BLACKSMITHS' OUTING

Several Lads Visit Genoa Saturday and Meet Local Men

DeKalb Chronicle: The outing of the blacksmiths of this and neighboring communities on Saturday was one of the most unique, enjoyable and altogether profitable trips that the members have ever taken.

The horse shoers not only had a most enjoyable outing trip but they met a lot of mighty fine fellows among their craft in other towns, saw a lot of finely equipped shops and learned a lot that will be of use to them in their business as well as interesting a lot of good men in the association of smiths.

The trip was made by blacksmiths from DeKalb, Sycamore, Cortland, Virginia, Maple Park, Richardson and Kaneville. From this city those on the journey were Messrs. Self, Weightman, Silvis and O'Brien. One load left Maple Park and went directly south to Big Rock where they visited the shop and then came on to Hinckley where they met the other two machines full.

From then on they visited shops in Hinckley, Waterman, Shabbona, Shabbona Grove, Lee, Scarboro, Steward, Rochelle, Lindenwood, Fairdale, Kirkland, Kingston, Genoa and Sycamore. There were in all 18 the party and they visited the shops talking and visiting with the workers and getting acquainted.

KENNEDL MAKES STATEMENT

Candidate for State's Attorney Places His Platform Before Voters

(Advertisement)

To the Voters of DeKalb County: The office of State's Attorney is one of the most important, if not actually the one of greatest importance, in the County, because the State's Attorney has in the performance of his duties an opportunity to exercise judgment and discretion, which may result either to the advantage or disadvantage of the people coming within the circle of his influence or control.

If the State's Attorney is a man of good judgment and undertakes honestly and conscientiously to administer the duties of his office with a desire and intention, not only to protect society but to accomplish the reformation of the individual charged with the crime, he is in a position to do a great deal of good.

On the other hand, he does not perform the duties of his office with these results in view, but in his prosecutions sees, or thinks he sees, an opportunity to build up a reputation as a prosecutor, he then becomes a most dangerous man in the community.

Many people at times are the innocent victims of unfortunate circumstances and dishonest witnesses can succeed in convicting them of a crime even though they are innocent.

In such cases, a State's Attorney should have the judgment, discretion and honesty to discover the dishonesty of the witness and protect the innocent man or woman wrongfully accused. If he does not do this, but instead sees only another opportunity where he can convict the defendant and thus further build up his reputation as a prosecutor, he is wholly unfit to be State's Attorney of this enlightened community.

In other words, I believe it to be the duty of the State's Attorney to protect the innocent as well as prosecute the guilty, and to administer the duties of the office for the best interest of all parties concerned and not for his own personal advantage.

The salary of the State's Attorney has been fixed by the State Legislature with this salary, and should be legal adviser of the Board of Supervisors present only such of his expenses to them for payment as it is their legal duty to pay.

The State's Attorney now receiving the money that he does, should be a man of sufficient ability to prosecute the cases in this county without calling upon the Board of Supervisors to employ or pay an assistant for him, and any assistant should be paid in this county, in my opinion, by the State's Attorney, unless some particular case is of such importance that the Board of Supervisors through the application of some one outside of the State's Attorney employs an assistant for that particular case.

Believing that this County is entitled to have the office of State's Attorney conducted on the lines indicated above, I have decided to become a candidate for the Republican nomination for State's Attorney at the primary to be held Wednesday, September 13, 1916.

In the coming campaign I shall refrain from all personalities, but inasmuch as the present State's Attorney, as shown by his public announcement, election, knows that he had not the courage to take a stand either with the Republicans or with the Progressives, but in short tried to carry water on both shoulders, so that if the Progressives appeared to be the stronger in this campaign he would have then sought the nomination on the Progressive ticket, but inasmuch as there is no Progressive County ticket this time, he now seeks the Republican nomination.

Had he had the courage to declare himself a Progressive and now seek the nomination from the Republicans he might well claim the right to do so, as Republicans and Progressives are now willing to concede that the division in their ranks in 1912 was a family row which should be and is adjusted and they have now united again, as they believe, for the good of the country, but the action of the present State's Attorney can commend itself neither to the Progressive branch of the Republican party, nor to the old line Republicans, for he has not had the courage to take a stand with either of them, and we are credibly informed that he has not participated in a primary, either Progressive or Republican, during the last four years and would not even sign a nomination petition when asked to do so.

Inasmuch as he has challenged attention to his record it is interesting to read the opinion of the Supreme Court of this state regarding his official conduct. That court said in deciding a case prosecuted by him:

"This conduct of the State's Attorney was improper, and such a practice will not be tolerated. * * * There is no possible theory upon which it can be claimed that such an examination was competent, and it seems incredible that a State's Attorney should so far forget the duty devolving upon him in a criminal prosecution as to adopt such methods to discredit a defendant and to endeavor to prejudice the jury against him."

This is the comment of our Supreme Court on a part of this record.

A. G. Kennedy.

ment, is seeking the nomination at the hands of the Republican Party, upon the record made by him during his term of office, I shall consider myself at liberty to fully discuss his Republicanism and his record as State's Attorney, to the end that the voter may be fully advised as to both.

He said in his announcement that political issues and politics generally should have no connection with the administration of the criminal law. While I agree with him as to this statement, yet I do say that a man should have the political courage to stand up and be counted with some one of the political parties.

It is well known that after the formation of the Progressive party in 1912, which was after the present State's Attorney was nominated on the Republican ticket, he was asked by the Republican County Central Committee whether he was a Republican. This question he did not answer; the only answer he has ever given so far as can be learned, is his announcement recently in the county papers that he now wants the Republicans to nominate him again.

Every person who is familiar with his political conduct from the time of his former election until it became a settled fact that the Progressive party would not have a county ticket in this

INFANTILE PARALYSIS

Girl Twelve Years of Age Afflicted at Malta

Dr. C. E. Crawford of Rockford was called to Malta, six miles west of DeKalb Thursday by the report of a case of infantile paralysis there. Dr. Crawford is a member of the state board of health. The DeKalb Chronicle says:

"A clearly defined case of infantile paralysis has developed in the town of Malta the victim of this dread disease is the little daughter of Mrs. Albert Giltner.

"The little girl is about 12 years of age and has been sick for the past two or three days. The symptoms shown by the child have appeared very suspicious to the attending physician, Dr. R. A. Wright, and the case has been watched carefully."

In Another Class
One DeKalb citizen, after hearing Col. Frank O. Lowden, said: "I heard Smith and Hull and they are splendid fellows, but I am now convinced that Lowden is of another class. He stands head and shoulders above them all." Our friend may have the case slightly exaggerated, but Lowden certainly makes a good impression.

MARENGO FALLS DOWN

Not Enough Tickets Sold to Hold Chautauqua in 1917

The Marengo News says that The Redpath Chautauqua which closed Saturday evening gave general satisfaction and it is a matter of regret with many that not a sufficient number of season tickets were pledged to bring the Chautauqua here next year.

It required an advance sale of 400 tickets to do this. A few more than 200 were sold and although in all likelihood the full number needed would be disposed of judging by the attendance and interest at this Chautauqua, the business men of Marengo who have heretofore guaranteed the amount necessary, $800, did not feel like assuming the risk under the circumstances. Perhaps before another season arrives a movement will be started to procure a Chautauqua. Many, of course, hope this will be done.

Cows, $2500; Shoes, $50.
M. Engel of Marselles has just received a letter from his sister, Mrs. Steinberger, of Austria Hungary, from which we quote several sentences of special interest: "The misery here is indescribable. You ought to be all happy and thank God that you are in that glorious country, America, and protected by that beautiful flag, the stars and stripes. If the American people would only know how to appreciate that great word, Liberty. Shoes are selling from $50 to $60, and a cow from $2,000 to $2,500. Living material (food), you can't get unless you get an order from the government."—Marselles Plain Dealer.

MILK PRODUCERS ANGRY

Association Ousts President Swift for Indiscretion

Elgin News: R. B. Swift of Libertyville has been ousted as president of the Milk Producers' association and stripped of his membership privileges in the organization.

