Recently a newspaper man received a half-rate ticket and wrote to the superintendent asking him if he could not embrace his wife also on the trip. The superintendent thought likely that he could, but did not want to say positively until he had seen the wife, as he was a little fastidious in his tastes.

There is hardly a married man, except editors, who does not carry in his pocket the picture of an attractive woman who is not his wife and still the wives are not jealous of the young lady. We violate no confidence when we say her name is Miss Mary Williams of Philadelphia and her picture ornaments the silver dollar which we all love so well.

There were about a dozen of our small boys sitting in a circle the other day with a small dog in the center, when one of our leading citizens came by, stopped and asked them, "What are you doing boys?" One of them answered, "We are telling lies, the one telling the largest gets the dog." When the gentleman began telling the boys that when he was small little boys never told lies, the smallest boy at once spoke up saying, "Give him the dog."—Ex.

CHAPTER XIII.

To Clarice, the consciousness of a new lover, who waited only for the faintest sign of encouragement from her to declare himself, brought undoubted consolation for the effort it had cost her to renounce the old love; but Janetta drooped and pined for some tidings of the man who had taken her heart by storm and held it fast—Harry Merivale.

She saw his arrival in England recorded in the daily paper. Later on she noticed that his valuable services in the late campaign were to be rewarded by a high appointment in the war office.

"Janetta," said Clarice, one day in June, "are you going to wear black clothes for the rest of your days? It's more than a year since your brother died."

"I'll go into colors again, if you like," answered Janetta, obedient to Clarice's faintest wish. "Come up with me to London tomorrow and you shall choose my dresses for me."

"I'm afraid you must go alone, Janetta, because—because Sir Robert has telegraphed to say that he will be here and I must be at home to receive him."

Janetta looked up quickly, and Clarice's eyes fell before the questioning glance. "Is it that you have given him leave to come, Clarice?"

"Well, yes," Clarice admitted, half reluctantly. "He loves me as I believe never woman was loved before—a million times more than I'm worth loving—and I'm going to marry him. And I've got it into my head that I wish you to mark the occasion by dropping your black frock. So go to London and come back in the prettiest dress you can buy."

"Oh, my dear, my dear!" cried Janetta, between laughter and tears, "how happy you have made me—how happy you will make the man who marries you! I'm so glad, so glad, that I feel as if I could sob my heart out for very joy."

That day Clarice wrote a short note to Harry Merivale asking him to come down on the following afternoon and spend the night at Sea Grange.

"Surely it is time we met again," she wrote. She said nothing of her invitation to Janetta; but asked her to be sure and return to Northcliff by a certain train she named in the afternoon.

"And you are to come back in that new frock, Janetta. Sir Robert will be here, remember."

So it came to pass that, on that June afternoon, Janetta stood on the platform of London station, prepared to return to Northcliff. She was dressed in a pale gray costume, with soft frills about her throat, and a large gray hat with drooping feathers, and stood by the door of her carriage, unconscious of the many glances of admiration that were cast at her as the passengers hurried by.

She was thinking of her first journey to Northcliff, only sixteen months ago, and feeling that a lifetime seemed to have passed since then.

"Good evening, Miss Howard. Shall we travel together?" said a voice behind her. And, turning, she found herself face to face with the man of her dreams.

It was impossible to keep the tumultuous joy that his presence brought with it out of her greeting.

A fabulously large tip to the guard insured their privacy; and Harry could not repress a little triumphant laugh as the train steamed out of the station.

Then for the first time Janetta trusted herself to look steadily at him. He was bronzed with exposure to sun and weather; he was thinner, too; perhaps not so strictly handsome as when he had gone away, but the face had gained much in nobility.

"You knew I should come, Janetta. You were certain that, when it seemed right and fitting, I should come?"

"I was not quite sure," Janetta faltered.

"Then you ought to have been, my darling, my darling!" said Harry, drawing nearer. "I can't be mistaken, Janetta. Love like mine have its echo in your heart."

"Yes," said Janetta, simply. And the next instant Harry's arms closed round her.

"Oh, what will Clarice say?" cried Janetta, when the train drew up at Northcliff an hour or so later.

"She is here to speak for herself," said Harry, jumping on the platform, "and Drake is with her."

(The End.)

WHITE FEATHER

There is no need to mention the name of his regiment here. That is a secret that belongs to the army alone. Suffice it to say that his comrades are proud of his name.

He should never have entered the army at all, much less a hard riding cavalry regiment, which had a reputation to sustain by a yearly tribute of broken necks and collar bones.

His proper vocation was that of a linen draper's assistant, and he had filled that occupation very satisfactorily till one evil day he had fallen in love with a girl, a silly, shallow girl, at whom no practical man or boy would have taken a second look.

He adored her, and she adored soldiers. In their walks abroad she would direct his steps toward the Horse guards or Wellington barracks, that she might gaze in admiration at the fine, strapping soldiers who were to be seen there, and every time she pinched his arm and exclaimed: "Oh, Jack, look at that lovely soldier!" his heart gave him a pang at the thought that he was only a draper's assistant, with nothing in common with the military but the handling of red cloth! He was a dreamer by nature, and falling in love did not lessen his weakness in this direction. Dreaming is pardonable in a poet, but an unpardonable crime in a linen draper's assistant, and as he stood at his counter his mind was far away from his work. Instead of listening to the "Forward!" of the shopwalker he could only hear the short-rung word of command and the blare of the bugles that sounded through his dreams; wherefore it was not long before he came into conflict with his practical chief. A few sharp words passed. He threw up in three seconds a position it had taken six years of hard, unremitting labor to attain. Then he enlisted.

He gained his title on his first display in the riding school, where, after a short ride on the neck of the riding master's pet buck jumper, he turned deathly pale and cried aloud that he might be allowed to dismount.

The horse at once gratified his desire by throwing him on to the tan, where he lay trembling in every limb, much to the diversion of a couple of rough riders who were standing by. They were quick to inform their respective squadrons, and his former occupation being known, he was promptly christened White Feather.

In those dark days it was the joy of the more hardy recruits to take him aside solemnly and request the service of three pence three farthings worth of white feathers. Any morsel of down or fluff that might float into the barracks was promptly captured and presented to him with due ceremonies by Trumpeter Pipes, the low comedian of the regiment.

The older men forebore to join in with these somewhat tiring repetitions of a stale joke. They remembered their own experiences in the riding school and recognized that White Feather was a quiet and inoffensive fellow, devoid of the impudence and bad manners peculiar to recruits and respectful and helpful to his seniors.

The sergeant instructor, too, after a time took a fancy to his timid recruit, and took extra trouble to teach him how to keep his heels out, his hands down and his head up.

"I've made smart cavalymen out of bigger duffers than you," he used to remark encouragingly as he flicked White Feather's horse into a canter, "and I'll make a rider of you, or I'll break your neck!" White Feather's neck remained unbroken, so it is to be presumed that the sergeant instructor fulfilled his word.

