

NOTES FROM THE COURT HOUSE

Grand Jury Convened and Returned Six Indictments

C. OSBORN HELD FOR FORGERY

Sheriff Crawford and Attorney Poust Complimented by Jurors for Exceptionally Good Work

The October term of the grand jury circuit court which had been in session since last Monday completed its work on Wednesday and through its foreman, Fred Middaugh, of Sandwich reported to the court six indictments or true bills.

The indictments which were returned are against the following:

Sears Shanklin of Chicago charging him with the crime of larceny of an automobile belonging to J. D. Kelley of Sycamore.

Howard W. C. Newman, alias W. C. Newman, alias William C. Newman, is charged in three indictments with embezzlement.

Clarence Osborn, alias George Fosell of Rochelle charged with forgery.

William Day, alias Bill Day, of Sycamore charged with assault with intent to murder.

The grand jury voted "No Bills" against the following: Lowell Pruett, on account of his marriage on complaining witness against him; Arthur Swick, Marion Stewart and John Steward on account of having been convicted of the offense committed by them of violating the Prohibition Act in the county court. A "No Bill" was also returned against Harry Buckmaster, the driver of the Hoffman car which figured in the auto accident resulting in the death of Hayes Burchfield and severe injury to Mrs. Dooley of Sycamore.

The grand jury also filed the following resolution:

"We the existing grand jury in and for the county of DeKalb and State of Illinois, by and through our foreman and clerk duly appointed for that purpose do hereby wish to express to the court our thanks for the courtesies which were accorded us during our sessions of the past three days. We also wish to express to Attorney Cassius Poust, the State's Attorney for DeKalb county our high appreciation for his able instructions relative to our duties as grand jurors and wish to compliment him upon the fair, honest, impartial and thorough manner in which all matters presented by him for our consideration were prepared and the expedient manner in which all matters were presented. We also desire to commend Edwin E. Crawford, sheriff, for the excellent work done by him in the criminal cases which came to our attention and on the cleanliness of the jail.

Signed Fred Middaugh, Chairman, W. B. Baldwin, Clerk.

The court then thanked the respective grand jurors for the excellent work performed by them and they were discharged subject to be recalled in the event of an emergency.

Clarence Osborn of Rochelle was arrested by Chief of Police Scott on Saturday, October 20, 1923, on a charge of forgery preferred against him by Elvin Carlson & Benson, merchants at DeKalb.

Osborn who has the mania for writing checks, on October 8th came to the store of Carlson & Benson to purchase a sweater. He stated his name was Geo. Fusell and tendered in payment of the sweater a $25.00 check payable to the order of George Fusell made out supposedly by Martin Thorsen of DeKalb on the First National Bank of DeKalb. Mr. Carlson cashed the check and Osborn secured the sweater and the balance in cash. A little while after Mr. Carlson discovered that he had been defrauded and that Mr. Thorsen did not issue the check but that Osborn had forged the names on the check. His case will come up for attention of the present grand jury and if he is indicted he will probably suffer the consequences which is imprisonment in the pen.

TEACHERS' EXAMINATION

An examination for teachers' certificates will be held at the Court house Sycamore, Illinois, November 2 and 3, 1923.

Mr. and Mrs. John Corson and children were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Corson Sunday.

Miss Rose Smith, who is on her way to Cleveland, Ohio, from Los Angeles, California, stopped at the C. H. Smith home a few days the latter part of last week.

BENEFIT DANCE

A benefit dance will be given in the Genoa Opera house next Friday evening, November 2. The proceeds of this affair will be turned over to Montford Bennett, who is now in the Sycamore hospital with a broken leg.

Everyone is cordially invited to attend and requested to come. Good music has been ordered for the dance and here is a chance to kill two birds with one stone—by having a good time and giving the proceeds of the affair to Montford.

STERLING IS CANDIDATE

Lieutenant Governor Seeks Second Term

Lieut. Gov. Fred E. Sterling, of Rockford, editor of the Rockford Register-Gazette, announces for re-nomination to this office on the Republican ticket at the primary on April 8th next.

Mr. Sterling has received strong commendation from both Republican and Democratic Senators for the fairness and ability shown by him as the Presiding Officer of the State Senate in the 52nd and 53rd General Assemblies, treating all members impartially in his rulings, regardless of factional or party lines. Several times during his three-year incumbency of the Lieutenant Governor's office he has been called upon to serve as Governor and on all these occasions he has given a good account of himself in the Executive office.

Lieut. Gov. Sterling enjoys a wide acquaintance and personal popularity in all sections of the state. In former campaigns he has demonstrated his vote-getting ability. In 1920 as the Republican candidate for Lieutenant Governor he carried 99 of the 102 counties of the state, polling a total of 1,329,119 and receiving a plurality of 715,473 votes. He comes from Winnebago, one of the strong Republican counties of the state, which always contributes heavily toward the election of Republican state tickets. His many friends are confident of his re-nomination for a second term.

FREIDMAN-PATTERSON

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Marie Freidman of Mishawauk, Ind., to Mr. Dillon Patterson of South Bend and formerly of Genoa.

Miss Freidman is a charming young lady and visited in Genoa last summer for a few days in which time she won many friends.

Dillon is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Patterson of this city and graduated from the local high school class of '14. In 1920 he received his degree from the University of Notre Dame and since that time has been employed in South Bend as a reporter on one of the daily papers and as organizer in one of the theatres.

The couple, who have the best wishes of many friends, will make their home in South Bend.

PAT LAMBERT PASSED AWAY

Patrick Lambert passed away at his home in Sharon, Wisconsin, October 6 at the age of 84 years.

Death resulted from infirmities due to old age. Funeral services were held at St. Catherine's church Tuesday morning, Rev. Thomas Pierce officiating.

Interment was made at Oak Woods. Mr. Lambert was well known in Genoa having resided in this vicinity many years.

He is survived by two sons and three daughters.

P. E. O. SISTERHOOD

Chapter B. G. of the P. E. O. Sisterhood was delightfully entertained at the home of Mrs. Ralph Browne in Sycamore on Wednesday afternoon. After a short business meeting a social hour was enjoyed, with Mrs. T. J. Gullion as a guest of the chapter.

A delicious luncheon was served by the hostess. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Libby Kirby Wednesday evening, November 14.

FORD TURNED OVER

A Ford touring car containing several passengers left the pike at the big bridge near the M. Dander farm east of Genoa Sunday night and the occupants thereof were spilled into the water. The machine turned completely over and that no one was severely injured is rather miraculous, to say the least.

The name of the owner of the car was not ascertained, although sometime during the day the wreck was removed and repaired and the driver continued on his way.

ARMISTICE DAY CELEBRATION

Legion and Woman's Auxiliary Will Stage Joint Entertainment

IN OPERA HOUSE, FRIDAY, NOV. 9

Dinner at Noon; Program in Afternoon; Stands, Supper and Dance Feature a Day of Rejoicing

Well, Armistice Day is near again and it has been five short years since the signing of that memorable document. The lads who were in the forces of the United States at that time, by way of celebrating the end of that conflict will stage a day of real celebration. In conjunction with the Woman's Auxiliary a big day has been mapped out for the people who attend the anniversary of the day never to be forgotten.

Beginning at noon the Auxiliary will serve dinner and during the hour an orchestra will furnish music.

In the afternoon there will be a real program and many stands to attract the attention of the guests. A bazaar will be held by the women of the order and anyone wishing to purchase some item for a gift will not go wrong in seeing these beautiful pieces of handwork.

At six o'clock supper will be served and it will be just as good as the dinner. After supper stands will be in full blast again and another program given.

After the entertainment a dance will take up the remainder of the evening.

On entering the hall at night a charge of ten cents will be made which will entitle the purchaser to see all the evening's entertainment and a chance on one ton of coal, winner's choice, anthracite orbituminous. The people getting up this affair desire a big crowd and will try to please everyone. Farmers, townsmen, and people from other cities are requested and urged to come.

ANNUAL BAZAAR

M. E. Ladies' Aid Plan Big Day for Saturday, October 27—Two Meals

The annual M. E. Ladies' Aid bazaar will be held in the M. E. church on Saturday, October 27.

The dinner at noon will attract hundreds of people for the ladies of this parish are famed cooks. In the afternoon a bazaar displaying many articles of fancy work will serve to keep the people interested.

In the evening supper will be served. Everyone is cordially invited to attend and help make this day a big, rousing success.

