In the case of Grant Smith against Selz, Schwab & Co. the appeal from the Circuit court was dismissed.
The Sycamore Court of Honor was suspended from the order one day last week and reinstated the next day.
FARM FOR SALE:—A highly improved farm in the town of Franklia. Every foot a desirable piece of soil. Call at the JOURNAL office for full description.
NEW BUGGY FOR SALE:—Owing to the owner moving west will sell at a sacrifice a nearly new, high grade Benny top buggy. Address the JOURNAL.
Horace Young of Cortland will move to Genoa about the fifteenth and work for W. S. Pratt, his father-in-law. Mr. Young will occupy John Moors's house on West Main street.
A considerable blowing was done in and around our town Sunday the principal portion of which came from the elements, the balance came from the crowd that congregated at the depot.
Rockford is an economical place to live just now on account of the grocery trade cutting bread to three cents a loaf, best granulated sugar seventeen pounds for a dollar and soap is away down.
A singular heading to an article in the Chicago American, Monday, said, "The Blueghosts" captured an American eagle. Perhaps the editor saw a streak of resemblance which prompted him to say such a funny thing.
Eli F. Austin has purchased a residence property of Mrs. S. J. Holroyd, located on lot 1, block 6, of Stephens addition to the village of Genoa. This is one of the pleasant parts of town and the property was obtained very low compared to other properties.
The W. C. T. U. will meet with Mrs. Stewart at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Jas. Hewitt, on next Saturday afternoon March 9 at two o'clock. A full attendance is desired. Let us honor our aged sister's invitation by being present, as she is one of our pioneer women in the work.
The people in the north west part of town are much exercised over the pastime of cock-fighting that they claim a good many of our young men are indulging in on Sunday. If this is a fact and they have the necessary proof they can bring the offenders to justice. If not there is no other way than to tolerate it.

Albert Taebel spent Sunday in Genoa. He is now living in Chicago.
The Woodmen have added six dozen new chairs to the opera house.
Come in and see our assortment of Aluminum card cases. You will want one.
Remember that if you wish to rent a house in Genoa the JOURNAL can help you.
Charles Adams was doing business at Kirkland and Kingston on Monday and Tuesday.
W. E. Moan and wife were out from Chicago Sunday visiting with the latter's parents.
Miss Nellie Cliffe, the nurse, is now occupying rooms with Mrs. T. L. Kitchen on Locust street.
E. J. Donahue, Osteopath, will be at Mrs. Baldwin's house every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.
Just arrived, a car load of Rural New Yorker potatoes, also early Ohio seed potatoes. F. O. Swan.
George and William Furr of Nettle Creek, Grundy county, are the guests of their brother, J. R. Furr this week.
If your horses, cattle, hogs, or chickens are not doing well, go to K. Jackman & Son and get a package of stock food. If.
Mr and Mrs G. W. Johnson were passengers to Chicago Sunday evening for a short visit with their daughter, Mrs Nellie Wilson.
When you go to hear Miss Lloyd on next Wednesday evening take your handkerchief with you to brush away the tears when you laugh and cry.
On account of the sickness this week of the JOURNAL force we come out a day late and ask the readers to be a little easy in pronouncing sentence.
Martin Malana is working an extra gang of men at Kirkland this week unloading steel. The C. M. & St. P. are putting down new rails from that place west.

A neighbor's big boy came into the sanctum a day or two ago and when asked for news, replied, "Our baby has a new pair of stockings with red toes and Margarite's baby has a tooth."
Miss Lloyd under the auspices of the Genoa I. O. O. F. will give an entertainment in Odd Fellow's hall. This lady is one of the most thorough dramatic readers that the country affords and is well worth your attendance.
The Illinois Central have a medical hog staff which is working in their territory to prevent hog cholera. There are thirteen members of the staff, who receive their pay from the railroad company, and no charge is made to the farmers.
"That Girl" at the opera house last Friday evening was good and deserving of the full house it received. Only one incident was displeasing to anyone and that was an insinuation made by the "nigger." Such silly remarks either by a travelling troupe or home talent is no mark of ability as an actor.
It is reported that B. G. Westover is dangerously sick at the home of his daughter at Dane, Wis. Mr. Westover is eighty six years old and has until recently retained his health and suppleness to a most remarkable degree. Although his hair is streaked with gray it is far from being white as most people's who have attained four score years. He also has his full set of natural teeth which we consider something unheard of before.
A bashful Dane County boy, says a Wisconsin exchange, went three times to ask a beautiful young lady to be his partner and share with him the joys sorrows, teacups and saucers, and all the balance of the household furniture, but each time his heart failed him and he carried the question away unpoped. She saw his anguish and had compassion on him. So the next time he came she ask him if he had brought a screw driver with him? He blushed and asked "what for?" In the fullness of her heart she informed him that she thought it quite likely that he would need one to screw up his courage. He took the hint and the girl too.

Election?

The depot at Kingston was again disturbed last Saturday night. This time the burglars were bent on pilfering as there was a suit or two of clothes taken and they had nearly drilled into the safe when scared away for some unknown reason. This is the second time this winter.
DIED:— Mrs. Jane Robbins, who has been making her home recently with her sister, Mrs. B. Gaitman, for some time past, died this morning at about five o'clock from a hemorrhage of the lungs. The remains will be taken to Watertown, Wis., for services and interment.
DIED:— At Marengo on Saturday March, 2, William Titus, at the age of about eighty years. He was born in Mercer county, N. J. and came to this state in the early days and purchased a large farm at Ney from a man named Balliet where he lived and was well and favorably known for a long time. A few years ago he sold his farm and moved to Marengo where he has since resided.
A young man entered the chinese laundry of Moy Sam last Saturday evening and asked for his laundry for which he had lost his receipt. Moy was disposed to give it up but wanted a proof of ownership and a receipt for the goods. The identification was o. k. so his Chinese highness took down his receipt book and wrote out a receipt in his own language which was signed by the laundry patron. He trusted the chinaman more than he would one of his own countrymen by signing a paper he knew not what it might turn out to be.