By a vote of 23 to 1 directors of the association, in session in Chicago last Thursday, demanded his retirement.

They held that the writing and publication of a number of articles was detrimental to the association. The motion for expulsion, presented by Charles H. Potter of Elgin, charged Swift with making "unjustified, misleading and malicious statements detrimental to the Milk Producers' association—or in other words lying."

This motion was seconded by Robert Omar of Huntley and a half dozen other directors.

The question as to whether Swift's articles were harmful to the organization was 22 to 1. Three did not vote. They were President Swift, Vice President Frank Holt of Pleasant Prairie, Wis., and Director Joslyn of Marengo. Herbert Moriarty of Mokena, Will county, was the single director in support of Swift. He also voted against his expulsion when the final roll call was taken.

The special meeting of the board of directors was called to order by President Swift who stepped from the chair immediately after, stating that inasmuch as the proceedings concerning him he would surrender the gavel to Vice President Holt. Holt conducted the meeting under the direction of George Brown of Sycamore the only lawyer member of the board.

The articles which appeared in the Woodstock Republican were read and discussed. Swift reluctantly admitted that he had written them but said it was as an individual, not as head of the association. The directors refused to recognize him as an individual in the matter.

CHAPTER XXXIV

It was ten o'clock on a morning in early autumn when Gerry finally got free of the freighter and took the ferry for the other side of the river. He had left all his baggage to be delivered at the house later. The morning was clear but sultry. In the city the apathy of summer days had settled down. People glanced at Gerry's heavy tweeds and antiquated hat but they did not smile, for Gerry himself was such a sight as makes men forget clothes. The tan of his lean face, the swing of his big, unpadded shoulders, his clear eyes, carried the thoughts of passers-by away from clothes and city things. They seemed to catch a breath of spicy winds from the worn garments that clung to the stranger's virile body and in his eyes they saw a mirage of far-away places.

As Gerry reached his own house, he was outwardly calm, even deliberate, but inwardly he was fighting down a turmoil of emotions. What was he to do in this? Had he anything to give in exchange? Had he too much? He climbed the steps slowly. His hand trembled as he reached out to raise the heavy bronze knocker. Before his fingers could seize it, the door swung softly inward. Old John bowed before him. For a moment Gerry stood dazed. The naturalness of that open door, of the old butler, of the cool shadows in the old familiar hall, struck straight at his heart with the shrewd poignancy of simple things. Old John raised a smiling face to greet him but down one wrinkled cheek crawled a surprised tear.

Gerry held out his hand. "How do you do, John?"

"I am very well today, sir," said John. "Mrs. Gerry is in the library. She told me to telephone to the club and if you were there to say she wished to see you."

Gerry was puzzled. Why should Alix think he would go to the club? He handed the butler his old hat and strode to the library door. The door was closed. Somebody said, "Come in." The words were so low he hardly heard them. He opened the door, stepped inside and closed it behind him.

Alix, dressed in a filmy blue and white housegown, stood in the middle of the room. With one hand unpinned, the other outstretched, she seemed to be poised, equally ready for advance or flight. Her eyes passed swiftly over Gerry's face, swept searching down to his feet and back again to his face. For weeks she had been wondering. Terrible things had come to her mind. Alan and Gerry, with his heartless note, had conspired to mystify, to terrify her. All the joy she had looked forward to in Gerry's home-coming had turned into a bitter pain. They had not known on the hill how she was suffering. Only Kemp had seemed to understand a little and had brought his drop of comfort to her.

As her eyes searched Gerry the sense of impending calamity left her. He was well, well as she had never seen him before. Except for that he seemed almost weirdly familiar, as though only a good night's sleep lay between him and the morning of three years ago when he had bullied her until she fought back and overwhelmed him.

A hundred little differences went to make up this solitary change. The flush of too many drinks had given way to a deep healthy glow, the eyes were deep and grave instead of deep and vacant, the broad shoulders that had taken to hanging were braced in unconscious strength. Every line in the body that she had seen start on the road to grossness had been fined down. The body was no longer a mere abode for a lingering spirit. It had become a mechanism, tuned to expression in action. It was not the body of a time-server. Alan's sole word of comfort came back to her. "I never thought the old Rock would ever look so big." What force had done this thing to Gerry? She felt a pang, half envy, half remorse. If she had been wise, less than that, if she had been merely sage, could she not have saved Gerry to himself and spared her faith the test of the three long years lost out of their youth?

Gerry stood erect by the door, one hand still holding the knob. Why was he waiting? Alix' raised hand went slowly out to him in welcome but he did not move. She smiled at him but his eyes remained steadfast and grave. A lump rose in Alix' throat and then, as pride came to her aid, a flare of color showed in her cheeks. Her lips opened. What could she say to hurt him enough, to pay him back for this added, unjust rebuff? She knew so little about this new Gerry. How could she wound him?

And then he spoke. "Will you please sit down? There are things I must tell you."

Gerry had blundered on magic words. There is no moment so emotionally tense that a true woman will not drop the immediate issue to sit down and listen to the untold things she has wanted to hear. Alix was a true woman. The flare died out of her cheeks. She sank into a chair beside the dully shining mahogany table and with a nod of her golden head motioned Gerry to a seat opposite her. She watched the easy swing of his body as he moved across the room. Gerry's mind was in sore conflict, but a body in perfect health has a way of talking care of itself.

Gerry sat down and gripped the edge of the table with outstretched hands. He looked steadily into Alix' eyes. The moment he had foreseen had come. Alix sat in judgment. She planted her bare elbows on the table, laid one hand, palm down on the other and on them both rested her cheek. Her head with its heavy crown of hair was thus to one side but also tilted slightly forward. That slight forward tilt gave strength to the pose and intensity. A curious, measuring look came into Alix' eyes. She was silent and she was waiting.

Gerry dropped his eyes to the table and began to talk. "The things I have got to tell you," he said, "begin with that day—our last day. I went out and walked for hours and realized that I had been rough and unjust and to blame. I came over to the avenue and was standing looking at some flowers when you passed. I saw you in the plate-glass of the window. I turned around to make sure. I recognized your trunk. I followed you to the station. I saw Alan signal to you. I saw you get into the train."

Gerry stopped. His premise was finished and he found that he had no tongue to tell the things he had thought—the long argument of the soul. He realized that all that must be left out. He must confine himself to mere physical facts, let them troop up in the order in which they had come upon him and file naked before Alix. She must dress them as she saw fit, as her sympathies and her justice directed. He would give her but the ground-work, plain simple words such as he could command, telling the events that had come upon him and how he had met them.

Of the trip out he had nothing to say but of Pernambuco he told her in detail. Somehow it seemed the least he could do for the filthy and beautiful city that had given him an unquestioning asylum. He told her of the quay, the Linguetas, with its line of tall, stained houses, its vast, plane trees and its cobbled esplanade, the stage where the city's life was in perpetual review. His words came slowly but they left nothing out. Unconsciously he created an atmosphere. A light of interest burned in Alix' eyes. She saw the changing scene. It charmed her to restfulness as it had Gerry.

She smelt the stacks of pineapples, the heaped-up mangoes, the frying fish, and through his eyes she saw the blue skies dotted with white, still clouds and glimpsed the secret, high-walled gardens with their flaring hibiscus, trailing fuchsias, fantastic garden cockscombs and dark-domed mango and jack trees. She sat with Gerry and, later, on the long slim coasting craft she listened with him to the creak of straining masts and stays and to the lap of hurrying waters. She followed him up the San Francisco, felt the little stern-wheeler and learned the fascination of a river with endless, undiscovered turns. They came to Piranhas. Here she felt herself on familiar ground. Letters from the consul's envoy had made this place hers. Unconsciously she nodded as Gerry described the tiers of houses, the twisted, climbing streets, the miserable little inn.