BOY FIRE BUG

Admits Starting $50,000 Blaze in Spirit of Revenge

Confessing that he set fire to a farm west of Elgin because the owner had locked him in a milk house several weeks before, Arthur Bahr, 14 year old boy, admitted he was responsible for a $50,000 blaze.

Investigation was started by county officials after two disastrous fires with a loss of $100,000 on neighboring farms. The Bahr boy's father's farm was burned a few days before that of the Englebrecht blaze which the boy has admitted he started. He denies setting the fire at his father's farm.

REASON OF HALLOWEEN

Halloween or All Hallows Eve, the name given to the 31st of October as the vigil of Hallowmas or All Saints' Day. Though now known as little else but the eve of the Christian festival, Halloween and its formerly attendant ceremonies long antedate Christianity.

The two chief characteristics of ancient Halloween were the lighting of bonfires and the belief that all nights in the year this is the one during which ghosts and witches are most likely to wander abroad. On or about the First of November the Druids held their great autumn festival and lighted fires in honor of the Sun-god in thanksgiving for the harvest. Further, it was a Druidic belief that on the eve of this festival Saman, lord of death, called together the wicked souls that within the past twelve months had been condemned to inhabit the bodies of animals. Thus it is clear that the main celebrations of Halloween were purely Druidical, and this is further proved by the fact that in parts of Ireland the 31st of October was, and even still is, known as Oidhche Shamhna, "Vigil of Saman."

AN APPALLING SITUATION

25 Per Cent of Total Population can not Read or Write

The public discussion in connection with education week, November 13-24, will emphasize the growing menace of illiteracy in America.

Illiteracy statistics are usually quoted from the United States census, which is collected by inquiry in which citizens are asked whether they can read or write. Because many answer the question without knowing what it means, and others answer it affirmatively because they are able to write theirs or copy a few words in English, the percentage of illiteracy as set forth in the census figures is misleading. The census of 1920 shows the total percentage of illiteracy in the United States to be only six per cent.

This does not correspond, however, to other investigations. The most exhaustive, as well as most reliable, test of illiteracy was made during the mobilization of 4,000,000 men during the war under the draft act. It was absolutely essential from the standpoint of public safety and efficiency of the army to know whether men mustered into service could read instructions, write orders and otherwise prove themselves capable of understanding the English language.

The government made a literacy test of every man drafted. The result was astounding and alarming. Over 25 per cent of the men called to service were unable to read and understand the English language and unable to write the English language, with the exception of probably their names.

This led government and educational authorities to an investigation of those who were not drafted and the result has been the shameful disclosure that illiteracy, meaning inability to read, write or speak the English language to any extent, prevails among at least one-fourth of our population. In some sections of the country this percentage runs much higher.

Illiteracy in the cities is very closely related to the problem of immigration. Statistics show that 67.8 per cent of illiterates in cities are foreign born. This large group is composed of those who can not write, read or speak to any extent in the English language. By virtue of this fact, they are cut off from the possibility of reading American newspapers and engaging in discussion with American neighbors. They are condemned to the necessity of thinking in terms of the Old World. They are the prey of the labor agitator on the one hand and the unscrupulous employer on the other.

It reacts upon them not only mentally and spiritually, but physically. Proof of this is furnished by the New York State Industrial Commission. There are 800,000 factory workers in New York State who can not speak English. The commission estimates that a very high percentage of injuries and deaths to these workers is due to their inability to read and understand safety rules and signs.

Statistics of the U. S. Labor department show that the rate in accidents in the iron and steel industry, covering a period of years, was much higher among the non-English reading workers than among those who both read and spoke the English language.

The Ford Motor Car Co., officials state that since they have started night schools for the Americanization of their foreign born workers accidents in their plants have decreased 54 per cent. The U. S. Bureau of Mines is authority for the statement that 465,000 men are engaged in the mining industry who do not speak the English language and that the rate of accidents among this class of miners is twice as high as among those who do speak and read the English language.

The problems of Americanization and education are inter-allied. This fact is being realized more and more by all authorities. In a great many states the work of Americanization through the educational activities of the state is being stressed. In Massachusetts the policy of establishing immigrant education as a definite function of the State Department of Education has been in effect for many years, and is regarded as a model for other states. During the first year the law was in effect the state instructed 3,381 adult immigrants in the American language. Last year the number had increased to 22,244.

Ohio is another state which has established a division of Americanization in connection with its State Department of Education.

GLEE CLUB HERE FRIDAY

Organization of Ten Years' Experience Will Give Program at School

The Metropolitan Glee Club at the High School this Friday night offers a splendid evening's entertainment.

Their program of Swiss Bells, male quartette, solos and readings is a decided hit on the Lyceum platform. This is shown by the very large number of return engagements played during their ten years' experience, as well as by the enthusiastic press reports received in all parts of the county.

F. M. Gates, the director, is a solo artist of unusual ability. His trombone solos have received especial commendation. The vocal solos are of high quality. The quartette voices blend well. Classic, popular and humorous selections are interspersed in a way to interest all.

The program will start promptly at 8 o'clock. Tickets are on sale at Baldwin's and Browne's or may be obtained from the high school pupils or at the door.

MYSTIC WORKERS INSTALLATION

Mystic Workers held their annual installation Tuesday evening, October 23, at I. O. O. F. hall. The following officers were installed:

Prefect F. M. Haskins
Monitor Chris Scherf
Correspondent Mrs. Fannie Heed
Banker Mrs. Mabel Overley
Marshall Mrs. Grace Wahl
Warder Mr. R. Clausen
Sentinel Wm. Heed
Manager Chas. Whipple
G. E. Stott was the Installing Officer and Mrs. Grace Wahl Supreme Conduessant. It was an open meeting and was followed by a picnic supper and dance, music being furnished by Dorothy Adler, Leon Tischler and Donald Fulcher.

MINNIE N. KOELLER

Minnie Nettie Koeller was born June 22, 1886, in Kingston township, DeKalb county, Illinois. She was the daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Louis Koeller, deceased.

After completing her studies in the district school, she entered the Genoa high school, from which institution she graduated in due time. She also took a course in the DeKalb Normal school. For three years she taught school. Then for a number of years she was engaged in keeping house for a brother and also for a brother-in-law. "She did what she could for others," is the testimony of those who knew her best. In 1918 she united with the Evangelical church west of Colvin Park. She was ready to meet her Lord when He called her.

At the home of her brother-in-law, Seger Swanson, Kingston township, she passed into the beyond October 11, 1923. She reached the age of 37 years, 3 months, and 19 days. The cause of her death was anemia. She leaves to mourn her departure one brother, three sisters, four nephews and other relatives and friends.

Other services were held Sunday afternoon, October 14, 1923, at 1:30 o'clock at the home, and at 2:00 o'clock at the Kingston M. E. church. Rev. William Albrecht of Belvidere, officiated. The sermon was preached from the text, "Set thine house in order; for thou shalt die, and not live. (Isaiah 38:1). The remains were laid to rest in the Kingston cemetery.

GENOA MAN HELD SERIOUS CHARGE

Earl Geithman Questioned In Regard To Death Of William Chupka

WAS KILLED BY AUTO SUNDAY

Geithman Admits Intoxication and Driving Thru Streets of Rockford Sunday—Doesn't Recall Hitting Child

Earl Geithman of Genoa is being held in Rockford this week pending the investigation into the death of William Chupka Sunday night when he was struck by a car driven by a drunken driver and carried fifty feet. The driver failed to stop, however, and it was through two men who had assisted Geithman earlier in the evening in getting him into his car on the plea of his wife that she could not do a thing with him because he was intoxicated, that he became a suspect and his arrest was ordered.

On Monday morning the police of Rockford sent a description to Police-man Fay of Genoa asking him to hold a man who answered the description of being 30 to 35 years old, dark complexioned, wore gray suit and cap and the driver of a DeWitt or Davis car. Officer Fay could think of no one answering the description but Earl Geithman and he apprehended Geithman and his wife as they were about to board a train for Elgin Monday morning.

Officers came down about ten o'clock of the same day and interviewed the suspect and later his wife, Mrs. Earl Geithman, was grilled by the assistant state's attorney.

It was finally brought out that Earl was in Rockford Sunday night with his father's car and was driving when drunk. He also admitted that he bought the moonshine in Rockford but denied all knowledge of hitting the child. His wife who was with him on this trip, admitted all charges were true save that of hitting the child and this she also denied any knowledge of.

A ten year old sister of the victim of the accident when asked to identify the car pointed out Geithman's auto standing near the court house with several others, but this doesn't have much weight for the simple reason that of six cars that were there four were new, one was a Hup and the other was the car in which Geithman rode on Sunday night.