A PRETTY COMPANION

By Louise Bedford.

"Were you looking for anything, Mason?"

"There! then you heard me shut the drawer!" said Mason, with smiling sincerity. "Yes, miss. Mrs. Mortimer was asking me for some certain rings that I've mislaid somewhere, and I could almost have declared for certain that I had left them in that right-hand drawer of yours before you came."

"There were no rings there," said Janetta coldly.

When Mason left the room Janetta opened the drawer and peered in. There were gloves and handkerchiefs, which had evidently not been touched; but on the top of all were Neville's letters, which Janetta kept bound together by an elastic band. One of them had been taken from the packet, and was half drawn from its envelope, and thrown back hastily into the drawer.

"It's very queer and uncomfortable," thought Janetta. "I can't conceive what object the girl has in wishing to read my letters. She shall not have the privilege! I don't want any one here to guess how anxious I am about the boy. I wish I were sure that he had broken with all his old friends; no effort of mine will keep him straight if he won't try himself."

She slipped the letter back into the packet, locked the drawer, and put the key into her pocket. Her earthly paradise seemed failing her all in a minute. Then she remembered how often she had found Mrs. Mortimer's eyes fixed upon her when she received one of Neville's letters with a queer, suspicious expression in them; and she laughed aloud as the thought darted through her mind that possibly Mrs. Mortimer was crediting her with a "young man" of her own, and was ready to make mischief about him.

But, even if this were so, it did not explain the reason why Mason should be foraging about among her letters. She finally decided to make no mention of what had occurred, but to be careful about keeping her possessions under lock and key for the future.

CHAPTER VI.

Clarice was not at all well for the next few days, so that it was not difficult for Janetta to avoid any intimate conversation with Captain Merivale.

Her latent suspicion of Mason was fanned into a flame by the fact that one afternoon, when she ran in late from the town, having gone on some commission for Clarice, she heard voices talking in the shrubbery near. One of the voices was a man's, the other Mason's.

"I sha'n't do it, I tell you! There are plenty of people in the house who'd find me out, and that new one is as sharp as a needle!"

Janetta hurried on her way, feeling very uneasy. What was it that Mason was declining to do, and to whom could she be talking? That the "new one" referred to her she was tolerably certain. Perhaps it would be wise to mention the circumstances to Mrs. Mortimer. Accordingly that evening, when Clarice had gone to bed, she returned to the drawing room and related to Mrs. Mortimer what she had overheard.

"It seems to me, Miss Howard, that you are making mountains out of molehills," said Mrs. Mortimer calmly. "Mason is an excellent servant, most civil and obliging; her character is beyond suspicion."

"I could swear to her voice," said Janetta, a little hotly. "Has she a young man, do you know?"

"Oh, yes. Is there a law of the Medes and Persians that parlor maids should be exempt from love-affairs?" asked Mrs. Mortimer. "She's engaged to a very respectable fellow who does not live here. Indeed, I happen to know that he's not in the place at present, for she only asked my leave today for a few days holiday to go and visit his people. She told me that she had not seen him for more than six months. I really think, Miss Howard, that it will be wiser if you leave the management of the house and servants to me."

"Certainly I will in future," replied Janetta, swallowing her vexation; "but it is the second time that I have had suspicions about Mason's straightforwardness."

"A letter for you, miss," said a voice behind her, and Mason, with a perfectly immovable face, handed her a letter on a silver waiter. It was from Neville, and Janetta slipped it into her pocket; and she felt somehow as if her actions were noted alike by both Mason and Mrs. Mortimer.

"Straightforwardness, indeed!" muttered Mrs. Mortimer angrily, when Janetta bade her good-night and went off to her room. "She's none too straightforward herself, with letters from one man nearly every day of her life, and playing fast-and-loose with Miss Seymour's lover under her very eyes, only she's too infatuated to see it." It will be seen that Mrs. Mortimer was letting her jealousy run away with her judgment.

That letter made Janetta very anxious and miserable. It was an urgent demand for money.

"I literally haven't a copper to bless myself with," wrote Neville. "The landlady's using awful language, and if you can't help me I believe soon she'll turn me out into the street. I know you won't want to draw any salary yet; but isn't there some more in the bank that you can lead me for a bit? I'll pay you back directly my beggarly screw is given me. Do come to the rescue, there's a dear girl! The minute I can hear of something better I mean to throw up this clerkship!"

For once in her life the softening veil of almost motherly love and affection that Janetta had for her brother was torn aside, and she saw him as he was—weak, selfish, unscrupulous. She knew that she had left him with enough money to keep him in comfort for two months at least, and the first was not yet over.

All through the night she lay tossing and wretched, wondering what to do for the best. In the wide world she had not a single friend of whom she could ask advice. Fifty pounds was all that was left of the wreck of their little fortune, and she dare not draw it out.

Supposing that by any unforeseen circumstance she was thrown out of her present situation, she must have some small reserve fund, so that she could support herself until she could obtain something else.

Clarice would have been the first to notice her heavy eyes the following morning, but that her heart was full of her own troubles.

"He's going tomorrow, Janetta," she said, when the girl entered her room. "I can't think what is the matter with me. I never cry at the thought of his going; but today I could sob my heart out. I've a weight like lead on it. I feel something as if I had come to an end of it all."

"An end of what?" questioned Janetta kindly.

"Of life—or, rather, of the love which is my life. He's going right away from me, and he may be going to his death!"

"You can trust him to God's hands," said Janetta gently.

"Oh he may forget me."

"You trust him too well to think of that."

"I shall feel that he has passed beyond my reach; there is something which seems to warn me that I am losing him forever."

