

NOTES FROM THE COURT HOUSE

DeKalb Bank Forecloses on Property of A. J. Plapp

SHERIFF CRAWFORD MAKES RAID

70-Year-Old Lady of Hinckley Brought Up Before Judge Pond and Assessed $100 Fine

The DeKalb Trust & Savings Bank of DeKalb filed distress for rent warrant in the circuit court on Tuesday last against Aaron J. Plapp of Cortland in which they ask the sheriff to distrain the personal property of Plapp for the sum of $2432.33, being the amount due the bank on the 31st day of August 1923, for rent of the southwest quarter of section ten and the northwest quarter of section fifteen all in township 39 north, demised to Plapp by the bank.

By virtue of the distress warrant Sheriff Crawford on Sept. 1, 1923, distrained the wagons, machinery, grain and furniture of Plapp.

Angela Smith brought suit in the circuit court for damages against Ella Coleman for the sum of $1,000 the praecipe has only been filed and particulars as to the action will be available at the October term of the court to which term the action is brought.

Sheriff Crawford on last Tuesday afternoon mopped up a real wet spot in the village of Hinckley when he raided the home of Mrs. George Hemling, a resident of Hinckley and seized about 20 gallons of mash and a like quantity of moonshine liquor.

A number of complaints had been made to the village authorities about the Hemling woman who is about 70 years of age that she has been dispensing liquor for some time. It has been a mystery why the large number of automobiles would stop at her house but with her arrest the mystery was solved. The sheriff brought her back to Sycamore and on Wednesday she was arraigned by State's Attorney Poust before Judge Pond in the county court and entered a plea of guilty. She was fined $100 and costs on her plea of guilty which she paid and was discharged. Judge Pond after announcing his decision notified the woman that this would be a lesson for her and that only her arrest had saved her from a more severe penalty. In the event that she would again violate the law she would be dealt with accordingly. Mrs. Hemling promised to behave in the future.

Melvin O. Jacobs of DeKalb on Wednesday obtained a judgment by confession against Jesse Johnson for the sum of $98.75. The judgment is based on a note dated April 10, 1922 in the payment of which default has been made.

Fannie Ainley of Genoa filed a petition in her divorce proceedings brot some time ago against Boyd C. Ainley. A hearing on the petition was set for Monday, September 17.

Mrs. Madgen informs the Republican that she makes a speciality of selling breeding cockerels from this high strain of full blood chickens.

FILLING IN UNDER BRIDGE

A gang of men and two steam shovels have been hard at work for the past two weeks filling in around the pillars on the I. C. bridge that crosses the C. M. & St. P. R. R. The dirt is being taken from the huge cut east of Genoa near the Preston farm.

In the course of these happenings the road operated by B. C. Awe has been completely covered, leaving him no means of access to his property except by a sixty grant from the C. M. & St. P. R. R., and this can be terminated at the will of the road.

WARM DAYS ON THE WANE

Northern Illinois was visited by an extremely cold wave Wednesday evening and in many places frost was reported. The cold blasts are coming from out of the north-west and it is the opinion of weather bureaus that the chilly atmosphere is here to stay.

LADY FAKER PAYS VISIT

Supposedly Deaf and Dumb Woman and Small Boy Taken into Custody

A woman faker of the most common type attempted to put something over on the citizens of Genoa last Thursday evening, but her ruse was discovered in a few minutes and she was taken into custody by the local officers who put her on the train on the morning with a ticket for savanna.

The lady who did not give her real name travelled under many aliases, giving no less than half a dozen different names during her short stay in this city. She, accompanied by her small son, stepped off the 3:46 train on the afternoon of September 6 and immediately went into the station where the woman complained of suffering great pain. In addition she made signs as if deaf and dumb and held communication via the pencil route. City officer Heed was called and he in turn called a doctor, who could find nothing wrong with the patient, except a "little off" mentally, perhaps. She was taken to the May Hotel where a room was secured. A further examination in the evening by Officer Fay disclosed the fact that the lady could talk and hear. Her effects were searched and a loaded revolver concealed in the bottom of her travelling bag was found and promptly emptied. The lady stated that her husband was killed in a fire when their home burned in Texas after it had been struck by lightning; but made the mistake of telling another party that her husband died in the San Francisco earthquake.

Because of the wide variations in the stories told to several witnesses she was kept under watch all night and Friday morning taken to the train where her supposedly empty pocket book yielded enough car fare to take her to her old home (so stated) at Savanna, Illinois.

Later reports on her journey, however, revealed the fact that she pulled the deaf, dumb and sick act at Davis Junction and was taken to Rockford hospital. She attempted the same "stuff" there but was foiled again. A thorough search by the matron of the hospital also secured the evidence that she had $35 dollars and was not nearly as poor as believed. The faker at last reports was being held for further examination.

COUNTY LUMBERMEN MEET

Dealers from Every City in County and State Officers Banqueted Tuesday

The DeKalb Innovation was the scene of an enjoyable and enthusiastic gathering Tuesday when the DeKalb County Lumbermen gathered around the tables and feasted on delicious and appetizing food. They were not alone in this venture, however, for several of the officers from the huge state organization were present as well as a few newspapermen who feasted and listened to these men who can make or break a home at their pleasure.

One of the biggest lumbermen in Illinois put forth the statement and based it on no less authority than Bradstreet and Dunne that 95 per cent of all retail merchants fail to make a go of their business, due principally to the spirit of non-co-operativeness and failure to understand your competitor and be on a friendly basis with him. Mr. Mackenmar of Peoria further stated that 60 per cent of all men after 60 years of age are dependent on relatives and charity for support, basing his figures on the same high authority heretofore mentioned.

