

The Awakening

By MINNIE M. TOWNSEND

"By, Myra, I'll be late for lunch, but if you get hungry don't wait. Molly won't mind warming mine over." Myra, comfortably settled in the easiest chair of the sitting room, lazily waved a slim white hand to her mother's cheery good-by, and turning toward the window watched the lively little body cross the street and join several other dear mother people on the corner. Myra laughed scornfully. "I'm surprised at mother; such a motley crowd, tall, short, fat, lean, rich and poor."

brightened. Across memory's page was coming a long-forgotten incident. The one time when she had really admired the lad and forgot his much-freckled countenance. She turned animatedly to her brother, anxious to tell him of this one worth-while thing Bert had done in her presence. "Rob, Bert did have a brave nature, even though perhaps we didn't realize it at the time. I remember one beautiful summer day, when he and I were going home from school together. We were crossing a swampy field over a narrow path. Suddenly a nasty, little green snake reared its head just ahead of me in the path. Horrified, I squealed my loudest. Bert, who was chasing a butterfly just in back of me, hurried near to see what the trouble was. I suggested that we step aside and let the reptile go its way, but Bert emphatically said no, the younger children were coming just behind us and they, too, would come across the snake. Though I remonstrated, boldly he took heavy stones and crushed the menacing creature before the other children came along."

WHAT CAN WE DO?

"Nurses Are Needed for Immediate Service." The American Red Cross has issued several flyers and booklets in a campaign to enlist trained nurses for an increasing army and under the heading quoted above has this to say: "The enemy thinks he can win before the United States mobilizes all its resources for making war—and among these resources nurses are vital. Ask yourself this heart-searching question: 'Is our incomplete mobilization due in part to my holding back?'"

Negligees Are Trousered and Georgeous

Pajamas, worn instead of night dresses, have proved so sensible and so fetching that they have become an established institution in the realm of lingerie. Now we accept them as a matter of course. It was because they proved pretty and fascinating that they were followed by negligees that scorned skirts and revealed in trousers, inviting all sorts of gorgeous oriental silks and furbelows, to come and be at home with them. Japan, China, Persia, Turkey and heaven only knows what other lands, have been ransacked for inspirations. The designers, once having landed an idea, exploit it to suit themselves. In the picture a lovely negligee is shown with flowered satin trousers, or pantaloons, that are gathered in about the ankle. Over an ivory surface, or on any good color background, bouquets of flowers in several colors are printed on silks that make these uthery garments things of beauty. Worn over these there are mantels or jackets or draperies of georgette or silk, usually in a plain color. In the picture the over-garment is rose-colored crepe georgette and it fastens with silk cord and tassels in the same color.

The KITCHEN CABINET

To be as good as our fathers we must be better. Imitation is discipleship. When some one sent a cracked plate to China to have a set made, every plate in the new set had a crack in it.—Wendell Phillips.

WAR-TIME FOODS. Cheese in various forms and served in various combinations is one of our most valuable foods. It is delicious not only as an appetizer, as it is commonly used, but it may form the main dish of the meal; it is delicious in scalloped dishes, spring-time salads and desserts. Small nests of well-seasoned cottage cheese with a spoonful of raspberry jelly or jam in the center, served with crisp crackers or a sandwich, makes a most satisfactory dish. Cauliflower With Cheese Sauce.—Cauliflower should be broken in bits and allowed to stand a half-hour in cold water with one tablespoonful of vinegar added. Cook in boiling, salted water until tender. Serve with the following cheese sauce: Melt two tablespoonfuls of butter substitute in a saucepan, add two tablespoonfuls of corn flour, and cook until the mixture bubbles; then add a cupful of cold milk. Cook until all the starch flavor is removed, then add one cupful of grated cheese, one-half teaspoonful of salt and a few grains of paprika. Butter a baking dish and arrange the cauliflower and cheese sauce in layers until all is used. Sprinkle with well-buttered crumbs and bake until the crumbs are a golden brown.

GOOD WAR FOODS. The United States food administration is urging every householder to give up the use of wheat flour entirely, until the next harvest. Conserve what you have to use with substitutes in making yeast bread for occasional use. We still have buckwheat flour, oat flour, corn and rye, although the rye is not on the substitute list; however, when one has a supply it is still used. Boston Brown Bread.—Take one cupful each of cornmeal, rye meal, barley flour, a teaspoonful of salt, two teaspoonfuls of soda, two-thirds of a cupful of molasses, two cupfuls of thick, sour milk. Sift all the dry ingredients and remove all straws, add the bran left in the sieve, then add the molasses and milk, mixing well. Steam in three-pound baking-powder cans. Put on, cook and boil two hours. Remove the covers and let the bread dry out in the oven.