When Clarice was dressed and carried to her boudoir, Harry Merivale came and sat down by her, and Janetta watched the restless look die out of Clarice's face, all doubt and discontent dispelled by the sunshine of her lover's presence. Then she slipped quietly from the room, and went to the study to answer her brother's letter.

She did not begin it at once, her heart was full of her friend, and her misery at her lover's departure; and yet, was she so greatly to be pitted? She thought of the adoration she had seen written but now upon her features, of the tender, loving sympathy of his.

To love and be loved, after all, were the two chief factors of human happiness, and that Clarice had. One difficulty Captain Merivale's departure would remove from her path—she would not need to make excuses to avoid going out with him. Their acquaintance would be brought to an abrupt termination.

Then she opened and re-read her brother's letter, and the oftener she read it the more perplexed she became, as to what the answer should be. Despite her love and warning, Neville was steering straight for the rock on which their father had wrecked his life! Janetta laid down her head upon her arms and sobbed aloud.

"Miss Howard, Clarice wants to know—" Captain Merivale stood in dismayed astonishment behind Janetta's chair, the question he came to ask dying on his lips. This man, who would have faced an army without turning color, was inclined to run away at the sight of a woman's tears.

"I'm sorry—I'm afraid I've intruded upon you," he stammered.

"Yes—no—at least, it doesn't matter," said Janetta. "I'm in trouble, but no one can help me out of it. What did Miss Seymour wish?"

"Forgive me," said Harry gently; "but in your great kindness the other day you assigned to me the position of friend. If you feel me to be such, can't I help you? If you are alone in the world, as Clarice hinted to me one day, it is possible that just a common, everyday fellow like myself may be of use to you, might give you advice, for example, on any business matter that is bothering you."

There was a dawning hope in Janetta's heart that here was the friend she needed; this kind, capable, cultured man of the world would be able to tell her what was the really wise thing to do about Neville.

"I have one brother, and I'm in trouble about him," she said simply.

"Yes," said Harry, seating himself in a chair with grave attention. Then bit by bit Janetta told him the story, just the simple facts; and Harry, as he listened, saw how the girl's life had been one long self-sacrifice, and offering for the salvation of another, who apparently declined to be saved. His heart burned with indignation.

"And you wish to know if it is right to throw good money after bad, to rob yourself of your last farthing so that your brother may be saved for a week or two longer from the consequences of his own wilfulness?" he said, when Janetta paused for a moment.

"It does not seem to me a difficult question to decide. If you want to complete that young fellow's ruin, you will go on letting him depend upon you as he has done hitherto. You tell me that he cannot live on his salary, and that you have taken this situation in order to supplement it. Mind, I think it is a wholly wrong principle for a brother to take help from a sister; but, still, you have promised to help him. Very well, stick to the exact letter of your promise, and don't go a farthing beyond it.

"I'm passing through town tomorrow, and will go and see him if you like. It might not hurt him to hear the opinion of a man about his behavior."

"Oh, no!" cried Janetta quickly. "I could not bear to think that I had ever discussed him with anybody. It is the first time in my life that I have done it, and I'm only driven to it now because I am at my wits' end."

"Well, then, write him a short, wholesome refusal. You can't think what good it does. It brings a young fellow to his bearings," said the Captain, with a smile, remembering such a refusal himself.

Janetta rose. "I can't thank you enough. I must have been fanciful the other day, but I was silly enough to think that you were vexed with me when I said I hoped always to keep you and Miss Seymour as friends."

Harry looked down at the beautiful, wistful face with an odd twitching of his own.

"You drive me hard," he said. "Shall I tell you something, that you, and you alone, are the cause of my sudden departure to-morrow, that there are moments in the life of a man when all he can do is to run away?"

"Miss Howard, I did not know upon what rock I was drifting until that appeal of yours to my friendship; and then, like a flash of lightning, the true state of things was revealed to me. Friendship with you? Impossible! Friendship could not satisfy me! Had I been free—"

Janetta heard him thus far with eyes that grew larger every moment with terror and despair.

"No, no!" she cried; "please stop! You must not say it, and I must not listen. Forget that you have ever said or thought it. Ah!" she cried, wringing her hands, "what have I done but betray my best, my kindest friend?"

He could have taken her hands; but she snatched them from him and flew from the room. Just outside the door she cannoned against Mrs. Mortimer, who glanced at the girl's red eyes and dishevelled hair with cynical contempt.

"Is Captain Merivale in the study?" she asked. "Miss Seymour wants to speak to him before he goes out."

Janetta did not stop to answer, but ran upstairs to her room; and Mrs. Mortimer heard the key-turn in the lock.

A very agony of shame shook Janetta's whole frame, and she threw herself sobbing on her knees. A mist of falsehood and wrongdoing seemed enveloping her like a cloak, and for the first time in her life she found it difficult to discern right from wrong.

Her heart was her witness that she had intended to do no hurt to the friend to whom she was bound by every tie of gratitude and affection, and yet Captain Merivale's unfinished sentence had awakened an answering echo in her heart, had roused her to the awful knowledge that she, on her side, loved him with an intensity as great as Clarice's own.

"I can redeem the past. I am sure it's not too late for that!" she said, springing to her feet in feverish misery. "He has no clue as to my feeling for him—that is my own secret; and when he gets away from me he will return, as in honor bound, to his proper allegiance. He leaves to-morrow and I need never see him again."

Turntable for Trolley Cars.

A turntable for trolley cars has been patented by an Ohio inventor. It is so arranged that when the car is driven on it the front wheels rest upon two rollers coming up through the track and, by gently starting the motors, these revolve under the car and communicate their motion through proper gearing to the turntable itself, and thus the car is turned around by its own power, the trolley revolving on its base and staying on the wire. The crew of the car do not have to descend from it, and it is asserted that the apparatus works very quickly and successfully in practice.