Presently he began to lose the hang-dog look of suppressed terror with which he had been accustomed to enter the riding school and to acquire the easy swagger of a cavalymen. His chest, contracted by long hours at the counter, developed under healthy training. Fresh air and much exercise helped White Feather's development, which had been sadly retarded by the heavy, gas-laden atmosphere in which he had lived. His nerves acquired tone, and he learned to take a tumble now and then as a matter of course and to fire his carbine without shutting his eyes and blanching at the explosion of the cartridge.

"Blow me, if he isn't going to shape into a man at last!" quoth the sergeant instructor.

Then a great blow fell upon him. He received one morning a letter from the girl to tell him that she had given him up in favor of a shopwalker who had expectations of being set up in business by his father. She admitted that she had adored soldiers and that she had caused him to enter the army for her sake. But she had omitted to state that the soldiers she adored were soldiers who possessed the queen's commission and who wore stars instead of a worsted stripe.

If poor White Feather was a physical coward, he was a moral hero. There is no chance of a display of feeling in a barrack room, so, like the Spartan boy of old, he hugged his trouble to him, slipping the cheap little engagement ring with which he had sealed his troth into his pocket without a sign beyond the twitching of his white lips. Then he lit his pipe with the letter, not out of contempt, but because there is little privacy accorded in the correspondence that comes to the barrack room, and a private soldier is not provided with a desk wherein to keep his faded flowers and other sentimental tokens of the past.

The blow was a very heavy one, for White Feather was without the worldly knowledge that should have told him long since that he had fixed his affections upon a vulgar, selfish and brainless flirt, and he still believed in her.

For her sake he had learned to overcome his physical cowardice. He had dreamed of a possible commission in the dim future and had rejoiced in the recently acquired promotion as a step toward her.

For her sake, too, he received the news cheerfully when the word passed through the barracks that the regiment was ordered to South Africa to meet the Boers. He knew that he was by nature a coward, but for the memory of her he swore an oath to himself to do his duty without sparing himself in the coming fight.

"Look 'ere, old chap, we ain't going to call you White Feather no more!" said Trumpeter Pipes as they lay together behind the shelter of a large boulder, against the face of which the Boer bullets were pattering like a heavy rain.

In full sight of the whole army their squadron had crossed the Boer front amid a hail of bullets which had brought twenty men to earth.

White Feather's horse had been shot under him, and, at the risk of his life, he had carried the wounded trumpeter into the shelter of the boulders. He was unhurt, but trembled in every limb from fear and great exertion.

From between two boulders he peeped out and saw, amid the bodies of men and horses that littered the plain, a wounded man crawling on his hands and knees amid a spatter of bullets that were kicking puffs of dust from the dry earth all around him.

It was his captain.

White Feather watched him for a moment; then he saw him stoop and lie down on his side despairingly. He could crawl no more.

"I will, for her sake!" he murmured between his clenched teeth, and, rising from the shelter of the rock, he faced the hail of death that pattered to the earth around him.

As he walked into the open a faint cheer reached his ears from the British troops half a mile behind him. The Royal artillery backed him with a shrieking flight of shrapnel, which whistled for a moment overhead, then burst over the Boer lines a quarter of a mile away in a shower of bullets that for a moment quelled the storm around him.

He reached the wounded man, lifted him on his back and returned step by step to where Trumpeter Pipes lay hidden.

The trumpeter gave him a faint "Bravo!" as he staggered and fell with his burden into the kindly shelter of the rock.

That was White Feather's reward. On a distant hill the British commander shut his field glasses with a snap.

"Tell the general to keep down the fire on the right there and get those men in from behind those boulders," he said to his aid, "and bring me that man's name. If he is alive, tell him that I saw it all, and that I'm going to recommend him for the cross. Never saw a finer show of finer discipline in my life!" added the commander to himself as his aid galloped off.

White Feather's eyes glistened as he received the messages and heard the cheer that swept along the lines as he was carried in.

"Perhaps I shall get that commission after all," he said to himself; "then she will think more of me."

Perhaps it was just as well that he died five minutes later—this faithful worshiper of a goddess of clay.

STORMS ON BAIKAL.

Tempestuous Times on One of Siberia's Great Inland Seas.

The part of the Siberian railroad that will skirt the southern shores of Lake Baikal has not yet been built. It involves difficult engineering, and the railroad authorities decided, for a few years, to use ice-breaking steamers, they barges to them, load them with passengers and freight cars and thus ferry trains across the lake. But now they have come to the conclusion to build the line around the foot of the lake as soon as they can, for they are having no end of trouble with stormy and foggy Baikal. The lake is sixty-five miles wide and it is no joke for the passengers to be penned in their cars on the barges for twenty to forty hours at a time, as has happened now and then within the last year. On these occasions a storm on the lake or a heavy fog has made it impossible to reach port on the farther side. Anyone knowing the conditions of travel on this lake might expect such accidents. There is no good port and one cannot be made without spending a fortune. A while ago sailing vessels were the only means of transport, and they sometimes took over a fortnight in crossing the lake, beating up and down and waiting for a chance to get to the landing while storms were raging for days and days. Millions of Russians seem to have an erroneous idea of Baikal. It is the largest fresh water lake in Asia, but the Russians do not hesitate to call it the largest in the world. In fact, the lake is thus ranked in some of the geographies used in Russian schools. The compilers of these text books would seem never to have heard of our great lakes and those of central Africa.—New York Sun.

Clinging to Polish Language.

The Poles who inhabit the province of Posen, a part of the former kingdom of Poland, wish to maintain the public use of their language, but the authorities do not approve of their desire. Hitherto those Poles ignorant of the German tongue addressed letters and parcels to their friends in their own language. This has now been strictly forbidden. The chief postmaster for the district of Posen has given orders to all postoffices and postal agencies in his district that no mail shall in future be accepted, forwarded or delivered which bears as its address an inscription in the Polish language. By way of explanation he adds that the postal service is not merely a public servant, but has also national and educational functions to perform.—Wolfgang Voltz, in Chicago Record.

The interest bill of the city of New York amounts to more than $13,600,000.

TALMAGE'S SERMON.

RESURRECTION OF THE REDEEMER SUNDAY'S SUBJECT

"Now Is Christ Risen from the Dead and Become the First Fruits of Them That Sleep"—First Book Corinthians, Chapter Twenty-Five, Twentieth Verse

(Copyright, 1901, by Louis Kloppsch, N. Y.) Washington, April 7.—The great Christian festival celebrated in all the churches is the theme of Dr. Talmage's discourse; I Corinthians xv, 20, "Now is Christ risen from the dead and become the first fruits of them that slept."