Gerry told of the happy days of ponderous canoeing and of the unvarying strings of fish. He lingered over those days. Thus far he had brought Alix with him. He felt it. Now he came to the morning when he must leave her behind. He told her of the glorious break of that day, of the sun fighting through swirling mists. She saw him standing stripped on the sandspit. She saw the canoe nosing heavily against the shore and his pyjamas tossed carelessly across a thwart. She knew that she had come to the moment of revelation. She breathed softly lest she should lose a word for Gerry was speaking very low. Then he showed her Margarita, Margarita as he had first seen her, kissing and kissed by dawn.

BLIND AND DEAF MAN RUNS BANK

Illinois Capitalist Handles Work With Help of Private Secretary.

IS 90 YEARS OF AGE

Correspondence and News Is Copied for Him With Marking Crayon—Letters Two Inches High—Interested in Politics.

Havana, Ill.—H. W. McFadden is considered one of the most remarkable business men in this part of the state. Although he is ninety years old, is entirely deaf and almost blind, he looks after his business with the same interest and vigor that enabled him to build up one of the largest estates in the county.

All his work is done through a secretary, who must copy all of his letters. This is done with a large black marking crayon in letters two inches high. Not only does he read all his mail in this way, but he is also intensely interested in the European war, and all of the war news from the papers must be copied for him.

Heads Oldest Bank.

Mr. McFadden is a native of New York state, and came to Illinois when a young man of twenty-two, without any more than a good education and a sound mind and body. He first settled in Peoria, where he served as county surveyor for six years. In 1862 he came to Havana and built the first elevator here. Five years later he established the Mason County bank, the oldest financial institution in the county, of which he is now the president. A short time later he went to Peoria, where he built the Central City elevator, the first elevator to be built in Peoria. Later he established the system of elevators in Cass, Menard and Mason counties, now operated by McFadden & Co., of which his sons, G. C. McFadden and B. H. McFadden, have the controlling interest.

From the very first Mr. McFadden had acquired land whenever he had an opportunity to get a good contract. He started while surveyor of Peoria county and now is the owner of about 3,000 acres in Mason county, as well as thousands of acres of the best land in Kansas, located in Coffey county. He also owns a number of store buildings in Chicago and extensive town and city property in Waverly and Halls Summit, Kan.

A Political Yarn.

He is one of the most public spirited men in Havana, and has been so all his life. He can tell interesting stories of the great political campaigns of the days before the war, when the rival political parties would erect tall poles and have great celebrations around them. Followers of each party in a community would strive to erect a pole taller than the one erected by the rival faction. Poles hundreds of feet high were put up, every man and boy in the community coming out to help.

Again, when the Civil war broke out he was a most ardent admirer of the North and tried many times to enlist, but his poor hearing, a family heritage, was against him, and he was refused. Twice he tried to slip into the ranks and go to the front any way, but he was sent home again each time. Nevertheless he spent large sums of money for the cause of the North and encouraged all able-bodied men to go and fight against the South.

Jack of Clubs Dealt by Death. Chicago.—Edward F. Erzinger was found dead in his room in Chicago by his wife, who entered to watch the progress of a game of solitaire. She found him lying face downward on the table with the jack of clubs clutched in his hand.

Had Hired Them All. Representative William Kettner of California made a journey to Mexico a while ago and was greatly impressed with the cheapness of Mexican cab hire. Kettner found that for 20 cents he could have a carriage at his disposal for about an hour. That made a great hit with him, and he worried because he had occasion to use a cab only part of the time. It seemed a shame that he couldn't spend more money on such a bargain proposition. The afternoon before Kettner and his friends were to leave Mexico City one of the party noticed a string of seven carriages proceeding down the street like a funeral procession. All were empty except the one in the lead. In it sat Kettner puffing calmly at a big cigar. He had hired all the carriages he could find in front of his hotel, and set out to revel in his bargain grandeur.—Sunday Magazine.

An All-Seeing Eye.

A self-operating eye, which when attached to a typewriter enables that machine to copy any printed matter properly set before it, is the invention of a Brooklyn electrical engineer. The eye consists of a large sphere having a lens on its front side and a field corresponding to a retina on which are situated a large number of selenium cells connected with a source of electric current. The eye is mounted on and moves with the carriage of the typewriter, and is so focused that the image of but one letter is reflected in it at a time. Popular Mechanics Magazine tells how the machine operates.

England Uses Repulped Paper.

We are living in remarkable days. The shortage of paper has resulted in the repulping of paper that already has been used. One of the effects is that certain letters which seem to have been more deeply impressed than their fellows survive the process and come to light in unexpected and inconsequent places. We meet with an "o" here and an "h" there which have no sort of relationship to the otherwise blank sheet.—London Globe.

In those days when once more his thoughts demanded to be seen in their relation to Alix, that steady voice within him was his only comfort. The flood at Fazenda Flores had swept away all that his hands had done, but the things that Fazenda Flores had done for him could not be swept away by any material force. They stood and feared nothing—except Alix.

Wherever his mind turned, it came back to Alix and found in her an impulse. Alix assumed more and more the portentous attributes of one unattached, sitting in judgment over his acts. His memory of her frailty, of her flowerlike detachment from the bones—the skeleton—of life, her artificiality, made her seem ludicrously incongruous in the role of judge. He could not picture her, much less estimate the sentence she would pass. His thoughts led him daily up to that impasse and left him. Then came the doubt and the question—why should he lead himself bodily to the impasse at all?

He was still fighting this point when he reached Barbados but there an incident befell which brought a new light to his mind and then a new peace to his soul.

He had gone ashore at Bridgetown simply because his whole body, perfectly attuned by three years of long hours of toil, was crying out for more exercise than the narrow decks of the freighter could afford.

When the little group of passengers reached shore, with the exception of Gerry and an old returning Barbadian, they all turned in the same direction as if by a common impulse.

The Barbadian glanced at Gerry and jerked his head at the disappearing group. "Men of the world in the big sense," he said.

"What do you mean?" asked Gerry.

"Son," said the old Barbadian, who was very tanned and whose kindly eyes blinked through thick glasses, "when a chap tells you he's a man of the world you ask him if he ever had a drink at the Ice house. You don't have to say 'in Bridgetown.' Ever have a drink at the Ice house? Just like that; and if he says, 'No,' you know he meant he was a town rounder when he said he was a man of the world."

Gerry smiled and fell naturally in step with the Barbadian as he moved slowly on.

"Yes," said the old man. "It's a sure test. The man that hasn't crooked his elbow at the big, round deal table in that old, ramshackle drink-house can't say he's really traveled. Long-lost brothers and friends have met there, and when men that roam the high seas want news of some pal that's disappeared down the highway of the world they drop in at the old Ice house and ask what road he took. It's halfway house to all the seven seas."

"Have you lost anyone?" asked Gerry.

"No, I'm not thirsty for a drink just now," said the Barbadian with a smile. "And you?"

"Nor I," said Gerry, laughing. "I'm out to stretch my legs."

"You can't do that here," replied the old man. "You don't know our sun. Come with me." He hailed a ramshackle victoria.

Gerry hesitated. "You must have a home you want to go to and friends to see. Don't worry about me. I'll be careful about the sun."

"Boy," said the Barbadian, "I've got a home and I'm going to see it, but there's no reason why you shouldn't come along. As for friends—the ones I left here won't get up to meet anyone till the last trump sounds. Come along. You are the only company and I'm the only host in our party."

They climbed into the rickety cab and the Barbadian gave directions to the driver. The driver answered in the soft guttural of the West Indian black.

Slowly they crawled through the crooked streets of the town. Gerry leaned back and gazed at the freakish buildings. They were all of framework. Some swelled at the top, and some tumbled over, some swelled at the bottom and he wondered why these did not cave in.

The Barbadian watched his face. "Funny town, eh?"

Gerry nodded.

Presently they found themselves on a country road. It was so smooth that the weighted carriage pushed the old horses along at an unwonted pace. Little houses—hundreds of them—that looked like big hencoops lined the road. Suddenly the carriage came to a halt. One of the little houses was trying to straddle the road. From around it came screams and cries. "Now, then, yo' Gladys, when ah say heft, yo' heft."