The meeting in itself was not unlike any other business men's club gathering. The same measures as a whole that apply to one retail concern, apply in part or in whole to another. But the point of the whole meeting could be summed up into one sentence: Understand, co-operate and be friendly with your competitor; the lowest price always sets the market price and all anyone wants is a fair profit on each and every transaction.

TWO AUTO SMASHUPS

The east stretch of road near Kirkland seems to be a hoodoo to some of the boys. Last Friday night Prof. Wallace Parko, when returning from Chicago with a supply of text books for the school, struck a bridge, wrecking his car almost completely. Tuesday evening Pete Ecklund, returning from the band concert at Genoa owing to the dense fog, ran into a culvert, breaking one wheel, a lamp and a fender. Fortunately no one was hurt in either accident. —Kirkland Enterprise.

THE TAX RATE OF RAILROADS

Have Increased 205 Per Cent In Eleven Years

6.89 CENTS ON DOLLAR IN TAXES

Should Government Take Control of Roads. Taxes Would Stop—People Would Pay Deficit

The rate at which railway taxes have increased in recent years exceeds the rate of increase in any other item of the cost of providing the public with transportation, according to C. H. Markham, president of the Illinois Central System. In a recent statement Mr. Markham points out that Class I railroads paid $300,620,358 in taxes for 1922, an increase of 205 per cent over their 1911 taxes, which amounted to $98,626,848.

If freight and passenger rates had increased on the same scale as taxes from 1911 to 1922, the average passenger fare in 1922, Mr. Markham says, would have been about 6 cents a mile instead of 2.028 cents, and the average charge for carrying one ton of freight one mile in 1922 would have been about 21 cents instead of 1.176 cents. As a matter of fact, the average passenger fare in 1922 was only 54 per cent higher than the 1921 average, and the average charge for carrying one ton of freight one mile in 1922 was only 58 per cent higher than the 1921 average.

In a statement by Mr. Markham last month analyzing "the Illinois Central System dollar" it was shown that 6.89 cents of every dollar received by the railroad from all sources in 1922 went to pay taxes and 441 cents were devoted to the payment of dividends. Mr. Markham again points out that the various municipalities, counties and states along the lines of the Illinois Central System and the federal government received in taxes about 55 per cent more revenue from the operation of the Illinois Central System last year than the owners received in the form of dividends.

Mr. Markham declares that if the government should acquire the railroads of the United States this source of revenue to the various municipal, county, state and federal governments would be dried up because the property of the federal government is not taxed. The result necessarily would be an increase in the amount of taxes upon other business enterprises and upon individual citizens to make up for the loss in revenue.

"It is not reasonable to expect that lower railway rates would compensate the people for their government's loss of tax revenue," Mr. Markham says. "In the light of our own experience during federal control and the experience which foreign countries have had, there is every reason to believe that government ownership of the railroads would result in large deficits, which would also have to be made up by increased taxation. There can be no reasonable doubt that the effect of government ownership would be higher passenger rates, poorer service and increased taxation."

Comparatively few people openly favor government ownership of the railroads in the United States, Mr. Markham believes, but many of them are advocating a substantial reduction in rates, espousing the cause of restoring the right of the forty-eight states to make rates in conflict with the interstate rates and favoring the confiscation of railway property by scaling down values unreasonably. Those who seek thus to hamper the railroads are simply playing into the hands of the advocates of government ownership, according to Mr. Markham, because it is recognized that the only method through which government ownership is likely to come about is by making it more and more difficult for the railroads to exist under private management.

W. W. Cooper left last Sunday for St. Paul, Minn., with Mr. and Mrs. Harold Crawford in the former's car. After an inspection of his farm located in that region he will return to Genoa via the railroad.

The next regular meeting of the Mystic Workers will be held Tuesday evening, September 25, at which time officers will be elected. A picnic lunch will be served. Everyone please bring sandwiches and a dish to pass.

HAMPSHIRE FESTIVAL SATURDAY

The plans are all ready for the big Third Annual Fall Festival, which will be held under the auspices of the Hampshire Commercial club, on Saturday, September 15, during the afternoon and evening at Hampshire.

The club has secured the Marengo High School band to give concerts during the afternoon and evening hours. Those who have heard this band will be glad to learn that they will play there at the Fall Festival.

At noon the Commercial club will serve coffee and doughnuts free to all who desire them. The Ladies' Aid of the M. E. church will also serve a fine chicken dinner to the public at the church parlors for 50 cents a plate.

In the afternoon one of the biggest features will be the ball game. The game will be between the Hampshire Sox and the Elgin Legion. Hampshire has been trying to secure a game with the fast Elgin club for two seasons and this will be the first game between the two teams. It will be handled by an association umpire and locals will use their regular line up, with Mike Beltz on the firing line.

There will also be many concessions on the street. Concerts by the Marengo band and a fine address by Rev. Green of Elgin will afford a full afternoon for the big crowd expected there that day.

In the evening there will be a big dance on a large open air platform which will be erected across the street between the First National bank and Block Brothers store. The music for this dance will be furnished by the Black Cat Orchestra.

The events will be held on state street this year instead of in the grove. There will be more concessions than ever and more amusements. It will be a gala day in Hampshire and one of the largest crowds that ever attended a celebration there is expected. Plan to spend Saturday, September 15th, in Hampshire.—Hampshire Register.