The only evidence against Geithman to date is purely circumstantial and on this he can not be convicted. However, the authorities are holding him for reason of driving a car while intoxicated, transporting liquor and possessing liquor and drunkenness and charges are likely to be filed against him at any time by the state's attorney on these occasions. In the meantime Geithman is being held pending the search of the city for witnesses to the accident, for it is said that several were waiting for a street car near the place where the child was hit.

GENOA BEATEN BY ROCKTON

The local grid-iron warriors suffered another defeat Saturday when they were torn for a row of touchdowns by the fast and heavy Rockton squad, final score ending 53 to 0.

Genoa was swept off its feet in the first half and steady march of the Rockton lads made the score 39 to 0 at the end of the second quarter. In the third quarter Genoa stiffened and held their opponents scoreless and in so doing, burned out their vitality to the extent of being trampled upon again in the next quarter.

The weak tackling of the Genoa high school boys was very much in evidence and all this week Coach Kruse has had the boys hitting the dummies and the dirt until now they are making vicious leaps and getting their man.

Harlem consolidated school will be their next battle ground and the boys say that there will be a different score on that day, than the one that was handed to them last week.

THOMAS—KNIPRATH

Miss Ceil Thomas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Thomas and Connie Kniprath were united in marriage Thursday, October 18th at the Trinity Lutheran Parsonage at Rockford, Rev. O. Garfield Beckstrand officiating. They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Reisberg. The latter is a sister of the groom. Mr. and Mrs. Kniprath will reside in Genoa and have the good wishes of their many friends.

Miss Marjorie Hemenway of Luerne, Indiana, spent Sunday with home folks.

MERCHANT GIVES MORE EVIDENCE

W. F. Penny, prominent merchant of Hendersonville, N. C., and a leader in the civic and business affairs of his section, gives unstinted praise to Tanlac, which, he states, has restored his health and overcome troubles that had defied treatment for years.

"For many years," stated Mr. Penny, "I was a great sufferer from indigestion and stomach trouble. Ulceration set in and necessitated an operation. Utter lack of digestive power over a long period so weakened me that I was hardly able to attend to my business.

"Tanlac seemed to reach the seat of my troubles at once and now I have normal strength and activity in every way. Tanlac is undoubtedly the best stomach medicine to be had."

As Mrs. Penfield gathered Lettie into her arms, she was horrified to find that the child's sleeve was soaked with blood. Lettie had not fainted; she had fallen from dizziness. She was still dizzy. Mrs. Penfield carried her into the bedroom.

It was only a surface wound, the bullet having grazed the flesh for some distance, but the subsequent violent exercise had made it bleed freely. Mrs. Penfield washed and dressed it, refusing meantime to listen to the wild, excited stories which both Lettie and Thad were determined to tell. They were home and safe; nothing else mattered.

It was a long time before she soothed them; and after they had gone to sleep, Mrs. Penfield kept vigil.

The crooked old clock had traveled to half-past nine, and she had heard nothing from the police station. Then Jerry Winston tramped into the kitchen and threw his hat on a box.

"They got the money, Carline. I wish I could have brought it to you, but it'll take an order from the court to release it."

"The money! The money that I—" He nodded. "Two hundred and twenty-eight dollars—bills and one check inside 'em. They found 'em on the rascal, envelope and all. He hadn't had time to—"

"The rascal! Who?"

"Bosley."

"Bosley!" Mrs. Penfield leaned back against the wall, limp with consternation. "You don't mean—that Frank Bosley stole—"

Jerry Winston shook his head. "I don't mean he started out to do it—no. He's been playing for bigger stakes'n that. But we got him at last—confound his picture, we got him!"

He brought his fist down on the table with a blow that teetered it on its frail legs.

Mrs. Penfield sank to the wash-bench. "The world's a-swimming, Uncle Jerry. Would you mind pinning me to something somewhere?"

He laughed. "Why, no. If you'll keep mum about it—cross your heart and hope to die, or however Lettie puts it—I'll tell you the whole story. You'll see my part in it can't be published."

"It shall be as Lettie says," she smiled back. "Are you going to ask me to believe that Frank Bosley took this money and—"

"Exactly. He came for the package that his wife left, and you weren't here. He had to have it quick, 'cause he'd got scared and was planning a get-away, so he came in for it; and I don't have to remind you, Carline, that it's easy to find things in this house. He found the package, and there was the money beside it. Why not take it, as long as he was going out of town anyway?"

"What are you talking about, Uncle Jerry? Why was he getting away and—"

"Shaw, now, Carline, the idea of your being confused 'cause I began at the wrong end of my story. I'll take the other end if you'd like it better. You see, I been trying out a little sleuthing."

"Oh!" Mrs. Penfield drew a deep breath. On the instant her memory caught up a few perplexing occurrences in the past months.

"Yes, I've always had a leaning toward it—read a good deal and followed what other fellers had done, and all that; and when I got my knook for the woods, I naturally wanted to go into something that appealed. I had a lot of personal recommendations and a letter to a man connected with the lumber company. Through him and considerable red tape, I finally got sworn in as a special with the secret service, when they were taking on a number of extra men to work on the Bosley ring. My particular assignment has been to shadow Bosley. Believe me, I've sweat blood over that feller, darn him!"

Mrs. Penfield's eyes were fixed on his face. "That's why you came here—took the lot and—"

"Sure, I wanted to be 'round as casually as possible. I've worked every scheme I could concoct to worm myself into that feller's life. But he was a slick one in his own line. He's been stringing me on a real-estate deal, and I've allowed myself to be strung. Of course he didn't suspect my object, but I sort o' made him nervous, hanging 'round and getting in with his cronies."

"Uncle Jerry, you're worse'n a woman for not getting at the main point. You may be a star detective, but you'd never make a reporter. Now will you kindly stay still in your tracks till you've told me what you wanted him for?"

"Oh, that!" Jerry Winston chuckled. "Yes, maybe I did overlook that, it's been in my mind so long. Why, he's been a leader in a ring that's been supplying drugs to a lot of tonds in exchange for their passing off counterfeit money. Choice circle, and a big one, too! All nations represented—Chinese and whites! Lettie put me wise to their money-factory. I was sure they had one, but—"

"Lettie!" Mrs. Penfield came to her feet. "What do you mean?"

"Holy smoke, Carline, don't get so excited! Lettie didn't know what she was doing, and I hain't never mentioned it to her. Catch me quizzing a kid! No, all is, I overheard her twitting Bosley, 'bout slinking into a house next to one of the vacant lots. I bugged the lean-to and listened; but, believe me, I did more prowling than Lettie has 'fore I found the vacant lot and the house. Rallding it was part of last night's work."

"You see, yesterday I got hold of one of his dope fiends that was willing to squeal on him, so last night we put it through as smooth as silk. The feller bought the stuff with money we could have identified in Slim. One of our own men was within witnessing distance, too. Some of the very powder you were guarding yesterday, Carline, is one of our choicest exhibits today. We sure got Bosley; darn it all, we got him!"

"I s'pose," said Mrs. Penfield slowly, "that Mrs. Bosley's been honoring me with her packages of counterfeit money and dope, but seems as if it wasn't very clever—"

"Clever!" Jerry Winston took the word out of her mouth. "She was the life of the ring in the beginning, but lately she'd lost her nerve, and Bosley's had the devil's own time to keep her from breaking away. She didn't care if Bosley got caught, so long as she'd cleared her skirts. If the house weren't going to be there. See? Ain't any of these folks so clever that they don't do some foolish 'fore they're through."

"Poor thing!" commiserated Mrs. Penfield. "I wonder what'll become of her."

"Well, I can tell you. She'll get a chance to think it over. We got her last night, too. She was staging an exit of her own, but we trailed her to Sixteenth street station, just in time to see her getting on the local for the mole. That gave her two chances: To go on to San Francisco or come back on a through train. We telegraphed the police on the other side to watch the ferry; and then we waited for the Shasta limited—and there she was! Gee, I was glad. The more of the trick I could help to turn, the surer I'd be of building up a reputation. Well, sir, the little lady went right up through the roof of the sleeper first off; then she came down and he came around the house from a flying trip to the loft—Uncle Jerry with the new position with a private detective bureau, and with twinkles more lively than ever in his kindly eyes.

"We could give you a room, Uncle Jerry. We could take the dining room for—"

The color came up in his bronzed face. "Well, I—I don't know, Carline," he stammered. "It's bulky of you to think of it, but—I hope I can't—that is—well, we'll talk it over." He trumped rapidly out of the alley.