On this glorious Easter morning, amid the music and the flowers, I give you Christian salutation. This morning, Russian meeting Russian on the streets of St. Petersburg hails him with the salutation, "Christ is risen!" and is answered by his friend in salutation, "He is risen indeed!" In some parts of England and Ireland to this very day there is the superstition that on Easter morning the sun dances in the heavens. And well may we forgive such a superstition, which illustrates the fact that the natural world seems to sympathize with the spiritual.

Hail, Easter morning! Flowers! Flowers! All of them a-voice, all of them a-tongue, all of them full of speech to-day. I bend over one of the lilies, and I hear it say, "Consider the lilies of the field, how they grow; they toil not, neither do they spin, yet Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these." I bend over a rose and it seems to whisper, "I am the rose of Sharon." And then I stand and listen. From all sides there comes the chorus of flowers, saying, "If God so clothed the grass of the field which to-day is and to-morrow is cast into the oven, shall he not much more clothe you, O ye of little faith?"

Flowers! Flowers! Braid them into the bride's hair. Flowers! Flowers! Strew them over the graves of the dead, sweet prophecy of the resurrection. Flowers! Flowers! Twist them into a garland for my Lord Jesus on Easter morning, and "Glory be to the Father, and to the Son, and to the Holy Ghost, as it was in the beginning, is now and ever shall be." The women came to the Saviour's tomb, and they dropped spices all around the tomb, and those spices were the seed that began to grow, and from them came all the flowers of this Easter morn. The two angels robed in white took hold of the stone at the Saviour's tomb, and they hurled it with such force down the hill that it crushed in the door of the world's sepulchre and the stark and the dead must come forth.

The World's Great Conquerors.

If I should come to you and ask you for the names of the great conquerors of the world you would say Alexander, Caesar, Philip, Napoleon I. Ah, you have forgotten to mention the name of a greater conqueror than all these—a cruel, a ghastly conqueror. He rode on a black horse across Waterloo and Chalons and Atlanta, the bloody hoofs crushing the hearts of nations. It is the conqueror Death. He carries a black flag and he takes no prisoners. He digs a trench across the hemispheres and fills it with the carcasses of nations. Fifty times would the world have been depopulated had not God kept making new generations. Fifty times the world would have swung lifeless through the air—no man on the mountain, no man on the sea, an abandoned ship plowing through immensity. Again and again has he done this work with all generations. He is a monarch as well as a conqueror; his palace a sepulchre; his fountains the falling tears of a world. Blessed be God! In the light of this Easter morning I see the prophecy that his scepter shall be broken, and his palace shall be demolished. The hour is coming when all who are in their graves shall come forth. Christ risen, we shall rise. Jesus, "the first fruits of them that slept."

Now, around this doctrine of the resurrection there are a great many mysteries. You come to me and say, "If the bodies of the dead are to be raised, how is this and how is that? And you ask me a thousand questions I am incompetent to answer. But there are a great many things you believe that you are not able to explain. You would be a very foolish man to say, 'I don't believe anything I can't understand.' Why, putting down one kind of flower seed, comes there up this flower of this color? Why, putting down another flower seed, comes there up a flower of this color? One flower white, another flower yellow, another flower crimson. Why the difference when the seeds look to be very much alike—are very much alike? Explain these things. Explain that wart on the finger. Explain the difference why the oak leaf is different from the leaf of the hickory. Tell me how the Lord Almighty can turn the chariot of his omnipotence on a rose leaf. You ask me questions about the resurrection I cannot answer. I will ask you a thousand questions about everyday life you cannot answer.

Significance of a Great Sound.

You have noticed, I suppose, in reading the story of the resurrection that almost every account of the Bible gives the idea that the characteristic of that day will be a great sound. I do not know that it will be very loud, but I know it will be very penetrating. In the mausoleum where silence has reigned a thousand years that voice must penetrate. In the coral cave of the deep that voice must penetrate. Millions of spirits will come through the gates of eternity, and they will come to the tombs of the earth, and they will cry, "Give us back our bodies; we gave them to you in corruption; surrender them now in incorruption." Hundreds of spirits hovering about the fields of Gettysburg, for there the bodies are buried. A hundred thousand spirits coming to Greenwood, for there the bodies are buried, waiting for the reunion of body and soul.

All along the sea route from New York to Liverpool, at every few miles where a steamer went down, departed spirits coming back, hovering over the wave. There is where the City of Boston perished. Found at last. There is where the President perished. Steamers found at last. There is where the Central America went down. Spirits hovering, hundreds of spirits, hovering waiting for the reunion of body and soul. Out on the prairie a spirit afloat. There is where a traveler died in the snow. Crash goes Westminster abbey, and the poets and the orators come forth; wonderful mingling of good and bad. Crash go the pyramids of Egypt, and the monarchs come forth.

The Immortal Body.

"But," you say, "if this doctrine of the resurrection is true, as prefigured by this Easter morning, can you tell us something about the resurrected body?" I can. There are mysteries about that, but I shall tell you three or four things in regard to the resurrected body that are beyond guessing and beyond mistake.

In the first place, I remark in regard to your resurrected body, it will be a glorious body. The body we have now is a mere skeleton of what it would have been if sin had not marred and defaced it. Take the most exquisite statue that was ever made by an artist and chip it here and chip it there with a chisel and batter and bruise it here and there and then stand it out in the storms of a hundred years, and the beauty would be gone. Well, the human body has been chipped and battered and bruised and damaged with the storms of thousands of years—the physical defects of other generations coming down from generation to generation, we inheriting the infelicities of past generations. But in the morning of the resurrection the body will be adorned and beautified according to the original model. And there is no such difference between a gymnast and an emaciated wretch in a lazaretto as there will be a difference between our bodies as they are now and our resurrected forms. There you will see the perfect eye after the waters of death have washed out the stains of tears and study. There you will see the perfect hand after the knots of toil have been untied from the knuckles. There you will see the form erect and elastic after the burdens have gone off the shoulder—the very life of God in the body. In this world the most impressive thing, the most expressive thing, is the human face, but that face is veiled with the griefs of a thousand years. But in the resurrection morn that veil will be taken away from the face, and the noonday sun is dull and dim and stupid compared with the outflaming glories of the countenances of the saved. When those faces of the righteous, those resurrected faces, turn toward the gate, or look up toward the throne, it will be like the dawning of a new morning on the bosom of everlasting day. O glorious, resurrected body!

But I remark, also, in regard to that body which you are to get in the resurrection, it will be an important body. These bodies are wasting away. Somebody has said that as soon as we begin to live we begin to die. Unless we keep putting the fuel into the furnace the furnace dies out. The blood vessels are canals taking the breadstuffs to all parts of the system. We must be reconstructed hour by hour, day by day. Sickness and death are at all times trying to get their pry under the tenement or to push us off the embankment of the grave. But, blessed be God, in the resurrection we will get a body immortal. No malaria in the air, no cough, no neuralgic twinge, no rheumatic pang, no fluttering of the heart, no shortness of breath, no ambulance, no dispensary, no hospital, no invalid's chair, no spectacles to improve the dim vision, but health, immortal health! O ye who have aches and pains indescribable this morning, ye who are never well, ye who are lacerated with physical distress, let me tell you of the resurrected body, free from all disease. Immortal! Immortal!

