CROPS ALL GOOD

Western Canada Farmers Jubilant Over Prospects. Harvest in Southwestern Manitoba Expected to Come Close to Bumper Yield of 1915.

Those who have friends in Western Canada will be anxious to learn of the conditions there, and will be interested in knowing that generally the crop prospect is very favorable.

With the widely varying weather conditions that have prevailed in the different sections of the prairie provinces it would be impossible to forecast with any degree of accuracy...

Southwestern Manitoba will reap a harvest which will nearly equal the bumper harvest of 1915.

In Saskatchewan there are large areas where the crops are excellent. In places where the prospects some few weeks ago were not encouraging...

The southern portions of the province have been exceptionally favored, reports showing that the yield of all grains will be wonderfully good.

Conditions in Alberta are said to be good, especially in southern Alberta, where copious and plentiful showers came in time to give assurance of good paying yields.

Northern Alberta, or at least that portion of it lying within thirty miles of Edmonton, has suffered from lack of moisture...

Pasture is poor, and the hay crop will fall short of that of any previous year for quite an extended period.

On the whole, the prairie provinces of Western Canada will have a crop that will warrant the statement that it will prove satisfactory and remunerative.

A number of farmers put in corn this year, and from present appearances there is a likelihood of an abundant yield for fodder and ensilage...

When hair is bobbed, it is explained, a tight hat usually is worn through which air does not reach the scalp...

In fact, it has been solemnly affirmed that the crowning glory, starved for ventilation...

ADDRESSING LETTERS.

The true, strong and sound mind is the mind that can embrace equally great things and small.—Johnson.
NEVER use the form "Dear Friend." This was once in good form but it is decidedly out of favor now.

Never address a letter intended for various members of the same family thus: "Mrs. John Smith and family." Instead use this form: "Mrs. John Smith; The Misses Smith."
A simpler way is to address the envelope of the letter to the head of the family and explain within that your letter is intended for the whole family.

Never enclose a postage stamp in anything but a business communication when you ask for a reply. This is not necessary if you are transacting business in which your request is not in the nature of a favor.

Never even in a business letter use the expression, "Let me know by return mail," or "Send by return mail." As a matter of fact mails are so frequent between big cities now that it would probably be quite impossible to return by the next outgoing mail and obviously there is no return mail now save in some place like Bermuda where a boat bringing mail actually carries off the next outgoing mail.

Don't use the ending "very truly yours," in anything but a business letter. It is no longer the right ending for social purposes or letters between personal friends.

Don't use the ending "respectfully yours" in ordinary business correspondence. It is the correct ending in an official or business letter addressed to the President, it might properly be used in addressing the vice president or justice of the Supreme court, but to use it simply because you are writing to someone whom you wish to do business with has an air of too great obsequiousness.

High Cost of Rats.
The fire prevention committee of the Building Managers and Owners' association of New York has issued the following bulletin to its members: "The upkeep of rats has gone up. A year or so ago someone figured out that it cost us $1.80 per person per year to feed the rats in the United States. Recent figures compiled by a British expert place this cost in the United States at $75,000,000 a year, which is a trifle over $7 per person. This is simply for food consumed and destroyed and has nothing whatever to do with the very considerable fire loss they cause."

The Eggplant.
The eggplant, so called because it is egg shaped, belongs to the same vegetable family as the potato. It is a tropical vegetable and can be grown successfully in the United States as far north as latitude 42 degrees. The eggplant is as nutritious as cabbage or cauliflower.

CENTRAL STATES FAIR AUG. 18-26

Big Agricultural and Amusement Exposition at New $500,000 Park.

TO GIVE $125,000 IN PRIZES

Agricultural, manufacturing and educational activities of the great Middle West, combined with the greatest amusements that money can secure, will make the first annual Central States Fair and Exposition at Exposition park, Aurora, Ill., August 18 to 26, inclusive, the biggest event of the kind in the Central West.

A total of $125,000 in premiums, purses and attractions has been appropriated to supply recreation to more than 500,000 people who are expected to attend the fair, and to attract exhibitors in the various departments.

Competition Open to World.
Competition in all departments is open to the world and already live stock breeders, manufacturers and agricultural interests from almost every state in the Union have contracted for space.

