DEATH FROM PNEUMONIA

Mrs. Jeanette Leonard Passed Away
Last Friday

HAD ALWAYS MADE HOME HERE

Funeral Services Conducted at the M. E. Church Sunday Afternoon, Rev. Ream Officiating

The deceased, Mrs. Jeanette Leonard—nee Strong, was born in Genoa township Feb. 1, 1846, and died at her own home in Genoa, Ill., Feb. 5, 1904, being 58 years and 4 days of age at the time of her death. She was well known in Genoa and vicinity having spent her entire life here.

She was joined in marriage to Patrick Leonard about thirty-nine years ago. Her husband has now been dead fifteen years. Mrs. Leonard leaves of her immediate family five sons and three daughters, all of whom feel deeply the great loss of a faithful, helpful, consistent Christian mother.

Her sons are Henry Leonard of Milwaukee, Wis., Wm. Leonard of Belvidere, Ill., and John, Joseph and Charles Leonard of Genoa, Ill. Her daughters are Mrs. Ellis Cooper, Mrs. Wm. Foote and Miss Sabie Leonard, all of Genoa and vicinity. She also leaves one brother living in Colorado, and four sisters, two at Grand Rapids, Mich., one at Oxford, Neb., and another sister, Mrs. Ida Carb of Genoa, Ill.

Mrs. Leonard possessed a great many friends in this vicinity who learned to love and esteem her for her helpful Christian virtues. She was always anxious to do what she could for her family, her neighbors and the Christian religion. She has been a member of the M. E. church at Ney and Genoa for many years. She was also a member of the Woman's Foreign Missionary society, the W. C. T. U. and the Ladies Aid society.

The funeral services were held last Sunday afternoon from the home at 1 o'clock and at the Advent church at 1:30. The services were largely attended. Rev. T. E. Ream conducted the services and spoke very appropriately from the scripture text: "She hath done what she could." Among the closing words of the sermon were the following appropriate lines:
Come in thou blessed, sit with me,
With my own life I ransomed thee;
Come in thou ransomed spirit,
come;
Thou now must dwell with me at Home.

Owners of Machines in Chicago Win Legal Fight

A press dispatch from Chicago says: Simultaneously with the opening days of the automobile show at the Coliseum, automobile owners today won a legal fight which will enable them to operate automobiles in Chicago without licenses, examination of chauffeurs or display of numbers. In a decree of the appellate court read by Judge Ball it is held that most of the city ordinances regulating automobiles are illegal and void. The court granted an injunction restraining the city from enforcing the ordinances.

The decision was rendered in a suit brought by prominent members of the Automobile club.

CONGRESSIONAL CONVENTION

Was Held at the Opera House in Ottawa Thursday

The convention for the Twelfth Congressional district met Thursday at the opera house in Ottawa.

The meeting was called to order at 1:30 p. m. by E. H. Marsh, chairman of the Congressional district committee.

Col. Thomas B. Lawler of Winnebago county was made chairman and J. S. Budd of Kendall county was made secretary. Hon. Walter Reeves of LaSalle county then introduced resolutions endorsing the administration of President Roosevelt and instructing the delegates sent by this convention to the national convention for President Roosevelt to succeed himself; also a resolution endorsing the services of Congressman Chas. E. Fuller which were unanimously adopted. R. K. Welch of Winnebago county, in a fitting speech, placed the name of Chas. E. Fuller before the Convention as a candidate for Congress. Mr. Fuller was nominated by acclamation. E. H. Marsh of Winnebago county was nominated by acclamation as a candidate for member of State board of equalization. Hon. Walter Reeves of LaSalle county and Col. I. L. Ellwood of DeKalb county, were elected as delegates to the National Republican Convention by acclamation. Selection of the congressional committee is as follows:

Boone county, F. S. Whitman.
DeKalb " C. A. Bishop.
Grundy " D. S. Small.
Kendall " R. A. McClellan.
LaSalle " Wright Adams.
Winnebago Co. J. H. Kelling.
The convention then adjourned.

Many Attend Auto Show

The auto show in Chicago this week is drawing a few Genoaites, as well as from the near-by towns, and those who have seen the display say that it is magnificent. The display is found at the Coliseum, the doors of which are open to visitors in the afternoon and evening only. The forenoon is devoted to those interested in the trade end of the auto business, those who make or sell the machines. The show is considered second to none that has yet been held by the association.

OLD RESIDENT DEAD

Funeral of Mrs. Mary Cohoon Held at Belvidere Monday

Last Saturday morning at 8:45 o'clock, Mrs. Mary Cohoon passed away at the homestead about one mile southeast of Belvidere, the cause of her death being attributed to the infirmities of advanced age.

Mrs. Cohoon was born in Vethe ease and grace characteristic of the distinguished speaker. His logic was plain and convincing, and the audience was delighted with the occasional bits of humor, all conceding this lecture as the best thus far.