The driver poured out an angry torrent of words that tried their best to be harsh and failed. From around the obstructing house came an old darky. When his eyes fell on the Barbadian he rushed forward. "Lor, Misteh Malcolm, when did yo' get back?"

"Just now, Charles," said the Barbadian. "What's the matter here?"

The darky's eyes rolled. "Mattah, Misteh Malcolm? Why, that ole Cumeel Stewart he's jes' so natcherly parsimonious that he requires me to pay rent fo' havin' his house on his lan', so I says to ole mammy, we'll jes' move this here residence on to a gen'l man's lan', and Misteh Malcolm, he'n mammy in the chile are jes' a-movin' it on to yo' old cane fiel'."

The Barbadian laughed a little dryly and shrugged his shoulders. The driver got down, protesting, and helped the family carry the house across the road. Then the cab went on and soon turned up an avenue under a fiery canopy of acacia flamboyante.

As they progressed, thick, twining growths, spangled with brilliant blooms, walled in the avenue. The air grew cool but heavy with scents and the full-flavored spice of a tropical garden under a blazing sun.

The air made Gerry dreamy. He woke with a start when the Barbadian said to the cabman, "This will do. You needn't drive in. Wait here."

The cab stopped. Just ahead was the rickety gate. Beyond the pillars there was a winding way. Once it had been a road continuation of the avenue, now it was but a tunnel through the densely crowded foliage. Along the center of the tunnel was a narrow path. Even it was overgrown. The Barbadian led Gerry down the path.

They came out under a grove of mighty trees whose dense shade had kept down the undergrowth, and beyond the trees Gerry saw a vast, irregular mound of vines, with which mingled giant geraniums, climbing fuchsias, honeysuckle and rose. Then he spied a broad flight of marble steps; at one end of them an old moss-grown urn, at the other, its fallen, broken counterpart. Above the mound rose the roof of a house; through the vines, as the two drew nearer, appeared shuttered windows and a door, veiled with creepers.

The Barbadian went up the steps and tore the creepers away from the door. Then he drew from his pocket an enormous key. With a rasp the lock turned and the door opened, letting a bar of light into a wide, cool hall.

Gerry followed the Barbadian through the hall to a broad veranda at the back of the house. A large living room faced on to the veranda. The Barbadian entered it, opened the French door windows and, dusting off two lounge chairs, invited Gerry to sit down.

Gerry looked around curiously. The living room was comfortably furnished. There were one or two excellent rugs on the waxed floor; a great couch, set into a bow-window; lace curtains, creamy with age; a wonderfully carved escrivote in rosewood; a sideboard, round table and chairs of mahogany that was almost as dull and black as ebony. Over all lay a coat of dust.

The Barbadian walked to the round table and with his finger wrote in the dust, then he sat down in a worn and comfortable chair, a companion to Gerry's. He felt into so deep a reverie that Gerry thought he was asleep.

"Have You Lost Anyone?" Asked Gerry.

Gerry got up and walked around the room. His eye fell on the table. He saw what the Barbadian had written; simply the date of the day. But above the freshly written date showed another, filmed over with dust, and above that another almost obliterated. Gerry leaned over the table. He could see that a long succession of dates had been written into the thick-laid dust. Beginning with the fresh name, he started up at him they reached back and back through the years till they faded away into a dim past.

As Gerry reached his own house, he was outwardly calm, even delib-

HOOSIER KITCHEN CABINETS AS LOW AS $14

A Farmer and His Wife

"I'm a farmer and I'm poor, but my wife has a Hoosier Kitchen Cabinet at home! I know the value of a penny, I've earned mine by hard work and close saving. My good wife has done her share. "Since we began I've added new machinery for every part of my farm. She has toiled patiently without any new machinery at home. "I bought her this Hoosier Cabinet as a present because it saves miles of steps. She is as pleased as a baby with a new rattle. It was worth the price just to see the joy in her face. "Now I get double satisfaction every day because she gets through an hour or two sooner. We have our evenings together like old times. I don't believe there's a man in the world who would not buy his wife a Hoosier Cabinet if he knew how much it would do for her." (Printed by Permission)

VOTE FOR FAXON

George A. Faxon of Plano is a Republican candidate for member of the state board of equalization and was in Genoa last Thursday getting acquainted with the people of this community. It was impossible to meet many during the few hours Mr. Faxon was in Genoa, but he made a good impression with the few with whom he talked. The editor of the Republican-Journal has known Mr. Faxon several years and can truthfully state that the candidate is a man from the ground up, politically and as a business man. He was born on a farm near Plano in 1861 and up to 1898 was actively engaged in farming. Since then he has been engaged in the newspaper work in Plano. Mr. Faxon has the entire confidence and esteem of the newspaper fraternity and as a Republican he has never been found wanting. He is open and above board in his dealings and fully merits the support of the voters of the 12th district. Vote for Faxon on the 13th of September.

The city council has been petitioned by a large number of residents, asking that the all-night street lighting system be maintained. The sentiment of the people seems to be unanimous in this respect, for few if any refused to sign the paper when it was circulated. The council has been figuring and investigating for months with hopes of reducing materially the electric lighting bill and at the same time give adequate service. The members also realize that expenses must be cut down all along the line. They are no doubt glad to receive the petition for it gives them an idea of the people's desire in the matter. Perhaps some scheme or plan can be devised whereby the streets can be adequately lighted after midnight without the necessity of burning the amount of juice required before that hour. It would be an unnecessary expense to have the city brightly lighted all night. The plan as outlined in The Republican-Journal some weeks ago would be practical and would no doubt be satisfactory to everyone.

The "Genoa Amusement and Athletic Club" has been organized and chartered by the state and has headquarters in the old Merritt livery barn on Emmett street, utilizing the second floor. This is another locker club, only different. The supreme court knocked out the Fox River Express clubs on the ground that the Aurora brewery was merely using the name club as a means of evading the law. The new club is organized and chartered to do business under the laws of the state, and according to a recent ruling of the supreme court it can exist without legal molestation. To accomplish their object it seems that the drys must fight for "more law."

R. D. Chappel, who for several years has been conducting the destinies of the Hinckley Review, has sold his plant to Theodore Kilg of that place. The newspaper men of the county will greatly regret Mr. Chappel's departure from the field. He is a prince of a good fellow and one of the brightest writers of this district. He has made some enemies in Hinckley, no doubt, because he was not a bit backward about putting his thoughts in type, but even those enemies will acknowledge that Chappel was right in his writings.

Readers should bear in mind that the political dope which appears in the advertising columns of the paper and those articles which are marked

"advertisement" are not the opinion of the editor. All these advertisements are paid for at regular rates. If you would seek the editor's personal views on any subject, either local affairs or political, you must look to the editorial column.

Everywhere the popularity of Charles E. Hughes grows and before the day of election in November there will be signs of a great landslide. People are beginning to realize just what the conditions would be were the European war to end with the Democrats in power and Mr. Hughes is pounding these self-evident truths home with a vim that is even surprising to his original supporters.

Several crops of weeds have been harvested during the past week. You, who are still negligent, just look at the spots that have been cleaned up and note the great improvement.

Romance at Picnic
Romance and politics walked hand in hand at the farmers' picnic at Burlington on Saturday, says the Elgin News.

Charles Lowry, county clerk, was at the picnic meeting and mixing with the politicians and candidates for various offices. Edward Fry and Evelyn Barry, both of Burlington, also attended the picnic. Lowry made out a license for them to the picnic grounds so that they might be married and leave on their wedding trip immediately. Their ages were given as 21 and 18 respectively.

School Supplies Cash
I wish to remind the parents of Genoa that as in the past all school supplies must be sold for cash. Please do not send the children for books, etc. without the money. I find this rule much better for myself and the parents as well. Please do not ask for credit.
E. H. Browne.

New Catholic School
Plans are under way for the erection of a handsome new sisters' home at St. Mary's parish of McHenry.