Big Events in the Lives of Little Men

FIVE MEN NATURALIZED

Impressive naturalization ceremonies took place in the circuit court of DeKalb county on Monday, September 10, 1923, when five men of foreign birth, among them one ex-serviceman, solemnly denounced their former allegiance and were made citizens of the United States. Judge Slosser presided and the oath was taken before him as administered by Circuit Clerk George A. James.

Federal Judge Adam C. Cliffe was introduced to the assembly and spoke impressively. He referred to the ceremony as had been performed by representatives of the government and the changes made during and since the World War. He told the men of the wonderful gift they were receiving in being made citizens of this great country and of the United people back of the government. He referred to the ex-serviceman who was receiving his second papers as one whose loyalty to this his country had been tested during the late war and he was found to be faithful to his trust this being attested to by his discharge papers which he had displayed.

Rev. James O'May then made a short address on the duties of citizenship and presented each applicant with a small silk flag in behalf of the D. A. R. The ceremonies will no doubt be long remembered by all the new citizens.

The names of those who were made citizens of the United States and the countries from which they came are as follows: England, Hubert John Strong of Sycamore and John Evan Edwards of Kirkland; Lithuania, Antanas Zaloga, Sycamore and Alfred Tudegay, Sycamore; Norway, Alfred Tudegay, Malta.

RURAL NURSE FOR DEKALB COUNTY

Mrs. Walter Springer Is Assigned to This Important Work

WILL VISIT EVERY SCHOOL TWICE

Great Improvement Has Been Shown in Health of Children Since Nurses Have Been Employed

Mrs. W. J. Springer has been engaged for the coming year as the first full-time village and rural school nurse for DeKalb county.

Miss C. W. Curlhoun comes to fill the place vacated by Mrs. Mary Greutzman as the DeKalb County Tuberculosis nurse. Both nurses will co-ordinate their work. All schools in the county will be visited twice and all school children carefully examined. Where defects are found, the children will be referred to the family physician as usual.

Card records of all the children will be kept on file at the DeKalb County Tuberculosis Sanatorium which will be available at any time. Weight charts and records will also be furnished each school for the teacher to keep.

This is the greatest work for ideal Americanism and better citizenship of modern times.

Physicians' and nurses' records show that almost four-fifths of all school children have defects of some kind and also that a very large percentage of these defects can be remedied if cared for in time.

This great service to DeKalb county has been accomplished through the DeKalb County Public Health League which includes everyone in DeKalb county interested in public health work.

The work commenced in a very small way in 1919 following close after the Victory Loan under the supervision of Dr. J. Stanley Brown, president of the State Teachers College. At the request of Dr. Brown, Mrs. W. A. Kilmer, county chairman of the Victory Loan committee for the women's division, enlisted the services of nineteen township chairmen of DeKalb county in the public health work. From that time to the present the committee has been untiring in its efforts for the village and rural schools and also to eradicate tuberculosis from the county.

List Is Smaller

Five years ago there were about forty deaths from tuberculosis and there were eight hundred active cases in the county. Notwithstanding these appalling figures the tuberculosis sanatorium was almost vacant. Today, the institution is filled to capacity with a long waiting list and the county death list is under eighty.

Every club and organization in the county has had a part in achieving this great success, so the work belongs strictly to all of the people.

With the addition to the county nursing service of the first full-time rural school nurse, DeKalb county now has five public health nurses for our population of about 32,000—a record of which we are very proud.

GEO. PATTERSON POSTMASTER

Took Charge of Genoa Postoffice on Friday, September 7

The many friends of Geo. Patterson will be surprised to learn of his appointment as postmaster in the local office, but according to George, the people will not be half as surprised as he was in receiving the order to take charge, it being at the time a complete surprise to everyone. Mr. Patterson is not new in the game having been in the employ of the government for many years and for the last four or five years has been employed in the local office under Miss Burroughs, in whom a more efficient and well-liked postmaster has never graced the window.

The same office force will be retained, in fact the only change in the whole business is that the postmaster has to do the book work and this is no enviable job.

We take this opportunity in bestowing our best wishes on Mr. Patterson for his future success and in thanking Miss Burroughs in behalf of the Republican office and the people of Genoa for her kind and courteous treatment that has been forthcoming in every instance.

Battle On to Conquer Disease and Famine—Food Supplies Inadequate at Tokyo and Yokohama—Mortatorium Is Proclaimed by the Government.

Washington, Sept. 10.—Each new report on the Japanese earthquake adds to the appallingness of the catastrophe and emphasizes its extent. The dead are now estimated at between 200,000 and 300,000 and the injured at 300,000 to 500,000. Over 315,000 homes were destroyed.

This is the tenor of a joint statement issued by John Barton Payne, as chairman of the executive committee of the Red Cross, and Secretary Hoover. A survey of the needs of Japan has made necessary a renewed appeal to the Red Cross chapters and a redoubling of efforts to obtain funds, the statement declares.

The Red Cross executive committee spent all of the morning in conference with its staff on the problem of raising contributions to the maximum and pushing the purchase and shipment of relief supplies.

The number of dead at Yokohama alone is now set at 80,000 in a radio dispatch received by the Navy department from Admiral Anderson of the Asiatic fleet, aboard his flagship, the Huron, which has arrived at that port.

The Red Cross has collected $3,547,900 thus far. With the third relief vessel due to sail, and with five more loaded, the drain upon the facilities of the organization is increasing.

Osaka, Sept. 8.—The police of Tokyo have reported that up to Saturday morning requests had been held on 32,564 bodies in the yard of the Honjo military clothing warehouse alone.