Col. Bain is in every way worthy of a large audience. If one were to sum up a description of his lecture in a sentence he would say it was an inspiring address worthy to an inspiring theme. Sincerity, earnestness, sympathy—these were the dominant characteristics. Col. Bain's lecture was a rare literary treat and it is not saying too much, when his many lecture subjects are taken into consideration, that he is probably the best all-around entertainer on the American stage.

DeKalb Wins at Basket Ball

The girls of the DeKalb high school came here last Friday evening and defeated the high school girls 23 to 3. The second game which was between the high school boys and the town team was far more interesting, the teams being more evenly matched. The game was hard fought all the way, the latter winning by a score of 19 to 18.

Death of Robert Corron

Robert Corron of Plato Center, one of the oldest settlers of Kane county, succumbed to pneumonia at his home early Monday morning. He was 87 years old. Mr. Corron came to Illinois from West Virginia in 1835, and owned several fine farms in the vicinity of Plato Center. Besides the wife, a son and three daughters survive. The funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon.

W. C. T. U. Notes

The home of Mrs. Chas. Smith will be open for the W. C. T. U. Frances Willard Memorial meeting to be held on Feb. 18, at 2:30 p. m. A good program is expected and all are cordially invited.

ELGIN BUTTER MARKET

Butter Is Now Priced at 24½ Cents on the Board of Trade Monday

Butter ruled firm on the Elgin board of trade at 24½ cents, showing a gain of one and one-half cents since last Monday. The output of the district was 328,100 pounds. No offerings and no sales were made. Former markets:

	Sales	Price
Feb. 1, '04	0	23
Feb. 9, '03	0	25
Feb. 10, '02	95	27
Feb. 11, '01	0	21
Feb. 12, '00	38	24

The New York market 24 cents steady, with total receipts of 4-825 tubs.

The thirty-second annual statistical report as compiled by the secretary of the Elgin board of trade shows that 46,294,471 pounds of butter and 4,177,407 pounds of chesse were manufactured during 1903. The make of butter in 1902 was 45,121,360 pounds.

The average price during 1903 was 23 1-25 cents and that of 1902 24 13-100. Returns from creameries indicate that the total value of last year's production (butter and chesse) is $10,979,951.65, butter alone being $10,666,646.12. Since the organization of the board in 1872, 832,072,277 pounds of butter and chesse were manufactured.

The number of factories represented on the board is 457; membership 226.

March had the highest average (28 1-10 cents) for 1903. During the past year butter was quoted as high as 29 cents. The lowest quotation was 18½ cents.

Gave Chalk Talk Lecture

Frank S. Regan of Rockford gave one of his celebrated chalk talk lectures in Odd Fellows' hall last Sunday evening. A large audience heard one of the most forceful temperance advocates in the United States of today. Special singing by the M. E. church choir was arranged for the service.

Van Fleet Will Not Be Tried

In all probability, Van Fleet of Aurora, who murdered his wife, will not be tried this term. It is said that neither Judge Willis or Bishop care to hear the case, and as Judge Brown has resigned it will be necessary to await the election of a new judge.

Judge Williams denies the statement that he does not want to try the case and says he is ready to take it up.

The defense will probably object to his hearing the case, as the judge was directly responsible for the indictment of Van Fleet.

Gave Cuticle for Grafting

One hundred Modern Woodmen of Los Angeles, California, bared their arms to a surgeon's knife last Friday, giving strips of cuticle to save the life of Charles Schissler of Des Moines, Iowa, who was almost fatally scalded by the explosion of an instantaneous heater. If successful the operation will be recorded as a remarkable surgical feat, as great patches of skin from Schissler's neck and chest were burned out. The Woodmen lodge of which he is a member volunteered its services.

To Play at Sycamore

The high school team will play basket ball with the Sycamore team this Friday evening at the latter place. This is the second game of the season with Sycamore, and from the experience of previous games the locals should win.

FORMERLY LIVED IN GENOA

Wm. DeWolf Succumbs to Anemia at Home in Belvidere

WAS ILL ABOUT TEN DAYS

Deceased Formerly Lived Here and Was Highly Respected in the Community

Funeral to Be Held Saturday

William C. DeWolf died of anemia at his home in Belvidere Thursday morning at 12:45 o'clock, after an illness of ten days.

Mr. DeWolf was born in Pennsylvania in July, 1830, being 74 years of age. He made his home in Genoa for several years. Later in life he purchased a farm one and one-quarter miles west of Kingston, where he made his home until removing to Belvidere. Mr. DeWolf had not been in good health for the past year, and his death at any time was not wholly unlooked for.

The funeral services will be held Saturday at the home at 1 p. m. and at 1:30 at the M. E. church, Rev. Sunderlin, assisted by Rev. E. D. Hull, officiating. Interment will be made in Belvidere.

Mr. DeWolf is father of Judge W. C. DeWolf. He also leaves two brothers, both of whom are living.