Curzon's Visit to Goa.

Lord Curzon recently paid a state visit to Goa, the little Portuguese colony in western India. He entered the territory by rail, but Lord Curzon went thither by sea in the Indian marine steamer Olive. They were received with full honors by the governor-general of Portuguese India, Col. Galhardo. Goa is probably the most prosperous of Portuguese possessions. Its harbor, Mormugao, is the finest on the coast of Malabar, and the railway which now connects it with the Indian system secures a great amount of traffic.—L. A. Boyd in Chicago Record.

Teacher Abandoned Reform.

A teacher in Grundy county, Missouri, determined that his pupils should adopt what he termed as reformed pronunciation, among other things, that "mammas" and "pappas" must have the accent on the last syllable. Then he wrote this sentence on the board: "Mamma see what a pretty rose I have." On asking for correction of this sentence a speckle-faced, bullet-headed young gentleman suggested: "You want to put a comma after mammah, I guess." Right here the teacher abandoned his reform.

"Opportunity for a Christian means responsibility." There are abundant opportunities for usefulness, but alas! few Christians realize or accept their responsibilities.

TALMAGE'S SERMON.

SUBJECT—THE GOSPEL AND THE NEWSPAPERS.

From the Text: "The Children of This World Are, in Their Generation, Wiser Than the Children of Light"—Luke XVI, Verse 8.—The Church and Press.

(Copyright, 1901, by Louis Klopsch.)
Washington, March 3.—In this discourse Dr. Talmage calls for a warm friendship between those who preach the gospel and those who make newspapers, the spoken word and the printed word to go side by side; text, Luke xvi., 8. "The children of this world are in their generation wiser than the children of light."

Sacred stupidity and solemn incompetency and sanctified laziness are hereby rebuked by Christ. He says worldlings are wiser awake for opportunities than are Christians. Men of the world grab occasions, while Christian people let the most valuable occasions drift by unimproved. That is the meaning of our Lord when he says, "The children of this world are in their generation wiser than the children of light."

The Platin Press.

A marked illustration of the truth of that maxim is in the slowness of the Christian religion to take possession of the secular printing press. The opportunity is open and has been for some time open, but the ecclesiastical courts and the churches and the ministers of religion are for the most part allowing the golden opportunity to pass unimproved. That the opportunity is open I declare from the fact that all the secular newspapers are glad of any religious facts or statistics that you present them. Any animated and stirring article relating to religious themes they would gladly print. They thank you for any information in regard to churches. If a wrong has been done to any Christian church or Christian institution you could go into any newspaper office of the land and have the real truth stated. Dedication services, ministerial ordinations and pastoral installations, cornerstone laying of a church, anniversary of a charitable society, will have reasonable space in any secular journal if it have previous notice given. If I had some great injustice done me, there is not an editorial or a reportorial room in the United States into which I could not go and get myself set right, and that is true of any well-known Christian man. Why, then, does not our glorious Christianity embrace these magnificent opportunities? I have before me a subject of first and last importance: How shall we secure the secular press as a mighty reinforcement to religion and the pulpit?

Indiscriminate Hostility.

The first thing toward this result is cessation of indiscriminate hostility against newspaperdom. You might as well denounce the legal profession because of the shysters, or the medical profession because of the quacks, or merchandise because of the swindling bargain makers, as to slambang newspapers because there are recreant editors and unfair reporters and unclean columns. Gutenberg, the inventor of the art of printing, was about to destroy his types and extinguish the art because it was suggested to him that printing might be suborned into the service of the devil, but afterward he bethought himself that the right use of the art might more than overcome the evil use of it, and so he spared the type and the intelligence of all following ages. But there are many today in the depressed mood of Gutenberg, with uplifted hammer, wanting to pound to pieces the type, who have not reached his better mood, in which he saw the art of printing to be the rising sun of the world's illumination.

If, instead of fighting newspapers, we spend the same length of time and the same vehemence in marshaling their help in religious directions we would be as much wiser as the man who gets consent of the railroad superintendent to fasten a car to the end of a rail train, shows better sense than he who runs his wheelbarrow up the track to meet and drive back the Chicago limited express. The silliest thing that a man ever does is to fight a newspaper, for you may have the floor for utterance perhaps for one day in the week, while the newspaper has the floor every day in the week. Napoleon, though a mighty man, had many weaknesses, and one of the weakest things he ever did was to threaten that if the English newspapers did not stop their adverse criticism of himself he would, with 400,000 bayonets, cross the channel for their chastisement. Don't fight newspapers. Attack provokes attack. Better wait until the excitement blows over and then go in and get justice, for get it you will if you have patience and common sense and equisopose of disposition. It ought to be a mighty sedative that there is an enormous amount of common sense in the world, and you will eventually be taken for what you are really worth, and you cannot be puffed up, and you cannot be written down, and if you are the enemy of good society, that fact will come out, and if you are the friend of good society, that fact will be established. * * *

Re-enforcement of Religion.