In Heaven.

Put off occupation in heaven. I suppose Broadway, New York, in the busiest season of the year at noonday is not so busy as heaven is all the time. Grand projects of mercy for other worlds. Victories to be celebrated. The downfall of despotism on earth to be announced. Great songs to be learned and sung. Great expeditions on which God shall send forth his children. Plenty to do, but no fatigue. If you are seated under the trees of life, it will not be to rest, but to talk over with some old comrade old times—the battles where you fought shoulder to shoulder.

Sometimes in this world we feel we would like to have such a body as that. There is so much work to be done for Christ, there are so many tears to be wiped away, there are so many burdens to life, there is so much to be achieved for Christ, we sometimes wish that from the first of January to the last of December we could toil on without stopping to sleep or to take any recreation or to rest or even to take food—that we could toil right on without stopping a moment in our work of commending Christ and heaven to all the people. But we all get tired. It is a characteristic of the human body in this condition; we must get tired. Is it not a glorious thought that we are going to have a body that will never grow weary? O glorious resurrection day! Gladly will I fling aside this poor body of sin and fling it into the tomb if at thy bidding I shall have a body that never wearies. That is a splendid resurrection hymn that we have all sung:

So Jesus slept. God's dying Son
Passed through the grave and blossomed the bed.
Rest here, blest saint, till from his throne
The morning breaks to pierce the shade.

The Risen Savior.

O blessed resurrection! Speak out, sweet flowers, beautiful flowers! While you tell of a risen Christ tell of the righteous who shall rise. May God fill you this morning with anticipation!

I heard of a father and son who among others were shipwrecked at sea. The father and son climbed into the rigging. The father held on, but the son after awhile lost his hold on the rigging and was dashed down. The father supposed he had gone hopelessly under the wave. The next day the father was brought ashore from the rigging in an exhausted state and laid on a bed in a fisherman's hut, and after many hours had passed he came to consciousness and saw lying beside him on the same bed his boy. Oh, my friends, what a glorious thing it will be if we wake up at last to find our loved ones beside us, coming up from the same plot in the graveyard, coming up in the same morning light—the father and son alive forever, all the loved ones alive forever, never more to weep, never more to part, never more to die.

May the God of peace that brought again from the dead our Lord Jesus, that great Shepherd of the sheep, through the blood of the everlasting covenant make you perfect in every good work, to do his will, and let the associations of this morning transport our thoughts to the grander assemblage before the throne. The one hundred and forty and four thousand and the "great multitude that no man can number," some of our best friends among them, we after awhile to join the multitude. Glorious anticipation!

Blest are the saints beloved of God; Washed are their robes in Jesus' blood. Brighter than angels, lo, they shine, Their wonders splendid and sublime.

My soul anticipates the day,
Would stretch her wings and soar away
To aid the song, the palm to bear,
And bow, the chief of sinners, there.

CURIOUS IDEAS OF CHINESE.

Belief That Men Should Not Rob Animals of Milk.

A curious system of philosophy regarding eating is evolved by some persons, but the queerest "anti-pronouncement" in some time is that published in the Loa Chow Herald regarding the use by man of animal's milk. The erudite Chinese who edit this journal of the twentieth century publish a proclamation which says: "Man should not rob animals of their own proper food; and, of all animals, the cow is the most valuable to man. The sellers of milk blacken their souls for gain; but those who drink milk do so in the foolish belief that it is good for them. Before taking any medicine, we should carefully investigate its properties, and who does so with milk? Milk is the natural food for babes and of young animals; but when adults drink it, do they not thereby endanger the life of the suckling calf, and arouse bitter resentment in the souls of the calf and its mother? Beasts have not the power of speech, and so cannot tell men that by drinking cow's milk they will become like quadrupeds. If men must have a strengthening draught, there are a thousand better things than milk, so why select that? Besides, the term of life is foreordained and it cannot be prolonged by drinking milk. Everyone who reads this warning is especially enjoined to abstain from milk in the future. Children whose parents will not allow them to drink milk will not be stunted in growth, but they will have their lives prolonged and be immune in epidemics. So it is proclaimed in the Hall of Good Counsel."

Fan and Pathos of Sing Sing.

Of all griefs, probably those are the hardest to bear which, while real and serious to the people who suffer them, are of a kind to excite unsympathetic smiles in everybody else. So it is no wonder that the residents of Sing Sing are eager to change the picturesque name of their village. They know perfectly well that to the outside world Sing Sing means a big prison, and they have wearied of the jests to which the identification of the title and the institution exposes them. So they want to say that they live in Ossining instead of in Sing Sing, and the desire is natural enough. But, unfortunately, it is also funny and possibly it would be wiser to endure their present ill than to bring their sensitiveness to general attention by taking action for relief. And how long would it be, moreover, before the prison association fastened itself upon Ossining? What Sing Sing wants to do is to grow so big that it can win recognition for itself. There is no other cure for its woes, but a cultivation of a philosophical indifference will do much to mitigate them, as it will for most other woes.—New York Times.

It is the opinion of experts that the opening of China and Siberia will disclose large deposits of gold and that Asia after a while will furnish a large part of the world's supply.

chased a portion of what was once have occasionally.

In the town of Flora, Boone county,

President A. B. Stickney of the Chicago Great Western Ry. confirms the report that his road will build into Omaha and Sioux City. An underwriting syndicate has been formed to provide $8,000,000 to build 274 miles of road.
Surveys for the line to Omaha were made some years ago. The line will run from Fort Dodge due southeast to Omaha, from Clinton west to Sioux City, the lines purchased and to be constructed to cover 134 miles, making the total addition to the system 408 miles.

A new series of stamps will soon appear, namely the Buffalo exposition series. The one-cent stamp of green will have a picture of a lake steamer to represent the great transportation industry of inland seas in which Buffalo is so much interested. The two-cent stamp, printed in red, will have a railway train; the four-cent stamp in red and brown, an automobile; the five-cent blue, a picture of a new bridge at Niagara Falls; the eight-cent, lilac, a picture of the lock at Sault Ste. Marie, and ten-cent stamp of brown an ocean steamer.