Raid Elgin Club

Elgin News: In one of the most sensational raids since the city voted anti-saloon territory, police Friday night arrested William H. Snow and two bartenders in the rooms of the Elgin Pleasure club, 110 Milwaukee St. Walking across a six inch plank placed from a window in the Elgin Steam laundry to a window in the second floor of the club rooms, Chief of Police Gahan and four officers broke into the place. They found about twenty-five men in the club rooms.

James Hodges and Jake Rapp, bartenders, were arrested and taken to the police station. Shortly afterwards a warrant was served on W. H. Snow, alleged to be the proprietor of the club. The three were charged with selling liquor without a license. Complaints against them were signed by Chief of Police Gahan.

Dynamite Fish

Dynamite used in the Kishwaukee river the latter part of last week has killed hundreds, maybe thousands of fish and their dead bodies now lie at the bottom of stagnant pools along the water course, says the Belvidere Republican. There were three charges exploded, so those state who heard the discharges. Game Warden Bartlett of Rockford has been here looking up clues in relation to this flagrant violation of the fish law, and it is understood that he feels that he has a pretty sure case against certain parties. He has worked on the quiet and refuses to talk for publication regarding the matter.

WORK AND VOTE FOR HULL
INDEPENDENT—COURAGEOUS—EFFICIENT
Morton D. Hull is a man with a personal, as well as a public, conscience. His record proves it. So in this crisis in Illinois he looms large as the unbossed Republican leader for governor.
No man will hold Hull's proxy. Remember how Mr. Lowden as National Committeeman graciously gave his proxy to Mr. Lorimer, then under fire, sending Mr. Lorimer to represent Illinois in the high councils of the party.
For twenty years Senator Hull has fought for social betterment—both as a private citizen and as a public servant. Many know of his ten years' official record, yet few realize how much he has accomplished for social settlements, Y. M. C. A.'s, churches, good government leagues and public institutions. He has been willing to put in long hours daily—year in and year out—to better conditions for humanity. Hull is always on the job—not an absentee politician, ever ready for a vacation or a trip abroad.
Don't Let the "Jack-Pot" Crowd Get In
Senator Hull's long schooling in public life has been up the ladder—rung by rung. He won his promotions. Nothing has been handed to him on a silver platter. Who can say all this of his opponents? Which candidate can dare to parallel Hull's labors for his State?
Note the character of some of the men opposed to Hull. The "Jack-Pot" crowd, the "Bath Room" legislators who "put over" Lorimer, the "Slush Fund" spoilsmen, the "Allen Bill" backers—these men are working for Hull's opponent.
Hull is not a mere ornamental citizen nor a title seeker—he's a worker—not a pampered shirker. In the commercial world he has built a large industry. Think of the peril of having an indifferent figure-head instead of a real governor such as Hull will be. Think of the sinister results of an inexperienced governor steering the State—intent only on awarding spoils and avoiding necessary work. Illinois needs a governor with a backbone.
Senator Hull has won his honors as the "Watchdog of Legislation"—he has been singled out by other forward-looking men, because of his deeper experience—his real workmanship. The Progressive Committee of Cook County was quick to see in him a real worker. So they adopted unanimously a resolution to support him.
A Fighter for the People
Has any other candidate a record for saving the people's money? Remember, Senator Hull secured the passage of the Anti-Graft Law, requiring the State Treasurer to turn over to the State the interest on Public Funds. Already this act has brought the State $676,676.54.
Senator Hull was the chairman and leader of that valiant group in the Illinois House who became famous as "The Band of Hope." Their untiring fight put through the Direct Primary Law in Illinois in 1908. Reactionary interests opposed to Hull then, are opposing him now. Study Senator Hull's record. It will stand a scrutiny that few would welcome. See how Hull led the fight for Direct Primaries, for Civil Service, for shorter hours of employment for women, for the Workmen's Compensation Act, for curbing the loan sharks, for dozens of other constructive, new-day measures.
The people of Illinois must arise and overthrow the Thompson spoilsmen and the dangerous bi-partisan jack-pot crowd. Efficiency must prevail. Old disgraces must vanish. Political gangsters must go. The "good old days" of graft must not return.
So thinking people all over the State are rallying to Senator Hull. In his personality and his record they see a new future for Illinois.
You Want Such a Man
Come, face the crisis bravely. Back Hull. But you must act quickly. The Illinois primary isn't far off. Join the fast growing preference for Hull. Such leadership as Hull's is badly needed. The enemies of good government are hard at work—underground tactics unknown to the public.
The Thompson raiders—having prostituted Chicago's civil service system—now seek to gain control of the State jobs by defeating Senator Hull. Thus they hope to open a new free employment bureau for their henchmen. They look greedily at the State Institutions at Kankakee, Lincoln, Alton, Elgin, Peoria, Watertown, Jacksonville Dunning and Anna. Remember Dr. Sachs and his vain fight to save the Municipal Tuberculosis Sanitarium of Chicago from political ghoulies.
You can help to save Illinois. Name Senator Hull for Governor and protect your party and your State. Join the ranks fighting for clean, constructive Republicanism. Don't let the syndicated gangsters win through your lack of interest. Act! Work! Vote!
If you want to do your bit for this movement, send us your name and address now.

Always Use High Class STATIONERY to Create a Good Impression

The Very Latest Styles
It's an old, old saying that the people you write to often judge you by your stationery. Stationery suitable for one occasion may be entirely out of place for another. Then, too, the styles in stationery change the same as styles in clothing. To be sure that your stationery is right for all purposes, always buy it here.

"The Shepherd of the Hills" will be presented at the opera house next Monday evening. The people of Genoa need not hesitate about attending this play if they want to see something good. It was given at the Auditorium last season by the same company and was decidedly good, the cast being on a par with the best. The same management presents this play that put on "The Divorce Question" and "The Rosary."

H. J. Glass landed his biggest job of electric wiring last week when he was announced the successful bidder for the Almen Hall contract in Mayfield. The house, which is being erected by the Genoa Lumber Co., is one of the largest in that part of the country and Mr. Glass is much pleased to think that he put one over on the other fellows. He is a good workman and will give Mr. Hall his money's worth in material and workmanship.

The Hemenway electric shop has been closed on account of the absence of the owner, W. F. Hemenway, who is with his company at San Antonio, Texas, as lieutenant. The fixtures were purchased by H. J. Mr. Glass has given up his position in the Crawford-Leich factory and is now devoting all his time to his own shop, having several contracts on hand at the present time.

Match Sticks.

Certain kinds of matches are shaved with the grain from sawed blocks. Others are cut both ways by saws. In still further varieties the blocks are boiled to make them cut easily. By some machines a boiled or steamed log is revolved on its own axis, and a shaving the thickness of a match is cut round and round. This shaving is at the same time cut into lengths and split into match sticks. It may be said that there is hardly a limit to the varieties of methods employed. Round matches are made by forcing them through dies.—Harper's.

The Capacity to Sleep.

Very enviable is the capacity to sleep in any position, which has been attributed to Chinese soldiers. In his "Chinese Characteristics" Dr. Arthur H. Smith, the American missionary, says: "It would be easy to raise in China an army of a million men—nay, of 10,000,000—tested by competitive examination as to their capacity to go to sleep across three wheelbarrows, with head downward, like a spider, their mouths wide open and a fly in side."—London Opinion.