MET WEDNESDAY

Genoa Woman's Club Entertains at Home of Mrs. D. S. Brown

According to custom, the G. W. L. C. issued invitations to the husbands and friends and friends of its members and a goodly company met at the spacious home of Mrs. D. S. Brown Wednesday evening, Feb. 10, 1904. As the guests arrived the ladies drew from a box a picture. Then it was her duty to find the original, with whom she was to eat dinner. As most of the pictures were taken in early childhood the task was not an easy one, but served to dispel all feelings of reserve. As soon as possible places were found at the tables and a substantial 6 o'clock dinner was served. The young ladies, Miss Eva Sager, Miss Margaret Hutchison and Miss Hazel Robinson, gowned in white, proved to be very efficient waiters and left nothing undone that contributed to the comfort of the guests.

After dinner much merriment was caused when the gentlemen were requested to write a description of their wife's wedding dress. A prize was given for the best, Dr. Patterson, Mr. Robbin and Mr. Stout had to draw cuts for the prize, which Dr. Patterson won. Time passed quickly and pleasantly and with many hearty thanks to the genial host and hostess the goodnights were said.

Escaped an Awful Fate

Mr. H. Haggins of Melbourne, Fla., writes: "My doctor told me I had consumption and nothing could be done for me. I was given up to die. The offer of a free trial bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, induced me to try it. Results were startling. I am now on the road to recovery and owe it all to Dr. King's New Discovery. It surely saved my life." This great cure is guaranteed for all throat and lung diseases by Hunt's Pharmacy, Druggists. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free.

On a Large Scale

Every little while we run across facts that serve to emphasize, that this is a very large country in which we live and that we do things frequently on a very large scale. One of the recent things to cause our thoughts to run along this channel is the stupendous educational work being carried on by the International Correspondence Schools of Scranton, Pa. Scranton is a town among the hills of Pennsylvania and until a dozen years ago was hardly known to the world at large. Today it is the synonym of progressiveness in matters educational. Think of an army of more than 600,000 seekers after knowledge whose Alma Mater is this institution not yet in its teens. The schools employ a capital of over $3,000,000 and have about 3,200 persons on their pay roll. Their mailing department handles about 15,000 pieces of mail every day, necessitating the use of more than $400 worth of postage daily, and last year they sent out something like 63,000,000 pages of instruction.

Just at this time these schools are making a special effort by advertising and through a window display and by offering special discounts to have the people of Genoa inquire into what they are really doing and how they are doing it. It goes without saying that there are quite a good many who will be glad to avail themselves of the opportunity thus presented them to get an education along the line of their work or in connection with some subject that they are interested in. The school's representative, whose announcement and address may be found in our display columns, will be pleased to give to interested persons any information that may be desired.

A STUDENT'S TESTIMONIAL.

When I enrolled in the civil engineering course with the International Correspondence School I was employed in the machine shop of the U. S. Wind Engine and Pump Co. at Batavia, Ill., and had no knowledge of drafting whatever. I am now a draftsman in Love Bros.' engineering office, Aurora, Ill., which position I obtained as a direct result of my course with the course. I feel I can not say too much in their behalf, as I owe my present advance entirely to their simple, thorough and concise method of instruction.

Better Than Gold

"I was troubled for several years with chronic indigestion and nervous debility," writes F. J. Green, of Lancaster, N. H. "No remedy helped me until I began using Electric Bitters, which did me more good than all the medicines I ever used. They have also kept my wife in excellent health for years. She says Electric Bitters are just splendid for female troubles; that they are a grand tonic and invigorator for weak run down women. No other medicine can take its place in our family." Try them. Only 50c. Satisfaction guaranteed by Hunt's Pharmacy.

The Kingston News

News of Kingston and Vicinity as reported for THE GENOA REPUBLICAN of the week Ending February 12, 1904.

A SHORT ILLNESS

Mrs. Harriet Fuller Died Suddenly Last Saturday

Harriet Blanche Wheeler was born at Great Barrington, Mass., Aug. 4, 1830, and died at Kingston, Ill., Feb. 6, 1904, being 73 years, 6 months and 2 days of age.

On Sept. 23, 1847, she became united in marriage to Augustus Fuller at Canaan, New York, to which union were born three children of which a son and daughter died in infancy, there remaining to mourn the loss of a mother one son, A. L. and family who reside in this village.

She with her husband came west about the year 1853, moving to Wisconsin and remaining in that state until 1888 when they removed to Kingston. The husband departed this life some years ago and the widowed mother took up her abode with her son.

Mother Fuller became a Christian when but a young woman and tried as best she could to lead a consistent Christian life. Mother Fuller's demise removes another landmark from the circle of old settlers, which gradually grows less each year.

The funeral services were held in the M. E. church last Monday, Rev. C. S. Clay, the pastor, having charge of them.

Have Secured Rev. Liston Bass

The choir of the M. E. church have perfected arrangements with the eminent southern orator Dr. Liston H. Bass of Florence, South Carolina, for a lecture to be given in the church sometime during March. This will be a rare opportunity for the people of this community to hear this eloquent orator. He will have with him a lady pianist and a little colored girl 5 years of age, who will sing. More will be said when all arrangements are made. Dr. Bass is quoted by the Southern Lyceum Bureau at $125 a single lecture, and the committee feels like assuring the public of returning their money if they do not receive value received in the entertainment. His lectures have demonstrated that he stands as a peer among the most brilliant attractions upon the American platform, and his commanding personality is such as to give him a charm which few can ever expect to master.