"Well, I sure wonder what he means," thought Mrs. Penfield in surprise.

She watched Uncle Jerry went up Miss Hargood's steps.

"Oh-h-h!" she breathed. She ceased to wonder.

CHAPTER XXI

A Chance for Another.

"Yes, come right in, Mrs. Wopple. I only got to finish washing out this—"

"Oh, I can't stop, Miss Penfield. I just heard this here story 'bout your movin'."

"Yes," said Mrs. Penfield happily. "I'm going to move tomorrow into Mrs. Sanders' flat. Ain't it fine?"

Mrs. Wopple shook her head in bewilderment. "I don't know. Seems like you're playin' a trick on us somehow—you been so kinder poor and low-down and ev'rything. Josiah says he don't think it's fair for folks that've been poor to suddenly come into money. 'Stead of lookin' down on 'em, he's got to all of a sudden look up and—"

"Oh," laughed Mrs. Penfield, "tell him not to twist his neck on 'count of me. I ain't coming up very far."

"It's quite a change," sniffed Mrs. Wopple. "Why, you're goin' to be as good as any of us, ain't you?"

Mrs. Penfield's brown eyes danced. "I wouldn't go so far as to claim that. But I'm glad to have more rooms for the children, and things more home-like. It's wonderful to have an income. Didn't seem as if there was any way for it to happen."

"Folks say it's from a laundry," suggested Mrs. Wopple.

"Yes—a formula I'd worked out for washing colored clothes and silks and—"

"I put starch in the water," insinuated Mrs. Wopple eagerly.

Mrs. Penfield smiled. "I ain't starch. It's a mixture I never heard of anybody's using."

"It's strange how smart you was, and didn't any of us s'pect it," remarked Mrs. Wopple tartly. "Me, I think of lots of things, but of course I never tried to sell 'em. Josiah earnin' big money the way he does, I don't have to."

vised her into their comparison of exciting events, feeling sure that through Jerry Winston's intimacy with Frank Bosley she would have many interesting details to contribute. But when she merely listened and added nothing, they were surprised, incredulous, even resentful.

From hour to hour further items were unearthed, dragged into the small community, and shared generously in an impromptu council of all the tenants. The Bosleys had not been popular; their downfall had therefore a satisfying element that lent peculiar piquancy to everybody's version. Blood was a tingle with keenest stimulation; the air was cloudy with exclamations.

Nor was there any perceptible diminution the next day—or the next. And scarcely had the driveway gossip thinned a trifle when Mrs. Penfield's thoughts were given a vastly different turn.

Mr. Crshaw came to interview her. He had seen Mrs. Weatherstone; he had seen the hangings. He offered Mrs. Penfield a hundred dollars in cash and a small block of stock in his laundry association in exchange for her formula and a certain amount of supervision until its use should be mastered in the various laundries of which he had charge.

"It will mean," he told her, "about a thousand dollars a year—more, as the business grows—but you can be assured of that amount."

It seemed a fortune to Mrs. Penfield. She had difficulty in tempering her impetuous delight into a seemly business attitude. To have a steady income, aside from her usual earnings, would mean a different life for the children.

After Mr. Crshaw had gone, she began to plan exactly what that life should be. For one thing, she would surely be justified in giving up the management of The Custard Cup, which was rapidly precluding other duties. With significant juxtaposition, the fact that Mrs. Sanders was leaving her flat, flashed into her mind. Mrs. Sanders was going to live with a cousin in Sonoma county and help take care of a large family of children. Mrs. Penfield could rent that flat. It would be the pleasantest because a friend had lived in it. There would be conveniences, a more satisfactory number of rooms. She would keep up her laundry work, but under far easier conditions. There would be school books, clothes, plenty to eat, a fund slowly growing in the bank. Oh, everything would be different—and safer. Perhaps Uncle Jerry would—

She broached the subject to him as he came around the house from a flying trip to the loft—Uncle Jerry with the new position with a private detective bureau, and with twinkles more lively than ever in his kindly eyes.

"We could give you a room, Uncle Jerry. We could take the dining room for—"

The color came up in his bronzed face. "Well, I—I don't know, Carline," he stammered. "It's bulky of you to think of it, but—I hope I can't—that is—well, we'll talk it over." He trumped rapidly out of the alley.

"Well, I sure wonder what he means," thought Mrs. Penfield in surprise.

She watched Uncle Jerry went up Miss Hargood's steps.

"Oh-h-h!" she breathed. She ceased to wonder.

It was a valuable Angora cat, but its owner was governed as much by humane instincts as appreciation of its value when she took it to a boarding place when preparing to start on a European trip. Though friends offered to take care of it she felt that her pet would have even better care in a regular cat home. It was therefore with considerable surprise and indignation, a day or so after she placed it in the boarding place, that she ran across her cat roaming the streets.

Swiftly she picked up and descended on the boarding house. For five minutes she gave vent to her wrath. When he got a chance the proprietor spoke.

"Calm yourself, madame," said he. "Your cat is here. The one you hold in your arms is the twin of yours and it belongs to Mrs. Blank." To prove his point he produced the other.—New York Sun and Globe.

HEALTH FOR WORKING WOMEN

Let Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Help You to Become Well.

Thousands of girls have to work in homes, offices, stores, mills or factories who are physically unfit for work, with often an aged or invalid father or mother dependent upon them for support. Standing all day week in and week out, or sitting in cramped positions a girl often contracts some deranged condition of her organic system which calls a halt to her progress and demands restoration to health before she can be of use to herself or anyone else.

For these distressing weaknesses and derangements these girls have found health to do their work in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Brooklyn, N.Y.—"Like many girls, I had troubles every month," says Carolyn Mangels, "and they interfered with my work as I could never be sure of my time. My mother often suggested that I take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, but I never did until lately. I have had very good results, and am now a private secretary and do my work without missing a day. I recommend your medicine to every girl who speaks of having troubles like I have had."

BOARDING HOUSE FOR PETS

Institution for Care of Dogs and Cats Planned by Humane Society in Kansas City.

Plans for establishing a boarding house for pet animals, principally dogs and cats, were outlined recently by officials of the Wyandotte County Humane society. The plans will be submitted to the board of directors by Miss Sarah Jacobs, president.

The dog and cat boarding house would be self-sustaining. Miss Jacobs said that the plan contemplated would require the construction of suitable sheds, pens, a run or playground for dogs and a modern system for disinfectant to guard against disease.

"I have had more than 100 calls this summer," Miss Jacobs said, "from responsible persons who desired to pay for a temporary home for their pets while away on vacations."

"It appears comical to establish a boarding house for dogs and cats, but the proposal has a serious side. Many animals are valuable, and dogs roaming the streets while owners are away on vacations often become rabid."

Miss Jacobs said provisions would be made to give lodging to horses and cows if the demand was great enough. The boarding house would be under supervision of a veterinary surgeon.—Detroit News.

Method of Measuring Ozone.

Before long it is likely that among other attractions of a seaside resort may be included announcements of the proportion of ozone in the air.

Experiments have shown that it is possible to discover the amount of ozone in the air with fair accuracy.

Slips of white blotting paper are soaked in a solution of iodide of potassium and starch. These, protected from sunshine and rain, are exposed to the air for a definite period. According to the amount of ozone present so is the paper colored in varying shades of yellow. If ozone is abundant the paper will be of a very deep shade.

Movie Pedagogy.

One movie director can get his actors to follow him perfectly. His scheme is simple enough, too.

"You're a fine actor, Walter," he yells. "Register Joy." Walter registers Joy.

"That is, you used to be a fine actor, but you're slipping. Now register disgust." And Walter does.