Again, if you would secure the secular press as a mightier reinforcement of religion and the pulpit, extend widest and highest Christian courtesies to the representatives of journalism. Give them easy chairs and plenty of room when they come to report occasions. For the most part they are gentlemen of education and refinement, graduates of colleges, with families to support by their literary craft, many of them weary with the push of a business that is precarious and fluctuating, each one of them the avenue of information to thousands of readers, their impression of the services to be the impression adopted by multitudes. They are connecting links between a sermon, or a song, or a prayer, and this great population that tramp up and down the streets day by day and year by year with their sorrows uncomforred and their sins unpardoned. Oh, the hundreds of thousands of people in our cities who never attend churches! Our cities are not so much preached to by ministers of religion as by reporters. Put all journalists into our prayers and sermons. Of all the hundred thousand sermons preached today there will not be three preached to journalists and probably not one. Of all the prayers offered for classes of men innumerable the prayers offered for the most potential class will be so few and rare that they will be thought a preacher's idiosyncrasy. There are many journalists in our church memberships, but this world will never be brought to God until some revival of religion sweeps over the land and takes into the kingdom of God all editors, reporters, compositors, pressmen and newsboys. And if you have not faith enough to pray for that and toll for that you had better get out of our ranks and join the other side, for you are the unbelievers who make the wheels of the Lord's chariot drag heavily. The great final battle between truth and error, the Armageddon, I think, will not be fought with swords and shells and guns, but with pens—quill pens, steel pens, gold pens, fountain pens, and before that the pens must be converted. The most divinely honored weapon of the past has been the pen, and the most divinely honored weapon of the future will be the pen; prophet's pen and evangelist's pen and apostle's pen, followed by editor's pen and author's pen and reporter's pen. God save the pen! The wings of the Apocalyptic angel will be the printed page. The printing press will roll ahead of Christ's chariot to clear the way.

God and the Printing Press.

All things are possible with God, and my faith is up until nothing in the way of religious victory would surprise me. All the newspaper printing presses of the earth are going to be the Lord's, and telegraph and telephone and types will yet announce nations born in a day. The first book ever printed was the Bible, by Faust and his son-in-law, Schoeffer, in 1460, and that consecration of type to the Holy Scriptures was a prophecy of the great mission of printing for the evangelization of all the nations. The father of the American printing press was a clergyman, Rev. Jesse Glover, and that was a prophecy of the religious use that the gospel ministry in this country were to make of the types.

Again, we shall see the secular press as a mightier reinforcement of religion and the pulpit by making our religious utterances more interesting and splintered, and then the press will reproduce them. On the way to church some 30 years ago a journalist said a thing that has kept me ever since thinking. "Are you going to give us any points today?" "What do you mean?" I asked. He said, "I mean by that anything that will be striking enough to be remembered." Then I said to myself, "What right have we in the pulpits and Sunday schools to take the time of the people if we have nothing to say that is memorable!" David did not have any difficulty in remembering Nathan's thrust, "Thou art the man," nor Felix in remembering Paul's point blank utterance on righteousness, temperance and judgment to come, nor the English king any difficulty in remembering what the court preacher said when, during the sermon against sin, the preacher threw his handkerchief into the king's pew to indicate whom he meant. * * *

The Church and the Press.

Now, as you all have something to do with the newspaper press, either in issuing a paper or in reading it, either as producers or patrons, either as sellers or purchasers of the printed sheet, I propose on the Lord's day a treaty to be signed between the church and the printing press, a treaty to be ratified by millions of good people if we rightly fashion it, a treaty promising that we will help each other in our work of trying to illumine and felicitate the world, we by voice, you by pen, we by speaking only that which is worth printing, you by printing only that which is fit to speak. You help us, and we will help you. Side by side be these two potent agencies until the judgment day, when we must both be scrutinized for our work, healthful or blasting. The two worst of men in that day will be the minister of religion and the editor if they wasted their opportunity. Both of us are the engineers of long express trains of influence, and we will run them into a depot of light or tumble them off the embankments. * * *

The Disciples as Reporters.

That Providence intends the profession of reporters to have a mighty share in the world's redemption is suggested by the fact that Paul and Christ took a reporter along with them and he reported their addresses and their acts. Luke was a reporter, and he wrote not only the book of Luke, but the Acts of the Apostles, and without that reporter's work we would have known nothing of the Pentecost and nothing of Stephen's martyrdom, and nothing of Tabitha's resurrection, and nothing of the jailing and unjailing of Paul and Silas, and nothing of the shipwreck at Melita. Strike out the reporter's work from the Bible and you kill a large part of the New Testament. It makes me think that in the future of the kingdom of God the reporters are to bear a mighty part.

About 25 years ago a representative of an important New York newspaper took his seat in the Brooklyn church one Sunday night about five pews from the front of the pulpit. He took out pencil and reporter's pad, resolved to caricature the whole scene. When the music began he began, and with his pencil he derided that and then derided the prayer and then derided the reading of the Scriptures and then began to deride the sermon. But, he says, for some reason his hand began to tremble, and he, rallying himself, sharpened his pencil and started again, and broke down again and then put pencil and paper in his pocket and his head down on the front of the pew and began to pray. At the close of the service he came up and asked for the prayers of others and gave his heart to God, and, though still engaged in newspaper work, he is an evangelist and hires a hall at his own expense and every Sunday afternoon preaches Jesus Christ to the people.

Words of Encouragement.

O men of the pencil and pen, amid your unappreciated work you need encouragement and you can have it. Printers of all Christendom, editors, reporters, compositors, pressmen, publishers and readers of that which is printed, resolve that you will not write, set up, edit, issue or read anything that debases body, mind or soul. In the name of God, by the laying on of the hands of faith and prayer, ordain the printing press for righteousness and liberty and salvation. All of us with some influence that will help in the right direction, let us put our hands to the work, imploring God to hasten the consummation. In a ship with hundreds of passengers approaching the South American coast the man on the lookout neglected his work, and in a few minutes the ship would have been dashed to ruin on the rocks. But a cricket on board the vessel, that had made no sound all the voyage, set up a shrill call at the smell of land, and, the captain knowing that habit of the insect, the vessel was stopped in time to avoid an awful wreck. And so insignificant means now may do wonders and the scratch of a pen may save the shipwreck of a soul.

Are you all ready for the signing of the contract, the league, the solemn treaty proposed between journalism and evangelism? Let it be a Christian marriage of the pulpit and the printing press. The ordination of the former on my head, the pen of the latter in my hand, it is appropriate that I publish the banns of such a marriage. Let them from this day be one of the magnificent work of the world's redemption.