Bound for Holy Land

The Rev. H. M. Bannen, whose projected trip to the Holy Land was announced some time ago, will leave Rockford March 1. He will attend the World's Sunday School convention at Jerusalem, and will sail from New York together with hundreds of other delegates to the sessions. Rev. Gelwicks will occupy the Trinity pulpit during his absence.

Last Number of Course

The committee in the course of entertainments received communication from the Glazier Lyceum Bureau stating that the final number on the course of entertainments, The Carolinian Jubilee Singers, will give their concert Saturday evening, April 16. Posters in the near future will announce the fact.

Miss Lizzie Vandeburg and George Astling Married Last Wednesday

At the home of Rev. and Mrs. C. S. Moore in Sycamore last Wednesday occurred the marriage of Miss Lizzie Vandeburg to George Astling of Sycamore.

Only a few friends and relatives were present to witness the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Astling departed on an afternoon train for Chicago, where they remained a few days before returning to Kingston.

The bride is the oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I. Vandeburg, possessing many personal charms and a winning manner. During the autumn and winter months she has been teacher in the Hix school just south of town, giving excellent satisfaction. The bridegroom is a popular young man of Sycamore, being held in high esteem by a countless number of friends. Mr. and Mrs. Astling will move to the E. C. West farm, one mile west of Sycamore, about March 1.

Tendency of the Times

The tendency of medical science is toward preventive measures. The best thought of the world is being given to the subject. It is easier and better to prevent than to cure. It has been fully demonstrated that pneumonia, one of the most dangerous diseases that medical men have to contend with, can be prevented by the use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Pneumonia always results from a cold or from an attack of influenza (grip) and it has been observed that this remedy counteracts any tendency of these diseases toward pneumonia. This has been fully proven in many thousands of cases in which this remedy has been used during the great prevalence of colds and grip in recent years, and can be relied upon with implicit confidence. Pneumonia often results from a slight cold when no danger is apprehended until it is suddenly discovered that there is fever and difficulty in breathing and pains in the chest, then it is announced that the patient has pneumonia. Be on the safe side and take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy as soon as the cold is contracted. It always cures. For sale by Hunt's Pharmacy.

LINCOLN'S ADVICE.

A Prescription That Might Be Used With Advantage Today.

There is a story still current in Illinois which says that an old farmer friend of President Lincoln, who used to correspond with him, complained on one occasion of his poor health. He received the following reply, which is quoted in Illinois as "Lincoln's prescription": "Do not worry. Eat three square meals a day. Say your prayers. Think of your wife. Be courteous to your creditors. Keep your digestion good. Steer clear of biliousness. Exercise. Go slow and go easy. Maybe there are other things that you especially care for that make you happy; but, my dear friend, these, I reckon, will give you a good lift."

This advice is doubtless applicable in its entirety to many Americans in every state in the Union today. There are parts of it which apply to us generally—as a nation. "Do not worry. Keep your digestion good. Go slow and easy." It would be difficult to find an American who has not something to amend on these points. Worry and dyspepsia have assumed the proportions of national evils, and they are both more or less the result of undue haste. There is no surer way to promote dyspepsia than to be in a constant state of hurry, and nothing will so surely give one the "blues" or incline one to worrying and fretting as dyspepsia. Our native institution—the "quick lunch" restaurant—is responsible for a large proportion of the physical ills of business people in large cities. Eating hastily—"bolting" one's food, as it is popularly expressed—is enough to ruin the digestive organs of an ostrich. A man would better eat half as much as usual at the midday meal, which is usually the most hurried, and take time to masticate properly what he does put into his stomach. Better still would it be if he would give himself ample time to relax and eat a light lunch without allowing any thought of business to intrude on this necessary period of relaxation.—Success.

Ulysses and Philip.

Time cannot change nor custom stale the infinite uniformity of the human heart. When the late Admiral Philip reproved his enthusiastic men at the battle of Santiago with the tender words of compassion for the defeated foe, "Don't cheer, boys; the poor devils are dying," the heart of the world responded approvingly. But the American admiral was not the first man to have that feeling for the humane proprieties in the face of death. It is related of Ulysses, also a sailor, that he chided the old nurse when she began to rejoice over the slaughter of Penelope's wooers, telling her that her satisfaction at the doing of justice must not be expressed aloud, "for it is an unholy thing to boast over slain men." Ulysses and Philip each knew that he was an instrument in the execution of a righteous purpose, but when the work was done each was saddened by the thought that death had come through his acts, and each was transformed from an avenging agent into a compassionate man.—Youth's Companion.

A Suggestive Silence.

Perhaps the greatest practical drawback of much swearing is that oaths, however good and round they be, lose their effectiveness through frequent use. On the famous occasion when Washington swore he was terrifying to hear. The Boston Transcript thinks an honest curse better than "ingrowing profanity." In this connection it tells of a noted prelate who was once playing golf with Mr. Choate and after fooling a tee shot egregiously stood looking at the ball for several moments. After waiting for the bishop to say something Mr. Choate remarked, "Bishop, that was the profanest silence I ever heard."