Overland Champion Is Farmer's Friend

New Closed Model Is Beautiful All-Family Car with Wonderful Utility Qualifications

At last the farmer has been given a closed car of superior finish inside and outside, that he can utilize for various farm jobs and "chores" with the same cheerful abandon as he does his open touring car. Thousands of farmers have expressed the opinion that they would gladly use closed cars if they could press them into practical work and get out of them the same all-around service the touring car provides. This has been the farmer's winning argument for a touring car over the closed car for some years and it is admitted a reasonable one. Practical service on the farm means the hauling of grain and other material of a highly "stiffable" nature. A load of bran or shorts for instance leaves a car resembling the interior of a feed grinding room. Whole grain, despite every precaution, will persist in "creeping" out of the bags and scatter to every corner and crevice of the car. Summing up "practical service" for the farmer means the hauling of milk cans, live poultry, root crops, cans of kerosene, machinery oil, household supplies, garden tools, implement parts, rolls of belting and a long list of every conceivable sort of usable material on the farm from wire fencing to an occasional live calf. No wonder the farmer hesitated to invest his money in a closed car. But now the wonder ceases with the advent of the new Overland closed car, fittingly named the Champion, for the good and logical reason that at $695 it leads the world in closed car values and "champions" the cause of the farmer in every respect. This new model, having as many personalities as a South American Chameleon, can proudly claim the distinction of being called America's most versatile car for in introducing the Champion, Willy-Overland has succeeded in bringing out something absolutely novel and radically unique; in fact, a type of motor car that the farmer has long wished for—and now has. It is probably the most extraordinarily useful car for the farmer that has ever been produced, with an all-steel body built on a standard Overland chassis cradled on the famous Triplex springs and powered with the larger Overland engine. Exclusive features, utilities and economies mark this model as a remarkably convenient car, warranted to give the utmost in closed car benefits to the farmer. In the Champion, the rear seat and upholstery is entirely removable, providing fifty cubic feet of clear carrying space. Apart from this, both front and rear seats quickly adjust forward and backward. The front seat adjusts to three positions so that a tall driver can move it back to drive without leg cramp and a short driver can move it forward so as to reach the pedals without stretching. The rear seat can be adjusted backward so that rear seat passengers will not be crowded when the front seat is moved back. Another clever feature of this car and characteristic of the unusual foresight in design, is the arrangement of both front and rear seats which with the upholstery can be entirely removed and made up into a luxurious bed in the car, occupying the whole length and width of the car. What a boon to the farmer and his family who want to spend the night away from home on a little hunting trip. But this does not end the many amazing advantages included in the Champion and perhaps the most outstanding superiority from the farmer's viewpoint is the fifty cubic feet of space obtainable in the car by removing the rear seat with the upholstery. This arrangement leaves an absolutely clear carrying space capable of real service to the farmer who can load his tools, bags of fodder, produce, and so forth, into the car through the wide rear door, with the satisfaction of knowing that the car can be thoroughly cleaned out later and the rear seat installed for passenger trips. The long grain Spanish upholstery is washable and wearable, to say nothing of being comfortable. Then on the back of the car is a commodious trunk of ample proportions with a warranted lock, in which there is plenty of room for personal effects when traveling or shopping in town. The Champion is solidly built with that thoroughness of workmanship characteristic of all Willy-Overland products. The unusually clever general utility points of this exceptional car are the result of long and careful study on the part of the designers, who had in mind at all times the farmer and his particular needs, and for this reason the Champion will have a strong appeal to the man living away from the metropolitan centers.

RETAIN DRESS OF ANCESTORS

Costumes in Yucatan Are Much the Same Now as They Were in the Long Ago.

The modern Yucatan laborer has retained the dress of his ancestor, wearing crude sandals, white flaring trousers, a white jacket with a row of pockets along the bottom seam, and a colored apron wound around his hips and tucked in at the waist. The trousers are made of white duck, while cheaper trousers, work shirts and jackets are made from coarse, unbleached sheeting, locally known as "manta cruda." The apron contains a little more than a yard of cloth, and is made of ticking. The working women wear white dresses made from such materials as bleached sheeting, cambric and long-cloth, and usually trimmed around the neck, armholes and bottom with stamped flowered strips which are made especially for this trade. White drill and cotton are used for suitings for men's clothing, blue drill principally for suits of railway employees, dock laborers and mechanics, and other articles for purposes similar to those of other countries.

No statistics of the imports of cotton piecegoods are available, but local conditions tend to give it considerable importance and volume. The natives of Yucatan take particular pride in the neatness and cleanliness of their clothing, the extent to which this is carried out being dependent largely on the economic conditions prevailing in the state.

The gypsies of Great Britain have some very peculiar customs, which are very rigidly observed. No gypsy regards the dog as other than an unclean servant. One of them licking a frying pan, the utensil was straightway put into the embers to burn away the evil. Another, more strict, drove a stake through the bottom of a bucket from which his dog had lapped a drink.

There is no gainsaying the true gypsy's regard for these ancient customs. He is terrified at the slightest departure from proper methods and precautions. His women must not act in the slack manner of the gajas around them. An engaged girl, for instance, must sit outside the camp circle when suitors are announced. She is not in the market, and other girls are.

The love story of a gypsy is a public affair—that is according to custom, not to any fear of moral lapse. It seems rather odd that with all these laws the gypsies should not regard the church marriage with great favor. They look upon such as merely a whim—and the strictly orthodox have a good objection to going into the presence of corpses.

Dog Objected to Ceremony.
A woman had engaged a man-servant who was new to his job, and among other things she had instructed him to always bring anything into the drawing-room on salver.

A visitor called one day with a large and ferocious-looking dog, which was left outside. When the visitor was about to go, however, his hostess wished to see the dog, so she rang the bell and told the man to bring it in.

Some minutes elapsed, but he did not appear. Suddenly the sound of angry growls, snarls and barks was heard, so the bell was rung again and the man entered carrying the salver, but with a look of distress on his face.

"Pardon me, madam," he said, with a deferential cough, "but I could not induce the hound to sit on the salver. It knocked me down three times and bit my leg somethin' cruel. If the gentleman wants 'im, 'e's still outside."

Clock Comparatively New.
The modern clock is a comparatively new invention, and is credited to a German inventor, named Hendy de Viek, A. D. 1364. The fundamentals of De Viek's clock were identical with those of today, with the exception that he did not find out the use of the pendulum, but regulated his clock by means of balance wheels. Charles V of France was much interested in this new clock and commanded De Viek to come to Paris and install a clock in the large turret of his palace in Paris.

Wanted to Speed Up the Case.
At one stage of a tedious trial a lawyer produced some 500 checks and began introducing them into evidence one at a time. As each check required a lot of "proving," the judge thought they might well be bunched to save time. So he asked of the attorney: "Why don't you put some coal in the fire?"

"Your honor, I am putting coal on the fire," returned the attorney.

"Take a shovel. You're using a tablespoon," said the judge.

That Nailed Him.
Quick thinking always gets results. "Won't you help the Patagonians?" asked a lady collector. "Young lady," responded the business man gravely, "last week you asked me to help the Babylonians. After an investigation, I find that the Babylonians have all been gone for 2,000 years."

"Then you'd better help the Patagonians while you've got a chance." He gave her a check.

SIoux FURNISH PLACE NAMES

Distinction Accorded to Great Tribes Which Long Opposed the Advance of White Settlers.

With the possible exception of the much less generally known Ojibway, the Sioux is the largest tribe of American Indians north of Mexico, says a bulletin of the National Geographical society. The unforgettable names and the dramatic incidents that the history of the Sioux has yielded are sufficient alone to give them a prominent place whenever Indians are the subject of thought. Red Cloud, Crazy Horse, Rain-in-the-Face, and the redoubtable Sitting Bull were Sioux. The Sioux have had a greater hand at furnishing our best-known geographic names than any other division of Indians. Dakota, Minnesota, Nebraska, Omaha, Arkansas, Kansas, Iowa and Missouri are a few examples, most of them the names of Siouan sub-tribes.

The Sioux call themselves "Dakotas." "Sioux" is a contraction of a French corruption of an Ojibway word meaning "little snakes" or "enemies." Until comparatively recently the Sioux have been consistent enemies of the new Americans. They assisted the English both during the American Revolutionary war and the War of 1812, and practically every advance westward which the white settlers have since made has been vigorously contested by the Sioux.

THOUSANDS JOINED IN LAUGH

Sound in Theater Described as a "Sort of Chaotic Shriek, Not in the Least Human."

It happened at a performance of "Israel in Egypt" during the Handel festival of 1850. The queen was present, and Costa, the conductor, conceived the happy idea that the audience should join with chorus and orchestra in the performance of the national anthem, in honor of her majesty, which feature he proposed to introduce with sonorous roll of drums.

The idea was all right, but the final hitch came when the drummer could not hear what Costa said, and the latter tried to convey his meaning by guttural vocal sounds, while he beat an imaginary drum with his baton. Chorus and orchestra gazed at these unseemly antics at a loss, and then someone uttered:

"It was catching; and in less than a moment, five thousand people were helpless with laughter. The infection spread to the audience, and all sense of decorum fled as the laughter swelled from five, to thirty-two thousand voices.

"It was a sort of chaotic shriek, not in the least human, but worth hearing for once," wrote a spectator of the scene.

Thankful for Typewriter.