LAKE DISAPPEARS.

Ngami, a Great Lake of South Africa, No Longer on the Map.

A great lake has vanished in South Africa. Ngami is its name and a map drawn in 1508 shows that it was then one of the most conspicuous features of the country. When Livingston, however, visited it on July 28, 1849, he found that its water was slowly disappearing and that its banks were being covered with rank vegetation. Today there is no water in the lake, its place being occupied by a spacious morass, which quickly swallows any one who is so adventurous as to set foot on it. Beneath this morass is still some water, but in order to bring it to the surface, the ground must be bored to a considerable depth. River Tauche formerly flowed into this lake, but now the tributaries that led to the lake are dry, and the river itself is also choked up thirty-two kilometers north of Ngami. During the last ten or twelve years the water has disappeared very rapidly, and the reason apparently is because the mouth of the river was gradually filled with the thousands of small floats or rafts on which the natives were wont to take their early tribute of corn to Denokans. These rafts were left year after year and travelers maintain that the river found itself powerless against an obstacle like this, the result being that the river and lake have become dry and that what was once fertile agricultural region is now bleak and barren. Formerly there were several villages near the lake, but now these, too, have vanished, and only a few cattle kraals are to be seen. "And it will be impossible to restore the lake," says S. Par-rarge, who visited the place recently, "since in its present condition it would require more water than the river could give it. Lake Ngami is gone forever."

Fruit of Friendship.

A principal fruit of friendship is the ease and discharge of the fullness and swellings of the heart, which passions of all kinds do cause and induce. We know diseases of stoppings and suffocations are the most dangerous in the body; and it is not much otherwise in the mind. You may take sarsa to open the liver, steel to open the spleen, flower of sulphur for the lungs, castoreum for the brain; but no receipt openeth the heart but a true friend, to whom you may impart griefs, joys, fears, hopes, suspicions, counsels, and whatsoever lieth upon the heart to oppress it, in a kind of civil shrift or confession.—Francis Bacon.

How He Earned His Title.

The dean of Christ church, in the '30s, was known as "Presence of Mind" Smith. A well-known tradition explained the name. Going down to Nuneham with a friend on his undergraduate days, he returned alone. "Where is T—?" "Well, we had an accident. The boat leaked, and while we were bailing it T— fell over into the water. He caught hold of the skiff and pulled it down to the water's edge. Neither of us could swim, and if I had not with great presence of mind hit him on the head with the boat hook both would have been drowned."—From "Reminiscences of Oxford," by the Rev. W. Tuckwell.

Sterling people are in a very turbu-

Wouldn't it Jar You.
If a person aspired
To be a push
And some one pushed him in
If he was a foreman
Of a grand jury
That was sworn to report
All cases of wrong doers.
If this self same man
Was running a paper
And claimed to edit it,
And if he should relate
That a village official
Had committed an offence,
And then reported it not
To his jury, as he ought,
Wouldn't it jar you,
Wouldn't it make you think?

Would you suppose
Our young men
Unknowingly violate the Law on a Sunday by Diverting their time
Not long ago
To indulge in a cock fight?
It seems queer and quaint
That it isn't watched.

Just notice a thing or two
And learn how the cock was killed
Rather quick, with the ax.
You know it wouldn't fight
On honor as a Sunday man
Unless for sake of corn.

Somewhat Costly.
"Let's kill time!" exclaimed the fair young girl, as she gazed out of the window on the softly falling feathery flakes.
"Kill time?" replied her company,
inquiringly.
"Yes; sleigh it."

on, Clinton and Jefferson—Democratic plurality, 4,920

The new senatorial districts as made up by Gardner, of LaSalle, places De Kalb, Lee and Ogle in a district and Kendall and Kane together.

A Family Gathering.
The Durhams Hold Another Reunion.

It was a birthday party that gathered at the home of A. S. Durham on Genoa street last Monday evening, the occasion being the thirty-second birthday of A. S. Durham and the seventy-eighth of his aunt, Mrs. Sarah Chapman. The evening, almost intensely cold without and for the remnants of the Durham family to gather around a cheerful fire at this pleasant home, was good. A bountiful spread was served at eleven after which the next relative to be host for them was designated and then went home. Those present were Mrs.
Sarah Chapman, Mr. and Mrs. Amos
Porter, Mrs. Sarah Holroyd, Mrs.
Jeanette Leonard, Mrs. Ida Carb, Mr.
and Mrs. D. S. Lord, Mr. and Mrs. A.
S. Durham, Messrs Henry and Charles
Leonard, and the Misses Sable Leonard and Fannie Lord.

"Mrs. Pinkham Saved me from an Operation."

Hospitals in our great cities are sad places to visit. Three-fourths of the patients lying on those snow-white beds are women and girls. Why should this be the case? Because they have neglected themselves. Every one of these patients in the hospital beds had plenty of warning in that bearing-down feeling, pain at the left or right of the womb, nervous exhaustion, pain in the small of the back. All of these things are indications of an unhealthy condition of the ovaries or womb. What a terrifying thought! These poor souls are lying there on those hospital beds awaiting a fearful operation. Do not drag along at home or in your place of employment until you are obliged to go to the hospital and submit to an examination and possible operation. Build up the female system, cure the derangements which have signified themselves by danger signals, and remember that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has saved thousands of women from the hospital. Read the letter here published with the full consent of the writer, and see how she escaped the knife by a faithful reliance on Mrs. Pinkham's advice and the consistent treatment of her medicines.