According to the central meteorological station 1,039 shocks were recorded from the first big shock on Saturday until Thursday morning at 6 o'clock. Danger of further serious shocks is considered to be over.

Thousands of Dead Unburied. Departure of foreigners continues. Enough food is being distributed to prevent starvation. Foreigners have sufficient for a few days. Thousands of dead bodies are still lying unburied. Intense heat hinders salvage work. The water supply is good, but electric lighting is restricted.

The latest report from Yokohama states that 200 foreign residents lost their lives. Charred corpses have been gathered temporarily on the site of the wrecked Grand hotel and will be taken later for burial to the foreign cemetery in Tokyo.

Awaits Relief Ships. One week after its great disaster last Japan is watching the race of relief ships against plague and famine for control of her devastated areas.

Simultaneously with the arrival at her ports of American ships bearing much needed medical and food supplies, the nation was confronted with the disturbing whisper that evidences of cholera had appeared in the waste that was Yokohama.

Details are lacking as yet, but careful medical supervision of arriving refugees has been inaugurated.

It is considered probable that cases of cholera have occurred due to congestion in refugee centers. The Yokohama relief bureau is making every effort to break up hordes of refugees clustered in public parks and get them under canvas in sanitary police camps.

Roderick Matheson, who reached Kobe, said that the foreign residential section of Yokohama was nothing but a mass of charred ruins and bodies.

"Of 200 guests in the Grand hotel," said Matheson, "few were able to make their escape when the earth tremors began to rock the buildings. Many of the foreigners were lurching at the United club. This building collapsed and virtually every person in it lost his life."

Hotels Crash to Earth. The Oriental Palace hotel literally sank into the earth and the guests had no chance for their lives. The majority of the houses on the bluff collapsed with the first tremendous shock. Frantic appeals for help were heard from the ruins, but only in a few instances was it possible to render assistance.

"On the bluff overlooking the city the Court and Cherrymont hotels seemed to have been lifted from their foundations and hurled into the ruins below. The bluff itself tumbled over on the opposite side of the bluff."

Pianos are almost entirely made by hand. There are nearly 20,000 known medicinal remedies.

Many Chinese use their hollow idols as saving banks. The Aztec calendar consisted of a year of 18 months.

Twenty-six thousand people can stand under the roof of St. Paul's cathedral.

Hongkong, Sept. 8.—The Canadian Pacific steamship company agency here received advices from the company's Kobe agent that, after being fouled by two steamers as a result of the tidal wave following last Saturday's earthquake, the liner Empress of Australia maneuvered to the outside of the harbor at Yokohama and anchored in a safe position at noon last Sunday.

The message said the vessel had a hard fight to reach safety, but gave no details. It was added that as soon as divers had been brought from Kobe and had cut away a cable with which the ship's propeller had become entangled, she would proceed to Kobe to land a number of refugees that had been taken on board and to obtain provisions and fresh water. The vessel then will proceed to Vancouver, B. C.

Japan Pushes Relief Work. Nagasaki, Sept. 8.—Relief in the earthquake zone is proceeding vigorously. The Tokyo government is preparing to extend funds from its reserves without restriction for purchase of provisions. The entire stock of army and navy tents has been placed at the disposal of the homeless pending completion of barracks which are now under construction.

Banks have resumed business and are paying out sums not to exceed 100 yen to a person. The vice governor at the Bank of Japan has returned to Tokyo and announced resumption of business. The specie held in the head office, amounting to 1,050,000,000 yen, and the deposits amounting to 2,320,000,000 yen, are intact.

District of Horror.

Kobe, Sept. 8.—The horror district of Kobe has become a land of pestilence. Plague, disease and famine have made their appearance in the stricken area, as reports of an outbreak of cholera, dysentery and yellow fever combined with an acute food shortage in and around Tokyo and Yokohama reach this city.

In spite of temporary relief measures the food supply for millions of homeless in the disaster zone is wholly inadequate and stark famine threatens to add to the general horror.

Water Polluted.

Polluted well and river water—the only available supply for millions of fever-crazed people—is beginning to add to the death toll already claimed by earthquake, fire and an all-destroying back wash from a convulsed sea.

Tokyo and Yokohama, as well as scores of smaller cities and hundreds of villages and hamlets, are desolate piles of charred ruins filled with dead.

Transportation and communication throughout the empire continue virtually paralyzed. What telegraph wires are in operation are overcrowded with confusion of news reports is out of the question.

The country from twenty miles north of Tokyo to Kozu, forty miles south, is a vast scene of desolation and ruin, wherein human life is no longer significant. Three-fourths of Tokyo is a smoldering ruin, wherein thousands of earthquake and fire victims were trapped.

City in Ruins in Six Hours.

Yokohama ceased to exist six hours after a titanic convulsion. Buildings collapsed instantly, roads writhed in billows, and cracks twenty feet wide swallowed up terror-stricken inhabitants who sought to run away from the scene. Beneath brick and ties thousands lay blackened, while fire was sweeping everything, preventing rescues.

The harbor was a scene of wildest confusion, the seismic waves dashing liners together, crashing against the concrete docks and hurling the hulls in all directions. The Empress of Australia and the Steel Navigator were fouled, the former losing its propeller.

Harbor Swept by Blazing Oil.

Burning oil swept the harbor, while rescue work was being frantically pursued.

Communications are broken, railroads are twisted aimless, lines of steel and iron roads are split by cracks, bridges and wires are down.