At Beardstown, where the graduates of the high school will be excused this year at their own request from reading essays and delivering orations on commencement day, an appropriate lecture being substituted, it is now proposed by the students to save the cost of elaborate graduating costumes, which some can ill afford, by wearing inexpensive caps and gowns, as they understand to be the rule in high schools, as well as in colleges, in the east. It would seem that Beardstown high school is to graduate a sensible lot of boys and girls this year.

for the farmer who, like himself, has the forethought to take time by the

On Easter Sunday, in 1901.
(We chronicle here a bit of fun).
From Genoa a youth came down
And hitched his horse in Chapman's town.
From here he went on foot, alone,
And entered the city that "she" called home.
They now to Easter services did repair,
He thinking little how his steed would fare.
The "hoss" was poor, and lank, and lean,
But to leave it there was a trick real mean;
And so the boys, who were very kind,
Untied the "hoss" and drove down the line,
Upon arriving in the town,
And scarce producing any sound,
The boys now tied the "hoss" to a tree
Direct in front of "her" home they could see.
When services closed and the young couple came down toward "her" home, Behold!
The young lady was surprised at what she saw,
The young man—the did "then and haw!"
An automobile she supposed he owned,
But reasoned differently when he started home.
Oh! such fun in our little town
The following day, when 'twas noised around
Of his hasty good-bye and mournful look
As he, homeward, his departure took.

SYCAMORE.

H. O. Whitmore is in Chicago serving as a United States juror.
The ladies of the Universalist church gave a handkerchief and apron bazaar at the church parlors Tuesday.
Scarcely had the expression of surprise subsided that the First National bank had sold out, than another announcement of an important change on State street was made. It was to the effect that S. W. Winders had made preparation to go out of business in Sycamore and that Holmes and Calkins had leased the store which he occupies. Mr. Winders has been in the grocery and fruit business in Sycamore for the past fifteen years and has been mainly responsible for building up the town's reputation as a good fruit market. He has wholesaled the fruit all over this and adjoining counties and has built up a first class trade. But health is of more consideration than money and as Mr. and Mrs. Winders are both in poor health, troubled with rheumatism, they will move to a better climate in the west or south. They make the change at the close of the present fruit season, in October, and the store will be remodeled and have a new front before the clothing firm takes possession.

Although the "weather man" promised us fine weather for Easter Sunday, it proved to be far from what many wished it to be. The morning gave appearance of a fulfillment of the prediction, but as the day advanced old Torris was not permitted to pour his rays down on us in sufficient quantity to precipitate any great rise in the thermometer; on the contrary, about three o'clock it began to go down and overcoats and jackets were brought out by goers.

A vendor of white wash was in our town last week. She succeeded in selling at least some of her complexion powder and those who purchased can readily be detected. In speaking of peddlers, how much would you imagine is paid into the village treasury by them for licenses for the privilege of selling goods in opposition to our local merchants? Would it not be better to repeal the ordinance requiring peddlers to procure a license than to allow them to violate it without any kind of restraint?

ANCIENTS LIVED IN LUXURY.

Discoveries in Crete Show a Remote Civilization of a High Order.

In an article the North American Review Mr. Charles Waldstein Slade, professor of the fine arts in King's College, Cambridge, endeavors to interpret the significance of the results of the excavations recently made in the island of Crete by Messrs. Evans and Hogarth. Nothing, Prof. Waldstein thinks, of so striking a nature has been found since the days of Schliemann. The material unearthed in Crete belongs to a period as remote as the fifteenth century before Christ, and it gives the impression of a civilization of a very high order: "People lived in a developed social organization, in ease and comfort, nay, in luxury. The various handicrafts and arts were practiced with great variety and proficiency; wood, ivory and metals were carved, turned, beaten, soldered and combined in the most skillful manner; architecture and paintings and architectural sculpture reached a comparatively very high state of perfection, a stage higher than we have evidence of for several centuries succeeding this era. And now, through the most brilliant discovery of Mr. Evans, we learn that they even possessed the art of writing. For he has found written documents in the Hellenic lands at least seven centuries earlier than the first known monuments of historic Greek writing."

A WOMAN'S HEART.

Mrs. Samuel G. Dyer Tells a Harrowing Tale of Suffering.

M'Carroll, Mich., April 8.—(Special.)—Mrs. Samuel G. Dyer of this place has given the following interesting letter for publication:

"For years I suffered intense pain in the region of the heart. I doctored with the best physicians. Some of them would relieve me for a short time, but the pain always returned. My heart was so bad that I would have to sit up in bed for hours, to get relief. I would lie awake almost all night. I am 62 years of age, and no one can understand how much I suffered with this Heart Trouble.

"About a year ago I heard of Dodd's Kidney Pills, and commenced to use them. From the first my condition improved. The pain in my heart gradually grew less, and my general health much better, and now I can say positively that I am entirely cured. I can sleep all night, and enjoy almost perfect health. I thank God for the cure that has come to me through the use of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"I have thought long over the matter of giving this letter for publication, and am doing so now without any solicitation whatever, and simply because I feel it to be my duty to express the profound gratitude I feel for my recovery, and to let others who may be suffering as I was know how they may find a cure. I know that nothing else but Dodd's Kidney Pills cured me, because I have taken no other medicine for over a year. I feel better now than I have for many years, and it is all due to the use of Dodd's Kidney Pills."

Mrs. Dyer's case and its cure has attracted a great deal of attention, and her letter is a splendid tribute to the curative properties of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Chicago's Vast Expanse.

The capture of an eagle in Chicago recalls attention to that city's vast expanse. It is rumored that several large herds of bison are still at large in the northern wards, while traces of living mammoths and remains of a comparatively recent dodo's nest have been reported from the jungles of the far south. The coming spring will probably see the setting out of several hunting parties after "big game," while a scientific exploring expedition in search of the traditional mountains of the moon is contemplated.—New York Tribune.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly falling to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

Sold by Druggists, 7c. Hall's Family Pills are the best.

A WEEK IN ILLINOIS.

RECORD OF HAPPENINGS FOR SEVEN DAYS.

Galena Officials Break Up a Gang Who Have Been Robbing Railroad Cars in the Yards of Three Systems—Lombard's Coming Jubilee.

Teachers Feel Confident.

Argument in the teachers' mandamus proceeding against the state board of equalization at Springfield has been concluded. Attorney E. S. Smith, for the petitioners, made the closing argument. The matter will be referred to Judge O. P. Thompson for his decision. It is quite likely that he will take the matter under advisement, and a decision is not expected for several days. The teachers seem confident that they will be granted the writ, while the attorneys for the respondents give no answer to questions on the matter. Attorney John S. Miller for the respondents completed his argument. One of his principal arguments was that the present revenue law is based upon uniformity, the same as the Australian ballot law is based upon the secrecy of ballot and not the intention of the voter. From this theory Mr. Miller made the deduction that, even admitting that the corporations complained of had been taxed upon one-fiftieth or one-hundredth of their actual values, the petitioners had made no effort to prove that other corporations or individuals had been taxed on a greater per cent of valuation. Mr. Miller also argued that the teachers had proved no wrongdoing or conspiracy on the part of the members of the board to let any class of property escape its just taxation.

Charged with Robbing Cars.