Mrs. Knapp tells of her Great Gratitude.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I have received much benefit from using your Vegetable Compound and Sanative Wash. After my child was born, blood poison set in, which left me with granulated inflammation of the womb and congested ovaries. I had suffered from suppressed and painful menstruation from a girl. The doctors told me the ovaries would have to be removed. I took treatment two years to escape an operation, but still remained in miserable health in both body and mind, expecting to part with my reason with each coming month. After using one bottle of the Compound, I became entirely rid of the trouble in my head. I continued to use your remedies until cured. The last time months have been passed in perfect good health. This, I know, I owe entirely to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. My gratitude is great indeed to the one to whom so many women owe their health and happiness."—Mrs. F. M. KNAPP, 1523 Kinnickinnic Avenue, Milwaukee, Wis.

$5000 REWARD Owing to the fact that some skeptical people have from time to time questioned the genuineness of the testimonial letters we are constantly publishing, we have deposited with the National City Bank, of Lynn, Mass., $5,000, which will be paid to any person who will show that the above testimonial is not genuine, or was published before obtaining the writer's special permission.—LYDIA E. ## THE CUBANS FIX A STATUS.

Island's Independence Shall Not Be Limited by Any Power. The constitutional convention at Havana completed its work of drawing up the clauses in the constitution referring to the relations between Cuba and the United States. The following clauses on relations were adopted: "1. The government of Cuba will not make a treaty or agreement with any foreign power which may compromise or limit the independence of Cuba, or which may permit or authorize any power to obtain by means of colonization or for military or naval purposes, or in any other manner, any foothold or authority or right over any portion of Cuba. "2. The government will not permit its territory to be used as a base of operations for war against the United States or against any foreign nation. "3. The government of Cuba accepts in its entirety the treaty of Paris, in which are affirmed the rights of Cuba to the extent of the obligations which are explicitly indicated in these, and especially those which the international law imposes for the protection of life and property, and substitutes itself for the United States in the pledge, which they assumed in that sense, according to articles 12 and 162 of the treaty of Paris. "4. Cuba recognizes as legally valid all acts of the military government during the period of occupation; also the rights arising out of them, in conformity with the joint resolution and the Foraker amendment and the existing laws of the country. "5. The governments of the United States and Cuba ought to regulate their commercial relations by means of a treaty based on reciprocity, and with tendencies toward free trade in natural and manufactured products, mutually assuring ample special advantages in their respective markets."

Flames Destroy a Penitentiary.

The Nebraska state penitentiary, four miles from Lincoln, has fallen prey to flames. The fire, the origin of which is not known, broke out at midnight Thursday in the rooms in the main building occupied by the warden and his family. Before the flames had gained much headway Warden Davis gave orders to release the convicts from the cells and march them to the prison yard under double guard. The removal was accomplished safely and without disorder. Extra guards were also posted on the stockade walls, armed with shotguns, with orders to permit no escapes.

As an additional measure of safety, Lieutenant-Governor Savage, acting in the absence of Governor Dietrich, in response to the suggestion of the warden, ordered the local company of state militia.

Life Convict Aided Firemen.

Because of his earnest, heroic and unselfish aid to the members of the Lincoln (Neb.) fire department in fighting the three big fires which have assailed the state penitentiary since his life there began nine years ago, Nicholas Fox, a convict from South Omaha who is serving a life term for murder, may be pardoned shortly. The Lincoln firemen are circulating a petition which asks the governor to free Fox in consideration of his heroic work at three fires and of his honor in disdaining to avail himself of innumerable chances to escape while thus employed.

Dog Saves Mistress' Life.

The biting and barking of a pet dog at Warren, O., saved Mrs. Priscilla Shoenerger from death in the burning of the Sutliff block. She was rescued from a third-story window. Mrs. Shoenerger was asleep when the fire started. The dog bit her feet, rousing her to the danger that threatened. Though he had saved a human life the dog was burned to death. The loss on the building and contents was $10,000.

Buys Union Traction Road.

On excellent authority the statement is published at Muncie, Ind., that all the stock in the Union Traction company has been purchased by George F. McCulloch of Muncie. At a meeting of the directors Mr. McCulloch will be chosen president and manager. Mr. McCulloch will make his home temporarily in Anderson. The Union Traction company is now capitalized at $5,000,000 and is bonded at $4,000,000.

Alton Shopmen Win Strike.

The strike of the machinists of the Chicago and Alton shops in Bloomington, is off, and the shops will resume work in all departments. General Manager Barrett arrived from Chicago and after a conference with the workmen decided to abandon the system of piece work to which they objected.

Tax on Express Companies.

Senator Miller has introduced a bill in the Minnesota state senate for a 5 per cent tax on the net earnings of express companies, such tax to be in lieu of all personalty tax, but real estate holdings are specifically declared not to be exempt from the general tax levy.

Fatal Collision of Trains.

Two dead, three badly hurt and a passenger train burned is the result of a head-on collision between passenger train No. 16, south bound, and a local freight on the Pittsburg, Virginia & Charleston railroad Thursday evening at Coal Valley, five miles from MeKeosport, Pa.

The dead are:

Frank White, engineer, of Uniontown, horribly mangled; Milton S. Thompson, mail clerk, of Brownsville, leg burned off, hurt internally, died on way to hospital.

AFTER THE GRIP COMES CATARRH.