Banks Reopening.

The principal banks in the stricken zone are reopening. The Bank of Japan came through the disaster with hardly any damage. The contents of the vaults of the Mitsui bank and of other large financial institutions were saved.

The Bank of Japan's gold reserve, amounting to $100,000,000, is safe. All indications are that Japan's banks are in excellent condition and are ready to give good service to the labors of reconstruction.

From the Tokyo Central observatory comes a reassurance that no anxiety need be felt as to sudden renewal of the earthquake. The shocks that have been recorded during the last few days are said to be "hangovers" from the earlier tremors.

The observatory announces that the movement of the earth has been gradually diminishing.

RESISTANCE IN RUHR TO END

Direct Negotiations Between France and Germany Are Now On.

GERMANS HAVE LOST HEART

Paris Delivers Ultimatum to Berlin on Occupation Row and Stresemann Acts for Peace—Gold Note Bank to Open.

London, Sept. 11.—German populations of the occupied areas in the Ruhr and Rhineland have been ordered to cease passive resistance against Franco-Belgian occupation, according to a Central News dispatch from Berlin. It is stated here in well informed quarters that the passive resistance in Germany is likely to end within the next fourteen days, when the allies may in common reconsider the transformed outlook.

Berlin, Sept. 11.—The French ambassador, M. De Margerie, delivered an ultimatum to Chancellor Stresemann Monday night. Germany is told it must officially declare the state of affairs which existed previous to Jan. 11 be restored in the Ruhr before any official negotiations begin, it is learned from diplomatic sources.

Ambassador De Margerie consulted with Chancellor Stresemann and Secretary of State Baron Maltzan. The ambassador insisted that an official declaration that Germany is giving up the passive resistance is necessary as well as the actual giving up by the workmen and the immediate resumption on a large scale of shipments of Ruhr coal to France.

Chancellor Stresemann now will make a concrete offer of a percentage of all German private property, which, under laws which he is preparing, will be forced to underwrite a mortgage of many billion gold marks to France. According to the diplomatic informant, Chancellor Stresemann is hopeful that clearing up the situation through a direct offer of practically a mortgage over Germany's personal property, commerce and industry will open the way to quick peace with France. The cabinet decreed that the gold note bank will begin operations immediately. It will be based upon the Bank of England plan.

Japan Faced by Fifteen Year Task in Reconstruction

Washington, Sept. 11.—It will require five years to lay the foundations of the new cities of Tokyo and Yokohama, and from ten to fifteen years to complete their construction, according to reliable estimates made here. In approximation of the losses sustained from temblors, tidal waves and conflagrations throughout the stricken area of Japan, comprising a sweep of territory extending 100 miles from north to south and 200 miles from east to west, places the figure at $2,000,000,000.

Disciples of Christ Vote $5,000,000 for 1924 Work

Colorado Springs, Colo., Sept. 11.—Five million dollars was appropriated for the furtherance of the religious and educational activities of the Disciples of Christ. This sum was voted at the annual international convention of the denomination which closed after having been in session since Tuesday. The membership of the denomination now number 1,378,657, an increase in the year of 115,000 in America and 3,340 abroad.

Navy Plane Flies 238 Miles an Hour for New Record

Roosevelt Field, Mineola, L. I., Sept. 11.—World-record speed of 238 miles an hour was reached late Monday by the Wright lighter-airplane that will represent the United States navy next month in the Pulitzer race at St. Louis. The record flight was achieved by Lieut. L. H. Sanderson, U. S. M. C.

President Coolidge Approves October 27 as "Navy Day"

Washington, Sept. 11.—President Coolidge, in a letter made public by Secretary Denby, gives his full approval to plans for celebrating "Navy day" on October 27, the anniversary of the birth of Theodore Roosevelt, who, the President said, demonstrated "the effective utilization of naval power as a guaranty of peace."

Oklahoma Ku Klux Klan Orders Masks Be Discarded

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect It

Applicants for Insurance Often Rejected.

Judging from reports from druggists who are constantly in direct touch with the public, there is one preparation that has been very successful in overcoming these conditions. The mild and healing influence of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its remarkable record of success. An examining physician for one of the prominent Life Insurance Companies, in an interview on the subject, made the astonishing statement that one reason why so many applicants for insurance are rejected is because kidney trouble is so common to the American people, and the large majority of those whose applications are declined do not even suspect that they have the disease. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is on sale at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes, medium and large. However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper—Advertisement.

The Up-to-Date Painter.

Watkins was having his house painted. The expense was mounting and he was beginning to fear he would have to let the painter take the house as part payment for the job, when Mrs. Watkins overheard something that shed some light upon the matter. The painter was working at the front of the house when a friend of the same profession passed by.

"Hello, there, Bill," the friend called.

"Hello yourself," the painter responded. "Where are you going to?" "Got a garage to paint down here in the next block. How's business?" "Can't complain."

"How long will it take you to finish the job you're on there?" "Well, Bill, tell you, Carl," and the painter lowered his voice to a confidential tone, "the boss is gone to see about another job. If he gets the new work we'll be done here tomorrow. If he don't, it will take until some time next week."—Kansas City Star.