P. D. O'Neil, special detective agent of the Chicago and Northwestern railroad, and Deputy Sheriff Jacob Meffley of Galena have arrested two members of a Galena gang of railroad thieves who for the last five years have been robbing Illinois Central, Chicago and Northwestern and Burlington freight cars in the Galena railroad yards. Hiram Starr and John Smith, firemen, were arrested as a result of a theft committed, when a Northwestern car was looted of its contents, which were transported by team to the home of Daniel Starr, father of one of the prisoners. Several dozen pairs of shoes, a large quantity of meat, canned goods and clothing were found in an obscure dugout at the Starr residence. The prisoners pleaded not guilty at the hearing. Other members of the gang are being sought for. The prisoners reside on an island in the Mississippi river, and a search of their home, the police say, will result in the discovery of several hundred dollars' worth of stolen property. Daniel Starr, at whose home a quantity of the stolen goods was found, is 98 years old and will be arrested in connection with the thefts.

Big Strike on at Peoria.

It is likely that there will be a general strike of all the organizations affiliate with the Building Trades' council of Peoria within a very short time. The painters are out, the carpenters will strike and it is expected that the plumbers, plasterers and tin roofers will follow shortly. The painters demand more money and shorter time and cannot reach an agreement with the master painters because the latter insist that they must first withdraw from the Building Trades' council, so that in event of a general strike the painters will not be affected. The master painters do not ask the journeymen to withdraw from the union, but maintain that the Building Trades' council should have no jurisdiction over them.

Mission Presidents Elected.

The Illinois branch of the Woman's Board of Missions of the Interior at Elgin elected the following: President, Mrs. George H. Clark, Chicago. Presidents of associations: Aurora, Mrs. James Hanna, Bureau; Mrs. J. B. Hannum, Buda. Central, Mrs. B. F. Boller, Pontiac. Central east, Miss E. Schrader, Chebans. Central west, Mrs. Thomas McClellan, Galesburg. Elgin, Mrs. C. A. Miller, St. Charles. Fox River, Miss May E. McDougall, Ottawa. Quincy, Miss Abbie Hatch, Griggsville. Rockford, Mrs. J. L. Keep, Rockford. Rock River, Mrs. C. L. Grimes, Moline. Springfield, Mrs. J. B. Williams, Chapin. Southern, Mrs. F. B. Hines, Alton. Quincy was named as the next place of meeting.

Jubilee Due to Lombard.

Lombard college at Galesburg is making extensive preparations to celebrate its fiftieth anniversary, June 2 to 6. Edwin H. Conger, minister to China and a graduate of the college of 1869, will be present. Gov. Richard Yates has accepted an invitation to be present if possible, and Harlow N. Higginbotham of Chicago will also probably be present. An effort will be made to increase the endowment fund.

Peter A. Carlson committed suicide at Galesburg by shooting himself. Despondency was the cause.

Rooney Puts Turk on the Mat.

John J. Rooney, the Chicago wrestler, defeated Hall, the "Terrible Turk," in Alton in the first bout. Rooney, with many beautiful plays in the wrestling art, laid the big Turk's shoulders to the mat in nine and one-half minutes. In the second bout Rooney laid the "Terrible Turk" down in four minutes, making the two downs in thirteen and one-half minutes. It took Jenkins just sixteen minutes to do the same piece of work with the Turk.

If every one in the world were healthy and happy what a glad day Easter would be. But the sun rises every Easter morning on a multitude of sick and afflicted. The Easter lilies gladden the hearts of the sick and well alike.

But to the sick something more than the Easter lily is necessary to bring that hope and cheer which every one expects on Easter day. The well need no physician, but the sick need a remedy.

Nearly one-half the people in the United States are suffering from some form or phase of catarrhal ailment. These ailments take different forms at different seasons of the year. In the springtime catarrh assumes a systemic form, producing nervousness, lassitude and general languor.

Systemic catarrh deranges the digestion and through deranged digestion it impoverishes or contaminates the blood. Thus we have blood diseases and nervous derangements through systemic catarrh.

Peruna is a specific for these cases. No other remedy yet devised by the medical profession is able to successfully meet so many phases of spring ailments as Peruna.

Men and women everywhere are praising Peruna as follows:

THE BEST HE EVER SAW.
A Missourian Pronounces on the Farming Possibilities of Western Canada.
Just at present considerable interest is being aroused in the fact that a few new districts (of limited acreage) are being opened up by the Canadian government in Saskatchewan and Assiniboia (western Canada), and any information concerning this country is eagerly sought. Mr. W. R. Corser, of Higginsville, Lafayette Co., Mo., was a delegate there during last summer, and writing of his impressions he says: "I found surprising yields of grain of all descriptions. One farmer I visited threshed of 175 acres: "600 bushels of wheat from fifteen acres, 40 bushels to acre. "600 bushels of barley from ten acres, 60 bushels to acre. "15,000 bushels of oats from 150 acres, 100 bushels to acre. "The samples were all No. 1. "I also saw a considerable number of stock. Swine do well and there is no disease amongst them. They are a good source of income to the farmer. The cattle on the range beat anything I ever saw. Fat and ready for beef, fully matured and ripened on the nutritious grasses of the prairie. I am firmly convinced that this country offers better facilities for a poor man than any I have ever seen."

BIG REBELLION IN CHINA

Serious Uprising in Mongolia and Shensi.

IMPERIAL COURT IS ALARMED.

Tung Fu-Hsiang and Tana Leading the Malcontents—Li Hung Chang Thinks the Regular Troops Have Not Joined in the Rebellion.

The rumors which have been current during the past few days of the outbreak of a rebellion, headed by General Tung-Fu-Hsiang, the former commander of the Northern army, in the provinces of Mongolia and Shensi, have been absolutely authenticated. Li Hung Chang and Prince Ching have received information on the subject, which, though indefinite, still proves that the court is seriously alarmed. General Tung-Fu-Hsiang was, according to last accounts, about 150 miles from the court, with 11,000 regular troops, all supposed to be devoted to himself. The court has about the same number of soldiers at Sing-an-Fu, but it is probable that the troops of Tung-Fu-Hsiang are better drilled and better armed. It is believed that the Mongolian rebellion was brought about through agents of Prince Tuan and General Tung-Fu-Hsiang. Li Hung Chang thinks there are about 45,000 regular troops in Mongolia, and inclines to the belief that they have not joined in the rebellion. He does not think the court is in any danger, and thinks the object of Prince Tuan, who was last reported at Ning-Hsu, with 10,000 men, prepared to resist arrest, and General Tung-Fu-Hsiang is to create a diversion of interest in order to force unconditional protection of themselves. Unofficial Chinamen of intelligence regard the rising as most unfortunate, at the present time, to the interests of China, and as possibly meaning the use of foreign troops to protect even the court itself. The ministers of the powers do not think that, provided interests do not suffer, any present interference is likely. If the dynasty should be overthrown it would to a certain extent delay the peace negotiations, but they consider that a regime not bound by traditions like those of the present court would probably be much easier to deal with eventually, as the ceremonial could be much curtailed.