DOCTOR URGED AN OPERATION

Instead I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Was Cured.

Baltimore, Md.—"Nearly four years I suffered from organic troubles, nervousness and headaches and every month would have to stay in bed most of the time. Treatments would relieve me for a time but my doctor was always urging me to have an operation. My sister asked me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before consenting to an operation. I took five bottles of it and it has completely cured me and my work is a pleasure. I tell all my friends who have any trouble of this kind what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me."—NELLE E. BRITTINGHAM, 609 Calverton Rd., Baltimore, Md.

Important to Mothers Examine carefully every bottle of CASTORIA, that famous old remedy for infants and children, and see that it Bears the Signature of Dr. J. C. Fletcher In Use for Over 30 Years. Children Cry for Fletcher's Castoria.

GOOD THINGS WORTH TRYING. The cottage cheese which we may make at home of skim milk, or in many places buy in a quantity for the table, lends itself to many nutritious dishes. Circular number 109 of the United States Department of Agriculture furnishes free for the asking this bulletin on cottage cheese dishes. It is a quite worth while for every farm woman, and the town women will be glad to avail themselves of these good recipes. Cottage Cheese Omelet.—Beat the yolks of two eggs until thick, the whites until stiff. Add to the yolks a fourth of a teaspoonful of salt, two tablespoonfuls of milk, and a half-cupful of cottage cheese which has been seasoned with a tablespoonful of chopped pimientos; then fold in the whites and pour into a well-greased omelet pan. Cook slowly until the egg is set, place in the oven for a few minutes to finish cooking and fold over in the center; garnish with parsley. Mince ham or green peppers are also good seasoning which will give variety to this dish.

The Balance advertisement featuring an illustration of a balance scale and text: "as between POSTUM and other table beverages is in favor of the Wholesome, Healthful drink. POSTUM is all this and more. It's most delicious. Besides there's no waste, and these are days when one should Save. Try INSTANT POSTUM."

GOOD WAR FOODS. There is not any virtue the exercise of which even momentarily will not impress a new fairness upon the features.—Ruskin. Cottage Cheese Roast.—Take two cupfuls of cooked cereal, one cupful of cottage cheese, one cupful of dry bread crumbs, one and an eighth teaspoonful each of soda and pepper; mix thoroughly and form into a roll. If too dry add a little milk or cream. Form into a roll and bake twenty-five minutes, basting often with beef drippings or other sweet fat. Cottage Cheese Soup.—Take a pint of milk, a tablespoonful of butter, the same of flour, cooked together; half a teaspoonful of salt, and a dash of pepper with a half cupful of cheese. Prepare the sauce as usual and remove from the heat to cool slightly before adding the cheese. To flavor with onion the juice may be added or the milk scalded with a slice of onion. Parsley, pimento or Worcestershire sauce will all give variety of flavor. For those who do not enjoy the acid flavor of the cheese it may be neutralized by adding a little soda; a fourth to a third of a teaspoonful will usually be sufficient.

Wear White Shoes. Release shoe leather for service by wearing white shoes! That's the latest patriotic slogan of fashion and bids fair to rival the demand that we substitute silk and calico for wool. White buckskin, canvas and duck and white washable knit for evening are the slipper and shoes recommended for fashion patriots. White shoes are essential to smartness for completing the summer costume of organdie and light silks. For cool evening smart white gaiters are made to accompany white slippers. One of the Smart New Veils. It was a rather wide veil of a pretty, silky hexagonal mesh, black, and it was being draped around a small flower-wreathed turban. The interesting thing about it was the border; that was composed of silvery gray coin spots—the size of a 5-cent piece—a single row on the long edge of the veil, and a double row across each end. It was a simple decoration, but, as the skillful milliner caught up the folds of the veil and fastened them at the back, it hung in graceful drapery. Collar and Cuffs of Scarlet. A blouse of white silk poplin has tiny collar and cuffs of scarlet, from which flare platted ruffles of white. A satin blouse has extra piece at front in simulated button effect, and a touch of blue embroidery.