A Few Fair Facts.
An idea of the immensity of the exposition may be gained from the following facts concerning the fair:

- One hundred and forty acres of land in fair grounds property.
- Largest concrete and steel grandstand on any fair grounds in the United States, costing $100,000 and seating 10,336 persons, with additional seats for 5,000 in bleachers.
- Thirty-five thousand square feet of exhibition space in Varied Industries building.
- Thirty to fifty acres of Field exhibition space for farm machinery and implements.
- Parking space for 7,000 automobiles.
- Forty-five thousand square feet of inside exhibition space for machinery.
- Greatest tent in the world, 600 feet long and 188 feet wide, for an automobile show in which all models of practically every known make of car will be exhibited.
- National Lumber Manufacturers' association $35,000 building, constructed entirely of logs from the north woods, for lumber exhibits.
- U. S. Department of Forestry will have an exhibit.
- U. S. Department of Agriculture will have an exhibit.
- Swine pavilion will house 2,000 animals.
- Cattle pavilion will house 1,100 animals.
- Accommodation for 400 head of heavy draft and light harness horses.
- Tented city on grounds with accommodations for 2,000 people.
- Immense buildings to house exhibits of agriculture, horticulture, fine arts, education and woman's work.
- Canadian government will have an agricultural exhibit.
- Great Western Circuit harness racing and International Motor Contest association automobile races on new $130,000 track.
- Midway with famous Johnny J. Jones shows, 35 attractions, daredevil balloon and airplane exhibitions, gorgeous night fireworks display and other great amusement features.

CHAMPION BABY WILL BE PICKED

Better Babies' Conference at Central States Fair.

The Better Babies' Conference at the Central States Fair and Exposition at Aurora, Ill., August 18 to 26, will be under the direction of the State Department of Public Health. Prizes will be awarded the babies making the highest scores in the six sections.

The mother of the champion baby will be awarded a $100 gold watch and, in addition, will be sent to the state fair at Springfield, with all expenses paid, where the champion baby of the Central States fair will be entered for the state title. For entry blanks and instructions, address Clifford R. Trimble, secretary-manager, Central States Fair and Exposition, Aurora, Ill.

PECULIAR MAY DAY SPORTS

"Merrie England" That Went Out With the Rise of Puritanical Ideas.

In London in olden times the chimney sweeps had a May day celebration of their own. They gathered in small bands, fantastically dressed, usually with a woman smartly dressed and glittering with spangles. One strange figure in the group, a man concealed in a frame of herbs and flowers, called "Jack in the Green."

As a part of the old English celebration of May day there was a distinct set of sports meant to represent the adventures of the legendary Robin Hood and known as the "Robin Hood games." Most of the characters mentioned in the Robin Hood legend were portrayed in these games and there were archery and quarter staff contests.

Solved the Difficulty.
A prominent "movie" director says that there is at least one advantage in the income tax.

"We were casting for a picture, and we wanted a particular man for a certain part. This man had evidently forgotten that common sense has entered the motion picture field, because he insisted upon the most exorbitant salary that could be imagined."

Another View of Selfishness.
Selfishness does not always apply to the man who is unwilling to share his belongings with others, but it also applies to the man who may have some practical ideas and will not pass them on to his neighbor.

All Welcome.
Sunday School Teacher—Children, do you know the house that is open to all—to the poor, the rich, the sad, the happy, to man and to woman, to young and to old—to you know the house I mean? Small Boy—"Yes, miss, the stationhouse."

Note these New Prices on U.S. Tires

ON July 29, 1922, the lowest prices ever quoted on U.S. Passenger Car Tires went into effect—Royal Cords included.

Bear in mind that these prices apply to the most complete line of quality tires in the world. Remember, too—as you read the following table—that U. S. quality has been positively maintained.

These new prices should give confidence to dealers and car-owners that no lower basis of quality tire prices will prevail.

37 x 5 "	51.85	45.75	41.70	—	—

Federal Excise Tax on the above has been absorbed by the manufacturer

The dealer with a full line of U. S. Tires at these new prices can serve you better than you have ever been served before in the history of the automobile.

If there ever was any fancied advantage in shopping around for tires it disappeared on July 29, 1922.

Queer Plant Grows in Africa.
The welswitschia, which grows in southwest Africa, is one of the queerest plants in the world. The body of the plant resembles an enormous radish, and is sometimes 12 to 15 feet in circumference. From this grows two long leaves, which trail on the ground and are usually split into numerous ribbons. These are the only leaves produced, and they last through the lifetime of the plant, which is said to reach more than one hundred years. The colonial authorities maintain a small park for the preservation of this rare and remarkable plant.