Brought to Life by Prayer.
William Fish, president of the Fish Stone and Brick company, Columbus, Ohio, who has been dangerously ill from cancer of the stomach for three weeks, was pronounced dead by three physicians Saturday afternoon, but soon afterward revived while Rev. Dr. Hyatt, surrounded by Mr. Fish's sons and daughters, was praying over the supposed corpse. "I died, I am sure," said Mr. Fish, "but I am going soon, not to return. Before I leave I want to see my wife, for she is to follow me soon." Mrs. Fish, who was in an adjoining room, is very low with pneumonia. She was carried to her husband's bedside to live many days, and they embraced.

Boy Slays in a Quorum.
An ill feeling has existed between the town and country boys at Odou, near Washington, Ind., for some time, and it culminated in murder. With a friend Harley Lamb went to Odou to attend an entertainment, and as they were riding down the main street several of the young men of the town angered them with jokes. Lamb and his friend leaped from their horses to resent the insult, and Lamb accused Walter Correll of leadership in the matter. Correll struck Lamb in the face and Lamb cut Correll twice with a pocket knife, one wound severing an artery in the neck from which Correll bled to death in a few minutes. Lamb returned to the home of his father, who is a wealthy farmer, and was arrested in bed.

Life Sentence for Rogers.
Charles Rogers, who shot and killed his father-in-law, Milburn Baty, and seriously wounded his wife, Angeline Rogers, on March 10, was given a life sentence by a jury at Terre Haute. Seven of the jurors voted on the first ballot for hanging. Rogers' defense was that the shooting was accidental. He testified that he intended to kill himself at his wife's feet and she grabbed his revolver and was accidentally shot. Baty then tried to secure the revolver and was fatally shot. Mrs. Rogers is still in the hospital and was not able to appear at the trial.

Rich Oil Strike in Iowa.
News of an oil strike in Clay county, northwestern Iowa, has been received at Lima, O., and a number of oil men are on their way there. The Standard Oil company quietly sent their best men to the scene several days ago, getting advance information. A number of oil men have left Lima and more will follow. The oil is said to be cozing from the ground and heavy flows of gas have been struck at a depth of 500 feet.

To Avoid Home-steal "Itans."
A lottery scheme will probably be adopted as the most satisfactory method of distributing the public lands upon the Kiowa, Comanche and Apache reservations in Oklahoma when opened to settlement next fall. Congress at the last session strongly disapproved of the old "run" for homesteads, and directed that a more suitable method be devised.

To Obtain a Patent.
If a man purchases a homestead from the settler who has lived on the same for four years and then lives on the land for the remainder of the unexpired five years he cannot obtain a patent to the land. The patent vests only in the locator after a five years' residence upon the land, and in the case of his death before the expiration of the five years in his widow or children, or if there be neither widow nor children, in his legal heirs, providing each of the class named shall live upon the land, cultivate it and carry out the purpose of the original settler so far as complying with the homestead law is concerned. The fees for homestead entry vary in different states.—San Francisco Call.

It is astonishing how soon the whole conscience begins to unravel if a single stitch is dropped. One little sin indulged makes a hole you could put your head through.

Pen Picture for Women.
"I am so nervous, there is not a well inch in my whole body. I am so weak at my stomach and have indigestion horribly, and palpitation of the heart, and I am losing flesh. This headache and backache nearly kills me, and yesterday I nearly had hysterics; there is a weight in the lower part of my bowels bearing down all the time, and pains in my groins and thighs; I cannot sleep, walk, or sit, and I believe I am diseased all over; no one ever suffered as I do."
"This is a description of thousands of cases which come to Mrs. Pinkham's attention daily. An inflamed and ulcerated condition of the neck of the womb can produce all of these sympoms, and no woman should allow herself to reach such a perfection of misery when there is absolutely no need of it. The subject of our portrait in this sketch, Mrs. Williams of Englishtown, N.J., has been entirely cured of such illness and misery by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and the guiding advice of Mrs. Pinkham of Lynn, Mass.

No other medicine has such a record for absolute cures, and no other medicine is "just as good." Women who want a cure should insist upon getting Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound when they ask for it at a store. Anyway, write a letter to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., and tell her all your troubles. Her advice is free.

THOMAS A. EDISON.

Following are some of the claims of superiority made for Edison's new storage battery as compared with the battery now in use: That it is far less expensive; that it is lighter and more compact; that it can be discharged to zero voltage. The present battery can be discharged to only about the twentieth point; that it has twice the output for the same weight; that it virtually does not deteriorate. Depreciation is one of the drawbacks of the battery now in use; that it does not require nearly as much attention as the present battery; that it will stand rougher usage; that it can undergo any amount of shaking without affecting the circuit. Shaking always cuts short the circuit of the old battery.

Rebel Chief Urges Peace.
Aguinaldo has the assistance of Chief Justice Arellano and of Mr. Fischer, General MacArthur's private secretary, in preparing his manifesto at Manila. The work is not completed and the tenor of the contents is not divulged. Chief Justice Arellano had a long conference with Aguinaldo. He says Aguinaldo is realizing the futility of further resistance and is desirous of sparing the Filipinos additional distress, trusting to the justice and generosity of the American people.

consisting of Harrows, Plows, Corn Planters, Cultivators, Disc Harrows, Stalk Cutters, etc., etc. These goods have a "World Wide Reputation" and need no encomium further than to call your attention to some of the latest improvements and additions to their variety.

THE COLUMBIA SULKY PLOWS

are of the highest quality. The aim, in the construction of this implement, has been that it should be free from ALL weak points of other High Lift Plows; that it should not only possess all their good features, but also original and striking characteristics of its own.

That they have succeeded in their purpose, however, the enthusiastic commendation which the implement has received at the hands of farmers who have used them, is agreeable and convincing proof; and if the combination of nothing but the very best material obtainable with the greatest possible care in construction, supplemented by a thorough knowledge of the correct principles, gained by many years of experience in plow building, counts for anything, then we can truthfully say that the "COLUMBIA" is not only the peer but the superior of any other plow on the market.

The "DEFIANCE" Steel Frame Disc Harrow.

No Harrow contains, or could be built with fewer pieces. The cross frames are made of two heavy, flat bars, united in the form of a truss, which gives the greatest possible strength, in proportion to material used.

Planters,

If every important feature which could be desired in a Corn Planter is kept in mind by an intending purchaser, while making a selection, and objections so common in many now on the market are not lost sight of, the "ROCK ISLAND" will always be taken as combining more good points and having less bad ones than any other.