Bathing Party

Oh, its gratifying how to swim. On Monday afternoon a lively party including Mrs. R. E. Pierce, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Reed, Mr. and Mrs. S. Mattison, Mr. and Mrs. John Pratt, Mrs. F. L. Russell, Mr. and Mrs. J. Helson, Rev. W. Horbury and Miss Agnes Twyman, F. Lind, Dr. A. M. Hill, Edith Reed, Charlotte Ritter, Pearl Russell, Edyth Westover, Myrtle Pratt, Mary Pierce, F. W. Olmsted and Miss Andes, a former teacher in the Genoa school, motored to Kirklund where they enjoyed a swim in the deep waters of the Kishwaukee river. Oh yes, it rained a little but not enough to spoil any one's bathing suit. Myrtle and Pearl were the first to plunge in and with a hearty invitation to the others, "Come on the water's fine" started a lively water fight the others soon joined in and then the fun began in earnest. It kept the water busy teaching the others to swim, but he seemed to enjoy it. Many received a good ducking and oh the splutter and bubbles that followed. Rev. Horbury and Mr. Mattison played the part of fire makers. Soon the party was supplied with pointed sticks on which to roast their waffles. After a hearty supper the party journeyed. Evon Fritz Pierce enjoyed the trip.—contributed.

At Fern Wood Rest.

Camping seems to be quite the thing at present. The days are cool and the woods are very inviting. So thought a party of young ladies who went to "Fern Wood Rest" in Mrs. Robinson's woods last Thursday and proceeded to make merry and to forget their worldly cares for one short week. The young ladies who are enjoying this outing are: Misses Margaret Hutchinson, Lorena and Gladys Brown, Mary Pierce, Beth Scott, Lenore Worcester, Ruth and Marion Slater and Elma Hemenway.

Thackeray's Satire.

Thackeray created quite erroneous impressions of himself by often indulging in irony in the presence of people who were incapable of understanding it. One curious instance which he gave was this: Thackeray had been dining at the Garrick and was talking in the smoking room after dinner with various club acquaintances. One of them happening to have left his cigar case at home, Thackeray, though disliking the man, who was a notorious turf hunter, good naturedly offered him one of his cigars. The man accepted the cigar, but, not finding it to his liking, had the bad taste to say to Thackeray, "I say, Thackeray, you won't mind my saying I don't think much of this cigar?" Thackeray, no doubt irritated at the man's ungraciousness and bearing in mind his turf hunting predilections, quietly responded, "You ought to, my good fellow, for it was given me by a lord." Instead, however, of detecting the irony, the dot immediately attributed the remark to snobbishness on Thackeray's part and to the end of his days went about declaring that Thackeray had boasted that he had been given a cigar by a lord.

Show Your Gratitude.

Gratitude is one of the prettiest posies in the bouquet of human virtues. Cultivate it and it will bloom always. Gratitude costs nothing, but repays much, and yet it is a gem of character that is rare indeed. Never forget the friend who threw you the life line. To do that is treason of the rankest kind. Keep green in your heart the memory of every obligation and lose no opportunity to repay it. Show your gratitude for a kind act done you by doing a kind act for some one else.

A grateful "Thank you!" for a seat in a street car reimburses the man who hangs to a strap. Silently accept the seat as a matter of course and you have started that man on the slide to selfishness.

Kick out of your selfish shell and express your gratitude on the least provocation. If you never give gratitude never expect it. In proportion to your gratitude so will you be graded by your fellow men.—Boston Post.

"Uncle Sam."

The application of the term "Uncle Sam" to the United States had its beginning in Troy, N. Y., during the war of 1812. A commission contractor of Troy named Elbert Anderson had a shop in which the stocks were always examined and passed by a government inspector called Samuel Wilson, who was generally known as "Uncle Sam." When the boxes were passed they were always marked with the initials of the contractor and the nation, "EA-US." One day the man who was doing the marketing was asked what the initials stood for and replied jokingly that they were the initials of the contractor and of "Uncle Sam." The joke spread among the men, got into print and long before the end of the war had become known all over the country. Mr. Wilson, the original "Uncle Sam," died in Troy in 1854.—New York Times.

Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. Moonlight Picnic

The young ladies camping at "Fern Wood Rest" entertained a party of young gentlemen at their camp Monday evening. A camp fire was made over which this merry party toasted marshmallows and popped corn. Watermelon was also on the bill of fare. After a most pleasant evening the guests, who were: Floyd Mansfield, Neal Simpson, Albert Morehouse, Edward, Elmer and Walter Albertson, Horatio Perkins, Harold Wilson, Roy Pratt and Dewey Nulle departed for their homes, leaving the young ladies to further enjoy nature's wonderful out of doors. Misses Mildred Hewitt of Elgin and Myrtle Pratt were also guests of the evening.

CLEANING, PRESSING, REPAIRING Men's and Ladies' Suits and Coats Over Holtgren's Store JOHN ALBERTSON

To Relieve Fatigue. When a woman is very tired she will find one of the best processes of refreshing herself is to wring out hot cloths and lay them over her eyes and forehead. A hot water bag does not act as a substitute for this, and the treatment is a little trouble. The simplest way is to have two cloths and a basin of hot water ready to wring out and replace the one that becomes cool on the head.

Good to Remember.

Every young man should remember that if his income is just a little above expenses every day, he will eventually become well off. If his receipts daily lack a little of meeting his expenditures, he will in time become a candidate for public favors at the poorhouse. Honest work at any calling and such economy as the case requires is honorable; while idleness and spendthrift habits are a disgrace to anyone, young or old.—New Canaan (Conn.) Advertiser.

Mrs. L. W. Duval, Mrs. E. J. Tischler, Mrs. J. Forsythe and Miss Blanche R. Patterson, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Jackman, Mrs. W. W. Cooper, Mrs. Fred Marquart and Mrs. R. B. Field were among those who attended the Burlington picnic Saturday. Geo. E. Wood, and son, Chas. L. Wood, and the latter's wife and children of Grand Rapids, Mich., have been visiting the former's nephew, W. H. Dyer, for the past week. It will be remembered that Geo. E. Wood, thirty-five years ago, owned and resided on the farm now owned by Mrs. Cora Robinson. Since leaving this vicinity Mr. Wood has been back several times, his last visit being nine years ago.

HUSBAND SAVED HIS WIFE

Stopped Most Terrible Suffering by Getting Her Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Denison, Texas. "After my little girl was born two years ago I began suffering with female trouble and could hardly do my work. I was very nervous and just kept dragging on until I got summer when I got where I could not do my work. I would have a chill every day and hot flashes and dizzy spells and my head would almost burst. I got where I was almost a walking skeleton and life was a burden to me until one day my husband's sister told my husband if he did not do something for me I would not last long and told him to get your medicine. So he got Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for me, and after taking the first three doses I began to improve. I continued its use, and I have never had any female trouble since. I feel that I owe my life to you and your remedies. They did for me what doctors could not do and I will always praise it wherever I go."—Mrs. G. O. LOWERY, 419 W. Monterey Street, Denison, Texas.

If you are suffering from any form of female ills, get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and commence the treatment without delay.

Facts and Figures.

"Well, how's the poultry business? You had it figured that you could make every hen supply you with a dollar's worth of eggs for 50 cents' worth of corn."

"I did so. But I think now my hens have got it figured that I kin be induced to furnish corn until spring without no eggs whatever in return. And they may be right, at that."

VIRGINIA FARMER REALIZES FACT THAT LIVE STOCK ENRICHES SOIL

Larger Part of Crops Grown Are Fed to Good Dairy Cattle—Cultivates Only Ninety Acres of Land, but It Is Fertile and Always Produces Good Yields—Farm Work Stock Raised for Home Use and for Market.

(By G. H. ALFORD, State Demonstration Agent, Maryland.)

John R. Doyle of Dinwiddie county, Virginia, realizes the fact that live stock farming enriches the soil. He grows many crops to enrich the soil instead of growing only crops that impoverish it. He feeds the larger part of the crops grown to good dairy cattle. He knows that the success of any system of farming cannot be judged by the crops, or net earnings, for one year or for five years. By devoting the larger part of the farm to clovers, feeding the clovers to dairy cattle and spreading manure over the land he averages more than 20 bushels of wheat per acre, and has averaged, in good seasons, as high as 30 bushels. He averages more than 50 bushels of corn per acre, and has averaged as high as 75 bushels.

This farm raises farm-work stock for home use and to sell. The colts are raised to prevent the spending of money for farm-work stock and to be sure of having enough horse power for the most economical production of crops.

Can't Afford Geldings.