SHOULD BE LITERARY SHRINE

Room in London Where Rudyard Kipling, Thirty Years Ago, Wrote "The Light That Failed."

Thirty years make few changes in a London street, and Villiers street running down to the Thames past the smoke-smudged walls of Charing Cross railway station is much the same as when Rudyard Kipling lived in Number 10, the Embankment chambers, and struggled for recognition from the London editors, says Arthur Bartlett Maurie in "Literary Pilgrimages" in the New York Herald.

The third-floor rooms in the Embankment chambers where Kipling worked in his early twenties are the scene of nearly all the stories with a London background that he has written.

"For example, 'The Light That Failed.' The rooms shared by Torpenhow and Dick Helder were Kipling's own rooms. From the doorway of No. 10 poor Dick, stricken with blindness, groped down to the water's edge for the sense of the Thames' damp and the feel of the ships that waited to his nostrils the pungent smells of the East. Lying across that doorway, Torpenhow first found Bessie 'Broke, the little street girl from 'south 'o the river, who fell in love with him, and revenged herself on Dick for his interference by scraping away the face of the Melancholia. On a table of the Kipling rooms in the Embankment chambers, Charlie Meers, of 'The Finest Story in the World,' scrawled the words, meaningless to him, that told of the agony of the galley slave. The very table once had been Kipling's. He had been burning the midnight oil and generally overworking himself. On the table he had carved the words: 'Oft was I weary when I toiled at thee'—the motto which the galley slave carved upon his oar."

HAS GRUDGE AGAINST RADIO

One Person at Least Who Cannot See Anything in the Latest Popular Amusement.

"I'm through with Greenwich Village for good," the out-of-towner told her city cousin. "It was false to me in my hour of need. Furthermore, I'm haunted by wireless."
"You don't say so!"
"At home I led a terribly conventional life. It was boring, but I managed to endure it. My brother is a rather clever talker, you know, and we were the best of pals—until he took up wireless telephony."
"So that's why you came to town so suddenly!"

"It is! My life was just one continuous discussion of radiophones, PDQ stations, antennae and wot not! But the thing I hated most was my brother's enchantment with the nightly radio concerts. Every time we settled down for a chat and he promised to reform from his wireless craze, he'd get word that there was a concert in Newark and off he'd dash to his wireless telephone."—New York Times.

Under His Hat.

The woman and the man from out of town were theater-bound, and at 8 o'clock both discovered that neither knew the street on which the particular theater was located.

"Let's go to a newsstand and get an evening paper," suggested the man.

"Let's ask a policeman," suggested the woman.

"Oh, that looks so out-of-townish," said the man, but as a big policeman hove into view the man went up to him to get the information.

"Lord love you," said the jovial policeman, "I can't keep all the theaters in my head any more than you can, but I do keep them in my hat." Then, winking amiably, he removed said hat, or cap, to be correct, and extracted a tiny guide book which revealed, after a turning of numerous pages, the desired address.—Exchange.

America's Oldest Bell.

In the court house at Barnstable, Mass., is an old bell, cracked and silent, which may be, and probably is, the oldest bell in the United States. So thinks Alfred Crocker of Barnstable county.

The date 1675 is still plainly visible in a photograph recently printed. By this date, however, the old bell had seen nearly a quarter of a century of life in England before it came to America and began calling worshippers together in the church at Sandwich Town.

Gratitude bought the bell in England, for it came as a gift from Mrs. Peter Adolph, whose husband, Captain Adolph, was lost in the wreck of his vessel on the Massachusetts coast in 1667 despite the efforts of the people of Sandwich.—Boston Transcript.

The Clouds Are Flying.

The clouds are flying fast overhead; and sharp and isolated come drops of rain, so that one thinks it must be spray. But no, it is a handful of rain. The ship swishes and sinks forward, gives a hollow thudding and rears slowly backward, along the pinkish lofty coast of Sicily that is just retreating into a bay. From the open sea comes the rain, come the long waves.—D. H. Lawrence.

Little Banking Stories

He Received $10,000

JOHN B. RECEIVED $10,000 in cash and the question came to him: "What shall I do with it?"

"I must not carry it with me or keep it at home," he said, "for that would be very foolish."

He thought of investing it but he knew so little about investments and he knew that mistakes were very easily made. He decided to go and talk with his banker about his problems.

This man found that his banker studies this problem all the time.

The banker helped find an attractive investment and now this man enjoys his income paid every six months, and he is happy to know that his money is safe, too.