U.S. CONSTITUTION 136 YEARS OLD

Present-day Confusion and Inefficiency Charged to Departure from It

By J. V. NASH
On September 17, 1923, the Constitution of the United States will have reached its 136th milestone, still hale and hearty, notwithstanding the many storms which it has weathered. The seventeenth of September is the birthday of our Government, just as the Fourth of July is the birthday of our freedom. The day has been strangely neglected in the past. Within the last few months, however, a Constitution Anniversary Association has been organized, under the presidency of Harry F. Atwood, of Chicago, to promote all over the country, in the schoolrooms and through the columns of the press, a fitting observance of the day. The association hopes thus to kindle an interest in the Constitution which will lead to a wider understanding of the principles for which it stands. When the Federal Constitution was signed, a new epoch in political history began. The men who framed the Constitution were working for generations yet unborn, although doubtless few if any realized at the time the epoch-making nature of their labors. They had no models to guide them in framing the Constitution. It was a bold experiment, a great adventure into the unknown in government. Many predicted failure for the experiment, and the wonder is not that sixteen of the fifty-five delegates assembled in Independence Hall at Philadelphia passed up the opportunity to immortalize their names by affixing their signatures to the Constitution, but rather that as many as thirty-nine—a majority of more than two-thirds—possessed the faith and the vision to offer themselves as sponsors for a new plan of government, the success of which could be determined only by time. Although it was with doubt and misgiving that the new Constitution was adopted by the states, three years elapsing before the entire thirteen had registered their ratifications, its far-reaching significance quickly impressed some of the keenest minds of the age. George Washington, only two years after the signing of the Constitution, remarked: "I can almost see the divine hand of Providence during those days when the Constitutional Convention was assembled, and we had all reason to fear that misery, confusion and darkness were coming upon us." Some State Performances It would be well for many of our modern legislators engaged in drawing up new state constitutions, to take a leaf from the notebook of the Constitutional Convention of 1787. In recent years there has been an epidemic of new constitution-making in different states. Constitutional conventions have met, old constitutions have been scrapped, and innumerable small-caliber delegates have orated and resolved and reported and wrangled and submitted all sorts of absurd and inane suggestions for incorporation in the new constitution. After months and sometimes years of contention and bickering and waste motion—all at the expense of the taxpayers—a huge paper crazy-quilt dubbed a "constitution" has been thrust upon the people of the state. In some of our western states these new "constitutions" reach the proportions of thick volumes, containing a jumble of the most absurdly incongruous material, much of it consisting of petty regulations and by-laws for state institutions, which have no

The bigger the body, the slower the movement. The greater the movement must be, the longer it takes to get under way.

The United States is a large body, almost entirely surrounded by good motor cars and poor roads. It is moving slowly, but surely towards a condition when it will have only good roads. The movement is slow because the body is so large, and has so many heads.... 110,000,000 of them.

Improving our almost three million miles of highways is a huge task. The movement is enormous. Therefore, it takes time to get under way. It is like a monster freight train, starting up a grade, requiring many locomotives to begin the travel and slowly getting up speed. But once the train is in motion, it has an enormous force for going ahead; one locomotive can keep it moving and it is difficult to stop.

So will it be with our road building program, slowly but surely the movement for better roads than Federal aid can give, for more roads than States alone can build, is gathering momentum. When it gets up speed, nothing can stop it.

Meanwhile the individual who needs a good road and needs it now, must not lose courage. It was said the Panama Canal couldn't be built in a generation. It was built in a few short years. At the rate we are at present building roads it will take some hundred and fifty or two hundred years to improve our road system. All of us will be very dead before that movement is well started. The answer is to change the movement, to work for, educate for, vote for, national highways, built by and maintained by the National Government; give this Nation two hundred thousand miles of such roads (which could with ease be built in a period of five years) and the rest of the roads will be improved in even less time, by States, counties, and towns which will refuse to be kept from the benefits of such a national road system, when all that they need to do to enjoy it, is to connect with it.

ECLIPSE PLAINLY VISIBLE

Large Portion of Sun Obscured Monday by Moon, next Total Eclipse in '25

Many Genoa people got out their smoked glasses Monday and saw very plainly the partial eclipse here of the sun by the moon. Starting about 2:24 p. m. the body moved across the path of the sun's rays until about one-third of it appeared to be hidden.

The moon then gradually sailed on past the sun until at 4:30 p. m. the celestial heavens were again free from one of nature's phenomena.

The next total eclipse of the sun will occur in 1925.

Many special measures were taken by big observatories to get a photograph of the eclipse from a mountain in California where a total eclipse took place. In fact thousands of dollars were spent along these lines. All the work went for naught, however, for clouds appeared in the sky and smashed all calculations.

WALTONS TO FORM 2 CHAPTERS

Fishermen Will Get Together to Organize in Genoa and Kingston

At the regular meeting of Sycamore Chapter, Izaak Walton League of America, held in the Library building on Friday night, after a statement by President Earl Wetzel, it was voted to join in a big picnic to be held in Lewis Lloyd's woods, between Sycamore and Genoa, next week Friday evening, September 21, for the purpose of organizing similar chapters in Genoa and Kingston.

M. S. Heiss, executive secretary and state organizer, has promised to deliver the principal address. He is an interesting speaker, and is acquainted with all details of this widespread movement to protect the streams and lakes of the state and conserve fish and game.

A supper will be provided under arrangements with the Sycamore chapter.

While the Sycamore chapter joins in the general movement for protecting the waterways of the state and nation, it intends to devote its energies especially to protecting the streams of northern DeKalb county. The members are determined that a great improvement will be made in fishing here, and that the people who have been polluting the Kishwaukee river and seining in it shall be prevented from continuing their unlawful practices.

ZELLER & SON

rightful place in a constitution. If a state insane asylum cannot be administered without the aid of the constitution, the mental level of those in charge cannot be much higher than that of the inmates.