Anxious For Questions.

Little Johnny, having been invited out to dinner with his mother, was commanded not to speak at the table except he was asked a question and promised to obey the command. At the table no attention was paid to Johnny for a long time. He grew very restless, and his mother could see that he was having a hard time to "hold in." By and by he could stand it no longer. "Mamma," he called out, "when are they going to begin asking me questions?"—Puck.

Twice, Not Two.

A young lady was sitting with a gallant captain in a charmingly decorated recess. On her knee was a diminutive niece for appearance's sake. In the adjoining room, with the door open, were the rest of the company. Says the little niece in a jealous and very audible voice: "Auntie, kiss me too."

"You should say twice, Ethel, dear. Two is not grammar," was the immediate rejoinder.

LIFE AT WEST POINT.

An Example of How the Cadets Are Made to Economize.

The cadets at the Military academy at West Point are not favored as are often the students in colleges and universities who have wealthy parents—that is, they are not furnished with an unlimited amount of cash to buy "extras" for rooms, clothes and luxuries. All the cadets stand on the same footing and receive $500 a year, plus the commutation of rations amounting to $109.50 a year. However, with proper economy this yearly allowance is sufficient for the support of a cadet.

The army cadet who goes to the Military academy with spendthrift habits soon receives a decided and severe check. As an instance, a cadet some time ago went to the superintendent for an order for four shirts, but the superintendent peremptorily refused to give his approval. The young man was sorely in need, and he attempted to convince his superior of the fact. The latter took up the cadet's account book and perusing it a couple of moments threw it back to him, saying, "I have no doubt you are in great need of these shirts or you would not present this order, but you are in debt, and there's no excuse for you." The young cadet, with tears starting in his eyes and a trembling voice, responded: "But, colonel, I am almost destitute of changes of clothing. I have only one shirt to my back, and that is a fatigue jacket." The colonel was immovable and simply said as he dismissed the cadet from his presence, "Well, Mr. —, I would advise you to wear that fatigue jacket until you get out of debt, but be careful that you can pass muster at the inspection."—New York Tribune.

"Give Him the Sack."

Two noblemen in the reign of Maximilian II.—one a German, the other a Spaniard—who had each rendered a great service to the emperor, asked the hand of his daughter in marriage. Maximilian said that, as he esteemed them both alike, it was impossible to choose between them, and therefore their own prowess must decide it; but, being unwilling to risk the loss of either by engaging them in deadly combat, he ordered a large sack brought and declared that he who should put his rival into it should have his fair Helena. And this whimsical combat was actually performed in the presence of the imperial court and lasted an hour. The unhappy Spanish nobleman was first overcome, and the German succeeded in enveloping him in the sack, took him upon his back and laid him at the emperor's feet. This comical combat is said to be the origin of the phrase "Give him the sack" so common in the literature of courting.

A Soldier's Strange Death.

I find the following singular incident in the old Atlanta Intelligencer: "After the fight near Drewry's bluff on Monday last a surgeon who was searching the field for the wounded, that he might administer to their needs, observed a man in a kneeling position, with his gun to his shoulder pointed to the front, his left eye closed and having all the appearance of life. Upon examination he was found to be dead, a ball having passed through his brain at the moment when, resting on his left knee, he had taken sight at the foe. It is very remarkable that, so rigid was the corpse, some force was required to remove the gun from his grasp. He proved to be a member of the Twenty-ninth Virginia regiment of infantry."—Atlanta Constitution.

Odd Definitions.

"Amusing and ridiculous answers to examination questions are fairly common in graded public schools everywhere, I suppose," said a teacher at a public institution for the higher education of the colored race, "but an example recently handed in by a girl at least eighteen years of age surpasses anything of this kind I have heard yet."

"Being required to define the word 'tithes' and compose a sentence showing its use, her paper read: 'Tithes, something that binds, love, friendship. 'Blest be the tithes that binds.'"

"A scarcely less amusing answer was given by another pupil: "Upbraided, to braid up. She upbraided her hair. To lift up. They upbraided their hero who was dead with their bayonets."

Small, but Perfect.

In sour paste, vinegar, the melt of a codfish, or even in water in which decayed vegetables have been infused, the microscope reveals animalcules (little animals) so small that millions of them would not equal a common grain of wheat in bulk. And yet nature with singular prodigality has supplied many of these minute creatures with organs as complete and perfect as those of a whale or an elephant. In a single ounce of such matter there are more living creatures than there are human beings on the face of the globe!

There Are Exceptions.

"Do you mean to say," she inquired indignantly, "that there never was a woman who could keep a secret?"

"Oh, not at all," he protested earnestly. "To the contrary, there was Lot's wife, who never up to the present day has revealed what she saw when she stopped to take a farewell glance at the town she was leaving."—Syracuse Herald.