We wonder now how folks ever got along without an instrument which produces legible manuscript. It may in time reduce the knowledge of chirography to the mere matter of penning one's own name, but how much time it has saved already from deciphering illegible writing is beyond computation. The typewriter makes for speed, but the greatest boon it conferred has been in removing the need for the scrawl with the pen.

While many of the present-day utilities which are indispensable have had their development in the last half century, for those whose job it is to make records or grind out "copy" none is entitled to a higher rank than the typewriter, which produces that which may be read easily. And from those on whom falls the duty of reading what others have written, blessings are showered on those who have brought the typewriter into such general use.—Exchange.

It is strange but true that the man who will finance his business sensibly and carefully, who will buy and sell a house with acumen and wisdom, who will choose his bank with meticulous care and guard his personal financial affairs with the utmost skill, frequently throws caution to the winds when considering the raising and spending of money for roads.

It is so pitifully easy to arrange to have someone else pay for a road! A bond issue to run fifty years puts the burden of paying on the men and women who come after us, while we use the road! This is bad enough, as a matter of unsound economics, but it is worse when the money so raised is so unwisely expended as to produce a road which wears out long before the bonds become due. In such cases, and there are many of them! . . . the body politic finds itself in the position of paying for roads which no longer exist, and faced with the additional necessity of rebuilding the road and maintaining it, as well as paying the interest and finally the principal, on the bonds which built roads that wore out.

There are cases where long term bonds are justified and necessary. But there are no cases where the expenditure of such bonds is justified for anything less than a permanent road, so located, so built, so planned as to length, gradient, width, and location as to make it of service to the people to come as well as those who now use it.

It has been said that there is nothing permanent about any road except its location but this is only true when maintenance is an afterthought. It is as unsound to build a road and let it ravel to pieces as it is to build a house and let it go unpainted and uninsured. Paint the house, insure it, repair it, and it may stand for a hundred years or more. Maintain the road as it is used, and it should last indefinitely. Only such roads should be built with bond issue money, and only such roads should be built with money derived from town or county or state bonds, as will serve town, county, and state for all time to come. To do otherwise is to betray the trust of the helpless unborn.

partment of Education. In all of the important cities of Ohio it is being pushed, schools being established in connection with factories, and also evening schools being opened for the benefit of those who desire to equip themselves to read, write and speak the English language.

In 1918 the New York legislature enacted a law making it compulsory for all illiterate minors to attend evening school. The next year Americanization was set up as a state activity in connection with the State Department of Education. A great many other states have followed the example of these states.

In addition to the state activities in this direction, the American Legion, the Y. M. C. A., the Knights of Columbus, many civic organizations and many industrial corporations have engaged extensively in Americanization work, all having its foundation in the teaching or aliens our language, both spoken and written.

ANDREW GUSTAFSON DEAD

Passed From this Life at Home of his Daughter, Mrs. Roy Tindall Saturday

Andrew Gustafson, a resident of De Kalb county for over half a century, and a good man and valued citizen, passed from this life at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Roy Tindall near Esmond on Saturday last, October 20.

He was a native of Sweden. There he was married to Christine Swanson and the young couple came to the United States and became residents of DeKalb county, Illinois, in 1871. He was a tailor by trade, but engaged in farming on his advent here.

By industry and good business management he was very successful, and became the owner of three farms. He retired from active work several years ago, and had since made his home on his farm just north of Esmond.

Mr. Gustafson leaves to mourn his death the widow and six children:

Gus and Carl of Esmond, Harry of Genoa, Bert of Malta, Mrs. George Barnes of Esmond and Mrs. Guy Tindall of Esmond.

There was a large attendance at the funeral services which were held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Tindall in South Grove township on Monday afternoon at 1 o'clock. The interment was in Malta cemetery.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank the many friends and neighbors of the late Minnie Koeller for the numerous acts of kindness and for flowers given during her illness and after her death.

HINTS TO FLOWER LOVERS

A Few Bulbs Planted now Will Give a Wealth of Glorious Bloom next Spring

If you love flowers, but have only a limited amount of time to devote to growing them, there is nothing that blooms that will give you greater satisfaction than the spring-flowering bulbs, such as tulips, narcissus, crocuses, hyacinths, and the like.

The reason for this is that the flowers are already in the bulb when you buy them.

All you have to do is to put the bulbs in the ground, where they remain over winter, and with the first warm days of spring, old Mother Nature gets busy and coaxes the flowers out without any trouble on your part, and they are in full bloom when your hardy flowers have scarcely begun to come to life.

The Wonderful Darwin Tulips

Standing on erect stiff stems, two to three feet high, their giant cups remain in perfect condition for days, only refreshed by the rains and dews; and the range of gorgeous colors which they cover cannot be described in words. Among the dozens of varieties there are to select from, the following are especially satisfactory. Clara Butt, a beautiful, deep rose pink. Barrone de la Tonnyne is a deeper shade, with the edges of the petals lighter colored, so that when first opening it looks almost exactly like a beautiful rose. Europe is a deep flaming red. Rev. Ewbank a wonderful orchid shade of lavender, Louis XIV considered by many the most beautiful of all tulips, is purple and old gold. Marconi, extremely heavy in growth and one of the last to bloom, is so dark as to look almost black.

Choosing Tulips For a Month of Bloom

To have tulips for a stretch of considerably more than a month, some of the Single Early and Cottage Garden varieties should be added to the Darwins. These two types are not only earlier than the Darwins, but much smaller, and if they are planted with the Darwins, should be put in front of them.

Narcissus for Years to Come from a Few Bulbs Planted Now

When you are planting your tulip bulbs, include some narcissus. They are just as easy to grow, and from a few bulbs planted this fall, you will enjoy flowers for years to come. "Paper Whites" and the "Chinese Sacred Lily" are not hardy north of Washington, D. C., for planting out of doors but most of the other varieties are just as hardy as tulips, and many of them may be "naturalized,"—planted under trees, or along the edge of shrubbery, where they will make themselves perfectly at home, and came up in spring after spring just as if they had naturally grown there like any native wild flower.

Among the best of the narcissi for planting in the garden, or in beds around the base of the house, are such sorts as Emperor and Empress, the former a most magnificent big golden fellow, with a giant "trumpet." Glory of Leiden, "the king of daffodils," was given its nickname before the appearance of King Alfred and Van Waveren's Giant.

Hyacinths For the Formal Garden

Hyacinths are still popular where a formal "bed" of flowers is desired, but they are by no means limited to such use, as their bright intense colors lend a note of cheer to the early spring landscape that is like the song of the first bluebird, wherever they may be planted. A few clumps of a half-dozen each, in the shelter of the house foundation, or in the hardy garden, will prove the first, and therefore a doubly welcome, sign of returning spring.

And not to be forgotten are the little crocuses, which are the first of all to bloom, and which can be scattered broadcast over your lawn, or used as a "border" for the beds of other bulbs.

With a moderate supply of these four kinds of bulbs—crocuses, hyacinths, narcissi, and tulips—your home will be made gay from late March to June; and, best of all, they will come back spring after spring to welcome the bluebirds and robins. Isn't that worth the few hours work that will be required to plant them this fall?

How to Plant your Bulbs

Planting bulbs is about the easiest kind of gardening there is. All you have to do is to cover them about twice as deep as they are thick thru. This will mean three or four inches deep (to the top of the bulb) for narcissus, hyacinths, and tulips. If the soil is light and sandy, or the bulbs extra large, they may be put five inches deep. Crocuses, being much smaller, should be put about two inches deep.

Where the bulbs are to be planted right in the sod, all that is necessary is to make a cut with a spade or turf edger; and then make a hole with a "dibber" or a sharp stick. In beds or borders the soil should be dug up and well prepared, so as to make it easy to get the bulbs down to the right depth. The richer the soil of course the better they will do, but do not use any fresh manure. Coarse bone meal, well worked into the soil is the best thing. Planting can be done any time up until the ground freezes hard, but the sooner after the bulbs are received the better. The beds may be covered with leaves or old manure, after the ground freezes hard, but this is not necessary except where the winters are very severe.

TRAITOR TO ITS OWN KIND

Frigate Bird Is Well Described When It Is Called a Feathered Villain, Says Water.

The frigate bird of the South sea is a thief and a traitor. Figuratively speaking, he flies pretty low, he robs the poor sea gulls of their fish, and, not content with doing that, he lures them and many other birds into the hands of the natives. The greatest ambition of a native of Nauru island, says a writer in the Bulletin of the Pan-American Union, is to own more frigate birds than anyone else in his village. Nauru, by the way, is a mere dot of land between the Marshall and the Solomon islands. It has a native population of some two thousand persons.

