heard. "I hardly think I understand what you mean."

"I mean is it that you think there's more in what I'm asking of you than I have said?" The two looked at each other and before that flat question Mrs. Herrick drew back a little in her chair.

"I have no right to think about it at all," she said.

"Well, there is," Flora insisted. "There's a great deal more. I am sorry. I should have told you, but I was afraid. I don't know why I was afraid of you, except that in this matter I've grown afraid of every one. It's true that there may be people going down—at least, a person. But it isn't, as I let you think it, a house party at all. It's for something, something that I can't do any other way—something," she had a sudden flash of insight, "that, if I could tell you, you would believe in, too."

Mrs. Herrick's look had faded to a mere concentrated attention. "You mean that there is something you wish to do for whoever is going down?"

"Oh, something I must do," Flora insisted.

Mrs. Herrick considered a moment. "Why can't he do it for himself?" she threw out suddenly.

It made Flora start, but she met it gallantly. "Because he won't. I shall have to make him."

"You!" For a moment Flora knew that she was preposterous in Mrs. Herrick's eyes—and then that she was pathetic. Her companion was looking at her with a sad sort of humor. "My dear, are you sure that that is your responsibility?"

Flora's answering smile was faint. "It seems as strange to me as it seems absurd to you, but I think I have done something already."

"Are you sure, or has he only let you think so? We have all at some time longed, or even thought it was our duty, to adjust something when it would have been safer to have kept our hands off," Mrs. Herrick went on gently.

"Oh, safer," Flora breathed. "Oh, yes; indeed, I know. But if something had been put into your hands without your choice; if all the life of some one that you cared about depended on you, would you think of being safe?" Flora, leaning forward, chin in hand, with shining eyes, seemed fairly to impart a reflection of her own passionate concentration to the woman before her.

Mrs. Herrick, so calm in her respectful attitude, calm as the old portrait on the wall behind her, none the less began to show a curious sparkle of excitement in her face. "If I were sure that person's life did depend on me," she measured out her words deliberately. "But that so seldom happens, and it is so hard to tell."

"But if you were sure, sure, sure!" Flora rang it out certainly.

Mrs. Herrick in her turn leaned forward. "Ah, even then it would depend on him. And do you think you can make a man do otherwise than his nature?"

Flora answered with a stare of misery. "I know what you must be thinking—what you can not help thinking," she said, "that the whole thing is unheard-of—outrageous—especially for a girl so soon to—to be—" She caught her breath with a sob, for the words she could not speak. "But there is nothing in this disloyal to my engagement, even though I cannot speak of it to Harry Cressy; and nothing I hope to gain for myself by doing what I am trying to do. If I succeed it will only mean I shall never see him—the other one—again."

Mrs. Herrick rose, in her turn beseeching. "Oh, I can't help you go into it! It is too dubious. My dear, I know so much better than you what the end may mean."

"I know what the end may mean, and I can't keep out of it."

"But I cannot go with you." There was a stern note in Mrs. Herrick's voice.

"I'm afraid I didn't quite realize how much I was asking of you. You have been very good even to listen to me. It's right, I suppose, that I should go alone."

Mrs. Herrick looked at her in dismay. "But that is impossible!" Then, as Flora turned away, she kept her hand. "Think, think," she urged, "how you will be misunderstood."

"Oh, I shall have to bear that—from the people who don't know."

"Yes, and even from the one for whom you are spending yourself!"

Flora gave her head a quick shake. "He understands," she said.

"My dear, he is not worth it."

Flora turned on her with anger. "You don't know what he is worth to me!"

Mrs. Herrick looked steadily at this unanswerable argument. Her hold on Flora's hand relaxed, but she did not release it. Her brows drew together. "You are quite sure you must go?"

Flora nodded. She was speechless. "Did Mrs. Britton know you were coming to me?"

"No. She doesn't even know that I am going out of town. She must not know," Flora protested.

"Indeed she must. You must not place yourself in such a false position. Write her and tell her you are going to San Mateo with me."

"Oh, if you would!" Tears sprang to Flora's eyes. "But will you, even if I can't tell you anything?"

"I shall not ask you anything. Now write her immediately. You can do it here while I am getting ready."

She had taken authoritative command of the details of their expedition, and Flora willingly obeyed her. She was still trembling from the stress of their interview, and she blinked back tears before she was able to see what she was writing.