A deluge of laws pours out on the country year after year. During the five-year period from 1909 to 1913 inclusive, there were enacted more than 62,000 new laws, and in that same period more than 65,000 decisions were handed down by our higher courts, a mass of legal "precedents" filling 631 large volumes! It would take more than a human lifetime to read a single year's crop of new laws and legal decisions. Consequently, they are disregarded, and all law comes more and more into contempt.

Perhaps the most dangerous manifestation of our departure from the Constitution has been the mushroom growth of official boards and commissions unauthorized by and unknown to the Constitution. It is related as Lincoln started for Ford's Theater, on the last night of his life, he was visited at the White House by Mr. Ashmun, who had been the presiding officer of the Chicago Convention in 1860 which nominated Lincoln for the Presidency. "Mr. Lincoln," said Ashmun, in the course of their chat, "I am interested in a cotton claim, and I want you to appoint a commission to investigate the matter and report." Lincoln replied, with an abruptness and impatience for which he immediately afterward apologized to his visitor: "Ashmun I have done with commissions. I think they are contrivances to cheat the government." These were Lincoln's last recorded words on the subject of government.

One could imagine what Lincoln would say were he to come back to life today and witness the extent to which the people of this country are being tyrannized over and eaten out of substance by boards and commissions existing without the slightest Constitutional authority.

A year or two ago it was estimated that there were at that time, "sitting pretty" in Washington, SEVENTY-SEVEN BOARDS AND COMMISSIONS WITH 90,000 SALARIED RETAINERS ON THEIR PAYROLLS.

These boards and commissions are in many cases, it would seem, mischievously interfering with business. A well-known speaker, addressing a meeting of business men in Chicago not long ago, declared that one of the important factors responsible for the high freight rates now being charged by the railroads is the cost to the companies of the great number and variety of official reports which they are compelled to compile, necessitating the employment of large staffs of statisticians and clerical assistants.

Usurping Government

As Mr. Atwood remarks in "Back to the Republic,":

"It was never contemplated by the men who wrote the Constitution and founded this Republic, that individuals, boards and commissions should be called in hastily and promiscuously, from the outside, and assigned dictatorial and autocratic power on momentous undertakings. Such a course usurps the proper jurisdiction of regularly appointed heads of cabinet departments and regularly elected members of the legislative body."

We have heard a great deal in the past two or three years about "getting back to normalcy." If the government could be made to get back to the Constitution, we would then find ourselves on the rails again and in a position to continue our interrupted journey to prosperity. We are not likely to make much progress by bumping back and forth on the ties in a vain endeavor to reach "normalcy."

On this 136th anniversary of the Constitution, let us proclaim anew

our allegiance to the principles on which the nation was founded—a republic, of the people, for the people, by the people, functioning through representative government. — The Dearborn Independent.

A Rusco Tractor Belt transmits greater pulling power from the pulley to the job. Why? Principally because it's solidly woven. Ply belting (stitched or "stuck" together) pulls unevenly and comes apart at the ply.

Rusco has a wonderful grip and a mighty pull; no laps, joints, exposed stitches or plies; pliable, durable, water-proof, guaranteed belting.

Rusco Tractor Belts (or light fixed position belting) are obtainable in any thickness, width or length desired. We stock all popular sizes or can manufacture to order on short notice.

For every belt-work requirement, Rusco Tractor Belts, made by The Russell Manufacturing Co., Middletown, Conn. (93 years of knowing how) are absolutely guaranteed to contain no plies whatever and to have greater structural resistance to abnormal conditions than any other type belting made. CHAPTER XXVI—Continued.

Lettie patted him more absently, more and more dreamily, her thoughts withdrawing into the seclusion of anxious meditation. She scarcely noticed when he left her, at the call of his own master.

Out of the chaos a new thought took shape, beckoned with promise, sent Lettie flying down the street again, back to The Custard Cup. She pelted through the driveway and into Number 47.

Lettie patted him more absently. "Oh, Penzie," she cried, as she burst into the kitchen, "I got it; I got it. Jimmy, ain't you glad?"

"Depends on what you got, dear," returned Mrs. Penfield, grown cautious through much experience. Lettie held up her fanned fist, so tightly clenched that the bones showed white under the bloodless skin.

"Now we can have the tree and the party and fun—and everything, can't we?" she shouted. "Gosh, I thought I'd never pull it off."

"Lettie, dear," sighed Mrs. Penfield, "we got to do something 'bout your language." Lettie grinned. "Not 'fore Christmas, have we?"

"I expect we wouldn't have time 'fore Christmas," smiled Mrs. Penfield, "but we got to get at it by New Year's."

Lettie reverted to matters of more moment. "And now, Penzie, you'll do what you promised and show me how to buy a big, big Christmas tree? We got money 'nough now, haven't we?"

"Oh, plenty. All we got to do is to plan, and we'll get right at it."

"Point is—" He paused, thinking. "It's 'most Christmas," he began presently.

Lettie came out of her chair. "Cracky, ain't it?" He looked at her keenly. "I got a boy that's crazy over machinery. Did you say a dollar?"

She nodded. "I—I'm sorry to—ask so much," she stammered, now thoroughly humbled, "but I—I gotta have—"

He said nothing. But presently he drew out an old wallet with a pleasant bulge and extracted from it a green bill, which he slowly unfolded. It was a dollar bill. Lettie's wide eyes fastened on it with unwinking transfixion.