Six head of work stock are kept on the farm and two mares bring colts each year. Mr. Doyle figures that he cannot afford to keep all geldings and, for this reason, keeps two brood mares actively engaged in light work and colts production. The mares are intelligent, handled, do all the light work that is required, and, in addition, produce colts every year which rapidly develop into marketable animals. The colts are usually kept until four years of age and the surplus sold for about $200 each. Mr. Doyle estimates the cost of raising a colt at about $25 per year.

There are good meadows and pastures on this farm. Every square foot of the meadows and pastures is well covered with nutritious grasses and clovers instead of broom sage, briars and weeds. The land is thoroughly prepared, manured and sown in sapling clover, orchard grass, timothy and a small amount of alfalfa. The mixture usually consists of three pounds of alfalfa, five pounds of timothy, eight pounds of sapling clover and three pounds of orchard grass to the acre. The alfalfa seed is put in to gradually inoculate the soil so he can sow alfalfa at any time, on any part of the farm, and be sure that the soil is inoculated. From the above grass mixture three or four tons of good hay is usually obtained.

Mr. Doyle grows what he needs and feeds what he grows. Only a small amount of cottonseed meal is purchased to feed his dairy cows. The average farmer in his section buys the larger part of his feed. Many thousands of dollars are sent out of his county annually for feedstuffs.

Rotation Practiced.

A rotation of crops, including leguminous crops, is practiced on his farm. The corn is usually followed by wheat, the wheat by peas or peanuts. The corn is cut in September or October and German clover is sown on a part of the corn land. This clover can be sown on his farm as late as October 10. One bushel of oats and 15 pounds of blooming German clover are also sown on a part of the corn land about September 15. This is cut and fed in the dough state the following spring. A bushel of wheat and ten pounds of hairy vetch make a very satisfactory mixture. This mixture usually follows peanuts and is cut in the dough stage for feed in the spring.

Of course there is a silo on the farm. The 60-ton silo provides a cheap and convenient place to store all the corn grown on five or six acres. The silo takes care of all the corn crop early in the fall; insures succulent feed for winter and in long dry spells, when pastures fail; provides a balanced succulent ration when fed with such protein feeds as cowpeas, peanut hay and cottonseed meal; and makes it possible to properly feed more dairy cattle on the small farm.

The 60-ton silo holds enough silage to feed the 15 milk cows for six months—feeding about 30 pounds per day to each cow. The silage is fed with pea vines or peanut hay and some cottonseed meal. The grain ration consists of about six pounds per day of a mixture of 300 pounds of cottonseed meal and 200 pounds of corn and cob meal.

On an average, 15 cows are milked the year round. The main source of income is the money obtained from the sale of cream, milk and butter. Twenty per cent cream is sold at Petersburg, 25 miles away, for 75 cents per gallon the year round. A small quantity of ice is used in the summer time to cool the cream when it is separated.

Cream Is Sold.

One five-gallon can of 20 per cent cream is sold from the 15 cows every day in the year. They have a check rate of 12 cents for a five-gallon can, but this makes it necessary for the buyer in Petersburg to meet the train to receive the can, whereas the express rate will deliver it, and in small quantities the express rate is cheaper in the long run.

An average of $15 worth of butter is sold every month, to regular customers. The cream and butter sold per month brings in about $125. The income from the sale of young cattle amounts to about $200 per year, and the profit from feeding hogs on skim milk is about $200 per year, making a total income of at least $150 per month from the cows.

GIRL NEARLY DROWNS AS FRIENDS LAUGH

Others Think Expert Is Joking Until Gallant Young Man Pulls Her to Safety.

San Francisco, Cal.—A sensational rescue from drowning, in which the leading roles were played by Miss Jewel Welch, twenty years old, and pretty, and Harry A. Clark, engineer with the Royal Insurance company, was staged in the waters of the Larkspur estuary.

Miss Welch, who with a party of friends was making a week-end visit on board Clark's houseboat, "Rockaway," attempted to swim from the boat to the shore, 500 feet. She reached shore in safety and then plunged into the water to swim back to the ark.

Suddenly she was caught by the strong undertow of the stream and disappeared from sight. Friends on the deck of the boat, knowing that Miss Welch was an expert swimmer, believed that she was "doing stunts."

She finally appeared above the surface and cried for help, beating the water wildly. Clark, who was standing on the deck, fully clothed, plunged in and reached the spot just as she sank beneath the water. Clark dived and caught her by the hair.

Spectators on shore looked calmly on, thinking it was a moving-picture thriller.

In a few minutes Clark had the girl on board the boat.

FREAK WALK WINS $20,000

Trip Backwards Across Continent to New York Is Made in 239 Days.

New York.—Somebody out in Seattle lost a bet of $20,000 when Patrick Harmon arrived at New York city walking backward and asked metropolitan city officials to confirm his presence.—Harmon had a reflecting mirror strapped to his back and was accompanied by W. A. Baltazor, who walked as folk usually walk—face forward—to prove that Harmon accomplished the feat. The feat was walking backward from Seattle to New York in 260 days. That was the limit set, but Harmon did it in 239 days, three weeks ahead of time.

Harmon, who is fifty years old, announced that two men in a Seattle club had wagered with each other that he could not walk to New York backward in 260 days and backed up their opinion with $20,000 each. Harmon will get $5,000 for the job, and Baltazor four dollars a day for being the trans-continental watchman. Harmon said he had little difficulty doing the freak stunt, but he lost 11 days through illness and took two weeks to overcome dizziness due to his unusual method of pedal locomotion.

MAN'S BODY SAWED IN TWO

Grossome Corpse Was Discovered by Bride of a Few Weeks in Georgia Sawmill.

Ossohatchie, Ga.—While working in a sawmill at Ossohatchie, Ga., J. F. Sellers, twenty-seven years old, accidentally fell across the big saw. The blade struck the young man in the right shoulder and passed through the heart, cutting the body in two.

None of the other workmen were in the mill at the time, as the noon whistle had just sounded. Sellers' bride of three months entered the building immediately after the tragedy occurred to accompany her husband to their nearby home. When she neared the sawpit she discovered the mangled body.

Co-Operative Creameries Show Tremendous Increase in Butter Production.

The Dairy Commissioner, at first annual convention of Saskatchewan Dairyman's association, reviewed progress of 1915 which shows a great increase in the butter production of the co-operative creameries amounting to 1,500,000 lbs. He also said the improvement in quality is shown by the preference accorded Saskatchewan butter in outside markets. Shipments out of the province for the year totaled 52 carloads.

According to bulletin just issued by the Manitoba department of agriculture, the dairy industry had a very successful year in 1915. There was an increase of over 1,000,000 lbs. of creamery butter produced, as against the previous year, about 280,000 lbs. increase in dairy butter and over 25,000 lbs. increase in the cheese output. The increase of the total value of milk and milk products was over $427,000. The production of dairy butter for Manitoba during the year was 4,150,444 lbs. and it brought an average price of 23c per lb.; of creamery butter 5,839,667 lbs. were produced which commanded 20c per lb. on the average; cheese production was 726,725 lbs. which sold at an average price of 15c—the total value of these three products is given as $2,790,698. In addition to which the milk produced is valued at $225,659 and the cream at $158,827, the average price of the milk being reckoned at 21c per lb. and of sweet cream at 32c per lb. butter-fat. In connection with the dairy industry it is interesting to note that almost the most important fodder crop now is corn, of which the 1915 production amounted to 190,132 tons. The biggest cultivated fodder crop is timothy which for last season produced 193,357 tons and the next most popular crop was broom grass with 45,815 tons; of alfalfa and clover there were produced some 38,000 tons. The number of cattle in the province is given as 631,005, which is an increase of 130,000 over the previous year.

The fact that the Red Deer, Alberta, cheese factory is handling four times as much milk this season as last winter shows the growing improvement in the dairy industry. On Feb. 14, it was announced the factory had just shipped two tons of cheese for Calgary market.