Some Comfort.

Blgg—Yes, sir. Sad case. Man who built this house of mine just got it finished when he died.

Wigg—Well, it might have been worse. He might have had to live in it.—Town and Country.

No fewer than thirty languages are spoken in the Caucasus. The inhabitants are Russians, Armenians, Tartars, Georgians and divers Mohammedan tribes.

His Exasperating Calmness.

"Laura," said Mr. Ferguson, the dinner having progressed thus far without any comment on his part, "where did you get this steak?"

"At the usual place," his wife replied. "What's wrong with it?"

"Nothing. It's the best we have had for a long time. That's why I inquired. Did you think I was finding fault with it?"

"How was I to know?" said Mrs. Ferguson, slightly irritated. "You always do your grumbling and your praising in exactly the same tone of voice."—Chicago Tribune.

Tom Reed's Comment.

Thomas B. Reed's portrait was painted by Sargent during the last year of his services in congress. When it was brought to Mr. Reed he looked at it critically. He noted the protruding lips, the faithful reproduction of his florid complexion, of his flabby cheeks, of his ponderous neck. His eyes narrowed between the lids and there came a cold glint in them. Then, pursing his lips as was his wont, he is said to have remarked, "I hope that my dearest enemy is satisfied now."

Altogether Too Inquisitive.

Burgess—What a humbug Doliver is! When I asked him if he had read my article about "The Epochal Era," he said he had and that it was the finest thing he had seen for years, but when I came to question him I found he didn't know the first thing about the article. What do you think of that?

Yerrow—I think it should be a lesson to you to let well enough alone next time.—Boston Transcript.

Not Ready Yet.

"Are you the photographer?"

"Yes, madam."

"Do you take children's pictures?"

"Yes, certainly."

"How much do you charge?"

"Three dollars a dozen."

"Well," said the woman sorrowfully, "I'll have to see you again. I've only got eleven."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Flinding More Material.

"How large is your Mammoth cave?"

"Nobody knows exactly," said the native. "It's so large, though, and people get lost in it so easily, that when a man is about to explore it he makes his will and wishes his weeping friends goodby."

"Most astonishing! I never heard that before!"

"Oh, well, of course, it isn't quite so bad as that. I was only joking."

"Another curious custom among Americans is that when they tell an amazing lie they call it a joke."—Chicago Tribune.

True Mercy.

"Prisoner," said the judge, "you are convicted of bigamy, of having married two wives. Have you any plea for mercy before the sentence of the court is imposed on you?"

"Yes, judge," said the prisoner. "Give me as big a sentence in jail as you can."

"What?"

"I want to keep out of the clutches of those two wives as long as I can, and a long jail sentence will be true mercy."

LAW ON SLIDE MOUNTAIN.

Nevada Justice as It Was Dispensed in the Old Days.

"One night several years ago," said the old timer from Nevada who is ending his days on the Pacific slope, "when everything, from the faro banks to the real estate, was running sorter loose in Nevada, half of Slide mountain forsook the rest and came tearing down into the valley back of Washoe City. Nobody would 'a' cared a bit about that, except that it was going at such a rate that when it hit the valley it picked up Joe Frey's ranch and boosted it over on top of Tule Frank's ranch and then settled down in the hole Joe Frey's ranch used to occupy."

"The perplexing question of law this cussedness on the part of Slide mountain brought up was, Who owned the ranch that landed on top? Joe Frey claimed the ranch because his was on top, and he said every man owned his property under the law clear up to the blue heaven. Tule Frank said the ranch was his'n because every man owned his property to the middle of the earth. So the litigation began."

"They got a jury together in back of the old postoffice at Washoe before the county judge, and some young fellers from the states turned loose more law in the six days of the trial than the judge's cranium could take in in seventeen years."

"Then the jury went out to decide who nature intended to own these ranches. It hung out four days. But, finally, when the jury reached a judgement we all filed in to hear the doom of the defeated litigant and git drunk with the winner. Well, that jury found that Tule Frank was the owner of that ranch, but stuck in the proviso to the effect that before Tule Frank could use the ranch he'd have to throw Joe Frey's ranch off'n it."—California Call.

Against the Regulations.

"Say, mister, you hain't allowed to run them machines up trees around here."

The Bold Bandit.

"Hello, Freddie! Are you playin' robber?"

"Playin' nuthin'. This is the real thing. I'm waitin' for cook, an' when she comes she'll tell where she hides the pies or I'll know the reason why."—New York Evening Journal.

Bright Man.

"There wouldn't be so many amateur hunters lost in the woods," said Jenkins, "if they'd only carry pocket compasses."

"Why?" asked Dumley. "What good is a compass?"

"You can't get lost when you have one. The needle always points to the north, and—"

"But suppose you want to go to the east, south or west?"—Philadelphia Ledger.

Important Announcement

DURING the month of FEBRUARY we are going to make a determined and well directed effort to acquaint everybody in

GENOA with the great educational opportunity that is placed within their easy reach through the instrumentality of the INTERNATIONAL CORRESPONDENCE SCHOOLS OF SCRANTON, PA.