WHEN PLINY VISITED BELGIUM

Great Roman Has Left Us an Interesting Description of Country as He Saw It. Pliny, the learned and industrious Roman naturalist, who perished in the eruption of Vesuvius, 79 A. D., visited, in the course of his duties as an official of the Roman empire, the heroic country which we call Belgium. It is interesting, comments the Protectionist, to recall his description of this country. "There," he wrote, "the ocean pours in its flood twice every day, and produces a perpetual uncertainty whether the country may be considered as a part of the continent, or of the sea. The wretched inhabitants take refuge on the sand hills or in little huts, which they construct on the summits of lofty stakes, whose elevation is conformable to that of the highest tides. "When the sea rises they appear like navigators; when it retires they seem as though they had been shipwrecked. They subsist on the fish left by the reflux waters and which they catch in nets formed of rushes or senblewood. Neither tree nor shrub is visible on these shores. The drink of the people is rain water; their fuel, a sort of turf, which they gather and form with the hands. And yet the unfortunate beings dare to complain against their fate when they fall under the power and are incorporated with the empire of Rome!" Schwab's Only Political Speech. "I have only one political speech to my credit," says Charles M. Schwab in his article, "The Shipbuilder's Job," in the June Forum. "It was made when I was young and impulsive. I urged the election of the Republican ticket. As a consequence, or a fact, the town went Democratic for the first and only time, I believe, since the Civil war."

PROCEEDINGS IN DEER CREEK DRAINAGE DISTRICT DISMISSED

The Deer Creek Drainage District case came to a sudden end last Friday morning when George Brown, attorney for the Highway Commissioner for the Town of Genoa, and Waite & Donovan of Woodstock, attorneys for certain land owners called up their motion, denying the jurisdiction of the county court to proceed further in the case by reason of the failure of the commissioners to obtain a continuance for the filing of their report.

On the 24th day of last September the County Court declared the district organized and appointed Julius Thomas, Charles Kugler and Henry Decker, commissioners to assess the benefits and damages to the lands in the district, and continued the case until October 22nd for their report. On October 22nd the commissioners were not ready to report but failed to ask the court for further time in which to make their report, which the law says shall be to a day certain. Several months passed and no report was filed and no continuance obtained and for this reason the county court lost jurisdiction of the case and granted the motion of the objectors and entered an order setting aside all former orders in the case and dismissing the petition for the reorganization of the district.

The estimated cost of this so-called improvement, were almost $35,000.00, but owing to the scarcity of labor it is doubted if the work could have been completed for several thousand dollars more than this estimation.

In other parts of the country the commissioners have found it impossible to let the contracts for the construction of these improvements and in others the contractors have been unable to fulfill their contracts on account of the scarcity of labor, and tiles and other material have accumulated along the line of the proposed ditches and all work at a standstill but the land owner in the meantime is obliged to pay his assessment with interest thereon without deriving any benefit on account of the inability of commissioners and contractors to complete the work.

In all other parts of the country public improvements have been and are being held in abeyance until after the close of the war, and we see no reason why drainage districts should be constructed while the cost would be from fifty to one hundred per cent above normal times. Several of the land owners were hit for high assessments on their land within the district and are to be congratulated that they are relieved for the present at least from such burdensome taxation.

Soft Coal Requires Kindling

You who have been burning hard coal in furnace and range and must this year use soft coal, will be up against the kindling proposition many times next winter unless you are prepared. The range and furnace fires will often go out during the night and in bitter cold weather must be rekindled in a hurry. You must have plenty of kindling on hand for just such emergencies. Why not put in a load of those cedar slabs now? They are all cut to stove length and are very easy to split. This is really the most economical kindling you can get and for quick, hot fire for baking it has no equal.

More Hogs on less Feed

There is no longer any place for the haphazard methods of farming. Hog raising is a science and must be put on a business basis if we are to do our part toward a successful conclusion of the war.

Next in importance to the selection of breed comes a properly designed and well built Hog House.

A HOG HOUSE WILL COST LESS NOW THAN IT DID FOUR YEARS AGO

because the price of lumber has not advanced anywhere like the price of hogs and other farm produce. Study this question yourself, then call and let us figure with you on a bill of lumber for a new Hog House this fall. Compare the prices of hogs and lumber now and four years ago. Not only can you actually build cheaper, but the well built Hog House is absolutely essential in raising stock of such great value.