Frigate birds, uninteresting and always apparently asleep on the roost, are capable of almost human cunning when trained as decoys to capture other birds. On festival days in Nauru whole villages meet to contest the supremacy of their decoy birds. The king of the island presides over the tournament.

Sometimes when the decoys are set free not a wild bird can be seen or heard. Up soar the decoys until lost to sight. Then presently the screams of wild birds rend the air, and flocks of them appear and in the company of the decoys approach the roosts that the natives have built for them. Soon, however, the wild birds become suspicious and try to soar away. Then the real labor begins. With open bills and widespread wings the frigate birds attack their victims, bar their way, head them off and circle round and above them until they have driven them, bullied and exhausted, to the roosts.

At the end of the tournament a count is made, and the village and the villager with the largest number of captive birds to their credit are publicly praised by the king. Thereupon feasting and dancing begin.

THANKS IN WRONG QUARTER

Little Marie Gave Altogether Undue Credit to the Dignified Head of the Flock.

A nursery governess tells of two children, once in her care, who never forgot to be polite.

An amusing feature of their walks was Willie's trouble with his overshoes. They were of a size out of all proportion to his feet, and hampered his movements greatly. He was continually taking headers, but was usually laughing when the governess picked him up. Then the little fellow would carefully brush the snow from the bottom of her skirt with his red mittens.

Marie, as well as Willie, showed the instinctive courtesy of a kind nature. She had impressed on her the propriety of thanking everyone who did her a kindness, and Marie always tried to comply. They had on one occasion talked of the various farm animals, and of how much we owed to them. At dinner Marie looked at her egg for some moments without eating it, and then slipped quietly from her chair.

"Where are you going?" she was asked.

"I am going to thank Mr. Rooster for laying me this nice egg," explained Marie.—Exchange.

Increases Perfume of Flowers.

A process, the invention of M. Danlet, professor of botany at Rennes, by which the perfume of flowers is greatly increased, has been explained before the Academie des Sciences in Paris. By taking two plants of the same species and grafting one on the other—notably a wormwood on a chrysanthemum—he found not only that the grafted wormwood developed remarkably, but its flower gave forth a perfume much more powerful than that of the original plant. Moreover the chrysanthemum had given to the wormwood flower, something of its own perfume. The professor collected the seeds of the grafted wormwood and the following year obtained from them some fine plants. They had this peculiar feature—that while the flowers of some of the plants emitted a perfume similar to those of the original graft, others were absolutely without odor.

Ravages of Man-Eaters.

India is not the only country afflicted with the man-eater. In Uganda in one year lions killed as many as 22 Europeans, 12 Hindus and 167 natives while employed in the construction of a railway. These figures do not include such natives as were not in the employment of the railway; a local administrator estimated the loss of life in their case at something over 500.

In a single year the lions of Rhodesia are reported to have claimed 119 victims; those of West Portuguese Africa accounted for more than 200 people, including three European hunters.

Cause for Grief.

The little boy with the rather grubby face was crying lustily in the street when a kind old lady, who happened to be passing, stopped and asked him the cause of his grief.

"Boo, hoo! 'Cause I've lost a penny," was the tearful rejoinder. "Mother gave it to me and I can't find it anywhere."

"Ah, never mind," said the kind old soul, as she took her purse out of her pocket. "Here's another penny for you."

The child instantly stopped his howling and took the penny in his grimy hand. The old lady passed on, but she had not gone far when she heard howls louder than ever coming from the boy. Retracing her steps she asked the reason of his renewed lamentations.

"I'm crying 'cause—'cause if I hadn't lost that first penny I should have had two now!"

Hoist by His Own Petard.

A working sense of fun is a good thing to possess, for sometimes if the humor of a situation cannot take the place of cash there is no compensation at all. A case in point is that of H. D. Traill, an English litterateur. One of Traill's earliest journalistic commissions was to write a series of articles in a paper edited by a lady well known years ago as a strong advocate of "women's rights," as the phrase went, on the anomalies and injustices of the British law relating to woman's property. The articles were duly written and published, but the remuneration agreed upon was not forthcoming. After repeated but fruitless demands for payment Traill brought a suit against the lady, who successfully invoked against her contributor the law she had engaged him to attack.

And the Hunter Couldn't Answer.

A hunter and a golfer were at it hammer and tongs. "To thunder with hunting," said the golfer, "I can buy all the meat I want in a butcher shop, and it's better than you can shoot."

"Is that so?" said the hunter, "Can you buy jacksnipe in a butcher shop? Can you buy venison? Can you buy canvasback?"

"Sometimes," said the golfer "and sometimes not. But you can go hunting and shoot a pound of pork sausage?"

Those Fast Drivers.

The road being narrow and dangerous, the guest was overjoyed to find his host a careful driver. As they glisterly climbed a treacherous incline another car shot by. The guest shivered.

"How foolish that man was to pass us on this precipice."

"Wasn't he?"

"Why did he risk his life like that?"

"Just wanted to show us he had a fast car," responded the careful driver. "But I'll show him."

RUSCO-Tractor Belts
are more economical and serviceable

THE Mellon Institute of Industrial Research in a scientific test of all types of belting, proved the superior worth of Solid Woven as against all other types.

Leather belting is made of many strips of hide cemented at the joints (about every 50 inches) or between the plies. Rubber belting of the better grades is made of canvas or duck which is folded into separate plies and rubberized. All stitched canvas belting is folded into separate plies and stitched.

No plies at all in Rusco. Furthermore, the Rusco treatment, resulting from nearly a century of successful manufacturing experience, makes the belt water-steam-heat-and-oil-proof. It is made for grip, strength and endurance.

Rusco will help you get a lot of extra work out of your engine or tractor. No "breaking in" necessary. For all-round work and satisfaction (the result of 93 years of knowing how) Rusco returns more for $$$ invested than any other type belt made. Let us fix you once and for all on your belt problems.

RHINE REBELS FIGHT POLICE

Separatists Fall Before Onslaught in Aix-La-Chapelle, Paris Hears.

SEVERAL PERSONS ARE SLAIN

Berlin Masses 60,000 Men to Fight Bavaria—Chancellor Stresemann Acts to Halt Split of Germany by Reds.

Paris.—There were violent incidents in Aix-la-Chapelle Monday night, says a dispatch to Le Matin. The police decided to oppose the separatists and tried to tear down the Rhineland colors from public buildings. A squadron of Belgian cavalry turned out ready to intervene if necessary. Later the police fired on a group of Republicans, who replied. Several persons were killed.

Berlin.—Chancellor Stresemann has made his decision regarding Bavaria. Following the administration of the oath of allegiance to Bavaria to the 20,000 reichswehr troops there and the message from Gen. von Lossow to all military radio stations in northern Germany stating that Bavaria is fighting for the German national liberty against the Marxism of the Berlin government, all available reichswehr troops are being rushed into Saxony.

Ostensibly this concentration is against the armed communist bands of Saxony. But it is learned from a source close to Reichswehr Minister Gessler that eighty trains bearing troops and their provisions had been dispatched from Silesia, Wurtemberg, Mecklenburg, and Pomerania during the day and that a total of from 50,000 to 50,000 reichswehr will be encamped in Saxony soon.

Herr Zeigler, Saxony's prime minister, made it clear to the Socialist leaders in Berlin that the troop concentrations are not against the Saxon government and that his differences with General Mueller, military governor of Saxony, are pushed aside while the whole attention of the reichswehr commander is concentrated on the Bavarian difficulty.

How a Single Industry Spreads Prosperity

A most significant fact about an industry is the large number of people who benefit from it.

Take the cement industry, as an example:

The mills used 9,000,000 tons of coal last year. This meant 9,000 coal miners steadily employed—their families, numbering not less than 25,000, maintained—and along with them tradesmen and other people enough to supply the needs of a town of over 50,000.

That is, of course, saying nothing of the business created for coal operators and transportation lines.

Sacks are not so large an item in the cement industry as coal, yet 50,000,000 new sacks, representing 50,000 bales of cotton, had to be bought last year for replacements alone. Back of this were cotton planters, plantation workers, mill owners, mill operatives and so on—thousands altogether.