You have probably heard of the International Correspondence Schools and know something of the great educational work we are carrying on so successfully. If, however, you have not, YOU HAVE SOMETHING IMPORTANT YET TO LEARN. For twelve years we have been conducting this great work and during that time have enrolled as students OVER 600,000 AMBITIOUS PERSONS whose studies have been conducted at home, in spare time moments and at so small a cost as to bring the opportunity within their easy reach.

IF YOU DO NOT ALREADY KNOW, WE WANT YOU TO KNOW That if for any reason you cannot attend a college or university, that the education to be had at a college or university can be brought to your very door.

There are no barriers, no obstacles, no combination of circumstances that can prevent anybody anywhere getting that education which in these days is so essential to success.

We Teach Wherever the Mails Reach

And our teaching is successfully conducted as thousands of our students in all parts of the country will willingly testify. We cannot of course tell you all about our work in a newspaper announcement but we invite your inquiries and will put our time against yours to give you any information you desire. In making an inquiry you place yourself under no obligation. It does not follow that because you make an inquiry you will be expected to enroll. But we desire an opportunity to tell you what others are doing and what you may do in like manner if you care to, and then it will rest with you whether or not you take advantage of it.

Below is a partial list of positions we can qualify you to fill. Find the subject you are interested in, place an X opposite it, sign your name and address, cut it out and mail to the undersigned. We will upon its receipt mail you a little pamphlet entitled "A Thousand and One Stories of Success" and will give you such additional information as you would wish to have to determine the scope of the course, the practicability of our plan of instruction and the terms and conditions upon which you may avail yourself of it.

Cut this out and mail it to the Local Representative whose address is given elsewhere in this announcement.

International Correspondence Schools. Gentlemen—Please explain how I can qualify for the position at left of which I have marked X.

Resolutions

Whereas, it has pleased our Heavenly Father in his infinite love and wisdom to call to her reward our esteemed sister, Jeanette Leonard, be it therefore

Resolved, That in her death the W. C. T. U. loses a faithful and earnest member, the church one who was loyal and true to its every interest, and her family a kind and loving mother. While we deeply deplore our loss we realize that it is her eternal gain and bow in submission to the will of Him who doeth all things well.

Resolved, That we extend to the bereaved family our heartfelt sympathy in the hour of their deep affliction, and commend them to the care of an all-wise and loving Father.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be presented to the family, published in the Genoa papers and spread upon the records of the W. C. T. U.

A WELSH BABY PROPHET.

An extraordinary incident, alleged to have occurred about the middle of December last, has caused an immense sensation in Bethesda. On a Friday while a woman was washing her three-months-old child, so the story goes, she was thunderstruck to hear the baby say, "Blwyddyn of nadwy fydd y fiwyddyn nesaf, mam," which, roughly translated, means "Next year will be a terrible year, mother!" In her astonishment and terror the mother laid the child down and ran to a neighbor's house and told a woman there of the occurrence. The woman at once ran to the house and, picking the child up, soothed and caressed it awhile, and then, half playfully, half in earnest, she said to the child, "Did you tell your mother that next year would be a terrible year?" To her unbounded astonishment, the child replied, "Yes," and fell back dead. The child was buried on the following Saturday afternoon in the presence of large crowds, who discussed the story and are spreading it far and wide.—Liverpool Post.

New Scheme in Tips.

M. Leon Dunfour, a Parisian restaurateur, has decided to do away with tips by assessing his guests 5 per cent of their bills and dividing the money thus raised among his waiters. He has had little notices to this effect printed on pretty pink paper in three languages—to wit, French, English and German—explaining modestly that this is a trial made in order to palliate as far as possible the irritating question of gratuities and adding that the percentage will be handed over in full to the staff and be considered as taking the place of the former gratuities. The majority of his guests thoroughly approve of it, and so does his staff. He calculates the average percentage a month at 1,200 francs, which, divided among his ten employees, makes 120 francs for each. This means a rough total of 1,440 francs a year for each member of his personnel.

The Decline of Pie.

A writer in Harper's Weekly laments the passing of the American pie habit as it flourished a generation ago. Americans, he thinks, eat other foods than pie now. Patent breakfast foods compete audaciously with pie for the supremacy of the breakfast table. Pie does not advertise, and a food that does not advertise cannot expect to maintain its tyranny over the digestive apparatus of a nation of readers. Pie is no longer the champion of the food list. "But what seems especially remarkable about it is the lack of individuality about the pie of commerce. The lunch room keeper recognizes only two kinds of pie—good pie and spoiled pie. Consumers must be equally indiscriminating. In the age when pie was king it was not so. Then there were pies and pies."

Making Good.

The expression "make good," product of the American habit of creating short and telling idioms, is beginning to comprise the whole story of success in any endeavor, says the St. Louis Republic. Whether it be an appeal to public support, whether it be in the smaller relation of services rendered to an employer, the American judgment is becoming unusually keen in deciding whether, on the whole, a man "makes good." It is not precisely a question of this or that shortcoming. It is chiefly a question of a spontaneous judgment. There are no ifs or buts connected with the matter. The man "makes good" or he doesn't "make good," and that's an end to discussion. Anybody can see whether he does or not. Excuses don't go.