It had all been brought about more quickly and completely than she had hoped, but it was in her mind all the while she indited her message to Clara, that Kerr for whom it had been accomplished, was not yet informed of the existence of the scheme, or the part of guest he was to play. Yet she was sure that if she asked he would be promptly ready. She wrote to him briefly.

At San Mateo, at the Herricks', I want you there to-night. I have made up my mind. As she sealed it she started at a step approaching in the hall. She had wanted to conceal that betraying letter before Mrs. Herrick came back. She glanced quickly behind her, and saw standing between the half-open folding doors, the slim figure of a girl—slimmer, younger even than the one who had passed her at the gate—but like her, with the same large eyes, the same small indeterminate chin. Just at the chin the likeness to Mrs. Herrick faded with the strength of her last generation—but the eyes were perfect; and they gazed at Flora wondering. With the sixth sense of youth they recognized the enactment of something strange and thrilling.

Another instant and Mrs. Herrick's presence dawned behind her daughter—and her voice—"Why, child, what are you doing there?"—and her hands seemed apprehensive in their haste to hurry the child away, as if, truly, in this drawing-room, for the first time, something was dangerous.

CHAPTER XXI.

The House of Quiet.

The day which had dawned so still and gloomy was wakening to something like wildness, threatening, brightening, gusty, when they stepped out of the train upon the platform of the San Mateo station. Clouds were piling gray and castle-like from the east up toward the zenith, and dark fragments kept tearing off the edges and spinning away across the sky. But between them the bright face of the sun flashed out with double splendor, and the thinned atmosphere made the sky seem high and far, and all foam beneath it clarified and intense.

There upon the narrow platform Mrs. Herrick hesitated a moment, looking at Flora. "What train do you want to meet?" she asked.

Flora stood perplexed. "I hardly know. You see I can't tell how soon my letter would reach—would be received."

"Then we would better meet them all," the elder woman decided.

They drove away into the face of the wet, fresh wind and flying drops of rain. Flora, leaning back in the carriage, looked out through the window with quiet eyes. The spirited movement of the sky, the racing of its shadows on the grass, the rolling foliage of the trees, seen tempestuous against flying cloud, were alike to her consoling and inspiring. She had never felt so free as now, driving through the fitful weather, nor so safe as with this companion who was sitting silent by her side. She was driving away from all her complications. The house, when finally it loomed upon them, with its irregular roofs topped by curious square turrets, with its deep upper and lower verandas, looked out upon by a multitude of long French windows, seemed too large, too strangely imposing for a structure of wood. But whatever of original ugliness had been there was hidden now under a splendid tapestry of vines, and Flora, looking up at the rose and honeysuckle that spanned its front, felt her throat swell for sheer delight.

For a moment after they had left the carriage they stood together in the porte-cochere, looking around them. Then half wistfully, half humorously, Mrs. Herrick turned to Flora. "I do hope you won't want to buy it!"

"Oh, I'm afraid I shall," Flora murmured, "that is, if—" She left her sentence hanging, as one who would have said "if I come out of this alive," and Mrs. Herrick, with a quick start of protection, laid her hand on Flora's arm.

"If you must," she said lightly, "if you do buy it, then at least I shall know it is in good hands."

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a running sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out of this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Kidding Worse Than Cutting.

Talk about making good with your friends, a New Orleans man told everybody he knew that he was going to Philadelphia for the dual purpose of seeing the world's baseball series and having a slight surgical operation performed. Reaching this city, he consulted a specialist, and was told that an operation was not necessary. "But, doctor," the New Orleans party urgently interposed, "it must be done."

"Why must it?" wonderingly queried the surgeon.

"Because," was the startling rejoinder of the Southern man, "I told all the boys at home that I was going to have an operation performed, and if I don't make good they will kid the life out of me."—Philadelphia Telegraph.

On the Senators.

The wit of Bishop Seth Ward amuses Nashville frequently. Bishop Ward, in company with two senators, came forth from a Nashville reception the other day and entered a waiting motor car. "Ah, bishop," said one of his companions, "you are not like your master. He was content to ride an ass." "Yes, and so should I be," Bishop Ward answered, "but there's no such animal to be got nowadays. They make them all senators."

Emil Ettner, tenant on the Henry Stoxen farm in Coral, was the victim of a terrible accident Monday morning, when he lost his left hand in a corn shredder. He had a gang of men shredding corn for him Monday, and when the regular feeder got off the stand to look after some other work, Mr. Ettner took his place, with the result that in a few moments his left hand became caught in the swiftly revolving cylinders, and before the machine could be stopped the hand was fearfully mutilated.