"Here you are, sister." He passed over the bill. Lettie took it in a daze. She tried to speak. "Tha—ank—" Her voice bumped up and down; her thin chest heaved. In an agony of emotion she clutched the bill and stumbled out of the office.

"Thereupon nickels were pooled, and a card was purchased and divided, to the infinite satisfaction of everybody concerned."

The Penfield plan allowed another dime for candy, but it was no easy matter to decide upon the variety. Visibility had to be considered, as well as bulk. Fortunately, the lower the price, the higher the color, so the latter quality took care of itself.

"The other purchases required little selection and were speedily made. They consisted of a tablet of plain, good paper for one dime; two packages of envelopes, for another; a spool of white thread, five cents; and a stick of pink-and-white candy, one cent."

During all these transactions Mrs. Penfield had been merely an attentive bit of background, but in the following few minutes she was called upon to

CHAPTER XXVII

Dimes, Limited.

"The reason some folks have to have so much money," explained Mrs. Penfield, "is, they don't know how to plan. Land, they'd be 'sprised to know how little money they could live on if they'd only mix their brains with it."

It was admitted at Number 47 that funds were ample for the project in hand, but the young Miss Penfield was dismayed to find her capital diminished from one dollar to eighty cents, the intervening twenty being required to liquidate the final payment on the Wopple window.

Mrs. Penfield knew a place in the country where a tree could be had for nothing. But it would take two car-fares and return; also Crink and the family hatchet. Twenty cents was segregated for the enterprise.

The next morning an important expedition set forth from The Custard Cup. Mrs. Penfield went along as guide, but the motive force was Lettie, who bore the badge of authority in a small purse containing sixty-six cents in negotiable form.

The Penfields had a long walk, but the morning was beautiful, bright and crisp, with a bracing quality that emphasized the cheerful spirit of the season. There had been rain a few days before, washing the haze from the hills, giving greener life to lawns and trees.

The streets were bustling with activity. Expressmen and delivery boys were busier than usual, running up steps and ringing doorbells with an agreeable appearance of rush; people were hurrying in every direction, carrying packages of delightful mystery.

Mrs. Penfield guided Lettie to a store that catered to shoppers whose desires were ambitious and whose resources were small. Head held high, Lettie pushed her way through the crowd that thronged the aisles.

"Oh, sir," cried Lettie, "boys would just love—" "Shaw!" interrupted Mr. Abbott.

Lettie Patted Him More Absently.

Graduate Nurse Finds "The Perfect Remedy"

"From my long experience as a professional nurse, I do not hesitate to say Tanlac is nature's most perfect remedy," is the far-reaching statement given out for publication, recently, by Mrs. L. A. Borden, 425 Pontiac Ave., Seattle, Wash., a graduate of the National Temperance Hospital, Chicago.

"I have used Tanlac exclusively for seven years in the treatment of my charity patients," said Mrs. Borden, "and my experience has been that for keeping the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels functioning properly, and for toning up the system in general, it has no equal."

"About a year ago I had a lady patient who could not keep a thing on her stomach, not even water. I prevailed on her to try Tanlac and after the sixth bottle she could eat absolutely anything she wanted without the slightest bad after-effects."

"I had another patient who simply could not eat. I got him started on Tanlac and by the time he finished three bottles he was eating ravenously and able to work."

"These two instances are typical of the wonderful merits of the medicine. My confidence in Tanlac is unlimited." Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists.

Then he began: "It's three minutes after four. I did not let the cat follow me. I've just returned from one of our conferences. The gas is turned down low. The doors are all locked; the windows fastened. I paid the taxes this afternoon. Mary's baby's got the measles. That isn't our dog barking."

More for Your Money

Swapping things—as when our grandmothers traded eggs for calico at the cross-roads store—gives a better understanding of values. By measuring one thing against another we too can often judge values more clearly.

Coal and wages make up more than half the manufacturing cost of cement.

The chart above shows price fluctuations for portland cement, coal and wages during the past ten years. In each case 100 is used to represent 1913 figures, by the Government departments which compiled these statistics.

Translated into "eggs and calico" language, this chart shows that a ton of coal would buy nearly twice as much cement in 1922 as in 1913. A day's wages also would buy more cement in 1922 than in 1913.

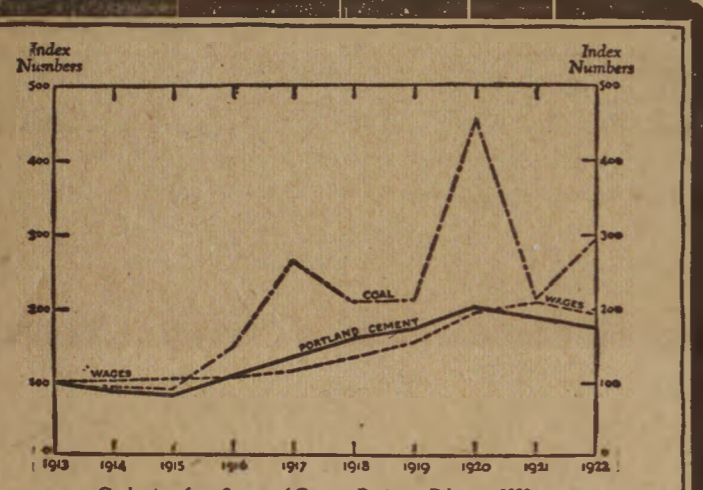

This means that even though coal and wages make up more than half its manufacturing cost, cement is now relatively lower in price than either coal or wages.

So, considering these increased costs, it is plain that in buying cement you get more for your money than before.