Your banker will be glad to help you solve problems like that.

Forage Poisoning

That forage or food poisoning of farm animals has, by extended experiments, been definitely established as a specific fatal disease and that horses, cattle, sheep, swine, poultry, as well as the human family, are susceptible to the disease, are some of the conclusions drawn by Dr. Robert Graham of the University of Illinois.

The public interest in food poisoning has been stimulated from the recent outbreaks of the disease in man, resulting from the consumption of incompletely sterilized ripe olives. The results of investigations show that animals suffer from a similar disease.

Food poisoning deals principally with the disease commonly referred to as botulism. The poison is developed on animal feed, including ensilage, wheat screenings, ground oats, oat hay, or other feeds, during the time it is stored before being fed. The poison is the result of bacterial growth upon the food and may take place without any visible change in the feed. Molds so often associated with foot poisoning in animals have a very remote connection with the primary cause of the disease, according to the results of recent experiments.

The results of the work reported in the circular indicate that feed which has produced illness and death in animals may be fed without great danger if certain preliminary treatment is given it. Cooking to the point of boiling, exposure to sunlight for two or three days, thorough washing in water, are procedures that are recommended. In many outbreaks it is difficult to detect the feed involved, and of course, until this information can be definitely obtained it is always advisable to make a complete change of feed.

A specific antitoxin which will prevent the development of food poisoning has been developed and applied with good results. From preliminary observations made by the university it appears that veterinarians may find botulinus antitoxin a very valuable asset in combating food or forage poisoning in domestic animals. It can be obtained from the university experiment station, until available from commercial sources, at the cost of production, which at the present time is very reasonable.

Soy Beans for Dairy Cattle

Soy beans rank high in nutritive value. Dairy cattle thrive well on them, no matter whether fed in the form of whole beans, meal, silage or hay.

Whole beans for milk production: Soy beans may be fed whole or ground. In this form they are extremely rich in oil and can be fed in limited quantity only. They may be substituted for linseed or cottonseed meal in the ration, but not more than one-third (preferably less) of the total grain ration should consist of soy beans. When fed in greater amounts there is a tendency toward digestive disturbances and the production of soft butter.

Soy bean meal: Soy bean oil is used extensively in the paint and other industries. The residue left after the major portion of the oil has been extracted is termed soy bean meal or soy bean oil meal. Several experiment stations, notably Massachusetts and New Jersey have run feeding trials and found that soy bean meal was superior to cotton seed meal for milk production. That soy bean meal was worth approximately $41.00 per ton when cottonseed meal was selling at $33.00 per ton.

With the oil removed the butter was firm. When an amount of oil was added equivalent to that removed the butter became soft and undesirable in texture.

Soy bean silage: Six out of seven experiment stations reporting on the feeding of soy bean and corn silage combined as against corn silage alone consider the combination silage either superior to corn silage or state that it requires less grain as a supplement.

One station finds the combination slightly inferior to corn silage for milk production. It is usually considered most satisfactory when ensiling to mix two parts of corn to one of soy beans.

Soy bean hay: Soy bean hay contains about ten per cent more digestible protein than alfalfa, otherwise they are similar in composition. All stations (five) reporting feeding trials with soy bean hay consider it about equal in feeding value to alfalfa and superior to red clover for milk production.

Keep Farm Accounts

"In time of peace prepare for war" is an old motto. The present period of low selling prices for the farmer suggests that an equally good slogan would have been, "In time of war prepare for peace."

That this carries a real truth is shown by the severe need the farmer now feels for cutting his operating costs to the lowest possible figure. History records a long period of low prices after the war of 1812. A like period of depression followed the war of 1861-65. Similarly prices of farm products are now low following the World war. It seems probable that we may be facing another long period of fairly low prices for farm products.

The farmer must follow the example of the commercial and industrial enterprises. These business men are looking over their past records in order to learn the facts for their guidance in developing future policies. They are producing only that which the market wants and is willing to buy. They are cutting their operating costs to an absolute minimum. They are establishing better systems of record keeping to help meet the present depression period.

Farmers likewise must study their past records to learn the facts so they may know the business side of their operations. They must produce what the market will probably buy at a satisfactory price. The costs of this production must be cut to the lowest possible figure. Accurate record keeping will help to reduce costs.