And consider these other requirements of the industry last year:

- 3,700,000 barrels of fuel oil
- 3,400,000,000 cubic feet of gas
- 15,000,000 pounds of explosives
- 32,000,000 pounds of greases and oils
- 1,700,000 linear feet of belting
- 4,500,000 firebrick for relining kilns
- 7,000,000 pounds of paper for bags
- 600,000 tons of gypsum

In addition the industry bought quantities of heavy grinding and burning machinery, locomotives, cars, rails, electrical and other necessary equipment.

In this way a single industry spreads prosperity to many others.

HAVE YOU A COUGH?
What This Woman Says is of Vital Interest to You

Goshen, Ind.—"I had coughed night and day for a whole year and had lost so much flesh I began to look like a walking skeleton. Two of my sisters had died from tuberculosis and I felt certain that I had the same. Finally, a friend recommended Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery to my husband, and it made me feel new strength and vitality right from the start and in a year's time I was just as strong and hardy as ever. I have never suffered with a deep, hacking cough since (that was about 20 years ago) and have always felt very grateful to Dr. Pierce."—Mrs. Eliza Teeter, 413 Middlebury St.

Whenever you feel the need of good medicinal advice, address Dr. Pierce, President Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., and answer will be returned without charge of any kind.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

MORE ABOUT FOOD

For those who like tripe the following recipe will prove a pleasant change:

Sautéed Tripe.—Cut honeycomb tripe into pieces for serving and parboil eight minutes, using equal parts of milk and water. Drain, sprinkle with salt and pepper, roll in flour, and sauté in butter in a hot iron frying pan. Remove to a hot platter and garnish with lemon slices and parsley.

Smoked Fish Canapes.—Cut stale bread into one-fourth inch slices, remove the crusts and cut into oblongs four by three inches; then sauté in olive oil until delicately browned. Arrange on each slice lengthwise alternate pieces of smoked salmon and herring, using two on each. Pipe around a border of creamed butter, seasoned with anchovy and lemon juice.

Washington Pie.—Cream one-fourth cupful of butter with one cupful of sugar, add two well-beaten eggs and one-half cupful of milk. Mix two and one-half teaspoonfuls of milk with one and two-thirds cupfuls of flour and add to the first mixture. Beat well and bake in layer tins. This will make two layers. Put together with raspberry jam and top with powdered sugar.

Marshmallow Pudding.—Dissolve one tablespoonful of gelatin in one cupful of boiling water, add one cupful of sugar and as soon as dissolved set the bowl into a pan of ice water. Add three egg whites beaten stiff and one and one-half teaspoonfuls of vanilla. Beat until the mixture thickens. Turn into a shallow pan and let stand until chilled. Cut into pieces the size and shape of marshmallows, roll in macaroni crumbs and serve with cream.

Planked Club Steak.—Wash one-half cupful of butter and add one-half tablespoonful each of finely chopped red pepper, green pepper and parsley, one-fourth of a tablespoonful of finely minced onion and one-half tablespoonful of lemon juice. Spread one-third of the mixture on the center of the plank and arrange piped, mashed potatoes around the edge. Pan-broil a steak for four minutes and remove to the hot plank. Put into the oven to finish cooking.

The world's my oyster which I with sword will open.
Fruit of the wave! Oh, dainty and delicious!
Even an oyster may be crossed in love!—Shakespeare.

THE SEASON'S GOOD THINGS

The oyster is now in the market, and those who are fond of the tender little morsels will enjoy some different ways of serving them.

Oysters With Macaroni.—Cook three-quarters of a cupful of macaroni until tender, broken into one-inch pieces. Salt well and put a layer of the macaroni into a well-buttered baking dish; cover with one pint of oysters, dredge with flour, salt and pepper and dot with two tablespoonfuls of butter. Repeat and finish the top of the dish with buttered crumbs. A half-cupful of milk or thin cream may be added if the dish does not seem moist enough. Bake twenty minutes in a hot oven, or long enough to cook the oysters.

Cheese Pudding.—This makes a most nourishing luncheon or supper dish. Take slices of stale bread, cut into finger-shaped pieces and spread with butter. Arrange around the sides of a buttered baking dish, having the strips reach an inch above the dish, and line the bottom with the strips of bread. Beat two eggs until broken; add one cupful of thin cream or rich milk, one tablespoonful of butter, one teaspoonful of salt, one-half teaspoonful of mustard, a few dashes of cayenne and one-half pound of mild cheese cut into small pieces. Pour the mixture into the dish very carefully, not to displace the bread around the edges, and bake until the custard is set. Be careful not to bake in too hot an oven, or the cheese will be stringy and hard to digest.

Indian Tapioca Pudding.—Soak five tablespoonfuls of pearl tapioca two hours in cold water. Pour four cupfuls of scalded milk over four tablespoonfuls of cornmeal, cook in a double boiler until the mixture thickens. Add the tapioca drained and three-fourths of a cupful of molasses, three tablespoonfuls of butter and one and one-half teaspoonfuls of salt. Turn into a buttered dish and cover with one cupful of cold milk. Do not stir. Bake one and one-fourth hour in a moderate oven.

Commonwealth Chicken Soup.—Reduce the liquor in which a good fat fowl has been cooked to three and one-half cupfuls, add one-half cupful of rice and cook in a double boiler for three hours. Just before serving add two-thirds of a cupful of heavy cream whipped, and salt and white pepper to taste.

Plague Deadly in Java.
In Java, which has a population a third as big as ours, bubonic plague is so common that it kills half of the children before they are five years old. The Javanese take this as a matter of course, reports William Ferguson, globe trotter. He found the people of Java with the viewpoint that if the plague didn't kill half of the children the island shortly would be unable to sustain the inhabitants despite its fertility.

Nature is cynical in its harshness. She deals only in cause and effect, action and reaction, and the thing we call emotion is alien to her plans. Civilization is merely a banding together for mutual protection against harsh nature. Most of us have lost sight of this original purpose.

Do you take orders from a Coffee Pot?

It must be humiliating for thousands of people to confess that they lack the will-power to stop coffee. They know from experience that it results in irritated nerves; keeps them awake nights; makes them nervous. Yet they don't seem to be able to say "no."

If you find that coffee harms you, change to the pure cereal beverage, Postum. You'll find it delicious and satisfying. And it is absolutely free from caffeine or any other harmful drug, so you can drink Postum at any meal, and as much as you want.

Your grocer sells Postum in two forms: Instant Postum (in tins) prepared instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages) for those who prefer the flavor brought out by boiling fully 20 minutes. The cost of either form is about one-half cent a cup.

STUART SHERMAN PASSED AWAY

Funeral services were held here Monday at 2 p. m. for Postmaster Stuart Sherman at the home, Rev. Madison having charge of the services. Interment was in Kingston cemetery. Among those from out of town to attend the funeral were: Mrs. Genie Henry of California; Harry Sherman of Kansas; Mr. and Mrs. W. Cooper, Mr. and Mrs. F. Cooper, Mr. and Mrs. C. Blake, Mr. and Mrs. R. Reager of Belvidere; Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Ambrose and children of Rockford; Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Rowen, F. Scott, Mr. Pratt, Mr. Stott, G. Patterson, Lee Fishback of Genoa and Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Shaffer and Mr. and Mrs. F. Poust of Sycamore and Misses Irma Self and Ida Brewer of DeKalb.

Obituary

Hiram Stuart Sherman was born in Kingston township, March 1, 1862. Practically all of his sixty one years of life were spent in this immediate vicinity. It was here that he went through the public schools, coming under the tutelage of Mr. Lucas, who was influential in interesting him in securing a good education, which enabled him to teach in the district schools and in the public schools of Belvidere. When the desire arose to found his own home he found a true helpmate in Kate M. Granger, with whom he was united in marriage on July 4, 1893. They became the parents of four children. One little daughter lived but five months. Paul and Bessie are at home and Doris teaches in the schools of Hammond, Indiana. Mr. Sherman's brother, Harry, who lives at Goddard, Kansas, was here to visit with him at the time of the Old Settlers' picnic and his sister, Mrs. Genie Henry, of California was with him in the last hours of life. Mr. Sherman was a good citizen of the community. For the past six and three fourths years he has been the village postmaster which office has been creditably filled. He was one of the charter members of Camp 203 M. W. A. Because of his long residence his acquaintance is widespread and the number of his friends is legion for he was uniformly genial and kind.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our thanks to the friends and neighbors for their sympathy and offers of assistance during our recent bereavement. Mrs. Kate Sherman and Family, Mrs. Genie Henry, Mr. Harry Sherman.

Mrs. Nina Moore received word Sunday of the death of her uncle Mr. Adelbert Quigley at the National Home at Milwaukee, Wisconsin. He died at 11:50 Saturday night.