Cultivators,

The "BULLY BOY" Hammock Seat Riding Cultivator is a wonderful combination of Simplicity, Strength and Utility. The name is suggestive of the supreme satisfaction which the above tool affords to any one who operates it.

Stalk Cutter,

The "Rock Island" steel frame, double row stalk cutter is, without doubt, one of the most efficient and desirable implements for cutting corn stalks that has ever been placed before the farmer. For easy riding, easy handling and thorough work they cannot be excelled.

Wagons,

Having been unable to find any better wagon on the market, we shall continue to keep constantly on hand a full line of this well known make, "The STUGHTON."

You are also invited to investigate the merits of the "MILLER" manure spreader. We do not hesitate in saying that it will give you much better service than any other spreader manufactured. We put it out on its merits.

Dedication of the Ney Bell.

On last Friday afternoon the members and friends of the Ney M. E. church dedicated their fine new bell. The simple services occurred in the chapel, at the conclusion of which the bell's sweet tones were tested by long, continuous ringing.

The bell is a present to the church by George, Carrie and Maggie White, in memory of their father, John White. The gift of these worthy young people is most highly esteemed by the church and the community, and will be a continual reminder of the good will and generosity of the donors.

As to the bell, it is a fine piece of workmanship, made by the noted E. W. Van Duzen Company, of Cincinnati, Ohio, the firm that built the chimes for the World's Fair at Chicago. It weighs 1,054 lbs. alone, and gives forth a deep, mellow, majestic tone. It bears the following inscription: "To the memory of John White, by his children, George, Carrie and Maggie White."

The dedicatory services were conducted by the pastor, Rev. E. K. D. Hester. Mr. George White presented the bell to the trustees of the church in a short speech, and it was accepted in their name, with thanks, by Mr. Lorenzo Robinson. SPHINX.

That Drinking Fountain.

The drinking fountain which the village purchased last fall will be placed on Main street near the walk in front of E. C. Crawford's and T. G. Sager's stores. An overflow pipe will be laid to conduct the water into the abandoned well on Emmett street between the McDowell House and Perkins' hardware store. Although this will be a much better location for the fountain than at the corner, yet there is a big kick by the merchants in that row over its being placed so near their business. They give several reasons, among which is the fact that at that point there is always a crowd seated on the opera house steps and standing about, which ladies have to avoid passing, much less expecting them to halt and take a drink, no matter how thirsty. Another, that the water will be thrown around and a wet, nasty place will be found at all times, to say nothing of the filth deposited by horses. Many suggest that it be placed on the west side of Emmett street near Perkins' store, where the boys do not congregate, and there is less traffic and less expense in fixing an overflow into the old well.

By a vote of the board last fall the location of the fountain was placed in the hands of President Stott, and he has selected the place named above, and she goes.

What Statistics Reveal.

We learn that there is a constant decrease in the number of marriages.

We learn that the size of the average family has diminished since 1850 from a little over five and a half persons to a little less than five.

We learn that the proportion of divorced to married persons is about one to one hundred.

We learn that 17 out of every 10,000 persons are insane; that 13 out of every 10,000 are in prison; that women go insane later in life than men; that 15 out of every 10,000 children are born idiots or feeble-minded; 7 out of every 10,000 are deaf and dumb; 8 out of every 10,000 are blind; 1,200 out of every 10,000 die miserably of consumption; cancer and tumor are steadily increasing.

How's This?

One thousand one hundred sixty-six dollars, eighty six cents represents the amount of money the Highway Commissioners paid out to W. Heed during the last fiscal year. Amount of money handled during the year, $5266.34; remaining on hand Mar. 26, $2120.18; making the total amount expended for all purposes $3146.34, and over 50 per cent of this was paid to W. Heed according to the sworn statement of the treasurer. Those are the figures, $1166.86 to W. Heed and $979.30 for all other purposes.

That is the tune that we must hear every evening, and it comes from a callope whistle on the portable saw mill of John Tischouser, who is sawing logs in J. P. Brown's timber south of town. It notifies the workmen that their day's work is finished and that they can depart for their "Home, Sweet Home."

NEW POSTAL ORDER.

Vague Addresses Must Be Disregarded.

It has been determined by the post-office department to break up the practice of allowing postal clerks to use their discretion about the delivery of mail the address of which is indefinite. Recently many letters and a great deal of second class matter has been mailed, addressed deliver to "Druggist" or "Physician," if the matter can not be delivered to the addressee. Orders have been issued to disregard addresses of this indefinite character, and postmasters are directed to inform their patrons that matter addressed in this way is not mailable. It has also come to the notice of the department officials that a great many postmasters except for mailing matter addressed "To the Best Blacksmith," or persons of other occupations.

This is in violation of the rules of the department, and postmasters are directed to refuse such matter for mailing, and if it passes through the mails to the office of destination it must be regarded as matter which can not be delivered. The principal offenders in this regard are persons who have for sale commodities which they wish to advertise.

If they should happen to address a person who can not be found these persons do not wish to waste the money spent for postage, and consequently give the postal authorities discretionary powers in regard to the delivery. This practice will be broken up by orders issued by the department Tuesday.

The collector for Mayfield made the closest collection. In Kingston the work was done by Miss Alice Colvin for her father who is sick. Miss Colvin returned the book in the best shape of any collector in the county. Very little personal property will be lost.

The collector for Somonauk collected all real estate tax, returning only one item of personal property tax and that uncollectable. Last year the Somonauk collector collected every dollar. The Sycamore collector returned the smallest amount delinquent to a number of years.—City Weekly (Sycamore).

CONDUCTOR REFUSED TICKET

Was a 3-cent-fare Ticket, in Hands of Davis Rogers, But an Old Date.

It is a very seldom occurrence that a "Q" conductor finds it necessary or feels obliged to stop his train between our two neighboring towns and put off any of our citizens. But an incident of this character took place between Plano and Sandwich yesterday morning, and to one of our old townsmen—who is wealthy enough to buy the whole train.

It happened to L. D. Rogers. Mr. Rogers got on the morning west-bound passenger train at Plano, and when the conductor came to him he handed over the ticket, which the conductor immediately punched, but then discovered that the ticket bore a date of a few months past. The conductor then gave the ticket back to Mr. Rogers, demanding the fare, which our townsman refused to pay. After a little debate between passenger and conductor the latter stopped his train and forced Mr. Rogers to get off.

Even at this point the passenger refused to pay, and decided that he would walk the remaining three and a half miles to Sandwich.

The sky was cloudless, the sun felt warm, and the birds were fitting about happily, singing their morning song, but all this did not seem to interest Mr. Rogers. He was not walking for his health. He was in deep thought. He was thinking of law suits—figuring the costs from the lower court to the highest, and just as he was exclaiming to himself, "I'll prosecute, I will; by gracious, I will!" he was awakened to the fact that he was at his own town, and his friends jokingly remarking how many ties there are from the bridge to Sandwich.