LIKE A TERRIBLE CYCLONE grip bacillus has passed over our country, from the Atlantic to the Pacific, leaving behind it a dark cloud of anguish and despair. Catarrh follows grip as effect follows cause. A multitude of catarrh victims will spring up in the trail of the awful epidemic of grip that has just passed over our fair country. The hope to these people is Peruna. Most people know this already. Everyone who has had the least touch of grip, should not fail to take a course of treatment with Peruna. Peruna eradicates every vestige of the disease and leaves the system in a normal condition. Hon. Joseph B. Crowley, Congressman from Illinois, writes from the National Hotel, Washington, D. C., as follows: "After giving Peruna a fair trial I can cheerfully recommend your remedy to anyone suffering with coughs, colds, la grippe and all catarrhal complaints."—J. B. Crowley. Hon. George H. White, Congressman from North Carolina, writes: "I am more than satisfied with Peruna, and find it to be an excellent remedy for the grip and catarrh. I have used it in my family, and they all join me in recommending it as an excellent remedy."—George H. White. Hon. J. P. Megrew, Superintendent U. S. Capital Police Force, of Washington, D. C., says: "Having suffered from the grip, I was advised by a friend to use your Peruna. I also used it for my catarrh, and I can now cheerfully recommend your remedy to anyone who is suffering from the grip and catarrh."—J. P. Megrew. Miss Anna Russell, Past Worthy Counselor, Loyal Mystic Legion, 293 Endicott Bldg., St. Paul, Minn., writes: "For years I have unfortunately found my system in a peculiarly receptive condition for catarrh when I was exposed in any way to inclement weather. At those times I would be severely afflicted with la grippe and its unpleasant consequences. "Now for the past year and a half I have used Peruna in such cases and have found that it not only cures me quickly, but it also cleanses my blood and renders me less liable to catch cold. It is the finest preventative of colds that I know of and a very superior tonic."—Anna Russell.

Miss Alice Dressler, 1313 North Bryant Ave., Minneapolis, Minn., writes: "Last spring I suffered from la grippe and was partially cured, but the bad after-effects remained through the summer, and somehow I did not get strong as I was before. In the fall I caught a cold after getting my feet wet and attending a lecture in a cold hall, and I suffered a relapse. An unpleasant catarrh of the head and throat followed, and as I was in a weak condition physically previous to this, it took but little to break me down completely. "One of my college friends who was visiting me, asked me to try Peruna, and I did so and found it all and more than I had expected. It not only cured me of the catarrh, but restored me to perfect health, built up the entire system, and brought a happy feeling of buoyancy which I had not known for years."—Miss Alice Dressler. If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis. Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, O.

begins in the bowels. It's the unclean places that breed infectious epidemics, and it's the unclean body—unclean inside—that "catches" the disease. A person whose stomach and bowels are kept clean and whose liver is lively, and blood pure, is safe against yellow fever, or any other of the dreadful diseases that desolate our beautiful land. Some of the cleanest people outside are filthiest inside, and they are the ones who not only "catch" the infections, but endanger the lives of all their friends and relatives. There's only one certain way of keeping clean inside so as to prevent disease and that is to take CASCARETS. Perfect disinfectant and bowel strengtheners. All diseases are

It is a starter for the chronic ailments and long years of suffering that come afterwards. No matter what ails you, start taking CASCARETS to-day, for you will never get well and be well all the time until you put your bowels right. Take our advice: start with CASCARETS to-day, under an absolute guarantee to cure or money refunded.

GUARANTEED TO CURE: Five years ago the first box of CASCARETS was sold. Now it is over six million boxes a year, greater than any similar medicine in the world. This is absolute proof of great merit, and our best testimonial. We have faith and will sell CASCARETS absolutely guaranteed to cure or money refunded. Go buy today, two 50c boxes, give them a fair, honest trial, as per simple directions, and if you are not satisfied, after using one 50c box, return the unused 50c box and the empty box to us by mail, or the drugstore from whom you purchased it, and get our money back for both boxes. Take our advice—no matter what ails you—start to-day. Health will quickly follow and it will bless the day you first started the use of CASCARETS. Sold free by mail. Address: STERLING BENEDY CO., NEW YORK & CHICAGO.

Injured by a Train.

Mrs. Richard Burton Seriously Hurt by a Train Last Evening.

Last evening Mrs. Richard Burton, of Kingston, was probably fatally hurt by being struck by St. P. milk train No. 35 while walking from her to her home. She had come up to Genoa yesterday morning and intended to return on the milk train last evening, but the train was late and she decided to walk. When near the Dutton farm the way-freight, No. 94, was approaching from the west and she stepped over to the west-bound track out of its way, not observing that No. 35 was close behind her. The train struck her breaking one leg and inflicting a bad wound on her head.

She is the widow of Richard Burton, deceased, of Stott street.

LATER:— Dr. Ludwig reports that Mrs. Burton is resting as well as can be expected; the greatest danger at present is from gangrene setting in as the limb is badly crushed.

On Open Swindle.

Some shrewd swindlers representing themselves as agents for Oklahoma government lands, which are to be opened for preempting in the near future, are making the rounds. For a fee of $50 they offer to locate a fifty acre piece of land, including one town lot, with no further expense to the person desirous of securing a homestead in that part of the United States. The only way the land can be located is by the individual occupying it himself for a certain length of time working it in compliance with the homestead which is very explicit on this point. It is a good idea to be suspicious of any man who asks you to go down into your pocket for any money in connection with a homestead location. — Herald (Ba'avia)

Railroad Excursions.

Gypsy's Influence Over Queen.

The king of Spain has not yet been able to show either his taste or his pluck in riding, for his mother is so nervous about it that she did not even like to see him getting too bold on his wooden horse. The hour of the riding lesson on the real thing is always one of anxiety for the regent. They say that this fear comes from a prediction which was once made to her by a gypsy.

Too Proud to Beg.

There are families and remnants of families in Galveston, proud people and once well to do, who lost their homes, their furniture, everything in the storm, and by necessity live in tents. Some of them have been so proud they would not go to the committee for money sent for their relief, and have only taken their share when it has been forced upon them.

A Friend's Prophetic Joke.

John W. Yerkes, commissioner of internal revenue, says that before the recent election, when he was a candidate for the governorship of Kentucky, one of his acquaintances among the mountaineers insisted on calling him "governor," and when asked why replied that it was because after election he wouldn't have a chance to call him that.

Cuban Editor Admires America.

Don Nicholas Rivers, editor of El Diario of Havana, is an ardent Carlisle, but a warm admirer of American institutions. His children are being educated in Washington.