Ancient Bald Heads.

A discovery in the land of the pharaohs will interest those whose heads time has ravaged. A French Egyptologist has recently unearthed a papyrus giving a recipe for what must in those times have been a royal remedy against baldness, since it was concocted for no less a personage than King Chata, the second sovereign of the first dynasty, about 4000 B. C. The remedy was employed by the king's mother. It consisted of a salve of dogs' paws, dates and asses' hoofs pounded up and then boiled in oil. With this salve the royal head was anointed. As to the result the papyrus is regrettably silent.

Shabby, but Noble.

Not long ago John Burns, M. P., was seen by a Battersea elector walking arm in arm with a shabbily dressed man, whom the Battersea resident took to be a tramp. Drawing Burns aside, he said to him: "Look 'ere, John, dee-mocracy's all very fine, but don't you reckernize what's doo to your position as a member of the 'ouse? Fancy walkin' about harm in harm in broad daylight with a workin' man." "S-sh," whispered Burns. "That's the Duke of Norfolk." And it was.

The Humorous Side of Things

Mrs. Henpeck—I believe you only married me for my money.
Mr. Henpeck—Everybody else thinks the same thing.

Jimmie—Say, ain't you got no more sense dan ter laugh at a feller wot's got a tootache?
Willie—I ain't laffin 'cause you got it. I'm laffin 'cause I ain't got it.—New York Times.

"I wish, doctor, you'd send me to some watering place that will offer a suitable background for this costume."

"Why, Freddie, that isn't the way Constantinople is spelled in your geography."
"I know it ain't, but the geography's copyrighted."—Chicago American.

"Were you ever in love, James?"
"Huh! I've had that fool disease so often dat I'm immune now."—San Francisco Examiner.

be a sufferer from any such trouble. I used to live out of doors, sleep on the ground and eat plain food. Then I was healthy. Oh, but this gout hurts! It just compels you to swear. A religious friend told me I ought to pray for relief. Maybe so, but it's easier to swear and seems to be more natural." Chief Porter, who is over seventy years old, has been leader of his nation for over half a century.

FOR THE LITTLE ONES.

How a Clever Bird Attempts to Protect Itself From Its Enemies.
The grouse has a hundred tricks of defense. It will sometimes lie still until the hunter is within a yard of it, then soar straight upward in his front, towering like a woodcock. Again it will rise forty yards away, and the sound of its wings is his only notice of its presence. It will cover upon a branch under which he passes, and his cap will not be more than a foot below it as he goes, and, though it has seen him approaching, it will remain quiescent in frightful fear until his back is turned. It will flush then, and when he has sleved himself hurriedly around he will catch only a glimpse of a broad brown wing far away. Wounded and falling in the open, it will be found—if it is found at all—with the telltale speckles of its breast against the trunk of some brown tree, against which its feathers are indistinguishable, and the black ruff about the neck of the male will be laid against the darkest part of the bark. Often as man draws near it will spring noiselessly into some spruce and hide until he passes, dropping then to the ground and continuing its feeding. Often, too, it will decline to take wing, though unhurt, and will run fast for a half mile—so fast that the most expert woodsman will be unable to keep pace with it. This it will do only on leafy ground and never when snow would betray its tracks.—Quint.

Marie Corelli.

Of her habits of work, her biographers record that she is most methodical. Miss Corelli says: "I write every day from 10 in the morning until 2 in the afternoon, alone and undisturbed. I generally scribble off the first rough draft of a story very rapidly in pencil; then I copy it out in pen and ink, chapter by chapter, with fastidious care, not only because I like a neat manuscript, but because I think everything that is worth doing at all is worth doing well. I find, too, that in the gradual process of copying by hand the original draft, like the painter's first sketch, gets improved and enlarged."

Irish Doll Industry.

Mrs. Florence Eaton, an Irishwoman, happened to discover a substance—not india rubber, but something similar to it—which when treated according to a certain process could be molded into faces capable of standing an immense amount of rough usage without injury, while in appearance as natural and attractive as the best wax faces. These Irish dolls sometimes have the faces of distinguished personages. Within a few years in consequence dollmaking has become an Irish industry.

Not to Be Mentioned.

One day the children were having an object lesson on the guinea pig. The teacher called attention to its short tail, saying, "You see it has no tail to speak of." Shortly afterward she asked the scholars to write a description of the animal, and a little German girl wound up by saying, "The guinea pig has a tail, but it must not be talked about."

"Aha, Mr. Millions! Caught you cutting coupons, eh?"
"Well, what of it? I'm not ashamed to be seen working."

"Say, Judge, I have just discovered a way of dying without using my wings and have come to ask you for advice."
"Stop smoking cigarettes. You're dopey!"—Philadelphia Ledger.

"She is a girl of uncertain age, I believe."
"No. She's been the same for the last 20 years."