If the farmer has not kept records on his own business during the previous period he should secure from his agricultural college or experiment station the facts concerning farms that did keep such records. These facts will be helpful in guiding him during the coming years of low prices. He should also plan to keep his own records in the future. These will be the accurate guide for his new plans and policies. The farmer must have the facts for his business if he is to organize it intelligently.

Dairy Cattle in Summer

Keeping up the milk flow and bringing the cows through the summer in good condition are two serious problems confronting the dairymen. It is not advisable to allow the dairy herd to run down in flesh. Too often this happens in late summer. The cows freshen in thin condition and will not produce as well or as efficiently as cows that freshen in good flesh.

At this time there are many dairymen who are feeding silage or grain, or both, and they say it pays. It will pay even more next winter. The following grain mixture may be fed at the rate of one pound to every three and one-half to five pounds of milk produced a day, depending on the amount of milk produced and the condition of the cow: Corn, 5 parts; oats or bran, 2 parts; oil meal, 1 part.

Flies are responsible, in a large measure, for low milk yields in summer and thin cattle in the fall. Cows should be protected from them as much as possible. One of the best means of eliminating the fly evil is to keep the cows in the stables during the heat of the day, in cool, darkened barns. Windows can be darkened by nailing building paper over them. Gunny sacks may be hung in the doorway in such a manner that flies will be brushed from the cows' backs as they enter the barn. Manure should not be allowed to accumulate around the stables, as it is an ideal breeding place for flies. Powdered borax sifted over manure will aid in their control.

Some fly-repellent mixtures are effective for a short time. A home-made spray may be prepared as follows: Dissolve one-half pound of soap in a gallon of soft water heated to the boiling point, and with it combine 2 gallons of kerosene. Churn vigorously and add 6 gallons of water.

During the busy farming season there is a tendency to neglect the cows. Regular milking periods should be adhered to as closely as possible, as any marked change in the management of dairy cattle usually results in decreased milk and butterfat production.

Beef Cattle

The use of beef cattle in connection with general farming throughout the corn belt has the following advantages:

It is possible to make greater use of dry roughage produced on the farm, as beef cattle consume larger quantities of these feeds than any other class of live stock.

Beef cattle can be used profitably on rough land unsuitable for crop production; also on low, wet land unsuitable for either crops or for other classes of stock.

Beef cattle use the total production of grain and roughage on the average farm, without the purchase of other feeds, more efficiently than any other class of live stock.

Beef cattle require very little balanced distribution of labor through attention during the summer and fall, when crops need attention, and during winter and early spring, when there is little field work to be done, farmers can utilize their time to advantage by caring for the breeding herd, wintering the stockers and feeders, or fattening some steers.

School Frocks Are Simple;

Among the New Fall Hats

DRESSING with propriety, and therefore with some measure of charm, is one of the things that the best schools require of their attendants. It seems that this is a matter that cannot be left to the judgment of the girls themselves and mothers are sometimes more indulgent than sensible, so that many schools dictate as to what shall be worn to school.

Simplicity and neatness are two essentials of the school dress, quiet color and durability are others. Navy hats are the most engaging item. Now that the time has come for school or college, the matter of her headwear must be disposed of; once it is off her mind there will be a chance for other things to occupy it.

Fortunately for the younger women and girls, there are no displays better than the first ones, where we find the genius of designers, under the inspiration of new styles, materials and trimmings, inspired to unusual efforts. See what has been accomplished by them blue is the favorite color and deserves to be, and strong wooleens, like serge or twill, the fabrics chosen by most schools. Mothers who govern themselves by these restrictions are certain to be credited with good taste.

"Off to school" is written in the lines of the dark frock of poiret twill at the left of the frocks shown here and it is to be imagined in navy and gray, brown and tan or navy with green or red. Vestees, with collar and cuffs to match, are usually made of a wash material and detachable so that they can be kept always fresh and crisp. Various kinds of ties, of cord or ribbon, write "finis," with a pretty little flourish, on the school dress.

The pretty model for leisure afternoons, at the right, presents some new style points. It is made of one of those velvety wool fabrics much like duvetyne, and has a semi-fitted bodice in the group of new dress hats for young women, as pictured.

At the top of the group a pretty, roguish hat is simple enough to please exacting mothers and smart enough to captivate their more daring daughters. It is made of panne velvet, has a mitred crown and a collar and bow of georgette ribbon.

The new, and much admired, shade of green called "mignonette," appears in the handsome hat of Lyons velvet at the right and affords the best of backgrounds for the last word in flower trimming. These blossoms are formed of aluminum and silk and will bloom on cheerfully in the snow. They nestle cozily against the shirred crown.