Cardston, Alberta, creamery in 1915 paid its patrons a rate of 27 1/2c per lb. for butter fat and had a profit remaining over all expenses of $5,584. The creamery during season distributed among farmers $61,117 and manufactured 256,000 lbs. butter and 13,000 lbs. cheese. Average price realized for butter was 28 1/2c.

The development of the dairy industry of Northern Alberta is well indicated by the growth of a prominent dairy business here, which in 1915 produced 2,525,000 lbs. butter, an increase of 400,000 lbs. over the previous year. This product has found a market in all parts of Canada and this year will enter the export trade. Advertisement.

IS LONGEST IN THE WORLD

Concrete Highway Trestle in the Sacramento Valley Is of Record Length.

One of the most absorbing examples of concrete construction so far executed in America is represented by a causeway that spans the Yolo bypass in the Sacramento valley. The Popular Mechanics Magazine describes the construction of this trestle. It is thought to be the longest of its kind in the world and has lately been completed under the supervision of the California state highway commission. Although 3.00 miles from end to end, and a striking specimen of good, accurate workmanship, the elevated roadway was built in a thoroughly substantial manner for less than $385,000. Certain phases of the construction were accomplished by original methods which have attracted the attention of engineers.

The unit system was followed in erected the trestle which is 20 feet in height and provides a roadway 21 feet wide. It is supported on re-enforced concrete piles, each weighing from three to five tons, that were driven into place. The floor consists of precast slabs. Four of these were placed side by side to span the 20-foot gaps between the bents, the full width of the structure. The parts were so carefully designed and put together that the completed trestle is a monolithic structure.

"Dark Lightning."

The expression "dark lightning" seems to be paradoxical. As a matter of fact dark lightning is a product of the laboratory. In the development of camera plates that have been exposed to lightning flashes some of the streak images are reversed. This is thought to be due to overexposure. Prints made from the negatives show the streaks as dark lines, hence the expression "dark lightning." The path of a lightning flash is frequently shifted by wind. The action of the wind appears to broaden the line of lightning until it resembles a ribbon. The uniform broadening along the entire length of a lightning flash has probably never been observed.

Don't Poison Baby.

FORTY YEARS AGO almost every mother thought her child must have PAREGORIC or laudanum to make it sleep. These drugs will produce sleep, and a FEW DROPS TOO MANY will produce the SLEEP FROM WHICH THERE IS NO WAKING. Many are the children who have been killed or whose health has been ruined for life by paregoric, laudanum and morphine, each of which is a narcotic product of opium. Druggists are prohibited from selling either of the narcotics named to children at all, or to anybody without labeling them "poison." The definition of "narcotic" is: "A medicine which relieves pain and produces sleep, but which in poisonous doses produces stupor, coma, convulsions and death." The taste and smell of medicines containing opium are disguised, and sold under the names of "Drops," "Cordials," "Soothing Syrup," etc. You should not permit any medicine to be given to your children without you or your physician know of what it is composed. CASTORIA DOES NOT CONTAIN NARCOTICS, if it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. Genuine Castoria always bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

Odd Places to Hide Cash.

The woman who, as just revealed in the law courts, hid her savings on her mother's grave in Forest Hill cemetery, probably hit upon a unique cache. But there is no saying. The person who mistrusts savings banks generally looks around for the most unlikely spot in which to deposit wealth, and more than one may hit on the same idea. Old cannon, for instance, seem to form favorable depositories. Quite a quantity of jewelry was found some while ago in a solitary gun which stands in a fort at Shoreham, and about the same time a bag containing 70 sovereigns was discovered in an old cannon in Peel park, Bradford. From one of the old Crimean cannon at Liverpool, also, some inquisitive youngsters once brought forth a soldier's discharge papers and notes to the value of £100.—London Chronicle.

A Quaint Italian Town.

Pavia is not very well known to the tourist. For 200 years, until Charlemagne overthrew them, it was the capital of the Lombard kings, the kings of that one-time Teuton tribe of Langobardi, who conquered Italy, only to be themselves slowly conquered and become Italians, or, more accurately, Romanized. It is they who ruled over the great fertile plain between the Alps and the Apennines. In the Church of San Michele kings of Italy were crowned a thousand years ago; here two Germans at least, Henry the Second—1004—and Frederick Barbarossa—1155—received upon their brows that "iron crown of the Lombards" which conveyed the sovereignty of Italy.

Three Words To Your Grocer—"New Post Toasties" will bring a package of breakfast flakes with a delicious new corn flavour—flakes that don't mush down when milk or cream is added, nor are they "chaffy" in the package like the ordinary kind. These New Post Toasties are manufactured by a new process using quick, intense heat which raises tiny bubbles over each flake, the distinguishing characteristic. And the new process also brings out a new corn flavour, never tasted in corn flakes of the past. Try a handful dry—they're good this way and the test will reveal their superior flavour. But they're usually served with milk or cream. New Post Toasties—for tomorrow's breakfast. Sold by Grocers everywhere.

Hamadan in History.

Hamadan seems to be certainly the Ekbatana, the summer residence of the ancient Persian kings, where Alexander the Great stored his enormous loot from Persia, estimated at over 41,000,000. But there is topographical difficulty about identifying it with the earlier and still more interesting Ekbatana described by Herodotus, the city where the first Median king, Deioces, realized the ideal of royal isolation by shutting himself up in a palace on top of a hill, surrounded by seven fortified circles of different colors descending the slopes in order and allowing the inhabitants of these to communicate with him only by writing. Either this story is a myth or the Ekbatana of Herodotus is to be found on a hill between Hamadan and Tabriz.—London Chronicle.

To Calculate Congresses.

To determine the years covered by a given congress double the number of the congress and add the product to 1789. The result will be the year in which the congress closed. Take, for example, the Thirty-fifth congress. Doubling it gives us seventy; add 1789 and we have 1859, the year in which, on March 4, the Thirty-fifth congress closed. To find the number of a congress sitting in any year subtract 1789 from the year. If the result is an even number half that number will give the congress of which the year in question saw the close. If the result is an odd number add one, and half the result will give the congress in which the year in question was the first year. Take, again, the congress sitting in 1858. Subtract 1789 from 1858 and the result is sixty-nine. Add one, making seventy, and divide by two, showing that the Thirty-ninth congress was holding its first regular session in that year. The year 1789 is the basic number, because that was the year in which the first congress under the constitution convened.—Philadelphia Press.

Ironing the Tablecloth.

A tablecloth should be pulled into shape before being ironed. After it is pulled into shape, fold it together lengthwise through the middle, so that the wrong side will be outside; then turn back the edges at each side so that the cloth is in four long folds, each fold of the same width. The outer folds will now be right side out. Iron these two outer folds, then turn them inside and iron the two inner folds that are now outside and are the right side of the tablecloth. When the four folds are thus finished the long length can be doubled back and forward the desired width, but the crosswise folds should not be ironed in. Papers can be placed where the tablecloth hangs over on the floor from the ironing board. A little practice will soon make you perfect. The old fashioned way was to first iron a tablecloth on the wrong side, but the tablecloths coming under my observation that look the best are ironed in the manner above described.—Eunice Haskins in Independent Farmer.

An Ideal Island.

The island of Ascension, in the Atlantic, belonging to Great Britain, is unique in many respects. There is no private property in land, no rents, no taxes and no use for money. The flocks and herds are public property, and the meat is issued as rations. So are the vegetables grown on the farms. When an island fisherman makes a catch he brings it to the guardroom, whence it is issued by the sergeant major. Practically the entire population are sailors, and they work at most of the common trades. The climate is almost perfect. The island is 8 by 6 miles in size and has a population of about 450. It is 250 miles northward of St. Helena and is governed by a captain appointed from the British navy.

An old colored man who was before Judge Sanford for drunkenness and had his sentence suspended, largely on account of his age, which must be nearly eighty years, in an effort to brace up his reputation for truth and veracity remarked to one of the court officers: "I always means and intends to tell de troof, I does, even if I has to lie a little to do it."—Berkshire Courier.