Lyons velvet and two-toned georgette ribbon, shown in many color combinations, make the charming hat at the right. It is a rich and quiet affair, with graceful and well-balanced lines.

Group of New Fall Hats.

with full skirt gathered and set on with a piping of covered cord. The bodice is covered by parallel rows of silk stitches and has a novel drapery, ending in points that support tassels. Little silver buttons twinkle along one edge of the drapery and the flaring sleeves repeat the decoration on the bodice in a graceful band.

When the young and gentle maiden isn't thinking of the Einstein theory, ten to one her thoughts are occupied with clothes—of which her suits to girls of the dignified type. Finally a soft and elegant hat of dark velvet displays hand-crocheted leaves of chenille and metal, posed about the brim in a way to make everyone turn to look at it. It is a lovely exponent of the glory of autumn and quite universally becoming.

IN LINE WITH BOLSHEVISM

Parallel Drawn by H. G. Wells is Pretty Good Explanation of Existing Situation.

H. G. Wells was discussing bolshevism. "It's too bad," he said, "for, after all, the bolsheviks meant well. But they went too far, you see. That's our trouble everywhere. Either we don't go far enough, or else we go too far."

"Like the man in the French restaurant. This poor devil looked at the French menu, which was Greek to him, and then he touched an item with his finger. The waiter brought him a plate of soup.

"Well and good. His soup finished, he touched the next item. The waiter brought him a second plate of soup. With a repressed oath he touched the third item, and a third plate of soup was set before him.

"In desperation then he touched the last item of all.

"The waiter brought him tooth-picks."

His Lapses. "Nearly every summer I have a silly spell," admitted Hostetter Smith, "during which I spend practically all the money I have saved up during the year to go away for a few weeks to escape the weather that does not arrive until after I get back."—Kansas City Star.

DIPLOMACY TO THE RESCUE

With Ice Cream Cone in Sight, It Must Be Conceded That Betty Withdrew Gracefully.

Betty, who is four, had been scolded by auntie for some misdemeanor, and her feelings were badly hurt. She kept referring to the matter and saying to auntie: "All right for you. I don't care about you any more."

Finally auntie retorted: "Well, all right for you, then. If you don't care about me any more I won't need to get you that ice cream cone I intended to buy you."

Betty looked abashed for a moment. She did not wish to unbend so far as to accept a bribe, but she disliked to lose that ice cream cone.

Then her face brightened with a happy thought. "Oh—uh—April fool!" she said triumphantly.—Detroit Free Press.

Air Disarmament Completed.

Since January, 1920, the allied commission of aeronautical control has destroyed 14,800 airplanes, and the work of disarming Germany in the air is ended. Of the 29,500 motors handled, some have been turned over to the allies, but the greater number have been broken up.

Reason for Delay. "What's the hitch about Grace's wedding to the duke?" "I believe they're having his title searched."

Nevada has the fewest women in proportion to total population of any of the states.

Impossible. She was sitting out the village dance when a well meaning but rather rustic youth saw a spider running over her lace collar. "Permit me," he murmured, as he bent to remove it. "How dare you speak to me without an introduction?" she said witheringly.

At this point the spider reached her neck, and suddenly she cried, "Oh take it off! Please take it off!" The young fellow only said, "I couldn't think of it, miss. I haven't been introduced to the spider."—London Transcript.

Rheostat for Vacuum Tubes.

Rheostats for controlling the current in vacuum tubes and constructed for mounting on panels varying from one-eighth to one-half inch in thickness, are now being manufactured by a Milwaukee (Wis.) concern, says an illustrated article in Popular Mechanics Magazine. Two styles, one with vernier adjustment for detector tubes, and the other for amplifier tubes, are available, both designed for an operating range from zero to four ohms.

Pertinent Question.

The Princess Bibesco was more than usually brilliant at a reception she gave in Washington in honor of her mother, Mrs. Asquith. Apropos of the 1922 fashions, the princess said: "Why is it that, the more a girl loves clothes, the less clothes she wears?"

Another View of Selfishness.
Selfishness does not always apply to the man who is unwilling to share his belongings with others, but it also applies to the man who may have some practical ideas and will not pass them on to his neighbor.

Sixteenth Century Custom.
In the sixteenth century it was customary to put on one side of the blades of table knives the musical notes of the benediction or grace before meat, and on the other side the grace after meat.
